Farmers ambivalent about GATT deal

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

The loss of Canada's fight to maintain its supply management systems for the country's dairy, egg, and poultry farmers has left a feeling of uncertainty in the local farming community.

Local farm organization leaders spoke with the Press this week to give some insight as to what farmers might expect.

WINCHESTER — Dundas County Milk Committee Chairman and Williamsburg dairy farmer Peter Leyenaar is urging farmers not to panic.

While a General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade deal, without protection, is now reality, Leyenaar says it will be a couple of years before we see any real change. And while quota values could very well drop, Leyenaar predicts farmers will still want an organized approach to marketing.

"...Some farmers will say dump everything (marketing systems) and 'just milk', but that's the old way of doing things," he said.

In the long term, farmers will need to be more flexible — possibly try to bring their costs down to be better able to compete Leyenaar suggests.

Chesterville dairy farmer and recently elected to the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, Gordon Johnston says he feels farmers should sit tight until we see what kind of deal the government hammers out.

Johnston predicts some type of marketing system (mechanism) will remain in place — possibly at the federal level.

He also said those who entered the industry in the past few years and made large quota purchases will possibly be hardest hit by the changes.

Max Sabey, who is a member of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture's trade committee, predicts "no immediate catastrophe for supply managed groups or no short-term gain for non-supply managed groups," such as grains and oilseeds.

While adjustments will have to be made, Sabey says stabilization programs are a possibility.

If the government wants the deal to work for Canadian farmers it must allow them to be able to compete. For example, Canadian farmers have higher input costs than American farmers on things like fuel, chemicals, etc. The government must also look at bringing U.S. and Mexican quality standards up to Canadian standards. Higher Canadian standards make it more costly to produce food in Canada, he said.

MP calls for unity

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

WINCHESTER — Liberal MP Bob Kilger is calling for unity after Canada's bid to save Article XI in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) talks failed.

"While the preferred method of maintaining our marketing system was a strengthened and clarified Article XI, it's plainly evident now that we can't have our preferred position in the face of what is (now) unanimous world view to the contrary," said Kilger in a telephone conversation, Tuesday.

In a vote on the agricultural text, Monday, 115 out of 116 countries involved in the talks voted in favor of the agreement, with Canada being the only country to vote against the deal, said Kilger.

The main focus of the agreement for the agricultural community is a shift from border quotas to tariffs. At press time figures for the tariffs were not finalized.

The agreement will mean a lot of changes for supply management but just how much change will be determined when the deal is complete, said Kilger.

"This (agreement) presents us with a huge challenge. I think it's incumbent on the cooperation of everyone — producers, their organizations, the provinces and ourselves, particularly in the next calendar year leading up to the Jan. 1 (1995) implementation of the new agreement. It is

Local support blooms for needy

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — The need is as strong as ever but so is community support say organizers of local Christmas campaigns for underpriviledged families.

The North Dundas Children's Christmas Fund, which covers Mountain Township and the Winchester area, gave gifts to 144 children last year and the demand is equally as great for this holiday season, says Orma Earl, one of the fund's organizers.

But fortunately local service groups, businesses and individuals have given generously to the fund, she says.

Among donations, local firefighters collected toys during area Santa Claus parades and one local church donated 96 wrapped gifts. Winter hats and mittens are distributed to each child and snowsuits are also given on demand. Like last year the fund accepted clean used snowsuits in good condition as well as purchasing new ones.

It is also sending out 75 Christmas baskets, containing enough for a Christmas dinner and a few additional meals. Needy families are identified through social services. Organizers of the fund also work with volunteers from the Lions Clubs in Mountain Township and Winchester and the Winchester 100 Club.

Some food has been collected through local drives, run by schools or other groups. Any surplus will be donated to the North Dundas Food Bank in Winchester.

Approximately 180 Christmas baskets will be distributed to families in the Williamsburg, Brinston, Morrisburg and Iroquois areas by the South Dundas Christmas Exchange. The demand for the baskets is about the same as last year, according to one of the organizers Diane Wilson.

As in the Winchester area, service clubs, business and individuals have rallied to donate money or food to fill the baskets. Several area businesses also put up Angel Trees to collect toys for children. The angel ornaments on each specified the sex and ages of children for whom residents could buy gifts.

The baskets will be filled at the Royal Canadian Legion in Morrisburg next week. Wilson says she won't know until then if they have enough food but donations seem to be steady.

"It's on a wing and a prayer but it always works out very well," she says.

For the first time Morrisburg Public School organized a snowsuit drive to make

Alzheimer victims to gain respite

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — Starting next month local victims of Alzheimer and their families will have a new way to cope with the degenerative brain disease.

They will be able to turn to the new Nor-Dun Seniors Support Centre in Winchester for respite, counselling and even recreation. Beginning Jan. 11 an Adult Day Support Program at the centre will offer once-a-week care from 10am to 2pm every Tuesday.

For a few hours a week, those afflicted with the disease can participate in social activities such as baking, crafts or exercise.

"Sometimes they don't get the chance to leave the home and get out and do anything so what we're trying to do is give them a better quality of life, give them a chance to interact," says Lynn Siminoski of the Alzheimer Society of Cornwall.

"We also have an exercise program. We have an occupational therapist that helps individualize and target the needs of each client. It's a structured program and we try to keep the same routine every week."

The activities are geared to work with whatever skills the clients still has. Alzheimer disease affects the brain destroying brain cells and along with it the ability to think, understand or perform even simple tasks. It has no known cause or cure.

"They lose a lot of skills," says Siminoski.

"Let's say a woman has been a beautiful knitter for 50 years and she will lose that skill but she might retain a little bit of her crocheting ability. We will work with that because there's no way we can teach her to knit because once the skill is gone it's gone so we try to build on the strengths and compensate for the weaknesses."

The three or four hours a week is also there to give caregivers a break, although they can stay for the program if they wish.

About 750 people in SD&G, Prescott and Russell counties are afflicted with Alzheimer disease. The Alzheimer Society of Canada identified at least 19 of these victims in Dundas County when it proposed the program. Until now the Village stakes claim on old Hydro offices

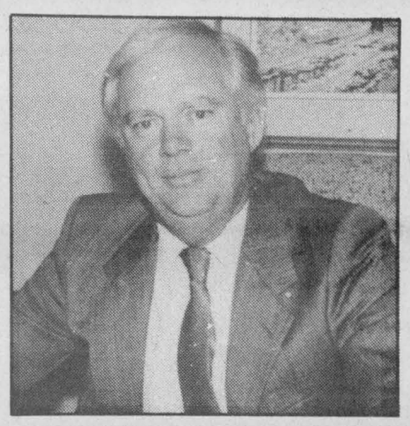
by Michelle Valiquet
Press News Editor

WINCHESTER — The Village of Winchester wants a say in the future development of the former Ontario Hydro offices, even if it means buying the property, according to Reeve Bruce Kerr.

In an interview Tuesday, Kerr said that although the municipality has not made an official offer for the St. Lawrence Street property, it has instructed Ontario Hydro that it is interested in its two buildings and their future development.



Reeve Bruce Kerr

"The village is not necessarily out looking for property, we want to make sure the proper (development decision) is made with the site," says Kerr. "We want to be sure if the property is sold that we have some control over what goes in there...if that means we have to be the owner for a short period of time to insure proper develop then okay."

Although Kerr avoided revealing any specifics, he did say there are people interested in relocating to the building and that village council has discussed the availability of the property for more than 18 months.

"What we want to do is make Winchester a central location for provincial or SD&G areas of operations...if the province is going to be putting in new offices with its amalgamation plans then what better place for them to do it than Winchester," he adds.

Ontario Hydro approached the municipality with the option to buy the buildings several years ago. Kerr states, the village has always "been at the top of the list for (being able to buy) the buildings", but never actively pursued its option.

Situated on the village's St. Lawrence Street, the property's two buildings currently house several tenants including the United Counties Economic Development Department.

Jeff Marshall, acting executive director of the SD&G Department of Economic Development, says the impending sale is no surprise to him or his employer and does not mean the department will be moving anytime in the future.

"This (sale) has been pending for a long time and we have been aware of Hydro's intentions," says Marshall. "But there is no indication that we won't be

Village harnesses old truck for plow

by Michelle Valiquet
Press News Editor

WINCHESTER — When snow does finally fall on village streets this winter there will be a new plow to clear a path for vehicles.

Early this fall, the village roads department was faced with a situation of either completing extensive repairs to its 1976 International Plow- Dump vehicle or making the costly decision of possibly purchasing a new plow vehicle.

Instead, staff developed a plan for attaching a plow harness to the department's 1981 road-salting truck.

After considering the various options, council approved the $4,000 refit which involved cutting the main harness away from the older vehicle and transferring the plow to the newer truck. The operation was further complicated by some custom- fitting of parts and material which was required to make the whole project work. Local contractor Neil Flegg Cartage carried out the specialized refit.

The conversion was aimed at improving cost and operating efficiency, according to Andre Johnson, village roads superintendent.

"Both vehicles are Internationals. The older one was clearly nearing the end of its useful life, but it had the best plow harness, while the newer vehicle was still an excellent road machine, but not adequately equipped to do a full scale plowing job for us," explains Johnson.

The new look plow is revealed in the village works garage. On hand for the event were from the left, CAO Terry O'Reilly, Roads Committee Chairperson Councillor John Klein-Swormink, Reeve Bruce Kerr and Andre Johnson, works superintendent.

The department is currently investigating the possibility of whether or not the two-way dump body on the 1976 vehicle can also be removed and seasonally exchanged with the salter-back of the 1981 vehicle to make it a fully versatile, 12-month, four-season service vehicle.

With winter snow as yet in scarce supply, the roads department has yet to have the opportunity to really put the new plow through its paces, but staff is not worried.

"We can handle everything the Good Lord can throw at us," says Johnson.

Wetlands policy 'unfair'

Garnet Quail
News Correspondent

METCALFE— An Osgoode Township man brought his criticism of Ontario's wetlands policy to council's attention on Dec. 7.

Herbert Koel, of RR1, Osgoode said the province's wetlands designation is "unfair" and inhibits development.

He told councillors that he has several concerns about some of the provincial designations of wetlands and drylands.

According to Koel, "I have some property where you could walk around in sandals and have dry feet and they have labeled them 'wetlands'. Just down the road there is some property you would have to walk through with hip-waders and they call that 'drylands'."

"Something is wrong here," stated Koel.

He went on to explain that in many cases these designations are not only "a little mixed-up", they are also unfair.

He cited cases where he had people interested in buying some of his properties until they found out about these various designations.

"They backed out because of uncertainty as to what they would be allowed to do with the land if they owned it," said Koel.

Although Mayor Albert Bouwers told Koel council understood his concerns, Bouwers explained wetland designations are strictly a provincial matter and that appeals to the appropriate ministry should be made as soon as possible.

"It (the designation) is not a municipal initiated policy, it was approved by the Province of Ontario," added Bouwers.

But he informed Koel that in some municipalities where large areas have been given particular designations, in the past the ministry has been forced to buy the property from the landowner.

Blood donors

WINCHESTER — The Canadian Red Cross Society collected 248 units of blood from 275 donors at a recent clinic in Winchester.

Bert VanKessel of Chesterville was also presented with a certificate for donating 35 units of blood. VanKessel, who was at the Dec. 2 clinic, has donated 37 units in total.

GATT

critical that we quickly come together to adjust to the new world agreement, he said.

According to a spokesperson for the Ontario Milk Marketing Board, although the GATT agreement's implementation date is set for Jan. 1, 1995, the new rules will not come into effect for milk producers until the end of the dairy year (Aug.1, 1995).

TARIFF LEVELS CRITICAL

A critical issue in the agreement for Canadian farmers will be whether the GATT tariff schedule will supercede those already in place under the U.S. Free Trade Agreement, said Kilger.

Under the FTA, tariffs are to be reduced in 10 years to zero, while the GATT agreement now concluding is calling for tariffs to be reduced a total of 15 per cent over six years — working out to a huge difference he says.

As an example, Kilger uses an arbitrary figure of 300 per cent as a tariff. When reduced 15 per cent over six years it would result in a net tariff of 255 per cent — a huge difference to having a tariff schedule that would end up at zero in 1999 (as is the case with the FTA), he explained.

This issue presents Canada with a huge problem. Because while Canadian lawyers say that the GATT schedule supercedes the FTA, U.S. lawyers say just the opposite, Kilger added.

"(It's) important for us to deal on agriculture with the international community on a level playing field and we can't expect anything less than the GATT schedule." Because ultimately the best deal possible now is to have the highest tariffs and longest period possible. "That's what will give us the best security available at this time," he said.

That's also why it will be critical for producers and government to work together to make whatever adjustments possible to make the deal work, Kilger concluded.

Needy

the winter a little warmer for some area children. In November, the school sent out flyers to its students' parents and the community asking them to donate good winter outerwear. About 35 pieces of clothing were collected including 20 snowsuits. On Dec. 5 the school sold the items for $2 to $5.

"If we felt they would take them without paying and not be offended, we certainly encouraged that," says Connie Adlington, one of the drive's organizers.

"We were very, very pleased because we felt they were going somewhere where they definitely were needed and could be used."

"We would like to do this again next year and start earlier and hopefully get the information out to more people. I still have people approaching me and saying, 'gee I have stuff, would you like it?'"

Anyone wanting to donate to the North Dundas Children's Christmas Fund can mail a cheque to Box 15, Winchester, Ont. K0C 2K0. Donations for the South Dundas Christmas Exchange can be made at the Bank of Montreal branches in Williamsburg, Morrisburg and Iroquois or to Exchange Treasurer Janice Buter at the Seaway Valley Pharmacy in Morrisburg.

Alzheimer

closest program for those inflicted with the disease was offered at Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge in Cornwall.

For $15 a week, clients can be picked up at their home. The fee is $10 without transportation. Most of the costs of the program are paid for by the provincial government as part of its long term care reform, a plan to improve care and facilities for the aged across Ontario.

A similar program has been operating out of Ingleside at the Osnabruck Seniors Support Centre for more than a year.

Bev Warnock, a volunteer with the Ingleside program, says the program gives their clients some time away from their illness.

"In some cases people when their patience is getting very tired sometimes there is a need to rest or have a change of pace. We're there to provide encouragement and friendship basically and be a support. To share and talk with them," she says.

Anyone interested can contact Siminoski at 932-4914.

Village

able to arrive at a similar (rental) agreement with any possible new owners."

"That the village may buy the building is certainly a positive development in our eyes."

The United Counties, as do other tenants in the building, rents on a month-to-month lease from Ontario Hydro. The SD&G Alternative School, the Winchester Youth Centre and the North Dundas Food Bank also rent space in the offices.

Ed Chatton, Ontario Hydro's Winchester Office finance manager, says the buildings were declared "surplus to Hydro's needs" last year and the sale of the property is being handled through the utility's corporate real estate division. Chatton, says it is customary for Ontario Hydro to offer surplus property to government, whether municipal or provincial, before opening up the site for public sale.

Student gains experience as page at Queen's Park

Greg Hewitt
Special to the Press

MAPLE RIDGE — Many people are familiar with Ontario's Legislature at Queen's Park in Toronto through televised sessions.

But Maple Ridge student Moira Klein-Swormink is much more familiar with it than most.

The 13-year-old from Winchester recently completed a 40-day session as a page in the provincial legislature.

"It was great, I had a lot of fun," she says. She was one of 25 pages who attended the 3rd session of the 35th Parliament.

She left for Toronto Sept. 25 and returned Nov. 6, and stayed with family near Toronto while there.

"It was interesting meeting all the politicians, especially (Premier) Bob Rae," she says. Moira asked Rae his thoughts on an upcoming federal election. But Rae was not all politics, she says.

"He wasn't just hooked on that. He said he missed his family when he went away." Moira also met Lieutenant Governor Hal Jackman and enjoyed lunch in his "very fancy" suite.

As a page, Moira attended the house's afternoon sessions and performed six different duties including delivering messages, bringing water to MPPs as well as other clerical errands.

They had tests on the legislative process and were tested on their recognition of the MPPs' faces. They learned how bills become legislation and the jobs of certain people like the speaker, whips and clerks.

But it wasn't all work. Pages visited the Hard Rock Cafe at Toronto's SkyDome while the Blue Jays were practising - and on their way to a second consecutive World Series win. Moira says it was exciting to be in Toronto when the Jays won it all.

They visited the CN Tower, had two pizza days and spent weekends at Toronto's Eaton Centre shopping. Moira says while it was fun to visit Toronto, she wouldn't want to live there.

"It was very busy, always busy. There was never a moment to spare. I don't think I'd like to live there, I like Winchester."

Aside from the first-hand lesson in government, Moira says she learned mostly about people and the different ways people go about things.

She made good friends with three of her page colleagues in particular, one from Nakina in northern Ontario, one from Etobicoke near Toronto and one from Windsor. They have written to each other and are talking about visiting each other in the summer.

Pages had their own debate on the province's proposed graduated licensing system and Moira led the opposition.

"We really got into it, especially considering that we're getting near the age of driving."

When she first sat in on a sitting of parliament, Moira says she was surprised that some members were not exactly quiet and orderly.

"I didn't know they all yell back and forth at each other," she says. "I thought they would be in order. But it was more fun that way, I think."

Moira says she is grateful to SD&G and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve, who she says was pleasant and helpful during her stay.

"Noble was very kind to me and it was great to have someone there to guide me."

At the end of her stay, Moira was presented with a scroll and photo of her with house speaker David Warner to commemorate her work as a page.

Mountain musings

by Shirley Mills

Around this time last year I talked of our Christmas traditions, like always being late with the shopping or the fun we have filling stockings for everyone in the family.

Each year about this time, my husband brings out his handy card which lists my sizes and other vital statistics. This card has been around some 34 years, since we got it when we purchased our wedding rings. It makes interesting reading.

There are some differences now, of course, like my blonde hair has darkened — but my feet are the same size. Surprisingly I have the same dress size but I figure they've either altered the sizing methods or I wore baggy clothes back then. The statistic that floored me, however, is that I used to have a 25-inch waist. Nonsense. How could anyone have that small a midsection?

I guess this card is now only good as a general outline because I carry an extra 20 lbs. in weight. I suppose it is just differently distributed. But a 25-inch waist — Bah! Humbug!

Derry awarded chair of popular fundraiser

CORNWALL — Norma Lucas, chairperson of the 1994 Big Brothers and Big Sisters Bowl for Millions has announced that the 1994 honorary chairperson for the event is well-known Cornwall businessman and community worker Donald Derry.

Derry is the owner of McArthur Brothers and MacNeil Ltd. Funeral Homes and Derry Funeral Home Inc., as well as the Cornwall Colts Jr. A Hockey Club Inc. He has also been active in the community with the Cornwall Chamber of Commerce, and Ad and Sales Club, Heart and Stroke Foundation, Cancer Society, and the SD&G Shrine Club. Derry was selected the Cornwall Chamber of Commerce Citizen of the Year in 1991.

Lucas states that Derry will be helping the Bowl for Millions Committee with promotion and at the bowling lanes on Bowl for Millions day.

Bowl for Millions in the City of Cornwall will take place on Sat., Feb. 5 at Olympia Bowl and Nativity Lanes and in the United Counties on Sun., Feb. 13 at Chesterville Bowling Lanes.

Derry is challenging residents of Cornwall and SD&G to participate on a team of six or seven co-workers, friends, fellow students, club, or family members.

He says "I hope that local residents will continue to support the worthwhile work of the Big Brothers and Big Sisters of Cornwall and district. Because of the depressed local economy, the need for the Big Brothers/Big Sisters program is greater than ever. Funds raised by Bowl for Millions will enable the local agency to continue to meet the ever increasing demands on its program."

Lucas has also announced that the coordinator of the Counties Challenge Cup is Dave Bird, the owner of the Chesterville Bowling Lanes. Bird will be coordinating the formation of teams in SD&G.

He says that he is looking forward to a good turnout for the 1994 Counties Challenge with several township and village councils and staff, businesses, families, and service clubs taking part.

Team entry forms and sponsor sheets can be obtained by contacting the agency office at 933- 8035 or by dropping by the office at 101 Third St. W., Cornwall.

Team entry forms and sponsor sheets are also available at the Chesterville Bowling Lanes, Main St., Chesterville.

Osgoode council briefs

Osgoode council briefs

METCALFE— Osgoode Township's regular council session got underway in its usual manner last Tuesday evening, Dec. 7. Mayor Albert Bouwers opened the meeting with prayer and then proceeded to deal with the evening's agenda.

Demolition due

OSGOODE— The winning tender was accepted for the demolition and removal of the old Orange Hall on Lyon St. in Osgoode Village.

The Orange Lodge, which has been used in recent years by the Isle in the River Theatre group, was condemned several years ago. Osgoode Sand and Gravel will undertake that task in the near future.

Sign of the times

OSGOODE — The Metcalfe Lions Club is interested in erecting large signboards indicating the presence of local service groups in various township communities.

A study of the idea will be carried out by the planning committee and recommendations made to council as soon as possible.

Landfill news

METCALFE — A recent letter from Kostuch Engineering Ltd. reported to council that the Springhill landfill site will be able to meet the township's waste needs for years to come.

The Kostuch report also indicated that the life of the landfill can be further extended by the municipality's and residents' efforts to compost and recycle items that might otherwise fill the waste site.

Tire trends

OSGOODE — In an apparent sudden change of heart, the Ontario Ministry of Environment and Energy is prepared to cover 100 per cent of the cost of removal of thousands of tires from the Grenier property on Hwy. 31.

Until recently the ministry had indicated that the township would have to foot 15 per cent of the bill for the clean-up. When council informed the MoEE, that it would not cover any of the costs, the ministry made an about face on the subject.

Jardine honored for bravery in grocery store armed robbery

by Mike Williscraft
Special to the Press

OSGOODE — It was a risk, but a calculated risk.

That's what Osgoode resident Brian Jardine thinks about jumping an armed robber at Beveridge's Your Independent Grocery Store earlier this year.

Jardine, along with Doug (Red) and David Craig, tackled a man wearing a snowmobile helmet after he left Beveridge's on March 5 of this year.

The robber was held until the OPP arrived and took him into custody. Dale Hawkins was later sentenced to two years and six months for the crime.

The trio was presented with the Commissioner's Citation for Bravery at the OPP annual awards dinner held last Tuesday at the Carleton Golf and Yacht Club.

They were presented with plaques honoring their efforts by OPP Deputy Commissioner Diane Nagel and Superintendent Carson Fougere.

Ten other area citizens were presented with plaques during the ceremony.

Jardine said the thought never crossed his mind to leave the mall and not do anything about the situation.

"We had just finished getting our groceries. We had paid and were headed out to the car," said Jardine.

"We saw the guy with the snowmobile helmet and he was holding a gun right out in front. I don't think he could see us because he had the helmet on and we were off to the side."

After the thief had gone into the store, Jardine ran over to the Red Dot Cafe to look for help, got Red and David, and waited outside.

"Red jumped him then we jumped on too, and went for his arms. He fell and was trying to get his gun out but we were able to hold him down until the police arrived," said Jardine.

SNOW DELAY

He recalled that there had been a snowstorm that day and it took the OPP about 15 minutes to arrive. During that time, and the time since, Jardine has had time to think about the incident.

"You think about it after. You go over the scene a 100 times thinking about some of the bad things that could have happened," said Jardine.

"But I just couldn't put the groceries in the car and drive away without doing something."

Although the OPP is certainly appreciative of the support, Staff Sgt. Doug Sorgat said intervening in an armed robbery is not recommended.

"As police officers we don't encourage anyone to become involved in armed robberies because of the potential for serious injury," said Sorgat.

"But it is difficult to tell people that. A person makes that decision based on what he knows or what they see. Given these circumstances it was the right thing to do."

So would Jardine do it again?

"I think so, as long as I have help like Red and David. To be honest, I don't know if I could have tackled him on my own," he said.

"It was a chance to do something for the community."

Sorgat agreed, noting that it is important for people to be recognized for their heroic efforts.

"The Commissioner's Citation is given to civilians who assist the police through acts of bravery or heroism," said Sorgat.

"Their assistance to us that day, by tackling an armed robber, was invaluable."

GATT tall tales

Canadian Agriculture Minister Ralph Goodale has waved the white flag of surrender with his statement Monday that Canada has lost its battle to maintain the country's system of supply management for its 33,400 dairy, egg and poultry farmers.

He spelled it out plainly for those who might have harbored any last hopes by saying, "It has become totally evident that we cannot have our preferred position in the face of a unanimous world view to the contrary."

But anyone listening to the national media talk about the impending death of Canada's supply management system at Geneva's General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) talks could be excused for thinking they were hearing fairy tales.

Glowing predictions of lower food prices for consumers has consistently been offered as a salve to farmers who might be hurt by the collapse of their egg, dairy and poultry marketing boards.

But that bright and happy scenario acquires more than a little tarnish when you consider the real facts.

How consumer organizations expect to see great savings for milk, cheese and egg staples, when the majority of profits in the food processing game goes to Big Business not into the pockets of the average farmer, is a mystery to most agricultural organizations and their members.

Consumers might like to keep in mind that by stashing away a few extra dollars at the grocery store cash register in the near future, they may end up paying much more in the end when families are forced off their farms and Canadians compelled to rely on American sources for their milk and eggs.

Instead of consumers being the big winners in this GATT debaucle, this farm tall tale will likely be closer to a version that pictures farmers being the losers and big American businesses rubbing their hands with glee for their expected increases in profits.

Surviving the stress of Christmas - sort of Stress and Christmas are two familiar companions in my life. I begin worrying about Christmas in early September. (I begin whistling favorite carols in July, but we're trying to concentrate on one problem at a time.)

It goes beyond getting the right gift for the right person or cooking the perfect food for gatherings with family and friends, the crux of my problem lies in wanting to make the season as special and wonderful for others as it is for me.

Michelle Valiquet

Tall order.

Some stress involved.

So this year, in an effort to tone down my seasonal stress, I turned to professionals for some much needed advice: the Canadian Fitness and Lifestyle Research Institute.

These experts in health and happiness offered a few tips to cut the nail-biting, near-hysteria that encompasses my annual holidays.

(But as with all free advice, sometimes it's worth exactly what you pay for it.)

1) Keep your expectations realistic. Real life rarely measures up to the idealized version of life created for film or televison.

Okay so Bing Crosby and Jimmy Stewart won't be stopping in for mulled wine and mincemeat this year. And the closest my Christmas Day will resemble scenes from White Christmas and It's A Wonderful Life is if those films are being shown on the boob tube.

But is it too much to ask that every second Christmas light doesn't burn out after I have risked life and limb to string them on the 25-foot high fir tree out front of the family homestead.

And can I at least expect for raging snow storms and freezing temperatures to hold off long enough for me to complete my ritual repair work.

I make no mention of being able to avoid bulbs which consistently break while in the light socket and must be pried out despite risk of accompanying bloodshed and foul language.

2) Look at the holidays as an emotionally charged time. Not only are you coping with time constraints, social obligations and other pressures, but so are most others around you.

I recognize that putting 20 or more family members in a confined space is tantamount to storing nitroglycerin next to a wood stove.

But understanding the dangers doesn't alleviate the size of the potential explosion, especially if Uncle John and my father begin discussing politics, religion or the current state of Canadian football.

3) Don't overspend. Avoid the temptation to buy gifts you cannot afford. Gift giving is a token of friendship and love, it doesn't have to be expensive.

My terminally overcharged credit card will be happy to hear this one. Deficit spending and gift giving are a time-honored tradition in my house.

I know it's not the gift, it's the thought that counts, but does that mean I can't exchange the biker shorts and rap music CDs brother Tim gives me this year?

4) Don't overdo the visiting. You cannot be everywhere at the same time. Arrange your visiting schedule before the holiday season, so people will know how you intend to spend the holidays.

Now here's a difficult task. What would the holiday season be if I vegged out in front of the television and screened out all calls offering social interaction?

A normal day?

Scratch that stress relieving tactic.

5) Get some exercise. Try to include some outdoor activity, a brisk walk or some cross-country skiing, to help clear away the cobwebs.

I know that opening presents burns at least 189 calories per hour, at least the way we do it in our family.

And I love a crisp, cool walk in the fresh air just like the next guy, but I'm wondering if a quick dash to the car while heading out for more partying is considered a calorie burning event to these experts.

Besides, the Christmas season is definitely not the time to fight the battle of the bulge, one is destined to certain defeat. Tasty, chocolate- covered, calorie-rich defeat, but defeat nonetheless.

(See next tip for further explanation.)

6) Don't over indulge. Food and drink are an integral part of the Christmas mix.

Whoa there.

This is where I draw the line.

Sure I want to cut the stress but who said anything about cutting my food and drink intake. If I can't O.D. on turkey, stuffing and plum pudding, then life as I know it has no further meaning.

Sounds like I'm destined to spend another holiday stressed out — isn't Christmas grand!

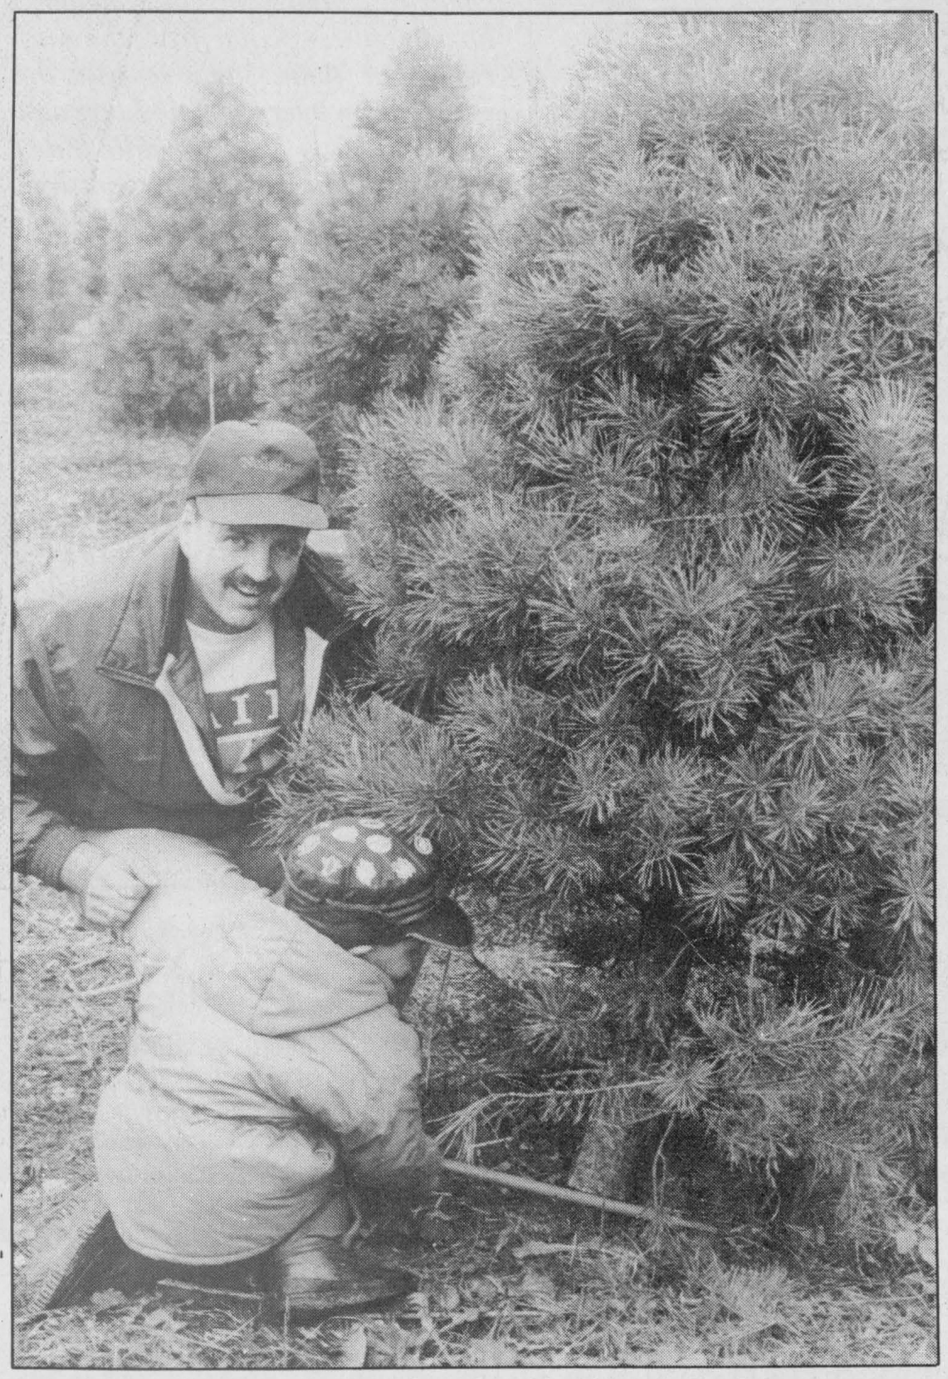
Green color of Christmas for Fawcett



Ian Fawcett and his son Scott cut down the family Christmas tree at Forever Green Acres, the family's tree farm near Inkerman.

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

MOUNTAIN — It's like looking for a needle in a haystack, except the needles in this case are attached to a pine tree.

Among rows and rows of bushy coned-shaped evergreens that look from a distance like waves of a soft green sea, Ian Fawcett, 40, trudges through the mud on a snowless afternoon trying to find the family's Christmas tree.

His mother Marion picked it out, tied a bag to it but it's nowhere to be found. Tramping behind him his son Scott, 3, carries a small cross saw eager to cut any tree down.

But his father searches until he finds, not the one they originally wanted, but an acceptable version — a nice full Scotch pine over six feet high. Between the two of them they saw it, fell it and drag it out of the field.

Finding the perfect tree is an annual family ritual and Fawcett is just as fussy about details as many of his customers that come to cut their own at his Forever Green Acres, the Fawcett's tree farm near Inkerman.

They spend a lot of time looking for a tree that's just the right size, the right shape with as few flaws as possible. That's the fun of it, he says.

"We took the children out and we spent an hour, two hours sometimes, finding the perfect tree and just had a great family day doing it and that's what I'm trying to promote here," he explains.

FAMILY AFFAIR

"The majority of them come and they bring their kids and maybe their dog and they go around the field. They're out there a couple of hours... some people even sing Christmas carols coming up through the field."

It's the second year the Fawcett family has sold the trees. Fawcett of Osgoode bought the 12 and a half acres across from his mother's house five years ago.

The land originally belonged to his late uncle Bill Gibson whose family continues to run a Christmas tree farm near Hallville. Gibson was in poor health at the time, unable to care for the trees properly so he asked Fawcett if he wanted to have it.

"I never really thought about it until I talked to Bill one day," says Fawcett.

"At the time I didn't have any money but I thought I wouldn't mind buying it seeing that it's part of the home farm and Mom's farm is across the road so it's a handy place to get in out of the weather."

He works full-time at Nielson Dairy in Ottawa but the tree business has bloomed into a demanding hobby. Mowing the lot, trimming the trees, transplanting, cutting, running the 'cut your own' lot and delivering trees to stores takes up most of his spare time, though his wife Kelly and family help out. Things slow down only in the spring.

"I like doing it because it's kind of like having a part-time job that you don't have to be at. You likely end up working harder than you would work if you were punching a clock but you're working for you. It's kind of your own personal pride type of thing," he says.

PRUNING TIME

Every summer he takes two weeks of holidays to prune. Between him, his brother and his oldest son Craig, 15, it takes almost a month to trim the 12,500 or so trees.

The idea is to have a tree that is full but not too tall. A Scotch pine can grow up two feet a year but his spruce start out a little slower. After three years some of them are still only a foot tall. Fawcett trims each year's growth back to 12 inches to encourage what is known as progresive budding.

"You will normally get six buds (on a branch) which will become branches next year. If you prune them properly you're liable to get maybe 12 to 14 buds which gives you that many more branches and that's what makes your tree so thick and bushy," he explains.

If trees are allowed to grow too fast, they will have gaps. Despite all the grooming it's hard to get one that's absolutely picture perfect. There are usually a few flaws, a twisted stump or a gap between the branches.

"It's inevitable you're going to get some holes anyway but it reduces it," he said, adding that most Christmas trees end up in a corner or against a wall so it needs at least one good side.

"Some people will walk around and around them and say well there's a little hole here. But I know we were the same when we looked for them, we looked for that perfect tree."

This year, Fawcett is planning to cut 1,200 trees from the lot. He began cutting his trees the third weekend of November. Many people don't consider buying one for another week but they'll be fine outside. Most trees drop needles after a few weeks inside a warm house.

Larger operations start even earlier, says Fawcett. If the weather gets too cold, the trees become brittle and can't be bailed for transporting.

Before the trees are loaded on a trailer, they are pushed through a steel cone-shaped bailer that squeezes the branches upward. The tree is wrapped in mesh when it comes out the bottom. Once the mesh is removed the branches gradually drop down.

Fawcett is not expecting a great return from his investment. So far it's been a bit of a white elephant, a lot of work for very little money. But it's not why he does it.

"I enjoy it. For the most part I'd sooner be out there than on a golf course," he says.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Council questioned

The editor:
Is council acting in a responsible manner?

As a businessman and a ratepayer I have been disturbed by some of the actions of our present council.

I feel that even though our council was not experienced in running municipal affairs, when elected, there are many experienced clerks and reeves in the three united counties who would have willingly assisted in advising on any problem, for free.

We questioned the hiring of such a high-priced individual when a qualified and experienced clerk would have been sufficient.

The latest disturbing news was revealed in council meeting minutes of Nov. 1, 1993. Council while 'in camera' (which I believe is not in order) passed two resolutions, one of the two authorized the CAO to approach Ontario Hydro to express serious interest in acquiring the former Ontario Hydro office. Are we in a position financially to purchase more real estate?

Judging by the 1992 financial statement, this can come about only with further borrowing; with a bank loan as of December, 1992 of $865,000, council should be working on our already too high tax rate.

I believe it is time for us to call our council members and tell them enough is enough.

Troubled by turbans

The editor:
There will be few, if any, of the Sikhs who presented themselves at Legion Halls to seek membership or attendance at Legion functions once the 'Turban' drama dies down.

Primarily because Sikhs do not have the reputation of being mixers. Their main purpose was to stir up a desired level of attention over their claims of religious rights. The Sikh community won the battle of the RCMP dress code and moved on to another battlefield.

Regardless of the varying viewpoints of our Canadian society, it appears that the basic argument revolves around the Sikhs' appeal for public sensitivity towards their beliefs - and appeal that is supported by our government leaders, the media and recently, the Dominion Command of The Royal Canadian Legion.

Would it not have been considerate of the 15 per cent orthodox Sikhs to have shown some sensitivity towards the remaining 85 per cent who do not wear the turban before ramming it down the throats of 25 million Canadians?

Seeking papers

The editor:
I am seeking a favor.

Beginning in January, I will be teaching a course in community journalism at Ryerson. As part of the course, I want my class to be able to study the best community newspapers in the province. As the winner of the 1992 OCNA award for general excellence in its circulation category, yours certainly ranks among them.

Would it be possible for you to mail me 20 copies of any one edition of your newspaper so that each of my students will have one to peruse? Both I and my students would be extremely grateful if you could.

Poppy campaign

The editor:
The Royal Canadian Legion, Branch 108, Winchester, wishes to thank all businesses and individuals who contributed so generously to the 1993 poppy campaign. Also a big thank you to the five schools in the area and to the Scouting and Guiding groups for their hard work on Blitz Day and for joining the veterans in the color guard and the parade.

As the money realized is donated by the public, it is only right that the Legion inform the donors as to what the Legion has done and is doing with it. The money collected is considered public funds, held in trust by the Legion until such time as it is expended on the purposes for which it is collected.

Those purposes include assistance to ex-service personnel and their dependents in necessitous circumstances, payment of poppy campaign expenses such as the purchase of poppies and wreaths, promotional aids, canvassing supplies, reasonable expenses of the poppy committee, advertising expenses, postage and stationery, prizes for promotional contests, Memorial Day parade expenses and also the granting of bursaries for post-graduate education of children and grandchildren of Branch 108 veteran members and scholarship awards for the high scholastic achievements of any student graduating from North Dundas District High School.

In the 1993 poppy campaign, the total received from the sales of poppies and wreaths as well as from donations was $4,511.45. The total expense of the campaign was $1,821.42.

Some money will be transferred from the poppy fund to the bursary fund. During the year the money paid out also included $200 to one veteran's widow, $200 each to two NDDHS graduates, $350 to a veteran's grandson to attend a leadership camp, all from the poppy fund and $500 each to five grandchildren of veteran members for post-graduate courses expenses from the bursary fund.

Westville reunion

The editor:
The year 1994 will be a banner year for Westville, Nova Scotia, when it will celebrate is 100th birthday.

In conjunction with celebrations, the Westville Homecoming Society has a full schedule of events planned during June 30-July 7, 1994, including a full reunion of all former students and teachers, a dance, variety concert, family picnic, church service, town/country tour, etc. The town's annual Canada Day celebrations will be ongoing during this time as well.

The committee is hoping to reach as many former Westville persons who attended or taught any grade in the Westville school system so they may send their name and address, and in turn we will forward our newsletter outlining our itinerary.

We want to make this information available early to assist those who are able to plan their summer vacation "to come see the old gang".

Please send your name and address to Mrs. Dorothy (Hunter) Boehk, P.O. Box 411, Westville, N.S., B0K 2A0 and hope you "Come Home in '94".

Mountains of fun

Residents from Mountain and South Mountain braved the bone-chilling weather Saturday to hold their Santa Claus parade ceremonies. Clockwise from the top left, a clown hands out candy to a young parade watcher; Barney greets people from the Ault Foods Ltd. float; Santa receives the cheers from every girl and boy along the route; Cub Scouts huddle for warmth in the hay; participants on horseback wave to those lining the streets.

Devils declaw Panthers

MAPLE RIDGE—North Dundas took two of three matches from the visiting St. Joe's Panthers here last Tuesday launching their 1993-94 SD&G Girls High School Volleyball League season on a winning note.

Coach Patti Hall's Senior Devils were the only team losing on opening day. They were defeated 2-1 by the Panthers bouncing back from a 15-11 loss in the opening game. St. Joe's took game two 15-8 and rallied for a 15-13 decision in the tie-breaker.

"The girls played very well, it was their first game of the season," coach Hall explained.

"We were up 8-5 in game three and could have and should have won that one. I think we will do well this season," she added.

In SD&G Midget Division action the host Devils posted a 2-1 win.

North Dundas dropped a 15-4 decision in the opener set but rallied for 15-13 and 15-5 victories under the guidance of coach Lisa Prentiss.

North Dundas' Junior Devils also turned in a 2-1 scorecard winning 15-9 and 15-5. Their loss was a 17-16 decision.

"We had a super day. We should have won all three games," noted coach Kelly Durant.

"I didn't realize there was a cap on the scoring and was caught off guard when they called it a game at 17-16. I thought it had to be a two-point difference," she explained.

Coach Kelly says her team is almost intact from last year and the experience and team spirit has carried over, "they play well together."

TEAM ROSTERS

The 1993-94 Senior Devils are: Meghan Bumbaco, Martine Engalhartt, Heather Graham, Maggie Graham, Christine Harper, Sherry James, Andrea Lannin, Mary Linton, Lisa Prentiss, Donna Riddell, Carrie Swerdfeger and Amy Vermilyea.

Merkley hoops 19 points, Senior Devils beat Vikes

MAPLE RIDGE—Never underestimate an opponent. It's easy to say but hard to do, especially if your last encounter with that opponent was a relatively easy 39-28 win.

The North Dundas Devils, favoured by many to win the SD&G senior boy's basketball "AA" division, got a first-half scare from the General Vanier Vikings Thursday before claiming a 66-45 victory on home court.

The Vikes rallied from an early 9-4 deficit to post a 17-14 lead in the first quarter, and started the second half with a 29-28 edge.

North Dundas beat GVSS a week ago at the Cornwall Collegiate Tournament and since then, the Vikings made very few changes to their offence. But the Devils missed a lot of shots in the first half and failed to contain the Vikings with a newly instituted full-court press.

"I could tell by the warm up that they were thinking they were going to walk away with it," North Dundas coach Deanna Corbett-White said. "I don't think our heads were in the game in the beginning."

The Devils finished the first half in a 26-26 tie and received a tongue-lashing from Corbett-White in the dressing room.

The effect was instantly noticeable. Less than a minute into the half, guard Ryan Buske hit his second of three field goals to put the Devils into the lead for good.

Buske, who hit the rim five times in the first half, finished with 17 points, 12 in the last two quarters.

"We just didn't get into it," he said to explain the slow start. "They played a zone and we struggled against the zone. We just couldn't get (the ball) to drop. And they were nailing everything."

"I've got to give GV credit," Corbett- White said. "In the first half they were playing good defence and their shot-percentage must have been in the 80s. We realized we had to play as a team and we went out and did that in the second half."

The Devils outscored the Vikes 40-19 in the second half. Centre Rod Merkley kept North Dundas close in the first, hitting 12 of his 19 points. Forward Sean Hache finished with 11 and forward Chris MacDonald added 10, eight in the second half North Dundas' Aaron Lannin applied man-to-man coverage on Vikings' Nolan Garrow during last Thursday's SD&G "AA" Midget contest. Lannin had 10 points in a losing cause.

Press Photo—Van Bridger

JUNIOR DEVILS

General Vanier had few problems in the junior tilt, coasting to a 78-23 win over North Dundas. The Devils have now lost two straight. Alex Lukenda and Craig Larson led the Vikes with 17 points each

MIDGET DEVILS

The North Dundas midget team gave General Vanier an 18-point advantage before it started playing basketball. The Vikings took a 26-8 lead in the first half enroute to a 49-2 win.

The Devils outscored GVSS 11-9 in the third quarter but gave up 14 points in the fourth. Aaron Lannin topped the Devils with 10 and Kurt Smith added six.

Cochrane claims top WCC cash

WINCHESTER—Anyone watching the 1993 edition of the Winchester Curling Club's Men's Cash Bonspiel unfold here over the weekend felt the best game was the "A" semi-final match between two old archrivals.

Bryan Cochrane, a native of Russell and former member of the RCC, and Russell's Rick Bachand tangled in the Sunday afternoon elimination game and produced a highly charged showdown.

Cochrane, curling out of the Ottawa Curling Club, defeated Bachand 7-4 and advanced to the championship game against Rideau's Art Miskew.

Bachand took one in the sixth to tie the semi- final 4-4. Cochrane's final rock in the seventh knocked in three and put him up 7-4 heading home. The eighth end was blanked.

It wasn't even close in the final as Cochrane and his team of Bill Gamble, Mike Pastuche and Barry Conrad routed Art Miskew, Gord MacFadyen, Brian Mahar and Steve Watson 9-2.

The Cochrane crew earned $1,000 for their five wins. Miskew took home $400 while the "A" semi-finalists, Bachand and the Jamie MacDonald rink from Kingston picked up $200 each.

Cochrane doubled Kruk of RA 8-4 in Thursday's opener. He then eliminated Lachance of RA 7-5, Bildon of Kemptville and Bachand of Russell 6-3 to qualify for the championship draw.

Miskew defeated Campbell of Smiths Falls, Ray of Land 'O Lakes 8-3, Noble of RA 7-3 and MacDonald of Kingston 6-2 to earn the other championship round berth.

On the consolation side of the 30-team event, Martin Butler of Carleton Place turned back the OCC's Dave Stanley 9-5 to win $400. Stanley took home $200. Chapman of Russell and Potter of Granite collected $100 each as "B" event semi-finalists.

Butler lost 6-5 to Lloyd Bildson in round one, drew a bye, defeated Kruk 5-3 and Chapman 9-2 to reach the "B" final.

Winchester's Dave Levere missed the money by a game. He lost a close 5-3 decision to Rick Bachand, defeated WCC mate Brian Clement 6-4 but was dropped from contention by chapman in a Sunday morning match.

The WCC contingent included rinks skipped by Levere, Brian Clement, Dan MacMartin and Gary Munro.

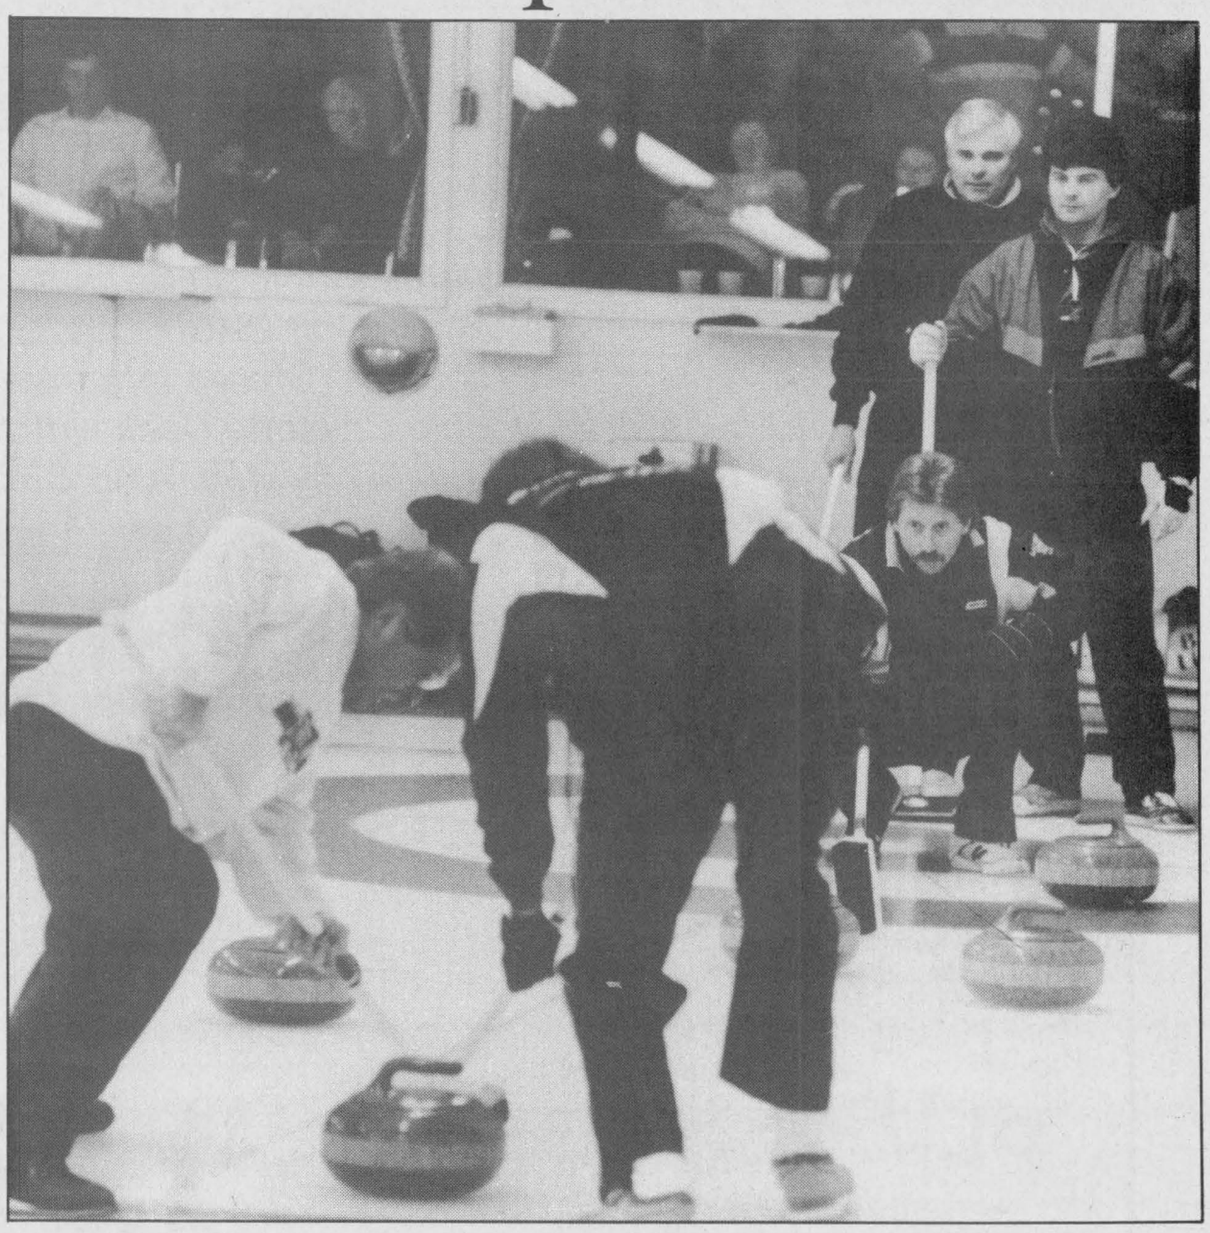
Dave Levere, 'spiel chairman, said other than having two teams drop out late last week this year's "Cash" was another successful event.

"The curling was good, the ice was good. We didn't hear too many complaints."

Levere said he had a feeling that Bryan Cochrane just might be this year's winner.

"Bryan was curling super. He made some big television shots in the second and third draws," he explained.

The action at the WCC doesn't let up. This weekend (Dec. 18 - 19) the OCA's Zone One Schoolboy playdowns are featured and the public is welcome.



Skip Rick Bachand cast a critical eye on his front end as they delivered a third stone during Sunday's "A" draw semi-final. Opposing skip Bryan Cochrane and his vice Bill Gamble evaluated the situation. Cochrane defeated Bachand 7-4 and went on to win the 1993 WCC Men's Cash Bonspiel.

Hoy scores winner with 0:02 on clock

WINCHESTER—Tyler Hoy was the hero here last Friday night scoring the game-winning goal with just 0:02 left on the clock.

Hoy used a feed from defenceman Billy Henderson as ammunition for his winning shot as the North Dundas Atom "A" Demons came from behind to edge the Kemptville Royals 4-3 in an exciting UCMHL contest.

With the win the Mike Deans Superstore Demons improved their record to 7-3-0.

North Dundas led the Royals 1-0 after a period on Patrick Hamel's first goal. Bryce McBain set up the play at 9:18.

Kemptville dominated period two scoring three unanswered goals. Cory Taterciuc scored two of them while Ben Juneau added the other and assisted on the other two.

North Dundas goalie Alexander Last was perfect in the final frame setting the stage for his mates to mount a three-goal comeback.

Hamel cut the deficit to 3-2 when he scored from Will McLean at the 6:50 mark. Dean Byvelds tied it up with 4:15 left on the clock scoring from Tyler Hoy.

Hoy came through with the winning goal with just 0:02 left to play in the game. Billy Henderson engineered the play that made it a 4-3 final.

Jets hold onto first lose 5-4 to Knights

OTTAWA—Dave Martin broke up a 4-4 tie here at the Barbara Ann Scott Arena and his goal lifted the Ottawa West Golden Knights to a 5-4, overtime victory, over the visiting Metcalfe Jets.

In spite of the setback Metcalfe was able to maintain a share of first place in the EOJBHL's Metro Division standings. The Golden Knights and Jets each have 26 points.

The Metro Division race is a close one. Only two points separate the first and last place clubs. Clarence Creek has 25 points and last-place Ottawa South has 24.

Metcalfe's impressive November surge in the standings has qualified the Jets for the annual Junior "B" Boxing Day tournament in Brockville. The Vanier Voyageurs are the other Metro representatives.

"It's a real accomplishment to qualify after our slow start," stated Jets' president John Service.

"It's a tribute to Lou (Nistico) and his coaching staff. They have done an excellent job molding this young, inexperienced club into a contender."

Thursday night's overtime loss to the Golden Knights was the second (OT) loss to Ottawa West. The Jets also lost in a shootout the last time the clubs faced-off in October.

Jets were up 2-1 after a period and it was a 3-3 tie after 40 minutes. Knight's Rob O'Neil sent the game into overtime when he beat Pat Viau with 5:03 left in regulation.

Kevin Regalbuto scored a shorthanded goal in the first frame. Jeff Hay netted the Jets' second goal at 2:00 of the same frame. Kevin Collins scored with 1:58 left in the second and Josh McCready gave the Jets a 4-3 lead scoring at 18:15 of period three.

Kevin Collins, Wes Glover, Jamie Fauteux, Denis Viau, Mark Dill and Don Osbourne earned assists for Metcalfe.

The Jets host the South Ottawa Canadians this Friday (Dec. 17) and have the Valley Division's first-place Renfrew Timberwolves on Sunday (Dec. 19) at 2:15 pm.

Braves ride Briere's stick to Midget tournament trophy

CHESTERVILLE—Francis Briere carried the hot stick here on Sunday scoring 11 times in three games as the NGS Braves ran away with the 1993 NDMHA's Midget "A" tournament championship.

Briere, who splits time bewteen the Midget "A" Braves and Junior "C" North Stormont Express, scored four times and assisted on the fifth goal as NGS opened Sunday's competition with a 5-3 win over the host North Dundas Demons.

Rob Benton netted the fifth and final Braves' goal.

Shawn Johnson scored North Dundas' first-period goal from Brent Barkley at 9:26. Barry Bell notched the second period tally with help from Kirk Liscumb and scored again 2:51 before the end of the game on a feed from Steve Cross.

NGS then thumped the Embrun Panthers 7-1 in their other round robin match. Briere led the Braves' attack scoring four times. Benton, Arsenault and Graham added the other markers while Jason Fetch replied for the Panthers.

It was on to the "A" Division final and a game against the Kemptville Royals.

Briere was hot again figuring in on all of the NGS scoring in a 4-2 win. He scored the games' first three goals and assisted on Benton's marker with 1:56 left on the clock.

DEMONS' TRAIL

Following their 5-3 loss to NGS the North Dundas Demons doubled Embrun 6-3 and lost 2-1 in an overtime shootout to the Char-Lan Rebels.

The Panthers and North Dundas were deadlocked 2-2 after a period but the Demons went up 4-2 in the second on a pair of goals by captain Jason Desormeaux.

Desormeaux scored twice for the Demons. Jason Heuff, Wally Cinnamon, Barry Bell and Brent Barkley slapped in the others. Anthony Mann (2), Randy Mcleod, Desormeaux, Barkley, Kevin McConnell (2), Cinnamon, Kirk Liscumb and Bell rang up assists. Ben Flanagan posted the win.

Eric Labelle scored two and Michel Richard one for Embrun.

North Dundas dropped a heartbreaking 2-1 decision to Char-Lan in the "B" final.

Char-Lan took a 1-0 lead in period one but the Demons evened it up at 3:03 of the second when Brent Barkley pumped in a Wally Cinnamon feed.

The game remained deadlocked 1-1 until Jason Corput scored in the post-overtime shootout.

TOURNEY SCORES

NGS Braves 5 - North Dundas 3; NGS 7 - Embrun 1; North Dundas 6 - Embrun 3; Kemptville 4 - Char-Lan 3 (OT); Smiths Falls 4 - Morrisburg 3 (OT); Char- Lan 1 - Morrisburg 0; Kemptville 7 - Smiths Falls 1. "B" Final - Char-Lan 2 - North Dundas 1 (shootout). "A" Final - NGS 4 - Kemptville 2.

Warriors double Demons

BROCKVILLE—A three-goal second period was the difference as the hometown Brockville Warriors doubled the visiting North Dundas Demons 4-2 here last Thursday.

The Demons had just come off a two-game sweep of the Smiths Falls Bantam "B" Bears and were looking for a second win over the Warriors but their offence just wasn't there.

Wes McLeod gave North Dundas a 1-0 first-period lead when he completed a play started by Zach Gauvreau at 12:15.

Brockville's Adam Tyman tied it up with his first goal at 14:22 of the second but the Demons responded quickly and went up 2-1 at 11:06. Ryan Swerdfeger gave the Demons the lead firing in a pass from Jennifer McDonald but it didn't last long.

Tyman scored at 10:51 to tie it at two. And then Brockville's Will Van Bridger came through with the winning goal 0:49 before the end of the second. Van Bridger figured in the scoring again when he helped Steve Campbell make it a 4-2 final assisting him with 4:45 left in the game.

TWO OVER BEARS

North Dundas piled up back-to-back wins over the Bears beating them 5-1 in Winchester on Dec. 2 and 6-3 in Smiths Falls on Dec. 4.

Darryl Beck missed the shutout by one in the Demons' 5-1 win. Bears' Dave Morris broke up the perfect game scoring at 7:07 of period two.

North Dundas led 3-0 after a period and 3-1 after two.

Andrew Roach led North Dundas' scoring with two goals and two assists. Ryan Filion and Derrick Gates each had a goal and one helper. Brock McBain hit the net once. Jen McDonald, Wes McLeod, Stephen Henderson, Ryan Holmes and Rob Desormeaux earned assists.

Brian Slowey posted a 6-3 win in the rematch in Smiths Falls giving up three goals to Dave Morris who scored in each period.

It was a 1-1 game after one and 2-2 after two periods.

Andrew Roach (shorthanded goal), Craig Holmes (power play goal), Ryan Filion (power play goal), Stephen Henderson, Ryan Swerdfeger and Derik Gates netted the North Dundas markers. Rob Desormeaux (2), Wes McLeod, Gates and Ryan Filion all earned assists.

Alumni Brothers paste Jets

METCALFE—This year's edition of the Metcalfe Jr. "B" Jets were no match for the smooth-passing Alumni squad.

The 1993 Alumni Jets feature many of the brother combinations who have played for the club in the past.

Friday night's game started with the five Holmes brothers on the ice together and all five lined up for the opening face off as forwards.

Eldest brother Terry Holmes explained that all five had played as forwards and nobody wanted to play defence. It was finally decided the youngest brothers, Jeff and Peter should patrol the blueline.

The Carson family led the Alumni attack scoring five of the 10 goals with Dale and Bruce notching a pair. Carl scored a single.

Rick Downey converted two great passes from brother Kevin into goals.

Terry and Peter Holmes scored for their family, both on passes from brother Dean.

Darrell Warren slapped in a rebound to take care of the scoring.

Present Jets goalie Pat Viau tended nets for the old guys and Chris Land was in the Jets' net.

Former Jet Greg Holmes praised Viau for keeping his mates off the scoreboard.

Jets Alumni led 3-1 after a period and 7-1 after two.

Kevin Breton and Don Osbourn replied for the 93-94 Jets. Mark Dill, Kevin Regalbuto and Bruce Buckland drew the assists.

One of the original Jets, Brian Robinson, stated that the former Jets take the Alumni game seriously noting, "When we get together we like to show just how good our teams were back then. Our legs aren't what they used to be but most of us still have some hockey smarts. At our age we have to let the puck do the work for you."

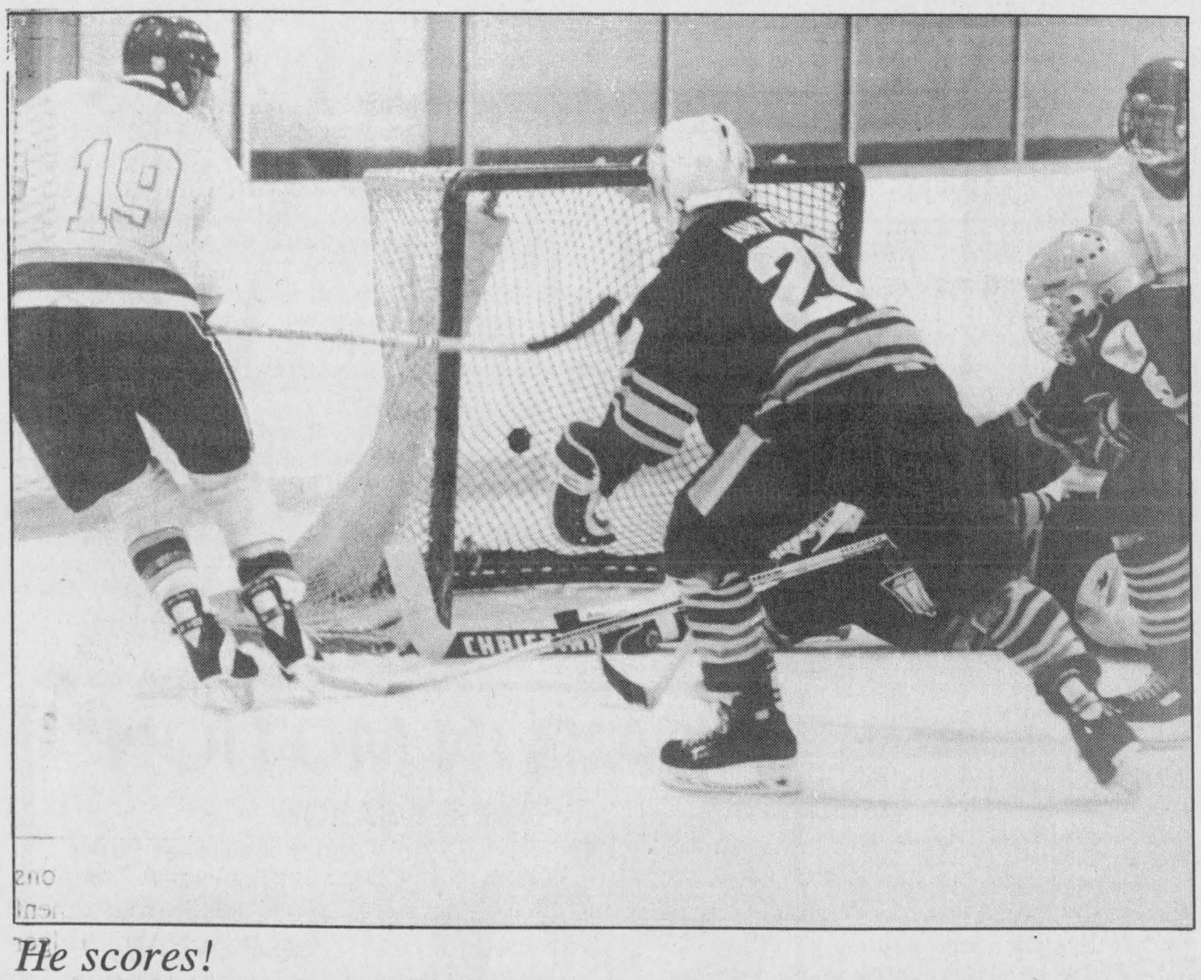
McEwan earns hat for Lions



He scores!

Lions' forward Andrew McEwan (#19) potted this goal at 13:51 of the third period of last Wednesday's Junior "B" match. Hawks' Joey Barresi and Jim Darragh couldn't prevent the goal. Morrisburg won the game by a 7-3 count.
Press Photo—Van Bridger

WINCHESTER—Overaged forward Andrew McEwan scored three times here last Wednesday night leading the St. Lawrence Division's second-place Morrisburg Lions to a 7-3 victory over the hometown Hawks.

Winchester's loss was a big one because it knocked them out of the EOJBHL's Boxing Day tournament in Brockville.

"We didn't put on a very good show," lamented Hawks' G.M. Bill Wammes following the game.

"We had to beat both Morrisburg and Alexandria to get into the tournament. We are definitely out now," he added.

Wammes' club did complete half of its mandate. Friday night in Alexandria the Hawks found their offensive stride and romped to a 9-4 win over the slumping Glens. That victory enabled the Hawks to hang on to sole possession of third place and open up a three-point gap between themselves and Alexandria.

This weekend Winchester will host the first-place Char-Lan Rebels here on Friday night (Dec. 17) and Sunday (Dec. 19) play the Lions in Morrisburg at 2:30pm.

LIONS 7 - HAWKS 3

Last Wednesday's match was scoreless after 20 minutes with Hawks' Dale Wilson and Lions' Dennis Villeneuve turning back all pressure.

Things opened up in period two as Morrisburg tied it up at 3-3 on Tim Casselman's goal.

Andrew McEwan netted his first goal at 16:52. Hawks' leading scorer, Kirk Tallman cameback and squared things up at 13:06 scoring from Joey Barresi and Pat Collins. John Hamel made it 2-1 Hawks when he cashed in a relay from Bruce Cameron and Clint Holmes at 11:19 but Morrisburg's Josh Gowsell tied it up at two scoring at 10:35.

Joey Barresi gave Winchester a 3-2 edge hitting on a feed from Dan Adams and Kirk Tallman at 9:51 but Tim Casselman's power play drive found net at 5:10 and it finished 3-3 after two periods.

Sean Hummell's low slap shot from the right point proved to be the winning goal and came at 15:30 of the third. Andrew McEwan cashed in a power play goal at 13:51 to make it 5-3. Jeff Hyndman opened up a 6-3 on a flashy individual effort at the 9:41 mark and it was a 6-3 contest.

Winchester had a golden opportunity to close the gap when Lions' Pete Feletar took a five minute major with 4:24 left on the clock. But they couldn't convert.

Andrew McEwan iced the 7-3 win for the Lions when he stole the puck at center ice and beat Wilson on a nifty one-on-one break with 0:20 left in the game.

The Lions-Hawks series is now even at 2-2. Morrisburg has outscored the Hawks 19-18.

HAWKS 9 - GLENS 4

Winchester squared their series at two games each beating the stumbling Glens 9-4 Friday night in Alexandria.

Hawks led it 3-1 after a period on goals by Kirk Tallman (power play), rookie Rob Raistrick and rookie Brendan Bumbaco.

Mike Jeaurond replied for the Glens.

Winchester outscored their hosts in period two as Tallman scored his second and defenceman Dereck Holmes who scored on a power play at 8:34 and unassisted at 0:01.

The teams split three goals in the final frame as it wound up 9-4 in the Hawks' favor.

Derek Brannan scored at 12:07. Tallman completed his hat trick at 9:06 and Mike McCabe completed the scoring at the 5:07 mark.

Pascal Joanette with a pair and Dennis Dodd notched the Glens' final three goals.

Dereck Holmes (2), Joey Barresi (2), Bruce Cameron, Pat Rouleau, Tallman, newcomer Cliff Schultz, Rob Raistrick, Phillip Brisebois, Mike McCabe, Jason Desormeaux and Pat Collins all drew assists for Winchester.

Knights, Devils hot

CHESTERVILLE—Dan Moriarty scored the winning goal with 0:14 left in the game to keep the Black Knights' winning streak intact.

The Moriarty goal was engineered by Mark Smith and Kent Young 0:14 before the end of last Wednesday's game and gave the Black team a 3-2 win over the Green Machine. The win was the third straight for the Knights after a run of six consecutive losses.

Jim Hume was the winning goalie. John Guy and Tony Fraser scored the other Knights' goals early in the second half. Mark Smith (2), Kent Young (2), Chris Guy and Moriarty picked up the assists.

It was a 0-0 game at the half. Black went up 2-0 and Green tied it up when Daryl Robinson scored from Pat Kelly and Aaron Sherrer at 8:10 and Barry McShane connected at 7:25 on a feed from Pat Kelly.

The Knights defeated the Red Devils 5-3, the White Lites 3-0 and the Green Machine 3-2 in their last three outings to move back into contention.

In the other half of the Dec. 8 twin bill, the Red Devils made it two in a row when they turned out the White Lites 7-3.

CTHL scoring leader Darrell Shelp led the Devils to their win scoring four times. He scored the natural hat trick in the first half clicking on the red light at 12:25, 9:08 and 8:25. Shelp has piled up 11 points, including seven goals, in his last two games.

John Lumies added two goals and B.J. Fawcett chipped in a goal and one assist. Kevin Byers (2), Rob Broderick and Ken Byers picked up the assists. Pat Brugmans posted the win.

Greg Sullivan, Dennis Ouellette and Jerrold Boulanger replied for the White team. Don Marcellus (3), Kevin Moore and Doug Sherriffs set up the goals.

The standings after nine games show Green Machine (5-3-1) with 11 points, Red Devils (4-3-2) with 10, White Lites (4-4-1) with eight and the Black Knights (3-6-0) with six.

Notice to all Roman Catholic School Supporters

Further to Ministry of Education decisions that have had the effect of reducing the level of provincial support and in keeping with the Stormont, Dundas & Glengarry Catholic School Board's continuing efforts to decrease operating costs in order to direct more resources to school-related purposes as a result of decreasing provincial support, the following Plan has been approved:

SKATE WITH BARNIE THIS SUNDAY

Old Santa has been coming to the arena for the last couple of weekends to visit his many little friends. However, he had to rest to get ready for his big trip next weekend and he sent word with his friend Mrs. Edwardson at Clara's that he would be sending his friend Barnie to represent him at the special Christmas Skating Party this Sunday from 2pm 'til 3:30pm. He will be arriving with his pal Dan Lecours who will see that he finds his way around the arena. When Steve Barkley of J & S Disco heard about the party he offered to play some special music. Well of course the council went along and made the afternoon free for all and the arena staff said they would find some candy canes to hand out. All we need, with so many people once again volunteering everything to make this a super fantastic wing-ding, is for all of Barnie's little friends to drop in for a "Great big kiss and a hug" from their friend Barnie.

WE ARE LOOKING FOR SOMEONE WITH TWO LEFT FEET

If you were at the arena for the family skate last Sun., Dec. 5 and have been having trouble skating ever since may we suggest you check your skates, especially if you wear a boy's size 5. Andy Wesley ended up with two right skates his own CCM Tack 152 and a Bauer Charger both for the right foot so someone has two mismatched skates for the left foot in their possesion. If you think you wear size 5 and you have a set of Bauer Chargers, please check as you may have the missing Tack. Call Andy at 774-3257 or give us a call at the arena. Andy's hockey is suffering.

HAWKS AND CHAR-LAN HERE THIS FRIDAY

Hawks dropped that big one at home last Wednesday night but held on to their third place standing by dropping the Alexandria Glens on their ice on Friday. As we go to Press, standings are not available but Char-Lan are still in first and will be here this Friday night. Morrisburg have a solid wrap on second and the Hawks play them in Morrisburg on Sunday so another big weekend ahead. There will be a dance sponsored by the Capitals Oldtimer team in the upstairs hall.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY MAW

Fifty years ago this month my father opened Morgan's Men's Wear in Winchester and from that day and for many years that followed my second home was 'The Royal Lunch' owned and operated 20 hours a day by Al and Mona MacIntosh. It was the gathering place for not only the teen crowd but everyone in town. We danced and sang, drank Coke and gobbled up 'Maw's' delicious food from early morning 'til the wee small hours when we grudgingly went to our own homes long enough to catch a few winks, wash up a bit and dawn new duds before hurrying back to the action of the busy little cafe. How they did it I will never know but Al and Maw were always there to keep us on the straight and narrow, lend us money and keep us well fed and entertained. Many came to the door with empty pockets but always left with a full belly and a few found bucks from these humble simple friends we all loved so much. Oh how I remember those one-half-inch slices of warm ham fresh from the pot and smothered in homemade hot mustard and Maw's homemade banana cream pie. Al is gone but Maw will celebrate her 90th birthday this week with her family and many friends at Dundas Manor. Happy Birthday Maw from one of your little boys who will never forget your love and kindness that you shared with us all in those happy days of our youth. May you have a Merry Christmas and all the good things in the years to come that you so rightfully earned. You will always be a glowing light in the hearts of the many of us who loved you.

JUST 3 MORE SLEEPS 'TIL SAMMIE COMES.

Robinson ices win for Flyers

METCALFE—Shayne Patterson set him up and Moe Robinson pulled the trigger on the winning goal here Sunday morning.

Robinson's shot beat goalie Mitch Lavergne 9:19 before the end of the game and gave the 31 Esso Flyers a 4-3 victory over the B.C. Aluminum Kings.

In the other two Metcalfe Town Hockey League contests the Daryl Ross Realty North Stars out shone the Hicks Insurance Sharks 6-1 and the Carleton Mushroom Leafs doubled the Dewan's Painting Red Wings 4-2.

The B.C. Aluminum Kings led the 31 Esso Flyers 3-2 at the half on the strength of Don Honey's three- goal effort. Honey's third, assisted by goalie Mitch Levergne 1:50 before the break, was a shorthanded effort and made it 3-2.

But Honey's efforts weren't enough to carry the Kings to victory. Wayne Widenmaier slammed the door and backed the Flyers as they rallied for the win.

Shayne Patterson led the winners with two goals and one assist. Steve McIntosh added a goal and one helper. Moe Robinson scored the winner. Steve Brown, George Nesbitt, Gaeten Forgues and Rudy Grisel picked up assists.

STARS 6 - SHARKS 1

Bill Jamieson missed the shutout by a goal as the Ross Realty Stars beat the Sharks 6-1.

Mike Doyle scored twice while Dave Vanderydt, Fred Young, Steve Whitteker and Ray Vanbregt added the other goals. Jeff Raven (2), Jim Brown (2), Ken Quaile and Erin Franey assisted on the Stars' goals.

McVey netted the winning goal getting help from goalie Brian Kerfoot at 19:21 of the second half.

The Leafs led 2-0 at the half and were enjoying a 4-0 lead when Eddie Charotto and Bob Wills snapped in back-to-back goals to make it a 4-2 final.

Bob Kemp, Charotto, Bill Robinson and Bob Martin helped out on the Wings' goals.

Jim Kerfoot and Barry Kerfoot scored the first- half Leaf goals. Carson McVey and Mike Gebara added the others. Jeff Stanley (2), Brian Kerfoot, McVey and Jim Kerfoot earned assists.

Currie perfect for Demons

WINCHESTER—Chris Currie earned high praise from coach Tom Mellean following his effort in the nets against the Smiths Falls Bears here last Thursday.

Currie was perfect as North Dundas improved their UCMHL Senior Novice record to 8-3-0 with a 4-0 victory.

"Chris played just a super game. He was amazing," the coach said.

Currie was solid again on Saturday as the Demons battled the NGS Braves to a 1-1 draw.

North Dundas took a 1-0 lead at 7:10 of the first period when Eric Toonders snapped home a Matthew Baker relay. NGS tied it up at one at 2:20 of the second frame on Pierre Lacomb's unassisted goal.

Currie and Braves' Luc Lajeunese were unbeatable in the third period.

North Dundas dominated the first period taking a 2-0 lead.

Bruce Hamelin connected from Fady Mahfouz and Terry Morrow at 6:34 to make it 1-0. Mike Thompson upped the lead to 2-0 scoring on a feed from Kyle Stewart at 6:16.

Chris Kelly made it 3-0 on an unassisted play with 3:38 left in period two.

Kelly increased the margin of victory to 4-0 when he tapped in a Mike Thompson pass at 4:11 of period three.

Shortt solid in net for AA Kings

PRESCOTT—Winchester's Tyler Shortt came within one goal of playing a perfect game on Saturday.

The Rideau St. Lawrence Major "AA" Atom Kings pounded the Gatineau Ambassadors 6-1 in that match thanks in part to Shortt's goaltending and the solid defensive work of Jon Chambers (Chesterville) and Nick Hall (Dunbar).

Both Chambers and Hall assisted on two goals each. While Josh Graveline (2), James Thomas (2), Daniel Board and Adam O'Meara netted the goals.

The following day the Kings blanked the Cumberland Barons 5-0 to improve their ODMHA record to 12-5- 1.

Philip Knapp (2), Dan Board, Ryan Carty and Steve Brown pegged the Kings goals.

Send us your Letters to Santa

Word has it Santa Claus is a lonely fellow these days. His mailbag isn't filling up as quickly as it usually does. So the Winchester Press has decided to surprise him. We have a big box and we want to fill it up with messages from many children. Then, with the help of Winchester Press, we'll get the letters to our jolly friend.

We'd like to publish some of the letters, too. The words of a child can make everyone smile. Tell Santa what you like best about Christmas. We understand he would really like to hear what you want for others and not just for yourself. Do you have a special Christmas wish for the world?

Send your letters to Santa, c/o Winchester Press, 545 St. Lawrence Street, P.O. Box 399, Winchester, Ontario, K0C 2K0.

Little goal – big win

WINCHESTER—Coach Marty Little called Sunday's 2-1 win over the CountryGirl Kings a close shave.

"It was a close game. They (Kings) played well. It could have gone either way," Little said.

Debbie Henderson put the league leading Annable's Jewellery Blues up 1-0 scoring on a play created by Chris Rowe and Dianne Lapier at 16:34 of the first half.

It went to 2-0 at 15:52 of the second half when Cathy Little scored what would prove to be the winning goal. Janet Corrie and Tara Berry engineered the play.

CountryGirl couldn't fool Blues' goalie Jackie Boulanger until the final minute of play. Tammy Cinnamon ruined the shutout bid when she knocked in a relay from Heather Erwin and Kim Moran with 0:01 left on the clock.

In Monday night's game the second-place Sports Unlimited Reds stayed within two points of the Winchester and District Ladies Hockey League - leading Annable's Jewellery Blues.

Carolyn Herfkens' unassisted goal at 14:02 of the first half was the only scoring Double Beauty did against Reds' goalie Sherri Stewart.

The Reds tied it up 2:40 before the intermission when Nancy McDiarmid finished off a play started by Cathy Guy and Brenda Toonders.

Cathy Guy broke the tie scoring from Toonders and McDiarmid at 17:45 of the second half.

McDiarmid's second goal of the game and 14th of the year made it a 3-1 final. Cathy Guy and Terri Boyd assisted on the play at the 10:00 mark.

Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

Kings at 500

SPENCERVILLE—The Rideau St. Lawrence Minor "AA" Atom Kings improved their record to 9-9-0 posting a 4-3 win over Kanata here on Saturday.

Matt Fraser scored twice while Marty Welch and Cole Spicer found the target once. Winchester's Shawn Smail drew two assists for the Kings.

The Kings have now won five of their last six ODMHA league games.

Cents split two

WINCHESTER—Bob Peddle scored a pair of goals helping the Winchester Centennials to a 7-4 old-timer hockey victory over the Oxford Millers here last Thursday.

Pete Filion, Keith Moore, Reg Hyndman, Doug Coleman and Dave Coleman scored the others. Skinny "Whoops" Moore earned the "Mario".

Last week the Cents dropped a 4-2 decision in Spencerville. Dan Lecours and Doug Coleman netted the Cents' goals. Dave "One Year Contract" Coleman picked up the "Mario".
