OPINIONS . . .

Ours and Others

How Are You Fixed for Blazes?

This is the time of year when firemen, volunteer and regular, can expect an increase in the number of fire calls. Thankfully, most of them consist of chimney blazes and grass fires out of control. But the increase also includes those alarms that spell disaster for a household; the loss of life and buildings due to the savagery of uncontrolled fire rises in the Fall and the hazard is great all through the heating months.

There are many causes for fires in our homes and buildings, but the most common one is the one easiest taken care of: carelessness. Man, being a somewhat sloppy creature anyway, decided to get up off his forepaws a few millenniums ago and when he reached that decision, he also decided that a lot of things below his lofty level of vision were not worth watching. Rubble collects, corners fill up, the ash tray is too far away so we use the floor, and wandering sparks are nurtured into big blazes because we are too careless to keep the litter cleaned up. The first cold snap finds us with our stove pipes still loaded with last year's soot, the stove stuffed with a collection of old Records and other discarded paper. The ten-year-old decides it would be nice to have some heat, touches a match to the mess, and the net result is a scare that makes the whole neighbourhood throb when the siren goes to call the firemen to put out the chimney fire.

Oil heating has made a few changes in the pattern of home heating in the past few years. It has helped to control some of the hazards that are always present when we try to harness flame to our use. The best of mechanical devices get out of order, though, and it is then necessary to get repairs done at once. Unless the homeowner is well-versed in the intricacies of the mechanical unit, it would be well to call in a specialist. Oil will whoof into flame all too fast if it is not under control.

This Fall, make sure of your heating arrangements; don't try to accidentally heat the whole street with your burning through carelessness.

Hallowe'en Pranks

Each year at this time we point the admonitory finger at our more youthful friends and say: "Be careful on Hallowe'en." Then we feel like a kill-joy, in a way, because Hallowe'en is a time for the young ones to have a little uninhibited fun.

Fun is a good thing if it is not carried to excess. There are so many instances quoted each year of dire results that happen because of too much fun concentrated at certain points in communities that we are duty bound to utter a warning. Property is sacred to the owner, whether it be Hallowe'en or any other night. Damage done on the 31st of October is just as liable for punishment as on November 1st. It is well to remember that the policeman's authority is as all-embracing then as at any other time.

Have fun on Hallowe'en, but don't let pranks turn to vandalism.

COLLECTOR'S ITEM

Television repairmen are, by habit, prepared for the worst when they take the back off a set, but Jamie McIntosh, of Tulsa, is still flabbergasted with one set in particular.

Inside the set (and McnItosh has an inventory to prove it) were:

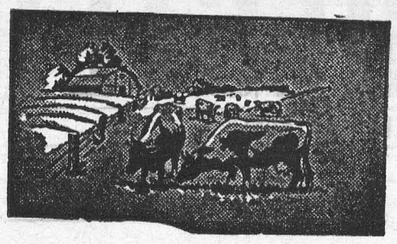
Nineteen pencils, three toy drum sticks, three lollipop sticks, two slivers of bamboo, a safety pin, a hair curler, seven wood screws, two pieces of wallboard, a four-inch castiron rod, an earring, insulated staple, four soda straws, two pearl beads, a button, a clock gear, a lipstick cap, a toothpaste cap, two rocks, a butterbean, 10 cigarette butts, six matches and one chicken bone.

Between 1890 and 1813 Britain produced more than half the world's new shipping tonnage.

Henry Grattan, Irish statesman who died in 1820, was one of Ireland's foremost orators.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

By Lillian Allison



Here is a true story:

An elderly farmer stood for a moment gazing at a steaming pile of manure. Then he said, "You know, Bud, it was spreading manure that really made me believe in God."

His listener looked blank so he continued, gravely, "If the stuff wasn't good for the land, what would we ever do with it all? We couldn't dump it in the streams or bury it; it'd take too long to dry it and burn it; and if we just let it pile up we'd soon have to move. We really would-a been in for trouble if the good Lord hadn't figured things out in advance."

I couldn't help thinking of that story as I watched Harry forking the smelly stuff into the spreader the other day. Whatever would we do with it if it were simply waste? The atomic energy experts are worrying and fretting over what they will do with the useless materials left over when electricity, etc. is produced by atomic power. But their problem isn't any worse than the farmers' would have been had the good Lord not planned that manure could be returned to the soil.

Think of the amount that would accumulate on a farm during a few years' time. We had a small mountain of it which had been produced by 20-25 head of cattle in less than a year. I cant' imagine how much there'd be from 60-70 cows over a farmer's lifetime. How lucky we are to be able to spread it on the fields!

And it isn't as if we were simply getting rid of it when we spread it on the land. It is as it has rightly been called "the farmers' gold." "Barnyard manure is the best of all sources of fertilizer and humus," wrote the late Louis Bromfield, noted U.S. agriculturalist. His big problem, however, was that he couldn't get half enough of it. Good manure is priceless.

Of course, we can buy commercial fertilizers. They're good, too. But unless we have in the soil the organic matter that manure provides the fertilizers don't seem to be able to do much good. Continued use of commercial products without the replenishing of organic materials creates soil that burns the plants and retards their growth. The soil becomes hard like cement the way some town gardens get when organic materials are not added to them.

So you see the farmer with the load of manure wasn't too far out when he met the city lady. "What on earth are you going to do with that?" she asked, holding her nose.

"I'm going to put it on my strawberries," he said.

"I'd a lot rather have sugar on mine," she replied.

There isn't a doubt that manure would do a great deal more for strawberries than would sugar. It contains innumerable minerals and trace elements that are needed so badly in the growing of grass, grain, fruits and vegetables. Besides it keeps the soil loose and porous so that the rain soaks in instead of running off and tiny root hairs can wend their way among the particles of soil. It extends to the earthworms an invitation to come and live in the soil where it is and surely we all appreciate the earthworm for he is one of the farmer's and gardener's best friends.

India offers us a pitiful example of how the lack of manure effects production. There fuel is practically impossible to get. The people dry and burn manure in order to keep themselves warm. Thus the soil has been run out for so long it produces very little while the people are starving.

So the next time you meet a farmer with a load of manure hold your nose if you wish but treat that load with every respect. In it is the secret of many of the abundant crops that we in these mixed farming areas enjoy.

And let us all reverence a little more Him Who by His great wisdom planned in advance a profitable use for a by-product which otherwise would have presented an immense problem for the farmers of all time.

Light Along The Way

"Thou shalt rise up before the hoary head and honour the face of the old man." (Lev. 19 : 32). The Jews, like many of their Eastern neighbours, had great respect for those who had attained a good age. Some of their lesser laws, like this one in Leviticus, suggest the attitude that is to be taken concerning age in general. There is evidence that much of the wisdom of the Eastern races is attributable to this healthy respect of senior citizens.

The West has been the centre for tremendous technological development. This development requires great technical training, and its continued increase has brought a peculiar value to young men and women, with a corresponding loss of respect and veneration for older men and women. The day has dawned, however, when the inherent weakness of this attitude is recognizable and age is once again beginning to receive the resepect which is its due.

It is well to recall the grounds for the veneration of age in the past. In the first place age and experience were looked upon as indivisible, and there was no teacher quite like experience. No mere process of education could develop the hand of a craftsman. It is one thing to learn a skill, another to perfect it. Just as a baby learns to distinguish things by touch, taste and sight, so it is necessary to put knowledge to the test before it is really possessed. The tragedy is that so many have to learn "the hard way" instead of profiting by the experience of those who have gone before.

In the second place, wisdom and age have always been linked together. There is a measure of wisdom which can only be possessed by those who have lived many years. Profound changes take place with the passing of life. Tastes change, ardour cools, the pace slackens, and the result is a different understanding and appreciation of life. Wisdom is the result of that change and experience which work together to bring a mature point of view that does not come in any other way.

The passing of life throws things into their proper perspective. Old people are wise in that they have discovered what is really important. They know full well how: "Getting and spending, we waste our powers." They remember how much of their lives are "bound up in shallows and misery" through the mistakes they have made in their youthful inexperience.

Only from the vantage point of age can experience, and wisdom which is born of it, be moulded together to form a proper perspective of life, ". . . honour the face of the old man." Yes! He has much to teach and wise is he who will learn.

On the Bookshelf

While Chaucer was reaching plump middle age at the court of the boy King Richard, the small peasant cultivator, the farmer of the open field strips, was continuing his fight for freedom.

Most landlords and tenants had realized it was in the best interest of all to replaice villein services with money rents, but old customs died hard and even on some manors where field service had thus been commuted the lords continued to claim the merchet which was the fine paid by the peasant for marrying.

In many places, when the tenant died, the landlord levied the heriot which gave him the right to seize the very best animal owned by the surviving family.

We all know of the rising of 1381 and how poorly policed was the England of that day when murder, rape, beating and robbery by violence were everyday incidents, yet the peasant profited as much as he lost by the absence of police.

The villein farmer striving for freedom, the free workman in constant revolt against the Statute of Labourers (which prohibited the raising of wages) were never in such subjection as was the agricultural labourer in the 19th century, when he had been deprived of the bow and club and had not yet been armed by the vote. In the 14th century every man was expected to take his own part with stick, fist, arrow and club and such people were not easily overawed.

"Inside Africa"

This is John Gunther's mightiest feat of reporting. Mr Gunther travelled 40,000 miles in preparation for writing this book and interviewed 2 500 people. He talked with kings, black nationalists, white prime ministers, giants, pygmies, slaves and native potentates.

ONTARIO HYDRO

ST. LAWRENCE POWER PROJECT

CEMETERIES

The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is required under The St. Lawrence Development Act, 1952 (No. 2) to construct, maintain and operate power development works in the International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence River which will necessitate the flooding of the land where certain cemeteries described hereunder are located.

These cemeteries have been closed by order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario in Council, dated August 22nd, 1956.

The Commission is aware that many persons will not wish the graves in these cemeteries to be disturbed while others will wish that the remains be moved to a new cemetery. The Commission is anxious to respect the wishes of all persons and the following procedure is designed to carry out those wishes. Attention is directed particularly to subsection (3) of section 23a of The St. Lawrence Development Act, 1952 (No. 2) which reads as follows:

(3) "Where a cemetery has been closed under this section, the Commission at its expense shall make available to the cemetery owner if requested in writing by him an equivalent area of land and shall put it into suitable condition for cemetery purposes, and if requested in writing by a lot owner in the cemetery so closed the cemetery owner shall make available to him, without cost to the lot owner, an equivalent lot in the substituted cemetery and shall accept for reburial in such substituted cemetery any human body removed under this section from the cemetery so closed."

Where a cemetery has been closed under the above Act, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is authorized to flood and submerge a cemetery whether or not all human bodies buried therein have been removed, but may not do so until six months after the Commission has given notice of its intention to submerge a cemetery by publication of such notice once each week for four successive weeks in a newspaper having general circulation in the locality in which the cemetery is situate.

In order to perform its obligations and duties in this regard, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario therefore gives notice to all persons interested that:

(a) The cemeteries to be submerged are located as described in the following list:

1. Mille Roches United Cemetery, Lot 26, Concession 1, in the Township of Cornwall

(b) The Commission has provided a new Union Cemetery located at Lots 6 and 7, Concession 1, Township of Osnabruck, County of Stormont, which will replace all of the cemeteries listed above.

(c) A close relative or other person entitled to ownership of and to rights of burial in a plot in one of the cemeteries which has been closed and who wishes that the remains in any such plot be removed to the Union Cemetery is required to give written notice not later than January 5th, 1957 addressed to Mr. E. B. Easson, Secretary, The Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, 620 University Avenue, Toronto, Ontario.

(d) Where no notice is received requesting removal, the remains will not be disturbed.

(e) All remains will be removed to the new Union Cemetery at the expense of the Commission. Should it be required that remains be removed to some other cemetery, the Commission will assume so much of the expense as it would be required to assume if the remains were removed to the Union Cemetery.

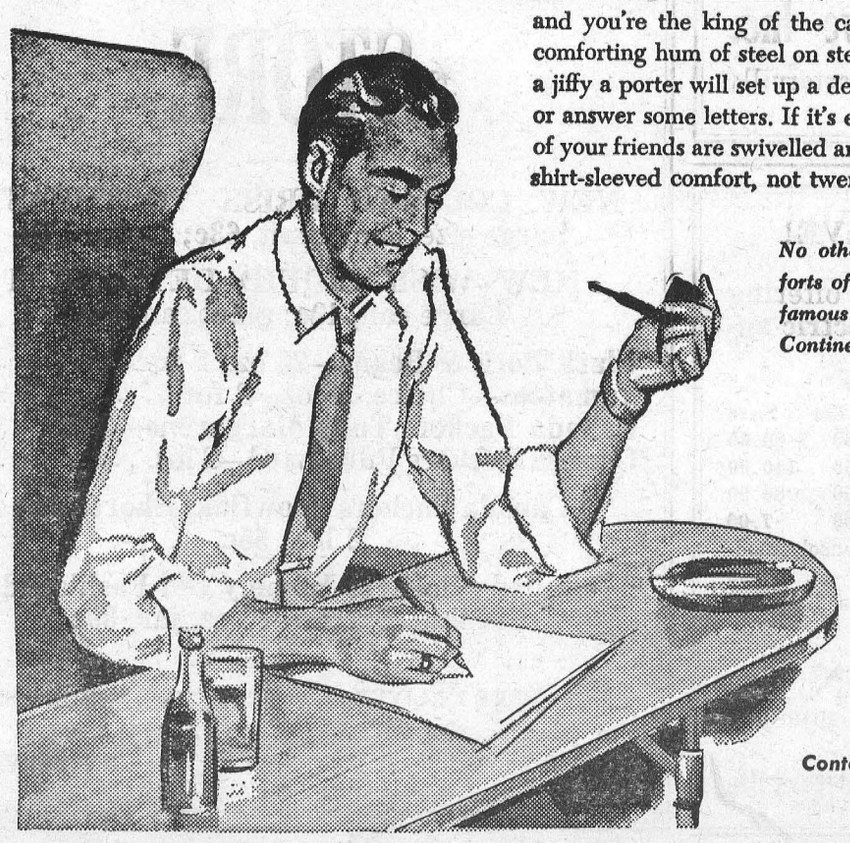
man, this is travelling!

You're secure in an oasis of comfort, speeding along twin ribbons of steel, yours the only car on the road!

NO STRAIN BY TRAIN — On CNR, as the miles whip smoothly by, the strains and stresses we live under ooze out of relaxing muscles and minds. The pressures of the workaday world melt away. There's nothing to disturb your peace of mind, no traffic tangles to shred your nerves. Your chauffeur has 3,500 horsepower at his command to gobble up the space between where you are and where you want to be.

LET IT RAIN, LET IT POUR — Rain might make the roads hazardous. A blanket of fog might reduce visibility to zero. But weather is only something you read about in the new CNR cars, as you flip the pages of a magazine in deep-upholstered comfort. You know you'll get where you want to go when you want to be there, come hail or high water. And, if you wish, a rented car will await your arrival at any major point.

WORK, REST OR PLAY — YOU TAKE YOUR CHOICE — You're free as a breeze when you go CNR. You're not chained to a steering wheel, or shackled in a small cubicle. You're in a modern ranch bungalow on wheels, and you're the king of the castle. Tired? Flip back your seat and let the comforting hum of steel on steel lull you to sleep. Or in something less than a jiffy a porter will set up a desk for you, and you catch up on office routine, or answer some letters. If it's entertainment you're after, your seat and those of your friends are swivelled around and there you are bidding four spades in shirt-sleeved comfort, not twenty feet from the edge of a rain-swept forest!



No other way you can travel gives you all these comforts of home, and more. Next time, go CNR — on such famous "name" trains as the Super Continental, the Continental and the Ocean Limited.

TIP-OFFS PAY WELL WITH U.S. GOVERNMENT

There's good money in "tips" if you have the know-how.

If you know that someone is going to try to smuggle something into the United States, you can go to the nearest U.S. Customs office, give the tip, and collect your reward.

The reward is 25 percent of the amount the Federal Government realizes from the seized article, plus one-fourth of the fine levied against the smuggler.

A Boston tipster collected about $11,000 not too long ago for supplying information that led to the arrest at Logan Airport of a smuggler carrying contraband diamonds worth $40,000.

EVERYBODY EATS-- TRY THESE!

By Helen Graham

THAT GOOD LEMON FLAVOUR

LIKE ONION, lemon improves the flavour of a wide variety of dishes. Add a few drops of lemon juice to spinach; squeeze lemon juice over fish; add it to crushed strawberries for strawberry shortcake, or just make an old fashioned lemon pie.

Lemon Pie

1 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 tbsp. butter
4 tbsps. cornstarch
Juice and rind of 1 lemon

Make syrup of water and half the sugar. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon coloured. Add rest of sugar and cornstarch mixed, to the egg yolks. Add syrup slowly and stir until it thickens. Add butter, lemon juice and rind. Cook over hot water about 15 minutes. Pour in cooked pie shell. Make a meringue from two egg whites and two tablespoons fruit sugar. Spread on filling and brown 20 minutes in a slow oven.

Lemon Sponge Pudding

¾ cup sugar
1 tbsp. butter
2 eggs
2 tbsps. flour
Few grains salt
Juice of 1 lemon
1 cup milk

Cream sugar and butter together;add flour, egg yolks and juice. Add milk slowly to prevent curdling. Fold in egg whites beaten stiff. Turn into baking dish. Place baking dish in pan of hot water and cook in 300 degree oven 30 minutes.

Lemon Filling for Tarts

1½ cups sugar
2 cups boiling water
5 tbsps. cornstarch
5½ tbsps. flour
4 egg yolks
Grated rind of 2 lemons
½ cup lemon juice
2 tsps. butter
Few grains salt

Mix sugar, flour, cornstarch and salt. Add to boiling water. Cook over boiling water, stirring frequently, till thickened. Add beaten egg yolks. Cook 3 minutes longer. Add lemon juice, rind and butter.

This is a good recipe to make when you have extra egg yolks on hand.

Lemon Drops

½ cup butter
1 cup sugar
2 eggs
1 tbsp. grated lemon rind
1 tsp. vanilla
2 cups flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. soda
¼ cup fresh lemon juice

Cream butter; add sugar and cream thoroughly with the butter. Add eggs, lemon rind and vanilla. Beat well. Sift dry ingredients and alternately with lemon juice. Drop by teaspoonfuls on greased cookie sheet. Bake in moderate oven about 10 minutes.

To add a touch of colour, before baking sprinkle with sugar to which a few drops of food colouring has been added.

the uranium that went into the first atomic bombs, the reasons why witchcraft is increasing among primitive people out in the bush and the tyranny of the veil in Arab countries.

You will meet the "King of Diamonds," and a king who has 93 wives, the Sultan of Zanzibar, and many other leaders. You will learn of the forces that shaped them for good or evil—Africa is here in its mystery and majesty. Incidentally, this book is on "the most in demand" list of Toronto Public Libraries.

"Immortal Rock"

By Laura Goodman Salverson, gives us an epic of adventure and devotion that will stir the blood and bring to life a forgotten page of North American history.

King Magnus of Norway in the 14th century sent a band of nobles and soldiers to restore Christianity amongst the colonists of Greenland.

Their search for the lost colony took them across the sea to Vinland and along the uncharted coast to Hudson's Bay and thence to what is now Minnesota. The saga of each man's life is unfolded, and they left as their only record an inscription carved on a stone which was discovered in 1898 on a Minnesota farm.

Piecing together the known facts, the inscription on the stone and with patient research into old Scandinavian annals, Mrs Salverson has reconstructed the story of the intrepid Paul Knutson, his men and expedition.—S.C.

Ainslie officiated at the marriage ceremony in which Odalene Eunice Hall, daughter of Mr and Mrs Percy Hall, Chesterville, became the bride of Clifford Bowers, son of Mr and Mrs Michael Bowers, Pembroke.

Miss Addie Campderros was soloist and Sister Mary Remeginus was organist.

The bride's only attendant was Mrs Thomas Helferty, of Toronto. Thomas Helferty acted as best man and the ushers were Edward Bowers, Pembroke, and Edward Montgomery, Renfrew.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore traditional white, the floor length skirt of satin having overskirts of nylon net and lace. The tightly fitting bodice, of satin and lace, was fashioned with long sleeves ending in points over the hands and a mandarin collar which was edged in seed pearls.

The pearl-encrusted coronet held in place the fingertip length veil of nylon net and lace and the bride carried a bouquet of red roses which, shaped as a horseshoe, was finished with wide satin streams.

Mrs Helferty, the matron of honour, wore a gown of white satin nylon net and lace, with a capelet of blue satin, and she carried a nosegay of white and mauve 'mums.

Mrs Hall, the mother of the bride, wore for receiving a dress of light blue crepe and lace with navy accessories and Mrs Bowers, the groom's mother, chose for the same occasion a frock of navy blue crepe with black accessories. Both ladies wore pink roses en corsage.

Following the reception held at Barker's Hotel, the young couple left on a wedding trip, Mrs Bowers wearing a beige wool dress with sequin trim, matching top coat and navy accessories and her corsage bouquet was of pink roses.

Presbytery W.A. Holds Fall Rally At Prescott

The Fall rally of the Dundas-Grenville Presbytery Woman's Association was held as a supper meeting in St. Paul's United Church, Prescott, on Monday, October 22, with more than 75 persons registered.

The meeting was opened with a hymn and prayer by the president, Mrs W. H. Baugh, Easton's Corners. Greetings were read from the chairman of Presbytery and Rev M. B. Jose, of St. Paul's, both of whom were unable to be present.

Several matters of business were dealt with including the appointment of a courtesy committee with Mrs G. Dangerfield, Iroquois, as convener. It was decided to have two regional divisions with the boundary between P and Grenville as the dividing line. Several offices in the Presbytery Association are vacant: Christian Stewardship, Christian Education, Christian Citizenship, Viisting and Christian Fellowship. It was left with the convener of nominations to fill these offices.

The literature secretary, Mrs J. S. Gardiner, Kemptville, had a book display and spoke briefly.

Three discussion groups were formed with the following topics: "How to Create an Interest and So Have Better Attendance," "What Does W.A. Try to Do for Its Members?" and "How Do You Plan Your Devotions?" Findings were brought before the meeting and a question and answer period followed.

A brief worship service was conducted by Mrs Bolton, Iroquois. The theme of her meditation was "Basic Christianity."

Mrs Leslie Davis, Ottawa, was the guest speaker of the evening. Her topic was "How the United Church of Canada was forfed." She stated that the United Church was formed and thrived on idealism through struggle and sacrifice to a vision of the future. She gave a brief history of the early churches and traced the beginnings of union from 1898 to 1925.

AURORA CHEMICAL?

The "northern lights" and the "air glow" after sunset may be caused by simple chemical reactions in the high altitude.

Charles A. Barth, graduate research geophysicit at U.C.L.A., Los Angeles, recently discovered in laboratory experiments one of these reactions, the combination of atomic nitrogen with ozone.

The puzzling phenomenon of airglow or aurora borealis, which mostly consists of invisible light, Barth suggests, may be caused by similar chemical reactions.
