With the coming of fly season, many places are turned into shoo factories.

CRUMBS from Graham's Loaf

This is one of those weeks when Crumbs will be few and scattering. What with a short week in hand due to the 24th of May coming on the 23rd, a small electric motor breakdown that threatened to snap the editor's somewhat tenuous temper control and rheumatiz weather in full groan, the flights of fancy will have a short life. This in spite of the knowledge that thousands of faithful readers will be disappointed.

The weekend has found us happily befuddled at every meal. Not, we hasten to add in a righteous tone, from the drink, but from the necessity of choosing what colour pill to take first after the groceries have been stowed. There they lie, in a neat row, placed alphabetically by the youngster girlfriend of the family. White, yellow, orange and white again. The white is good if you creak; the yellow is better, the orange eases the worry about taking so many pills and the last white is merely bicarb to be a crutch to the digestion. Taken all together in one gulp, there is the same feeling one gets from swallowing a fly floating on the milk. You sit, wonder and expect something to start buzzing any minute.

Now the individual approach what we like. The bicarb is indicated first if the chief cook got careless and left the crop in the capon; then one of the little orange lozenges is next, especially if we make the mistake and mention the unmentionable "inwards" that came to light. The yellow one picks up where some gland or other left off and returns the spring to our lagging gait. That leaves one other white one. That's compounded of sweepings from the floor of the Mint at Ottawa. We buy it by the fine ounce, and pay for it at the same rate from druggist friend who is all heart.

And to top it all, the fish weren't biting, for us, that is. Bert Gillard showed up with a pickerel weighing just under seven pounds, all 30 inches of it. We combed, laced, spat and stirred the old Rideau until the poor worms were pale with weariness. Total score: Two sunfish and one fat, healthy, tender clam, complete with shell. After buying Bert's fish for a king's ransom to keep face with our neighbours, we left the shining river to its own devices, parted the weeds and put the boat away for the weekend.

Local Cubs win 2 more

Coleman was ready again in the third with another run which gave Williamsburg the lead.

With Gary Price on first in the fifth inning, Doug Miltimore batted a line drive home run giving Chesterville their 3-2 win.

Local merchant wins awards

Jack Fulton, one of the members of Fulton Bros., owners of the IGA Supermarket here, was honoured last week in Ottawa.

At the 8th anniversary banquet of the big grocery alliance, "Bick" picked up an award for having the best kept vegetable and fruit display counter in the Eastern District which includes their class stores from Lachute, Que., to Sudbury. The award was also tied in with one of the greatest increases in sales in the fruit and vegetable divisions of the stores; "Bick's" long hours spent over the fruit and vegetable counters of the store have paid off, first in customer appeal and finally in acclaim from the trade.

IMMUNIZATION CLINICS FOR DISTRICT

Third infant and pre-school immunization clinics will be held at the following centres:

Chesterville Community Hall, June 1, from 9.30-10.30 a.m.; Morewood Presbyterian Church Hall June 1, from 11-11.30 a.m.

Children will receive their third injection against diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and polio. Booster doses, fourth dose polio and vaccination against smallpox will also be given.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere thanks to all those who remembered me with cards, treats and flowers while I was a patient in Winchester Memorial Hospital. Your thoughtfulness is greatly appreciated.

Mrs Archie MacDonald.

Central school demise

Last week a fateful meeting of North Dundas High School District board was held here in Chesterville. Near the end of the long meeting came a motion that raised considerable turmoil. John Coyne moved and Eric Casselman seconded that the board "will not build a central school."

The motion passed four to three on a vote.

We have been sitting on the sidelines, publicly, in discussions about the projected new school. Tempers have been showing, decisions have been taken and withdrawn and occasionally considerable heat has been generated.

It would appear Chesterville and Winchester can work in harmony only so long. After a certain period old rivalries, old beefs, crop up to poison the atmosphere of sweet reasonableness, and co-operative action on school matters begins to slant to one direction or the other depending on special interests.

Back in the early years of joint board when such things happened, it was reasonably simple to resolve the matter. The resignation of the chairman then helped to clear the air and get things started with a new perspective. Nowadays, it is not that simple. Personalities have less to do with decisions on the board and regional opinion carries enough weight to lessen the individual's influence. Chairmen, board members and staffs of the schools all feel the pressure of district opinion and the replacement of any one or more members of the executive groups will make little difference in the final decision about a central school.

It would appear the central school idea has foundered. The reasons are all too clear. Municipalities involved which include the townships of Mountain, Williamsburg, Matilda and Winchester and villages of Chesterville and Winchester were asked to approve, through voting their monetary support, a site first west of the township municipal building on Highway 43. This was done then it was decided the site was unsuitable. A new site east of the cemetery was chosen and approvd by all the board members, although a difference of opinion has arisen over this point in one case.

When the new site came before the municipalities for consideration, they all took their original stand with the exception of Winchester village. That municipality suddenly felt the site on the Ridge was not suitable for the sixty odd pupils who go to the district school from their municipality. And so on the rock of Winchester's collective mind, the new school for the district comes to an end.

Chesterville council has had a running report of the matter from her school board member. Mr Coyne has been faithful in his resumes of matters of direct interest to the local government. He has also been kept in touch with the council's definite opinions as they developed. When the question of arbitration was broached, Chesterville council felt its original intention was adequate for the situation, that of supporting a new school on the Ridge. It had no announced intention of allowing an adjudicator work up an opinion on a matter that was passed by more than a simple majority of the municipalities involved. Before the decision on an adjudicator came to a head, though, the motion to pass up a central school went through and that closed the book for the time being on the adjudicator.

New school boards and new councils will have different opinions. Right now the present impasse seems to centre on a refusal to accept a school site centrally located between the two villages. Something may be worked out in time, but it will take time to draw together very wide-apart views that have developed between some of the partners in the joint experiment.

OPINIONS . . .
OURS AND OTHERS

Summit sum-up

Two rocks of reasonable certainty stand out. No one can now believe that the flight of the U-2 was the real cause of the present crisis, declares the Manchester Guardian. President Eisenhower has announced that there are to be no more intelligence flights over Soviet territory, and in making that announcement he gave the only concession for which the Soviet Union could reasonably ask.

Mr Khrushchev has wrecked the conference because he wanted to wreck it, not because of his indignation against American spying. The second certainty is that the West can expect a fierce psychological offensive in the weeks to come and that any appearance of timidity or divided counsels in the Western camp will be ruthlessly exploited. The West must be prepared to stand firm. That does not mean that it should become inflexible. Western leaders must be alert and perceptive about what is happening in the Soviet Union and be ready to seize any opportunity for fruitful negotiations as soon as one appears.

The instinct to grab and maul

Forty years and more of public education are showing their influence in the Ontario woods these days; the number of trillium-pickers is markedly smaller than it was, observes the Peterborough Examiner. School teachers and wildlife conservationists have instructed and besought generations of children not to pick trilliums; the flowers will not live long in water, and the root, if left, will not flower again for some years. And behold the result! The woods are starred with trilliums, and for walkers, drivers and even passengers in trains they offer a beautiful and heartening sight. Ontario's flower is protected by Ontario's common sense and sense of public decency.

There are trillium-pickers, of course. They can be seen, emerging from the woods, clutching big bunches of the flowers, some of which have been dragged up, root and all. We do not mean the gardeners, who sometimes lift a few spadefuls of the flowers in their earth, in order to put them in beds at home where they will be loved and prized.

No, we refer to those people whose hanging jaws and lack-lustre eyes proclaim that they belong to that section of the population (fortunately small) upon whom education and public appeal is wasted. There will always be people whose instinct whenever they see anything charming and delicate, be it a trillium, a kitten, or even a baby, is to grab it and maul it, without any concern for its well-being.

Your Member Reports . . .

The question of foreign domination of Canadian labour is coming to the fore in general discussions and in press comments.

The Canadian Labour Congress is peculiarly named when at least 70% of its membership consists of workers who in union matters are subject to ultimate control from the United States.

A news report last month showed 5,000 Canadian members of an international union threatening to break away unless they receive greater autonomy. So well they might, for in this case each member pays $1.25 a month for Local Union expenditures and $4.10 to the International. In other words, this group alone were sending $20,500.00 each month or one-quarter of a million dollars each year out of Canada to assist the United States workers, while they only needed to be spending $6,250.00 a month to run their Canadian Union affairs. What sparked the revolt was a demand from the American headquarters that an additional $2 assessment per member be added to regular dues.

Why should Canadian workers hand over these large amounts of money to American Unions for any reason but particularly when these very Union heads complain to the U.S. Government against influx of materials handled in Canada by the same Union.

International Unionism may have helped Canadian workers in the beginning by supplying them with the funds to become organized, but international business is not an inter-nation Sunday School picnic. There was a good reason for Americans grabbing control of Canadian workers. American Unions were protecting themselves against having to contend with a neighbour's lower-cost goods because of lower cost labour.

It is about time that Canadian workers began to think of their own future and their country's future. How can any company take the responsibility for successful operation, foreign sales, etc., when they are utterly controlled by the richest, most powerful, most dictatorial organization on this continent. The United Steelworkers collect 80 million dollars a year from their members. International Brotherhood of Teamsters is understood to collect 50 million from its members and the International Ladies Garment Workers has 300 million in its treasury and trust funds.

Of Canada's 167 registered Unions, 110 are International, predominantly American. Canadians on the average are outnumbered ten to one. How can our Federal Government decrease dependency on U.S. while this state of affairs exists?

Surely Canadian workers would be better dealing with other Canadians than overwhelmed by Americans. Mr R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, favours the proposal for a conference between labour and management as advocated by Mr Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labour Congress.

More Canadians like Mr Fowler and Mrs Jodoin with the authority and knowledge, should get together, for we are stupidly, lazily, allowing the United States too much control of our production. Fortunately, Canadians are still free to take steps to handle their own affairs.

Safety Council discusses car safety

Considerable discussion centred around car safety at a meeting of Chesterville and District Safety Council Tuesday night. The meeting was held in the clerk's office under chairmanship of the president, Jas. Moonie.

It was felt by the traffic committee a safety check program could be started in the community with co-operation of the garage owners. In that way incipient troubles could be detected and perhaps a major accident averted.

Other matters discussed ranged from a letterhead, safety puzzles, to water safety.

Trinity United W.M.S. holds May meeting

The May meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Trinity United Church was held in the dining hall on May 12. The president, Mrs Harold Merkley, was in charge.

The following reports were given: Treasurer's, Mrs Wm. Hamilton; temperance, Mrs Wm. Forward in the absence of Mrs A. J. Forward; Christian Stewardship, Mrs Harold Durant; supply committee, Mrs Wes. Cross. Miss Ethel Merkley announced that a bale was to be packed and clean clothing in good repair could be left at Basil Rowe's store before May 25.

The worship service and study book were in charge of Mrs Lloyd Merkley and Mrs Ken Merkley, assisted by Mrs Lyle Marcellus.

The Explorer group, under the leadership of Miss Ann Casselman and Miss Melanie Fyke, affiliated with the W.M.S. at this meeting, receiving their seal of recognition and forwarding $25 to the Presbyterial treasurer. Thirteen girls received merit stars.

The BIBLE TODAY . . .

The fabled land of Ethiopia has been the scene of many historic events, not the least of which was the presenting of a beautifully bound copy of the New Testament in Ethiopic (the liturgical language of the Church) to His Holiness Abuna Basilios, the first Patriarch of the newly autonomous Church of Ethiopia.

The Orthodox Church of Ethiopia is one of the most ancient of all the Christian Churches and is traditionally linked with the Coptic Church of Egypt which looks to St. Mark, the author of the Gospel which bears his name, as its founder.

Until 1950 Egypt has provided the Ethiopian Church with its Archbishop but in that year the Venerated Abuna Basilios was consecrated its Archbishop. He was consecrated Patriarch in Cairo in June, 1959, and on his return to Ethiopia the Rev Canon A. F. Matthew, an Honorary Life Governor of The British and Foreign Bible Society, presented the new Patriarch with the New Testament.

In Ethiopia the new revised Amharic Bible is meeting with a great response from the people.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

by Lillian Allison

"I think I'll go too," I said when Harry had phoned on Monday and found he could get the tractor repairs we needed in Ingleside. After all, it was raining so I couldn't finish sowing the garden or digging the borders. It was cold and dark in the house and I didn't feel like doing any work there. Besides, it was a holiday. An hour or two of sight-seeing would be a good idea.

It wasn't just a sight-seeing drive though. It was a period of down-right sympathy for hundreds of farmers between Highway 43 and the new town. In our neighbourhood the grain is practically all sowed. Many farmers have their corn in too. Quite a number of gardens are in and some are up. It was a different story a few miles from home.

Whether the people in Osnabruck township got more rain than we or whether it is a matter of low-lying land and poor drainage I don't know. Water lay everywhere along our way. The ditches were full. There were puddles and ponds in the fields. The pastures and meadows were green and lush but the plowed fields were heart-breaking. Some had never been worked at all this spring and were green with grass and weeds. Others had been disced once or twice before the rains of last week but lay there wet and soggy. Only a few acres seemed to have been sowed. We wondered if all the crops would be in by July.

It is a serious situation. Grain that isn't in by May 24th seldom amounts to much. Seed is expensive as are the gasoline, machines and labour necessary to plant it. Feed is expensive too and a poor crop of grain next fall can mean a great deal to the farmer who has to buy mill feeds for his cattle, pigs and poultry. In most cases he simply canont afford it all.

As we drove along pitying the unfortunate people whose land was still too wet to work a gentle shower was falling continuously adding more and more to their problems. Of course the rain was easing my conscience. I couldn't have worked if I had stayed at home.

We admired the lovely, new homes as we drove into Ingleside. The lawns were fresh and green, the tulips were blooming and the adolescent trees planted only two or three years ago were growing suprisingly.

There are several people in Ingleside I would like to visit but this trip wasn't going to take long so I decided I'd just wait in the car. Harry parked it beside the garage so I could see the traffic on Highway 2 and the lovely lake and islands beyond.

I tried counting cars. In the first five minutes 50 vehicles had passed a given point. The next five minutes was a little slower. I'd got up to 32 when my attention was distracted and I gave up.

That was probably the time that the travellers with Quebec licences stopped by for gas. There were two big station wagons each hauling a shiny house-trailer and a pretty, blue sedan in the procession. They all pulled in at the service station together and left together. I wondered if the people were relatives or friends, where they had been and why they were sticking so closely together. It wouldn't be easy in heavy traffic.

Getting the new part for the tractor wasn't exactly easy either. The mechanic had to assemble it and I'm sure it took three hours. At about half time we went for a coffee break. Later we took a tour of the back streets of the town. Eventually we got what we'd gone for and started home by a different road.

After supper a neighbour phoned. The men were out harrowing the corn, she said. Wasn't it too wet? I asked. No, she said, it hadn't rained all afternoon. If I had stayed at home I could have finished the garden and the borders. But I wouldn't have been nearly as thankful that our grain is all in as I am now. It's good now and then to see the other fellow's problems too.

My boy is as smart as a whip! Yes sir, a regular chip off the old block. Why, already he's saving his money so he can go to college. That's right. Yes sir, a chip off the old block. Wouldn't be surprised if he gets to be a big star on the football team. He's just like the old man. Now, boy, tell 'em where you're saving your money. Speak up, boy!

THE BANK OF NOVA SCOTIA, naturally!

Mrs Robert Stewart hostess to W.I.

The May meeting of Morewood W.I. was held at the home of Mrs Robert Stewart, with a good attendance.

The treasurer's report showed a good balance on hand. It was decided to purchase a dozen new chairs for use at the meetings.

A full report of the Guelph conference was given by the delegate, Mrs D. Runions.

Guest speaker was Mrs Douglas Hunter who spoke on her work as deaconess among the Indian people of the Kenora district. She also displayed some of the handicrafts done by the Indians. Her talk was very much appreciated by all and she was thanked by Mrs Roy Nurse.

Lunch was served by the committee in charge, with Mrs H. Popplewell as convener.

Florida is famous for fruit.

It is also time to think of repairing any used machines for which we have the parts now on hand. It would simplify matters if you could bring with you the numbers of the part needed, or else if you happen to have the broken or old part for a sample.

Trinity United W.A. plans dinner at May meeting

Plans were made at the May meeting of Trinity United Church Woman's Association for the annual anniversary dinner to be held on Friday, May 20, in the church dining room. The committee in charge is the president, Mrs A. E. Jarvis, and Mrs Fay Shaver.

Canvassers named were as follows: Mrs D. Docksteader, Mrs Marie Pelletier, Mrs Chas. McMillan, Miss Katie Harper, Mrs E. B. Bugden, Mrs Eric Casselman, Mrs J. Alguire, Mrs Harold E. Merkley, Mrs Angus Smith, Mrs Kenneth Merkley, Mrs Dwayne Munro, Mrs Asa Shay, Miss Susie McMillan, Mrs Harry Allison, Mrs Geo. Johnston, Mrs Stanley Shay and Mrs Erwin Merkley. Others will be chosen later.

The meeting opened with a minute of silence in memory of the late Mrs Wilburn Edgerton, a long-time member of the organization. Mrs Jarvis presided with the secretary, Mrs Earl Merkley, assisting. Mrs Eric Casselman was pianist.

During the business period it was decided to join the Dundas-Grenville Presbytery Woman's Association. Reports were given by Mrs Lloyd Merkley for the visiting committee, by Mrs Geo. Johnston for the flower committee and by the corresponding secretary, Mrs Howard Kittle.

Mrs Kittle was in charge of the remainder of the meeting, her theme being "Let's Talk About Mothers." Mrs Angus Smith read the Scripture and Mrs Wm. Hamilton the meditation and prayer.

Mrs Myles Merkley presented Mother's Day corsages to four mothers who were present: Mrs Geo. Cunningham who was the oldest mother; to Mrs Frank Darling, the mother with the most grandchildren; to Mrs Gerald Kittle, the mother with the youngest child, and to Mrs Dwayne Munro, the mother whose birthday is nearest Mother's Day.

Mrs Stanley Shay and Mrs Myles Merkley sang a duet, "Old Fashioned Flowers," accompanied by Mrs Casselman.

Refreshments were served by Mrs Kittle and her committee: Mrs Myles Merkley, Mrs Angus Smith, Mrs Geo. Barkley, Mrs Dwayne Munro, Mrs Asa Shay, Miss Frances Merkley, Mrs W. B. Hamilton, Mrs Geo. Johnston, Mrs Geo. Cunningham and Mrs Frank Darling.

1980 FASHIONS—This is the kind of dress fashionable women will wear 20 years from now. At least that's the opinion of Toronto dress designer Rodolphe, who designed this outfit specially for "Open House"—CBC-TV's afternoon woman's program. "Comfortable, light-weight and chic"—that's the verdict of Elena Domo, who is modelling the dress.

If a wood screw doesn't want to come out, try heating it a little by holding the tip of an electric soldering iron on the screw head. Another trick for stuck screws is to give the head a little tap with a hammer and punch.

The bell on Forbes Presbyterian Church in Grande Prairie, Alta., is rining again after a 25-year silence. It was thought to be cracked, but recent investigation showed the bell rope was snagged, and it now has been fixed.

RHUBARB IDEAS

IF YOU HAVE RHUBARB growing along the back fence, don't neglect it. There are so many good desserts that can be made with rhubarb. My favourite is a two-crust pie, not too sour, not too sweet, and nice and juicy.

Rhubarb Pie

Begin with a good pastry recipe. Here is the one I use:

2 cups pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
2/3 lb. of lard
¼ cup ice water

Sift flour and salt together. Cut in lard to form coarse crumbs. Add ice water and mix with a light touch. The less pastry is handled the more tender the product.

Roll on lightly floured board and fit bottom crust in pie plate. Wash and cut in ½-inch pieces enough rhubarb to fill pie, heaping it up in centre. Before putting rhubarb in pie plate mix with it about three-quarters of a cup of sugar and two tablespoons flour. Cover with strips of pastry placed criss-cross.

The juice is less liable to boil out when a criss-cross crust is used than when a full pastry top is used.

Rhubarb Shortcake

Make shortcake according to recipe on package of biscuit mix. When baked split shortcake in two and butter pieces. Put together with sweet rhubarb sauce which has been slightly thickened with cornstarch. Top shortcakes with whipped cream.

An easy way to make rhubarb sauce is to bake the rhubarb in the oven. Cut washed rhubarb in inch lengths. Mix with desired amount of sugar. Place in covered casserole in moderate oven. Bake until tender. Cook rhubarb while you are doing other baking.

Pineapple and Rhubarb Conserve

A conserve is a mixture of fruits to which nuts have been added. It is cooked to the consistency of jam.

4 cups shredded fresh pineapple
1 cup water
8 cups diced rhubarb
7 oranges
7 cups sugar
1 cup chopped walnuts

Cook pineapple with water until tender. Add rhubarb, sugar and orange cut in very fine slivers. Heat slowly until sugar is dissolved, stirring frequently. Cook rapidly until thick and clear. Add nuts. Pour into hot clean jelly glasses and seal with paraffin.

Rhubarb Meringue Pie

2 cups finely diced rhubarb
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
2 tbsps. flour
2 tbsps. water
¼ tsp. salt

Mix sugar, flour and salt; add to rhubarb. Add water and beaten egg yolks. Bake in uncooked pastry shell. When cooked top with meringue made from the egg whites plus 2 tablespoons sugar and a few grains salt.

To Bake: Start baking in a hot oven; reduce heat during baking. Cook meringue 20 minutes in 300° oven.
