CAMEO HIGHLIGHTS

"HIS GIRL FRIDAY" coming for three nights starting May 20 is one of the outstanding comedy-drama hits of the season, starring Cary Grant and Rosalind Russell.

For May 23-24-25, we will give you another splendid attraction in "LITTLE OLD NEW YORK", with Alice Faye and Richard Greene and a big cast of veteran players.

"THE FIGHTING 69th" starring James Cagney and Pat O'Brien will be here for May 27-28-29. Another of the year's big hits, this picture should not be missed.

And then will come the one you have been waiting for, Shirley Temple in "THE BLUE BIRD"—May 30, 31, June 1st. All in beautiful technicolor, this is by far little Shirley's best picture.

"THE HUNCHBACK OF NOTRE DAME" with Charles Laughton is another great picture. Here on June 6-7-8.

To be followed by "PINOCCHIO" Walt Disney's masterpiece. In order to give everybody in Morrisburg and community an opportunity of seeing "Pinocchio" we are playing it for 4 nights, starting Wednesday, June 12.

"REBECCA" is coming.

Local Boy Seen in News Reel

A familiar figure was seen on the screen at the Cameo Theatre, here, by those attending the programme at that theatre on Thursday Friday and Saturday of last week.

The news reel was showing the transporting of the R. C. A. F. bombing planes from Winnipeg to Eastern Canadian terminals, and one of the crew members seen most plainly was Keith Saddlemire, a former student at the M.C.I., now a wireless operator with the R. C. A.F. Keith is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Merton Saddlemire, of Glen Becker.

Sanitary Inspector Making Inspection

Mr. Chas. Haley, V.S., of Iroquois, sanitary inspector for the United Counties Board of Health, has commenced checking up on insanitary conditions in the towns and villages under his jurisdiction. Mr. Haley has wide powers under the Public Health Act, and may order the removal of any accumulation of refuse at the expense of the person offending, but he hopes that any such action will be unnecessary.

The majority of citizens have already been busy with rake and hoe and have had garbage, manure, ashes, and other refuse accumulated during the winter, drawn away, but there are always a few citizens who contract "spring fever" and their neighbours are annoyed and inconvenienced all summer by odours from their back yards. Not only is there the nuisance caused by odours but the Public Health is menaced as well, for these premises are the breeding grounds of the common house fly.

"Almost all cases of diarrhoea among babies can be attributed to the house fly" said an official of the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto. "Flies, alighting on filth of all kinds, pick it up and then fly onto the nipple of a feeding bottle. Diarrhoea is caused by a germ and tests made at the Hospital for Sick Children on flies caught in the sufferer's home have shown the identical type of germ found on the patient."

Under the new County Board of Health, three full time sanitary inspectors are employed Mr. Haley's district covers all of Dundas County and the Township of Osnabruck. Mr. Haley resides at Iroquois.

Any complaints regarding nuisances which come under the Public Health Act should be made in writing to the office of the Board of Health, 104 Second St., West, Cornwall, Ontario.

Women's Institute

The annual meeting of the Women's Institute was held in the Agricultural Office on Monday, May 6th.

The following officers were elected for the year.

President, Miss Jane Dillen; 1st Vice-pres., Mrs. Lee Casselman; 2nd Vice-pres., Mrs. L. Kinkaid; 3rd Vice-pres., Miss Marion Coligan. Secretary-treas., Mrs. D. Dillabough; Assistant Treasurer, Mrs. R. Link. Directors, Mrs. J. H. Meikle, Mrs. C. Stubbs, Mrs. F.S. Broder. District Director, Mrs. Geo. Clark. Auditors, Mrs. Morash and Mrs. Link.

The district meeting of the Women's Institute will be held in Morrisburg on June 4th, when the nine branches of the county will appoint their district officers and give reports on the year's activities in the District of Dundas.

Miss Agnes Kingston

The death on Saturday, of Miss Agnes Kingston, a life long resident of Morrisburg, occurred at her apartment in the St. Lawrence Hall, where she has resided since the death of her sister 10 years ago. The late Miss Kingston was one of Morrisburg's most highly esteemed residents, a perfect lady at all times, an acitve church worker, one interested in many Women's activities, and a very staunch member of the Knox Presbyterian church, where she was recognized as one of its first members.

She was born in Dickinsons Landing 81 years ago and when a young lady, moved to Morrisburg, where she has since resided. The funeral was held from the funeral home of Mr. Jarvis on Tuesday at 2 p.m. to Knox Presbyterian church where a large and representative gathering joined in the service conducted by Rev Mr. Lamond. The remains were placed in the family plot in Mount Pleasant cemetery. The many beautiful floral pieces placed on and about the casket, were a token of the love and respect held for the deceased. The following gentlemen acted as pall bearers: Messrs. J. H. Meikle, Fred Chalmers, Henb. Paull Matthew Campbell, William McGannon, Norman McGillis. Among those from a distance attending the funeral were Misses Dorothy and Audrey Cook of Westmount, Que., Miss Martin, Mrs. Montgomery, Mr. and Mrs. Shaver, and Mr. Grant, of Wales, Ont.

Letter To The Editor

Editor, Morrisburg Leader,
Dear Sir:

Our town is not prominent industrially, and cannot at present be rated as a manufacturing centre, its chief claim to recognition being on account of its educational facilities. A country, so it has been said, can be estimated by the provisions it makes for its children, and the same can safely be said of a municipality.

Soon the school year will be drawing to a close, and it will be in order for our school board to decide on the personnel of the teaching staffs. This is certainly a matter for good judgement, particularly regarding the selection of a principle for the Collegiate Institute. Any person is entitled to receive due credit for results and achievements. The present incumbent, M.A. Epplett, has accomplished much in raising the morale and efficiency standards of our Collegiate during his sojourn here. Discipline, without which all school work falls down, has been established and maintained. The mathematics department, of which he has charge, has been well handled; since he assumed his duties, the Meikle Cup returned to Morrisburg for the first time in fifteen years, and on at least three separate occasions, the pupils of the M. C. I. have captured first standing for the coveted Carter Scholarship, denoting highest scholastic standing for the High Schools or Collegiates of the three United Counties. Students' organizations have been built up, and the diligent manner in which Mr. Epplett has applied himself to his duties has borne much fruit for the benefit of the students and the standing of the school.

The School Board should try to keep the services of so faithful a head master. The inspector's reports concerning him are reported favourable, and results, not personal considerations should govern in a matter of this kind. Mr. Epplett merits re-engagement on his record.

A PARENT.

W. M. S.

The W. M. S. of the United church of Morrisburg met at the home of Mrs. Barlow on May 9th, with a goodly number in attendance. The President opened the meeting with a call to worship, also giving the theme for May: Stewardship.

Prayer was offered by Mrs. Hilliard. The minutes were read and adopted as read. Arrangements were made to celebrate the 56th anniversary of the Morrisburg W.M.S. Reports were given from secretaries.

The devotional part was taken by Mrs. Payton, telling us that Stewardship began in Genesis and right down through the ages, it had been the proper way of living. She closed with prayer for our Missionary, Miss Marjorie Miller.

Miss Carter gave a concise account of the Presbyterial held in Merrickville the 7th of May.

A very appropriate solo was rendered by Mrs. Epplett, Mrs. Timmins conducted a quiz on the work in India, several ladies taking part. The meeting closed with Mizpah benediction. The hostess served a refreshing cup of tea.

Final Meeting of Canadian Club for Season

On Friday evening last, the Morrisburg Canadian Club wound up its series of meeting for the season.

The guest speaker for the evening was Mr. Bernard Schonevegal, J. P. a South African of Dutch descent. In his address, Mr. Schonevegal stressed the need for unity within the British Empire, and foresaw final victory for the Allies.

Mr. Sconevegal was introduced by Hon. Geo. H. Challies, M. L. A., and was thanked by Mr. Wm. Mack Alguire of Cornwall.

NEWS PARADE

Last week, reading between the lines was the favorite pastime of war-interested people in this part of the world. Hearing rumors that the Allies were having a tough time of it in Norway, many Canadians sought to pierce the veil of censorship by buying U. S. papers, or rushing to their radios every time an American commentator came on the air. They wanted to know what was behind the obvious dissatisfaction in British parliamentary circles with the conduct of the Norwegian campaign. Was Germany winning? To look at the map was helpful, but not enough to clarify an obscure situation.

Sir Archibald Sinclair, Liberal M.P. in the British House, was outspoken: "The Government must take vigorous measures and determined action in Norway, or remaining neutrals will climb on the German bandwagon." Further, "If the Government muddled in this Norwegian campaign it will be for Parliament to act objectively, fearlessly and resolutely as the grand inquest of the nation."

FOURTH WEEK BEGINS

At the end of the third week of the war in Norway, the German High Command claimed that Oslo and Trondheim had been linked by Nazi columns, that Dombas, strategic rail junction, had been captured, giving the Nazis control of the main railway line from the Norwegian capital to Trondheim. The Allies, while admitting withdrawal in several sectors, still commanded the approaches to northern Norway; held the important ports of Namsos and Andalsnes; and were successfully landing substantial reinforcements of men and supplies, together with much-needed anti-aircraft guns.

NAZIS IN SWEDEN

A German attack on Sweden seemed much less imminent last week, although huge sums were appropriated for defense purposes by the Swedish government. In some quarters it was thought that Adolf Hitler could get Sweden's iron and her arsenal, immobilize her Army and her Navy, without firing a shot or crossing a frontier uninvited. It is well-known that there are the makings of an excellent Nazi "fifth column" in Sweden, a Nazi network of friends and propaganda that penetrates every corner of the country.

ITALY'S NECESSITY

During the week Italy gave new signs of being ready to create a serious nuisance; as a precautionary measure, then, the British Government ordered all British shipping out of the Mediterranean. A Fascist spokesman declared it "impossible for a country like Italy to remain indefinitely out of the present war." Walter Lippman on this side of the Atlantic said: "A Nazi victory, obtained without Italian help, would be supremely dangerous for Italy. Therefore, Italy's only chance to save anything from this desperate situation is to join the Germans if they are winning, to join them before it is too late to contribute anything important to the Nazi victory, yet not too soon to be fatally hurt by the Allies."

CANADIAN WAR-WEEK

At home in Canada, it was an eventful week. Quebec women won a victory when a law was passed granting them the vote in Provincial elections . . . A battle raged in the Province of British Columbia over gasoline price-fixing, and passenger cars had to stay home in their garages . . . Rumors were current that while in Washington Prime Minister Mackenzie King had discussed with American higher-ups, final details of the international St. Lawrence-Great Lakes seaway agreement, as well as possibility of protective occupation of Greenland by Canadian forces . . . Canadians were warned against the danger of gossip about naval, military and air force matters during wartime . . . Ottawa announced that war savings certificates ("baby bonds") for the small investor would soon be employed as a method of war financing . . .

Gardening ....

SECRET OF TRANSPLANTING

Secret of transplanting is plenty of water. Of next importance will be shade and stimulant. Moving a plant is something like an operation on a human being, and the larger the specimen, the more necessary the attention. With shrubbery and trees often main roots are cut and the shock is severe. Half a pail of water after setting out is not too much for such big things, and the watering should be repeated two or three times a week, if a quick start is wanted.

With ordinary annuals and perennials liberal watering is also advisable and shelter from hot sun for the first few days. Some pickup in the way of quickly available commercial fertilizer, carefully applied, will help at this time, merely a pinch for small things like tomato plants or asters, and perhaps up to a couple of handfuls for shrubs and trees.

INFORMAL LAYOUTS

In the average case planting irregularly in clumps will produce the most pleasing garden effects. Such planting, too, will add an air of spaciousness, giving even tiny backyard gardens the appearance of much larger plots.

Where possible there should be a lawn in the foreground, with an irregularly shaped bed of flowers around the edges and possibly different groups of shrubs at the corners. Screening of harsh straight lines about the house and drives with clumps of flowers and shrubs and an occasional trailing vine over verandahs or garages will bring the whole thing together.

YOU ASKED FOR IT

Many Ontario anglers have written in to ask us what the best knots are to use in tying eyed flies to the new nylon fishing leaders. Before attempting to answer this general enquiry we had a chat with Frier Gulline, one of Canada's most expert tiers of artificial fishing flies. It was under e expert supervision of this able fy "doctor" that the new leaders were first tied when they were introduced to the Canadian fishing fraternity last spring, so we know the information he gave us is correct beyond a doubt.

The Best Knots

After experimenting with several types of knots, it was decided that the best knot to tie the nylon strands together into a strong leader would be the familiar Barrel or Blood Knot (see accompanying diagram). Other experiments proved that the best knot for tying eyed flies to the leader was the Turle Knot. Familiar to experienced fishermen and popular with most anglers, it is one of the simplest and safest knots used and will hold under all conditions. It is easy to tie (see illustration) and good for any size of wet or dry fly.

TURLE KNOT

This is one of the simplest and one of the safest knots used for attaching eyed flies to nylon fishing leaders. It is easy to tie and is as good for the smallest dry flies as for the largest salmon and bass flies.

BARREL KNOT

A knot recommended for lengthening out nylon leaders by adding tippets to the point, or for repairing broken leaders. It avoids dangerous bends and puts a direct pull on the leader.

TO-DAY'S NEW WORDS

Words have their days of favor. A little while ago we were "scuttling" everything. Lately "fifth column" as a term for subversive elements has had a heavy play. Now "quisling" as a synonym for treachery, has the support of the London Times — derived, of course, from the name of the infamous Norwegian who tried to set up a puppet government in Norway to serve the Germans. — Ottawa Journal.

CODDLING CODFISH

Canada has imported an average of 337,000 gallons of cod liver oil annually for the past five years. The Atlantic cod fisheries last year produced about 60,000 gallons. Canada falls far short of producing enough for her own requirements. Yet, it is estimated that Canada can produce from 300,000 to 400,000 gallons of the oil annually. Here then is a condition that cries for remedy. Our production should be far greater even in normal times. — Halifax Chronicle.

SALLY BLAIR — heroine. She had everything that popularity could win her, except

DAN REYNOLDS — hero. He might have had Sally but while he was king on skis

COREY PORTER was king of the social whirl. So . . . But go on with the story.

Last week: Sally is shocked by the seriousness of Dan's injury. In remorse, she asks his forgiveness, kisses him goodby. Is it forever, she wonders?

CHAPTER VIII

The white world of the winter carnival had turned into a fresh new one with a gauzy scarf of tender green covering the hillside, the birds flying north to begin searching for bits of string and straw to build their nests, crocuses heroically thrusting up bright brave golden heads.

Corey Porter, home for spring vacation, lost no time in heading his long low sports roadster toward the suburb, near Boston, where Sally Blair lived. Corey was a very important young man these days, in a few months he would graduate, the head man of his class. He would be taken into his father's firm, start a new life. But Corey's handsome young face did not wear the important, satisfied look it should have. His nice mouth was a bit grim; his blue eyes wore a perplexed expression.

He was going to have a showdown with Sally, or else. Never, in all his experience — and he had had a few, as he prided himself — had any girl treated him as had Sally. Not one word from her since the houseparty, unless you wanted to count the stiff little bread-and-butter note required from formal courtesy, which Corey did not. Never in all his life had Corey been given the "go-by" by any member of the opposite sex. It was an entirely new experience. Had Sally known it — and maybe she did since she was an experienced young lady, too — it had proved the best possible means of bringing Corey to heel.

For if he had imagined himself taken with Sally before — that last moonlight night of the house-party, for instance — now Corey knew he was sunk.

HE MEANT BUSINESS

Now he meant business, as he'd shown Sally by the way he turned into the long driveway that led to her home, swept up under the big port cochere, ground on the car brakes. He took the flight of steps on to the broad piazza of the big white colonial house three at a time, sounded the old-fashioned knocker emphatically and impatiently.

It seemed to him much too long before the heavy door finally was unlatched, swung gently open. Then when he saw that it was Sally who had opened it to him, impatience was well repaid. He had forgotten she was so lovely, that her dark eyes were so soft and shining, her mouth so temptingly sweet. He had gotten any girl could make him feel as he did now, just looking at Sally again.

"Why, Corey!" She held out a hand, her face breaking into a nice smile. She drew him on inside, and made him welcome. "How nice to see you again! When did you get home? Come in and make yourself at home. It's good to see you."

"You'd never guess it!" Corey returned. His grin was rueful, but his spirits soared. Sally must be glad to see him, after all! "What have you been doing with yourself that you never had time to drop a fellow a line? What did I do to deserve such treatment?"

"I did write — once," Sally reminded. She led the way on into the big living room that was so cheerful with its open fire, gay chintzes and profusion of flowers. Sally was proud of the fact that she had made it so home-like now that she had taken over the task of running her father's house. "I have been busy," she admitted. "I am sorry if you feel I've neglected you, Corey."

"Rumor has it," Corey said, as he flung his long length down into a deep chair, "that you didn't go back to school, my sweet. How come? Did the grind get you down? I suppose you've been busy flirting and dancing and playing havoc generaly from dawn until dawn with all the masculine population within reach."

There was something about Sally that he had not noticed before. He could not put his finger on it, call it by name. She was prettier than ever, if possible, her dark curls drawn back with a narrow pink ribbon, her dainty frock matching the slight flush in her cheeks. Yet he felt that, somehow, she had changed.

Sally laughed, shook her head. No, she had not been busy in that way. But Corey would not understand, or believe her if she denied it. She told him she had not gone back to finish out the term because she had decided to stay at home with her father. "I never realized," Sally said, "how Daddy missed me, how all alone he was. I decided to stay here with him; this is a big house you know for one person." Sally's mother had died when she was a child. "Daddy never complained. But I know now how glad he is to have me with him." She knew now, too, how much she had missed the companionship she had never before taken time to share with the father who had given her so much.

"I don't expect you find much time to be with him now!" Corey laughed at this idea. He knew how full the life was of a popular girl like Sally, one party after another, a date for every waking moment, a round of places every night, a few hours' sleep squeezed in each morning. Pretty hectic, but fearfully exciting and gay. No time to spare beside the homefires, or to waste in solitude or thought. Never a dull moment.

"I hope," Corey added, "that you are going to have some time for me, Sally, my pet. We'll do all the hot-spots, paint the town crimson, if you say the word. This will be my last play-time for a spell. After graduation I'm going to settle right down for keeps. You won't know me, I'm going to be such a different guy! I've got my mind all set on a certain goal. And you know when I set out to do something I won't give up till I make the grade."

He put a subtle implication behind his light words. For the goal Corey had set his mind on winning was Sally herself. "By the way," he added, not giving her a chance to say whether she was going to have time for him, or not, "have you forgotten you owe me payment on that dare we made? Check, Sally, my sweet? About Dan Reynolds, I mean. That was one man you failed to tame and get to eat out of your pretty hand." Corey was so preoccupied in lighting a cigaret that he did not notice the swift flash of pain in Sally's bright eyes, or the color ebb from her cheeks. "That's one reason for this visit. I came to collect."

"How is Dan?" Sally asked. This was the reason she had welcomed Corey so heartily, had been glad to see him. This was the question she had been waiting to ask him. She wondered how she could ask it now so quietly, when it meant so much to her, when during these long terrible months that had been the only question weighing on her mind.

She had had reports, of course, from Doctor Barnes through her from Doctor Barnes through her father's lawyer, who had handled the doctor's bills and hospital expenses. But she wanted to hear from someone who knew Dan, who had seen him just recently, talked with him.

"He's coming along," Corey now glanced up at Sally. There had been something in her voice. That new note of quietness, of stability that somehow seemed to be what marked the difference in her that he had sensed. "As well as can be expected. He hobbled about on crutches, after more than a month lying flat. He's walking now again."

"Walking?" Sally's eyes shone, her breath came with a little rush of relief and joyousness. "Oh, Corey, I'm so glad. I was afraid he might never walk — the same, I mean — as he had. Maybe, before long, he will be able to ski again."

"I hardly think so." Corey would not have answered quite so bluntly had he known what a blow it would be to Sally. "He'll hardly take up ski-ing in a hurry. He's walking, Sally. But he probably will always walk with a bad limp."

Jewelled Locket Fashion Revived

Dangling on a Slender Chain About Milady's Neck

The wearing of small jewelled lockets on slender chains is a new fashion. Single strand necklaces of beads are also being seen. Pearls, rose quartz, amber, lapis lazuli and jade are the favourites.

These colored, less expensive gem stones make beautiful accent notes for spring. There are rings and also bracelets to match these necklaces and also earrings.

Topaz, zircon and amethyst are also popular, and set with gold, have added color depth. Moonstone flowers set with rubies or emeralds in gold are lovely.

The locket fashion, however, is new. It is in the feminine manner and has a sentimental value that has again come to be noticed by women of fashion.

"Glamour" Defined

Dr. Paul Popenoe, internationally known founder and director of the Los Angeles Institute of Family Relations, has at last been able to formulate a definition for "glamour." "Whenever the value of the package exceeds that of the contents—that's glamour," he told a local audience.

GREENS FOR HEALTH

Now that spring seems to be really here, the main topics of the day are "housecleaning" and "spring tonics", both very closely related to the homemaker. If you desire real zip, try increasing your green vegetables and salads and reduce the starch diet as much as possible. At least two cooked vegetables and one raw vegetable every day should be the inviolable rule of every homemaker.

One can always lure the family into eating plenty of vegetables, if one has attractive ways in which to serve them, and lots of variety.

New spinach will be on the market in a few days and while it is very wholesome just plain boiled with as little water as possible (do you remember?), try mixing with a little butter and cream and seasoning. This makes it a very appetizing dish. For variety, sprinkle the above with hard boiled eggs chopped fine. Then another method (after boiling the spinach and then draining) is to place in a baking dish alternately with a rich cream sauce, which has been previously made. Sprinkle the top with buttered crumbs and powdered hard boiled eggs. Place in a slow oven for about 20 minutes. This too is very satisfying.

If you would take grandmother's advice try this:

Dandelion and Spinach Greens

Gather freshly grown dandelions, when the dew is still on them. Use equal amount of dandelion and spinach. Pick carefully, throw into cold water and wash in several waters previously salted. Plunge the dandelions into boiling water, cook one-half hour before adding the spinach. Continue the cooking until tender, then drain and add butter, salt and pepper. Mix well, turn into warm dish and serve with hard boiled egg. The addition of the spinach prevents the bitterness of the dandelion from predominating — the combination will be found to be very pleasing.

Spinach Loaf

2 cups boiled spinach
2 eggs
1 teaspoon chopped onion
1½ cups bread crumbs
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ cups milk

Chop cooked spinach fine, add crumbs, eggs slightly beaten, onions, seasoning and milk. Turn into a buttered mould, place in pan of water and cook in a moderate oven until firm.

Spinach Timbales

2½ cups canned spinach
2 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
2 teaspoons lemon juice
2 eggs

Drain spinach and chop fine. Heat; add butter, salt, pepper and lemon juice. Add the eggs slightly beaten and mix well. Place in custard cups set in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Serve with white sauce. Garnish with hard cooked eggs. Time in the oven 25 minutes. Temperature 325 degrees.

Spinach Mexican Style

1 tablespoon butter
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon curry powder
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
1 cup milk
2 cups cooked spinach
2 hard-cooked eggs

Melt the fat and add flour, seasonings; stir in the milk. Bring to the boiling point, stirring constantly. Arrange the hot spinach in a serving dish and slice the eggs over the top. Pour on the hot sauce and serve at once. Serves 4.

Stuffed Onions

6 large onions
¾ cup chopped beef
¼ teaspoon salt
One-eighth teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 tablespoons tomato catsup
½ cup grated cheese
¼ cup fine bread crumbs.

Parboil onions 15 min., drain. Mix meat, seasoning, shortening and catsup. Remove center of onions and fill with meat mixture. Arrange in baking dish and cover. Bake in moderate oven 1 hour. Remove cover, sprinkle top with crumbs and butter and bake until crumbs are brown.

Scalloped Cabbage

2 cups white sauce
2 cups soft bread crumbs
½ cup grated cheese

Mix cabbage and white sauce together. Put a layer of cabbage in a greased baking dish, add a layer of crumbs. Repeat until all the ingredients are used. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in hot oven until brown (about 20 min.).

Mothers Can Be Aid To Democracy

Should Pledge Themselves to Help Children Grow Up In Understanding of All That Democracy Means

To give expression to appreciation is the duty of sons and daughters on Mother's Day but on that day also to many intelligent women will come the recognition of the fact that it is not natural to mothers just to sit silent and receive bouquets. Active, beneficial service is part of the very nature of motherhood and on this their day, with the world at war, we may ask that all give yet another gift to their children, the gift of democracy.

Cherish Freedom, Liberty

It is an example that the mothers of all democratic countries may well emulate, for the declaration they are being asked to uphold is significant—a pledge to help children to understand, cherish and guard freedom of speech, press, assembly, worship and petition; and also to teach children by example that they should respect the rights and opinions of others if they would defend their own, and thus preserve their heritage of liberty against any and all doctrines opposed to the traditions of the nation.

Participating In Democracy

Keeping such a pledge will take tolerance, judgment, forebearance. It will mean participating in democracy—instead of sitting back waiting for someone else "to do something about that," writes Ruth Millett.

It will mean voting intelligently— and abiding by laws. It will mean being able to see the faults in government, the things to be done—without condemning democracy.

It will mean teaching children to be self-reliant and "proud" in the old-fashioned sense — too "proud" to want or expect something for nothing.

It will mean foregoing the smug little remarks that can damn a whole group of people. It won't be easy. But it never was easy to leave children a fine heritage.

Secret study, silent thought, is, after all, the mightiest agent in human affairs.

—Channing

SWEET WORD: "MOTHER"

I do not know why one word is more fair
Than other words, but voices when they say
That mother word grow sweeter, tenderer,
As though they swing soft light upon the way.
And there is rhythm in it—I can hear
A prayer begin, a chanted lullabye;
Or, all the kind and swift endearing terms
That mothers know are gently passing by!

My Mother—All the loveliness I know
With sunlight on it, and the purple way
A lilac bush once grew beside a door.
The words can draw me back to hold ground
Where strong, tall hills shut all the hurt away.
And I am braver than I'll ever be—
Is it for this that we keep Mother's Day?

WHAT DOES DEMOCRACY MEAN TO YOU?

Canada is a member of a great democratic Commonwealth of nations. As such, she has accepted the responsibility of supporting the cause of Democracy in its death struggle with Totalitarianism. We, therefore, as Canadians, and thus necessarily Democrats, each have a part in this war.

Each of us has two responsibilities. First, to do all we can to win the war, in order that the future of our democratic form of government may be assured. Secondly, we must be on the alert to keep our government democratic, and to see that it embodies those democratic pillars of freedom, integrity and justice for all.

We can fulfill the first of these responsibilities by exerting all of our influence, and each of us has some, to support the honest and efficient functioning of both government and industry. We must give freely of our time, services and money, wherever we, as civilians can support or encourage those brave men who have taken up arms, and those who will do so in the future to defend us and our freedom.

Since so many thousands of our boys have signified their willingness to lay down their lives in our defence, surely the least we can do is to make democracy safe on the home front, so that after the war is won, it may not be said that "they died in vain".

After every war there has always been a period of difficulty, of social unrest, of serious economic disturbance and political upheaval, and Canada faces just such a period after this war, unless we begin now to plan just what it is necessary to do to save ourselves from passing through this chaotic state a short time hence. It will not be a difficult task, if you really want to do it. All of our problems have arisen in the past. Therefore, by merely studying the history of our country, we should know what to expect. Moreover, our big problems are nothing but an aggregation of our little ones.

In order to acomplish anything, we must have knowledge. We must look at Canada as a whole, and forget all about sectionalism and class. We must know our problems, be they local, provincial or national. This means studying, going back into Canadian history, so that we may see how the same problems have arisen before, how conditions have evolved, that we may profit by past experiences. We must help Canada first and ourselves last. By helping Canada, we will help ourselves, for if she prospers, we also will prosper.

This is one way in which we can contribute to the solution of Canada's problems, which, of course, are also your problems and mine. If we learn about the evils and abuses of our systems, we will be able to find remedies for them. It is we, who, by our indifference in the past, are responsible for them. It is therefore our joint responsibility to find the cures.

MOTHERS' DAY

On Sunday next the Christian world will observe one of the most revered days of its calendar, Mothers' Day. The observance of this day, dedicated especially to all the mothers of the world, is as grand a gesture as the mind of man has ever conceived.

Although for many mothers, the day may this year be spent as usual in the company of their children, many thousands more will shed a silent tear, thinking of their brave lads who have gone forth to fight despotism, even though it cost them their lives. With no thought of personal gain or glory, they are willing to die that their mothers and the other members of their families may live, free of Nazi and Bolshevik dictatorships. Many of them will not return. Many of them have seen their mothers on Mothers' Day for the last time. Many of their lives will necessarily be sacrificed that we, and our mothers, may enjoy the same freedom of government, of speech, of religion and of thought, which our grandmothers did.

This year, the world will especially honour those mothers who have borne such brave sons; those sons who were such a deciding factor in the winning of the last war, and who, in this present conflict, have given to the Allied armies the manpower and the intelligence, which, with the help of God, and of His Mother, will see them through their most severe trials, and guide them to final victory over the pagan hordes of Adolf Hitler.

"A mother's love is indeed the golden link that binds youth to age; and he is still but a child, however time may have furrowed his cheek, or silvered his brow, who can yet recall, with a softened heart, the fond devotion, or the gentle chidings of the best friend that God ever gives us."— Bovee.

CANAL GUARDS TOO OFFICIOUS

Prospective tourists from the United States who will be visiting Canada this summer are now being told, that, "once you have crossed the border, you will be free to go where you wish. There will be no restricted areas." For the good of our tourist trade and international goodwill, we hope that the authorities in charge of the anti-sabotage guards along the St. Lawrence Canals, will instruct the guards to be a little more courteous to our American visitors than they have been to local people.

The other day a highly respected and responsible young man was taking a stroll along the canal, and stopped to view the repair operations at the local power plant at the foot of the canal. He was approached by a burly guard who told him: "You will have to move on. You can't hang around here." This young man (and very well the guard knew it) had no interest in sabotaging the locks or canal. He had no wish or intention to do any harm to the country. (As a matter of fact, he has already volunteered his services to the Royal Canadian Air Force.)

It is certainly ironic that those who are willing and ready to offer their very lives in their country's cause, should be so insulted, and denied their national priveleges by a few, a very few men with too much authority for their mentality to stand.

Annual Meeting Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial

The fourteenth annual meeting of the Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial met at the United church, Merrickville, on Tuesday, May 7th, 1940. The several branch organizations of the W.M.S. were well represented. The program for morning, afternoon and evening sessions was very interesting and instructive. The retiring president, Mrs. Carlyle took charge of the meeting. After the devotional service, the installation of officers and other regular business was attended to, reports from the different secretaries were given, in all cases showing splendid work done for the past year. The subjects chosen by the different speakers, "The need of the hour" by Mrs. R. C. Tait, of Chesterville, "If We Knew These Things" by Mrs. D. N. Coburn of Prescott Aux.; "Come Ye Apart", by Mrs. E. Lacey, Brinston Aux. were all very plainly and instructively brought to us. In all three discourses, the under-lying thought so plainly portrayed was "the great need of prayer, faith and communion with God, study of His Holy Word, and brotherhood". The guest speaker, Miss Jean Stewart, teacher in a girl's school, West China, home on furlough, gave a very interesting talk in the afternoon and in the evening, an illustrated lecture which was much appreciated by all. The audience was also favored by a reading by Mrs. Ross Miller, Iroquois, and a short play illustrating "Spring Awakening the Daffodils" by the Mission Band of Merrickville. Both numbers were very well received.

The annual meeting for the ensuing year 1941 will be held in Kemptville with Mrs. McKendry as newly elected president.

All join in thanking the ladies of Merrickville for their hospitality.

Brockville Lad is Drowning Victim

BROCKVILLE, May 6 — Junior Welch, aged 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Welch of Brockville was drowned this evening at 6 o'clock when he fell from a dock into the St. Lawrence River.

The lad, in company with two other boys, was fishing from the dock, when he overbalanced and fell into ten feet of water. The body was recovered six minutes later by Robt. Senviss, a member of the Brockville Rowing Club.

Five employees of the first aid squad of the rural Hydro System here worked for an hour and a half under the supervision of Dr. D.B. Code in an effort to revive the lad, without success. It was the first drowning of the season here.

The cold water is believed to have been too much of a shock for the lad's system, the temperature of the water registering 40 degrees.

He was born in Port Colborne, and had been a resident here for the past year, coming here from Morrisburg. His father was in Port Colborne at the time of the accident. He is survived by his parents, and one sister, Beverley, aged eight.

No inquest was held.

NO WATERWAYS TREATY THIS YEAR

A news item in this week's issue of The Financial Post with an Ottawa date line says that there will be no St. Lawrence Seaway treaty this year. The Roosevelt Administration has decided not to carry through the negotiations and therefore no further action is looked for this year. The decision to postpone action is entirely due to Washington. The Canadian Government was ready to complete the negotiations forthwith. Apparently President Roosevelt has decided that, on balance, the political advantage lies in not proceeding with the St. Lawrence in an election year.

WITH THE BOY SCOUTS

The troop had its weekly meeting as usual in the United church basement. The Wolf Patrol was given the Honour Pennant and competition was renewed. The score at the end of the evening was Wolves, 10; Bulldogs, 7; and Beavers 6. The Wolves seem to be well on their way to the top again. Four new boys passed their tenderfoot tests. They are Gordon Louden, Charles Blancher, Eric Eamon, and Ryerson Mattice. The investiture will be held in two weeks. Next week an open meeting is going to be held at the High School grounds. Softball will be played until dark. The Court of Honour has decided that the Scouts should wear their dress uniforms to Church on Sunday. The uniform should be washed and pressed before it is worn.

Annual Meeting Williamsburg W. I.

The annual meeting of the Williamsburg Women's Institute was held Thursday evening in the Green Bungalow, with a fair attendance. Mrs. Ora McIntosh, the president, was in the chair. The treasurer, Mrs. O.J. Wert reported that $25.35 had been realized from the Kemptville play, which is to be donated to the Red Cross. It was voted that the Institute purchase 20 booklets on Wild Flower Preservation and distribute them to the Public Schools in our Township. It was decided to re-hire Mr. Crombie for the cemetery work at the same price per day for the ensuing year.

The auditor's report was given by Mrs. Ivy Roblin and revealed the balance for the year of $186.32. Several reports were given from the conveners of the standing committees. The secretary gave the financial statement, and the president's thorough report indicated a very successful year.

Doris E. Knowles Bride of R. Strader

A marriage of local interest took place at high noon on Wednesday, May 8, at the United church, Iroquois, when Doris Eliza, only daughter of the Rev. Thomas and Mrs. Knowles, was united in the bonds of holy matrimony to Raymond Alexander Strader, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Strader of Irena.

The bride was charming in a gown of white organza with shirred bodice and full skirt and white tulle flower hat and she carried a bouquet of seasonal flowers. Given in marriage by her father, pastor of the United church, he was assisted in the ceremony by Rev. Chas. Adey of Williamsburg. The couple stood before a background of ferns, pink roses, hydrangea and snapdragons. She was unattended, and her going-away costume was a black tailored suit with black and white accessories and silver fox cape.

Acting as ushers were Douglas Knowles, brother of the bride and William Strader, brother of the groom. After a wedding breakfast, served at the parsonage, the young couple left by motor for a week in New York city. Returning they will take up residence in Brockville, where the groom is connected with Mutual Insurance Co. The groom's gift to the bride was a three-strand string of pearls.

1941 Markers

Automobile license plates for 1941 in Ontario will have a white background and the figures will be in green, it was announced Friday, at Queen's Park.

Government officials said that the green is of a dark shade providing a contrast to the white background, and making the plates easy to read. This will avoid difficulty experienced in 1938 when the background was light blue, and the figures orange.

Plates this year have black figures on a yellow background. The plates are made at the Ontario reformatory at Guelph, Ontario.

Many Film Stars to Vacation in Canada

Hollywood motion picture stars, their favourite European playgrounds closed to them by war, are planning to spend their summer holidays in Canada, according to Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, just home from Los Angeles. Such prominent members of the screen colony as Spencer Tracy, Gary Cooper, Cark Gable and Frank Morgan already have laid plans for Canadian Summer holidays.

Canadian War Trucks Proven in Stiff Tests

The gun may bump high over a hump, and drop down deep in a ditch, but stil it goes on and on. No smooth pavement is necessary to get this weapon to its destination. Drawn by a four-wheel drive tractor it must go or disintegrate. For the tractor makes nothing of ordinary obstacles and tears its way through country that would appal a commercial vehicle.

At a demonstration of mechanical transport in Ottawa this week, these tractors, and not only these but trucks as well proved their ability. They were tried over the roughest testing ground the environs of Rockliffe Aerodrome could provide. They were thrown over at various perilous degrees from the horizontal, and even from the vertical, but functioned efficiently in whatever position they found themselves. If one got stuck, and one did, in a steep ditch in soft ground, another made a job of hauling it out so quickly, it seemed simple.

Canadian plants are to provide 93 per cent of the mechanical transport which will be used by troops abroad. This is possible only because of the co-operation of the Ford Motor Co. of Canada, and the General Motors Corporation of Canada with the Department of National Defence. They too have enjoyed the assistance of allied industries so that new wheels, new bodies and other equipment could keep pace with the production schedule of the automobile plants.

The units on parade at Rockliffe were some of the new output of Canada's factories. Fifteen hundredweight trucks pulling anti-tank guns field gun tractors, 3_ton load carriers, engineer derrick, 30 hundredweight load carriers and wireless trucks were displayed. And it does not matter whether these came from a Ford or General Motors factory. Many of the parts are interchangeable. There might be a General Motors body on a Ford Chassis or vice versa, and the vehicle would be just as efficient. When these vehicles work in conjunction with the British forces, wheels, tires and bodies will be interchangeable with those of the British Army. It would be possible for a vehicle of the standard type four-wheel drive to have a General Motors front assembly, a Ford rear one and wheels and body made by a British factory, or any part of this combination. The parentage may be pure at the start but nobody knows how mixed the stock eventually may become.

Simplification and standardization of mechanical units has been carried out to the utmost degree. Not in this war as in the last will there be multiple makes of trucks- each requiring special stores of repair parts and replacements. Any of these new type vehicles put out of commission can become a reserve of spare parts for others. How much the task of the repair parks and workshops is relieved by this development, most of us can imagine for ourselves. The vehicles are in no sense experimental. They have been all tried and have acquitted themselves satisfactorily under all conditions. Numbers of interested people, including the acting minister of National Defence, Hon. C. G. Power, the acting Deputy Minister, Col. H. DesRosiers, the Chief of the General Staff, Major undertake severe tests and come through without check, under the direction of Col. N.O. Carr, Director of Mechanism and Artillery.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE ACQUISITION ORDER

IMPORTANT NOTICE

As announced by the Minister of Finance, the Foreign Exchange Acquisition Order, 1940, has been enacted by Order-in-Council under the authority of the War Measures Act.

Unless exempted by the Order, every resident of Canada who, on May 1st, 1940, has any foreign currency in his possession, ownership or control, whether in Canada or outside Canada, is required forthwith to sell such foreign currency to an Authorized Dealer (i.e. a branch of a chartered bank) for payment in Canadian dollars at the official buying rate of the Foreign Exchange Control Board.

"Foreign currency", for the purposes of the Order, means any currency (excluding coin) other than Canadian currency and includes bank notes, postal notes, money orders, cheques, travellers' cheques, prepaid letters of credit, bank drafts and other similar instruments payable in any currency other than Canadian currency, and also includes any amount in foreign currency of which a resident has a right to obtain payment by reason of a deposit, credit or balance of any kind at or with a bank, savings bank, trust company, loan company, stockbroker, investment dealer or other similar depository.

The Order does not require the sale of any foreign securities.

The Order does not affect any foreign currency, deposit or securities of any non-resident of Canada and for greater certainty the Order expressly declares that a non-resident visiting Canada for business or pleasure for a period or periods not exceeding six months in the year continues to be a non-resident for the purposes of the Order unless such person enters or has entered Canada with the intention of becoming a permanent resident.

No resident is required to sell any foreign currency if he satisfies the Foreign Exchange Control Board that he held such foreign currency on May 1st, 1940, solely as trustee or agent for a non-resident and that the non-resident's interest therein had not been acquired from a resident since September 15th, 1939, except in a manner approved by the Board.

Under certain conditions stipulated in Section 1 (b) of the Order, a resident who is not a Canadian citizen may be granted exemption, but only after application for exemption is approved by the Board.

No life insurance company incorporated in Canada is required by the Order to sell any foreign currency which it needs for the purpose of carrying on its business outside Canada.

Further particulars may be obtained from branches of chartered banks. Any resident who has any foreign currency in his possession, ownership or control on May 1st, 1940, regardless of amount, should consult his bank at once in order to ascertain the extent to which he is affected by the Order.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE CONTROL BOARD

Modern Etiquette

BY ROBERTA LEE

When a young woman is traveling alone and a man persists in trying to form an acquaintance, what should she do?

2. Is it vulgar to be extravagant?

3. Should a person always rise when performing an introduction?

4. Would it be all right for a girl to send a young man a birthday card, even though he has never sent her a card or given her a gift?

5. If a bride has no relatives nor intimate friends, who should issue the wedding invitations?

6. From which side of the guest, and with which hand, is the plate removed from the table?

Answers

1. Show by her indifference that she is not interested. If the man persists, she should ask the conductor to change her seat. 2. Extravagance could not be called vulgar unless there is an ostentatious display to impress others. Extravagance is many times unwise, where one cannot afford it, and should not be cultivated. 3. Yes, always. 4. Yes; there is nothing wrong in doing so. This is merely a thoughtful gesture, and the young man would be presumptuous to think it anything else. 5. Under these conditions the invitations may be extended by the girl and her fiance. 6. From the left side of the guest, and with the left hand.

- HAVE - YOU HEARD?

The little man furtively entered the florist's shop. "I want three potted geraniums," he whispered to the assistant.

"I'm afraid we are right out of geraniums at the moment," the assistant replied. "I can let you have some very nice potted chrysanthemums."

"No, they won't do," replied the little man. "I wanted the geraniums to replace some I had promised my wife to water while she was away."

Diner (sarcastically): Oh, waiter,, has the chef killed that chicken I ordered an hour ago?

Waiter (under notice): No, sir, but he's given it a couple of nasty blows.

Goering called together his staff of generals and said to them:

"We're going to win the war and win it fast. Right?"

Every one of the generals shouted back:

"Yes, we're going to win the war and win it fast," except one small general in the rear.

Goering noticed this, and questioned that general.

"Don't you believe we're going to win the war fast?" asked Goering.

The small general answered:

"Yes, I think we might win the war, but I think it would be a good idea if you put Czecho-Slovakia in your wife's name."

"Look here, grocer, I want a dozen eggs. Are they fresh?"

"Madame," the grocer said, "they are positively insulting."

A neighbor wanted to borrow grandpa's new rope. Said grandpa: "No, I've got to use that rope today to tie up some sand."

After the neighbor had left, a friend said, "Grandpa, you know you can't tie sand with a rope!"

"Remember, my boy," replied the old man, "you can do pretty near anything with a piece of rope if you don't want to lend it."

The problem of the bridal couple is how to elude the guests after the ceremony without eluding the photographers.

Clerk (in men's clothing store) "I assume you are looking for something in men's clothing?"

Lady: "I certainly am. Have you seen my husband around here?"

Swing Relegated To Phonograph

Radio Dance Orchestras Have Nearly All Gone Back To "Smooth" Style

Swing is over, say the advocates of the "smooth" or "commercial" style of popular music. Insofar as wide public acceptance of swing is concerned they are probably right. What has actually happened, however, is that swing and jive have gone back to the places they came from to the musicians' informal sessions, to the "juke boxes" (pay phonographs), to college dormitory disk collections, or to whatever sanctums the "cats" and "swingeroos" have elected to pursue their art.

So, except for warmer radio dance orchestra sessions in the "wee sma" hours, the phonograph, for all practical purposes, remains today the only medium where one may hear genuine swing.

What Science Is Doing

THE ROLE OF SCIENCE

"The role of science in the culture of this continent is threefold," last week declared Dr. Arthur H. Compton, Chicago's cosmic ray man, one of the world's best known scientists. "First, it supplies more adequate means of living, giving men longer life, better health and a richer variety of experience. Second, it stimulates man's social growth by rewarding more abundantly co-operative effort and punishing more severely his antagonisms. Third, science serves as a direct means of expression of the human spirit."

SILVER KILLS GERMS

Discovery has recently been made of the secret of the ability of silver to kill germs. Silver is widely used to sterilize drinking water supplies.

The discovery proved that a single atom of silver can kill a living cell, despite the fact that the cell is as much bigger than the bit of silver as Mt. Everset is larger than a mouse.

HUMAN GUINEA PIGS

Some 200 staff members of the Department of Pensions and National Health at Ottawa are acting as human guinea pigs to test immunity to diphtheria.

The 200 have given blood samples and submitted to injections of a new anti-diphtheria toxin.

The toxin varies slightly from that approved by the world health organization of the League of Nations, and if proved effective will be released for national use.

HEALTH TOPICS

Whooping Cough Test

The recent development by a Montreal scientist of an effective skin test to determine a child's susceptibility to whooping cough was described last week by Dr. Lyon P. Strean of Montreal. Dr. Strean's discovery marks a new advance in the control of the disease.

While the present test will only determine the susceptibility of a child to whooping cough, it may lead to the development of a new type of vaccine for immunization and a serum for treatment of the active disease.

Unhealthful Noise

Professor H. E. Reilley, McGill University, in a recent radio address deal with the effects of noise on human health.

Noise has been instrumental in bringing about a collapse of the nervous system, the speaker declared.

He said also that noise impaired the digestive system and caused occupational deafness among printers, bus drivers, road makers and traffic policemen. He cited Edison who said that he believed mankind would grow deafer as city noises increased.

The address was closed by the statement: "Less noise, better health, more wealth."

British Losses Said Negligible

Comparatively Few Merchant Ships or Naval Vessels Sunk Since Beginning of Present War — German Claims Exaggerated

Germany's continued claims of sinkings of Royal Naval vessels last month in London brought a formal statement which summarized Britain's and Germany's naval losses since war began. It showed that the Nazis had lost 21 ships, exclusive of a large number of submarines.

British losses, including submarines, number 18. (Submarines lost were listed at five).

CRUISERS INTACT

The statement clearly showed that whereas Germany's losses represented a staggering blow to her naval strength, Britain's strength at sea remained unimpaired.

Of the 15 capital ships Britain possessed at the start of the war, only the Royal Oak has been lost. The Courageous is the only one of seven aircraft carriers lost. Britain has not lost a single cruiser. Her other losses are 10 destroyers of the pre-war fleet of 185 and five submarines.

NAZI BATTLESHIPS GONE

German casualties include both her battleships, two of her three pocket battleships, both of her heavy cruisers, all six-inch gun cruisers with which she started the war, and 12 surface torpedo craft.

SINCE NORWAY

Unofficial estimates of U-Boat sinkings by the Allies have ranged as high as 60.

Naval sources point out the statement is not the whole story. Since Hitler invaded Norway, 26 transports and supply ships have been sunk or scuttled. Ten others were hit by torpedoes and probably sunk. One was set on fire during an air attack and four German vessels were captured.

Fishermen Organize To Protect Rights

At a meeting in Cardinal Tuesday night, more than 100 anglers and hunters of the district formed a game and fish protective association and initiated a move by sportsmen of Cardinal, Iroquois and Morrisburg to try to have restored the priveleges of fishing along the canal banks of this particular section of the St. Lawrence River. Under war measures, fishing is now prohibited along the canal.

The meeting was called by Capt. Roy Baker, provincial game warden for St. Lawrence front counties, who is interested in having canal fishing privileges restored and suggests a permit system for regulation under the administration of the reeves of the three villages concerned. Capt. Baker points out, that because of the swift flowing water through the 20 mile stretch from Cardinal to Morrisburg, the canal is the only means by which anglers can fish for pleasure and profit.

Fishermen as Guards

He also maintains that licensed fishermen would be the best possible guards Canada could maintain along the canal system, recalling past years when scores of fishermen were strung out all along the canal banks through Cardinal, Iroquois and Morrisburg. "These men are all good Canadians and would be more likely to notice any suspicious action along the canals than by the use of only a few guards, as at present."

Organization will proceed in Morrisburg and Iroquois to have similar bodies unite in appealing to government departments to have the restrictions lifted.

Mrs. Wm. J. Stoner

The death of a former Morrisburg girl, Mrs. William Stoner, occurred at her home in Lookout Mountain, Tenn., on Sunday April 28th. The late Mrs. Stoner was born at Morrisburg 54 years ago, her maiden name being Ethel Harrison, eldest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Harrison. She received her education at the local schools and later entered the Children's Hospital at Albany N.Y. Following her graduation she was made superintendent of nurses, and for 3 years, held that position, she being fully qualified to do so, having received her training under the famous specialists, Dr. Luther Emmett, Holt, and Dr. Henry L. K. Shaw, Children's specialists. She later took up private nursing for some time before she married Mr. Stoner and settled at Lookout Mountain, where she so successfully conducted a baby clinic at her home.

Mrs. Stoner had been critically ill for three months during which time her sister, Mrs. Burchnall was at her bedside for five weeks. A number of letters from southern friends of deceased, were received by her sister, Mrs. Ernest Weegar, during the week, and contained many beautiful tributes to the place which she occupied in the hearts of the people in Lookout Mountain.

The funeral was held on Wednesday May 1st, in Lookout Mountain. Her sister, Mrs. J. W. Spence of Ottawa, was among those in attendance. She is survived by her husband, one son, William, and one daughter, Garnette, two brothers, Fred A. Harrison of Toronto, Geo. W. Harrison of Hamilton, three sisters, Mrs. Ernest H. Weegar, Morrisburg, Mrs. R. P. Burchnall, of Huntsville, and Mrs. J. W. Spence of Ottawa, who will have the sympathy of their many local friends.
