Hospital, jobs dominate debate

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WINCHESTER — The gloves came off in Dundas County on Thurs., Sept. 22.

That evening, Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry (SD&SG)'s provincial election hopefuls squared off during an all-candidates debate at the Winchester Community Centre.

For roughly two hours, Progressive Conservative candidate Jim McDonell, Liberal contender Mark MacDonald, the NDP's Elaine MacDonald, and Libertarian Party nominee Darcy Neal Donnelly threw political spears back and forth, much to the interest of audience members.

Creating jobs?

Improving the province's economic outlook played a big role during the Sept. 22 debate, as both McDonell and Mark MacDonald, who received the lion's share of questions, battled to-and-fro in an attempt to convince voters.

"It's clear that a strong rural Ontario needs a healthy agriculture sector," McDonell said. "Through a 'buy Ontario' policy, which would eliminate job-killing red tape, a Tim Hudak government will respect Ontario farmers."

His Liberal rival, meanwhile, touted the Grits' current track record on job growth in Ontario.

"We live in a time of great global economic uncertainty," the Grit representative said. "But, Ontario is leading the way on the environmental front, with excellent environmental policies; green energy is the future."

One question, from a local man who said he was living on welfare, asked what the Tory and Liberal candidates would do to help struggling residents.

"There are a number of programs out there, and the Liberals support the current rural economic situation," Mark MacDonald said.

McDonell, however, took aim at the Grits' current policy.

"It all reflects a party that has lost touch with everyday Ontarians," he said. "This has been a problem for years, and we have small companies, and people, that need help. [The Liberals] are spending all kinds of money, but we have to put some priorities to the spending... You can't keep just throwing money at stuff."

Both hopefuls were also asked about improving opportunities for local tradespeople.

"I think the Liberals' record with respect to demand for trades is there," Mark MacDonald said. "The spaces we've made in colleges; Ontario Liberals deserve credit for that."

McDonell had a different take on the situation: "The current system is hard for the rural area. Tuition rates are too high, and apprentices can't get the hours needed, and end up dropping out of the field. The province has to get away from benefitting unions, and start to make sense with how we spend money."

Healthy health care?

A female audience member, who said she suffers from a variety of medical-related issues, wanted to hear what both the NDP and Liberals would do to ensure an improved provincial health care system.

"[The NDP] is committed to forgiving debt for doctors who agree to work in underserviced areas," Elaine MacDonald said. "Hundreds of thousands of Ontarians have no doctor, and we're working on fixing that."

Liberal MacDonald used his response opportunity to remind audience members about the past actions of both the NDP and Progressive Conservatives.

"There used to be two hospitals in Cornwall, and the Conservatives closed one," he said. "The NDP has also voted against hospitals, and voted against social housing. But, we need these facilities for family doctors to work in."

Both candidates were also asked about their stance on the continuation of the Local Health Integration Networks (LHINs).

"I firmly believe local health decisions need to remain local," Liberal contender MacDonald said, adding that the LHINs moved a number of individual organizations into one.

Elaine MacDonald received a better audience response with her answer.

"The basic principle is, if it's bruised, fix it, but if it's broken, scrap it. We'll abolish it," she said. "The LHIN functions like a firewall between people and government, and it's just a smokescreen process that obscures reality."

HST hyperbole

Mark MacDonald said the Harmonized Sales Tax (HST) has benefitted Ontarians, as the increased revenue is paying for the addition of new schools and hospitals.

"It's about value for tax dollars," he said.

McDonell, meanwhile, countered his opponent's claim.

"The Liberals took millions more after Dalton McGuinty said he would not [increase taxes]," he said. "I'm telling you that the Progressive Conservatives will take the HST off of home heating costs, and we will get rid of the debt retirement charge. It's about fiscal responsibility, and we have to set priorities."

The 2011 Ontario general election is scheduled for Thurs., Oct. 6.

Discovering the waterfront

On Thurs., Sept. 22, South Nation Conservation (SNC) and the Chesterville Kayak Club teamed up for an evening paddle and interpretive tour of the South Nation River. SNC employees, club members, and residents took to the local watershed, trekking southwest toward Cass Bridge. Bernie Curran, club president, was one of about 25 participants.

Dance teacher en pointe at Winchester school

Professional settles into Main Street studio; plans Polar Express*-inspired Christmas show*

by Amanda Smith-Millar
Press staff

WINCHESTER — Frosting on the windows of 506 Main St. partially obscures the dancers within from curious observers.

However, inside the studio, there's no mystery about it: A lot of serious learning — and fun — is going on at Winchester's Academy of Dance & Fitness, from the two-year-olds in tiny bodysuits and tights to the adults grooving in step with Latin cardio tunes.

Professional performer and teacher Hollie Clayton has settled into her Winchester studio after opening the academy in spring 2011. Now, with a professional-calibre floor to complement the wall mirrors and ballet barres, Clayton is running full force with her class schedule.

"This is nice, to have your own place," Clayton said of the freshly renovated studio.

There are plenty of classes on the go at the academy, from stretch and strength programs, to Boot Camp, to mom-and-tot classes, to ballet, tap, and jazz.

Clayton has aimed to build a class schedule that will cater to both recreational and serious students of all ages. For example, she developed Swing and Sway, a low-intensity dance and fitness class for seniors.

Clayton is keen to supervise the early development of young students currently learning the basics of dance. A stickler for proper form and technique, Clayton said she's eager to see her pupils reach their potential. "I'm really excited to see them when they're older," she said. "Some will go a long way, if they continue to dance."

Polar performance prep: Turnin' on the heat

Some may shudder at the prospect of planning for Christmas when autumn only recently arrived.

But, choreography takes time to create — and pupils require enough practice to let new moves become second nature.

As such, preparations for the academy's December show are already underway. The showcase theme will be The Polar Express, named after the children's book and subsequently released 2004 film of the same name.

"It should be a lot of fun," said Clayton, confirming that the show will rely heavily on the movie soundtrack.

Rural retreat

Clayton explained that she moved to Winchester to enjoy life out of the city. Before opening the Academy of Dance & Fitness, she taught classes at a host of local sites, including the Township of North Dundas locations offering dance instruction through the municipal class programs.

Including Clayton's studio and the township recreation initiatives, area residents now have a host of local institutions where they can take dance class — including the Academy of Expressive Dance and Joanne Whittaker School of Dance: Evolution in the South Mountain area, as well as Sandy's Dance Studio based at North Dundas District High School and other locations.

As for Clayton, she started her training with ballet at the age of three, after which she also learned tap, jazz, lyrical, modern, pointe, and stage performance. After years of training, exams, and competitions, she also became a full member of the Royal Academy of Dancing, among other associations. Her move to Ottawa took place in 2002, in order to study human kinetics through the University of Ottawa, from which she obtained her degree in 2006.

Clayton continues to perform when she can, balancing her professional dance commitments with her teaching schedule. In the past, she has performed in The Nutcracker with Ballet Ouest de Montreal for four seasons, and has appeared in productions by Ballet Espressivo, The Dance Company in Toronto, and Le Jazz Hot in Ottawa.

Death's a journey: author

Expert delivers tender, hopeful message

by Amanda Smith-Millar
Press staff

WINCHESTER — Death is a journey — the final journey — so focus on creating lasting memories, and don't sweat the small stuff as our limited time in the mortal world runs out.

That was the key message author Maggie Callanan delivered to about 200 people last Saturday (Sept. 24) during a workshop entitled "Surprising Messages of Hope."

From seniors to social workers, medical professionals to volunteers, a varied crowd attended a day-long workshop at the Winchester Community Centre in support of the Dundas County Hospice.

Callanan shared several stories, many of which are recounted in her two books, entitled Final Gifts: Understanding the Special Awareness, Needs, and Communications of the Dying (which she co-wrote with Patricia Kelley), and Final Journeys: A Practical Guide for Bringing Care and Comfort at the End of Life.

Callanan's talk brought some tears — and a good deal of laughter — to the crowd. From the importance of not overwhelming caregivers, to building memories and healing old wounds, the nurse and hospice expert had everyone's attention as she shared illuminating moments from her career.

"It's the last chapter," Callanan said of the dying process. She also urged loved ones of the dying to keep their ears open and avoid diagnosing or unfairly labelling the sick person.

The event included a question-and-answer session, as well an opportunity for workshop registrants to have their copies of Final Gifts or Final Journeys signed by the author.

Jannie Van Noppen — who waited in the book-signing line — agreed that Callanan's core message was an important one.

"Dying is not necessarily negative," Van Noppen summarized. "It's a journey."

Waiting beside Van Noppen in line was Christina Enright, one of the co-captains of the Winchester Hospital Heelers, a group that raises money in support of local cancer care and research. While Enright has survived her own cancer scare, she faced a much different challenge when her mother recently lost her own battle with the disease.

To prepare herself, Enright decided to speed-read one of Callanan's books, starting in early April — and finishing before her mother died 10 days later.

"And it was the best thing I ever could have done," said Enright. She explained that seeing death as a process prepared her as a daughter and caregiver.

"There's nothing like love for your mother," Enright said. "It wasn't about me — it was about her."

Proceeds produced

While Saturday's event was meant to be an educational opportunity — not a fundraiser — the Dundas County Hospice is on track to receive some proceeds after the weekend's success, according to two of the lead organizers, Linda Johnson and Jan Clapp.

The proceeds are being totalled, and Clapp noted that Saturday's workshop wouldn't have occurred without the considerable community support. From the sponsors, to the 15 churches that prepared food for registrants, everything came together. (Organizers were sure to treat the author in high style — which included a friendly greeting at the Ottawa International Airport in a limo, a ride which Clapp won at a Winchester District Memorial Hospital gala as a prize from Royalty Limousine Service.)

Clapp said Saturday provided a great opportunity to get volunteers involved. "They loved being a part of it all," she said.

Sure sign

Savings found in 2011 OPP budget

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WILLIAMSBURG — It's not a big decrease, but it's enough to have some local politicians breathing a small sigh of relief.

At the Township of South Dundas' recent council meeting on Tues., Sept. 20, Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry OPP Insp. Mike McDonell was on hand to discuss the force's business plan for 2011.

Just the day before, on Mon., Sept. 19, the OPP and counties' councillors ratified the year's official policing contract. When the work began in February, it appeared as though the 2011 police budget would be well over $20 million; however, the final figure is slated to be somewhere in the $11-million range.

"The end result is an agreement that respects our ability to pay, and maintains current service levels," united counties Warden and Township of South Dundas Mayor Steven Byvelds said in a press release.

Current service levels will be maintained, province to pick up shortfall

The Ontario government will now be covering the remaining costs, as it was additions like provincially mandated salary increases that accounted for much of the initially inflated figure.

In the same process, both the counties and the OPP also agreed on a new five-year policing contract, which will see services continue until the end of May 2016. Currently, there are 111 uniformed officers and 16 civilian personnel working the regional beat.

At the Sept. 20 meeting, McDonell said it was good news to have the counties and the OPP partnering once again to keep local communities safe.

Moving forward, the inspector said, some of the force's key initiatives for this year will be the reduction of impaired and distracted driving, as well as crime abatement.

"We're working to keep property crime down, and our officers are following up with criminals," McDonell said. "If we go knock on their door at 1 am, [the criminal] better be home."

Oct. 15 tourney to mark 10 years

WILLIAMSBURG — A 10th annual ball hockey tournament is being planned for Sat., Oct. 15 in support of the Easter Seals organization of Dundas County.

The event, to be held at the J.W. Whitteker Park in Williamsburg, aims to attract both male and female players. There is a trophy and a plaque for the top team and top pledge collector, as well as a table of prizes. At least one female representative must be on the court at all times.

Funds raised for Easter Seals provide transportation, communications equipment, camp experiences, and much more to help young people with disabilities achieve their full individual potential and future independence.

To register a team, receive pledge forms, and obtain more information, call 613-543-0383.

Council notes from South Dundas

Outdoor rink for plaza?

WILLIAMSBURG — The committee behind the Morrisburg Business Improvement Area (BIA) has a plan members say will bring more foot traffic to the village's shopping plaza.

At the Township of South Dundas' latest council meeting on Tues., Sept. 20, BIA president Bill Ewing pitched his committee's idea to install an outdoor skating rink this winter. It's expected the ice surface would be operational for about four weeks, weather permitting.

"We think it's something that will be used more by the kids," Ewing said. "But, the kids will bring their parents, and the parents will spend money."

The rink's dimensions are expected to be approximately 30 feet wide by 150 feet long. The structure would be adjacent to the clock tower in the middle of the plaza. The committee, Ewing added, will also be putting down a number of two-by-six boards in order to contain the ice surface.

"[The BIA] will be looking after everything, including liability insurance," he said.

However, despite the proposal's positive intentions, both council and staff expressed reservations.

"My first comment is liability," Hugh Garlough, manager of public works, said. "Are six-inch boards not a trip hazard? There are too many variables there for me."

Councillor Evonne Delegarde, meanwhile, said she feared the ice surface may double as a hockey rink once the storefronts close for the day. She said she is concerned that with the possibility of pucks flying around, some shops may be damaged.

In the end, council voted to have staff compile a list of questions that need answers before full support may be granted.

Conscious of water quality

Since the fallout from the Walkerton water scandal 11 years ago, Ontario municipalities have been kept on a short leash when it comes to water quality protection.

At Sept. 20's meeting, CAO Stephen McDonald presented council members with South Dundas' Drinking Water Quality Management System Operational Plan, a requirement under the Ontario Municipal Drinking Water Licensing Program.

"As owners of our water system, we have a significant obligation to ensure proper operational standards," he said.

The document details CANEAU's operational expectations for the municipality's drinking water system, as well as the Morrisburg and Iroquois wastewater treatment plants.

Crafting a culture map

At present, a committee is in the process of being formed to continue development of a cultural plan for the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry, as well as the City of Cornwall.

With this action, the six municipalities are being called upon to nominate a representative.

Byvelds, who also serves as the counties' warden, is slated to be South Dundas' voice on the culture committee.

"[The township] does have a vast number of artists who would like this," he said.

The eventual outcome for the plan is to foster the growth of the region's arts community, and to have municipalities recognize that culture plays a significant role in social and economic development.

Council still awaiting findings in official water advisory report

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WILLIAMSBURG — Anticipation lingers as the Township of South Dundas has yet to receive an official report stemming from August's boil water advisory.

"Unfortunately, I do not have that document tonight," Mayor Steven Byvelds said during the municipality's Tues., Sept. 20 council meeting.

In his remarks, the mayor mentioned that a meeting with CANEAU, the Morrisburg Wastewater Treatment Plant's operator, as well as officials with both the Eastern Ontario Health Unit (EOHU) and the Ministry of the Environment, had finally taken place the day prior (Mon., Sept. 19).

A drinking water ban was issued by the EOHU in mid-August, and was lifted fewer than 24 hours later. However, for the past number of years, the township has been working at upgrading its aging water infrastructure, having just celebrated the official opening of the Morrisburg plant in 2010, while a new wastewater plant is slated to open in Iroquois by 2014.

Needless to say, the recent boil water advisory caught both South Dundas officials and residents off guard.

Since that time, Byvelds — along with the other members of council — have been anticipating the report's release.

"I hope to have a report within the week," he said. "Then I can send it to council for approval, and get something to the press."

Byvelds continued, saying Dr. Paul Roumeliotis, the EOHU's chief medical officer of health, has committed to working with South Dundas in order to develop protocols for the handling of similar problems if they happen in the future.

"It will put something on the shelf to go with [if this ever happens again]," said Byvelds of the protocols.

SD&SG's Mac (and Mc) attack

Every election is full of surprises. But a bizarre coincidence occurred in the MPP's race in Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry (SD&SG) this year: Three candidates have surnames that begin with either "Mac" or "Mc."

We sincerely hope voters don't get to the polling station on Thurs., Oct. 6 and confuse Liberal contender Mark MacDonald with his Tory rival, Jim McDonell. It may be more difficult to mix up these two gentlemen with the third candidate in the MacMix — the NDP's Elaine MacDonald — as she stands out as the sole politician to dilute the testosterone in SD&SG's race. She joins Justin Reist of the Green Party and Libertarian Darcy Neal Donnelly.

Voters are advised to be careful while marking their ballots so they actually write their "X" beside the candidate they intend to support.

That being said, the SD&SG riding is fortunate indeed to have five parties represented in the race. There's plenty of diversity on the ballot from an ideological perspective, at least.

There are also many candidates to choose from in Nepean-Carleton, where six parties are represented: Ric Dagenais (NDP), Don Dransfield (Liberals), Gordon Kubanek (Greens), Roger Toutant (Libertarian), Marco Rossi (Freedom Party of Ontario), and another MacClub member in the form of incumbent Lisa MacLeod (PCs).

Thanks to all candidates for running. It consumes a lot of family time — and takes courage.

But, if you run, please be prepared...

At the Thurs., Sept. 22 SD&SG all-candidates debate at the Winchester Community Centre, many residents showed up to receive answers to a number of burning questions. Job creation, health care, and economic prosperity were three dominant topics that evening. The four-member candidate panel had plenty to discuss. (Reist, the Green Party rep, was not there.) Unfortunately, a screenplay appeared to have been written beforehand. Disappointingly, all four job applicants vying for the position of SD&SG MPP were short on details when specific questions were asked.

True, an answer along the lines of, "I don't know much about topic X, but I'll get back to you" may suggest that a candidate is hesitant to supply incorrect information or volunteer an opinion without sufficient details. Fair enough. However, all candidates pleaded ignorance too often on Sept. 22, to the point where, in any other job interview setting, the employer may have asked the woefully uninformed applicants, "So, what qualifies you for this important position in our organization, anyhow?" At the risk of receiving flak from loyal Liberals — who may unfairly accuse the Winchester Press of trying to inflict our non-existent "Tory slant" on the situation (as if it was 1911 not 2011) — Grit contender MacDonald played the I-Dunno-But-Ask-Me-Later Card more, erm, liberally than his peers.

In the end, Thursday's debate came down to whether or not the actors knew their lines. Some were better versed than others. Unfortunately, Ontario residents need responsible and well-informed policy makers, not savvy performers.

Remember when...

The world's richest man, John D. Rockefeller, was a constant object of the world's curiosity and speculation, the Winchester Press said this week. It seemed as though the principal way he spent his estimated $2.2 billion was shielding himself from the outside world, this paper reported.

1931

The hand-power washing machine was rapidly passing into Canadian discard piles, the Press said this week. Of the 86,000 washing machines made in Canada in the previous year, 68,000 were electric. The use of power for a variety of purposes was becoming common throughout the country.

1941

The National Red Cross this week sent out a call for 150 voluntary blood donors from the Winchester area, the Press reported. Dr. J. McKendry, the Royal Canadian Legion Winchester Branch 108, and the Winchester 100 Club were working together to enlist as many local donors as possible.

1951

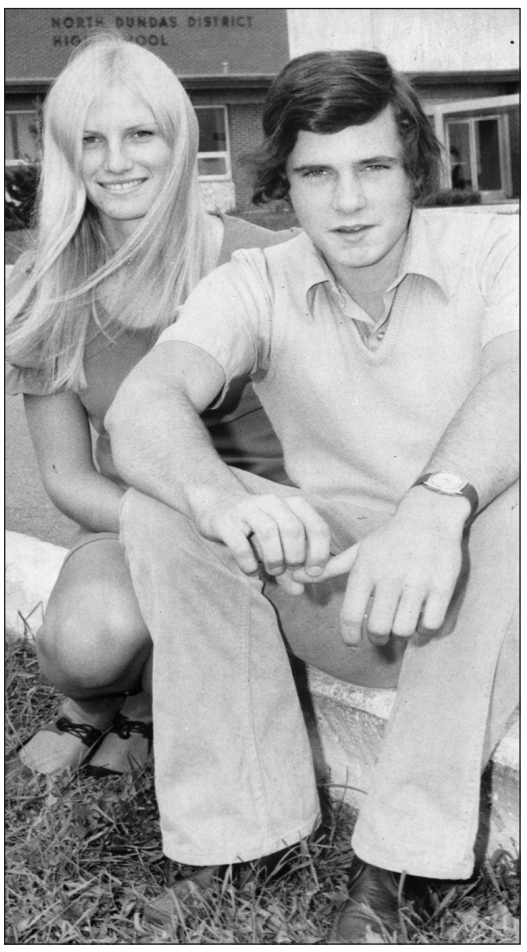
This week's "Modern Etiquette" column tackled the question of whether there were certain occasions when a man should precede the woman he is accompanying. The answer was: The man should go first only when the way is uncertain or dangerous, such as pushing through a boisterous crowd. He also preceded her when alighting from a vehicle, so that he could better assist her in exiting.

1961

Prime Minister John Diefenbaker was scheduled to open the Metcalfe Fair on Saturday, the Press reported this week. The fair competitions were loaded with more entries than ever before, and it was expected record numbers of exhibitors would attend.

1971

When Premier Bill Davis arrived in Kemptville this week, he was hungry, and the aroma of fresh pancakes drifting into his bus caught his attention, the Press reported. Within seconds, Davis lined up at the outdoor breakfast, held in conjunction with a Tory rally.



North Dundas District High School students selected two of their classmates to be head boy and head girl this week in 1971. Anna Verhoeven and Bill Byers, both Grade 13 students, were chosen as the school's student representatives.

When Mountain's Theresa Sherrer was crowned Miss Ottawa, her father was so excited, he nearly dropped his video camera, the Press reported this week. The 18-year-old aspiring actress and former Dundas County dairy princess contestant took part alongside 23 other young women for the honour of representing the Ottawa area for one year. With the win, Sherrer also earned her place in the Miss Canada pageant.

2001

The Dundas County Food Bank put out a call this week for the basic Thanksgiving staples to be donated by those wishing to help the area's less fortunate, the Press reported. Items requested included canned vegetables and fruits, as well as large cans of fruit juices.

Remembering the man with the red bandana

From the Other Side
by Jeff Morris

We all love our individuality, and we all seem to have a certain "signature."

By signature, I don't mean your actual signature in writing. What I mean is something that you are known for — something that expresses and identifies your passion or individuality.

Perhaps your grandmother had a signature spaghetti sauce. As I write this, I realize that my grandmother's signature was that she did not use nor need oven mitts. About a decade ago I thought I could be as tough as my grandmother and I figured that, since the oven door was already open and the oven mitts were at the other end of the kitchen, I would be like my grandmother.

My finger has been peeling for more than a decade. I'm not as tough as her. How dare I try to share her signature.

Maybe you have a signature. A certain song you always sing in the shower; a certain way you wear your hair or your jeans or your belt. Maybe your signature is a move you use in beer league hockey. You probably imagine yourself as Wayne Gretzky while your teammates groan on the bench and mutter, "Here he goes again."

You always wonder why we have signatures.

Sometimes, we find out why, and it raises the hair on the back of your neck.

After the column on Reverend Mychal Judge, who was officially Victim 0001 in the 9/11 World Trade Centre attacks, I have had a number of people comment in a positive way. Frankly, that's rare, because people usually only send emails or pick up the phone or even stop me on the street when they disagree with something.

I got thinking about that column, and how "From the Other Side" has become my personal signature over the past several years.

So what better way to follow up with the Judge column than with a story about one of the greatest signatures of 9/11 — the red bandana.

Welles Crowther always carried a red bandana with him. It was a habit he picked up in elementary school from his father, Jefferson. They were a close father and son, and they even volunteered with the fire department in their hometown of Nyack, NY. Crowther played high school hockey and lacrosse, and wound up at Boston College, where he played on the varsity lacrosse team.

Crowther was 24 on Sept. 11, 2001. He was working on the 104th floor of the south tower — the first one hit. He called his mother and left a message reassuring her he was okay. They never heard from him again, and his parents were left wondering what happened to him and how he died.

About two months later, Ladies' Home Journal published a first-person account of the attacks written by Judy Wein, AON Corp. vice-president. She wrote that a man "with a red handkerchief over his face seemed to appear out of nowhere and pointed to the stairs. 'Anyone who can get up and walk, get up now,' he urged the other people on the floor."

Unfortunately, anyone who would have been able to make the connection to Crowther did not see the article.

Crowther's remains were found and identified in March, 2002, but there was still no closure for Crowther's family. That would soon end.

In May, 2002, a New York Times article talked about a mysterious man who appeared in the stairwell and helped rescue several women from a dark, smoky stairwell. Ling Young described the man with the red bandana, who instructed her to follow him to the stairs as he carried another woman on his back. Welles' mother, Alison, read the article in the New York Times and realized that the mysterious hero was her son.

Alison Crowther contacted Wein and Young and had lunch with them. She showed them a picture of her son, and Young confirmed it was him. "You don't forget a face like that," she said.

Two weeks later, the Rockland County Journal published a story identifying Crowther as the mysterious hero. Young was quoted in the story: "He didn't save himself."

In 2003, Young and Crowther's parents attended a service at the Empire Hook and Ladder Company in Nyack. Crowther's parents removed a red bandana to unveil the plaque of their son. Later, Crowther would become the first person to be posthumously made an honourary member of the New York Fire Department. Fire commissioner Nicholas Scoppetta praised Crowther, saying that under the most hellish of conditions, he was able to save all those lives.

Crowther is honoured every year at Boston College by the annual Red Bandana 5K Run. In his hometown of Nyack, there is an annual Red Bandana Skate.

"When children and adults hear Welles' story, it changes them," said his mother, Alison, in USA Today. "It brings such a light into their soul — it's a beautiful thing for us."

At the 9/11 Memorial Museum in New York, there is an exhibit dedicated to Welles Crowther. There are photos and a recorded interview with his parents and information about his heroics.

And there is one of his red print bandanas.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Returning office knows its stuff

The Editor:
I just had an interesting experience with my notice of registration for the provincial election, and I wanted to tell the Winchester Press about it, in case this is affecting others in our area.

When my notice arrived in the mail the other day, it was addressed to the municipality of "North Dundas" (which doesn't exist as a mailing address) — but more surprisingly, it said my polling station was in St. Andrews West, which is almost 50 kilometres away, near Cornwall.

I thought this must be a mistake, so I called the number for Elections Ontario on the card. They had trouble finding my address, and kept asking me if I was in Ottawa, or Cornwall, or "Stormont," or even Windsor at one point. Then they gave up, and gave me a number to call at the "headquarters of my district." I called that number, and when I gave them my postal code, they asked me which part of Nepean I was in (!). They soon realized that their database wasn't going to be any help either, so they gave me a number for the returning office in Cornwall.

The people in Cornwall knew exactly what was going on. They said that Elections Ontario misprinted a whole batch of notices of registration, and they will be sending out new ones next week. They also said there will be a polling station locally, at the Township of North Dundas office. (Which most residents of Winchester probably expected, but I just moved here recently and wasn't here during the last provincial election.) I am glad to hear that we aren't expected to drive 45 minutes each way in order to vote.

So my advice is, if anyone gets a notice of registration sending them to a far-away polling station, don't call the number on the card — skip straight to the returning office at Cornwall. They know our area, and they know what's going on. Their number is 1-866-566-3477.

Today's British Home Child Day

The Editor:
Today (Wed., Sept. 28, 2011), the first-ever British Home Child Day in Ontario will be observed.

British Home Children came to Canada under the guardianship of various charitable organizations attempting to secure for them an opportunity to have a better life than they would have had in Great Britain. The stories of these children contain many common elements, including adversity, shame, and loss of identity, as well as tenacity, strength, and perseverance.

For the past few months, a group of individuals has been working with Upper Canada Village administrators to put together a number of events to be held at the village today. These include the dedication of a British Home Child Memorial Tree at the Aultsville Station and the launch of a book written by British Home Child descendent Sandra Joyce. The Aultsville Station ceremony will take place at 1 pm today, while the launch of The Street Arab: The Story of A British Home Child will occur at 10 am.

It is hoped that the local press and general public will be in attendance for these and other events being held at Upper Canada Village.

Community spirit shines through

The Editor:
If you were not at the Winchester Community Centre on Sat., Sept. 24, you missed an awesome day. A small group of our community women, led by Jan Clapp and Linda Johnson, organized a day with renowned author, speaker, and hospice nurse Maggie Callanan. The talk was entitled "Surprising Messages of Hope," which was undoubtedly the very best educational, thought-provoking, and meaningful session I have ever attended.

Our small community came through, once again, with volunteers and donations of food, time, and talent that would put any large community to shame. Kudos to the entire group that put on this very special event, after many months of hard work and planning, to those who made donations, prepared food, decorated the venue, or in any other way took part.

All who attended were moved by the messages of hope, evident in both the speaker's words and members of the audience during the question time.

For many of us, we will never look at the end-of-life experience, hospice, or grief in the same way again. We will always be reminded of Maggie's words of hope, love, peace, and serenity.

Once again, on behalf of the community, my thanks to all who gave us such a special day.

$500 reward offered for arson information

The Editor:
On Sun., Sept. 18 around 2 am, a person driving by the shop located in Vernon on Bank Street called 911 to report that there was a truck on fire in the parking lot, next to the building.

The white pickup truck that was up for sale had been parked on the lot for several weeks. The Ottawa Police Service has determined it to be arson.

If anyone has any information pertaining to the incident that leads to the arrest of the person or people starting the fire, we will provide a $500 cash reward.

Reader trounces Transpo service

The Editor:
My husband recently experienced the new schedules with reduced/cancelled service on OC Transpo in Ottawa. Being the second week in (we had been on holidays) we thought the early glitches might be solved by now. How wrong we were!

Despite our repeated complaints and warnings during their planning stages, where they invited commuter input then chose to completely ignore it, OC Transpo went ahead and removed all bus service from Riverside Drive at Mooney's Bay, essentially stranding the elderly residents, staff, volunteers, and families of St. Patrick's Home, a long-term care facility. Everyone now has to trek down to Heron at all hours of the day and night to find any buses, or should I say "bus," as there is now only one option, the 118 route, to get to Billings and make further connections.

We were told that only 25 people used the cancelled Riverside Drive route. Any fool can see that with staff, residents, family, and volunteers, just connected to St. Pat's alone, never mind the other businesses along that stretch of Riverside, the statement was patently false. But this was the "information" by which they justified their decision to remove the route. Brilliant!

So, off my husband went to try to catch a 118. The 118, a short bus, was packed and only picked up half the people waiting for it. The driver said another bus would "be along shortly." The drivers always say that. There was no other bus.

My husband ran to Billings Bridge and managed to catch his commuter bus out to Dundas with one minute to spare. Hopeful it was a just a glitch, he left earlier the next day, and stood at Heron while three — count them — three 118 buses sailed past, full to the brim, and didn't even stop!

Obviously, they didn't account for all the displaced riders who would now have to use the one route offered. They didn't put on extra articulated buses; they just went with the status quo.

Last month, we saw the news clips of OC Transpo staff, City of Ottawa Councillor Diane Deans, and other City of Ottawa Council staff in their spiffy new lime green t-shirts handing out little cards to riders with a number you can call to see when your next bus is coming. Don't bother! There isn't one. And if there is, it won't stop to pick you up. And exactly how much did that perky little publicity campaign cost us? They could have taken that money and saved a bus route instead!

We are now paying more for a transit service where the word "service" is, frankly, a joke. And let's all remember, this was still summer! Wait until winter driving conditions hit!

OC Transpo told me their planning department "might adjust the route at some point in the future." Diane Deans, the city councillor assigned to OC Transpo, has consistently expressed an attitude of trite disinterest in the concerns of the public.

Fall session underway and there's work to be done

OTTAWA — On Mon., Sept. 19, a new session of Parliament began. It got underway on a sombre note with the newly appointed interim leader of the NDP, Nycole Turmel, speaking about the passing of Jack Layton.

Her speech was followed by a tribute for "Jack," as he was affectionately known in the House of Commons, by Prime Minister Stephen Harper and representatives from all parties. Olivia Chow, Layton's widow, also addressed Parliament. All speeches were upbeat, sincere, and very respectful. Jack would have been pleased.

It is good to be back to the business of governing the country on behalf of the citizens of Canada and my constituents of Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry (SD&SG). It is always awe inspiring to return to the House of Commons.

When I realize I have the honour of sitting in this hallowed chamber where so many of Canada's great political leaders sat, it is most humbling. I am sincerely grateful to the constituents of SD&SG for giving me the privilege of sharing the same experience as giants like Sir John A. Macdonald, John Diefenbaker, and Brian Mulroney.

All speeches were upbeat, sincere, and very respectful. Jack would have been pleased.

This session of Parliament looks like it will be very busy. I expect the dynamics in the House of Commons will be totally different from previous sessions. Her Majesty's Official Opposition, the NDP, will be led by an interim leader. The Liberal Party, now the third party in the House of Commons, will also have an interim leader. Both opposition parties will be undergoing leadership races.

From Parliament Hill

by MP Guy Lauzon

The Bloc Québécois, which had 49 seats in the last Parliament, has been reduced to only four members, and the Green Party now has a member, following the election of the party's leader, Elizabeth May.

Having a majority government does not mean passing legislation will be simple or easy. The opposition parties will be using every procedural trick in the book to prevent our government from carrying out our agenda — and there are many. We saw a perfect example of this in June when we tried to pass back-to-work legislation to get Canada Post employees back to work after workers went on strike. The opposition parties filibustered for 57 hours to prevent this bill from passing.

Our government has been very clear on our agenda for the fall session of Parliament. We want to continue with our low-tax Economic Action Plan that helps employers create jobs. We want to keep the economy growing and pay down our deficit.

We will also be introducing an omnibus crime bill, as we promised in our election platform. This legislation will kill the long-gun registry, introduce minimum sentences, discontinue house arrest for serious sexual and violent crime, and protect children from predators.

I am looking ahead to a full and busy fall session of Parliament.

Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry MP Guy Lauzon submits regular weekly columns to the Winchester Press. His provincial counterpart for the riding, retiring MPP Jim Brownell, has wrapped up his submission schedule for the year.

Transpo

Regarding the stranded elderly residents of St. Pat's, council's reply was that they "would have to make other arrangements." Perhaps they are expected to take their walkers and join my husband on his now daily cross-country hike to Billings? What an appalling way to treat our most vulnerable citizens and (I might remind her) voters!

Perhaps some "other arrangements" should be made in Ottawa City Council and at the executive offices of OC Transpo to remove the folks who made these ridiculous, ill-advised, arbitrary choices of route cancellations and reductions.

Of course, the idea was to save OC Transpo money and to spare the riders yet another rate hike. Like they did this as a favour to us. I am quite certain that OC Transpo is indeed saving money. Being paid for a service you don't actually provide is a great deal — for them! In the real world, managers that fail at their jobs so miserably are removed from their positions. The ridership should be picketing their offices, demanding immediate changes, and getting resignations from the folks who obviously can't manage the business of public transit.

In contrast, the commuter bus service to North Dundas, Wubs Transit, kindly held the bus for my husband, who was trying desperately (now on foot!) to get to Billings Bridge to catch it. We cannot thank Wubs enough, and the other passengers on the bus who always look out for each other, and who exercised great patience and forbearance. Our heartfelt thanks to all of you! You don't get service like that in Ottawa, which is why we moved out of Ottawa. In Ottawa, you get snarly drivers telling you that another bus is coming, when it isn't, buses that won't stop to pick up paying customers, councillors who are more interested in advancing their careers than actually working for the people, and a transit service which is the poorest example of its kind in Canada, and, of course, the most expensive.

They should take a lesson from Wubs on customer service!

Winchester District Memorial Hospital

Care Close to Home
A Look Inside WDMH

Proud to be part of the WDMH team: CEO

Welcome to "Care Close to Home," written by the people who are at the heart of Winchester District Memorial Hospital (WDMH). This "inside view" is designed to help our communities get to know the WDMH team — in their own words. This month, we hear from new WDMH Chief Executive Officer Cholly Boland.

It's hard to believe that I've only been in Winchester for a couple of weeks — it already feels like home! That's in no small part due to the warm welcome I have received from staff, physicians, volunteers, the hospital and foundation boards, community members, and the local media. Thank you to everyone for helping me feel so welcome from the very first day.

I am thrilled to be here because Winchester District Memorial Hospital has always had such an incredible reputation throughout its proud history of more than 60 years. I'm privileged to be part of the team of dedicated staff, physicians, and volunteers who continue to provide compassionate, high-quality care every day. So much has been accomplished at WDMH, including moving into a new hospital and continued patient satisfaction of more than 95 per cent — and the plans for the future are just as exciting!

Cholly Boland

I grew up in a small town, and I have been fortunate to work in home care, hospitals, and long-term care. I hope to build on that experience as we work together with other health care organizations to develop the Centre of Excellence for Rural Health and Education that will help us continue to provide the very best care close to home.

Throughout the next few weeks, I hope to meet as many people as I can — both at WDMH and in our local communities. If you have questions, comments, or suggestions about hospital services, I can be reached at 613-774-1049 or cboland@wdmh.on.ca. I'd love to hear from you.

Heelers sally forth

Although the Ottawa Regional Cancer Foundation has discontinued the 60-kilometre annual Weekend to End Women's Cancers fundraiser, a local walking group called the Winchester Hospital Heelers will continue to raise funds to support cancer care and programs at Winchester District Memorial Hospital. The Heelers received a $640 cheque last week from Candace Menges (pictured at right) of River Rat Treasures, Iroquois, where a fundraising barbecue and book signing took place with Winchester writer Nancy Horton (left) in early September. Horton is the author of two books — Hope in the Midst of Darkness and The Big, Fat, Bald Head! — chronicling her experience with cancer. Horton is pictured here with Heelers Christina Enright (second from left) and Marlene Pyper.

School spirit in great condition this fall

Following Winchester Press tradition, the North Dundas District High School (NDDHS) Student Council's records minister will supply a regular column to the paper. Meet Taylor Ace, our 2011-2012 columnist.

NDDHS Notes
by Taylor Ace

MAPLE RIDGE — School is back, and NDDHS students are already into the swing of classes and working on their school spirit.

Everybody has made the transition to the new class times and cramped hallways, with the Grade 7s and Grade 8s joining the school this year.

NDDHS Student Council welcomed everybody back with lunchtime activities, including a pudding-eating contest won by Jacob Jaquemet, a chubby bunny contest won by Connor Zersch, and a limbo contest, on Hawaiian Day, won by Dylan Kelly.

Spirit days

Students are earning points for their grades this year as they participate in spirit days and various school activities. Jersey Day on Thurs., Sept. 22 was won by the Grade 12 class for having the most participation.

Student Council has planning underway in terms of leadership camp, the Christmas concert, the fashion show, and prom.

The leadership class is planning the Terry Fox walk this Fri., Sept. 30. Students raise money and spend the afternoon walking for the cause.

We would like to welcome everybody back to school and hope this turns out to be another wonderful year.

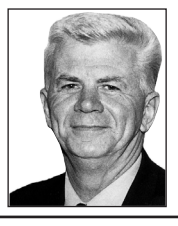
City charting driving habits



In and around Osgoode Ward
by Councillor Doug Thompson

OTTAWA — Origin-Destination survey calls began last week, and will continue for the next 10 weeks. Professional interviewers will call thousands of randomly selected residents on both sides of the Ottawa River, taking approximately 10 minutes to gather information about daily travel patterns.

The data will be used to update the City of Ottawa's Transportation Master Plan, the Official Plan, and the Development Charges Bylaw. It will also be used in strategic-transportation planning studies aimed at improving road, bridges, transit services, and cycling and pedestrian facilities in the National Capital Region.

The interviews are voluntary and confidential. They take place Tuesdays through Fridays between 4:30 and 9:30 pm and on Saturday between 10 am and 5 pm.

This year's Origin-Destination survey is the fourth of its kind, and once again is a multi-level effort. The City of Ottawa, the City of Gatineau, the Ontario Ministry of Transportation, the ministère des Transports du Québec, and the transit agencies of Ottawa and Gatineau, OC Transpo, and STO have joined forces to conduct the $1-million project.

Living Green Ribbon

On Fri., Sept. 30 at the conclusion of the opening ceremonies of the 2011 Metcalfe Fair, people in attendance will be asked to participate in the formation of a Living Green Ribbon. This event will be filmed by documentary filmmakers Robert and Sharon Newton. The green ribbon is the symbol of organ and tissue donation. There are roughly 1,500 people waiting for a transplant in the province of Ontario, and every three days, one of them dies. Please come and be a part of this and show your support for "the gift of life."

Snowmobile club honoured

George Darouze, president of the Osgoode Carleton Snowmobile Trail Club, was honoured by the Ontario Federation Of Snowmobile Clubs (OFSC) with the Volunteer of the Year Award last weekend at the federation's annual meeting in Markham. Darouze was also given the District 1 Volunteer of the Year Award.

Congratulations as well to the Osgoode Carleton Snowmobile Trail Club for being named the OFSC 2011 Snowmobile Club of the Year, and being awarded a cheque for $2,000. There were 245 clubs vying for this coveted award in Ontario.

Both awards were presented at an evening banquet, which attracted almost 550 delegates in attendance.

Congratulations to Darouze and the club for their tremendous achievements.

Auxiliary prepares for Oct. 15 bazaar

by Janice Hyndman

WINCHESTER — Plans are well underway for the Winchester District Memorial Hospital (WDMH) Auxiliary's Annual Fall Bazaar to be held on Sat., Oct. 15 from 11:30 am to 3 pm.

North Dundas District High School will be a beehive of activity as attendees enjoy tables of handmade crafts, delicious baking, fresh local produce, white elephant items, grab bags, raffles, plants and much more.

New this year will be a Lego Car Race and a Baby Contest. Patrons will be given a "free" door prize ticket and may enjoy lunch in the Tea Room for $5. The silent auction will feature unique items, while the Gift Shoppe kiosk will offer a wide variety of decorations, gifts, and apparel.

The auxiliary members were recently introduced to the new WDMH CEO Cholly Boland. In addressing the gathering, Boland expressed his joy at having been selected to succeed Trudy Reid.

He advised the auxiliary that he will attempt to further Reid's efforts to ensure that the hospital remains a Centre of Excellence for Rural Health. Boland thanked the auxiliary for all it does to assist the hospital and its patients.

In other business, the HELLP Lottery is up and running in the hospital's lobby, while the Gift Shoppe now has a vast selection of Halloween decorations, as well as many other unique items.

The Sunshine Circle, which is made up of volunteer singers, has resumed its activities following a summer hiatus. New members are always welcome to join the group as they entertain patients in the complex and continuing care unit of the hospital.

Fall Bazaar raffle tickets and 50/50 tickets are now available for purchase at the Gift Shoppe and from auxiliary members.

4,000 volunteer from May through August

The Hospital Auxiliary Association of Ontario-East Region Fall Conference will be held in Smiths Falls on Wed., Oct. 12, while the provincial conference takes place in Toronto from Mon., Nov. 7 to Wed., Nov. 9. Michael J. Fox will be one of the keynote speakers at the conference. Several auxiliary members from Winchester will attend these events.

Chief liaison officer and volunteer co-ordinator Alan Archer reported that volunteers at the hospital offered more than 4,000 hours of service from May through August. New volunteers are always welcome and may contact Archer at 613-774-2420, extension 6323 to begin the process of giving back to the hospital in this way.

The auxiliary has scheduled its next meeting for Thurs., Oct. 13 at the hospital.

Art in the country

For the second year in a row, the Apples and Art Studio Tour, taking place Sat., Sept. 24 and Sun., Sept. 25, extended its route into Dundas County. Previously, the two-day event stuck to the Cornwall area, as the Cornwall Regional Art Gallery is the chief organizer. Williamsburg's Arabesque Pottery, owned and operated by Diane Sullivan, was one of the five local stops during the 20th annual tour. Press Photo — Uhrig

A grand raised at grand opening

WINCHESTER — The grand opening of Wubs Transit and Precision Diesel raised about $1,000 for the Winchester District Memorial Hospital on Sat., Sept. 24.

Kids' games, a barbecue, a show-and-shine car display, and more was set up at the shop's new Dawley Drive location.

A noonhour ribbon-cutting ceremony made the two business' relocation to Winchester official.

Owers Nanda and Richard Wubs decided, in part, to move their businesses out of their River Road home for the extra space and increased visibility in Winchester.

"The community can see that we're here," noted Nanda.

Organizer to pull 2012 rodeo out of North Dundas?

by Amanda Smith-Millar
Press staff

CHESTERVILLE — The new Upper Canada Rodeo Group Foundation's organizer says he'll probably pull the 2012 event out of North Dundas due to conflicts with township council.

Chesterville resident Kevin Pennock said his non-profit organization, launched this year, is being unfairly penalized because it bears a similar name to the 2010 and 2011 rodeos registered as a business by Sheila McDonald of Winchester Springs.

Pennock — who wants North Dundas council to endorse his rodeo for 2012 — said he can't get on the North Dundas council agenda to have a public debate about the issue. Without council endorsement, he therefore can't apply for several grants, the organizer argued.

Pennock acknowledged that McDonald's two failed fundraising attempts in 2010 and 2011 lost tens of thousands of dollars. However, he added that Township of North Dundas Mayor Eric Duncan should at least allow the new rodeo to be debated as an agenda item after a public delegation in the North Dundas council chambers.

"I don't understand why he [Duncan] is taking it out on me," said Pennock, referring to McDonald's 2010 and 2011 events. "The 2012 rodeo will be presented properly."

Pennock said he's in talks with another municipality that's open to the idea of endorsing the rodeo. (However, Pennock declined to name the township in question, stating that it would be unfair to do so, as talks are still in the preliminary stages.)

Pennock oversaw security at Papa Gus' in Chesterville during the 2011 rodeo. Later, he publicly defended McDonald for taking on the project, even though it did not generate revenue. (Previously, McDonald said she planned to fund a feasibility study to bring a YMCA pool to the area; however, those two rodeos plunged her into debt, despite the high attendance both years.)

'No appetite' to debate rodeo: mayor

As mayor, Duncan has the responsibility of setting the agenda for meetings, and can decide who is allowed to make a presentation.

Duncan said tables and chairs will be offered to Pennock's rodeo, as they were during McDonald's previous two events. However, no official endorsement will be extended for 2012, regardless of the rodeo's new start.

Mayor defends council position

Previously, council decided against endorsing McDonald's rodeos, reasoning that her venture was a private business. However, when the Winchester Press asked if council was conflating apples with oranges — as Pennock has registered his rodeo as a non-profit — Duncan said that wasn't the case.

He noted that the "horrific" financial mismanagement of McDonald's two rodeos made the 2012 event a politically sensitive subject.

"Council has no appetite to re-open the issue," the mayor said. "It'll not be on the agenda again this year."

The mayor also said it's unfair to endorse a project that hasn't proven itself yet. "We don't know what [Pennock's] rodeo will be like," said Duncan. "This is a unique situation."

When the Press emailed the other four council members, asking if they were comfortable with not seeing the new rodeo on the agenda, two councillors (Al Armstrong and Tony Fraser) responded, confirming that they were comfortable with the choice.

Rodeo homeless?

Pennock said he wishes for a rodeo to remain in Chesterville. That will be difficult, as the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society has declined to partner with Pennock for 2012 or host the event at the village fairgrounds. The society's president — Dan Gasser — has cited a lack of volunteers to support a rodeo on top of the annual Chesterville Fair. Gasser also said there are "bad feelings" lingering from McDonald's first two rodeos in Chesterville — the first of which took place at the village fairgrounds.

Crops: Not bumper, but not bad

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

WINCHESTER — If the region's long-range weather forecast doesn't soon alter significantly, local farmers should have plenty of time to harvest their fields in the coming weeks.

Both corn and soybean plants are now on the upswing following a less-than-stellar planting season, which was routinely delayed by persistent spring rainshowers.

July didn't offer up a much better scenario, as much of the month saw little to no rainfall. In August, there was a fair bit of precipitation, which also handcuffed area farmers.

However, according to Gilles Quesnel, a crop specialist with the Ontario Ministry of Food and Rural Affairs, local growers should be looking at a close-to-average yield this season.

"It looks like it won't freeze for a while," he said. "Most corn and soybeans should meet maturity before any frost."

Quesnel admits that accumulation of crops will be lower than 2010, "but given the start we had, most growers should be happy," he added.

He said that most farmers got into their fields in early spring, and worked to plant between the rainfalls; yet, some of that work wasn't completed until early June due to the onslaught of precipitation.

"Some of these farmers pre-sold [crops] last spring, and many of the ones I talked to were a little nervous about fulfilling their contracts," Quesnel said.

But, now that some decent weather has set in, the crop specialist said local growers are now out clearing fields, and finding a better yield than many anticipated.

"I think the farmers will be happy in a sense that a lot expected it would be worse, because based on the rain, some thought the crops would be at risk," Quesnel said. "We have reasonable crop conditions now, and that's as good as can be expected given the season."

As for pricing, analysts are saying that corn could hit $8 a bushel, while soybean prices have inched into the teens, sitting roughly 30 per cent above the average in recent years. (The favourable pricing has been helped by a high Canadian dollar, as well as the low-yield expectations in both the southern and mid-western United States, which has been plagued by flooding and drought.)

Organizers give Russell rodeo the thumbs up

RUSSELL — Although financial totals are not yet available, at least one Russell Fair board member said the 2011 rodeo in the village was a success.

"From my perspective, it was a great day," Allan Anderson, fair board secretary, said of the Sat., Sept. 24 event. "The weather held off, and there was a lot of people out."

The Russell stop, similar to Chesterville's in June, is just one of many during this year's Professional Rodeo Season Series. A portion of the Sept. 24 proceeds was earmarked for Special Olympics Ontario.

"I think it was successful for sure," Anderson said.

Marvellous McIntosh

The McIntosh Apple was the toast of a local celebration. This time, the Chesterville Farmers' Market paid homage to the legendary fruit during a special event on Sat., Sept. 24. The day took on an apple theme, while many of the vendors had apple-inspired products. A homemade apple pie contest was the climax of the day's celebrations, with North Dundas Fire Department — Chesterville detachment officials Matt Giles (left), Anne McLean, and Bruce Casselman chosen as the special judges. Both Alix (second from left) and Madi Giles gave their input, too. Press Photo — Uhrig

Stormont eyes plowing match bid

FINCH — Could the 2015 International Plowing Match (IPF) be held in Stormont County?

If planning by the Stormont Plowmen's Association pays off, the answer could very well be yes.

According to Jeff Waldroff, association president, both the county's north and south townships are on board, while a proposal has also been passed along to the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry. However, according to Waldroff, the plowmen require a $100,000 monetary guarantee from the counties in order to proceed with an official bid. Roughly 1,000 acres of farm land would be required to host the event, while Waldroff estimates a similar number of volunteers would also be needed. A bid for the match is slated to be made by the association early next year. This year's IPF was held in Chute-de-Blondeau in the United Counties of Prescott-Russell.

Sunny harvest

The 20th annual Williamsburg Fall Harvest Festival took place on the weekend (Fri., Sept. 23 and Sat., Sept. 24) featuring a full slate of contests involving local produce, including the largest sunflower. Eight-year-old Hailey Geurin (left) of Williamsburg claimed the first prize in the LMS Motor Sales-sponsored competition. Hailey's six-year-old brother, Caleb, also had an impressive entry. Grant McMillan's sunflower was judged to be the runner-up.

Over the two days a variety of different activities took place throughout the village. Everyone loves a parade

The annual Saturday parade is always a highlight of the Williamsburg Harvest Festival, and this year was no different. Pictured, clockwise, from left: Olivier Fontaine, along with fellow members of the Cornwall-based Royal Canadian Air Cadets Band, gave the parade a decisive tune; Caitlin Moulton led the way for her fellow Studio Dance Club members; Lyal Kehoe brought out his 1956 Ford Sunliner; Eleanor Van Allen was in full control of her parade entry; and Sparky the Fire Dog took a break from the action.

Charlie Crabb slid home with the insurance run as the Carleton University Ravens rallied from a 4-0 deficit to defeat the McGill University Redmen 6-4 at Morgan Field in Winchester. McGill posted a 7-6 win in the tail end of Saturday's (Sept. 24) Canadian Intercollegiate Baseball Conference twin bill. The Ravens (7-5-0) stand second in the Northern Conference standings behind Concordia University (11-3-0).

Ravens roost in Winchester

Split twin bill with McGill Redmen

WINCHESTER — A quick sports trivia question. When was the first university baseball game played at Morgan Field in Winchester?

Answer: On Sat., Sept. 24 when the host Carleton University Ravens split a twin bill with the visiting McGill University Redmen.

Saturday's double dip at Morgan Field was facilitated by Ravens head coach Rick Young and his assistant Chris "Edgar" Hart, both Winchester residents. Andre Robidoux, a member of Hart's National Capital Baseball League Tier 2 Winchester Sox, is also on the Carleton coaching staff.

Carleton pulled off a sixth-inning rally and defeated McGill 6-4 in the opening game on Saturday, but fell 7-6 in the late game.

McGill jumped into a 4-0 lead in the second inning of game one and held on until the sixth when the Ravens rallied for six runs to steal the win.

"Six [runs] in the sixth, because that's the way we do it," remarked Hart when the final out was called.

Charlie Crabb plated the sixth Ravens run and then came on in relief and got the save. Matt MacDonald pitched the entire game and Evan Emmond homered in the 7-6 loss.

Sunday (Sept. 25), the Ravens travelled to Montreal where they swept a double header beating John Abbott College 4-3 and 3-2.

The victories improved Carleton's Canadian Intercollegiate Baseball Conference (CIBC) record to 7-5-0, good enough for second place in the Northern Conference standings. Concordia University owns top spot with a 11-3-0 record. The University of Ottawa GG's are 7-7-0 and stand third. McGill at 4-7-0 is fourth and John Abbott is fifth with two wins in 11 starts.

This weekend (Sat., Oct. 1) the Ravens land at Trudeau Field to play a pair against McGill and Sunday return to Ottawa to meet the Ottawa GG's at the Ottawa Stadium to close out the season. The playoff format will pit the first and fourth-place teams against each other in one series, while the number two and three-ranked schools will meet in the "B" semi-final (best of three). The two winners will then qualify for the national championship tournament in Moncton, New Brunswick.

Wouters sisters lead Senior Devils to 41-27 victory over CCVS Raiders

CORNWALL — It was a wonderful offensive effort by the Wouters sisters as the North Dundas District High School Senior Devils handed the host CCVS Raiders a 41-27 loss on the opening day of the 2011 SD&G girls high school basketball season.

Julia Wouters, a Grade 10 student and a second-year member of the senior squad, drained a game-high 23 points for the Devils, while her sister, Olivia, a team veteran, strained a dozen points through the onion bag in last week's (Wed., Sept. 21) tilt at CCVS.

Coach Jevon Groves explained the league schedule still hasn't been finalized so he isn't able to announced the Devils home opener, or even their next game for that matter.

North Dundas wasn't able to recruit a junior girls squad this year.

The Devils held a 13-6 lead on CCVS after a quarter and were up five (22-17) at the half. They carried a 31-23 lead into the final quarter and emerged with a 41-27 victory.

"Our defence forced some turnovers," said Groves. "The offence was okay, seeing we had only one practice before the game."

Julia's 23 points included a pair of long distance three pointers and five (of eight attempts) free throws. Olivia nailed five deuces and a pair of freebies (seven attempts) collecting her 12 points.

Hawks, Heelers hosting 2nd annual Pink Game

WINCHESTER — The Winchester Jr. "B" Hawks Hockey Club and the Winchester Hospital Heelers are teaming up again this year and hosting the 2nd annual Pink Game.

The Pink Game takes place on Saturday (Oct. 1) at 8 pm. The St. Lawrence Division game will feature the undefeated Hawks (3-0-1) and Akwesasne Wolves (0-3-1). Players on both teams will use pink laces in their skates and pink tape on their sticks.

The Heelers will hold and on-site raffle featuring a long list of prizes including a Grand Prize of two 100-level Ottawa Senator tickets, parking and dinner for two at the Senate Club. The $625 prize is courtesy of Adrian O'Donnell, Perely Robertson Hill & McDougall law firm.

All proceeds will got to the Winchester Hospital Heelers 2012 fundraising campaign supporting local cancer care at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

Hawks battle Vikings, emerge with 4-3 victory in division rematch

WINCHESTER — Matt Sarazin, playing in his first home opener as a member of the Winchester Jr. "B" Hawks, capitalized on an opportunity created by Aaron Dickenson and rookie Steven Johnston to give his new team a dramatic 4-3 victory over the Casselman Vikings.

Sarazin, a former Ottawa West Golden Knight, broke up a 3-3 tie at 13:24 of the final frame of Friday night's (Sept. 23) tilt, which was a rematch between the two teams who battled it out for the St. Lawrence Division championship last March — a battle the Hawks won in six games.

It was obvious from the outset that the teams just don't like each other. Referee John Moulton whistled 29 penalties in the second period alone — 16 to the Hawks. Over 60 minutes (the game took three hours to complete), 46 infractions (including 17 misconducts) were recorded.

"It was a good win," remarked Hawks head coach Tom Kirkwood. "We battled hard and showed team grit."

Sunday afternoon (Sept. 25) in Morrisburg the Hawks ripped the Lions 9-4 improving their Eastern Ontario Junior Hockey League record to 3-0-1-0, good enough for second place in the St. Lawrence standings behind the Alexandria Glens (4-0-0-0).

"We have had a solid start, because we are a four-line team," said the coach.

Pink Game

Saturday (Oct. 1), the Hawks and visiting Akwesasne Wolves will meet in the second annual Pink Game. The Hawks and Winchester Hospital Heelers are teaming up to raise funds for the Heelers 2012 fundraising campaign supporting local cancer care at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

Hawks 4 - Vikings 3

Brock Burge potted a pair and Graham Loyst notched a single as the Hawks opened up a 3-1 first-period lead on Casselman.

Winchester Jr. "B" Hawks forward Ramsey Wheeler (left) and Casselman's Derek Widenmaier exchanged pleasantries during the second period of Friday night's (Sept. 23) Hawks home opener. But the middle stanza was anything but pleasant, as referee John Moulton called 29 penalties including 13 misconducts.

Opening night

North Dundas Atom "B" Demons Cam Sherrer (left) and Ethan Guy were flag bearers for Hawks forward Brandon Belding and his teammates as they were introduced prior to Friday's (Sept. 23) St. Lawrence Division game between the hometown Hawks and Casselman Vikings. Sherrer and Guy then dropped the puck between Hawks captain Graham Loyst (left) and Casselman's Rene Lamoureaux. Winchester goaltender Alex Monk (No. 29), his teammates and fans witnessed the unveiling of the Hawks' 2010-2011 St. Lawrence Division and Rideau - St. Lawrence Conference championship banners.

Hawks

The Vikings closed the gap to 3-2 on Marcel Groulx's second period goal and tied it 3-3 when Luc Forget put one behind Hawks' 'tender Alex Monk at 14:46 of the third and set the stage for Sarazin to crack in the winner at 13:34.

Dickenson (2), Ramsey Wheeler, Loyst, Burge and Johnston drew assists for the winners. The Hawks outshot the Vikings 38-35.

Hawks 9 - Lions 4

The Hawks led the Lions 4-2 after 20 minutes of Sunday's matinee.

The home team tied it up 4-4 on second-period tallies by Ryan Dunbar and Alex Steingruber, but found themselves trailing 6-4 after two periods.

Third period shots fired by Josh Stubbings, Brock Burge and Evan Walker locked up Winchester's 9-4 victory.

Stubbings led the Hawks offence with three goals and an assist. Evan Walker potted a pair, as did Graham Loyst. Paul Benard-Corbeil (first Hawks goal) and Brock Burge also struck string.

Rookie Dustin Tinkler collected three assists and, according to coach Kirkwood, played a hard-nosed, power forward game.

Burge (2), Loyst (2), Dickenson (2), Stubbings and Boulanger also earned helper points.

Winchester outshot Morrisburg 44-31 and Monk registered his third victory in as many starts.

Rebecca dePaiva (2), Brianna Geertsma (2), Amber Cotton (1) and Jenna Warren (1) also stretched the string.

Eva Cabrejas (6) and Sam Carriere (4) were the Raiders top point producers.

Devils roster

Coach Groves reports this year's Devils roster includes two Grade 12 students - Olivia Wouters and Rebecca dePaiva, who didn't play last year. He also has five returnees — Sarah Churchill, Lindsay Chambers, Jenna Warren, Erin Elliott and Brianna Geertsma — who are all Grade 11 students. Julia Wouters is also back for her sophomore season. Kaytland Burke (Grade 11), who transferred from Seaway District High, last year, is new to the roster as is Amber Cotton (Grade 11) who recently moved to Ontario from Prince Edward Island.

On the prowl

Alex Beggs (left), Reza Sadeghi, Kyle Milley, and Owen Milne-Elliott were just four of more than 170 students who took part in the annual Osgoode Township High School (OTHS) Panther Prowl on Fri., Sept. 23. The event, which consists of a five-kilometre run or a two-kilometre walk/run through the streets of Metcalfe, was held this year to raise money for a new gymnasium scoreboard. Press Photo — Uhrig

Nationals nip Rockets 2-1

ROCKLAND — A third-period goal snapped a 1-1 tie and lifted the hometown Rockland Nationals to a 2-1 victory over the fledgling North Dundas Rockets.

Saturday's (Sept. 24) loss came in the annual National Capital Junior Hockey League's (NCJHL) four-game Showcase in Rockland.

Brandon Buma set up Kyle Adams for the Rockets' only goal at 18:45 of the second period. Josh DeRouchie and Dave Pulford were the Nationals shooters to beat North Dundas goaltender Shawn Hunt.

"Shawn gave us a solid effort on Saturday," remarked Rockets head coach/general manager Dale Murdoch. "He made some great saves and one spectacular one that kept us in the game."

Murdoch acquired Hunt, a product of the Kemptville minor hockey system who had a tryout with the Winchester Jr. "B" Hawks, from the Brockville Jr. "B" Tikis on Friday (Sept. 23).

Season opener

"Brockville decided to release him Friday and we signed him," said Murdoch who coached midget hockey against his new 'tender several season ago.

"He is a solid goaltender," he added.

This week the Rockets play their second regular season game when they visit the Gatineau Express in Gatineau on Saturday (Oct. 1).

On Sunday (Oct. 2) they will host Rockland in their first home opener at 2:15 pm at the Chesterville Arena.

Murdoch told the Winchester Press that he is still looking at players and will finalize his 20-man roster later this week.

As for the team's inaugural league game he said he finished with 13 skaters and the guys just ran out of gas.

"Our staff never likes to lose but we were pleased with the effort. It was a very close game. We are not disappointed with our play," he said.

First roster

A new season

Here for you now ... Here for your future. Since 1968.

We are 66,000 strong and we have influence.

RTO/ERO is a non-partisan organization and does not support political parties nor endorse specific candidates.

RTO/ERO believes the following are some of the most vital issues facing seniors in Ontario:

HEALTHCARE/AGING WITH DIGNITY

RTO/ERO supports a public health care system that provides comprehensive services for seniors. Our members share the view of most Ontarians that the province's highest priority must continue to be timely access to quality health care.

We believe the provincial government must commit to providing adequately funded programs and services, as well as tax rebates that allow and encourage seniors to age with dignity.

Issues that should be addressed include: incentives to encourage age-friendly communities, social housing/affordable housing, provision of and support for caregiving for seniors and tax rebates for seniors and for those living in Northern Ontario to offset the rising costs of energy and transportation.

QUALITY PROVINCIAL PROGRAMS AND SERVICES

Whichever party forms the Provincial Government following the October 6 election must manage fiscally and responsibly. RTO/ERO, therefore, urges the Provincial Government and all political parties to keep these priorities foremost in mind while responsibly managing to reduce government debt over time.

QUALITY PUBLICLY-FUNDED EDUCATION SYSTEM

RTO/ERO recognizes that the future growth of the province depends on a quality, publicly-funded education system. It is essential, therefore, that a provincial government acknowledges and supports such a system and treats all educators and educational support staff with respect.

RTO/ERO supports the Ontario Teachers' Federation and its affiliates and their members in activities that will enhance the quality of teaching and learning for teachers and students.

We remember and respect those still teaching and working in the schools, colleges and universities in Ontario.

Doreen Summers
September 28, 2008
and David Summers
September 29, 2008
Though tears in my eyes do not glisten,
And my face is not always sad,
There is never a night or morning
But I think of the mother and father I had.
Not a day do I forget you
In my heart you are always here,
For I loved you and miss you
As it ends the third year.
– Your loving daughter, Cathy

In Loving Memory of Grandma and Grandpa Summers
To us you were so special
What more is there to say
Except to wish with all our hearts
That you were both here today.
They say that time heals everything
But we know it isn't so
Because it hurts as much today
As it did three years ago.
– Loved and Remembered
– We miss you so much
– Granddogs: Chief, Justice and Clyde
29

MILNE – In loving memory of our dad, Art, who passed away October 3, 2003.
