Does anyone know "Beat It?"

Popular songs were the order of the day at Upper Canada Village's Fall Fair last weekend - that is, popular songs of the 1860's. Thaddeus Philpot (left) leads village glee clubbers Clarence Crysler, Sara Thompson and Phillip Porter in a rendition of a very old favorite. The singers are otherwise known as Peter Cozaly, Michael Pearson, Sally Dewey and Ed Shuster.

Council made mistake endorsing language resolution: Rosenquist

JUDITH O'BRIEN
Leader staff

MORRISBURG — Morrisburg councillor Gerry Rosenquist believes village council should not have supported a resolution asking the provincial government to include a referendum on Bill 8, the French language services act on the municipal ballot in 1988.

At a council meeting last week attended by approximately 40 citizens including the Alliance for the Preservation of English in Canada (APEC) Morrisburg President Bob Howald, councillor Al Belanger and Peter McCooeye supported a referendum on whether Bill 8 should be repealed. The resolution was opposed by Deputy-reeve Bill Shearing.

The resolution was a revised version of a draft proposed by Lanark County and sent to all municipalities in Ontario.

"I didn't realize this thing was coming up. I saw the resolution from Lanark County on the agenda and assumed it would be tabled like others had before," said Rosenquist who was not present at last week's meeting. "I feel council made a mistake. There are three council members who feel they may not have but Bill Shearing is the only one I feel did the proper thing. He stated it was not a municipal matter in any event."

Rosenquist said other councillors might have succumbed to APEC members who were present at the meeting, and were very vocal in their support of the Lanark County resolution.

Scare tactics

He said most of the APEC message consists of scare tactics and he thinks most Anglophones are not worried about the bill. He says defeated Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry independent candidate Gord McGregor, who claimed at last week's meeting that he had received 71 per cent of the vote in Morrisburg during the provincial election, is exaggerating the figures.

Results from the district returning officer show 66 per cent of eligible voters in Morrisburg cast their ballots, with 28 per cent siding with McGregor.

"Even if the 33 per cent of people who didn't vote had voted for McGregor the most he could claim to have is 42 or 43 per cent which is definitely not a majority," said Rosenquist.

He added it is a reasonable idea for Anglophones who are able to learn to speak French because Morrisburg is so close to the Quebec border and the nation's capital. He said he probably will never learn to speak French but he would certainly make sure that his children do.

"I think it only makes good sense," he said. "It makes good business sense at Upper Canada Village. A lot of people come from Quebec and if we don't speak French we will lost customers."

Embarrassed by the bigot belt

Rosenquist said the only party which opposed official bilingualism in the election was the Conservatives and they wound up in third place, which proves Bill 8 and bilingualism are non-issues in Ontario.

"The Conservatives have only 16 seats and they got four from the bigot belt — Eastern Ontario," said Rosenquist. "I'm embarrassed to be from the bigot belt."

He has challenged any APEC member to prove anyone in the area has lost his or her job because they cannot speak French, and has promised to intercede on their behalf to Premier David Peterson. But Howald said it is very difficult to prove someone has lost their job or been denied promotion because of language. He says the company will always find another reason.

"The fact is, people are not getting jobs or they are locked in lower level jobs," said Howald.

He says he knows of two local cases where the applicants were asked if they were bilingual, which they were not. He said neither were hired.

Democratic right

Rosenquist said APEC members have a democratic right to protest but he feels they will only create lots of turmoil and hard feelings which may take generations to heal.

"I'm not going to ask council to rescind the motion because it will only stir things up again," said Rosenquist. "But I want people to know where I stand."

Recreation centre opens on time, under budget

JUDITH O'BRIEN
Leader staff

WILLIAMSBURG — There were smiles and handshakes all around Saturday afternoon at the official opening ceremony of the recreation centre in Williamsburg.

The centre features change rooms, year-round meeting rooms, washrooms and snack bar and is located east of the tennis courts. It is partially funded by a $45,000 Wintario grant, which was received by the North Williamsburg Recreation Association in October 1986. The recreation committee decided to apply for funding for a new centre after vandals set fire to the old washroom facilities on Hallowe'en night 1985.

The centre cost $90,000 to complete. A fund-raising drive by the recreation committee in January raised a further $20,000. Williamsburg Township council agreed to make up the difference.

"We have to extend our thanks to all the people in the community who supported us, to councillors who were behind us and local businesses which gave us materials and financial assistance," said recreation committee Chairman Russell Garlough. "We came in on budget and on time. Close to $10,000, perhaps even more was donated in labor and we received $5,000 donated material."

Reeve pleased

Williamsburg Township Reeve Johnny Whitteker said the recreation centre is something that was needed in the township for a long time.

I don't want to take away from the old building but it was 45 years old," he told the assembled crowd. "It was built by two farmers and moved to this site. I remember moving the building with a tractor but when we got to this site we got stuck and we had to get Lyal Kehoe to come in with a wrecker and move it in."

Whitteker said the township's recreation facilities have come a long way since he joined council in 1954. "I can remember flooding the rink and we didn't have a black top then like we do now," he said. "We always had some grass on it and to freeze the rink was recreation in itself. You always had to have a little juice to keep warm and it seems we didn't mind freezing that rink at all."

Government view

Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve said Williamsburg has accomplished many things rarely seen in other small communities.

"In the four years I've been representing this area you have a new sewer system, a seniors' home, a fire hall and a recreation building," he said. "It bodes well for the spirit of people who work together and I couldn't think of a better community to spend the money in."

Ministry of Tourism and Recreation consultant Lucio Appollino, who worked with the recreation committee on the project, said it is an achievement for civil servants like himself to the completion of a project which begins only as a bunch of papers.

"You were able to create a beautiful facility on schedule," he said. "The community feels a sense of ownership and is proud of its achievements."

Student numbers up in counties

CORNWALL — Figures released by the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education this week show 6,204 students enrolled for the 1987 school year, an increase of just 31 students from 1986.

Enjoying the highest increase is Morrisburg Public, up 25 students for a total enrolment of 280.

Thirty-four students are in each of the junior and regular kindergarten classes at Morrisburg and Grade 1 has 27 students. There are 23 youngsters in each of the Grades 2, 3 and 4 classes and Grade 5 has 34.

Students enrolling Monday morning at Morrisburg brought the Grade six class to 36 and grade 7 to 23. There are 10 students in grade 8, six in the social adjustment class and seven in learning disabilities.

At the other end of the stats Riverside Heights Public School, which has been trying to avoid closure due to decreased enrolment, took a large drop from last year's 73 students to 42 this September.

A breakdown at Riverside shows three Grade 1s, four students in each of grades 2 and 3, eight in grade 4, seven in grade 5, five in grade 6, two in grade seven, four in grade 8 and five in learning disabilities.

Iroquois Public shows an increase of one to 231 students with 16 students in each of the junior and regular kindergarten classes. Classes are being provided for 26 grade 1s, 24 grade 2s, 22 grade 3s, 22 grade 4s, 15 grade 5s and 13 grade 6s.

There are 42 students enrolled in the late French immersion grade 7 class level and 27 in the grade 8 immersion class. As well there is one student in the regular grade 7 stream and six in grade eight.

Dixons Corners has dropped from 177 students last year to 169 and Elma is up 10 from 182 to 192. Maple Ridge also shows an increase from 210 to 214 and Nationview is up from 371 to 391. Rothwell Osnabruck dropped from 326 to 304.

Chesterville saw a decline from 200 to 185 and Winchester also dropped from 275 to 261.

Total staff for Morrisburg is 14.6, for Iroquois is 11.9 and for Riverside Heights is 5.2.

Morrisburg, with 280 students, has the fourth largest enrolment under the board's jurisdiction, behind Central Public at Cornwall with 588 students, Nationview with 391 and Rothwell Osnabruck with 304. In total 33 schools are listed in the report.

The actual staffing ratio achieved for the year is 17 to 1 and actual staff has gone from 345.2 to 347.8, an increase of 2.6 teachers. The staffing for September was increased by 1.5 teachers to adjust for an increase in the L.F.I. program at Central Public School and an increase in enrolment at Elma Public School.

Smoking banned

CORNWALL — Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Separate School Board trustees approved a total ban on tobacco use on all school board premises effective Jan. 1, 1988.

The tobacco ban motion was presented to the trustees at a meeting last week, and was approved by a margin of 12 to 2.

"As of Jan. 1 the use of tobacco, and that's not just smoking, that's all use of tobacco is banned from all board premises," said Gilles Metevier, Director of Education. "From offices, schools, workshops, everything — and we mean that."

The trustees have agreed to offer employees and their families stop smoking courses beginning in October. The administrative costs to set up the program will be borne by the school board and each participant will be charged a small fee.

"We have received some enquiries and however many there are we will accommodate them," said Metevier.

He said the board has not received any protests from teachers' unions regarding the ban. He added the tobacco ban motion was presented by the Human Resources Committee which covers all employees of the school board.

The board's French Language Education Council banned smoking at its schools beginning Sept. 1, while the English panel ban takes effect Jan. 1.

"The previous ban was middle of the road and places like warehouses, etc. were left in a state of fluctuation," said Metevier.

Recreation Centre opens

JUDITH O'BRIEN
Leader staff

OTTAWA — Stormont-Dundas MP Norm Warner announced the federal government will spend $100,000 to excavate the water access channel linking the Old Galop Canal west of Iroquois, to the St. Lawrence River.

The project is funded by the Ministry of Fisheries and Oceans, as part of the Harbor Revitalization Program.

North Augusta resident Paul Webb, who plans to build a boatyard/marina/repair facility in Matilda Township, originally submitted his request for dredging the canal two years ago. Earlier this year he approached area councils with his plan. He received zoning change approval for the 42 acres he owns in Matilda Township, paving the way for the project to proceed.

"I've been working with the federal government, the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority, Ontario Hydro and different municipalities to develop the area," said Webb. "I think the federal government has made a far reaching decision. It will help the proposed marina/boatyard as well as everyone else around. By upgrading the shoreline we'll be using a piece of shoreline that hasn't been used before and eventually I think it will create a lot of employment."

Some details must still be worked out with Ontario Hydro in accordance with the environmental assessment act, but Webb doesn't foresee any difficulties. Preliminary engineering reports have been completed and Webb hopes to begin land construction as early as this fall.

"Everyone connected with the surrounding water, the village of Iroquois and Matilda Township were given a copy of the plans and a brief about the project," he said. "Everyone was quite excited and I haven't received one bad word about it."

Warner said the opening of the waterway and providing for waterfront development in the Iroquois area will benefit the entire community.

"I am delighted that the Iroquois area will now be able to offer expanded tourist facilities," said Warner. "The tourist industry is a growth industry, and to expand with it Iroquois needs a better equipped, more accessible harbor. The project underlines the federal government's determination to help this community make the most of the opportunities."

Webb said the idea for a boatyard/storage facility has been with him for a very long time. He owns a 1912 yacht which he says has always needed a home.

"I think Mr. Warner's office went to bat for this," he said. "The greatest asset of the whole area is the water and it's not being used."

Branch 48 does it again

The Morrisburg Legion fulfilled its pledge of $25,000 to be put toward the cost price of the new arena ice plant and floor Friday night when Legion vice-president Lloyd Merkley presented a cheque for $10,000 to councillor Peter McCooeye. A donation of $15,000 was made in the spring. On behalf of the village and more importantly the resident of Morrisburg, McCooeye thanked the Legion for once again coming through for the community. "I am especially pleased to be here tonight to personally thank you for your support in this endeavor and as well for the many times in the past when you have come through for the community," said McCooeye.

Migrant geese visit local bird sanctuary

MORRISBURG — Thousands of migrant Canada Geese are beginning to descend on the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary, located 14 kilometres east of here, from mid-September to mid-November for their annual fall feeding.

Staff at the Sanctuary, operated jointly by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission and the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources, have grown and stored corn in preparation for the feast which began Sept. 14. This feeding will continue for the next eight weeks at 2:30 p.m. daily, seven days a week.

Resident geese in the Sanctuary attract migrant Canada Geese from the Atlantic Flyway population. Fall migrants number from about 10,000 to 12,000 over the fall feeding period and these migrants stop here to feed or to avoid bad weather. Approximately 30 tons of corn are fed annually to these geese.

Visitors to the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary can watch the feeding from the visitor centres and viewing tower. Information on the history and purpose of the Sanctuary is displayed at the centre.

The Sanctuary was officially opened in 1961 and its feeding and trail areas comprise about 1,400 hectares of wooded uplands, marshlands, waterways, crop land and goose pasture.

From the entrance of the visitor centre, 6.4 kilometres of nature trails wind through bush, follow hedgerows and bridge beaver ponds and take hikers through several different wildlife habitats.

In addition to Canada Geese, visitors may see many species of songbirds, geese, ducks and herons, as well as deer, beaver and muskrat.

Viewing blinds along the trails provide the visitor with the opportunity to observe and photograph wildlife.

Negotiations halted

OTTAWA — Negotiations between The St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway and Transport Workers, which represent 800 lock operators and maintenance workers broke down last Thursday over demands union negotiator Gus Callahan says would weaken the present collective agreement.

"We are in the process of making a report to the Minstry of Labor," he said. "We don't know what the minister will do. He may appoint a commissioner or he may take no action."

If the Minister decides not to take any action, the union will be able to strike after seven days. Close to 97 per cent of union workers recently voted to strike if an agreement was not reached.

"The main issue is money and certain changes in the collective agreement the Authority is seeking," said Callahan. "For instance they would start new employees at a lesser rate of pay than it is now classified. It would weaken the collective agreement in our view. We fought and paid for benefits and we don't want to give them up."

Callahan said the union is still hoping to reach a settlement without work disruption and will probably hear from the Minister by the end of the week.

Thirty employees at Iroquois and 55 at Cornwall could walk off the job as early as next week if a strike is called.

Democracy not mob rule

The image of our beautiful village projected to the rest of Canada and to the world can not in any way be enhanced by hooting and jeering episodes such as that which occurred at last week's council meeting.

Such conduct is the very antithesis of democracy, and is most unfair to our municipal representatives who have been freely elected to conduct our municipal affairs, often at considerable disadvantage to themselves and their families.

Most municipal councils are quite ready to receive delegations of ratepayers who wish to advance a particular cause, or make representations on behalf of some group in society. Such delegations are expected to have a spokesperson to represent their point of view, and ask for its consideration by council. But there is no obligation involved for a council to act on such representations, regardless of who makes them. The reeve and councillors of this village and other municipalities have been elected for a three-year term, and have pledged to conduct our affairs, during that term, as their best judgment directs.

Thoughtful citizens want their representatives to resist intimidation by hooting mobs or by jeering individuals; thoughtful citizens expect their representatives to use the reason and intelligence which won them election in the first place; thoughtful citizens realize that if change in council personnel seems advisable, the way to do that is via the next municipal ballot.

Throughout many centuries of civilization, democracy has emerged as not a perfect way, but certainly the best way available, to conduct a civilized society. Democracy involves government by a council freely-elected by the qualified ratepayers. It has nothing whatever to do with jeering, hooting mobs.

Search for top kids

It is a sad commentary on our Canadian perception that we are so concerned with sensationalism, and so little knowledgeable or appreciative of the good deeds of many of our young citizens who do "just a little more" - sometimes quite a lot more - to make a difference, to make things easier, or safer, or more pleasant for their fellow-Canadians.

Every day, in countless towns, villages and rural communities, younger citizens are performing brave deeds, unselfish deeds, happy deeds - not for monetary gain, just as a part of their daily lives, a reflection of the desirable traits of character which have been a part of their heritage through generations.

And every day, and every week, many of them go unheralded and unsung. Their heroic and generous deeds are so often unreported to anyone.

To recognize the important contribution made to our Canadian way of life by this important segment of our population, Canadian Airlines International and the Ontario Community Newspapers Association combined many years ago to establish Ontario Junior Citizen of the Year Awards. This program is a solid, fresh and heart-warming experience for those recognized as Junior Citizens of the Year, as well as for all those nominated, and hopefully an inspiration for other young people to emulate them.

Those eligible for nomination are "residents of Ontario, six to eighteen years of age, who have performed single or continuing acts of courage, shown ingenuity, fortitude or selfless service". Groups, as well as individuals, are eligible for awards, and nominations may be made by any citizen.

From all nominations received, a committee of editors and representatives of the airline selects the award recipients, each of whom receives a plaque citing their accomplishments, a Junior Citizen of the Year lapel pin, a portrait with the Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, and are invited to a special presentation luncheon.

The Junior Citizen Luncheon is described as a really enlightening experience. The Lieutenant Governor presents the awards to the Junior Citizens of the Year at this event during the OCNA annual convention in March. There's rarely a dry eye in the house. These kids are incredible — they are all a part of helping to make this world a better place in which to live.

If you know of a young person, or a group of them in your area who might qualify for one of these awards, please get in touch with Sam Laurin here at The Leader. The qualifying period for 1987 awards will end on October 31st, but nominations received after that date are not disqualified. They simply go into the program for next year.

We believe there are many young people right here in our district who are worthy of such an award. Let's hear about them. Let's recognize our top Ontario Junior Citizens of the Year.

Clean-up starts small

(Acton Free Press)

Individually, we feel powerless to stop the avalanche of chemicals which is, or could be entering our water supply. But we can give our support to groups such as POWER, who are trying to bring presure on politicians to stiffen policing of large polluters and to insist on clean-up now, not in ten years, when it may be too late.

We are caught between a rock and a hard place. The infertile eggs of herring gulls in Great Lakes areas, and the deformed young of the cormorant are warnings. We are not separate from the other species; we share a common environment.

One thing we can be directly responsible for, though is our own garbage. We can take steps to cut our garbage by re-using containers and choosing biodegradable packaging. We can refuse to leave litter in our parks and woods, and speak up if we see others doing it.

Finally, we can educate the next generation to behave a little better than we have. Clean-up starts small; it starts with each one of us acting as we would like others to act.

Headlines in the September 21st, 1977 issue of The Leader read, Jump Ready to Go, says Ken. "The Mad Canadian", Ken Carter, held his final press conference for the one-mile jump across the St. Lawrence appearing ready and willing to go ahead with it. Work was continuing around the clock at the launch pad site but Carter admitted ticket sales weren't going as well as expected and in fact were disappointing. Tree Talk

CONIFER NEEDLE DROP AND YOU

In some circles, 1987 will be known as the year of the problem pines. In the spring, pines of all kinds throughout the district looked like they were dying at an alarming rate. The problem turned out to be a sympton of winter moisture stress. The trees came through that crisis well. Now it is the fall, and once again pine trees all over look like death is knocking at the front door. Rest assured; your trees are not dying, they are just losing their needles.

"I thought that pines and other conifers kept their needs all year long?"

This is true. It is also true that conifers do not keep the same needles forever. That is to say that like their deciduous cousins, coniferous trees do shed their needles. All the needles do not go at once though, like deciduous trees. Conifers shed their oldest needles first. Those being dropped now are 2 to 3 years old and no longer productive. The tree is doing a major housekeeping job, getting ready for the upcoming winter.

"What can I do about this needle drop?"

Not a thing. The only thing you may want to do is clean up the needles that have fallen, since they tend to be a bit messy. By next spring all of the dead needles will have fallen and your pines will be healthy and green. If you look carefully at your trees you can see all the new growth from this past summer. This is a sign of the general health of your trees.

"What can I do to prepare my trees for the coming winter?" If you have small ornamental conifers you may want to cover them with wood in a pyramidal fashion. This will keep the heavy snow and ice from damaging the little trees. Not much needs to be done to larger trees. Any weak branches should be removed now, rather than during a heavy snowstorm or icestorm. Take care when removing branches to avoid injuring both the tree and yourself.

the Kitchen Garden

V.A. Hughes

From raised beds encircled by railway ties to raised beds of a different nature, these are enclosed by walls of concrete blocks. One of the members of the family remarked that they reminded him of the terraced gardens that you see on hillsides in Spain. The house is perched high on a rock and the gardens work down in steps around the foundation.

In a move to get the perennials settled in before frost we spent a rainy weekend hurriedly transplanting the miniature Roses, two of the white double Lilacs and three clumps of Russian Olive. The Roses, in a bed that's been enriched with peat moss and manure in an area that receives a heavy snow cover should be safe. But we are concerned about the other plantings as outside of the established beds we had to plant in pure sand. It's either feast or famine, from heavy clay of the river plain to the granite face of the Canadian Shield. Here we find either sand or rock, where it's sand you can dig forever, where it's rock you need a mining crew. Like the gardeners in Bermuda you would need to blast a hole and then sift the remnants, mixing them with the leaf mold that collects in the crevices.

Checking to see what natives are already growing there we find wild Raspberries growing happily in the sand. They are of the Rose family so we take a chance and put a few of our faithful Dog Roses in the same area. The Lilacs, we put beside the outhouse—they won't take long to make a nice screen. The Russian Olive went in along the edge of the bank. They have a root system that holds the soil and that's exactly what we want there.

As we become more familiar with the area it will be easier to plan what we want to grow and where. Eight acres should give us enough space to work with, but at the moment we're a little intimidated. Suddenly we are faced with thousands of plants we don't know. Thank heavens for the Peterson Field Guides. We're working with the ones for Wildflowers, Ferns and Trees. It's like learning a new language, finding the common roots or family names makes it 10 times easier, and each new one that we master becomes a friend when we see it again.

Aside from learning the names of the exotic wild things, our first job will be to plant a Kitchen Garden. We didn't realize just how much we depend on it until this past weekend when we were making a stew. The bottled herbs hadn't been unpacked yet, but no bother we always use them fresh from the garden in the summer. We'd just hop outside and clip some Parsley, a leaf or two of Lovage and a little Thyme. Except there were no herbs or Kitchen Garden, only a fat Zuchinni. So we had to "make do" with a Bay leaf, three extra Onions and half a jar of spaghetti sauce. The Zuchinni went in too, coarsely diced. With a loaf of fresh bread it wasn't half bad.

"We're working on the plans for an outdoor bake-oven; it will be lovely when it's finished.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Art,

I was somewhat dismayed on returning from a short post election holiday to find that last week's council meeting resulted in a vote in favor of a municipal referendum re: French Language Services. Had I known this was coming up, I would have been at that meeting to register my vote.

With your permission I would like to do so through the medium of your paper. As I stated on numerous occasions since it last came up at council, it is not a municipal issue and therefore should be tabled. Having said that however, and since it was not tabled I would have voted against it for the following reasons:

—French is an official language of Canada
—Francophones deserve the same rights as Anglophones
—English is not going to disappear.
—Jobs will not be lost by English speaking people because they do not know French.

On the last issue I challenge any APEC member to provide me with documented proof of someone having lost their job solely because they did not know French and I will personally intercede on their behalf to Premier Peterson.

Thank you for your consideration.

Dear Editor — Fall, 1987, marks the 20th anniversary of St. Lawrence College Saint-Laurent, Cornwall, Ont. The Cornwall campus has dedicated itself to serving its community since 1967, graduating hundreds of young professionals, many of whom are carving their niche in Canadian business and industry.

October 5, 1987, marks the beginning of a week of festivities for the campus. There will be a marathon from our Kingston campus, the runners carrying a torch to light the anniversary flame, community open houses, and a host of other activities.

The week climaxes on Friday, October 9, with the start of a Homecoming Weekend for alumni, faculty and students alike. Receptions, brunches and time to renew old friendships are the order of the weekend, with a banquet and dance on October 10, to top things off.

Your readers can find out more about this exciting week of events by writing: Alumni, c/o Career Services, St. Lawrence College Saint-Laurent, Windmill Point, Cornwall, Ontario K6H 4Z1, or by telephoning (613) 933-6080 and asking for Career Services.

Vegetable preparation focus of Upper Canada village weekend

MORRISBURG — The weekend of Sept. 26 and 27 at Upper Canada Village, will illustrate the preparation of fruits and vegetables for the upcoming winter and following spring.

Food and warmth were the two main preoccupations of people living in rural Canada in the 1860s. The preservation of food for the lean months ahead was central to a pleasant and healthy survival. Various means of food preservation were employed to ensure that a family's garden produce lasted until the next crop was ready for harvest. At the Village these types of preparation activities include the making of apple cider, drying apples, pickling beets and making sauerkraut.

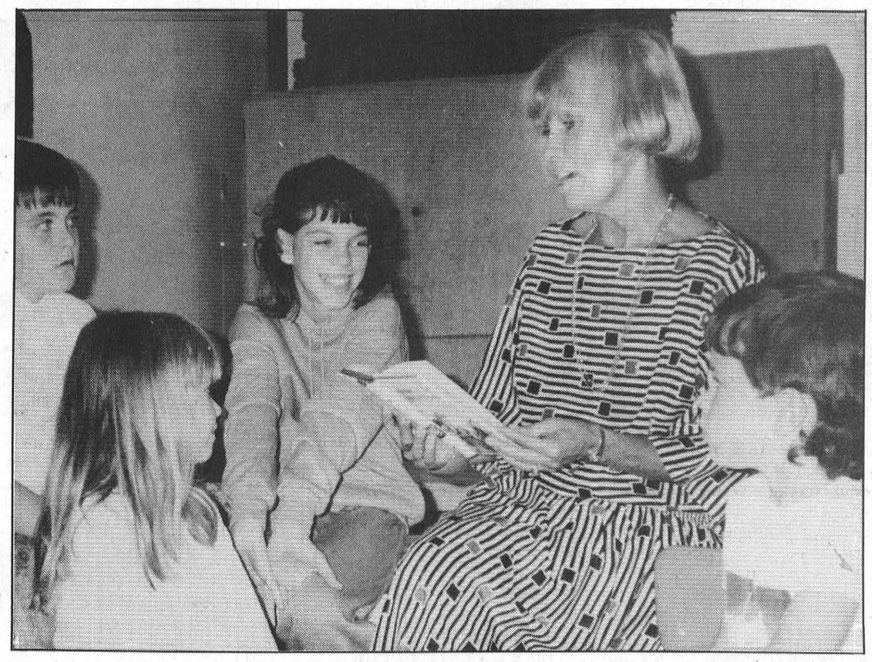
Apple cider will be made using a portable cider mill to pulverize the apples. The apple mash will then be pressed and poured into wooden barrels to begin its distillation process. Apples will also be cut up and dryed for snacking and baking.

Sauerkraut will be prepared in the summer kitchen at Loucks' Farm using cabbages from their garden. The cabbages will be chopped and layered alternately with salt and pressed in large earthenware corks or wooden barrels. Within a month or so the fermentation process will take place in a cellar. This sauerkraut will make a tasty companion with the fresh or smoked sausage being made the following weekend (Oct. 3 and 4) at the Loucks' Farm as part of the Village's "Preparing meat for Winter" programme.

Root vegetables such as potatoes, carrots, parsnips and turnips will be placed in sand in the root cellar or a similar cold storage place to preserve freshness. Squash and pumpkins will be stored in a cellar where they cannot freeze.

An added dimension to the programming of this weekend's winter preparatory activities will be an explanation and demonstration of how seeds were collected, dryed and stored in the 1860s. The focus of this demonstration will be given by the inhabitant of the rental accommodation who works part time as the Robertson's gardener. He will look at the "heritage" plants grown at Upper Canada Village and their propagation.

Heighten your awareness of the 1860s — a time when food preservation was integral to survive.



New face at St. Mary's

— REAL ESTATE —

by Ken Kirkby

"Paper, paper, paper—"waiver"

Many real estate deals involve a large number of sheets of paper, from the first Listing of a property, to a Fact Sheet detailing information about that particular piece of real estate, to an Agreement of Purchase and Sale, to an Amendment to the Agreement, a Waiver of a Condition on an Agreement of Purchase and Sale (a period of time required to arrange a mortgage as an example), are just a few of the pieces of paper often required before a sale is completed, the money changed hands and the real estate people paid.

Take a Waiver as an example. First the real estate practitioner has listed your house and has brought you an Offer. The Offer states that the Purchaser required 30 days to arrange a mortgage to be able to buy the property. It is usual to keep offering the property for sale until a Waiver is signed which takes off that "Condition" regarding arranging a mortgage. The Purchaser, in signing the Waiver is really stating in writing that he has arranged the money and will have it available when the day of Closing (when deed and money change hands) comes around.

A Condition is extremely important in that it protects both parties to the transaction. It gives the prospective Purchaser time to arrange a mortgage (or other Condition, such as selling their present house) and yet keeps the house on the market in case the mortgage can't be arranged. A part of the Condition gives the prospective Purchaser a few days to come up with the money in case another suitable Offer is obtained, so that the first Purchaser who has an Accepted Agreement of Purchase and Sale can still buy the house. Everything, of course, must be in writing, signed, dated under seal.

Whlie the whole thing may sound a bit confusing, it really isn't. It is but one of the small pieces of knowledge that real estate practitioners use in every day selling of real estate and another good reason why their services are required.

Your banker or trust company or wherever you wish to borrow money can help Purchasers by giving an indication ahead of time as to how much the Purchaser may be able to borrow, based on assets, liabilities and income, and quite often a Committment of those funds is made ahead of time. The Purchaser then knows what price range he/she can afford, the real estate representative can select property in that price range and all parties are spared time and effort in arriving at a mutually beneficial agreement.

Ask your real estate firm for help an they'll give it happily as part of their service, whether it be placing a market value on your property or helping find funds to process the sale.

Repairs needed

MORRISBURG — Repairs to the village water tower were termed "not too serious" by Morrisburg works superintendent Clare Van Allen.

Van Allen said some holes were present in the sleeve of the water tower which are probably due to wear and tear on the 30-year-old structure, and chlorine build-up.

A representative from the Ministry of Environment wil inspect the tower later this month and determine what repairs will be needed.

Area schools welcome principals into the fold

MORRISBURG — Starting at a new school can be exciting and a bit overwhelming whether you're a new student or a new principal.

St. Mary's Separate School welcomed Sheila O'Connor into the principal's office this year, replacing Sister Mary Jane Leonard who moved to Toronto.

O'Connor is a veteran teacher, having spent the last 29 yeras at St. Mary's School in Chesterville, the last 18 as principal.

"It is a big change. I was also a student at Chesterville," she said. "But Morrisburg is a beautiful town. I won't find it difficult to follow Sister Leonard. Our philosophies are very much the same and everyone here is open to learn from each other."

Among her objectives for the school, O'Connor lists more interaction between the school and the community, an open door policy which will allow parents to view their children in an educational setting and the introduction of a hot soup program.

"The program is paid by the parents and the need is there for it," she said. "I'm just getting the handbooks out to them but it was a very positive thing at St. Mary's in Chesterville. It went very well."

There is plenty of activity to occupy the new principal during her first week of school. Construction of a corridor linking the two portable classrooms to the main school building is underway and fencing has been erected around the property for the increased safety of students.

O'Connor will be hosting a "Meet the Family" night for the 97 students and their parents shortly. In addition to O'Connor, new staff include Claire Locke, Grade 1 and 2, Joann Larin, Grade 4 mornings, Joanne Baker, Grade 4 afternoons and Pauline Tessier, French teacher.

St. Cecilia's addition

St. Cecilia's Separate School in Iroquois has also seen many changes this year. Michael VanderKamp replaced Doug Jarvis as principal. VanderKamp has been teaching for 18 years, the last 12 at St. George's Separate School in Long Sault. He was principal at St. George's for one year.

"I knew at the beginning of May I would be transferred," he said. "It is school board policy to transfer principals every few years. I'm happy with the choice because I like the country school."

He said the atmosphere and size are similar between the two schools, and doesn't expect any problems adjusting to his new job.

VanderKamp is hoping to convince Iroquois Public School to join athletic competitions against St. Cecilia's and with a new gym at the school, there will be a greater scope of activities.

There are 78 students from Grade 5 to 8 at St. Cecilia's this year. Grade 5 teacher Debbie Myers joins the staff from St. George's School.

Public schools

Teacher aides Mark Dillabough and Theresa VanKoppen will be at Morrisburg Public School this year. Madeleine Carr will be teaching Grade 4, replacing Susan Marsden-Whelan who is on maternity leave. Two hundred and eighty students are registered at MPS for the upcoming year.

Maureen Hart (Grades 1 to 3), Frank Hummel (grade 4 and 5) and French teacher Susan Wells will be instructing classes for the 47 students at Riverside Heights Public School this year. Peter McIntosh will be relieving for principal Doug Anderson and Luella Robinson will teach the learning disability class.

At Iroquois Public School Joanne Villeneuve will teach Grade 8 late French immersion, and Laurie McElheron will teach primary physical education. The student population of 231 remains unchanged from last year.

IN MEMORIAM

BLAIR — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, John.
Memories are beautiful things.
They last till the longest day.
They never wear out, they never get lost,
And can never be given away.
Memories are the precious lamps,
That light the darkest road.
To a beautiful reunion.
When we meet at the end of the road.
Sadly missed by your family,
Patricia, George, Shawn,
Coleen and Kent Holder
38pd

BLAIR — In loving member of my dear husband John who passed away September 27th.
Fourteen years have passed.
Since you were called away.
The rolling stream, of life flows on,
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice and smile of one, who once sat there.
There is a little treasured spot,
On a hilltop grave so green
Where sleeps my loving husband from human eyes unseened.
There's a corner of my heart for you,
Set a side for you only.
Loved and missed,
your loving wife, Jennie

WE LIST/SELL FROM THE ST. LAWRENCE RIVER TO OTTAWA

SD&G students discover art

CORNWALL — Students within the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry School Board system with a flair for the arts will have a chance to participate in an arts experience program held at Golden Lake, near Eganville, Ontario, Sept. 30 to Oct. 3.

The first time program consists of a three day workshop combining nine hours of instruction in a students' major field, and six hours of elective instruction. Workshops include watercolor, figure drawing, ceramic sculpture, dramatic improvisation, theatre, instrumental music, outdoor sketching, video arts, script writing, dance and vocal music.

"We are trying to give students the opportunity to work in an area of the arts, a study that is out of the ordinary," said SD&G board spokesman Dona Cruickshank. "We thought students would benefit from the experience. At the elementary school level students don't always have the opportunity to study art and at the secondary level many students aren't interested."

The program is open to students from grade 7 to 10. Space has been reserved for 80 students and Cruickshank says there has not been any problems filling vacancies.

"The response at schools has been fantastic," she said. "We allocated spaces to each school and we have four or five students on a waiting list."

Cruickshank said the board offers similar programs such as a trip to Quebec for students to learn and practice French, but this is the first time a workshop specilizing in the arts has been offered.

The arts workshop was organized by Cruickshank, Rothwell-Osnabruck Principal Doug Murray and Newington Public School Principal Al Bain. Eleven teachers from the SD&G school board will accompany the students as supervisors and instructors.

The cost per student is $126. The school board, the student and the each individual school will pay $42.

Students from R-O, Iroquois Public School and Seaway District High School will participate in the trip.

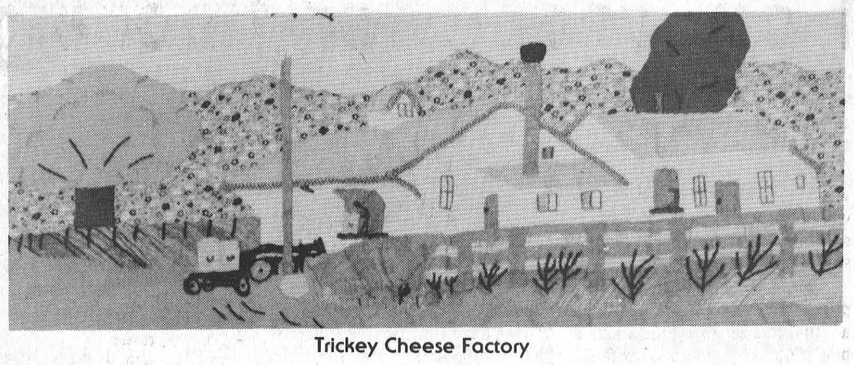
Quilt made with tender loving care



Trickey Cheese Factory

BONNIE MCNAIRN

WILLIAMSBURG — It was made with plenty of tender loving care and after some 325 hours of work, residents of Park Drive Villa here are proudly displaying a beautiful quilt depicting many of the historic buildings of the community.

Starting in the spring of 1986 with the initial designing of the 76 by 86 inch quilt, the work was completed in mid-August of this year, just in time for entry at the Chesterville Fair where it took Best of Show. Later this fall it will be up against all best of show winners from local fairs in the Dundas Agricultural District.

"But," says Olive Warren, who designed the piece, "We purposely didn't make it a 90 inch quilt because we didn't want it sent to Toronto for competition. It's for here and for our people to enjoy."

Hung in the common room at Park Drive Villa the lively quilt adds a special warmth to the area and immediately attracts a visitor's attention.

Some 23 different buildings are depicted on the quilt, some of which have been in the village since the early 1800s while others including the Villa and the new Williamsburg Fire Hall have been built more recently. Cutting through the quilt are the two roads, Hwy. 31 and Church Street, which cut through the village.

From paper to pattern

The project began with the design, done by Olive Warren who has worked on two other prominent pieces The Rideau Canal Quilt done in 1982 to commemorate the Canal's 150th anniversary and the Billings Estate Quilt made in honor of the first settlers in Gloucester Township.

Miss Warren, a fashion designer who has been interested in designing since she was a youngster, with consulation from several others, laid the initial plans using old photographs and pictures from the Williamsburg Women's Institute Tweedsmuir book.

"First I made a master plan deciding on the size of the blocks to accommodate what we wanted to put on it," she said. "Consulting with the others I then planned the colors."

With all of this in mind Miss Warren then set about enlarging the photographs.

The quilt is made of thirty 10 by 10 inch blocks, two — 20 by 20 inch blocks and two — 10 by 20 inch blocks.

The green border depicts a "snake" rail fence and was designed by a friend using a computer. The white background is ecology cloth, which is similar to old sugar bag cloth, as is the back of the quilt.

After the blocks were appliqued, squared off and laid out the quilting began in the lounge, the ladies working at it whener they felt like it. "Some felt like it a lot," said Olive.

While much of the material, sky here or a tree there, was donated some had to be purchased, including the ecology cloth for the border, some browns and the grey stone for effect. In total the material cost $100.

There are no patched blocks pointed out Warren, "they are either embroidered or appliqued.

A time-consuming process

For some blocks, Miss Warren admitted it took as long as eight hours just to enlarge the pictures. The smaller ones usually took 2-3 hours beginning with tracing and then continuing to the enlargement.

The ladies did not keep track of the quilting time because they were doing it off and on continually.

In total 21 people worked on the quilt and the blocks were appliqued by Jean Casselman, Eileen Graham, Lois McPherson, Medora O'Shaughnessy who passed away just two weeks after she had completed the block featuring the old Williamsburg School S.S. No. 12, Edith Shaver, Helen Smith, Lorraine Tupper, Audrey Whitteker and Olive Warren.

Along with entry at the Chesterville fair the quilt was on display at the Upper Canada Playhouse during the final two performances of "Hands of Healing" a story of Williamsburg's famed Dr. Locke.

A history in picture

Beginning in the lower right hand corner, the quilt depicts the Ivan Merkley farm just south of Williamsburg. It was during the farm's ownership by Weldon Beckstead about 10 years ago that an Indian village was found on the site and depicted in the farm scene are Indian artifacts and an Indian longhouse.

Other buildings include Stoney Croft owned for many years by Maefred Merkley and now by Duane Locke, Georgie Froats' home, the Saddlemire House, Walt Whitteker's home which was formerly the Dominion Hotel and the three churches of the village, St. Peter's Lutheran, the United and the Christian Reformed.

The former Ross Beckstead home and black smith shop is there, as is Keno's Post Office now occupied by Lisa's Hair Salon. Also included are Barclay's Store, the Picadilly Theatre, Locketon Lodge Hotel, the old school, the Trickey Cheese Factory, the old Bank of Montreal, a graveyard of the 1800s circa, Strader's Store, and the Women's Institute canopy which sheltered Dr. Locke's "circle" and the doctor's memorial.

The more recent buildings include the Pioneer Hotel, the new fire hall and of course Park Drive Villa.

"Funny though, said Warren, as she again examined the quilt. "Everytime you look at it you see something different."

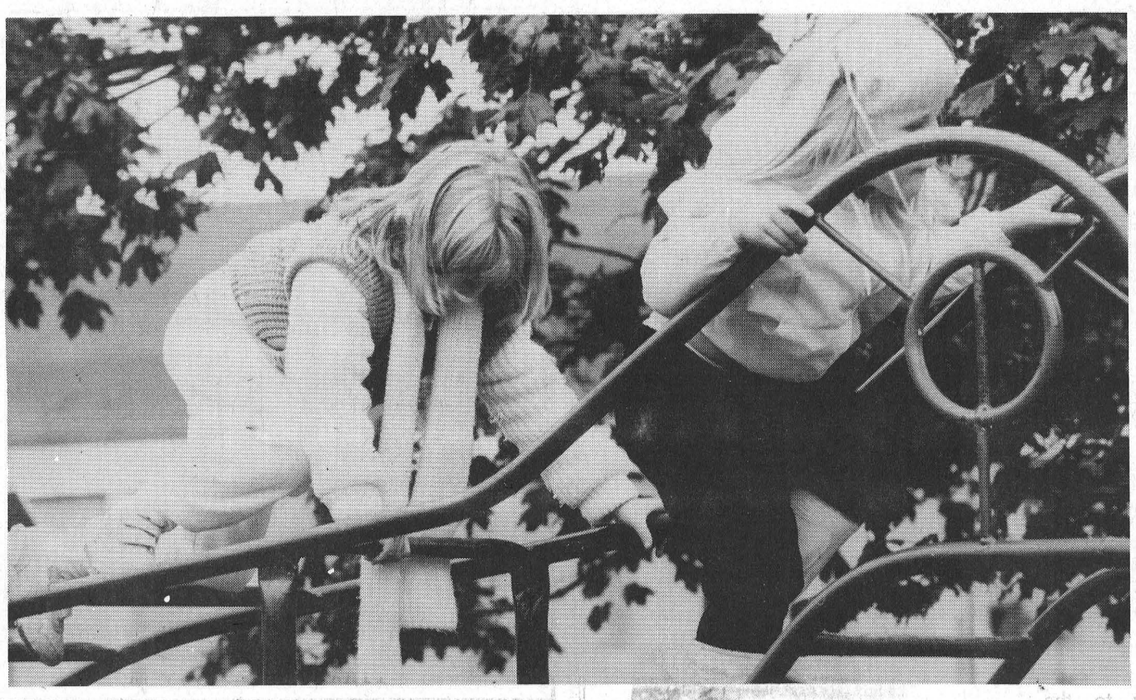
The games children play

Equipment in the Morrisburg Public School playground takes a beating some five days of the week and it's apparent that the more who climb aboard the better. Below, Lindsay Duvall leads the way heading for the slide along an extremely treacherous course easily crossed by the eager kindergarten students, while above it's gathering time atop the climbing apparatus.



Arena the coldest spot in town ice plant on, ready for flooding

MORRISBURG — The Morrisburg Arena has become one of the coldest spots in town these days, but of course that's good news to the various groups who make it their winter stomping ground.

Last Thursday the new ice plant was turned on by Jim Lanting of Ammonia Equipment Ltd, who installed the plant in June and by Tuesday morning the floor had reached a temperature of 20 degrees farenheit, ready for flooding.

"It checked out pretty good when I started it up," said Lanting. "The only problem we found was one small leak in the floor piping located under the lobby windows. It's funny it didn't show up when we ran the tests at the time of construction."

But that one leak isn't so bad when you consider there is eight miles of piping under the floor, said arena manager Don Smithson.

Lanting dug down around the problem area and found the hole, about the size of a pin head. A new piece of piping was installed and the area packed with sand. "We can't cement it this year because of the freezing but it's a small job that can be done next spring," he said.

When the plant was turned on Thursday the floor was reading 68 degrees F. By the next morning it had dropped almost 20 degrees, to about 50F. "The floor has to be from 18-20 degrees F to begin flooding," said Lanting.

By Monday the floor was down to 28F and the arena staff was busy finishing up construction work in preparation for flooding. New benches were being built in the players' boxes and north doors, onto the ice surface, were being rehung.

The walkways were all treated to a fresh coat of paint and the zamboni was sent out for its annual maintenance.

Although Smithson had hoped to start flooding Tuesday morning the construction work was not quite complete delaying the process until Tuesday afternoon.

"We have to do the first flood with a garden hose so it takes awhile to get the whole floor covered," he said. "After that we switch over to larger hoses."

"Smithson said he hopes to have one inch of ice in place by Friday when the white wash crew is booked. After that the lines will be put down.

The ice will not be ready by this weekend but the Junior B Lions are scheduled to practice September 30th.

Presently the operation is using just the new compressor but Smithson says once they start flooding the old one will be turned on as a backup.

40 in camp

Jr. B Lions kick off season

MORRISBURG — The Morrisburg Junior B Lions kicked off their 1987-88 pre-season schedule at the Cornwall Civic Complex Thursday night with 40 hopefuls in camp.

"It looked pretty good for the first time out," said Kevin Casselman who is returning for his second season behind the Lions' bench. "We had 40 and there were several of our returning veterans who were not in attendance."

Casselman, who is again this year working with Allen McNairn and Gary Blok (trainer), says everyone is looking forward to the season particularly because of the realignment which put the Lions in the Rideau-St. Lawrence East division with Winchester, Char-Lan, Kemptville and Alexandria. As well the Lions will play home and home series with the west division.

"I think it will be good for everyone," said Casselman. "Although it means more travelling for us it'll be a tough division. Char-Lan will not be a push over and of course Winchester always comes up with a good tough squad."

I'm really looking forward to it."

Strong on defence

With the return of goaltenders Andy Cummins and Kent Pilon, along with Kevin Eamon who comes from the Morrisburg Minor system, Casselman says goaltending is definitely the strong point of the team.

Both Cummins and Pilon had outstanding seasons in 1986-87 particularly in the early rounds of playoffs.

In front of the goaltenders there promises to be a strong defence with six returning players as well as another six in camp. This comes as a welcome change from the last few years when the Lions were forced to drop their forwards back to cover gaping hopes they were unable to fill.

Returning defencemen include Sean Baker, Jim Bennis, Steve Warner, Corey Warner, Mike Fetterley and Greg Whitteker.

As well, Casselman pointed out a couple of the walk ons looked particularly good. "All of our returning defencemen are young and they look good," said Casselman. "Obviously we have two decisions to make...how many defencemen we are going to go with and then who."

"It's nice to be in the situation where you have a surplus of players but sometimes it can cause problems too," he added.

Up centre the Lions have Johnny Morrow, Randy Mullin and Rod Lemieux, all returning, and back for their positions on right wing are Bobby Jack Hart the lone overage player in camp, Charlie Carbino and Lyle Schell.

Left wing is the weakest spot with only Sean Lapier returning. Dan Breyer and Donald Black were both lost to overage and Mike Casselman is on a hockey scholarship at Clarkson University.

"Actually we lost almost our entire left side from last year and obviously there are some big holes to fill," said Casselman.

Pointing out there were several players who looked good at Thursday night's Camp Casselman also indicated there were some from the Morrisburg Minor Hockey system who could easily fill a spot.

As well Casselman is waiting to see what happens to locals Barry DeGray and Rob Whitteker who are trying out for the Smiths Falls Bears of the Central Junior League.

As for a second over age player it's a wait and see situation. "We have only Bobby Jack Hart back and according to the league we can only touch overage players who played in our division last year," said Casselman. "That means we can't pick up an overage who played for CharLan or Winchester."

"It's a matter of waiting to see who is left, once the teams of our old division make their selections."

Casselman says he is hoping to be on Morrisburg ice on the weekend and until then nothing more has been scheduled. The Lions were in Cornwall again last night (Monday) and are scheduled for an exhibition game in Alexandria, October 2nd.

"We hope to be trimmed down by the time Oct. 2nd rolls around but we probably won't make any cuts until Monday," he said, pointing out that he considers all positions up for grabs. "They will all have to work for their positions."

No excuses

Casselman says the Lions should be able to get off to a strong start this year. "We shouldn't have any excuses for not starting strong," he said. "We've got early home ice and we've got a lot of returning players to work with."

Minor hockey boundaries to be enforced, but not a big problem

MORRISBURG — A recent decision by the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League to enforce boundaries determining where youngsters can play hockey this year has some residents living along the old number two highway concerned about what could add up to a lot of extra mileage.

The boundary causing the problem is the Morrisburg Association's west one, which is about a mile and a half out of the village, said Morrisburg and District Minor Hockey president Wayne Markell.

"The boundary has always been there," points out Markell. "But in the past the boundaries just weren't strictly enforced."

League cracks down

"Now that the league is cracking down parents are concerned and it's only natural," he said. "It could mean that instead of a mile and a half drive into Morrisburg it'll be a 11 mile trip to Cardinal."

In order to play in an association other than his own a player must obtain a transfer from his home association.

Not a problem

"This is not a problem if a child wants to play at a level not available in his home association," said Markell explaining "if a child is Midget A material and the home club is not offering a midget A team then the child can travel to the closest association offering the calibre he wants."

However, if the player or parents wants to be in another association for other reasons, such as proximity or just personal reasons, the process could be a little more complex.

Again a transfer must be obtained and if the home association agrees it is good for one year only. If the home association says no, the player then has the option to take it to the Upper Canada Minor Hockey League for a ruling. "If the Association rules for the child there is no problem but if they rule against the transfer then there are two choices, says Markell. "You either play in your home association or you take the matter to the Ottawa District Minor Hockey Association. Once there the decision, one way or the other, is final."

Transfers needed

Generally, says Markell, obtaining a transfer is not a problem, because 99 per cent of the time the home association knows it won't have a leg to stand on of a player has a good reason.

People in the situation this year, wanting to play in Morrisburg but living within the Iroquois-Cardinal boundary, mainly along the old No. two highway reason that their children attend school in Morrisburg, play minor ball in Morrisburg and are generally associated with all aspects of the village.

Fifteen affected

According to Markell about 15 players are affected by the boundary and for the Morrisburg Association, which saw its registration level drop from 166 children last year to 125 this season, 15 players represents a good number.

"Some parents are saying if their kids can't play in Morrisburg then they won't be playing at all," said Markell. Most of the 15 players played in Morrisburg last year.

"These 15 players must register with the Iroquois-Cardinal association and I am advising them to have a transfer sheet with them," says Markell. "We have to remember that a delay forces the child to lose ice time."

Vesting

"We now have some players in our association who are outside the boundary but they are alright because they have been "vested in" which is a permanent transfer," he said. "Vesting is no longer done but anything already in place is still recogn d.

Markell says that the ideal solution to the problem of declining enrolment is an amalgamation between the Morrisburg Association and the Iroquois-Cardinal Association which has been fighting declining numbers for the last couple of years.

Amalgamation

At a meeting last year to discuss the future of the Iroq-Card Association, it was apparent that should that association fold the Iroquois people would want to go to Morrisburg and the Cardinal children to Prescott. First and foremost though no one wanted to lose their association.

"Associations are amalgamating all around us, said Markell. "And it's something we're definitely going to have to look at in the future."

As for this year's problems, players and their parents are going to have to follow the proper procedure for obtaining transfers. "There is no reason to believe there will be any problems...but I can't say how Iroq-Card is going to handle it," said Markell. "However there haven't been problems in the past."

Two coaches still needed for minor hockey teams

MORRISBURG — With the 1987-88 hockey season now just around the corner the Morrisburg Minor Hockey Association is almost ready to roll, with just two of 11 coaching positions yet to be filled.

Getting it started at the bottom level of the association is Steve McCann who will handle the Peanuts and Keith Donaldson has taken on the Novice Reds who play in the local Novice A league.

Peter McCooeye is back for a position at the Atom A level and Danny Rice will be guiding the Atom Bs. Larry Coleman, a newcomer to the Morrisburg system, will handle the Peewee Bs and Rick Froats has signed for the Peewee Cs.

Bill Dillabough will lead the Bantams this year and although it is not yet definite, Morrisburg association president Wayne Markell says the bantams will probably ice an A team. As well this year we will see an A level midget team which will be coached by Dennis Casselman.

As far as the girls team is concerned, Donnie Mabo and Dale Lewis, are taking on the coaching duties providing a few more girls come forward to play. With only eight girls signed at this time Markell pointed out that the Association may be forced to drop the Charlie's Angels team. "Most of the girls have gone off to school or have work commitments," said Markell pointing out that last year there were 18 girls on the squad.

The only teams left without coaches at this time are the Novice Blues who play in a local Novice B league and the Bantam Cs.

Ferrets in good form

MORRISBURG — Ferrets quarterback Russ Cameron was in good form in town league flag football action here Sunday morning, passing for four touchdowns enroute to a 25-14 victory over the Red team.

Cameron completed touchdown passes to Sam Laurin, Terry Veinotte, Kent Dawley and Jeff VanMoorsel while Reds quarter John Vaughan, who was filling in for Steve Casselman, managed touchdown passes to Rick Stanczak and Kevin Adams.

The Reds had a tough time moving the ball and twice their passes were picked off by Ferrets' Gary Dickinson.

The second game was a much closer affair with Tom Dawley's Blue Meanies scraping past Doug Wilson's Greens 14-13.

Passes to Chris Ferguson and Dave Tait resulted in the two Greens touchdowns and answering for the Meanies were Tim Smith and Kevin Keyes.

The Meanies came up with the win when Dawley punted into the green end zone for a single point. Dave Tait was on the ball but failed to clear it from the zone.

The Ferrets victory over the Red Team allowed the Meanies to move into sole possession of first place with six points. The Reds dropped into second with four points and the Ferrets, with their first victory, hold third. The Greens team is yet to pick up a point.

Curling executive busy

The executive members of the Morrisburg Curling Club are busy preparing for the upcoming season which is now just around the corner. With plans to start ice plant on October 1st curlers don't have long to wait for the season, which will kick off with a Curl Canada clinic, October 24th. Registration for all members will take place at the Curling club September 25th and 26th from 7:00 to 10:00 p.m. on both nights. As well a general meeting is planned for October 13th beginning with a pot luck supper at 7:30 p.m. The club this year, offers a variety of membership packages from full curling to curling just one night a week...with the aim to provide something for everyone. Pictured above, front left to right, are this year's executive members Pat Hare, Donna Moore, president Kathy Johnston, Lauren Locke and Mary Robertson. The 19th hole trying to close

MORRISBURG — Finishing off the 1987 golf calendar at the Morrisburg Golf Club is becoming quite a problem with the second postponement of the Nostalgia Tournament and picture and prize day Sunday, forced by another all-day rain.

Of course we never want to see a season end but it is absolutely necessary and as a result we are planning the tournament for Sunday, October 4th with a 12:30 p.m. draw and 1 p.m. tee off.

Members are asked to please take note that should the weather again be unfavorable we will definitely go ahead with the pot luck supper at 5 p.m. after which the various prizes won throughout the year will be awarded.

We are asking that everyone come out and have a good day of it, even if we can't get on the course. It's been a great year with good turnouts for all of our events and we would like this aspect of 1987 to carry through right until the end.

Remember there is no meeting. The annual fall meeting is scheduled for later in November. The closing is just a day of fun to close out the season.

Members are also reminded that all lockers are to be cleaned out by Wednesday, September 30th and the clubhouse is now running on a shortened schedule depending on the weather.

Could lose three teams

Minor hockey registration down

MORRISBURG—For the second consecutive year registrations for the Morrisburg and District Minor Hockey Association are down, this time to such an extent that as many as three teams could be dropped.

Only 125 players were signed to the association at last week's registration down from last year's figure of 166 which in turn was down from 1985 when 186 players took to the ice.

Another 15 youngsters were unable to register with Morrisburg for this season because they live within the Iroq-Card boundary. Many of them played in Morrisburg last year and will now have to seek transfers from Iroq-Card association to play here.

Teams were lost at the Juvenile level where there has been little interest for the past couple of years, at the girls level where only eight have registered and in the novice category where there will be only two teams this year compared to last year's three.

There is however, still the possibility that the girls team will be formed providing a few more players come forward. Last year the Angels had 17 players registered but according to Morrisburg Minor Hockey president Wayne Markell many have gone off to school or have work commitments.

A total of 13 peanuts have registered, the same number as last year but the novice category is down from 36-21. The atoms held their own at 23 players and the peewees dropped from 29 players in 1986 to 23. The bantams too have dropped from 28 to 22.

The only level to see an increase at registrations was the midget which started last year with only four players. However once the junior B camps were down there was enough to ice a midget team. This year 12 midgets have signed.

The association will ice one peanut team, two novice, two atom, two peewee, two bantam and one midget team for a total of 10 and possibly 11 if the girls can get going. Last year 13 teams were iced.

"We're way down," said Markell. "Basically we're losing at least two teams and we didn't pick up anyone at the bottom even with free registration for peanuts."

"Hopefully we'll get a few more peanuts and enough girls for the Angels team," he added.

But while the association is down in number, the quality remains with plans to ice three A calibre teams this year at the Atom, Bantam and Midget levels.

Spartan ladies hot

BY MONICA L. DUVALL

WILLIAMSTOWN — It was a wet weekend at the annual Williamstown Soccerfest but the Spartan ladies were hot, working their way to the "B" finals with some veterans and a handful of recruits.

The ladies held the Candiac squad to a scoreless game on Saturday morning and played an especially strong game against the mighty Schooners in the afternoon, losing 2-1.

Monica Duvall scored the only Spartan goal on a penalty shot with some words of wisdom from teammate Ronda "Smurf" Gallinger.

The ladies advanced to the B semi-final where they defeated the CharLan squad 1-0 Sunday morning again with a goal by Monica Duvall who scored on a breakaway.

In the B final the girls lost 3-0 to their bitter rivals, Cornwall City. The Spartan women were out in full force with orange and black warpaint on their faces and they played their best game against City all season despite City's poor sportsmanship.

The Spartan men had a chance to defeat the mighty St. Andrew Saints early Sunday morning but unfortunately did not have a full squad. The nine Spartans made a valiant effort but were unsuccessful.

This marks the end of the outdoor season for the league and the Spartans will now be preparing for the indoor season and electing the executive for next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Ian Lang

Casselman and Lang celebrate wedding

St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Morrisburg was the scene of a pretty summer wedding on Saturday, July 25th, 1987 at 4 p.m. when Ruth Casselman and Ian Lang were united in a double ring ceremony. Officiators of the ceremony were Rev. Stephen Olson, Cornwall and Pastor Christine Mussar of Morrisburg. Soloist for the ceremony was Marie Barkley accompanied by Valerie Howald. The bride was given away by both her parents.

The bride looked lovely in a white satin gown neatly trimmed with sequins and pearls, as well as puffed leg of mutton sleeves, victorian collar, sweetheart neckline with a cathedral train. The matching headpiece was a white satin teardrop shaped hat trimmed with pearls and a finger tipped veil edged in satin. Her bridal bouquet consisted of white gardenias, lilac, roses, white stephanotis and lily of the valley. The maid of honor for the bride was Brenda Brunt. Bridesmaids were Mary Casselman (sister-in-law of bride) and Judy Ouderkirk (sister of groom). They wore identical floor length gowns of mauve satin with sweetheart necklines and teardrop shaped hats with veils. The attendants' bouquets were mauve speckled lilies, lilac, roses and white stephanotis. The flowergirl was Betty Jane Casselman, niece of the bride, who looked adorable in a mauve taffeta dress trimmed with white lace. She carried a white lace basket filled with lilac sweetheart roses and wore a wreath of matching flowers in her hair. The mother of the bride looked elegant in a pink cocktail length gown of silk lace over crepe with complimenting wide-brimmed hat, matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

The groom was attended by Blake Henderson of Avonmore, friend of the groom. Ushers were William Casselman, Morrisburg, brother of the bride, and Blair Henderson, Avonmore, friend of the groom. The attendants, as well as the father of the bride, wore matching grey sharkskin tuxedos, satin trimmed, with boutonniers that complemented the bridal bouquet.

A reception followed at the Morrisburg Legion Hall where entertainment was provided by "Mystyique". Wedding guests attended from London, Toronto, Almonte, Prescott, Pembroke, Ottawa and the surrounding areas.

The happy couple honeymooned in the Pocono Mountains and now reside in the Village of Avonmore.

September WI meeting

RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS — September meeting of Riverside Heights W.I. was held at the Recreation Hall here.

The motto was "We may not solve all the problems we've seen but we cannot leave them behind." Roll call was "name a group having international impact or concerns affecting the peace of nations or the welfare of humanity."

In the absence of the Citizenship and World Affairs convenor Carol Butcher, Evelyn Wells and Doris Erratt conducted the program. Doris Erratt sent four sympathy and five get well cards since June. A thank you card will be sent to Cheryl Neild for doing the year programs.

Evelyn Wells read a paper on "What is a Canadian?" and also conducted a scrambled words contest which was won by Jane Shorey and Janny van der Baaren. Doris Erratt conducted a game and read a poem "Just a housewife". She gave a humorous reading "To those I leave behind" written by Jean Jeacle, of Ingleside.

The October meeting will be on October 14 with Chloe Hart as convenor.
