Record storm blankets region

CHESTERVILLE — Old man winter arrived ahead of schedule throughout Eastern Ontario last weekend, dropping a record snowfall for the month of October wreaking havoc on the roads and causing headaches to farmers whose fields had already been soaked by the fall rains.

The Ottawa weather office reported 21.2cm of snow falling on Oct. 22, with the closest previous mark for the month at 9.7cm on Oct. 28, 1962.

Closer to home, Mac Graham, weather caller for the Ministry of Agriculture and Food, recorded 20cm of snow falling Saturday with about another 10mm of rain. Graham has been recording weather at his South Mountain farm since 1960 but said he had never seen this large a snowfall in October.

But the record keepers weren't the only ones taken by surprise. Don MacDonald, engineer for the United Counties said the snow removal crews could only muster about three quarters of their force.

"I don't think anybody was ready for this," said MacDonald.

The few people who managed to challenge the snow storm by getting onto the roads had a hard time dealing with conditions. Many were delivered a knock-out punch that sent them spinning into a nearby ditch.

Const. Bernie Gadbois of the Long Sault OPP reported four accidents involving personal injury and another 21 involving damage to cars. In addition to an undetermined number of cars landing in ditches.

"We didn't get a count," remarked Gadbois, "because there were too many."

One of the accidents on Highway 2 occurred when a car lost control in the slush and slammed head on into a car in the other lane. Three people ended up in the hospital.

On Highway 138, one car spun-out into the next lane with its rear end smashing into an oncoming car. Two people were sent to hospital.

"In 22 years I don't think I can recall a snowfall in October that resulted in this many accidents," said Gadbois. He credited it to a lack of preparation.

"People were caught short. Most drivers didn't have their winter hats on."

The Winchester detachment, however, reported only two minor accidents with about 20 to 30 cars spinning into ditches.

While snow on the roads caused delays for drivers, snow in the fields put a freeze on harvesting plans of area farmers.

"This is the worst we've ever experienced," said Chesterville farmer Stan Vanden Bosch, "it's unbelievable!"

Vanden Bosch said he expects higher field losses than usual due to the storm but added the danger may not be too severe.

"It depends on water from here-on-in."

He said the ideal weather would be warmer, sunny and windy days to dry up the fields. But the immediate forecast promises little relief.

Bob Humphries, agricultural representative for Winchester's OMAF office, said the areas with most crop damage were around Matilda and Williamsburg. The crops had been weakened by heavy rains, wind and hail in a storm in August. And with the weight of the damp, heavy snow Saturday a lot of corn and soybean was flattened.

Most of the white blanket covering fields and front lawns was melted by the rain on Monday. Few regretted seeing it go.

But one group made the best of its while it was here.

"I made a snowman then tried to throw snow balls at my brother," said Kellie Holmes, 8. She was glad to wake up Saturday morning to a winter wonder land, as was Becky Klein-Swormink, 7, who said she wished it would stay.

But even children recognize the limits an early snowfall brings. Like Bradley Filion, 7.

"I shovelled the drive way. My dad said I had to."

S'no go

Blizzard like snow conditions late Friday night and Saturday took its toll on drivers, including the driver of a transport attempting to turn around at the Kraft Foods Ltd. plant in Ingleside at 5 a.m. Saturday. The driver, Lewis Land, was driving a load of beef from Arkansas, U.S.A. to Dorval Airport in Montreal when the accident occurred. Land said he couldn't see how wide the entrance was because of snow and the rear wheels of his trailer dropped into the ditch, causing the entire unit to flip.

Poor response

CHESTERVILLE — Things are going sour for the band Sweet Success who still need about 20 volunteers to help at a fundraiser planned for village youth. The band has only received about three or four calls so far and if they don't get more soon, the fundraiser will be cancelled. People are needed to help co-ordinate the events planned for Nov. 25 and 26 at the Chesterville Community Hall. Others are needed to sell tickets and help decorate. Anyone interested call 738-2373.

Power outage

CHESTERVILLE — Most of the villages business section was left in the dark Monday morning shortly after 8 a.m. for about an hour and a half. According to village Foreman, Jack Smith, the trouble had nothing to do with the weekend snowstorm. The problem was a lead wire on Main Street across from the Seaway Valley Pharmacy.

Smith said the wire was old and rusty. It burnt off but crews had everything fixed by about 10 a.m.

Chesterville nominations illegal?

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — The nominations of four election candidates for village council may be invalid because their papers weren't signed by the proper authority.

Village deputy clerk Glenna MacIntosh told council Thursday night she had signed four nomination papers with the belief she would be assistant returning officer for the Nov. 14 election.

But what she didn't know was that council had earlier passed a resolution eliminating her position from the list of election officers.

She didn't find out about the change until about two weeks later while typing the minutes for the Oct. 6 meeting at which the resolution was passed.

"This 'nothing' signed four nomination papers," she told council. "But nobody bothered to tell me I was a nothing."

She signed the nomination papers while filling in for village clerk Mary McDonell. But if she's a 'nothing', then the four candidates are also 'nothings', she said.

She called the Ontario Ministry of Municipal Affairs to see if the nominations would be valid, but was told it was a legal issue and it couldn't get involved.

The one law firm she called said the nominations could be questioned. "They could see no reason why these nominations could not be challenged," MacIntosh said. She would not say what law firm she received the opinion from.

If the firm's judgement is right, "you fellas could be on thin ice," said Deputy Reeve Bert Van Kessel.

MacIntosh said she was led to believe she would be an assistant returning officer for the upcoming election and went to two meetings to learn about her duties.

Reeve Carl Ward said if she was acting on behalf of the clerk, she has the authority to sign the nomination papers. But he added, it's "imperative" that council check the issue with a lawyer.

He said council deleted the position to cut down on election costs, expected to be about $1,000 for each of its three polling stations. "We thought if it's not necessary, why have it?"

He didn't know that MacIntosh had been appointed to the position by McDonell and hadn't been aware of the preliminary work she did while acting as assistant returning officer.

But he added, council should've been told that MacIntosh had been appointed to the position.

"It put council in a rather embarrassing situation when all the information comes to you after the fact," he said. "If it's appointed, it's done. And what's done cannot be undone."

McDonell said she "just assumed" that MacIntosh would be her assistant and was "caught off guard" when council questioned the position at the Oct. 6 meeting.

At the suggestion of Ward, council passed a resolution reinstating MacIntosh's pay of $225 for work she did as assistant returning officer.

Disagree on acclamation

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — Chesterville council's acclamation last Tuesday for the Nov. 14 municipal elections has left both the incoming and outcoming reeve wondering if it is a good or bad sign for the municipal representatives.

"It all depends on how you look at it," said Carl Ward, who's giving up the reeve's chair next month to pursue other interests.

The one clear advantage is the village will save the expense of holding an election, estimated by Ward last week at about $3,000. But whether the financial benefit outweighs the possible negative aspects of acclamation is debatable, he said.

Its acclamation may leave council wondering if it actually has the support of village voters. If there had been an election the candidates would've earned their seats on council, and would know they had majority support, Ward said.

"So I think they're at a bit of a handicap there."

But he added, village residents should be less critical of council, explaining that "a community usually gets the kind of government it deserves."

But incoming reeve Jim Cook disagreed with Ward. Whether it is acclaimed or elected, the role of a council is still the same, said Cook, a former deputy reeve and councillor with the village.

"Council is council, whether it is elected or acclaimed, he said. "They (ratepayers) have every right (to criticize)."

But his acclamation as reeve does leave him a little unsure of his mandate with the voters. "I'm a little bit surprised," he said Tuesday. "I'm not sure what it means."

But he didn't think the lack of candidates was due to apathy among voters. "I found a great deal of interest beginning around the first part of September," he said.

In the almost 14 years he's lived in the vilage there's always been enough candidates to form a council, he said. In the last village election, 12 candidates fought for municipal seats, nine for councillor and three others for the reeve and deputy reeve seats.

"I think it depends on the circumstances," he said.

The fact that three incumbents were running for council, and with council doing such a good job over the past three years, many prospective candidates were likely unwilling to take on the challenge, he said.

Stop light has reeve seeing red

CHESTERVILLE — Village Reeve Carl Ward was seeing red Thursday night, but he won't be seeing red at the intersection of Queen Street and Highway 43 if a certain provincial ministry has its way.

The Ontario Ministry of Transportation and Communications turned down a request by council for a flashing red stop light at the intersection in a letter tabled at council Thursday.

But it wasn't so much the decision, as it was the actual wording of the short, four-paragraph letter that infuriated the reeve.

Calling the letter "goobledygook" and "bullcrap", Ward told council there was no way he could make either heads or tails of the letter.

At issue was the second paragraph of the letter stating that a flasher is not necessary for the intersection.

"To install it, whether by the ministry or by council, would have the same effect; overuse," the letter, written by Arnold Hall, head of the regional traffic section, stated.

"If flashers are installed without meeting a base criteria, the risk of lessening their effect increases," the letter went on to say.

Flashers are usually placed at intersections where two highspeed roads connect or where accidents occur as a result of failure to stop. But neither of the two conditions apply to the Queen Street-Highway 43 intersection, Hall said.

An obviously perturbed Ward said the two sentences in the second paragraph were beyond his comprehension and that he wouldn't stop until he straightened out the issue.

"It's far beyond my capability to decide what that guy is trying to say in that second paragraph," he told council.

Councillor Roger Cole also expressed disdain with the decision. He said he has nearly been "wiped out" at the intersection himself in the past.

"It's a bad spot and I don't know how Mr. Hall can come up with that conclusion," he said.

But Dale Ritchie of the MTC regional office in Kingston backed up the letter when reached at his office Monday.

He said if Chesterville was allowed to put up a flashing light, there would be nothing to stop other municipalities from doing the same thing.

And the word "overuse" used in the letter applies to the conditioning of drivers who may become too accustomed to seeing the stop lights, thus "lessening their effect."

The red flashers "are somewhat of an attention getter", he said. But if too many are put up, they will become common place and will lose their effectiveness, he said.

Ward said the only way the MTC will heed the village's request is if there's a fatality at the intersection.

"You have to have 25 deaths," he said but then lowered the number to 10. "Ten deaths is actually probably the criteria...10 gory deaths."

Council is considering meeting with SD&G and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve to get the MTC decision reversed.

Winchester Pro-Life message:

'A woman doesn't have the rignt to kill the child growing inside her'

CHESTERVILLE — About 80 people braved snowy conditions Sunday to attend a pro-life presentation at North Dundas District High School.

The presentation was the first event sponsored by the newly- formed Winchester and Area Pro-life and featured three women speakers actively involved with pro-life associations in Cornwall, Kingston and Ottawa.

Marilyn Bergeron, president of the Eastern Ontario Pro-life Association and Cornwall Birthright and mother of six, said the abortion controversy is the most important issue of the day and the more people understand the issue, the more they will feel compelled to get involved.

"Birth is a stage of development," she said. "A baby doesn't start at birth but begins development at conception. Pregnancy is a stage of development in a continuing human life."

Bergeron said any kind of treatment designed to save the life of a mother is not considered abortion. "Abortion is the killing of a child," she said. "It is very important we realize when life begins. When we talk about abortion we're talking about life."

She said pro-choice advocates use word games and half-truths to mislead the public about the facts of abortion. She said pro- choice groups refer to a baby as a fetus, a medically accepted term but misleading to pregnant women.

"You don't sit at home and knit fetus sweaters, you knit baby sweaters," she said. "If we use the term fetus it doesn't mean anything but if I say baby you have a picture of something."

Even the term pro-choice doesn't ring true said Bergeron.

"Everyone in this room is pro-choice for something," said Bergeron. "Every right we have in society has a limit. A woman has lots of rights but she doesn't have the right to kill the child growing inside her."

these women. Post-abortion syndrome is a very real thing. Abortion may seem like the easy solution at the time but it destroys lives."

Mary-Lynn McPherson is a registered nurse specializing in psychiatry, a mother of three and a founding member and president of Nurses For Life.

She said women are not being told the truth about pregnancy and abortion by the media or by their doctors.

"It is very difficult for anyone under a tremendous amount of pressure to make an informed decision," she said. "When a woman is under that stress she has one thing on her mind — she is pregnant and wants to get unpregnant."

McPherson mans a crisis hotline and said many women, especially unwed mothers, feel there is something wrong with them because they are pregnant.

"They are told continually by society that abortion is right," she said. "It is frowned upon for young women to be pregnant."

McPherson also said women who have had an abortion suffer a higher infertility and miscarriage rate than other women and experience depression, some not until many years later.

"These women suffer terribly and they suffer alone because pro-choice people believe these women knew what they were doing, they knew what they were getting into," she said. "The absence of meaningful counselling means many women will continue to be in distress."

John Woods, chairman of the local pro-life organization, said he only wants women to receive fair and balanced counselling and hopes through presentations like this, more facts about abortion will become known.

"Abortion is so accepted it allows us to go further," he said. "We have to come back to respect for life. Do we or don't we respect life."

Bergeron said pro-choice groups use the slogan "every child is a wanted child" but said unwanted or unplanned pregnancies do not necessarily lead to child abuse.

"There are plenty of people in this world who are not wanted," said Bergeron. "Husbands don't want their wives, parents don't want their children but being wanted has never been a criteria for the right to live."

Calling abortion the "ultimate child abuse", Bergeron said society has to find solutions to help abused children but the answer is not to abort every child that is unplanned.

Bev Daw, president of the Kingston Right to Life, and a mother of two, described her feelings of guilt following her abortion 14 years ago.

"I was barely 16 and like a lot of young girls I panicked," she said. "I couldn't believe this could happen to me. I couldn't carry a baby to term. I wanted to get on with my life."

Daw said she wasn't offered any form of counselling and the doctor told her she wasn't aborting a baby, only a "clump of cells."

"When I came to I really had a sense of relief," she said. "I could get on with my life, I didn't have to worry any more. But my relief turned to other things that same night. I had nightmares about my baby crying and I went into a deep depression."

Daw was put on tranquilizers by her psychiatrist and said she tried to overdose several times. She said she became obsessed with other children but never linked her depression to her abortion.

"I made that choice but like so many other women I didn't have the facts," said Daw. "I speak out about this because I really care about

'Cry of cosmic loneliness'

by Gordon C. Smyth

Everybody, at one time another, is subject to the ravages of loneliness. Nobody is exempt. Thus the cry of cosmic loneliness at Calvary.

The earthly life of Jesus was ebbing fast away. The silence that comes over watchers of a deathbed scene came over friend and foe. Suddenly, the Master began to raise his thorn-crowned head. He was heard to exclaim, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me" (Matthew 27: 46).

Crib and Cross were really of the same wood. In his birth there was no room for Jesus in the inn. The Boy who was found in the temple by Mary and Joseph wondered that they, of all people, felt constrained to request an explanation.

A sense of loneliness is seldom absent from pages of his public ministry. It neared a climax when Jesus began to predict his fate when he went up to Jerusalem for the Passover. Many of his disciples deserted him.

And now came Calvary. When Socrates drank the hemlock, he was surrounded by friends and engaged in a philosophical discussion. But Judas had betrayed Jesus and Peter denied him. He hung between two "robbers".

Even the devoted women missed the real point. They were grieved by their Lord's smitten hands and the pain of his death struggle. They did not weep about the true significance of the Event, that he was suffering the ultimate torment of his and their abandonment.

And yet, throughout his human experience, there had always been one unfailing source of inspiration for Jesus, God, his "Abba" (Father), was his constant Companion and Guide. It was the apparent snapping of that bond, however briefly, that caused the Lord's comparatively quick death on the Cross. He truly became our Kinsman as well as our Savior when, from depths of amazement and horror, he cried aloud, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?"

The weakness and the folly of Calvary are to the eye of faith, the very power and wisdom of God. The proper response to the problem of evil is not refutation, but a Figure, a Person, a Face tormented by suffering that is accepted with love.

Jesus was deserted in order that we might grasp his understanding of our need of God's presence. He was lonely in order that we might realize in him our one sure ally. Because of his death you and I are offered a quality of life beyond compare.

The Apostle Paul truly expressed it. He testifield: "For I am sure that neither death, nor life,...nor things present, nor things to come..., will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord" (Romans 8: 38).

Francophone seniors re-organize

CRYSLER — On October 13 the Board of Governors of "La Federation des Aines francophones de l'Ontario, la FAFO (The Federation of Francophone Senior Citizens of Ontario) accepted the final report of a provincial inquiry into the functioning of the Federation.

The inquiry insists on the necessity or re-organization and re-orientation to make the Federation more aggressive, more dynamic, more professional and thus better able to respond to the needs of its members and those of society in general.

Delegates to the next Convention (in June 1989) will be invited to re-define the roles of the Federation, its Board of Governors and its Regional Sections.

Ingleside seniors to place wreath at war memorial

INGLESIDE — Three new members, among the 54 attending, were welcomed to the October meeting of the Ingleside Senior Citizens' Club No. 283 by the president, Rita Partridge. The meeting opened by singing O Canada with Connie McLaren at the piano, followed by Happy Birthday to all who had a birthday in this month, and a Thanksgiving poem.

The president encouraged all members to attend the public meeting in the Rothwell Gym on October 19 for a study on housing and support services for Seniors which is funded by the Ministry of Community and Social Services. It was agreed that a wreath will be supplied by the Club to be placed on the War Memorial on Memorial Square.

As the scheduled speaker was unable to be present, Mildred Baker, Arthur Buckmaster, Rita Partridge and Berton Wasson delightfully entertained the members with impromptu readings and stories. A tasty lunch was then served under the direction of Grace Ault, Social Convener.

Finch WI donates to Meals on Wheels

FINCH — The Finch Womens' Institute meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Casselman.

President Maria Dingemans opened the meeting with the Opening Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect repeated by all members. Roll call was responded to by 14 members.

Minutes of the last meeting were read by secretary Sandra MacMillan. Treasurer's report was given by Vera MacLean.

Resolutions to be presented at the area convention were discussed. Mrs. Ricki TePlate will be our delegate at the convention. Meals-on-Wheels was discussed and it was agreed to send a donation to this project.

On Nov. 2 at the Avonmore Community Centre, there will be a luncheon meeting. A guest speaker to discuss recycling will be present. There also will be recycled items for sale.

The Queen was sung, followed by a delicious lunch served by the hostesses. Earla Campbell thanked the hostesses and also Mrs. Casselman for the use of her home.

Ingleside seniors speak out for more services, facilities

INGLESIDE — The seniors of Ingleside got a chance to speak out last Wednesday night and their message was clear: more services are needed, of every kind.

About 70 seniors showed up at the gym in Rothwell-Osnabruck school to listen and make their views known for a study by the Ontario Ministry of Community and Social Services to look into "community based alternatives to institutional placement, according to Joan Davies, senior consultant for DPA, the Toronto consultants hired for the study.

The ministry has already approved the reconstruction of the 125 unit Glen-Stor-Dun-Lodge in Cornwall and to complement it, Davies said the ministry is planning three facilities in the United Counties for seniors well enough to stay out of nursing homes but who need a little extra help doing their daily chores.

"The ministry is convinced that older people need to have a choice of where they can live," said Davies. She added, this government plan would allow seniors to stay in their own communities for a longer time.

Right now the study is looking into what facilities are most needed by the seniors and what communities in SD&G are best suited to provide the facilities. Besides Wednesday's public meeting in Ingleside, four others were held: two in Cornwall, one in Alexandria and one in Williamsburg.

A five-member steering committee travels with Davies to each meeting. Members will be given a copy of her study when it is completed in mid-November and make recommendations based on their own findings.

Members of the committee are Francis Lefave, representing Glen-Stor-Dun-Lodge, Guy Leger, a Cornwall alderman, John Wilson director of the Ministry of Community and Social Services office in Ottawa, Keith Fawcett, reeve of Mountain Township, representing the United Counties, and Sarsfield O'Connor, of Chesterville representing the community at large.

Davies said her study is working on a number of options for the facility.

The first option and the one that appears most suited for Ingleside, looks at adding a kitchen and communal dining room to existing senior apartment complexes such as the Inglewood Seniors Building on Dickinson Drive.

Seniors unable to do their own cooking would have meals prepared for them. Staff could be hired to take care of extra needs and in the case of Inglewood, an extra 20 rooms could be added to the existing building.

Another option would be to house a number of seniors, 6 to 10, in family sized homes. A full-time nurse or housekeeper could be hired to stay with the seniors during the day.

A third option could be the establishment of an outreach program from an existing institution. Meals-on-wheels and other services could be co-ordinated from a hospital or nursing home.

Any or all of these options could be included, said Davies. The communities chosen for the facilities depends on existing services and ease of implementing new features.

Cost, geography and the willingness of seniors to "make a facility work" will also be taken into consideration, said Davies.

Facilities will definitely be placed in SD&G. It has not been established when, how, or how much it will cost.

The seniors of Ingleside gave every indication they wanted their community chosen for one of the facilities, and Davies gave them some room to be hopeful.

"I think it's very safe in suggesting this Community has a lot of options," she said. "In many ways it meets many of the criteria."

But some of the seniors took the opportunity to let some candidates for Osnabruck township council, who were present at the back of the gym, hear some other needs.

Many spoke about the need for transportation services, for yard workers to cut the grass and shovel driveways. But mentioned most often was the need for a drop-in centre.

"It's a desperate need," said Rita Partridge, president of Ingleside's Senior Citizen Club.

"They want us to get together and co-ordinate but we have nowhere to go."

She said her club has to meet once a month in St. Matthew's church basement.

She also said there is a need for a new seniors housing complex and a nursing home.

Ident-a-kid program a big success

INGLESIDE — There were a few tears, and a lot of ink-stained fingers here Saturday, but it was all for a worthwhile cause.

It was all part of Child Identification Day at the Kraft Foods Ltd. plant in Ingleside.

Two hundred and forty area children had their pictures and fingerprints taken at the second child-identification day held at the plant in the past three years.

Unlike the one held three years ago, the identification clinic was open to anyone who lives in the Ingleside area.

Bob Canuel, human resources manager for Kraft, said the turnout was "phenomonal, considering the lousy weather."

"We have a lot of fun actually. We had a tremendous response from the community," he said.

The identification work was done by members of the Royal Canadian Air Force Auxiliary. Don Brown, chairman of the Ident-a-Kid program in Cornwall said the response was "excellent."

Brown has been involved in the program for five years and has been chairman of the Cornwall Ident-a-Kid program for three years.

He estimated at 11,600 children throughout Stormont County and the city of Cornwall have been identified in the program.

He said the program helps provide descriptions of children for police during emotional situations like kidnapping, where parents may not be able to give an accurate description.

"It's just a safety precaution," he said.

Canuel said judging from Saturday's response, the day will likely be held again next year.

WI's recycling savvy

AVONMORE — It is people -- not just money or machines -- that will make recycling work in Ontario.

That's the premise behind the Ontario recycling training workshops organized and developed by Resource Integration Systems on behalf of the Ontario Multi Media Recycling Institute with funding for ongoing delivery provided by the Ministry of the Environment.

The Stormont District Women's Institute have organized a workshop on recycling to be held November 2, in the Avonmore Recreational Centre.

The Institute has consulted with the Ministry of the Environment and the OMMRI and have asked Nyle Ludolph to speak. Mr. Ludolph has been on loan to OMMRI from Laidlaw Waste Management which generously extended the loan for another year to April 1989.

Fomerly manager of Kitchener Recycles and a Laidlaw employee for 26 years, Mr. Ludolph advises municipalities on recycling and works with them in the preliminary stages to consider all aspects of a blue box recycling program from curbside to regional processing centres. He is affectionately called the Grandfather of Recycling.

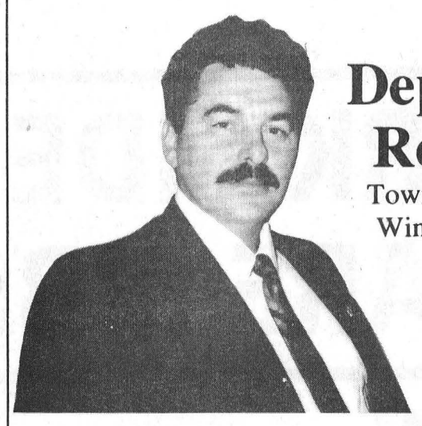
The program will begin about 11:30 a.m. with a pot luck lunch. Mr. Ludolph will begin to speak about 1 p.m. followed by a question and answer period. For the closing of the day the township will have representatives available to answer questions about the waste management program in each individual township.

Biodegradable garbage bags will be handed out to each person along with recycling information. Everyone is welcome to attend.

Vote

Robert St. Pierre

for



Deputy-Reeve

Township of Winchester

These are some of the reasons why I would like to be on the next council of Winchester Township.

I believe the most important issue in the next term of office will be the adoption of a new official plan. It will determine how our township will grow and develop for the next 10 to 20 years. Our old plan did not have nearly enough options to cover the many different situations that can arise in a totally rural area. Therefore, because of the many exceptions and "minor" variances that have been made to it, it has become virtually meaningless. I think that only someone who has dealt with these situations can ensure that the new plan doesn't have these pitfalls.

Roads are another important issue. I believe we should develop a more comprehensive road plan that looks beyond one term of office. We should make use of traffic counts in determining priorities. We should maintain a policy of spraying roadside weeds and brush, while at the same time, doing more roadside shouldering, so we can eventually mow all roadsides and eliminate spraying. Also, new roads should have proper shoulders that allow for mowing. I would like to see a more detailed annual road budget, along with a monthly report of to-date expenditures compared to budget.

I do not believe that the waste management system of home separation, that is being proposed, will work without compensation for doing it or penalty for not doing it. I think that after a while, people will tire of it and we will end up with a dump like the one we had. I believe separation at a central location along with possible incineration may not be the cheapest in the short term, but will be in the long run.

Market value assessment is something that will have to come, since the old is based in 1953. However, I believe we should wait a few years until we can use 1988 as the base year, instead of 1984. Primarily because it would be unfair to the agricultural community, since farm values have fallen drastically since 1984, while residential values have risen substantially. Therefore, we would already be starting out with an inequitable assessment.

I think municipalities should have recreational budgeting that will provide facilities and encourage R.A.'s in providing services and activities for as wide a range of people as possible. At the same time, we should be striving, within reason, for a "user-pay" policy in the operation of these facilities and programs.

Thank you for your attention. I would greatly appreciate your support in the upcoming election, and if re-elected, I will continue to do my best for you.

The upcoming federal elections may also have been a factor, drawing the spotlight away from the municipal contests, he added.

Ward said a three-year term is "a bit of a commitment that some people aren't willing to make." And coupled with the little thanks and poor pay received for the job, many figure its not worth the headache. "If you're there for the money, you shouldn't be," he said.

But one positive aspect of the job is seeing improvement to the community and helping out people and groups in the village, he said.

Cook said the main issue for council in the upcoming term will be getting water for the village. "The water of course is the primary issue that has to be resolved," he said.

Until the water gets in place, plans for residential development and industrial development must stay on hold, he said. "There's too many things that hinge on water."

Continuing to improve the streets in the village will be another priority for the upcoming term, he said.

Ward said that the present council was a good council to work with and that Cook is fortunate to have three members coming back for another term.

Ward will be involved in a number of things outside of the political ring, including chairing an advisory committee for a drug rehabilitation clinic targeted at people between the ages of 15 and 20 years.

"I think I'll have some things to keep me busy," he said.

Gillard back for another try

WILLIAMSBURG — Robert Gillard, a former deputy reeve, is after another term as Williamsburg Township councillor following his defeat in the last election.

In 1985, Gillard was defeated by Glen Cunningham for the deputy reeve seat.

Gillard, 45, was deputy reeve for five years and a councillor for four.

The past three years has left Gillard eager to get back on Williamsburg council.

"I like municipal affairs," he said. "I missed it. I missed the contact with the people. I enjoyed working for the people in the township. I enjoy helping people."

Gillard said he decided to run for councillor instead of deputy reeve because he is more concerned about dealing with the township.

"I've stayed in tune with what's going on (in Williamsburg)," said Gillard, a member of the board of directors for the Dundas County Association for the Mentally Retarded.

"I'm a little leery about the garbage situation," he said, commenting on the heated waste management issue in the township. "I'd like to see Williamsburg look after its own garbage. I would like to see the garbage situation cleaned up."

Gillard said he is also eager to see what the provincial government plans to do to improve the housing for seniors in the township. He said he would like to see a satellite home in conjunction with a larger one for the elderly in Williamsburg.

Gillard doesn't believe his nine years of council experience gives him the upper hand in the Nov. 14 municipal election.

"It's the people's choice," he said.

Graham Hess drops out

WILLIAMSBURG — Incumbent Graham Hess has decided to pull out of the race to retain his seat on council.

Hess, 67, said he made his decision to bring his 21-year- career as a Williamsburg Township councillor to a close after learning four other candidates will be vying for the three councillor spots.

"There's a good slate of candidates, a good young bunch," he said.

The fight for a council seat will include two new faces to municipal politics — Arden Schneckenburger, Dundas Federation of Agriculture director for South Dundas and David Carkner, an electrician and farmer.

Hess offers the eventual successful candidates, those without previous council experience, some advice.

"You have to be set with your ears wide open," he said. "Try to do your best and remember that you can't please everybody. They'll (voters) let you know in three years how you've done."

Hess said it takes about one year for a new councillor to become familiar with the procedure of council.

A member of Williamsburg's local school board for 10 years before joining council, Hess said a councillor has to put a lot of work into his role.

Now that he is retiring Hess said he will have more time for such activities as camping.

"I'm free," he said. "I'll have a lot more time to myself."

With his son taking over his farm, Hess said he helps out "when I feel like it."

Alzheimer grant

CORNWALL — The Cornwall and District Alzheimer Society will receive a $40,298 increase to the $107,807 in annual funding already provided by the Ministry of Community and Social Services, announced Cornwall MPP John Cleary earlier this month. The extra money should help the society spread its assistance throughout SD&G.

CDAS was formed in 1981 to, "advocate for positive changes in the community for Alzheimder families," according to Linda McDevitt, family support co-ordinator.

The organization spreads information for families with Alzheimer patients, such as how to get a more thorough assessment, what help is available to the families (i.e., a home maker someone to sit with the sufferer when family members are away) and how to get in touch with placement facilities when further care is required.

Schneckenburger seeks Williamsburg seat

WILLIAMSBURG — Arden Schneckenburger has been involved in most farm organizations in Dundas County.

Now, Schneckenburger, 30, wants to get involved in the community by joining Williamsburg Township council.

Schneckenburger, the Dundas Federation of Agriculture director for Dundas South, is running for councillor in the Nov. 14 municipal election.

He said he would like to help continue the council's record of maintaining excellent road conditions in the township.

As a former member of the Dundas County Waste Management Committee, Schneckenburger is eager to become involved at the municipal level to decide where a potential waste site will be located.

Schneckenburger said he is not opposed to a site in Williamsburg if it is chosen on a realistic basis rather than a political one.

He would like to see continued steps made to accommodate the seniors in Williamsburg.

Schneckenburger is a lifetime resident of the township, with cash crops and beef lots on his two farms — one in Williamsburg and the other in Matilda.

He is serving his third term as a DFA director.

Correction

A story on page 2 of The Chesterville Record, October 19 issue incorrectly stated Armand Gibeault is running for Finch Township Deputy Reeve. He is, in fact, running for councillor.

As well, a paragraph describing Gibeault's professional life should have been attributed to Archie Byers, who is runing for reeve.

The highwaymen

The much ballyhooed Ottawa caucus of the provincial government was reported in Monday's Ottawa Citizen as crowing about the hundreds of thousands of dollars in grants Queen's Park has poured into Ottawa-Carleton since David Peterson's government took office a year ago, but a black mark that blots out all its achievements is the lack of attention Toronto continues to pay to the region's need for a four-lane highway connecting the national's capital to Highway 401.

The only north-south links now are Highways 31 and 16, neither of which was designed to carry the volume of traffic that now travels over them, much less the increased volume that further growth will inevitably bring.

While Toronto enjoys the eight-line Highway 400 travelling north out of the city, Eastern Ontario must make due with two miserable excuses for roadways, more suited for deer runs than high-speed traffic. It seems that Highway 400's sole purpose is to carry Toronto holidayers north to the cottage country around Georgian Bay, while Highways 31 and 16 are expected to carry tourists, area commuters and commercial traffic to and from the nation's capital. Never mind that the prestige of a capital city demands a decent roadway; the fact is that a four-lane highway would only handle present needs, let alone what the future will bring.

At the best of times traffic crawls along at a snail's pace, needing only some Yahoo from Pennsylvania in a camper and pulling his boat and outboard up to "Kweebeck" to murder some northern wildlife, to turn a 60-mile drive into hell on wheels. Add some snow, as on Saturday, and the drive quickly turns into a mushers' ball.

Maybe if some provincial cabinet ministers were forced to drive these roads, as do we mortals, rather than flitting from airport to airport at great public expense, Eastern Ontario could expect to see its highway system brought into the latter half of the 20th century. Put David Peterson behind a lumbering tractor trailer, which takes three miles to gear up after halting to a stoplight, day after day and we would have a super highway in jig time.

But maybe there's a silver lining in this cloud of carbon monoxide. Put the Ontario cabinet in a bus bound for Ottawa via the 401 and 16. There's a very real chance it wouldn't arrive in the National Capital Region until after the next election and we would be rid of the lot of them by default. But then we would probably just end up with another bunch of southwestern Ontario nabobs and be no better off.

If our region is to cease being just another Costa Rica with good curling, we will have to keep up the pressure to have this government live up to its promises to provide us with a proper road network. The economic future of Eastern Ontario could hang in the balance.

Making their pitch

Are you worried that our school system is not preparing your children for a place in the modern job market? Then put your fears to rest because schools' fundraising annual blitz of chocolate bars, magazines, books, tropical fruit, calendars, coffee mugs, knicknacks, Christmas gift wrap, tea towels, nuclear-tipped can openers and gizmos that can convert your kitchen sink into a toxic waste disposal unit is on us once again.

Of course, the sales pitch is that it is always for a good cause: new playground equipment, a school computer, a class trip to the moons of Jupiter. And it is all done so that you can exploit the guilt of your family and friends as you corral them at a social gathering and flog the stuff for your junior sales executive, who in turn has to face the peer pressure at school of his classmates, who will undoubtedly return to school with sheafs of completed order forms.

Does any of this sound like a Tupperware party? A (you circle one) lingerie, clothing, jewellery or make-up party?

Does the worthiness of the cause sound like trying to get your loutish brother-in-law or ne'er-do-well nephew back on his feet now that he has landed a sales position with the Great Southeastern Death and Dismemberment Mutual Assurance Corporation? Does it sound like having to go through another family gathering, back pinned to the wall while this newly-converted messiah of free will enterprise explains, ad nauseum, the benefits of life over term, or whole term over end-of-life, until your eyeballs roll backwards into your head and you find yourself suddenly staring into the inner workings of your medula oblongata?

Just remember where they learned it, and your part in it, and never again blame the education system for failing to prepare them for a career.

THE CHESTERVILLE
Record Editorial / Opinion

Chesterville's Past

08 From the Record Thurs., Oct. 22, 1908

Chesterville people who have enjoyed its hospitality will be sorry to hear that Boyd's Hotel at Carlsbad Springs was completely destroyed by fire last week, a clean sweep being made of everything. The fire, originating from an unknown cause, was first discovered about 11 p.m. Mr. T.L. Boyd, the owner was away at the time and there was no person at the hotel but Mrs. Boyd and her little son. No applicances were available and the flames made more progress until at length it was seen that it would be impossible to control them and soon nothing was left but the charred remains of the once handsome structure. The hotel was large, and the amount of damage will be considerable.

The Molson's Bank statement which appears in another part of this paper, is perhaps one of the most remarkable ever presented by a Canadian Bank. It covers' the period of historic financial panic last autumn, which while it did not affect Canada so much as other parts of the world, was yet able to produce a very marked shrinkage in all lines of business and a withdrawing of capital from all parts of expansion.

Yet the Molson Bank is able to show a profit exceeding that of the next best year by $60,000 and is in every way in a stronger position at the end of this critical year.

28 From the Record Thurs., Oct. 25, 1928

Foreman Bertrand and seven men of a Hydro gang along with Mrs. John T. Campbell and daughter of Dominion Hotel at Finch, were driven from the hotel Monday morning about two o'clock, when the forty room frame building was burned to the ground. Mr. Campbell, the proprietor, was awakened from his sleep by the smoke and investigation discovered flame making much headway in the kitchen at the rear.

The fire made such rapid progress that nothing could be done to save the property, the efforts of the voluntary fire-fighters being confined to the saving of near-by buildings, which was successfully done with good service from two chemical engines owned by the village assisted by Cornwall fire fighters with their chemical equipment.

The blaze was a most spectacular one, lighting up the country for miles around and attracting many people to the scene from long distances. The call for help was responded to from Chesterville, Avonmore, Berwick and the surrounding country.

Historic Dundas County, which gave the late Sir James Whitney and Hon. Andrew Broder to the public life of the Dominion gave a stirring welcome last night to Premier Howard Ferguson of Ontario and Mrs. Ferguson, at a banquet under the auspices of the Dundas-Grenville Conservative Association, and attended by 250.

"Ferguson and Better Education" and "Dundas Welcomes Our Premier" were displayed on two huge banners in the hall.

48 From the Record Thurs., Oct. 28, 1948

The seventy-fifth anniversary services of the Dunbar Presbyterian Church was held on Sunday, October 24. The day was fine and a large number of people from the charge and from other points attended the service.

The minister, Rev. W.H. Heustin, B.A. conducted the services and the music and choir were under the direction of Mrs. Charles Marselis. Members of the Ladie's Aid had decorated the church with chrysanthemums, ferns and potted plants and it was a day of much blessing for the members of the congregation and all who attended the services.

The Dundas-Grenville Boy's Work Board seeks to interest boys all over the area in its broad programme. It is intended to serve interdenominationally all boys in its four-fold emphasis on wholesale living, based on Luke 2: 52 "And Jesus increased in wisdom and stature, and in favour with God and man."

68 From the Record Thurs., Oct. 31, 1968

Connie Smythe said anyone named Sylvanus would never become a hockey player for Toronto Maple Leafs. The same Sylvanus ended up captain of the team. Sly Apps delighted his Rotary audience Monday night with stories of his years in the NHL. He started reaching for the tops in athletics when he trained and became British Empire champion pole vaulter. He represented Canada at Germany in the Olympics in 1936 and managed an honorable sixth position in the world event.

Syl Apps is a member of the Ontario Legislature for Kingston riding. He has business interests there and in Morrisburg.

The speaker was introduced by club President Norm Harris, who reported 100 per cent attendance of members and several guests. Ronald Lynch thanked the speaker.

Following the Rotary meeting Syl Apps moved across the square to Community Hall and was given a riotous welcome by a good crowd of young hockey players. His remarks to them were evidently appreciated.

At a meeting on the 22nd of October, the Winchester T.S.A. Board accepted a tender, submitted by Wiseman and Thompson of Finch, Ont., to construct an addition to the Morewood Senior Public School at a cost of $57,200.00. This was the lowest of three tenders received.

The work will be started as soon as the final approvals are received from the Department of Education from the Ontario Municipal Board.

78 From the Record Wed., Nov. 1, 1978

With less than two weeks left to go before the municipal election, the issues are now becoming more sharpley defined in the two-way contest for the reeveship of Chesterville.

Both candidates -- the incumbant Jim Brannen and Mac LaSalle -- will be outlining their campaigns in detail tomorrow (Thursday) night's all candidate meeting at the community hall but in preparation for the meeting both are expanding on the stands they have already taken.

Mr. Brannen said Tuesday afternoon his statements on the village water supply are not intended to cause alarm but he wants the village to look to the future and be able to fulfill its needs as the population grows. He says he has been told by the Ministry of the Environment that the village should start looking for a new water supply within the next two years.

Challenger Mac LaSalle says he will outline in detail his ideas in dealing with the sewage lagoon which, he said Tuesday, is now only technically overloaded. The lagoon can still handle about 75 new lots and the development of these -- in Thomson, VanKessel and Droppo subdivisions, as well as of existing lots in older sections of the village -- has already been approved.

Ottawa Rough Riders quarterback Condredge Holloway was the special guest at Monday's fifth annual Crysler Minor Sports Awards banquet which attracted almost 150 people.

Letters

By any other name...

To the Editor:

We live on what has been known by several generations of Finch Township residents as Smirle Road.

Our member of township council thought that this road should be renamed in his honor so he had the name changed to Byers Road. When we first learned of this change we attended the next council meeting (Aug. 4, 1988) to object.

Our objection to the name change was on the basis that the road had been known for nearly 100 years as Smirle Road. Council accepted our arguments and sent us a letter (Aug. 5, 1988) saying that the road name would revert to Smirle Road.

Our member of council was sufficiently determined to have the road named after himself to introduce a motion to that effect at the next council meeting. That motion was accepted and voted upon by council notwithstanding that naming the Byers Road would be of direct benefit to the several businesses conducted under the name of Byers.

Unexplicably the minutes of that council meeting carry no mention of the motion or the vote upon it; however all of the council members and the clerk could clearly recall having accepted the motion and voting upon it.

It is our belief that a council member who can so easily use council for his own purposes should not become township reeve thereby providing even great opportunities.

Yours truly
Lois and Thomas Beaton

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

So, we too, have had our Great Debate. What value are these political debates in the life of a nation?

To debate the issues - not really, for those committed to the issues have been debating them at work, at home, and at school for some considerable time now.

A Great Debate is really to allow the contestants to secure the attention of the uncommitted. And in this respect, it is vitally important.

Now, to get the attention of the uncommitted, the contestant's suit must be just the right cut, shirt and tie properly co-ordinated, the hair precisely tapered, smile in place, jokes adroitly delivered as required, in fact, every nuance must be finely tuned.

Still fresh from viewing the first U.S.A. Great Debate on its own turf, and the follow-up presentation from my own turf via television, I must congratulate Mr. Bush (although I prefer Mr. Dukakis) for his projected image of a U.S.A. President - Mr. Reagan-style.

From his well-tailored and well-groomed appearance to his "fresh from the country Who Me response to all strategic issues, past and present, he was a winner indeed.

Mr. Dukakis, although well-groomed and well-tailored, was a little too tense and a little too pointed. He lacked the 'hail fellow, well met' spit and polish of Mr. Bush. In other words, he displayed only too well his feelings for his opponent.

But it did afford John and Judy - not made up my mind-Public an opportunity to view the contestants first hand, side by side displaying all the charm they could muster while trying to hide their intense dislike of each other.

Now, we've had our turn Mr. Prime Minister, Mr. Turner and Mr. Ed - our turn to anaylze your appearance as you stood before us in all your regalia and make-up. Will the best mask remain in place over the next few weeks? Time well tell!

But, while I sat through these historic debating hours emanating from our two great countries, I couldn't help remembering that when we're stuck for words, our colourful English language gives us plenty of scope. For example, flapdoodle, balderdash, poppycock, gibberish, applesauce, double-talk, twaddle, and claptrap are words that mean the same thing.

I was asked recently with what issues in the upcoming election was I most concerned. I am concerned with all the issues our illustrious leaders speak to, and some to which they do not choose to speak. But, being a Canadian first, the Farmer's Wife second, I must admit that I have spent most of my free time reading and attempting to understand the pros and cons of Free Trade.

Couple this undertaking with my ongoing grave concern over our environment and what we are doing to it, and you will realize that I have had little time to get into other mischief.

In the 1970s I was greatly concerned over acid rain killing our fish, in the 1980s I am greatly concerned over our drying trees, in the 1990s, if we do not act quickly, I am sure to be concerned over our dying Canadians.

And being human, I have mourned some of those handy items around the home I have had to give up in the interest of our environment. None have I mourned more than my aerosol can of hair spray but, now I do have a good excuse for fly-away hair.

Be that as it may, my all-consuming concern is that clean-up to the environment continue with all possible haste in the interest of the next generation and the generations that follow.

Having roamed this earth, and particularly my little corner of it, unhampered and free, I cannot conceive of quality of life within a domed structure, no matter how aesthetically pleasing the interior may be made to appear in a model.

Today being a glorious Indian Summer day, I have been for a long walk in the country fields and along concession roads and with a kind of enjoyment I find difficult to explain, since I heard nothing that could be replayed back to us on our television screens, nor saw anything that was worthy of front-page coverage in any weekly newspaper.

An old man in his garden digging potatoes, bending and lifting, all gray outlined in the golden sunshine as I stopped to talk to him. Yes, he had a good crop of Yukon Gold potatoes, one of the newer varieties he had wanted to try for a couple of years now.

A man enjoying a ride on a farm wagon pulled by two well-curried Percherons, the man I recognized as my neighbour as soon as he drew close enough to me to hear his merry whistle.

A woman sitting flat in the dooryard swiftly sorting gladioli bulbs. Two men with a red truck hauling a load of wood out of the bush. Boys skimming tiny apples over the surface of a farm pond. Fat bunches of herbs in long rows, braided ropes of onions hanging brown in open sheds, pumpkins and squashes piled high on sunny porches.

Cows in the wide pastures. Two enormous pigs rooting in a cornfield, comfort, physical satisfaction in every grunt. I halted to laugh at them.

Why should all these simple things so delight me? Because I am a country-woman, born and bred.

On a golden autumn morning, of polished stillness and calm beauty, my Mother and a couple of friends and I visited an orchard of great renown in the area. Every kind of apple was displayed for sale with a little history of each in full view, rich yellow cider was available, as was apple butter and apple jam. The popular buggy and driver driven by pumpkin horses, in the best meaning of nouveau art greeted us as we drove into the yard.

We purchased our supplies and headed home over the concession roads which no longer can be called back roads as the one lady remarked, for they are all so wide and well-paved. It was a pleasant experience.

That evening I went outdoors to enjoy the young moon which hung in the sky. Somewhere, far off, it seemed, I heard cattle calling. A little cold-scented breeze touched my cheek - and suddenly I was glad that the year was winding down.

Some cold, windy, raw days will follow. After the heavy frost and the rain the countryside will have lost the gaiety of its colouring, and will become somber in browns, tans, grays.

New vistas open up and we have time to pursue indoor pleasures. The soup kettle is ready to be lifted from the stove, the currant scones are hot.

"Next thing we know," says the Farmer, buttering a scone, "it will be snowing."

25th anniversary for Dundas Rebekahs

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — The Dundas chapter of the Rebekahs celebrated 25 years of service, honoring five of its charter members Saturday.

Jean Ball, the group's chaplain, Minnie Henderson, Lucille Munroe, Lila McMillan and district president Sharon Casselman were all honored with 25 year service jewels at a dinner and dance at the Chesterville Legion Hall.

Casselman, a 49-year-old Chesterville resident and mother of four, joined the Dundas chapter of the fraternal organization in 1968 as a way to help out in the community.

She became interested in the group through her husband who was a member of the International Order of Oddfellows at the time, the parent group of the Rebekah organization.

Since she was familiar with the Rebekah group, when she heard a chapter was being formed in the area, she leaped at the opportunity to join.

The fraternal organization was formed in 1851 and since then, chapters have sprouted up all across the world, Ontario itself boasts 21,000 club members.

"It looked like an opportunity to be of service to the community," Casselman said of her decision to join the group. It also gave her a few nights away from her children, and was a chance to meet, and get to know new people.

Over the past 25 years the group has had many accomplishments and members have developed "a special bond", she said. The group is "accomplishing things together" and although members may be "dead tired" during an event or project, it feels good when they finally reach their goal, she said.

The Rebekahs help in times of need, like when a family has suffered loss from a fire and they also have regular projects they donate time and money to.

The group has donated a trophy to North Dundas District High School for the top science student, an award which also includes a $250 bursary. It has also spent time and money on a number of projects in Chesterville, including the donation of park benches.

June Carruthers, past president of the Rebekah Assembly of Ontario, said the group has every reason to be proud of its record.

The chapter's anniversary "certainly is" an event to be proud of, she said. "Twenty-five years is special."

Casselman agrees that the group should be proud. "I think we've exceeded our goals," she said. Although it is "a very small group", it has accomplished a lot, "and hopefully more in the future."

In a small village such as Chesterville, groups like the Rebekahs are needed, she said. "I think it is very important," she said. "I think it fills in the gaps."

And the various service clubs work together to help out the community; they don't compete against each other, she said.

"Each one complements the other," she said. "Each organization, I think, respects each others work."

There are no special requirements to join the Rebekahs: just a desire to help out in the community. "It's a very big cross-section of people," Casselman said. "Color means nothing, religion means nothing."

For her, the organization is everything you can ask for, and more; a way to help the community, an escape from the kids and a way to meet people. "And I don't know what more you can get out of an organization than that."

The former Assistant General Manager of Old Fort William in Thunder Bay, Robertson, who has been acting Manager of Fort Henry and the Commission's other Kingston attraction, since June, was selected from nearly 150 applicants for the position.

Council makes exception for Charity Players

$200 grant

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — The Chesterville Charity Players are $200 richer, thanks to a grant from village council Thursday.

Players' member Colin Abbot told council the four-year-old, non-profit group needs money for a set, lighting and makeup to put on a St. Patrick's Day play.

He estimated a set would cost the group $100, makeup, about $300, and lights, about $400. Reached at his office Monday, he said lighting could be even more expensive; possibly as much as $1,000.

The group also needs costumes to replace ones lost in a fire this past summer, but lighting is the biggest problem for the group at present, Abbot said.

So far, $300 has been raised by the players through corporate donations. The village's contribution brings the total to $500.

The group usually raises money itself, but to do that, it needs the makeup, set, lighting and costumes to make its plays look professional, Abbot said.

A donation of $100, the same amount given to the Upper Canada Playhouse at the beginning of the year, was proposed by councillor Roger Cole, but increased to $200 at the urging of Reeve Carl Ward.

Ward said council usually budgets for charitable donations at the beginning of each year, but in the case of the charity players, he thought it was worthwhile to make an exception.

"I agree that we need to support our own group," Ward said, noting that it is a community group and the profits go to helping local charities.

Abbot said the group was hoping to do a play for Christmas but needs more time to raise funds and to get organized.

The group may also get storage space for its costumes and sets included with the donation.

Abbot told council the group may spend some of its funds to insulate a storage space above his office at Car-O-Line Autos in the village.

But councillor Mike McMahon said there's a vacant room in the village's municipal building which could be used by the group.

The group is also looking for actors, set designers, and back stage workers to add to its list of about 20 regulars.

"We'd like to get as many as we possibly can," Abbot said. "We do need those people."

Acclamations dominate SD&G schoolboard elections

Sean O'Connor
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — Most school board trustees in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry will have an easy time getting into office Nov. 14 with only seven races in the 21 districts.

There will be three races in the local area, all for French Language Councils.

The first is between incumbent Jean-Marc Boisvenue, 40, and challenger Nicole Bourgeois, 33, for SD&G Separate School Board French Language Education Council in Cornwall Township, Roxborough, Maxville and Alexandria.

Boisvenue said he's been involved with the French section for five years and was president of that section. He still has two children in the system, which he considers a "vested interest." He says the major issue in the upcoming term will be the extension of high schools and creation of Roman Catholic high schools.

His opponent, Bourgeois, said she has spent five and a half years sitting on different council committees, parent committees the parents association. She also represented SD&G parents at the provincial association.

She says she's "hoping to have a better say on decisions than just offering advice," and adds, "I could be doing a much better job as a representative of the tax payers."

She also has children presently in the system.

Another race faces off incumbent Alphonse Lafrance, 54, against Jean-Charles Landry, 36, for the area including Osnabruck, Finch village and township, Matilda, Morrisburg, Mountain, Williamsburg, Iroquois, Chesterville, and Winchester village and Township.

Lafrance was elected trustee in 1985 after having spent five years as a trustee in the 1970's. He also considered the transfer of secondary schools into the French section as the major issue in the next term.

"Right now we will need experience around the table," said LaFrance.

Landry has served on the school board committee for children with learning disabilities, is Vice President of the SD&G Parent Teacher Association and of the Association for Franco-Ontarians.

He wants to establish day care facilities in local school boards adding, "they are the best qualified and best prepared."

He aid everybody agrees it is the best solution for day care but co-operation is needed between provincial ministries.

He would also like to see more emphasis in local schools put on communications, science and computers.

"Rural schools should be as well equipped as schools in urban centres."

The race for SD&G County Board of Education French Language Council for the city and township of Cornwall, the townships of Osnabruck, Morrisburg, Matilda, Williamsburg and the village of Iroquois has three contenders running for two positions.

Incumbents Charlemagne Lamarche and Basil Marchand will be trying to keep their positions from Daniel Morin.

All other school board positions in the area are acclaimed.

In the SD&G County Board of Education English Language Council, in Osnabruck, incumbent William Fleming, 56, will be back for another term.

Flemming has been a trustee for about eight years and was acclaimed last term. He said his biggest concern will be putting an addition on Rothwell Osnabruck School in Ingleside.

In Williamsburg and Morrisburg, Susan Adams, 33, will enter her second term as trustee. She sees the bloc transfer of schools to the separate board as the greatest challenge in the next term.

Lusia Jasiewicz, 48, was acclaimed to her first term representing Roxborough and Maxville. She said she wants to see the Lord's Prayer maintained in area schools.

Cindy Martin-Hrycak, 33, will represent Chesterville, Finch village and township and Berwick. This will be her first term on the board and she said she wants to bring the board in greater contact with teachers and committees. She would also like to see a regular article in the press on trustees.

Graham Casselman, 64, was acclaimed with the continual upgrading of school facilities and the transfer of schools to the French Language Council.

The Council's trustee from Maxville, Kenyon, Roxborough, Chesterville, Finch village and township and Mountain is Micheline Ouellette, 45. She is a veteran trustee of two years and before that was a select member for the Language Advisory Committee. She also sees the bloc transfer of Fracophone schools to the Catholic Board as the major issue.

In the SD&G Separate School Board English Language Council, for Cornwall Township, Roxborough, Alexandria and Maxville, Terence Wheeler, 56, will be trustee for another term.

Wheeler has 18 years experience in the position and said in the upcoming term he would like to see the abolishment of the elementary senior school concept. Presently, some Catholic high schools go from grades 7 to 13. Wheeler would like to see Grade 7 and 8 put back with elementary schools.

Representing Osnabruck, Finch village and township, Matilda, Morrisburg, Mountain, Chesterville, Iroquois, Williamsburg and Winchester village on the English Language Council will be incumbent Peter Van Moorsel.

Seniors seek members

Sean O'Connor

MOREWOOD — The Senior Citizens of Morewood and District are running low on numbers.

The group is having a hard time attracting people to its Hall each Friday at 2 p.m. when they meet to play euchre or bingo, have lunch and socialize.

"Some days we have as low as 12 and the highest has been 22," said 1st Vice President Zeta Godard.

She said in past years there were usually 30 to 40 members however as some of the older ones passed away, fewer new ones joined.

She said anyone over 55 is welcome, then added, "Some people don't like to let on they're 55. And you can't drag them out here."

To help draw members and money the club is having a euchre party at 8 p.m. this Friday with lunch, a door prize and a 50-50 draw. Godard says everyone is welcome.

She hopes the event will "help pay the heating bill." The club also needs new doors and a replacement for a broken window.

But with all these troubles, Godard refuses to give up.

"We're going to trudge through it all as long as we can!"

Closing the club down for her is an unthinkable last resort.

New Scout executive

CHESTERVILLE — St. Lawrence District Boy Scout Council has recently met to elect a new executive. Heading the Council this year as President is Mike O'Brien of R.R.4, Kemptville; returning as treasurer is Chris Slater of Prescott. John McAuley, former President becomes Secretary and Public Relations Officer.

Mr. O'Brien recently moved to this area and brings with him eight years experience in a variety of Scouting Leadership roles. He was President of the Digby Nova Scotia Scout Council for the past three years, prior to this assignment he was the Group Committee Chairman in Oromocto N.B. and Secretary of the 1st Bruno P.Q. Committee and a Beaver Leader in Petawawa.

In other Scouting news, Jack Tennant of Prescott has been re-appointed as District Commissioner for the third year. With him as assistants will be Adrien VanSchie of Augusta Township in the Cub Section; Linda Foster from Winchester at the Beaver level. Ms. Foster has taken over the position from Sandi Mackay of Prescott who has taken leave of the organization. Tennant also announced the appointment of Margaret Howe, from 2nd Prescott as the new District Beaver leader, and that the role of Assistant District Commissioner for the Scout section is yet to be filled.

Rev. David Crawley announced there would be a meeting on Wed., Nov. 16 at 1:30 p.m. at the Matilda Township Hall to highlight drug and alcohol awareness week. There will be a film and a panel presentation. All seniors are urged to attend.

Brief reports were received from seven of the ten clubs in the zone - namely Chesterville, Ingleside, Iroquois, Long Sault, Matilda, Mountain and Winchester. Programs and activities included bus trips, boat trips, speakers, The Moon Walk, participation in Celebration 30, attending a play in Ottawa, picnics, bowling, bazaar, rhythm band, and attendance at church service. Donations were made to the Heart and Stroke Foundation, The Kidney Fund, and other worthy causes. The largest club is Winchester with 143 members. Mr. and Mrs. Buckmaster who were delegates to the U.S.C.O. convention gave a brief report on the convention.

Mr. Mansfield brought us up to date on the history of the U.S.C.O. and its organization. The founding convention was held in 1959. In 1972 there was affiliation with the International Organization. This year the International meeting will be held in Taiwan. Mrs. Joyce King and Mr. Jack Lorette will represent the U.S.C.O. Between meetings a council of eleven members act on behalf of the U.S.C.O. including presentation of certain issues to parliamentary committees. Money sent to the U.S.C.O. helps subsidize the Voice and pay expenses of members of the executive and field representatives, etc.

Lobbying the government is very important. In the last eighteen months cemetery etiquette has improved, many rural post office services have been maintained, quality living in nursing homes has been improved, and much pressure put on government re Sunday shopping. There has been lobbying re financing for hearing aids, eye glasses, dental care and transportation services. Some help is expected in these areas.

The U.S.C.O. building in Toronto was purchased in 1984 at a cost of $185,000. Through donations from clubs raffles, etc. the building will be completely paid for in 1988. Money is received from government to help with operating costs.

The 1989 annual convention will be held in Thunder Bay, Ont.

Mr. Mansfield conducted the election of officers for the zone for the year 1988-1989. The following slate was elected: Past President, Aden Marcellus; President, Art Buckmaster; 1st Vice, Mrs. Hilda Kirlby; 2nd Vice, Mrs. Leila Helmer; Recording Secretary, Mrs. Doris Hyndman; Treasurer, Mr. Harlan Helmer; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Enid Wasson; Auditors, Mrs. Vivian Murphy and Mr. Joe Hanniman.

Kids warned to play it safe on Halloween night

CHESTERVILLE — Ghouls and goblins will be out haunting the streets this Monday evening, but even creatures of the night could use a few tips to ensure safety.

Const. Bernie Gadbois of the Long Sault OPP detachment said trick-or-treaters should be reminded of safety tips before going out Hallowe'en night:

- Masks and hoods can obstruct vision. Makeup should be used instead, or eyeholes should be large enough for the child to see clearly.
- Costumes should not be too long to cause the child to trip.
- Costumes should be brightly colored.
- Children should travel in groups or with parents and they should avoid dark alleys, parks and schoolyards.
- Look both ways before crossing the street and do not enter houses.
- Stay in familiar areas.
- Parents should check all treats before allowing children to eat them.

Crown appeals Wise's acquittal

CHESTERVILLE — The Crown has appealed the case of village resident James Henry Wise who was aquitted in September of a charge of public mischief in connection with the toppling of a $2.2 million microwave communications tower near Williamsburg.

Toronto District Court Judge Bourke Smith found Wise not guilty after throwing out much of the Crown's evidence because it had been obtained with the use of an electronic tracking device.

This was the first Canadian ruling on the admissability of evidence acquired by the use of such a device.

The judge said the use of the device amounted to a warrantless search. The device was placed in Wise's car as part of a police investigation into a series of killings of elderly recluses in Eastern Ontario.

At the time six deaths were thought to be connected however police have dropped the investigation to four, ruling two of the deaths accidental.

Wise launched a civil suit against the police and provincial officials March 21, for alleged mistreatment, by police during the investigation claiming it was an abuse of their powers under the Police Act.

Michele Salt, spokesperson for the Attorney General's Office said Crown prosecutor Bill Wolski will argue before the Ontario Court of Appeal that Bourke made an error in law by ruling the evidence obtained with the tracking device inadmissable and ruling that the use of the device constituted a search.

Wise's laywer, David Scott, would not comment on the case because the notice of appeal has been filed.

The Crown and defence must now file formal documents that contain all grounds and arguments of their cases. The two sides will then argue their cases before a panel of three judges at the Ontario Court of Appeal sometime early next year.

Whichever side loses the appeal can apply to have the case heard before the Supreme Court of Canada.

David Carkner vying for Williamsburg council seat

WILLIAMSBURG — David Carkner, an electrician and a cash crop farmer, doesn't want to challenge the Williamsburg Township council, he simply wants to be a councillor.

"I'm not going in condemning council," said Carkner, who is taking his first crack at politics, vying for a council seat in the Nov. 14 municipal election. "They're doing a perfect job."

But with incumbent Graham Hess pulling out of this year's race and councillor Lyle Van Allen taking the deputy reeve seat through acclamation, Carkner saw an opening to run for council.

Although he is "green" at the political game, he plans to bring fresher ideas to council. "There have been practically the same guys around there for years," he said.

As a councillor, Carkner said he would like to have the people's input. "I will give an honest representation of the people."

A lifetime resident of the township, Carkner said he is concerned with the waste management situation and with assuring that the Ontario government provides more housing for seniors in Williamsburg.

"I will give it a 100 per cent effort," said Carkner, describing the work he will do to influence the provincial government to develop more seniors' housing in the township.

Carkner is a chartered member of the Chesterville and District Lions Club and has been a strong supporter of the United Church of Canada in Williamsburg.

Counties want public to speak out

Sean O'Connor
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — The citizens of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry are getting a chance to speak out on snow removal. The United Counties Roads Department is developing a new "winter maintenance operations policy," and they are looking for public input.

"We want to formalize what we've been doing for a long time," said Don MacDonald, county engineer.

He said the policy will protect the department from lawsuits like ones that have been filed against other counties in the past and it will clarify complaints.

He said that in other counties, drivers who have spun-out on a small patch of ice on an otherwise clear road have successfully sued the people responsible for clearing that road.

The suits were successful because there was no road policy in place.

"Courts tend to find fault if you don't have (a policy) on paper. If you have a policy and follow it, its a defense," said MacDonald.

The winter maintenance policy will likely confirm past snow removal practices.

United Counties residents can send comments to County Engineer Donald MacDonald at 20 Pitt Street, Cornwall. Letters must be received by the department by Nov. 4.

Anyone who wants a copy of the new winter maintenance operation policy can call MacDonald at 932-1515.

MacDonald said the Roads Department is required to do "what is reasonable. No more, no less. Now we want to determine what is reasonable."

For example, he said the department could provide the same level of service offered in Ottawa, but at a cost.

An average county road in SD&G carries 750 cars a day. In Ottawa-Carleton, the average county road carries 10,000 cars a day. In Leeds-Grenville, MacDonald says the figure is about 800.

In addition, he said 95 per cent of the traffic in SD&G occurs between 6 a.m. and 11 p.m.

With 32 men and 16 plow trucks, MacDonald said the department will try to give a service within a reasonable budget that accommodates the average resident.

That means establishing times when they don't need to go out and eliminating work they don't need to do.

MacDonald said they will probably aim at providing a four metre clearing (most roads are about 6 metres wide) for all paved county roads within about 24 hours of a heavy storm.

Call out times for drives will be established so that the major part of the job is finished by 6 a.m. There will be no spot call-outs after 11 p.m. or before 4 a.m.

In the past he says complaints have been made about morning call out times. He said a call out costs almost $10,000 and calling out when few drivers are on the roads is unnecessary.

"If we don't have cash or traffic or crews, there's no requirement to do that."

He added, provincial grants for SD&G county roads is the third lowest of all 27 counties in Ontario.

He says a request for input on the new winter policy has been circulated to the Police, ambulances, municipalities, and newspapers. The roads department will make a final policy after seeing public input.

The deadline for sending in comments is Nov. 4.

SD&G Highlanders on campaign for new recruits

CORNWALL — The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlander's are planning a push and for strategy they using a two-pronged attach.

Lt. Col. Keith Simpson, the SD&G Highlander's commanding officer, has set up an advisory council made of officials from across the United Counties to help recruitment. In addition, plans are under way for the Highlanders, with the help of the community, to begin a regular Sunset Ceremony this summer.

"The unit is not very well known in the community," said Simpson, "and we didn't know that much about the community."

Both the Sunset Ceremony and the advisory council are meant to bring unit and community together.

The Sunset Ceremony will be similar to the one held by the Cameron Highlanders and Governor General's Footguards in Ottawa, said Simpson.

It will involve a pipe band, already part of the unit, a brass band to be made of area high school students, and highland dancers from one of the area's dance groups.

The ceremony will start at about 9 p.m. and last an hour. At the end of the night there will be a formal lowering of the flag.

As yet no location for the ceremony has been chosen but Simpson said it should be an area with a great deal of traffic and he added it is not restricted to Cornwall.

The ceremonies will take place once a week from July to August.

Simpson thinks the sight of marching men and sound of stirring music will, "enhance the unit and community service," and may even work as a tourist attraction.

Norm Warner, Conservative MP for Stormont-Dundas agrees.

"There's a lot of planning and work yet to be done but it has met with success and enthusiasm form everyone who has heard the idea."

Simpson said teachers and the SD&G Board of Education has already shown interest in supplying the brass band and Simpson added he hopes to give students an honorarium for their services.

The second prong of Simpson's initiative is the advisory council. The council will be a liason between the Highlanders and the community.

According to Simpson, it will "give us an idea where we should go recruiting and who we should be targeting recruiting for."

Members of the council include Warner, Cornwall MPP John Cleary, SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve, Cornwall Legion President George O'Dair, the Cornwall chief of police, members of Cornwall's city council, representatives from the SD&G school boards, SD&G's warden, George Currier, Honorary Regimental Colonel Don Stewart and other local officials.

Simpson said the council will meet about twice a year. He'll also speak to councils or boards or groups that the members are involved in.

Already Simpson has spoken to the SD&G Public School Board and Cornwall city council.

"For years we've been saying we need closer co-operation between our two entities and now we have it," said O'Dair.

Simpson said he hopes this will help recruitment of high school students. Currently the Highlanders are on their fall recruiting drive and have already filled half the positions. Simpson said they would like a minimum of 40.

Recruits are employed part-time from October to June. They go into the Armory at Cornwall twice a week and work one weekend each month. They can stay on full-time in the summer.

Over half the recruits are from rural areas, many are picked up and dropped off by a bus that stops by some of the towns.

Another recruiting drive will begin this spring but then only 15 people will be needed.

The unit's full force is 134.

Village snow removal contract increases by 10%

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — It may cost the village of Chesterville considerably more to have its streets kept clean this winter.

Council approved the lone bid, from Jack Durant Farm Services Ltd., Thursday night despite an approximately 10 per cent increase over last year's bid.

Prices in the bid range from $58.50 an hour for a five-ton plow truck to $34.75 for a blade for sidewalk and street cleaning, a 12 per cent and 19 per cent increase over last year.

Prices for the same two pieces of equipment were $52.25 and $29.20 an hour respectively last year.

But Councillor Roger Cole said the village could save money elsewhere in the bid.

Last year the village had to guarantee Durant 100 hours of work over the winter, with a price tag of over $5,000. This year it only has to pay a minimum of $3,500 for his service.

Village foreman Jack Smith said he had asked other operators if they were interested in the village contract, but most of them already had other obligations.

Deputy Reeve Bert Van Kessel conceded the bid was "quite an increase" from last year's. And Reeve Carl Ward reminded councillors that although it was the only bid submitted, they didn't have to accept it.

But despite concerns over the size of increase, council voted unanimously in favor of the Durant tender.

We are opposed to the Meech Lake Accord:

1. Quebec will have veto power over constitutional reform.
2. Quebec will appoint 3 of the 9 judges on the Supreme Court of Canada.
3. Quebec may remain unilingual French while the rest of Canada becomes bilingual.
4. Quebec does not have to give linguistic rights to the English speaking population of that province.
5. Quebec does not have to comply with Federal Immigration policies.

WE SUPPORT

#2 Reduce the power of the Prime Minister to two terms of office only.

#3 Fixed terms of Government–pre-arranged election date. Government will not be defeated on non-confidence vote if a bill is defeated in parliament.

#4 Establish an ELECTED SENATE with equal representation from four regions of Canada, ie The Western provinces, Ontario, Quebec, and The Atlantic provinces. This will curtail and effectively control unfair legislation passed by a majority government in the House of Commons.

#5 Establish binding referendums requiring members of the House of Commons to vote according to constituents wishes—not the wishes of the party he represents.

#6 We are in favour of a sensible Free Trade policy, negotiated on a sector by sector basis, recognizing regional autonomy.

#7 We believe in ONE OFFICIAL LANGUAGE outside of Quebec. Millions of dollars are being spent daily on Bilingualism by the Federal Government. Jobs are and will be lost daily because of this artificial need for bilingualism.

#8 Review foreign aid programs to limit direct aid and focus on education, health care, nutrition, and self help.

#9 Concentrate defence spending in areas where Canada has excelled in the past in co-operation with allies.

#10 C.O.R. is for a complete review of Canada Post including privitization which will close many rural post offices which are desperately needed by the rural residents.

#11 We insist on accelerated effective enironmental controls. Billions of dollars is promised by the conservative party to promote bilingualism, and only 127 million to clean up the environment. We feel that the figures should be revised to ensure our future generations a land to live in.

We must bring to an end the mischief of perpetual deficits and a staggering national debt accumulation. We must stop the horrendous taxation imposed on the people of this great nation. (PERSONAL INCOME TAXES HAVE INCREASED BY $23 BILLION SINCE 1984). We must restore reason and common sense in place of these disastrous practices.

40th bazaar raises $4200

MAPLE RIDGE — The fortieth annual tea and bazaar put on by the Winchester District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary had everything going for it but the weather.

But despite the untimely blizzard Saturday, it still managed to raise $4,218 for the hospital.

Lee Wenz, treasurer for the auxiliary, estimated about 300 people came shopping for bargains, down considerably from the 750 that attended last year's special international bazaar.

A lot of people had planned to go to the tea and bazaar, but one look outside Saturday convinced them to stay indoors.

But considering the weather, the auxiliary really couldn't ask for a much better turnout, she said. "We were quite pleased with the results."

A popular spot at the bazaar was the baked goods table, netting $960 for the auxiliary. There also were tables selling crafts, cheese, second-hand books, honey and Italian foods.

The 50-50 draw also proved a big winner for the auxiliary. It netted $480, the auxiliary's half of the $960 total. The winner of the draw was Shirley Carruthers of Crysler.

Seven tables altogether were set up at the bazaar. All the goods sold during the day were donated to the auxiliary for the sale.

The money will be used to help purchase new equipment for the Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

The auxiliary will decide at its next meeting whether to go ahead with the bazaar again next year, or try something new, Wenz said.

WI reviews fashion show

BERWICK — The Berwick Women's Institute met at the home of Ada and Lillian Johnstone. Jessie Ouderkirk opened the meeting with the Ode and Mary Stewart Collect.

Convenor Irene Casselman, took us on a most interesting travelogue of the Maritimes, and stated how important our heritage is to us.

The business part of the meeting was a report of a successful Fashion Show. Three awards will be presented to top 4-Hers for year's achievement in Berwick Club.

Lillian Johnstone attended a meeting in Finch of Eastern Ontario Health Unit arranged by Suzanne MacDonald, co-ordinator of volunteers. A food voucher was given to Red and White Store, Finch for fire victims Roger Vanier and family.

Jessie Ouderkirk will attend the area convention in Ottawa, Oct. 17 and 18. Plans were made for Armstice Service. A luncheon will be served by the W.I. A thank you was received from Isabel O'Donohue and donation and door prize was won by Irene Casselman.

The W.I. Quilt Raffle was won by Joan Poapst, our Stormont District Secretary.

Morewood 4-H

MOREWOOD — On October 18 the Morewood 4-H group held our fourth meeting. It was held at the Morewood United Church at 7 p.m.

During the meeting we discussed pork and the quality of pork. We judged pork chops and also smoked and cured meats, sausages and wieners.

Our meeting was closed by sampling a bowl of pizza soup, which everyone enjoyed.

Drug Awareness Week

For the first time, a "Drug Awareness Week" will be observed in this area. November 13-19, 1988 is the week set aside nationally to increase our awareness of alcohol and drugs in our communities.

At the suggestion of the Addiction Research Foundation, a local committee has been formed to plan and execute a number of events during this week. The members include: Jack Barclay, Nationview Public School; Peter Barkway, Addiction Research Foundation; Janice Banford, Winchester District Hospital; Rev. David Crawley, Morrisburg; Raymond Houde, Family Counselling Centre; Ed Rice Jr., Beavers Dental, Morrisburg; Don Hill, Beavers Dental, Morrisburg; Const. Morgan Hill, OPP, Morrisburg and Carl Ward, North Dundas District High School.

Three main events are being planned:

A seminar for major employers in the county to explain the benefits of having a confidential "employee assistance program" and to offer some tips on how to set one up.

An information program for Senior Citizens on the "Wise Use of Medications", to include a film, discussion and a panel of helpful people.

And Winchester District Memorial Hospital will hold a public display in the lobby, featuring materials from the Addiction Research Foundation, and will put on a training session for hospital staff about the management of alcohol and drug damaged patients.

Plans for in-school activities are also taking shape in NDDHS and in several elementary schools in the area. Anyone interested in helping with any of these activities is invited to call any committee member.

THE CHESTERVILLE

Record Sports

Anderson sees improvement despite Flyers' two losses

Todd Hambleton
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — For the Chesterville Flyers there's no place like home.

Coming off a 16-4 season opening pasting in Casselman Friday night it figured Flyers would incur another shellacking Sunday at the hands of EOJCHL powers North Stormont 86's, right?

Wrong.

The Flyers did lose their home opener 7-4, to drop their season mark to 0-2, but they lost in a way that pleases head coaches. "I think it was a pretty impressive showing for our second game, especially after losing 16-4," said Flyers coach Kirk Anderson. "I'm pleased with the improvement in just two days. Finch will be near or at the top (of the leage) and we played them tough."

Indeed.

Flyers were just a goal down, 5-4, with time running out in the third period, when markers by Mike Jackson and Pat Sullivan provided 86's with some much-needed breathing room.

Even North Stormont head coach Steve McRae was impressed with Chesterville's showing. "They're (Flyers) going to be a pretty good club," conceded 'McRae. "They won't do too badly. After they get a win under their belts they'll be alright."

But he admitted his 86's, may have taken the Flyers a little lightly coming into the contest. "Our players have heard about all the turmoil and problems the Flyers have had and I think they kind of thought they could just show up and win. Our guys were a little over-confident.

"But you can't take any team for granted. Today proved it. Luckily we played as well as we had to. We played well enough to win but no better," he continued.

Flyers came out of their dressing room fired up to start the game, and held 86's in check in the early stages, aggressively taking the body and scrambling for loose pucks.

Even an early 86's goal by Kenny Konink on a breakaway one minute in didn't distract Flyers from maintaining their bump-and-grind style.

Flyers were rewarded for hard work midway through the period when D. Marcellus led a four-man Chesterville breakout with the two clubs playing five aside. Instead of dishing off tc a wing Marcellus stepped into one at the blue line and beat 86's goalie Kent Pilon with a low drive, stick side.

Captain John Guy put Flyers ahead 2-1 five minutes later. B. Brown's point shot was blocked by Pilon but C. Radney, acting as a screen in front of 86's net distracted Pilon enough that the keeper lost control of the rebound. An alert Guy pounced on the loose puck putting Flyers ahead.

86's tied it at two before the end of the period when Todd Blaine's slapshot from just inside the blueline beat Flyers goalie Richard Gauthier high to the glove side.

"We didn't play very well today, especially in that first period," said McRae. "It's a tough to play that style. Chesterville was playing more of a dump and dig style than anything else. Coming off the Rockland game which was more positional we found it tough to adjust today."

Anderson, however, says his team was just playing the way they have to be successful. "We wanted to forecheck, press in the offensive end see what happens, and we were able to do that.

"For now there's no great deal of strategy involved. These early season games are a chance to get the players used to playing each other."

86's regrouped during the break and began to finish their plays in the second period, something Flyers wouldn't allow them to do in the first. Tim Ouderkirk scored two minutes in as 86's regained the lead, at 3-2.

Two minutes later D. Denman closed the gap to one scoring on a slap shot from well out.

At that point Gauthier, a Crysler native, took over, stymying 86s' snipers on several occasions, keeping Flyers in the game.

Exhibit A: Shortly after Flyers made it 4-3 86's went to the attack once again. Captain Mike Van Delst, who had carried the puck behind Flyers goal, spotted Ouderkirk streaking towards the slot. Van Delst's pass was picture perfect, and Ouderkirk's shot was a one-timer, but Gauther reacted to just get a piece of the top corner-bound puck with his outstretched glove.

Exhibit B: Minutes later Dale Murray, left unattended in the crease area, was able to take several whacks at a loose puck but he couldn't stuff it past Gauthier, who went down and was able to smother the disk with seven minutes left in the period.

Flyers weathered the storm and had an opportunity to tie on a two-man powerplay advantage, but they couldn't get a clear shot away.

86's were finally able to beat Gauthier and take a 5-3 lead when Blaine recorded his third with 1:09 left.

FLYERS RALLY

Again in the third Flyers fought back and closed to within a goal when B. Brown converted one from a goal mouth scramble with seven minutes remaining.

86's settled the issue three minutes later, however, on Mike Jackson's effort. Pat Sullivan closed out the scoring three minutes later.

Despite the loss, Flyers president Tom Van Dellen, like Anderson, was pleased with the result. "I'm very satisfied with the effort. The club played a good, hard game," said Van Dellen. "Of course there's lots of room for improvement, this is just the second game. There's a whole season left and if we can keep improving we'll be alright.

"By Christmas I think we'll be very competitive. Kirk's a very good coach. The players like him and that makes a real difference."

Anderson, for his part, said the difference between his club's performances on Friday and Sunday was night and day.

"We just got bombed in Casselman, that's all you can say. But it had no real indication on anything, it was our first outing after just a few practices together. We're looking at sixth place or better, and to improve every time out. A result like Friday night doesn't worry me. It will all come together in time," said the coach.

Flyers will next see action Sunday (Oct. 30) when they travel to St. Isidore to play the Eagles. Game time is 8 p.m.

Flyers next home game is Friday, Nov. 4, when the Rockland Nats visit the Arena at 9 p.m.

Fling's second half paces Devils win

CORNWALL — Debbie Fling dropped in seven half-points here last Thursday, helping the visiting North Dundas District High School Devils to its second straight SD&G junior girls' basketball league victory.

The Devils were coming off an exciting 21-10 victory. Debbie Fling had the winning point in that game, over CCVS and now sports a two-win, one-loss record after three matches.

The same afternoon here at La Citadelle the senior girls from NDDHS lost its third straight game, losing 49-40 to the Patriotes.

Junior Devils' coach Gerry Jean was very happy with his young squad's second victory in three starts saying, "It was great, the girls are very bright and have learned quickly, and because we've had very little practice time they've learned under game conditions."

"I told them before the game that they would have to play it smart because they (Patriotes) were an experienced team and we couldn't match them in that department. The girls listened and they won."

La Citadelle led 2-0 after a very cautious first quarter but the Devils started finding the range in the second period and pulled away by a 12-7 margin at the half.

Shealyn Summers led the first-half charge with a pair of field goals. Debbie Fling, Marilyn Wade, Brenda Koekkoek and Anglique Cardinal hit for two points each.

North Dundas enlarged its lead to 28-9 at three-quarter time and held on for a 32-20 decision.

Debbie Fling led the winners with nine points. Shealyn Summers hooped eight, Brenda Koekkoek seven, Marilyn Wade six and Angelique Cardinal two points.

Chantal Tardiff led the Patriotes with six points.

SENIOR DROP THIRD

North Dundas trailed La Citadelle by 18 and battled back to get within four points, but wound up on the short end of a nine point, 49-40 loss.

Senior Devils' coach Deanna Corbett felt her team played, "okay. We had a super fourth quarter being down by 18 and getting back to within four points, but we started to get tired and began throwing the ball away. The other team had more experience in the later stages."

Coach Corbett, who joined the NDDHS staff after teaching and coaching last year at CCVS, explained her new team almost defeated St. Lawrence and were without top players Rose Rombough and Connie Armstrong in a big loss to CCVS.

In the latest outing she felt La Citadelle played extremely well to score 49 points and possibly wouldn't match that output again. She was without top scorer Rose Rombough for a second straight game and feels lack of game experience, in latter stages, was a factor in loss number three.

Connie Armstrong hit for a team-high 14 points. Jenny Lamb was number two Devil with nine points, Stacey Berry nailed eight. Vicki Gryspeerdt five and Megan Furuness two points.

Lysanne Bazinet topped the Patriotes' scoring parade with 11.

North Dundas will host the Glengarry Gaels in its next home game on Wed., Oct. 26.

Angels beat locals

MORRISBURG — Winchester lost their inaugural ROMEKS league girls hockey game Wednesday (Oct. 19) falling to Charlie Angels of Morrisburg 5-1.

Kathryn Houze scored twice for the victorious Angels, her first coming in the opening period as Morrisburg jumped out to a 2-0 lead.

Michelle Ault also scored for Angels in the first.

Tanya Mabu connected in the second as Morrisburg built a 3-0 cushion.

Stacey Berry scored an unassisted marker for Winchester with seven minutes remaining in the game to break the shutout.

Karen Mallee closed out the scoring with a third period marker for Angels. Michelle Ault assisted.

Dundas Demons post exhibition wins

CHESTERVILLE — North Dundas Demons midget travellers are off to a perfect start, winning two exhibition contests against formidable foes to open the year at 2-0.

On Friday (Oct. 21) the "B" level Demons faced off against Morrisburg "A" Lions and came up with a 3-2 victory.

Devils built up a two-goal first period lead on goals by Scott Francis and Tony Holmes.

David Harper and Willy O'Connor assisted on the Francis effort, Holmes' goal was aided by Troy Helmer.

Bill Zrymiak turned in a stellar goaltending performance and held Lions at bay until late in the second period when Rob Casselman's unassisted tally knifed Demons lead in half, at 2-1.

Early in the third period, however, David Harper connected for what turned out to be the game winner, taking a cross ice pass at the top of the circle and firing a blast past the Lions goaltender.

Jamie Smith closed out the scoring for Lions late in the game.

Coach Bernie Harper attributed the upset win to Zrymiak's heroics and aggressive forechecking by all three Demons offensive lines.

DEMONS BEAT GRENVILLE

Midget Demons opened their campaign Tuesday (Oct. 18) with an exciting 4-2 exhibition win over South Grenville.

Todd Halpenny's second goal of the game with 52 seconds remaining in the third period broke a 2-2 tie and sent Demons on their way to the victory.

Willy O'Connor assisted on the game winning goal.

Chris Holmes added Demons fourth goal into an empty net 32 seconds later.

After a scoreless first period, Demons offence came alive in the second, scoring twice late in the frame.

Gerry Van Kessel put his club up 1-0 with 3:41 left. Halpenny then scored his first with 38 seconds left in the stanza. David Harper and Scott Francis drew assists.

Visiting South Grenville mounted a third period comeback and managed to tie the contest.

Dave Robbins got Grenville on the board with 10:29 left (assisted by Dave Roddick) and Eric Flagg knotted the score at two with 9:47 remaining, setting the stage for Halpenny's last minute game winner.

Coach Harper was pleased with his club's defensive work in the contest, singling out the strong play of Chad Benoit and Brad Cotnam.

He was also satisfied with the penalty killing work turned in by Chris Holmes and Tony Holmes.

Demons will be in action again Friday (Oct. 28) night when they host Cornwall Township Flyers. Game time at the Chesterville Arena is 8 p.m.

North Dundas Minor Hockey Association Midget Tournament has been scheduled for Sunday, Dec. 11.

Morewood upsets Panthers

WINCHESTER — Morewood Vikings were giant killers Sunday night in Winchester and District Broomball League action.

Vikings needed a win over undefeated Dunbar Panthers in their "A" pool first place showdown and they got it, upsetting the defending league playoff champs by a 3-2 score.

Morewood came into the contest two points out of first place but the clubs are now tied for the league lead with identical four wins, one loss records. Each club has eight points.

Panthers appeared to be on track for a fifth straight win leading 2-1 in the late stages of the second half, but Vikings Dan McMahon knotted the score with 3:18 remaining.

Benny Phillips assisted on the equalizer.

Vikings maintained their momentum and won the game scoring just 48 seconds later. Mario Quenville found the net with 2:36 to play, scoring on a pass from Vince Cousineau.

Dunbar had taken the early lead scoring seven minutes in. Gary Gallinger spotted an open Shawn Patrick as Dunbar went ahead one-nil.

Morewood came back to tie late in the period, Gerald Eby's shot with 2:19 to go tied the score.

Mario Quenville was awarded an assist on the play.

Panthers regained the lead with twelve minutes left on a Lyn Whitteker goal. Whitteker's effort was assisted by Gary Gallinger and Shawn Patrick.

Vikings managed to keep Dunbar sniper Ray Lepine in check. Lepine leads the loop in scoring with eleven points (5 goals, six assists) but he was held pointless Sunday.

Vikings Vince Cousineau, fourth in league scoring with two goals and seven assists, was limited to one helper in the contest.

Russell Magnum Force's Mike Bols now owns a share of league leading scoring honors, as he enjoyed a six point night (3 goals, three assists) in Russell's 11-0 whitewashing of lowly Newington Knights.

Russell (3-1-1) now has seven points and are tied for second place in "A" pool, just one point back of Morewood and Dunbar.

Newington Knights are still looking for their first win of the season. With the shutout loss Knights fall to 0-5, mired in last place in "B" pool.

Steve Bekkers added two goals and three assists for Russell. He has moved into third place in league scoring with ten points (5 goals, 5 assists).

Recording single goals in the rout were Jim Pennock, John Corveneli, Jeff Coren, Dave Bols, Lucien Proulx, Paul Bols and Jim Feeley.

Pennock added three assists, while Corveneli and Coren supplied to two assists each. Feeley added one helper.

John Rystephanuk was between the Russell pipes and picked up the shutout.

Ormond Cloverdales kept pace in "A" pool with an exciting 2 to 1 decision over Toyes Hill Roadrunners.

With the score deadlocked at one and time running out league rules stipulate the goaltenders are removed in tie games in the last three minutes.

With the nets empty Cloverdales took advantage and scored the game winner with 56 seconds left. Doug Sloan scored it, his second of the game.

Brian Wiggins recorded the assist.

Roadrunners scored first, three-and-a-half minutes into the first half, on a Brian Melenhorst goal.

Assists went to Ted Bongers and Paul Melenhorst.

Sloan tied it late in the first half scoring on a pass from Carl Patterson.

Cloverdales now possess a 3-1-1- record, good for seven points and a share of second place in tier one.

Toyes Hill dropped to 2-3-1. They have five points and are one point boack of first place Prescott Road Knights in "B" pool.

Prescott Road improved to three wins and two losses (six points) and took over sole possession of first place of tier two, shutting down a frustrated Winchester Raiders squad, 3-0.

Raiders fell to one win and four losses with the defeat, and are just two points ahead of Newington Knights in the battle to avoid the "B" pool basement.

John Koenier scored the only goal Prescott Road would need, ten minutes in.

They extended their lead five minutes later when Reg Fisher found the twine, and moved in front comfortably at three-nil with a marker with just nine seconds left in the half. Pete Schoones notched Prescott's third goal.

Reg Fisher assisted on all three Knights goals.

The two clubs played through a scoreless second half.

CARBOHYDRATES: OUR ENERGY SOURCE

Carbohydrates are the most misunderstood nutrients in our diet. Dieters think carbohydrates are fattening, while athletes consume too many of the wrong kind in an attempt to get quick energy. Carbohydrates are predominantly found in plant foods, but we now have a long list of processed products that include concentrated carbohydrates in the form of refined sugar.

Are you ready for a shock? The average person takes in 125 pounds of refined sugar a year while complex carbohydrates account for only 28 per cent of our total calories! We can increase our intake of high-energy carbohydrates by eating more plant foods in the form of whole grains, fruits and vegies. We really should reduce our intake of refined sugar and highly processed hydrates to 10 per cent or less of our total calories. This means eating less of the obvious sweets and cutting down on highly processed white flour products, which are high in sugar and usually low in vitamins and minerals.

Although all carbohydrates end up as sugar (glucose) in the blood, complex carbohydrates are much less concentrated in sugar, more filling and higher in nutrients than refined processed sugar products. Too much sugar in our diet can have a negative effect on blood sugar, causing hypoglycemia, diabetes and heart disease.

Another advantage of eating complex carbohydrates is the fiber content. Fiber is only found in plant products. Animal products do not contain fiber, and fiber is low or nonexistant in refined and processed products. A diet low in fiber has been associated with colon cancer, diabetes, high cholesterol, and obesity.

Food processing has developed refined sugars. The term "refined" sounds fancy, but it is actually just a concentrated form of sugar that most often causes us to consume too much.

Pure cane? The standard table sugar may indeed be made from a plant food, sugar cane, but the processing involved extracts the sugar from the plant without giving us the benefit of the plant's vitamin, mineral and fiber content.

Carbohydrates should supply the majority of our daily calories if we live healthy, active lives. High endurance athletes may have diets containing as much as 80 per cent carbohydrates. Both carbohydrates and fat supply the muscles with energy, but it is the carbohydrates that are in limited supply and must be supplied on a daily basis. The body stores sugar (as glycogen) in the muscles, and it is from this source that we define the fuel for physical activity. If our dietary intake of carbohydrates is low and our expenditure of energy is high, then these stores become depleted and a corresponding decrease in exercise capacity occurs.

Tests have shown that a high-carbohydrate diet increases endurance, while a high-fat-high-protein diet reduces endurance. Training encourages the storage of more glycogen and saves glycogen by increasing the metabolism of fat. Of course, by "training", I'm referring to all forms of exercise that enable us to work at our training heart rate. Other factors, such as carbohydrate loading, can increase glycogen stores as well. But this practise is relative to the individual and the activity.

So, do we need candy? The answer is a resounding "NO"! Fruits contain all the natural sugars a person needs, and supply vitamins, minerals and fiber, too. The concentration of sugar in candy is deceptive and quite incredible. Happy Hallowe'en!

My Silent Achiever this week is the gorgeous office manager of a famous weekly newspaper. She has recently fought with hypoglycemia...and won. She has lost inches and gained energy through exercise and careful attention to a diet that's now free of refined sugars. Extremely Well Done!

We are so very lucky to be able to do it for ourselves.

Soccer Warriors eliminated

ALEXANDRIA — Tagwi Warriors senior boys soccer team couldn't hold a 2-0 first half lead and were eliminated by Glengarry Gaels 3-2 here in an SD&G Athletic Association soccer semi-final.

With the score tied at two at the end of regulaton time, the clubs failed to decide the issue in two ten minute overtime periods. Gaels finally advanced to the league finals winning in penalty kicks, 3-2.

Gaels were defeated by Char-Lan Crusaders at Williamstown in the final Wednesday.

Tagwi juniors were also eliminated by Glengarry Monday, by a 3-2 score.

Tagwi Warriors senior boys volleyball team salvaged one game of their three game set against St. Joseph's in Cornwall Wednesday (Oct. 19; winning the third match 15-6.

St. Joseph's took the first two games by 15-8 and 15-13 scored.

St. Lawrence Saints swept their three games against Tagwi, winning 15-10, 15-13 and 15-11.
