

Good weather smiles on 106th annual Avonmore Fair

Favored with ideal weather conditions and attracting more than 2500 persons, the 106th annual Avonmore Fair came to a successful conclusion on Saturday night after a two-day show that left everyone satisfied that this year's edition had been "bigger and better" than ever before.

For officials of the sponsoring Roxborough Agricultural Society, the success of the fair came at the end of weeks and months of planning and work; for the exhibitors there was the realization that the physical accommodation for the show was greatly improved and for the visitors and patrons the satisfaction that comes from participation in a fair that is expanding and in a thoroughly enjoyable program. To Miss Ruth Marjerrison, daughter of Mr and Mrs Russell Marjerrison, Avonmore, recently named as Stormont's Dairy Princess, went the honor of sharing with President R. B. Steele in the Official opening ceremony on Saturday afternoon. Mr Steele, in welcoming the large audience, paid tribute to the men who had worked hard in recent weeks in bringing about such improvements as the new cattle barn.

Hon. Lucien Lamoureux, Speaker of the House of Commons and Member of Parliament for Stormont, brought greetings and complimented those responsible for the energy and the organization that go into the planning.

Headlining the entertainment program were The Happy Wanderers, a musical aggregation from Ottawa; local dancers, including Misses Darlene Alguire, Candy McIntyre and Sylvia McMillan; the Bar-B Corral Riddetees from Long Sault, directed by William Barker and the COVS Pipe Band of Cornwall.

There were guest appearances from several groups of Highland dancers who were competing elsewhere on the grounds in a highly successful contest. Some 35 young people from Dalkeith, Cornwall, Alexandria, Glen Roy, and Glen Walter took part. Pipers for the competition were Miss Donna McMillan and David McKillican. Directing the competition were George Sawinski, Cornwall, Gerald Emberg, Moose Creek and Mr and Mrs Alex McCullough, Glen Roy.

It was a real field day for horse race fans with a record number of horses entered in the three races. Stardale Eddie, owned by H. Searle, Morin Heights, P.Q., and driven by W. Hewitt, placed first in a field of eight in the 2.30 class. In the 2.25 class Mr Locke of Long Sault, earned top money with his horse Major Jerry which placed first in the first heat and second in the second heat. Eight horses were again entered. In the final race of the afternoon, Little Cherry, owned and driven by A. Gordon, of Cornwall, placed first. Officials included Les. McCready, of Massena; Carl Armstrong, Lunenburg; Dan Raymond, Finch; and Sessel Wert, of Avonmore.

Highlighting the horse show this year was the appearance for the first time of the English Saddle Class. Top honors went to Miss Roberta Francis, of the Holly Hill Riding Camp, Williamstown; other winners included Mrs Maxime Brunet and Miss Barbara Runions, Martintown, and entries from the Long Sault Bar-B-Corral. This feature proved to be very popular and from the response will undoubtedly be repeated next year and enlarged upon.

In the regular classes top exhibitors were Willis Gallinger, Ingleside; William Servage, Chesterville and John McCrimmon, Dalkeith.

There was a fine showing of ponies. Competition was keen with prizes going to Melvin Waldroff, Newington; Duncan Levere, Winchester; Grant Day, Russell; Ivan Hitsman, Winchester; Roberta Francis, Michelle Barbara Runions, Martintown, and Maxime Brunet of Martintown.

Bonnie Henderson of Avonmore exhibited the winning junior heifer Ayrshire calf. There was a good showing in the Holstein classes with top exhibitors Angus Bilmer, Monkland; Gordon MacRae, Avonmore; Wesley Ferguson, Newington; and John B. Ferguson, Newington, winning the major championships.

Graham's Loaf

The clatter and rattle of silo filling at Eric Casselman's farm at the edge of the business section of town spells the end of the nice Summer weather. Any time now the Fall rains will start and send the chills up and down one's spine in anticipation of Winter.

We were looking ahead to that time last Saturday. The Rideau River Castle needed some battening down and the vice president and this Crumb undertook the task. We had already finished the construction of our cosy duck blind, complete with built-in bar. All that remained there were the sounds of guns on opening morning this Saturday.

The main project was stowing away the oversized device we modestly call the "boat." It is a shade over 17 feet long, wide in proportion and mounts on the stern a cumbersome mess of horsepower that only a chain block can approach with anything less than respect. The thing needed storing for the Winter and the v.p. offered to help.

For a while everything went swimmingly. The boat eased in through the boat house doors in a docile manner, answered to the tug of the cable and slowly mounted the eradle. As the boat rose from the water at an angle, the strain on the winch increased. Guess who was winding the winch? Finally everything came to a gasping halt. The engineering was a little at fault; instead of a thousand pounds of boat tipping gently down to a horizontal position, the whole shebang was pointed up with the bow of the boat in the rafters. We had pivoted the device a bit too far forward.

Any ordinary mariner at that point would have allowed the whole thing to lurch back into the river and change the bite of the cradle axle. We had a better way and it nearly worked. According to our slide rule, a bit of extra weight at the front end would counter the heavy tail or stern. One sees this every day on our streets. So we added the extra weight, the vice president leaned down, this scribe dragged down and suddenly there was no problem at all. The boat was level, a judicious prop here and there would secure the whole thing, and who needs slide rules?

We said almost exactly that to the lady. They were almost famous last words. In an effort to describe how simple the rest would be, we went into our usual arm waving type of description, let go of the boat, and suddenly found gravity had taken over. We flew into the air and ended up in the rafters hanging on for dear life, the boat swished into the classic downhill position and the engine buried itself with a gargle into the Rideau mud. The vice president was not harmed if complete fright is not counted as harm.

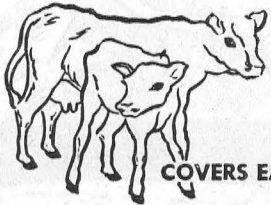

We lowered ourselves out of the timber and looked over the submerged machinery. It just lay there and dared us to try again. A couple of spikes had caressed some of the Crumb pelt in the passage of arms and a dollop or two of blood was beginning to run a bit. The lady was sure the next time around would find worse than a scratch to show for the effort. However we pointed out the only way we ever built the west keep of the Castle was hard work and handy neighbours. At the moment, the neighbours were all away so there was nothing left but to try again.

The boat was finally raised and propped and nailed and roped. It can only move now if the boat house floats away, not an impossible circumstance. In the meantime, we have found several easier ways to store the boat for the Winter. One is to sink the thing and go away. It would be so much simpler.

Coloured or patterned sheets make very attractive summer bedspreads. Dress them up with an easy to iron on applique.

Fire Tuesday evening destroys W. Cross barns

Fire of unknown origin Tuesday evening destroyed the barns at the farm home of Willis Cross on the Ridge Road, just west of the white crossing. The raging flames were out of control when the local brigade arrived. They contained the grass fires that sprang up and held their water in case of a wind change.

Losses included a hunt truck, some machinery and a quantity of baled hay and straw. No animals were in the buildings at the time.

The farm is the former Wellington Ball place.

New construction for College Street

The year of large vegetables

The fine weather we have had all season has brought on a rash of outsized crops including some remarkable fruit and vegetables. Arthur Heagle south of Dunbar arrived at the office this week with a cucumber that measures no less than 27 inches from stem to tip. It is a lot of pickle.

Bernice Wood showed up with a crop of potatoes that would make a New Brunswicker smile. He planted just 32 little Gem seed eyes. From this he harvested and weighed exactly 200 lbs. of potatoes. Some of the spuds weighed in at 12 pounds to the hill. Several were over two and a quarter pounds each.

South Africa admitted 38,319 immigrants in 1965.

Tenders were opened this week following a call for bids on the re-construction of College Street from Church at the Public School to South Street corner. This was to include a new storm sewer on the west side and a tie to the north ditch of South Street. Sullivan Bros. of Chesterville were the successful bidders. They have a four-week period to complete the work following the engineer's contract go-ahead. Mr Jas. Sullivan is confident the work will be completed by the end of October.

Street commissioners of council include Jas. Fyke and Jas. Moran.

OPINIONS ...

OURS AND OTHERS

Today's hungers

For many Canadians the Hungry Thirties are still a vivid memory. Farmers driven from their dry, arid land. Young men riding the rods seeking work.

Since time immemorial hunger has been man's most constant companion. A 13th century chronicler wrote: "It was a bitter sight indeed to see the crying children begging for bread and falling like dead leaves." Today, two out of three of the world's people still have no thought beyond the pain of their stomach's need, and 7,200 children die every hour from starvation.

But for the first time in man's history we see the emergence of a new, collective responsibility that knows no frontier. Foreign governments are underwriting vast aid programs in developing countries. During 1966, our own government will give or loan in the region of 290 million dollars to countries in Asia, Africa and the Caribbean.

It requires time for government aid to filter down to the most needy. Fortunately there are voluntary agencies that operate at grass roots level. One of the best known of these is the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada, founded in 1945. Through the USC, thousands of concerned Canadians have helped countless children who would have died without milk and barley from this country. Clothes donated by housewives from coast to coast have saved many from death on a freezing winter night. Through the USC's foster parent scheme, over 10,000 sick and abandoned children have entered a normal, productive life. This year, the Unitarian Service Committee has come of age, and is now responsible for over 80 projects in nine different countries in Asia and Europe. Stressing rehabilitation as well as direct relief, the USC offers vocational training and scholarships to hundreds of promising indigent students; cares for the sick and encourages self help programs and family planning, always in close co-operation with trustworthy indigenous organizations. In the name of Canada, USC aid goes to those in greatest need, regardless of creed, nationality, colour or caste. Warmly endorsed by the Prime Minister, the USC launched its annual fund raising campaign on September 12 with an objective of $940,000 in funds and gifts in kind. Headquarters of the "Agency with a heart" is at 56 Sparks Street, Ottawa 4.

Who will lead the old parties?

On Parliament Hill there has been much speculation concerning the leadership of the Liberal and Progressive Conservative parties when the time comes for the next federal election. The electorate is in no mood for an election at this time, warns the Cornwall Standard-Freeholder, but in two or three years or even sooner, the situation no doubt will have changed. So will have the leaders of the major political parties, if our informants are correct.

The national Liberal Party executive has called a meeting for this fall in the Capital City. It is presumed the leadership will be the prime issue before the meetings. It is known that Prime Minister Pearson, who is 69, is thoroughly disillusioned with politics, and isn't anxious to continue despite his insistence that he will remain at the head of the party for an indefinite period. That may be so, but it is said Mr Pearson, who has made a great contribution for Canada in the field of diplomacy and has enjoyed a measure of success as Prime Minister, is ready to step aside for a younger man.

It is a recognized fact among political observers that External Minister Paul Martin, a shrewd politician, who has sat continuously in the House as member for Essex West, is in line for the leadership should Prime Minister Pearson leave before his period of office has run out. In fact, Mr Martin is expected to be elected Prime Minister unanimously at any subsequent convention.

The idea appears to be that Mr Martin serve out Mr Pearson's remaining term. At a convention to be held prior to the next election, the post will be wide open. Since the Liberal party has followed the tradition of having as its leader a French-Canadian and English-speaking person on an alternating basis, the party chief for the election to be held in 1967, 1968, or the following year, will be English-speaking. Several candidates for this high office have been named by speculators. Among the most prominent of these have been Finance Minister Sharp, Defence Minister Hellyer, Walter Gordon, former finance minister. A darkhorse candidate frequently mentioned is John Turner, MP for St. Lawrence-St. George, who is only 37. In three years, Mr Turner will be 40, an age considered acceptable for the responsibility of leadership and possible Prime Minister.

The trend to youthful leaders on this continent began with the election of John Kennedy as president of the United States. The trend has shifted to Canada where most electors believe a young man should be at the helm of the major parties.

The Progressive-Conservatives also have some relatively young men who many believe would become a suitable successor to John Diefenbaker. Among these are George Hees, Davie Fulton, Premier Duff Roblin, of Manitoba, who incidentally, is bilingual and other possible candidates from Quebec and other provinces.

It's reasonably certain Canada's next election will see new, young and vigorous leaders at the head of the respective major parties. This is the consensus, no matter whether Prime Minister Pearson's present minority government survives its normal term of office.

The Old Rocking Chair

By Mrs Ella York
Chesterville

There's an old rocking chair at our house. It is over a century old; For the comfort it has given us It is worth its weight in gold.

It's a grandmother's chair from pioneer days. Their work was long and hard; They needed a rocking chair in the kitchen To relax in, when very tired.

It has a long back, to lay back your head, And arms to lean on, to rest; The frame is strong and sturdy, And surely stood the test.

In the kitchen on the farm it had a corner which was warm And many a pair of mitts and socks were knitted there; The rockers they got worn and wouldn't rock just so, They were replaced with new ones, forty years ago.

The children used to use it, as their rocking horse And when we moved from farm to town, we brought the chair of course; We didn't have room in the kitchen, so put it out for a day, But brought it back to the dining room and there it is going to stay.

With all modern furniture, none can compare With the relaxing comfort of this old rocking chair; When we're watching television, or just resting awhile, It has modern furniture beaten by a mile.

We don't know what will happen When we're not here to care, But we hope one of the grandchildren Will prize that dear old chair.

Mr Otto's entire life was spent farming where he was born and raised. He enjoyed good health until a few months ago.

Left to mourn are two daughters and one son, Mrs H. Stephenson (Marguerite), Mrs Wm. Maginnis (Verna), and George Mac Otto. He also leaves six grandchildren and nine great grandchildren.

Funeral services were conducted by Rev Cecil Dawson of Long Sault United Church who brought a very comforting message. Mr Edwin Waldroff rendered the solo "How Great Thou Art," accompanied at the console by Mrs Gordon Ross, both of Newington.

Pall bearers were Glenn Hollister, Morris Sanderson, Sterling Wert, Boyd Brownell, Stewart Hart and John Grandaw.

NEW INDIAN WORKSHOP

An abandoned schoolhouse on the Chippewa Indian reserve 30 miles north of Owen Sound, Ont., has come back to life and now is a thriving means of livelihood for a group of Indian craftsmen.

A year ago four reserve women who had studied silk screening at a training course sponsored by the Department of Indian Affairs, moved into the barren schoolhouse and started making notepaper with Indian motifs.

Now seven Indians work there, putting in an average of 30 hours a week each. Their products are their sole means of livelihood.

Production has now doubled, with new workers and new techniques.

Williamsburg United Church to observe 100th anniversary this Sunday

Williamsburg United Church nearly forty years served as a place of worship for both congregations. In 1866 the Presbyterians of Williamsburg erected a stone church, Et. Andrew's Kirk, and near it a manse, both fine structures which are still in use.

Following church union in 1925, the former Methodist edifice was moved to its present location adjoining the church, and is used as a parish hall. The interior of the church has been tastefully redecorated for this historic occasion in a new color scheme, and the exterior has been repainted. This work has been artistically done by Mr Stanley Wallace, painter and decorator of Mountain and reflects great credit in him and his capable staff. Adding so much to the attractiveness of the church is the Acrilan Rer Carpet, covering centre aisle, front and altar sections, the gift of Mrs. Blanche Locke and of the United Church Women.

The present pastor, the Rev. D. L. Gordon will conduct the services on Sunday, and will be assisted in the evening by Rev. Wellwood Adam, a former minister, and by Rev. J. Leslie Dean, secretary of Dundas-Grenville Presbytery.

The Very Reverend J. S. Thomson, M.A. D.D., LL.D., FRSC of Montreal will preach at both services. His morning subject will be "Our Heritage in the Church" and that of the evening "Facing the Future."

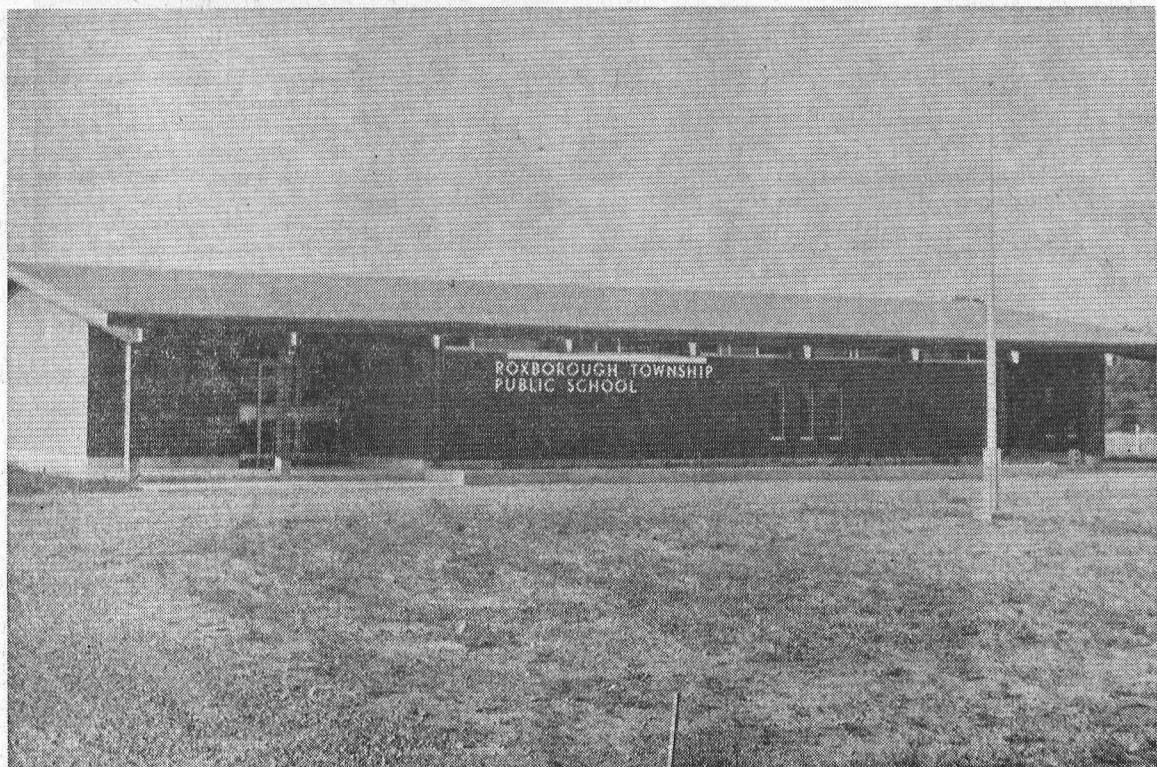

A native of Stirling, Scotland, and a graduate of the University of Glasgow, Dr. Thomson is a former Moderator of the United Church of Canada and is regarded as an eminent church statesman.

The music of the morning will be rendered by the church choir under the direction of Mrs. M. Merkley and Mr. Gerald Adams will be the soloist. In the evening the Bel Canto Male Chorus, under the direction of Mrs. Nevis of Ottawa, will lead the musical portions of the service.

To assure ample accommodations for all who wish to attend, the services of the day will be relayed to the church hall by a Public address system.

Grade Three pupil Elilabeth Brabec has cause to smile as she presents bouquet to her teacher, Mrs. Margaret Jack. Children and teachers alike are delighted with facilities provided in the new school at Moose Creek.

Designed by Sorensen, Thompson, Laframboise and Mallette, Architect and Engineers, total cost of the project was $77,000. General contractor was J. R. Couture Construction Ltd. of Cornwall.

DEVELOP NEW MEASLES VACCINE

The Institute of Microbiology and Hygiene of the University of Montreal recently announced the development of a vaccine which it said could prevent 85 per cent of all cases of measles in newborn babies in Quebec province. Dr. Armand Frappier, director of the Institute, said a number of provincial health departments across Canada have expressed interest in the vaccine. It combines "killed" measles vaccine with the DPT vaccine now being administered to infants to combat or frail to provide long-lasting bat diphtheria, tetanus and protection, Dr. Frappier said.

The vaccine developed by the Institute and currently being tested in use tend to produce unfavourable reactions, are too expensive, he said.

House east of Monkland damaged by fire, Friday

The large farm home of Mr and Mrs Wilfred Leroux, one and one-half miles east of Monkland on Highway No. 43, was heavily damaged by fire last Friday. Cause of the fire is unknown.

The fire, first detected by Mrs Leroux about 3 o'clock, spread quickly from a shed to an adjoining kitchen and from there to the main body of the house.

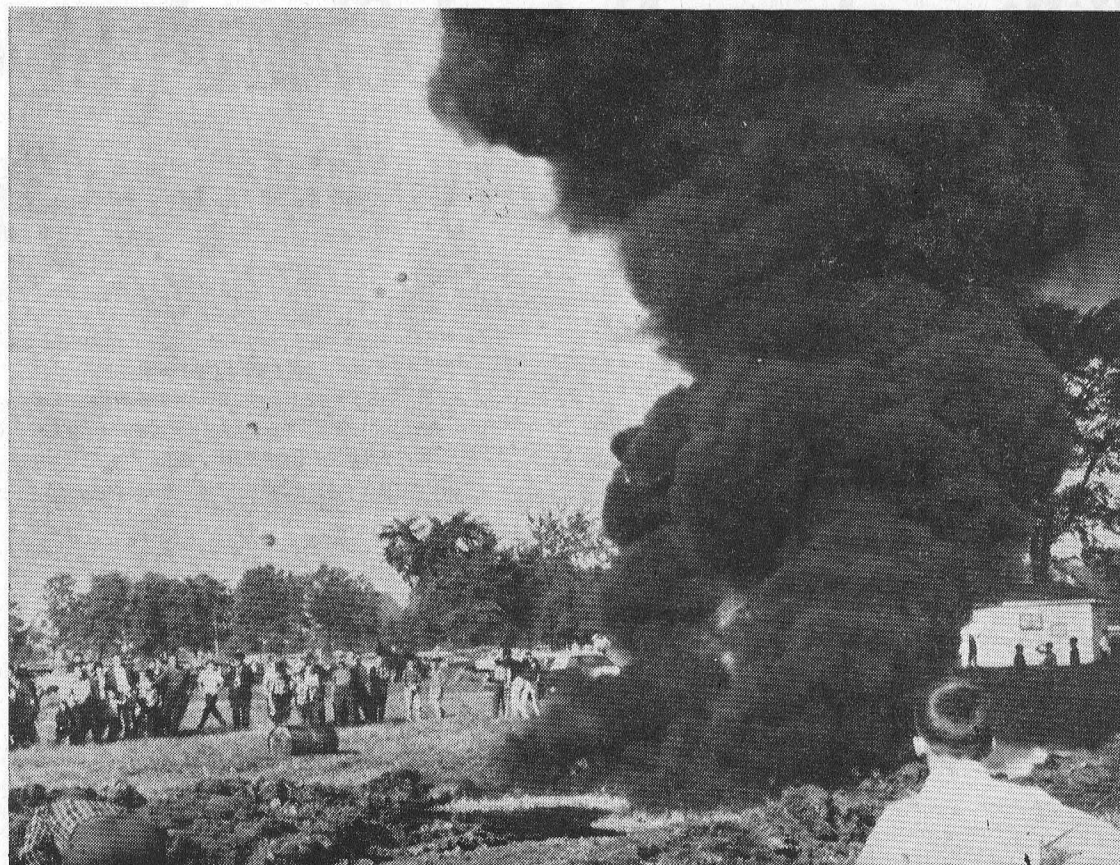

The upper part of the house was gutted but four downstairs rooms escaped the flames. There was a considerable loss of furniture and 400 bushels of grain, stored in the shed.

The three units of the Roxborough Fire Department from Avonmore, Monkland and Moose Creek, responded to the alarm. The first pieces of equipment and fire fighters were on the scene within 10 minutes of the first alarm. Fire officials were pleased with the timing, considering the nine miles distance that the Avonmore unit travelled. Fire chief John E. Miller suffered smoke poisoning and was ordered home to bed.

Equipment remained on the scene until early Saturday morning. Fire officials praised spectators for their co-operation. This was in contrast to the situation last month when efforts to quell a fire were hampered by motorists who thoughtlessly abandoned their cars on roadways leading to the fire scene.

Roxborough Fire Department, under fire chief John E. Miller, drew the attention of fair-goers last weekend at Avonmore. They demonstrated fire extinguishing by modern methods and equipment.—Record Staff Photo.

Centennial show slated for October 31 at N.D.D.H.S.

Centennial members learned Tuesday night that the Portraits of the Past Centennial Show will be staged at NDDHS on Oct. 31. Further details will be made available as the showing approaches.

Hulbert Henderson consented to act as sports committee chairman and he is to work with Paul Monast in a fund raising scheme. It is hoped that at least 36 bowlers can be found to take part in the venture which will be held at the Lanes one Sunday per month during the winter.

Another barbecue is planned with the Youth committee helping in the matter of ticket sales.

Avonmore couple mark 64th anniversary

On the occasion of their 64th wedding anniversary, Mr and Mrs D. P. Shaw were honored at a dinner attended by 14 guests, at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr and Mrs Wesley MacDiarmid.

Two grandchildren, Miss Marion MacDiarmid and Douglas Shaw, had the honor of presenting a corsage and a boutonniere to their grandparents.

Guests included Rev. Donald W. Pipe, who brought greetings from St. James United Church; and Rev. and Fawcett of Winchester. Top Mrs H. S. Cooke, Seeley's Bay showman at the Fair was Allan

On Sunday Mr and Mrs Shaw were dinner guests of Mr and Mrs Donald MacDiarmid, Cornwall.

They were recipients of gifts and messages of congratulation.

ey were Glenn McIntyre, Avonmore and Oran Montgomery, Monkland.

Much interest was shown in the three 4-H Calf Clubs Achievement Day programs. Thirty members of the Avonmore, Sandringham and Strathmore clubs participated before the judge, Allison United Church; and Rev. and Fawcett of Winchester. Top Mrs H. S. Cooke, Seeley's Bay showman at the Fair was Allan Ferguson of the Avonmore Club with Donald Johnston of Sandringham, the runner-up.

Champions in their own classes were Clare Crawford, Marcel Leroux, Linda McRae and Donald Johnston. Winning the championship in the Strathmore Club was Neil Begg. The Sandringham Club won the special, offered by the Roxborough Agricultural Society, with Strathmore and Avonmore trailing in that order.

A highlight of the afternoon's program was the spectacular demonstration by members of the Roxborough Fire Department, under the direction of Fire Chief John E. Miller. Flames from burning oil and gasoline shooting into the air to a great height were quickly extinguished by the use of chemicals.

An interesting "make-up" competition was staged during the afternoon in the main fair building. Winners were Shirley Watkins, Geraldine Waldroff, Donna Duvall and Lee McIntyre.

Students of the elementary schools winning attendance awards were Ruth MacLean, of Finch, Roy Steele, Newington, Sharon Stephenson and Peter Hakvoort of Avonmore. Winners in the attendance guessing contest were Robert Robinson of Avonmore and Mrs George Barlow of Cornwall.

A gala dance in the IOOF hall to the music of The Happy Wanderers on Saturday night was the grand finale for this year's edition of the Avonmore Fair.

Fair house exhibits bring high praise at Avonmore Fair on Saturday

If the fair house exhibit had been the only criterion by which to judge the success of the fair, then the Avonmore Fair would have been an outstanding event. The number and quality of exhibits at this year's show brought delight to fair officials and the many visitors who viewed the displays.

A record number of 17 exhibitors provided much of the beauty with a selection of flowers seldom viewed at a rural fair. Entries were very heavy in all 23 classes. Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge carried off top award for the best display of gladioli. Mrs. James Begg, Monkland, exhibited the prize-winning best single glad. Other top exhibitors included Mrs. W. M. Campbell, Avonmore; Mrs. P. A. MacLean, Maxwell; Mrs. Roy Simpson, Newington; and Mrs. Jake Leonard, Cornwall.

Mrs. George Raymond Long Sault, came first with her basket of flowers suitable for a church. The two-way arrangement of flowers in a basket went to Mrs.

James Begg. Best vegetable display was entered by Roy Simpson. He was also a major winner in the grain classes. Mrs. A. Clancy, Harrison's Corners, came first for her apple products display.

The display cases for the domestic science exhibits were filled to overflowing. It is believed that the number of exhibitors and entries may very well have set a record. An indication of the keenness of the competition can be seen from one special for a loaf of white bread. In that class alone there were 13 entries. Incidentally, winners in that particular case (just in case you might be interested in knowing where to get prize-winning homemade bread) were Mrs. Cecil Canham, Avonmore, first and Mrs. Glenn McIntyre, second.

Competition in all 56 sub-sections of the domestic science display was lively.

Placing high in the number of red ribbons they earned were such well-known exhibitors as

Mrs. Clancy, Mrs. James Zeran, Newington; Mrs. Medi Godard, Chrysler; Mrs. Kenneth MacPhail, Harrison's Corners; Mrs. George Raymond, Long Sault; Peter Alex MacLean, Mrs. W. M. Campbell, Mrs. Stuart Duff and Mrs. Harold Colbran.

Prominent in the ladies' work show were Mrs. Stanley Norman, Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge, Mrs. Douglas Prieur, Mrs. MacLean, Mrs. Zeran, Mrs. Aileen Connelly. Mrs. Norman exhibited the prize-winning pieced quilt.

First prize winners in the special children's section were Randy Burtenshaw, Andrew Mattie, Brenda Henderson, Daphne Wattie, Dianne McElheran, Beth Henderson, Donna Mills, Brent Eamer, Susan McMillan, Marilyn Alguire, Joan Kyle, Richard Bennett, Marion MacDiarmid, Jennifer Rielly, Linda Ferguson and Bonnie Henderson.

For the best 8 by 10 pencil sketch of a business place in Avonmore, honors went to Donna Mills, Muriel MacRae, Cathy MacRae and Susan McMillan.

Bonnie Henderson placed first in a competition calling for a cushion and dresser and scarf set, open to members of the Avonmore 4-H Bedroom Accessories Club. Other winners were Marion MacDiarmid, Linda Ferguson.

1967 PONTIAC

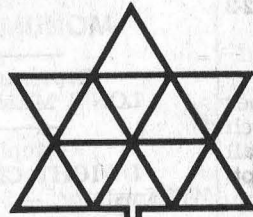

The Grande Parisienne sport coupe (above) exemplifies the new elegance in styling achieved throughout the 1967 Pontiac line, which also includes a brand new series, the big and powerful 2+2, with an international sporting flavour. Luxurious Grande Parisienne has a completely redesigned front end, "hideaway" lights, and sleeker roofline. Popular Parisienne has a new, distinctive, graceful silhouette. The Laurentian and Strato-Chief series feature deep, massive wraparound bumpers, curved side windows and over-and-under headlights. A wide choice of colour-keyed interior trim is available on all Pontiacs. Many important new safety features are standard equipment on all 1967 models. Depending on model chosen, the Astro-Six 155-h.p. and Strato-Flash 195-h.p. V8 (standard on Grande Parisienne) are standard engines for 1967 Pontiacs.

1967 ACADIAN

The trim size and crisp lines of the 1967 Acadian are emphasized by this Canso sport coupe. A number of styling changes enhance Acadian's appearance, including a new grille, new rectangular parking lights set inboard of the headlights right in the grille, a modified deck lid, a new ornamentation and trim. The 1967 Acadian lineup offers three series and a choice of 18 handsome Magic Mirror colours.

Centennial Report

1867 1967

by JOHN W. FISHER
CENTENNIAL COMMISSIONER

What inspires me most, of all Centennial plans and projects, is the fresh, enthusiastic approach of many individual Canadians to our 100th anniversary of Confederation.

At the Centennial Commission we receive hundreds of letters from individuals or families, asking for no praise or assistance, merely telling us about their plans to celebrate the Centennial and offering genuine expressions of their own pride in being Canadians.

It is unfortunate that we cannot do much about the pessimists — the knockers and the moaners. In Canada they seem to get far too much publicity. I think we should try to turn our attention away from them as much as possible and join with those who have positive ideas about Canada's future and, for that matter, the welfare of all mankind.

It gives one a warm, happy feeling to think about the Guignard family from Callander, Ontario, for example, starting off on a world trip in a Model T Ford all decked out with Centennial crests and flags. Their motivation was simply a desire to advertise Canada's Centennial. Mr. Guignard, who is travelling with his wife and daughter, says, "I spent six years fighting for Canada. Why not spend one year advertising it?"

We received a straightforward announcement in a letter from J. Ward Loveys of Dorval, Que., describing his plan to travel from coast to coast during this and next summer.

This summer Mr. Loveys is motoring to Skagway, Alaska, then driving down the Alaska Highway and Mackenzie Highway south-east through the Yukon and Northwest Territories. Next summer he'll complete his Centennial trip with a tour of the Atlantic provinces.

Then there are the two young Canadians, one a native, the other an immigrant, who together are crossing Canada on a 20,000 mile back-roads trip and writing about their experiences, impressions and what they hear from other Canadians who are planning to celebrate Centennial.

One is Paul Page, 26, a forester and painter who was born in Orillia and lives in Toronto. The other is March Chaumard, 27, who was born in Algeria and has been living in Montreal and Toronto since coming to Canada three years ago.

They first discussed the idea of a Centennial trip in Toronto where Paul, a graduate of the Ontario College of Art, has an art studio and where March has been working as a French instructor. They started out with a car and a tent and up to mid-summer, have covered Newfoundland, P.E.I., Nova Scotia and most of New Brunswick.

The Kingston Whig-Standard and the Telegram in Toronto have been publishing writings and sketches they have produced during their travels. What pleases me most of all, of course is that they are stirring interest in the Centennial among all the people they meet.

Without prodding by government agencies and without subsidies, many Canadians are making a great contribution to the Centennial celebrations already. It is their kind of enthusiasm that will make 1967 a success.

It is people like them who will make the future of Confederation a success too.

BETTER HANDLING NEEDED WHEN MARKETING CATTLE

Cattle and carcass buyers attending the Ontario Beef Improvement Association Field Day in July at the Ontario Agricultural College, University of Guelph, offered 150 beef producers a new challenge. Avoid the cuts and bruises to hides and carcasses.

"A cowhide is the packer's most important by-product," stated Mr. Peter Stewart, President of Wicket and Craig Ltd., Toronto. "In other words, the hide is second only to the meat in dollars and cents value to the packer. At the moment, a heavy hide of about 70 lbs. costs the tanner about 5 to 6% of the total price paid for a 1,050 steer."

Unfortunately a clean, unblemished carcass is rare. Brands located in the choice middle of the carcass, holes due to mange and warble grub, and weak points in the hide resulting from bruises, and urine and manure stains are costing feedlot operators, packers, and tanners millions of dollars annually. To have a future large market for leather, quality must be improved. Shoe manufacturers are continually comparing the cutting yield they get from leather to the perfect cutting they get from synthetics.

The head cattle buyer for J. M. Schneider Limited, Mr. G. C. Newton, also advised beef producers at the meeting of the profits they were losing due to carcass damage. "There is nothing worse than seeing a damaged beef carcass, perfect in conformation and finish, but marked with ugly red welts and gouged out pieces making it totally unsalable. When cattle go on feed, they go into a feedlot and are treated like kings. They are needed and pelleted, given ointments, rations, and allowed to scratch their backs with oilers. But how many producers, when shipping out cattle, have ever thought how these beef carcasses will look?"

"For instance," Mr. Newton continued, "the following steps might be taken when cattle are shipped to an auction sale. Cattle are picked up and loaded by a trucker in a pick-up truck and taken to a trucker's assembly yard. They are unloaded and put in a pen with strange cattle, sorted at times by inexperienced help. They are put in pens, often much too small to hold them all, and sorted again. They are left there for a few hours and sorted by the buyer's trucker. They then are loaded into a trailer again with strange cattle and trucked perhaps long distances, unloaded at the packing plant, and sorted and yarded for the final time. It is any wonder bruising takes place?"

"It would be stupid of me to say we can eliminate it all together, because so long as we have livestock that have to be trucked, handled and marketed, we will have these problems. However, the situation can be improved if we both (producers and packers) use the oldest means of communication to exert our influence — word of mouth. Truckers and commission men can't get along without you, your livestock, and buyers with orders. Keep telling these people that bruising costs money and if they can't handle cattle better, you will have to make other arrangements."

a border of tile a few feet in from the edge of the room. For the border colour, choose a hue from draperies or upholstery. Tie together two small rooms by running the same diagonal pattern through both rooms. Visually, both rooms will seem larger.
Brighten the entry inside the front door with bright squares of colour alternating with white. In a modern house, arrange them in a Mondrian effect. Use graph paper measured to the size of the room to help visualize the effect. Fill in blocks with crayons.
It's safer to select fairly neutral tones for large spaces, saving the bright colours for small accent areas. Because resilient tile floors will last for many years, advance planning will re-hall, install tiles in stripes running across the room. These can be in two or more colours and in more than one width in a large area.
The U.S. uses about 700 million pounds of cocoa beans annually. Set off the dining table with nually.
