Council Angered By Demands

Termed 'Unfair To Town Ratepayers' Situation Could Cause Lengthy Delay

Council's temperament was almost as hot as the weather Tuesday night. Meeting in the smaller but brighter and more modern council chambers of the Town Hall the fresh looking shirt sleeved gentlemen representing the village had waded through a fairly heavy agenda of business when the roof fell in and tempers were touched. Reason for the change in mood came as a direct result of a letter from the North Dundas District High School Board demanding of village council the following for the proposed High School site at the Fair grounds.

(1) That the Council of the village be responsible for the construction of a hardtop access road to the school from Main Street, and the paving of adequate parking space at the school.

(2) That the North Dundas District High School Board be given complete control of the Community Park located in front of the school site.

(3) That Council be responsible for the cleaning of ditches, etc., allowing for proper removal of surface water from the area.

(4) That Council be responsible for the snow plowing of the street and all parking areas at the new school.

(5) That Council be responsible for the construction of a suitable sidewalk adjacent to the roadway leading to the school.

(6) That Council be responsible for "fill" for the new school at an estimated cost of $4,000.

COUNCIL STUNNED

As the letter was read members of Council seemed stunned at the demands which were being placed before them. Only two weeks ago, after considerable delay, Council, abiding by a ruling of the school architect, had recommended the site to the Board. According to an earlier agreement the school sites, and only the school sites, were to be supplied by the villages (Chesterville and Winchester) in the event two schools were built.

Winchester Village Council feels that the High School Board has shown little consideration for the town in its demands on council, and comments on the letter ranged from "ridiculous" to "we can't even entertain such a proposal."

In short, every member of Council was up-in-arms over the Board's demands. Council said that if it consented to such a proposal costs could range higher than $30,000.00—"and all of this money must be borne by the ratepayers of this village" Council unanimously voiced. It was also pointed out that all ratepayers in the district should bear the expense of the "'extras" after the village had provided the site. Council felt that the townspeople would not stand and indeed could not afford such an uncalled for expense if submission was made to the demands.

Council said that "co-operation within reason" would be given the school and that it would be afforded the same facilities that other business places are given in the village. The door was left open in a motion which was unanimously passed and forwarded to High School Board Secretary Carl Rice and which stated that the Council turned down the Board's demands but would meet with the Board if it wished to discuss the matter of the high school site at the Fair grounds.

COULD CAUSE DELAY

The sudden blow-up in the High School site could slow down the issue several months. Progress, thus far, has been slow and certainly Tuesday night's letter from the High School Board and the subsequent action by Council has not helped the situation.

As several members mentioned during the course of the discussion, "let's give them the present high school site and allow them to build their track and field at the south side of the Community Park property or Fair grounds. It now looks as though Winchester's new High School will be lucky to be ready by September 1963 unless Council and High School Board members get together immediately and iron out their differences.

It is understood that progress on the Chesterville school is no further advanced than the one in Winchester except that the site for the school is definitely settled as a lot of land behind the existing high school in that town.

Still on the High School subject, Council received from the Department of Municipal Affairs another letter requesting more information and first and second reading of a by-law as it pertained to the high school and allotment of costs. However, Council decided to withhold reply until the present differences between the board and village are ironed out.

DEBENTURES

No further word was received from the Municipal Board re the expenditures of the public school. However, Council explained that the village must debenture a full $80,000 for the total cost of the public school addition. Grants would be payable back each year in the form of a reduced levy for the public school—and this is also causing considerable unrest with Council members who were under the impression that grants were given directly to the village on completion of the various stages of the project.

The school situation remains grim and what looked like a definite high school site a week ago now seems to be more than questionable.

25,000 Silver Dollars

Do you like silver dollars? How about 25,000 of them?

That's the big award at this year's Ottawa Exhibition, opening next week.

But that's not all.

There's' an eight-car giveaway—one each day of the Exhibition—to some lucky ticket holder.

Those are just the prizes. What about the attractions?

Well, there's Tennessee Ernie Ford, the chap from Tennessee whom everyone is talking about, and the vivacious Anita Bryant, and the June Taylor Dancers.

And from Canadian television there's Fred Davis who will moderate the free grandstand Fashion Show on Ladies' Day, Tuesday, August 22.

There's a parade which the Exhibition brass is boasting will be the biggest and best in all Canada on Saturday morning, August 19.

There's a horse show every night except the last night of the Fair; there's a championship dog show and a Highland dancing competition with some 300 entries already.

Three separate flower shows, daily band concerts free at the bandshell presented by the United States Army Field Band; outstanding Canadian livestock shows for seven days in the Coliseum.

And, of course, a midway. The World of Mirth shows will be back again with all the thrilling rides of other years . . . and more.

These are but a few of the attractions. There are lots more.

Remember the dates, August 18 to August 26 at Ottawa.

Congratulations!

Gunner D. Neil Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bower Potter, of Winchester and a student at Winchester High School, was judged the best recruit of the course for high school students conducted during the past five weeks in Kemptville by the 30th Field Artillery Regiment. ## Donkey Baseball At Williamsburg Next Monday

There's plenty of fun in store for Williamsburg and district sports fans next Monday night, August 14, when Williamsburg village will take on Williamsburg Township in an exciting softball game. Oh yes, the game will be even more exciting and packed with fun as all players will be riding donkeys.

Yes, it's donkey baseball at its best and fans who have seen this type of sport can guarantee there will be plenty of fun and thrills.

Also, on the night's program is a "greased pig" contest and a "Tug of War." And right down to the line it will be the village against the township. So, if you want to find out who will win, and according to reliable sources there's plenty of wagering going on, make certain you attend Donkey Baseball Night at Williamsburg Recreational Park next Monday night, starting at eight o'clock.

Pretty Petunia

Seems everywhere in the district people are remarking on the unusual growth in a great variety of plants and crops, due to the heavy spring and summer rainfalls.

Mrs. Dan Hitsman, of Cass Bridge, called to let The Press know that she has one bushy Petunian plant with no less than 73 pink blossoms on it. Snapdragons, usually growing 12 to 14 inches tall, measure this year 44 inches in height, and are a riot of colour, reports Mrs. Hitsman.

Sadly enough, too, grain crops shooting to "man-high" heights, are now lying flat on the ground, due to recent heavy rains, winds, coupled with some hail. District farmers are now worried as to how the grain will ripen and, if and when it does, how best to harvest it.

This has been a blow to many, for earlier signs had pointed to a bumper harvest this year.

COMMUNITY CENTRE

Operation 'New Look' Completed

In anticipation of a busy fall and winter season ahead, Winchester Community Centre Board has completed operation "New Look" with a complete face lifting to the front interior of the popular arena.

The renovations will, undoubtedly, meet with the approval of spectators and participants alike and may be seen at the first early fall event, the popular Doc Williams Show, which plays at the Community Centre later this month.

In addition to a brand new blue and white paint job of all existing dressing rooms, puck boards and other trim within the rink, the complete front interior of the arena has been changed to a more modern design to cope with the huge crowds which attend events in this well maintained building.

Included in the renovations is a new, combined ticket office, caretaker's room and referee's room, in addition to other office space; two hockey rooms (unchanged except for a new paint job); girls' dressing room and a mammoth lobby-dressing room which will serve both men and women for skating and at hockey games and other events. The new lobby or communal room stretches from the east end of the rink to the west side, and is fronted with window panels overlooking the ice surface. It also includes more accessible refreshment facilities with the booth located in the centre of the big room.

With the renovations ALL rooms within the Community Centre are now heated including the new abbreviated entrance which leads directly into the new, larger waiting room which in turn has four entrances to the walkway between this room and the ice surface.

Chairman of the Board Robert Vice told The Press the rink is in an excellent state of repair and "we (the board) feel that the changes made to the Community Centre this year have both improved the appearance as well as offering more facilities to the growing numbers using the arena each year."

All areas have been given a coat of blue and white paint and the "new look" at the Community Centre offers quite a contrast to the building of yesteryear.

Also included in the repairs this year were replacements of some sills and patching to the hard top where the ice surface is located.

Plans are also underway to acquire a new, electric clock which will be located at the north end of the arena and which is expected to show both the times for periods and penalties down to the last second.

Provision has been made to improve the public address system and other minor changes have also been made to further improve facilities.

Following the Doc Williams Show, Winchester Legion's annual Bingo is slated to take place on Wednesday, September 20, followed by the three-night Winchester Trade Fair on September 27, 28 and 29.

It looks like another busy season for the Cimmunity Centre (last winter's attendance for hockey and skating was a record) and the renovations will definitely add much attractiveness and usefulness to the rink interior.

Lyall M. Crowder Gains Recognition

Well known insurance agent Lyall M. Crowder has again qualified for membership in the Mutual Life Assurance Company of Canada selective Conservation Club.

This is one of the highest honours a member of the field force can earn. Consistent membership in the club, which Mr. Crowder has attained, reflects production of new insurance and, in this instance, more policies for the company Mr. Crowder so ably represents.

Mr. Crowder and son have offices in South Mountain.

Press Delegates Off To Halifax CWNA Convention

Among the delegates who will attend the annual Canadian Weekly Newspapers Association Convention being held at Halifax this year and starting this Sunday are: Mrs. W. F. Workman, Mrs. Maxine Baldwin and Mr. and Mrs. Randall Wylie, all representing The Winchester Press. The Press representatives leave for Halifax by car to-morrow (Friday) morning.

Flight Cadets In Action

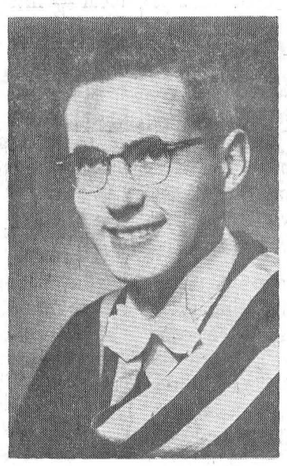
Williamsburg Council Asks For Open Season On Carp



Williamsburg Township Council has taken the first action of any kind in the district to make an all-out fight against the growing numbers of carp in Lake St. Lawrence.

At the regular August meeting Council instructed Clerk Keith Schell to notify the Department of Lands and Forests that the Williamsburg Council was in favour of an open season for the taking of carp from the river with bow and arrow. Apparently this is quite a game sport, and as the carp are getting out-of-hand in the river, Council believes that some immediate action is necessary to cope with the situation.

Clerk Schell was also asked to petition the Department of Highways for the transfer of $3,649.44 from the regular by-law to the supplementary by-law on roads and bridges for 1960.

Council also decided to notify the township solicitor to prepare the necessary by-law for the taking over of the road in the Pinkus sub-division at Williamsburg.

Accounts passed for payment were: Roads and Bridges, $3,656.69; Relief, $358.55; Salaries, $346.48; Grants, $100.00; Drains, $707.87; Miscellaneous, $27.86.

Reeve Don Kyle presided at the meeting held in Williamsburg I.O.O.F. Hall and attended by all members of Council.

Donald Woods Receives Ph. D. At Wisconsin

Donald Woods, son of Robert Woods, of Winchester and the late Mrs. Woods, has been notified that he has successfully completed studies giving him his Doctor of Philosophy in Science at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, Wisconsin.

Don is an honour graduate of Winchester High School and received his Bachelor of Science from Queen's and his Masters from University of Wisconsin.

Married earlier this summer, he and his bride will spend a few weeks with Mr. Woods in Winchester before leaving for England where he has accepted a fellowship to further his studies.

August Month For Clan Picnics

ANNABLE

The descendants of Sgt. John Annable, United Empire Loyalist, gathered Saturday on the grounds of Kemptville Agricultural School to celebrate their fifth annual family re-union. Approximately 75 members of the family, ranging in age from 18 months to 87 years, came from various parts of this country and the United States to picnic together and take part in games and contests.

Miss Ada Annable, of Moose Jaw, Sask., travelled the greatest distance for the occasion. Letters from the western United States brought best wishes and regrets at inability to attend.

Kenneth Annable, of Ottawa, presented a report on progress made in locating additional branches of the family, and on his negotiations for the purchase of a part of the original Annable farm near Cornwall.

James C. Annable, of Beamsville, was re-elected president.

ADAMS

The Eleventh Annual Adams' Clan Picnic was held at Crysler Beach on Saturday where 46 members enjoyed a day of ideal picnic weather.

After dinner, President Mrs. Keith Adams spoke briefly and conducted a short business period. New officers chosen were: President, Lawrence Bell, Hamilton; secretary, Mrs. Irwin Adams; sports committee, Gerald Adams. Oldest member present was Mrs. Stanley Adams, and the youngest, James Edward Bell, seven-weeks-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Bell, Winchester.

Those attending from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bell and Mrs. Florence Bell, of Hamilton, and Mr. John Adams, of Montreal.

The 1962 picnic is to be held at Farran Park on the Saturday before the Civic holiday in August.

Doing A Fine Job!

The Uxbridge Times Journal, a fine weekly newspaper serving an important area north-east of Toronto, came out with an editorial last week paying tribute to "the place that never sleeps." Down here we call it "the sentinel that never sleeps," and, of course, we refer to our very important Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

In referring to their smaller cottage-style hospital The Times Journal states "it is a most wonderful institution that goes about its business twenty-four hours a day and few are conscious of the service it performs. But the small army of doctors, nurses, nurses' aids, and other personnel at the Cottage Hospital go quietly about their duties on a round the clock schedule. They care for an average of 22 patients, day in and day out, and the warm hand of comfort is always as close as the bedside bell."

Not so long ago the local hospital was in this same smaller category. To-day it has grown into a large 100-bed modern hospital and is working at peak capacity. But, the same kind of care still exists and thousands of people throughout the entire hospital community are appreciating more the importance of this hospital which is situated in this town.

The Winchester District Memorial Hospital has more than 125 full-time employees with an annual payroll that is reaching towards the half million dollar mark. It is one of the largest industries in the district.

But over and above the business aspects of the hospital is the comforting thought that its professional services are available for the ill and the injured day and night, year in and year out. While others vacation, close shop for a couple of days or just escape the summertime heat for several hours at a lake, the constant vigil at the hospital goes on. Along the dimly lighted corridors during the night, wide-awake nurses check and re-check their charges. Sometimes, in the pre-dawn hours, the operating room is diffused with light as an emergency operation is performed. Charts are checked, pulses taken and medication administered. Our hospital, like other hospitals across the country, is an institution that never sleeps.

We in this area are fortunate in having such a fine hospital as we have, and while none of us particularly wish to be confined within its walls, it is a comfort to know that its excellent facilities are so close at hand—should we ever have the need of them.

Death On The Road

We, the Canadian public, seem to be far more concerned over the deaths and casualties resulting from the ill-fated Cuban invasion, the spreading of civil war in Laos and the race riots in South Africa than we are over the killings and maimings of our own people taking place on our own highways and byways almost every hour of the day and night.

It is right that we should be concerned over the sufferings of other people—but it cannot be denied that we should also be equally concerned over the mounting toll of traffic accidents within our own land.

It would be safe to say that the Canadian Highway Safety Council's terse predictions (of death and injury) over the last holiday week-end caused no more interest than a passing glance as the average reader thumbed through his daily newspaper.

Perhaps statistics can produce a more startling effect. In the Cuban invasion each side suffered approximately 80 killed and 500 wounded—enough to cause a gasp of horror around the world. In British Columbia during the first three months of this year 74 people were killed—yet hardly a ripple of interest was created.

More statistics? Three of the world's greatest disasters—the Johnstown flood, the Galveston tidal wave and the sinking of the Titanic resulted in 9,726 deaths.

Exactly the same number of people were killed on the highways of North America during the months of June, July and August of 1958. The Johnstown, Galveston and Titanic disasters triggered national and international action on many levels—yet the 1958 tragedies created little — other than local — interest.

As more people drive cars which are now more powerful than ever before the road accident hazard grows greater each day. In the month of March alone in this province 22 men, women and children were killed—an 85 per cent. increase over the same month last year.

There is no pat and easy solution to this ever-present horror. The only defence against it lies in the ability and skill of the driver himself. Careful driving and constant observation of the rules of the road can prevent death and injury in 95 per cent. of the cases.

The onus therefore is on the driver—let him accept it lest he becomes yet another unit in the impersonal statistics of death on the road.

The Age of Automation

Automation has speeded the arrival of the push-button age so that now we are surrounded by gadgets that take a lot of the work out of everyday existence.

It's unlikely anyone would want to go back to the days of the coal furnace after enjoying the kind that operate automatically. There are thousands of labor-saving devices now, such as power mowers and washing machines.

Modern science has taken much of the drudgery out of life. At the same time a swing away from the have-it-done-for-you school has developed.

On the one hand, scientists have been going all out to invent machines to simplify life. On the other hand, they are catering to those who like to feel that they are operating a machine — not letting it do all the work for them. For instance, there's a steady market for sports cars, the kind in which you do the gear-shifting and steering is performed without benefit of automatic power.

Busy executives forget the tension of their jobs by taking fishing or camping holidays in the backwoods. Some of them get a real kick out of putting up tents, cooking their own meals and paddling and portaging themselves through wilderness country.

Armchair existence for wage earner or housewife has its advantages. But some of us still find satisfaction in proving we can operate the way our grandparents and parents did—if the need should arise. Perhaps it's an instinctve reaction against charges that modern civilization is making us effete.

Those who find they really don't like it can always rely on the automation system. And those who do like it are finding it a handy way to forget about their day-to-day worries.

Of Many Things

BY AMBROSE HILLS

ON THE EDGE OF DISASTER

Poets and other sensitive people tell us that if we wish to live fully we should always be aware that life is lived on the edge of disaster.

Disaster struck our normal placid lives last week when our pony, Mite (short for Dynamite), took sick with the colic. We were all fond of Mite; and my daughter, Kathy, who owns him, was crazy over him—but she didn't quite realize it until Mite was nearly lost.

Today, Mite is well again, and doubly loved and enjoyed. Having nursed him to survival through one dangerous night, he'll always mean more to us. And to the good neighbour who stayed up most of the night with us to keep him on his feet.

When trouble comes, we find things out about life and its worth. There ought to be some magic attitude that would keep us aware of such values the whole year through, in good times or bad, so that we would react more deeply to friends and neighbours, family and surroundings.

Perhaps life lived at such a pitch would be a strain on the nervous system. I doubt it. I think we die a little during the placid lulls in our lives. We are keener, finer, richer when we face trouble and see something valued on the point of departing.

This week I watched a group of newcomers to Canada rollicking on a public beach close to our cottage. Many of these newcomers had lived a long time behind the iron curtain. They enjoy and appreciate the freedom and abundance they find here in Canada—enjoy it far more than we natives do, who take so much of it for granted.

Life is a hazardous business and nothing should be taken for granted. Each day that the sun rises should find us filled with gratitude to be alive and breathing, with friends and family close by, and work to do. We should live as if this were the last day granted to us. What a difference it would make!

BRITAIN JOINS THE COMMON MARKET

For Better Health

BY J. W. HALL, D.C.

THE DEPRESSANT LIFT

The list of patents filed and recorded by the government, year after year, is unceasing. It has been said that great inventions originated within the minds of lazy people and it is appropriate to add — weak people. The aftermath is a populace which is even lazier and weaker. Each year from one source or another, you hear instructions on how to lift. This present admonition is, therefore, not intended to be a repeat performance, but merely a refresher. However, it is hoped that by briefly drawing your attention not only to some of the reasons why there is so much back trouble, today, but also to the resultant detrimental effects, you may take heed and apply these instructions. At this time of year, following an indolent existence throughout the winter months, it is more essential than at any other time.

The paradox of the entire situation is that one goes out into the garden with the incentive to get some exercise. Why do we try to get it all at once? In many instances it amounts to an ultimatum: "If I cannot do it just the way I used to years ago then I might as well be flat on my back" — and that is invariably how the incident terminates. Instead of attaining the desired result they find themselves consulting a chiropractor.

Slips, falls, improper lifting, non-supportive beds and chairs, spike heels and the trend to less walking and more riding all contribute to low back conditions. Another interesting observation is that sitting with the knees crossed stretches the sacroiliac joints. Chiropractors therefore advise patients that if they must cross their legs, cross them at the ankles. A strain due to improper lifting produces a mal-alignment of the lower spinal bones and usually affects the sacroiliac joints. This is a structural and mechanical problem that can only be corrected by restoring the bones to their normal position. Of concern to the chiropractor are the alterations in the upper part of the back. These compensatory curves are ultimately going to irritate the nerves which control the vital organs of the body such as the heart, stomach, liver and kidneys. The resulting detrimental effects on the function of these organs are grave unless the foundations of the spine is corrected.

The essential thing to remember is to always lift with the back straight. Don't bend at the waist; bend your knees and maintain the back as it is while standing. The legs should do all the lifting—not the back. Secondly, never twist or rotate your back while lifting. Turn your whole body and face the object before you lift. Never twist the body while in the act of lifting. If we would but think before we lift, much suffering and inconvenience could be avoided.

Sugar and Spice

By Bill Smiley

After nearly fifteen years of complete bewilderment, I think I'm beginning to understand the Old Battleaxe at last. This summer, I'm taking a course in psychology, and it fits her like a suit of wet long underwear.

* * * *

I used to think she acted the way she did because she had a large dollop of pure Irish in her. Or because I wasn't making enough money, or wasn't a good enough father, or didn't do the chores around the house. But it wasn't any of these things. It was just because she's just as psychological as they come.

* * * *

It's all beginning to fall into a pattern. When I began taking these lectures, there seemed something familiar about them—as though I'd taken the course before. Then I realized that my wife was a walking case history, and that she'd had practically every one of the neuroses we were discussing, at least once.

* * * *

Only last week I realized that all these years she's been suffering from an inferiority complex. As the fellas say, ya coulda fooled me. But now I'm trained in psychology, I can see the signs. It says in my notes that the person who is over-compensating for failure to achieve his goal—a typical inferiority-complex case—may become pugnacious and belligerent. That's my girl.

* * * *

Of course, sometimes the person who can solve a problem, or reach a goal, succumbs to another way out, it says. This results in the Emotional Explosion, or, as you old-fashioned lay people might term it, the temper tantrum. This is usually produced in babies by a restriction of some sort, such as holding their arms. It is produced in exactly the same way in ladies who are trying to clobber you. They become even more violent when you wrap your leg around theirs, so they can't kick you on the shins. This requires a good deal of facility in standing on one leg. Just call me "Stork."

* * * *

Another little gem I've culled from the course is: "Reason and emotion don't mix. Apply reason and it will cut down on emotion." Well, I've tried that with the Old Girl. When she gets emotional, I get reasonable. I'm afraid they're going to have to remove that maxim from the books. Maybe there's something wrong with the reason I apply, but every time I do it, it's like applying a torch to the drapes.

* * * *

Strangely enough, I'm scarcely psychological at all, myself. However, in all fairness, I must admit I've found a couple of labels that apply to me. When I am frustrated I have what is known as the Indirect Reaction, instead of the Emotional Explosion. In this bit, you can do one of several things to compensate for your failure. One is having Delusions of Grandeur. This one I have never managed. It's impossible for a father and husband in these times.

* * * *

A second reaction is the Suffering Hero. This is one of my favorites, and I use it often. I see myself lying there, after the accident, covered with blood, cold, stiff, amazingly handsome all of a sudden, and my wife hurling herself, weeping bitterly, on my chest. She shrieks, "Darling, come back to me! I didn't mean a word of it. You've been a wonderful husband!" while the kids stand by bawling piteously and, for once, not wanting me to take them swimming.

* * * *

The other type of Indirect Reaction is Rationalization, and it fits, too. This consists of convincing yourself of something that is not necessarily true. But this I've been doing for about the past 35 years, so I might as well relax and enjoy it.

* * * *

However, there are mild and harmless reactions, so you can see that it's not me but my wife about whom I'm concerned. It's difficult to understand how a person can live all these years with someone as normal as I and still be so psychological.

* * * *

Another of her troubles is that she's obviously a passive periphrastic. Woops. Just a minute. I've wandered over into my Latin notes. No, here it is. She's a straightforward case of anxiety. This is typified by worry, dread, inner distress. That is, something is going to happen, or you think it is. For example, she always thinks we're going to have another baby, and then when we don't, she's kind of sore about it.

* * * *

Some of the anxiety symptoms are: depression for no apparent reason; upset by little things; snaps at attempts at kindness; angry at nothing at all; nervous, edgy; streak of cruelty. This is our place, practically any Sunday morning.

* * * *

It's fascinating, even if a little disturbing, to see someone you know so well unfolding right before your eyes, like a drunk who has been sleeping on the lid of the toilet bowl all night, in the foetal position.

* * * *

But we're only scratching the surface. We haven't come to it in the course yet, but I'm looking forward to learning the psychological motives behind her taking up playing the organ, and her throwing a perfectly good gin-and-tonic all over me last Saturday night. I'll fill you in as we get to them.

WHERE WAS THE HONEYMOON BRIDGE?

The Honeymoon Bridge linked Canada and the United States at Niagara Falls for 40 years until its destruction in 1938. It had been built to replace the Clifton suspension bridge, constructed in 1853 with a span of 1268 feet, longest suspension bridge span until the completion of the famed Brooklyn Bridge, with a span of 1595 feet, in 1883. For almost 20 years after its completion in 1898, the Honeymoon Bridge held the record for arch spans, 840 feet. In 1938 it collapsed under the pressure of ice. Three years later the Rainbow Bridge, with an arch span of 950 feet, fifth longest in the world and longest of the hingeless type, was built at Niagara Falls to replace the Honeymoon Bridge.

WHICH BAY IS FAMED FOR ITS GHOST SHIP?

The Bay of Chaleur, the inlet of the Gulf of St. Lawrence that separates Quebec from New Brunswick. The bay has received much notoriety for its Ghost Ship or Phantom Ship, described as a burning ship racing across the waters. The phenomenon, which occurs usually on sultry summer evenings, is perhaps best explained as a sphere of ignited marsh gas moving above the water surface; in other words, a large will-o'-the-wisp blown seaward. Jacques Cartier gave the bay its name in July 1534 because he and his men suffered from the heat — chaleur is French for heat—while exploring its shores. Unwittingly, the bay was appropriately named for its waters are unusually warm.

The Seventh Column

Periodically it is necessary for us to remind the news conscious public that unless we receive reasonably up-to-date copy it is impossible for us to use it in The Press. The reason is quite simple—space and time. In a weekly newspaper there is so much space available, particularly at this time of year when advertising copy is high and news events are scarce. The result is that we are anxious to use as much news as possible in the small amount of space available. Therefore, if an article of news is sent in for publication, we are pleased to use it if it is timely—but not if it is two, three or more weeks old. Certainly we do not like to turn down anyone when it comes to publishing legitimate news. However, a rigid policy must be followed. If we make one exception then we are vulnerable to every person wanting to place a piece of news in this newspaper no matter what its age. In short, your kind consideration in getting the news copy in to us as soon as possible will be greatly appreciated. If it is too old to use we trust you will understand our position.

We didn't do much travelling over the week-end,—to the cottage and back via Highways 31 and 2. What we did notice impressed us—motorists were travelling at a reduced rate of speed and everywhere you looked there was a black and white provincial police car patrolling the road. This is good—and probably one of the major reasons why there were no serious accidents in this area over the long holiday week-end. "Slow Down And Live" seems to have caught on and maybe if we follow this motto every day in the year all of us will reach that three score and ten mark.

Lake St. Lawrence was a busy place on the week-end for boaters, picnickers and swimmers. The fishermen also shared the limelight and we saw at least one big one pulled out of the St. Lawrence waters on Monday. However, fishing in the St. Lawrence is being spoiled by the ever increasing numbers of carp. Matter of fact, there are so many carp in the river that some fishermen are justly tabbing the river "Carp Creek." It's a mighty big creek but any night of the week you can catch a carp when nothing else is biting . Carp are scavenger fish and, in our opinion, something should be done immediately to exterminate this fish from waters that usually provide the fisherman with a good assortment of game fishing. If there is a poison available for carp, or commercial fishermen could be lured in to the waters to catch these fish, the situation could be improved. In any case, the Department of Lands and Forests, under whose jurisdiction this comes, and the allied Federal department should make an all out effort to do something about getting rid of the carp in Lake St. Lawrence.

My, my, schools re-open in less than a month. Can't imagine the time slipping by so fast, can you, mother? And in Winchester the enrolment this year will be an all-time high. Accommodation at the public school will be increased about the first of the new year when the new addition is completed, and there is hope that a start will be made on the new high school before too long. In the meantime, both schools will be more than crowded, and beginners at the public school will be looked after in temporary quarters.

We don't like to be a wet blanket all the time, throwing all these measures of safety at you this week. However, they are sent to us in hopes that we will pass them along to the reading public. Most of us like to get a sun tan, but too much sun can also be harmful. Just read somewhere that too much sun, in addition to causing a bad burn and much discomfort, also ages the skin. And it may also lead to skin cancer in some cases. So play it safe, get your sun tan in easy doses—not all at once. Earlier in the summer it didn't look as though any of us would get a tan—there just wasn't any sun. However, the weatherman has conceded that at least part of the summer should have warm, sunny weather, and August thus far has been a real month for vacationers.

Dont count on seeing too many Ottawa Rough Rider football games on TV this fall. With the CBC out and private TV in, the TV schedule for Ottawa viewers is anything but enticing. In previous years all, or practically all of Rough Rider away games were shown on television. This year the feast turns into a famine with only four Ottawa games on television. This compares to ten Montreal games, ten for Toronto and five for Hamilton, a rather uneven distribution when one considers that the Ottawa Rough Riders are the Grey Cup champions and the team to beat this year. Games will appear on CJOH, Channel 13, BUT all of them may be heard over CFRA radio. Maybe CBC coverage wasn't so bad after all — what!

Meditations

BY REV. CECIL W. TUININGA

Revelation 14:7 — "Fear God, and give glory to him: for the hour of his judgment is come."

The beautiful book of Revelation is not only a book of prophecy but a message of comfort also. In fact, the prophecy of this marvellous book is designed primarily to give comfort. God gave this book to His militant church on earth "to shew unto his servants things which must shortly come to pass."—Rev. 1:1. It is a message full of hope to the Church of Jesus Christ as it struggles against the forces of evil and is persecuted by the world.

The Church of God has a great and glorious charge to keep. To it is entrusted the preaching of the Gospel of salvation. The Church must spread the "good news," and it must serve as a light shining in a world of darkness.

It is primarily because the Church is the ambassador of life that it is attacked and persecuted. It was so in a special way in the early years of the New Testament church, and it will be so again at the very end of time. Then the whole world will assemble against the Church and seek to destroy it. The Scriptures prophecy this as follows: "And when the thousand years are expired, Satan shall be loosed out of his prison, and shall go out to deceive the nations which are in the four quarters of the earth, God and Magog, to gather them together to battle: the number of whom is as the sand of the sea. And they went up on the breadth of the earth, and compassed the camp of the saints."—Rev. 20:7-9.

There are those who judge the cause of the Church as futile. To them its vigor is apparently waning, and its days numbered. Especially then when martyrs die by fire or sword it appears to some that its lot is sealed and its cause lost. In the book of Revelation God has revealed that the cause of the Church is never lost. No power can prevail against that church, for its life is in God and its lot fixed in Him. The saints of God not only reign through Christ on earth but continue to do so in heaven, even, and especially, when they are martyred.

It is especially to the Church under trial of persecution that the Gospel message comes, "Fear God, and give glory to him: for the hour of his judgment is come."—Rev. 14:7. It is not the fear for what man can do but a holy reverent fear before God that must guide and keep the Church in its most trying moments. It must be always fully aware that the final judgment is not with man but with God. He will judge, and vindicate His Church. That Day will see the enemies of the Lord and of His Church punished with an eternal punishment.

But "the everlasting gospel" is not merely for the Church but is for the whole world. Its message must be sounded in every corner of the world. Its urgent appeal must be heard by all men, "Fear God, and give glory to him: for the hour of his judgment is come."

Ladies' Aid

Mrs. Ian Crerar opened the August meeting of the Vernon Presbyterian Ladies' Aid by reading a humorous poem, "Forecast Unsettled." Catering plans for a wedding were discussed. It was decided to hold a Baking Sale on September 2 starting at 10.30 a.m., at the home of Mrs. James Cowan. Mrs. H. M. Lee will be asked to look after publicity.

Miss Anne Glenn has volunteered to be responsible for repainting and re-lettering the church sign.

The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. H. Cowan and Mrs. A. Hill served lunch, and Mrs. Alex Campbell thanked the hostess and lunch committee.

W. M. S. Meeting

Mrs. Harold Cowan was hostess for the August meeting of the Vernon Presbyterian W. M. S. With the president, Mrs. Paul Mills, in the chair, the meeting opened with a hymn. Mrs. Mills continued the Bible study on Women of the Bible, with devotions centred around Phoebe and her work in Centuria. Twenty-three ladies answered roll call.

The completed quilt for the bale was displayed for the benefit of those who had not seen it. The Thank Offering meeting for October was discussed and the group decided to invite Mr. Hobson of the International Christian Leprosy Mission to be the guest speaker on October 18.

Mrs. W. Dow was responsible for the evening's programme which she centred around "The Greatest Book Ever Written—the Bible." Several of the ladies assisted her. She closed with a Bible quiz which was won by Mrs. Stewart Fisher.

Vernon Baptist Senior Circle

The regular monthly meeting of the Vernon Baptist Senior Circle was held at the home of Miss Elizabeth Stuart last Wednesday with a good attendance.

The president opened the meeting with a suitable meditation and a hymn. The devotional was read by Mrs. Peter MacMartin, and prayer offered by Mrs. Howard. A lovely duet was sung by Ellen and Karen Stuart, accompanied by their mother, Mrs. (Rev.) Jas. Stuart. Roll call was answered by verses containing the word "Hope."

The topic was on World Missions and was capably given by Miss Stuart who told of the great strides Christianity is making in many countries in spite of much persecution. Even in South America new churches are being opened frequently. But there are still too many places in the world where the gospel has not been preached.

At the close of the meeting Rev. Jas. Stuart gave a fine inspirational address.

The hostess served delicious refreshments and a social hour was enjoyed.

Delay of Cattle TB Tests Causes Concern in Carleton

Carleton County Federation of Agriculture directors' meeting recently expressed concern over the delay in the completion of testing for TB in the county. President Donald Munro made it plain to the assembled directors that if any cattle are sold for export they must be tested at least ninety days prior to the sale and this delay could cost the farmers in Carleton money if they fail to co-operate in bringing in their cattle for testing when the vets want them.

The fall fairs in the county will again see Mrs. J. D. Campbell, Vernon, in the Federation booth. The directors decided that she should look after all the arrangements. She reported that she had made arrangements for space at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

Bonding of sales barns came in for more discussion at the directors' meeting. The directors felt that the bond should be as large as the best sale day plus a certain percentage more in order that farmers dealing with sales barns could be adequately protected. This will be taken up at the next members' meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture meeting by Donald Munro.

Arthur Manchester reported that safety stickers would soon be available through the Agricultural Representative's office. These are part of the Safety Council program for the county.

The next directors' meeting will be held on August 18.

TIPS on preparing Housing for Pullets

Here's a convenient checklist of things you should do BEFORE housing pullets:

1 Clean out old litter — right down to floor.
2 Scrape off all clinging droppings; sweep down cobwebs and dust on walls, ceiling, etc.
3 Now is the time to make all repairs that are needed.
4 Apply Purina Insect Oil to all wood surfaces and dirt floors. It kills worm eggs, coccidia and other common poultry diseases.
5 Scrub feeders, waterers and all other equipment with Purina Disinfectant.
6 Spray house with Purina Disinfectant Concentrate. Mix one ounce to 6 gallons of water.
7 When house is dry put new litter down. 4 to 6 inches is fine.
8 Make sure you have a disinfectant pad or disinfectant brush at every door.
9 Call us for a Purina Laying Ration to fill the feeders and keep hens laying their best.

Why not give us a call today, or drop in at our Store with the Checkerboard Sign. We'd like to tell you about Purina Layena and Commercial Eggena; both are 'research-formulated' to help keep good pullets at peak production for a long, long time. Each is a complete feed . . . containing everything that research has proved hens need to help you get fine-flavoured, tasty eggs, with uniform yellow yolks, and whites that are thick and upstanding.

Miss Jane Phifer Weds Claude Melvin Dillabough

Baskets of white gladioli decorated St. Andrew's United Church, Williamsburg, on Saturday when Rev. William Adam united in a double ring ceremony Marjorie Jane Phifer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stirton Phifer, and Claude Melvin Dillabough, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dilabough.

The bride's aunt, Mrs. Maefred Merkley, accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Edward Herriman, sister of the bride, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," and "O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white ballerina gown of Chantilly lace and net. Her dress had a portrait neckline encrusted with sequins, short sleeves and bouffant skirt. A crown of seed pearls held her chapel veil in place. Miss Phifer carried a white Bible centred with an orchid. Her only jewellery was a strand of pearls, a gift from the groom.

Miss Phifer was attended by her sister, Miss Carol Phifer, as maid of honour, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward Herriman and Miss Glenna Matthie of Lanark. Misses Susan and Catherine Herriman were flower girls for their aunt.

The attendants chose dresses of sunni-blue organza over taffeta, blue blended flower hats and carired bouquets of yellow shasta.

The two little flower girls wore white organza over yellow taffeta, bow hats, and carried nosegays of white poms and Donald Dillabough was best man for his brother. The ushers were John and Carman Phifer, brothers of the bride.

Following the wedding ceremony a reception was held at Locketon Lodge for seventy guests. To receive, Mrs. Phifer chose a printed silk dress of white and brown with matching duster, beige accessories and a corsage of yellow roses. Mrs. Dillabough wore a dress of green organza over flowered taffeta, with matching duster, white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

For travelling, the bride donned a sheath dress of blue organza over blue flowered taffeta and matching jacket. Her accessories were white with an orchid corsage.

On their return from the Maritimes the couple will reside in Elma.
