"DUNDAS COUNTY THE LAND OF MILK AND HONEY" . . . . . COVERS EASTERN ONTARIO'S GREATEST DAIRYING SECTION

To a hooked mudpout there is little doubt which end of the pole the worm is on.

CRUMBS from Graham's Loaf

The rumble of tractors is heard all over the countryside these spring days. The weather has been dry as powder and many farmers around the district have quite a lot of seed underground. It would seem to point to one of the earliest seasons in years to get so much land work done. 'Way back in 1945 the weather was much the same. That year, though, the fine dry weather suddenly stopped about the 15th of May. We finished the last of a 45-acre seeding program on the 28th of June.

That was a real year to make money on the farm, as if every year isn't. We bought a hundred acres, took on a plump, fully developed mortgage, and figured to make a wad. That year the township revised the assessment on the farm and raised the taxes from $78 to $136; after steady rains we finally got the grain under ground and watched it sprout to about four inches. Then it rained steadily for two weeks and a day. The [illegible]d ditch overflowed, 45 acres turned into a lake and the young grain shoots burned off immediately under the hot July sun.

That should be enough for any normal farmer to contend with. But we had a little more left to fool with. It would appear the heavy rains excited the well so much, it ran over all the time, the 28 heifers pasturing and drinking around it got foot rot, and we finally did not collect pasture rent. Total year's income amounted to a remarkable deficit. Is it any wonder we sold the farm and fled to the village where money is made by merely gr[illegible]g the folks from an easy cha[illegible]

One of the nice things about being a reporter for a family journal like the "Record" is all the lovely little bits of gossip we pick up but do not print. Every little while the editor confides he gets a shiver over what would happen if he waved the green light and said to go ahead and tell all. We might get involved in telling of a village merchant who deliberately heaved a rock at a village light fixture and laughed nastily when the glass flew all over Main Street. Things like that are better kept quiet until the Law can work slowly but surely towards a solution of the dastardly crime. As we s[illegible]at the time, "Every-[illegible] is not all Clover, just because you don't live on a Farm."

Looking over the classified section of this issue, we noted an ad calling for tenders for a building in Morrisburg and another building for a post office in Spencerville. The Federal lads and lasses seem to be building here and there. The latest word on Chesterville's post office is quite late—maybe next year. The last time we discussed the matter with the Fultons, the land had not yet been purchased.

Went to Ottawa the other day for the boss. We should have stood in bed. If you think you have parking troubles here try that rat race at nine in the morning when you have an appointment. Finally found a meter virgin about eleven blocks from our address and hoofed it the rest of the way. Over a cooling sarsaparilla with a customer, was told it was even worse for natives. Of course, as most Ottawa natives are women civil servants, or so it seems, and they all drive shiny little beetles, each time we would get the Red Monster aimed for its modest 22 feet of necessary space, there would be two Deeks and a Volks whipped into position under our tail feathers and a nice silk-clad leg hustling down the street for a coffee break.

Members of Chesterville Fish and Game Association held their annual dinner meeting last Wednesday night in Legion Hall. Toasts and speeches marked the affair and prizes were awarded to the prize winners. In our top photo we show a general shot of the large crowd. In the lower picture are the prize winners, Harry Hutchinson, Harold Armstrong, Garnet Cass, Carl Hess, Dwaine Munro, Mrs Willis Barkley with the Gilroy trophy, Donnie Gillard, Lloyd Fyke, Ed Gillard and Art Julyan. Winners Jack Julyan and Keith Graham are not in the picture. Toasts were proposed by Archie Black and H. C. Hummel. Mrs Keith Graham responded to Mr Hummel's toast to the ladies.—Record Photo.

Theatre to open soon

A sufficient number of local businessmen have come forward with the necessary monetary support to assure opening the local theatre again. It is hoped to have pictures showing by June at least, although it may be a little later.

An organization meeting was held Tuesday night here. A full discussion developed regarding the business end of the project. At the close of the meeting some $1,400 had been subscribed in cash and with 22 signatures on the cards, each pledged for $200, there seemed good reason to be hopeful the show would soon be in operation.

Officers chosen are Carl Merkley, president; Gordon Lannin, vice president; Eric Casselman, secretary-treasurer; committee, Emerson Johnston, Wm. Fulton, Dr B. W. Lapp.

Cadet inspection here May 20

Chesterville Cadet Corps will have its annual inspection on Wednesday, May 20, at 10 a.m. The reviewing officer will be Hon. F. M. Cass, Minister of Highways for Ontario.

Winchester High School Cadet Corps inspection will be at 2 p.m., May 20. North Stormont District High School at Finch will conduct annual inspection ceremonies on May 27 at 2 p.m.

Fish and Game Club holds annual banquet hears Ken Parks

Last Wednesday evening members and their wives of Chesterville Fish and Game Association met in Legion Hall for their annual banquet and prize night. Over 140 guests enjoyed a fine dinner prepared by the ladies of the Legion Auxiliary.

The meeting was programed by Harold Windsor, past president of the club, with Keith Graham as chairman. Among those at the head table was the new president, Dwaine Munro, and Mrs Munro.

Members of the Department of Lands and Forests were present with their wives and they included Inspector Don Sylvester, Kemptville, and Conservation Officer Murray Martin, Winchester. Both men spoke briefly of work in the Rideau District.

Main speaker of the evening was Ken Parks, of the Department of Transport and a columnist for the Ottawa Journal. He spoke mainly of the work that is being done by a group of Ontario and Quebec sportsmen to try and increase and bring back the duck flights that have left this section of Eastern Canada. The group is called Queont for short. Mr Parks illustrated his short talk with interesting coloured slides of possible sites for duck populations to live.

The speaker was thanked by president Munro who presented him with a club cheque for $25. This contribution was offered to Queont to help with the conservation work.

United Church leaders hold meeting Tuesday three ministers leaving area for new charges

The Dundas-Grenville Presbytery of the United Church of Canada held its spring meeting in Trinity United Church, Chesterville, last Tuesday. Rev Nathan Bowering, of Winchester Springs pastoral charge, was elected as chairman for 1959-1960. Rev Gerald Fee, of South Mountain, was re-elected secretary.

Plans were made for the Sector Plan Every-Family Visitation in November. Rev Douglas Pilkey, the secretary of the Missionary and Maintenance Fund for Eastern Canada, urged the members of Presbytery to try to lead their congregations into the Sector Plan Visitation in order that all the churches in the Presbytery may experience the spiritual renewal and growth that comes from participation in the Sector Plan canvass. A rally for the church lay leaders and ministers is to be held in St. John's United Church at Kemptville on Friday, May 1, in order that the program and rewards of the Sector Plan may be widely known.

The Sector Plan originated with the Baptists, was brought into Canada by the Presbyterian Church and is being used extensively by the Anglican Church. It is hoped that some of these sister congregations will join in forming a Grenville-Dundas Sector.

Presbytery said farewell to three much-loved ministers who are taking up new work on July 1. Rev Gordon F. Dangerfield is leaving Iroquois after 10 years of devoted service to become the minister of Gordon United Church in Victoria, B.C. Rev C. E. Freake is leaving Spencerville pastoral charge to become the minister of Curran Hall Park United Church in Toronto. Mr John Porter, the student minister at Oxford Mills, will be ordained by the Montreal and Ottawa Conference on June 3 and will be assigned to a Home Mission charge for two years.

Rev Nathan Bowering was appointed as chairman of a new committee on street preaching and open-air evangelism. It is estimated that nearly half of the 12,000 baptized United Church people in the Presbytery are not practicing their faith or attending Sunday worship. Therefore the Presbytery is considering having services of preaching and witness in the streets and parks of the towns and villages where the people gather on Saturday nights in the summertime.

Rev Douglas H. Ramsay announced that the Rideau Hill Camp dedication service will be held at 3 p.m. on Sunday, June 14, at the camp grounds. Chas. Christie will be the special speaker and music will be provided by five junior choirs. Six camps will be held at Rideau Hill on the following dates: Junior boys' camp, June 30 to July 7; intermediate boys' camp, July 9 to July 16; junior 'A' girls' camp, July 17 to July 24; junior 'B' girls' camp, July 27 to August 3; intermediate girls' camp, August 5 to August 12; Young People's camping weekend, September 4 to September 7.

ENGAGEMENT

Mr and Mrs Merton O'Shaughnessy wish to announce the engagement of their daughter, Evelyn Florence O'Shaughnessy, to Mr Carl Tweed Beckstead, son of Mr and Mrs Burton Beckstead, of Elma. The marriage will take place at the United Church Manse, Williamsburg, in the middle of May.

Seaway opens at last

The great St. Lawrence Seaway opened for business last weekend. The culmination of the dreams of half a century came true when the D'Iberville steamed through the St. Laurent locks at Montreal. There followed a parade of ocean ships, poking their way into the centre of the continent at last and swimming over the vanished International Rapids.

Cars by the hundreds streamed out to the Front all day Sunday. The sight of the big boats was more anticipated than real. Not too many had come as far west as Morrisburg by Sunday afternoon. There were quite a few big freighters from the Upper Lakes in the river though and their long profiles presented something new.

Brazil is the largest rug-producing country in South America.

Chesterville W.I. sponsored a first aid course this spring and they are just winding up a most interesting season of instruction. St. John Ambulance instructor J. E. McFarlane from Smiths Falls has been on hand every Monday night. We took a shot last week of some of the demonstration work being done. Most of the group are watching intently as victim Mrs G. W. Gilbert is being bandaged and bound according to the St. John first aid manual.—Record Photo.

STORE HOURS

With the introduction of Daylight Saving Time, all village stores will change their Friday night closing hours. For the summer there will be an extra hour to shop and the stores will close at 10 o'clock. They will remain open for the extra hour on Friday night for the rest of the summer.

OPINIONS . . . OURS AND OTHERS

A hot quilt

The late Queen Mary was an industrious needlewoman. A fine sample of her work is on permanent display in Canada's Royal Museum in the art gallery. At least it was on display until director Jarvis decided it was not a work of art. He covered it with a fancy bedsheet.

We sometimes wonder what churns about in the noggins of some of the hired hands of Canada. While there is little doubt someone has to direct, there are times when pure art becomes so arty, it is unbearable for we, the people, who pay the shot. The Queen's quilt is a case in point.

Our sense of art is governed by many things, and the writer's knowledge of the subject is vast in its ignorance. We delight in whiskey ads that show a leaping fish shining in the sun and offered free, without advertisement. We cast shameful, but appreciative, glances at busty calendar artwork that has not the least relation to Mona Lisa.

We do have some fond and loving memories of a youth spent in a home that saw a lot of fine needlework done. Our young scalp tingled many times from the neat flick of a thimbled finger when boisterous games threatened to tip the quilting frames. Then the art of quilting and embroidery was a necessity for young women if they expected to arrive at a married state with any degree of success.

The Queen's quilt is a shining example of the reason why the British royal family exists today. When other royal ladies were sneering their immortal words of derision about their subjects, English royalty was learning the necessity of living for their subjects, not on them. And one of the final results of that long education was the delight that has been shown by the royal family in doing the familiar family occupations their subjects do. The quilt is one of these things; it should be displayed as a shining example of the art of royalty living safely and moderately with their people.

A work of art has many definitions. We wonder if the director of the National Gallery has thought of them all.

Another firemen's strike?

CNR, as we write this, is faced with a firemen's strike similar to the abortive one that for a time hampered CPR operations last summer. It seems a shame that it should come about.

The firemen would appear to be fighting a lost cause. Even their own brotherhoods in the railway unions paid little attention to picket lines in the CPR fiasco; before the public could feel any effects of the strike, the firemen had called the whole thing off and accepted the company's original offer.

There does not appear to be any justification for a strike on the government-owned road. And especially when the basic desire on the part of the union is again to protect positions of men who are not yet employed by the railroad. It appears to be an organized deal to maintain the featherbedding practices of railway unions that have come under fire of late. And what could be softer than being a fireman on a modern diesel locomotive? If that position can be held, then other discriminations in favour of firemen and engineers can be more easily maintained.

Wise counsels are at work to avert the strike; we hope they prevail.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

by Lillian Allison

There is some excuse for the homemaker who spends hours leafing through every wallpaper sample book in town. Choosing wallpaper is a very exacting task. She will probably have to look at it for five, eight, even 10 years so she wants to be sure she likes her choice before she buys. Besides there are so many factors to consider in choosing paper.

Colour is perhaps the first consideration. It must be agreeable with the floor covering of the room, the furnishings and the woodwork—unless the woodwork is to be repainted. The colour must be suitable for the location of the room. North, shaded rooms naturally look better in bright or light colours while sunny, south or west rooms will look well in deeper, darker tones. Then there are warm friendly colours like yellow, beige and rose and the cool colours such as white, green, blue and some greys.

Design is the second factor. And in this there are a few basic rules.

If yours is an old house whose walls are no longer straight and square for goodness sake don't buy a paper with lines, squares or checks. Get a plain paper or an all-over pattern that won't reveal the defects in the walls.

And don't expect a coat of wallpaper to hide rough plaster, cracks, humps and old seams. These will certainly show when the paper dries. A paper with a pattern will conceal them better than plain paper, however, so keep that in mind when making your choice.

If you want a room to look larger choose a plain paper in a light colour and paint the woodwork the same shade or choose a small all-over design. A large room will look smaller with large figures in the pattern and deeper, darker colours. Vertical stripes on the walls will make ceilings appear higher and a white ceiling will make it look farther away. Conversely, horizontal stripes on the walls will lower the ceiling and a dark or pattern paper on it will make it look closer to the floor.

And don't think it is necessary to use white paper on the ceiling. It is intended chiefly for rooms where the wallpaper has a white background. Try a pink ceiling and green walls or yellow with grey. Or use a colour in the wallpaper for the ceiling. I know a bedroom done in a dark brown paper with a pink pattern. The pink ceiling is lovely with it.

Don't be afraid of colour. It is one of our greatest blessings and if properly used will add much to the decorations we choose.

A long, narrow room can be improved by using two different papers. Put a semi-plain paper on the long walls and a figured paper with a definite design on the ends. For interest one wall —perhaps the fireplace wall— can be papered with a pattern paper and the other walls with a plain-textured design.

I broke all the rules and put a figured, beige paper on the ceiling of the livingroom with a tweedy, beige paper on the walls. In the hall I reversed them using the pattern on the walls and the plain on the ceiling. The figured ceiling does what I had hoped. It lowers it a little and partly hides some rough places where partitions have been removed.

There is no limit to the effects that can be achieved with the imaginative use of wallpaper.

It is quite easy to care for. Some plastic-coated papers can be sponged off. Grease spots can be removed with cleaning fluid. Dirty marks can be erased with an ordinary, artgum eraser. Bad spots can be patched but be sure to tear the patch instead of cutting it. Then match the pattern perfectly.

Modern wallpaper is suitable for the bathroom, kitchen or any room in the house. It's fun to choose and easy to live with. I'm so glad the Chinese invented it and science perfected it.

Swedish inventors have perfected an almost frostless [illegible].

—By Mrs Jean Casselman
M.P. for Grenville-Dundas

This has been one of our busiest weeks. The budget debate ended on Wednesday with the final vote.

Thursday the Hon. Douglas Harkness read his anxiously awaited announcement on dairy products price supports. A compromise was reached on powdered milk. Rather than completely discard the price support it was dropped from 15c per pound to 10c per pound; surplus may still be produced. The Minister has been warning against this increasing surplus for a year but to no effect. The final warning was complete withdrawal in five months if the surplus continues to grow. Cheese will have an effective support price of 34 8/10 cents, that is 8/10 of a cent higher than the present support price.

All week enthusiasm increased towards Saturday. For weeks the Hon. George Hees had been stimulating everyone with his own great interest in the St. Lawrence Seaway. Being on the D'Iberville when she went through the St. Lambert locks for the first time attracted some 250 government officials. M.P.'s from all across Canada felt the importance of this historic event. To such an extent that two busloads left Ottawa at 5 a.m. Saturday morning; for some this meant getting up at 3.30 a.m. and 4 a.m. to reach the bus terminal at departure time.

They arrived at Pier 46 at 7.30 and it was a typical and heartwarming gesture for the Minister of Transport to be first there and welcome every person aboard with a handshake and a first-name greeting. We were to start at 8 a.m. and promptly the gangplank was raised. The Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons, Pierre Sevegny, was the last on board and three unfortunates arrived at the pier when the gangplank was in mid-air. Tardiness was not to be condoned in the new Seaway operations and the gangplank was not lowered for them.

The guests on board seemed to have very individual and personal ideas as to dressing for this historic event. Some felt the dignity and arrived quite formal. Others felt it a bit of a holiday and wore sporty tweed jackets rather more suited to Bermuda than a chilly April morning on the St. Lawrence. Others just wishing to be gay wore bright tartan caps and curling tams. Of course there were the usual cream coloured 10-gallon hats on the Westerners. Almost everyone had a camera and divided their film between the Seaway and one another.

We were impressed with the number of people lining the canal banks and wondering accordingly how many thousands could be expected when the Queen passes through.

We disembarked at Cote St. Catharine where buses were lined to take people back to Ottawa or to downtown Montreal. Perfect host until the end, George Hees turned bus despatcher. With the greatest good humour and efficiency he managed to get everyone on to the right bus. It was a happy day for him and for all those who had been connected with the St. Lawrence Seaway in any way. One of the great engineering feats of the world had been completed and was operating perfectly.

Meet in Toronto--

Poultry producers vote to study marketing plans

Poultry producers in Ontario voted for an immediate study to be made of marketing plans under the Farm Products Marketing Act at the annual meeting of the Ontario Poultry Producers Association. Delay in gaining control of their egg industry could be fatal.

Delegates heard president Tom Robson, Leamington, warn producers of the rapid changes taking place in the poultry industry and that a year's delay in taking action could be disastrous to the average producer. Vertical integration improperly used is a major threat.

Integration to secure a quality product for a known market is justifiable but when vertical integration is used to promote some other aspect of the industry such as the sale of chicks or feed it is then a definite threat to the industry.

In the past few months, said Prof. Ross Cavers, of O.A.C., in his talk on vertical integration, there had been a voluntary cutback of the processor integrators in the broiler industry in an attempt to bolster up the poor price; this has largely been defeated when independent integrators had filled the empty floors with "fire sale" chicks. Over a quarter of a million eggs were being imported weekly from Georgia at 30 cents a dozen.

A straw vote of those present from almost every county in Ontario showed that producers favoured the agency type plan. This is the same as the hog and peach growers use in controlling the marketing of their product. Frank Perkin, of the Farm Products Marketing Board, outlined the types of plans that could be devised under the Act and stated there were 14 under the negotiating type and two under agency marketing.

The many delegates present requested the Ontario Federation of Agriculture to press for an equalization of tariffs on dressed chickens and fowl. At present there is a straight 5c a pound tariff on chickens exported to the United States while there is only a 12½ ad valorem duty on chicken imported into Canada. At present prices that amounts to about 3c a pound.

Dissatisfaction was also expressed by those present over the present method of the daily price quotation, in the Globe and Mail particularly, in regard to the support price. The newly-formed committee of enquiry into all phases of marketing will be asked to look into the situation.

Life-saver levels of price support for eggs rather than incentive prices were desired for producers. The present egg support price tended to leave the poultry industry vulnerable to vertical integration. The incoming directors were instructed to look into price support of eggs and to see where it should be set.

Zone elections were held just before the day-long meeting in the British Columbia room of the Royal York Hotel adjourned. Delegates felt that the new officers should be bona fide poultrymen but a motion specifying the number of hens a producer must have to qualify was defeated. Ken Lavalee, Glasgow Station, reminded delegates that the constitution of the organization included roasting chickens so that a producer could have but a few or no laying hens yet qualify as a director if a reasonable number of roasters were kept.

Representing the different zones, the following were elected: Zone 1, Mrs E. L. Macartney, of Ramsayville; Zone 2, R. Brooks, Bowmanville; Zone 3, D. Brown, Stouffville; Zone 4, Albert Pond, Jarvis; Zone 5, Milburn Greenwood, Mitchell; Zone 6, Allan Wedow, Hanover; Zone 7, Tom Robson, Leamington. The following officers will serve for the coming year: Tom Robson, president; Albert Pond, vice president; Ron Brooks, 2nd vice president.

The directors will meet April 27 to begin work immediately on the decisions of the delegates.

Slick: "When you get to New York you'll see the skyscrapers."

Hick: "That's why I'm going. I want to see the dern things work."

Mrs Delbert Flintoff new president of Osnabruck Centre W.I.

The April meeting of Osnabruck Township W.I. was held on Wednesday afternoon in the township hall. Mrs George Ferguson, president, was in the chair, assisted by Mrs Lloyd Gallinger, secretary-treasurer.

Twelve members answered the roll call and paid annual dues. There was an exchange of potted plants and plant cuttings. Home Economics Services books were distributed to the members by the secretary and a study will be made to enable a selection of topics at the next meeting.

The "Mother and Daughter" set of aprons, handed in by Mrs Wilson Mattice, will be the branch entry in the W.I. exhibit at Newington Fair this fall.

As this was the annual meeting, annual reports were given.

Mrs Ober Beckstead, chairman of the nominating committee, read the slate of officers as follows:

President, Mrs Delbert Flintoff; honorary president, Mrs Geo. Ferguson; 1st vice president, Mrs J. T. Flegg; 2nd vice president, Mrs Clarence Countryman; secretary-treasurer, Mrs Lloyd Gallinger; branch directors, Mrs Ober Beckstead, Mrs Clifford Collins; district director, Mrs Lloyd Gallinger; treasurer of fruit and flower fund, Mrs Fred Cryderman; conveners of fruit and flowers, Mrs Geo. Ferguson, Mrs C. Collins, Mrs Milton Countryman, Mrs J. T. Flegg; cemetery board treasurer, Mrs S. Eamon; pianists, Mrs S. Eamon, Mrs J. T. Flegg.

Conveners of standing committees: Agriculture and Canadian Industries, Mrs Wilson Mattice; Citizenship and Education, Mrs J. T. Flegg; Historical Research and Current Events, Mrs Geo. WHAT CAN I DO FOR YOU?

Your bank manager is easy to meet —and a good man to talk things over with. Not just because he knows a lot about banking, but because he can be counted on to apply that knowledge and experience to your particular need.

To him, banking is more than dollars and cents, more than figures in a ledger. To him, banking is the opportunity to work with people—through bank services to help with your problems, your hopes and plans.

That is what he has been trained to do. That is what he likes to do. You'll find he's a good man to know.

Water problems discussed--

Letters to the Editor

Chesterville, Ont.,
April 25, 1959.

To the Editor,
The Chesterville Record:

It has never been my purpose to engage in controversy, particularly in community or fraternal organizations. Hence I write this letter with misgivings. However, impressions have been created which should be corrected, and a clear statement given to those who have been misled.

In the first place, I wish to mention the proposed dam, and point out that at no time were the taxpayers of Chesterville required to consider the expenditure of $65,000. My understanding is that a money by-law was under consideration for a total of $30,000. In view of the fact that the largest industry in the village would pay over 50% of local taxation over the next few years, the net cost to the other ratepayers of Chesterville was unlikely to greatly exceed something in the nature of $10,000. One would hope that the spirit of community betterment and improvement would look upon such an expenditure as a very minor cost spread over a number of years, when the benefits could be enumerated, in part, as follows:

1. A permanent lake serving two purposes: (a) Fire protection reservoir; and (b) Beautification of the centre of the village.

2. Assist in a small measure to the supply of normal municipal services which should be available to any large taxpayer located within the boundaries of any municipality and paying full taxation.

3. Assist in the maintenance of ground water levels in the village.

4. Most desirable and urgent conservation benefits (this is the main reason for Provincial Government support of one-half the total cost).

5. The cover up of refuse so evident in periods of low water.

6. The benefits of lower fire insurance premiums, because of assured water supplies (those who observed a recent fire in Winchester was ample evidence of the benefits from this angle).

7. Provision of the only swimming pool within miles of Chesterville.

8. A source of water for an eventual sewage disposal system, which may some day be forced upon the community.

I could easily add to the above list.

Secondly, I would like to discuss the proposed water works system. To install such a system, the primary need is an assured and adequate supply of pure water. I would pose the following questions:

1. Where is the water in sufficient volume to be obtained? The large industry mentioned above recently drilled to a depth of 880 feet at a cost of $16,000, and obtained no water. What water is available at depths of 100 feet is high in sulphur, which would not please the average consumer, and would corrode a water works system very rapidly. How many wells could be drilled at $16,000 each and still allow for a water tower and distribution system quoted to cost $135,000?

2. It is assumed that the largest taxpayer will not require water from such a system. If that largest taxpayer is going to pay over 50% of the cost, why should that taxpayer not be privileged to take supplies from the system? In Winchester the local industry is planning to connect to their system.

3. Do the taxpayers of Chesterville know that they would be required to buy the water from a municipal system, and at what rates?

4. Do the taxpayers of Chesterville know what it is going to cost to maintain and supply the system with water and purify same (chlorination and desulphurization)?

5. If the municipal system takes the volume of water from sub-soil sources necessary to supply the village and industry, what will happen to the numerous wells in the area which will obviously suffer from a reduced water table?

6. As years go on, removal of water from sub-soil sources can only deplete those sources, and what good will a water system be without water flowing in the pipes?

7. Continued pumping of water from certain existing wells has been known to drain wells in the near vicinity.

8. A water tower of approved design will cost in the nature of $40,000, layout of piping and supply lines in Chesterville will be more costly than expected, due to the peculiar layout of Chesterville.

9. Corrosion protection for the above-mentioned tank will be vital, and will add into several thousands of dollars, otherwise the investment will deteriorate very rapidly. If the taxpayers of Chesterville will shy away from a net cost of ten to fifteen thousand dollars, will they accept financial obligations of ten to twenty times such a cost, and are they only to go half way, and leave the question of sewage disposal unanswered?

10. A decision should be announced concerning the obligations of householders to connect to established water lines. In some municipalities it is compulsory, once water is available from municipal services, to connect and use the same at the established rates. Thus you pay twice, once in taxes, and also in rates of usage.

In other words, you do not get something for nothing, but the first proposal was subsidized by outside contributions, whereas the second proposal will be a direct charge with no outside contributions.

If the provincial authorities are encouraging water works in small municipalities ,would they not be wise to put one pumping station at the St. Lawrence, filter and chlorinate at one unit, supervise one unit, and pipe the water to Williamsburg, Winchester, Winchester Springs, Chesterville, Finch, Morewood, etc. It would be a much more secure supply and eventually more economical and capable of expansion than limited local projects restricted by ground water supplies of unknown quantity. Gas and oil lines span the continent. Why is the more vital commodity—water, incapable of being pumped 20 miles?

It is hoped that the above statement will be clear to those who have been open to conflicting opinions and statements and may serve as a check list for pertinent fact-finding discussions.

Yours very truly,
G. W. Gilbert.

HOW TO LIVE WELL

CANADA'S manufacturing industry began to grow significantly about 80 years ago when the people decided that more of their needs should be provided from Canadian factories.

Today manufacturing is the most important element in the Canadian economy. It provides nearly half of all employment; it pays high taxes; and it is the greatest contributor to our national production.

Manufacturing will continue to provide Canadians with the world's second highest standard of living if the people of Canada will Buy Canadian.

FRESH ASPARAGUS IS HERE AGAIN

WELL PERHAPS IT ISN'T GROWING in the garden yet but it certainly is available in the stores. As the season for fresh asparagus is rather short I always like to serve it often. You may want to freeze some if you have an asparagus patch in your back yard.

Buttered Asparagus

Wash stalks thoroughly and cut off hard ends. If you feel you are wasting a lot of asparagus when you do this, you may peel the thicker ends as it is the outside that is apt to be tough. Either tie stalks in a bunch or cut in pieces. Boil till tender in salted water, about 10 minutes. Do not over cook. Drain and sprinkle with salt and serve with melted butter or hollandaise sauce.

Hollandaise Sauce

3 tbsps. butter
2 egg yolks
¼ tsp. salt
Few grains cayenne
1/3 cup boiling water
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Cream the butter; add beaten yolks of eggs. Add seasonings and water. Cook over very gently boiling water until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; add lemon juice. Pour over asparagus and serve at once.

This sauce is a delicious addition to asparagus or broccoli but must be made carefully to prevent curdling.

Creamed Asparagus on Toast

Prepare asparagus as for buttered asparagus. When tender, drain, reserving the water in which it was cooked to make the cream sauce. Make a cream sauce using half asparagus water and half milk. Pour over asparagus; arrange on toast and serve with crisp bacon, little sausage or poached eggs.

Asparagus and Deviled Egg Salad

Arrange freshly cooked chilled asparagus spears on crisp lettuce. Add two or three halves of deviled eggs and a radish rose. Garnish with French dressing or mayonnaise.

To make the deviled eggs, hard cook as many eggs as required. Chill at once to prevent discoloration. Remove shells; cut eggs in half lengthwise. Place yolks in a bowl; add salt, pepper, a dash of curry powder and enough mayonnaise to moisten. Blend well. Refill whites, using a fork. Garnish each piece of egg with a small sprig of parsley.

Freezing Asparagus

Wash; trim; cut in lengths to fit container or 2-inch pieces. To blanch vegetable, use a large kettle of briskly boiling water. Lower not more than a pound of vegetable into the boiling water using a wire mesh basket. Cover; start timing at once, three minutes for average size stalks. Remove promptly. Chill quickly by putting basket of vegetables into pan of very cold water. Water must be changed frequently so place under running water if possible. When thoroughly washed, drain and pack in airtight containers. Freeze at once for best results.
