BADLY KICKED BY HORSE

Yesterday morning while working around the horses in his barn Mr. William Smith, a farmer living about a mile and a half west of Chesterville, was very severely kicked by one of his horses. He was struck on the side of the head just above the eye, the blow fracturing his skull and allowing a portion of the brain to protrude. He is in a very serious condition.

HEAVY FROST SUNDAY NIGHT

The cold, unseasonable weather prevails still in this section of Ontario and seeding is making but slow progress. Even those who could hardly be classed among the early risers encountered ice when going to their work on Monday morning. Since Monday the air has been very cool and the fur coat has again been resurrected and is much in evidence.

W. I. DISTRICT ANNUAL

The District Annual of the Stormont Women's Institute will be held on Tuesday, May 27th, at Moose Creek, in the new community Hall. Mr. Putman, superintendent of the Ontario Women's Institutes, will be present and address the meetings. A meeting to which the men are also invited will be held in the evening. Everybody welcome. Come and meet Mr. Putman—Mary E. Nephew, Dis. Sec.

DEATH CAME SUDDENLY TO JOHN DURANT

Last Friday just before the noon hour death came suddenly to a well-known man of the community and a a familiar figure on our streets in the person of Mr. John Durant, who passed away almost without warning at the home of his son Mr. M. J. Durant. During the forenoon Mr. Durant had been down town in apparently his usual health until along about eleven o'clock, when he remarked to his son that he thought he would go home and take a little nap. This was not unusual but of almost daily occurrence. Arriving home he laid down on the couch, but in a few moments was noticed by his daughter-in-law to be in distress when she immediately summoned medical aid, but the old gentleman had passed away. He was in his eighty-fourth year and since the death of his wife two years ago, had made his home with his son in town. The funeral held Tuesday afternoon was very largely attended in Trinity Methodist church where the service was conducted by the Rev. W. T. Brown, after which the remains were interred in Maple Ridge cemetery.

MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER

On Wednesday evening, May 14th, the many friends and neighbors (fully three score) gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Carkner, Maple Ridge, to give a miscellaneous Shower, in honor of their daughter Miss M. Irene.

The fact that the rain falling in torrents did not debar the gathering on this occasion amply testified to the high place Irene holds in the hearts of the community.

After an evening spent in music and games Miss Irene was asked to take the honored chair, while Mr. Erle Helmer in his felicitous manner, with a few well chosen sentences conveyed to Irene, the warm regards of all present; their regrets at her departure and their best wishes for her future happiness.

Miss Verna Kittle, assisted by Miss Vera Derby, then unwrapped the many gifts consisting of a full set of aluminum kitchenware, cut glass, silver and other articles, presenting them to the blushing bride-to-be.

Miss Marion Edwards, Winchester, then read an address from the Wobe-lo Class of the Baptist Sunday School regretting the loss of their beloved president at the conclusion of which Miss Anna Carkner presented Miss Irene with a beautiful pierced silver cake plate.

Although almost overcome by the pleasant surprise, Miss Carkner, thanked all in a well worded speech, which though short, was convincing in its whole-heartedness.

All joined hand round and round sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" and "Auld Lang Syne."

As the guests were leaving they all signed an appropriately designed Bride's Book, which we hope will keep the memory of the names enscribed long present with Miss Irene after she is Miss no longer.

Rev. J. O. Baron, Methodist Minister of Finch, will occupy the pulpit of the Morewood Methodist church at both services next Sunday, May 25th, at 11 a. m. and at 7.30 p. m. Rev. Mr. Cooke will take the work at Finch on the same day.

VARS AMATEURS SHOW TALENT

Monday evening in the Music Hall a Chesterville audience was treated to a very fine amateur performance when the dramatic club of st. Andrew's church, Vars, presented the farce comedy "Why Smith Left Home" to a good sized audience. From beginning to end the whole performance had the swing and movement which marks professional performances with good action at all times. The different players were well drilled to their parts and not the least pleasing was the distinctness of their enunciation. The wife of John Smith was portrayed with very much talent and an ease that won the hearts of the audience at the opening scene, but one can hardly discriminate between the cast although one might be pardoned with special reference to the part of the "General" and that of the "cook lady" which were taken with vivacity, not overdone, but well done.

MR. I. LALONDE PASSES AT AGE OF 91 YEARS

Attended by a large number of friends and relatives the funeral of the late Israel Lalonde, who passed away after a brief illness, on Friday May 16th, was held on Monday morning last from his residence to Notre Dame des Anges church, Moose Creek, Ont., where a high funeral Mass was chanted by Rev. Father C. D. McRae. The late Mr. Lalonde was born in St. Stanislaus in 1833 and came to Moose Creek when only a boy where he lived till his death. He is survived by four sons, Israel, and Alfred of North Bay, and Adelard and Abraham of Moose Creek. Eight daughters, Mrs. E. Blair, Ottawa; Mrs. A. Parent, Montreal; Mrs. J. Hurtibise and Mrs. J. Rabillard, Moose Creek; Mrs. W. Kinnear, Cornwall; Mrs. I. Lamothe, North Bay; Mrs. J. J. Dutt, and Mrs. G. Aubin, Berwick. The pall bearers were his three sons, Israel, Adelard and Abraham and three sons-in-law, James Hurtibise, John Rabillard and Joseph Dutt.

TWO IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

In the early hours of Saturday morning last Mr. Harry C. Taylor of New York and Mr. J. A. Ruddick of Cornwall, while motoring from Cornwall to Chesterville, met a very serious mishap in the vicinity of Newington when their motor skidded in the mud and turned turtle in the ditch. Mr. Taylor sustained a broken shoulder and a severe shaking up. Mr. Ruddick was not pinned under the machine and was able to arouse a nearby farmer who rendered assistance in releasing Mr. Taylor and having his injuries cared for, but not before encountering many obstacles. When the farmer was aroused it was found that his auto had not been in commission this season and much time was lost in getting it ready for the road with the intention of conveying Mr. Taylor to the Cornwall hospital. When at last the car sallied forth it landed in a mud hole from which it was necessary to pull it with a team of horses. Eventually everything was straightened away but not until four o'clock in the morning did Mr. Taylor reach the hospital and get the necessary attention.

During the past several weeks Mr. Taylor has become more or less a familiar figure on our streets while representing New York interests in negotiations with the Chesterville Live Stock Association in the buying of cream from this district for shipment to New York city.

To-morrow (Friday) afternoon will be clean-up day in Chesterville. Stores will be closed during the afternoon. Rigs will be provided to remove refuse.

FIRE AT SOUTH MOUNTAIN

Mountain Herald—At seven o'clock Wednesday morning, a fire broke out in the building occupied by Mr. A. McRae as a barber shop and was well underway, when noticed by Chas. Keyes who was going to open his store of business for the day, and who immediately sounded an alarm, which soon gathered a good crowd from town and country, and the contents of the adjoining buildings were carried out on the street. The butcher shop next door, caught and was soon demolished. Mr. H. Cleland's fine brick building caught fire several times but was extinguished, but not before considerable damage was done. The Misses McGinn's home on the west side of the butcher shop, where there was only a few feet between the buildings, was badly scorched, and only saved by the good work of the Bickle Fire Engines, and some of the men, who were on the roof, pouring on water with pails. These little engines are a splendid fire fighting apparatus and we consider our town should be equipped with at least two more for future protection.

Mr. J. S. Anderson owned the two buildings that were destroyed and only had a small amount of insurance.

The men worked hard and deserve the highest praise for the way they managed to quench the blaze, which threatened our town.

MOTOR HITS POLE OCCUPANTS ESCAPE

A serious accident was very narrowly averted near Perth when a car belongng to Mr. Hunt, of Smiths Falls, in which were five other passengers was speeding towards Lanark when something went wrong with the gas control and the car got out of hand. In making the turn at Greenley's Corners the car turned too sharply and ran into a telegraph pole snapping the pole off near the base and damaging the front portion of the car considerably. The occupants of the car got a bad shaking up but no one was seriously injured largely owing to the fact that the bumper in the front of the car lessened the force of the impact to a considerable extent.

HIS WIFE ASKS QUESTION THAT NEARLY KILLS FAMILY

While driving on the highway yesterday a Woodstock motorist, accompanied by his wife and three children, met with an unusual accident. When he reached for his watch to tell his wife the time he lost control of the car. It left the highway and crashed into a gate opening to the C.P.R., breaking the gate and plunging over a sharp embankment to the tracks. A freight train only a short distance away had to be brought to a standstill until the auto, which was badly damaged, was removed from the tracks. The occupants of the car escaped injury.

CANADIAN CLAIMANT TO IMMENSE FORTUNE

A claimant to the huge fortune of something like $14,000,000, which was left by the late Gilbert Gagnon, who died at San Bernardino, Calif., about thirteen years ago, and whose lawyers are searching for legal heirs, has been discovered in Mrs. Sophie Deslauriers, nee Gagnon, of Messines, Que., according to word received here to-day.

Mrs. Sophie Gagnon claims to have been a daughter of Mr. Maxienne Gagnon, who was a brother to the late millionaire, who formerly lived at Plantagenet, Que.

Mrs. Deslauriers declares that letters and other papers in her possession establish her identity as a niece of the dead millionaire, by his eldest brother, and is endeavoring to get in touch with the proper authorities in San Bernardino in order to establish her claim to a share in the big estate.

TIGHTWAD HUSBANDS

In the marriage vows the little band of gold placed on thebride's finger by the groom is the pledge that the husband has endowed the wife with all his wordly goods, that she has an equal interest in them. Yet, with many who say, "With all my wordly goods I thee endow," the words meannothing, and every dollar spent by the wife in personal adornments or conveniences about the house is grudgingly given, and we dare say if some wives of this community spent as much for sweetmeats and bonbons and ice-cream sodas as their husbands do for tobacco each year, there would go up a howl you could hear for miles from the husbands with extravagant wives. Now, we believe when a young man asks a young woman to become his wife, and the relationship is consummated in marriage that the wife has an equal share in the finances of that home. Many wives slave and work for their life time for their board and clothes. Where you find one extravagant, you will find ten careful and economical.

MAMMOTH HOLSTEIN STEER

W. S. Hemby of Lansing, Michigan, has the distinction of owning a steer which is reported to be the largest in the United States. The animal, a grade Holstein, weighs over 4,300 pounds, stands 18½ hands high and has a girth measurement of 10 feet 7 inches.

TRANSPLANTING WEEDS

Never use the disc harrow in working land infested with sow thistle, that implements cuts up and spreads the rootstocks; the duckfoot cultivator is the best implement for discouraging the weed.

THE CAR IS SAFEST SPOT DURING STORM

The motor car is the safest place in the world in which to be during a thunderstorm, as there is no case on record of an automobile being struck with lightning. This is due to the fact that the rubber tires act as nonconductors, and unless the car is submerged in water, or the tires deflated so that the rims form a contact with the ground, there is not the slightest chance of a car being struck by lightning.

AUTOS CARRYING LIQUOR WILL BE CONFISCATED

Confiscation of all motor cars being used for the unlawful transportation of liquor will be urged by License Inspector Howard Graham of Ottawa. The inspector announced in police court Saturday that in future he will not be satisfied with only the fining of motor bootleggers. Wilfred Lovers, Cardinal, Ont., was the first to suffer under this ruling, having to pay a fine of $500 and his car in the bargain. He pleaded guilty to a charge of illegally transporting liquor on the highway.

WARN MOTORISTS BEWARE UNVENTILATED GARAGE

In view of the fact that a number of deaths of motorists have recently occurred, due to carbon monoxide poisoning from the exhausts of motor cars in unventilated garages, the Ontario Safety League have issued the following directions for reviving a person so overcome.

When a man is overcome by gas, remove him to fresh air quickly and send for a doctor. In the meantime, keep him comfortably warm and do not allow him to become chilled—keep him warm at all times. A chill may cause a strain on his already weakened condition and may cause pneumonia or death.

If patient is even slightly gassed he should not be allowed to make any exertion. If he must be moved, carry him. Keep the patient lying down. To walk him around may injure his heart or even kill him. Keep him quiet.

If patient is unconscious, place him prone (on the floor face downwards). This will help to keep his tongue out of his throat. If he is not breathing or if his breathing stops, start prone pressure method of artifical respiration at once. After consciousness returns, turn him on his back, if more comfortable, but keep him lying down for at least six hours.

Do not give artifical respiration if the patient is breathing. Keep a carefut watch to see that he continues to breathe—he may quit at any time.

Give patient oxygen if at hand.

The need of taking every precaution to ensure proper ventilation when there is any danger of carbon monoxide fumes being encountered may be realized from the fact that four one-hundreths of one per cent. in the air will kill in a few hours; one per cent. in a few minutes.

CHANGING HABITS

Belleville Intelligencer—How many of the present generation have ever attended a husking bee, a clam-bake, a quilting bee or enjoyed the thrill of a hay-rack party? And the answer is, "Not many," because these old time institutions are passing, or have passed, apparently unable to survive in this gasoline-soaked era of hurly-burly. It is a matter of genuine regret. They were Meccas of the convival, cementers of a type of friendship rarely encountered today, which prompts the query: Is civilization begetting selfishness? People unquestionably are keeping more to themselves. Apartment dwellers, right here in Belleville, may live for years in the same building with other families without ever knowing each other.

EX-PREMIER ATTENDS UNIQUE FUNCTION

The Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen was present in Perth Saturday at one of the most unique functions ever carried out in the vicinity when A. Meighen and Bros. Ltd., celebrated their 75 anniversary. The celebration took the form of a mammoth birthday party. A number of the prominent young ladies of the town helped with the serving of tea and were dressed in very becoming dresses of years ago, one of the costumes dating back to 1848. The central decoration was a five storey birthday cake beautifully designed by one of the foremost bakeries in Ottawa. Every guest at the party was presented with a piece of this cake as well as having their choice of many other dainties. An orchestra added to the pleasure of the affair. As a social function it was also a great success, those who attended numbering many of those prominent in all walks of life in the town and countryside. The Rt. Hon. Mr. Meighen graciously consented to act upon the reception committee, as it was a near kinsman of his father who founded the firm.

PNEUMONIA

Pneumonia, formerly miscalled inflamation of the lungs, is of two kinds—logar and lobular, or broncho-pneumonia. Lobar pneumonia is the form usually meant by the unqualified term. It is a general disease caused by the presence of one or another of a number of germs, but, as in diphtheria, in the eruptive fevers of childhood and in typhoid fever, we find besides the general symptoms, other symptoms that affect a special part—in pneumonia the lungs. The air cells in one lobe of one lung or perhaps in both become filled with an exudation that renders that part of the lung useless for breathing.

The acute disease begins usually with a chill, or in children perhaps with convulsions, and almost at once the temperature rises, the face is flushed, the breathing is rapid, and there is severe headache; but the pulse, though fast, is not so fast as it usually is in other diseases with high fever. A constant symptom in the beginning is severe pain in the form of a "sutch in the side," excited by movement, by a deep breath, by coughing or sneezing, or even yawning. In some cases the pain is not centred in the chest, but may be felt in the neck or in the abdomen. When the pain is referred to the right side of the abdomen the disease may sometimes be mistaken for appendicitis, but in such a case the right side of the chest will be seen to move less as the patient breathes than the left side moves.

As the disease progresses signs that the lungs are impaired become more pronounced. The respiration is rapid and shallow because of the pain excited by deep breathing. In a typical and not severe case the pulse rises to about one hundred or even to a hundred and twenty, but it may be much more rapid in dangerous cases. There is considerable cough that at the beginning is extremely painful, and the patient makes every effort to suppress it. The expectoration is thick and viscid and usually blood-stained at the start but becomes creamy and thinner as the disease subsides. In a favorable case a sudden fall of temperature with signs of general improvement (called the "crisis" will occur in about a week; but sometimes the disease subsides gradually (called termination by "lysis"). The pain calls loudly for relief, which may be given with an ice bag, or preferably with a mustard plaster.

The specific treatment is by means of vaccine varying with the special germ in each case, or by creosote, quinine or other medicines that have seemed to show curative value in certain cases.

Oxygen inhalations may be necessary at the height of the trouble. Good ventilation of the sick room to assure an abundant supply of air that is fresh but not too cold is essential.

Drive on, James!

The taxi suddenly came to a halt in the middle of the street.

"What's the matter?" called the man from the back seat.

"I thought the young lady said 'stop,'" answered the chauffeur.

"Well, she wasn't talkink to you."

No Hand Job

FIRM BELIEVER IN THE FRUIT TREATMENT

MRS. LAURA ALFORD

Thousands of people owe the splendid Fruit Medicine—"Fruit-a-tives"—a lasting debt of gratitude, which they gladly pay by testifying to its merits.

Mrs. Laura Alford of 28 Florence St., Ottawa, says: For years, I was a martyr to Constipation and Dyspepsia. I have tried cathartics, salts and so-called vegetable laxatives but all were unpleasant and gave no permanent relief. Finally, I decided to try "Fruit-a-tives". I have been using "Fruit-a-tives" now for seven years; never have Constipation or Stomach Trouble; and have been in the best of health ever since. My husband and children use "Fruit-a-tives" regularly".

"Fruit-a-tives" contain intensified fruit juices combined with tonics.

AN ARTISTIC LIAR

Cash Reywas, who lived in one of the western counties of Maine, had the reputation of being the most artistic liar for many miles round. The stories that he told, writes a correspondent, were never vicious and never injured anyone, but they were certainly remarkable. His friends were uncertain whether he really believed them himself, so confidently did he tell them, so careful was he in giving details. One winter evening while the neighbours were gathered around the stove of the village store he told how he had crossed a body of water known as the Gut, a narrow passage that separated two lakes or perhaps two parts of the same lake.

"One morning five years ago," he began, "I wanted to get across the Gut. Fact is I had to get across, for Jim Stone's wife was awful sick, and I had to get the doctor for her. There had been a boat there all the time, and I supposed it was there when I went down, but when I got there no boat was in sight. We'd been having a lot of rain if you remember, and I suppose the high water had carried it off.

"Well it's about one hundred or one hundred and fifty feet across the Gut, and I began to think how I could manage to get over. You know I could never swim. Funny too, for most anything I set out to do I can get the best of, but swimming was too much for me. I says to myself, 'I can't swim, but I'm a mighty good runner, and if I can get down to the bottom of the water I can run across if I can only hold my breathe long enough.'

"So I took off my coat, breathed as deep as I could half a dozen times, filled my lungs up full and went into the water. I walked out up to my neck, but I found I couldn't stay on the bottom. You see, I had filled up so full of air I couldn't sink. Well, at first I thought I was stumped, but then it came to me that if I took a good sized stone in each hand, perhaps they would hold me down and I could make it. So I looked around till I found the right kind of stones, sort of long ones I could get hold of easy. I grabbed one in each hand, got 'em balanced just right, filled my lungs up as full as I could and went into the water again. I got down all over that time, and as soon as I got my head well under I started to run as fast as I could. I had to get across before my breath gave out or I should have drowned.

"Well, I ran as hard as I could till I thought I couldn't hold my breath a second longer. But I got across, and when my head came out of the water on the other side and I could get a lung full of fresh air it did feel good!"

"Some run, Cash," said Big Jim, thoughtfully spitting into the fire. "Did you carry the doctor back the same way?"

"No," said Cash; "he wasn't much of a runner, and his wind wasn't so good as mine. I found a boat on the other side of the Gut and rowed him over. Jim Stone's wife was awful glad to see him and she got well."

On another occasion after listening to some fishing stories Cash said: "My son went fishing the other day in Mutiny Brook. He got hold of a trout that was a whopper. He played him round and got him pretty well up where he could net him, and he was an old sickdolager! He was so big that, if you had to put him into a forty quart milk can, he would have stuck out some. But my son didn't play him quite careful enough, and he lost him. Too bad too! I tell you if I had been there, I would have had that fish if I'd had to tear the brook all to pieces!"

TIME KILLING

Is there such a thing as time to kill? Time—the very thing of which life itself consists—and who, indeed has an hour to slaughter? In the market where ability is bought and sold, today's "dead ones" are but yesterday's crop from the battle of Fool's Hill. Then, in the heyday of their youth, these valiant warriors had time to kill. And today their own drudging minds and bodies wear a bleeding wound for every blow they struck. Killing time. Indeed!

Reader, every hour on the face of the clock is but a mile post nearer the days of your dependency— the days of your old age. Now, in this period of your fullest strength, what are you doing with all the hours between actual labor and rest? Are you, too, killing time? How much each day do you put in on the beilows end of the cigarette? Wht portion between sunset and bedtime do you devote in zealous patriotism to the red, white and blue—chips? How many billiard dents do you put into the cushion while hastening the time when you yourself will be up against it for keeps? How much sole leather do you wear out scraping the concrete in rhythm with the garrulous gossip of Spearmint Lizzie? How much gasoline do you consume just going nowhere and coming back? Oh, yes, of course!—one must have amusement and recreation. They are essential. Deliver us from the poor stick that does not know what fun is. Yes, there is a reasonable time for cigars, refreshment, games, visiting, and all that. But your system is not equipped for kissing the nicotine twenty-four hours in a day; your pay envelope don't hold catnip enough for you to spend all your evenings feeding the kitty; you are too much of a fumbler to down the poolroom bunch; you are a complete fizzle as a human tank, and moonshine is the rankest poison; and as a flirt—well, you know. Stop killing time.

GREAT ONWARD

Standard Bred Stallion

Race Record 2.11¼

Son of Peter the Great, the Greatest Sire in the World

DESCRIPTION

GREAT ONWARD, 2:11¼ is a golden chestnut, stands 16 hands, weighs 1200 lbs., his race record 2:11¼. Has been a mile on mile track in 2:05¼, half-mile track 2:08 and has stepped a half-mile in one minute, and only for an accident to one of his front legs (from which he is altogether recovered) he would have been close to a 2 minute pacer.

GREAT ONWARD as a green pacer cost Mr. A. D. Chaplain of Chatham, $3,000 and was considered the greatest green pacer in Canada at that time. His sire, Peter the Great, at 21 years of age sold for $50,000.00 and stood for a service fee of $1,000.00 until his death.

GREAT ONWARD AS A RACE HORSE

Great Onward started out the season of 1914, a green pacer, winning at Port Huron in 2:12½ 2:11¼ 2:11¼, Saginaw, Mich., in 2:11¼ 2:13¼ 2:12¼, St. Thomas in 2:15¼ 2:15¼ 2.15¼. Had it not been for a slight accident to one of his fore legs, from which he has altogether recovered, Great Onward would have a mark better than 2:04. He is the product of the union of the blood of two great families. Through his sire he traces to Pilot Medium, son of Happy Medium, son of the Great Hambletonian 10; through his dam Mary Onward by Onward, he traces to the Great George Wilkes. The second dam of Great Onward 2:11¼ was Mary Marshall 2:12½, a trotter which was the world's record for her at that time for a three year old in a race, she being campaigned down the Grand Circuit. She became the dam of Nathan Strauss 2:03½ and May Marshall 2:08½.

The fastest recorded Peter the Great Stallion standing for service in Ontario. His sire, Peter the Great, 2:07¼, known as the wonder sire, is in a class by himself as no other stallion near approaches him as a producer of extreme speed. His family are breeding on as his son Azoff 2:14¼ at 2 years, is the sire of Peter Manning 1.56¾, trotting the world's record trotter.

Great Onward himself will become a great sire if given an opportunity. A couple of his colts in Western Ontario better than 2:10. This horse stands in a class by himself in this country, both in regards to breeding and speed. His record was taken on half--mile track in a race.

Will make the season of 1924 from May 1st, until July 13th, at James McAvoy's stable, Chesterville, Ont., at a service fee of $12.00. $2.00 at time of service and $10.00 if mare prove in foal. Mares tried and not returned will be held for the season. Parties disposing of mares will be held for the season charge.

All mares at owner's risk.

CHARLES WESLEY HARRISON, M. A.

Mr. C. W. Harrison, M. A., a former principal of Chesterville High school, passed away at Bratford, Ont., on Monday of this week at the age of seventy-four years. Interment will be made at Dunnville this afternoon.

Bradford Witness—Born in Milton, Ontario, the subject of this sketch was a son of Richard Harrison, one of the earliest of settlers coming from Yorkshire, England, to that region. He obtained his early education in the public and high schools in his native town. Leaving there in 1871 he entered Victoria University, then located in Coburg, Ontario, and graduated in the class of 1875 with the degree of master of arts. From 1876 to 1881 he was principal of Dunnville high school, leaving there to become classics and science master of the Hamilton Ladies' College, and subsequently removing to Sackville, N. B., as principal of Mt. Allison academy from 1885 to 1892. In the latter year he decided to return to his native province, accepting the principalshlp of the Grimsby high school. Whilst located in that garden region he shortly returned to the business of fruit farming. He resigned as principal of the high school and took up the chief industry of that part of the Niagara region, near Grimsby, subsequently becoming manager of the Canada Fruit Company, the successful selling organization of the growers. Later he went to Vancouver but left there about 1916 to supply as principal of Beamsville high school when the principal there went overseas. From there he came to Bradford in 1919, and after two years as principal in Bradford high school he went to Chesterville for a year, keeping his home here and returning here to retire when his health had begun to fail. Mr. Harrison was a Past Master of Union Lodge A. F. & A. M., Past Z Grimsby Chapter, also Scottish Rite Mason, Hamilton. He was on the Official Board of the Methodist church here and a very active worker. In politics he was a staunch liberal. He married Miss Marie Smith, of Dunnville, Ontario, who as Madame Yulisse, is well known in musical circles throughout the world, and who now survives him with two sons, R. L. Harrison, class '04 Toronto University, now chief engineer Niagara, St. Catharines and Toronto Railway and Navigation Company, and Chas. F. Harrison, general manager of the Ted. Browne Music Company, Inc., Chicago. The funeral service under the auspices of Simcoe Lodge, was held in the Methodist church here this afternoon, interment to be made at Dunnville to-morrow. He was seventy-four years of age.

FINDS BIG TURTLE NEARLY CENTURY OLD

The largest and oldest turtle ever seen in this part of the country was on view at a Cornwall meat market last week. While going along the Montreal road just east of the town Medric St. Louis saw what looked like a good sized slab making its way along the road and to his surprise it proved to be a turtle. Mr. St. Louis took his find to Cornwall and hundreds of people have expressed wonder at its size. With the head in its normal position the turtle measures almost three feet from nose to tip of tail. The shell is 16 inches long and a foot wide, and the turtle weighs 25½ pounds. It has an immense head and large, strong legs. From the marks on its tail, it is estimated that the turtle is 99 years old. Where it came from is a mystery. Mr. T. J. Donihee stood on its back after giving it a swim in a big water tank and his weight appeared to have no effect on the creature.

THE WORD OF A GENTLEMAN

One day the old Southerner walked into a banker's office. The Southerner was a typical gentlemen of the old school—suave, courteous to the point of punctiliousness, and honorable to the degree of martyrdom.

"What can I do for you?" asked the banker.

"Well," replied the Southerner, "somewhat more than thirty-five years ago I lent a man down South some money—not a very big sum. I told him that whenever I should need it I would let him know, and he could pay me the money. I need some money now, so I shall let him know, and I should like tohave you transact the business for me."

"My good friend," replied the banker, " you have no claim on that money. You can't hold that man to that loan. You say it has been thirty-five years since you lent it to him? The statute of limitation has run against that loan years and years ago."

"Sir," replied the Southerner, "the man to whom I lent the money is a gentleman. The statute of limitation never runs against a gentleman."

So the banker sent for the money, and within a reasonable time thereafter the money came. There was a courtly gentleman at the other end of the transaction olso.—Epworth Herald.

ROD AND GUN FOR MAY

The beauties and advantages of Ontario are stressed in the special Tourist June issue of Rod and Gun in Canada. In addition to a description of Ontario's tourist attractions and various points of beauty in the province, with suggestios for summer camps and trips, the stories in the magazine deal with fishing and camping in Algonquin Park, with timber surveying in northern Ontario and hunting and out-of-door stories in other parts of the province. Of special interest this month will be the story of the Le Pas Dog Derby, which has been written by M. U. Bates, who was Rod and Gun in Canada's special representative at this picturesque event. BEAUTY BRINGS BUSINESS

"Say It With Flowers" has been one of the greatest advertising phrases ever coined. It has been the means of selling millions of dollars worth of flowers. "Beauty Brings Business" may perhaps become one of the greatest advertising phrases. It may even supersede the former, for it is a phrase which may be employed not only by florists but in almost every branch of human activity which has for its object the drawing of human beings to any given spot, either for purposes of trade, pleasure, or because of dire necessity.

Hotel keepers, hospital boards, church boards, boards of education, town councils, realtors, householders, sick and poor and even governments, if they would stop to ponder for a moment over the words, might perhaps find that lack of beauty is a thing not only derogatory to business, but also to happiness.

Human beings are attracted by beauty. Hotels of which the surroundings are beautiful by shrubs and flowers during the season, will get the tourist. The outside being all right, the inside will be in keeping, he will say. Towns which are beautified with wide boulevards and beautiful home surroundings will attract considerably more people as a rule than towns of a similiar size and unbeautified. As soon as a town starts to clean up, it is a sign that it has commenced to grow.

The home that has cleanly and improved envirous will sell more quickly and to much greater advantage than one of similar size unbeautified. Not only so, but the inmates will be all the happier and thus more satisfied as a result of their association with the beauty.

Hospitals with beautiful lawns, shrubs, flowers and a few shade trees, are more desirable places for the sick than those institutions with hard clay or dirt courts or yards. Such places are actually not fully sanitary, as the dirt will blow into the rooms. Apart from this, the stifling heat of Summer will radiate around the balconies where the unfortunate sick have to lie. Green lawns will not radiate the heat, but will absorb it; there will be no dust. The writer believes that to beautify hospital grounds is a great investment, not so much because it will bring more business, but that the sick would become well more quickly through the association of cheerful and beautiful surroundings. "Beauty Brings Brightness" as well as business.

Boards of Education, all of them, should give a thought to the condition of the school grounds. What is a school? For what purpose does it exist? As educational establishment, to educate. Then let us begin right by educating the children, whose minds are still in the receptive stage, to the fact that beauty has a purpose as vast and immeasurable as life itself. That it is a sign of the advancement of the human race, the indication of the highest point to whicr civilization has attained. Jewelers are educated to the value of beauty in portraiture anu beauty in other forms of painting. Musicians to certain beauties and values in harmony. School children are not educated, as a rule, to the value of the greatest of all beauty—the living beauty—nor of its purpose. The most beautiful schools indicate the farthest advanced in our educational methods, just as the adornment of towns and habitations indicate the progress made by the citizens in the age to which they belong, everything else being equal. Beauty will bring brightness even to a school, and through association with at least many of the children will learn to love and to respect the beautiful things ofthe Creator's handiwork.

"Beauty Brings Business" to the farmer, and will also brighten his life and that of his family. It is more important to have a farm with which you are satisfied, and a home in which the folks are happy, than to have the finest pen of hogs or the finest field of potatoes in the country. We've been too busy teaching that the production of hogs, butter, milk and eggs and similiar products is paramount to the farmer. It isn't! The happiness of the farmer's wife is the paramount thing for she is the life and love, and happiness and all other virtues rolled into one, as a rule. Make her happy and her happiness will radiate through the home and enter into the community. Give her a little of that money you've [illegible] Farmer, to buy a few [illegible] man's heart is the power which keeps the machinery running, and which has helped you to earn every dollar which you possess. Your wife is a wonderful woman. Your daughter will be likewise one day when she becomes somebody's wife. Give your wife the home that you expect the other fellow to give your daughter, and soon every farm in this old province will become a model one in every respect. "Beauty Brings Business"—it also brightens lives which otherwise may be dull and sunless. It will pay all of us to brighten the lives of our friends.

The writer knows a farm where silver black foxes are sold; its fences are clad with climbing roses; he also knows that the roses attract dozens of motorists, who pause awhile to enjoy the beauty; that is the time some of the foxes are sold. He also knows of a chicken farm with beautiful frontage; again beauty is responsible for selling chickens and eggs. He has also heard of a fruit stand along a well known highway which ornamented by means of flowers has enabled the owner to attract more customers than any two of her competitors. The owner is a young lady. And we should judge that she is beautiful.

TWO TERRIBLE FELLOWS

Two old soldiers, says the Argonaut, who wore marksmen's badges conspiciously displayed and who had seen service in the trenches during the war were exchanging "tall" stories about their exploits. Said the first:

"I was detailed to deal with a German who had given our chaps trouble for days. Locating my man, I fired just as the German blazed off at me. Nothing happened. I kept firing at the German, and apparently he kept shooting at me, with no result. At last midway in No Man's Land a small hillock was seen rising; eventually it obscured our view. It proved to be a heap of lead. So true had been our aim that the bullets had met in midair and dropped harmlessly in the same spot!"

Up spake the other: "I was told off to settle two Germans, but I only had one round of ammunition and could get no more. So I stuck my bayonet in the ground in front of me and aimed at the tip of the blade. The bullet hit the bayonet, split it in two, and each half killed the German it was intended for."

A Remarkable Egg

A hen belonging to Mrs. Thomas Hayden, Landsdowne, outdid herself when she produced a three-in-one egg. When Mrs. Hayden broke an egg of unusual dimensions she found inside the outer shell another complete egg, shell and all, and inside that another complete egg but minus a shell.

TO SMOKE OR NOT TO SMOKE'

THAT is the question which has been causing deep thought and raising piles of reports and correspondence among Canadian Pacific officials who have to do with the operation of observation cars on Trans-Continental trains during the last few months. At various times previous to the war, smoking in these cars was permitted, sometimes only for cigars and cigarettes and then again even for the odorous pipe itself. During the war smoking was a luxury which many were willing to forego, and the observation cars were free from tobacco, but after the war the demand for permission to smoke in these favored precincts increased to a noticeable degree, the requests coming not only from men but from ladies, as the cigarette habit has undoubtedly grown among the fair sex. The pressure of this public opinion became so pronounced that it was decided to experiment once more and to allow smoking in this part of the train, although it was admitted that the trains carrying such cars had also sleeping cars each with its smoking compartment. Public opinion, however, is a fickle thing, and the demand has grown to exclude the human volcanoes from these cars. Some of those who originally urged the granting of the permission are now requesting its withdrawal, evidently finding that the practise is not quite so delightful as the theory of perfect freedom. In its desire to give the greatest satisfaction to as many as possible, the Canadian Pacific has therefore decided to conclude the experiment for the time being and, commencing April 15th, to request the smokers to enjoy the society of Lady Nicotine in the smoking compartments and smoking cars expressly provided for the purpose.

Your Home

"I COULD just sit right down and cry!" Mrs. Stephens was disappointed—bitterly disappointed—for her home, the spot in which she took such pride; the home she had tried to make so cheerful and pretty, stood before her like beggar's rags.

It was the same old story—"Cheap Paint"! There it was—the surface, that should have reflected the joy and cheer she had anticipated, was scaling, cracking, and unkempt. A total loss—and more, a disappointment.

We found that she had used 6½ gallons of a so-called cheap paint, for which she had paid $26.00. Had she bought Lowe Brothers "High Standard" Paint she would have required only 4 gallons. It would have cost her $23.00. She would have saved $3.00 on the job, and would not then have been on the verge of tears.

DRUMMOND FARM IS SCENE OF SEVERE FIRE

There was a very disastrous fire about eight miles from Perth on the ninth line of Drummond at the farm of Mr. Geo. A. Graham, a prosperous farmer of the district on Sunday evening about 7 p.m. Twelve cows being burned as well as a large barn and byre, 150 bushels of barley, 150 bushels of mixed grain, four tons of hay and a few loads ofstraw. His farm implements were also destroyed, in fact all that was saved was his horses and half a set of harness. Mr. Graham had just finished milking and had begun to separate the milk when there was a flash of lightning and the barn was struck. The fire spread so quickly that there was no time to get any of the stock out but they were fortunate in being able to get the horses out before the fire spread to the stable. The loss on buildings is estimated at $3,000, with $900 insurance; produce, $440, insurance $200; livestock $675, insurance $600; implements about $200, insurance $100.

DRAGGED BY RUNAWAY .AUTO VETERINARY EMERGES UNHURT

Dr. W. P. Ellis, veterinary, Holstein, survived, without injury, a peculiar experience. Answering a call from Archibald McPhee, who had a horse severely injured in a runaway, he left his car in high gear at McPhee's barn, being informed that the horse was back in the field and that he could motor there, he cranked his car, which at once leaped forward.

The doctor grasped the bumper and was dragged beneath the car as it jumped through a gate, over a pile of wood, then turned and struck the driving shed. All the while the doctor was trailed beneath the car. When it stopped he crawled from under and when Mr. McPhee asked him if he were hurt, replied, "Where is the horse."

DENIES METHODISTS .SEEKING TO GOBBLE UP PRESBYTERIANS

Protest against the "insinuating and insulting language" employed by members of the Anti-Union faction of the Presbyterian Church in regard to the Methodist attitude towards union was lodged at the meeting of the Brockville district Methodist Church by the chairman, Rev. G. W. McCall, who denied the assertion that the Methodists were attempting to "gobble up" the Presbyterians. He further scored the lobbying tactics employed by both Anti-Unionists at Toronto and Ottawa.

Rev. A. S. Cleland, Spencerville, was elected chairman of the district for the ensuing year.

— RULES OF SAFETY

The following rules for motorists and pedestrians are suggested by the Automobile Club of Southern California:

Learn to drive well before starting out alone, don't speed, always be prepared to make a quick stop, slow down to five miles an hour at railway lines, never pass a car to the right, don't monopolize the middle of the road, when turning hold out your hand during the last fifty feet traveled, don't be nervous and keep at ten miles an hour if necessary until you are supre of yourself.

Pedestrians are urged to be on the alert at all times, don't be in a hurry to cross the street—play safe. Remember that it is better to be a few minutes late than never to arrive at all.

Don't cross the street in the middle of the block, don't dart out from in front of or from behind a car parked at the curb, don't depend upon the motorist to see that he does not hit you. This is a 50-50 proposition. Don't star-gaze while crossing the streets. Remember that you have your share of responsibility in accident prevention.

THE FACE ON THE BAR ROOM FLOOR

'Twas a balmy summer evening, and a goodly crowd was there,
Which well nigh filled Joe's bar room that stood upon the square,
And as songs and witty stories came through the open door,
A vagabond came slowly in and stood upon the floor.

Where did it come from? Some one said, the wind has blown it in,
What does it want? another cried, some whiskey, rum or gin.
Here Toby! sic him if your stomach's equal to the work,
I would not touch him with a fork, he's as filthy as a Turk.

This badinage the poor wretch took in stoical good grace.
In fact he smiled, as though he thought he'd struck the proper place.
Now boys, I know there's goodly hearts among so good a crowd,
To be in such good company would make a deacon proud.

Give me a drink that's what I want, I'm out of funds you know,
When I had cash to treat the gang this hand was never slow,
What! you laugh as if you thought this pocket had never a sou,
My boys, I once was fixed as well as any one of you.

There thanks, thats braced me nicely, God bless you one and all,
Next time I pass this good saloon I'll make another call—
Give me a song, I can't do that, my singing days are passed,
My voice is gone, my throat worn out, my lungs are going fast.

Say! give me another whiskey and I'll tell you what I'll do.
I'll tell you a funny story, and a fact I'll promise too.
That I was ever a decent man not one of you would think,
But I was some four or five years back, say, give me another drink.

Fill her up Joe, I want to put some life into this frame,
Such little drinks to a bum like me are miserably tame,
Five fingers there, that is the score, and corking whiskey too.
Well boys, here's luck, and landlord, my best regards to you.

You've treated me pretty kindly boys, and I'd like to tell you how
I came to be the dirty sot you see before you now.
As I told you once I was a man, with muscle, frame and health,
But for a blunder, might have made considerable wealth.

I was a painter not one that daubed on brick or wood,
But an artist and for my age was rated pretty good,
I worked hard at my canvas, and was bidding fair to rise,
Till gradually I saw the star of fame before my eyes.

I painted a picture, perhaps you've seen 'tis called the Chase of Fame;
It brought me fifteen hundred pounds, and added to my name,
And then I met a woman, now here comes the funny part,
With eyes that petrified my brain and sunk into my heart.

Why don't you laugh? 'Tis funny, that a vagabond like me,
Could ever love a woman and expect her love for me,
But it was so, and for a month her smiles were freely given,
And when her loving lips touched mine, it carried me to Heaven.

Boys! did you ever see a girl for whom your soul you'd give?
With a form like Milo's Venus, too beautiful to live,
With lips that would beat the Kohinoor and a wealth of chestnut hair,
If so, 'twas she, for there never was another half so fair.

I was working at a portrait one afternoon in May,
Of a fair-haired boy, a friend of mine who lived across the way,
And Madeline admired it; and much to my surprise,
Said, she'd like to know the man who had such dreamy eyes.

It didn't take long to know him, and before a month had flown
My friend had stole my darling and I was left alone,
And before a year of misery had passed above my head
The jewel I had treasured so, had tarnished and was dead.

That's why I took to drink, boys. Why! I never saw you smile.
I thought that you would be amused, and laughing all the while.
Why! what's the matter friend, I saw a tear drop in your eye,
Come, laugh like me, 'tis only babes and women that should cry.

Say! if you give me another drink, boys, it will make me glad,
And I'll draw right here, the picture of the face that made me mad.
Give me that piece of chalk with which you mark the baseball score
You shall see the lovely Madeline upon the bar room floor.

Another drink, and with chalk in hand, the vagabond began
To draw a face that well might buy the soul of any man.
And as he added another lock upon the shapely head
With fearful shriek , he rose, and fell across the picture dead.

Much Worse

It was toward the end of a theatrical performance when one man turned to another and said in a harsh, grating voice: "Look here, you have sat on my silk hat. It is ruined."

The other looked at the silk hat. It was indeed a wreck. I am sorry," he said. "This is too bad; but," he added, "it might have been worse?"

"How might it have been worse?" exclaimed the first man angrily.

"I might have sat on my own hat," came the unfeeling reply.

Recipes

Tested and approved

(The Record during coming weeks will publish recipes in this space, that have been approved by members of the Women's Institute)

PRUNE TOAST

Fry thin slices of bread a nice brown in butter. Remove toast and add more butter and some prunes that have been cooked and sweetened and stoned and cut in bits. Stir over the fire a few minutes. Put in spoonfuls on the toast and serve hot.

—o—

BEEFSTEAK

Take round steak 1½ inch thick, into which pound as much flour as you can. Fry brown on both sides in butter. Add 1 tomato or its equal in canned tomatoes and one onion, pepper and salt and water to cover. Cook slowly for two hours. Thicken gravy with flour.

Cut this out and paste it in a suitable book with those to follow and eventually you will have a valuable cook-book.

ADDED FEED AFTER FINISHING CEASES TO BE A SOURCE OF PROFIT

Every farmer knows an animal does not keep on gaining weight profitably just because it eats the feed offered it. There is a point beyond which more feed will not yield a profitable return. The appetite may not lag, but the ability to put on rapid or profitable gain does show up as the finishing period is approached. Farmers have known this general truth for a long time, and it has been demonstrated at various experiment stations by animal husbandry specialists. In books on animal feeding there is overwheling evidence that hogs and cattle as they grow older require increasing quantities of feed to put on a hundred pounds of gains, consequently, prices and feed remaining the same, increase steadily.

That farmers have followed these results by marketing animals at an earlier age during recent years has been indicated in reports and comments on the trend of the beef supply The tendency is to produce earlier maturing cattle and to market them at an earlier age. That sheep feeders have recognized the same economnic truth as cattle and hog raisers is evidenced by the almost complete disappearance of the fat wether from the market, the lamb being the market sheep relied upon generally for greatest returns.

Having in mind these general facts regarding the decreasing efficiency of animals as meat producers and the changed practices of farmers and feeders, Dr. W. J. Spillman of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, United States Department of Agriculture, has shown the possibility of applying the law of diminishing returns to meat production with much more accuracy. By the use of experimental feeding data obtained by various experiment stations through actual feeding trials, he has found that the rate of gain of an animal from a certain unit of feed, provided the feed is not changed, decreases with surprising regularity. His analysis was based on the results of 500 hog-feeding experiments and the results of feeding 150 steers. He found that the hogs, after reaching a weight of 100 pounds, on each 200 pound of grain fed them made an average gain of 95.7 per cent. of the grain made on the preceding 200 pounds; and that cattle, after reaching a weight of 800 pounds, made a gain on each successive unit of feed equivalent to 200 pounds of grain 98.2 per cent. of the gain made on the preceding 200 pounds.

These results give the feeder a definite basis for computations on what may be expected from the animals he is feeding. He has known, to be sure, that a given quantity of feed produced steadily less meat as the finishing period approached, but he did not know that a definite percentage for the decreasing rate of gain could be obtained early in the feeding period and used to predict future gains if there is no change in the ration. If changes are made in the ration, as is frequently done by successful feeders, another percentage would have to be established to apply to the new ration.

In the experiments referred to, the hogs, starting with a weight of 100 pounds, made a gain of 45,37 pounds on the first 200 pounds of grain fed to them. The steers, after reaching a weight of 800 pounds, on their first unit of feed (equivalent to 200 pounds of grain), gained 25.26 pounds. Thus, the hogs started off much more rapidly than the steers, but the rate of gain dropped less rapidly in the case of the steers as they take longer to reach the finished period.

It is believed that feeding results on the farm will be found to follow the same law of diminishing returns, although the rates of gain of farm animals generally may not be so rapid as the gains of similar animals fed definite rations under experimental conditions. Of course, the law, as stated, will apply only to animals on a full ration. This fact, however, does not in any way conflict with the principle that equal quantities of feed will show progressively smaller results in gain as the animal reaches the finishing period.

While many feeders understand in a general way from experience the working of the law of diminishing returns as applied to live-stock feeding, it is believed that this more definite knowledge regarding the decrease in rate of gain will enable them to apply it more closely to their business. It is another means for aiding them in determining more accurately when feeding will cease to be a source of profit and when it may be continued longer with probability of profit.

Old Fashioned Families

The Mitchell correspondent of the Stratford Beacon-Herald says that in 1877, forty-seven years ago the population of Mitchell was 2,526 and today it is less than 1800. There are many more houses than in those days, and they are all occupied. One thing that had to do with keeping up the population of the years of long ago in Mitchell was that there were many large families. The writer knows of one street on which there are four houses only a short distance apart and the families of these homes were made up of forty children. In the same four houses now there are three children, and there were many other homes in Mitchell at that time in which there were from eight to twelve in a family.

GETTING A CAR LICENSE

A certain resident of Barrie, who but recently became the owner of an automobile received his application for a car license, to be filled out. The questions on the paper proved Greek to him, as he did not know any more about a car than a bachelor does about babies, so after considerable time spent in vain effort to perform his obligation he threw up the job and went to bed. His troubles in deciphering the slip evidently preyed upon his mind for he had a very vivid dream of having to fill out a list of vexing questions as long as your arm to secure a license for his bus, and the following are a few he remembered. You answer them.

What's the percentage of water in the gas?

Are all four wheels tired, and if so, why?

Did you ever drive with one hand, and who was the girl?

Can you drive when intoxicated? On what occasion did you find this out?

On meeting a smaller car on a narrow road, do you give it half the passage way? Why lie about it?

Does your wife drive from the back seat?

Can your car make fifty miles an hour? How do you know?

Do you meet your instalments regularly, and who holds the mortgage on your home?

What do you call the car —both when its running fine and when it refuses to turn over on a cold morning? —Examiner.
