Motor Mishap Sunday Afternoon

Sunday afternoon opposite the Allison Stock Farm, Ford car 32621 and an Overland Sedan bearing license number 208,468 got into difficulties both being on the wrong side of the road when a cloud of dust evidently obscured their vision. The right wheel of the sedan caught the front of the Ford considerably damaging it at the same time taking the wheel off the sedan.

Child Playing With Matches Starts Fire

Thursday last the combination of a child playing with matches resulted in heavy loss for Geo. C. Merkley of Nation Valley, when his barn immediately west of Nation Valley school was destroyed by fire together with a number of valuable farm machines. There was no crop stored in this barn, another barn having been used for that purpose. The little son of the hired man gathered a bundle of dry leaves from corn stalks and made a fire close to the building which soon caught and had gained such head way when noticed that nothing could be done to save the building

Contractor Killed At Perth Train Hits Motor

William Buro, a contractor on the Good Roads system between Perth and Smiths Falls was killed Monday afternoon when the westbound York train due there at 2.25 p. m. ran into the car he was driving and hurled both car and driver over thirty feet. The train at once stopped and the injured man was conveyed to Perth station, one mile up the line, but he died shortly after his arrival. The unfortunate man had stopped his car to allow the eastbound train to pass and without noticing its approach drove onto the track in front of the westbound York with fatal results.

Mr. Buro, it is understood, is a native of Cornwall and leaves a family.

Simpson—Casselman

On Tuesday, September 19th, a very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Casselman, Finch, when their second daughter Ella Clarinda, was united in marriage with William Simpson of Cobden, Ont. Rev. R. C. McConnell of North Gower, uncle of the bride, tied the nuptial knot, assisted by Rev. J.O. Baron, Finch.

The bride was given away by her father, was prettily attired in white georgette over white satin, with bridal veil and orange blossoms, also wearing a gold bar pin gift of the groom. The drawing room was banked with ferns and asters, the couple standing between two pillars which were entwined with Virginia creeper and mauve asters, the wedding march being played by Mrs. J. W. Casselman, aunt of the bride.

After the ceremony the guests partook of a dainty luncheon in the dining room. The table was decorated very prettily with flowers. The bride was the recepient of many beautiful and useful gifts.

Mr. and Mrs. Simpson left on the evening train for Montreal and other interesting points eastward, amidst hearty congratulations and showers of confetti.

The bride travelled in a suit of nigger brown tricotine with hat to match and black fox furs. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Smpson will reside at Cobden, Ont., and will be at home after Oct. 1st.

Robt. J. Smirl Dead.

In a notice in a San Francisco paper of Sept 5th, the death was chronicled of an old Cannamore boy in the person of R. J. Smirle, when a Masonic notice called for the attendance of members at his funeral.

Robert John Smirle was the fifth son of the late Archibald Smirle and his wife Agnes Kyle, and was born on the Smirle Homestead in 1862. He received his education at the old Union school, Cannamore, and entered the saw mill and lumber business at an early age. Later he became a master mechanic in building and operating of lumber mills. After serving some time in the east, principally at Cumberland, Ont., he went to California about twenty years ago remaining there ever since. While in Cumberland he married a sister of Mr. Clarence Dunning of Cumberland who with one son survives him. He also leaves three sisters and one brother to mourn his loss viz. Matilda, widow of the late Chas. Feely of Saskatoon; Ann, widow of the late James Arbuthnot of Vancouver, B. C.; Ellen wife of Thos. McGregor, N. Winchester and Mathew of Ottawa.

Harold Haggerty, Toys Hill

This community was shocked to learn of the death of Harold Haggerty which took place at Cornwall General Hospital on Thursday afternoon Sept 21st. Deceased ook slightly ill on Friday 15th, his condition was not thought critical till Monday afternoon when medical aid was summoned, Dr. McLaughlin of Winchester, pronouncing his case paralysis of the throat. Dr. Locke of Williamsburg was called on Monday evening, followed by a consultation of doctors on Wednesday afternoon when all pronounced the spine to be affected and advised that he be removed to the hospital as it was contagious. He was taken to the hospital Wednesday evening when the doctors all agreed it was paralysis. He passed peacefully away Thursday afternoon. The body was placed in Brinston vault on Thursday evening, internment taking place Friday afternoon. It being impossible to take the body home on account of the disease, Memorial services were held at half past ten at Hulbert church being very largely attended. Mrs. Rumsey Peterson's class of young men attending in a body of which deceased was a member, also a good church attendent. The sympathy of the community is extended to the sorrowing father and mother, sisters and brothers in this hour of their bereavement. Harold was 23 years old.

Favor Lights on All Vehicles

Another phase of the work of the Parliamentary Committee appointed for the purpose of consolidating the motor vehicle legislation was reported as completed when the committee returned from having held sessions in Ottawa, Brockville, Kingston and Belleville. The body will visit Western Ontario probably during the first week in October, and will then conclude its labors by a journey to Niagara Falls.

On its Eastern Ontario trip it was said to have encountered as its most frequent suggestion that all vehicles be required to carry lights when travelling upon the highways at night. This proposal was made by motor leagues in all of the centres visited, and was advanced, it was declared. With a view to compelling farmers' rigs to carry some light for their own safety.

The committee, although it will have completed its work in October, will not make public its recommendations until the Winter session of parliament. It is a committee and not a commissions and can, accordingly, report only to the House. Its proposals it will probably embody in the form of a draft bill

Brantford Owns The Meanest Man

R. Cutts and J. Simmons appeared before Magistrate Blake in the police court to answer to a charge of breaking the Inland Revenue Act. The charge was of having a still in their possession. Cutts, a former O. T. A. operator stated that he and Simmons were trying to "frame" a man by the name of Shore, a farmer living in the vicinity of the city. They made the still, he said, and then placed it in a pond on the Shore farm. Cutts then came in and told the inland revenue officers that Shore was operating a still, and took them to his farm where the still was found where they had placed it.

Simmons denied all knowledge of the affair, and was a short time ago fined for having another still in his possession.

"Have you ever read a book called "The Bible," asked Magistrate Blake of Cutts, who claimed he had.

"Then do you remember the passage of of Judas Iscariot, who betrayed his Master?"

"No, sir," replied Cutts.

"I can walk with a drunk," said the magistrate. "And I can walk with a bootlegger, and even a man who has a still in his possession, but a man who would play a trick like that on a man unknown to him is too much for me."

He fined both of them $500 and costs, with an alternative of six months in jail, and gave them until Monday to raise the money.

Longest Train of Cattle to Toronto Stock Yards

Probably the longest train of live stock ever received at Toronto from the West arrived at the Union Stock Yards last Saturday. It consisted of 72 cars of cattle and had made the journey from Winnipeg to West Toronto in 75 hours. Live stock movement from Western Canada to Eastern markets has been very heavy for the past six or seven weeks, and the arrival here of fast freight trains made up of from 40 to 50 cars of cattle has become quite usual.

The Mad Motorist

One thing is certain, the motorist who goes careering through the streets without regard for the life or limb of pedestrians, or who operate his car while under the influence of liquor, is as much a menace to the community as a mad dog and deserves no more consideration. In addition to other penalties imposed, persons found guilty of these graver violations should be deprived forever of the privilege of driving automobiles. If a cashier embezzles his employer's money he is not usually again to be trusted with the handling of funds. Why trust with potential engines of death those who have shown themselves unfit?—Exchange

A Family Necessity

No other journal caters so intimately and minutely to the needs of the agriculturist as does the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. From his medical to his religious needs, from the health of his stock to the capabilities of his machinery, from his ladies' embroidery to their pickles, from the minerals on the land to the fish in his brooks, from the booksof his leisure to hours the amusements of his children, from his individual cares to his public duties, he finds companionship, help and guidance in the same old journal, which delighted his fathers and is the joy of his children to-day. He could not afford to be without the Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal. The subscription price is $2.00 per year.

Children Thrive in Foster Homes

The success of the system of placing neglected and dependent children in foster homes rather than in institutions is shown in a report which officials of the Children's Aid branch have made to the Provincial Secretary's Department, following a visitation of their wards in all parts of the province. Some 8,200 children are now under the guardianship of the department, and officials state that their inspection showed that their circumstances were unusually felicious, less than one per cent, of them having any complaint upon the score of the treatment which they were being accorded in their foster homes.

An interesting fact in connection with the work is that the children have held in trust for them a total sum of over $82,000 this amount is made up of individual items of from $5,00 to $500, and represents the savings which the children have entrusted to the care of the department. The money is carefully looked after, interest is paid upon it, and it is repaid to the children upon their attainment to years of maturity.

A Cruel Motorist—?

A few days ago a motor car coming into Paisley was preceded by a stray horse which had been galloped for miles and was in a foam of sweat. On the Elora road south the animal had swerved onto the railway tracks and was taken care of by Mr. Paul Oltsher, who had noticed it coming. Mr. Oltsher sent in an advertisment to The Advocate, but before it appeared the owner a man out Tiverton way, turned up. He had been searching for the stray equine for several days. A man who is cold-hearted enough to keep a dumb animal moving ahead of him at machine pace for miles at a stretch deserves chastisement that is not provided by law. He should be deprived of his license so that he could not be on the road for a few months.—Paisley Advocate

We think that our friend of The Advocate sanctum may be a little hasty in censoring said motorist, who instead of being the offender may have been the one offended. To begin with, it is unlawful to allow horses or cattle to run loose on public highways yet the law in this respect is being repeatedly broken by farmers and others. Then again we have known horses when running at large to get in front of a car and gallop along the road for miles making it necessary for the motorist to stall his car from time to time to keep from colliding with the equine. Of course, this is not the least aggravating to the driver of the car, nor would we call it amusing. The true facts of this case may be, however, "a horse of another color," but it listens to us as if the motorist might be the one who has the "big holler" coming. Walkerton Hearld-Times.

Man Killed in Auto Accident
Prescott Highway Saturday Night

When their automobile overturned in the ditch on the Ottawa Prescott Highway, one mile south of Manotick, Geo. Krause, of Dumont, N. Y., the driver, was killed, and the owner, Moe Hellman, 2416 Harrison Avenue, New York City, seriously injured, shortly after mid-night Saturday. Two other occupants of the car, Lawrence Stagg and Carman Howe, both of Brockville, Ont., escaped injury save for a few scratches and a shaking up. Mr. Krause was instantly killed. His head was crushed in and he also received internal injuries. The other men were flung clear of the car. Mr. Hellman suffered a dislocated shoulder, a tractured jaw and cuts on the face. None of his injuries was sufficiently serious to necessitate his going to a hospital, and he stayed in Manotick over the week-end, attendin, the inquest of his dead companion and making arrangements for the removal of the body to New York.

The party left Brockville at 8 o'clock Saturday night and were making fast time to Ottawa, their destination. They passed through Prescott at 8.20 p. m. About one mile south of Manotick the Ottawa-Prescott Highway takes a sudden turn while a dead road is continued. It is thought that Mr. Krause did not notice that he was off the Ottawa-Prescott highway until the car hit the rough surface and that he attempted to swerve back onto the highway. In doing so the wheels it is thought, skidded and the car dropped into a five foot ditch. The shock was sufficient to throw the three men clear of the car. The steering wheel, however, held the driver into the car, which rolled over several times. When later pulled out of the ditch, the chassis of the car was found to be completely wrecked but the motor was in perfect condition and was able to proceed to town under its own power.

Poisoned Candy Serious Results

An English family named Turner, who recently came to Walkerton, got hold of some chocolates the other day saturated with strychine and had a close call from death by poisoning. Just where the confectionery came from is a mystery, as the little girl who brought the sweets home was unable to identify the party who gave them to her. The parents and the child all helped to consume the poison and soon became violently ill. Two doctors who were summoned detected every symptom of strychnine poisoning.

In the Good Old Summer Time

He sat at the lunch counter of the restaurant. He finished his sandwich and the glass of milk. Then pointing to a pie back of the counter he said;

"I'll have a slice of that blackberry pie."

"Taint blackberry," said the waitress. And then, as she "shooed" the flies with a wave of her arm: "It's custard."

Rule of Three

The children were telling a visitor what they studied in school.

"I," said the eldest, "get reading, spelling and definitions."

"And what do you get, my little man?" said the visitor, addressing the little one, who had listened in a bored way while the others recited their lists.

"Oh, I dets readin', spellin' and spankin."

Fatal Accident

An untimely death came to a promising young man, Saturday when Mr. Wesley Casselman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Casselman, Church Road, was struck on the shoulder by a piece of falling timber in Mr. Reddick's barn, inflicting injuries which later caused his death.

Casselman, who was 17 years of age, was employed by Mr. John Reddick, who is erecting a barn on his farm, and along with a number of other men, was discharging his duties on the floor of the barn on Saturday, Sept. 16th, when about 3.30 p. m., a piece of timber fell from the roof where other hands were engaged, and landed on Casselman's shoulder. The lad when struck, fell to the floor, but picked himself up immediately and expressed a desire to continue his work. He was told by his employer that he had better retire for some time, which he did. Shortly afterwards he felt a pain in his head, and about 6 p. m. he became unconscious. A doctor was called, and after an examination declared that the injuries were fatal. Mr. Casselman passed away at One o'clock Sunday a. m.

The deceased had always enjoyed robust health, and although was only 17 years of age, was over 6 ft. tall. He was the eldest of a family of six children, and enjoyed the high esteem and respect of the surrounding community. Besides his parents he is survived by four brothers.—Morrisburg Leader.

Familiar Many Years Ago

A team of oxen, a sight which probably has not been seen on the streets of Peterboro for many a day, was the object which attracted the curiosity of the residents of that city Friday evening. The animals, driven by Frank Harding, a farmer from Drummond Township came down the street in a very leisurely motion, more slow because of the long day's journey from their home farm. They stopped at every man-hole in the street and carefully walked around them, Mr. Harding remarking "They think they are holes in the ice." They also balked frequently at the street corners and had to be urged forward by the use of a long black snake whip.

The "harness" attracted no little attention, for it consisted simply of a large wooden yoke over their massive necks, with light wooden "bowls" passing under and holding the yoke in place. The tongue of a heavy two-wheeled cart was fastened directly to the yoke, and its load consisted only of a few bags of wheat. Although a single rope extended from the yoke to the cart, it was not used for driving the animals, who are guided entirely by word of mouth.

Same Old Boob Trick

On Wednesday night, August 30, about 11.30 o'clock, two young men who live near Belleville, were returning home from Toronto in a Ford touring car, and, when they reached the village, stopped at Jos. Cowan's, Pickering, to get a fresh supply of gasoline. When several gallons had been pumped into the tank, the owner of the car took Mr. Cowan's lantern to see how full the tank was, Mr Cowan warned him of the danger of that proceeding.

Some more gasoline was pumped in and the man repeated the act with the lantern, but a second warning was unnecessary, for immediately an object lesson was given illustrating the great danger of holding a flame of any kind near the opening of a gasoline tank where the fumes are sure to ignite. Without a moments warning the, whole inside of the car was a mass of flames, and all efforts to extinguish the fire were fruitless until the whole top and the upholstering were completely destroyed, only the metal framework remaining. Fortunately the tank did not explode, nor did the engine receive any damage. The owner took the car back to the city next morning when it received a new top and upholstering. The men then resumed their journey eastwards after receiving a very expensive lesson. A flashlight is the only safe light to use around a gasoline tank or where there is a quantity of gasoline not completely enclosed, and no car owner should be without one.—Pickering News.

Peaches 35c Water Melons 5c

Saturday's market at Hamilton was one of the largest of the, year and toward the night prices dropped to an astonishingly low figure for peaches, owing to the enormous quantity which had been brought in by the fruit growers of the district. Marketers who visited the square after 8 o'clock could purchase large baskets of Crawford and Alberta peaches for as low as 35 cents. The growers' carts were loaded high with peaches at a late hour. Watermelons sold at from five cents up.

Smiths Falls Family Escaped In Night Attire

Fire breaking out Monday night shortly after midnight destroyed the home of B. Hawkins, on Lorne street Smiths Falls. Awakened by the smell of smoke coming from downstairs Mr. Hawkins rushed to the lower floor to find that the fire had made much headway. He had time only to go upstairs and get out of a window to a kitchen roof. He then found a ladder, and by means of it rescued his wife and four children, who escaped in their night attire. The furniture was destroyed and the house badly damaged. Insurance is carried on house and contents.

Long Sentence For Juvenile

A 15-year-old youth, of Athens, Ont., was sentenced to the Juvenile Institution for six years, or until he reaches the age of 21, by County Judge J. K. Dowsley, in the County Court Tuesday. He confessed to the charge of breaking into the C. N. R. depot at Athens in August, and stealing a quantity of railway property. The theft had been cunningly carried out, and C. N. R. Detective M. Goodson had to be called to investigate. The window pane had been carefully removed, and as carefully replaced, without any traces so that the method of entry remained a mystery. Most of the stolen property has been recovered by Detective Goodson.

George A. Dewey, local fuel controller at Brockville, has issued an order that no anthracite may be delivered by fuel dealers there to the general public before November 15, and that in the interim soft coal and other substitutes must be used. The order is issued in view of the probability that only 60 per cent. of the normal supply will be available this winter.

Flooded With Bonds to be Exchanged

The Department of Finance is being flooded this week with shipments of 1922 Victory Bonds for exchange into similiar securities bearing the same rate of interest and running for a further period of five or ten years, as desired.

The Minister's offer stipulates that the old bonds should be turned in on or before September 30 and while the conversions have been heavy during the last few weeks, there has been a decided increase as September 30 approaches in the quantity of bonds reaching the department from the thousands of bank branches throughout the country.

Prices of Victory Bonds have been strong on the markets. Since the publication of the Minister's offer the price of 1922 bonds has risen from slightly below par to 100 - 30, indicating that the Minister's offer has been regarded by the financial community as an attractive one.

With talk of the United States Government issuing a refunding loan this fall on a 4 or 4 1-4 per cent basis, a rate of 5 1 2 per cent on Canadian securities is decidedly attractive.

Gives Judgment Against Bailiff

A judgment against Bailiff Geo. Stearns, of Russell, and Albert Latremouille, an Embrun merchant, was recently given in the Division Court, of Russell, by Judge O'Brian in the action against both these persons by A. Herbert. Stearns had made an abuse of the process of the law when he seized stock belonging to Herbert. Stearns had been told to make the seizure by Latremouille, to whom Herbert owed $250. In order to protect his stock Herbert signed a chattel mortgage due in ten days.

Cabinet Watching For Developments

The changed complexion of the Near East situation has given rise to renewed anxiety and watchfulness at Ottawa. As things look far from promising, the Government is watching the situation closely, ready to take whatever action may seem necessary.

The Prime Minister has been out of the city since the beginning of the week, but he is being kept closely informed of developments. With the change in the situation, the Government has been notified by confidential messages from overseas of the trend of affairs as well as through the medium of the press despatches. These confidential messages are being sent on the Prime Minister immediately upon their receipt at his office, and if the situation is such to warrant such action further meetings of Cabinet Council to deal with the situation will be summoned without delay. So far Cabinet has not been called to meet this week. Practically all the ministers who are in Canada are within reach of Ottawa at present and can be brought together on short notice.

In the case of a decision to call an extraordinary session of Parliament to consider the question of sending a contigent overseas, it is expected that not more than two weeks would elapse from the time of the call being issued until Parliament meets. In August, 1914, war having been declared on August 4, Parliament meet on August 18 and sat for only four days. The call to the members would be sent by telegraph, and the session brought on without delay should one be called.

The calling of a special session, of course lies in the hands of the Governor-in-Council, but there is little doubt here that such a call would be issued before the government decided on any further action in the matter of sending or preparing to send troops overseas.

WHEN you require a roof, the measurement will be in squares (100 square feet). A basis for analysis of the costs of Brantford Asphalt Slates is given below:

1—INITIAL COSTS OF MATERIALS—Brantford Asphalt Slates are sometimes higher in initial cost for the material.

2—NAILS REQUIRED—Brantford Ashphalt Slates require ONLY 684 nails to lay a square. Brantford Asphalt Slab Slates require ONLY 450 nails.

3—COST OF LAYING—Brantford Asphalt Slab Slates are four on one strip—require only one operation in handling, one operation in spacing—Individual slates are 8 x 12¾ inches—Cut easily, fit easily, fit on angles and bend over round surfaces. You save 30 to 50 per cent. in laying.

4—NO PAINT OR STAIN REQUIRED—The surface of Brantford Asphalt Slates is in nature's permanent colors, green and red, unfadeable, always attractive,—requiring no stain to produce artistic effects, no liquid coats to make them fire-resistant.

5—SAVING OF INSURANCE—Brantford Asphalt Slates are classed as non-combustible by fire insurance companies—a direct saving of from 10 to 20 per cent. on premiums is effected. In certain localities fire regulations demand asbestos paper under some roof materials, but Brantford Asphalt Slates are fire-resistant and are immune from special regulations.

6—COST OF REPAIRS—From the day they are laid Brantford Asphalt Slate roofs show almost 100 per cent. of the original roof untouched. Brantford Asphalt Slates do not curl, split, crack or rot. Complete protection and permanent protection are built into Brantford Asphalt Slate Roofs.

Compare these roof costs with those of any other roofing material; it is your money you are spending and you want value for it—then buy

The Choice of The Young

It is always interesting to know what a group of boys and girls look forward to doing when the time comes for them to go out from school into the world. Circumstances often frustrate their ambitions but at least we have learned how the rising generation would occupy itself if it could have its way.

The school department of Honolulu has recently been conducting an inquiry into that matter, and it has learned some things that are worth a moment's attention. Less than one in a hundred of the girls who were interviewed expressed any interest in becoming home makers or housekeepers, though 4 per cent liked the idea of becoming cooks or waitresses. Nearly half of them—forty six in a hundred, to be exact—wanted to become professional people, teachers or doctors or dentists. Twenty-one per cent thought well of stenography, typewriting and bookkeeping; fourteen per cent would like to be dressmakers or milliners; ten per cent, nurses or masseuses; and the few remaining wish to be musicians or farm workers or what not.

As for the boys, almost half wanted to be mechanics, automobile drivers or electricians. Less than a hundred out of the nineteen hundred examined meant to engage in agriculture. Fifteen per cent had professional ambitions, not quite so many thought of being bookkeepers or stenographers, and the others choose such diverse occupations as journalism, "cow-punching," forestry, printing, music, following the sea and keeping store.

The things that are most noteworthy in the tabulation are the unpopularity of the very essential occupations of farming among the boys and housekeeping among the girls, and the strong tendency of the boys to turn to mechanical pursuits and of the girls to choose something in the professional or clerical way. No doubt a great many girls expect eventually to marry, and so to have a lot of housework and housekeeping to do. They are perhaps ashamed to set marriage down as their ambition in life, though their mothers and grandmothers would not have been. But do not their votes show that they would perform their housekeeping duties only as something inseparable from married life, and not because they really enjoyed them?

Of course these are only immature choices. As these young people grow into men and women, they will find reason to change their minds, perhaps more than once; and they will often find circumstances driving them into occupations which they do not at first care for, but with which they will in time become reasonably content. How many of us old fellers are doing what we dreamed of doing at fourteen. Nevertheless the way in which the boys and girls shy at farming and at housekeeping makes us wonder whether there is not something at fault with the education they are getting; a fault that is probably in the home quite as much as in the school.—Youths Companion.

Quebec's Good Roads

The Premier of Quebec says that the Government's ambition is to have good highways without bleeding the farmers, or other groups of the community. It has undertaken complete maintenance of the four thousand miles of good roads it has built in the last few years, leaving the municipalities free to spend their revenues on education, and other local objects. Legislation will be put through the Legislature at its next session to give effect to this policy— made possible by the financial system of the Province.

Hon. Mr. Taschereau added: "Some may think that it is a hazardous policy, and that no other Provincial Government has ever inaugurated such policy. This is quite true, but we have special advantages. While other provinces cannot do these things, we can. The proviuce of Quebec is progressing, and is not suffering like the others from any crisis. The surplus this year was over those of all other Provinces of the Dominion together. The Province of Quebec has had the courage that others had not, that of facing a certain problem. If to-day Quebec is in a position to maintain its roads, it is because of an exceptional financial position. With the surplus of the liquor trade, we can meet the requirements." This surplus about four millions in a year, is not only enabling Quebec to supply the whole Province with good State roads, but is enabling it to pay off the public debt Ontario and the other Provinces are adding to taxation in every possible form. Our Provincial highway system embraces 1 800 miles of roads, of which two thirds are designed to be gravel or macadam. About 400 miles will be paved. The cost is expected to reach about $25,000,000 and $2,000,000 a year for motor licenses is to be diverted to pay for it. But Quebec is free to apply motor license fees to the regular business of the Province.

Conscientious scruples about provincial engagement of liquor business are justified, but there is no denying the practical effectiveness of the Quebec policy. If years from now, Quebec is in a position of exceptional financial ease, and ours is one of economic difficulty and makeshift owing to present Drury extravagances, we may be disposed to have regrets that we were not more practical and less idealistic.—Mail and Empire.

When Will Chesterville Learn?

The Carp Review has the following comment on their lack of fire fighting appliances after a recent fire in the village. Chesterville may have some means of fighting fire, but is without any organization to handle it.

"The need of fire-fighting apparatus was again demonstrated last Saturday morning, when two fine dwelling houses and most of their contents went up in smoke. Luckily there was no wind at the time or several other houses would have fallen a prey to the flames. Not even buckets were to be had until sometime after the start. Later several fire extinguishers gathered from all parts of of the town and two water tanks did good service in preventing the spread of the flames. Tthis goes to prove that if the community had some kind of fire-fighting apparatus we have the men to work it. If got to the scene in time it would probably put out he fire altogether, but certaintly would confine it to the building where the fire started. It is getting to the point where something will have to be done in the way of fire prevention or we will be unable to get insurance. Some of the large insurance companies have already refused to renew risks as they expire or take on new ones The fire marshall has refused fire insurance in the village of Newboro because they did not provide fire protection to its residents If we don't watch out the same will happen to us. It is true that we do not know exactly what system is most adapted to our circumstances and surroundings, but the Ontario Fire Marshall's Department are willing to send an expert to look over the ground and give us advice on the matter. We should avail ourselves of these services. They have no axe to grind nor anything to sell, so their advice would be purely to our own interest. As a community affair we think the township council, and no doubt will, assist substantially in providing in providing fire fighting apparatus for the use of the community."

Peaches and Prices

(The Khan in Toronto Telegram)

Now I understand why the Lord visits the nations with lean years. This season Providence just simply heaped peaches on the Niagara Peninsula. The folks fixed the prices at sixty cents a basket. But the people said they wouldn't pay that much; folks outside the combine were selling them at twenty cents a basket, and the combine said we will let them rot first."

And they let 'em rot heaps of them! You can smell them as far as Sudbury. Now, I don't think the Great Fruit Grower of the Universe likes that sort of thing. I wouldn't be surprised if the Lord sent a worm next season that would bore a hole in every peach tree from Burlington to Queenston Heights. The Lord don't want to do it, I admit. He is so kind hearted but he just natchelly has to do something desperate to bring humans to their senses.

This sort of thing won't do, particularly on the land. Manufacturers and coal miners and the like can merge and combine and strike and sulk and revolute and riot to keep up prices, but the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof, and He won't stand for any foolishness on the land. Some evil genius recently put it in the heads of the hornyhanded sons of toil to fix prices for wheat, shorts, bran, pigweed and chop. It can't be done. Their fathers looked with horror on combines, but these their sons are trailing after false gods. You can't control the price of wheat anymore than you can control the motion of the contemptuous stars that wink at one another every night as they survey the earth below,

A friend of mine down in the fruit belt told me I could come and get all the peaches I wanted for nothing. I told him I'd rather pay for them.

"In that case," said he, "they are sixty cents a basket."

Keep On Moving

Two frogs fell into a milk-pail deep,
And one poor frog did nothing but weep;
He sank to the bottom as heavy as lead,
And there in the morning they found him dead.

The other frog shouted: "I'll have a good try,
The pail may be deep, but I don't wish to die."
He churned up the milk with his legs fore and hind—
There's nothing like having a masterful mind—
For when the next morning this froggy was found,
On a pat of fresh butter he floated around.

The average stay of a lifer in a penitentiary is between 15 and 20 years. They either become demented or suffer a breakdown in health and die.

Use of Soft Coal in Heating Homes

How bituminous coal may be mixed with anthracite in stoves and furnaces with a consequent escape from smoke and gases is described as follows by a fuel concern:

"The main difference between the burning of anthracite or hard coal and the burning of bituminous or soft coal consists in using the proper amount of air, and bituminous coal requires a stronger chimney draft than anthracite.

"Last winter many successful household experiments were made with a mixture of bituminous coal and anthracite coal in the present heating apparatus. By successful is meant that heat and comfort were obtained and money saved without change being made in grate-bars or fire-pots.

"There should be no smoke nuisance in burning a mixture of anthracite and bituminous coal. Smoke is caused by the incomplete burning of the volatile or gaseous matter in coal. The Bunsen burner principal, that is, a mixture of the proper amount of air with the gas given off by the coal, smoke and soot. The amount of air necessary varies with the kind of coal, The low volatile bituminous contains only three or four times as gaseous matter as anthracite.

"For a trial in the furnace or heater no change is necessary in the grate bars or fire-pots and the following proportion is suggested:

"Two shovelfuls of domestic anthracite and two shovelfuls of bituminous, which should be put on the fire after the blue or gas flames are coming up through the anthracite coal.

"After a week's experiment it will be possible to ascertain whether a greater proportion of bituminous may be successfully used.

"By putting the bituminous and anthracite on the fire seperately small air spaces exist in the anthracite. By opening the slide of the front door, or slightly opening the door itself, a greater volume of air is drawn in over the fire. Thus the quantity of air in an anthracite burning apparatus may be materially increased to secure a mixture of anthracite and bituminous coal. The chimney draft may be easily regulated.

"Because of the tar content in bituminous coal 'run of mine' or 'slack' will run together and form a light 'coke,' which can be easily broken into lumps with a poker. On this account bituminous will not drop through the grate-bars, until burned to a dust. It is not necessary to have lump or prepared sizes of bituminous coal, although the prepared sizes are more convenient if domestic anthracite is not available for mixing purposes.

"When bituminous coal is mixed with anthracite the greater amount of heat generated by bituminous will burn all combustible matter in anthracite and there is no necessity for sifting ashes. Also the ash content of bituminous is about one-half the amount in anthracite.

"For starting the fire bituminous may be used for quick results, and only a small amount of wood is necessary as bituminous coal is a free burning fuel.

"As bituminous is freer burning than anthracite it may be necessary to give a little more attention to the fire and furnace.

"By throwing a moderate amount of water upon the bituminous pile at the point from which the coal to be fired is taken, the dust and dirt objection is overcome, as well as reducing the amount of smoke noticeable when coal is first thrown on the fire. There is no danger of spontaneous combustion.

"A mixture of bituminous and anthracite may also be used in kitchen ranges."

The Lady Was Right

The lady who was thinking of buying an automobile had had the agent show her the carburetor, the differential, the transmission and everything she thought seemed important about the car. Then she said. "Now, are you sure you've shown me all the things I ought to know about?"

"Why, yes, madam, I think so," replied the agent.

"Well then, where is the depreciation? I am told that is one of the most important things to know about when you are getting a car."

About Bee Stings

A good many readers who saw our story about the man who died shortly after being stung on the temple by a bee have written us their views of observation on the subject of bee stings. One bee-keeper tells us that he has been stung in almost every part of his body and has found stings on the temple no more serious, though a little more painful, than stings in other places.

Another reader writes that as a boy he was stung by a bee on the throat near the "Adam's apple" and that almost immediatefy his body from his neck to his hips swelled with a burning inflammation. He was exceedingly ill, and he remembers that the doctor told him that if the sting had penetrated the jugular vein he would probably have died.

A lady writes that she was once stung between the eyebrows and was so ill that her life was despaired of for a time. She was covered with a paintul eruption, and she has, she said, never had good health since that dav.

It is noticeable that the beekeepers who have written us do not believe that bee stings can kill anyone; but the physicians are a little more cautious.

One doctor who lives in Logan, Utah, writes us of a patient who was stung on the wrist. She was almost instantly seized with symptoms of shock and poisoning, could not speak and almost died from inability to draw her breath. The doctor's conclusion— and the most sensible one possible it seems to us—is that some persons are exceptionally susceptible to formic-acid poisoning and that, if a considerable quantity of poison is injected directly into a vein, serious effects may follow. Death would be so uncommon a result as to be rarely heard of, but it appears there are conditions when even death may be possible. It is probably most likely when the heart is weak or diseased. The temple is apparently no more dangerous a spot than others except as the blood vessels there are necessarily close to the surface and so may be more readily punctured by a bee sting.—Youths Companion.

Grow Your Own Medicine

Few people realize that a garden will produce the simple remedies one often needs for small ailments. A supper of fresh lettuce leaves, for instances, which juices contain a powerful sedate, will induce a refreshing sleep. Of blood purifiers we have a large choice -water cress, tomatoes, apples, eaten raw, but they should be eaten early in the day. Apples also cleanes the teeth and impurities in the blood can often be overcome by rhubarb stewed with a little sugar. For a sore throat there is nothing so soothing as a little black currant jam placed in hot water, strained, and the decoction drunk whilst hot. Stewed black currants are also an old fashioned remedy for anaemia. Inflamed eyes due to stuffy atmosphere can often be relieved by an application of water cress leaves. Pound them with the hands and apply them at night to the eyelids until a smarting sensation is felt, then remove and go to sleep. By morning all traces of inflammation will have disappeared. As a tonic, spinach is a dish which improves health amazingly. Spinach is good also for rheumatism and gout, as is celery. Beetroot is another tonic, and asparagus is good for the kidneys. Our forefathers knew and used these simple remedies, which maybe accounts in some measure for their good health and long evity.

Light Work

An Irish youth was in search of a situation, so he went to the gas works. As he was proceeding down the yard he was met by the foreman.

"What do you want?" he was asked.

"Work," answered Micky.

"What can you do?" was the next demand.

"Almost anything."

"Well", said the foreman, bent on having a joke with the youth, "you seem to be very smart fellow, but could you wheel a barrel of smoke?"

"Yes, certainly," replied Micky. "I could easily do that if you would fill it for me first."

He was taken on.

Catarrhal Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. Catarral Deafness requires constitutional reatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine is a constitutional remedy. Catarral Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely olosed Deafness is the result. Unless the inflammation can be reduced, your hearing may be destroyed forever. HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE acts through the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system thus reducing the inflammation and restoring normal conditions.

A Great Opportunity

Commenting on the proposals of the Minister of Finance for the convertion of 1922 Victory Bonds into new bonds carrying the same rate of interest and maturing in five or ten years, as desired, the Monetary Times says:—

"One point which should be borne in mind by investors in considering the new issue of Dominion Government Bonds is that the time is rapidly approaching when good securities will be scarce instead of plentiful. Up to the present year, since the beginning of the war, the investment market has been a buyers' market, interest rates being high and money scarce. Looking back to a time several years before the war, however investors will recall that it was then quite a problem to find a reasonably good investment which would yield 5½ per cent, or even 5 per cent.

"The opportunities to invest in ten-year bonds at 5½ per cent is therefore a good one. The loan will unquestionably be a success and security prices will, judging by prospects, be carried to still higher levels."

The Minister's offer is open until September 30; see the official advertisement for details.

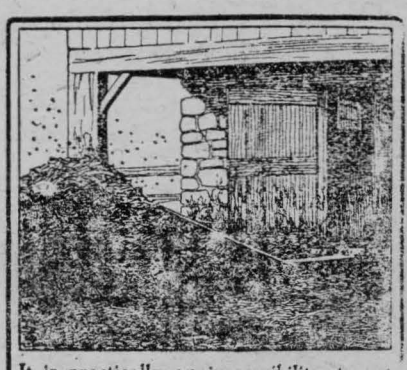
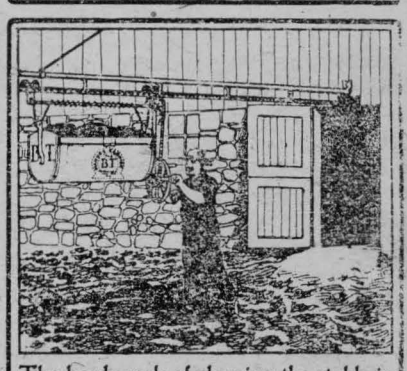
Day in and day out, the hard work of cleaning the stable has to be done. Stable cleaning with a wheelbarrow is a monotonous, hard, disagreeable chore. It is hard to wheel a heavy wheelbarrow load through a muddy yard and up a slippery plank. And the worst of it is, this hard, disagreeable chore has to be done every day.



It is practically an impossibility to get the manure far enough away from the stable. The conditions in the yard make it impossible. Manure piles right up close to the stable give off ammonia fumes that spoil paint and woodwork, rot harness and at the first opportunity breed flies.

A wheelbarrow does not hold much at a load, which means many trips before the work is done. The BT Carrier holds three times as much as a wheelbarrow. It will tackle 800 lbs. in one load.



The hard work of cleaning the stable is cut in two with a manure carrier. It runs on overhead track so it does not matter about the state of the yard. No planks to lay; no snow to shovel; no more pushing to the top of the pile with a wheelbarrow.
