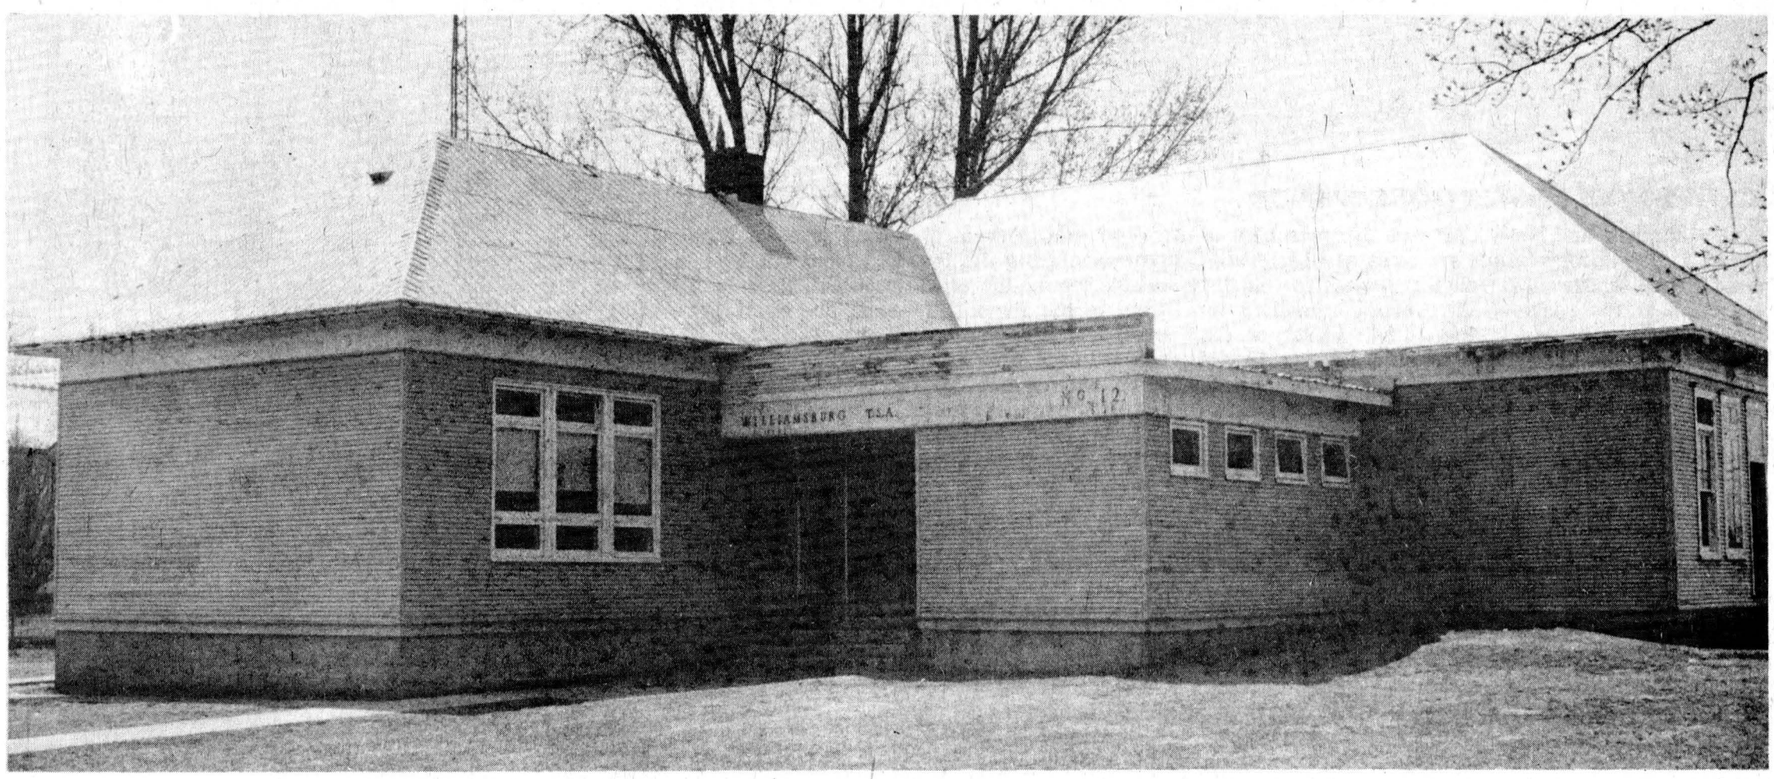
Williamsburg school closing deferred



The decision on closing Williamsburg Public School at the end of this school year will be made by the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Board of Education after board representatives and Williamsburg parents have met to discuss the matter.

The move to defer the decision was made at last Tuesday's board meeting in Cornwall following the presentation of the School Closing Committee's recommendations that the Williamsburg school be closed at the end of this academic year and its students bussed to Elma Public School, mid-way between Williamsburg and Chesterville, and that the phasing out of operation of Cornwall's West Front Public School be completed by June, 1978.

The closing committee, under its head, Mrs. Sandra Enns, director of education Rosaire Leger, area trustees and concerned parents will meet at 7:30 tonight (Wednesday) in the public school to discuss the matter.

The matter of the Cornwall elementary school was passed by the board with a minimum of discussion last Tuesday, but both Chesterville trustee W.L. Thompson and Matilda, Mountain and Iroquois Village representative Howard Mellan questioned the need to close the Williamsburg school.

Mr. Mellan said he was concerned over the proposal because the Elma school is already over-crowded. He was told the board would install a second portable unit should the projected enrolment of 38 Williamsburg students be moved to Elma.

With the extra students, enrolment at Elma would be 30 students in grades five and six - the highest in any single class - 28 in grade four, 26 in two and three, 23 in combined one and two and 25 in grade one.

In answer to trustee Thompson's question about the financial benefits of closing old Williamsburg TSA No. 12, a board representative stated that there would be a saving of about $12,000 as the board already has a portable classroom it could move to the site. In addition to the saving on the portable unit, Mr. Thompson was told that the principal's allowance at the older school could be done away with and there would be a slight reduction in the salary of the school's French teacher, who would have fewer teaching periods.

Moving costs of the portable unit would be about $500, Mr. Thompson was told, part of which could be recovered through grants.

The Chesterville trustee has already gone on record as opposing school closings. At a special meeting of the board March 23, Mr. Thompson was one of three trustees who voted against C.J. Courville's motion which called for the director, in concert with the board chairman, being authorized to close any school for a temporary period where such a closing is unavoidable due to an emergency. The motion was passed by a 13-3 margin.

Williamsburg area trustee Mrs. Jean Findlay said parents in her area are unconvinced by the board's argument that their children will receive greater educational opportunities at Elma than they do in the Williamsburg school.

C of C sponsoring June beerfest

The Chesterville Chamber of Commerce has expanded its schedule of summer dances and will be sponsoring a German beerfest at the Chesterville Community Centre in mid-June as well as holding its annual Carlton Show Band Dance in July.

The decision to hold both dances this year was made at the Chamber's meeting in the Community Hall last Thursday night with president Dr. Brian Kennedy authorized to sign the contract engaging the Show Band for its third performance in this village and Chamber member Jim Sullivan designated to get things rolling on the June Summerfest.

The Carlton Show Band will be playing at the arena Fri., July 9. Their fee for the evening of entertainment, which will last from 9pm to 1 am, is $2,000. No band has been engaged for the beerfest yet, although Mr. Sullivan is contacting a Bavarian brass band from Montreal. It is the same band that entertained large crowds at the Bonnie Glen recently.

Secretary James Moran told Chamber members Thursday that the organization's profit on the Winter Carnival was down $800 from the year previous. The C of C cleared $2,451 in 1975 in comparison with profits for this year's carnival of only $1,639. Total receipts were down $400 this year over those in 1975.

The loss was blamed on the birrerly cold weather which cut down on attendance at some events and the fact that admission prices remained the same in the face of increased costs.

A motion was passed Thursday for the Chamber to continue its support of the Chesterville Atom A Hockey Team. Secretary Moran was authorized to provide money from the Chamber's account to purchase new sweaters and socks for the team. A $350 ceiling was put on the contribution.

The sign committee, under Dr. Gabriel Slowey, was directed to have a welcome sign erected on the east approach to the village to match that on highway 43 west of Chesterville.

Planners want firm provincial commitment

The North Dundas Planning Board has forwarded a request to the Ontario Ministry of the Environment to meet with it to discuss the board's proposed Official Plan, amendment which would reduce the size of residential building lots in the planning area's hamlets.

Requirements in the North Dundas Official Plan now call for a minimum hamlet and severance building lot of 22,500 square feet regardless of the lot's location in the planning area.

The board wants this figure dropped and it wants the agencies of the Ontario government - which has the ultimate say in planning matters - to commit themselves to a definite size.

The decision to contact the ministry representatives was made at last Wednesday night's board meeting in the Winchester Township Council chambers at the instigation of several members, most notably Bill Johnston, one of Village of Winchester's representatives, and board consultant Bill Buchanan.

Both Mr. Johnston and Mr. Buchanan said they would prefer to see each building lot stand on its own merits with regards to its size, rather than being subject to arbitrary requirements as they are now.

Mr. Buchanan had begun to prepare a draft amendment to the Official Plan setting out the board's requirements, but it was felt that the ministries - namely housing and environment - should be pinned down before the board went any further.

Mr. Buchanan said after the meeting that the problem the board is now faced with is the mulitiplicity of agencies and their differing requirements that planners must deal with. He gave the example of an area subdivision which had received ministry approval only to have another provincial agency turn it down because it disagreed with the proposed lot sizes.

Mr. Johnston's criticism of the present set-up centred on two subdivisions in South Mountain, both of which where required to meet the 22,500 sq. ft. minimum size. He argued that because of the soil type in the two areas, smaller minimum lot sizes would have been adequate.

Planning Board chairman Cecil McNabb, reeve of the designated municipality of Winchester Township, agreed with both men, saying that Queen's Park was trying to consolidate rural housing development in hamlets but was defeating its own purpose by making lots so large that hamlets soon ran out of room.

The chairman said 15,000 sq. ft. would be adequate in most hamlets and agreed that severed lots should remain at the 22,500 sq. ft. requirements.

Chesterville Council representative Nelson LaPrade pointed out the inconsistencies at the provincial level with the example of the Veterans Land Act, which calls for building lots of 17,400 sq. ft. ..

Mr. Buchanan said the board should be granted more flexibility in its decision-making rather than having to leave matters up to "the ivory tower people in Toronto."

The meeting with Kingston area Ministry of the Environment representatives, either Mike Holly or Bill Stevens - will be held in the Winchester Township offices Wed., May 12.

Drainage loans cut

BERWICK — Finch Township farmers face a cutback in funds for tile drainage projects this year following the receipt of a letter by Council from the Ont. Ministry of Agriculture and Food stating that debenture allocations for the municipality have been cut back to $87,000 this year.

The township received ,000 for debentures last year and already Council has approved loans of $71,000 for drainage projects in 1976. A further $26,000 in requests has been received which puts Council $10,000 over the amount allocated by the ministry.

Township clerk-treasurer Arnott Empey read the letter from the ministry to Council at its meeting here Monday night and Council agreed that the only solution for applications for the remaining $16,000 of Finch's allocation would be to award it on a first-come, first-served basis.

Not only has the township had its amount cut, but it will cost farmers more to borrow money under the Tile Drainage Act. As of May 1, 1976, interest rates on drainage loans will jump from four to six per cent.

This does not affect loans already approved, just those which get the municipal nod after the beginning of next month.

The letter, from Paul Burton, Food Land Development Branch liaison officer with the OMAF, said the allocations are being made this year so that the ministry will have enough money to go around to the increased number of municipalities now participating in the plan.

It's also part of the ministry's attempts to curb spending in the province's anti-inflation fight, Mr. Burton stated.

Finch's allocation was calculated on the average taken over the last three years, which is

Work starts on drop-in centre

Work on the new combination senior citizens drop-in centre and lawn bowling clubhouse started in earnest Tuesday afternoon as Sullivan Brothers Construction Ltd. crews tore out stumps and cleared brush in the Community Park as they prepared to dig the foundation for the building, which will be renovated with the aid of a $31,000 New Horizons grant and a grant of $9,000 from LIP. Ben Wichers-Schreur operates a backhoe Thursday as the excavation was begun. Forms were in by Monday afternoon and the building is expected to be in place and renovated by the end of June, although considerable work will still remain on the lawn bowling greens.

Ecumenical Easter observance

Beverly Windsor and Kelly Cass are two members of Mrs. June Thompson's grade six class at Chesterville Public School whose class religion project for Easter went back to the roots of the Christian festival by studying its beginnings in the Judaic Feast of the Passover. It was during a Passover supper 2,000 years ago in Jerasulem that Christ first asked his disciples to share with Him the bread and wine that symbolized His body and blood and this has come down through all Christain denominations as the sacrament of communion. Passover is a Jewish feast of thanksgiving commemorating the freedom from bondage in Egypt and the leadership of Moses which took the Tribes of Israel to the Promised Land. The eight-day festival began last week and ends this Thursday. The class received assistance from Mrs. Hi Bessen in preparing their passover display, which included a lamb's bone, parsley, unleavened bread, Kosher grape juice, haroset, bitter herbs and salt, all items from a Passover supper.

1976 education costs jump to $30,751,823

CORNWALL — Supporters of both elementary and secondary schools in the United Counties are faced with an increased education tax bill this year of almost 14 mills.

That news was contained in the SD&G County Board of Education's budget announced Tuesday afternoon. Education spending in the tri-county area this year will be $30,751,823, up $4,314,146 over 1975 levels. The increase is accounted for mainly by higher instruction costs.

The breakdown shows elementary school supporters faced with an increase of 6.39 mills compared with the 2.19-mill increase they faced last year.

The average mill rate for elementary school supporters in the United Counties' 21 municipalities is 31.16 for residential taxpayers and 34.62 for commercial ratepayers.

Spending in the elementary panel for 1976 is $11,078,808 up $1,708,857 or 18.24 per cent over 1975.

Of that figure, instruction costs account for $7,767,993, or 70.12 per cent. This is an increase in instruction costs of $1,746,325 over the amount spent last year.

Of the total, municipalities will be levied for $4,066,432, with the remaining 58.38 per cent picked up from provincial grants and other sources.

On the secondary school side, there is an increase in the total of 15.26 per cent with 1976 spending up from last year's level by $2,605,289 to $19,672,966.

The mill rate increase for elementary school supporters - which includes both public and separate school supporters - is 7.4 mills. Last year's increase was 1.24 mills.

Residential ratepayers will face an average levy of 26.84 mills while those on the commercial rate will have a bill of 29.81 mills.

Again, higher cost of instruction is the culprit. Instruction costs account for $13,965,337 of the total. This is $2,550,961 higher than last year.

The municipalities' share of secondary education costs is $4,952,165, with the province and other sources picking up 67.85 per cent of the tab.

Good hunting in townships

Tile drainage funds cut misleading, according to Mr. Empey.

The township clerk said Finch just got into tile drainage in a big way last year, so the first two years of the averaging plan shouldn't have been included in the ministry's allocation for 1976. The township was tile drainage leader in Stormont County in 1975, with 710 of the 1,025 drained acres across the county located within its boundaries.

Mr. Burton went on to say in his letter that the ministry allocations are not related to the township's borrowing bylaw, which remains in effect until funds are exhausted. However, farmers will have little chance of receiving the lower interest rate on their 10-year loans from that source.

He suggested that the township take one of four courses for applying its funds. It could reduce the 75 per cent loan for the installation cost; it could use a pro-rata formula on the total allocations received; adopt a maximum figure per acre tiled, or simply use a first-come, first-served method.

He also set out a schedule showing the effect of the increased interest rate over the period of the loan. On a loan of $900, the 10 annual instalments would be $122.31; on $1,800 it would be $244.62 and on $4,000 the annual payment would be $543.60.

Seaway Valley's heritage main selling point, minister says

MORRISBURG--American bicentennial celebrations should give Canadians - and especially residents of Eastern Ontario - something to celebrate for t' 'selves.

Because if it hadn't been for the American Revolution, Canada as we know it wouldn't exist, Ontario Minister of Culture and Recreation Robert Welch told an audience of about 170 at the Civic Centre here last Wednesday night at the annual dinner meeting of the Seaway Valley Tourist Council.

Mr. Welch said the Seaway Valley, like his Niagara region home, is under the "tremendous cultural influence from our neighbors to the south" but Canadians shouldn't allow the wave of cultural events celebrating the 200th anniversary of the American republic to "cloud our own sense in this period of history"

The history which has been so well preserved throughout the valley region is its main tourist attraction and has made the council's selling job easier, the Brock MPP stated.

He cited the results of a survey conducted by the Ontario government to back up his claims. The survey was conducted through home interviews with 10,000 Ontario residents, 35 per cent of whom stated that visiting historical sites was one of their favorite recreational pastimes. Over-all, visiting historical sites ranked 12th of 73 activities listed.

With Fort Henry in Kingston and, especially, Upper Canada Village situated in the heart of the region, history plays an overly-large part in the tourism business in the Seaway Valley, the minister said.

The St. Lawrence Parks Commission, which maintains both Fort Henry and Upper Canada Village, is independent of Mr. Welch's ministry. Nevertheless, Culture and Recreation has a "very special interest in it because it was partly to recognize and preserve the cultural and historical heritage" the sites exemplify that the ministry was created.

Mr. Welch explained the mandate given his ministry as being three-fold. First, there is the advancement and encouragement of "responsible citizenship" through the process of cultural and recreational development. This includes the preservation and maintenance of the cultural heritage of residents of the province with "the full recognition of their diverse traditions and backgrounds".

The ministry is also charged with the promotion of "access to the benefits of citizenship and of active involvement in the cultural and recreational life of the province."

The third reason for the ministry's creation is the stimulation of new forms of cultural expression and promotion of the concept of individual and community excellence.

Mr. Welch gave brief descriptions of the tools his ministry has to achieve these ends. He said the responsibilities have been delegated to four specifically-created divisions - Heritage Conservation, Arts Support, Multicultural Support and Citizenship and Sports and Fitness branches.

In addition, to its Queens' Park staff, the ministry maintained services through a number of provincially-supported cultural agencies and field consultants across Ontario.

Funding is provided through taxation, grants from the federal government for special programs and the Wintario lottery.

The minister dwelt on heritage conservation, which plays such an important part in the tourist industry in this area.

"Heritage Conservation is necessary not only to give our own residents a sense of history, but to offer to the many thousands of visitors to this province the opportunity to discover our past. You are fortunate to have some very fine examples of this effort with sites like Upper Canada Village and Old Fort Henry," the minister said.

Following the minister's speech, Jim Irving, deputy reeve of Edwardsburg Township, read the report of the council's nominating committee for 1976 officers.

Nitrogen fertilizers present many choices

W.E. Curnoe, K.C.A.T.

Ninety pounds of nitrogen per acre is the current Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food recommendation for a corn crop in Eastern Ontario.

A question which arises each spring is which source of nitrogen should I use to meet the corn crops requirements. The most common nitrogen sources for corn are: anhydrous ammonia - 82 per cent N, aqua ammonia 20 per cent N, urea - 46 per cent N, and ammonium nitrate - 34 percent N. Each of these fertilizer materials have inherent advantages and disadvantages.

Anhydrous ammonia is a gas under pressure. At atmospheric pressure it is highly volatile and must be knifed into the soil 6 to 8 inches below the surface. To prevent the loss of ammonia to ,the air the slit made by the applicator must be covered with soil. Losses will occur if the soil is too wet, too dry or cloddy to prevent a proper seal. Anhydrous ammonia is usually the most inexpensive source of nitrogen per pound of nitrogen because it requires no further processing after its manufacture. It can also be applied until the corn is up to 18 inches high.

Aqua ammonia is a liquid under slight pressure. It is made by dissolving anhydrous ammonia in water. This like anhydrous ammonia must be injected into the soil, however, it need not be placed as deep. This will cut down on the power requirements of application and may be an advantage in a stoney field. Aqua ammonia can also be applied until the corn is 18 inches high.

Urea and ammonium nitrate are solid free-flowing granulated materials. If either granulated material, particularly urea, lie on old vegetation some ammonia will be liberated to the atmosphere. For this reason both of these materials are usually broadcast and either plowed down or worked into the soil. Many farmers use one of these two solid materials because of their ease of handling and spreading.

Although nitrogen materials differ in their physical characteristics and in the forms of nitrogen they contain, they should give similar results if applied properly to the soil. Your choice of the source of nitrogen depends on the cost per pound of nitrogen, the availability of material and application equipment and your personal preference.

Myth:
Small foreign cars get much better gas milage than small Pontiacs.

Fact:
Pontiac's new Acadian got better results in fuel economy tests than many imports

48 mpg highway, 33 mpg city . . .

that's the gas mileage rating based on U.S. EPA tests for a Pontiac Acadian equipped with the 1.4 litre engine with one-barrel carburetor, manual transmission and 3.70:1 rear axle ratio.

Those tests put Acadian right in the same fuel economy class as the best of the imports.

And no other North American car tested achieved a better EPA rating than Acadian.

Remember, these mileage figures are estimates. The mileage you get will vary, depending on the type of driving you do, your driving habits, your car's condition, and optional equipment.

That's Acadian's story short'n sweet.

Steven Dafoe wins ODHS oratory shield

Public speaking winners

Winners at the Public Speaking night at Osnabruck District High School, held Fri., April 9, were Alice Schultz, senior runner-up, Stephen Dafoe, senior champion, Karen Gallinger, junior champion, Peter Fleming, junior runner-up, and Cheryl Zeran, junior division second runner-up. The competition was the highlight of the school's Educaton Week observance and was the end result of the English department's public speaking course. Class winners were picked by their teachers after the compulsory speeches each student made in class. The winners then went on to the semifinals, where they were judged by impartial teachers, and from there, the winners went to the public speaking night, which has been an annual event in the district since 1954. -staff photo-

A. Morrison, Osnabruck, widely mourned

Archie A. Morrison who died in Winchester District Memorial Hospital Mon., April 12, 1976, was born on July 6, 1899, in the third concession of Lancaster Township, the son of the late Duncan Morrison and his wife, Mary McGillivray. The family moved to the second concession of Osnabruck, north-west of the former village of Wales, in March 1911.

While farming he became active in the Stormont Cheese Producers Association and Stormont Plowmen's Association. In 1926 he married the former Beryl Poapst and the next year became secretary-treasurer of School Section No. 6, Osnabruck, and also Treasurer of the township. In 1940 he was made clerk and continued in the dual office until 1962.

He was instrumental in helping form the Public School area which started with four school sections and broadened until it included all the township. He was made secretary-treasurer of the old high school in Aultsville, continuing after the new one was built in Ingleside.

The church also was of concern, being elder and representative to the Glengarry and Seaway Valley Presbyteries for a number of years. He acted as Statistical Secretary as well.

He is survived by his wife, his twin sister Mary A. Symonds, of Ingleside, one brother Malcolm, St. Albert, Alta., four nieces and two nephews.

He was held in high esteem throughout a wide area as was shown by the large number of people who called at the Brownlee Funeral Home, Finch to pay their respects and also at the funeral service Wed., April 14, conducted by Rev. C.W. Allan of Trinity United Church, Ingleside.

Farm credit queries

Questions regarding policies of the Farm Credit Corporation and the availability of loans have concerned the members of Women for the Survival of Agriculture.

A number of members are dairy farmers whose incomes will be substantially cut when the milk quotas are cut back. Some are young farmers who recently were encouraged by Farm Credit Corporation field workers to enlarge their herds and make extensive barn renovations and who now face a critical financial situation.

How are policies administered? What happens when the economic theories of growth do not match up with the reality the farmer faces?

In order to find out what the coporation's policies are, Louise Neveu, Director of information with Farm Credit, has been invited to speak Thurs. April 29 at the Winchester agricultural office at a luncheon meeting of WSA.

The meeting is open to women who are not members of WSA by reservation. Information may be obtained by calling Dianne Harkin 774-3418 or Carol Bodzin 984-2684.

In fond and loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, William Pettit who passed away April 18, 1971.

Death is a going home. It is a door into the larger life and into the greater glory, where the wounded of life are healed and the tears of life are dried, and broken hearts are mended with the balm of Gilead, given by the Great Physician there.

Assistant Agrep 'crashes' meeting

On Wed., April 7, at the home of Douglas Palmer, RR2 Winchester, at 8:30pm, during the 4-H Beef Club meeting. Suddenly, in through the window came Howard Giles Dundas County Assistant Agricultural Representative.

The meeting started at eight and old business was discussed and the roll call taken before the tragedy arose. First on the agenda was a thorough examination of the 4-H news letter. Three members gave explanations on the Steer show, Demonstration and Achievement Day.

Steer show is held at Ottawa Winter Fair and anyone between 12 and 19 can enter. They do not have to be registered in the 4-H program.

The demonstration team is made of 4-H members which choose a topic and presents it before a set of judges. If this team wins they then compete in at the Exhibition in Ottawa in August.

Achievement day is what the 4-H program works toward all year and this year it will be held at Chesterville Fair in September.

John Dalrymple and John Palmer, the club's leaders, then took over the meeting by conducting a quiz which was completed and discussed.

Last on the agenda was recreation, and the Dundas Beef Club has organized a baseball team and challenges other Dundas 4-H clubs to participate. The meeting was then adjourned and lunch served.

Thanks were given to the Palmers for the use of their home. The next meeting will be held May 15 at 8pm at the home of Janet Watson, Mountain.

Seek speeding solution

The Chesterville Chamber of Commerce has sent a letter to the Ontario Provincial police asking that something be done to control the problem of speeders in the village.

Members felt that the problem of young drivers in "souped up" high performance cars screeching their tires while making "jack rabbit" starts on village streets is getting out of hand and is beginning to become a real safety hazard, particularly now that more youngsters are out on the roadways.

Discussion on the situation at last Thursday night's meeting included asking for information on installing "speed bumps" which would force drivers to cut their speed at the risk of damaging their vehicles.

One Chamber member even suggested that a stretch of road near the village be closed for one day a month and organized drag races held so that the aspiring Mario Andrettis would have a chance to display their "muscle cars" in front of an appreciative audience, rather than endangering life and property as they are now.

Complaints at the meeting ranged from interrupted sleep due to hot rodders gunning their engines and "laying rubber" at street corners to one member's complaint that stones thrown up from sreeching tires having broken a window at his place of business.

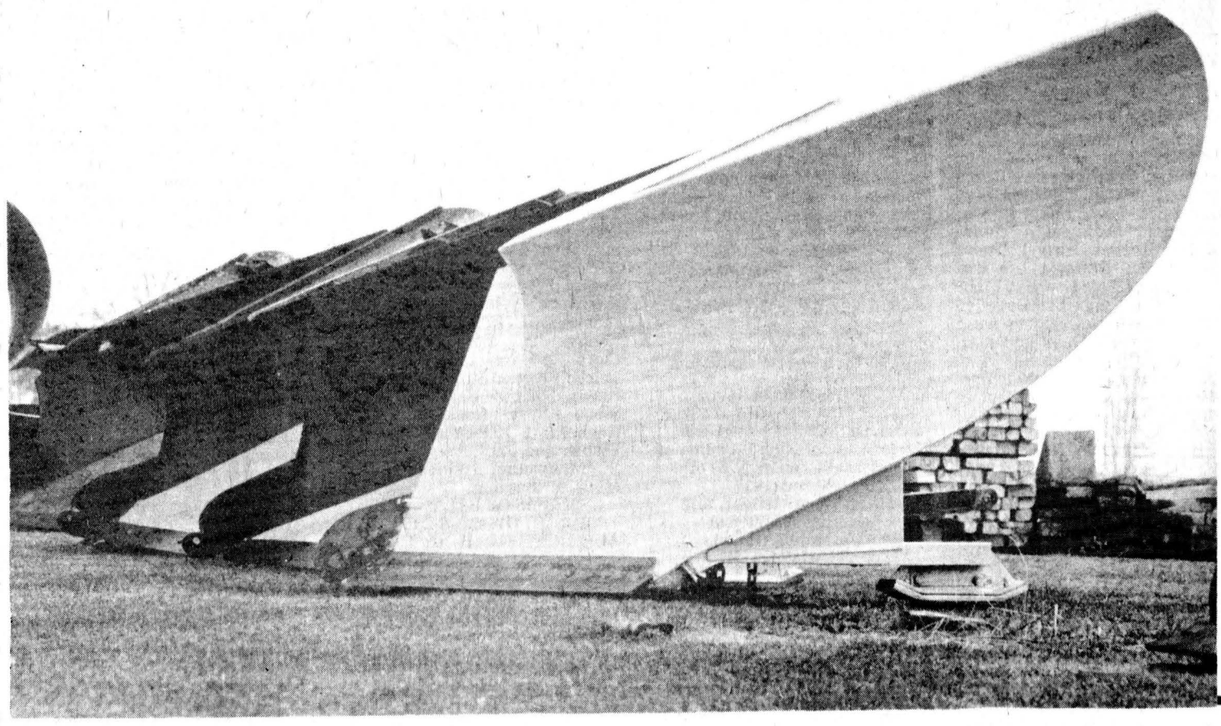
Several from the Chesterville community attended the annual meeting of Winchester District Memorial Hospital last Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Hilda Langstaff of Prescott, director of the Ontario Heart Foundation campaign for this area, was a visitor in Chesterville Tuesday.

Rev. E. Earle Eaton was guest preacher at the United Baptist Church at Vernon Sunday evening. He participated in an Easter sunrise service at Winchester, a C.B.M.C. Prayer Breakfast there and attended Holy Week and Prankard meetings in Ottawa.



Reminder of winter

Resembling the prows of beached ships, these wing snowplows belonging to the Winchester Township roads department, are a stark reminder that E ern Ontario has just come through one of the worst winters in recent memory. Winter refused to relinquish its icy grasp until well into April and the snow removal costs in the township for the month of March bear this out. The township spent $4984 on snow removal during that month, the highest one-month total for the entire year. - staff photo -

Potpourri...this column is going to be a little bit about a lot of things to give you a lift at the end of the winter. Hopefully!

Along about this time of the year, between the lulls of the last winter storms in March, I get a restless urge to go to the sugar b' This restless fever I get is a st like cottage fever, but canoeing season is still several weeks away yet.

So away I went to the sugar bush. Along the roadside, bare patches of earth steamed in the sun. Winter chickadees flitted through the bare boughs of the maples; one black-headed bird I didn't recognize balanced upside down at the end of a branch to drink a droplet of sap that hung from a broken twig.

Soon, over the crest of the hill, a plume of smoke came billowing up. Next, around a bend in the lane, the sugar shanty became visible, steam spouting from its roof vent and its open door.

Inside, among the swirling vapors, ladle in hand, Sam presided like a jolly witch at a cauldron. He handed me a tin cup half full of syrup. No finer tonic would I ever taste. I smacked my lips and pronounced it good. There was just the tiniest hint of green sapwood, mingled with a bouquet of wood smoke, and the special sweetness that is uniquely maple.

I lingered awhile in the March sun and headed home as the March full moon came out. If the warm sun is a magician, the cold moon is a sorceress. She made me shake inside my light jacket as though a spell were cast upon me.

But hadn't Sam just told me that thawing days and frosty nights make ideal maple sugar weather. By day, the warm sun pulls the sap up through the tree trunks as though being siphoned. By night, the frost brings the process to a halt. "A spell of warm weather both day and night makes for a real poor run, said Sam, it seems the sap rises too quickly to the treetops and not enough can be got out through the taps."

I got that out of my system only to have it beset by gardening fever which is a very similar fever so I've allayed that urge by starting some cabbage, tomato, and pepper seedlings in flat boxes on the window sills. The Farmers are discing, harrowing, and sowing fertilizer. The planting fever hits early on the high gravel hill. Sheryl, number one son's wife, and I are giving orders as to how the garden should be worked. The pace quickens as the sundial of the season definitely marks spring with summer soon to follow.

I was just tidying up the shelves in our office this morning. The Farmer has his done. Wouldn't you know and is now ready to spend every minute outside? Oh well, I tell him every family needs on laggard just to give the others a taste of that delicious syrup of self-righteousness.

And I found my pet rock. I got one for Christmas. Attractively boxed, tied and labelled. And I was pleased to get it for I had heard so much about them. According to the advertisements, they were "hot items"; just the gift to give friends who "had everything."

I laughed at first when I saw it but then we became quite good friends. I didn't have to feed it, water it, groom it, worry about keeping it in good health, or about its getting lonely if I went off and left it. I looked accusingly at Scamp who turned a disdainful eye on my latest foolishness. Well now, not really my latest...

I have been admiring those mood rings. In fact I went in to my favorite jewellery store to secure tickets for a Little Theatre production and I tried one on. My hands were warm and boy, did I get a reaction. As I talked to the proprietress, I couldn't help but wonder what her father would have said to see such frivolity amongst his fine diamonds and Spode and Royal Doulton.

Oh well, no doubt a passing fad, I consoled myself for hadn't I seen pet rocks reduced by two dollars after Christmas. Some people say that pet rocks were a commentary on the loneliness and isolation of people. That was something to think about.

I began to think of things way back when and I wonder if you recall when you went to a neighbor's to sit a spell till bedtime? Any night you took the notion, right after supper you'd walk over the hill to the neighbors on the west and, without invitation or notification that you were coming, be warmly welcome.

The men sat up close to the wood stove and talked crops or politics or both. The women drew their chairs together and murmured of who was ill and what remedies were being used, the most recent gossip of the neighborhood, how their hens were laying (would there be enough egg money to paper the parlor this spring), and so on.

The young girls went into the bedrooms and practised grown up hair-dos on each other, and fingered out melodies on the piano, while Grandpa begged the youths to have a game of cards.

There's be a bowl of ruby-red apples brought forth and popcorn liberally coated with brown sugar candy. By nine o'clock we rose to put our coats on, as "morning comes early" my father used to say. Those were the days. Drop by some night and sit a spell till bedtime with us. We'll gladly turn off the television.

The Farmer has all but finished levelling and seeding the lawn at the new house. What a mammoth job! But, like everything the Farmer does, he does well. But he says he never wants to tackle a job like that again. For our house is built on a gravel ridge and the stone picking was a horrible nightmare, not to be relived.

Landscaping plans arrived today...oh to be able to afford it all. It looks on the paper just the way a dream home should be landscaped. I promise the Farmer that if he lets me have it landscaped thusly, I'll water, water, water, water...for this soil is like a sieve. And at the cost of nursery stock today, one can't afford to lose one tree. Besides, a dead tree makes me feel sad.

As I write this we are coming up to Easter weekend and I do hope it will be a suitable Easter for you, in other words whatever suits your needs best may you have that. The Farmer, his sister and brother-in-law, and I will celebrate Easter at their sons near Terra Cotta, Ontario.

Sometimes I am wont to complain so I was delighted to receive this from an interested reader just yesterday and when I wasn't looking it was pinned to the wall above my ancient typewriter. "Seek reasons to be happy instead of counting the eternal damnations that beset you," I was advised.

WHAT A DRAG: Not everything about spring is as enjoyable as last weekend's sunny skies and balmy temperatures. With the warmer weather comes the urge to get out into the garden or do that cleaning that's piled up since last fall. With this explosion of exuberance come back aches from over-exertion of winter-softened muscles and the pain, felt just slightly lower, caused by the village's midnight cowboys in their high performance muscle cars. Now that the winter's snow is off the streets, the warm spring nights are being shattered by the screech of overly-large tires being squealed by not overly-large brains. Complaining about the racket is, we suppose, just as regular a spring feature as the noise itself and if it were just the din and howl of revving engines and squealing tires that was being created we wouldn't add our voice so forcefully to those complaining about it. But more is involved than just some motor-maddened swain showing off for the benefit of all who are forced to listen. There's a definite safety hazard. These high-powered cars share the streets with cyclists young and old and with cars driven by people who have never been to Chesterville and who are not used to the vagaries of the village's traffic customs. Some clown double-barrelling it out of the bank parking lot and fishtailing it across the bridge is handling a weapon so lethal the possibilities of his actions probably escape his tiny little mind. Maybe the speed bumps the Chamber of Commerce has mentioned are an alternative but they would be a dangerous one. Even better than the bumps or increased surveillance of village streets by the OPP - which can't be maintained around the clock anyway - was the suggestion that a stretch of roadway be closed off once a month or so and organized drag races held for the drivers of these souped-up cars. An element of responsibility would be introduced among the drivers as the rule that competition hones skills would probably bear up. And the losers would be less willing to peal around Chesterville's streets because who wants to show a losing car? -RM-

IT'S ABOUT TIME: Now that Chesterville Council has blanning on its mind as it prepares to update village zoning to conform with the North Dundas Official Plan, it might do well to appoint a third member from the village to the North Dundas Planning Board. The village is well represented by its present appointees, but Chesterville's interests, and those of the board as a whole, would be better served if a third voice from this municipality were added to the board. The organization of the NDPB calls for three members from each municipality but for a least the past two years, Chesterville has remained the only municipality in the planning area which has lacked full representation. If there is an appointee out there somewhere who has been unable or unwilling to attend board meetings, he or she should resign so that a more vigorous representative can be appointed to give village ratepayers full value from the planning board. -RM-

"Horror stories" prompt response

The Editor:

We were greatly disturbed by an item that appeared in last week's Record, captioned: "Horror Stories Change Thinking" — No criticism of the article — it was well written.

What disturbs us is the situation that called it forth. The implication is that material improvements to public facilities are desirable, in normal communities, but not in Chesterville. To feel that we have to avoid making such improvements because they will be destroyed or damaged by vandalism is about as sad a commentary on our community as could be made.

True, there is vandalism — everywhere. But, with a concerted effort on the part of dedicated citizenry, Chesterville could become the place where it does not take place.

We endorse the slogan: "Chesterville: a good place to live". And it could be a better place to live if we could rid ourselves of these filthy vandals. We are well aware that they invade our community. We have viewed with sorrow their desecration of public property, schools, residences. Even churches do not escape.

We have a beautiful and highly functional post office here in Chesterville. A few years ago extensive improvements and expansion took place there. There was a beautiful clock in the lobby and a fluorescent light over the desk. The clock and light were smashed, the lobby dirtied in the most disgusting manner more than once. The result — no clock, no light, and the lobby, which was open all the time for the convenience of box-holders, now has to be kept closed nights and Sundays and holidays.

The burning question is: Who are these vandals, and whence do they come? They cannot come from our Chesterville neighborhoods, for all our people benefit from these improvements. All our people want things to be nice, clean and modern.

With respect to the arena, where much vandalism has taken place, we suggest that the managers of our own hockey teams instruct their respective team members to be vigilant and report any observed breach of the rules or damaging of property. Of course they will be well-taught to be respectful concerning the facilities of other playing areas they visit.

Likewise, in the town, if the citizens all will constitute themselves unofficial vigilantes and report any cases of law violation or damaging of property, public or private, these vandals, whoever they are, and wherever they come from, can be apprehanded and appropriately dealt with.

Until we rid ourselves of this lawless, uncaring element, we will not have the model town, or even the average town that we desire.

Yours most truly,
E. Earle Eaton

A better idea for fund-raising

The Ediror:

Spring will be bringing the usual walkathons in the quest for money for many worthwhile causes.

Having viewed the blisters on a pair of 8 and 11 year old feet after a recent skatathon, I begin to wonder if there is a more sensible way to use the enegry that these wonderful youngsters donate so willingly.

I am sure there are many homeowners who would gladly sponsor any youngster to clean up a yard or do other chores thereby reducing so many painful blisters and probably realizing more money as well.

Finally there will be the sense of accomplishment in using one's energy in doing something really worthwhile.

Sincerely
Megan Ouderkirk

A tribute to columnist Mike Rowden

The Editor:

I am so sorry to learn of the death of Mike Rowden, whose topics I enjoyed so much.

He brought his opinions to the reader in a fresh and homey manner. He also had the ability to tackle subjects that others seemed afraid to approach and handled them brilliantly and fairly.

I never met him personally, but I know he was a man who could be classed "outstanding" in that long line of English Gentlemen.

Chesterville's past

FROM THE RECORD
THURS., APRIL 23, 1936

A bad chimney fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. LeClair, Mill St., caused some anxiety for a time yesterday morning, but with plenty of willing hands offering assistance the blaze was kept under control.

Awakened from his sleep to find a man choking him,John Dougall Cameron, 65-year-old bachelor farmer, residing half a mile east of Finch Village, was choked into insensibility and then beaten about the head by thieves Saturday night. Mr. Cameron was unable to say whether anything was stolen from the house. He suffered considerably from loss of blood, the result of two wounds on the head, and shock. .

Preparations are underway for the training of a large number of local people to take part in a show to be staged in the Community Hall about the middle of next month. The John B. Rogers Producing Company of Fostoria, Ohio, will be in charge of the affair which will present a two-night programme, the proceeds from which will be in aid of the special fund for the equipment of the Community Hall. We understand that Chesterville will supply the personnel for the shows which will be directed by an expert, the scenery and costumes to be provided by the producing company.

Gordon Henderson, well known Ottawa lawyer, and Mrs. Henderson escaped injury this morning in an auto accident at the White crossing about a mile west of town when their auto was in collision with another machine after crossing the CPR tracks.

Thursday evening, May 7th, Miss Pearl Newton, elecutionist, of Toronto, will appear in the Community Hall, Chesterville, under the auspices of Trinity United Church Young People's Society in one of her popular entertainments in which she will be assisted by local talent.

Thrilling, action-packed and romantic drama is in store for you! The management of the Community Theatre, Chesterville, takes great pleasure in announcing that Jack Holt's first Universalstarring production is a thrilling South American aviation and war drama "Storm Over the Andes" and that it will be shown for two days, starting Tuesday. The picture stars Mr. Holt, Antonio Moreno, Monty Barrie and Gene Lockhart in colorful fiestas, plenty of love interest and exciting flying - including many actual war scenes which will put you on the edge of your seat and keep you there!

"Reading habits instilled in children of Public School age will be practised throughout later years," Gordon Wragg of the High School staff told members of the Women's Institute at their meeting in the Public Library last night. Because of the high cost of books to an individual, he suggested a medium could be reached by a library.

Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband passed away recently. He was a wonderful person and we had a good life together.

Harry's heart's desire was to go to Hawaii. Our daughter and son-in-law wanted to take us there for our wedding anniversary, but Harry was too far along in his terminal illness to make the trip.

When they returned, they brough Harry a beautiful brown and white aloha shirt and a pair of white slacks. He was so proud of that outfit. When Harry knew he was dying he said to our son-in-law, "It's a shame I will never be able to wear that great get-up you brought me from Hawaii."

I decided Harry should have his wish. I asked the funeral director if it would be all right to bury my husband in the aloha shirt and the white slacks. He said, "Of course, if that's what you want to do."

A few days after the funeral, I heard some criticism about it. It bothered me terribly — and it still does. I wake up at night and wonder why I didn't bury Harry in a dignified dark blue suit with a white shirt and a striped tie. It seems insane now to worry about such a thing, but I do. Please, Ann, tell me if I did the wrong thing. If you say I did I will pray for forgiveness — Norfolk Reader

Dear Reader: You did the RIGHT thing. Harry wanted to wear that outfit and you saw to it that he got his wish.

And now, to you readers out there who would love to go to Hawaii — or any other beautiful place — don't wait till it's too late, the way Harry did. Go while you can.

Dear Ann Landers: Does an unemployed husband have the right to ask his wife for sex after 11:00pm if she has to be at work at 8am — even if he drives her to her job every morning?

Please answer this in the paper. I want him to hear it from YOU. He has heard it from me plenty but he doesn't get the idea. Thank you very much — Very Tired In Ohio

Dear Tired: I need more information in order to give you an intelligent answer. For example: How often does this unemployed man want sex after 11pm? Once a week? Every night? Does his insistence deprive you of ten minute's sleep or an hour? Write again, please. I don't want to be unfair to either of you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am tired of hearing about the loneliness and boredom of retired people. I am not talking about the sick and disabled in their 80s and 90s. I mean the healthy, vigorous one in their 60s and 70s.

I am involved with several organizations that desperately need volunteers. What satisfaction retired people could derive from helping others instead of running to kaffeeklatches, card games, gossipy lunches, or just sitting home driving each other crazy!

Of course there are exceptions, and they are the happiest and most vital people I know. I realize, too, that many retired people feel they have earned the rest. But the most fun in the world comes from helping others. If they only knew it! — Unsympathetic

Dear Un: I hope your letter starts some phones ringing. Anyone who wants to volunteer should call the local Community Referral Service.

Do you feel awkward, self-conscious — lonely? Welcome to the club. There's help for you in Ann Landers's booklet, "The Key to Popularity." Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

A station wagon driven by James Cuff, Chesterville, was in a collision at the first of the week on the Ridge Road. Injuries were suffered by auto salesman Leon McMillan and Mr. and Mrs. Cuff.

The expression "pig in a poke" conveys the impression of something haphazard. Not so this time! A sow on the farm of Harold Windsor, of town, seems to have been quite selective. She preferred a litter of 12 piglets - all female.

For Simon-pure amateurism the game of crokinole still holds its own, nor is it a pastime that passed out withcrinolines, bustles and oil lamps, but is still a game of sporting skill which has been emphasized by the Finch Crokinole League which had their game in the Legion Hall, Finch, Wednesday evening last. The Toppers (Dolton Henry and Carl Waldroff) soundly trounced the Hornets (Osborne Shaver and William Johnstone) in a best out of five games set to win the Henry Cup, which has been up for competition since 1953.

Jack Day, chairman of the Ontario Farm Radio Forum Council, has announced the appointment of Edith Storr, formerly Edith Collingridge of Chesterville, to the position of Provincial Secretary-Manager. Mrs. Storr is not a stranger to rural problems nor to the Farm Radio Forum. She was brought up on a farm in Dundas County, now operated by her brother, Chas. Collingridge.

We understand the Gerald Kearney Farm on the Limerick Road has been sold to William van Kats, of Williamstown. We understand Mr. van Kats will take possession May 1. This is another deal arranged by Gordon W. Thom, Realtor, of Morrisburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Aden Bowman, formerly of Chesterville, will quietly observe their 25th anniversary on Friday, April 27.

Planning designation change presents a long, twisting road

The recommendation from Winchester Township that 9.2 acres of Class Two agricultural land on lot seven on highway 43 have its designation changed from agricultural to highway commercial so that a farm equipment dealership can be set up on the property has been endorsed by the North Dundas Planning Board and forwarded to the Ministry of Housing for final approval.

The property owned by Allan Hutchinson, is being sought after by an area businessman who wants to establish a John Deere equipment dealership on the land, located between Winchester and Chesterville.

Mr. Hutchinson, who has owned the land for eight years, received a severance from it from the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry land division committee March 30 over the inital objection of the township council.

He told the board at its meeting last Wednesday night that the Ministry of Transportation and Communications has granted approval for two circular entrances so that the property could be used as a dealership.He also said the land has received clearance from the board of health.

Edsel Byers, a local equipment dealer who is seeking the Deere dealership, told the planning board the site would be occupied by an 8,000-9,000 sq. ft. building, constructed of colored metal panels with a brick and glass front, as well as a parking lot and gas and diesel pumps.

He explained that the farm equipment company wanted a dealership in the Chesterville-Winchester area and negotiations between him and the company could be finalized when a piece of property was secured.

The land is poorly drained now, Mr. Hutchinson said. He told the board he has only been able to get one crop off it in the eight years he's owned it.

Mr. Byers said the drainage problem would be overcome by gradually covering the property with three feet of fill, allowing him to set up a retail sales outlet, facilities for servicing and repairing equipment and a gas bar selling automobile and diesel fuel.

The two men were at the April 7 meeting of Winchester Township Council to inform that body that the property had received the land division committee's approval for severance. That changed Council's mind to the point where it recommended the change in designation and presented it to the planning board.

Following the presentation by the two men, the board deliberated on the matter for the better part of an hour before reaching its decision.

Some board members felt the area has been saturated with equipment dealerships while others wanted to see more detailed site plans before giving their approval, although the resolution to change the designation was passed without a dissenting ballot.

The planning board's approval is not the end of the two men's quest for redesignation, however.

First, a $250 deposit to cover the board's cost was made following Wednesday's decision. Then the real complications began.

An amendment must be prepared by the board's planner, W.Buchanan and Assoc. Ltd. of Ottawa; a public meeting must be held because the change deals with the Official Plan; all objections must be reviewed, and all this material collected and sent to Toronto to the Ministry of Housing for circulation to approximately 35 provincial agencies for their approval and recommendations.

Mr. Buchanan estimated the whole process would take from four to six months and after all this, Toronto could over-rule the board and reject its recommendation.

Donation policy changed

CORNWALL--Following the donation of $25 to the Kenyon Agricultural Society towards its annual fair, the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education has adopted a new set of rules governing donations.

The recommendations, made by the Policies and By-Law Committee and adopted last Tuesday night, are based on the board's reasoning that it has been charged with the administration of public funds and that it can only release those funds to organizations which have an educational nature.

The new criteria that must be met before the board will make any donation are that the funds allocated will be used for the direct provision of an educational activity; the activity will have a direct student involvement, and it and student involvement may be viewed as a "viable educational alternative to time spent in the classroom".

Joseph St. reconstruction major 1976 village roads project

R.M. Kostuch Associates, Ltd., an Ottawa engineering firm, has been given the go-ahead to proceed with detailed plans for this summer's reconstruction of Joseph St. after Chesterville clerk-treasurer Lloyd Graham was directed by Council last Tuesday night to contact the company, which presented its original study for the revamping of the street in the village's northwest corner last December. The reconstruction will include the installation of new storm sewers, moving hydro poles back from their present line, paving and a proposed elimination of the street's sidewalks to widen the road surface. Estimated cost of the project is $70,000 and it will go ahead, according to Council, whether or not the village receives the 50 per cent provincial subsidy in supplementary road grants it has applied for.

'American ideas of Canada will have to change'

CANTON, NY--Americans are going to have to change their thinking about their northern neighbor, Canadian Radio and Television Commission special counsel Peter Grant told a meeting of American and Canadian journalists at St. Lawrence University here Friday night.

Speaking as part of a panel discussing "Issues Related to Communications Between Canada and the United States" as part of the university's annual Canada Week. Mr. Grant explained the CRTC's position on the US-Canada border TV war and told the audience that the federal commission is determined to "repatriate Canadian advertising dollars from U.S. stations" which reach into markets in this country "without paying their dues to the Canadian public".

Craig Oliver, Geoff Stevens and W.A. Wilson listen as CRTC special counsel Peter Grant explains the federal communication commission's position in the U.S.-Canada border tv war. Mr. Grant said Buffalo stations annually siphon off about $20-million worth of Canadian advertising - roughly 10 per cent of gross Canadian annual tv receipts - while failing to meet the stringent community service regulations with which Canadian stations must comply. - staff photo -

This is the fifth year that St. Lawrence University had held its Canada Week observance, designed to broaden the understanding of U.S. university students and faculty of Canada and of relations between the two countries.

Other speakers on Friday night's panel included Geoffrey Stevens, Ottawa columnist with the Toronto Globe and Mail, Craig Oliver, Parliamentary Bureau Chief with the CTV and W.A. Wilson, Montreal Star Ottawa bureau editor.

Canadian guests who spoke at SLU during the week included British Columbia MP Simma Holt, Dr. Charles Thiffault of Laval University and Dr. R.J. van Loon, Director of Social Assistance and Service Analysis with the federal government.

The week-long observance also featured showing of Canadian films, debates between SLU teams and those from the University of Toronto and Queen's University, and special Canadian programs on WSLU-FM, the university-sponsored public broadcasting station.

Mr.Grant,who also maintains a Toronto law practice and lectures at U of T in addition to keeping up his duties withe CRTC, explained that the problem facing Canadian broadcasters is that they cannot compete economically with giant U.S. network productions.

He gave the example of the American program "All In the Family" which costs about $200,000 an episode to produce, while the cost of an average Canadian television episode is only about $30,000.

With the understanding of these economics, Mr. Grant said it wasn't difficult to see why Canada is trying to repatriate advertising dollars from this country spent on U.S. border stations. The amount spent annually on the three Buffalo, NY, stations is about 10 percent of the $200-million receipts earned by the television industry in his country.

He further explained that the CRTC's policy of requiring Canadian cable systems to delete commercial messages on American programs and substitute them with advertisments sold in Canada was one method the federal agency had of penalizing American stations for beaming their signals into this country while not meeting the stringent public service commitments with which Canadian broadcasters are required to comply.

These requirements cost Canadian stations "a pile of money" and further reduce their ability to compete head-on with American programming. As well, 80 per cent of the programming shown on U.S. networks is available on Canadian stations in areas served by cable, Mr. Grant said.

He also attacked the morality of the Buffalo stations which use their border ratings to increase advertising ratings but which do not use these ratings when negotiating serial rights with their U.S. producers.

Mr. Stevens defended the CRTC's stand, saying it would change Canadian communications from its present north-south orientation to one of an east-west direction which would better serve the cultural life of this country.

Mr. Oliver said the issue of border television is one of the few that have driven public and private broadcasters together in this country. He condemned the current American practice of beaming signals into Canada without meeting any public service obligations as "ideological imperialism".

Breaking the psychological barrier

Inside every overweight person, there's a skinny person screaming to get out.

That, basically, is the philosophy of Weight Watchers International, a U.S.-based firm which has developed a method for letting that skinny get out into the open air.

Through its Canadian br[illegible], Weight Watchers has organized an enthusiastic chapter in Chesterville which now has over 50 would-be slim members.

The Chesterville and area group, which meets every Tuesday evening in the auditorium of St. Mary's Separate School, has just reached an important milestone. Collectively, its members have shed over half a ton of excess weight since the chapter's organization late last fall.

Weight Watchers operates on the premise that there is a psychology involved in being overwieght and it has set up its program to break that psychology and substitute it with one of "thinking slim".

According to Mrs. Lee Allen, a representative with the firm's Ottawa office, Weight Watchers goes about the slimming process by instilling a new discipline in its overweight clients.

Mrs. Allen said the firm uses a set of "step-by-step psychological modules" designed by U.S. psychologist Dr. Richard Stewart designed to re-educate members through proper eating habits.

Weight Watchers' members are allowed anything and everything naturally-slim persons eat, but they are provided with a proper schedule of eating times and are only allowed to eat certain quantities of some foods.

Like any compulsive habit, over-eating is the problem that must constantly be fought against. Once Weight Watchers gets its members down to what it describes as their "ideal weight", it has a maintenance program for keeping them there.

The weight loss program takes 16 weeks to learn the discipline involved, Mrs. Allen said in a telephone interview. Several factors are involved, including the client's way of life, metabolism and the length of time he or she has carried the excess weight.

The ideal weight is set through a system of charts prepared by all the insurance companies in North America and checked and endorsed by most of the continent's doctors.

Mrs. Allen said the organization then sets up a schedule for reaching a "realistic" loss and recommends that before clients begin the program, they check out the schedule Weight Watchers has set with their own doctors for any necessary modifications. Once the ideal weight is reached, members are taught to maintain their loss through "selectivity and discipline", she said.

There are some proscribed foods during the weight loss period, Mrs. Allen explained. These include high carbohydrate foods, anything containing sugar, alcoholic beverages and purchased pastries.

Clients are urged only to eat food in carefully measured quantities. There is no crash program involved and the firm is busy preparing its own recipes. As well, this summer it will be distributing its own prepared foods in Canada.

As well as the food program, members attend their weekly classes, which in Chesterville are conducted under the tutelage of Mrs. Nancy McDonald of Martintown. Weight loss course instructors must have reached their ideal weight with Weight Watchers and must have completed a 16-week course.

Mrs. Allen said instructors must have "empathy and understanding" for those with weight problems because of the nature of the course, which consists of weekly "group therapy" sessions in which members can discuss their difficulties.

"Caring and sharing are the most important parts of the program." We try to get members to do away with their introversions and talk honestly about their food temptations," Mrs. Allen explained.

Weight Watchers International

'Weight Watchers' members are allowed anything and everything naturally-slim persons eat, but they are provided with a proper schedule of eating times and are only allowed to eat certain quantities of some food. The results are fantastic - the pounds just float away, these many members will testify. Busy, profitable year for Berwick WI

BERWICK — The annual meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Community Centre starting with a pot luck dinner at noon. Mrs. Mabel Rushford, president, chaired the meeting.

The motto was "Coming together is beginning, keeping together is progress, working together is success".

The roll call was answered by bringing a friend, and paying dues. Seven members and one guest were present.

Mrs. Clair Robertson gave the treasurer's report and read the minutes and Mrs. Glendon Casselman gave a report of the Tweedsmuir Tea, held at Osnabruck Centre.

It was reported that the garden club had seven members. Plans were made to serve a hot dinner to a bereaved family April 3, and to cater to a bowling banquet April 24.

Several interesting reports were given from standing committees which showed Berwick Women's Institute Ladies had a busy and profitable year. Gifts are to be sent to two members in hospital.

Secretary, Mrs. Clair Robertson read a letter from the Women for Survival of Agriculture. The ladies voted to give a $2. donation to the Easter Seal Campaign. The Secretary then read the minutes of the last annual.

President Mrs. Clem Rushford, gave the year's summary and gave a reading "There are at least two sides to every question of the day" and suggested that the New Year's project be "Let's help the curator with the Tweedsmuir history book".

Hall gets a facelift

When village work crews are finished, Chesterville residents will hardly be able to recognize the interior of the Community Hall as it undergoes a complete facelift. The old stage has been torn out and will be replaced with a small portable one; the wooden floors will be covered with a linoleum-like synthetic surface, and the walls will be panelled. Kitchen facilities will remain intact so the former theatre can continue as a banquet hall. Village Council is still getting estimates on metal frames for the old wooden windows and work is being carried out on the emergency exit in the hall's southeast corner. Money for the project came from a surplus Council collected over the past year and from money moved forward from general accounts. - staff photo -

Planning necessary

Farm profits don't just happen

Farmers must review their production costs annually to win the continuing battle of the cost-price squeeze, OMAF economist G.A. Fisher states.

Most farmers tend to use their resources in the production of crops or livestock products which, by trial and error, give them the most profit at the end of the year. In modern agriculture, with its ever-changing conditions, this method of trial and error may not be the most accurate way of determining the crop or livestock program best suited to any one farm, Mr. Fisher says.

Production costs vary from farm to farm in that each farmer has various kinds and amounts of resources in the form of land, labor, machinery, and capital.

The skill of the farm operator in combining these resources to obtain maximum production will determine his level of success in growing any crop or producing a livestock product.

Two kinds of costs -fixed and operating- are involved in farm production. The agriculture ministry economists explains fixed costs as those indirect or non-cash costs which occur regardless of the kind of crop of livestock produced. Land costs, interest and depreciation on buildings and machinery, and the operator's own labor are examples of fixed costs, while operating costs are those which are paid for in cash and are specifically used for the production of a particular farm enterprise. Plants, seed, fertilizer, sprays, feed, livestock, hired labor, custom services, interest payments, and repairs are examples of operating, or direct, costs.

As each farmer makes a decision about his cropping or livestock program, certain questions run through his mind. What does it cost me to produce an acre of crop? Will the yields obtained and the expected prices be adequate to cover operating and fixed costs and allow for family living? Does my present livestock program fit well with my cropping program?

The answer to these and other such questions will vary from farm to farm for any crop or livestock enterprise.

Rapidly rising input costs in recent years have pused farm production costs to higher levels. Information on crop and livestock production costs is available from the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food offices across the province.

The availability of crop and livestock budget sheets allow each farmer to enter figures from his own farm operation for more meaningful comparisons. Good farm records on costs, production practices, and yields will enable the farmer to locate problem areas in his farm program.

Reliable information on costs and returns for crop and livestock enterprises provides the farmer with the necessary information to determine the most profitable combination of enterprises for his farm.

Successful farmers have increased net returns by the selection of suitable cropping programs for their farms. Good planning and cropping practices bringing profitable net returns don't just happen. They are the result of planning through the use of well-kept farm production cost records.

Cereal crops maintain their own advantages

D.L. Massey, O.M.A.F.

Corn , as silage or as grain, has proven to be a more stable and a higher yielding feed crop than cereal grains for many farmers. The oat acreage in particular has been declining over the last several years. Earlier maturing rn varieties are now being grown on land formerly devoted to cereal grains.

Cereals, however, are not as demanding as corn in terms of energy input. The high cost of producing corn is making many farmers take a new look at oats and barley as alternative crops. An added dimension is that straw has become more than a cheap by-product of the grain harvest. Livestock producers who need bedding are willing to pay up to $1.00 per 30-35 pound bale. A one ton yield of straw translates into $60.00 per acre.

The best crops of cereal grains are invariably obtained with early planting. Cereals prefer the cool, moist conditions of early spring. Slow development under cool temperatures gives better root growth and stronger plants. The crop should be planted as soon as the land can support field equipment and a seedbed can be prepared.

Herta barley has been and still remains the most popular barley variety. One of the newer varieties, Laurier, has been widely promoted this year. Research results and farm experience to date would suggest that no particular variety seems to have a real edge on yield. Farmers would be well advised to try out small acreages of different varieties to determine which are best suited to their soil conditions.

Rodney oats is no longer on the recommended list but is still a very popular variety of oats. Garry, Stormont and Scott make up the remainder of the oat acreage. A number of farmers are trying out the new variety, Elgin, this year.

Cereals will never be able to produce as high yields as corn. Nevertheless they do still have a place on many farms as a feed grain, as a companion crop for new forage seedings and as a supply of bedding.

Councillors request meeting with Ottawa realty firm

Chesterville Council has requested a meeting with representatives of an Ottawa realty firm before granting permission to the company to build model homes on a subdivision in this village.

The firm, Southeastern Realty Investments Ltd., requested Council by letter for permission for building permits to construct display homes on the 56-lot Thompson subdivision on College St.

The letter asked if building permits were necessary for the model homes, which would be used to sell other homes in the development. It stated that the model homes would not be sold until adequate services could be provided for them.

Reeve Keith Graham asked the village clerk to cont act officials of the firm to set up the meeting before Council makes any decision.

Jets win ODHA title, defeat Char-Lan in two

Playing their best hockey of the 1975-76 season, the Chesterville Jets swept their best-of-three series with Char-Lan Rebels last week to capture the Ottawa District Hockey Association's Junior C championship.

The Jets beat Char-Lan in straight games, doubling them 10-5 in Chesterville Tuesday night and pouring it on in Williamstown arena to take the series with a 5-1 win Thursday night.

In winning the ODHA title, Chesterville gained a measure of revenge on Finch Township, which eliminated them from the North Stormont-Long Sault Junior C playoffs. Finch went on to lose the final series against Char-Lan.

Had a third game been necessary in the ODHA series it would have been played in Morrisburg Friday night as the Chesterville arena was closed for the season after being kept open for the Jets' Tuesday game. Village Council refused to keep the arena open any longer, arguing that the cost involved didn't warrant the extension for just one team.

Chesterville and Char-Lan made it to the final series on the strength of their performances in the Junior C round robin tournament in Finch Sun., April 11. Both teams went through the day undefeated and won the right to face each other for the championship.

Dave Arnold wrote the scoring story for Chesterville in both games, leading the team on each night with three-goal performances.

Thursday night he scored the winner with 34 seconds remaining in the first period and broke the Rebels' back with two more in the second as he garnered a classic hat-trick.

Tuesday night he scored once in each period as the Jets won the series' opener in front of a hometown crowd. The local team had the home ice advantage after winning the coin toss in Finch but the exta game wasn't necessary.

Larry Gallinger opened the scoring Thursday night, beating Mark Gareau in the Char-Lan nets at 18:08 on a play set up by Don Crowder and Doug Shay. Arnold scored what turned out to be the winner 1:18 later to end the period with Chesterville holding a 2-0 lead.

Arnold scored the only goal of the second period, at 17:05, and added his third at 7:13 10 seconds after Greg McDonald finished serving a highsticking call to increase the Jets' lead to 4-0.

Andre Tessier, who missed Tuesday night's game after being involved in a fight during the tournament, snapped Steve Droppo's shut-out bid at 12:44.

With four minutes remaining in the game Neil Kittle made it 5-1 for the visitors five minutes after Denis Jodoin got a match misconduct for trying to hit an official after the Rebels' player was assessed a hooking penalty.

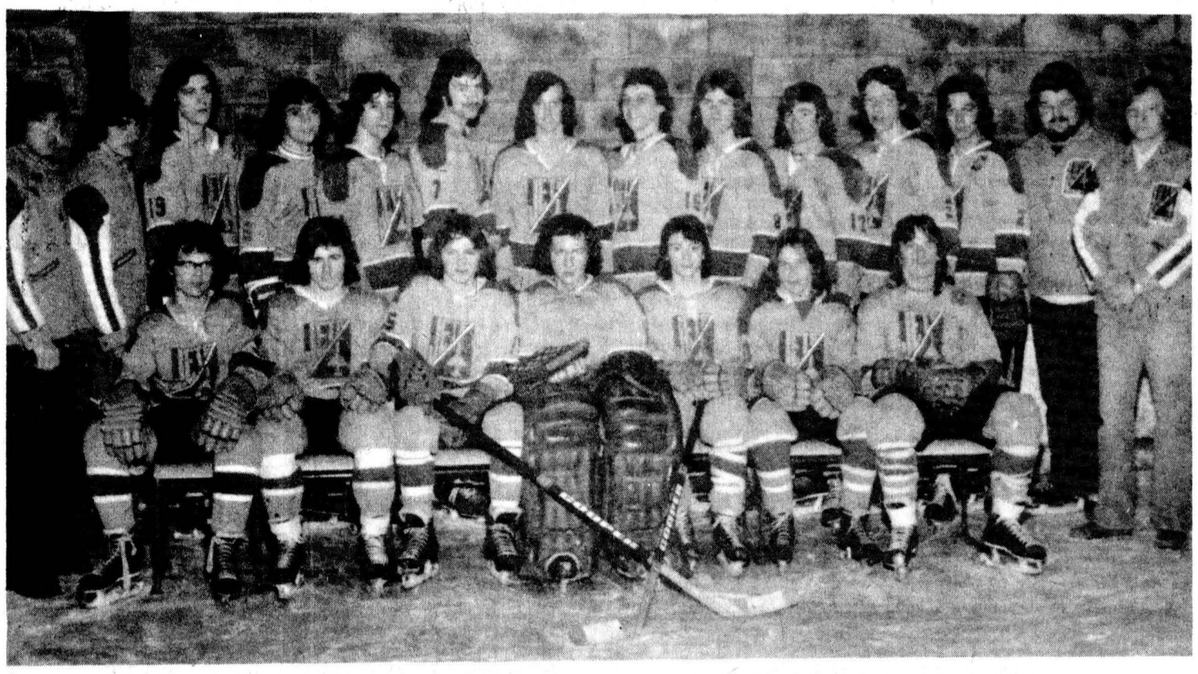
Tempers began to flare in the third period as referee Casselman assessed nine of the game's 13 penalties during the final frame. Chesterville had eight minors while Char-Lan picked up four minors and Jodoin's match penalty.

Tuesday night the teams played it close to the chest through the opening period with Chesterville getting goals from John Elliott and Arnold to take a 2-1 led into the second period. Claude Bourck scored Char-Lan's first period goal.

The game opened up in the second with the Jets outscoring the Rebels 3-2 to carry a 5-3 lead into the final period when they let loose for five goals to win 10-5.

Chesterville got a three-goal night from Arnold and two-goal performances from Gary Beckstead and Lorne Cook. Singles went to Elliott and Gary and Larry Gallinger. Bourck scored twice for Char-Lan, which got singles from Cameron Ward, Greg McDonald and Robert Julien.

The first game was a tame affair, with only nine minors assessed. The visitors had five to Chesterville's four.



ODHA champions

Lawor's goal sparks 5-3 win

Two second period goals by Captain Chuck Lawlor sparked the Morrisburg Lions to a 5-3 win over the Hawkesbury Hawks Sunday afternoon in the opening game of the ODHA Jr. "B" finals in Morrisburg.

Lawlor has collected 37 points in 15 playoff games and is one of the reasons the Lions have made it so far. The winners of the Morrisburg-Hawkesbury battle will claim the Citizen Shield for league supremacy.

Over 700 fans, attired in shorts and T-shirts, crowded into the arena to see Hawkesbury's Pierre Louisieze open up the scoring after only 25 seconds of play.

Lawlor evened the score at the six minute mark of the second on a powerplay goal, followed by Doug McNairn at 17:30 to give the Lions a 2-1 lead. Lawlor made himself known once more a minute later to push Morrisburg ahead 3-1.

The Lions put the game out of reach in the third with the eventual winner coming from Kevin Duvall after two minutes, but the Hawks, known for their ability to fight back from behind, pulled within reach on markers by Ken MacKauley and Yvon Joly. Mike Felker, a defenseman for the Lions, scored an unassisted empty net goal at 19:05 to remove any doubts of overtime.

Morrisburg ousted Gananoque in five games to advance to the final elimination series, while Hawkesbury fell behind to the Ottawa 67's three games to one before battling back to win the series in the seventh game. The next contest is slated tonight in Hawksbury with the third game of the series scheduled for Friday night in Morrisburg.

Township tax up slightly

BERWICK — Finch Township ratepayers face a slight increase in their 1976 municipal assessments according to the draft budget presented at Monday night's meeting of Council in the township officers here.

The new levy for municipal purposes is 39 mills for commercial ratepayers, up from 38 in 1975, and 33.15 m. for residential and farm taxpayers, up from 32.30 last year.

Total tax bills could face a more dramatic increse once the education levy is received. Township clerk Arnott Empey's pencilled budget shows a jump from $112,669 to $120,000 for education purposes, although he said this is just a guess. The education figure can't be calculated until the board of education's budget is brought down.

Ratepayers got a break on their county levy, which decreased $2,000 this year, from $54,395 in 1975 to $52,000 this year.

However, grants from the province dropped $11,000, from $161,254 to about $150,000 because of decreases in road grants.

Mr. Empey's draft budget shows 1976 expenditures of $510,000, up from the 1975 figure of $484,803. Last year's total revenue was $510,225 and this year's estimate is $510,110.

Municipal taxation will account for $123,110.05 of the estimated $510,110 total. That breaks down into $3,315 for commercial properties, $79,495.05 on residential and farm property, $9,800 for the township rate on Crysler, $13,000 on the Crysler trustee rate, drainage on tax rolls (with the exception of tile drains), of $13,200 and the township's share of Bell Canada's gross receipts of $4,300.

In the total picture, grants in lieu of taxation amount to $1,500; Ontario grants, $150,000; other grants, $3,500; community centre proceeds estimated at $60,000 (they accounted for $61,892 last year); region or county taxation of $36,450 and grants of $15,550, and school board tax estimates of $120,000.

Fall 'Food Forum' requested for Ingleside

INGLESIDE — Mrs. Ed Canough was chosen vice-president, Mrs. Roy Leete was elected president of Ingleside Women's Institute at the annual meeting of the branch. Retiring president Mrs. Gregor Williamson welcomed the members, including one new member and the roll call was answered by payment of fees.

A cash donation was voted to the Ingleside branch of the Canadian Cancer Society. Memorial cards and receipts for Income Tax purposes are available from Mrs. Gregor Williamson, 26 Wales Drive, 537-2448.

Mrs. Mary Trimble reported on the District Directors' meeting which she attended. The District Annual will be held in Trinity United Church, Ingleside, May 12 and Pennies for Friendship may be brought to this meeting as branch and district Tweedsmuir history books can also be brought May 12.

Resolutions to be voted on at the District Annual were discussed by the members and the voting delegates May 12 will be Mrs. Roy Leete, Mrs. Mary Trimble and Mrs. Shirley Walsh. Mrs. Leete will also attend the Officers' Conference at Waterloo University May 4, 5 and 6.

The 4-H Achievement Day for "A Touch of Stitchery" will be held in Roxmore Public School, Avonmore, on Saturday, April 24 and the public is invited to attend at 1:15pm. There is no charge for admission.

At the close of the meeting, lunch was convened by Mrs. Shirley Walsh and Mrs. Tamara Valentinovic.

A program planning meeting will be held April 26 at 7:30pm in the Ingleside library.

The branch will ask the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food to present a Food Forum in Ingleside in the fall. Since nutrition is being stressed this year, either "Poultry, Please" or "More about Nutrition" will be suggested as to the topics for the forum.

The roll call for the May meeting will be "Why You Should Make a Will" and Mrs. Mary Trimble, Resolutions Convener, will be in charge of the program.

Council newsbriefs

Finch Township has received a Community Centres grant of $466.71 from the Ontario Ministry of Culture and Recreation for work completed last year on the windows and furnace of the Berwick Community Hall, Osie Villeneuve, S-D MPP, informed Council in a letter read at Monday night's meeting. The grant covers 25 per cent of the cost of the project.

Drain report approved

The engineer's report on the Blue Creek Drain was ratified by Council Monday night following a court of revision held during its regular meeting. The report was made subject to modifications by ratepayers on the drain and a bylaw will be prepared for the 10-year debenture on the project. The report was prepared by R.M. Kostuch and Assoc's., Ltd., of Ottawa.

Council endorsed the request of the Stormont County Milk Committee that a Montreal specialty cheese firm seeking a site for an Eastern Ontario plant be allowed to locate in this area. The request, presented by committee chairman Case Michaels of Finch, was forwarded to MPP Osie Villeneuve with a copy going to the Ontario Milk Committee.

Hydro changes mind

Ontario Hydro has backed down on its decision to stop tours of the Robert H. Saunders Hydro Power Dam in Cornwall after sustained protest by Seaway Valley tourist groups. Tours will be conducted by Hydro on a reduced scale from Sunday to Thursday inclusive between 9:30am and 5:30pm beginning in July. This year it will cost tourists 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children to visit the site, which was toured by over 100,000 last year. Hydro officials wouldn't say whether the site would be open again to the public after this olympic year.

Minimum harvest wage up

The minimum wage for workers harvesting fruit, vegetables and tobacco in Ontario has climbed to $2.65 an hour Ontario Minister of Labor Dr. Bette Stephenson announced last week. The new rate is 24 cents higher than the previous minimum wage paid to seasonal agricultural workers.

DFL starts May 17

Squires back, Bob's drop out

CARDINAL — The Dundas Fastball League will have a new look this year as one tream drops out of the loop, another comes back after a year's leave of absence and a third moves up to the senior level from intermediate competition.

The league's only American team, Bob's Tavern, of Ogdensburg, NY, has dropped out this year because of the difficulty it has had in fielding Northern New York pitchers of Dundas League calibre.

The team announced it will not be competing in the DFL at the league's annual meeting Mon. April 12 at the Royal Canadian Legion's Riverside Lodge here.

The loss of the American squad has been offset by the return of the Kemptville Squires, back in the Dundas fold after a year's absence. The league's new team this year is the Maynard Roadrunners, up from intermediate for their first taste of fastball at the same level. Maynard is a hamlet in Augusta Township just north west of Prescott.

The rest of the loop remains the same, with last year's champions Domville Aces, Williamsburg Pioneers. Brockville Commercial Stars and Cardinal Pats rounding out the league.

As well as its new lineup of teams, the league has made several basic changes with the most important being in the set-up of the playoffs, which will return to the schedule used before last year's playoff tournament was introduced.

Teams felt the tournament left too much up to chance with injuries being allowed to play too much of a part in the final outcome.

The tournament was held in Cardinal last year and coincided with that village's Laborfest celebrations. The schedule will be changed back to its original format and semifinal action will get underway August 13, to be completed by Labor Day. The finals will begin after the September holiday.

Both series will be best-of-seven rounds. This year players will be required to have played a minimum of five season games before being on playoff rosters.

Cardinal will still have its Labor Day tournament, which will be one of three tourneys sponsored by DFL teams. The tournament season gets underway June 19 and 20 in Domville and continues on the Civic Holiday weekend in Kemptville. Williamsburg's event will be held August 14 and 15.

The All Ontario Tournament will be held in St. Catharines June 30 to July 4.

The regular season starts Mon., May 17 with Maynard at Brockville. No games will be played in this area until the Pioneers are at home Fri., May 28. They start their season in Kemptville May 21.

The league will continue with its night games with the Pioneers playing their home games at 8pm on Fridays. There will, however, be three afternoon games as the Pats play their first three home engagements on Sunday afternoons.

The teams will play 20-game schedules, which finish August 13. The schedules were to have been ratified by league secretary-treasurer Lynne O'Brien of Morrisburg Monday night.

Three new wrinkles have been added to the league's regular-season complexion this year. For the first time, DFL squads will be allowed to employ the services of a designated hitter for any player on the team. Two extra innings have been allowed for games which end in a tie at the end of the regulation seven. If they are still tied at the end of nine, each team will be awarded one point.

The third change has to do with league publicity. Miss O'Brien said teams failing to comply with the new regulation requiring them to have their reports to her office within 72 hours of the completion of a game will face a $10 fine for each infraction.

Huch McKay of Brockville was chosen league president at last week's meeting in Cardinal. Also on the 1976 executive are vice-president Bob MacDonald of Brockville and Miss O'Brien.
