Signs Of Spring

Many and various are the signs of Spring; the early robin, the first butterfly, to mention but a couple. Possibly in this area the most ominous sign is the one that seems to appear overnight on so many of our thoroughfares — "Half Loads In Effect."

Unfortunately, most of our roads are not built to withstand the rigorous weather changes and consequently when the frost begins to emerge weaknesses in the structure become more and more obvious and therein lies a two-fold hazard. First, if heavy vehicles were allowed the continued use of the road it would soon become a bog, impassable for all, which would in turn cause a sharp rise in taxation to raise the necessary funds for repairs. Then, on the other hand, from the point of view of the truckers themselves, heavy loads which break through the outer crust of the road can ..se havoc in the form of lost ..me and costly repairs.

Heed these signs, they are there for your protection as well as to protect the roads and insure having them back to normal as soon as possible.

Yet another sign of Spring is the ever present "pot-hole." There seems to be at least one on everybody's street and there is no practical solution short of a complete rebuilding job. Before heavy snow-removal equipment came into extensive use, the roads were protected by a thick blanket of snow, and consequently protected from the deep frost penetration. This is no longer the case and the price we must pay for good winter roads is the appearance of the spring pot-holes. Soon the frost will be gone, the holes will be patched and for another year, forgotten. Meanwhile, drive with care and keep a watchful eye for the "Signs of Spring."

Officially Open Hospital Wing June 1

June 1st has been tentatively set as the date for Official Opening of the new wing at Winchester District Memorial Hospital. This decision was reached at an executive meeting last week. Since it is imperative that Hon. Matthew Dymond, Ontario Minister of Health, should be on hand to cut the traditional ribbon, the date necessarily must allow for last minute changes in the Minister's busy schedule. The beautiful new wing is almost completed and those who have already visited it come away most favourably impressed.

An open house in conjunction with the official opening will ..e everyone an opportunity to ... first hand a hospital that is second to none, for its size, anywhere in Canada.

Hotel Changes May Influence Town Business

In a dormant state for the past several years, Winchester Hotel will take on new life, it was learned this week. Hy. Bessin, long time owner of the building, told The Press on Monday that work has already started on the stately centre town building which will eventually see it transformed into a modern business and professional complex.

Working with the Chamber of Commerce over the months, Mr. Bessin said that present plans call for the complete revamping of the first and second floors. Briefly, the first floor west side will be changed into one huge business chamber with "walk-in" entrance direct from street level. Inside, a new foyer will have step entrances to what could be a medical clinic with offices and facilities for at least two or possibly three doctors. On the second floor a new stairway will lead to several one bedroom and bachelor apartments, all modernly designed complete with private bath and modern kitchen facilities. In addition to apartments the second floor will also have accommodations for more professional and business offices, Mr. Bessin said.

Mr. Bessin refused to comment, at least for the present, on the immediate plans for the large west side facilities on the street level. He said this space would be available for almost any type of business. The Press has learned that a further announcement on this section of the building could be made within the next few days.

Outside the complete front of the building will be given a face-lifting with a new, modern material taking the place of the present brick design. No date was set for the completion although it is understood that occupancy should be available sometime later this year.

The Hotel has previously been used as hotel facilities, restaurant and professional offices on a limited scale. It had not been operated profitably as a hotel because of the unavailability of a licence to sell spirited beverages. A year ago there were tentative plans to change the hotel into a large central nursing home. These plans fell through when it was learned that staff was not available and because of certain other details which could not be solved at that time.

The changes underway now could add a great deal of attractiveness and economy to centre town Winchester. Announcement of the hotel renovations is one of at least two or three major business developments expected in Winchester before the summer months. Complete details of the hotel plan will be made known when they are available.

Elaine Thompson

A beautiful young Osgoode girl has been crowned "Miss Eastern Ontario". Elaine Thomp-Thompson, 21-year-old school teacher and daughter of Mrs. Gilbert Thompson, won out over 31 contestants at the 14th Annual Miss Eastern Ontario Contest sponsored by the Perth Chamber of Commerce.

Judges for this spectacular event this year were Mrs. Bill Luxton, wife of Bill Luxton of CJOH; Gord Atkinson of CFRA; Chas. McNamara of Brown Shoe Company, and Morley Ryder and Robert McBride of Air Canada.

Master of ceremonies for the beautiful pageant was Bill Luxton.

Miss Thompson won many beautiful prizes including a round trip ticket for two from Ottawa to Los Angeles, courtesy of Air Canada; free accommodation at Disneyland for one week, and the use of a Hertz Rent-a-car for the week. She also received a TV set, silverware, shoes, luggage, skates, as well as many other valuable awards.

Council, C.O.C., Engineer Discuss Town Expansion Plans

Continued progress focussed on the almost certain future expansion of the Village of Winchester was the main topic up for discussion at a special Council meeting Monday night.

Members of the Chamber of Commerce and other interested residents sat in on the meeting and Arthur Fee, consulting engineer, was also present. Mr. Fee outlined the work being done on the plans for the village sewer system, explaining that any future extension would tie in with the existing sewers. Mr. Fee also explained to council that 20 acres of lagoon would be required should the population reach the 3000 mark. This was encouraging news since the village already owns some 25 acres and at present only about seven are required for the system now in operation.

Financing for a new sewer system can be made over a 40-year period, Mr. Fee said, under a new provincial scheme which already has attracted 150 applications from municipalities across the province. On future expansion it was suggested that the village's population could double in the next 25 years after remaining in a relatively dormant period for the first half of the century. Reasons for the more optimistic thinking were centred around the fast growth of Ottawa, moving ahead of the Eastern Ontario area, and the close proximity to recreational facilities and new industrial sites along the St. Lawrence. Enlarged schools and hospitals and the location of light industry as well as the town's central location were also mentioned in the premise behind the improved population picture.

Continued discussion on the highway by-pass indicated that both the by-pass and sewer construction should be closely related and that a start on both, particularly the sewer system, should get underway as soon as possible. Arrangements are currently being made for a special meeting of Chamber members, council and representatives of the Department.

Stanfield Outlines Conservative Policy

The big task facing the Progressive Conservative Party today is to make the party more representative and to keep it abreast with the times, to make i t better informed and better qualified to form a government. These were the views of Hon. Robert Stanfield, in his address to the Seaway Valley Regional Tourist Council, at the Parkway Hotel in Cornwall last week.

Mr. Stanfield, who was introduced by Mrs. Jean Wadds, MP for Grenville - Dundas, and thanked by Gordon Thom of Morrisburg, described the Seaway Valley as one of Canada's top tourist areas. (The Seaway Valley is made up of the counties of Grenville, Dundas, Glengaryr and Stormont). The leader of the opposition called for a greater effort to attract American visitors, pointing out that Americans visiting Expo had spent $1,158 million in Canada during 1967.

Mr. Stanfield, who because of a vote in the House of Commons, arrived a little late, was guest speaker at the banquet following the annual meeting of the Seaway Valley Tourist Council at which Reg. Workman, of Winchester, was re-elected President for the coming year.

Mr. Workman expressed some alarm concerning the lack of interest in the organization. Noting that only a small percentage of the total members attended the meeting, Mr. Workman condemned the complacent attitude of those associated with tourism, pointing out that in a business which last year left $286 million in Eastern Ontario, and $90 million in the Seaway Valley, there is no room for complacency.

Other officers elected included Mrs. Sally McIntosh of Williamsburg, Mrs. Stafford Price of Prescott, and John Reimer of Cornwall. Although the attendance at the annual meeting was discouraging, the banquet was well attended, and Mayor Nick Kaneb extended greetings from Cornwall.

Another interesting highlight of the evening was the presentation of a $5,000 cheque to the Regional Tourist Council by Garth Reid of the Department of Tourism.

Noteworthy also was the fact that the Council changed its name from Seaway Valley Travel Council to "Seaway Valley Regional Tourist Council."

Weather Right For Sugar Bush

Maple Syrup is just as delicious today as it was when Canada was young, and it is a food product produced exclusively in eastern North America. Why then is it becoming increasingly more difficult to find maple syrup producers?

Most of the sugar bushes in Ontario are remnants of the old hardwood forests which have been reserved for maple syrup production because of the dominance of maples in the stand. Much of the decline in production has resulted from deterioration of old sugar bushes, higher prices for maple logs, a lack of capital for purchase of new equipment, lack of good retail market, and higher labour costs.

The most important reason for the decline is high labour costs. While the other reasons mentioned have contributed to the decline on an individual or local basis, the high cost of labour is a universal factor effecting almost all maple syrup producers who stick with the old methods of production.

The Ontario Department of Lands and Forests is concerned and states emphatically that the maple syrup industry in eastern Ontario must not be allowed to decline and disappear. The department goes on to say: "to assure a perpetual supply of sugar maples, woodlots must be managed on a sustained yield basis, not clear-cut, not left to overmature and die. Hard maple regenerates well if proper selective cutting methods are carried out. Livestock must not be permitted to graze in woodlots."

Modern equipment has greatly reduced the amount of labour required, but there are still many woodlots not tapped.

For those who would like to travel back in time and re-visit a typical maple syrup operation as it appeared to our forefathers, a visit to Upper Canada is recommended. There it is still possible to listen to the drip-drip of sap into buckets, see the horse-drawn sleds as they meander through the trees gathering the sap from the buckets, and even see the "boiling-down" process being done in huge iron cauldrons suspended over a hardwood fire. A drive through our own immediate district will reveal many fine maple woodlots and in some cases a broken-down sugar camp can be seen.

Maple syrup festivals across Ontario are popular end-of-winter events, as both farm and city folk head into the sugar bush country for "sugaring off." These festivities constitute one of the truly Canadian traditions.

Possibly those who own maple woodlots in our area and have let them go unattended should re-consider.

150 Parents Stay For Tea Following School Visit

Thursday, March 7 was an eventful day at the Winchester Public School when over 150 parents gathered and were given an opportunity to visit various classes and watch lessons being taught. Needless to say, many were puzzled at the great changes and new trends in education.

Following the inspection tour a Tea and Bake Sale was conducted with the wives of the school board members pouring and Grade 7 and 8 girls serving. The purpose of the tea was to raise funds for the "Help A Child" campaign. Over $85.00 was realized, half of which will be contributed to the campaign and the other half given to the Red Cross.

The "Help A Child" campaign is the last major project of the Centennial Commission and provides an opportunity for Canadians to express their gratitude and to show their compassion for those in need. The campaign is an appeal to the youth of Canada to help, at the conclusion of a year of national celebration, children anywhere in the world where famine, disease, poverty and war have made the maintenance of even the barest existence literally a life or death struggle.

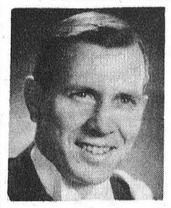
ASK YOUR CHIROPRACTOR



Question: My back aches constantly, can you relieve the pain?
Mr. J. M.

J. A. Laquerre, D.C.
Alta Vista Chiropractic Centre
Near Bank & Heron Rd., Ottawa South

Answer:
Back aches or "Bad backs vary in types and intensity. Many people accept these as one of the hazards of living and their therapy, is hope that it will soon go away. Others apply heat, and rest is often prescribed.

But the fact remains that 80% of the bad backs we hear about originate in a misalignment of the spine. This is the reason why a person who sees a chiropractor at the first sign of a back ache will seek relief by, what is most often the safest and the fastest route.

If perchance you waken up tomorrow morning with a sore back, tomorrow is the day or as soon as you can get an appointment to visit a chiropractor. It may be just a simple kink, that a single adjustment can correct. On the other hand it may be an indication of something more deep seated that could become a source of constant discomfort, if not detected and immediate treatment applied.

In any event a back ache is not something to be ignored. The old proverb "a stitch in time" is appropriate.

Seaway Valley Presbyterial UCW Hold Inaugural Meeting

"Wider horizons and greater heights of vision are yours," said Rev. Mrs. Margaret Errey Associate Secretary of the Board of Women, Toronto. Mrs. Errey guest speaker at the inaugural service of the Seaway Valley Presbyterial United Church Women at Morrisburg March 8th, was introduced by Mrs. E. C. Knowles, president of the Montreal - Ottawa Conference U.C.W., and thanked by Mrs. A. A. Morrison of Ingleside.

The history-making event and turning point in the United Church Women's organization was attended by more than 200 women from all parts of the "Golden Triangle of Eastern Ontario," with the exception of that area under the Ottawa Presbytery.

Glengarry Presbyterial UCW and Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial UCW amalgamated to form the larger organization covering some 1400 square miles with Jasper and Merrickville to the west, Hawkesbury to the north Alexandria to the east and the St. Lawrence as the southern boundary.

Five representatives of the two presbyteries, four clergy and one layman along with one representative of each of the UCW presbyterials met at Ingleside February 6th, 1967. At a meeting of Conference in June, 1967, the area formerly known as Dundas-Grenville and Glengarry Presbyteries became the Seaway Valley Presbyterial.

Mrs. Wilfred MacNaughton president, conducted the sixth annual and final meeting of the Glengarry Presbyterial Friday afternoon, March 8th, at Ingleside United Church.

Mrs. Errey acknowledged that the change would be different and controversial, but gave assurance that there was a good purpose behind it. She hoped that growth, meeting new friends, working under new leadership, exchanging ideas and recreating current trends would hit each person. "This kind of perception is not unlike a thrilling adventure filled with Christ's joy."

Mrs. Clifford Larmour, Morrisburg, was elected president of the new Seaway Valley Presbyterial and was presented a gavel by Mrs. Allan Hanna, of Jasper. "'Tonight we begin a new phase of Presbyterial work and we must rise to the occasion. Membership and difficulty in obtaining officers are two problems which present a challenge. We have lengthened the communication lines of this organization which has risen from W.M.S., W.A. and U.C.W. to the present enlarged United Church Women. We must be aware of the changes about us and adjust to them." Mrs. Larmour asked for support in order to lay the foundation for this presbyterial, and work to the greater glory of God and the furtherance of His Kingdom.

Mrs. E. C. Knowles was chairman of the service. Mrs. Wilfred MacNaughton, Williamstown, and Mrs. Allan Hanna, Jasper, conducted a worship service on the calling of God's people to some form of service or witness.

Mrs. J. D. Cooper, Kemptville, outlined steps leading to the amalgamation. Greetings were read from many areas. Mrs. Arthur Woodland, Spencerville presented the report of the nominating committee.

Receives Hydro Citation

A family farm near Ottawa which is almost as old as Confederation was the first in Ontario to receive a "Well-Electrified Farm" citation.

Ontario Hydro Chairman Gathercole, acting on behalf of the Canadian Electrical Association and Hydro, presented a certificate and identifying sign to Harold Crawford, operator of Golden Dell Farms of Richmond on March 14 in a special ceremony held at the farm.

Harold, a 1958 graduate of Kemptville Agricultural School, and his wife, Marie, have operated the farm since 1962. His grandfather settled there nearly 100 years ago, and both Harold and his father were born on the property. Harold's parents still live on the farm in their own electrically heated home.

The citation is awarded by Hydro to farms in Ontario which meet CEA standards for effective use of electricity, believing that this not only increases productivity, but is indicative of the progressive nature of Canada's farmers.

Golden Dell, a dairy farm, has a herd of 165 pure bred Guernsey cows, heifers and calves. Milk volume averages 3,200 pounds every other day. The 450-acre farm uses more than 72,000 kilowatt-hours of electricity a year, compared with a provincial average of less than 11,000.

Besides milking equipment Golden Dell makes use of electric heating and ventilating devices, a silo unloader and frost-free watering bowls. Representatives of government, the electrical industry and news media were in attendance at the ceremony.

Historical Society Displays Farm Implements

Letters of patent for years 1803, 1804 and 1805 for over 1400 acres of land in Gloucester Township were presented to the Carleton-West Russell Historical Society by Miss Eva Taylor at the annual meeting held in the auditorium of the new Museum of Science and Technology on St. Laurent Blvd, Ottawa.

The Gloucester Branch of the Carleton-West Russell Historical Society presented all their artifacts to the Society. These include many old agricultural implements. These in turn will be stored and displayed in the Museum until such time that the Carleton-West Russell Society has suitable display areas. Mrs. Edgar Stanley, Metcalfe president, stated that the Curator of the museum had made the arrangements with it firmly understood that these artifacts would be properly taken care of and that a truck would be available to pick them up from the different locations.

Mrs. Stanley, in her report, said that the Society had been active this past year. A week long display of an old time kitchen livingroom as well as a farm workshop had been set up at the Better Home Show. The group had taken part in the Centennial celebrations at Blackburn and had assisted at the unveiling of the Pinhey Plaque. She also reported that she had been named to the advisory board of the historical section of the National Capital Commission.

Hon. R. A. Bell spoke eloquently for the saving of historic stone houses mentioning that two in the Britannia area had fallen victims of road extension and that two old schools had been destroyed as well. He mentioned a bylaw that Toronto has wherein all historic sites and buildings are registered with the city and that before a building permit is given, ninety days' notice is given the historically minded persons of the intent.

A change in the bylaws was given first reading at this meeting. The quorum for directors' meetings was changed from a majority to four. The secretary and president were empowered to fill the vacancies on the Board of Directors.

About fifty persons attended the afternoon meeting. Following the meeting many toured the museum which among other things had some excellent agricultural artifacts. Much comment was aroused by the two-way plow and the slanting kitchen.

The first directors' meeting at which the executive is named will be held shortly.

St. Pauls WMS

St. Paul's W.M.S. Society held their monthly meeting Tuesday evening in the S. S. Rooms with 15 members answering roll call with a Scripture verse containing the word "Strength."

Mrs. Wilson welcomed all and read a poem "Learning the Lesson of Life," followed by prayer. Minutes were read by the secretary, Mrs. W. McKercher, followed by the correspondence by Mrs. L. Cooper.

The president thanked those who had taken part in the World Day of Prayer Service on March 1st. The treasurer's report was very satisfactory. A Bake Sale was discussed, the date to be announced later.

Mrs. W. Inglis and Mrs. Rose Cinnamon had charge of the devotional. After prayer by Mrs. Inglis, Mrs. Cinnamon read the Scripture and commentary. Mrs. Inglis gave a reading on David Craig, 28-year-old missionary in Nigeria. Mr. Craig is to be the speaker at the Montreal Synodical in April. Mrs. Cinnamon followed with a reading on "Zealous Workers."

Mrs. Inglis closed this part of the meeting with prayer for the missionaries. A card was signed by all present to be sent to Mrs. Ella Rae McIntosh who is a patient at the hospital here. Mrs. Wilson thanked the committee for inspiring messages and closed with prayer.

BELL LINES

by R. R. PEARSON
your telephone manager

Individual computer service has long been thought of as being in the preserve of large corporations. New developments in computer service, however, are shifting emphasis from the computer as an "electronic brain" and an awe-inspiring, highly-mysterious piece of equipment to that of a problem-solving tool of business. Now, through the concept of computer time-sharing, identical computer service is available to small businesses. By time-sharing, I'm referring to a modern high-speed computer's ability to deal with many hundreds of different problems at the same time and still give each customer undivided attention. Bell Canada is playing an important part in bringing computer service to the small businessman. Through our new DATACOM service which provides the link between computer and customer, participation in a centralized computer's time-sharing program is available the moment it's needed. So it's nice to know, since computers are here to stay, that they will be a familiar convenience available to everyone when needed.

It's that time of year again. Yes, in the last week or so our Annual Report for 1967 has been mailed out to our shareholders. Some of you may have received one since more than a quarter-million Canadians hold stock in Bell Canada. It has been a busy, exciting year for our Company. Behind the financial figures are several stories of events which marked the popular Telephone Pavilion at Expo 67 wasn't the only our progress during Centennial Year. Our sponsorship with other members of The Telephone Association of Canada of milestone in Montreal. If you visited Expo and used any of the attractive public telephones while there — we had almost 550 located on the Expo site — your call went through Canada's first electronic telephone exchange. We opened this exchange in time to serve Expo 67 and its millions of visitors. A similar unit will be added this year to Toronto's telephone network, and work is being started on one for Ottawa. As I mentioned in my column last summer, we grew past the five million mark in the number of phones served — in fact, 284,000 were added to the total at the service of our customers.

Our construction program was vast — for the first time in a single year we exceeded $300 million in construction expenditures to further expand and improve our communications network. Over 95 per cent. of this money was spent in Canada.

Interest in space age communications was reflected in two projects. In the first, we started construction of an earth station at Bouchette, Quebec, designed to test satellite relay of TV, data and voice communications into Canada's Far North. In the second, we joined with members of the Trans-Canada Telephone System and CN-CP Telecommunications in the proposal to provide a domestic satellite communications system for Canada.

Of special interest to all of us was the Company's ability to continue to hold unchanged at the 1958 level our basic schedule of local telephone rates — a significant victory in the struggle against inflation. I think that you will agree it has been a busy and successful year for Bell Canada.

BOWLING

CORNER LANES

Again last week a lady bowler rolled the best score. Doris Kennedy, playing with the Happy Gang, combined strings of 224, 212 and 246 for a cross of 682. Honours for the best single went to Bruce Acres with his 285.

Happy Gang

High cross, Doris Kennedy. High single, Florence Helmer 251-639. Others near the top were Marg Dalgleish 655-234, and Edith McDiarmid 607-224.

Fireside

Percy Armstrong rolled the high cross in this league, 677, with games of 254, 252 and 171. D. Bourgeois had the best single, 269-675. Other leaders were N. Utman 642-263, J. Plummer 600-257, B. Casselman 577, L. Pemberton 569, and W. LaPorte 564.

Community League

Ken McLaren was best in this group scoring the high cross of 676. Ken's singles were 227, 209 and 240. Bob Levere had the best single, a 265-632. Four other players passed the 600 mark: Al McRoberts 654-242, Don Holmes 626-260, Janet Holmes 603-245, and Beatrice Warren 601-216. Of the remaining players only two reached the 550 class — George Watson 560, and Willa Potter 550.

Gay Twenties

Singles of 243, 217 and 192 gave Don Mattice the high cross of 652. Bruce Acres rolled the best single, 285. Other scores were: Frank Acres 637-231, Doris Kennedy 631-230, Marg. Dalgleish 631-237, Larry Sayant 620-246, Norm Robinson 594, Brock St. Denis 585, Elsie Thompson 577, Harold Dillabough 569, and Daisy Robinson 563.

Glamour Girls

Could be there is an opening for a new coach in this league. Only one player got by the six hundred here and two climbed over the 550. It was Alma Douglas first with 222, 225 and 199 for the high cross of 646. Cathy Price had 587 and Ruth Pemberton 581.

Japanese Film UCW Highlight

A film on Japan highlighted the March meeting of the U. C. W. of St. Andrew's and St. Paul's United Church, Russell. Mrs. Don Hay showed pictures of the most colourful and beautiful spots in Japan. Japan is noted for its festivals and flowers.

Mrs. Clelland Hamilton had charge of the worship service, and Mrs. George Hay conducted the mission study. Felton Unit served a delicious lunch.

Pee Wee Division Champs

Winchester Atom Team Takes Series' Honours

Last Thursday night in the second game of a two game total point series Winchester defeated Dunbar 4-0 to win the local Atom hockey championship.

Doug Crowder paced the attack by getting a hat trick. Al Porteous scored a goal and an assist. Third member of the line left winger Steve Guy collected two assists. Shutouts in both final games were recorded by Doug. Duncan.

The smooth skating Dunbar team coached by Bill Gibson advanced to the finals by defeating the regular league champions, Chesterville Aces, while Winchester with their solid defence of Karl McRoberts, Andy Dawson, Robbie Fawcett and Bruce Angus, held Chesterville Blues to one goal in the semi-finals.

Winchester checking line of Pat Imrie, Phil Meek and Chris MacIntosh kept the opposition in constant turmoil. The skating line of Jamie Utman, Steve LaPorte and Peter Guy were a constant threat. Brian Rennick and John Hume handled the penalty killing charges.

Coaches are Elzeon Raistrick and Rae Imrie.

Farm Show

The Ottawa Valley Farm Show, sponsored by the Ottawa Valley Seed Growers' Association, takes place this year on March 26, 27, 28 and 29 in the Exhibit Hall, Lansdowne Park, Ottawa.

The event comes at the right time for farmers to assess and order supplies for the coming months. Fifty companies will show their wares to the public in the brightest and best conditions ever offered to farm supplier companies in the Ottawa area.

There'll be something to interest every agricultural man in the area — Combines, pickers, tractors, seeds, fertilizers, sprayers, spray materials, herbicides, pesticides, feeder mixers, fuel, grease and other items needed in modern agriculture. All will be there to see. This will be a good chance to see the new Civic Centre, if you have not been there before.

The Ottawa Valley Seed and Forage Championship Show will be held at the same time as the Machinery Show.

be strictly enforced this year.

The 1968 town levy for the South Nation River Authority, $134.80, was approved for payment; there was some discussion concerning water heater installation and some additional facts regarding the Public Library were revealed. It became apparent that some agreement must be reached with other Eastern Ontario libraries to obtain full benefit of Government grants.

" It's A Costly Business "

Spurred on by the recent announcement that Ontario Hospital Insurance premiums will increase this year, hospitals in Ontario are making a renewed effort to explain the reasons behind hospital costs to the general public.

Hospitals are undertaking this educational campaign voluntarily because they believe the public should be made more fully aware of the factors which determine hospital costs. One way in which hospitals hope to bring this information to communities is through a little green pamphlet appropriately called "It's A Costly Business."

Many revealing facts are contained in this brochure. For example, some people will be surprised to learn that the cost of hospital care works out to a little more than two dollars an hour per patient. This sum, besides providing the patient with a bed and meals, pays for the salaries of nurses, orderlies, x-ray staff, pharmacists, physiotherapists, technologists, dietitians, medical librarians, engineers, laundry workers, kitchen staff, housekeepers, electricians, and many other specialized personnel rarely seen on the ward.

In fact, as pointed out in this Ontario Hospital Association brochure, 70 cents on each dollar is returned to the community in the form of hospital staff pay cheques. Hospital salaries, once admittedly depressed, have been improving steadily in the past few years and as this trend continues, so will the rise in overall costs. The other 30 cents on each dollar pays for vital medicines, medical supplies, drugs, maintenance, and the education of our future nurses, doctors and technicians. Two other major factors contributing to the rising cost of hospital care, states the pamphlet, are an increased demand for more hospital beds and constantly improving methods of treatment.

The public is also reminded that hospitals still need the financial support of communities to build new facilities and introduce new and improved services since Ontario Hospital Insurance premiums only pay for operating costs.

"It's A Costly Business" also states that the combined operating costs of hospitals in Ontario is expected to reach one billion dollars annually by 1971. In 1959, the first year of the government-sponsored Ontario Hospital Insurance Plan, the total bill for patient care only amounted to some $200 million.

However, each person is requested to consider one fact whenever he starts worrying about rising hospital costs. As the pamphlet aptly puts it: "Hospital care too costly? When you need it — it's priceless."

Easter Seal Campaign

The Annual Easter Seal Campaign is now in full swing, and the two and one-half million Easter Seal appeal letters have gone into the mails.

There will be no door to door canvassing, telephone solicitations or payroll deduction methods employed during the campaign month set aside to raise funds for 16,000 needy crippled children.

Provincial target for the 1968 campaign is $1,400,000 — a large sum of money, but very much needed by the Ontario Society for Crippled Children and the 231 participating Easter Seal service clubs who with your help continue financing one of the largest, most important comprehensive children's physical rehabilitation programs in the world.

This year's campaign has involved many months of organized planning and preparation by countless thousands of volunteer service club members, hopeful that it will produce the highest returns in the Society's forty-seven year history.

All donations, large or small, will as usual help some crippled girl or boy.

Official income tax receipts will be issued for every gift. The Society and each of the 231 clubs are all Registered Charitable Organizations and have established Charitable Trusts with the Department of National Revenue in Ottawa.

Let everyone give to Easter Seals this year and if at all possible — more than ever before.

Sugar and Spice

by Bill Smiley

Smiley At The Movies

Took about 300 of our senior students to the movies first thing Monday morning They looked forward to the outing, a change from the classroom. It was quite an experience.

There were about 500 normal, noisy teen-agers in the theatre, altogether. Normally this is asking for bedlam. Modern kids, conditioned by television, are equally incliped to laugh jarringly, mockingly, at scenes of horror and scenes of poignancy. Brutality and violence are their daily bread.

But after the reels began spinning on Monday morning, there weren't any laughs. When the lights went up, there was none of the usual horseplay. There were 500 shaken, subdued and in some cases stuned teen-agers.

The film was "The War Game," a short British movie. It depicts, in a matter-of-fact documentary style, what would happen if a nuclear exchange broke out.

No excruciating detail is spared. Blatantly anti-war, it is a bitter satire on our society and man's stupidity. The film is crude, the message blunt, and the effect harrowing. The BBC banned it as too shocking to be shown to the public on television.

It's all there: the public ignorance; the government apathy; the triggering incident; the profiteer who sells sandbags at an exorbitant rate; the man with two bomb-shelters and a shot-gun to keep others out; the little boy whose eyeballs turn to jelly when he see the flash; the ordinary family crouched, like terrified animals, under the kitchen table; the fire-storm that destroys everything in its path; the grotesque burned faces; the people shocked into idiocy; the break-down of law and order.

Carefully juxtaposed with pictures of children whimpering with pain and shock are the calm, pompous statements of bishops who say we must learn to live with the bomb, and a jovial nuclear scientist who explains how many millions will be killed.

What's the purpose, you may ask, of subjecting well-fed, bourgeois teen-agers to such an experience. Well, it's rather like shock treatment. It makes them wake up, examine their values, think about the world and the part they must play in it, rather than what they'll wear to the dance Friday night.

We talked about it later. They thought it shouldn't be seen by children, but that everyone else in the world, on both sides of the fence, should see it.

They tried to explain why there is comparative silence these days about the Bomb and fall-out, compared with the obsession with it, and the wave of shelter-building, that occurred a decade ago.

We discussed the moral implications of shooting people who wanted to share your shelter. Of the police in the film shooting victims of burns who had only a few hours to live, and those hours in extreme agony. Of what they, themselves, could do about it all.

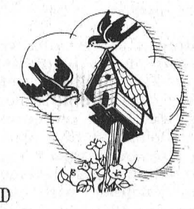
Some of them were shaken out of their cosy, conformist little sox. Others were overwhelmed by a feeling of futility. And some were filled with a fury at the idiocy of their elders, who had allowed this to happen. And others were just plain scared and wanted to know what preparations we were taking for such an eventuality. And a few believed that man could prevail and overcome the evil.

We ranged from Vietnam to hippies and escapism, from morality to the instinct for survival, from whether they would rather be Red than dead to what they would do if the Yanks decided they must take over Canada, for their own military safety (Most of the boys would fight, take to the hills).

I think it was good for them. The world of the future is theirs and they can't go on blaming us forever. See the film yourself, if you can. But take a paper bag if you have a weak stomach.

The Seventh Column

It may be a little cooler to-day but for a couple of days this week the weather had to be the chief topic of conversation. And for newspaper columnists who also get hit by the Spring bug the weather provides an avenue of filling in a column when the other words are not coming readily because of a variety of other chores and the pangs of this great season. Monday and Tuesday, of course, were real gems. Temperatures were up around the 50 degree mark. Not a record but certainly most welcome as Old Sol poured out the warm rays to chase away the white stuff which has been blanketing the earth too long. Ditches are starting to overflow, the Community Park is inundated, the Castor is coming up and the Nation is about to flood. A good rain should shape things up rather well. And just about now there are thoughts of the first fish and a straight drive 250 yards down the fairway. Spring, despite its messy characteristics, has its real moments of pleasure. And the outlook is always excellent——for summer and warmer days are not far off. So this week a tip of the hat and a little poem written by James J. Metcalfe to a most important month...March.



MARCH WIND

They say the wind belongs to March
And April owns the rain,
While flowers are a part of May
Along a lovers' lane.

But I can feel the wind to-day
And it is gentle now,
It does not break the smallest branch
Or ever make it bow.

It is a welcome visitor
That takes me by the hand,
And breathes the quiet beauty of
A fragrant, fertile land.

It has a way of whispering
The words I want to hear,
With eagerness to carry on
Another youthful year.

An April may be filled with rain
And May with flowers fair,
But on this day in March the wind
Is gentle everywhere.

THE MEMBERS REPORT

From Toronto by Fred M. Cass

The 1968 Ontario Budget was, of course, the most important event of the past week at Queen's Park. As could be expected, with ever-increasing demands for government expenditures on education, social services and in every other area, the budget provided for the raising of the extra funds necessary. Part of the increased cost is being borne by the taxpayers of to-day through increased taxes and social insurance program premiums and part by the taxpayers of to-morrow through borrowings. The Treasurer made it most plain indeed to all that increased pensions, greater payments for education, welfare and all other services must be paid for and, if the public demand them they must be prepared to foot the bill. In addition, he pointed out that our whole governmental structure and taxing laws and processes must be reviewed and brought into line with present day facts of life and that this must be done by all three levels of government. It is, therefore, very obvious that when the Carter and Smith Reports have been studied and another Federal-Provincial Conference held, we must look for some far-reaching changes.

Among other announcements during the week was one by the Minister of Education outlining the increase in provincial per pupil foundation grants for elementary schools of $20.00 to $280.00 per student, and for secondary schools for non-vocational of $15.00 to $465.00 per student, and for vocational of $20.00 to $600.00 per student.

In the House the Standing Committees are now meeting regularly to process the bills already put forward by the Government. The Sessions of the House have concentrated on Private Members' Throne Debate speeches with ever so many excellent maiden speeches by new members and with older members expounding again their favourite themes.

In this Parliament the difference between the Government and Opposition Parties is 21 members — i.e. the Government majority. When the 22 Members of Cabinet and Mr. Speaker are deducted from Government ranks, there are fewer private government members than members of the opposition — a situasion which has not occurred in the Ontario Legislature for almost a score of years. As a result, attendance of members is excellent — opposition members hoping to be able to call a vote when government members are few and government members anxious always to have a majority available. This is a most excellent development and should make this 28th Parliament a very industrious and significant Assembly.

From Ottawa by Mrs. Jean Wadds

The alarming difficulties which the Pearson government has been in, coming to a head in its defeat on Monday, February 19th, would suggest that the Liberal Party may be looking for an experienced politician. Many shrewd observers are betting on the Hon. Paul Martin. They may well be right.

It is noticeable here on Parliament Hill that few of the front bench Liberal Parliamentarians are supporting the dramatic, magnetic Minister of Justice. Already some of the natual quality of his campaigning is being doubted. He began with a nice display of modesty, of waiting for a call, but the day after ihs announcement he was found to have publicity ready and plans made that looked suspiciously like the results of many months of careful organizing.

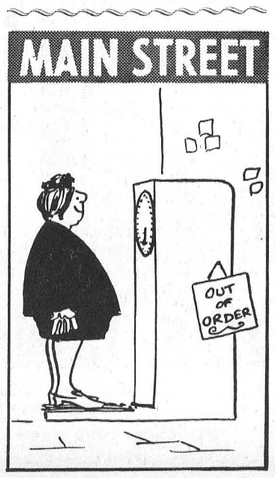
The people who formed the Trudeau team so rapidly were to a large extent the same type who had always been so enthusiastic about their External Affairs hero, Lester Pearson.

They could hardly have expected the fumble-footed politics of diplomat Pearson to bring the Liberal Party to such complete disarray as we have seen these last few weeks. It may well cause the seasoned supporters of the Liberal Party to have second thoughts regarding the flashy minister who has been attracting a lot of attention.

No more confidence is engendered by the sober, serious, bureaucratic type personified by the Minister of Finance, the Hon. Mitchell Sharp.

To many Canadians the point mentioned this week by the Conservative member for Wellington South, Mr. Alf. Hales will seem well taken.

Mr. Hales said: "Why does the government find itself in this kind of trouble? It is because on our front benches with the exception of one or two of its occupants, there is not one person who has learned how to meet a payroll. The cabinet is composed of people who have had training in the academic field, a group of former civil servants who only had to prepare estimates, ask for money and it was given: Seek and ye shall find. And it was given unto them. This was the experience they had. Now they find themselves confronted with the difficult task of operating a goverment in a busines-like way."



The Supplementary Estimates which have been before the House off and on, between crises, for over two weeks, showed Mr. Hales' comment to be all too true.

In the Auditors' Report of 1966-67 the cost of Construction of the National Arts Centre was recorded as $6,400.000, an increase of $2,800.00 over the preceding year. A rather considerable increase of 75%.

Now under Supplementary Estimates the cost of Construction or Acquisition of Buildings, Works, Land and Equipment—National Arts Centre, is recorded as $7,500,000, a further increase of over 100%.

I asked the Secretary of State to comment on these skyrocketing costs and she said the original budget for the National Arts Centre had been about 18 million but that now it was expected to be $43 million.

I'm sure a National Arts Centre will be a nice thing for Canada to have. It would have been even nicer to have had a little firmer budget before it got past the point of no return. I very much fear that the Minister's estimate of 43 million, although it is twice the original plus 7 million more as well, is only a hope. At the rate it has been going up and up and up it may well be closer to three times the original budget.

How can we impress on Canadians, before we follow Britain's sad financial collapse, that government spending is so very nearly uncontrollable. In government projects the sky is the limit because the responsiblity is so diffused.

Lorne Hurd, Secretary-Manager of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, was guest speaker at the Annual Meeting of the Dundas County Milk Producers which was held at NDDHS recently.

The Board's press correspondent explained that these competitive products are not in use in Canada yet.

To The Dalmeny School

With rapid changes in the educational structure of our nation, little country schools are practically obsolete, and as each one closed its doors for the last time, old friends gathered once more to talk of the "old school days." Once such occasion was the closing of Dalmeny school last summer when a former teacher, Oswald Eastman, read a poem he had written for this occasion.

Mr. Eastman has had many requests for copies of his poem, and realizing that the Winchester Press was widely read in the Dalmeny, Vernon, Springhill area, he kindly sent us the poem which the Press is happy to publish:

TO THE DALMENY SCHOOL

Our little schools are being closed
Throughout this countryside
So education may improve,
Whatever may betide,
Sometimes old fogies like myself
Are sad to see it done,
I suppose we did not learn too much
But we had a lot of fun.

And yet how many men of fame
Look back across the years
To a little school beside the road
With eyes half-dimmed by tears.
They didn't ride upon a bus,
But tramped the drifting snow,
Cheeks reddened by a snowball fight,
Then into school would go.

A few words from the Bible
Repeat the daily Prayer, read,
Then answering to the roll call
To be sure that all were there.
The teacher had prepared the work,
Questions written on the board,
The scratch of pencils on the slate
Was all that could be heard.

Perhaps Johnny passed a note to Sue
Who sat across the aisle,
Teacher never letting on,
Could scarce repress a smile.
Wee lads could hardly understand
Why two and two make four,
But, boy! did they know how to play
When they got out the door.

'Twas hockey with an old bent stick,
Healy, kealy o'er the shed,
At noon all ready for their lunch
Of jam and home-made bread.
Came evening 'round the table
In lamplight's golden glow,
The children done their homework
While mother sat to sew.

Now times have changed, our John and Sue
Stand out to catch the bus,
It rolls along a snow-ploughed road,
So smooth, without a fuss.
It discharges all its cargo
Beside a mammoth school,
Where several teachers see that they
Respect the Golden Rule.

Kids learn English and Geomtry,
Mathematics, French and Greek,
But give them an old-time spelling match,
Well! of that I will not speak.
Yes, we are in a day of progress
But the taxes sure are high,
Where across this fairest country
Planes go swishing through the sky.

So, Old School, you have done your duty,
You have housed great men of fame,
And even when we lock you up
We will not forget your name.
We will whisper to our grandchild
Things we done in days of yore,
In this dear old school at Dalmeny
So you will live forevermore.

WINCHESTER PUBLIC SCHOOL

Students Enjoy New Library Facilities

Steady improvement is noted in the library facilities at the Winchester Public School as work with the new central library nears completion. The first steps were taken last September and prior to this each classroom had its own library corner, but this, according to the teachers, had several weaknesses: (1) duplication of many books; (2) no immediate access to reference materials; (3) rather narrow scope of reading levels in the selection for each class.

Since the school had an extra room available, the board purchased 11 sections of shelving, and during the Christmas holidays all reference books were classified under the Dewey Decimal Classifications, and the Fiction section then arranged in alphabetical order by author. A third section, the Easy-to-Read Department, is divided up by subject matter for the Primary grades.

At present there are 1800 books, with 500 in reference section, 720 in fiction and 550 easy-to-read.

These still have to be catalogued and a card catalogue instituted to insure immediate access to all volumes.

The teachers are very pleased with the new arrangement but feel there is a great need for new tables at the present time and are hoping to set up a complete audio-visual resource centre in the library next year.

The Principal reports that pupils have at least two periods in the library each week and books may be exchanged each night after school.

It is expected approximately 500 volumes will be purchased this spring, the bulk of them being needed to round out certain portions of the reference section.

"Pupils seem to enjoy the greater scope offered by the central library," says Principal Murray, "and the circulation is on a steady rise."

Children enjoy doing their own research especially in the beautifully illustrated books available today.

The Press photographer, on a tour of the new library, caught three studious youngsters busily taking advantage of the wealth of knowledge at their disposal.

The three Grade Four pupils in the picture are Christine Gray, Arlene Fife, Grant Levere.

Where Do They Go ?

"Where do Students from Kemptville go?" The Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology, at their third annual Agriculture and Home Economics Careers Day, held at the college, tried to answer this question.

Graduates who moved into various fields of endeavour came back to the college as guest speakers for this very special occasion, and readers should be interested in the answer to the leading question.

Janice Workman, dietary assistant in charge of the food serivces for the 78-bed Lennox and Addington county hospital at Napanee, and Audrey Timmins, assistant technician with the Consumer section of the Canada Department of Agriculture, who tests recipes and prepare food for magazine and TV displays, represented the Third of the recent graduates who work in food services.

Mrs. Margaret Alexander, who has been teaching vocational Home Economics at Sharbot Lake for two years, represented the 20% of the graduates who are teaching.

Heather MacGregor, design co-ordinator for John C. Preston Sales Ltd., Ottawa, spoke for those who work in a variety of positions involving art, clothing design and display work.

Barry Carscadden represented the 40% of the Agricultural students who return to the farm. Barry has recently taken over the home farm at Russell.

Bill Emond, from the Research Branch of the Central Experimental Farm, is in charge of the large animal laboratories for nutrition research. He spoke for the 10% of Kemptville graduates who act as assistants in research and experimental work.

Bob Aumell, Arnprior, started as a fertilizer salesman and now, along with several other graduates, works for Farm Credit Corporation.

Cliff Bristow, Smiths Falls, started as a salesman for Maple Leaf Mills and has been transferred to the section dealing with machinery used in experimental work. He represented the 20% of graduates who are involved in sales and service.

During the day the fifty teachers from thirty collegiates also learned of the work being done at the College by visiting with staff members and viewed a closed television program of events and teaching techniques.
