Plane Crash Near Winchester Injures Two

A plane crashed within three miles of Winchester village on Saturday afternoon, and as a result two men are in Winchester Memorial Hospital.

The two-seater Fleet Canuck plane was making a landing on the Clare Summers farm on the north side of the Nation river when it caught the telephone line and "nosed in."

Wilfred Summers, 34, an air traffic controller at Malton Airport, Toronto, was at the controls, and his passenger was his uncle, Ollie Summers, 54, of Iroquois. Both men suffered from shock and multiple injuries, but are responding favourably at the hospital.

The plane, which was a 1966 model, owned by the ATC Flying Club of Malton, was severely damaged.

The pilot and his uncle were making a call on another uncle, Clare Summers, when the accident occurred. Telephone service in the area was cut off for a few hours.

Ontario Provincial Police Cpl. H. J. Merkley and Constable J. I. Doney of the Winchester detachment are investigating.

Bibles Cost More

A meeting of the Executive Committee in connection with the Canadian and Foreign Bible Socicy was held on October 17 under the chairmanship of Ewart Carkner.

Deep concern was expressed regarding spiralling costs, and inadequate income by way of voluntary contributions.

Collectors in the village commenced their door to door work on October 30th, and residents are requested to receive these men and women gladly.

Rev. G. Cawfield, aware of the value of this campaign, urges all to make a contribution "worthy of the splendid organization." The Society, this year, will issue a new type of receipt which should be carefully completed and filed for income tax purposes.

Venturers Plan Saturday Car Wash

Winchester's newest organization, The Venturers, an older boys version which comes under the Boy Scout movement in Canada, will sponsor its first project this Saturday, November 4th, in the form of a Car Wash.

The day-long car wash, with an assist from the weatherman, will be held at the Old Curling Rink, now the property of the municipality.

If your car needs cleaning up this week-end why not kill two birds with one stone by having it washed and at the same time giving a helping hand to this worthwhile group of boys. The revenue gained from the day will be used in the purchase of needed equipment and supplies for the Venturers.

Saturday, take your car to the old curling rink and have it washed. Car washers will be working from 9.30 a.m. until 4.30 p.m.

It was a memorable evening for this young, personable award winner from Winchester as well as all graduates and prize winners at the Commencement. The school auditorium was jammed to capacity for the well organized ceremonies directed by Principal Howard Manchester. The guest speaker was R. C. Short, President of St. Lawrence College, Cornwall. A special Commencement feature appears on Page 4 of this issue. Congratulations, Suzanne!

IT'S OFFICIAL NOW

Santa Here December 9th

Hey kids, of all ages, it's getting to that time of year again and the big news from the Chamber of Commerce this week is that Santa Claus will make his annual pre-Christmas visit to Winchester on Saturday, December 9th. Announcement to this effect was made by Arnold Dukelow, chairman of the business men's committee of the Chamber of Commerce, at the annual banquet held Monday evening.

Mr. Dukelow said that the format for Santa's visit, courtesy of Winchester places of business, would be much the same as previous years with the Community Centre again being the centre of activity if present plans materialize. At the same time business places and homes are again urged to join in the spirit of the season by decorating their premises as in previous years, Mr. Dukelow said.

The Chamber also revealed the following store hours in Winchester during the Christmas season. All stores will be closed on Christmas Day, Monday, December 25th, and on Boxing Day, December 26th, as well as New Year's Day, January 1, and January 2. In each week stores will remain open all day Wednesday through Saturday, the Chamber said.

Places of business, as an extra courtesy to shoppers, will also remain open evenings starting December 14th and including Wednesday, December 20. Further announcement of business hours will appear in this newspaper.

Committees for the Santa Claus visit and the decorations will remain the same as last year, the Chamber said.

GUEST SPEAKER

At Monday evening's banquet meeting which was well attended by 50 members and guests, Ray Grimmell, Resources Development officer with Spartan Air Services, was the guest speaker. Introduced by Basil Dawley, Mr. Grimmell told the Chamber of the changing economic patterns in Ontario and more particularly in towns and rural areas similar to this location. He compared figures of western and eastern Ontario farm incomes and said that "we are still lagging behind in Eastern Ontario." He also explained how farms would become fewer and larger in the future. The speaker said that a unified voice of the people was the key answer to gaining more prominence for this section of the province. He was thanked by Reg. Workman, who pointed out that Winchester was one of the few towns in the area where the population was on the increase.

PLANNING REPORT

Planning committee chairman Bill Collins gave a comprehensive report of the work of his committee and called on the support of all members and townspeople alike in the proper and adequate planning of the town for the future. He outlined the work which had been done thus far as it concerned the Highway by-pass and suggested that the Chamber make every effort to hold informal banquet meetings every month during the fall and winter months. The suggestion was accepted in a motion and another meeting of the Chamber will be held in November.

SPECIAL MOTION

A special motion by Basil Dawley, seconded by George Elliott, calls for the immediate announcement by the Department of Highways of the exact location of the Highway 31 bypass route. The motion would also guarantee that a section of Highway 43, about 300 feet, would be completed at the junction of Highway 31 at the western limits of the town. Contract for the work on Highway 43 has been awarded to Mulligan contractors and members of the firm were introduced at the meeting. In an effort to make certain that this small section be included with the work on Highway 43 efforts are also being made through provincial member Fred M. Cass. The Department has stated that the time laps between the work on 43 and the 31 by-pass would be negligible. Members feel, however, that this is not good enough and that the 43 intersection should be partially completed at the present time.

President Walter MacDonald, who presided at the meeting, said that the nominating committee responsible for introducing a new slate of officers at the annual meeting to be held on the fourth Thursday in January would be comprised of Robert Vice, Len Steck and Steve Corry.

Legion Ladies Night Friday

It looks like a sell-out for the Legion Ladies' Night, and tickets will not be available after today (Thursday).

The committee in charge suggests if you have not already picked yours up, call Summers Insurance office now. There may be a few ducats left.

The amiable little "General," Ken Grant, from CFRA will be there, and an outstanding program has been carefully planned.

That date again — Friday November 3rd.

Report Thefts

Ontario Provincial Police are investigating two attempted break-ins in Winchester over the week-end.

Attempts were made to jimmy open both the front and back doors at the Jo-Anne Shoppe and also at LaRose Pharmacy.

Both attempts were unsuccessful, however. Quite possibly it was the same vandals who successfully broke into Dr. Barton's car at the hospital on Saturday night.

The "little black bag", which to a doctor is of inestimable value and to a layman absolutely useless, was stolen from the car. Since the thieves could make no use of the contents, it may have been "drugs" they were searching for.

It would have been ironic if these same thieves had needed the good doctor later that night and found he could be of little help without his faithful "satchel."

Remembrance Service Sunday At Cenotaph

Winchester residents will respectfully commemorate the fallen of two world wars at noon on Sunday when the memorial service at the Cenotaph will take place.

All village clergy will be taking part and a special feature will be the Cameron Highlanders Pipe Band.

The members of the Legion will have completed their service, which this year is taking place at the Public School Hall and will be marching to the Cenotaph for the public service.

All residents of Winchester and area should have their families out for this very special noon-hour ceremony.

Chamber Honours "BIG AL"

It was "Al Beardsall" night at the annual banquet meeting of Winchester Chamber of Commerce held Monday evening at the Country Kitchen Restaurant. A long time member of the Chamber and an active citizen in the town, Al Beardsall retired recently from Ontario Hydro where he had been employed from lineman to Area Manager, for more than 40 years.

At Monday evening's banquet Al was presented with a set of cuff links and a specially prepared scroll for outstanding contribution to the community. The presentation was made by Reeve George Eliott and Gordon LaRose. "Big Al" as he has been fondly known to many friends over the years replied fittingly thanking the Chamber and Winchester for the honour. Although he expects to do some travelling Al told the Chamber that Wincheser would always be "home" and that he would be most pleased to continue with any assistance he may be able to give in the days ahead.

He also introduced his successor George Davidson, and said that the same kind of cooperation to the Chamber and the town would be forthcoming at all times under the new manager's direction.

District Exhibitors Pick Up Awards At Ottawa Winter Fair

Many local farmers made impressive showings at this year's great Ottawa Winter Fair—the great annual extravaganza at the Coliseum where city folk get a chance to see their neighbours from the country and look at the beautiful sleek animals that will eventually find their way to the city dinner tables.

There was amusement for all ever night of the week from the featured event by the world-famous Royal Canadian Mounted Police to the ever-popular horse show.

STEAK AT $10 A POUND

On Saturday night, before the final closing of this year's event, the top animals were put on the auction block, and the grand champion steer, a 1,021 pound Aberdeen Angus, owned by Frank McNeely of Blackburn, was purchased by Dominion Stores for $4.25 a pound.

The grand champion lamb owned by Cecil Acres of Osgoode, sold for $2 a pound, and the purchaser, Saslove Meat Market, donated the lamb to the Ottawa Civic Hospital.

The reserve champion, owned by Dwayne Acres of Osgoode, brought $1.75 a pound and was purchased by Alex Wallace of Smiths Falls who divided the meat between the Chamber Memorial and St. Francis hospitals in Smiths Falls.

AGR. MINISTER AT OPENING

The Fair was opened Tuesday morning by Agriculture Minister J. J. Greene who spoke of the great value of such events saying: "I think these fairs must be maintained if the city dweller of tomorrow is to appreciate the efforts of farm production. It is fairs like this that contribute to an understanding between urban and rural dwellers."

SHEEP

In the sheep division Alex Dow and Sons entries dominated the Oxford and Shropshire classes with six firsts and six seconds in six classes. They also had champion Shropshire ram, reserve champion Shropshire ram, champion Oxford ram, reseve champion Oxford ram, reserve champion Oxford ewe and reserve champion Shropshire ewe.

Over the years the name Dow has been synonymous with prize winning sheep, and although still known as Alex Dow and Sons, the sheep-farming enterprise is now directed by the sons, Bill and Ken, ably assisted by their sons, Bruce, Ian, Bryan and Russell.

Maple Meadow Farms, Osgoode, walked away with most of the ribbons for Southdowns and Border Cheviots.

W. E. Burton and Donald Acres topped the Leicester and Country Cheviot classes. Dwayne Acres of Osgoode had the reserve grand champion Cheviot ewe, and Dougall C. Cumming owned the reserve grand champion ram.

SWINE

Morton Stobo of Winchester and Floyd Fretwell of Osgoode exhibited the best Yorkshire swine, but Dwayne Acres had the reserve grand champion sow and grand champion boar.

DISTRICT 4-H CLUBS

Another generation of farmers is assured — 476 healthy intelligent young 4-H'ers invaded the Coliseum with living proof that rural teenagers have a goal in view and mean to make it.

A careful review of their accomplishments during the week reveal definite indications that some of the best farmers of tomorrow will be right here in our own district. An 18 year old Merrickville boy, Howard Carkne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cakner, was judged the best dairy showman; Hugh Garlough of Dundas County was tops in a

Tragic Story . . . CONTINUES

Those who complain about the weather might examine a page from the tragic story of Mrs. Thomas McLean. This quiet little woman who has endured more hardship and tragedy in the last two years than most people will be called on to suffer in a lifetime, saw the forces of destruction at work again on Sunday afternoon when her barn, located near Ormond, was burned to the ground by fire of unknown origin.

Winchester fire fighters under the direction of Earl Barkley were successful in saving the nearby henhouse. It is believed Mrs. McLean was not at home when the fire started.

It was New Year's Eve, 1965, when Mrs. McLean's happy home life was first saddened by the accidental highway death of her husband, Tom. Less than a year later, another highway mishap claimed the life of her eldest son Grant; this tragedy was followed by the death of her father-in-law, and a discouraged Mrs. McLean moved from her farm home to Winchester. Even in the village the hand of misfortune still rested on her strong young shoulders, and fire destroyed the interior of her home.

Mrs. McLean again returned to the farm, and her many friends hope and pray that Sunday's fire will complete the last page of her story of continued tragedy, and that good fortune may move in to stay.

Canada's First Bank Celebrates 150th Birthday

Canadian banking, now an integral part of life in Canada as one of the world's "best-banked" nations, marks its 150th birthday on Friday, November 3rd.

It was on November 3, 1817, that the first office of any bank was opened by the Bank of Montreal in the area of the old walled city of Montreal, with a staff of seven and capital of $150,000. Canada as we know it did not exist; Confederation was half a century in the future; George III still sat on the English throne; and the Battle of Waterloo was just two years past.

The B of M's Williamsburg branch opened in 1905 as the community's first banking facility, this week joins in observing the 150th anniversary of a system which now embraces all Canadian provinces and territories and extends to a number of other countries.

First branch of the B of M was established in Quebec City a few weeks after the opening of the original Montreal office. It was the forerunner of the present network of some 6,000 offices of the chartered banks, more than 1,000 of them B of M branches.

Equally important to the development of the country as a whole was the B of M's immediate provision of banknotes—Canada's first real money—when it opened for business in 1817. In the months before, engraving of the printing plates had been one of the urgent matters arranged for the opening. It also provided the first Canadian coinage, when it introdued "bank tokens" in 1836.

WILLIAMSBURG 1905

The Williamsburg branch was opened on November 29, 1905 by the Molsons Bank, which later merged with the B of M.

First premises were in a two-storey frame structure on Main Street. By 1913, however, business outgrew the size of the office and the bank's present building at the northwest corner of the main intersection was constructed.

Williamsburg was a settlement of 200 residents, lacking electricity and paved sidewalks when the branch was established 62 years ago.

The Bank of Montreal's present 359-branch network in Ontario is directed by Edward A. Royce, senior vice president, Ontario division, who is resident in Toronto. It was started in 1818 with the establishment of branches at Kingston and York (now Toronto).

HOME AND ABROAD

Together, the Ontario division offices are an integral part of the national and international organization, which has 1,030 branches and assets approaching $6 billion.

The bank now maintains its own offices in every part of Canada and in the United States, the United Kingdom, France, Germany, Mexico and Japan.

In addition to creating the branch-banking system and Canada's first native currency, the Bank of Montreal's record of "firsts" include financial backing for the country's first transcontinental railway and the first canal (at Lachine, Que.); establishment of the first Canadian banking offices abroad; and application of the first fully-integrated data processing system to banking.

Early in 1967, the B of M introduced a new series of "firsts"—reduction of its prime lending rate!; increase in savings interest; and division of its capital stock 5-for-1 — in anticipation of Bank Act revisions which became effective May 1.

Metcalfe Mailman Glen Dowser Dies

Residents of Metcalfe were shocked at the sudden death of Glen Dowser, who had been ill for only a few days.

Glen was best known as "The Mailman," and the title was well earned, for this summer he began his 50th consecutive year as a rural mail driver.

In 1915 Glen made his first trip "alone" with the mail. His father had the contract for Metcalfe R. R. 3 and for the next 12 years his "horse and rig" was a familiar sight on the country roads.

At that time he gave up the number three route and began the shorter run to Edwards on R. R. 2 which was a morning run connecting with the New York Central at this point.

In September of this year he completed 49 consecutive years as a rural mail carrier.

The name Dowser is a familiar name in curling circles throughout the valley as Glen's father, the late James P. Dowser, was a prominent figure in the early days of iron curling in Metcalfe, and his two late brothers, Les and Frank, brought many honours to the local club.

Glen, by his own admission, "stayed home on the farm to do the work so the boys could curl."

The son of the late Jas. P. Dowser and his wife, the late Margaret Reogh, he is survived by his wife, the former Phyllis Lowe; five sons, Donald, of the O.P.P., Hawkesbury; Jack, of Toronto; Lynn, Lawrence and Reg., of Metcalfe; and two daughters, Mrs. Ken Cooper (Betty), of Metcalfe, and Mrs. Kenneth Noble (Margaret), of Ottawa. Also surviving are 16 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Great banks of flowers bore witness of the high esteem in which he was held. Funeral service was from his home to the Metcalfe United Church where the service was conducted by Rev. C. Dawes, assisted by Father A. MacGregor, rector of All Saints Anglican Church, Metcalfe. Music was supplied by the combined choirs of the United and Anglican Churches, with Mrs. Gordon Boland at the organ.

Pall-bearers were Ken McCallum, Alfred McDowell, Bob Fabian, Amon Sheldrick, Lloyd Graham and Joe Rowan.

Prayers at the graveside were recited by Father MacGregor. Arrangements were directed by the Rolston Funeral Home, with interment at Greely Cemetery.

$20,000. Barn Destroyed By Fire At Marionville

Fire of unknown origin destroyed a barn at nearby Marionville last Friday morning. The barn, owned by Gustave St. Pierre, was burned to the ground, and included the winter's supply of feed. No livestock were burned, however, and the combined efforts of the Russell and Metcalfe Volunteer Fire Brigades prevented the fire from spreading to the house and other buildings.

The loss was estimated at approximately $20,000, which was partly covered by insurance.

North Russell 4-H

The North Russell Homemakers' 4-H Club is studying food and why certain people eat certain foods.

"In this club we have learned the background of many people and have come to achieve an understanding of what and why people eat what they do," says the Publicity chairman, Dulcie Hamilton.

The club is now studying the topic of Foreign Foods.

FROM EXPO GOERS

St. John's First Aid Service Receives 'Pat On The Back'

The reaction of Expo-goers to the St. John first aid service has been one of surprised delight, says the association release, and many of those treated were Americans who were amazed at the free service as the St. John Brigade is not active in the United States.

The St. John Ambulance Brigade has not confined its activity to Expo, however, and volunteers have been providing first aid coverage for such functions as the Pan American Games, The Canadian National Exhibition, the Calgary Stampede and the Centennial Train and Caravans. It is all part of a Centennial year of activity that will see the 12,000 St. John Brigade members in Canada give more than 800,000 hours of service . . . all of it free.

3,000 Geese In Sanctuary

A regular daily feeding programme for migrating Canada Geese will commence on Saturday, October 21, and will continue until early December, in Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary. This sanctuary, maintained and operated by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission with assistance from the Canadian Wildlife Service and the Ontario Department of Lands and Forests, is part of the complex of parks and historic sites operated by the Commission and is located approximately nine miles east of Morrisburg, Ontario, south of Highway No. 2.

At the last count some 3,000 migrating Canada Geese, along with two Blue Geese, four Snow Geese and three mute swans, had joined the resident flock in the sanctuary. A peak of 4,000 geese per day is expected by the end of the first week in November.

At 4:00 p.m. each day the geese will be fed and this will provide an opportunity for the public to see at close range a bird that was, a few years ago, rarely seen in this area. Visitors are welcome and will find the route to the sanctuary well signed.

'67 GRADS-CONGRATULATIONS

OPP Report

On the highways last week OPP officers patrolled 8829 miles in a total of 568 duty hours. 75 traffic charges were laid with 34 warnings issued. Accidents were fewer than they have been since May of this year. Only three minor property damage accidents were reported and investigated by Morrisburg detachment. No one sustained personal injury.

Investigations into violations of the Liquor Control Act resulted in four charges being preferred. One person was charged with driving while impaired. This same person, while trying to get rid of evidence by breaking glass on a highway, was charged with obstructing a police officer in the execution of his duties. Both of these charges are under provisions of the Criminal Code of Canada.

A total of 21 hours was spent in the courts with 149 convictions being registered.

Two officers from Morrisburg Detachment answered an unusual call last week. On Saturday, October 28th, a call was received from the office of the Dominion Veterinarian in Brockville advising police of a rabid bull on a farm in Williamsburg township. The bull was quite wild and had attacked a car. Constables R. T. Mason and J. R. Burke attended the scene and destroyed the animal. It is rather unusual to see an animal of that type infected by rabies.

class of 19 showmen with Yorkshire pigs; Peter Leyenaar, also of Dundas County, showed the best pair of Yorkshire gilts; Russell Westgage, of Russell, showed the junior Ayrshire champion calf; Elaine Seguin of Grenville had the Senior and Grand Champion Ayrshire calf; the Junior Jersey champion was owned by Stormont's Marilyn MacDonald, and the Junior Guernsey champion by Nicole St. Pierre of Russell.

Keith Patterson of Winchester placed third with his Weed Collection, in the Field Crop class, and the Dundas County Club won the reserve championship with their entry in the "group of 3" gilts.

HORSE SHOW

The horse show on Saturday night might well have been the last to be staged in the Coliseum, since most likely next year's show will be in the new Civic Centre.

Winchester and district has reason to be proud of its farms, and proud too of the tireless young men who direct the 4-H clubs in the district—the Agricultural Representatives.

IN MEMORIAMS

THOMAS—In memory of our friend, Ivon Thomas, who passed away November 5th, 1966.
"Gone but not forgotten."
—By Friends in Vernon 26p

WALLACE—In fond memory of our dear sister Mrs. Russell Wallace (Ferne McMartin) who passed away November 5th, 1966.
Only loving memories,
Sprayed with many tears.
Wishing God had spared you,
Just a few more years.
—John, Jean and families. 26p

THOMAS——In loving memory of a dear brother, Ivon Thomas who passed away November 5, 1966.
The midnight stars are shining
Upon a silent grave,
There lies beneath the one we loved,
The one we could not save.
We speak your name so often,
And wish that you were here,
But the laugh we loved and your happy ways
Will always keep you near.
—Always remembered by Brothers and Sisters. 26p

BOLAND — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mrs. Russell Boland, who passed away October 28, 1966.
You left us suddenly,
Your last thoughts unknown,
But you left us with memories
We are proud to own.
God saw you getting weary,
He did what he thought best,
He put His arms around you
And whispered "come and rest."

DOWN THE ALLEYS

At Main Corner Lanes

Again this week, down at the bowling corner, a member of the weaker sex led the field.

Cathy Price, playing with the Glamour Girls, combined strings of 245, 294 and 224 for a cross of 763, which proved to be the best of the week in any league.

Helen Coons had 623-275, Corine Crowder 616-223, Cora Stel "this week's consistent bowler" with 196, 196 and 196 — 588.

In the Fireside League Norm Utman scored both the high cross and high single, 321, 199 and 175 for 695. Closest contenders were Lloyd LaPorte with 646-229, and Lloyd Guy with 596-233.

It was Marg. Dalgleish all the way in the Gay Twenties League. Marg.'s 271, 225 and 183 for 679 gave her both the high cross and high single. Don Mattice's 631-210 and Brock St. Denis' 574-200 proved the next best.

There was keen competition in the Community League but Earl Gray put together strings of 208, 185 and 278 for a cross of 672 which proved tops. Earl's 278 was also the high single. Running close behind was Arnold Stobo with 638-273, and Ken McLaren rolling 635-243.

Florence Helmer rolled the highest cross in the Happy Gang League with 609, made up of strings of 169, 226 and 214. Doris Kennedy had the high single, a 268. Muriel Levere rolled 547-226, and Louise Freeland had 531-219.

At South Mountain Lanes

The South Mountain Bowling is off and running, and the report in from Arnold Graham indicates keen competition in the months ahead.

Keith Beamish was the "big man" on this first outing piling up a cross of 747 with strings of 228, 248 and 271. His closest contender was Douglas Boyd with 726-256 and Gary Pritchard who rolled 796-258. Other leading scorers were:

Dale Boyd 683, Randy Marriner 670, Denzil Allen 646, Don Watson 624, Wayne Kenney 613, Gordon Richardson 604, Delbert Wyatt 594, Kevin Boyd 592, Lyle Simzer 574, Leroy Empey 572, Donna Burley 571, Bert Dobbie 562, Anne Watson 558, Cliff Berry 543, Verna Simzer 542, E. Empey 521, Jud Imrie 508, Don Erwin 505, Donnie Dobbie 505.

Grim Statistics Released By O.D.T.

From the Ontario Department of Transport comes more grim statistics which prove that motorists, despite all warning, continue to increase the accident toll on our highways.

Motor vehicle accident statistics in Ontario from January 1st to June 30, 1967 are as follows, with percentage increase shown in brackets:

All accidents, 67,707 (4.2); total deaths, 682 (4.3); property damage, $35,624,248 (10.0); pedestrians killed, 181 (11.7); motorcyclists killed, 26 (30.0); number of drivers in accidents, 115,035 (4.2); vehicle registrations, 2,541,869 (4.2).

From across the line a report for the year 1966 from the National Safety Council (U.S.) states that a record 52,500 persons were killed in motor vehicle accidents last year. Those disabled numbered 1.9 million. These accidents cost the nation $9,800,000,000.

The files of the Ontario Safety League sometimes come up with items with a touch of humour as well. Here's one. Stopped and interviewed in Illinois upon complaints from neighbours that he was driving at night without lights, an 85-year-old man had a few surprises for the police. He hadn't had a driver's licence for 10 years, and hadn't purchased licence plates for his 1914 Ford for 19 years. But he was able to produce a safe driving certificate issued four years ago by an insurance company.

REG WORKMAN APPOINTED

Special Tourism Committee

Four men, well known for their promotional efforts in Eastern Ontario, have been appointed in co-operation with the Ontario Department of Tourism and Information to make a thorough study of tourism in Eastern Ontario.

These men, Harry Callan, Secretary-Manager of the E. O. D. C.; Walter Turnbull, of Ottawa; Dik Wigston of Pembroke, and Reg. Workman, President of the Seaway Valley Travel Council, have already had their first meeting, and are studying the possibility of closer co-operation between the E.O.D.C. and the six Travel Councils in Eastern Ontario.

This is the first move of this kind in the Province and is being closely observed by the Department. If successful, there is little doubt that the idea would soon spread across the entire province.

This "group of 4" which will meet again in November, feel there is much room for improvement on the present promotional and marketing arrangements, and hope that the combined efforts of the six councils along with the E. O. D. C., assisted by some subsidization from the Government will result in a complete new look which will greatly benefit the tourist, the immediate area concerned, as well as the Province in general.

Respected Inkerman Citizen Dies

The Inkerman communities were saddened on Wednesday, October 25th, at the passing of one of its oldest and most highly respected citizens, Mrs. J. Edgar Brown at the Ottawa Civic Hospital, after a lengthy illness.

The late Mrs. Brown, who was born on November 12, 1880, at Vancamp, was the daughter of the late William Shaver and his wife, Jessie Bryan. She was married on November 27, 1901 to J. Edgar Brown, who predeceased her 15 years ago.

Mrs. Brown was a member of Inkerman United Church and belonged to the various church organizations, having been the organist and choir director for many years. She had served as a Sunday School teacher and was a life member of the W.M.S.

She is survived by two sons, Lester of North Bay and Ray of Inkerman, as well as three daughters, Mrs. A. Keller (Gladys), of Peterborough; Mrs Bernard Whitteker (Edna), of Williamsburg, and Helen, of Ottawa. Surviving as well are two sisters, Mrs. Arnold Suffel (Tena), of Inkerman, and Mrs. Archie McIntyre (Nell), of Toronto; four brothers, Ernest and Dan, of Kemptville; Ira, of Mountain, and Frank of Montreal. She was predeceased by brothers Harry, Russell and Clifford. Ten grandchildren and fourteen great grandchildren mourn her loss.

Funeral service was conducted from her late residence to Inkerman United Church where service was conducted by Mr. Mervyn Peters. Pall-bearers were Messrs. Ralph Allison Ralph Johnstone, Harold Cooke George McIntosh, Wallace Crowder and Roy Ennis.

Interment was made at South Gower Cemetery.

100 Club V.P.

As recorded last week, Rick Black made a long run in the wrong direction, but on the very "next play" somebody "fumbled."

The list of officers for the 100 Club in the coming year should have included the name of H. P. Stel as second vice president.

Mr. Stel is the known administrator of the Winchester Memorial Hospital.

Richard Hutt Wins First Annual Cross Country Run

The First Annual North Dundas Cross Country Run was held last Friday with over 300 boys participating in the three-mile run.

The Senior winner was Richard Hutt in a time of fifteen minutes and forty-five seconds. Second place went to Richard Helmer, with Merle Reaney running third.

Peter Verhoeven paced the Juniors coming home in fifteen minutes and fifty seconds. Alan Doering was second and Brian Preston came third.

The winners will all receive trophies at the Athletic Banquet next May. Second and third place finishers will receive medals. Activity Bars will be presented to the first twenty finishers in both Junior and Senior Divisions.

TROOP CORNER

BE PREPARED

Some of the reasons given for the new Boy Scout program, as announced in last week's Press, are:

1. A change in thinking within the movement which recognizes the importance of a more boy-centred program with increased emphasis on fostering personal relationships.

2. The launching of the Venturer program for boys aged 14-17 last year, which left the 11 to 14 year old Scouts with a program designed for 11 to 17 year olds.

Out is the emphasis on training boys within the sometimes restrictive guidelines of the old program.

In is an increased emphasis on small friendship and interest groups.

Out is the old line concept of leadership with its formalized structure limiting leadership to adults and a few Scouts.

In is a leadership structure where all Scouts and adults are given the opportunity to share in the leadership of troops and patrols. The new program encourages increased use of part-time specialists to assist boys in specific activities.

Out is the old badge and award scheme where boys were expected to earn Scouting recognitions in a graded order.

In is a multiple-stage and greatly expanded badge and award scheme wherein boys are relatively free to choose and work toward badges and awards at their own level of competence. A wide range of options and alternatives are provided to encourage boys to shape their own program in line with their needs, interests, and capabilities.

"In a nutshell," say those responsible for the changes, "no longer are boys forced to adapt to a program — instead, the program is adaptable to the needs and interests of the boys.

In announcing the Executive Committee's approval in Winnipeg, Deputy Chief Scout J. B. Harvey said, "The committee responsible for the study considered very carefully the age range served, including groupings, leadership, badges and aawrds, and special programs. We believe the program as it has been approved will be welcomed by all concerned within Scouting, young and old alike."

D. A. Thompson, Q.C., Winnipeg, President of the National Council of Boy Scouts, commented that it was fitting that the new program was brought forward during Canada's Centennial and Scouting's Diamond Jubilee.

All Scouts and Cubs are reminded that this Sunday they will take part in the Legion Memorial Service by attending the Church Service and Cenotaph Service with the parade which will start from the Legion Hall at 10.15 a.m.

Next Tuesday several Cubs will be raised to Scouts at a Going Up Ceremony, to which all parents are invited to attend.

Don't forget the Venturers' Car Wash this Saturday at the old Winchester Curling Club site, east of The Theatre.

The Legion, The Poppy, And Remembrance

It was on November 11th 49 years ago that the "war to end all wars" ended, and since that time free men the world over observe the day with reverence and respect.

Unfortunately, the "peace" that dwelt in the hearts of men was blinded by envy and greed and another world conflict developed, but November 11th has retained its status as "Armistice" or "Remembrance" Day.

Large cities, towns and little villages all have their Cenotaphs, some conspicuously placed by the Town Hall, others in a park-like setting, but all bearing mute testimony of suffering and death.

There is sadness in the air on November 11th; the reason is not only a mourning for the dead, but also the forgetfulness of the living.

There is one group of men who do not forget. The members of the Royal Canadian Legion — veterans all — they who watched their brothers die wonder why we so soon forget.

The Royal Canadian Legion is aging gracefully. As it celebrates its 42nd birthday this year, members will toast an organization which is mature in years yet young enough in spirit to attempt bold new programs; old enough to have played a role in Canada's last century, young enough to play a further role in the next.

The Legion's interests span continents, ranging from a track clinic in North Bay to a scholarship program in Nigeria. Whether it be a widow's allowance in Kenya or a hearing aid in Panama, Canadian veterans and dependents the world over turn to the Legion with problems. And through its service bureau they get free, professional help of the highest caliber.

Things have never been better for the 287,000 member Legion. Membership has climbed 30,000 in the past four years, and it continues to increase. The scope of Legion activities today would astound some of the founding members who sat at the Unity Conference in Winnipeg in 1925.

In those days the Legion—necessarily so—was oriented exclusively towards veterans and dependents. There was a great deal to be done. While veterans and dependents remain the Legion's prime concern, in the past decade it has made phenomenal strides in community service.

For instance, its low-rental housing projects for elderly Canadians now exceeds $15 million in value. Youth is served through $160,000 a year scholarships and bursaries, and some 13,000 boys belong to Legion sponsored scouts and cubs. Thousands more are accommodated through hockey, baseball and other team sports.

The Legion's most imaginative program in recent years is now known around the world. It involves the training of track and field coaches at an annual national clinic which has become recognized as one of the world's greatest. To date some 950 courses have been given to coaches, and 50,000 young Canadians have benefitted.

In addition, promising young track and field athletes — tomorrow's international stars — get top training at a yearly national clinic. Each provincial command also has an extensive track and field program.

As a Centennial project, the Legion has embarked on an equally ambitious program: it is raising one million dollars so that it can continue to provide a high standard of service to Canadians.

In the council of commonwealth veterans, the Royal Canadian Legion is looked to for leadership, just as it is looked to on the corner sand-lot or the local cinder track. Like many 40-odd year olds, the Legion feels at home in either situation.

Today most Canadians would be hard pressed to distinguish a veteran from a non-veteran. With the exception of the wounded, there are no distinguishing characteristics. When parliament is in session, it would be impossible for the visitor to look down from the gallery and pick out the more than 70 members who served in war. In the smoky board rooms of Canada's largest corporations, any of the leather-upholstered chairs could be occupied by a veteran. The assimilation of the veteran into our political, economic and social life has been so successful that the veteran now blends completely with his environment.

Out of the chaos and devastation of war has grown a strong allegiance of men. Because they stood side by side when there appeared to be no tomorrow, this band of humanity knows no race boundaries, colour boundaries or religious boundaries.

They have learned, through grim experience, that a man survives because of the help he receives from his friends, and having survived they have pledged themselves to repay their debt by helping all mankind.

"Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friend." Many of the veterans are with us to-day because a "friend" laid down his life, and this is why, as they stand, with heads bowed, and tear-dimmed eyes, they wonder why so many good christian people can so soon forget.

Buy a Poppy! Wear it proudly! Honour the living veteran, respect the memory of those who did not return.

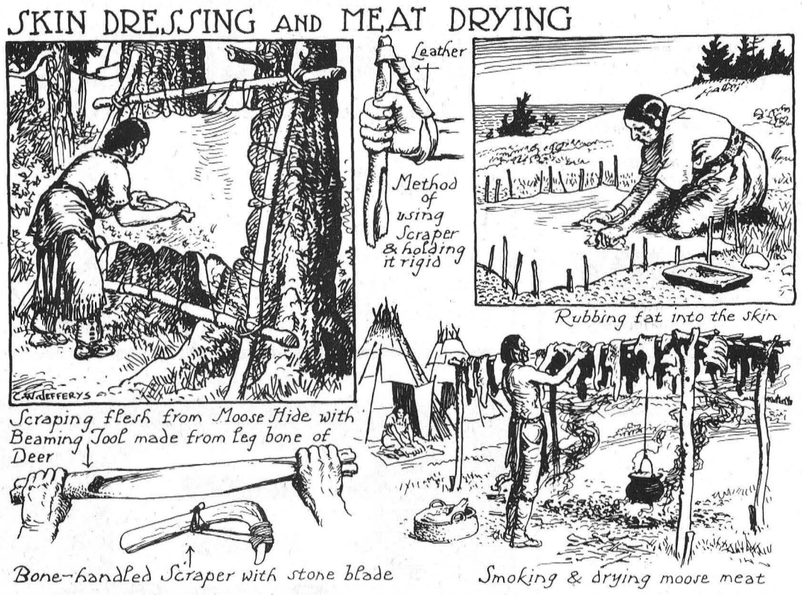
SKIN DRESSING AND MEAT DRYING



From the Imperial Oil Collection

Two Indian Crafts And Skills

Nothing did more to shape the skills, habits and customs of Indian tribes than the food their people ate. In almost every tribe, a desire for regular supplies of meat prompted the men to strive for excellence as hunters, trappers or fishermen. But, dejending on local circumstances, different tribes had different ways of keeping themselves fed: some tribes, predominantly meat eaters, were obliged to be migrants, following their food supply as it moved around on the hoof. The Chipewyan Indians, for instance, kept constantly on the move, following the caribou around a region of the northland east of the Mackenzie River. Similarly, the Assiniboines roamed the southern Canadian prairies on a continuous hunt for the migratory buffalo. The Micmacs in the Maritimes spent their winters in the woods hunting moose, caribou and porcupine. In the warmer months, they lived at the seashore, gathering shellfish, catching fish and hunting seals.

The Hurons and Iroquois relied mainly on planted crops. They managed to lead comparatively settled (though not necessarily peaceful) lives. While they roamed to some extent as hunters in search of secondary food sources, they maintained the same village sites year after year. When they did move it was usually because the soil around their village was exhausted or because some enemy had burned their crops.

As hunters, trappers and fishermen, the Indians lacked some of the equipment and mobility of the white man — metal tools, firearms, and the wheel. But when allowance was made for these disadvantages, the most skilful Indians rated high indeed in all three pursuits. From childhood, the Indian boy became a shrewd student of nature, at least in every way that might help him in the hunt. By instruction and observation he soon grew to know the habits, instincts and life cycles of every species of game. Even without steel or gunpowder, the Indians contrived several pieces of hunting, trapping and fishing equipment more ingenious than anything invented in Europe.

Since the spear was generally ineffective against big game at large, herd animals such as buffalo and deer were usually driven into an enclosure and speared at close range. Sometimes advancing buffalo were killed by archers lying hidden in a shallow pit. Occasionally the hunters would stampede the buffalo over a cliff and finish off the injured survivors below with spears or clubs. In other regions caribou, moose or deer were driven into streams or inlets, where they were easily speared from canoes.

Give cops a break

As Gilbert and Sullivan tunefully pointed out a good many years ago, "A policeman's lot is seldom a happy one."

And it certainly hasn't grown any happier in the interim, as even a casual glance through the newspapers will tell you. Everywhere, policemen are unhappy. In the cities, they talk of strike action. In small towns, they resign right and left, usually in a cloud of recrimination.

Why are they fed up? For a whole lot of reasons. It's only surprising so many of them stay at it.

First of all, they are poorly paid. This fine, old tradition, probably dates back to the days when a cop was a "dumb flatfoot", lucky to get a job with some security involved. During The Depression, the town cop was envied because he got a pay check, be it ever so humble, every week.

Secondly, they must cope with continued interference from elected officials, or local big shots. It might be the Chairman of the Police Commission, more concerned with paring his police budget than with the quality of the policeman. Or it might be the fellow who belongs to the same service club as the mayor, and expects special treatment, whether it's a parking ticket or drunk driving charge. This is hard to take.

Another thing that bugs them, even those who like the work, is the hours: working holidays; special details; calls in the middle of the night.

And, of course, there's the job itself. Much of it is routine, even boring. Everything in triplicate. But a Saturday night can be a nightmare. How would you like to cope with a drunken fight at a dance? Or a stolen car, driven by a kid at 100 miles an hour? Or a couple of plastered prostitutes belting you about the head and ears with their handbags, cheered on by the mob? Or a call from delighted neighbors, at 2 a.m., telling you that Joe Scheiss is beating the brains out of his wife?

And that's on top of the ordinary stuff: petty thefts; gang rumbles; car crashes; street beatings; jeering hoodlums.

But I think all these things are secondary. There's something else that has turned the placid policeman of even 20 years ago into a mean cop. And that's the attitude of the people. It's fairly new and very nasty.

I notice it, with dismay, among teen-agers. Even the decent ones sneer at "The Fuzz", as they term our stalwart guardians of the law. I don't know where they got it — perhaps from movies and television — but they seem to think the policeman is some sort of brutalized Gestapo type looking for trouble.

A few policemen, of course, foster this attitude. There are always a few bullies in uniform who release their own psychological perversions. But they are a tiny minority, usually curbed by their peers.

Even more disturbing, perhaps, is the number of adults who will stand around and watch a policeman being beaten up, and enjoy it.

There's always, of course, been war between the police and the populace. But it used to be a good-natured, fun-war. You tried to circumvent the law, whether it was swiping apples or beating the speed limit. If you were caught, you grumbled a bit, lied like a trooper, and probably got off with a warning. And everybody was happy.

Now it's open and blatant battle. It's vicious and ugly. It is fanned by newsmen and television. They always seem to be there when the cops are manhandling some screaming punk, but are never present when some constable is being kicked into jelly.

I've met a lot of cops in my day, some in the line of my duty, and, I hasten to add, some in the line of theirs. A few of them were real hoods, but the vast majority were decent, ordinary chaps who would go out of their way to be helpful.

It's a rotten job, but remember, men, somebody loves you.

Meditations . . . by REV. CECIL W. TUININGA

Matthew 24:24 — "For there shall arise false Christs and false prophets.

Scripture teaches that this earth is coming to an end. It also gives us many signs by which we may ascertain that the end is near. One of these signs is the appearance of "false Christs" and "false prophets." The last days will be days of confusion, therefore, for men will be confronted by a chaos of voices proclaiming true and false people. Undoubtedly the last few days will bring many into perplexity with a resultant rejection of the true Gospel.

That we are living in the last days seems undeniable. We live in a time of the cults, of those who are proclaiming a saviour and a way of salvation contrary to the Scripture. The false prophets are leading many astray. The honest seeker is perplexed. He wonders who is right, for all claim to have Scripture's true Gospel. And others,, refusing to serve God, find a handy excuse. They piously exclaim: How can we know who is right? The preachers don't agree, how does anyone expect us to know. With this they summarily dismiss God from their lives.

Yes, the false Christs and false prophets are with us, but need anyone be confused? For all who truly seek to serve God and find an answer to their sin and misery the Scripture's message is clear. The Bible is not a book of confusion. It is a message of life. Its message is simple and easy to understand. It invites all troubled men, "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ and thou shalt be saved."—Acts 16:31. Here is also the solution to the mixed chorus of voices, that he or she that truly seeks to know God will know whether any preacher speaks the truth or falsehood. That preacher who proclaims God's answer to fallen man speaks the Truth, as Scripture declares it, "Every spirit that confesseth that Jesus Christ is come in the flesh is of God"—I John 4:2, and "But though we, or an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel unto you than that which we have preached unto you, let him be accursed.—Galatians 1:8.

The confusion and perplexity that many claim to face today is largely one of man's own making. It depends whether one really wants to know God and serve Him only. The Bible gives us a simple guideline whereby we can judge whether a preacher or church is false or true. Only one Name is given under heaven whereby men can be saved, and of that name Scripture declares, "Thou shalt call his name Jesus, for he shall deliver his people from their sins."—Matthew 1:21. Or in other words, all who proclaim the crucified and risen Christ of Scripture as the only Saviour, are true, bringing the message of life. All others are liars. Let us therefore not be misled or confused. Let us believe the message of Life clearly revealed in Scripture and, believing, have eternal life.

The Seventh Column

The greatest show on earth is over! Expo 67, the world fair which used as its theme "Man and His world" drew more than 50,000,000 people...people from every point on the globe...people who richly acclaimed this extravagant presentation ...people who sincerely believed that it was the greatest single accomplishment in the 100 year history of our great nation. Sunday afternoon thousands of people stood, many with tear dimmed eyes, as they watched the official closing ceremonies. The hostesses, the workers, the organizers alike were satisfied, indeed pleased that the long, arduous days of the Fair were over. At the same time they freely expressed their regrets at the closing and were emphatic in their views that Canada should be proud of Expo, that nothing like it had ever happened before, that they would return to their own countries with the knowledge and better understanding of this great land we call Canada. One official from another country summed it up this way: "It seems to me that this was the first time that Canada, all of Canada, was proud. It's about time for we from other parts of the world have great respect for Canadians and their country." Expo 67 has helped us mature. It was a wonderful birthday party. And although the icing on the cake will cost more than 250 million dollars there is no way to measure the ingredients and the results which will come Canada's way. Public relations and promotions of this kind, new friendships, better understanding cannot really be measured in dollars and cents. Expo was tremendous. It has done something for us and for all the world. It is up to Canadians now to see that the light of Expo is not dimmed in the years ahead as we start out on our second 100 years of nationhood.

When there are words about Hydro it is only appropriate in this area that the name of Al. Beardsall is mentioned. After 40 useful years with this great Commission, during which time he progressed from a learner lineman to superintendent of one of the largest rural operating areas in the province, Al has retired. He has been rightly honoured on numerous occasions, the latest being Monday night in Winchester by the Chamber of Commerce. From the days of the late T. O. VanBridger (whom he succeeded) and the late Herbie Watson, when one truck, a roll of wire and a lot of guts were the necessary tools of the trade to the modern, well equipped and well staffed premises of today Al Beardsall has been Mr. Hydro to thousands whom he served so well in this area. In those 40 years he has watched Ontario Hydro grow, and grow, and grow. He has seen the face of this giant change from time to time. And in no small way has he helped to shape the destiny of the Commission in this Eastern Ontario area. He was not only a manager of men and machines, he was a walking encyclopedia on Hydro, its lines and distribution, its transformers and breakers, its trucks, its policies and just about everything else. Perhaps even more important he was the best piece of public relations Hydro ever had in the area. Wherever he went there was always the association of Hydro and "big Al". There is not enough space here to tell of what he accomplished. But this we will say. Al Beardsall was probably one of the best employees, regardless of position, Hydro ever had on its lists. He served his employer well. But if he served Hydro well he went even farther to satisfy the needs and often the favours of people in the Winchester Rural Operating Area. In Winchester it was a common expression to say "give Al a call" when we needed something done that included the use of Hydro facilities like lights, decorations and a host of other things. To say that he will be missed is the understatement of the year. With his retirement an era in Hydro has ended for this area. Our personal association and friendship with this man and Hydro go back many, many years. And in all of those years we have respected and admired him, not only for the job he was doing so well, but for being Al. Beardsall the man, the friend, the citizen. These words seem so inadequate but for everything Al "Thanks a million".

SUICIDE . . . . . on the farm

Wet weather such as we have had lately, usually means trouble with heavy equipment harvesting late crops or plowing, and the Carleton County Agricultural Extension Personnel issues a warning.

A very bad habit over the years has been the quick method of becoming "unstuck," that is, chaining a post to the rear wheels of a tractor or self-propelled machine. This is as sure a passage to serious injury or death as the electric chair.

There are a great many other hazardous practices, says the Extension Personnel, that all farmers know of but should not use.

CANADA'S FIRST BANK

150TH ANNIVERSARY
Canada's First Bank celebrates a Centennial and a half

Throughout this Centennial year, Bank of Montreal has joined with communities, large and small, across the nation in celebrating 100 years of Confederation.

On November 3rd, we have our own special day of celebration — the 150th anniversary of the founding of Canada's First Bank and the Canadian banking system.

On this historic occasion we could be looking backward over 150 years of achievement. Instead, we're looking ahead.

We're looking ahead with the enthusiasm of a vibrant institution geared for the future . . . A people's bank pervaded with a dynamic urge to maintain the leadership that has always characterized its service to the Canadian people.

The years ahead will be full of new challenges and new opportunities. Fresh ground must be broken and new pathways established in creative services to our customers to meet their ever-changing needs.

Right now we're busy trail-blazing. That's the responsibility that comes with the privilege of being a leader.

When you're 150 years old you have to think young ■ In the past year alone, Bank of Montreal has continued to lead the way by being first with: True Savings Accounts ■ True Chequing Accounts ■ Bancardchek (the cash card) ■ Customer Convenience Hours ■ As we enter the second half of our second century it's as true today as it was in 1817: The bank of the future is Canada's First Bank.

JEAN WADDS REPORTS

Opposition Wants Immediate Action On Resources Policy

In our system of government there are planned opportunities for the opposition to bring up urgent questions. There are six opportunties each session. These are called motions to go into supply at which time an crucial subject can be debated. It is an opportunity to point out where the Government seems to be at serious fault and an opportunity for the opposition to make positive suggestions.

On Monday, the 23rd the Hon. Alvin Hamilton, Conservative Member for Qu'Appelle, former Minister of Agriculture and Northern Affairs, made the motion, seconded by the Hon. Walter Dinsdale, Conservative member for Brandon-Souris former Minister of Veterans' Affairs.

Mr. Hamilton's motion requested that the Government should state immediately its policy on national resources and clearly set out its intentions and objectives, and the extent to which pollution is endangering any or all of these resources.

Mr. Hamilton had done a tremendous amount of background work and had his own personal experience in the Department of National Resources on which to build. It was Mr Hamilton's contention that we had enough knowledge to clearly state general principles and long-ranged objectives on National Resources.

The leader of the NDP's, T. C. Douglas, agreed that the matter of a national policy for Canadian resources is a subject of much greater importance than the attention which has been given to it would seem to warrant. Mr. Douglas accused the Government of having no appreciation of the type of energy policy we require for this country or it would have amended the Energy Act long ago.

Gordon Aiken, Conservative member for Parry Sound-Muskoka, expressed regret the subjects placed before the Minister were so broad. Mr. Aiken continued to give an excellent and detailed speech on water and pollution. It is a subject close to the hearts of all of us who live along the St. Lawrence and the Rideau Rivers. We see, with concern, the year by year increasing pollution and read with alarm that this is a widespread problem. Experts who have studied the extent of pollution give it number one priority in our national problems. The International Water Commission points out the extent of the problem and presses free governments to find ways and means to halt the runaway increase in pollution.

The Province of Ontario has done more than most governments in an effort to meet the problem. Mr. Aiken mentioned the Conference of Water Resources Management in Toronto in May of 1966. Likewise in November of 1966 there was the Resources Ministers' Conference in Montreal. Early in 1967 there was President Johnson's Conference on International Water. There was an international symposium at Madison Wisconsin, and on November 13 this year there will be the Canadian Institute on Pollution Control, a national organization made up of municpal, provincial and federal organizations, meeting for its annual conference in Toronto.

It may be interesting to all those who are seriously worried about water pollution to know that so many meetings are taking place. Certainly a problem cannot be solved until it is properly recognized. However, the time is fast approaching when some definite steps will have to be taken. Endless reports have now been made full of suggestions and recommendations. Action must be taken.

The International Joint Commission continues to stress the urgency of the matter. They made an interim report in December 1965, almost two years ago. It was made as an interim report because they felt the situation was so terribly serious that they did not want to wait until they had completed their study and made a final report.

More, much more will be heard on this subject. Because it has been with us, and growing gradually for many years the emergency element seems to be ignored. I believe, however, that opposition members will and certainly should repeat pressure on the government until some action is taken. Mr. Hamilton's motion was well made that there should be a definite Resources policy, but it seems to me that most urgent of all is the question of water pollution.

the ultimate in listening pleasure . . .
