FORT WELLINGTON GUARDS COMING TO UPPER CANADA VILLAGE SUNDAY

Eastern Ontario's military history will blend with its pioneer traditions this Sunday, May 19, when the Fort Wellington Guard of Prescott takes part in a cannon salute and flag raising ceremony at Crysler Farm Battlefield Park.

Sundays ceremony, which starts at 1 p.m. will climax a novel fund-raising project for the 1840 period artillery unit from the Prescott fort.

Fifteen members of the Guard march from Fort cmwfypetaoios will take part in a sponsored march from Fort Wellington in Prescott to the Crysler Memorial near Upper Canada Village. The funds raised by the march will be used to pay the salaries of the community sponsored artillery unit which garrisons Fort Wellington during July and August.

The Guardsmen, in the colorful red, white and blue uniforms of the Royal Artillery Regiment of the 1840's will start their march Saturday morning and proceed to Morrisburg, where they will stay overnight as guests of the Morrisburg Legion.

They will leave Morrisburg at 9 a.m. Sunday morning, and plan to arrive at the Village at 11:30. Following lunch, they will be joined by the South Grenville District High School marching band and government officials for the flag-raising ceremony at the Crysler Monument. This part of the program starts at 1 p.m.

The Guard's color party will raise a Union Jack on one of the flag poles at the Memorial and its artillery crews will fire salutes from the two 24-pound cannon located at the site.

Following the general salute by the SGDHS band and an official welcome by Hon. Donald R. Irvine, MPP, MP Walter Baker and Prescott Mayor Pat Kingston, the high school marching band will perform music and marching routines on the lawn in front of the memorial.

The Fort Wellington Guard was officially formed last year following several years of research and planning by military history buffs in Prescott. The period military unit represents the Royal Artillery Regiment of the 1840 era, the period to which Fort Wellington in Prescott has been restored.

The Guard was officially posted at Fort Wellington July 1, 1973, and although members of the regiment performed garrison duty at the fort during July and August, the Guard has no official connection with Parks Canada, the federal agency that administers Fort Wellington.

All of the money for salaries for the student-soldiers, their uniforms and period muskets, has been raised by public subscription.

The unit operated with eight guardsmen last year, and this year hopes to expand to a 15-man unit, with a major portion of expenses to be met by money raised by this weekend's sponsored march.

Members of the Fort Wellington Guard, in their colorful and authentic red, white and blue uniforms of the Royal Artillery of the 1840's will be performing a flag raising ceremony and cannon salute at the Battle of Crysler's Farm Memorial at Upper Canada Village, Sunday afternoon, May 19. The Guard, raised and financed by the residents of Prescott, is made up of local students and was officially posted to Fort Wellington last July. The ceremony at Upper Canada Village is the culmination of a fund raising march from Prescott to the Village to increase last year's eight-man unit to a 15-member Guard this summer.

Seaway Singers Thrill Audiences

Again, music lovers in Morrisburg and area were given a treat when the Seaway Singers recently presented their concert entitled "Anchors Aweigh".

The stage was suitably arranged to represent a ship which was called the "S. S. Wreck". In the background was a huge painting, depicting very realistic looking waves, done by Derek Dickinson who also contributed greatly to many laughs during the evening.

Mr. Jack Skuffham acted as captain; Mr. Earl Eaton navigator; Kurt Polak 1st mate; Thom Boyd 2nd mate and purser, Ernie Merriken. Due to illness, Mr. Eaton was unable to be present, so Mr. Boyd ably took over his duties. The other members of the choir acted as deck hands, sailors, passengers, and they even had two cooks.

First on the programme was a medley of songs entitled "Bon Voyage". Mrs. DeGray invited the audience to participate in a few of the more familiar ones.

One song which created a little excitement was entitled Fire Below Deck. With the ensuing smoke and the flashing of the red light, one could almost imagine it was a real fire.

The second part of the program was named "Fun Night Aboard the S.S. Wreck". Various members of the crew as well as the 'passengers' entertained. This was followed by two selections by Mr. Dennis Millward.

The last section of the program was named "Quiet Time", when the aduience was treated to music of a lighter vein. One number was entitled "Cast Your Cares" sung by Dennis and Mr. Gerald Adams. It deserves special mention. Another, sung by the S.S. was entitled "Let There be Peace on Earth". If each person living followed the advice in this song, this would be a far better world.

Adding interest to the concert was the appearance of two children during one of the songs, Vicki Jarvis and Scott Veinotte. Another child, Stephanie Miner, danced the Sailor's Hornpipe. The program concluded with the singing of O Canada and Anchors Aweigh.

May 10th happened to be the birthday of the choir's director, Mrs. Marion DeGray, and she was pleased to be presented with a bouquet of beautiful flowers. Mrs. Thompson, the pianist, was also given one.

A great deal of credit for the success of this concert, was due of course, to the director, Mrs. Degray and the splendid accompaniments of Mrs. Emma Thompson on the piano, and Mr. George Baker on the guitar.

The Seaway Singers repeated their concert on the following Sunday evening, at which the Senior Citizens Clubs of Morrisburg and vicinity were their honoured guests. The Singers have been invited to participate in a concert on May 20th at Lansdowne Park, Ottawa.

The community of Morrisburg is fortunate to have such a splendid group of talented entertainers as the Seaway Singers. They are always willing to "help out" whenever possible.

An interesting and informative panel discussion of the child's entry into school and dealing with some of the problems encountered in this area was led by Dr. Dorothy Thornton, psychologist and member of the Children's Mental Health Team for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry counties. Mrs. Carol Ermanovic, Ottawa, representing the parent's point of view and Mrs. Betty Crewe, Brockville, kindergarten teacher and specialist.

Dr. Thornton said that school entry is a very important development in a child's life and that going to school is an important adjustment. This is the time of breaking away from the parents and family and assuming some independence. She stressed that how the child reacts to this situation depends upon the parents' anxieties. She said that the child will pick up the parents' feelings on school.

"What happens in cshool is the end result of what goes on at home. Home is most important in attitude and feeling of the child", she concluded.

Mrs. Ermanovic pointed out that playing roles and physical play outside, exercising all of the muscles in fresh air helped as skills to show independence. She also said that the Public Health Nurse can also be of assistance with school entry.

Mrs. Crewe outlined the activities and projects she plans for use in her classes. She gave many examples of child behaviour and how she dealt with the various situations and different levels of development in the young child.

Many questions were answered by the panel members following the discussion. Coffee was served by the social committee.

Waterfowl Loss Averted in Spill

"This time we were lucky". That was the relieved, but it-can-happen-again final judgment of Joseph Carreiro of the Canadian Wildlife Service, the spearhead organization in surveying and protecting waterfowl from a recent 2,000 barrel oil spill in the St. Lawrence River.

Escaping oil from the run-a-ground tanker Imperial Sarnia, west of Brockville, formed a huge slick whi h drifted downriver from Brockville to Iroquois where it was finally halted.

Because of prevailing winds and currents the slick drifted to the American side where, apparently, it trapped and killed only a few birds.

The Canadian side, including thousands of Canada geese at the Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary at Morrisburg just below Iroquois, escaped without a stain.

"We could have lost 4,500 geese, all the birds at the sanctuary could have been lost", said Mr. Carreiro. Iola Price, also of the Canadian Wildlife Service, said the smell of the crude oil even 200 feet above the slick in a helicopter was overpowering.

Gary Raine, natural resources fish and wildlife supervisor at Brockville said "thousands of birds could have been killed if circumstances had have b e e n slightly different." Both he and Ron Baldwin, fish and wildlife supervisor for the Cornwall District, were involved in the surveillance operation.

At the time, approximately 2,-000 Canada geese, most of the resident flock at the Nairn Island sanctuary, had landed among the islands and marshes east of Morrisburg, and "migrant" geese were coming and going all the time. In addition, there were more than 200 Scaup bobbing along off the Canadian shore.

Birds trapped in oil usually die from exposure in cool temperatures. The oil soaks into the feathers taking away their insulation. Also, heavy oil smears prevent the birds from flying and when the birds try to preen away the mess their beaks and mouths become gummed up hampering feeding.

The moment the spill was reported the Canadian Wildlife Service was joined by the Ontario ministry of ,natural resources ministry of the environment and ministry of transportation and communications.

Ironically they were well prepared for this latest mishap. Their contingency plan covering oil spills in the St. Lawrence underwent a review and revision several weeks before.

At the moment the Americans are cleaning up their waters using a "slick-licker", a machine with a revolving felt belt that picks up the crude oil from the water, is squeezed dry and revolves into the water for more.

NO AGE IMMUNE TO CANCER

Many Canadians believe cancer is a disease of middle age or later life. No age group is immune, although cancer may strike more often in older people.

Cancer can occur in any number of forms in almost any part of the body. About five percent of all fatal cases occur in or near the mouth.

Even in the mouth, cancer can occur in various forms with differing degrees of severity. About half of all cases of oral cancer are found in the lips, most frequently in the lower lip. However, the tongue, gums, cheeks and bones of both jaws can be affected as well.

Check for the following abnormalities of either the hard or soft parts of your mouth and point them out to your dentist: any swelling or hardness, however small, which you noticed recently and which is increasing in size, and sore spot, roughening or whit ish discolouration, or an ulcer which does not heal.

Although causes of cancer are not entirely clear, chronic irritation of oral tissues is definitely associated with the incidence of mouth cancer. Dental neglect that results in badly decayed, broken-down teeth, open-root abscesses, gum infections and excessive smoking are sources of such irritations.

Early recognition and prompt treatment of oral cancer is vital. Periodic routine dental examinations and regular home dental care will minimize the risk of oral cancer.

YOURS SINCERELY

BY MRS. WELLWOOD ADAM

I expect there are many people who have had to make a very important decision of some kind, especially when they have reached life's cross-roads, so to speak. This has made all the difference to them, I think I am right in saying, whether right or wrong.

My husband and I reached a cross-road in our life, even though it was late in appearing, but we never have regretted the way we chose together. I suppose we all find ourselves in the same place in time . . . it may be early, or late, during our allotted life span . . . and there is the free choice of direction to be carefully considered. Which way to pursue, the right way or the possible wrong way? The answer to these meaningful questions take a lot of thinking out, perhaps a lot of prayer with some, especially if a good and satisfying life ahead is desired. Of course, there is the alternate choice, which certainly has led many to failure and worse, probably because of lack of serious thought and the lack of ability to think ahead before any step was taken.

Take the great Albert Schweitzer . . . he was the possessor of three doctorates, after much heavy study, and he was a doctor of medicine, a doctor of theology, and a doctor of music. Now he was wondering which career he might follow, and when he did finally decide, it was a tremendous thing for it changed the whole course of his life.

He remembered casually reading an appeal for help from a missionary society, in a church paper (it is amazing what a lot of interesting and needy appeals are to be found in our various church magazines and which go so often unanswered!). He found the paper again, (in his waste-paper basket) and re-read the advertisement. Then he made the decision of his life after some lengthy thought, and answered the appeal. He was sent to a certain part of Africa, and after some hard and sometimes frustrating work and endeavour, he founded the mission and leper colony at Lambarine, now world-famous! And his wife went with him, and so they laboured together. Of recent years, they have both passed on, but the great work of humanity, born of tremendous decision . . . well, it goes on, quietly and powerfully. As any good work does, whether on a large scale or a small one.

Of course, frustration by itself can sometimes open a door of opportunity when the rest have closed.

For example, consider the famous painter and artist — Whistler — he first wanted to be a soldier but did not pass the tests. Then he chose to be a teacher, but never passed his examinations He tried writing but he was no good at this either! In the end, he took to painting, and so discovered a seemingly hidden God-given talent, and the world has gained so much good as a result of this late decision born of frustration. This sort of thing has happened to others, too. It is as if some may have dreamed of making a full and plentiful meal of their lives, and are forced to do what they can with the fragments

On this thought, I am reminded of the great story of "the feeding of the five thousand", and what was left of the food was certainly more than what was expected! And at the same time, the words that were spoken and most certainly were heard, were. "Gather up the fragments that nothing be lost!"

No, you never can tell, especially the younger ones on the threshold of life, what assets we may hold including the God-given gifts in our hands and hearts. These may indeed be the great fragments which can become a great benefit or boon if well-used in life, in recompense, maybe, for a wrong choice similar to what Whistler went through. He certainly discovered what he could do best!

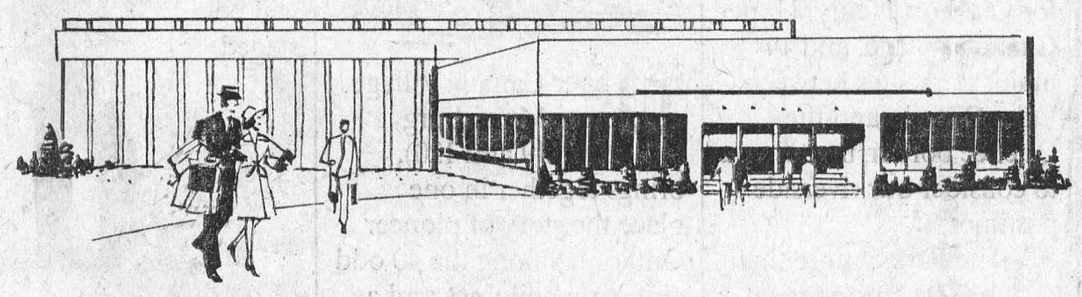
Business development means more jobs and increased opportunities.

This is what Ontario is doing to help businesses grow.



Suppose you operate a manufacturing company, or a firm that is a supplier to such a manufacturer. Suppose that you operate a tourist resort, or a tourist attraction that benefits local resorts.

Others depend on you for a living. So your Ontario government wants to help you help them . . . and yourself . . . through the Eastern Ontario Development Corporation (EODC).

The EODC was established by the government here in Ontario to provide financial assistance to businesses unable to obtain necessary funds . . . from conventional lending institutions. These programs are designed to stimulate industrial growth, encourage economic development and increase employment opportunities in Eastern Ontario.

Similar programs exist to aid businesses in other parts of the Province.

Briefly, EODC Financial Assistance programs are divided into two categories — Incentive Loans and Term Loans.

In Eastern Ontario, Incentive Loans of up to 75% of approved costs, to a maximum of $1,000,000, are provided for new manufacturing operations or service industries in support of manufacturing.

These loans may be interest-free or at a rate lower than the EODC prevailing rate of interest. Commencement of repayment may be deferred until the company is established.

Term Loans are available to finance new products and processes, exports, pollution-control equipment, industrial buildings, tourist operations and the expansion of small businesses.

Your Ontario government has prepared a concise, easy-to-understand booklet explaining who may qualify for EODC Financial Services.

If you would like a copy of the booklet, or wish to make application for EODC assistance, call, write or visit:

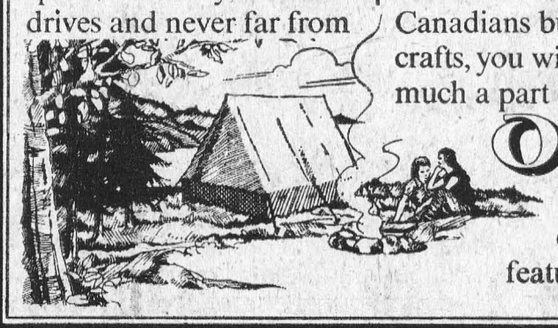
Old times~ Good times Not so far away.

You're less than a day's drive from a 1st class vacation experience that lets you get back to nature, make your home by the waters, and savour life as it used to be.

The St. Lawrence Parks Commission, which cares for Old Fort Henry, Upper Canada Village, and 14 major park sites between Lake Ontario and the Quebec border, invites you to consider our riverside pastimes.

The Parks: more than 6000 acres of greenspace, linked by scenic drives and never far from The Heritage Hwy. (No. 2), or the 401, offer campers picnic grounds, beaches, golf and many fully serviced sites.

Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg (401 exits 119 and 120), brings together in one place the story of pioneer Ontario. Among the 40 odd authentic buildings and a host of costumed Upper Canadians busy at their crafts, you will feel very much a part of the 1800's.



Old Fort Henry at Kingston, with access via exit 104, features precision drills daily by the famed Fort Henry Guard. On Wednesdays and Saturdays until Labour Day, with the exception of August 21 and 24, a spectacular sunset retreat ceremony will be staged.

Congratulations to Grade 8

Congratulations are in order for the teachers of Grade Seven and Grade Eight at the Morrisburg Public School. The amount of overtime "above and beyond the call of duty", put in by these teachers, on behalf of their students, is often overlooked. We are often too busy to stop and say thank you.

The town clean up day this spring by Grade Seven, was a noticeable improvement, and appreciated by the whole village. A novel and constructive way to earn money toward their trip to Niagara Falls and Toronto. Just one of many projects organized by Mr Pollack and successfully carried off by this group throughout the year.

The Grade 8 "Wake-a-thon" held May 10th, was an unqualified success. It appears enough money will be raised in one lost weekend, to achieve their goal, with out loosing school time, in the process.

Many thanks to the parents, who came in with moral support and CARE packages to make the 24 hours more bearable. If staying awake for 24 hours can be called an enjoyable experience, I can't think of 30 people I would rather be with. Staying awake from Friday morning when they rose for school, until Saturday night at 6 p.m. is actually closer to 36 hrs. and is an achievement in itself. However, to do it with the mature and responsible attitude these teenagers had, without a single ugly incident, is something they can be proud of.

And, to the girl who has a photograph of Mr. Peter's eyelids "resting" for a 3 second interval, I can only say "Hang on to it". He'll have both eyes on her from now until school closes.

To Mr. Pollack, Mr. Butcher and Mr. Peters, we as parents say thank you for helping to prove what we knew all along. These kids are worth every effort.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor The Morrisburg Leader,

Dear Sir — It would be appreciated if you would print the following information in your paper:

There appears to be some misunderstanding concerning the status or the position of the Principal in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Counties re December 18, 1973 walk-out. The Principals of Secondary and Elementary were directed by the Director of Education for the 3 counties that we as principals were responsible for the school and that we were to remain in our schools or appoint a designate.

The Secondary Principals were also informed by the Headmasters Association a branch of the O.S.S.T.F. that our responsibilities were to remain in school.

The Principalsc of S.D.G. saw fit to donate their day's pay to the following organizations:

The Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children.
Maxville Lions Club.
Cancer Society of Canada.

Alexandria Boys' Club.

UNSUITABLE DATE

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

My daughter, who's 20, dates a young man I disapprove of. He's 26, lazy, but so attractive that a number of girls have supported him in the past. When I discuss this shameless young man with my husband, he says we should forbid our daughter to date him, but I believe if we remain silent her good sense will ultimately prevail. What course of action would you recommend? F.W.

Dear F.W.:

Your dilemna has no sure-fire solution, but the outcome will be influenced by the the family values and guidance you have given your daughter. Even so, it isn't possible to predict which of the two courses of action might succeed.

If you and your husband are strict disciplinarians, you might reasonably expect your daughter to obey if you forbid her to see this young man again. But don't bank on it. Your order might boomerang if, in addition to finding him attractive, he also represents parental defiance.

The two extreme courses you cite are not the only solutions, however. If family communications have always been frank and amiable, a talk with your daughter about this young man may reveal that she, too, has reservations about him. If she has, you can tell her about yours.

IRRITABLE CAREER WOMAN

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm 45, unmarried and a career woman. I have enjoyed good health most of my life and seldom needed medication. Frankly, I try to avoid it. Lately, I've been troubled by hot sweats, fatigue and irritability; symptoms I cannot afford on my job. I know the menopause is the cause of my health problems but I hesitate seeing the doctor. Is there any home remedy to relieve these symptoms? D.R.

Dear D.R.:

If home remedies were effective against the symptoms of menopause, women of past generations would not have approached the "changes" with fear and trepidation. In those days, a woman didn't live much beyond her menopause but today, at 45, you have an expectation of living another 33 years. The medical progress that has extended longevity has also led to a greater knowledge about the cause of menopausal complaints: a deficiency of the hormone, estrogen.

Consult your doctor about your symptoms. Even when you enjoy good health, an annual medical check up is the best form of preventive medicine. By a simple test similar to the pap smear, your doctor can determine if hormonal imbalance is causing your hot sweats, fatigue and irritability and if so, he may prescribe hormone medication to give you relief.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

In the picture, Robby looks older than five, but you can likely see he still has all his "baby" teeth.

Robby is a tall, sturdy boy of Anglo-Saxon descent with dark eyes, unruly brown hair and fair skin. He is a shy, rather aloof child who comes from a greatly deprived background where demonstrations of affection were probably unknown. Though he is perfectly agreeable and co-operative in his foster home, he has not yet learned to relate warmly to adults. He gets on well with children his own age or younger.

Information on Robby's family tree is limited but there is no knowledge of any hereditary illnesses. He is healthy and energetic, keen on the outdoors. His foster home is on a farm and he likes all the animals, especially the dog which is his constant companion.

Robby's attention span is short but he has enough imagination to play happily alone if no other children are around. Since he is just five, Robby has not started school but is looking forward to going in the fall.

This laddie needs parents who will give him love without expecting an immediate return and who will understand that at this time his ability is unknown. It will be best if there are other children in the family with Robby the youngest.

To inquire about adopting Robby, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services, Box 888, Station K, Toronto M4P 2H2. For general adoption information, please contact your local Children's Aid Society.

REPORT FROM QUEEN'S PARK

BY DON IRVINE
M.P.P. for Grenville - Dundas

Address: Frost Building South, Queen's Park, Toronto, Ontario. M7A 1Y7. Telephone: 416-965-6901.

In the past two columns, I have discussed several important aspects of the recent Ontario Budget — a guaranteed annual income for pensioners, blind and disabled, a free prescription drug program for those senior citizens receiving the guaranteed income supplement, enriched tax credits, expanded aid to municipalities and the revolutionary new Land Speculation Tax. I anc't and won't attempt to cover every aspect of this complex budget statement but I would like to comment on a couple of items that I think are of general interest to residents of Grenville-Dundas.

The new Land Transfer Tax introduced in the Budget has now become law. In its application it will reinforce and compliment the land speculation tax but it can accomplish much more than that. Firstly, there is its effect upon inflationary pressures and l a n d prices. It has become more and more apparent recently that substantial purchases of land by non-residents is a significant factor in rapidly rising costs of real property. Up to now everyone who purchases land in Ontario pays a nominal tax of 6/10th of one per cent on the first $35,000 of the purchase price and 4/10th of one per cent on the remainder. This rate will continue unchanged in the case of purchases by residents of Canada but for non-residents the rate is increased substantially to 20% of the purchase price. The purpose is obviously to discourage the acquisition of land by non-residents of Canada and remove pressure from that sector of the market.

This new tax measure has a much broader significance in achieving a desirable goal of social policy. It is a positive action to maximize Canadian ownership of our own land. The whole matter of genuine concern to the public and to the provincial government. You might well ask, if that is the case, why we simply don't prohibit foreign ownership of land? One answer is that there is considerable doubt among legal specialists that we have the constitutional right to do that. Rather than get ourselves into a legal wrangle that might take months or even years to determine and which might ultimately be decided against us, the government has decided to try to accomplish the same thing in a way that is clearly within our constitutional authority. Prince Edward Island tried to accomplish the same thing through outright prohibition and the legislation was overturned in its own Supreme Court.

Ontario intends to halt further large losses of land to foreign ownership and both the Treasurer and the Minister of Revenue are on record that if the present amount doesn't work we'll increase it.

Another reason for avoiding outright prohibition of non-resident land purchases is that we do not want to discourage foreign companies or individuals who, through their operations, are going to add to our stock of new housing. They will still pay tax at the new rate but where they buy vacant land and build houses, etc which are sold back to Canadians within 5 years the amount of the tax will be rebated.

The Land Transfer Tax like the Land Speculation Tax are examples of tax measures which are employed, not to gain revenue, but to achieve important public policy goals. Both are designed to restrain inflation in a specific and important area — namely housing. As I have pointed out they accomplish other desirable ends as well.

So far in these articles I have talked about several ways in which the government is spending money to reduce the impact of inflation. Space will not permit extensive analysis of a good many other important items such as a freeze on transit fares, important measures to help small business, exemption of household cleaning and personal hygiene items from the retail sales tax, tax changes to help farmers to name just a few. All these things cost money, yours and mine. How will we pay for them? Well, first of all the province's revenue resources are constantly expanding without any additional taxes being levied. This year, for instance, due to various natural factors such as new people entering the work force and general business expansion, and provincial revenue growth is projected at almost 12 percent. In addition, the government has announced substantial tax increases on mining and lumbering companies. The rationale is that since ever-increasing world demand for minerals has resulted in large windfall gains to mining companies, the people of Ontario should secure a higher return from the natural resources which belong to all of us.

Taken together, these new taxes and our revenue growth, still leaves a net cash deficit, but our net cash requirements will be the lowest in five years. Ten years ago it would have taken nine months revenue to pay off our net debt; now it would take only six months' revenue. This means that after a decade of financing rapid growth and expansion, the financial integrity of the province is sounder than ever.

A Cure For Ageing Skin

"Many women are embarrassed to show an interest in aging skin. Yet changes in skin have a profound effect on the psyche. We interact with each other by looking at faces. If you don't look well—it can complicate your existence.

University of Pennsylvania professor of dermatology Albert Kligman is crusading against wrinkles crows feet and other common skin problems he syas "interfere with the pursuit of happiness." Already his experiments investigating ways to treat dry skin have implications for the average consumer.

"Any cream is helpful as long as you continue putting it on," Dr. Kligman explains, "but the best is petrolatum —— plain petroleum jelly." It may not look, smell, or feel as good as an expensive night cream, but petrolatum "prevents water loss, penetrates the skin better and even thickens the skin." So much so that he cautions women with oily complexions to avoid the greasy stuff—" it promotes pimples in oily skin."

H2O Helps

No matter what emollient you use, if dryness is your problem—water is the answer, according to the researcher. "I've never seen anything better than wetting the skin for five to 15 minutes with a towel soaked in warm water. It swells up the outer layer of skin. Then slather on your cream —the greasiest, most awful stuff you can personally tolerate. Anyone with dry skin will have baby skin within three weeks with this regimen."

The best tactic to preserving skin over a life span of exposure and environmental insults is prevention. Stay clear of sunlight, soaps, and anything else that might irritate the skin.

"With sunlight there's a 20 year lag between what you can see and the actual damage that's being done to your skin," Dr. Kligman warns. "Sunlight is a menace and should be regarded as such." He recommends using a sun screen all year round, adding, "incorporating a sun screen right into makeup would make a lot of sense

Soaps, says the doctor, are harmful because they're usually too strong and they're used too much. "You have no idea how many compulsive soapers there are," he grins. "Once a day at most is plenty."

Need for More Research

In Dr. Kligman's opinion, cosmetology is a legitimate division of health science. Yet he has a hard time persuading his colleagues that wrinkles and dry skin are "medical problems and worthy of our attention." Dermatologists, says the skin care campaigner, have a "supercilious and snobbish attitude" toward cosmetics.

The cosmetic industry is no better, he says with disgust. "All their money and imagination goes into huckstering creams and lotions instead of funding research for really effective products." He suggests the billion dollar beauty business is missing a golden marketing opportunity, but realizes supporting research "is not in their tradition, and besides they don't like to share secrets."

Some money has come from pharmaceutical houses to finance University of Pennsylvania projects at Riverview, an old age home in the Philadelphia area. Here Dr. Kligman has been testing vitamin A on old people's skin. "I've become a vitamin A nut, because I think it has great potential." He admits he stands pretty much alone with his zealous convictions at this time.

Albert Kligman is convinced the answers to aging skin can be found. "But until the research is adequately funded we'll keep slapping stuff on our faces in an effort to mask, rather than prevent, the ravages of time."
