WHY NEWSPAPERMEN GET GREY

Slap bang in the middle of the afternoon today, "paper day" to us, the power is shut off for one solid hour, 2.15 to 3.15; resulting in a pot full of solid metal as a consequence. When the power does come on it will require another hour for the metal to become workable in the type setting machine and another hour for a required column of type to be set and the forms completed. If your paper is late think of this.

CHESTERVILLE BLOCK SOLD TO GOVERNMENT

The Ontario Government will shortly take over the ownership of the present Chesterville Post Office block. At present, the block is owned by Wesley Fulton, postmaster of this village since 1919.

The building, a solid brick, two-storey one, will be demolished shortly to provide space for the pier and approach of the northeast end of the proposed new bridge that is to be constructed over the Nation river.

This new bridge had been agitated for by the local Chamber of Commerce as early as November, 1946, when the Hon. George Doucet and the Hon. George Challies were guests of the local body.

Will Pay Hospital Bills For Injured Girl

Although he could not avoid the accident, and although no charges were laid by the police, M. P. Salmon of Prescott said that he was paying for the ambulance and the hospital expenses for Beatrice Billings, who had her left leg broken above the knee, when she was struck by the Salmon car at noon yesterday in Winchester.

Beatrice is the 8-year-old daughter of Fred Billings. On her way home from school she ran across St. Lawrence street, at the Melvin Service Station into the path of the car.

Mr. Salmon carried her into the home of Mrs. W. M Byers, who with the help of Chief of Police Gilbert Raistrick placed the leg in splints. She was taken to the Ottawa Civic Hospital in Dixon's Ambulance where she was attended by Dr. C. B. Petrie.

Oscar Wallace of Winchester and Robert Thompson of Prescott, both told the police that the car was proceeding slowly, and it stopped within 10 feet, after the impact. Chief Raistrick investigated.

To Replace Lost Herd

Holstein Breeders' Association of Dundas county, at a special meeting at Winchester, Monday, took steps at replacing the $15,000 purebred herd lost by W. J. Fawcett last Thursday through eletrocution.

The meeting determined to ask all members if they would permit Mr. Fawcett to select one cow from each herd and keep it for two years as a means of starting a new herd. With over 300 breeders in the association Mr. Fawcett would be able to make satisfactory selections.

It was also decided that members would be asked to subscribe toward the purchase of additional cattle for Mr. Fawcett. J. Frank Casselman of Morewood, was chairman of the meeting with H W. Graham, Morrisburg, secretary and W. R. McMenomy of Inkerman, secretary.

TWO ARRESTS MADE IN CATTLE STEALING

Provincial Police disclosed over the week-end that two men had been charged with theft of cattle and are being held in county jail at Cornwall as a result of investigation into what is believed to be a large-scale rustling ring. Charged are George Armstrong and Kenneth Jackson, both residents of Matilda Township in Dundas county. Police said more arrests, possibly three or four, were expected within the next few days.

Investigation has uncovered the theft of at least 27 cattle in Winchester, Mountain, Matilda and South Gower townships. Police say they would have to await stabling of cattle for the winter before the full haul of the rustlers could be determined.

Discovery of a fresh hide by some children under a bridge on a little used sideroad in Matilda township touched off the investigation. The trail later led to a disused barn near Spencerville where a carcass was found, indicating the building had served as a slaughterhouse for the gang.

Police said the gang had apparently been active for about a year.

His passing is mourned by his sorrowing wife; two daughters, Jean, school teacher at Elma, and Gladys, Mrs. Graham McPherson of Elma; three grandchildren, Ralph, Helen and Lois McPherson; one brother, George Armstrong of Elma, and a large number of friends.

WHEN WINTER COMES

The icy fingers of winter are spreading across the land. Fields have been polished clean of their crops. Livestock is being driven to warm quarters. Equipment has been beneath the protective wings of the implement shed. The farmer regards the advance invasion of snowflakes with a relieved shrug as if to say, "Well, that's that for another year."

But no farmer can shrug off his year's work just like that. If he looks about him he will see dark war clouds loom threateningly in the horizon. He will see millions of his fellow men starving in India, China and other thickly populated countries, their scrawny hands stretched towards him for help. He will see his own grain-aries bulging and bins full of health-giving produce; his hogs quivering fat and the flanks of his cattle smooth and round with rich meat.

This winter, more than any other in Canada's history, the farmer should take off and analyse the world food picture, and to plan his next year's activities accordingly. The world needs food—desperately. It has about come to the end of its tether in so far as expansion of crop producing acreage is concerned. There remains only one solution—to get the most out of the land that is now available for agriculture.

This is something vital the Canadian farmer can ponder over during the cold winter months. He must review his farm management practices and determine where they might stand improvement. Is his machinery up-to-date and in excellent shape? Has he sufficient quantities of it for his acreage? What about his fertilizer need? The soil too needs feeding. Has he been using enough in the correct proportions? And his seed grain—is it the best he can procure? Does he know of the latest fungicides to treat it with in the spring? Has he done justice to his crops last summer by employing modern weedkilling chemicals? Or were his fields a yellow mass of mustard? There are hundreds of other pertinent questions he can ask himself, and determine his course of action by his own answers.

According to agricultural scientists food production in Canada can be increased by 50 per cent with the observance of proper farm management. This would help immensely to place flesh on those outstretched hungry hands from across the seas.

CONSERVATION PROGRAM BUILDS FARM IN ONE DAY

How a neglected and badly eroded farm can be restored to full productivity in a single day, is reported in C-I-L Agricultural News.

According to the report, three U.S. conservation districts in northern Arizona co-operated recenlty in a one-day demonstration which employed every known conservation practice, in rebuilding a completely rundown farm from the river's edge to the crest of its sloping acres.

If the veteran farmer had attempted to do the job himself in his spare time he would have probably finished in about 1968.

An estimated one-quarter million dollars worth of farm equipment, ranging from a garden tractor to a huge land leveller, was used in the test. Some 10 acres were levelled, ten acres bench-terraced and a shallow pond enlarged into a reseorvoir holding four acre-feet of water.

As a result of the demonstration the ranch was turned from a farm barely producing sufficient food for one family's needs to one capable of supporting 12 milk cows, 15 to 20 sheep and a horse or two. With a permanent irrigated pasture there will be food enough for 15 to 20 hogs and 200 to 400 chickens. Fields formerly useless for irrigation were all contour plowed and planted to orchard and vineyards. During the 1948 growing season, crops included nearly 30 acres of tomatoes, corn, beans, melons and squash in addition to alfalfa, green manure and forage crops.

Letters to The Editor

TO THE CITIZENS OF CHESTERVILLE AND COMMUNITY

On Sunday, November 14th, 1948, only twelve veterans, and approximately 30 or 40 people from Chesterville's population of around 1100, turned out at the Community Hall to pay tribute to those boys who so willingly left their homes and those they loved and gave up their lives on the battle-scarred fields of Europe, that those of us who returned or remained here at home, may enjoy the democracy, the right of free speech and religion for which they so willingly paid the supreme sacrifice.

For those of you who appeared at this solemn Remembrance Ceremony I thank you and salute you. As for the rest, I realize that there were some who were unable to attend but, for the rest who were able to attend and did not it seems to me that you very shortly forgot those who now lie buried in some distant battlefield. The shamefully small attendance by both the local branch of the Canadian Legion and our local citizens is certainly a blot on the usually good name of our community.

A VETERAN,
who attended this ceremony.

Too Many Cooks

An old Irishman collapsed in the street and a crowd of neighbors gathered around him, all trying to help and each making suggestions.

One, Maggie Riley, kept shouting, "Give the poor man whisky," but little attention was paid to her amidst the excited babble.

Then the agonized voice of the Irishman rose above the din: "Will the lot ov ye hould yer tongues and let Maggie Riley speak."

Blushing

"What lovely salmon!"

"That's not salmon; that's cod blushing at the price they're asking for it."

Worm Turns

While on a train bound for New York, Henry was talking to a friend when he was brusquely interrupted by an inspector of the Foreign Exchange Control Board, who demanded how much money Henry was carrying. Henry told him the modest amount.

"Have you your Form H?" asked the snooper.

Henry produced it.

"Is this all the money you have?"

"Yes."

"Let me see your wallet," the functionary ordered.

Henry complied, still keeping his temper under control, with some difficulty. The inspector counted the money, found nothing wrong, and, apparently disappointed, handed the wallet back.

He was about to pass on to his next victim when Henry spoke, in a voice lound enough to be heard by everyone in the car.

"Hold on," he said. "You've had my wallet in your hands for quite a while. Now you just wait until I count the money in it."

Henry counted it with care and deliberation while the other passengers grinned. Then he said, "It's all right. You may go."

The inspector spent very little time in questioning the remaining passengers.

Large Edition

"May I print a kiss on your cheek?" he asked.
She nodded her sweet permission.
Then they went to press—
And I rather guess—
They printed a large edition.

HONEYBEES DON'T ONLY MAKE HONEY

Most people have come to regard the honeybee as an industrious little insect whose chief value is her ability to gather quantities of delicious honey which she jealously guards from pilfering humans, and bears—even to the extent of sacrificing her life in doing so.

Others, however, realize that the true function of the honeybee is to pollinate those flowers and plants which depend entirely upon insects for the transfer of pollen from one blossom to another. When the natural habitat of wild insects is destroyed, it inevitably results in a decrease in the number of native pollinators, says J. Corner, Dominion Experimental Station, Prince George, B.C. Frequently farmers destroy the nesting place of these wild insects when clearing land, and it is then that the honeybee takes the place of the wild insects in pollinating such important crops as alsike clover for seed.

The presence of honeybees will not infallibly result in larger crops. To enable blossoms to secrete nectar and pollen and attract bees, the weather must be such as to encourage nectar secretion and to allow the foraging bees to make frequent trips to the fields. Much work is being done to assist farmers in the effective pollination by honeybees. In the meantime farmers would be well advised to invite local beekeepers to establish an apiary on or near their fields. Farmers themselves could even start with a few hives of their own. The honeybee is the only pollinating insect over which man has control and which is available in suffcient numbers to carry on this important work of pollination.

The men who succeed best in public life are those who take the risk of standing by their own convictions. —James A. Garfield.

South Nation Valley Authority Benefits and Costs At Completion

By Mahlon Zeron,
President South Nation Valley Authority

The watershed of the South Nation River is an area of 1511 square miles. The river takes its rise near the hamlet of Algonquin, North-West of Brockville and flows in a North-Easterly direction until near the Village of Pendleton, then it makes a wide sweep to the east so that it is flowing in a North-Westerly direction when it empties into the Ottawa River.

The river is about 69 miles long and drains whole or part of 23 townships and five villages.

This little river has been noted for years for its terrible floods in the spring and often in the growing season thousands of acres of our most fertile and productive load is under water which means a terrific loss to the residents, as well as damage to fences, crops, roads, etc.

So bad were these summer floods in the season of 1945 that no less than nine times were the Brinston, Hulbert and Oak Valley areas under water. On July 17 of ehe same year the water was so high that complete farms were under two to three feet of water and cattle had to be herded to the roads to find a place to eat or lie down.

You can readily see that these circumstances would create a desire among the residents to see if something could not be done to overcome these conditions. There was a feeling among these men that the dam at Chesterville was holding back water. A group of very wrathy men gathered at the dam, tensions and tempers ran quite high that day and I am of the opinion that at that spot the ball was given its first roll toward trying to eliminate such floods.

In a week or so a meeting was called at Brinston of all interested persons and a provisional committee was set up to study the same. In the meantime the Ontario Government had been contacted through our member, Hon. Mr. Challies, who was very sympathetic toward the matter and, at the next session of the Legistlative Assembly, an act was passed to provide for the establishment of Conservation Authorities for the purpose of Conservation, Restoration and Development of natural resources other than gas, oil, coal and minerals and for the prevention of floods and water pollution. This act is known as "The Ontario Conservation Authorities Act." It is under this act that the provisional committee has developed until an authority was set up for this watershed known as "The South Nation Valley Authority."

The authority has 29 members, all of which are appointed by their local councils. Seven members of this group act as an executive committee. Shortly after the act was brought into being the South Nation Valley Authority asked the Department of Planning and Development of the Ontario Government to survey the watershed and in the summer of 1947 a complete survey of the river and its tributaries west of the Village of Chesterville, was made and a report of this was given at a meeting of the Authority in Ottawa by the Chief Engineer and his staff.

Contained in this report are certain recommendations and findings which we hope when carried out will overcome our flood troubles, control the flow of water and raise the water table level of the soil.

The Department of Planning and Development have done an immense amount of work and spent a considerable amoun of money to find a solution and have recommended that four reservoirs, four dams, a diversion to the St. Lawrence River and dredging of the Nation west of Chesterville will control and store surplus water. This report also suggests that 26 large areas of marginal and submarginal land consisting of 200,000 acres be planted to forest to help prevent spring run off and help hold moisture for summer use.

We are trying to encourage every land owner in the watershed to plant any part of his farm to bush that he considers should be. The report shows that only about 7% of the watershed is now under forest and their suggestion is that between 15 and 20% should be. We hope that the Authority will have the desired cooperation from farmers to bring this about.

The above mentioned reservoirs will be named (1) Spencerville. This reservoir is located about 2½ miles West of Spencerville. It will have a storage capacity of 12,776 acre feet (by that I mean the same as that number of acres with one foot of water over it). This reservoir contains 2,673 acres, is eight miles long and from ¼ to ½ mile wide. The dam to control this reservoir will be 22½ feet high.

(2) Spencerville Mill Reservoir.

The dam for this reservoir will be located at the site of the present dam and will be 15 feet high. This reservoir will accommodate another 1748 acre feet of water.

(3) The Domville Reservoir with a capacity of 2449 acre feet is located about 2¼ miles due east of Spencerville dam-site and 2½ miles south-east of Spencerville.

The fourth reservoir and dam will be called the Hyndman. It is quite small with a capacity of 1760 acre feet. The dam will be 14½ feet high.

The total storage capacity of these reservoirs is 18,733 acre feet which will account for about 1|5 of the control measure necessary. Therefore, it is evident that other means of relief are required so the report recommends a diversion or canal leading from the Spencerville reservoir to the St. Lawrence River. This canal will be eight miles long and at the most shallow point 11½ feet deep with an average width at the bottom of 48 feet. This diversion will be used in times of high water and will be capable of handling water to the extent of 3000 cubic feet of water per second. This canal will empty into the St. Lawrence by means of Johnstown Creek east of Prescott. This diversion is calculated to be equivalent to a reservoir capable of holding 34,402 acre feet which means there is a possibility of flooding in the Brinston area in peak flood times. In order to totally control flooding the report recommends that part of the river channel be widened and deepesed from 5½ miles east of South Mountain to a point 1½ miles west of Chesterville. It is estimated by engineers that 1,470,000 cubic yards of material would need to be removed from the river channel in order to contain the flood water within the channel.

The estimated cost of the four reservoirs and dams is $373,700. The cost of the diversion is $1,200,000. Cost of dredging of the channel is $639,000. These figures add up to a considerable sum of money but the Ontario Government has promised to assume 75% of the total cost of the project and the remaining 25% to be borne by the different municipalities within the watershed.

It is necessary that the Authority engage a consulting engineer to prepare plans and specifications for the work. This has been done in the past week and it is our intention that actual construction work will begin in the Spring on the reservoirs and dams. We expect it will take three to five years to complete the scheme and we hope to turn our raging "Nation River" into a peaceful stream carrying as nearly as possible the same amount of water the year round.

The survey of the river east of Chesterville has been completed but as yet we have had no report on it, but we know from facts, that large portions of fertile land below Chesterville are flooded even deeper than our Brinston area.

Ever since the early days of radio in Canada the name of Geoffrey Waddington, above, has been synonymous with music. He is now music adviser to the CBC, and conducts a large number of the Corporation's music programs originating in Toronto. No Swimming Pool!

A friend sends us the following: An American engineer, employed by a big oil company, put in immense pipelines and erected a large refinery in a certain Arabian country in the Near East.

The ruler was immensely grateful. He knew his slice of the profits would be fabulous. He felt he should give the engineer a lavish gift.

"I can't accept it," protested the American. "If you wish to give me some trinket which I can cherish, get me a golf club."

The ruler agreed. Six months later in Washington an Arabian dignitary approached the engineer and said, with deep humility:

"On behalf of my master, I have endeavored to get you a golf club, but the only one available hasn't any swimming pool. I don't think my master would like to give you a golf club without a swimming pool."

Church News

MOREWOOD UNITED CHURCH

The service on Sunday morning in the Morewood United Church was conducted by Rev. Gerald Fee, B.A., of Williamsburg. The sermon was based on the story of the Good Samaritan with Luke 10;25 as text, "A certain lawyer stood up and tempted him saying, Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" To love God with all the heart and ones neighbour as one self is the chief commandment in the Law. Ones neighbour is anyone who is in need and that need should inspire the Christian to share what he has with people of all nations, particularly his knowledge of the saving grace of God in Christ Jesus. The anthem by the Choir was "Marching with Jesus", Mrs. Murray Dillabough taking the solo part.

The evening service was conducted by the Y.P.U. Jessie Byers and Rietta Steven leading the worship service and Ken Steven, the president, in charge. Rev. Gerald Fee addressed a large gathering including many young people on the theme "The Church of Tomorrow." He said that the church of tomorrow must be evangelical with emphasis on winning souls for Christ. That it must be a friendly church seeking through the processes of understanding and generosity to unite mankind in the bonds of Christian love. The anthem by the choir was "Believe in God." Miss Erla Steinburg of Ottawa, rendered a beautiful solo entitled "Father in Heaven." Miss Ellice Smith presided at the organ at both services.

From the Bottom ...not the top

HE started as a junior. He moved around. He moved up. He learned a lot about banking, about Canada, about people. He is still climbing, still learning a job which is not mastered in a day . . . or a year.

He has learned, for instance, that in making loans, a bank manager must satisfy himself that the borrower would merit your confidence if you were lending your own money.

At the same time he welcomes opportunities to put money to work. Loans are part of his business, and an important source of revenue. They help people get along, help build a prosperous, progressive nation.

Contrast his freedom of judgment with conditions in lands where freedom is denied—where every bank is a political tool, every banker a State official! State monopoly of banking, proposed by Socialists here, would open your banking transactions to political intrusion.

Wise Reptile

A snake collector was walking in the veldt in South Africa when he noticed a rare snake about to go into its hole. Having no weapons with which to trap the reptile, he decided that the best course would be to catch it by its tail each time it entered the hole and throw it as far as he could, hoping that by this means he would eventually tire out the snake and thus make the capture easier.

As the snake approached its hole for the seventeenth time, it stopped and appeared to think, then turned right round and entered backwards.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! There are more single gloves around our house than pairs of gloves. Of course four women each losing one glove often demonstrates extravagance. However, we are making novel bazaar and Christmas gifts with these, and it's like money in a piggy bank. Here are the ideas: (1) Cut a two inch band from a wide cuff to make one arm band for milday's blouse. Line it with red satin and put elastic through to make it look like the one they sell in U.S.A. for $5.95.

(2) Lapel novelties may be fashioned from leather gloves into miniature dolls, animals, and rugby balls or other favorite sporting goods. Stuff with cotton batting or use pinking shears for the double flat ones.

(3) Pin cushions.
(4) Bean bags.
(5) Christmas tree trimmings.
(6) Belt buckles.
(7) Corners for desk pads and calendars.

For those who haven't any odd gloves to make into novel gifts, perhaps there are odd pieces of fabrics that can be made into modern accessories. At a recent fashion show we saw a smart belt pieced together with velveteen and serge in 3-inch rectangles and white sequins sewn on domino patterns.

Using the back of a summer pullover, a dickie can be made for a winter suit. For warmth, use two thicknesses of material and quilt it.

Hoods are still popular and can be made from short wool skirts or from upholstery end materials. Stitch an interlining close or use a top stitching after the cap has been sewn and turned right side out since the edge of the hood may curl back.

To make slippers from an old felt hat is not difficult. Cut the hat up the back to the crown, steam, press flat and scrub with a brush dipped in soap suds. Then use a pattern for best results or buy insoles that can be sewn.

From top to toe there are ideas for using out-dated materials in modern yet practical gifts.

COOKING HINTS TO SAVE ELECTRICITY

1. Use canned cream soups for sauces often. Never let them boil . . . only heat hot enough to eat.

2. Blend flour into meat juices, then add hot water to make the best brown gravy quickly.

3. A layer cake may be baked in 35 minutes at 375 degrees, while the same batter in a square tin requires 55 minutes at 350 degrees.

4. Bake a meat loaf mixture in muffin tins for even servings and it cooks quickly this way.

5. Scalloped potatoes made with a hot cream sauce require only half the baking time.

6. Shred cabbage, turnips and beets on a slicer and using a small amount of water, cook the vegetables in fifteen or twenty minutes depending upon the amount.

7. Pastry turnovers are more quickly baked than heavy fruit pies and baked on jelly roll pan requires 20 minutes, at 400 degrees.

8. Use a pint measure to fill your tea kettle and heat only the required amount of water for tea. (There are commercial powders available at your electrical dealers which should be used to remove lime from your tea kettle.)

9. To hard cook eggs, wash them and put in the potato kettle for exactly 10 minutes. This saves turning on an extra electric element.

10. The pressure cooker may be used to cook a number of different foods in the same pan. Make full use of this quick cooking utensil. Watch the clock to prevent over-cooking.

Forgetful

"Your boy friend is very forgetful, isn't he?"

"Why?"

"At the party last night I had to keep reminding him that it was you he was engaged to, not me!"

The Reason

"I couldn't believe it when I heard you were in a hospital. Why, last night I saw you dancing with a pretty blonde."

"Yes, so did my wife."
