Legal battle and other costs put Morrisburg taxes up 10.1 per cent

MICHAEL THOMSPON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG—Staggering legal costs and growing commitments to school boards and County Council will result in a 10.15 percent increase for Morrisburg ratepayers this year.

So far, the village has paid over $150,000 to Weir and Foulds, the law firm handling the civil action against engineer Derek Wilson.

Wilson was responsible for building the municipality's trunk sewer line in 1986, which continues to operate inadequately.

Peter McCooeye, chairman of the finance committee said most of the costs have come from the village's reserves, but council must now begin to put money back.

He added that the legal fees represent a large portion of the village's own operating budget, which was increased by 16 percent and now stands at over $1.2 million.

McCooeye also cited greater demands from both school boards and the United Counties as reasons for the sizeable increase.

"This year, we will collect a total of $1,835,739 in taxes. Out of this amount, a total of $1,090,370 will go directly to the school boards for education," he said.

"The village has no control over school board taxes. They submit a requistion to the municipalities, and we must collect the money on their behalf."

The S.D. and G. County Board of Education increased Morrisburg's share 6.2 percent this year, while the separate school board requested 8 percent more.

As for United Counties Council, McCooeye said they are a hike of 9.9 percent to provide its services this years.

Translating the increases to dollars, this year separate school supporters will pay an average of $127 more in property taxes, bringing the total to $1,454 on a $4,000 assessment.

Meanwhile, public school supporters will be hit even harder as they will see an increase of $133 this year, putting their total municipal taxes over $1,500 on a $4,000 assessment.

McCooeye reminded residents that the village uses only 30.4 percent of all tax dollars they collect.

"Money collected by the municipality is applied to various services including general government, which includes maintenance of the civic centre and all administrative costs, such as wages."

Other expenditures include protection of persons, services from the fire department to the annimal control officer; transportation, such as road maintenance, snow removal, paving and street lighting; environmental services, like the operation of the sanitary sewer system, storm sewers and garbage collection.

McCooeye also highlighted some new programs initiated in the village as other cost considerations.

"We entered into a joint recycling program with Iroquois and the City of Brockville, we began a street light conversion program, we established a new position by joining the duties of the by-law enforcement officer with the building inspector, and we also started a series of recreation programs including a master plan study which will take place throughout the summer."

Despite Morrisburg's new ventures, McCooeye admitted there is little in this year's budget to assist the village's aging infrastructure, primarily the water tower.

"There is no doubt about it that in the future this council will have to make some major capital outlays to repair things like the tower, the arena roof, the zamboni and possibly computerize the municipal office, but unfortunately, we just can't do it this year."

"I guess all I can say is that we're maintaining the status quo."

Residents vote for dissolution of Police Village of Williamsburg

KIM TOSHACK
Leader staff

WILLIAMSBURG—A meeting Monday, May 14 at the Williamsburg municipal building involving members of council and 30 township residents and police village residents, voted to apply to dissolve the Police Village of Williamsburg.

During the hour-long meeting with residents, a number of pros and cons were discussed on dissolving the Police Village.

Council portrayed a scene where residents would no longer be required to pay for the lighting of their street lights. As well, they would have improved street plowing in the winter with the sidewalks being done as well. If the police village were to be dissolved, the plowing would become the responsibility of the township. Council revealed this job would be contracted out.

A fair amount of residents remained pessimistic. The biggest question asked of council regarded what would come next. Many feared that if they voted to dissolve the Police Village, they would sometime down the road lose their township as well.

It was the concensus of many that dissolving the Police Village was just the first step in forcing residents into regional government.

Council felt regionalization was not in the future, although they could produce no guarantees.

Perhaps the most persuasive argument produced by council was the fact that citizens would no longer have to pay a mill rate for both the township of Williamsburg and the Police Village of Williamsburg. Council felt that taxes would be decreased if the move to dissolve was made.

Council put no pressure on the residents, stating a number of times throughout the meeting that the choice was up to them.

Comments from residents reflected a feeling that although the option of dissolution was available now, in the long run it would be inevitable.

When council took a vote, 11 people were for the dissolution, one against. Eighteen residents declined to vote.

A motion was then passed to apply to dissolve the Police Village of Williamsburg, which if accepted, will become effective December 31, 1990.

Single digit increases

Iroquois finalizes residential tax hikes

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

IROQUOIS—Last Tuesday, the Village of Iroquois passed a bylaw finanlizing a total 5.3 percent tax increase for public school supporters, and a total 3.8 percent hike for separate school supporters.

The increase means a public school supporter with a home assessed at $4,000 will be paying $58 more than last year, or a total of $1,149.72.

A separate school supporter with a home assessed at $4,000 will be paying $41 more than in 1989, or a total of $1,094.92.

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education approved a 6.5 increase for the Village of Iroquois last week, totalling a levy of $672,319, but payments in lieu of almost $36,000 reduced the amount the village will request from taxpayers to $636,604.

The Separate School Board has passed a 2.16 percent tax increase for the Village of Iroquois, requesting a total levy of $45,600 this year.

The tax increase from the counties is 3.26 percent, and the municipality passed an overall increase of 6.7 percent last month, including the sewer rate. Reeve John McAllister explained that due to large school tax increases last year, and an expectation of the same, the village tried to keep the tax increase this year to a minimum.

"It was a bare bones budget," he stated.

For a while, councillors debated passing an increased municipal levy due to the relatively small school tax hikes, but voted against the change.

"Anything not budgetted for, we don't spend or tack on to the next budget. We can't justify a low tax increase at the expense of necessary on-going programs," said McAllister.

I hope there will be no emefgencies; time will tell," McAllister added.

The total budget for the village is $1,857,315, of which $1,044,102 is to be raised as municipal taxes, $718,617 is to go to both separate and public school boards, and $94,596 is slated as taxation for the United Countes.

Village expenditures of $1,044,102 are categorized as $165,700 for government, $303,363 for transportation, $297,750 for environmental services, and $58,850 for protection of persons and property, $126,217 for recreation and culture, $3,400 for health services, $61,410 for planning and development and $27,412 for the Iroquois East Marina.

Village stores its PCBs, not those of area

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

IROQUOIS—At a Hydro meeting last Tuesday, the Village of Iroquois decided to go ahead with a site for storage of its own PCB-laden transformers, but is not prepared to provide a central PCB storage site for area utilities.

"However, if a municipality were stuck, we would consider helping them out by storing the transformers if we had to," said Reeve John McAllister after the meeting.

The village has decided to purchase an international containment unit for the transformers from Guardian Portable Storage at a cost of $7.925 including freight and will apply for a permit to set up an 1182 site according to Ministry of Environment regulations.

Last week, the ministry approved a site for the transformers and ballast from street lamps to be located at the existing distributing station off Carman Road between Iroquois Enterprises and Rooney Feeds.

Invited by the Village of Iroquois, Hydro commissioners from Morrisburg and Prescott attended this second meeting on the topic, but the Cardinal representative was absent.

Costs to the Village of Iroquois would have been greatly reduced if the other municipalities had shared a site and its costs, but their representatives didn't show interest in a joint proposal.

The other municipalities do not now have transformers blown out.

"We're the only utility with a problem right now, and we'll look after our own problem," stated McAllister. "This is a fact of life when dealing with a hydro utility. There are PCBs in transformers that run our system, and we must deal with that accordingly. We have no choice."

In March, one of Iroquois' aging pole-mounted transformers burned out, whereupon the town crew removed the equipment, placing it in a cage in the town garage.

Tests revealed the transformer to contain a high amount of PCBs (polychlorinated byphenyls).

The village was informed it could no longer send their burned out transformers to the Hydro station in Winchester, and they must set up an industrial contaminent unit on their own, or share one jointly with other municipalities.

Burned out transformers with more than 50 and less than 500 parts per million PCBs would be taken to the 1182 site and drained of their contaminated oil, which is stored at the site.

Reusable transformers are sent back into service, or if unrepairable, they are sent for scrap.

When sufficient oil is collected, a company with a portable decontamination treatment system would be hired to treat the contaminated oil.

There are no approved methods to destroy high level PCBs (over 10,000 ppm) in Canada.

Council approves BIA budget

MICHAEL THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG—Council here Monday quickly dealt with two requests from the BIA - accepting one and refusing another.

With little discussion, council unanimously accepted the BIAs proposed budget for the upcoming year.

The municipality collects a business tax from local merchants on behalf of the BIA.

The request was pegged at $32,380 and immediately approved by council.

The funds are required to operate the BIA's various special events and projects in the village.

However, council was considerably less receptive to their second request; enforcement of the sign by-law in the shopping plaza.

According to councillor Gord McGregor, the BIA would like the newly-appointed by-law enforcement officer, Art Carkner to investigate three signs that do not meet municipal standards.

Councillor Dick Testerink declared conflict of interest because he is apparently one of the merchants contravening the by-law.

His business, Questers Gift Shop, has plastic penguins bolted to the top of his store.

The other merchants in question are the Beer Store and the New Centennial Restaurant.

McGregor says the BIA feels that the restaurant's sign has flashing lights, and therefore, breaks the by-law.

"This is nit-icking. That sign has been flashing ever since it was put up, and we all know the trouble we went to over this thing in the first place," said McGregor.

Parks Commission agrees to clean up illegal dump

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG—The St. Lawrence Parks Commission has agreed to conditions the Ministry of Environment has imposed regarding a dump site on Mille Roches Island.

About two weeks ago, members of Save the Parks committee called a press conference and contacted the Ministry of Environment in response to complaints from fishermen over household dumping at the site, as well as what appears to be old commission barrels and construction waste.

Commission officials admitted to the residential garbage, but said the site was not in active use by their employees.

"No more dumping is to be tolerated from the parks or anyone else," said Marc Robert, environment officer who completed the occurrence report.

The ministry has also requested signs be put up prohibiting dumping, and that the entrance be blocked off.

According to Mike Paradis, manager of maintenance and engineering, the commission has erected signs, and boulders were placed the Wednesday immediately preceding the press conference.

The commission is also to clean up visible waste and hire a consultant to do a study to determine the size of the dump site, and its environmental impact on soil and the St. Lawrence River.

Yesterday, Paradis met with a number of consultants, but his choice was not known by press time.

Whether charges will be laid depends on the findings of the ministry's Investigations Branch, who in turn will refer the matter to the Abatement Branch if there is sufficient evidence.

"The abatement and investigations branch are more interested in recent waste dumping than in dumping from 30 years ago," Robert added.

Offers may not be combined. Offer available only to qualified retail buyers and can only be applied to the transaction. Assuming a $1,000 rebate as the alternative on selected trucks, legislation requires that the value of the $1,000 rebate be included in the cost of borrowing example in order to arrive at an effective interest rate. In the example given, the effective interest rate would be 13.71% A.P.R., and the total cost of borrowing including $1,000 rebate not taken, would be $4,573.60.

Read it before you sign it

At this time of year, many property owners have projects to repair and/or replace some of their property which may have suffered from the usual ravages of weather and time. Most reputable contractors will have an agreement or contract for you to sign, and many, many of their clients will sign it without reading it thoroughly, or more to the point, without understanding what they have read. The same caution is important when making a major purchase.

It is a common misconception that the sharp characters who may be in a hurry to get your signature on a contract prey mostly on older people. But that is not always so. Many of the elderly, indeed, have learned through a lifetime of bitter experience, not to be in a hurry to sign. Often it is the young, the eager, the ambitious, who are pressured to sign something that may bind them to a great deal more than they realize.

If you've ever bought a house, a car, borrowed money, applied for a credit card, or purchased anything on an instalment plan, then you've signed a contract. How many times did you completely understand what you were signing?

Of course, you knew that signing your name would result in you obtaining the goods or service. You almost certainly knew how much the monthly payments would be.

But it doesn't take all those paragraphs of closely-spaced small type just to state the cost of the goods and the amount of such payments. The rest of that forest of legal jargon, with all its clumps of "heretofores" and "whereases" and "party of the first parts", is not put there simply to fill up the rest of the pages either. Your obligations to the vendor are being spelled out, along with the possible penalties for non-fulfillment, and if you don't know exactly what they are, you could receive an unpleasant shock later on. Everyone knows that nobody should sign any contract without reading it, yet it's amazing how many people do just that. Sometimes they "skip over" the parts they don't understand, or that don't seem important, accepting a salesman's assurance that everything is "just fine".

So what do you do when someone thrusts a pen in your hand, and places a closely-typed document under your nose?

First of all, you should read it, clause by clause, and word by word. But don't sign it without a complete understanding. And if you don't thoroughly understand everything that may be involved, ask for explanations. Or better still, ask your lawyer's advice.

Family Unity Month

In many parts of Canada and in many parts of the world, the month of May has been observed for many years as Family Unity Month, in order to stress the family as the basic unit, the very foundation of our society. This observance encourages more people to recommit themselves to the concept of the family, by spending more time, and spending it to greater advantage, with family members. It is a perfect opportunity for all of us to reflect on the importance of the family to our well-being. The preservation of cultural, religuous and familial traditions begins with the family, and provides the surest and the strongest foundation for the future.

Throughout the long history of mankind, the family has been our most important social institution, where love, caring, moral values and responsibilities are taught. Our programs and policies should all be planned and executed to support and strengthen the family unit. In recent years, unfortunately, this has not always been the case. Looser laws, fewer moral restrictions and inhibitions have undermined the devotion in many families.

Remember, such a short time ago, when you said to yourself that next week you would spend more time with your family. Well, it's next week already. Because of the fast pace of today's living, and our busy daily schedules, many of us may not take enough time to reflect on just how much our family means to us, or the important part which the family plays in our own lives.

The term "family" is used today to refer to many different relationships which may exist between adults and children, in-laws and senior family members, or the bond that extends the family through many generations to perpetuate the lineage. Whatever the relationship, any family needs constant attention to keep it strong and united, so that all its members may be enriched.

Time spent regularly with your family could well be a part of the formula to bring greater happiness, fulfillment, security and satisfaction, not only to you, but to every member as well. Just try it — this month and every month.

No language barrier here

The Brockville Psychiatric Hospital is a major employer in that city, and since mental illness does not recognize language barriers, it is of some importance for staff to be able to communicate with patients.

A recent survey of the staff by French language services co-ordinator Diane Palfrey has revealed these interesting (and fortunate) results, when staff were asked to indicate second language capability:

55 speak/write French fairly well; 16 staff speak/write French well.

But, in addition — 13 speak Dutch, 2 Filipino, 6 German, 3 Spanish, 2 Gujerati, 2 Swahili, 3 Hindi, 1 Tagalog, 1 Chinese, 1 Malay, 1 Sinhalese, 1 Czech, 1 Slovak, 1 Frisian, 1 Arabic, 1 Greek, 2 Sign Language, 1 Mahastryan, 1 Cree, 1 Finger Spelling. "What a rich cultural heritage", comments the BPH "Communicator". And to date we haven't heard one word about these second language abilities "costing" anyone's job at the hospital.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles
by Kim Toshack

The May 14 issue of The Leader featured a front page story on a last-ditch effort by residents to keep the doors of Stampville School open. The school, located a few miles north of Iroquois, served a school population of 60. It was officially slated for closing in September, and if the decision was not reversed, students enrolled there would be bussed to Iroquois Public that fall. The committee had plans to circulate a thirteen-point petition to be presented to the Board on May 27. They hoped to receive the same consideration as the other four schools which were designated closed. and then re-opened under parent group pressure.

In other news, Rohm and Haas Canada Ltd. announced that the company was to expand its Plexiglas acrylic sheet manufacturing facilities at Morrisburg. The company, which was a vital industry and many employer of Morrisburg and area residents, expected the facility to be on stream early in 1981. According to plant manager Don Robertson, this was a major project for the facility and would afford the latest technologies in acrylic sheet production. The expansion did not necessitate the hiring of additional personnel.

It was also ten years ago, when Les Bilmer, chief of the Morrisburg Volunteer Fire Department, told The Leader that local support had been outstanding concerning the venture by his men to raise finances which would pay for new extrication equipment. Several organizations and industries had come forward with donations to pay for the equipment, as well as some individuals, including Morrisburg Reeve Bill Dillabough, Marg Perrault and Shirley Rice. The local men were attempting to raise the balance of the required financing by hosting a dance at the Morrisburg Legion Hall. Bilmer said that he hoped the generosity of the local residents, organizations and industries would continue.

In sports, the Morrisburg Fish and Game Club was wrapping up their annual pike and pickerel derby, which drew more than 150 entries. The largest pike tipped the scales at an even twelve pounds, while tops in the pickerel class was six pounds, five ounces.

Three 175-gram tubs of yogourt were priced at $1, while a 12-fl.oz. jar of relish was 59c at the local Dominion. Six to twelve-pound young turkeys were going for 84c per lb.

The May 8 edition of The Leader reported that plans for the Father and Son Minor Hockey Banquet were complete. The banquet, held at the Civic Centre, featured Phil Myre, the rookie goaltender for the Montreal Canadiens, as a special guest. Following the dinner, trophies and crests were presented and hockey films were shown.

At St. Peter's Lutheran Church, Sandra Purl Tinal was married to Kenneth Orval Baker on Saturday, April 11th. Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of yellow and white roses and ivy. Following the ceremony, a dinner was held in the church hall and later a reception for 265 guests at the Embassy Room, Towne Line Motel, Cornwall.

Mothers Day chocolates were on special at Heinz' Food Market, with Moirs chocolates going at 89c a 14-oz. box. Prime rib roast was going for 83c lb., while a five-pound bag of potatoes was just 49c.

The Morrisburg Comets Soccer Club had obtained a playing field just west of Morrisburg, through the courtesy of Thomas Fraser. The first exhibition game was held on the field on Sunday, May 8, against Ottawa. The club remained very active, practicing on Tuesday and Thursday evenings.

Reeve Gordon W. Thom, representing Morrisburg Village Council, met with the local Library Board, to discuss the matter of a Public Library. In a 1910 issue of The Leader, Mrs. David Morgan had come across an item to the effect that steps were being taken to form a Public Library, and now, fifty years later, the village was again hoping to have a Public Library. The book committee submitted a list of books to be purchased for spring reading.

In sports, the Morrisburg Golf Club was readying its grounds for play. Everything pointed to a successful year, with the new club house and the extra holes at the front end of the course.

Two Americans were fined $27 each when they were apprehended in Canadian waters, fishing for sturgeon. The two men, who were lifting a trap-line they had been watching for a week, were apprehended by Overseer W.B. McConnell of Morrisburg. Along with the trap-line, the boat and motor belonging to the men was confiscated. Overseer McConnell had the co-operation of New York State Game Warden Marvin Nichol of Louisville Landing.

At the Picadilly Theatre in Williamsburg, the drama "Rose of The Yukon" was playing to good houses, and starred Myrna Dell, Steve Brodie and William Wright. Gene Autry was heading South of the Border, in his biggest rodeo of thrills "The Big Sombrero".

On May 12, The Leader had an ad stating that a partial denture had been found on Main Street East. The owner could pick it up at the office by paying for the ad.

In the Local and General column, it was noted that Leslie Willard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Willard, had the misfortune to suffer a broken finger on May 11th.

1940

Area residents were warned to clean up their premises as soon as possible, due to the forthcoming visit of Dr. Chas. Haley, V.S., of Iroquois, sanitary inspector for the United Counties Board of Health. Dr. Haley had wide powers under the Public Health Act, and had the right to order the removal of any accumulation of refuse, at the expense of the person offending.

The reason for Dr. Haley's check-up was to ensure that there were no odours caused by refuse, and to decrease the risk of disease, as these premises are the breeding grounds of the common house fly.

At Barkley's General Store, a box of Quaker Corn Flakes was 7c, whey butter 22c, and a pound of bacon was 19c.

On the front page of the May 10 edition, the names of the elected officials of the Women's Institute were released. President was Miss Jane Dillen, first vice president Mrs. Lee Casselman, and secretary-treasurer Mrs. D. Dillabough. The District Director was Mrs. George Clark.

A District Meeting of the Women's Institute was scheduled for June 4th, when the nine branches of the Institute could appoint their District Officers, and give reports of the year's activities in the District of Dundas.

A scheme to assist cattle owners of Dundas and West Stormont in the Restricted Area test for Bovine Tuberculosis was under consideration by the Agricultural Committee of Dundas and West Stormont.

The plan, like any insurance scheme, was in reality a pool. Cattle owners taking insurance and losing no cattle would help to bear the losses of the farmers who took insurance and lost heavily.

The scheme was being handled by townships, and had to have at least 150 farmers of that township with a desire for such a scheme before it could be developed.

On the front page of the May 9 edition of The Leader, it was stated that the Hon. E. Drury, former Premier of Ontario, spoke on problems which arose from the proposed St. Lawrence Waterways Project. He warned his listeners that unless immediate action was taken by Canada, in response to the pleas of the United States, the latter country would take steps to open a waterway of its own, by way of the Oswego-Albany Canal and the Hudson River. He said that he regretted the apathy of many Canadians in relation to the project.

Alex Shannette ran an ad in the May 9 paper, announcing to the people of Morrisburg and district the opening of a coal, wood and lumber yard, north of the C.N.R. tracks in Morrisburg. He hoped to have on hand at all times an ample supply of the best grades of American anthracite, Scotch and Welsh coal, hard and soft wood, rough lumber and shingles, with terms of spot cash only.

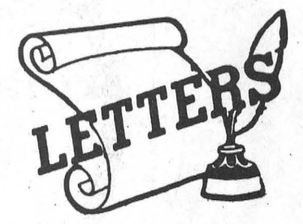
The Deputy Minister of Game and Fisheries notified W.H. Casselman on May 14, that the Department was to plant 25,000 pickerel fry in the waters of the Nation River. The announcement was a direct result of the effort by the Chesterville Fishing Club, the leading spirit being Mr. Leo Kearns.

In the May 14 issue, ads stated girls were wanted to candle eggs at the cold storage, girls and boys were wanted as tack feeders at the Tack Factory, and a cook for a family of three was required.



Editor, Morrisburg Leader,
Morrisburg, Ontario

Dear Editor — In view of the Bilingualism issue which is now brewing in the province of Ontario, the Loyal Orange Association in Ontario would like to reiterate briefly, its position on Official Bilingulism and the Meech Lake Accord.

Offical bilingualism in Ontario

We are strongly opposed to the proposition that Ontario should become a bilingual province. We support the some fifty municipalities that have passed resolutions declaring that the English language is the working language of their administration and services. The French Language Service Act is an unnecessary piece of legislation which does nothing but add tremendous extra costs to the already heavy-burdened taxpayers in this province. Providing duplicate services in communities which have small Francophone minorities is absurd because most, if not all, can speak and understand the English language.

In recent years, Prime Minister Mulroney has been pressuring Ontario to declare itself officially bilingual. We are opposed to such a move. Why should Ontario declare itself officially bilingual when Quebec has declared itself unilingual? We deplore the fact that Quebec refused to accept the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada which declared Bill 101 contrary to the Charter of Rights and Freedom. We all had to abide to the rulings of the Supreme Court and other Provincial Courts which struck down Abortion Law, Bill 30, Lord's prayer, Religion in the public schools, etc. Why should Quebec be allowed to ignore the ruling of the Supreme Court& Using the ridiculous "not-withstanding" clause. Premier Bourassa enacted Bill 178 which is a piece of regressive legislation because it takes away rights which have been in place for a long period of time -- the right of freedom of expression.

It is alarming to note that Prime Minister Mulroney sets a double standard by permitting Quebec to be unilingual but requiring bilingualism in all other provinces. He has failed to speak out strongly against the French only sign law, but from recent press reports, he is quick to condemn in strong language, those who support the English language and who are opposed to official bilingualism.

Meech Lake Accord

The Meech Lake Accord, as it presently stands, can only lead to division and disunity in Canada as we have already noted in the news media. The Constitutional Act of 1982 produced a Charter of Rights and Freedoms. It insured a strong central government with no special status for Quebec or any other province.

If we are to continue to have a strong central government in Canada, it is necessary that every province and territory be treated as equal partners in the federation. No one province should enjoy special status or be treated as a "distinct society".

We strongly believe that the Meech Lake Accord should be scrapped or re-written.

It is ironic that our present national interests and desires are being defended, not by Prime Minister Mulroney, but by the Premiers of Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Manitoba.

We strongly support them on their position of the Meech Lake Accord.

IN MEMORIAM

MURPHY—In memory of our parents, grandparents and great grandparents, Olive E. Murphy who passed away May 19, 1979 and Ranald C. Murphy who passed away May 24, 1987.
Gone beyond the sunset
To God's heavenly home
We know you both are happy
Because hand and hand you roam.
Now that you have gone ahead
We wait your beckoning call
That says come with us it's time to rest
We surely will listen, because as in the past Mom and Dad knew best.
—Ever remembered, the Family 20p

BARKLEY—In loving memory of a dear sister, Annetta, who passed away May 22, 1978.
To us you were so special,
What more is there to say,
Except to wish with all our hearts,
That you were here today.
—Ever remembered, Brock, Milton, nieces and nephews 20p

HESS—In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Gerald, who passed away May 19, 1988.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And, as dawns another year;
In our lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near,
Days of sadness will come o'er us,
Many think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies in the heart concealed.
—Sadly missed, Betty, children and grandchildren 20p

LYNCH—In memory of a dear sister, Bonnie, who died on April 29, 1980.
O happy hours we once enjoyed,
How sweet their memory still,
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Wayne and Debbie 20p

OPP warn residents of pyramid scam

LONG SAULT— Long Sault District Headquarters of the Ontario Provincial Police are advising residents of eastern Ontario to be aware of an illegal "pyramid scheme" currently operating in the area.

Under the scheme, known as "The Lucky 13 Plan", each new participant must buy a "package" for $10. The package consists of an instruction sheet, a $5 money order or cashier's cheque and a list of 13 names.

The new participant sends the $5 money order or cheque to the person named at the top of the list, crosses that person's name off, and adds his or her name to the bottom.

The participant must then buy two $5 money orders of cheques, make them payable to the person whose name now appears at the top of the list, and sell them for $10 each, with a copy of the revised list of names, to two new persons.

By selling the "package" to two other people, each participant recoups his or her $20. The scheme promises each participant a potential return of 8,192 money orders or cheques worth more than $40,000.

Would-be participants are falsely assured this is a legal "distribution plan" and not a chain letter.

"The OPP wishes to advise citizens against participating in this illegal pyramid scheme, or any similar scheme," said Sgt. Joe Fotia of anti-rackets branch.

"Under the Criminal Code, it is illegal to organize or participate in any scheme which entitles a person to receive from other persons a larger sum of money than the amount paid in," Fotia said.

Seaway students plan May environmental fair

by Kimberly MacDonald and Kelly Smail

IROQUOIS—As part of the grade 13 geography course, students have undertaken the organization and planning of an environmental fair entitled "What On Earth Are We Doing?"

This fair is for senior elementary and secondary students, as well as the general public within our surrounding community.

The environmental fair will be held on Thursday, May 24 at Seaway District High School. On this day, the students wish to present a stimulating learning experience concerning environmental issues.

This will include issues as well as proposals for change to help inform the public on what is happening to our environment.

It is important that environmental education go beyond producing "educated polluters," but that people realize they must change their habits.

The fair will begin on Wednesday, May 23 at 1:15 p.m. with a keynote address by Mr. Nyle Ludolf of Ontario Multi-Material Recycling Incorporated.

On Thursday, May 24 from 9:30 a.m. to 4 p.m., numerous environmental groups and the geography students will present issues and information by way of booths and displays.

The students cordially invite the general public to attend the fair throughout the day except for noon hour.

The day will be rewarding for everyone. For further information regarding the fair, please contact Ms. Karen Crozier, geography teacher at Seaway District High School at (613) 652-4878.

RCMP and OPP having a positive effect on economy

MICHAEL THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG—Business is definitely up, but for some local merchants the question isn't how much but why.

For more than two weeks, the OPP and RCMP have stationed themselves in Morrisburg and continue to stabilize the volatile Akwesasne Reserve, near Cornwall.

Pro and anti-gambling Mohawks have been feuding for months, but recently, the issue boiled over into an all-out war that has so far claimed the lives of two native men.

The installation of over 80 police officers here has had a positive effect on the local economy.

But for at least one local business person, some guilt is accompanying the sudden winfall.

"In a sense, it sort of bothers me. I can't help but feel we're making a profit out of someone else's misery," says Laurette Chenier.

She and her husband Roger own and operate Seaway Cleaners, the only dry cleaning service in the village.

Unlike the movies, police work is never glamourous. In fact, it's often boring and littered with countless minor details.

It's these boring details that Morrisburg merchants are thriving on.

Police have to eat, cruisers have to be serviced and uniforms have to be laundered.

Perhaps the Cheniers are feeling the biggest impact from Morrisburg's visitors in blue.

Since the problem erupted more than 15 days ago, the business has been inundated with dozens of police uniforms.

"We're probably averaging about 140 to 150 shirts a week. As for pants, I usually get about 100 pairs," says Roger.

The month of May is traditionally a busy time for the dry cleaning industry, but Roger says the additional business now will make up for an "unusually quiet year so far."

"For us, this is really just icing on the cake, but we don't mind the extra, he says.

Another business profiting from the increase is Upper Canada Motors.

Marvin Kenny, service manager for the GM dealership, says his department is working on at least three cruisers a day.

"They usually just need minor repairs, like an air filter or new plugs. The OPP has a policy to maintain their vehicles, and we're just getting some of the overflow," he says.

There are about 40 police vehicles currently in the area.

Kenny says most of the tune-ups cost about $75 but adds that it could become more costly.

"All those miles, travelling back and forth to Cornwall, may soon add up."

There is also the feeding of over 80 police officers that has to be considered.

Although there is a restaurant inside their motel, Paddy's Inn, many of the men have begun to look for an occasional change.

Many local restaurants are reporting an increase in business over the last two weeks.

May Chung, co-owner of Lee's Restaurant, says she has noticed quite a few new faces.

"We usually get quite a good crowd for supper. I think everyone is feeling the effect on business," she says.

Another Chinese restaurant, just across the street, also appears to be reaping the rewards from the new clientele.

"Business has been very good. In fact, last night we had 18 police here," says Ellie Chan, co-owner of Chan's Restaurant on Highway 2.

The family-run business has even altered its buffet in order to satisfy their additional customers.

"Normally, we only offer it at special times of the day, but now we've extended that because we find it easier this way," she says.

While the officers need fueling up so do their cars. A number of local gas stations say sales are up.

"It's difficult for me to say exactly, but I guess we're up about 15 to 20 percent," says Les Bilmer, manager of MacEwen's Gas Station in Morrisburg.

Like all economic booms, this one may soom be coming to an end.

Tony McKinley, owner of Paddy's Inn, says the police will have to make room for the Confederation of Regions (COR) Party's convention scheduled for May 25 and 26.

"They (COR) have booked all 62 rooms several months ago, and the police are aware of that fact," he says.

McKinley says that for the last two weeks he's had to refuse reservations because his motel was full with police.

"They've been very good customers. We haven't received one complaint, but we have already mae a commitment," he adds.

So far, here has been no indicaton a to where the OPP and RCMP ill go.

Despite the eventual end, many local busines are appreciative of their unexped business.

"I hate to e them go, but we knew it wld have to end someday," sa Roger Chenier.

Osnabruck students advance to EOSSA Championships

KIM TOSHACK
Leader staff

CORNWALL—Students from Osnabruck High School in Ingleside recently attended a Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry track and field meet in Cornwall, qualifying eight students to move on to the EOSSA championships.

The meet, which was held at the General Vanier Secondary School, went without a hitch, with rain holding off until the end of the day.

At the midget level, Stacy Gillard placed third in shotput, while Christine Bancroft received third in the javelin throw.

Rod Bush won second place in the javelin for the junior level, with Shawn Peever getting second in the discus and Randy Paquette jumping to third in the junior boys hurdles.

At the senior level, Bryan Bertrand placed third in the triple jump, Mark Donnelly, fourth in discus, and Stephanie Wells, the only double winner of the day, placed second in both the 1500 and 3000 metre races.

Team coach, Sean Lee, had only been working with the kids for three weeks.

"We definitely had talent to work with," Bean said. "Last year, we only had one person qualifying, this year eight. There's a definite improvement."

Although there were no first place winners from the Osnabruck school, the first three finishers in the track events and the first four finishers in the field events are permitted to move on to EOSSA, being held at Grenville Christian College May 17.

"It'll be a good experience for the kids," Lee said.

The 19th Hole

MORRISBURG—Although some of our more dedicated golfers gave it a whirl, Sunday's rain and cold forced the postponement of the Morrisburg Golf Club's Opening Day Tournament.

The tournament has been re-scheduled for this coming Sunday, May 20 and tee-times are available from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The same format, a two-person best-ball, will be played at a cost of $2.50 per person. There will be prizes, but no meal this time around. Anyone who was registered for the opener Sunday is asked to phone the clubhouse and indicate if you wish to keep your tee-time for this coming Sunday.

Hopefully, this time around the weather will cooperate and we will get the season rolling on a good note.

The weather was also unkind for our opening ladies' and men's nights last week, both played under extremely wet conditions.

At the ladies' night last week, sponsored by The Leader, Barb Sheridan led the way to the prize table for the hidden hole low score. Right on her heels was Eleanor Allison who won the hidden hole high score.

Judy Laurin claimed low net in B class, and Laurie Duvall won in C. First low gross in D went to Ann Barkley, and Rita MaQuire placed second. Christine Disheau was the low gross winner in D plus, and Sharon Annable was second.

A total of 12 door prizes were handed out.

Although men's night was reasonably well attended a number of the men decided not to venture out into the rain.

However, for those who did it was Donnie Mabo leading the way with the low gross in A flight. John Vincent won B, and Randy Casselman claimed C. The net winners were Sam Moss in A, Fred Veley in B and Kevin Adams in C. Tim Smith was the hidden hole low winner, and Peter Krug claimed the prize for the hidden hole high score.

All members are reminded that once you register for a men's or ladies' night meal you are expected to show up regardless of the weather. If there is a total rain out, the meal is usually served around 5:30 p.m.

Coming up this Thursday, men's night is sponsored by Beaver Dental. Ladies' night, Tuesday, May 15, was sponsored by Laurin/Laurin. Next week, May 22 the ladies are sponsored by Parker Professional Painting.

Coming up

Sunday, May 20 - Hugh Hutchison Memorial Opening Day Tournament. (Re-scheduled). Tee-times available from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Two-person, best-ball. Entry fee is $2.50 per person. Prize table. Note: No meal.

Friday, May 18 - Juniors information meeting and golf film. Parents and all juniors are encouraged to attend the meeting which will begin at 7 p.m. in the clubhouse.

Thursday, May 17 - Men's night sponsored by Beaver Dental.

Registrations up

Minor Ball Association plans season fundraisers

KIM TOSHACK
Leader staff

MORRISBURG-Morrisburg Minor Ball Association has had their registration, and the wheel s are in motion to start the league by May 22.

Registration was higher this season with approximately 140 signing up, enough to establish 12 teams ranging from T-Ball to Big League, up five teams from last year.

Games will be played every night except Saturday, at all three diamonds in Morrisburg, and Sunday afternoons (Big League only) from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m.

The association presently has a number of special activities arranged along with fundraisers. Beginning the season, the teams will be selling chocolate covered almonds at $2 a box until the end of May.

Sometime within the season, individual members of the association will be able to purchase team pictures. The dates and costs of pictures has not yet been set.

Special activities scheduled include a District Play Down involving Kingston, Perth, Brockville, Prescott, Cornwall and South Dundas. The tournament will take place July 13, 14, and 15.

Attempts are being made to hold a ball clinic sometime in June. Doug Probel is the person responsible for having the clinic. Probel played for the Montreal Expos and the Pittsburg Pirates.

Other activities include the play-offs which will start July 8 in the same format as last season. Weather permitting, the playoffs will be completed by July 21.

A wind-up day is also being planned by the executive. Information on this will be further elaborated on as the plans become more finanlized.

All star teams will be chosen at the end of the year involving players from the major, senior, junior, and big league divisions.

The South Dundas ball league, comprised of Morrisburg, Brinston, Williamsburg, and Winchester had a registration of 470 players, enough to make a possible 34 teams. In terms of total number of players registered, South Dundas ranked second in the District.

South Dundas is sponsoring a trip to a Montreal Expos game on June 24. The Expos will be playing the Pittsburg Pirates. Game time is set for 1:30 p.m. A coach owned by Delaney Bus Lines will leave Morrisburg at approximately 10 a.m. and will return around 6 p.m. Tickets for the trip are $20 per person for anyone who wishes to go, with preference being given to players.

Anyone interested should contact Ray Gibeault or any coach for tickets. All money raised from the trip will go towards new uniforms for the South Dundas teams.

There are still openings for anyone who wishes to volunteer their time towards coaching. One coach is needed for the seniors and one for minor majors.

Tennis lessons offered

INGLESIDE—Township residents will have the opportunity to learn how to play tennis, or just improve their game this summer at the Ingleside tennis courts.

Two experienced tennis players will instruct the lessons, beginning May 29 for an eight-week period.

Todd Vollrath, who has been playing tennis for over 15 years, has been teaching lessons for eight years. He attended camps as a junior player, played in the Ontario championships in high school and holds a number of competitive titles. Vollrath has taken lessons from Fred Perry and has studied under Peter Burrwash, who does commentary for The Sports Network and is internationally known as a tennis player.

Steve Bean, who will also instruct lessons at the Ingleside club, holds a junior ranking, has played collegiate tennis, and holds a number of titles of his own. He has taught for a number of years in Quebec and the Cornwall area.

The lessons are set to take place on weeknights for two-hour periods, cost $50 per person. At the present time, lessons will only be given to persons 16 years of age or over.

Vollrath and Bean will teach students a new concept called "Tennis For Life," which involves a technique for stroke check. The student will be able to go through his stroke to determine the mistake and then correct it, making the student his own coach.

Contact Paul McAllister for further information.

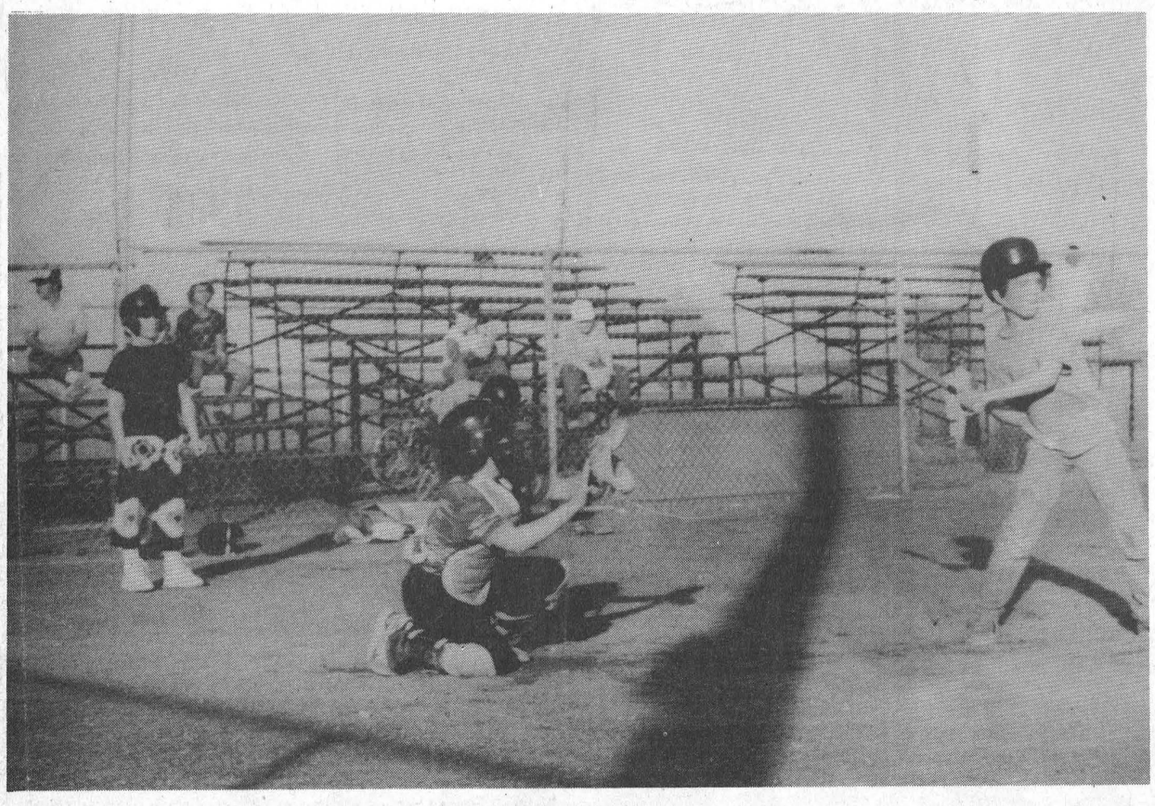
Vollrath and Bean are also making arrangements to give tennis lessons for Morrisburg residents.

These lessons, which are set to begin during the end of May, will also run two nights a week for eight sessions. Adult and junior classes are available at $50 per person.

The clinic will emphasize skilled development, stroke production, shot selection and tactics of the game.

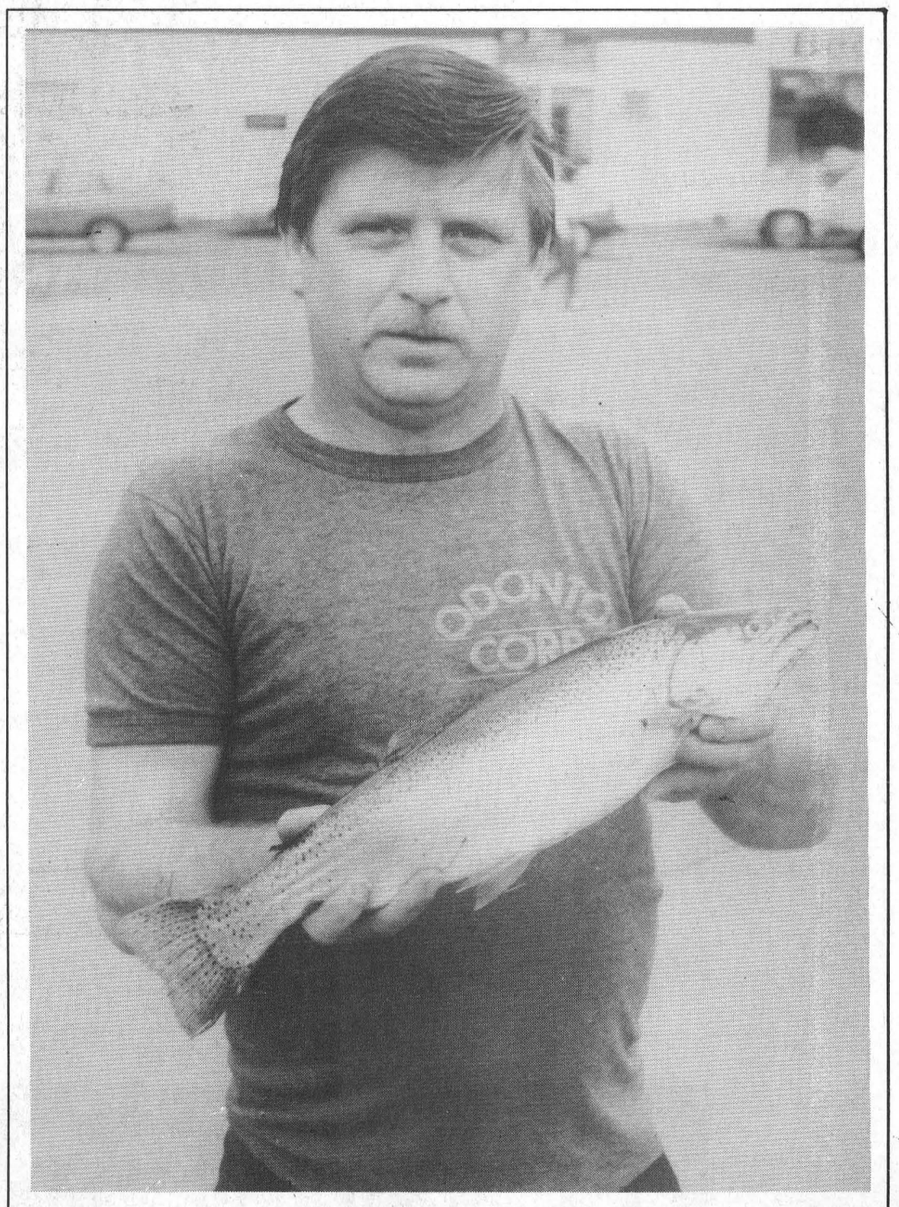
If interested, contact the municipal office at 543-2504.

Lessons at both the Ingleside club and the Morrisburg club are available to anyone interested. It is not necessary to be a member.



Play Ball!!!

The Morrisburg Minor Ball Association held its opening exhibition game Monday night. About 140 children will participate in this years program, including 12 teams in T-Ball. It should be also a busy season as games are scheduled every night except Saturday. Why not take a break and watch a game or two this summer.



Colorful catch

Dale Kelly has been fishing in the area for almost 35 years but was shocked Tuesday morning when he pulled-in his first rainbow trout. The beautiful specimen weighed over three-and-a-half pounds and measured 19 inches in length. Kelly says he caught it in the Flagg Creek after casting for a little more than an hour.

Winners of Charlie's annual derby

About 110 fishermen participated in the Charlie's Sport Shop annual Pike and Pickerel Derby Sunday, despite the terrible weather conditions. Still, a number of good size fish were brought in. Derby runs despite poor weather

MORRISBURG—Sunday's unseasonably cold and rainy temperatures didn't seem to affect 110 fishermen, who participated in the annual pike and pickerel derby, sponsored by Charlie's Sport Shop.

In fact for four locals, it was time well spent, for when the derby closed Sunday they were the recipients of cash and prizes.

Although the number was up from last year's 102 participants, the winning fish were slightly smaller than last year.

This year's winning pike, weighing ten pounds, one-and-a-half ounces, was caught by Korey Casselman of Williamsburg. Casselman, who won second prize in the pickerel division last year, went home with $240 for his first place pike.

His fish measured a 35 inch length and had a 15.5 inch girth.

The second place pike, caught by Peter Huberts of Morrisburg, weighed in at eight pounds, ten ounces, had a length of 34 inches and a girth of 13 inches. Hubert won a rod and reel set donated by Direct Factory Sales.

In the pickerel division, a seven pound, four-and-a-half ounce fish caught by Glen Merkley of Chesterville, took first place. Merkley's fish, which had a length of 27 inches and a girth of 14 inches, won him $240.

Second place in the pickerel division went to Ramond Roderick's fish which tipped the scales at seven pounds, four-and-a-half ounces. The pickerel had a length of 27 inches and a girth of 14 and one-half inches. Roderick also took home a rod and reel set, again from Direct Factory Sales.

In both categories, the weight of the winning fish was down from last year's prize getters. The 1989 winning pike weighed 12 pounds, eight and three quarter ounces, and the winning pickerel weighed eight pounds, seven ounces.

Williamsburg residents to celebrate Fitness Week

KIM TOSHACK
Leader staff

WILLIAMSBURG-Williamsburg township held its monthly council meeting Monday evening to tie up a number of loose ends for township residents.

Council was in agreement to declare the week of May 13-21 "Drive Sober Week" in the Township of Williamsburg. Also, from May 25 to June 3, residents will celebrate "Canada Fitness Week." There are plans for one day during that week to be set aside for "Sneaker Day." Residents are invited to wear their sneakers at home, at school, and in the workplace.

Other topics discussed at the meeting include the townships renewal of certain insurance policies. It was unanimously decided by councillors that the insurance be removed from two sheds in the area; one at the garage, and one at the dump. Insurance was also taken off the old fire hall.

Council's reasoning for such a move was due to the fact that the township is required to pay a $5,000 deductible on repairs through insurance. It was determined these buildings were not worth that amount.

Also discussed at the meeting was the idea of applying for a grant to have blue boxes for recyclables available to Williamsburg. It was determined that a municipality could not apply for a grant for these blue boxes; however, a non-profit organization could. Council will look into finding an organization to apply for the grant.

The blue boxes, which residents will receive by order, won't cost the residents a lot of money. If the grant comes through covering 75 percent of the cost, the township will cover 10-15 percent, leaving the resident to pay only the remaining 10 percent of the total value.

It was also determined during the council meeting that the garbage dump would be open two half-days each week.

Seaway News

by Cindy Laurin

IROQUOIS—Well, how is everyone this week? I assume everyone is looking forward to the long weekend and a little rest and relaxation; not to mention some partying!

Monday morning the senior students of Seaway got to hear the folk group "Tamarac" play featured songs about the history of the Rideau canal. It was entertaining music, and one interesting question was raised by Miss Crozier. You all know what it was!

This coming weekend there will be a car wash to raise more money for the prom. Tickets went on sale this week at $18 a person. Get 'em while they're hot!

On May 29, several French core students will be travelling to St. Lawrence College in Cornwall to attend several workshops to improve their French skills.

The Seaway Band left yesterday (Tuesday) for Toronto to attend a performance of "Phantom of the Opera." They will stay one night to enjoy the big city. I myself haven't heard the end of it from Kim Merkley whose whole conversation lately consists of phantom, phantom, phantom!

Welcome Back Neighbour!

Morrisburg Council approves funding for groups

MICHAEL THOMPSON
Leader staff

MORRISBURG—Council here handled a number of financial requests Monday night which had been deferred over the course of the year.

For the second consecutive year, the province has frozen its unconditional grants to the municipalities and has made it increasingly difficult for communities to balance their books.

This year, Morrisburg will collect $562,105 in taxes for its own use. Another $704,991 in revenue will come in from other sources, including grants in lieu of taxes, unconditional grants, fees from other municipalities, service charges and donations as well as bank interest.

After passing its annual budget, council attended to a number of house cleaning duties, among them the allocation of funds to municipal organizations.

Council approved a $1,850 request from the Morrisburg and District Chamber of Commerce, $13,660 to the parks management board, $7,150 to minor hockey and $7,590 to the figure skating club.

Finance chairman, Peter McCooeye also announced council's commitment to the Winchester District Memorial Hospital's capital improvement fund.

"We plan to put in $10,000 per year for five years to the project, starting in 1991," he said.

Morrisburg will also offer tennis lessons this year, and the popular swimming program will also be returning.

Police arrest 21 in bust

LONG SAULT—A joint-forces pre-dawn drug initiative in the City of Cornwall and on Cornwall Island, which is part of the Akwesasne Reserve, has resulted in the arrest of 21 persons.

The arrests, which took place on May 10, were the culmination of a 14-month investigation, netting in total 1,751 grams of cocaine and 265 grams of cannabis with an approximate street value of $1,000,000.

Also seized was $39,500 in cash. Twelve weapons which included three handguns and three assault-type rifles which were seized or purchased during the operation.

This completes the investigation which was initiated by a request to the Ontario Provincial Police from concerned citizens of the Akwesasne Reserve who were worried about escalating narcotic and related criminal activity in their community.

As a result, more than 100 police officers from the OPP, Cornwall Police Force and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police participated in the operation. New York State Police and the Surete' du Quebec also assisted in the investigation.

Charges include: trafficking in narcotics, delivery of a weapon without a permit, delivery of a weapon without a firearms acquisition certificate, unsafe storage of a weapon, conspiracy to traffick in a narcotic and possession of the proceeds of a crime.

Those arrested and charged come from Cornwall Island, the City of Cornwall, and Ottawa and range in ages from 19 years old to 50 years old.

The OPP also holds warrants to arrest 16 other persons on a variety of related charges.

This one's the prettiest

Orval Delage, of Morrisburg is choosing a bouquet of carnations from Nancy Van Allen, who helped organize the local fundraising campaign for Multiple Sclerosis this year. Nancy was very pleased at the results of sales from the villages of Morrisburg and Winchester, Morrisburg and Winchester estimated at about $1,600, up from last year's total of $1,200.

Industry, education join forces

CORNWALL—An Industry-Education Council has been formed to forge links between educators, industry, business and labour throughout Stormont, Dundas & Glengarry.

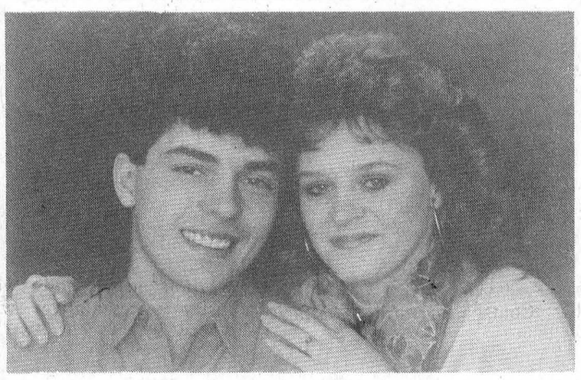
The Council is community-based and is supported by: S.D. & G. County Board of Education, S.D. & G. Roman Catholic Board of Education, St. Lawrence College, La Cite Collegiale, Cornwall & District Labour Council, Canada Employment Centre, City of Cornwall and representatives from industry and business in S.D. & G.

Neil Burke, Chairman of the Council's interim Board of Directors, announces the appointment of Flip Flockton as founding Executive Directory.

A graduate of University of Ottawa, Mrs. Flockton is experienced in business, education and community-based activities.

Her private sector background encompasses business development, marketing and public relations in the high-tech field. Her community development activities include: founding co-ordinator of SECCES (Self-Employment Counselling Centre & Educational Services) and first Project Manager S.D. & G. Community Futures Committee.

In addition, she has been a Teaching Master at St. Lawrence College.



Forthcoming Marriage

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne McHaffie are pleased to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter Laurie to Kent, son of Mr. Bill Smith and the late Linda Smith of Chesterville. Wedding to take place June 30 at 4:00 p.m. at Lakeshore Drive United Church, Morrisburg. 20c

Both McGregor and Reeve Bill Dillabough mentioned that the BIA should be more understanding, particularly since last summer's canopy project in the plaza was over budget by $26,000, which the municipality paid.

"And believe me it's going to cost more before we get that thing (canopy) settled," said McGregor.

Council decided it would take no action on the matter and would send a letter to the BIA stating their reasons for not enforcing the sign by-law.

Long-time BIA supporter and past-chairman Peter Remillard was not present at the council meeting Monday night.

Improvements for some septic systems may be mandatory

Public meeting in works for Lunenburg

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

OSNABRUCK CTR.—Although council has read the good word in newspaper reports on a grant towards Lunenburg private water system improvements, they have het to receive confirmation from the Ministry of Environment.

Area newspapers received a press release from the Ministry that $119,000 would be allocated towards the project, with $30,000 to be given in the fiscal year 1990/1991.

However, so far Osnabruck has only had a verbal committment of $30,000 for this year, which the ministry promised council members at a February meeting in Toronto.

Lunenburg has 39 properties which require new wells or repairs to existing wells, and 20 septic systems which require improvements.

At Monday's council meeting, water and sewer supervisor Bart Whitton noted that $30,000 wouldn't go far among the residents, especially when an entire new well system may cost around $5,000.

The ministry has promised to cover 85 percent costs of both septic and water improvements, while the local people are to pay the remaining 15 percent.

Whitton also remarked that $115,000 doesn't cover half the total projected costs of the projects. New wells including a water treatment unit are estimated at $194,000 and septic systems at $93,200 for a total of $287,200.

Council is still awaiting ministry approval of a draft environmental report which was recently submitted by consulting firm M.S. Thompson and Associates.

They are also to hear from project manager Bob Freistadt who was asked to apply for additional funds for wells, and simultaneous funding for septic systems.

Consultants recommended the septic systems be corrected at the same time the wells are installed, to prevent contamination of the water supply.

Whitton met recently with ministry representatives who suggested that two by-laws be passed before council holds a public meeting in Lunenburg.

One by-law would make the upgrading of some septic systems mandatory, although up to now the program has been described as strictly voluntary.

"There are water and septic connections to be done on many properties," said Whitton. "To keep the separation distances, people will have to put the septic tank where the engineer says, and some septic systems whose owners didn't think would have to be treated may have to be."

The second by-law would concern the collection of 15 percent of a $90,000 engineering bill to date, covering costs of the draft report and test wells.

"We tried to see if the ministry would cover the costs rather than put them locally, but they stated they won't reconsider," said Whitton.

Although council hasn't yet decided who will pay these costs, it is customary to bill the benefitting area, in this case the hamlet of Lunenburg.

Williamsburg couple has unwanted visitor

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

WILLIAMSBURG—Jack and Edna Eldridge had an unwelcome visitor on Mother's Day in the form of a car smashing through their basement wall.

The couple and their daughter Louise were standing inside the kitchen door, ready to attend a Mother's Day breakfast at the Bouck's Hill Legion, when Jack saw a car swerving wildly across the lawn.

"I heard a bang and started to cry. He went out to see if they were all right," said Edna.

Williamsburg resident, Alfred J. Beedie, age 81, driving a 1990 grey Chrysler east on Park Street had hit a second vehicle while he was making a left turn onto the highway.

The second vehicle was a 1983 Oldsmobile heading south on the highway, driven by 25-year-old Bonnie Thompson of Chesterville.

Thompson lost control of her steering, veered off the road, and struck Eldridge's house, which is located on the highway south of LMS Motors.

There were no serious injuries in the accident, although Thompson and passengers, two-year-old Adam Thompson, 27-year-old Mark Thompson, and an infant, Mathew Thompson were taken to the Winchester District Memorial Hospital for examination and treatment of minimal injuries.

Both vehicles were severely damaged, and Beedie has been charged with failure to yield.

Damages to the home include a caved-in basement wall, cracks to the bedroom and living room walls, ruts across a newly landscaped lawn and a broken cedar tree. While there is no precise estimate, Eldrige says it could be as high as $15,000.

"Everyone used to say why are you living so far off the highway? Now, I wish that we had been further off the road," Edna concluded.

1.5 million incidents yearly, says task force

Experts on elder abuse address crowd at Dixons

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

DIXON'S CORNERS—Elder abuse is the crime of the present, not the future, members of a task force told a group of over 30 at an information meeting here last Wednesday.

Presented by the Matilda Resource Centre, a panel of experts described the critical, not uncommon social phenomenon, its causes and tentative solutions.

Michel Bordeau, social worker at Cornwall's Hotel Dieu Hospital and chairman of the Task Force on Elder Abuse, Dr. Graham Jacques of the St. Lawrence Medical Clinic, and task force member, and Det. Inspector Ted Rowe with the Criminal Investigation Branch, Toronto OPP were guest speakers.

"We must keep in focus the fact it's a crime, and we shouldn't let society ignore the problem," said Bordeau. The task force is attempting to define the problem, and to suggest guidelines for social action to correct it.

Although it has been difficult to obtain accurate statistics, it is extimated that in Canada, between three to five percent of elderly, or 1.5 million are abused yearly. The majority of victims are females with progressively deteriorating physical and or mental conditions over the age of 75.

Abusers stressed by role of caregiver

Many abusers are family members who are experiencing stress over an unwanted role as caregiver or are poorly paid and trained employees in inadequately regulated institutions.

As in situations of wife assault, fear of physical and emotional reprisal, or shame to admit family members are inflicting pain and suffering, may prevent the victim of abuse from reporting incidents.

Dr. Graham Jacques of the St. Lawrence Medical Clinic, described telltale signs of elderly abuse, such as unexplained bruises, bumps or cuts, or an uncaring attitude on the part of the caregiver. "You should involve the doctor right away to repair and document damage," said Jacques.

If the individual appears to be isolated, or if the caregiver exhibits belittling behaviour towards him or her, psychological abuse may be present. If this is suspected, "get the doctor involved and have other agencies brought in to keep an eye on the situation," said Jacques.

Financial abuse is indicated by unreasonable charges for services, or a demand for power of attorney on behalf of the caregiver without sufficient reason, and the VON and other agencies should be called in for assistance.

Det. Inspector Rowe was first assigned the task of investigating elderly abuse in 1986, about six months after presentation of a brief on crimes which was presented to the Ministry of Health by Dr. Bertha Jorgenson in the spring of 1986.

Edlerly abuse comes to light

Rowe said the brief became lost in the bureaucracy of the Ministry of Health, but "it was sure found" after release to the Toronto Star in October. "The Honorable Robert Nixon addressed the issue November 3 in the Legislature, and the next day, I was working on the abuse of the elderly."

Rowe was given 18 files with criminal problems to investigate, and a task force was set up with the Metro Toronto Police and the OPP.

Since then, Rowe has been in charge of five investigations throughout Ontario, including instances of abuse locally at the Pinecrest Lodge in Hulbert in 1988.

A preliminary investigation into allegations at government sponsored nursing homes revealed problems and improvements to be made, but insufficient evidence to lay charges.

"In the main, problems were looked after under the provincial statues of the Nursing Home Act," said Rowe.

Following a brief to the Ontario Police Commission, a memorandum was circulated to chiefs of police to conduct criminal investigations of alleged offenses in institutions.

In May, 1987, he was assigned to investigate a death at a domiciliary facility.

While government sponsored institutions must abide by Ministry of Health regulations providing standards on temperature controls, nutrition, clothing, hygiene, privacy, and a minimum of 10 and one half hours per week care for each client, a domiciliary is a private operation which is required only to have a business licence, and fire inspection before setting up business.

The facility receives regular visits from the regional Board of Health, but only to check on the hygiene of the building, kitchen and food, not the people.

Some domiciliaries are run by unscrupulous owners

"Sometimes the owner cares for the welfare of the people, but others who run it for profit cut corners, or undertrain and understaff the establishment, with one on shift for between 30 to 35 people," said Rowe.

Rowe said he came across some cases where people were "roped to chairs, locked in rooms like cages 'for their own good' (because of insufficient caregivers), scalded in bathtubs, or frozen to death."

Rowe cited an instance where there were no temperature controls on the bath water. "Talk about scalding!" Rowe said. "A person is in a bathtub of hot water, with one leg paralyzed, and has lost the faculty of speech. There was a single staff member on duty working elsewhere, and when he got back to this gentleman, it was a little too late, and he subsequently died of his burns."

In another instance a gentleman wandered out of the home and was locked out at night. He couldn't re-enter for lack of an alarm (another cost-saving measure) and thus froze to death.

Signs of neglect or abuse

Rose said visitors to a nursing home should look for the following signs - an unkempt residence, insufficient or poor food, signs of forcible confinement, or bruises in unusual places. If the patient is receiving poor or abusive treatment, it should be reported to the attending doctor and problems with the residence should be directed to the Board of Health.

"If there are grounds to believe, evidence will be presented in court by a crown attorney before presiding judge," said Rowe.

It is difficult to tell how many domiciliaires there are in the province, since the institutions are hard to identify, requiring only a business licence without specifying its nature. Police estimate there are 22 in the jurisdiction of the Manotick OPP alone, said Rowe.

What recommendations does the panel have for solution of the problem?

First, they suggested laws should be passed to make reporting of elderly abuse mandatory, as it is for children. Secondly, all facilities should be licensed and inspected by the government.

Rowe estimated about 100,000 seniors in Ontario are in government licensed facilities, "which leaves 900,000 seniors somewhere. Some are still working, some are still at home, and some are with families, and a lot are in domiciliary facilities."

"It's a crisis. Our elderly and infirm are out there now in these renegade nursing homes in need of help, and it's up to you the advocate groups to lobby the government, hold seminars, and rally to shake the tree till fruits of justice fall also on the elderly and infirm," he concluded.

Villeneuve condemns budget cuts at SLPC

TORONTO—Noble Villeneuve, M.P.P. for Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry and East Grenville has condemned the $293,000 budget cut to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission made public in the Ontario government's spending estimates announced May 3.

"The Liberal government is increasing spending by 7.8 percent this year and is collecting 9.4 percent more in taxes and revenue. So why should we, in Eastern Ontario, have to put up with budget cuts for our parks and tourism?" asked Villeneuve.

Villeneuve has spoken out in the Legislature against the closing of 5 of 15 SLPC campgrounds this year and has also presented a petition with over 6,000 signatures protesting the closure.

"Tourism is important to us," declares Villeneuve, "and if we want to get higher use of our campgrounds, surely the way to do that is to market the St. Lawrence parks in Toronto, Boston, Montreal, New York and other population centres within a day's drive. Closures and budget cuts are not the answer."

Making a big dent in the stainless steel industry

Michel Alarie, co-owner of Tri-County Stainless displayed his company's recent equipment addition, a high-pressure brake. In December, the business received approval for a $112,000 low-interest loan from the Eastern Ontario Development Corporation to buy new equipment and expand their facilities. The company anticipates sales of over $800,000 within the next two years.

Stainless steel firm gets boost

MICHAEL THOMPSON
Leader staff

INGLESIDE—A fabricating company specializing in stainless steel has received a sizeable loan from the province and will soon undergo major expansion.

Tri-County Stainless Limited was created only three years ago but has already established itself as one of the leading manufacturers in Eastern Ontario.

Located in Osnabruck Township's industrial park, the company fabricates steel products for a variety of industries, including the dairy and cheese market, as well as the meat processing plants and medical purposes.

Since its inception, Tri-County Stainless has grown steadily and anticipates sales of over $800,000 by 1991.

The company applied for an incentive loan from the Eastern Ontario Development Corporation, an agency of the provincial government, in August 1989.

In December, the business received a letter of approval for a loan of $112,500, exactly the figure for which the company had applied.

"We're certainly happy with their response, and we hope this is just the beginning," said Michael Alarie, one of Tri-County's three owners.

Alarie and his father Maurice joined forces with Jack Kenton in March 1988 and have developed the small business into a promising venture, featuring years of experience in the stainless steel sector.

Their client base is primarily located along Ontario's eastern border and regularly includes local companies like Kraft Canada Ltd. in Ingleside and Williamstown, Aulf Foods Ltd. in Winchester, and many others.

Prior to Tri-County Stainless, most of the associated services and fabrication had to be done in larger urban centres such as Montreal and Toronto.

The appeal for stainless steel lies in its hygenic quality. Its practical applications as a sanitary steel continue to grow, says Alarie.

He says the expansion entails a combination of equipment upgrading, as well as site improvements.

Specified equipment additions include a metal brake and high-pressure shears.

Alarie says its also possible the company may expand its 2,800 square foot facility to accomodate the extra business.

He also expects that eight new jobs will be created over the next five years, bringing his total staff to 19.

The Eastern Ontario Development Corporation is a provincial crown agency committed to economic expansion through the provision of loans, guarantees and support lines of credit to small and medium-sized businesses.

Their assistance often comes in the form of low-interest loans, which feature forgiveable interest for the first three years.

Recreation Study

Get out and participate

SOUTH DUNDAS—Sesquaid Limited is looking for a few good men and women.

No, they're not in the recruiting business, but they have a few questions they want to ask.

Sesquaid is the recreation planner hired by the four neighboring communities in South Dundas to prepare a master plan study.

Their project will kick-off with two public meetings, one last night in Iroquois and the other in Williamsburg Township on Thursday, May 17.

The company hopes that everyone, and not just those involved in recreation, will attend the information sessions.

Following that, Sesquaid will be conducting personal interviews with various politicians, community leaders and committee heads to see what they have to say.

"It's a different format, but I think this way we'll get results," says Morrisburg Deputy-Reeve Peter McCooeye, who is also a strong supporter of the South Dundas Recreation Committee.

All the information collected during the course of the summer will be used to plan and coordinate recreational activities and programs throughtout the entire area.

McCooeye is optimistic about the study, which he says is required for provincial funding of recreational services.

"The ministry (of tourism and recreation) has told us that this is the way of the future. Because of our relatively small population, individual municipalities are having a difficult time with funding; however, if we can work together and apply as a block than our chances are significantly better," he says.

McCooeye expects the interview process to take quite some time because of the number of special interest groups throughout South Dundas.

"Believe me, they don't want to miss anyone, so if a group has not been contacted within the next two weeks, please let us know," he says.

Williamsburg Council Briefs

WILLIAMSBURG—A number of important issues were discussed at Monday evening's Williamsburg council meeting, including the increased usage of the lagoon as a sewage disposal site.

A preliminary sketch outlining the usage of the lagoon and an alternative area was completed by Stidwell Engineering.

In order for the engineering company to do a completed study of the lagoon, along with the preparation of a design brief and a number of recommendations, the township would be charged $500. The lagoon is listed as Plan A.

Plan B, the alternative to the lagoon, involves using a pump station. Two thousand dollars is the asking price to have a study completed for Plan B. Council has yet to determine which plan they will be requiring.

Due to the fact that the Ministry makes it essential, the township is going ahead with studies for a dog pound.

The recommendations list the pound must be located close to hydro, water supplies and sewers if available. The Ministry has suggested the pound be installed somewhere near the township building.

Construction of the pound must be done so that frost damage is minimized and adequate insulation is installed to lower heating costs.

The township feels that some kind of a portable mobile unit would be best. They hope to have the pound in place within the next month or two.

Following an application for this year's supplements, notification has been given to Williamsburg council that a grant of $67,500 will be given towards a tandem truck with a two-way saltbox. Council estimates the full cost of the truck will fall somewhere around $120,000 to $130,000.

The application for a supplement for construction along the 401 was denied; however, the Ministry suggested council hold off on these repairs until next year, when there would be a better chance for the township to receive a grant.
