'Hands-on' health appeals to local teens

Kim Robinson

MAPLE RIDGE — It had the atmosphere of a shopping mall, only healthier.

The gymnasium at North Dundas District High School was abuzz with activity Thursday afternoon during the school's health fair. Groups of teens stopped here and there to check out a wide variety of displays.

The unstructured approach to health education seemed to work very well, according to students.

"If you get bored you can walk around and look at different things," noted Grade 9 student Jonny Vandewint. "It's not like sitting in a classroom."

Fellow student Jennifer Brannen also thought the fair was more interesting than a lecture on health issues.

Gripping a handful of pamphlets, student Doug Baker made his way through a tour of the exhibits. He'd read them later. For the moment he was too busy taking in the different displays.

There was a lot to choose from. Organizations such as Friends of Schizophrenics, the Canadian Cancer Society and the RCMP offered information on many different aspects of well-being, including mental and physical health as well as personal safety. Many of the displays took an interactive approach, getting the students involved through games and other activities.

Student Gordon Wells lined up at a display about nutrition to answer a quiz and get a glass of chocolate milk. He said he liked the idea of choosing what he found appealing from a variety of displays. Wells was most interested in learning about the effects of smoking.

Other students took the hands-on approach at a booth set up by the Canadian Centre for Drug-Free Sport. Here they could add their signatures and other messages to a panel that will be presented to Canadian athletes at the 1996 Summer Olympics in Atlanta.

"It's really special for them to write a word of encouragement to a specific athlete," observed Dina Bell, a communications coordinator for the centre.

Nearby, a number of teens gathered around a display of hand-held alarms, curious about the technological gadgetry on the table and anxious to try it out. Many of them jumped at the piercing noise the small devices produced.

Salesman Erik Fredeen, who was representing Quorum International Ltd. with his alarm display, said the students were a fun crowd.

John Szini of the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Canada remarked on the teens' enthusiasm for learning. He said the students who know either a relative or a friend who is affected by multiple sclerosis are most interested in talking to him, but even those who don't know anything about the disease showed curiosity.

Though turnout for the later session was lower than expected with about 60 adult visitors, Principal Don Fairweather said he was still pleased with the fair; many of the exhibitors had reported an excellent response from the students who visited their booths.

Youth workshop promotes safety

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

WINCHESTER — In attempts to reduce the number of farming-related accidents, the Dundas Farm Safety Association hosted a youth workshop in Winchester on April 22.

Seventeen enthusiastic participants ranging in ages from 10-16 took part in the day-long session held at Hamilton and Graf. The workshop was aimed at educating young people on the hazards associated with working around farm machinery and equipment.

According to Dundas Farm Safety Association secretary Richard Presley, the workshop, which has run for more than 10 years, is a good way of educating young people to potential dangers on the farm and how to avoid them.

The workshop featured tractor safety, power-take - off (PTO) safety methods, grain bin safety, and safety methods on other related equipment found on the farm. The program was handled by Sheila James, farm safety consultant for the area. Lunch and snacks were provided in the $5 registration fee.

This is the second year the event has been held at Hamilton and Graf in Winchester and Presley says the association is pleased with the efforts put forth by Bill Hamilton and his staff to help make the workshop a success. He also recognizes Margaret MacDonald of the Agricultural Employment Services in Chesterville and the staff at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs office in Winchester for their input.

Participants in this year's youth workshop were: Chris Morris, Nick Morris, Simon Zollinger, Ryan Keyes, Billy DeJong, Katherine Dings, Kimberly Dings, Janet Pemberton, Chris Deighton, Mike Deighton, Curt Porteous, Evan Porteous, Brent Porteous, Timothy Van Gilst, Andrew Van Gilst and Daniel Van Gilst.

$3 million mark

CASSELMAN— Seaway Valley Farmers Energy Co- operative announced last week in Casselman that sales for a new Eastern Ontario ethanol plant reached $3 million last week.

"Co-op members now total nearly 1,300, including members signed up last year, with 1995 membership sales more than half of the $5 million total authorized,"

At an earlier press conference in Kemptville April 20, SVFEC treasurer Richard Fraser announced the purchase of the largest block of Preferred A shares sold to date. The Ottawa Valley Seed Growers' Association, which promotes the use of pedigreed seed in Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec, purchased $40,000 of the Preferred A (non- voting) shares.

"This is a great show of support for the Seaway Valley Farmers Energy Cooperative. We are pleased that such an organization (OVSGA) has become involved with the project," said Fraser.

Ottawa Valley Seed Growers' Association vice-president Keith Lackey was on hand for the announcement.

The investment campaign is raising equity for a new $40 million ethanol plant planned for Cornwall.

According to Fraser, environmental permits for the property should be in place by early summer, at which time construction will begin.

Light bar rebate

Insurance company advocates visibility

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

WINCHESTER — The Grenville Patron Mutual Fire Insurance Company wants to make sure operators of farm tractors and machinery are seen when driving on public roadways.

According to Grenville Mutual, for the period 1985-1993 inclusive, third party liability claims resulting from property damage and physical injury involving farm machinery on the road totalled $7.2 million. This figure includes the loss experience of the pure mutual insurance companies who reinsure with the Farm Mutual Reinsurance Plan Inc. Although an overwhelming statistic, it does not include first party losses to machinery nor the suffering associated with physical pain endured by the victims.

With this in mind, the Spencerville-based insurance company is offering a $20 cash rebate to their current policyholders who purchase a farm safety light bar attachment.

"(The program) is a way of promoting safety and gives us some publicity as well," said Grenville Patron Mutual Fire Insurance Company General Manager, Alton Whitehorne.

THE PROGRAM

Under the Farm Safety Light program, Grenville Patron Mutual Fire Insurance Company will reimburse the machinery dealer for the $20 rebates given to purchasers of the light bars.

The purchaser must be a current policyholder of Grenville Mutual and there is a maximum of five units per policyholder. The offer is effective immediately and expires Nov. 30, 1995.

During the Dundas Farm Safety Association's annual meeting held earlier this year in Winchester, Ministry of Transportation inspector Bob Riddell suggested farmers use the light bar attachments when travelling on public roadways. According to Riddell, the light bars are easily attached to the backs of tractors and are highly visible from a distance.

Dundas Farm Safety member and a director with the Grenville Patron Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Gord Smith helped develop the farm safety light bar program. He says he's pleased insurance companies like Grenville Patron are taking such an active part in promoting farm safety.

For more information on the rebate, farmers should contact their local farm equipment dealer.

Market symposium attracts record numbers

TORONTO — The Farmers' Markets Ontario (FMO) Networking Symposium held recently at the Regal Constellation Hotel in Toronto, attracted over 175 farmers' market leaders, vendors and other farm producers.

Gail Hayden, of Concord, California spoke about "Advertising & Promotion That Works" and "Marketing Opportunities for Small Farms", while David Cohlmeyer, chef, writer and organic farmer, Cookstown Greens, Cookstown, presented helpful information entitled "Pick, Pack, Present".

A full day of the symposium was devoted to "Marketing in the 21st Century" where renowned agricultural marketing specialist Dan Block, of Ventura, California spoke about Global Marketing and NAFRA. Other speakers included Susan Sutherland, Canadian Produce Marketing Assocation, Ottawa, and Dr. Gordon Surgeoner, University of Guelph.

FMO's mission statement "We are the dynamic network and voice of Ontario's farmers' markets and their traditions, committed to leadership, development, management, promotion and representation" is particularly appropriate at a time when farmers' markets are enjoying a phenomenal renaissance across Ontario. Where there were 60 markets just five years ago, there are now 125. Towns, villages, cities, business improvement associations, agricultural societies, chambers of commerce, service clubs and others recognize that a farmers' market can be a dynamic economic development tool.

Government funding cut

METCALFE — A recent report, based out of Calgary, outlines the economic and social benefits of Canada's 811 fairs and exhibitions.

Manecon Partnerships, the company completing the study, concludes that "Canada's fairs provide significant economic and social benefit throughout the country. They have a large role to play in business development in the agriculture industry and an important opportunity and desire to participate in initiatives for rural renewal."

Metcalfe Fair president Betty Eastman remarked that "our fair aligns with many of the findings in this study." Fairs and competitive shows have demonstrated their value in in improving genetic product in agriculture, and fulfilling their mandate with priorities such as raising awareness of agriculture and the food chain. They also provide facilities and programming for the community — not just vested interest groups, but all age groups. "Metcalfe Fair is at the head of the pack with many of these priorities," Eastman stated.

Other key findings indicated that many other community organizations derive direct economic benefits from fairs and many community facilities are in place only because the fair has provided them. The Metcalfe Community Centre is built on land donated to the township by the Metcalfe Agricultural Society. As well, the Metcalfe Curling Club and Metcalfe & District Lions Den are both located directly on the fairgrounds. For many years, the ag society has had a reciprocal agreement with Osgoode Township High School for the use of the fair grounds by the Phys. Ed. Department during the school year in return for the use of the school gymnasium at fair time.

With the sunset of federal government funding in March of 1995, the Canadian Association of Fairs and Exhibitions (CAFE), produced a survey of affiliated fairs to provide needed information for fairs to aggressively respond to changes in economic, business and community needs.

The loss of funding from all areas of government has resulted in more emphasis being placed on fundraising. Metcalfe Agricultural Society's primary fundraising source is the Society Ball to be held Sat., May 6 at the Metcalfe Community Centre.

With the theme Music of the Night, the gala evening begins with fine dining on prime rib, catered by A.J.'s Valley Food Services Inc. After dinner, the Neon Big Band will play for dancing and listening pleasure. Later in the evening, $1,500 in cash prizes, as well as several other prizes, will be drawn. With a $45 tax-deductible receipt, tickets are $100 per couple.

Tickets for the seventh annual Society Ball are available from fair board directors and the Metcalfe fair office located on the fair grounds. For more information call 821-0591. This year's fair will be held Sept. 28 to Oct. 1.

FCC study:
Farm land values increase

REGINA — Research by the Farm Credit Corporation (FCC) shows that the value of farmland across Canada increased by an average of 4.7 per cent in the last half of 1994. This is the fourth consecutive increase reported by FCC, which releases the results of its national survey every six months. All provinces except Nova Scotia reported increases in farmland values.

$60 million annually for rural development

Agricultural and Agri-Food Minister, Ralph Goodale is submitting a monthly column to the Press as a means of informing area residents how the federal government plans to meet upcoming challenges facing the agricultural industry. The minister welcomes reader's comments. You can write to him at Office 175-EB, House of Commons, Ottawa, K1A 0A6.

There can be no doubt that the agriculture and agri-food sector of the Canadian economy is working its way through an era of great change — change driven by:

- the necessity to conserve scarce tax dollars and reduce government debt;
- the imperatives of world trade and new world trading rules;
- the need to enhance Canada's efficiency, productivity and competitiveness;
- the impact of science and new technology; and
- our thirst for great diversification, value- added growth and jobs.

To support our producers and processors in managing the changes that confront them, the recent federal budget established a series of specific "adjustment funds" connected to the termination of certain subsidies, namely: western grain transportation subsidies, feed freight assistance, and the Maritime and Atlantic region freight assistance programs. These adjustment funds will help smooth the transition to a new operating environment.

In addition, the Government of Canada has created a more general fund of up to $60 million annually to be used nationally to encourage agricultural adaptation and rural development.

Here are some illustrations of how this fund will be put to work:

The Canadian Farm Business Management program will be renewed for another four years, with a federal focus on developing the tools and services which have applications beyond a single province;

A new farm income review process will concentrate upon helping farmers to avoid future farm debt crises, while offering reasonable support services to those already in difficulty;

Ralph Goodale

Through the Farm Credit Corporation (FCC), a pilot business planning service will be available to assist in the establishment of new agriculture- related enterprises in rural Canada.

Funding will be provided to help small and medium- sized food processing businesses implement internationally-accepted inspection standards, to promote export potential.

A Canadian Agriculture Safety Program will be established to help reduce injuries and deaths that result from farm accidents.

Financial support will be increased for the POS Pilot Plant, a non-profit organization which concentrates on commercializing new agricultural and agri-food technologies.

The Matching Investment Initiative will be enhanced to leverage more private-sector dollars into practical agricultural research and development in Canada.

Federal funding for the 4-H movement will be increased.

A package of transitional measures will be developed to help offset the unintended regional implications of transportation reforms.

There will be a specific focus upon developing modern public infrastructure (including information technologies) in rural communities, and upon partnerships and joint ventures in the promotion of rural economic development. The FCC and the Farm Improvement and Marketing Co-Operative Loans Act — with enhanced mandates, if necessary — will be used to help improve access to capital in rural areas.

These initiatives, together with others to be developed in consultation with farm organizations and other rural stakeholders, do not constitute any form of "hand out." Instead, they amount to a "hand up" — to support the agriculture and agri-food sector to grow, capture new markets, diversify, modernize, and strengthen its bottom line — all on a solid foundation, nothing artificial.

I welcome your questions or comments. Please write to me at Office 175-EB, House of Commons, Ottawa, K1A 0A6.

Provincial 4-H camp

by Huib Quist

PORT SYDNEY — During March break Donald Fisher, Steve Bossell and I represented Dundas at the provincial 4-H leadership camp in Port Sydney, Ont.

When we arrived at the camp all the delegates felt like strangers in the middle of nowhere; on the contrary, we were actually friends who had not met yet, in a camp that welcomed everyone. One of the delegates portrayed the camp very well, saying "I wish the world could be like this camp".

While we were there we learned listening skills, how to run effective meetings, team building, leadership styles and personal goal setting. We accomplished this by living up to our motto "Learning to do by Doing." On behalf of the three delegates chosen from Dundas I would like to say that we will put what we have learned to use within our clubs and community.

I would like to thank the Dundas 4-H Association for paying our registration fee. I think that every delegate there would agree that this was a thrilling, entertaining, instructional experience and would urge anyone who likes to have fun and to make friends to attend next year.

Fitting and showing day

WINCHESTER — A dairy fitting and showing day is slated for June 28, at Neil Kittle's farm outside Winchester.

4-H members will have the chance to train, clip and show a calf. Animals will be provided, so members don't need to bring their own. Groups of three or four 4-H members will work together to prepare their animals for a mock show.

This is a compulsory event for 4-H members as it counts for the June club meeting.

Maxville Fair to host competition

MAXVILLE — Maxville Fair is hosting an open calf club competition for members of organized 4-H clubs in 1995.

The competition for members showing their own 4-H calf, will be held Sat., May 27 for the dairy classes and on Sun., May 28 for the beef classes.

Entries close Fri., May 12. Entry forms and information are available at the OMAFRA office.

Ormond 4-H club

by Claudia Zollinger

ORMOND — Ormond life skills project, Horticulture - Grow Your Own, started recently with a new leader, Tammy Duke. Sixteen members answered roll call. Our fun name is "Ormond Potato Heads."

Youth leader Patty Duke explained and conducted the election of officers. Officers are: president, Anna Dietrich; vice-president, Marc Sheldrick; secretary, Petra Zollinger; press reporter, Claudia Zollinger.

The new members of the club are: Ashley St. Pierre, Benji Hart, Matthew Ouellette and David Zollinger.

Senior members have started to grow an herb garden and all members planted a mystery vegetable in their own disinfected, recycled container under the watchful eye of youth leader Stephanie Sheldrick.

We have sketched our garden plots and now have to decide how and what fruits and vegetables to plant.

For a snack, leaders provided carrot sticks and glazed sweet potatoes from last year's garden. This way we can enjoy the fruits of our garden all year round.

The next meeting is planned for May 3 at the home of Melissa Skuce.

STERNBERG — In loving memory of a dear daughter, Shannon, who passed away May 2, 1994.
There's a face that is haunting as ever,
There's a voice that we're longing to hear;
There's a smile we'll remember forever,
Though we try to forget every tear.
There's a sad but sweet remembrance,
There's a memory fond and true;
There's a token of affection, dear,
And heartache still for you.

Many think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies in the heart concealed.

In Memoriam

SPIERENBURG — In loving memory of a dear mother, mother-in-law and Oma, Clasina, who passed away May 7, 1990.
What we would give if we could say,
"Hello Mom" in the same old way.
To hear you laugh and see you smile,
To sit with you and chat awhile.
So you have a mother
Cherish her with care
For you never know the heartache
Until you see her empty chair.
— Lovingly remembered, your family

FWIO promotes safety, healthy communities

GUELPH — After discussions ranging from budgeting, safety of citizens, child care, strengthening the work ethic, nutrition education to citizens' responsibilities, the Provincial board directors of the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario voted at their March meeting in Guelph to launch a new focus for the organization, Safe and Healthy Communities.

Since 1988, the focus of FWIO has been the environment. In two years, members initiated over 350 projects. Across the province these included major recycling projects, tree planting, and refusing to use disposable items.

The first step towards Safe and Healthy Communities will be a provincial seminar in the fall. Community leaders will be invited to identify and prioritize needs, develop ideas to address these needs and write the project descriptions required for funding applications. The Women's Institute will facilitate discussions with agencies that have expertise in the target areas. There will be opportunities to network with other community leaders.

Safe and Healthy Communities is intended to create a positive atmosphere for community living. The Women's Institute has a long history of involvement in community action for "home and country".

Building centre joins Novico

Morrisburg Building Centre has recently joined the novico franchise

Novico is a dynamic group of hardware and home improvement centres. Its main goal is to provide the member retailers with the best possible marketing and buying support. Launched at the end of 1986, Novico already counts over 200 members across Canada. Novico has been the fastest growing banner in the industry for the past several years.

Novico supports its members with a complete marketing program that includes store identification, merchandising, advertising, promotions, management services and more. The image of professionalism and excellence that emanates from Novico contributes to increasing the traffic and sales in the members' hardware and home improvement centres, through added product selection, numerous "rock bottom priced items", as well as monthly sale events.

Novico is a division of the SODISCO/Howden Inc., a Canadian leader in the distribution of hardware and building supply items, supporting a 1.4 billion dollar retail sales network nation-wide. This is done by serving 900 independently owned and operated franchise stores.

Morrisburg Building Centre states "The change in signage will in no way reduce the fine service and product selection we have offered in the past. The Novico Hardware program is owned by the same distributor as we dealt with in the past as an independent, ensuring the same efficient service and improved product availability in 1995 and beyond."

"The main reason for the change is to position our store in line with the changing retail in the local community. In fact our new banner's slogan will be, Novico - your neighborhood Renovation Centre.

The entire staff at Morrisburg Building Centre thanks you, our customers, for your past patronage and looks forward to serving your hardware and building material needs in the future.

'Harvey' production does RAPA proud

Garnet Quail
Press Staff Reporter

RUSSELL—Theatre-goers to the RAPA production of 'Harvey' April 20-22 should have absolutely no reason to feel that they received anything but professional entertainment from this very ambitious and talented amateur group.

'Harvey' brought a lot of fine talent to the Russell stage and it was nice to see some new faces in rather demanding roles. We tend to see many of the familiar faces resurfacing show after show and sometimes this 'trend' seems a little bit wearing. What we must remember is the fact that the people who appear show after show are the very same bodies who work tirelessly behind the scenes of each production and can always be called on to smooth the 'rough spots'. They don't always receive the accolades they should when everything goes right.

Enough preaching.

Harvey is the story of a rather eccentric character, one Elwood P. Dowd, very capably played by Roy Laird. Elwood shares his home with his sister and her lovely daughter and, of course, Harvey the mischievous and invisible 'pooka' who has befriended him. Daughter is desperately searching for a 'proper young man' and Mother is desperately helping.

Big Sis develops a plan to have Elwood committed so that he will no longer pose a threat to the social scene around the house. The doctors listen to her story and, convinced that she is the one requiring help, proceed to commit her.

The resulting confusion is, as can well be imagined, hilarious. Len Trembley as the senior psychiatrist Dr. Chumley was quite convincing as he drew nearer and nearer to the brink of insanity brought on by the mix-up. Wendy Lacroix also did an excellent job in the role of Chumley's wife, a role made tougher by the fact that Lacroix was also directing the piece and had to step in at the last minute as a replacement when Julie Callon, originally cast in the part became ill.

Paul Washer, as the orderly at the sanitarium, was proof positive that all of the crazy people are not locked up.

Even Jane Brownrigg, in her role as the maid at the Dowd residence, was wonderful as she delivered her single line with true conviction.

For any of you who may have missed the RAPA presentation, 'Harvey' is available on video with Jimmy Stewart in the role of Elwood Dowd. It is also a favorite on PBS channels or on late-night movies.

If you haven't seen it in any version, do yourself a favor. It's great!

Aunt Ethel Chauvenet (Joy Whittle), at left, awaits the arrival of Elwood P. Dowd and his invisible rabbit friend Harvey, along with Myrtle Mae Simmons (Allison Brown), centre, and Mother Veta (Heidi Vidler). "Harvey" played to sold-out audiences at the Russell Arena April 20-22 and was produced by RAPA — the Russell Association for the Performing Arts.

Guided tours are back at Upper Canada Village

MORRISBURG — Spring is in the air and Upper Canada Village is getting ready to open its gates to the first visitors. Pre-season guided tours are back from Sat., May 6 to Fri., May 19, and will be leaving daily from the village entrance.

People are invited to join a guide in period costume (1860s) on a pleasant one-and-a-half hour stroll into the past. There is lots to discover as the village reawakens from hibernation. Although the village is not in full operation, visitors can see many of the homes, commercial buildings and mills during the tour.

The guided tours are scheduled as follows: May 6 to May 12: 10 am, 11:30 am, 1:30 pm and 3:30 pm.

May 13 to May 19: 10 am, 10:45 am, 11:30 am, 12:45 pm, 1:30 pm, 2:15 pm, 3 pm, and 3:45 pm.

Visitors can also enjoy a new exhibit at Crysler Hall starting Mon., May 15 to Mon., August 21. The "Fur Trade" exhibit tells the fascinating story of the vast trans-continental enterprise — from the coureur-de-bois, voyageurs and traders to the role of women to the making of beaver hats.

Admission to the guided tours and the exhibit is $4 for adults, $3 for seniors and $2 for students and children 5 to 12. Children four years of age and under enter free.

The Village Store and the Village Cafe will be open for business during the guided tours.

Please call Upper Canada Village at 613-543-3704 for more information.

Finch school gets new gym

by Greg Hewitt

FINCH — When gym class rolls around for students at St. Bernard School in Finch next year, it will no longer mean a trek outdoors or basic exercises in a portable room.

Workers recenty began tearing down the school's portable to make room for a new gymnasium. The gym and a new classroom to replace the portable are scheduled for completion by September 1.

St. Bernard School serves Catholic Board students in grades 6,7 and 8, many of whom graduated from St. Mary's School in Chesterville. Its need of better gym facilities has been the focus of attention from the board and from parents for years.

As workers began prying the tin coating from the portable Thursday, St. Bernard principal Michael Van de Kamp said he was pleased but surprised the work had begun so suddenly. It was approved by the SD&G Catholic School Board only two days before.

"The push right now is for daily physical education," Van de Kamp said. "And this will allow us to run a lot more variety in the program."

Gym classes held inside the current portable are limited, he said, because the ceiling is only eight feet high and vertical support posts run through the centre.

That taught students to "keep their heads up," he quipped, but meant most gym activities were held outdoors. When weather was poor, only basic exercises could be held.

The new gymnasium will have a 30-foot ceiling, and will expand the types of activity in which students will be able to participate.

The gymnasium will be built by Avonmore's Dale Coleman Construction, and the classroom by the Catholic Board's own maintenance department.

The new classroom will include a hallway, upgrade of the school's fire protection system and flooring with a permanent foundation.

The projects are funded totally by the SD&G Catholic Board, said English Language Section deputy director of education Kevin Lydon Monday, and will be debentured, or paid over a number of years.

Lydon explained the projects do not qualify for Ministry of Education funding because the school does not have an enrolment greater than 100.

But he said trustees have considered improvements at St. Bernard a priority for several years. He also noted the role of local parents, who organized in support of the project and co- operated with the board.

"Parents were certainly active as a catalyst through the whole process and I think trustees listened and listened very well," Lydon said.
