In Osnabruck Township

Sewer, water rates increase

OSNABRUCK CENTRE (Staff) - Osnabruck Township council set the 1981 sewage and water budget and rates at the regular council meeting held Tues., May 12.

The total budget for the system for the year is $150,232 up from $100,000 in 1980. Single residential and commercial units will pay a rate of $45 for water and a sewage surcharge in the same amount. The mill rate for sewage will be 12 mills.

Last year the rates were 11 mills and $40 for water with a $40 sewer surcharge.

Councillor Carson Elliott asked his vote on the bylaw be recorded. Mr. Elliott voted nay, saying he thought a 10 per cent increase would have been sufficient ($44 water and $44 sewer surcharge). He did concur on the 1-mill increase, however.

In other business council decided to license the pit at Concession 8 (the Helmer pit) and instructed Bart Whitton, road superintendent to secure a licence under the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources site plan regulations.

Dwayne Rutley appeared before council to draw attention to a ditch on an unopened road allowance near his property which is not draining effectively.

Council agreed to have Mr. Whitton take levels at the site and investigate any possibilities of improving drainage.

Discussion as to the location of a water meter on the Harold Robinson property brought the suggestion to install the meter on the line, north of the house. A notice was sent to Mr. Robinson to restate the agreement made between the township and himself. He will appear before council May 19.

Carson Elliott made a motion council meetings be adjourned no later than 11:30pm unless a written motion of council made other arrangement.

General discussion on the budget followed. A draft was presented, but councillors wished to re-investigate prices for some projects before passing the final financial plan for 1981.

Finch Township reallocates 1981 road budget monies

BERWICK (Staff) - Finch Township council agree they will have to re-allocate funds from their 1981 road budget to cover the cost of repairing a road through Concession 10, between lots 18 and 19.

The road has become more and more broken up over the past few weeks, until at last Monday evening's meeting, council called tenders, subject to ministry of transportation and communications approval for 4,000 tons of two-and-a-half inch rock and 6,000 tons of five-eights rock.

Council also concurred with a resolution sent to the South Nation Conservation by Roxborough Township. Council members agreed the Payne River drain should be assumed as a project of SNRCA and that the authority assume all engineering costs to date.

They, however, could not grant Cambridge Township's request to aid in work to the Cambridge-Finch boundary road. Cambridge wished to spend a further $5,000 on the road (the same amount was spent last year) but Finch is unable to commit themselves to the work at this time.

Mrs. Oliva Gauthier appeared before council to request permission to connect her property to the Crysler covered drain. The request was referred to the township engineer, John Stidwell, for consideration.

Mrs. Doloree Brisson and her son, Dan Brisson, also appeared before council. The two requested council to take over a road allowance between the post office and the bank in Crysler, to allow them to request a severance.

At present, their lot is landlocked, with no frontage on a road allowance preventing a severance from being granted.

Council instructed the road superintendant, Reg Burd, to meet with an official of MTC in order to review the situation.

The revised estimate on the cost of the Crysler Community Centre was sent to Dave Powell, at the ministry of culture and recreation. The community centre building and hall, without an artificial ice surface have been estimated at $545,200.

The proposal has also been sent to Osie Villeneuve, member of provincial legislature for Stormont-Dundas.

Council met with Mr. Villeneuve earlier this year to discuss the possibility of such a facility. Armand Gibeault, councillor, said the much-needed community centre would be far less expensive to operate without artificial ice and as such the request might receive more favorable consideration for funds.

He added the building would be of sufficient size to allow for natural ice several months of the year. In addition, a community centre for Crysler during the summer months, said Mr. Gibeault, is badly needed.

No appeals were filed in the court of revision on the Dennis McMahon drain. June 1 was set as the court of revision date for the McConnell-Stephen drain.

Final approval was received from the Ontario Municipal Board for the McIntyre-Lagrove drain, but tenders will not be called until DREE approval is received.

On farms

Injuries hit record high in 1980

GUELPH (Staff) - Ontario farm injuries in 1980 represent an all-time high for the province, according to the Farm Safety Association annual statistical survey, released earlier this month.

Agricultural fatalities increased from 45 to 50 last year, states the report and a record-breaking 2,650 lost-time injuries were reported.

The survey reports on approximately 24,000 farm workplaces in the province and includes data from Workmen's Compensation.

The tobacco industry accounted for the largest percentage of the injuries at 21 per cent. Landscape and nursery concerns were a close second at 20 per cent. The fruit and vegetable industry represented 11 per cent of the total and the dairy industry a scant nine per cent.

Fatalities were deominated by both tractor-related incidents and those involving other farm machinery. Of the 50 fatalities, 26 were tractor related and a further 12 were equipment oriented.

Three were traffic accidents encountered while on farm errands and two were caused directly by silo gas.

The two silo gas accidents were on the same farm. The first victim went inside a sealed concrete silo to pull corn from the sides of an auger. He was attempting to breath through a garden hose and exhale through his nose. He was found by his brother-in-law in the silo, who then went to the house, called the police and proceeded to return down the ladder into the silo.

Both men were asphyxiated. They were ages 32 and 36.

Other potential hazards in the farm workplace were demonstrated by tragic accidents with tots. A three-year old was killed watching his father hook up a backhoe unit. The gate he was leaning on collapsed and he was crushed between the support arm of the backhoe and the gate.

Another three-year old was walking across the family's lot when she discovered an old abandoned well covered with cedar boards. The boards

The house on page 83

(Staff) - It was probably in early 1978 that Bernie Curran first saw the drawing of the house. It was in a magazine on snowmobiling, and was part of an advertisement for a book entitled, "The Cordwood Home", put out by the Indigenous Material Housing Institute.

Even from that ad Bernie Curran had a feeling about the house. In his mind's eye he could envision it completed.

The Chesterville resident and owner of Curran's Carpets was interested in the publication and the house in particular. He sent the required payment for the book to the New Brunswick Institute.

When the book arrived it was indeed from the Indigenous Material Housing Institute, but, the institute was composed of only one individual - author of "The Cordwood Home" - Jack Henstridge.

Jack Henstridge had constructed his own cordwood house in the early 1970s after his home burnt to the ground. The Henstridge family had only $8,000 worth of fire insurance so money was a prime consideration in selecting another home. The cordwood home, with its low price tag, was the most attractive alternative.

After finishing his own home Jack wrote the "Cordwood Home" book as an aid to other interested in that type of building - people like Bernie.

Naturally a cordwood home is constructed with cordwood walls - or walls that look like cords of wood. Only these cords of wood have mortar binding them together.

Although the Henstridge cordwood home was built in the shape of a boat, Mrs. Henstridge's book contained designs for many different shapes.

The one Bernie Curran was interested in was found on page 83 of "The Cordwood Home" - it was round.

Bernie like the idea of the round house because of its efficient use of space and heating fuel.

On Hallowe'en, 1978, construction began on a lot Bernie purchased on the Seventh Concession Road, Williamsburg Township, south of Dunbar.

There is no basement under the Curran house. Its curved walls rest on a six inch concrete pad. Despite popular belief, the floor does not become cold in the winter, states the owner. Wall-to-wall carpeting throughout the house increases the

No recommendations

WINCHESTER (Staff) - A coroner's inquest into the death of Jean Travers, age 89 of Mountain Township, rules her death was of natural causes on April 27, 1980 as a result of pneumonia. No recommendations were made on the case.

Evidence was heard from the staff pathologist at the Ottawa Civic Hospital, Dr. King, who performed the post mortem; from Dr. Peter Teitelbaum who treated Miss Travers on two occasions; from Frank and Irene D'Amour, with whom Miss Travers boarded and from Katharine Vincent, a friend of the deceased.

Constable Howard Smith was present as the investigating officer on the case and Constable Brian Helmer acted as the cornoner's constable. Doctor Gabriel Slowey presided as coroner.

Evidence was given that Miss Travers had been mobile until she broke her hip in 1970, although she had been somewhat senile from 1966, with delusions about the presence of her family and friends, by Mrs. D'Armour.

Mrs. D'Amour operates a boarding home at Lot 5, Con. 5, Mountain Township. She is a registered nurse but stressed she ran a boarding home not a nursing home.

Dr. Slowey said he had attended the D'Amours' home, himself and found excellent care, the surroundings exceptionally clean and in general a commendable boarding home.

Dr. King testified he found no marks of violence and no evidence of neglect on the body, although Miss Travers was small and emaciated. He noted this was consistent with her age and health.

A microscopic examination revealed a higher intensity of bilateral bronchial pneumonia than he had originally suspected, he said.

Dr. Teitelbaum, the family physician by whom Miss Travers

Beef club tours farm

by
Douglas Palmer

The Dundas Beef Club held its third meeting of the '81 term last Monday night at the Mutual Products Farm near Williamsburg.

The club was given a tour of the starting barn intermediate barn and the finishing barn. Members learned about the feeding and sanitation methods used at the barn and were solidly assured that a beef organization of this type will pay for itself!

Following the hour tour the club then went into the house and had the business meeting, which was short and sweet, mainly discussing the club tour. The club has proposed to go to the Toronto Stockyards on August 4th and 5th and view the sale.

A meal was then served by the host family and was later adjourned. The next meeting will be June 8 at the home of Art Thom with the topic, parts and terminology.

collapsed, the child fell into the well and drowned.

Proper education of youngsters could possibly have prevented a seven-year-old Wellington county boy from running into a barn to put out a straw and hay fire with a pail of water. He succumbed to the smoke.

Most of the tractor accidents came about as a result of overestimating the ability of the machines. Corners cut too closely, inclines too steep for the tractor as well as too heavy a load for the machine have caused deaths of victims ages two to 83 years of age.

The farm safety association notes their survey represents only a sampling of the direct and indirect agriculturally-related fatalities during the year.

Weed alert system pinpoints new weeds

(Special) - Ontario farmers can help researchers solve difficult weed problems by reporting unusual weeds to the Ontario Weed Alert System.

"The weed alert system is designed to help pinpoint new and emerging weed problems so that the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food can focus research and extension efforts on those areas;" says Rick Wukasch of the Pest Diagnostic and Advisory Clinic. "By spotting weed problems early, we can nip them in the bud before they threaten agricultural production."

Farmers are asked to report new or unusual weeds, weeds that are resistant or that are becoming resistant to herbicides, and weeds that are generally difficult to control.

The weed program, initiated last year, is a joint program of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food and the University of Guelph. The service is available to farmers through local agricultural offices. These offices provide farmers with special Weed Alert Report forms and provide information about weed sampling.

Completed Weed Alert forms are returned to the agricultural office with an entire plant specimen. The sample should be fresh and should include all above ground parts and root system.

"There are two methods of sending specimens," says Mr. Wukasch. "Either send the entire plant in a plastic bag, or send it pressed between sheets of newspaper and cardboard. If you are sending it in a plastic bag don't add additional moisture because moulds will decompose the specimen before it reaches the lab."

Forms and samples are forwarded by the agricultural office to the Pest Diagnostic and Advisory Clinic at the University of Guelph. The lab identifies the weed and sends the information back to the agricultural representative and soils and crop specialist. Last year the lab examined information on 650 specimens.

The short turnaround of the weed alert program is intended to provide researchers and extension staff with more up-to-date information than in the past. This proved useful last summer when poison hemlock appeared in alfalfa fields in central Ontario.

"Samples of an unusual weed arrived at the lab where it was identified as poison hemlock," says Mr. Wukasch. "In tracing the origin of the weed, we found it to be a contaminant in a certain alfalfa seed lot. As a result, a roguing program was enacted to remove the weed from all fields seeded with that particular seed lot."

Program organizers hope more farmers report problem weeds this year. Early identification and control of new weeds is essential if major weed problems are to be avoided.

The walls are made from 125 to 150 utility poles, approximately 10 cords of wood, cut into eight inch lengths. There is a four inch strip of insulation wrapped around the centre of each log creating a pocket of air in the wall which keeps the frost away from the inside wall.

To ensure making the structure as perfect a circle as possible Bernie used a 19 ft. length of pipe with a board attached to one end at a right angle. The other end of the pipe was placed in the center of the concrete circle. As Bernie continued construction of the walls he moved the pipe and board as an accurate measure.

Total square feet in the houe in 1158. It contains three bedrooms, a living room, a kitchen, a utility room, a laundry room and a bathroom.

Bernie deviated from Jack Henstridge's interior design somewhat. The kitchen is located in the centre of the structure with the other rooms branching out, much like the spokes on a wheel. Being in the center of the circle it is impossible to have any windows in the kitchen; instead it contains a skylight.

The building of the structure was temporarily delayed during the months of January and December when Bernie found it too cold to work outside. The house itself was hidden behind a hexagon of black-joe during construction.

"The neighbours must have thought we were crazy when the temporary shelter was up," says Bernie.

Although it's debateable how the neighbours felt it was quite clear how Bernie's wife Madelaine, felt about the new home. "I thought it was a terrible idea," she says. Not only was she skeptical about living in a round house but moving from the village to the country didn't please her either.

"I just couldn't vision it like Bernie could," she explained. "I had no idea what it would look like".

But when June 1, 1979 rolled around the house was complete and ready for occupancy. After actually moving into the home Madelaine changed her mind about it, and now they are both happy with it.

About a month before completion Bernie decided to give Jack Henstridge a telephone call and let him know someone had built his round house. The conversation was brief. "Jack was so excited he came up to see the house about a week later," says Bernie. "He was thrilled".

Most people who come to see the house for the first time have a similar reaction to Madelaine's. They are skeptical to begin with but usually come to like it.

Some who have come to look at the cordwood structure leave more impressed with the round nature of the building, says Bernie.

In later printings of Jack's book he included pictures of the Curran home. It wasn't the last time the couple and their unique home were to be featured in publications. The house is also included in a book titled "Cordwood Masonry Houses: A Pratical Guide for the Owner-Builder", and has been featured in the magazines Mother Earth News and Harrowsmith.

As the house became known the number of people wanting to see it, examine it, and talk to the owners grew. Only recently have the Curran's found the number trickling off.

Along with the author of "Cordwood Masonry Houses", Robert L. Roy, the couple have been hosts to information seekers from Toronto, Eganville, West Chasey, N.Y., New Brunswick, British Columbia, Vermont, Michigan, South Carolina and Peterborough.

Bernie estimates approximately 100 people are now in the process of building round homes. One in Georgia even has a tower, he exclaims.

As Bernie expected the house is very economical to heat. A wood burning stove in the living room heats the entire building comfortably.

There are both advantages and disadvantages to the round nature of the structure says Bernie. Because it is aero-dynamically perfect the wind blows around the building, never directly hitting it. Therefore, the snow never directly hits the building. A border of one to two feet surrounds the house where snow never accumulates.

All costs included, the house was extremely economical to build. Total costs estimated by the owner are $25,000. The house is now appraised at a price of $55,000.

The disadvantages are small and can usually be worked around agree both Bernie and Madelaine: things like learning it's impossible to put large pieces of furniture against the outside wall.

The Curran's keep in contact with Jack Henstridge occasionally.

As a successful builder of a cordwood home Jack bestowed the honorary degree of MMS on Bernie - that's Master Mortar Stuffer, of course.

Although daughter Gail, 22, is away from home, the other three daughters, Susan, 18, Cheryl, 12 and Lynne, nine share the house with their parents.

If Bernie could change anything about the house. Well, he might enlarge it a little next time....

LUNENBURG - On Thursday May 7th, Lunenburg Happy Seniors held a pot luck dinner with guests, St. Andrews West Sr. Citizens.

A good crowd attended the noon meal and a great variety of food was enjoyed.

The afternoon was "A basket of Surprises," as the group had been divided in seven groups, and each group provided 10 minutes of entertainment.

Mr. McKinnon and Mrs. McPherson gave several musical selections on the violin and accordian. Also one of our elder members, Mrs. Ruth McDonald, Harrisons Corners accompanied on piano for a couple of selections and showed what it is like to still be, "Young at Heart".

Mrs. Gerald Duvall chaired the afternoons activities which started with the story of the helium baloon.

Each were given a baloon to blow up. Gladys McLean won the prize for blowing hers the largest.

This was followed by readings, contests, charades, step-dancing and acting in "Gathering of the nuts." Dancing was of carved wooden men and the entertainment concluded with a fair imitation of TV's show - "The Newlyweds" which was won by Mr. and Mrs. Donald MacLean.

District News

Rev. and Mrs. E. Earle Eaton were in Ottawa for a rally meeting of Overseas Missionary Fellowship, at Morrisburg for a Gospel Fellowship Prayer Breakfast, at Riverside Heights for a sacred concert and also called on Cornwall friends.

Mrs. Eaton has returned from Boston, where she motored for a missionary conference and to visit friends.

Mr. Eaton conducted the noonday vigil at St. Joseph's Villa, Cornwall, and supplied the piano accompaniment for a meeting of Brockville Presbytery held at Winchester. He rendered one of his own compositions at a Prayer Coffee at Inkerman, participated in Mental Health conferences in Ottawa and Cornwall, attended a Covenant People's Bible Study in Ottawa and an evangelistic service in Morrisburg. He also attended a Health and Welfare meeting of the Ottawa Social Planning Council and a Gospel Fellowship Prayer Breakfast at Cornwall.

Many from this community attended and participated in the Marney Patterson "Invitation to Live" Crusade in Winchester.

IN MEMORIAM

HEAGLE — In loving memory of a dear wife, Ruth Heagle, who passed away May 26, 1978.
God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace by Thine".
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some day, we know not when
We will meet our loved one there.

Record Recipes

by Chris Brown

I'm not sure, but I think there must be bugaboos in every cook's closet. Mine was cheese cake.

I say was, because I have made it several times in the last two weeks, just to be sure the successes weren't flukes!

I had never tried it before, but was determined it must be one of the hardest things to bake. Listening to other cooks who had had problems, I built it up to an insurmountable task.

There are two popular forms of cheesecake - one baked in the oven and the other set in the refrigerator. I offer recipes for both - with one caution. The price of cream cheese is enough to curl your hair and one eight-inch square cake can cost close to $3. (But it's definitely worth it).

For both versions I use a standard graham cracker crust, although I must admit I usually cut the quantity down so it's not as thick as called for.

BAKED CHEESECAKE

1 lb. cream cheese
½ cup sugar
3 eggs

REFRIGERATOR CHEESECAKE

2 tbsp. gelatin (2 pkgs)
½ cup water
1½ cups milk
4 egg yolks
¾ cup sugar
1 lb. cream cheese
½ tsp. salt
4 tbsp. lemon juice
1 cup whipping cream

Start with the baked cheese cake, if it's your first try: it's easier in my opinion. Soften the cream cheese by putting it in the oven at 150 for about ten minutes.

With an electric mixer, beat the cream cheese and sugar together in a bowl.When it is thoroughly blended and soft, add the eggs, one at a time until each is fluffy in the mixture.

Turn it into a graham crumb lined pan and bake at 350 to 375 for more than 40 minutes and until it appears semi-solid to the touch. If it's overbaked it will taste dry when cooled. If under, the centre will be solid and tough.

For the refrigerator cake, soften the gelatin in cold water for about five minutes. Scald the milk. Beat the egg yolks with the sugar and add them to the hot milk. (Transfer some of the milk into the egg yolks and return all to the hot milk).

Combine the softened cheese, salt, lemon juice with the egg mixture and mix until smooth. Store in the fridge until thick and then fold in the whipped cream.

Pour the whole works into the crumb lined pan and let stand at least two hours.

Note on the baked cake: Let cool at least an hour after removing from the oven for a cold cake, but our family were just as pleased with dessert served at room temperature. (Naturally I had baked in a rush and it didn't have time to cool completely).

A standard graham cracker crust can be made by combining 1½ cups crumbs, ¼ cup butter and 4 tbsp. sugar. Melt the butter in the cake pan and add the other two ingredients, stirring with a fork until all is moistened. Press into place.

School Guidance Corner

SERP is here! SERP is here! And you had better look over very closely the discussion paper you have received as it outlines what the government has in store for us in education from now until the year 2000.

SERP stands for Secondary Education Review Project and the discussion paper that you have in your hands contains 102 recommendations that are going to be the basis for future change.

The paper is strictly a discussion paper that invites written reactions or comments before the end of June. It is by no means the final and definitive report which will not be ready until next fall.

Please note the following highlights from the tabloid you have received.

A recommendation to compress the public school system into 12 years after kindergarten.

A recommendation for a single diploma to be awarded at the end of grade 12 (The Ontario Secondary School Diploma), based upon 120 short credits.

A recommendation that every student graduate from secondary school with a transcript in standard format and course coding of the student's achievement, written in language that every parent or employer can understand. (That is long overdue and one I most heartily recommend).

A recommendation that mini-credits, involving 30 hours of classroom time, be offered on a flexible basis.

The Secondary Education Review Project had an opportunity to be innovative, to suggest a model that would retain the excellence in our present system while encouraging improvements that would strengthen the reputation we already have for the best secondary education system in Canada. It was a lost opportunity.

If most commission reports or studies soon become identified with one phrase or a tag title, this report may become known shortly as The Great Leveller.

The net effect of all its recommendations, particularly those on compression of the school system, would be to take a giant step back from our efforts to provide a challenge that does not exist in other provincial school systems.

The flaw which will probably attract the most public attention is the levelling impact of the SERP recommendations. The students who now proceed to Grade 13 will lose that extra challenge of the only year in which they can develop academic expertise for proceeding on to university.

At the risk of over-simplification, the SERP recommendations reduce the challenge for the above-average student and increase the difficulty for the average or below-average student.

There are obvious flaws in the discussion paper. It lacks a solid empirical research basis, referring vaguely to "numerous submissions" or "opinions expressed to SERP" but rarely naming specific sourced.

It would perpetuate some parts of the credit system which require re-designing. And, perhaps worst of all, it lacks a coherent philosophy of education.

Experience with other major changes imposed upon our schools has taught us the bitter lesson that the public rarely blames the designers of those changes when things go wrong. The teachers are at fault.

Classic examples in recent memory are the Robarts Plan and the "cafeteria" credit system which flowed from the Hall-Dennis Report.

That is why there must be substantial involvement in the design of our secondary educational system at every developmental step, from conception to implementation to evaluation and subsequent re-design.

Unless this happens, the proposals which flow from the discussion paper and which are implemented will produce the same disjointed effects that have flowed from past efforts.

Loyalists gain new members

IROQUOIS - The Spring meeting of the St. Lawrence Branch of the United Empire Loyalist Association of Canada was held Sun., May 3rd at the Iroquois Civic Centre with 70 interested persons attending.

The Genealogist, Miss Lynne O'Brien of Morrisburg, announced that a visit had been made to another branch recently where only 28 members joined in an area that every lot in the first concession of two counties had been settled by a Loyalist.

She announced that the St. Lawrence Branch can boast 151 members, and nine more awaiting approval. Nineteen of the members live in the United States, 19 in Ottawa, 31 outside of SD&G and the rest in the Three United Counties.

Along with the assistance of the president and vice-presidents, four certificates were presented to new members - Mr. Ted Roberts of Brinston, and his 2½ year-old granddaughter Joanne Fawcett, the youngest person to join the Branch.

Mrs. Ruth Williams, genealogist for the Sir Guy Carleton Branch helped present certificates to two of her cousins - Mrs. Peggy Barkley of Cornwall, and Mrs. Luella Cross of Ingleside.

The Bicentennial report stated that 500 copies of Cruickshank's history of Kings Royal Regiment of New York will be printed.

The Annual Convention will be held at Carleton University May 28th to June 1st. Convenor Col. Frank Cooper of Sir Guy Carleton Branch spoke on the events.

Tours will be given of the National Archives, National Library, genealogical facilities of the Mormon Church, Blue Church and Upper Canada Village.

There will also be business meetings, branch displays, and the annual association banquet with Senator Eugene Forsey, honourary president as guest speaker.

The branch is sending four delegates, besides president Stanley McNairn; past president Mel Scott; vice-president Mrs. Vi Hare, secretary Mrs. Beryl Morrison, and genealogist Miss Lynne O'Brien.

Mr. Lorne St. Croix of the Historical Research Section of the Ministry of Culture and Recreation explained the many programmes, benefits and grants that are available.

The Ministry is looking towards the 1983-84 Bicentennial Celebration of the Loyalists settling in this part of Canada. They are asking that the 200 anniversary of the beginning of large scale settlement of Ontario by the Loyalists be an especially significant event. To explore our heritage, to educate the people, to welcome visitors to share with us this great event of the arrival of our forefathers in the country.

Branch historian and archivist Mr. Murray Barkley of Avonmore explained the benefits of joining the Ontario Historical Society, and a motion was passed for the branch to become an affiliate member of the OHS.

A slide-tape presentation, provided by the Nova Scotia Tourist Bureau, showing the landing of the original Loyalists at Shelburne was shown.

Following the closure of the meeting, a pot luck supper and fellowship hour was held.

The next meeting of the branch is the annual Charter Night Dinner Meeting September 12. A Genealogy Day is being planned for in June or July.

Horse Club views films

by
Joanne McMillan

The second meeting of the 4-H Dundas Horse Club took place at the Agricultural Office, April 13, 1981. After we recited the pledge, Cindy read the minutes of the last meeting. Troy read the congratulatory note the president Gillian Barkley received from Ed Lumley.

Doris Phillips announced that John Henry, a veternarian would be the guest for our June 8th meeting.

There will be a visit to Pine Crest Farms at Merrickville, but the date is still undecided.

Plans to have a trail ride this summer are also being considered.

We then proceeded with the meeting; films with the following titles were shown: Introduction to Horse Management, Introduction to Horses, and Some Common Breeds. These were most interesting and informative. The meeting was then adjorned.

The club will meet again at Sheila Moriarity's, at Chesterville, on May 11, 1981. The topic will be on "grooming your horse."

North Dundas High School Junior Band brought home a first prize from the Cornwall Kiwanis Music Festival recently. The group of young musicians attained a mark of 93.5 per cent. The Senior Band entered a non-competitive class at the festival. The Junior Band, said teacher-conductor, Norm St. Louis, will move en masse to the Senior Band next year. - staff photo -

Music opens the door to appreciation

MAPLE RIDGE (Staff) - Music is unique in that it imposes its own discipline - as a student matures emotionally he grows into his instrument and his performance improves.

These are the words of Norm St. Louis, music director at North Dundas District High School since the program's inception in September 1966.

Mr. St. Louis speaks of his program and students with an obvious love of both but allows he has "a great love-hate relationship with my students". He comes from the old value system, he said, of hard work and industry and it is surprising the number of the music students who develop that ethic.

The program at North Dundas is the second he has initiated, having begun the St. Pat's High School music department before moving to North Dundas in 1966.

The students here are some of the best he has ever seen, he said. A rural community is more constant than an urban area and the kids develop a strong sense of self-image, they have confidence and are entrenched in their roots.

This, combined with the maturing process the self-discipline of music brings, has produced an excellent calibre of student, he said.

Of North Dundas music graduates, he said, there is an unusually high record of post

With a first place in the Cornwall Kiwanis Music Festival in the Junior Band category (and a mark of 93.5) it seems apparent the students do, indeed, know when the work begins. The music room walls are lined with such accolades awarded to both senior and junior bands.

Numerous band trips also attest to the work accomplished by the students. Concert tours played as far afield as Prince Edward Island, Calgary and New Brunswick have been financed by the students themselves on a per capita basis. If a student's quota is not filled, he must make up the difference. This ensures each student pulls his weight, said Mr. St. Louis.

Last year the senior band travelled to Harrison, New York, just outside New York City, where they were given a United States flag which had been flown above the Capitol building in Washington. The visit came at the height of Canadian popularity in the US, said Mr. St. Louis.

With the enjoyment his subject brings to the students, it is no wonder Mr. St. Louis' philosophy of music is "A great deal of variety. Music is a big word. All you can do is scratch the surface and open the door" to generate appreciation.

secondary accomplishment. He named a few Bob Ferguson, now plays first trombone with the Canadian Opera Company as well as playing with the Gabrielly Brass and holding school clinics for the Metro Toronto board of education.

Dave Ennis is now director of music at Carleton Place High School and performs with the National Arts Centre Orchestra as a contra bassonist. Maryel Fulton Ennis is now doing graduate work at Carleton University in musicology (music history and analysis of form).

Bruce Cowell, Virginia Hay McDonald, and Janice Docksteader have also gone to teaching careers in music.

This year, Pat Hornsby has been awarded a scholarship to attend McGill University in the fall from grade 12. Pat is also a fine keyboard player, added Mr. St. Louis.

As well, a "whole raft are playing in the town band". Many never gave up their instrument, although their career did not lie in music, he said.

In addition to the fine record his students have accomplished, Mr. St. Louis also notes the names of his students, which have begun repeating themselves. There hasn't been a year there wasn't a Holmes in the band, he said.

Obviously something keeps them coming back and something spurs those who do come back, to succeed.

Perhaps it has something to do with that curious love-hate relationship Mr. St. Louis mentions. The bellow he emits has had many students quaking in their boots but there is another side to the man.

That side believes in positive reinforcement. ALWAYS, he said. "When they ask 'how were we' - you have to tell them they were great."

That side also accepts his students just as they are. He recalls a left-handed student coming to the guitar class. There was the option of completely changing the bridge of the instrument to accommodate the student. This also risked putting the kid on a totally different footing than the others, though, he said.

Instead, the student, on his own, found he could play the guitar, just as it was, but upside down, playing in the opposite direction of the right-handed students.

After a while, he said, "The students know me" and he pointed out they know the distinction of when horsing around stops and serious work begins.

Dear Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 22-year-old medical student. I'd like to know what you think of the 10-point rating system I have devised to pre-screen prospective dates.

This is not a sexist do-it-yourself beauty contest.

It is a means of economizing the scant time I have left after studies to enjoy a little social life.

These requirements were designed to reduce the emphasis on superficial qualities such as beauty and sex appeal.

Obviously, this is not a pass-or-fail test, but you'd be surprised how high scores correlate with a really good time. This test has worked extremely well for me. Please make my day be running it in your column.

E.D. In Jackson, Miss.

E.D.'S TIME-SAVER

(1) Intelligence.

(2) Sense of humor-fun to be with.

(3) "Class" (admittedly this is hard to define but I know it when I see it.)

(4) Understanding and compassion.

(5) Good conversationalist.

(6) Appearance (looks). Count this DOUBLE because surveys show it is important to consider your partner attractive. Note, however, it is still only one-fifth of the total.

(7) Trustworthy and honest. Count this TRIPLE, because without it you have nothing. Rate the girl from 1 to 10 in each category. Add the points and divide by 10.

Dear Ann: My wife's mother never goes anywhere alone. She is a wealthy woman and afraid of being mugged. One of the family must accompany her on shopping trips, doctor's visits, to the dentist, etc. She is also deathly afraid of staying in her house alone after dark.

This hasn't presented a problem until now. Her husband has always been there, but an illness that has plagued him for years is closing in. He could go any time. My mother-in-law is panic-stricken. She wants my wife and me to start adding onto our home so, when the time comes, she can live with us.

Our youngest child is in college now, and I can't bear the thought of looking for baby-sitters again when we want to go out. I fear that what my mother-in-law has in mind may be damaging to our marriage.

She won't consider a companion even though she can afford it. The woman is in her late 50's and in good health. What is your advice?

Harried in Harrisburg

Dear H.H.: Before you call the contractor you and your wife should have a few sessions with a professional counselor.

It is unusual for a woman in her 50's who is in good health to be so dependent and fearful. Perhaps she needs counseling, too. Her refusal to have a companion and her insistence that a member of the family accompany her at all suggests that she may also be headstrong and tyrannical.

The decision to "build on" could indeed damage your marriage, so consider all the ramifications before you agree.

The best solution might be for you and your wife to insist that she hire a security guard on a full-time basis. If she has no choice, she'll agree.

Don't get burned by a "line" that's too hot to handle. Play it cool with Ann Landers' guide to "Necking and Petting - What Are the Limits?" Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11995, Chicago, Illinois 60611. enclosing 50 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Visit St. Lawrence Parks for summer recreation

(Special) - As the cold winds of winter give way to the gentler climate of spring, the tempo quickens at the parks and historical sites operated by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

All along the St. Lawrence River, crews are at work painting and making ready for the hundreds of thousands of people who will visit Commission resources again this year.

Since the summer of 1961, over 50 million people have taken advantage of the recreational resources of the St. Lawrence River, we have a place you can call home for a few days or a few weeks.

Day use areas provide spacious picnic spots, sandy beaches and plenty of tall inviting shade trees to make your stop a pleasant one.

This year a number of commission parks will observe an earlier than usual opening. Glengarry, Charlottenburgh, Mille Roche, Woodlands, Farran, Nairne, Riverside-Cedar Grenville, Brown's Bay, Ivy Lea and Adolphustown will open, for the season, on May 8.

On May 15, Raisin River, McLaren and Fairfield Parks will commence operation. Upper Canada Village and Crysler Farm Battlefield Park will open on May 15, as will Old Fort Henry in Kingston.

At Upper Canada Village, just east of Morrisburg on Highway 2, history comes alive, as costumed guides and craftspeople interpret the lifesytle of a riverfront community of 150 years ago. Over 35 buildings and their contents have been carefully restored to give visitors an inside look at how Canadians lived, worked and played in the 19th century.

Kingston's Old Fort Henry has been called the Citadel of Upper Canada for good reason. Built in the mid 1800's the fort has been completely restored and features daily displays by the renowned Fort Henry Guard. Using the uniforms and military equipment of 1867, the Guard performs precision drills, accompanied by the Fife and Drum Corps. In addition, a spectacular Ceremonial Retreat takes place during July and August on Wednesday and Saturday evenings, weather permitting.

For those who enjoy a game of golf, the Commission operates a championship calibre 18-hole course, adjacent to Upper Canada Village. In a quiet woodland setting, along the shores of the Aultsville Creek, golfers can hone their skills and then relax in the fully equipped clubhouse and lounge.

Crysler Marina, west of Upper Canada Village, provides a full range of services to boaters, while the paved Crysler Park Airstrip, west of the golf course, is available for light aircraft, during daylight hours.

Whatever your tastes in outdoor recreation, make it a point to include the St. Lawrence Parks Commission sites in your plans for this summer. You're sure to agree that a good time for the whole family doesn't have to be expensive.

Chesterville Rotary News

Nice to see Harry Allison back after a short stay in hospital.

Are you aware that there are 19,071 Rotary Clubs in 156 countries?

A recent report by Worldwatch Institute estimated there are about 16 million refugees in the world today and warned there are several troubled regions capable of producing thousands more "At the Drop of a Hat" or "The Squeeze of a Trigger".

Rotary's 1981 convention will be opened by the president of Brazil in Sao Paulo on Sun., May 31, 1981. The convention theme for this year is Take Time To Serve.

The speaker June 1st will be Mother Teresa who earned her Nobel Laurcate ministering to India's destitute. Tuesday, Pele of Brazilian soccer fame will speak on sports. Wednesday's speaker, Professor Sven-Olof Brattgard of Sweden, is an authority on solutions for the problems of the handicapped. This program will demonstrate opportunities for Rotarians to serve in the United Nations International Year of Disabled Persons.

Don't forget the 1980-81 Rotary World Photo Contest; entries must be received prior to Oct. 1, 1981. Entry forms are available in the Rotary magazine "The Rotarian" . Will Chesterville be represented?

Monday saw a group of Rotarians sorting out the pledge sheets in preparation for billing the many sponsors who supported the Walkathon. This will be handled by Eric Casselman who says it will be the week of the 24th of May that the slips will be sent out. It is hoped a good response will help the Rotary Club to meet its obligations to the Chesterville Scouts who will be attending the Jamboree in Calgary in June.

The Chesterville Rotary Club is proud of the fact there are eight past presidents of the club still taking an active part in club activities. One of them held the office of president 37 years ago.

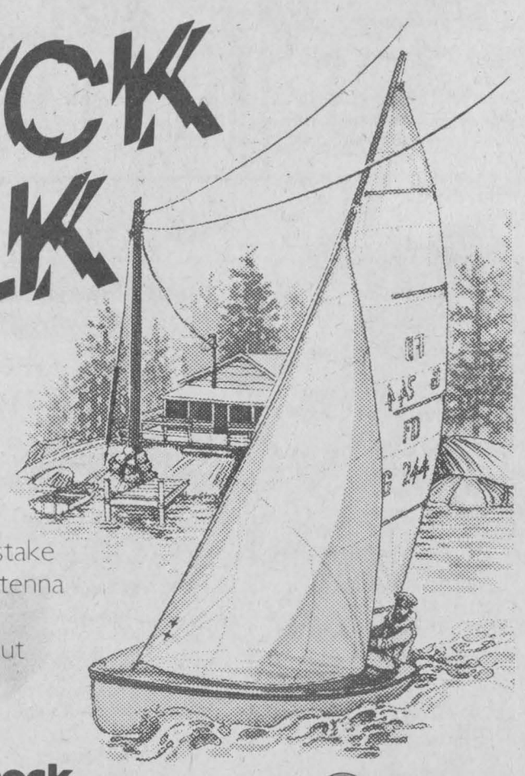
SHOCK TALK



Sailing safely through summer means watching for overhead powerlines.

When you're launching your boat or when it's on the water, don't make the fatal mistake of letting the boat's mast or antenna touch overhead wires.

It could knock the wind out of your sails, forever.

Safety around electricity is no shock to you.

Lunenburg hosts 69th annual (Special) - Lunenburg WI hosted the Stormont District 69th Annual meeting Thurs. May 14, 1981. District president Mrs. Donald Casselman presided over the opening exercises and introduced the visitors.

Mrs. Alfred Shorey president of Lunenburg branch extended a welcome to all WI members and wished them a pleasant, successful day.

The "In Memoriam" conducted by Mrs. James Hesson was introduced by Mrs. W. Cleary playing softly "Beyond the Sunset". Those remembered were, Mrs. William Stata, Mrs. Edward Canough, Mrs. William Servage, Mrs. Bert Henderson, Mrs. Harold Poapst, Miss Ellen Gillies, Mrs. Alexander McKnight Armour, Mrs. Clarence Countryman and Mrs. Gladstone MacLean.

As the secretary-treasurer was absent, Mrs. Hugh Esdale read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved, as was the treasurer's report. Mrs. Charles Green, auditor, assured members the report was complete and accurate.

Members concluded from the public relations report given by Mrs. James Hesson that each of the 10 branches in Stormont were doing valuable work in each of their respective communities.

In her brief remarks the president reminded all of this year's motto Caring and Sharing and hoped all members were doing just that.

Following a sing-a-long accompanied by Mrs. W. Cleary, reports from the convenors of the standing committees were heard.

The UCW of Lunenburg served a delicious turkey dinner in the hall. Mrs. Hugh Esdale, past president introduced the head table guests.

Patti Campbell, Stormont Dairy Princess, brought greetings and stressed the nutritional value of milk. Mrs. Dorothy Schultz gave two humourous readings The Ladies in White entertained with musical items, Let us not forget to be kind and O God, forgive me when I whine.

Ella Beauchamp won the elimination march prize. Winners of the contest on Know Canada" were Glennis Alguire and Theressa Quinn.

The Terry Fox film was very touching and reminded all of what a dedicated, disabled person can accomplish.

The door prize was won by Mrs. A.W. Loverin. The program concluded with a song composed by Mrs. W. Cleary and sung by the Ladies in White entitled Let's Sing the Old Songs.

The afternoon session was opened by singing the Hymn of all Nations during which members deposited Pennies for Friendship in the ACWW basket.

In her FWIC report, Mrs. Hugh Coons informed members of the ACWW Convention to be hosted by Canada in Vancouver, June 9-30, 1983, the Area Rally at Richmond, June 13, 1981, and the area convention at the Talisman Hotel Ottawa, Oct. 13 and 14, 1981.

The meeting closed by singing the national and royal anthems.

Tractor club

by Reta Byvelds

"Tractor Safety ensures longer life through proper operation, - for both the machine and the operator." This point was the basis of the lesson at the third meeting of the Dundas Tractor Club held on May 4 at Weagant's Farm Supplies in Winchester.

The meeting was called to order by vice-president, Bob McComb. The club recited the pledge and answered the roll call. Executive council representative, Nancy Byvelds, gave the report on the last council meeting.

The members and leaders, along with Howard Giles viewed two tractor safety films. The first, entitled "Target: YOU - Tractor Safety" revealed the importance of safe operation and safe vehicles. The second was a comical look at the result of hurrying a job on the farm.

After the club watched the films the club members once again broke up into two groups and studied their respective record books. The meeting was then adjourned.

The next meeting is to be held at the farm of leader Elwood Coons on June 3. The club members are ready to get their hands dirty as they plan to take a look at a gas engine.

the editor's notebook

With the attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II the increasing amount of violence in our world can't be ignored or dismissed any longer. We seem to be inhabiting a world where only bombs, self-inflicted starvation, and attempted assassinations are the sure way to get attention.

Why do so many want public attention for their cause? Have the number of problems in the world increased that dramatically? Has the mass media made it necessary to be violent to attain public notice? Are some world situations only solved by bringing public opinion to bear on the parties involved? Is it the result of a world that values human life so cheaply?

It isn't a problem isolated in a corner of the world, and it isn't isolated in a certain group of countries. Industrially developed nations as well as third world countries, are experiencing the horrors of violence.

The questions which must be answered to form solutions will take time. Meanwhile we must guard against becoming too accustomed to violent acts - we must not lose our sensitivity or compassion.

- mary macdonald -

Those facing higher and higher interest and mortgage rates must feel their blood boil when Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau travels around the world expousing north-south sharing of the wealth.

Unless Mr. Trudeau finds a speedy route home, and some even speedier solutions to the crippling costs of borrowing money and simple living costs there may not be any wealth left to share.

- mary macdonald -

the farmer's wife — by wyn thompson

I am seriously considering giving up listening to the news broadcasts. Why?

Today, for instance, interest rates continue to climb, inflation running rampant, further unemployment looming, civil wars and revolutions pending.

Great heavens, it is enough to make one blanch at the mere thought of turning on the radio or television.

Meanwhile, on the home front, it is raining, And what good news that is! Farmers, gardeners, and the like, are smiling tonight.

Mother's Day is past and the Farmer and I celebrated it by doing some shunpiking and, by the crowds assembled at every restaurant we passed, it appeared that mother's would be very well fed indeed.

This approaching weekend being the Victoria weekend, and a long one, many gardens will be planted. As the little pellets of seed go into the earth, the gardeners move down the rows, intent, eager, and earnest. In the clear spring light, they have the look of the pioneers. On closer inspection, you will note that they have gardener's hands, with firm, squarish palms, long strong fingers, and sensitive enough to deal with those tiny carrot seeds that take to the skies without any prompting at all.

Planting is an act of faith, if there ever was one. The envelopes of seed have not the slightest suggestion of the juicy sweet corn, the snap peas, the red, juicy tomatoes that are somehow in them. They lie in the earth, secretive as can be, and then suddenly one morning with no fanfare they are there.

In short order, we can go out and pull the rosy crisp radishes, the savoury onions and the tender lettuce - and the miracle has begun again.

As I snip the tops off the radishes, I am always feeling that one of the most hopeful things about the human race is that we go right on planting when the season comes, despite high interest rates, inflation, hold-ups, wars, and other world crises. There is this basic faith instilled in humans that planting is a secure thing.

We had our first feast of rhubarb today and I like to think rhubarb is a heritage from the early folk of our valley. As I cut up the tender pieces for stew, I think the first woman in the valley must have done the same thing about now. Maybe, in fact likely, she had a pie cupboard and set her pies on the shelves warm and juicy from the cast iron wood stove.

A friend of mine describes her son as an emotional gardener. One year he concentrates on peas, another on beans, another on tomatoes...at least he has a focal point each year along with a myriad of other choices.

He is a gardener who wants results and fast. He actually digs up things to see how they are doing, although his family keep pleading with him to let them be and give them time.

"They ought to be up by now," is his never-failing reply.

Apparently he likes things in good amounts anyway, at all times. Sent to the store for a can of corn, a jar of coffee and a loaf of bread, he comes staggering in the door with a case of corn, several jars of coffee, and a case of tomatoes. He night have forgotten the bread, but he had lots of other things. He likes to feel he is well equipped in case anything happens, his mother laughs.

"And I don't know why he feels that way because he has never known want in all his life," she shakes her head.

Soon the lilacs will be in bloom, I commented to the Farmer yesterday as we drove through each little village in turn. If I ever returned to this world in the form of a plant I would like it to be a lilac. When the lilacs are in bloom and the apple blossoms, the tulip and narcissus, Eastern Ontario is a pleasant experience.

I love the lilacs because they are a faithful flower, they grow around old foundations where houses once stood, they mark out long abandoned gardens. When I cut the clusters and bring them in the house, their sweetness reminds me of young love.

Another thing I enjoy is the texture of spring flowers, the feel of a tulip petal is like real velvet. Plum blossoms mist the air with white. Shortly we will drive along the winding country roads to see the old orchards when they are in full glory. The old abandoned orchards are home for the birds, too. Every knothole holds a busy family.

It is still raining and the furnace is still chugging along. I hear it breathing as I go to bed. In Eastern Ontario we run the furnace until late May usually. If we are lucky, it goes off the middle of May. Then we build big fires in the fireplaces and wear sweaters as we watch a television program at night.

I like to goout each night for a a last look at the sky. The dogs race off and - circle the yard and look at the sky, and then at the lighted house.. so secure, so steadfast. Irish and Lady return from an imaginary rabbit hunt. A squirrel, very fat, very black, very elegant of tail departs from the bird feeder.

I see the neighbour's lights are still on. They are a jump down the road, and except in summer, we can see their lights in the evening. The men are in from the chores, the hired man has gone home, the cows make small movements in the barn, and a neighbour's horse neighs. A dog barks and our dogs echo it.

Moonrise silvers the sky as I come in and put the house to bed. It could always be May as far as I am concerned.

chesterville's past

FROM THE RECORD
May 22, 1941

Chesterville will keep Monday, the 26th as a holiday instead of May 24, which this year falls on a Saturday, according to a proclamation issued by the municipal council at a special meeting Friday evening.

Council was requested to take this action by businessmen, as Saturday is always the biggest day of the week for business.

A deputation from the Rotary Club waited on council with several requests which included the holiday, Daylight Savings, and garbage collection.

Council decided against Daylight Savings, stating while a bylaw could be enacted it would be impossible to enforce it without a petition or vote by a majority of the citizens. It was stated also that Chesterville would be the only locality in this district on Daylight Savings Time and confusion would result.

With regard to the garbage collection, the Rotary delegates were told that if a petition with sufficient persons willing to pay one dollar each signed, council would be willing to pay a subsidy of up to $150 to provide for collection and disposal.

This would provide for collections twice weekly during the six months of the summer and once a week during winter, of garbage and refuse.

More examinations were made of the men of No. 8 platoon, SD and G Highlanders, 2nd battalion, here Tuesday afternoon, on the stripping, naming of parts and reassembling of the Lewis gun and on gas respirator drill. COMS J. H. Keyes was in charge of tests and was well pleased with the results of the reserves.

In the near future the men will be taken to Company Headquarters, Winchester, for bayonet drill and practice and later on will be tested to ascertain how well they have absorbed the knowledge of this drill. All these tests will be well out of the way before camp starts at Connaught Ranges on June 29 for three weeks.

While the strength of the platoon for camp has been decreased to 20. it was announced that the 10 recruits may be signed on here and that men who served 30 days at the training centres will not be called for the four-month period if they complete 30 days this year with a local Reserve.

During the year ending April 30, the Finch High School made the following response to various appeals:

To the Salvation Army, proceeds from an illustrated lecture by Dr. Hanna Fischl, $22.50 to the Upper Canada Tract and Book Society for books for soldiers, $46.44 to the navy league of Canada for the ditty bag fund, $9; to the Evening Telegram's British War Victims Fund, proceeds from skating party, $35; to the Red Cross, proceeds from sale of an afghan, sale of an airplane and weekly contributions, $65. This is a total of $136.14.

For the people in bombed areas, the school, co-operating with the WI donated the materials for and helped to make, five afghans, one hospital scarf, 26 skirts and 36 knitted sweaters for girls age eight to 14.

In addition, the school has made a creditable showing to the National War Savings Committee, both in certificates and stamps.

Bird houses, lamps, camp stools and a variety of other articles made in the Manual Training classes of Grade 8 and 9 of the High School are on display in the windows of Allison and Gillard's store. The boys, under the direction of J.H. Willard have completed many worthwhile projects.

If large crowds of interested

If large crowds of interested parents, teachers, friends and happy children are any criterion the First Annual Dundas County Music Festival was an unqualified success.

Held in Trinity United Church, on Tuesday and Wednesday of this week, the new venture got off to a good start. On the afternoon of both days, the Church, Sunday School rooms and every available inch of space was packed with people.

The adjudicator, Dr. Milligan, told the audience music was international in scope and knows no boundaries and he was delighted to see that people of all faiths and creeds were joining together in the two days of the Music Festival, to share the delight of music which through centuries has given joy and solace to mankind.

Some of the local children who gained Excellence standing were:

Verse speaking, Karen Masterson, Rose Mary Maxwell, Ann Lightfoot, Ann Casselman, Betty Ann Thompson.

Boys' Solo: Charles Graham, John Durant, Gary Price and Ernest McMillan.

Girls' Solo: Ann Casselman.

Piano Solo: Ian McIntosh, Patricia Durant, Barbara McCadden, Catherine Johnston.

Piano Duet, Helen and Dwayne Merkley.

Other children who made a good showing were Erva Smith, Joyce Marriner, Judy Henderson and Eileen York; Margaret and Donald Brownlee, Bill Windsor, Douglas and Graeme Miltimore, Joseph Cass, Joan Dacey, Robert Gilroy, Gail Fawcett.

Mr. George Fulford, MP for Leeds was the feature speaker last Friday night for the annual banquet for the ladies held by the members of the Chesterville Chamber of Commerce.

The dining hall of the United Church was the scene of a pleasant gathering when nearly 150 people gathered for the annual affair.

The tables and room were pleasantly decorated with seasonal flowers and the repast left nothing to be desired. The caterers were the ladies of the church WA.

Mr. Allison Graham proposed a toast to the ladies and Mrs. Charles McMillan wife of the Reeve, made a gracious response. Mrs. Fred Cass offered a delightful pair of numbers and Misses Marion and Brenda Marcellus sang two songs that captivated the audience. Mrs. Allison Graham and Mrs. Bert Gillard were the accompanists.

Mr. Fulford was introduced by J. Frank Casselman, vice-president of Chesterville Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Fetterly who reside on the Grantley Road, celebrated their 64th wedding anniversary on May 9th last. Friends and relatives extended them many happy returns. We join in the congratulations.

A new adventure in citizenship, sponsored by the Rotary Club of Ottawa, with the co-operation of other Rotary clubs, throughout the Dominion, brought together at Ottawa, May 21 to 24, selected High School students from various parts of Canada for a round of sightseeing and first hand observation of the Government of their country in operation.

The four days' program included a visit to the House of Commons in session, a call upon the Governor General Lord Alexander and Viscountess Alexander and meeting of members of parliament.

Invitation to fitness

To the Editor:

As members of the unofficial "North Dundas Runners Association", we would like to invite anyone in the area who has any interest in fitness and jogging-running to attend a series of informal fun runs to be held on the second and fourth Mondays of each month through the summer, at the North Dundas high school track.

We want to emphasize that these runs are strictly non-competetive in nature, with the possible exception of allowing people the opportunity of following their own progress in terms of both distance and time.

In fact, in each run we hope to have both men and women, children and "oldsters", and novices and experienced runners, all running together at the same time.

Our real goal in this venture is to provide some incentive to the many people who have often thought of fitness and running but have never felt that final push to get them started. There certainly are a great many former and now out-of-shape hockey and ball 'stars' who could benefit, and also many more women and men who never really considered themselves as athletes but might surprise themselves.

This sport does not require great coordination or speed, but rather, simply a touch of determination, time and a good set of running shoes. And despite some misconceptions about the sport, most people with the proper advice and guidance can safely participate.

So here's your chance to turn over a new leaf - come to North Dundas on June 8 at 7pm when we will hold a ½ mile, a one mile and a two mile fun run (you can run one or more of the runs).

And please remember another goal - the second annual Winchester 10 kilometer race to be held early in September. Now is the time to start training (there will also be a five km or three mile run for those not yet ready for the 10K)

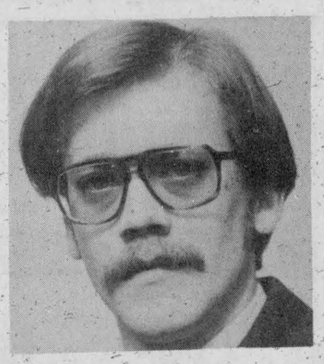
Osnabruck this week

Richard Waldroff



The spring season is upon us, and with summer fast to follow, I have decided to take a couple of months off, away from the weekly writing routine.

During the past year or so, I have found writing for you the readers, was interesting and internally rewarding.

I did not always provide you with the best story, but then, sometimes I came up short on information.

I am not sure what I will be doing with my time in the next couple of months, maybe I will just use it to compile data for my return.

Comments about my columns have been both good and bad in nature. I would like to thank the commentators, since your remarks will improve the situation. If you have something to say - say it.

Iwould like to wish all of you an enjoyable but safe upcoming summer. Take the time to enjoy what is around you; you may be pleasantly surprised.

Brockville Presbyterial reaffirms WMS mission

(Special) - It was certainly a day to remember as Brockville Presbyterial WMS met for their May Rally in Morrisburg, May 13, 1981.

The theme for the day was Love and Mercy. The programme began at 3pm with a tour of Seaway Enterprises where tea and coffee were graciously served. The programme continued at Knox Presbyterian church.

Representatives of Morrisburg School choir brought three selections, one being a first place, four-part harmony sung at Cornwall Music Festival. Special soloists Judy Corman and Pat McCourt each rendered two solos. The organist was Mrs. M. De Gray.

Brief and concise reports from the Quebec and Eastern Ontario Synodical Annual Meeting were heard. Mrs. W. Dickey, Mrs. D. Wilson, Mrs. C. Farlinger and Mrs. D. Hunter reported. Mrs. M. Herrig enthusiastically reported highlights and items of note from council.

Morewood WMS acted out a skit in which a TV quiz game winner received a tour of the Mission Field in India.

Two delightful and well made filmstrips were shown by Mrs. M. Reynolds and Miss M. Boyd. They depicted clearly life in India in A Stranger in India with Glenn Davis' 1980 tour and joys of camp at Gracefield Presbyterian Centre, Quebec.

Guest speakers were very informative and sincere.

Mrs. P. Schissler, Kemptville spoke about the mentally retarded. Mrs Sirvage, Chesterville represented the hearing handicapped. Mrs. D. Hunter dealt with the incapacitated elderly.

Displays of posters, pamphlets and books enhanced understanding of India and the handicapped. It was planned that Brockville Presbyterial WMS would support to a greater degree our mission and promote the youth work as a memorable day ended.

Here they are: five John Deere Tractors that deliver real power to every point and are built with real strength to back it up.

Dependable power begins with John Deere-built diesel engines. All models pack a potent torque reserve. All of them pull more at the drawbar, lift more on the 3-point hitch, crank out more at the PTO, and carry a bigger hydraulic reserve than models they replaced. See us for details on your power size. We'll be happy to answer all your questions on the NEW IRON HORSES.

Hospital, Ottawa University host behavioral meeting

OTTAWA - All invited speakers to the Pediatric Behavioral Medicine Conference have confirmed their attendance at the meeting jointly sponsored by the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario and the University of Ottawa.

The conference is to be held May 22 and 23 at the Skyline Hotel, 101 Lyon Street North, in Ottawa.

Barney Alexander, Ph.D., National Asthma Center, Psychophysiology Laboratory in Denver, Colorado, will review historically the treatment of asthma, psychologically and physiologically and will place in perspective the treatment of this disease by Behavioral Medicine.

Ron Barr, MDCM, FRCP (C), of Montreal Children's Hospital and McGill University's Department of Pediatrics, will examine the treatment of Recurrent Abdominal Pain (RAP) with reference to recent studies on lactose intolerance, autonomic nervous system reactivity and clinical experience in a problem-oriented RAP clinic.

"The behavioral approach offers the most hope for controlling eating patterns of mild to moderately obese children over the long term," maintains Kelly Brownell, Ph.D., of the Department of Psychiatry, University of Pennsylvania in Philadelphia.

Michael F. Cataldo, Ph.D., Department of Behavioral Psychology, John F. Kennedy Institute, Baltimore, will suggest ways that behavioral considerations can be used in pediatric hospital environments to provide excellent total care for children.

"The use of flow sheets and written protocols can and should be used in pediatric practice," states Edward Christopherson, Ph.D., University of Kansas Medical School, Kansas City, in his overview of pediatric behavioral medicine.

Thomas J. Coates, Ph.D., Department of Psychiatry, Division of Pediatric Cardiology, The Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, Baltimore, will deal with data linking hypertension and cardiovascular disease and the efficiency of drug, diet and relaxation therapies for lowering blood pressure and the rate of disease.

The study by the Department of Health Studies, University of Waterloo, of Decreasing Smoking in Children and Adolescents, will be described in detail by Brian Flay, D. Phil., as a major portion of his presentation on the topic.

Jacqueline Dunbar, Ph.D., Psychiatric and Behavioral Sciences, Stanford University, will discuss the issue of compliance with intervention procedures in pediatric populations.

Eighteen poster sessions have been tentatively booked for the conference as well, with topics ranging from Neonatal Behavioral Assessment to Anxiety Management Training for Adolescent Diabetics.

Over 125 medical professionals, behavioral scientists, researchers and clinicians from across North America will be attending this conference, believed to be the first of its kind.

St. Lawrence Scout district discusses provincial conference

IROQUOIS (Special) - Twenty-six members of St. Lawrence district leaders of Scout troops, Cub packs, Beaver colonies and Venturer companies, met at the United Church hall in Iroquois last Thursday evening for their monthly gathering.

The meeting was chaired by J. Allen Thom of Prescott, District Commissioner. Highlight of the evening was the interesting and informative report on the recent provincial convention held in Toronto.

The report was given by E. Earle Eaton of Chesterville, District Chaplain and Public Relations Officer, who, with Mrs. Eaton, attended the convention as delegate from the District. Discussion followed.

Chaplain Eaton opened with prayer, prior to giving his report. Commissioner Thom chaired the Scouting section, Assistant District Commissioner John McCaulay of Johnstown, the Cubbing section.

Items for discussion included funding, promotion, recruitment, camping, equipment, leadership, hosting, activities, programming, badges and insignia.

Dolores Maville of Prescott gave her secretary's report. Tina Serviss of Morrisburg was busy at her desk, dispensing badges and crests.

Future events in the planning stage included Beaveree, Cuboree, Cub week-end camp, American Scouts interchange, and participation in Regional Conference and National Jamboree.

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by a hospitality committee from Spencerville, comprised of Lori Carr, Charles Bass and Becky Bass.

Mr. Eaton was thanked by Commissioner Thom for his report who thanked the District for sending him, with Mrs. Eaton, to the Convention.

Communities represented included Morrisburg, Iroquois, Cardinal, Prescott, Johnstown, Prescott, Kemptville, Spencerville Robuck, Winchester, Williamsburg, Chesterville.

Mr. Eaton was renamed, at the Toronto Convention, to the Provincial Council, on which he has served for the past two years.

Chesterville was represented at the Iroquois meeting by Paul Elliott and Mr. Eaton.

Trinity UCW explores 'what is faith'

(Special) - The afternoon group of UCW of Trinity, Chesterville met in the church for their meeting Thurs., May 7 at 1pm.

The leader, Mrs. Ed. Forward opened the meeting with a welcome to the ladies and a poem entitled What is Faith?

After the singing of hymn 28, 21 ladies answered roll call and the minutes of the March meeting were read.

The treasurer's report was read and three Thank You cards reported sent.

A donation of $20 was received with our thanks from the nieces of the late Mrs. Donald Gordon.

Twenty-five dollars will be donated to Camp Kagama.

The ladies agreed to provide food, for Canada Day.

Rideau Hill camp will receive a cheque for $100 from the UCW.

The spring rummage sale will be held on Fri. May 22, in the church.

Miss Judy Crump's ordination will take place June 2 at Bishop's University, Lennoxville Quebec.

Three visits were made to the hospital since the last meeting.

Mrs Eric Casselman gave us a very interesting and educational talk on the antependium which hangs on the pulpit of the United Churches of Canada.

This union took place on June 10, 1925 and consisted of the Methodist churches congregational and 71 per cent of the Presbyterian churches. Mrs. Casselman pointed out each symbol and told for what each stood.

At the conclusion of this, Mrs. Dudley Craig entertained us by a very beautiful piano solo "Rock of Ages." Everyone enjoyed this number so very much.

Worship service, with the theme Faith followed, presented by Mrs. Alice Shay and Mrs. Myles Merkley. Mrs. Ella Merkley received the offering. Hymn 210 and a poem on Faith closed the meeting.
