Swim Classes Over

The swimming beach was all but deserted near the weekend as Summer classes came to an end and cool weather moved in to make swimming uncomfortable over the Holiday period. Dozens of village and area youngsters again took advantage of the beach and all are reported to have had the best Summer to date.

Waiting Over!

ELECTION CALLED FOR OCTOBER 30th

Canada has just entered a "no-go" situation as legislation comes to a halt until after the October 30th election date set by Prime Minister Trudeau at the end of last week. The months of speculation are over and the members of all political parties headed home to ready themselves for the gigantic task ahead.

The Liberals have chosen this Fall for an election after viewing the popularity polls as a sign that the time is now and Prime Minister Trudeau apparently felt the time to "go" was at hand.

The Conservatives, of course, have felt for some time that the situation in the country called for an election but without enough voice in the House of Commons, couldn't force the country into an election by defeating the government.

For the NDP, after its overwhelming victory in British Columbia, they too might feel that this Fall couldn't be a better time for an election. Feeling that Canadians in one province have given their party a mandate, the NDP candidates in Ontario certainly must feel that they would like to follow in these same footsteps.

The remaining parties represented in parliament hardly seem likely to be able to come up with enough force to present any real problem to any of the other three and the main battle seems to be headed by Liberal and Conservative hopefuls.

In Grenville-Carleton riding, which takes in Iroquois, Matilda and Mountain Townships, the contest will be between Gordon Blair, Liberal, who held this seat in the last parliament· Walter Baker, Conservative, Ottawa lawyer who hopes to unseat Mr. Blair, and Mrs. who will represent the NDP and who hopes to remove both previously-mentioned candidates.

During the coming weeks, all candidates will no doubt be calling on constituents, expressing their concerns, and seeking the views of all voting residents. It will again be a time of hurrying and scurrying to delight the voters and the enthusiasm of the candidates may help to provoke a large turnout of the electorate. Time will tell.

Picture In Post Brings Action

Prompted by one of our readers, The Post published a picture of the sign at Iroquois Point which had badly deteriorated. Gordon Blair took up the challenge, after seeing the picture and following is a letter received from Mr. Blair:

Dear Mr. Kirkby,

You performed a public service in drawing attention to the unsatisfactory state of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority sign at the Iroquois Lock in a recent issue of the Iroquois Post. I brought the matter to the attention of the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority and I felt that both you and your readers would be glad to know that action is being taken and that I have received the following letter from Mr. P.E.R. Malcolm, Vice-President of the Authority outlining what will be done and when.

Yours sincerely,
D. Gordon Blair, M.P.

Editor's Note: In Mr. Malcolm's letter he points out that a new sign has been ordered and should be erected by September 15th. Thanks Gordon!

Rally Day At Knox Church This Sunday

Rally Day Sunday will be observed at Knox Presbyterian Church this Sunday, September 10th at the 11 a.m. service of worship with the Rev. John Hibbs, pastor, officiating and the Knox Church School and Junior Choir participating in this particular Family Service of the opening fall season.

Members of the Church School will meet at 10:30 a.m. in preparation for the service, and convene in the sanctuary at the hour of worship. As is customary on this Sunday, the study theme of the Church School curriculum for 1972-73 will be presented to the congregation and parents as part of the service and in the form of a dialogued-drama, with the Junior Choir providing related music. The theme of study for the coming Church School Year is "The Saints of the Church", based on the biblical teaching, and dramatized in three categories of study: 1) Hero Saints; 2) Modern Saints; and 3) The Now Saints. Members of the Church School Staff will also be commissioned to their teaching office in the church during this service of worship. On Sunday, September 17th, the Knox Church School will meet in regular departmental classes, at which time registration will take place and class areas assigned. Class attendance awards will be presented at the Rally Day Service.

With the beginning of the new fall season of work and worship, planning and outreach, members and friends, as newcomers to the congregation, are encouraged and invited to share in this Rally Day Service of prayer, praise, and purpose. Offering a program of education, worship and outreach within and to the community and the world, a cordial welcome is extended by the Knox congregation to residents who are without a church-home and to share in this common ministry.

Party At Playground

It was a celebration day for youngsters who had enjoyed Central Park facilities this Summer as Debbie Delegarde and several parents joined in to mark the closing of the playground for the year. Games were played and a large cake helped the children enjoy the end of their play-year.

Election '72

Canada is embarked on a national election on October 30th and the many months of waiting and speculation have finally come to an end. Speculation, that is as to the election date. Now speculation as to the outcome of a Fall election will be springing up on every quarter as candidates try to outdo each other with promises of the future.

With the western world facing the problems of unemployment and the shadow of inflation seeping in from every corner, politicians will be hard-pressed to come up with anything new in the way of suggestions as to how these problems should be attacked and defeated. Looking back over the past six or seven years at the unemployment figures in Canada alone, and this is the country we are most concerned with, the facts of life seem to indicate that the situation is not going to be solved very easily no matter what party gets into power.

As our economic situation ties in so closely with the United States and world competition for trade becomes more potent, Canadians may very well find that they are not going to sell all of their products to other countries just by virtue of the fact that we can produce more than we need at home.

Canada is not one of the larger nations of the world; we are not the most competitive "cost-wise" country in the world, and we are far removed from the markets of the Asian and Eastern countries as well as Europe.

And the only way we are going to beat the unemployment situation is for more people to have jobs. Either that, or take for granted that we can do nothing about it and those that have jobs can continue to support those who don't. At an ever-increasing cost as we find more and more ways to provide everyone with the same standard of living.

But if we accept this latter idea then we have chosen a self-destructive path for all Canadians. As it is,we have taken away the initiative to work from many Canadians by providing them with too easy an access to maintaining life without supporting the system and contributing to the system which we have developed in a free society.

Hard as it may seem to appear in print, we have to find more ways in which to employ more people and equalize the costs to all Canadians so that those paying the tax burden can share more fully in the benefits. None of us wants to see anyone going hungry, we all want everyone to have a good roof over their heads and opportunity at their fingertips. But we feel that the taxpaying Canadian public is ready to accept the idea that we must all contribute if we are to benefit.

Certainly there are those who unfortunately cannot contribute and no Canadian would want otherwise than to see that these people are taken care of; whether they be incapacitated, elderly or mentally or physically unable to support themselves.

But these are not the people that we take exception to supporting. The system we have developed on socialistic lines is so riddled with "outs" that many Canadians have come to be so knowledgable as to be able to outwit and outfox the system to the extent that they have gained a fair measure of life's benefits at the expense of others. This is not what the system was meant to do, nor should be doing. We are all aware of instances of abuse of the system and with an election before us, it's time we spoke up to our politicians and told them just what we do want to see done in this country. The time for listening is always better just prior to an election and so is the time for talking and expressing one's views.

The money that goes into and out of the pockets of Canadians will be the most prominent of the subjects to be faced by candidates in this election and it will be interesting in the next two months to hear the solutions that will be offered.

All that aggravates us is that we have been listening to all the reasons why we should or shouldn't do this or that for several years, from all parties, and the problem is still with us.

To the politicians seeking office we can only say: "Here's your chance to tell us what you can and will do, but remember, Canadians are ready to insist that you do just what you are about to promise".

We're going through a transitional period in our young history; we can't look back to a similar problem and come up with an answer. The answers must be new and original and lasting. What a challenge to place before any candidate!

More than a FRIEND

Did you ever have a pal who was like a second shadow to you . . . a friend who was always there when you needed him . . . someone who laughed with you when you were happy, and comforted you when your turtle died or your puppy ran away?

Our world is a big place, and people, even close friends, can't always stay together. One day you had to say "goodbye" and go your separate ways.

Since then, you've found new friends. You've also found an emptiness, a need, which people alone could not satisfy. We need a goal at the end of life's path and unfailing strength and guidance along the way.

Only God can fill this emptiness.

Only God can be with you the entire length of your path.

And when you reach the end? Only God can take you safely beyond.

Come to church this Sunday. You don't have to walk alone.

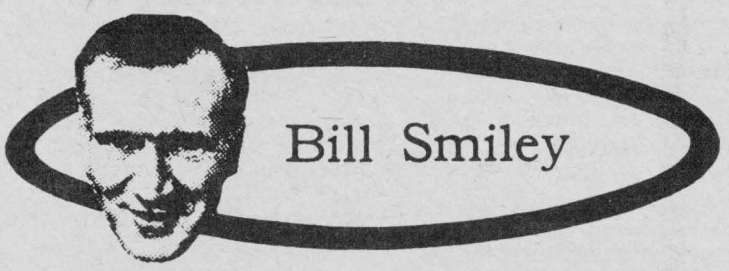
THEY ALREADY HAVE MY INVITATION

by Bill Smiley



One of those new African nations is kicking out of the country all the Indians. This is an emotional and political, rather than a rational decision.

African blacks hate these Asian Indians because the latter are better educated and on the whole, much wealthier than the natives. The reason for this is that the Indians are smart, work hard, and in backward countries, usually wind up in control of much of the economy.

Trouble is, with these Indians in Africa, that nobody wants them. Many of them have British passports, as their grandfathers went to Africa when the territory was under British rule, to build railroads. They're clinging to these passports like life-belts, but it isn't doing them much good.

Britain doesn't want them. It has enough racial strife on its hands already, after admitting thousands of Pakistanis, Indians and West Indians after the war. There have been race riots, white against coloured.

India, their homeland, doesn't want them. It already has more refugees than it can handle. Canada has been approached, and, as usual, dithers.

We could do a lot worse than accept a sizable chunk of these people without a home. They are industrious, peaceable and capable. They wouldn't be coming here as penniless immigrants. Most of them are fairly well off. Many of them have skills and professions we need.

I don't know much about Indians. I have some Canadian Indian friends, but the only Asian Indians I have known well were four chaps with whom I learned to fly Spitfires in England, longer ago than I care to remember.

Perhaps they weren't representative, because they were all from well-to-do families, and all spoke good English. But they were certainly a cross-section of that class, and gave me a good idea of why there is so much strife in India.

You'd think that four youths who had come all the way from India for advanced training would have been pretty close, thrown into the midst of all those Poles, British, Australians, Canadians, and a dozen other species of whites. On the contrary, they could barely stand one another.

There was Krishna. Smallish, very handsome, flashing black eyes that could almost literally flame when he was angry. He spoke such precise and fluent English that he made the rest of us feel like hicks. He was a Christian.

There was Ahmed. A lanky kid of about nineteen, sleepy-eyed, slow-moving, a big grin, and not much to say. He was a Pakistani Moslem.

And little Koori. He was pigeon-chested, weighed about 115, had huge, mournful black eyes, and was in a perpetual state of terror when flying. He should never have been there. One day he and I were sent up to practice dog-fighting in our Spits. I knew he didn't like flying, but not until that day just how deep was his fear. Every time I'd take a pass at him and go, "Tut-tut-tut-tut" like a machine gun, he'd veer wildly off about a mile and call wildly, "Smilee, Smilee, don't come so close." He was a Hindu.

And then there was the inimitable Singh Thandi. Flashing white teeth, chuckling eyes, magnificent silk turbans, under which he bundled his hair, which came down to his tail-bone. Curly black beard. Fastidious as a model. Kept his beard curly by tying a hand-

OFF THE CUFF

By Charles Edwards

We've been watching with some interest for the past few months, the growing controversy over the elementary school situation in the Winchester area. In an effort to centralize school facilities, several nearly new school buildings have been boarded up and their students bused to different schools and an addition is planned to the elementary school at Maple Ridge to turn it into a senior public school. There has been a real see-saw debate going on via letters to the editor of the Winchester paper, and while Department of Education officials may have made up their minds as to the future of various schools, the people of the area haven't necessarily accepted the situation gracefully.

We can't really say that if we were in the same boat we'd be any happier with the way things are shaping up. It's our opinion that it's a ridiculous waste of the taxpayer's money to close schools such as those in Vernon and Greely which are ten years old at most. The buildings themselves are in fine condition and taking into consideration the price of land and the costs of construction, we fail to understand the reasoning behind the decision. There has been plenty of ink used to air the opinions of both sides in the debate and it would be redundant of us to go through it all again. The school board feels simply that busing the students will, in the long run, provide them with a better education. The parents on the other hand, can't see the sense in closing down relatively new schools, and through their tax dollars, paying for the construction of still more new schools and helping to foot the bill for what they feel is unnecessary busing of their children to these new schools. If it came down to a matter of taking sides, we'd have to stand with the parents.

We can number a few teachers among our friends and in talking to them, it doesn't take long to sense their dissatisfaction with the system. Probably the biggest problem is the feeling of alienation that comes with the big impersonal school board. The teachers get the feeling that they're just small wheels in a machine that grows bigger and more irrational as the years go by. All policy decisions are made either in Toronto or at board headquarters and teachers and parents in the rural area can merely sit helplessly and watch. We'd like to go on record as feeling that the multiple county school boards were the biggest mistake ever made in the educational history of Ontario.

It's easy for us in this area to sit back and watch the goings on in the Winchester district. However, it becomes more serious when you stop to think that the same situation could just as easily prevail in our own area. How would we react if, for instance, the schools at Stampville and Dixons Corners were closed and the students bused to, perhaps, Morrisburg. It's something to think about.

Happy Times For Cardinal Pats

This past weekend was Cardinal Pats happy time. Thursday night they swamped Belleville 6-1 in Ontario Playdowns. Friday night they shutout the Pioneers 2-0 to tie the league semi-finals to 1 game apiece. Saturday night they edged Belleville 3-2 to win the series.

Against Williamsburg, Ted Hoy gave up 7 hits, 3 walks and struck out 8. Gerry Belanger took the loss with 6 hits (including a homer to Larry Patterson) 6 walks (? intentionally) and 11 strike outs.

Against Belleville, Hoy hurled a 4 hitter, walked 3 and struck out 15. Don Holoway took the loss with a 2 hitter, 10 walks and 5 strike outs. Pats had 9 left on base, Belleville 4.

Jack Hoy figured in on all 3 of Cardinal's runs.

Bottom of the first, Ted Emmons walked, Jack Hoy sacrificed to put Ted on second. Mike Skakum and Ed St. Louis each drew a walk. Ted Hoy popped out to 2nd base. Larry Patterson walked to walk in Emmons to score.

Top of the 6th with 1 on base, Belleville's catcher, Marv Stacey homered to center field. Bottom of the 7th, Larry Patterson drew a walk, Allie Cameron got on with a fielder's choice. With 2 out and 2 on, Emmons walked again, the Jack Hoy was hit with a pitched ball and Patterson scored. The playdowns consist of 9 innings. Bottom of the 9th, Ed Orzel singled to centre, Ron Patterson sacrificed to put Ed on 2nd. With 2 out, Emmons drew his 4th walk of the game. Jack Hoy singled down the left field line with Orzel scoring to give the Pats the series. They now await the winner of Oshawa/Peterborough series.

Before this is printed, Cardinal & Williamsburg will have played their 3rd game, with the 4th game scheduled Thursday night at Williamsburg.

This coming weekend is ? tournaments, double-knockout affairs, Cardinal and Newington.

In the other league series, Brockville shutout Domville 6-0 and then lost 1-0 in 12 innings.

CAREERS STRESSED IN ECONOMICS COURSE

Careers Are Stressed Kemptville College

The home economics course at Kemptville College turned fifty this year and things just aren't what they used to be. Here, as elsewhere, home economists face the problem of updating their public image. Old words and pictures have persisted but the reality behind them has changed.

Over tha last decade, home economics courses at the college level have become increasingly career oriented. Home economist Judy DeWolfe explains the change as "a response to the need of a growing number of women who are seeking careers". In fact, between 1960 and 1969, the number of jobs held by women in Canada increased by 24%. Out of eighty respondents to an employment questionnaire sent by the College to recent graduates, seventy-nine indicated they were employed full time in industries or services.

Like many young people, Janet O'Rourke doesn't believe in stereotypes. Nevertheless, her attitudes are typical of many of the girls attending the home economics course at Kemptville College. The nineteen year old, sandy haired student comes from a dairy farm outside Campbellford in the Peterborough area. She has been an active 4-H member and prides herself on being an expert at milking cows. Once she even competed for dairy princess.

When Janet decided to enroll in the home economics course at Kemptville College her friends reacted with characteristic abruptness. "That's a farmer's college", they told her. "You've got to be out of your mind."

Undaunted, she went anyway. The cosmopolitan atmosphere surprised her. She found that though many students were planning traditional careers, some were preparing for a short stint with C.U.S.O. in underdeveloped countries. Others were going into furniture or clothing design and a few into boutiques. She met students from places with exotic names she had not heard before. South America, Africa, Europe and India were all represented. She was especially pleased with having an Eskimo girl from Frobisher Bay for a roommate.

Janet believes that to be happy "one must live in pleasing surroundings which provide an opportunity to express one's talent and creativity".

She wanted a practical course but in an area in which she could see some benefit to humanity. "Home economics", she says, "relates more than any other course to the most basic needs of people: shelter, food and clothing."

She says she likes to get away from the idea of cooking and sewing and "the perfect little housewife bit" when talking about home economics because there is so much more to the course: budgeting, interior decorating, textiles, psychology, sociology. She concedes, however, if you do want to be a homemaker there is lots to fall back on. "The course puts the whole thing in perspective!" she says.

When the first class in home economics at Kemptville College graduated in 1922, courses were designed to prepare girls for housekeeping duties and rearing a family. Flavoured with a pinch of gardening and a dash of poultry instruction, they were probably adaptations of two of the first formal home economics courses developed in Great Britain, cookery & housewifery. The latter was designed "to overcome clumbsiness" and "develop good methods" of performing household tasks. The first home economics course in Canada was taught by Ursuline nuns at Quebec in the seventeenth century.

At home on vacation, Janet practises what she preaches. To her mother's surprise, Janet wants to try out new ideas in the kitchen. Not only with food, but with the atmosphere of the meal as well. Janet concedes she did not have much competence in the kitchen before she came to Kemptville College. Some of the other girls weren't much better. Happiness in a foods lab is watching a green Junior put salt instead of sugar into a recipe. And even in colleges of home economics, people sometimes put button holes on the wrong side.

In terms of student background, the greatest change has occurred in the last five years. In 1967, of the fifty girls enrolled, about ninety per cent came from rural areas. Since then, the enrollment has more than doubled and now about half the girls come from urban centres.

Adding To Maple Ridge

At a special meeting of The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education on August 29, 1972, the Board accepted the tender of Wiseman & Thompson, Finch, Ontario, for the construction of an addition to the Maple Ridge Public School. The tender submitted by Wiseman & Thompson was the lowest of seven received and was in the amount of $400, 262. 00.

The cost of the project, including architects' fees, furniture and equipment, is expected to amount to $454, 641. 00. Of this amount, $432, 325. 00 has been approved for legislative grant so that the cost to the public school supporters of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry school division will be .08 mills per annum (8¢ per $1000 of assessment) over the 20 year life of the debentures which will be issued commencing in the year 1974.

The purpose of the addition to Maple Ridge Public School is to provide a senior elementary school for the public school pupils of Winchester Village, Winchester Township, Chesterville Village and part of Williamsburg Township. This is part of the Board's program to establish senior elementary schools throughout the three counties making up the school division.

Canada Manpower Jobs For Students

Thursday, August 31st, the Prescott Canada Manpower Centre for Students, officially closed out its 1972 operations.

The summer saw 285 students registered from the three area secondary schools; South Grenville District in Prescott, North Grenville District in Kemptville and Seaway District in Iroquois. This is the highest enrollment to date in the three years of operation.

Student earnings through the office mushroomed to a record of $22, 000 this year. In 1970, earnings were $3, 000; in 1971 earnings were $8, 000. Despite the fact that earnings were so much higher this year, there were slightly less placements than last year. This fact reflects the trend toward better jobs for students in the area. There were 111 jobs this year for secondary school students. Many students found work on their own throughout the summer, thus relieving the work situation and shrinking the active file. Jobs related to agriculture were a large part of the summer employment picture. Some large orders in this area went a long way towards setting new records for student earnings.

The Canada Manpower Centre for Students was called on for a higher proportion of regular or full time work than ever before. Employment of this type was largely accredited to merchants and farmers.

Community co-operation is the only explanation for the success of this operation. Particular thanks must be given to the householders and employers who hired our students. Thanks must also be given to the following firms and associations who provided us with space, manpower, equipment, stationary and advertising: The Iroquois Post; The Chamber of Commerce; Bell Canada; Federal Department of Transport; Prescott Canada Manpower Centre; The Violet Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star; The Corporation of Prescott and the staff of North Grenville, South Grenville and Seaway District High Schools.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

The eager, confident look gives a good idea of Ronny's personality. This eight-year-old shows a tremendous amount of enthusiasm and determination to succeed.

He has demonstrated this repeatedly in activities which were unknown to him before he came into the care of the Children's Aid Society. He is proficient in swimming and baseball and he made first string on a hockey team two weeks after he learned to skate! Though Ronny never steps back from a challenge, he is a sensitive, warm, affectionate boy who will be a rewarding son.

Ronny is a slender, well-built youngster of English and French ancestry. He has sandy brown hair, green eyes, fair skin and naturally, freckles. His general health is good but he has some nasal problems which may require surgery at maturity. He has a speech impediment which is being helped by speech therapy at school.

If Ronny is attending an open school next term, he will be doing Grade two work in mathematics and language development and Grade three work otherwise. Though he has difficulty with reading, he likes books and enjoys reading or being read to. Drawing is another favorite activity and he likes any kind of crafts.

Ronny needs warm, affectionate parents. They will not be able to place too high expectations on him academically, but can be assured of a loving son who will do his best at whatever he attempts.

To inquire about adopting Ronny, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information consult your local Children's Aid Society.

Enumeration Underway For Municipal Elections

During the period September 5 to 18, enumerators will be calling on every home in Ontario as the province collects information to be used by municipalities in elections this Fall. Here in Iroquois, the task gets under way as enumerators seek to find out the number of eligible voters and to which school they wish their financial support to be allocated.

There are a number of changes in the nomination procedures this year, the most significant of which is the fact that no longer will anyone be able to be nominated at a public meeting as in the past in Ontario.

A person seeking office in a municipality must have ten electors sign his nomination papers, he must signify which office he is running for and all nominations must be in the hands of the clerk before 5 p.m. on November 13 which has been set by the province as nomination day.

To qualify for municipal office, a candidate must be a resident of the community in which he is seeking office, be 18 years of age or over, be a Canadian citizen and his name must appear on the list of electors. The lists of electors, once enumeration has been done, will be posted some time in October, to allow residents plenty of time in which to check the lists to make certain theirname appears thereon. If it is not on, the name can be added so that the person may become eligible to seek office or to vote, as the case may be.

Further details of the nomination procedures will be given at a later date.

This enumeration is not to be confused with an enumeration which will take place in the near future for the forthcoming federal election which Prime Minister Trudeau has called for October 30th.

HAMBURGER PLUSES

Ground beef, the most versatile meat any time of the year, fits in perfectly with barbecues or as well with sleigh bells. This flavourful, tasty meat flavour is only enhanced by the amount of preparation put into the dish. Here we've shown some dishes that are a little more time consuming as well as others that are quick. All taste truly delicious.

The idea of grinding meat originated in the Scandinavian countries. It gained popularity and spread during the Napoleonic era. Red meat was shredded with a dull knife and eaten raw. Today we cook the meat, but the shredding or grinding is still the method used. More beef is being consumed than any other kind of meat with the number one best beef seller — hamburger.

Ground beef is good, easy to prepare, inexpensive and a taste success with everyone. The meat is extremely tender.

Because summer and hamburgers go together so well, we've suggested some interesting meat loaf treats. They can be served hot from the oven or cold from the picnic basket. Remember — a meat loaf is a meal in itself. It needs only a tossed green salad and a few raw or cooked vegetables. Fruit is the biggest success for dessert.

Tempt your family and guests on your next outing with one of these. They're 'hamburger pluses' for summer.

Ending a Strike and a Parliament

The return of Parliament, immediately before dissolution, at the end of last week to deal with the West coast dock strike, dramatizes the continuing problem of disorderly labour-management relations in key sectors of the Canadian economy. This is the second time in three months that Parliamentary action was required to protect the public interest and prevent the economic strangulation which might have resulted from indefinite strikes at the ports of Montreal and Vancouver. The Government acted decisively, after giving some reasonable opportunity for labour and management to end the dispute. In the case of the Montreal dock strike, provision was made for compulsory arbitration, but on the West coast, the life of the collective agreements has been extended until December 31st, 1972 in the expectation that the parties will reach asettlement by that time.

The recall of Parliament followed a rather active summer in which a number of important Government programs were announced. In this column I can only summarize some of the major announce - ments, but would be glad to provide fuller particulars to anyone who is interested.

New Horizons

The New Horizons program sets aside 10 million dollars for self-help programs organized by senior citizens with the hope of enriching their own lives and making it possible for them to contribute their experience and skills for the benefit of the community.

Legal Aid

The Minister of Justice has announced a Federal Legal Aid Program which will be an important stimulus for Provinces where no legal aid programs now exist and will permit an enlargement and expansion of legal aid services in Ontario and other Provinces with plans. Coupled with legal aid assistance will be a plan for the compensation for victims of crime and violence.

Marijuana

The Government did not accept the recommendation of the LeDain Commission that the possession of marijuana be legalized while trafficking in it was not. It adopted the logical course of continuing the prohibition against possession. Recognizing the blot on careers of people caught as first offencers, it recommends the use of the new provisions in the Criminal Code for conditional sentencing conviction to avoid having young careers with a criminal record. At the same time, present stiff penalties against those who traffic in marijuana will continue. Intensified research will be carried on as to the effects of marijuana which the government does not treat lightly. Little is known about the long term effects in terms of mental disorders, the individual's ability to operate automobiles or machinery, and moving on to other harder drugs and the maturation of adolesence. This policy will not please everyone, but from reactions to it from leaders of other political parties and the public, it appears as a practical policy in step with public opinion. Significantly, marijuana convictions for the first six months of this year compared to the same period last year are down about 20%.

Emergency Assistance for Farmers

The special programs for assistance to farmers in wet damaged areas in this constituency have been discussed in the news columns of this and other papers. I will not add further comment on them here except to report that all the details of the programs are still being worked out by the Ontario and Federal officials and will be released as soon as possible so that everyone will know exactly how to apply and use the different types of assistance which are being provided.

Small Farms Development Program

The Federal and Ontario Ministers of Agriculture jointly announced the Small Farms Development program. The aim of the program is to help small farmers. In the words of Mr. Olson: "We want to give the small farmer a chance to realize his dreams, whether they be of building a profitable, business-like farm or getting out from under a farm that he doesn't want to run any more or that he can't keep going because of the work or intolerable debt load involved. This program, which has been developed by the fedeal government, will encourage the development of profitable family farms and prosperous rural communities".

Assistance for Expansion

The new plan provides assistance for small farmers wishing to expand their operations. The following is an example of how this will operate:

"In addition to the normal loan provisions of the Farm Credit Act, the FCC will offer the opportunity for eligible farmers to purchase farms on agreement of sale. Under the agreement of sale features of the program, the FCC may purchase the land from an eligible purchaser at cost. The purchaser will be required to make a down payment of $200. on any sale up to and including $20,000. For sales of more than $20,000., the level of down payment will be prescribed by the federal government. Payment will be spread over a period of up to 26 years at the same interest rate charged by the Farm Credit Corporation on mortgage loans. The purchaser will not be required to mortgage the farm he already owns as security for the newly acquired land. In cases where it is preferable to consolidate the purchaser's overall financial position and to provide additional capital for the development of an enlarging farm, the purchaser will be encouraged to take advantage of a normal FCC loan."

Assistance for Retirement

Where a person wishes to retire from farming he will be able to realize more on the sale price than the actual market price of his farm in the hope that he will thereby have a better retirement income. As an example: "Eligible sellers will be entitled to receive a grant of $1,500. plus 10 per cent of the actual sale price of his farm if it sells for up to $25,000. The maximum total amount of the grant, i.e. the sum of the fixed and variable parts will be $3,500."

In addition, an eligible seller may make arrangements with the purchaser for continued use of the farm home by himself and his spouse, including a suitable surrounding area and the right of access, and still be eligible for the assistance grants. Where the sale of the farm is financed by FCC funds, eligible vendors will have the option of taking all or part of their assistance grants and their equity in a lump sum or in the form of a fixed term interest bearing annuity.

Since this will be my last report before the onset of the election campaign, I would like to thank the Editor of this paper for the privilege of presenting this column and also many readers for their suggestions and comments over the past four years. My House of Commons office will be open all during the election campaign and my executive assistant, Mr. Paul Marshall, will be available at all times to assist constituents. The phone number is 992-0511 and we will, as always, accept collect calls from anywhere in the constituency.

Died At Vancouver

Frank A. Forward, a well known metallurgist, died Sunday, August 6, 1972 in Vancouver, B.C. at the age of 70 years. He was the son of Arthur Forward and his wife, Ida Dillabough and spent much time in the Carman House in Iroquois.

A consultant to U.B.C. in research administration, Mr. Forward had received more than 20 scholarly awards and held 50 patents in the area of extractive metallurgy.

He helped initiate the B.C. War Metals Research Board in 1940, was head of the U.B.C. metallurgy department from 1945 - 1964 when he left to become the first director of the science secretariat of the Privy Council. He was responsible for drafting legislation to form the Science Council of Canada.

In recognition for his years of service, the metallurgy building at U.B.C. has been named for him.

He leaves to mourn his wife, Dorothy and 4 sons: Peter and Allan of Vancouver, Gordon of Oshawa and Nelson of London, England. He also leaves his sister, Dr. Dorothy Forward of Toronto.

It's Back To School

It was back to school on Tuesday, following one of the wettest summer vacations on record, and from the smiles on students' faces around the village, going back to school couldn't have been too unpleasant.

Seaway District High School has hit a new high in attendance and is at about its peak with 710 students registered this year, compared to 635 in 1971.

Iroquois Public School hit a new high of 230 this year, with 226 in 1971.

St. Cecilia's Separate School has a ten-student jump over last year with 122 enrolled this year.

News columns from all the schools, both in Iroquois and Matilda Township are welcomed by The Post.

Let's have sports for sport's sake—take none too seriously.

All play and no work is too expensive to think about today.

Views & News

By Leo Debellefeuille

There are several local girls in Iroquois who are very proudly wearing Shur-Cain ball caps while performing in the minor ball programme. Speaking of caps - our hats go off to Mr. Frank Rooney for his fine gesture.

While on the topic, let's take a time out to wholeheartedly thank the many people who have worked so diligently in promoting minor softball in Iroquois this summer for several girls and boys. To all these men and women, Hip Hip Hurray for an excellent community effort. Although at times perhaps the children may seem not to show their appreciation to you, we are sure that down deep they really do understand and think the world of all of you for what pleasures you brought them this summer!

Money is no object to those who possess a W.H.A. contract. Bobby Hull filed a counter suit against the Chicago Black Hawks and the N.H.L. with monopolizing professional hockey. How can he afford to do that? Chuckle!

Toronto Maple Leafs have announced the signing of 5 foot 11 inch Brian Bowles of the Cornwall Royals to a pro contract.

A fine form of winter activity is alley bowling. Although some citizens of the village do perform in this tremendous past time, it would be wonderful if a complete community-wide Iroquois Recreation Bowling League would be formed for the up coming season. Anyone interested in such a venture?

Speaking of people moonlighting, here is a very ambitious man. Ed Molstad, the defensive end for Edmonton Eskimos of the W.F.C. in addition to being a pro football player is also a lawyer in a large legal firm and owns a large ranch of some 5,000 acres with 225 head of cattle. He stands 6'6" and tips the toledos at 250 lbs. At the age of 25, he is most progressive. Apparently he is a poor shot at riding a horse. I feel sure the horses don't object at his lack of ability.

In recent columns, bouquets have been tossed to many local sports groups for their successful participation in their respective form of recreation. Today, we would like the community to open their eyes to the ability of three young golfers who play under the banner of the Iroquois Golf Club. On Friday, Aug. 25th, three lads from the local Golf Club ventured out to compete in the Links O Tay Junior Boys Invitational in Perth, Ont.

There was a field of some 130 boys involved in the play from centres such as Deep River, Cataroqui, Brockville, Smiths Falls, Ottawa and Mississippi. Stanley Davis took second low net honours in "A" class for a score of 79. Stephen Montpetit won a low gross in "B" class with a score of 89. Robin McIntosh won a low net in "A" class with an 83. The competition was especially keen and our boys did better than a commendable effort in earning top marks. As a result of their excellent performance, the three boys have been invited to attend and enter a tournament to be held at the Rivermead Golf Club in Ottawa. To Robin, Stephen and Stanley go the best wishes of everyone and we do hope they come through their next tourney in the same flying fashion as they did in Perth. As a suggestion, perhaps the local golf Club could stage a tournament next summer during Carnival Week and thus allow many local and area golf fans to view the fine young talent that is being developed at the Iroquois Golf Club.

I was confused about the standings and possible play off arrangements in the Dundas Intermediate Fastball League. As a result, I attended a league meeting held at the Legion Hall, Iroquois, Aug. 28th.

Teams represented at the meeting were Cardinal, Prescott, Morrisburg Loyalists and Morrisburg Cruickshank, Winchester and Iroquois. Ingleside and Domville were not represented. The teams voted to have all eight teams enter the play-offs in an inter-locking play off. This means that with four teams in both the East and West sections, they will inter-lock in seven series to determine league champions. Due to inclement weather conditions, the schedule is far behind in completing its league games. A later release will indicate to you the dates and times of the scheduled play off games.

Certain teams must complete their regular schedule in order to determine play off positions. It would appear the West section is much stronger in the league in which Caldwell Linens are a member.

Following is a list of the teams with their total points and games remaining as of August 28th. Iroquois requires only a tie in their remaining four games to capture the league pennent in the West Division.

WEST DIVISION
Team	Points	Games Remaining
Iroquois	32	4
Domville	26	3
Prescott	25	1
Cardinal	13	5
EAST DIVISION
Morrisburg Loyalists	18	2
Winchester	12	5
Ingleside	9	3
Morrisburg Cruickshank	8	5

The Quarter Finals are as follows:
Series A - First team in East vs third team in West
Series B - First team in West vs third team in East
Series C - Second team in East vs fourth team in West
Series D - Second team in West vs fourth team in East.

The above will be 2 out of 3 series.

The Semi-Finals will be 3 out of 5 as follows:
E Series - Winner of Series A vs Winner of Series D
F Series - Winner of B Series vs Winner of C Series.

The league final will be 4 out of 7 games with the winners of E Series playing winner of F Series. A further press release will indicate the teams to play in the playoffs after the standings are settled. Remember - if you play sports, be a good one!

Williamsburg Ready 150th Anniversary

The Township of Williamsburg came up with a 150-year celebration in a short period of time and from the looks of the program they have gathered together, the September 8, 9 and 10 events promises to be interesting.

With a history that goes back beyond the days of the United Empire Loyalists and with historic significance to the development of the "front", Williamsburg Township's celebration calls for the support of the entire area. Starting with ball games on Friday night at their memorial park, games and a parade on Saturday afternoon, and outdoor church service on Sunday, the three-day event will be well worth attending.

Old township records, pictures and antique items will be on display at the Lutheran Church.

kerchief around his jaw at night and knotting it on top of his head.

Singh was a Sikh, another religion heard from. But he was a pretty lousy Sikh. They're not supposed to drink, smoke, cut their hair, and a lot of other things. He didn't smoke or cut his hair but he could put away about twelve pints of beer in an evening and, except for a little giggling, be none the worse.

But he had his hangovers. He was a crafty devil. When he had a particularly bad head, he'd just stay in bed. When the C.O. tried to give him a blast for his absence, he'd roll his eyes at the ignorance of these infidels, and say politely "Sorry, sir, today is holy day for Sikhs. Cannot fly on holy day." The baffled C.O. had no answer, as these Indian boys had to be well treated.

Singh would have nothing to do with the other "Indians" and joined a convivial little group with Van, a Belgian, Sven, a Norwegian, a couple of Australians and Jack Ryan and myself, Canadians. With the beard, the turban and the silver tongue, he attracted girls like flies. He loved flying as Koori hated it.

Never forget the time I shared a room with him in London, on a weekend leave. About 11 a.m. we started to pull ourselves together. He got up, groaning, holding his head, and tottered about in his shorts, his great mass of hair hanging down to his bum. (He didn't wear a turban to bed.)

There was a knock at the door, one of us grunted, "Come in", and the maid entered, to clean the room. At least she almost entered. She took one look, her mouth fell open, then she screamed and ran.

Despite his head, Singh nearly threw up from laughing so hard. "I bet, Smilee, she thought you were shacked up with the bearded lady from the circus." Singh was killed in Burma.

I like Indians. Let's invite more to our country.
