Separate boards to be unfunded

(Staff) - An unexpected order from the Ontario Supreme Court has effectively blocked further funding to separate schools at the secondary level. The move came on Monday when a judge told the province not to extend $34 million in interim funding to the grade 11 programs in Roman Catholic schools. An expected ruling on the legality of the controversial funding could be as late as February in appearing.

Gilles Metivier, education director for the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Separate School Board, told The Record just before press time "we have absolutely nothing official on this but from the media we understand the ruling could come in January so that's only one month without funding.

Asked if the board could hold out Mr. Metivier said there was no problem in continuing business as usual with the grade 11 classes scheduled this year.

Justice Joseph Pott's ruling means the province's separate school boards will be unfunded for the next three months. The first payment due the boards to fund their high school classes is due in mid-December. That payment will not be withheld. However, Ottawa area school boards plan to continue the year as though money had been guaranteed.

Peter Van Moorsel, chairman of the SD&G separate board, said his board's annual $24 million budget could support the cost of sending its 60 students through the grade 11 level for the next three months until a decision was passed down by Toronto. Any longer than that, said Mr. Van Moorsel, would place a considerable amount of strain on the resources of the board.

Premier David Peterson's government decided to honor former Tory premier Bill Davis' pledge to extend funding to separate schools. The Liberal government has decided to fund grade 11 in the current academic year and proceed with grade 12 next September and grade 13 in 1987. The government has been challenged by diverse groups including the Metro Toronto School Board and the Ontario Secondary School Teachers' Federation. These groups requested the courts freeze funding at once, arguing the February hearings would be pointless if grants were already in place. Justice Potts agreed with this position and has now stopped monies from being channelled to the boards.

Newsbriefs

Fire death

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - Tragedy occurred here early Sunday morning when a 23 year old man died in a house fire. Dead on the scene when police and firefighters arrived was Neil Bursey of 1398 Coulter Place, Orleans. Police say there was no question of foul play.

Police speculate the man died of smoke inhalation in the living room area of the house owned by Melody Durocher, 25. Ms. Durocher was rushed to Hotel Dieu Hospital in Cornwall suffering from smoke inhalation and was later transported to the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

According to the Moose Creek Fire Department the fire was started by a cigarette in the living room area. Firefighters managed to contain the fire to that section of the house located in the centre of Moose Creek village.

Although there were six persons present in the house at the time of the outbreak of the fire four evacuated the dwelling while Mr. Bursey and Ms. Durocher were brought out by firefighters.

Deer killed

INGLESIDE (Staff) - An unlucky deer died on the highway when it was struck by an automobile last Wednesday on highway 2 near here. The car was driven by a Cornwall resident, Raymond Tessier, 67. Mr. Tessier's 1981 Ford sustained $1800 in damage. The Ministry of Natural Resources was contacted by police regarding disposal of the deer.

Donor clinic

WINCHESTER (Staff) - A blood donor clinic will be held Wed. Nov. 27 at Winchester District Memorial Hospital from 2 to 8pm. The hospital hopes to collect 250 units of blood.

Calling all kids

NORTH POLE (Staff) - All kids who want to write a letter to Santa this year should note the correct mailing address for the man in the red suit. Address all mail to Santa Claus, North Pole, Canada, H0H 0H0. Canada Post says this is Santa's home and all letters will be answered. Be sure to include a return address, though.

Cable TV

OTTAWA (Staff) - Chesterville came a little closer yesterday to receiving cable television service in the village. Ottawa Cablevision Ltd. made a strong representation to the Canadian Radio-television and Telecommunications Commission to obtain permission to begin providing service to 14 Ottawa area communities. Locally the company wants to service the villages of Chesterville, Winchester, Iroquois, Morrisburg and Maxville.

New job

OTTAWA (Staff) - Veteran eastern Ontario MPP Claude Bennett has been appointed chairman of the Ontario Housing Corporation, it has been learned. Mr. Bennett will resign his Ottawa constituency seat to assume the reins of the provincial crown agency.

Icy roads

(Staff) - Worried about hazardous winter road conditions? To obtain up to the minute information about conditions of the roads during the winter months the provincial transportation ministry is providing phone numbers 24 hours a day effective November 12. For 1985 winter road reporting phone Cornwall at 933-4012.

Local MPPs endorse new PC leader in effort to unite party

(Staff) - The new choice Ontario Tory leader last weekend means a few local MPP's are happy -- their man won. Noble Villeneuve, SD&G's provincial representative, said "very little blue blood was spilled" during the electoral process which brought Toronto's Larry Grossman to the helm of the party and left Frank Miller in the shade.

Mr. Villeneuve praised his new leader saying Larry Grossman "has a keen wit and a sharp mind." He added that while the leader is urban in background and knows little about the problems of farmers and the state of the agriculture industry "he has promised to listen and learn about rural concerns."

"We will see a united Tory party with a new image by Christmas."

Mr. Villeneuve affirmed his party chose wisely although he supported Dennis Timbrell in last January's leadership convention. The most recent contest, though, he saw as being best won by Larry Grossman.

Other area eastern Ontario MPP's by and large supported Mr. Grossman too. Luc Guindon, MPP for Cornwall, said "Eastern Ontario will benefit from his (Grossman's) leadership." Mr. Guindon predicted more and more new faces would join the provincial PC party under the new leadership.

Mr. Villeneuve told reporters after the convention he did not fear that the party's traditional eastern Ontario power base, which started to erode under the stewardship of Bill Davis, is in jeopardy with the new leadership. Mr. Grossman was born and raised in Toronto.

Co-Op robbed but thieves dump the safe in van

(Staff) - Two men have been charged with break, enter and theft after equipment and a safe containing money were stolen from the Chesterville Co-op Monday night.

An 18 year old Ottawa man and a young offender who cannot be named will appear in provincial criminal court and young offenders court in Winchester Dec. 13.

The stolen items -- two snowblowers, five chainsaws and a safe containing Monday's receipts -- were recovered in a van abandoned in Vernon.

Co-op manager Orlan Crump said the safe contained about $350.

Mr. Crump said the thieves entered the store by cutting through barbed wire topping a chain link fence at the rear of the store.

They then walked through the garden centre portion of the store's property and entered through a rear door. He said police were alerted by a burglar alarm but the thieves were gone by the time officers arrived.

Winchester police believe the men drove the van to Vernon, abandoned it and then stole a car from Vernon. Gloucester police found the men driving the car.

Mr. Crump said the store was broken into about six years ago but nothing was stolen. The thief was caught in the store.

Constable Kevin Tait of the Winchester OPP detachment is investigating.

The Manotick detachment has also charged the two men with theft over $200.

New well design on drawing board as preparations begin

(Staff) - Chesterville village is nearer to obtaining a renewed supply of water, it was revealed at Monday night's council meeting. On hand to discuss designs for a proposed third well was Spencer Gray, a representative of the Ministry of Natural Resources.

Mr. Gray told members of council a roadway roughly 12 feet wide would be necessary to cross the field allowing access to the well from the pump house. As well there has to be a turnaround area large enough for trucks and a crane if necessary, to maneuver Mr. Gray told council it is his view the pump house should be built above ground.

"If he (Dr. Bryan Kennedy, the owner of the land) won't budge about an above ground building it has to be below ground," said Mr. Gray. However, he indicated the pipe running beside the road had to be located on the surface, not underground.

Council and the owner of the land, Dr. Kennedy, have not yet decided on the size of the portion of the field designated for the new well. "We're concerned with the amount of land necessary for our needs and down the road," reeve Carl Ward told Mr. Spencer.

While it was agreed a 20 foot easement for the roadway was adequate councillor Jim Sullivan said "it's no use having a well if you can't get to it."

Councillor Mike Brannen said "we have to settle for the least amount of land.

Jim Sullivan, though, said he was told by a government spokesman in Toronto "you fellows want a Cadillac when a wheelbarrow will do."

Council will hold a special meeting next Monday night at 7:30 to discuss further details of the design requirements with Mr. Gray who said he needed a few days to work them out for council.

Magic toadstool

The Finch tweenies (young brownies-in-training) made their brownie pledges on Monday night amid the Christmas decorations. Necessary to the procedure was the toadstool and leaders and moms gathered for the celebration nearby. At left Rachel Robinson and Joanna Ouderkirk (right) joined in the fun with the other children.

Former Record publisher dies at 74

A highly respected Chesterville resident and a former publisher of the Chesterville Record, Hudson Keith Graham, 74, died at home, Wednesday, November 13. Mr. Graham had been ill since early October. With him were his wife, Helen and daughter Mary Blackwell.

Mr. Graham was born in 1911, the son of Charley and Margaret (Allison) Graham who farmed on the Finch Road. As well as his wife and daughter he is survived by a brother Allison, Chesterville and by granddaughters Holly, 11 and Heidi, 9.

He was predeceased by sisters Aura and Phoebe. Phoebe Graham was the wife of Dr. K.D. (Mickey) McQuaig, Finch. Mr. Graham was named for his mother's brother, Hudson, who was lost at sea with the S.S. Titanic.

"Keith Graham came from an era when an editor and publisher had the single-minded intention of serving and bettering the community in which his newspaper was circulated," said present publisher, John Morris.

"I was just breaking into the weekly business when Keith was at the peak of his career in the late 1950's and '60's and he set the standard for which we all strived.

"His weekly column and his editorials always had an entertaining satirical bite, and he did a conscientious job in covering the news of his community back in the days when the Record was a one-man show," Morris added.

"I guess you could sum up Keith's newspaper career by saying that he cared about Chesterville and the area and was dedicated to serving the people in this community," Morris concluded.

Mr. Graham joined The Record in 1947 and took over the business in 1952 from his father-in-law, George Lacey. Together with Mrs. Graham and their staff, he ran the "family newspaper" as he called it, until 1969.

A former employee and apprentice, Wayne "Woody" LaPrade, recalled working with Mr. Graham. "I've always looked up to him," Mr. LaPrade recalled, "He gave me my first job and taught me everything I know about the business."

Mr. Graham was instrumental in bringing to the village a modern sports arena facility and the dam over the South Nation. His activities on the civic scene indicated a sense of public responsibility: village

Memorial Fund established

CORNWALL (Staff) - A memorial trust in honor of Keith Graham, former Library Board Chairman, has been proposed by Anne and Herman Nyland of Cornwall.

Mrs. Nyland was for many years head librarian of the Cornwall Public Library and also helped to found the entire Seaway Valley Libraries system. Mr. Graham worked for several years to establish the system on behalf of Counties Council and organized the Chesterville branch.

Chesterville reeve Carl Ward said on Monday night the memorial fund would be dedicated to "some aspect of the Chesterville library."

Deputy reeve Jim Cook, as current chairman of the counties library board, said I don't think the library board would have any objection" to the proposal.

Arrangements have already been made with the Chesterville branch of the Toronto Dominion Bank which handles village funds and reeve Ward reported "no problem opening up a trust account."

Councillors agreed the trust should be named the "H.K. Graham Memorial Fund."

The reeve informed council the Graham family was agreeable to the suggestion. The first donation has already been made. Jim Moonie, Toronto, and a former factory manager of Nestle Division, has donated a sum of money to start the fund on its way.

council; Counties Council; Seaway Valley Library Board; Neighborhood Watch; youth groups. At the time of his death he ws a member of the Eastern Ontario Health Council.

Chesterville reeve Carl Ward knew Mr. Graham for many years since they worked together on counties council. Mr. Ward said "Keith's contribution to his community and the area has been long and extensive."

The reeve praised Mr. Graham for "his willingness most recently to get involved with the District Health Council. He did a lot of work to ensure more long-term care came to Dundas county where there's a great need."

"He was a most interesting gentleman, and I stress "gentleman." He had endless stories and I always loved his turn of phrase. His many years as a newspaper editor gave him a gift with words and he used them effectively."

Mr. Graham's daughter, Mary travelled from Vancouver to be with her father in the weeks before his death. Fundamental to Mr. Graham's life were what she described as cornerstones. She said his family, his heritage, his daily routine, his profession as a newsman and his love for learning guided the tenor of this man's life.

His routine, all the things he could count on, was another: the routine of politics, of newspaper conventions, his woodworking, town activities, hunting every fall, was vital to him, she explained.

Mr. Graham was especially dedicated to the Seaway Valley Library system and served as chairman of the Library Board. Mrs. Blackwell noted her father was rarely seen without a book in his hands and reading was a passion with him.

His weekly column, Crumbs from Graham's Loaf, was one of the most widely read in Ontario and reflected matters of importance to him.

Writing about one of his delights, the annual hunting trip, he said in the issue of October 29, 1964:

"This season will mark 25 years we have unlimbered the smokepole and headed for the bush. During that time we have had good years, had years and remarkable years. We have been skunked in the matter of game and we have had abundance. We have been cold, wet and miserable. We have lived in the lap of luxury and eaten meals of delight. In short, we have had a typical quarter century of deer hunting.

We have now entered the period activity known as "the week before hunting." According to the v.p. more chores are done around the house and acres in that period than at any other season of the year. It needs only a word and the hunter-to-be leaps joyfully into the harness."

One of the joys of his life was his summer retreat:

"We spend most of our summer weekends on the banks of the rushing Rideau up at Little Chesterville at the summer Castle there. What with one thing and another, it is a reasonable place to go."

As a community newspaper publisher Mr. Graham took great pride in both the role played in a small town by the paper and in the professional approach which produces an excellent product. His appreciation of tradition and routine meant he welcomed the ritual of attendance at national and provincial newspaper conventions where he received several awards over the years.

In 1966, he wrote:

"The family journal is in line for a couple of awards in the publishing business... To say we are pleased, is putting it mildly. The vice president and this ancient Crumb will accept the awards on Friday. But the awards are only possible because of the combined efforts of a lot of hard working people."

In 1962 he reflected a little on the process of life and his own words serve as a tribute to a man who left his community better than he found it.

"One of the delights of growing up and older is that of recalling the process. Every little while we get a jab about this business of looking back so often. But it is only by looking back that the present is livable and the future possible. Every man and woman was once at an age of wonder. We delighted in the freshness of discovery, if only to realize we had friends when we needed them or to find hidden strength to lift a sudden burden."

Nation Valley guides spend fun-filled year

(Staff) - Nation Valley District Girl Guides report a super year in '85-86 as far as enrolment is concerned. Guiding is more popular than ever and local groups have been involved with several exciting projects. There are other changes on the scene too. Among the leaders of the local guiding movement executive changes have taken place.

The district bid farewell to two members who have made a substantial contribution to guiding. AnneMarie Dawley, who served as commissioner and ranger leader and Jacqueline Hudson who served on the Division Council in 1984-85, have left the scene. Mrs. Dawley has been active in Nation Valley since 1978. Her ability to organize camps and her youthful enthusiasm encouraged many timid adult campers to give camping a try. Mrs. Hudon was guider in charge of the Chesterville company since 1981. In taking on the extra posotion last year she became assistant guider. Jackie received a promotion in the Nestle Division and is moving to Chatham.

Executive council members are: district commissioner, Eunice Johnston; deputy, Janice Buter; recording secretary, Marilyn Johnson; treasurer, Heather Whitteker; international advisor, Cynthia Whetter; camp advisor, Catherine Whetter; district guider, Lois Rosenquist.

A successful patrol leader training session was held Oct. 18 and 19 in Chesterville. Twenty four Guides and 4 adults spent Friday evening camped on the floor of St. Mary's parish hall. Saturday was devoted to learning leadership skills to equip patrol leaders for the year ahead. Sandra Beacock, area trainer from Perth, led the training.

Highlights of activities in the units included a "get acquainted" sleepover held for 32 Morrisburg guides, tulip planting at the Senior Citizens' Comlex by the Williamsburg brownies and guides. The Williamsburg units also held an in door camp fire. A businessmen's luncheon was held by the Winchester guides and pathfinders. Service work (sale of daffodils) by Nation Valley pathfinders and guides for the Canadian Cancer Society will be acknowledged at the Ottawa Area Cancer Society banquet in Morrisburg on November 16. The Morrisburg pathfinders will be serving at this banquet as well.

District Pathfinders got together for an evening of bowling.

Playhouse could be moved as options are discussed for future

MORRISBURG (Staff) - Should the Upper Canada Playhouse be renovated or moved to a new site?

The playhouse's board of directors hired a Toronto consultant last week to study the theatre's options for the next two decades.

Doug Grenkie, president of the playhouse's board of directors, said Arcop Associates of Toronto, which helped design Ottawa's National Arts Centre and is now working on projects for the Canadian Opera Company and the National Ballet of Canada, was hired with the help of a $20,000 grant.

"They're considering the existing theatre, as to whether it's a good location and what has to be done to bring it into a soundly structured building. As you can appreciate, we have a few leaks, the wind and the rain," he said.

The consultant will also consider constructing a new building on one of two sites south of Hwy. 2 closer to Upper Canada Village.

"They're going to take a look at what we have, what it can be turned into and is that wise advice," he said.

The tent theatre, closed for several years, was re-opened in the spring of 1984. Mr. Grenkie said that many people initially believed its location on a road off Hwy. 2 some distance from the village was a mistake.

Although the playhouse attracted small crowds in its first season, Mr. Grenkie said both the size of the audiences and amount of donations increased last summer.

He said the theatre is now known locally and estimated 70 per cent of its ticket sales were to area residents. The theatre's greatest shortcoming, he said, is its building.

A joint federal-provincial tourism program is contributiong $15,000 to the study. The St. Lawrence Parks Commission is providing the remaining $5,000.

"We strongly support the re-emergence of professional theatre in the area," said Robert Cook, the commission's general manager.

He said the study will consider what's best for the playhouse in the future. "I think it's a very positive development for the theatre."

The consultant's report should be completed by mid-January, 1986.

Director sought

WINCHESTER (Staff) - The province has given the local committee establishing a resource centre for victims of family violence $25,000 to hire a community worker.

Erva Durant, chairperson of the steering committee, said the five-month position should be filled by mid-December.

The worker will investigate potential sites for the centre and sources of funding. He or she will also help the committee draft a formal proposal for a centre to the Ministry of Community and Social Services.

Mrs. Durant said the committee is waiting for the worker's advice before deciding whether to renovate an existing building or purchase land and build.

"This is a community worker's job," she said.

She said the committee hopes a qualified person can be found in the United Counties, which the centre will serve.

The committee is seeking someone with understanding of wife abuse in society and experienced in working with rural community groups and volunteers. The committee is also looking for familiarity with municipal and provincial funding regulations.

In addition to the community worker's salary, the $25,000 grant will also pay for the rental of office space, clerical help, office supplies, advertising and mileage allowances for committee members.

She said a couple of members of the steering committee have met with Cornwall residents to investigate the possibility of setting up a telephone crisis line for battered women in S.D. and G.

THANK YOU!

I would like to express my thanks to those who supported me in the past election.

Congratulations to the new slate of council.

THE CHESTERVILLE Record Editorial / Opinion

A positive attitude

The federal agriculture minister's recent promise to ensure the government takes further initiative to assist Canadian farmers facing financial difficulty sounds promising.

John Wise, a conscientious minister, said in St. Thomas at a mammoth rally organized by farm groups recently that he supports the Canadian Federation of Agriculture's positions on farmer-creditor arrangements. What was upbeat about the minister's comments was that he said action has to begin before Christmas.

In this area there have been more auction sales of entire farm holdings because of bankruptcies than the rural community has witnessed for decades. While the reasons for this appalling situation are many and complicated the sitation did not develop overnight. Solutions will be a long time coming.

Mr. Wise's viewpoint, though, is positive. He cited several initiatives his government has taken with direct and spin-off benefits to agriculture in general. What the farming community needs now is a system in place to help farmers buffer the troubling aspects of incipient bankruptcy should it ever rear its ugly head.

New Blue blood

Larry Grossman may be leader of the Progressive Conservatives in this province as of Friday, but does he know anything about farming?

The answer is no.

Another hint of tarnish on the lustre of the new leader is his unilingualism although there are indications he is making some attempt to learn French and to present some speeches in French in the new future.

Elected at last weekend's leadership convention in Toronto, the suave, city-bred Grossman admits he has little or no experience with agricultural concerns but at least he has promised to listen and to learn. That is reassuring to the hundreds of thousands of residents of rural municipalities all over Ontario.

In breaking with the WASP tradition of leadership in this province the party made a courageous exciting choice of chief of all the Tories. Together with his opposite numbers, Liberal premier David Peterson and the NDP's Bob Rae, the Queen's Park forum sports three young, dynamic leaders who promise to make Ontario politics lively and interesting.

With new young blood at the helm of all three parties Ontario has the potential for producing a rational, humane society governed on sensible lines.

This time the Tories got it right.

by Wyn Thompson

The season teeters somewhere between late and languid fall days and the first flakes of snow. And so do I.

Some people are smitten only with spring fever, but I enjoy (if that is the word for it) the more worrisome fever of late fall. I straddle the fine line of 'home securement' and 'delicious wanderlust.'

On the one hand like the cautious squirrel, I know there are prudent things I should be doing. On the other hand, the hazy blue-tinged autumn days are so enticing, I yearn to be on the road or in the bush and fields. So I try to take time for both, as the spirit moves me.

One of the things on the squirrel's fall agenda is filling the garage with wood, and aided and abetted by the Farmer that task can now be struck from the agenda. The beckoning of field and bush was strong but I stuck with it, taking only a couple of hours off to attend a country craft and food sale.

With Christmas approaching, it is surely the time for such events. This particular one had a baked goods and preserves centre flanked by a vegetable and house plant centre. Guess where I spent my time and money. But now, with the season changing, I will change my ways.

No longer will it look as though the den is a survivor of a hurricane. With my desk as neat as it will ever be, I can enjoy splitting and repotting plants on the floor of the garage.

I am not sure why we still insist on calling it a garage; it might be force of habit or could it be because that is what it was built to be, a garage to house cars.

I housed a car only one year. Since then it houses the Farmer's little workshop, the winter's wood, the lawn and garden tools and a variety of items too numerous to mention.

But before the day is too far gone, my friend Irish and I will head for the country lane. All too soon it will be too cold to brave the cold, north wind that sweeps up the lane to meet us from January through mid-February. During this time we will seek the sanctuary of the bush trail.

As I step outside, I hear many small birds fluttering and twittering in the cedar trees by the bird feeder. I wonder if they are last year's friends waiting to be fed or are they simply newcomers settling into the warmth of the cedars for the night. At any rate, I inform them that there are still seeds and berries to be had for the picking, and I do not intend to feed them until the snow flies.

When the shadows thicken and darkness closes in, the sound of an owl out in the bush will join, and then replace, the twittering of the little birds.

I come in and prepare some parsnips and carrots for supper. My, how these two vegetables compliment one another. I was delighted to see the parsnips for sale at the craft and food sale and also the sauerkraut. Such good country staples of our ancestors. In such a time of change it is good to know some things endure.

Vegetables on to boil, I settle down with a farm magazine. This free time can be a mixed blessing...on one hand, it affords me a few minutes to get caught up on some reading I have set aside for this specific purpose... on the other hand, it affords me such an escape that I sometimes slightly burn the vegetables. The Farmer says he can gauge by the flavor of the meal my degree of interest in the subject matter I was reading.

The subject matter was most interesting this particular night but I managed to keep an eye on the stove as well. For nothing smells a house as badly as burned carrots and parships! Actually, I only slightly overcook the vegetables about twice a year but I am never allowed to live down such a culinary blunder.

From this reading session I learned that it costs a farmer $3502 annually to bed and board a cow and market her milk. Something to think on the next time we complain about the cost of milk.

I also learned this bit of shocking news...Ontario does not feed itself. In 1984 we exported $1.68 billion worth of vegetable products, but we imported $3 billion.

On this 10th anniversary of the first World Food Conference, the Director-General of the FAO, Edward Saoume, says we have fallen short of the promise that no child will go to bed hungry. Saoume laments that the $700 million which goes to the UN in military expenditures exceed the social and relief assistance to third world countries by 30 times.

He further laments developing nations themselves spend $115 billion on armaments. This information I learned by reading an article by Terry Meagher, lecturer at KCAT.

Regardless of today's grain reserves, everyone has not been fed. Should catastrophe come upon us, most of us will, in the words of Saoume, depend on "the conscience of the rich."

May God have mercy

In the town women are taking down harvest decorations from the front doors, Indian corn, gourds, evergreen branches. This custom goes back to the days of ancient Greece when harvest festivals were held. We no longer wear wreaths but we wreath our doors. Soon the Christmas wreaths will grace these same doors.

A couple of weeks ago fourteen or fifteen boxes of cheese were stolen from the factories of W.A. Wert and G.A. McLean in Roxborough township. On Thursday of last week, about 4:30am the cheese arrived in Cornwall. They were in a wagon, the driver of which unloaded most of them in front of a local grocery under the eyes of the policeman on night patrol, to whom he chatted unconcernedly. Later on the other cheese were sold at different hotels. The owners traced the cheese to Cornwall and identified their property. A man named Roy Alguire has been arrested, and the cheese men are positive in his identification.

The sixth annual meeting of the Newington Hockey club was held Thursday evening and judging by the enthusiasm displayed, the coming season should prove very successful. After some discussion the following officers were elected: Hon. presidents, Dr. Dickey, S. McAteer, D. Hoople, J. McAvoy; first vice-president, A. Barton; second vice-president, George Stewart; secretary, Geo. J. Wood; trainer, R.E. Rombough.

In Massey Hall, Finch, on the evening of Nov. 13th, the Ramsayville Dramatic Club under the auspices of the Finch Branch of the Women's Institute presented the play "Aaron Slic from Punkin Crick."

Friday night last saw the return from their camp at Lake Duval, Que., the Chesterville members of the club which makes that lake the scene of their yearly hunt, namely Dr. W.A. Brown, Dr. S.H. Hutt, W.O. Dixon, D. Allison and Harold Durant, bringing with them ten deer, the full complement allowed by the Quebec law.

There is good prospect of the congregation being able to begin to meet for worship in the Hall in connection with the new church on either Nov. 29th or Dec. 6th. The furnaces are to be installed in a few days, and the lights and seats from the old church are soon to be pressed into service again.

Mrs. Evelyn Brown, whose husband, H. Brown is manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Chesterville, finished up the 9th Victory Loan campaign as the sole occupant of the $200,000 club subscriptions to her credit totalling $202,400 or 373.3 per cent of her objective set at $60,000. Chesterville Division contributed $424,350 to finish in second place to Lochiel Township with $466,800.

Mr. and Mrs. Garland Sharkey were surprised last night when their son, Gnr. Harold Sharkey, arrived home unannounced from three years overseas service with the 6th Light Anti Aircraft Regt. Gnr. Sharkey came home on the liner Queen Elizabeth with the 45th Medium Regt., R.C.A.

The Life of Riley

by Wayne Riley

There is something about searching for the perfect gifts for loved ones on Christmas eve that gives one the feeling that the real sense of the season has been missed.

Part of it has to do with the fact that, by department store calendars at least, the season really has been missed in late December. It is hard to buy the perfect gifts for your loved ones when all the perfect gifts have been bought off the shelves and replaced by summer swimwear.

There is also something unsettling about spending Christmas eve in the middle of a hot, moving mass of people seized by panic because they have left their Christmas shopping until the last minute.

With sweat trickling down foreheads, the piped music of white Christmasses and sleigh rides seems wildly out of place when chestnuts are roasting in the line of open fire and Jack Frost, trying to pick up the same present you are, is nipping at your nose.

And so, standing in a long cashier's line last Dec. 24 with an armful of torn and mutilated gifts - "What do you mean, you don't take cheques? It's Christmas eve." - I resolved that next year I would spend Christmas eve with my family gazing at the presents under the tree.

Yes, if Santa Claus could get his elves going on toy production Jan. 2, I could surely do my Christmas shopping before November.

Mid-November already? Darn it all, where does the time go?

I went to the window to look at the street with no snow on it, my mind fresh with memories of football playoffs and a political convention, and tried to get myself into the Christmas mood.

No doubt about it, a month was cutting it close. I was the one after all, who thought I had lots of time last February to get my tennis racquet fixed, the one still in the basement with the fist-sized hole in the strings.

So I was looking out the window, trying to gather my thoughts, when I heard someone call my name. I looked around. I was the only one in the room.

Christmas at K-Mart

"Who's there?," I said.

"It's your Christmas Past, Wayne Riley."

"C'mon, is that you, Heidi?"

"No, it is I." The voice suddenly materialized in front of me. I sucked in my breath. It couldn't be. I rubbed my eyes. Yes, it was. A K-Mart cashier was standing in front of me.

"Take my hand," the cashier said. I hesitated and then put out my hand. In a blink of an eye the office disappeared. We were now standing in K-Mart.

"Am I in a trance? " I said. "I've heard that you can hypnotize yourself by looking out the window."

The cashier did not reply. Instead she pointed a finger. I followed and saw a man and a boy. The boy was pulling things off the shelf. The man was pulling him back by the collar.

"Hey, that's my dad," I said. "Who is the funny looking kid with him?"

"You don't recognize yourself? " the cashier said.

"What?" I looked at the boy more closely. He wasn't so bad looking after all.

"Let's get Mommy a toaster, a four-slice toaster," the boy was saying. "No," the man said. "That's not a Christmas present. How about some perfume?"

"Ooo, that part of the store smells, Daddy," the boy said.

"But Mommy will like it," the man said as he moved towards the perfume section with the boy's arm in his grip.

I looked at the cashier. "Why are you showing me this?" I asked.

The cashier motioned towards a sign on the store wall. It said "18 shopping days until Christmas". I whistled silently.

Suddenly I was in front of the office window looking out at the street again. I shook my head. Maybe it was just the shock of my beloved Maple Leafs winning two games in a row.

I heard footsteps and turned around. It was my wife.

"Heidi, am I glad to see you. You won't believe the daydream I just had."

"I am not Heidi. I am Christmas Present."

Presents in the present

Whoosh. I was in the kitchen with two Heidis. And I thought they broke the mold after they made her.

The Heidi standing beside me spoke. "While you are looking out your window at work, your wife is wrapping your gifts. She has thought about what to buy you for the last month.

I looked at my wife sitting at the table. She was humming Christmas carols as she wrapped my gifts. A tear came to my eye.

"Oh, Christmas Present, I've just been so busy. I wanted to buy my gifts early too but time just slips by. You know how it is."

The ghostly Heidi sadly shook her head and the kitchen disappeared in a blinding flash of light.

Everything was in blackness. I groped around in the darkness. I was in bed. I must have dreamed it all. I turned on the light and jumped back as a man in a red suit with a white beard motioned to me.

"I am Christmas Future," he said. "Come here and look behind you."

I did as he said and did a double take. I was looking at myself sleeping in bed.

Suddenly the door flung open and a little girl burst into the room. She was crying.

"Mommy, Daddy, Santa Claus didn't come to our house."

"Oh no," my wife was saying as she cradled the girl in her arms. How could that be? I gave Daddy your letter to Santa Claus more than a month ago. Santa surely must have gotten it."

The Wayne I was looking at suddenly turned white. He mumbled something about forgetting to mail the letter. Both the woman and the child stared coldy at him.

"Oh, Daddy," the little girl finally said between sobs, "how could you?"

I looked at the man in the red suit, my eyes brimming with tears. "It's not going to be like that, is it?" I said.

"It doesn't have to be," he said. "Not if you change your ways."

"I will, I will, I will....

"Yes, I will," I said and the window was in front of me again.

There was still no snow on the ground and the Grey Cup still had to be played but I was singing Christmas carols.

Winchester Twp. not in favor of joint study

(Staff) - Winchester Township will probably not join other municipalities in Dundas and Grenville counties in a $75,000 joint waste disposal study.

Township reeve Gerald Holmes said there is only a "very slim" chance the township will opt to be included in the study.

The province has agreed to pay half the study's cost, estimated at between $75,000 and $100,000. The study will research long-term solutions for waste disposal in the region.

The townships of Winchester, Matilda, Edwardsburg and Augusta and the villages of Winchester, Chesterville, Iroquois and Cardinal are among the municipalities invited to a meeting Jan. 15 to discuss the proposal with the Ministry of the Environment.

"I'm going to wait and see and go to that meeting," Mr. Holmes said.

He said he is "a little apprehensive" about the study's cost. "If they (the Ministry of the Environment) want to impose all these restrictions on a municipality, they should pay for it."

The township now operates a landfill site east of Winchester and bills the villages of Winchester and Chesterville. Annual expenses, which Mr. Holmes estimated would be about $38,000 this year, are shared equally among the three municipalities.

Hoping to improve the landfill's operation, he said the township has hired a new roads employee to run the site. The township assumes its operation Dec. 1, when the contract of the individual now running it expires.

"We're not going to cut any costs," he said, but added the move is intended to make the landfill site operate more smoothly.

The site will be filled to capacity in about seven more years. Mr. Holmes said the township may then have to make an environmental assessment -- at a cost of $75,000 -- to either enlarge the present site or find a new one.

However, the municipality would have to foot the whole bill it if opts out the joint waste study, said Ministry of the Environment supervisor Chris Ramshaw.

He said the province will provide no subsidy for a single municipality to hire an engineering firm to conduct the necessary studies.

He advised that any municipality with only five years remaining in its landfill's lifespan to begin work now to find a new site.

Among the alternatives to be considered in the study will be whether the area should be served by one large landfill with several transfer stations or several smaller landfills.

It will also weigh the environmental, social and economic impacts of alternative means of waste disposal.

Winchester village reeve Larry Gray said he is personally in favour of the joint waste study.

"I think essentially we're quite pleased with the way things are going in our present system," Dr. Gray said yesterday. "I don't think we can improve upon it. However we have to think down the road a bit."

Because the province demands that comprehensive studies be conducted before a new waste disposal site is approved, he said even ten years before a landfill site is filled is not too early to plan for the future.

"I'm certainly in favour of getting on with this type of study. I think we should be going for that sort of thing to see where we can go and what we can do," he said. "Right now we seem to have the opportunity to get some funding."

Should Winchester Township decline to participate in the joint study, he said the village has a couple of options.

It could join Matilda Township, Iroquois and others to the south and west, which he said are likely to opt for the joint study because their landfills are nearing capacity. Dr. Gray said, would reduce each municipality's share of the costs.

"There's the other opportunity, if we look to the north to Osgoode Township, where they're presently trying to find a site for the region."

In any event, he said the joint study would provide information and various options to all the municipalities, which won't be bound by any of the study's recommendations.

SECOND MORTGAGE SOLUTION

If you have your mind set on the purchase of real estate but do not have enough cash to meet the full price and down payment on the first mortgage, there is a solution. Second mortgages are also available and nothing to be afraid of. The owner may agree to take your promisory note and mortgage for the balance. This mortgage is usually for a smaller amount, and a shorter term than the conventional mortgage.

But no matter what kind of mortgage your arrange, be very clear about its terms and conditions. Many mortgages contain prepayment penalties, which means that if you decide to pay off the mortgage in advance, you have to pay an extra charge. There will also be clauses about late charges required if you don't make your payments on time and clauses protecting the lender from you damaging the property or tearing it down. So it's important to read the fine print and understand what it means.

Your Realtor is familiar with these many clauses and can be helpful in assisting you to understand them.

Dorothy Morgan wins Ontario WI award

OSNABRUCK CENTRE (Special) - Dorothy Morgan WI member for many years, has done it again. She received second prize in the Noblett awards given out at the annual convention in Ottawa last week of the FWIO. He price winning short story was entltied 'My Ego Trip'. The Osnabruck Centre Women's Institute members gave Mrs. Morgan hearty congratulations on her achievement.

The regular meeting was chaired by president, Betty Neville, held at the home of Verla Gallinger. The minutes were read and approved on motion of secretary, Sharon Duprau.

Annie Ferguson, Ereta Gallinger and Betty Neville attended the annual convention in Ottawa and gave an interesting report. Many ideas were heard on how to make our meetings interesting. They concluded that it was indeed worthwhile to have been there and encouraged more to attend in the future.

Verla Gallinger gave her report on the fruit and flower fund and cards were signed for Bea Countryman and Hilda Brownell who were unable to attend. A sympathy card was sent to Muriel Stewart and a donation sent to the Heart Fund in memory of her brother. A note was received from Ralph Flintoff thanking the WI for the donation in memory of his father, Delbert.

The members decided to have a rummage and bake sale on April 5, 1986, as there was no winter carnival scheduled in the township.

We were happy to welcome Edna Hall as a guest. She was a former member of the WI before moving to Amherstview. The president read an article on gifted children. There were 19 which included seven guests and two little girls, Julie Mulitze and Joanne terHorst. Edna Beckstead and Betty Neville were in charge of refreshments. The next meeting will be the annual Christmas dinner on December 5.

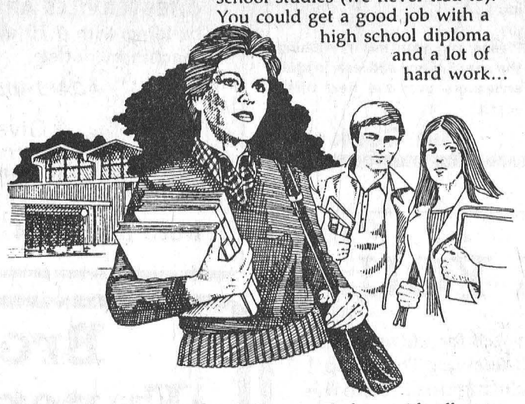
I REMEMBER
WHEN I FINISHED HIGH SCHOOL...
Times were different then.
Most people never went on past high school studies (we never had to).
You could get a good job with a high school diploma and a lot of hard work...



Things sure have changed though. Today, with all our modern equipment and new techniques, kids sometimes need more than a good high school education to get started in their career.

If you're thinking of continuing your education at ST. LAWRENCE COLLEGE SAINT-LAURENT why not visit the college on Wednesday, Dec. 4 ?

NDDHS News

By Elena Pizzamiglio and Marjorie Rose

Never at loss for things to fill our days, we keep bringing you more news. The Remembrance Day program on November 11 was a success thanks to the organizers who did a great job, the fine performance of the senior band, and the students' co-operation.

During the week students were given a chance to register and join the ski club; many took the opportunity and are now eagerly awaiting the first trip.

In basketball, the junior girls kept up their untarnished winning record by defeating Glengarry 46 to 30, and St. Joseph 54 to 34. The senior girls unfortunately lost to Glengarry, 43 to 49. In the last home game of the regular season, the juniors won against Char-Lan 54 to 2, and the seniors won against Char-Lan, 35 to 29.

On Wednesday, November 13, a meeting at Brockville Collegiate Institute was held with regard to S.A.D.D. (Students Against Drunk Driving), and the common goals of the schools' chapters, as well as programs unique to some schools. Damian Laflamme and Carolyn Anderson, head boy and head girl, Julie Lamb, president, and Ms. K. Whitney were present as represenatatives of the SADD chapter being established at our school. Interested parents and students will be involved in this venture in the near future.

Parent-teacher interviews were held on Thursday during the afternoon, which allowed students to be dismissed at noon for a long-sought free afternoon, and at night from 7 to 9.

A representative from Carleton University visited our school on Monday and gave a presentation open to any grade 12 and 13 students. Another presentation was given by the RCC school of Electronic Technology open to all grades 11, 12 and 13 advanced Math, Physics and Electronics students. All grade 13 and 11 Advanced Accounting students were present at an interesting seminar at our school by John Rosetti, a chartered accountant. Students through these presentations are made aware of the many choices open to them after high school, and we appreciate the opportunity of learning about them.

The "Chocolate Bar" campaign drew to a "grand finale" on Monday. Thankyou for your support.

Chesterville and District Rotary

By C.A. Graham

Another good meal was produced by Mrs. Espinoza. President Chuck led the sing-song assisted by Doris Cross.

A brief silence was observed in honor of past president Keith Grahm was was president from 1944-45. Keith passed away last Wednesday.

Rotarian Hank De Vries of Kemptville club was a guest. He is completing 23 years of perfect attendance.

Plans were made for the Inter club meeting with Ingleside at Chesterville Dec. 6.

Rotarian Dave Robinson supplied the program. He set up three computers for the Rotarians to practise on. Music and Christmas carols were among the productions.

The speaker was thanked by Rotarian Charles Nixon.
