Feds allot $80,000 for 1812 festivities

North takes aim

Upper Canada Village, just east of Morrisburg, held its first-ever Civil War Re-enactment this past weekend, Sat., Aug. 4 and Sun., Aug. 5, on the village grounds. It is estimated that roughly 50,000 Canadians fought on the Union side during the American Civil War, while approximately 10,000 Canadians fought for the Confederates. On Saturday, Union soldiers attacked the village, coming from east of Loucks Farm and pushing the Confederate soldiers west toward the church. Many were on foot, some on horseback, and all were ready for the fight, despite the blazing heat.

Two celebrations at Crysler's battlefield scheduled for 2013

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

MORRISBURG — It has been nearly 200 years since Canadian troops held back an American offensive, turning away their counterparts, and keeping hold of a key waterway position.

With help from the Canadian federal government, many communities throughout Ontario will be playing host to War of 1812 commemorations, and keeping that portion of the country's history alive.

On Thurs., Aug. 2, Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry MP Guy Lauzon was at what is today a memorial at Crysler's Farm Battlefield, announcing $80,000 in funding for the tourist destination.

The money has been made available through the federal government's 1812 Commemoration Fund, which is helping to support community-based projects to foster greater awareness and understanding of the importance of this conflict. (Overall, the feds will be investing $28 million throughout the next three years in order to recognize the importance of the war.)

"The [battle] was a significant event in the history of our region," Lauzon said.

Four-day Dairyfest kicks off Thursday, mix of new events and old favourites

by Ken JR Wallingford

WINCHESTER — Winchester's four-day Dairyfest will be kicking off Thurs., Aug. 9 and won't stop until the sun goes down on Sun., Aug 12.

One of the newest events planned for this year's party, the Back It Up! Contest, which consisted of driving stunts, such as backing up and a three-point turn, all while pulling a trailer, has been cancelled for this year due to the lack of interest.

Another new addition to the annual event is the Las Vegas Casino Night. According to Gina Welch, Dairyfest's co-chair, there will be 10 tables of different games, such as roulette and blackjack.

Welch said she's looking forward to seeing how the event will turn out, as the night will also involve local Elvis impersonator, John Berry, as well as an auction at the end of the night. Some of the more exciting items up for grabs are Ottawa Senators tickets, passes for the Toronto Zoo, and the star attraction, a framed and signed Daniel Alfredsson poster.

Making a comeback

For the first time since 2008, the RBC Winchester branch-sponsored Ribfest will be returning on Main Street in front of the bank. The ribs will be cooked by Tic Tac Ribs with just 200 dinners available, Saturday from 11 am to 3 pm.

"It's a well-liked event that's come back from hiatus," said John Orton, one of the event's organizers.

The Royal Canadian Legion Branch 108 is sponsoring the live entertainment, featuring John Leach at the legion.

The Dairy Dash will also be making its second-year appearance with two, five, and 10-kilometre races on Sat., Aug 11 at 8 am. The event begins at the Winchester Arena.

Welch said she hopes for an even larger crowd than last year, which saw more than 30 participants.

There is a fee for the race, however, all money raised is earmarked for the Dundas County Food Bank.

Demand increases at local food banks

WINCHESTER — It is a story as old as time. Local food banks are in need.

At the Dundas County Food Bank, needs have increased throughout the summer.

Currently, items such as peanut butter, macaroni and cheese, juices, cereals, and more are in high demand.

As well, a drive is currently underway to collect school supplies in order to help needy families provide for their children come the start of the new school year in September.

At the House of Lazarus, while demand is still high, the local ecumenical outreach mission has recently completed a food drive.

"Certainly an improvement in how the shelves look," Kim Merkley, food bank co-ordinator, said.

Feds fund 1812 commemorations

At Crysler's Farm, along the shores of the St. Lawrence River, a batch of American troops moved east through the region in November 1813, following a defeat in Kingston. Enemy forces had been attempting to take control of the key British army stronghold.

After their defeat, American forces retreated east, landing in the area of John Crysler's farm. It was on that portion of land that the enemy attempted another victory.

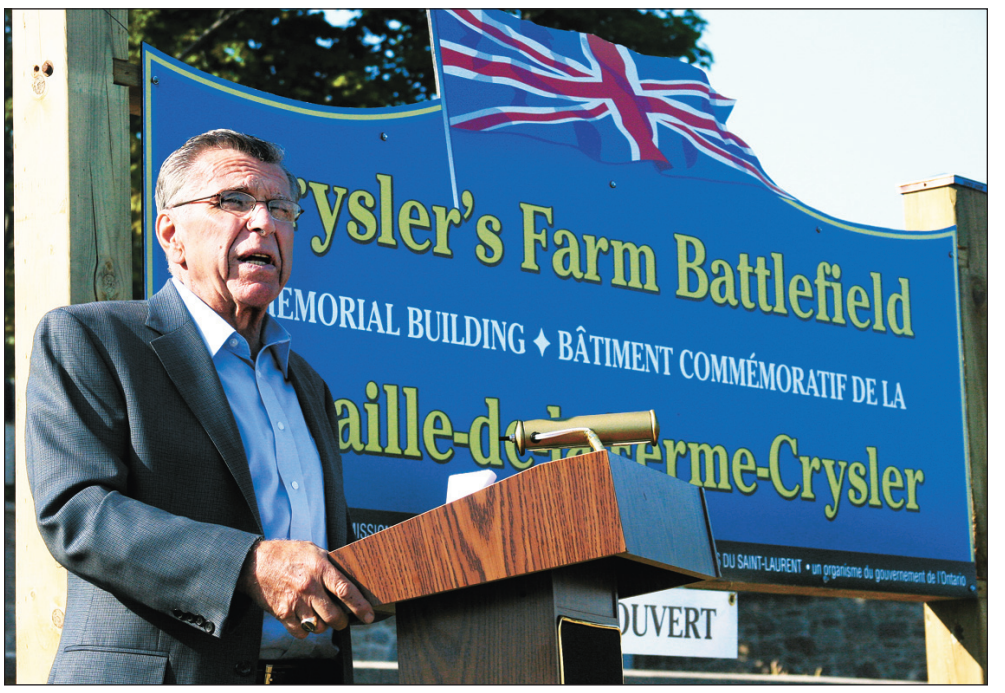
Although heavily outnumbered, Canadian troops staved off several American attacks during the Battle of Crysler's Farm, inflicting heavy casualties, and forcing their combatants to retreat.

The victory helped to ensure both the river, and a large portion of Eastern Ontario would stay in Canadian control.

"It is a defining chapter in our country's history," Lauzon said. "[This region] wouldn't exist without winning that war."

With the funding, the St. Lawrence Parks Commission is scheduled to host two separate War of 1812 events in 2013.

"In history, this battle is really downplayed, so it makes it even more important to have it commemorated here," Bruce Hendbest, senior supervisor at Upper Canada Village, said.



Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry MP Guy Lauzon unveiled an $80,000 funding allotment at Crysler's Farm Battlefield on Thurs., Aug. 2. The money is to help the St. Lawrence Parks Commission host two separate War of 1812 events in 2013. Press Photo – Uhrig

From Thurs., Aug. 9 to Sun., Aug. 12 downtown Winchester will be filled with the activities of Dairyfest. Gina Welch, co-chair of the organizing committee, said she is looking forward to new events like the Las Vegas Casino Night. Above, Welch displays one of the auction prizes for casino night.

Food banks

Despite the increase in food, the Mountain-based food bank will require more donations throughout the remaining summer and fall months.

At the Osgoode Emergency Food Cupboard, the shelves are bare, and community residents are being asked to help the cause.

In order to help, Nepean-Carleton MPP Lisa MacLeod has organized a donation drive for Tues., Aug. 21 from 6 to 8 pm, with the aim of helping all food banks in her riding. The event is scheduled to be held at Macleod's constituency office (3500 Fallowfield Rd. in Nepean).

Meanwhile, staff at the Good Neighbours Food Bank in Embrun are working to restock the shelves after thieves targeted the location on Tues., July 24. Both financial and food donations are being accepted in order to help the food bank continue to support the downtrodden in Russell Township.

Something for everyone

Saturday will see a full day of events, including the Winchester Firefighters' Breakfast with proceeds going to Camp Bucko – a camp for kids with burn injuries. The meal begins at 6 am.

Other events include the Little Miss/Mr. Dairyfest Competition, longest moo contest, an Antique Tractor Parade, a vendor fair and sidewalk sale downtown, and more.

Sunday, a shorter day, with events ending at 5 pm, begins with a council breakfast from 8 am to 10:30 am.

POLICE BLOTTER

RIDE check nets impaired driver

HALLVILLE – On Thurs., Aug. 2, at approximately 7:15 pm, Stormont, Dundas, and Glengarry (SD&G) OPP officers were conducting Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere (RIDE) spot-checks at the intersection of County Roads 1 and 43. While checking a pick-up truck, it was observed that the driver was under the influence of alcohol, and had an open container (of alcohol) in the vehicle.

He identified himself verbally under a false name. A further investigation revealed that the vehicle had been reported stolen from the City of Ottawa. OPP also located the following inside the vehicle: a pellet handgun, and a quantity of suspected hashish and tools.

Joey Edgerton, 34, of North Grenville was arrested and is charged with several offences, including: possession of property obtained by crime; impaired operation of a motor vehicle; exceeding 80 milligrams blood alcohol content; personation; possession of a weapon for dangerous purpose; possession of a controlled substance; possession of break-in instruments; and failure to comply with undertaking (four counts). He was held in custody pending a court appearance in Cornwall.

Assault charge

CRYSLER – On Wed., Aug. 1, at approximately 11:30 am, OPP officers responded to a report of a disturbance at a residence on Concession Street.

A further investigation revealed a male at the residence had assaulted a female (no relation), and caused damage within the home. The 53-year-old male was arrested, and is charged with: assault, and mischief to property under $5,000. He was held in custody, pending a court appearance in Cornwall.

South Dundas strategic plan gaining momentum

by Sandy Casselman
Press staff

WILLIAMSBURG — On Thurs., Aug. 2, South Dundas council held a special meeting to review the current draft report of the municipality's Community Strategic Plan.

"We're a little behind where we wanted to be," said CAO Stephen McDonald. "Hopefully, we're gaining some momentum."

Economic development officer Nicole Sullivan led council members through a revised draft of the plan, focusing council's attention on the implementation strategy chart for short-term goals.

As Sullivan explained, the chart was broken down according to projects and timelines, all within the short-term time frame of two years. Each project was then assigned to a township department who will take the lead for that project.

"We're looking for feedback to see if there are any issues on timing or budgeting," said Sullivan.

For South Dundas Mayor Steven Byvelds, concern centered around "doing all recreation facility needs in 2014."

"That's a big ball of wax to put in 2014, in an election year," he said.

McDonald agreed that it will come down to "a timing thing," and suggested having the items brought forth in the 2013 budget.

Special emphasis was given to the overwhelming public demand for updated and additional infrastructure to accommodate pedestrian traffic. McDonald suggested that this issue would be tackled in early 2013.

"We have to get the community involved," Byvelds pointed out. "If it's just ours, then they won't have ownership."

According to Sullivan, armed with the information gathered from the meeting, Dillon Consulting will prepare a final draft of the South Dundas Community Strategic Plan and present it to council sometime in September. (Dillon Consulting of Ottawa was hired by the Township of South Dundas early in 2012 to consult with the public, and draft a plan accordingly.)

Coming through!

The start of the new school year is in the offing, albeit a few weeks of summer vacation do remain. However, preparation is underway at Winchester Public School. On Wed., Aug. 1, a new portable was delivered to the educational institute. The oversized structure made its way down St. Lawrence Street on the bed of a transport, while an OPP escort ensured oncoming traffic was diverted, and didn't impact the procession. From St. Lawrence, the new facility was pulled west on Clarence Street, with a quick session down Louise Street, before reaching its new home on the school's south side. Press Photos - Uhrig

Transit service shutting down for at least a month

by Matthew Uhrig
Press staff

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — It appears the end of the line may be present for South Mountain Stagecoach/Transit (SMS/T).

Although owner Dan Grant insists the move could be temporary, the service did run its last route into Ottawa on Tues., July 31.

At the moment, Grant said, the future is cloudy.

"No one has approached me to buy me out, other than curiosity, or take over the route, despite my trying to sell the business," he said.

For more than three years, the company has carried commuters to and from Ottawa in the mornings and afternoons. The route began in Inkerman, before heading north to various stops, including Reids Mills, Osgoode, Greely, and the Rideau Carleton Raceway.

On average, roughly 30 people a day boarded the bus; however, 40 or more riders were the only way to make the route feasible, Grant said. Without new riders, the travel bus remains idle.

"I believe a large company could have success, due to their fleet insurance discounts, bulk fuel purchasing ability, and in-house maintenance and infrastructure," he said.

> Dan Grant: "Transit affects everyone."

Grant announced in July that the transit service would be shut down if ridership did not increase by Wed., Aug. 1.

In the time since the initial announcement, promotion of the service hit a fever pitch, with Osgoode Ward Councillor Doug Thompson backing the business, and agreeing to spend upwards of $700 to print and mail flyers regarding the need for more passengers. It is possible that both the Township of North Dundas and Thompson's office will share the cost of the flyers.

The Township of South Dundas, meanwhile, has also jumped aboard, posting a flyer on the municipality's website (www.southdundas.com).

"[All of this] may stimulate new business, but we need 40 people in order to re-start in September," Grant said.

SMS/T will continue running its other services (tours and charter trips), but the fate of the Ottawa route is unclear at this time.

"I believe we need to think outside the box here, especially when it comes to municipal boundaries," Grant said. "Transit knows, or should know, no boundaries. Transit affects everyone."

Drought affecting rural communities

METCALFE — We continue to experience one of the driest summers on record. Approximately 60 per cent of our land mass is in the South Nation Conservation Authority (SNCA), and the remainder is part of the Rideau Valley Conservation Authority (RVCA).

Both authorities have declared level two drought conditions for the first time in a decade. Level two means we have received less than 40 per cent of our normal rainfall. Environment Canada states that Ottawa has endured the hottest, and driest two-month period in history.

At this time, both conservation authorities are monitoring the weather conditions. If the lack of rainfall continues, the authorities may make a recommendation to the province, which makes the final decision, on moving to level three drought conditions.

Special programming, extended hours

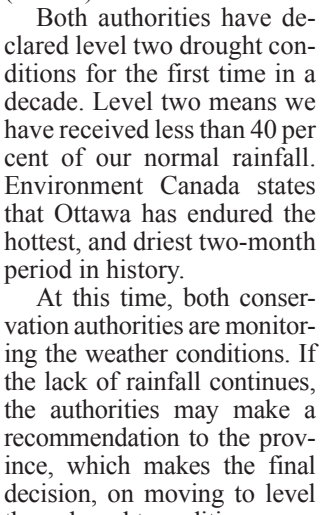
The Greely branch (1448 Meadow Dr.) of the Ottawa Public Library (OPL) will host special programs in August thanks to Councillor Doug Thompson.

Thompson gave $5,000 to the OPL earlier this year, and some of that money will be used for children's programs on Saturdays in August. The hours of operation on these days will also be extended. The branch will be open 10 am to 5 pm.

Thanks to these funds, four more children's programs and four adult programs will be held this fall.

For a listing of these special programs, visit www.biblioottawalibrary.ca.

Graduation



Ethan VanKoppen

It is with great pride that we announce the graduation of Ethan VanKoppen from Carleton University on June 7, 2012. Ethan earned his degree in Civil Engineering with High Distinction and is currently employed with Star Engineering in Ottawa.

Congratulations! Love, Mom, Dad, Kaitlyn & Linsey.

In the footsteps of soldiers

MORRISBURG – Members of the Glens Association and Friends of the Glens will soon be embarking on a 13-day Glens Tour of France, Belgium, and the Netherlands.

From Thurs., Sept. 6 to Wed., Sept. 19, people associated with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry (SD&G) Highlanders, as well as others not associated with the group, will be following the route of the Glens Primary Reserve Infantry Regiment of the Canadian Forces to commemorate the second landing of Landing Craft Infantry (Large) 299 on Juno Beach on D-day, June 6, 1944.

The two-week Glens tour will focus on visiting memorials, graves, and sites dedicated to remembering and honouring members of the SD&G Highlanders who landed on Juno Beach.

Bill Shearing is one of the organizers of the trip. He explained in an email to the Winchester Press that the first Glens tour was in 1965, the 25th anniversary of D-Day. This fall will be Shearing's fourth time on the tour.

Travellers to follow Glens' route

The now retired lieutenant colonel added that throughout the trip people who are connected to the Glens would be joining the group for dinners and tours.

Dr. Jean-Pierre Benamou, an avid historian, museum curator, and Friend of the Glens, will be joining the group in Normandy, acting as a guide and companion for tour. He owns the D-Day Normandy Academy, which the Glens Tour will be going to.

Via a charter bus, the 40-person group will visit a number of museums and memorials in and around Caen, France, visit the First World War Canadian monument at Vimy Ridge, travel to Blakenberg, Belgium, and head northeast to Nijmegen, The Netherlands.

Their trip ends in Amsterdam, where the group will have a day to tour around the city before catching a flight back to Montreal.

WINCHESTER – Whether trying to monitor water levels in wells, protect cash crops from near-death by parchment, or simply wanting to play a round of golf on something resembling a green, it is glaringly clear that water, in the form of rainfall, has an important part to play in the health of all living things in and around Dundas County.

Crops face potential yield loss

Several weeks ago, at the onset of South Nation Conservation Authority (SNC)'s level two drought advisory, Township of South Dundas Councillor Archie Mellan, a corn and soybean farmer, reported that the effects of the drought were dependent on the whims of Mother Nature.

He pointed out that while his farm might see an inch of rain during a given storm, a friend's farm 15 minutes north might not see any. He also pointed out that soil content and quality, as well as other geographic and environmental factors, play a vital role in how a crop deals with the stress of drought.

On Thurs., Aug. 2, Mellan reported: "Between the rains this week, we got maybe six to eight millimetres. It's been hit and miss all over the place. We're not getting a wide area of rain."

"We'll take it," he added, "but it's not enough. Even with rains now, in some cases the damage has already been done; in some other cases, you might be able to recoup."

Mellan pointed out that "wheat crops in the area seem to be real good. They had a real good yield on the spring wheat." He explained that the wheat was in early, and so "it got to maturity level before the drought took hold."

Drying up at Cedar Glen

While the grass is drying up, and Cedar Glen Golf Course in Williamsburg is feeling the effects of the current level two drought, business is still going strong. On Thurs., Aug. 2, employees Emma Fraser (left) and Taylor Shelp took time out from serving up a barbecue chicken and rib dinner to pose for a photo in front of one of the quickly browning fairways.

Press Photo - Casselman

Unfortunately, the same could not be said for a lot of hay fields. In fact, Mellan said that several beef farmers have sold more of their cattle earlier simply because they haven't the means to feed them.

Mellan also reported that the strawberry and sweet corn farmers have seen a shorter season as well, impacting their yields. "Everybody's going to be affected that way," he said. "We all depend on Mother Nature and water."

As for how Mellan's corn and soybean crops will fare: "It all depends on the timing of the rain and how much you get. We won't know until the combines start rolling in the fall."

Golfers adapt

The importance of water and the effects of rain's inconsistent nature are also seen at area golf courses. While Cloverdale Links Golf Club north of Winchester on County Road 31 is "still in excellent shape," according to manager Audrey May, Cedar Glen Golf Course in Williamsburg has been seriously impacted by the lack of substantial quality rain.

According to owner Dennis Casselman, the current drought is affecting maintenance, staffing, and general plant health at the golf course.

"Trying to maintain course conditions with the level two ban on presents some challenges," he said, referring to the SNC request that all residents and businesses in the local watershed use 20 per cent less water than normal.

"Watering takes as much time as mowing," he continued, "more actually," which means the need for additional staff.

"The drought does present some unique problems to our short grass area," Casselman continued. "Drought leads to stress, and stress leads to possible disease outbreak. Maintenance is trying to avoid the possibility of disease outbreak, while staying within the guidelines of the Pesticide Act."

In contrast, May of Cloverdale Links reported that "we stopped using water by 20 per cent, and we still have water in the ponds, and golfers are still coming out. We're in really good shape."

As for whether the weather has affected the number of visitors or amount of play on the Cedar Glen greens, Casselman reported that while mid-day play is "not very popular," there is a lot of turnout for early mornings and evenings.

Conditions may be dry on the fairways but, as Casselman joked, "we're getting another 20 yards on our drives so we feel good about that… As long as it's rolling in the right way."

Level two drought holds firm

SNC's water response team met in Finch on Thurs., Aug. 2, to discuss whether the area's current situation justifies an upgrade to a level three.

SNC environmental technician Jason Symington reported that while there are "the odd grumblings of wells going dry here and there," and concern of crop yields being negatively impacted, the collective decision was to support the maintaining of a level two drought advisory, rather than recommending an upgrade to level three.

Whether circumstances will reach a level three drought is still unknown, but as Symington pointed out, "we will continue documenting any reports that we do have of wells going dry. We'll keep monitoring the weather and the water levels. We will continue updating the committee over time, either weekly or bi-weekly."

Until then, people are asked to conserve water by 20 per cent when and where possible, and to report any occurrences of dry wells or other water-related issues to the SNC.

History sticks to everything

Most residents know that it doesn't take an overly thorough search to find history among us in Dundas County.

From heritage homes in the region's villages, to the many churches, as well as this newspaper, the past is ever present.

Along the shores of the St. Lawrence River, there lays an even greater presence.

On the battlefield at Crysler's Farm, men gave their lives for this country. Many, some as young as schoolchildren, took up arms, and stood alongside British forces.

The job was done in order to protect this section of Eastern Ontario from the emerging American Army. In November 1813, enemy commanders sent troops east in an attempt to take Montreal, while another collective waged battle in Kingston.

Loyal Canadian militiamen, however, foiled both American attempts.

While retreating west, enemy troops, recently defeated in Kingston, come upon John Crysler's farm. Here, the Americans attempted to take control, and waged yet another battle.

The roar of cannon fire consistently pierced the local landscape, but despite being severely outnumbered, a Canadian victory was achieved on that cold November day.

In the 200 years since, those who fought, and survived the battle, helped to shape what the region has become today.

While the St. Lawrence River has been a consistent source for transportation, and other activities, land was also worked in the north, forming today's villages.

Winchester was shaped, as was Chesterville, South Mountain, and Morewood, many years ago.

Men and women, moving on from a battle that saved Canada, began to build homes, community halls, post offices, and many other businesses.

It was with foresight, and knowing that what was built then would be necessary today that empowers settlers as great innovators. What we have before us now was built on their backs.

The federal government, despite its many foibles, has also come to that realization. Throughout the next three years, $28 million is to be invested in order to commemorate the War of 1812 throughout the province. Locally, $80,000 has been earmarked for the Crysler's Farm Battlefield Memorial. The money is to help fund two separate celebrations in 2013.

As residents, we should be making every effort possible to pay homage to those who came before us. For without them, and without their perseverance and ingenuity, what is today may not have come to be.

Whether you know it or not, history does stick to everything.

The Acres family on Main Street West found a new family pet, the Winchester Press reported this week in 1962. A young owl was found injured in a nearby field. Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Acres' son, David (pictured with the owl), was particularly attached to the bird of prey.

Remember when...

The Swerdfeger clan of Eastern Ontario gathered at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Allen E. Swerdfeger, about one mile east of Morewood. In attendance were between 300 and 400 relatives, most from the towns and villages of the United Counties, but also from further points in Ottawa, the Smiths Falls area, and the U.S. Dinner was served under the shade of the big trees. In the afternoon, an Ottawa photographer took a super-wide photo of the group. It was then reproduced in the Winchester Press, along with a poem recording the history of the Swerdfegers. The poem was written by a family member, and records how their German ancestors were farmers.

1942

The Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced a ration of one ounce of tea or four ounces of coffee per person per week. The same ration card used to obtain sugar would be used. Ration coupons for children under 12-years-old couldn't be used for tea and coffee purchases. The new rationing measure was required because shipping had been diverted to the war effort, and there was no way to transport these commodities from producing countries. It was estimated that without rationing, Canada would be out of tea and coffee in a matter of months.

1952

"When one is troubled by hands that perspire too freely, it can be remedied by bathing the hands in warm water and alcohol," the Press reported this week.

1962

An abundant rainfall through the summer was helping growing conditions. Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Dow of Williamsburg reported they had white variegated petunias that measured 46 inches across, with nearly 200 perfect blooms. The Dows also reported that they had ripe tomatoes measuring 18 inches in circumference. Meanwhile, Mrs. Howard Morrow of Ottawa told the Press she had in her backyard a dahlia that was more than nine feet, seven inches.

1972

Waterlogged and marsh-like farmland in Eastern Ontario was inspected by both the provincial and federal ministers of agriculture in the previous two weeks. Determined to have a close look at the emergency situation, several groups of officials took time to climb fences and inspect soggy corn fields, grain crops, and meadows. At a series of meetings, local farmers were expressing dissatisfaction with the government response. Farmers disagreed with the suggestion by OMAF Minister William Stewart that Ontario's system of crop insurance was the best in the world.

1982

Rachel Thurler, 19, of South Mountain was selected as Dundas County's 1982-83 Dairy Princess this week. On a stage set up at the intersection of St. Lawrence and Main Streets in Winchester, contestants were introduced and each gave a five-minute talk on Canada's dairy industry.

1992

The talent of Sharon Adams of Inkerman had struck a chord with Johannus of Holland, one of the fastest growing organ manufacturers in the world. The company produced a CD recording of Adams, a full-time organ demonstrator for Roy Fawcett's Organ Corporation. During a recital in Holland, Adams received two standing ovations from an audience.

The biggest Big Mac attack of 1976

From the Other Side

by Jeff Morris

The deal was that you had to say it as fast as you could.

"Two all beef patties special sauce lettuce cheese pickles onions on a sesame seed bun."

It was the Big Mac Attack, the pop culture phenomena that gripped us all during the summer of 1976.

At a McDonald's across the street from the Forum in Montreal, they even set up a Big Mac Attack Express Lane during the Olympics. As a 12-year-old kid hanging out at the Olympics, seeing whatever I could on discounted single scalper tickets while my father and uncle kicked it in the press box, life couldn't get much better.

When I walked into the St. Catharine Street McDonald's one day, my jaw nearly dropped. The biggest women's basketball star in the world, Uljiana Semonova, was also in line. She was hard to miss. She was seven-feet-tall, and she wore men's size 21 Adidas basketball shoes. The night before, I had watched her completely dominate the Japanese national team, whose tallest player was about 5'8". It was like watching Madame Maxime from Harry Potter take on Frodo Baggins and the Hobbits.

I was more in awe than gawking. I had never seen anyone seven feet tall before. It took me a minute to realize that the entire team was there, having lunch at McDonald's. It probably wouldn't happen today, as athletes would not likely be allowed to eat a Big Mac. But in 1976, McDonald's was new and exciting, and we all wanted a Big Mac, even though I never really liked them.

Since I was by myself, I watched them. They laughed, they smiled. For some reason, I didn't think Soviet athletes were allowed to do that. I didn't have a clue what they were saying or talking about, but I am sure it is the same kind of banter that any team at any age goes through. As much damage as a Big Mac and fries could do to your body, it was made up tenfold in team bonding.

Since I played guard, the player that I watched most closely was number eight. I had read about the Soviet team in detail before the games, as my father came home one day before the games with a stack of Olympic team media guides. Number eight had already established herself as the premier female basketball player in the world, and a few nights earlier had drained 28 points against the Czechs. Although the Americans could not match up against Semonova in the gold medal game, it was really a showcase between the Great Russian guard and American guard Ann Meyers to see who the best female player in the world was.

Meanwhile, it's a miracle that Tatyana Kabayeva could even play basketball. At the age of seven, while walking home from school, a car hit her. Her right leg was injured to the point where it was nearly amputated. Her leg was saved after several surgeries, but she was not expected to ever walk again, let alone become a star basketball player.

She spent a year in the hospital recovering. At the age of eight, she started putting bricks in a bag with a string and began to work out her legs. She came up with the idea on her own. She kept playing volleyball and basketball, and by the time she was 16, she was considered the best female basketball player the Soviet Union had ever produced. She wore number eight because her favourite player was Moscow Dynamo star Vladimir Zinman, who also wore number eight.

When she was 19, Tatyana was named the captain of the powerful Soviet women's national team. She would lead the Soviet team to multiple European championships, the world championships, and two Olympic Gold Medals. Her husband, Mikhail, was a soccer star in the Soviet Union, playing for Moscow Dynamo.

While Tatyana was dominating international women's basketball, she and Mikhail had three sons. One of them – the one she calls Sasha – fell in love with hockey. Sasha lost a brother, but his other brother, Misha, fell in love with basketball. Sasha's father died when the boy was 10, and the greatest female guard in international basketball history shifted her focus to being what many moms in Canada are – a hockey mom.

Semonova, meanwhile, became the most dominant women's basketball player in history. The Latvian seven-footer won 15 European championships, two gold medals, and 15 Soviet titles. Like Tatyana, throughout her international career, she never lost a game playing for the Soviet Union.

While I was too shy to meet the two Russian stars as a 12-year-old in McDonald's during the Montreal Olympics, I would, 32 years later, get the chance to meet Tatyana. I was working at the 2004 NHL Draft in Raleigh, N.C., and she was there. Since retiring as the greatest women's point guard in Russian basketball history, she had become the head of Russia's national women's basketball program.

But on that day, in Raleigh, she was not a basketball executive. She was a mom. She got to experience the thrill of being with her son while an NHL team drafted him.

Sasha would make it to the NHL, and he would rely on his relationship with his mother, and her experience to help him through his career. To honour his legendary mother, he wears number eight.

You've probably seen him play. Sasha's real name is Alexander Ovechkin.

Services available at my office

From Parliment Hill

by MP Guy Lauzon

OTTAWA — Time after time a constituent will come into my office and exclaim, "I didn't realize you could help me with this problem!"

It happened twice last week.

Too many people still are not aware of the services my office can provide to them. Very often, a constituent turns to us as a last resort or to complain about the poor service they received trying to resolve an issue they had with the federal bureaucracy. That is where we come in.

We all know that trying to get service by dialling a "1-800" number can be tremendously frustrating. Just trying to speak to a human is a challenge. Many times, the problem you are trying to resolve doesn't fit into the options being offered. You often are put on hold for extremely long periods of time.

Trying to navigate websites can be equally difficult, especially if your computer skills are like mine.

Well, I have good news for you. I have a very experienced, knowledgeable, friendly, and compassionate staff that may be able to reduce your level of frustration.

They are not miracle workers, but in most cases, they can get an answer to your question in a reasonable amount of time. The answer may not always be the one you are hoping to hear, but we can usually get one in a timely fashion.

If you are having difficulty getting service or a timely reply from a federal government department, may I suggest you contact my office and let us help you?

We can't change a decision or ask bureaucrats to break or bend the rules, but we can ensure that you get the service you deserve as a taxpayer.

We would love to help, and we can be reached at 1-888-805-2513 or by email at info@guylauzon.ca.

Letter to the Editor

Economic development at a standstill

The Editor:

Time marches on, and still the Township of North Dundas council is at a standstill pace on the subject of economic development.

It is true that they took two tentative steps recently — first appointing an economic development officer, but giving him the added responsibility for communications, and secondly, they sought the advice of a politically linked consulting firm.

Nothing has been heard concerning the outcome of these two endeavors. No definitive action or leadership has been forthcoming.

Surely it would cost little to set up a roundtable of leading citizens to promote discussion on policy, and strategy. As a second proposal, how about a town hall type meeting open to the public?

It seems that council and some others fear economic development will despoil our tranquil way of life in North Dundas, but experience shows that economic development provides resources for a broader social and cultural life.

The options are clear — standstill as we are or join the competition for investment and growth.

With leadership on the file, council and citizens opting to stay as we are will welcome the sharing of the tax burden with new industry. Our young people will find greater opportunity for employment.

Economic development is a win, win deal, but we must get started now. We have stood still long enough, it is now time to act.

All aboard

In days gone by, it wasn't unfamiliar to see horse drawn carriages travelling the rural roadside, cutting across country to one place or the next. While the automobile eventually took hold in the region, for many, the only means of transportation was to hitch a wagon to your steed and go. However, in a pinch, a cow could do the job required. Patti Shadbolt submitted this picture to the Winchester Press, showing her mother, Marjorie, alongside Charles (left) and William Jackson. The date on the photo is 1935, and according to Shadbolt, it shows that the region has forever had a connection to the dairy industry. She is also pulling this photo out of the family album in time for Winchester's annual celebration of the industry, with the 2012 Dairyfest celebration set for Thurs., Aug. 9 to Sun., Aug. 12.

Hospital teams up for Heel 'n Wheel

WINCHESTER – Some Winchester District Memorial Hospital (WDMH) staff members have taken the initiative to sign up three teams to participate in the Heel 'n Wheel for Local Cancer Care. The inaugural event is scheduled for Sat., Sept. 8.

By participating, staff members hope to raise awareness of the care, and services that WDMH provides to patients diagnosed with cancer.

The three teams are: X-Rated; the Diabetes Defenders; and the Shopping Bags. X-Rated consists of staff from the WDMH Diagnostic Imaging Department, including team captain Jenna Harrington, an ultrasonographer from Morrisburg.

X-Rated's fundraising goal is $800. When asked why they wanted to participate, team member Joanne Sidorchuk, manager of restoration, rehabilitation and diagnostic services at WDMH, said that, "we decided as a department to put a team in because we diagnose cancer everyday, and wanted to support the cause."

Many of the team members have never participated in a walking or cycling fundraiser before, and are debating which town they'd like to start from. Debbie Westenbroek, a team member from Winchester Springs, joked that, "South Mountain is the shortest, so we'd be the first in line at the after party barbecue."

Several staff members of Winchester District Memorial Hospital have signed on for the upcoming Heel 'n Wheel for Local Cancer Care on Sept. 8. Pictured are members of the team X-Rated, striking their "x-rated" pose next to the digital mammography machine, Debbie Westenbroek (left), Jenna Harrington, and Joanne Sidorchuk.

Between these three hospital staff teams, members hope to raise a combined total of $9,800 through their network of supporters.

Troy Cross, executive director of the WDMH Foundation, said he is appreciative of how much these staff members already do in the hospital.

"I'm constantly reminded of how generous WDMH staff are," said Cross. "They offer their time and energy on top of the many hours they put in at work each week, and we're so grateful that they want to participate in this exciting new event."

To learn more about which staff members are on these teams, support them, or join them by registering your team today, visit www.heelnwheel.ca.

Lauzon asking for nominations to be awarded jubilee medals

WINCHESTER – Stormont, Dundas, and South Glengarry (SD&SG) MP Guy Lauzon is looking to honour a select few local residents.

The riding's representative at Parliament Hill is looking for nominations for the Queen's Diamond Jubilee Medal. Submissions for consideration are to be entered by Fri., Aug. 24.

The new commemorative medal was created to mark the 2012 celebrations of the 60th anniversary of Queen Elizabeth's accession to the throne. The laurel is a tangible way for Canadians to honour the queen, and at the same time, honour significant contributions and achievements by citizens.

During the year, 60,000 deserving recipients are to be recognized.

For eligibility, a person must: be a Canadian citizen or permanent resident of Canada, but need not necessarily reside in the country; have made a significant contribution to a particular province, territory, region, or community within Canada, or an achievement abroad that brings credit to the country; and be alive on Mon., Feb. 6, the officially anniversary date of Queen Elizabeth's accession to throne. (The medal can be awarded posthumously, as long as the recipient was alive on that date.)

A nomination form must be completed to officially nominate a candidate. Forms are available at www.guylauzon.ca, or by calling the MP's constituency office at 1-888-805-2513. Nominations can also be submitted by emailing info@guylauzon.ca.

The 65th annual Glengarry Highland Games took place this past weekend, Fri., Aug. 3 and Sat., Aug. 4, in Maxville. With sun shining, the two-day event was jam-packed with things to do and see, from heavyweight competitions to highland dancing, and more.

INTRODUCING

Dr. Céline Pomainville

Dr. LeVasseur and Dr. Vautour are pleased to introduce their new associate at the Embrun Optometry Clinic. Dr. Céline Pomainville is a graduate of the University of Montreal. She had completed a Bachelor of Science degree before entering the doctorate program in optometry. She obtained all the qualifications allowing her to prescribe medication to treat various eye diseases.

During her studies she did a residency at the Fier Eye Care Center in Florida, as well as a residency at the Laurentian Eye Institute in Quebec. Dr. Pomainville is interested in all aspects of the practice of Optometry, and in particular ocular health, emergency eye care, contact lenses and pediatric optometry. She is also available for yearly assessments of ocular diabetes, cataracts, glaucoma and laser vision correction.

Dr. Pomainville is a member of the College of Optometrists of Ontario and the College of Optometrists of Quebec. She is also a member of the Canadian Association of Optometrists. She is happy to offer her services in both official languages.

You can arrange an eye examination with Dr. Pomainville at the 19 Blais Street clinic in Embrun by dialing 613-443-5550.

Tubie in the 80s

Morrisburg's annual Tubie event began Fri., Aug. 3 with a teen dance on the waterfront and ended Sun., Aug. 5 with the race itself. This year's theme was Dock of Ages, and parade participants were encouraged to think 80s. This year, Jeff Barclay won a special award, Emergency Preparedness, for his tube-in-a-tube design, and Gary Magee won the Innovation of the Year award for his foot-operated rudder controls. Magee's team also won the tubie race, coming in with a time of six minutes and 12 seconds, just three seconds faster than Mike Domanko's team.

Pictured above:
What 80s parade would be complete without a visit from the mini-pops? The Morrisburg and District Lions Club put together this float that tied for third place.

One float took this year's Tubie theme to heart, naming itself Dock of Ages and coming complete with several singing sensations of the 80s.

The Redneck Tubie float, packed with participants in their best redneck gear, showed they had a sense of humour, as well as a deep appreciation for beer, fun, and hollerin'.

The Barclay-Laurin float, The Muppets Take Tubies, won the top prize in Saturday's parade. The team placed third during Sunday's race.

Showing imagination and an intense appreciation for detail, the Waddell-Millard team placed second in the parade competition with their Alice in Wonderland float.

Sox clinch playoff spot with decisive 14-4 game

WINCHESTER – It was a week with an extreme high, and a desolate low for the Winchester Sox.

The area's entry in Tier 2 of the National Capital Baseball League travelled to McCarthy Park in Ottawa on Wed., Aug. 1, and thumped the SweatSox 14-4.

In a return engagement against the Pirates at Morgan Field on Thurs., Aug. 2, things didn't go exactly as planned. The visitors returned to Aylmer following a 16-0 thrashing of the Sox.

However, despite the lopsided verdict, the Sox had earned a playoff spot the evening before. The squad currently sits in third place in the eight-team tier with a 12-10-0 record.

Sox 14 – SweatSox 4

The first seven batters to go to the plate for the Sox scored, as the team mounted an early 7-0 lead.

Starting pitcher Justin Morozuk then took the mound, working four innings, and registering four strikeouts, while giving up just two hits. He did run into some trouble, walking two batters in the first, and giving up a double, which scored two runs. Thankfully, his teammates widened the gap enough to allow Morozuk to work through his struggles.

Two regular-season games to go

Joel Leger pitched the fifth inning, walking two batters, striking out two, and giving up one run.

Tyler Armstrong, James Shaw, Matt Ware, and Dave Yarwood (two) picked up the RBIs, while Matt Uhrig went two for three on the night; crossing the plate each time he was on. The Sox also benefitted from a number of passed balls, which cashed in Miguel Gagnon and Shaw, and allowed multiple runners to advance into scoring position.

Pirates 16 – Sox 0

For the second Thursday in a row, the Sox faced Pirates starter Martin Trepanier, and the hard lefty shut down the Winchester lineup.

Sox starter Jordan Havekes struggled to find the strike zone, and Pirates hitters took advantage.

Once Havekes was lifted from the game, Sox manager Chris Hart used four different arms, including Josh Stubbings, who most often tracks fly balls in left field, but who was activated to simply throw strikes.

Nevertheless, nothing worked for the Sox, who have dropped all three encounters with the Pirates this season.

Up next

The Sox will close out their season this week, facing the Expos in Winchester on Thurs., Aug. 9, and then travelling to Ottawa on Fri., Aug. 10 to battle the Athletics at the Stadium.

Lightning strikes, Gallinger fires five

MORRISBURG – Tyler Gallinger and Brandon Buma each did their fair share of scoring as the White Lightning trounced the Morewood Monkeys on Thurs., Aug. 2.

During the first half of the evening's Dundas Men's Roller Hockey League double dip, Gallinger buried five goals for his squad deep in the Monkeys' net, while Buma replied with four of his own.

In the second contest of the night, New Blue beat up on the Red Rockets, registering a 14-7 victory. Justin Elliott blasted seven goals for the Blue side.

With the wins, Lightning (8-3-0) and Blue (8-3-0) continue their share of first place, while the Rockets (4-6-1) hold down the third-place spot. The Monkeys sit in the league basement with a 1-9-1 record.

Lightning 13 – Monkeys 7

With Gallinger and Buma combining for a total of nine goals, the Lightning easily got past the Monkeys from Morewood.

Rob Thurler also potted two goals for the winning squad, while Tyler Brown and Billy Henderson chipped in with single markers.

Assists went to Thurler (seven), Buma (four), Gallinger (two), Brown (four), and Henderson.

For the Monkeys, Jake Byers had three goals and an assist, while Chris Embury added two goals, with a lone helper point.

Mike Thompson and Tyler Jones had single markers, while assists were registered by Mike Patterson (two), Justin Heuff (two), and Thompson (two).

Blue 14 – Rockets 7

Justin Elliott's seven-goal effort made the difference as the Blues doubled the third-place Rockets 14-7.

Connor Hodgson had four goals for the winning team, while Jamie McIntosh had two markers, and Randy Markell potted one marker.

Assists went to Nick McGill, Garreth Cochrane, Markell, Elliott (two), McIntosh (two), and Hodgson (four).

For the Rockets, Chris Phifer had five goals and an assist, while Chad McMillan and David Patterson had a goal each. Assists went to Craig Belanger (two), Patterson (two), McMillan (two), and Phifer.

Leclair leads Aug. 1 men at Sandy Row

SOUTH MOUNTAIN – Jeff Leclair had an eagle skin, while carding a low gross 39 at the latest Sandy Row Men's League event on Wed., Aug. 1.

Raymond Sherrer and Gerald Christie were closest to the pin on No. 4 and No. 7, respectively. On No. 2, Bill Robinson dropped his ball closest to the marker.

The evening's draw winners included: Jim Scott, Dean Boyd, Dwayne McGuire, Brent Fawcett, and Dave Youdell.

On Wed., Aug. 8, the Mountain Township Agricultural Society and the Men's League committee will co-sponsor the evening, while McVey Brothers Insurance Brokers of Ottawa will host the event on Wed., Aug. 15.

Canucks charging

Jason Buma, pictured here in action against the Flames earlier this season, had one goal in his team's victory over the Oilers on Tues., July 31. The Canucks are set to face the Senators for the Ralko Cup on Tues., Aug. 7. Press Photo – Van Bridger

Canucks to challenge Senators for senior ball hockey hardware

WINCHESTER – The third and final round of the North Dundas Senior Co-ed Ball Hockey League has been played.

On Tues., July 31, the top-ranked Canucks eliminated the Oilers 6-2, while the Flames edged the Canadiens 5-4.

The Senators, riding a hot goaltender, went 2-0 in round-robin play, and clinched a berth in the "A" final on Tues., Aug. 7. The Canucks will provide the opposition, as the two teams vie for the Ralko Cup.

The "B" final will see the Flames and Canadiens go head-to-head once more.

Canucks 6 – Oilers 2

Bryden van Kessel continued his strong season, bagging another three goals as the Canucks eliminated the Oilers from championship contention.

Cederic Henrie potted a pair of goals, and added two assists, while Jason Buma chipped in with his goal.

Remaining helper points went to van Kessel (three), and Tristan Larocque (two).

For the Oilers, Liam Morrow scored both of his team's two goals, while Mitch Kirkwood added two assists.

Flames 5 – Habs 4

In this close scoring contest Shawn Simms led the way for the Flames, potting three goals, while Braden Findlay and Justin Velthuis chipped in with a goal each.

Assists went to Patrick Norris, Zack Nelson, and Findlay (two).

For the Canadiens, Matthew Laflamme had three goals and an assist, while Cory Ross registered one marker and an assist.

Dayton Kelly also registered a helper point.

Playoff scoring

Bryden van Kessel, Canucks 6-4-10; Cedric Henrie, Canucks 3-5-8; Aaron Burns, Senators 3-3-6; Dayton Kelly, Canadiens 1-5-6; Owen Guy, Canucks 3-2-5; Dylan Marshall, Senators 3-1-4; Jason Buma, Canucks 3-2-5; Kyle Oosterhof, Oilers 2-2-4; and Travis Marshall, Senators 1-3-4.

Gove leads Neal's Blues to 9-4 win over Annable's

CHESTERVILLE – A three goal and three-assist effort from Teal Gove helped to lift Neal's Heating and Cooling Blues past Annable's Greens on Thurs., Aug. 2.

During the final regular season games of the Chesterville Women's Ball Hockey League, the Blue squad beat Green 9-4, while Andy's Foodland Reds and Bridals Yellow battled to a 1-1 draw.

Neal's 9 – Annable's 4

Gove potted two of her three goals in the first period of the Aug. 2 game.

She then helped to set up the first of Jessica Whitteker's two goals. Gove's final goal of the game came in the second frame, while she also added another two assists.

Remaining Annable's goals were scored by Whitteker, Geena Rose, Lindsay Feely (two), and Rachel Bekkers. Helper points were registered by Theresa Schoones, Heather Cooke-Erwin, Whitteker (two), Jill VanDerveen (three), Feely (two), Bekkers, and Rose.

Bridals ties Andy's

For the Green squad, Brittany Beckstead had two goals, and an assist, while Shaelynn McCadden and Jodie Hall had a goal each. Assists went to Katie Currie, Patti Hall, McCadden (two), and Beckstead.

Andy's 1 – Bridals 1

There wasn't much new following the game between Andy's Foodland Reds and Bridals Yellow.

The Red side got on the board first during the third period when Jackie Morris took a feed from Paulette Levesque and Saxon Ireland to put her squad ahead 1-0.

However, the Yellow squad replied with 3:07 remaining in the third frame. Taylor Cummins took a pass from Laura Melenhorst, and found the back of the Reds' cage.

Top scorers

Brittany Beckstead, Greens 13-13-26; Teal Gove, Blues 11-11-22; Jackie Morris, Reds 11-9-20; Taylor Cummins, Yellow 13-6-19; Tyne Gove, Blues 12-4-16; Patti Hall, Greens 6-10-16; Cinnamon Boulanger, Yellow 10-5-15; Kaila Beckstead, Greens 7-8-15.

Fern Duchesneau (left), South Mountain Scotiabank branch manager Karen Thompson, Nationview Golf Course manager and member of the Swing for the Kids golf tournament organizing committee Sheila Durant, Denise Mellan and Karen Burleigh took part in the presentation of a $4,000 donation to the CHEO oncology program following the second annual tournament held on Sat., July 14. A total of $16,700 was raised and donated to CHEO.

Golfers raise $16,700 for CHEO

SOUTH MOUNTAIN – A field of 116 golfers took part in the second annual Swing for the Kids golf tournament, an event that raised $16,700 for the oncology department at CHEO.

Scotiabank, South Mountain branch, donated $4,000 to the event held at Nationview Golf Course on Sat., July 14.

Tournament organizers Doug and Sheila Durant, Ashley Gilmore and Andres Menges reported $16,000 was donated to CHEO and the remaining $700 was used to purchase toys, electronics, crafts and miscellaneous items for the use of young patients at the hospital.

The top team was made up of Marc Ethier, Danelle Ross-Ethier, Jacques Ethier and Lynn Ross.

Larry Gorton won the closest-to-the-hole prize – a cartload of groceries donated by Mike Dean's Super Food Store in Winchester.

Eric Cormier won the putting contest and Travis Stevenson claimed the Longest Marshmallow Drive contest prize.

Lisa Bailey of Iroquois won $500 in the ball drop contest. Randy Norton of Spencerville donated his time and crane for the drop.

Mike and Teresa Veltkamp pounded out the longest drives. Don Moorhouse put his shot closest to the CHEO bear.

The three deck of cards winner was Lynn Ross who won a three-wheel bag boy cart donated by Golf Trends and a golf bag donated by Nationview Golf Course.

Special support

Candace and George Menges of River Rat Treasures of Iroquois donated complimentary Jello shooters and cookies to each golfer.

Scott Bernie of Riverside Ford in Brockville sponsored a new car for the hole in one contest, which no one claimed.

The Township of Edwardsburgh/Cardinal supplied a fire truck and the water for the dunk tank.

The organizing committee thanked the event's 31 hole sponsors, volunteers, as well as those who donated items noting that the tournament wouldn't have been a success without all of that support.

Deja vu: Sens to face Canucks for Fraser Cup in junior action

WINCHESTER – Despite dropping their final game of the season to the lowly Leafs, the Senators are set to compete for this year's Fraser Cup.

The Canucks will provide the opposition in the North Dundas Jr. Co-ed Ball Hockey League's "A" final on Wed., Aug. 8.

On the "B" side, the Canadiens and Oilers will battle for the hardware, while the Leafs and Flames are set to meet in the "C" side contest.

Leafs 2 – Senators 1

It didn't mean much in the way of standings, but the basement-dwelling Leafs put together a win against the Senators during the team's final round robin games on Wed., Aug. 1.

Adam Geertsma and Toby Byrne did the scoring, and Sean Devries guarded the cage for the win.

For the losing Senators, Benjamin Fingler beat Devries at 3:03, while Elyssa McLeod registered the helper point.

Habs 4 – Flames 2

Travis McInnis led the charge for the Canadians, scoring three of his team's four goals.

The single marker went to Joey Hannaford, while Jacob Zandbelt registered the lone assist.

Jared Wicks and Ethan Guy replied for the Flames, but the team couldn't muster any more goals. Assists went to Delaney Johnston and Brandon Lovely.

Canucks 7 – Oilers 1

The Canucks tune-up for the "A" final went exactly as planned, when the squad dumped the Oilers 7-1.

Cameron Cotnam had four goals and two assists for the Canucks, while Thomas Gutknecht also buried two markers and earned two helper points. Eliakim Gutknecht also picked up two assists.

Thomas Fitzpatrick registered the Oilers lone goal.

Playoff scoring

Cam Cotnam, Canucks 6-5-11; Thomas Gutknecht, Canucks 6-4-10; Travis McInnis, Canadiens 5-3-8; Jacob Zandbelt, Canadiens 2-4-6; Justin Shay, Canadiens 3-2-5; Joey Hannaford, Canadiens 3-2-5; Cedric Dagenais, Canadiens 1-3-4.

OBITUARIES

Bert Wood

Bert Wood of Dunbar passed away at the Dundas Manor in Winchester on Sat., July 28, 2012. He was 81.

He was the loving husband of Edith Wood (nee Bailey). He was the loving father of Bev (Glendon) Moore and Robert Wood, both of Dunbar, and the loving Papa of grandchildren Ryan (Jaime) Moore and Janel (Dave) Turnbull, and great-grandchildren Zaurek and Narelle Moore, and Ainsley Turnbull.

Bert was the dear brother of Don of Seeley's Bay, Earl (Jan) of Morrisburg, Linda (Lee) McCaslin of Iroquois, and Gary (Moya) of Rice Lake. He was the dear brother-in-law of Debbie Wood of Winchester. He was predeceased by his parents, Burnice and Thora Wood (nee Robinson), his sisters, Evelyn Wood and Marjorie Barkley, and his brother, Paul Wood. He is also survived by nieces and nephews.

Friends called at the Marsden and McLaughlin Funeral Home in Chesterville on Wed., Aug 1 from 9 am until the time of the memorial service at the funeral home at 11 am with Rev. Wendy Wright-MacKenzie officiating. Interment followed at Maple Ridge Cemetery in Chesterville. The pallbearers were grandchildren Ryan Moore and Janel Turnbull.

Donations to Dundas Manor or the Alzheimer Society would be gratefully acknowledged by the family.

Online condolences may be made at www.marsdenmclaughlin.com.

Volunteer spirit

On Wed., Aug. 1, the Bank of Montreal (BMO)'s Winchester branch donated $1,000 to the Winchester Hospital Heelers in support of their upcoming Heel 'n Wheel for Local Cancer Care on Sat., Sept. 8. Louise Moore, a branch employee, and a dedicated Hospital Heelers volunteer, made the donation possible when she applied for the BMO Volunteer Grant. "If our employees volunteer, then they're able to apply for the grant," said Winchester branch manager Patty Strader. "And Louise was one of the quick ones to get her application in." Pictured are Melissa Dow (left), Strader, Moore, Janet Hutt, and Sylvanna Dow.

Fun at camp

Fri., Aug. 3 was the final day of the Harmony United Methodist Church's Bible Vacations Camp. The theme for this week was Sonrise National Park, focusing on nature, allowing kids to learn about God's creations. With more than 40 volunteers and almost 90 campers, Pastor Bruce North said the camp was a great success. Avery Hagky (front) and Nehemiah Morgan raced to see who could blow his piece of paper across the line first.

Campers took part in a sing-along, as the music director, Debbie Gallagher (not pictured), led the singing and dancing.

August at UCP leads to laughs with play, Wife Begins at Forty MORRISBURG – Wife Begins at Forty, a comedy by Arne Sultan, Earl Barret, and Ray Cooney, made its debut at the Upper Canada Playhouse (UCP) in Morrisburg on Thurs., Aug. 2, and will run until Sun., Aug. 26.

"It's the kind of funny and breezy comedy that our audience has come to expect in August," said UCP artistic director Donnie Bowes. "A great way to cool off and laugh away the heat."

The play presents real-life couple Brian Young and Alison Lawrence as married couple George and Linda Harper, a husband and wife facing the inevitable ups and downs of married life.

Both Young and Lawrence have acted onstage at UCP in the past. In fact, Lawrence appeared alongside Bowes in UCP's first production of Norm Foster's The Affections of May, as Little Bo Peep, while Young last appeared onstage at the playhouse in the comedy, The Foursome.

The Harpers find themselves in a situation similar to many other married couples when wife Linda feels compelled to search out a new direction in life. The search inevitably leads to a separation, which, in turn, leads to a comic-laden effort on husband George's part to win back the affections of his wife and save his marriage.

While veteran actor Walter Learning (Bernard) has acted in many UCP plays, Kyle Orzech (Leonard) is new to the playhouse stage.

Rounding out the cast are Melanie Janzen and Richard Bauer who play neighbours Betty and Roger Dixon. Janzen was recently seen in the popular UCP production of Here on the Flight Path, while Bauer, who is also directing Wife Begins at Forty, has acted and directed several past Playhouse productions.

Coming up next

On stage at UCP this September will be A Nice Family Gathering. In October, Blue Suede Shoes will play for a limited spell and then, once again, late November through to December will find the Playhouse filled with holiday glee. This year's holiday production is aptly named the Holiday Family Show.
