Study says community centre 'financially feasible'

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - A Nepean consulting firm has recommended Chesterville go ahead with the construction of a multi-purpose community centre costing between $750,000 and $850,000.

In a 52-page final report completing a six-month, $9,500 feasibility study, Sesquaig Inc. says public opinion and limitations with the village's five existing halls and centres convinced the firm to recommend construction of a new building beside the arena.

Despite the cost, including a projected first year operating deficit of $9,000 to $16,000, the firm concludes that the project is "financially feasible" with 50 per cent government funding and a fundraising program to raise another 25 per cent, or roughly $200,000, of the total cost.

The proposed 11,000 square foot, single storey building, with a suggested location in front of the firehall by the arena, would include kitchen and bar facilities, a meeting room, space for the village library and agricultural society, twin halls with a removable divider with combined capacity for 500 people and parking for 175 vehicles.

Sesquaig based the interior design of the building on a needs survey it conducted by mail in the village last fall. The response, with more than half (51 per cent) in favor of a new community centre, listed dances and social gatherings as one of their most frequent activities during the year.

The new hall would more than double the capacity of the village's largest existing hall, the second floor of the municipal building, which, users have complained, lacks sufficient space, parking and access for the handicapped and elderly.

Although the report includes a timetable suggesting construction start in early 1988, Chesterville Recreation Director Dave Arnold said Monday the report is only a starting point for discussion and not an agenda.

"The thing to stress is that this is a study and that there are still a lot of loose ends," said Mr. Arnold. "It's just an investigation. Nobody is trying to push anything by anybody."

Mr. Arnold, a member of a five-man committee that has been studying the pros and cons of a new centre for more than a year, said the study was necessary to deal with on-going complaints about the current hall.

"When you look at that $850,000 figure it knocks you on your end. But if the village can get the grants and can put together a fundraising package then the remaining 25 per cent looks a little more manageable.

"Obviously this is no small project and there are still a lot of tough questions to answer. It'll be up to the people. If the people are really behind it and want it and we can get through the steps, I think they can make it work."

Even if the village cannot get the grants or falls short in fundraising, Mr. Arnold said the report will not have been a waste of time.

"This is something that has to be gone through if we ever do decide to take this step and we're a step ahead now with a feasibility study under our belts," he said.

The report is currently before council and a decision of how to proceed with the results of the study is expected in May.

The public will have a chance to go over the report in detail at a public meeting in the community hall on March 25. The meeting starts at 8pm.

Newsbriefs

County tax hike

CORNWALL (Staff) - Taxpayers in the United Counties area will be hit with a tax hike this year.

Speaking last week administrator Raymond Lapointe said a "modest increase" over last year could be expected.

The budget for 1985 was $13.7 million. This year's edition will involve two entire days of debate and councillors decide how much they have to increase the rates for 1986.

However, much preliminary discussion has already taken place and Warden Ralph MacKenzie said the administration is now working out the percentage each municipality will have to contribute to the pot.

There are 20 municipalities involved and they were levied $2.5 million last year between them. But information of this year's percentages will not be available until the end of this month. As well, provincial subsidies are expected to ease the tax burden but information in that area is also unavailable.

Info meeting

FINCH (Staff) - Stormont and Dundas landowners along a proposed 500 kilovolt transmission line will have a chance to learn April 1 how to protect their interests in negotiations with Ontario Hydro. The Stormont Federation of Agriculture will invite property owners in Finch, Osnabruck, Cornwall and Winchester townships to an information meeting to discuss compensation, landowners' rights and responsibilities, and Hydro's right-of-way. Finch lawyer Cindy Martin-Hrycak and a member of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture properties committee will address the meeting at 8pm at the Finch Community Hall.

Milk makes it

FINCH (Staff) - Want to know how useful milk is for nutrition? Finch 4-H clubs one and two will be holding a party in the Finch Community Hall at 1pm Saturday March 22. Visitors will be served dishes learned by club members at meetings. Tea and coffee will also be provided.

Weed loss

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - A robbery at the recreation centre here last Wednesday resulted in the loss of cigarettes. Thieves entered the building through an unlocked door and then broke into the main part of the structure through the kitchen. No suspects have been turned up.

Groceries gone

NEWINGTON (Staff) - Duff's Grocery Store was struck by a thief last week, who made off with groceries and 50 cartons of cigarettes valued at $1,500. The break-in was reported to police Wednesday morning. The thief or thieves entered the store after breaking a plate glass window. Constable Charles McDonald of the Long Sault OPP detachment is investigating. Police have no suspects yet.

Elected

CORNWALL (Staff) - Dundas school trustee Susan Adams has been elected to chair the county school board's Special Education Advisory Committee. Mrs. Adams has indicated there will be several procedural changes for committee meetings including an increase in representation by ratepayers (one each for English and French speaking groups) and a Mohawk representative. As well the local group will act as host for the provincial conference for Special Education Advisory Committees later in the year.

Report recommends upgrading wells and septic systems in Avonmore village

by Alvah Hanrahan
Record News Editor

A report on the water supply in Avonmore, begun in 1982, was released at a public meeting in the village Monday night.

Speaking for the Ottawa engineering firm A.J. Graham, Brian Boyd told members of the public at the open meeting his report recommended upgrading the existing wells and septic systems in the village rather than opting for a communal water system.

"A communal system for the hamlet was not considered (in the report)," he said, "as it would set the village back in excess of $1 million."

What the firm has advised instead is a systematic upgrading of existing facilities including the drilling of new wells where needed and the sealing of old dug wells to avoid contamination from the surface.

Well upgrading in Avonmore has been estimated at $276,000 for all the households combined and improving the septic systems would cost about $150,000 for the village lots. To cover these costs the Ontario government will provide 85 per cent with the individual householders paying the remaining 15 per cent.

A total 106 wells in the village were judged to be substandard while only 19 were rated satisfactory. Two lots have no wells at all.

Recommendations regarding the wells involve improving 45 new wells, installing 23 water softeners and 27 iron filters, drilling five new wells and sealing five old wells. The total is $276,000.

As far as individual septic systems are concerned the report states there are no systems in the village without health hazards. There are 36 substandard systems and three lots with no services at all. Operating adequately are 72 lots with no evident pollution.

During the course of the meeting householders were able to consult the report to discover the state of their property and discuss solutions with the company engineers present. There are very few copies in existence but property owners can go to the town office to inspect the findings of the report and then decide what choice to make.

Mr. Boyd told the meeting the upgrading is purely voluntary but the provincial government sweetens the pill by paying a full 85 per cent of the cost. Receipts must be kept and brought to the clerk's office after the work has been done. The money will be available from the clerk's office for rebates to be given on the spot.

However, before this can be done council must first approve the report and other channels must be approached through the Ministry of the Environment before the program comes into effect. Mr. Boyd indicated there would be no problem in obtaining the money for the village project. Reeve John McIntyre said in an interview after the meeting "I think council will look favorable on it (the report)."

Although an application for funding may soon be forwarded to the government no one is predicting just when the project can be commenced. The study has been underway since 1982 and the initial project was started in 1981.

Someone in the audience, noted, too, that because the program was voluntary there may be some persons who will decline to participate, threatening other householders' wells with pollution. The engineers emphasized the need for everyone to participate and to seal up old wells completely so that contaminants, including the run-off from agricultural enterprises would not seep into the underground aquifer beneath Avonmore.

The engineers determined there are two aquifers under the village, one above bedrock and one below. There is not sufficient water, though, to supply a communal system even if the price were not prohibitive.

Sample prices for the work in question were discussed with the average cost for drilling a new well and sealing an old one at about $4000. With the 85 per cent rebate the cost to the individual would be about $600. For a septic system the average lot would need roughly $2500 worth of work done. The rebate would bring the amount to $375.

The engineers warned the audience 20 wells should be sealed before the grant money is given to the village because they endanger the village's water supply.

Ault's charged with polluting

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Ault Foods Ltd. of Winchester and two employees have been charged under the Ontario Water Resources Act with polluting the East Castor River.

The company, plant manager Cecil Simpson and waste treatment plant manager Gary Munro were charged in mid-January with unlawfully allowing waste water from the plant to flow into the Annable Drain. The drain connects with the East Castor River.

Ault Foods Ltd. was also charged with failure to notify the Ministry of Environment of the alleged discharge.

In an appearance in Winchester provincial court Jan. 24 the company indicated it would be pleading not guilty to the charges.

A trial has been set for June 12 in Winchester provincial court.

Dave Kerr, regional supervisor of the Ministry of Environment's Investigations and Enforcement Branch, said the charges were laid following an investigation of complaints made by local residents.

Mr. Kerr said the investigation was not connected with the Feb. 13 Environment Assessment Board hearing on the company's plans to upgrade its waste water treatment plant.

Officials for Ault Foods Ltd. were unavailable for comment on the charges.

Counties urged to sponsor centre for battered women

by Diane Johnston
Record News Staff

The United Counties may decide March 31 if its social services department will administer funds for a resource centre in Winchester to aid victims of family violence.

At a meeting last week, counties council referred the issue to the social services department to study the cost and possible legal consequences of administering the $225,000 in operational and capital funding for the centre.

But Erva Durant, chairperson of a steering committee seeking to establish the centre, feared the delay of even a positive decision would endanger the commitment of funds for the centre this year.

She said the government's fiscal year ends March 31. "When the new year begins, God knows what will happen," she said Monday. "Right now, we are trying to convince the ministry (of community and social services) in Queen's Park to put a hold on that money."

Although administering the money may require more staffing, she said the counties shouldn't weigh the financial cost against human suffering resulting from family violence.

She said the stories of family abuse would convince the counties of the need for the centre.

"They (the stories) would tear your heart right out of your body. Maybe that's what our opposing forces should hear. But you know, the victims don't want to go public. They can't go public."

But the Ministry of Community and Social Services is confident the issue will be resolved in the next two weeks.

"The centre isn't going to fall through," said Mark Charron, the program supervisor with the ministry's Ottawa office in charge of the project.

"The approvals have been there all along from the ministry. The question is, who are we going to agree with," he said.

He said the counties are now investigating their legal responsibilities if they

Green light for housing

AVONMORE (Staff) - Approval for a $1 million non-profit housing project for the village of Avonmore have been approved. To be funded by the provincial and federal governments the complex will comprise 25 units.

The project was first planned in 1984 and a committee was formed to start the ball rolling.

"We're pretty pleased in the township," said Roxborough reeve John McIntyre who received word of the project's approval last week.

"I think it'll help our community. As homes become available new people will be attracted to the community and the old ones will be accommodated."

The next step in the project is the approval of the architect's drawings by the Ontario housing ministry.

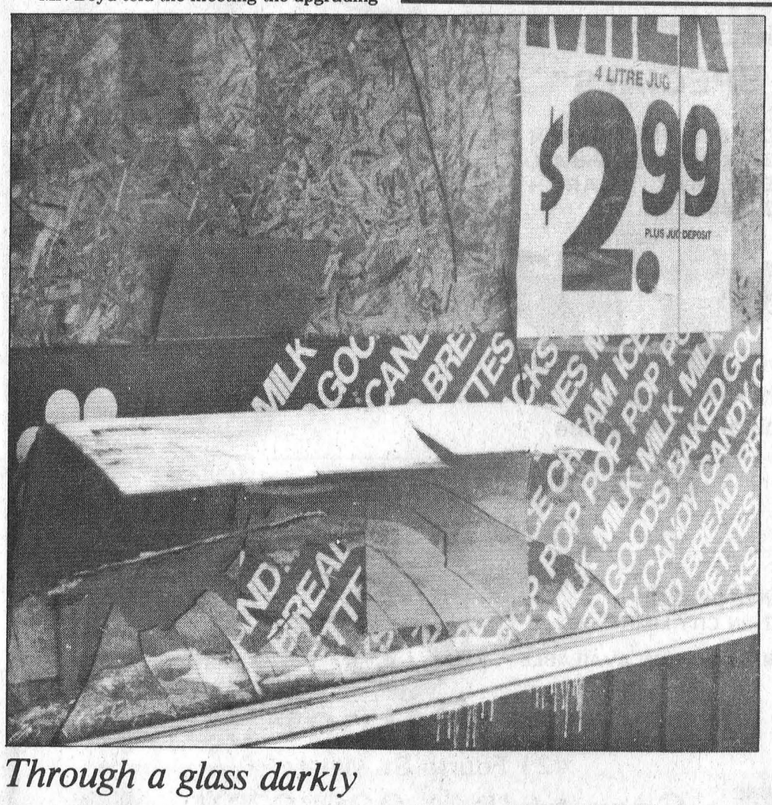
"We hope to get to construction in 1986," said Mr. McIntyre.

The housing ministry awarded allocations throughout the province on the basis of demonstrated need and the probability of beginning construction in 1986. A study was conducted last year in the village to determine the need for such a project.

The new program, administered by Ontario Housing Corporation, permits municipal non-profit, private non-profit and co-operative non-profit groups to build housing for people with low to moderate incomes. The method of project selection is part of a joint planning process entered into by the two governments to ensure that their respective social housing objectives are met.

The governments of Canada and Ontario will be cost-sharing units directed to households in core need. The federal government will cover 60 per cent of the costs, while Ontario's share will be 40 per cent. Rents will be based on household incomes.

The Government of Ontario will fully fund any market units in a project, with market rents to be based initially on rents in comparable accommodation in the community.



Through a glass darkly

Chesterville's Becker's outlet was the loser in a sidewalk scuffle which resulted in an unidentified female landing in the store the hard way -- through the window last week. The plate glass window was replaced by the store's franchiser and no charges were laid by police. Restitution will be made by one of the persons involved in the mishap. No names were released by police. Brian Martin, contract manager of the outlet said, "it was a silly thing, really," but added no one was injured in the accident.

2 fined for poaching deer out of season

WINCHESTER (Staff) - A Burritt's Rapids Correctional Centre inmate and a Hallville area man were fined here in provincial court last Friday for possession of a whitetailed deer killed out of season.

Gerald Chamberlain, 43, was fined $1000 while Clair Kerr 40, received a $500 fine. The charges were brought last December 18 by conservation officers of the Cornwall office of the Ministry of Natural Resources. Other charges were dropped by the crown. Both men pleaded guilty to the offense against the Game and Fish Act of Ontario.

The violation was brought to the attention of the Ministry officials last December when Long Sault OPP informed conservation officer John Downey part of a deer's carcass was found in a vehicle driven by Mr. Chamberlain. The other half of the same carcass was later located in the home of Mr. Kerr.

Forensic tests at Guelph showed the two halves were the same whitetailed deer. The season for killing deer ended December 10.

Justice of the Peace Gordon McGregor said Mr. Chamberlain received a stiffer fine because he had a similar conviction in New Brunswick. The maximum fine under the provisions of the act is $5000.

"The act is to prevent them (deer) being slaughtered as this one was," said Mr. McGregor.

OMMB retirement

Russell Bennett, left, past president of the Grenville milk committee, presents Kemptville area farmer Dwight Bennett with a painting at a banquet Saturday in honor of his retirement as the region's representative on the Ontario Milk Marketing Board. Reflecting on his eight years representing the counties of Dundas, Grenville, Leeds and Frontenac, Mr. Bennett said the evolvement of the provincial exchange was a highlight of his term. He was also involved in the merger of the provincial and federal milk recording programs under the Ontario Dairy Herd Improvement Corporation last summer. "Supply management of the dairy industry really became very professionalized and producers were watching surpluses closely," he recalled. But he said he will now leave the running of the provincial organization to the next generation while he continues to farm with his son.

Counties may administer centre funds administer the funds. The steering committee also must decide on a location to purchase or build a suitable home.

"But I'm very confident that it will be worked out before the end of March," he said.

He said the government is committed to the project since a study of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry last year indicated the need for services to help battered women and provide counselling. The ministry has since provided money for a community worker and the steering committee.

Since last week's meeting, he said talks among the ministry, the counties and the steering committee have been promising and final details are being worked out.

Although Ms. Durant said the village of Winchester would be willing to administer the funds, Mr. Charron said, "That would just confuse things."

Right now, he said, the counties pay a share of hostel rates for women seeking shelter. He wanted the pattern of involvement to be consistent.

"We don't want the picture to become more complicated by adding another body," he said.

In a second suggestion to solve the administration dilemma, the resource centre board of directors could be registered as a charitable institution and administer its own funds.

But Mr. Charron said the ministry wants the local government to commit itself to the concept of a resource centre.

But Ms. Durant is confident the resource centre will one day be realized.

Muster planned for Long Sault

LONG SAULT (Staff) - A major event will be held here this summer when the First International Muster takes place July 12.

To be hosted by Long Sault and St. Andrews volunteer fire departments, the event will draw about a dozen fire departments from neighboring municipalities.

Charles Robert, representing Long Sault fire department, said last week a parade will be held at the Long Sault arena and a three-day long celebration will be organized.

A display of antique fire vehicles will be featured. As well a number of competitions will be held. About 50 rigs will participate in the parade to be led by parade marshall John Cleary, reeve of Cornwall township.

SD&G services directory available

(Special) - The first bilingual edition of the SD&G Directory of Community Services and Resources is now available. It is a handy reference guide for anyone who wants to know where to turn for information on daycare, types of French schooling, adult education, drug and alcohol addiction, services for the mentally retarded, nursing homes, crime prevention programs, legal and victims services, senior citizens' clubs, womens organizations, ethnic groups and many other services and resources.

The directory lists approximately 400 community organizations and-or programs in the fields of education, employment, health, housing law, social services, welfare services, sports, recreation, special interest organizations and information.

Each listing includes the address, phone number, person to contact and a brief description of the services and-or objectives of each organization-program. As well as a table of contents, the directory includes both alphabetical and subject indexes.

Copies of the directory are $10.00 ($12.00 mailed). They may be picked up, or ordered from, the Cornwall Information Centre, 132 Second Street, P.O. Box 338, Cornwall, K6H 5T1 (938-0293). For S.D.&G. residents outside the City of Cornwall, copies of the Directory may be seen, and order forms are available, at all S.D.&G. County libraries (Alexandria, Avonmore, Brinston, Chesterville, Crysler, Dalkeith, Finch, Ingleside, Lancaster, Long Sault, Maxville, Moose Creek, Morrisburg, Newington, St. Andrews, South Mountain, Williamsburg, Williamstown, Winchester).

The directory is a project of the Stormont Inter-Agency Association, which is a non-profit organization. It has been produced voluntarily and without funding, and proceeds from its sale will be used to cover printing costs.

Give a student that first big break.

Give them a summer job.

Every summer, students provide a wealth of talent, knowledge and ingenuity that every employer can tap. As an employer, you will benefit from the energy and enthusiasm students bring to their summer jobs. The students in turn will gain the experience so valuable to entering the working world.

Of course students are willing to do just about any sort of work available, but ideally, they would like to find employment related to their field of study. This would help ease the transition from school to work, and help eliminate the "no experience/no job" bias that they may face when seeking full time employment. Hiring students makes good business sense. For every type of job you can offer, there's a student more than willing to work.

Hospital trying to cope with 4 per cent increase

WINCHESTER (Staff) - With only a four per cent increase in the health ministry's grants to Winchester District Memorial Hospital for 1986-87 the hospital is having trouble making both ends meet.

It has an operational deficit of $247,403 for the period ending January 31, 1986. This figure is computed before building depreciation which is $131,603 higher than budgeted for.

The major part of the deficit is accounted for by higher costs of laboratory referrals and higher staffing costs, especially in the nursing department. The latter situation is aggravated by the large number of elderly patients in the active treatment wards, requiring a higher staffing ratio than in previous years, according to a hospital spokesman. As well, the hospital has been faced by several major maintenance projects including the replacement of the cafeteria floor, repair to the incinerator and installation of the central nitrous oxide systems in the operating rooms.

The board of directors was informed last week all necessary steps had been taken in the budget appeal process being lodged with the provincial health ministry to increase the monies allotted to WDMH. The hospital has also approached Noble Villeneuve, MPP, as well as the premier of Ontario in an effort to petition for more funds.

However, on the asset side there is available to hospital planners a total $205,000. Of this amount $65,000 is accounted for by capital investments. Other investments total $115,000 and estimated additional donations to March 31, 1986 total $25,000.

But the hospital still has to pay for a lengthy list of equipment. This includes the balance of regular equipment for $13,500 and the balance of the ultrasound unit at $105,500.

Hospital administrator Bert Stel noted that "the hospital will still have $65,000 invested at the end of the 1985-86 fiscal year is a good indication of the success of the fundraising efforts."

Veal producer would welcome free trade

CORNWALL (Staff) - For Victor Wagemans, breaking into the American market successfully is a satisfying challenge.

Speaking to about 100 delegates to the Ontario Institute of Agrologists annual conference Friday afternoon, the president of Mutual Products said the Morrisburg firm would welcome free trade.

"The market in the states is always stronger, always larger," he said. "It's always more demanding. That's the market you should aim for because if you can please them, you can sell anywhere."

Mutual Products manufactures milk replacer products researches calf nutrition and raises white veal calves. Mr. Wagemans is also a partner in a veal farm.

Victor Wagemans

White veal, also known as fancy veal or nature-fed veal, is the meat of calves fed only milk or milk replacer.

The market for veal in North American is limited. Citing Statistics Canada figure, Mr. Wagemans said per capita consumption of veal in Canada and the US is only 1.5 kilograms.

He said purchasers are usually only restaurants and smaller grocery stores catering to a young, up-scale clientele who take pride in cooking out-of-the-ordinary dishes.

The supply of suitable calves is similarly limited. He said the European Economic Community estimates the white veal industry accounts for 90 per cent of all available surplus dairy herd replacement calves.

"We don't need supply management," he said. "It's already there."

The key to his firm's success has been identifying a particular market. "You need to find that particular outlet that is interested in selling white veal in what is essentially a very specialized market, he said.

"You really have to try to please that market because if you don't, you don't have many alternatives."

He said veal producers are usually dependent on small, one-or two-owner operations to pack and transport their product. Large companies sometimes create small units to handle specialized products but he said they are rare.

Veal, he said, is an expensive commodity to produce. When the price of purchasing a calf, feed and medication is totalled, he said the average calf, feed and medication is totalled, he said the average calf costs $406 to produce.

But the lower value of the Canadian dollar is making veal sales to the US more profitable.

On a recent shipment of 119 calves to the US, Mr. Wagemans most sold for the top American price of $1.71 per pound at carcass weight. The average price per pound was $1.69.

Given the lower Canadian dollar, Mr. Wagemans said the calves brought roughly $36 more than if they had been sold in Canada.

When asked if he would still make a profit if free trade heralded in increase in the dollar's value, his answer was an emphatic "yes."

He said lower costs of production would offset a decreased dollar return.

"I'll compete with them (the Americans) tomorrow anything we do."

The US white veal industry has a 20-year head start on its Canadian counterpart. In the mid-1960s, he said, surplus skim milk powder was first made available to feedlot owners at cut-rate prices.

"We in Canada did not start doing that until three years ago. Therefore, our white veal development is much younger," he said.

He said Canadian dairy farmers are reaping double benefits from the white veal industry.

Not only do veal producers buy dairy calves, Mr. Wagemans noted they purchase surplus skim milk powder at a higher price than it would fetch on the world market.

Link exports to market: Ault Foods

CORNWALL (Staff) - Supplying a product that serves the specific needs of a particular market has been the key to Ault Foods' success in international trade.

"Ault has never taken a shotgun approach to the international marketplace," Ault Foods director of international sales Lyle Shrigley told about 100 delegates to the Ontario Institute of Agrologists annual conference here Friday afternoon.

"International sales are too arduous and costly to complete to try to sell all products to all users in all foreign markets.

"We are very selective in our international markets, attempting to provide value-added products rather than basic commodities, finished goods rather than raw materials, products tailor-made to meet the needs and specifications of our international customers."

He said the company has been involved in exporting almost since its founding in 1891. But it wasn't until 16 years ago that greater emphasis was placed on international selling.

"Canada's limited population and vast land mass coupled with provincial regulations prohibiting transport of some milk products made large scale national distribution uneconomical," he said.

"Our company's growth and success was to be achieved to some extent by the international selling of our products to foreign consuming nations.

Today, Ault exports cheddar and specialty cheeses, infant formula, dairy blends, butter, skim milk powder, whey powder and demineralized whey powder to more than 30 countries. Major markets are the United Kingdom, United States, Chile, Japan, Thailand, Taiwan, El Salvador, Egypt, the Netherlands and Korea.

He said Ault's strength has been the development of specially blended or manufactured dairy products which cannot be easily duplicated.

"Progress is slower using our approach but the market and customers last longer. We attempt to develop a relationship with our customers through high quality and service which never allows our competition an opportunity to get a foot-hold."

He noted Ault has been one of the few regular suppliers of cheddar to the UK since 1940 and major importers continue to pay a premium price for it today.

He described such a sales record in the UK, the birthplace of cheddar, as "almost like taking coal to Newcastle."

He said a "hands-on" approach is essential to success in the international marketplace.

Visiting potential markets also alerts the company to differences in culture and business practices which may affect a sale.

As an example he cited the Japanese, who attach great importance to courtesy and formality and are very reluctant to say no. This latter trait can make business discussions very "frustrating".

Each customer is visited at least once a year. "Slowly, a traditional, loyal customer develops -- a simple yet successful formula," he said.

HOW TO HANDLE EXPROPRIATION

It's a real shock when you're told that part (or all) of your property will be taken for a new highway, sewer line, high tension line or public use. It's usually an even greater shock when the representative of the public utility, highway department or government tells you what they propose to pay.

Relax and react rationally. Your property may be taken if it is really needed for public use but you must be compensated at "fair market value". If the initial offer is unacceptable, make an appointment to discuss the facts with your solicitor. If he agrees with your position, he'll arrange for one or more Real Estate Appraisers to appraise the condemned property for you. With the facts they give him about "fair market value", he can represent you better in direct negotiation, at a preliminary hearing, or (if necessary) in a court action.

In Memoriams

FLANAGAN — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Oarn, who passed away March 17, 1983.
When family ties are broken,
And loved ones have to part,
It leaves a wound that never heals,
And also broken hearts.
A smile for all, a heart of gold,
One of the best this world could hold.
Never selfish, always kind.
These are the memories he left behind.
Deeply missed and lovingly remembered by Wife, Mary and family

IN MEMORIAM
CARRUTHERS — In loving memory of a dear son, Hector, who passed away March 19, 1980.
He is gone but not forgotten,
And as dawns another year,
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of him, are always near,
Days of sadness, will come o'er us,
Many think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow
That lies in our hearts concealed.
Sadly missed, Mother and Dad

IN MEMORIAM
CARRUTHERS — In loving memory of a dear husband, Hector S. Carruthers who passed away March 19, 1980.
A smile for all, a heart of gold,
One of the best this world could hold.
Never selfish, always kind
These are the memories you left behind,
You would not wish for sorrow,
You would not wish for tears,
But just to be remembered,
By us throughout the years.
Lovingly remembered by Shirley

IN MEMORIAM
CARRUTHERS — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Hector S. Carruthers who passed away March 19, 1980.
To the dearest dad this world could hold,
With a wonderful smile and a heart of gold,
To those who knew him, all will know,
How much we lost six years ago,
What we would give if we could say,
"Hello Dad", in that same old way,
To hear you laugh and see you smile,
To sit with you and talk awhile,
So you who have a father, Cherish him with care,
For you'll never know the heartache,
Til you see his empty chair.
Lovingly remembered by children and grandchildren

JOHNSTON — In loving memory of a mother and grandmother, Annie who passed away March 23, 1985.
We do not need a special day
To bring you to our mind,
For the days we do not think of you

We'd give it, yes and more,
To see the face of mother dear
Come smiling through the door.

IN MEMORIAM
JOHNSTON — In loving memory of a dear mother Annie who passed away March 23, 1985.
If tears could build a stairway,
And memories build a lane,
We'd walk all the way to Heaven,
To bring you back again.
We think of you in silence,
We often speak your name,
But all we have are memories
And your picture in a frame,
It broke our hearts to lose you,
But you did not go alone,
For part of us went with you,
The day God called you home.

Computerized skate sharpening service for village

(Staff) - Although the skating season has ended area afficionados of the silver blades may enter the world of high tech next season. Chesterville village recreation department is considering the purchase of a computerized skate sharpening machine.

Recreation director Dave Arnold told village council last week the investment could return 10-15 per cent commission for the village. Initial findings have shown, he said, the machine does a quality job. A decision will be made later.

Carnival

The village winter carnival raised a total $2,400 to be used for African famine relief. The money will equip a fresh water well in the Ogaden Valley of Ethiopia.

Feasibility study

A public meeting will be held Tuesday, March 25 at 8pm in the community hall to discuss the current community centre feasibility study. The final report of this study will soon be submitted to council. The meeting has been called in order to discuss the proposals contained in the final report.

Summer grants

The recreation department will apply for summer program grants to cover the cost of employing five students for the summer months.

Recreation grants

Letters have been sent to Williamsburg Township and Winchester Township councils requesting recreation grants for the summer of 1986. Williamsburg has asked for more information while Winchester has asked Chesterville recreation director Dave Arnold to make a presentation to the regular recreation committee meeting March 13.

Zoning

An Industrial Drive lot owned by Erik Thompson is in the process of being rezoned. Currently it is zoned R-2.

Fire insurance

Increased insurance for the village fire department is being considered by council and a new policy will be produced in the near future.

Erosion control

An application for grant money concerning drainage erosion control is being prepared by the town office. Included in the grant proposal are provisions for a drainage superintendent and a drainage by-law. The by-law is now being drafted for approval by council.

Dog kennel

Chesterville dog catcher Carmen Langabeer told council he wished to operate a dog kennel in the village. Council memebers have asked him to provide them with the health inspection requirements and costs associated with the operation of such a facility.

Fire victims

A presentation of money will be made to the victims of a pre-Christmas fire in the village. A cheque will be presented at the next meeting of council Tuesday, March 18.

Village lots

There's a plan afoot to renumber village lots to conform with some sense of order. Town clerk Bob Casselman has been asked to prepare the plan.

Population

A recent census report has noted the population of the village is exactly 1,427.

Well tenders

Tenders for the drilling of well number three just outside the village will be called for March 11. A tender will be awarded March 13.

Lumley to head Noranda

CORNWALL (Staff) - Ed Lumley has landed a new job. The former Liberal MP for Stormont-Dundas has been named chairman of Noranda Manufacturing Inc.

Mr. Lumley, a businessman here before he entered political life a decade ago, said last week some of his duties as head of the giant multinational will be to identify new markets, investment prospects and means of expanding and improving sales and profits.

Although the job means being based in Montreal he and his family will continue to live in Cornwall where they have resided for 21 years.

A graduate of the University of Windsor, he operated a soft drink bottling company here and was Cornwall's mayor from 1971 to 1974. When he ran for federal office and represented the local riding he did not move to the capital, preferring small town life for his six children.

As well as his new appointment Mr. Lumley has accepted a job as advisor to the Canadian Autoparts Manufacturers Association and has established his own business, ECL Association Ltd., a management services company.

WDMH plans fashion show

WINCHESTER (Special) - Rose Campbell presided at the regular meeting of the WDMH held in the conference room at the hospital on March 13. Over $4000 was turned in by the units.

The new revised constitution was discussed and accepted, pending approval of the board of governors.

Plans were completed for the dessert and card party, to be held in the conference room on April 15. There will be door prizes and a ceramic lamp will be raffled.

Tickets are now available for the spring fashion show, to be held in the public school on April 2. The theme this year will be "April in Paris".

Right to farm guidelines presented by force member

CRYSLER (Staff) - Ontario farmers will have a chance to tell the province what's needed to protect agriculture and farming practices.

But Women for the Survival of Agriculture president Dorothy Middleton, member of a provincial task force investigating the right to farm in Ontario, said non-farmers too will have their say.

"Our first thing is to protect farmers and the farming industry. But we certainly have to realize it must be a realistic approach," she said from her home last week.

"The idea is we have to be aware of reality. There has to be urban development, it has to go somewhere. So what are we going to do about it?"

A questionnaire listing potential threats to agriculture will appear in the March issue of OMAF News.

Mrs. Middleton said the multiple choice survey will indicate the extent of complaints about agricultural practices and allow each farmer to "get his two cents worth in easily."

The task force has also scheduled seven hearings across the province for individuals and groups desiring to present briefs.

On April 14, the six-member task force will stop at the W.B. George Centre at the Kemptville College of Agriculture.

Comments can be mailed to the Right-to-Farm Advisory Committee, c-o Foodland Preservation Branch, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, Queen's Park, Toronto, M7A 2B2.

Anyone wishing to present a brief at one of the hearings should contact Sue Robinson, 416-965-9433.

She said the questionnaire may also alert farmers that the right to farm is affected by more than land usage guidelines and restrictions on odor and noise.

She said the task force is learning that a myriad of legislation and regulations ranging from the maintenance of fences to dog control to slow moving vehicles on the highways has an impact on farming and rural life.

But she said she was also surprised by the protection available to farmers through provincial statutes.

There's a bull-owner's liability act, for example, the provides for damages to be paid to the owner of a cow bred by a neighbor's bull.

Municipalities can compensate livestock farmers for animals killed by wolves and in turn be reimbursed by the provinces.

Another act offers beekeepers compensating for damage to hives by bears.

Mrs. Middleton said the task force may recommend that these programs and acts be publicized so farmers know exactly what help is available.

She said the task force may find specific right-to-farm legislation isn't necessary because existing protections are adequate, just not used.

"You certainly want to protect but nobody needs handcuffs," she explained.

She said right-to-farm measures exist in several provinces. Quebec has enacted legislation to preserve agricultural land; Manitoba has a nuisance act that protects farmers from complaints if they comply with public health, environmental and various provincial regulations.

Nova Scotia and New Brunswick are both investigating the need for agricultural protection legislation. Prince Edward Island is promoting the right to farm.

Russell reeve appointed

EMBRUN (Staff) - Russell Township's reeve Gaston Patenaude has been elected to two posts in connection with municipal administration.

Mr. Patenaude, 57, was selected as president of the Ontario Good Roads Association at its annual convention in Toronto. Mr. Patenaude has been a member of the group for the past nine years. A total of 700 Ontario municipalities belong to the organization.

As well Mr. Patenaude was recently elected chairman of the South Nation Conservation Authority (SNRCA). He has been a member of the authority for 20 years and has held executive office for the past 11 years.

Nation Valley guiding groups present members with long service pins

(Staff) - The Nation Valley guiding groups have reported a busy winter season. A report by public relations officer Lois Rosenquist last week described the activities of the area guides and other groups as interesting and comprehensive.

Nation Valley District Guiders turned out in full force for the first meeting of the New Year held in Williamsburg. Each unit was requested to bring two crafts and instruction handouts for other units at the same level and the display was well received.

Guider achievements were acknowledged in the form of five-year long service pins presented to Sharon Barclay, Lois Rosenquist and Diana Kemp. Two guiders received appointments, Anita Gruetzner and Eileen Cinnamon. These following leaders qualified for Camp Leadership Certificates: Brown Guider Barbara Cinnamon of Winchester, Blue Guider Marlene Casselman of Iroquois, Pathfinder Guider Kathleen Sill of Winchester.

Robin Lane and Alice van-Wylick were chosen to represent Grendunlee Division at the annual provincial meeting held at the Skyline Hotel in Ottawa this year.

The plight of Jamie Adams, an Iroquois Brownie with a rare disease, was brought to the attention of all units. Those wishing to carry out fund raising activities on her behalf are encouraged to do so, but participation is strictly voluntary.

The division tea will be hosted by Kemptville district and is scheduled for Monday, March 17. This is a chance for guiders to renew acquaintances and exchange news and views in a purely social setting. It is hoped Nation Valley will have good representation at this event.

The district council meeting has been rescheduled for the following Monday, March 24 in Chesterville.

All units have completed round card recipients are awaiting a suitable date enrolment ceremonies. Two all-

Battery no joke

The social problem of battered and abused women and children was laughed at, literally, in the House of Commons a couple of years ago.

When the land's highest legislators cackle at mention of the living nightmare in which some women find themselves then there's obviously a long way to go in convincing the government of this country that these women need protection.

A resource centre to look after similar needs in Dundas county can come into being compliments of $155,000 up front from the province. But Counties Council is stalling and the net result of their hesitation means the centre is on hold.

With the capital grant and another yearly $70,000 promised from the province what are the counties waiting for?

The grant money is incumbent on the counties sponsoring the centre. Here lies the current stumbling block.

If councillors think there's no need for such a facility in this county they're dead wrong. Several cases have come to the attention of this newspaper and help for them is being witheld. There is a crying need for assistance in alleviating the misery of many women in children in the community.

It's time for the counties to get off their high horse and make a commitment.

A lost cause

Senator Jacques Hebert's heart is in the right place but his cause is lost. In fact, his empire was dissolved at a stroke of the pen by the Mulroney government and that's the end of the matter.

The senator, in applying the extreme measure of conducting a hunger strike, an act foreign to tradition in this country, is resorting to a measure better reserved for issues of greater import.

Gandhi used the ploy 17 times in his campaign to rid India of its colonial rulers. But the cutting of Canada's Katimivik program falls nowhere near the level of that sort of issue.

Government programs are all prone to the axe at any time. The senator's program didn't receive many letters of protest when the PCs announced its closure.

Although it was an innovative project which helped unemployed youth for a year in their lives, its passing is not in the same league as the plight of Anatoly Scharansky who also fasted. As a political prisoner of the KGB his tactic was understandable.

The senator, though, is using a type of blackmail on the federal government. His life is worth far more than a pet program of his and his protest has been noted by everyone.

It's time for him to end his hunger strike and approach the problem of unemployed youth in some other manner worthy of his talent and experience.

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

Spring is just a day away! Tomorrow Old Man Winter, officially, will be banished "bag and baggage."

Of course, some of winter's impedimenta may still be around in the form of a late March snowstorm but the back door is open and Old Man Winter teeters over the threshold.

Spring, summer, autumn, winter, all these changes are linked in with the movement of the earth around the sun. It is because of this the astronomers can fix a precise date for the beginning of spring.

We learned in school that the change in the seasons takes place because the earth's axis of rotation is not perpendicular to the plane of its orbit. If it were days and nights would always be of equal length and the climate would remain invariable at every point of the globe.

But according to the star gazers, the axis tilts some twenty-three and one half degrees from the perpendicular. As the earth moves around the sun the North Pole gets more sun than the South Pole for six months, and then the South Pole gets more than the North Pole for six months.

When the North Pole leans toward the sun days are longer than nights in the Northern Hemisphere. The days shorten above the equator as the earth continues its course around the sun, and gradually the Southern Hemisphere moves into the position to get more sunlight. Its days grow longer and its nights shorter.

When the North Pole is tilted the full twenty-three and one-half degrees toward the sun, it is the beginning of summer, around June 21st. At the winter solstice, on the shortest December day, it leans away at an equal angle. The two equinoxes are the midway points, when the North Pole is neither leaning toward the sun or away from it.

Earth's blanket

If it were not for the earth's heavy blanket of atmosphere the weather in our northern hemisphere would be hottest at the summer solstice, coldest at the winter solstice, and halfway between at each equinox. But the air gradually warms in the spring so the renewal of life is a little behind the astonomical schedule.

All the foregoing is gleaned from books but I like to think of a yellow ribbon stretching around the globe where the sun in its northward trip moves over this ribbon and presto, spring is here.

But the astronomers make it seem deadly dull. I prefer to think of the birds following the sun. In autumn following it into the warm south so that our winged friends, aside from the tiring flights from north to south and back again, enjoy if not perpetual spring and summer at least a reasonable facsimile.

However, the first day of spring for me hovers somewhere between hearing the crows first caw over the hill where I ski, and the Farmer's announcement that the starlings are back.

The crows arrived a couple of weeks ago from wherever they have avoided the rigors of our northern winter. And I swear the big, black fellow that got atop the dead elm at the very edge of the bush through which I ski is the same fellow who last fall, derided me from that same height as I took my daily walk as a poor plodder who had to remain in the northland while he flew south to better weather.

I have heard the spring songs of the chickadee, heard reports that robins were sighted in the snow-covered lawns of the capital city. But I disregard them all as signs of spring and only go with the first hoarse croaks of the crows as they sit atop the trees of my bush across the way.

Contrary to popular belief, it is not the song of the robin that marks spring, at least, for me but the sight and sound of the first redwing blackbird. When I see him, I know spring is truly here.

For March, the Farmer's Almanac says for Week 1 - Back to normal: warm'll turn to frozen. Week 2 - snows 'n' rains a torrent, we warrant. Week 3 - clear then slushy; sunny then mushy; mild then chillier; decide, will yer? Week 4 - cold then hot; thanks a lot!

Describes each March as I have know it, what about you?

Again the Farmer's Almanac tells us that this month may provide people in the northern United States and Canada with their most spectacular view of Halley's Comet. Well, let me tell you, Halley's tail will have to extend right into my living-room and pluck me from my easy chair shouting 'look at me', before I will budge a little finger to raise my binoculars.

My memories of frozen fingers on icy binoculars of a month ago are still too vivid in my mind for me to get very enthused over Halley's return. Now had it been a real spectacle at that time, I would surely repeat my performance in an attempt to see this once in a lifetime phenomenon. But it wasn't.

Now we have what I like to call the 'hurrying wind'. At night I waken and hear it and it sounds as if the neighbor's work horses were galloping over the hill by my bedroom window.

The wind is blowing winter away, no doubt of that, and life is beginning to stir in the earth and I have a sense of beginning again.

Now I shall put away winter disappointments, frustrations, and failures. It is time to take stock of the months gone by, then let the wind blow them into the receptacle of time past. And I look forward to the future, while enjoying the present.

Spring is on the way and the time of violence is at hand!

The Life of Riley

by Wayne Riley

As it turns out, I should not have worried about knee-deep water sweeping away the Christmas decorations in a holiday flotilla. The wood I had bought for some work this spring, wood that had been neatly piled on what was last year's high ground, had lapped up the water like a sponge.

I did not need to touch the wood to know this. For my convenience, nature had marked the level of absorbtion along the wood with a gently rolling line of white fuzz.

If the floor was reasonably dry, the air over it was a different matter altogether. Thick and wet, it reminded me of my junior high school showers. I breathed in deeply. No, they did not throw away the mold when they made this room.

A little dirt, a little dampness, a little bacterial growth. Nobody ever said defrosting a basement was easy.

Even as I write this, working the ravages of cold out of my joints, I can't believe that spring is here. After months of breathing in air so dry that it was beginning to leave a fine layer of dust on the furniture, I threw open the windows this week to a freshness that made me dizzy.

It was a world that had disappeared, along with my Phillips screwdriver and at least a buck in change, under the November snow.

Oh sure, winter was great. I'm a Canadian and I will always be proud to live in a natural refrigerator a good chunk of the year. But I knew it was time once again for the wonderful season to end when I saw the white splotches on my forearms last week. There was no doubt about it. It was a sure case of freezer burn.

And so when I woke up and saw the sun coming in and heard the water flowing in through the basement window, I was overjoyed. There's nothing like spring to put a bounce in your step.

When I was younger the season made me crazy. I would sit out on the steps in the warm sun and think about girlfriends and what it would be like to have one. And sometimes I would sit there and daydream about maybe marrying and having children.

I sat out on the steps every day for weeks thinking about spring and rebirth. And then I met the woman who became my wife and the annual spring sittings on the step were reduced to a few days.

Now my wife and I have two small children. She says I can't sit on the step at all this spring.

But of course there is more to spring than that anyway. There's water for one thing.

Rivers of the stuff that for a few glorious weeks puts me in the status class with my own backyard pool and, when the sump pump is on, a basement whirlpool.

Water that means my bicycle is no longer embedded in ice, an important item since I mean to at least double the number of times I used the bike last year. This is assuming, of course, that I can find the time this year to ride it four times around the block.

And finally there is the water that says I will not have to shovel out the white Himalayas that grew up out of the far end of the driveway during the last snowstorm. Although I had gained the summit I had to halt the expedition as I tried to dig my way up to the peak. I had nearly collapsed because of the thinness of the air.

It is one of the two great freebies nature offers. The spring meltdown and the fall snowfall that covers up the lawn that should have been mowed one more time. No labor charge.

But spring is more than water. It's a crazy kind of feeling that gets inside every warm blooded animal.

There's a certain boldness to my cats now as they drag their claws down the arm of my sofa, a cockiness that allows them to casually ignore their master's string of oaths.

And why not? During the winter they needed me. "Oh, nothing is too good for our master," they purred. "Here, let me curl up and warm your feet. See how playful I am with this twist tie. By the way, while you're up could you get me another can of food and turn up the furnace."

And now? Hah. The cats walk by like I don't exist. "Keep your food," they hiss. "There's plenty of mice outside. Don't bother waiting up for me."

Upstairs the squirrels are thumping around like they own a bowling alley, confident that a family with children will at least let them stay until their own brood is up and out on their own.

Outside a dog is barking at nothing in particular but barking with enthusiasm because it is spring. He may have been quieter during the winter but the melting snow has also revealed that he has been here many times before.

When it comes right down to it, spring's just a great time of year for man and beast.

Chesterville's Past

by Wayne Riley

06 From the Record, Thurs., March 22, 1906

The Private Bills Committee at the Legislature yesterday morning reported the bill creating the village of Finch.

The most disastrous fire in the history of Morrisburg occurred this morning. It resulted in the total destruction of the Roller Mills owned by Gibson and Co. The building was a large one, three stories high, and equipped with valuable machinery. It was one of the best mills in Canada, and its output was known far and wide.

One of the best amateur dramatic productions ever given in Chesterville, was presented at Foster's Hall, on Monday evening, by the members of St. Mary's church choir.

Every member of the cast did remarkably well. There were no waits, no misses, or in fact nothing to mar its procedure to make it appear as an amateur company.

The cast of characters was: Shaun Aroon (a roving old fellow with light purse and lighter heart)...Ed Flynn. Lord Fermoy (disguised as bad Andy, a good-hearted Landlord)...Frank Curran. Fergus Riordan, Fermoy's rascally agent...Clement McCloskey. Dan O'Grady, a sturdy old farmer...Leonard Clement.

26 From the Record, Thurs., March 18, 1926

The community of which Chesterville is the centre has for some time been longing for a covered rink, which longing seems more likely to bear fruit in an effort now being made to secure the necessary funds with which one can be erected than on any former occasion.

Finch: The Ladies Aid Society of the United Church met on Wednesday March 10th at the home of Mrs. L. Hutt. The following officers were elected: Pres. - Mrs. L. Gibson; 1st. Vice Pres. - Mrs. George Smith; 2nd. Vice Pres. - Mrs. Silas Farrell; Sec. - Mrs. Jas. Shaver; Treas. - Mrs. H. Wereley.

"Do a little figuring before leaving the old homestead for the city" is the advice of a university professor who has made a study of rural economics.

In his investigation he found that a farmer who purposes moving to town must assure himself of an income twice as big as he had on the farm, if he expects to live as comfortably as he has been accustomed to.

He discovered that 200 average farmers had an income of $1,000 a year. To live as well in the city they must have $2,200.

46 From the Record, Thurs., March 21, 1946

Fire threatened the entire village of Aultsville Tuesday afternoon when it destroyed a large barn in the centre of the village and gutted the exchange of the Aultsville Telephone Company, cutting off communications with outside points for several hours.

High School Notes: Last week sterling silver Sniper pins were awarded to 11 more boys of the Cadet Corps. These boys are as follows: Byron Campbell, Doug Carr, Ken Coughlar, Keith Crump, Carl Crump, Doug Dillabough, Ernest Fawcett, Henry Feeley, Bob Hummel, Neil Kelly and Ronald McIntosh.

This year's Easter Seals Campaign aiming at $3,000

The Editor:

On behalf of the Finch and District Lions Club, I would like to pass on our sincere thanks to all who have contributed to this year's Easter Seal Campaign. Thus far we have received just over $1400 towards assistance for handicapped and severely handicapped children in our district and throughout Ontario.

With two weeks remaining in the campaign there is still time to try to attain our goal of $3000. We are confident that the generous support given in the past will be continued this year. Donations of $25 and $50 have helped greatly towards this fund for very special and needy children. Also, donations of lesser amounts are much appreciated as well. If everyone gives only $1 or $2 our goal will be easily achieved.

If anyone has not received their envelope for some reason, a donation can still be mailed in an ordinary envelope to David Dixon, Easter Seals Chairman, Box 54, Finch, K0C 1K0. Cheques should be made out to the Easter Seals Fund. All donations are tax deductible and receipts will be made out for all amounts of $10 and over.

The people and businesses of Avonmore, Berwick, Crysler, Finch, Monkland, Moose Creek and Newington have been very generous so far. If you have forgotten, or misplaced your envelope, don't let that stop you now from sending in your contribution of kindness. We hear much in the news now about money that is wasted. Let's put some to good use!

David Dixon,
Easter Seal Chairman,
Wayne Armstrong, Treasurer.

Disdain for chain letters

The Editor:

Amid the trash in my mailbox, I discovered a small white envelope with my address printed neatly in pen. "A letter", I thought. I can't begin to describe my disgust when I learned it was nothing more than junk mail in disguise. Actually, it was the lowest form possible, a chain letter.

Speaking on behalf of all those persons who do not believe in the powers of chain letters, I would like to offer the rest of you a few points to consider.

The particular copy I received reads, "Mr. D.F. received the letter and not believing threw it away, 9 days later he died." There is no mention of now he came to his demise. How can we be sure he wasn't 102 years old?

Another segment of the letter describes the ill fate of a fellow in the Phillippines. "Mr. G.W. lost his wife 6 days after receiving the letter. He failed to circulate the letter. However, before her death, he received $7,775.00." How do we know that this wasn't really his good fortune?

One final comment from this non-believer, should I be snuffed out within the next few days, my husband will require a volunteer to do the spring cleaning. You must be willing to do windows.

Sincerely,
Linda Grant

Trade liberalization urged
Canada can compete with US: professor

CORNWALL (Staff) - Canada should fight any restrictions on trade because her survival depends on it, a University of Guelph professor told a provincial conference of agrologists here Friday.

"Canada needs trade. We could be self-sufficient but if we become self-sufficient as many people talk about...we would become a have-not nation," Dr. Elmer Menzie, chairman of Guelph's department of agricultural economics and business, told about 100 delegates to the Ontario Institute of Agrologists conference.

"We can put walls around Canada but expect to move back to the seventeenth or eighteenth century in terms of your goods and services before very long."

He said Canada should welcome free or freer trade with the United States as a guarantee of a market threatened by growing American protectionist sentiments.

Canada, he said, is already doing "a very substantial job of competing."

Exports make up more than one quarter of Canada's gross national product. Agricultural products are about 10 per cent of that total and are increasing in number annually.

In the late 1970s, agricultural exports averaged $4.6 each year. In 1984, they totalled more than $10 billion.

More than 79 per cent of Canada's exports go to the US and 20 per cent of agricultural exports find a market south of the border.

"All these things indicate to me that we are competing," he said. "We are competitive. We have the skills and we could do better at concentrating more than we do."

He said it would be "absurd" to ignore the advantage of the US market.

But, he noted, Canada's most significant market is threatened and the countervail on pork was a "disturbing" example of American protectionism.

He said there are 300 bills now before the US Congress proposing tighter restrictions on imports to redress the American trade deficit.

Restricted trade with the US would have "disastrous" implications for Canada, he said.

Canada has much at stake in upcoming multilateral trade talks. "Trade is necessary for agriculture to prosper in Canada and there is no way the country can compete with the treasuries of the European Economic Community and the US in a major trade war," he said.

But other countries have criticized Canada's share of "trade distorting mechanisms", he noted. Quotas on textile and shoe imports, dairy subsidies and marketing quotas, protective tariffs on horticultural products and transportation subsidies for grain are only a few restrictions on trade.

Canada also has a responsibility to developing countries, he added. Third World nations struggling to develop industrially and agriculturally must export if they are to meet their debt obligations.

"Many of these developing countries are faced with huge debts and some of our bigger banks own a good share of that," he said. "If you owe a debt you've got to have a way to pay it back."

He said Canada must face the fact "that they want to eat too. And some of the eating is dependent on whether we trade with them."

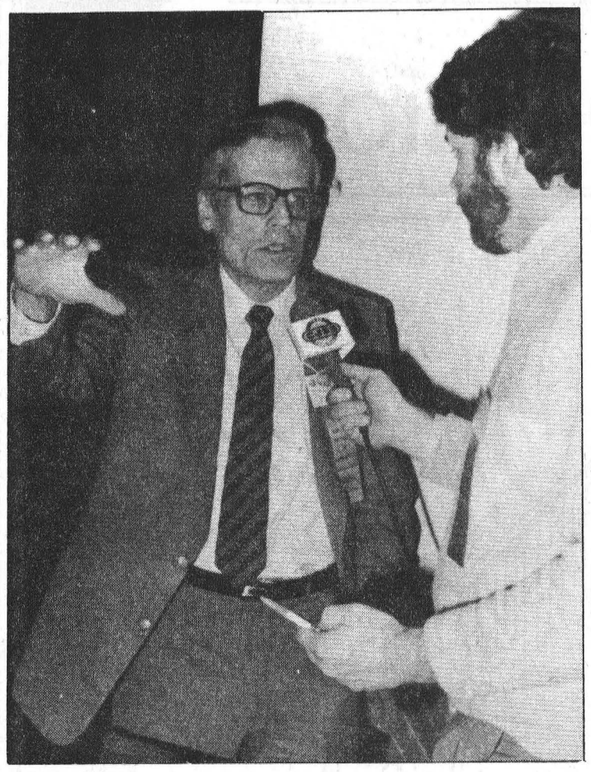
Reduced barriers to trade with the US and other countries could also eliminate the "balkanization" of Canada into regions hindering interprovincial trade.

"We've got 25 million people here and we treat it as if we've got ten blocks of 25 million people," he said. "We don't operate like a country. We operate like ten countries."

But contrary to other agricultural on free trade, he did not consider supply management systems sacred.

"What these programs are doing is building for an internal market. If that's where we want to go then that's where these programs are directing," he said.

But commodities now under supply management, primarily dairy and eggs, may survive to become competitive in a freer trade arrangement.



Trade supporter

Dr. Elmer Menzie, chairman of the department of agricultural economics and business at the University of Guelph, explains why Canada shouldn't seek further restrictions on trade with the United States. Dr. Menzie led off a list of speakers Friday on agricultural trade at the annual conference of the Ontario Institute of Agrologists in Cornwall. Record Photo-Johnston

Exports of frozen embryos and semen totalled $14.7 million in 1985
Exports pay for Canadian breed research

CORNWALL (Staff) - Exporting "bull in a bottle" was worth $14.7 million to Canada last year.

But exports of livestock semen and frozen embryos also improve the quality of Canadian stock, says Bob Lang, soon to become the full-time director of Semex Canada's International Livestock School at Kemptville.

Speaking to about 100 delegates attending the Ontario Institute of Agrologists annual conference Friday afternoon, Mr. Lang said exports of dairy semen alone totalled more than $12 million -- about $2 million more than the cost of research and development.

"Exports provide us with income to pay the cost of our ventures," he said. "It brings in new wealth to support growth and the efficiency of our dairy, beef and livestock operations in Canada."

So the question facing the Canadian artificial insemination industry, he said, is not "why export", but "why not export?"

The artificial insemination industry has grown tremendously since the creation of local genetic cooperatives in the mid-1940s.

In Ontario, he said, the initiation of supply management in the dairy industry 20 years ago meant economic pressure on farmers to be more efficient producers.

"It's more acceptable to have an empty stall now than it was ten years ago," he said of the growing emphasis on efficiency and maximizing profits from one animal.

Since 1975, the value of purebred dairy and beef breeding stock and semen exports has more than doubled, from $33.6 million to almost $80 million last year.

He noted that exports of livestock, including beef, dairy cattle, goats and swine, are related to sales of semen and embryos.

"They work in a big circle -- as one improves, the other improves."

Last year, Canada shipped semen and embryos to 46 countries.

He said Canada is particularly suited to exports because of good cattle health, helped in part by an extreme climate that inhibits the spread of disease.

Mr. Lang added Canadian agriculture is a highly measured industry and provides the statistics to determine what is lacking in Canadian cattle and what is needed abroad.

But success in the industry does not come cheaply.

He said the Canadian artificial industry has an annual operating income of $70 million. Results in genetic engineering cannot be seen for a generation and expenses mount each year.

Last year, the industry spent about $35,000 on each of 296 dairy young sires on programs assessing their progeny.

He said imports of semen and embryos are a small but significant part of the Canadian industry. Last year, dairy cattle valued at $825,000 and about $335,000 worth of semen were imported for breeding purposes.

The new livestock expanded the pool of genetic traits available to Canadian breeders. The "missing genetic link" could also be found in an imported breed to improve the Canadian line.

EASTER SEALS

Your invitation to assist a Physically Disabled Child

WHAT IS THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY?
The Easter Seal Society of Ontario is the oldest charitable organization of its kind in Canada. We are also one of the most independent charities in the country, receiving less than 1% of our annual budget (+$9,000,000 in 1984) from the Ontario Government.

WHEN WAS THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY FORMED?
In November, 1922, representatives from 10 Rotary service clubs met in Windsor, Ontario at the invitation of a gentleman named Arthur FitzGerald. Due to the alarming increase of crippling disorders in children - coupled with a lack of adequate facilities and treatment programs - these men agreed to join forces to serve the needs of physically disabled children.

WHY DID THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY UNDERGO A NAME CHANGE?
Though we are probably better known by our original name - Ontario Society for Crippled Children - it was changed in 1981 to its present name - The Easter Seal Society.

1981 was a significant year for it marked the International Year of Disabled Persons. With the goals of I.Y.D.P. in mind, our name changed to discard the word "crippled" and the negative connotations that surround it.

WHO GOVERNS THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY?
The Society is governed by 42 volunteer directors who form our board. They are men and women from all areas of the province who are experienced and educated about the needs of physically disabled children. From this group, 14 members are elected to the Executive Committee which is directly responsible for formulating Society policies and advising other board members of programs the Society should improve, or new ones we should undertake.

HOW MANY STAFF MEMBERS WORK FOR THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY?
There are 139 full-time people on staff at The Easter Seal Society. Out of this total, 75 are stationed in various locations across Ontario to ensure that quality provincial services are being carried out.

Nursing Service involves our largest portion of full-time personnel, with 37 nurses and 33 nursing secretaries situated throughout the Society's 22 district offices.

Because of the need for personalized attention required for children who attend Easter Seal camps, an additional 200 people are hired each summer to ensure the best possible care for our campers.

WHAT IS THE OVERALL OBJECTIVE OF THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY?
Since our beginning, the Society has worked to ensure that the needs of every physically disabled children are met. It is our basic objective to continue this through the provision of vital services, required equipment, treatment and counselling facilities, as well as to strive to improve existing programs through research.

IT IS OUR GOAL TO PROVIDE EASTER SEAL CHILDREN WITH EVERY POSSIBLE OPPORTUNITY TO ONE DAY REALIZE THEIR MAXIMUM LEVEL OF ABILITY.

WHO ARE THE CHILDREN SERVED BY THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY?
At present, there are more than 6,400 children in Ontario who receive direct assistance from The Easter Seal Society. Though the types of disabilities vary, the Society basically serves the needs of every child and young adult under the age of 19 whose activity is restricted by nerve damage, muscle or skeletal abnormalities, amputation, or any other defect which produces a physical disability.

THE IMPORTANCE OF SERVICE CLUBS TO OUR VOLUNTEER BASE
As the message of the "original ten" service clubs spread, others joined in this challenging service. Today there are 237 affiliated Easter Seal service clubs representing a volunteer base of approximately 10,000 members from:

Rotary, Kiwanis, Kinsmen, Lions and others

THE ROLE OF SERVICE CLUBS
As the backbone of The Easter Seal Society, service clubs play a major role in the network of the Society. Each club organizes its community's annual Easter Seal direct mail campaign and other special fund-raising events to help the Society meet its financial requirements. In 1983, their combined efforts succeeded in raising approximately $2.5 million. Apart from raising funds, Easter Seal service clubs also handle the responsibility of administering Easter Seal funds for local children. Because of this, they work closely with the Society's district nurses, treatment centres and parents of the children, to ensure proper care and treatment are provided for each child.

DIRECT SERVICES PROVIDED BY THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY

SPECIALIZED NURSING
The Society's professional staff includes 37 nurses who are specialists in the field of rehabilitation and consultation for physically disabled persons.

Nurses are located throughout a provincial network of 22 district offices and are, in effect, the Society's front line of service to children and their families.

Through constant home visits, the district nurses is able to:

- assess the needs of the child
- make recommendations for treatment and required equipment
- coordinate the provision of the Society's services by working closely with Easter Seal service clubs in the district
- inform the families of aid programs by government or other agencies
- listen to the problems or concerns of parents

With an average caseload of approximately 200 children per nurse, you can well understand that they are constantly travelling long distances and working extensive hours on behalf of the children and families they are responsible for.

The nurses also work closely with doctors and treatment centres to arrange appointments, therapy sessions or the provision of equiment.

Apart from professional advice and assessments, the nurse is a person who cares for the needs of each family and evolves into an important resource person and friend to each and every one of them.

CAMPING
There are five Easter Seal camps that are owned and operated by the Society. These camps are strategically located across Ontario and service more than 1,000 chidren annually.

We consider our camping programs to be instrumental in developing a child's independence and sense of self-worth. Though there are special facilities available that are required for the children, Easter Seal camps do not differ in their approach to camping. Children learn how to swin, canoe, make crafts, learn about nature and much more.

For many Easter Seal children, a two-week vacation at one of our camps is their only opportunity to escape their sometimes confined environment in their communities or homes. It also gives them an opportunity to experience the thrill of making new friends who understand what living with a physical disability is all about, and for many, camping sparks renewed confidence and determination to overcome their particular disability.

There is also a provision for family camping, where families with other children as well as a physically disabled child have access to facilities required to enable them to enjoy a holiday in the outdoors as a unit.

Parents cannot set a time when their daily work with a physically disabled child is over. For many severe cases, this becomes a 24-hour labour of love that goes on day after day. Camping, therefore, serves as a needed source for parent relief.

CAMPING COSTS
No child who wishes to attend an Easter Seal camp is refused because of lack of funds. Though this can be quite costly to the Society - $553.50 for 13 days (or $42.50 per child, per day) the benefits children and families gain from camping far surpass the costs.

TRACK THREE SKI PROGRAM
This recreational program has evolved into a unique outdoor pleasure for physically disabled children and young adults. Expert ski instructors teach disabled persons how to ski and more importantly, get them involved in a sport that they were previously shut out from. The Easter Seal Society has supported Track Three since its inception in 1972 and, like our camping program, skiing provides an outlet for physically disabled persons to overcome their disability and enjoy themselves in an activity that does not restrict them.

CLINICS
Each year eleven clinics are held throughout areas of northern Ontario for the benefit of children where long distances make it difficult for proper treatment. More than 1,000 children are examined at these clinics, which also serve as an opportunity for the child's family doctor and various specialists in attendance to consult on the best type of treatment for each child.

PREVENTION PROGRAM
The Society has always stressed the importance of preventive measures which could avoid disabling conditions in children. We maintain a leadership role in prevention through our information programs aimed at the general public. One of the most significant is the "Safe Passage" program which informs expectant mothers of various steps they can take to reduce the risk of their child being born with a disability. The Society has also launched its "Head First" program which informs families of preventative measures to reduce disabling conditions that result from athletic injuries.

SERVICES WHICH ARE FUNDED BY THE EASTER SEAL SOCIETY

RESEARCH
Since its beginnning, The Easter Seal Society has pioneered many areas of research into rehabilitation and treatment of physical disabilities. Today the Society remains dedicated to the importance of research and supports this ongoing process through the Conn Smythe Research Foundation. Since this foundation was originated in 1976, the Society has allocated more than $1,000,000 in grants.

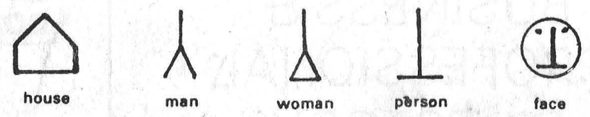
The Society is also very heavily involved with funding certain areas of research being conducted at the Ontario Crippled Children's Centre in Toronto. Each year more than $700,000 is allocated to the Centre to support developments in rehabilitation engineering, prosthetics, innovative dental services and the purchase of sophisticated communication devices.

Because of the many breakthroughs in these areas, the Centre and the Society have attracted an international reputation.

BLISSYMBOLICS
This is a graphic meaning-based communication system which has opened the door for many non-verbal children (usually severe cases of cerebral palsy) who previously were frustrated by their inability to properly express themselves to others.

Children use a Bliss board, which is attached to their wheelchair, and point at various Blissymbols (pictographs) to communicate. There are 1,400 of these symbols which enable the child to communicate most aspects of human experience.

Here are some examples:



TREATMENT CENTRES
The Easter Seal Society is an important supporter of 19 treatment centres across the province which serve disabled persons. The Society has provided capital grants to assist in the construction of centres and continues to provide grants for the expansion of existing facilities.

EASTER SEAL KIDS REALLY NEED YOUR HELP.

THE FUTURE IS WHERE WE ALL SPEND THE REST OF OUR LIVES.

JACK is 10 years old. Although he's been paralyzed from the waist down since birth, his bright conversation and fascination with wheelchair basketball tell you a lot about the future he's fighting for.

That future means that Jack is going to have to work hard to fight his disability, and it's a fight he's going to win. Easter Seals helps, but we can only do that with your help. So please. Back a fighter.

JASON is 9 years old. He has only one arm, but he's learning to make the arm that was made for him work very well. Right now he wears out 3 bicycles a year. In his future, he wants to work with his hands, and he tackles everything he does like a true fighter.

Easter Seals helps, but again we can only do it with your help to back a fighter.

CHARMAINE is 9 years old. She's paralyzed from the waist down and has been since birth.

Charmaine has learned to walk with canes, a task she fights for with the spirit of a champion. Ask her what she wants to do when she grows up and she says, "Maybe be a writer."

With your help, Easter Seals can help keep up the fight for this bright girl's future.

BACK A FIGHTER. WITH EASTER SEALS.

This year our local goal is $3,650.

They're Winning Their Fight For Independence

Thousands of children like Timmy & Tammy get the help they need from Easter Seals to carry on their fight for an independent life.
Your help is needed, too.

Sweep puts Avonmore Aces on hold

FINCH (Staff) - The Avonmore Aces are in the North Stormont Intermediate hockey league finals. Now all they're waiting for is an opponent.

Sweeping a best-of-seven semi-final series over the Crysler Chiefs with a 7-5 win here Friday, the Aces are awaiting the outcome of the Newington-Finch series.

Newington pulled ahead 3-2 in the best-of-seven series with a 7-4 victory Sunday. Finch had tied up the series two days earlier with a 5-1 win.

Avonmore won all four matches by a narrow margin with scores of 2-1 (three overtime periods), 3-0 and 2-1.

In its series clincher Friday, the Aces exploded for give goals in the second period to come from behind against the Chiefs.

At the end of the first period in Friday's match, Avonmore trailed 3-2 but five second period goals matched by only two Crysler goals gave Avonmore a 7-5 win.

Jeff Johnston and Blair Henderson scored five of the team's seven goals. Henderson scoring the winning goal to complete a hat-trick.
hat-trick.

Avonmore's Henderson opened the scoring in the match with a goal at 14:18 assisted by Brent Theede.

Crysler's Roger Courville and Paul Farley each replied with a goal to take a 2-1 lead.

Albert Herfkens increased Crysler's lead to 3-1 with an unassisted goal at 10:19 in the first period.

Avonmore's Jeff Johnston narrowed the Chiefs lead to 3-2 with a goal scored at 4:11 in the first.

Brent Ouderkirk scored an unassisted goal to increase Crysler's lead to 4-2 over Avonmore at 17:44 in the second period.

Avonmore's Johnston scored again to narrow Crysler's lead and the team continued through most of the period to score goals.

Henderson scored at 7:57 to take the lead 5-4 and Stacey Moore, Henderson and Randy McRae all scored to lead 7-4.

Crysler's Herfkens replied for the team's last goal of the season with 21 seconds remaining on the clock with a slapshot.

Finch's win on Friday tied the semi-final series 2-2 as they took an easy 5-1 win.

Bill de Witt scored Finch's opening goal at 11:27 in the first then Fetterly scored for Newington one minutes later to tie the match 1-1.

Then at 7:44 Finch's Kevin Wells scored the winning goal of the match to break the 1-1 tie.

Adding to Finch's score was John Cleary, Gordie MacDonnell and Dennis Sullivan to tally the team's 5-1 win.

On Sunday Finch blew a 4-3 lead at the end of the second period as Newington's strong third period effort of four goals gave the team a 3-2 lead in the series.

Newington's Ed Gove and Jim Pennock led the team to their win scoring six of the team's seven goals and each collecting a hat-trick.

Finch was the first to light up the scoreboard in the match as Mike Kuhn accounted for the goal at 18:44 in the first period.

Newington's Gove rallied with a goal at the 11-minute mark to tie the match 1-1.

Finch's Wells scored a tie-breaking goal at 3:37 in the first that was matched by Newington's Grant Simpson with only seconds left in the period to leave the match tied at the end of the first period 2-2.

Mark Beaupre scored at 14:50 in the second to break the 2-2 tie but Newington's Pennock replied at the 11-minute mark to tie the match once again. Harold McBride broke the tie for Finch as he carried the puck from his own end zone and past Newington defence for the goal to lead 4-3 at the end of the second.

Pennock and Gove combined together in the third period for Newington's win as they each scored twice to win 7-4 as the last goal went into an empty net.

The win gives Newington a 3-2 lead in the series. A win in the next match on Friday would earn the team a berth into the finals on Sunday against Avonmore. If Newington doesn't win, a seventh and deciding game will be played Sunday.

The semi-final series in the North Stormont Intermediate Hockey League is in a close race between Newington and Finch as Newington leads the best-of-seven series 3-2. Pictured above is a confrontation at Newington's net.

Mixed soccer being offered by Chesterville Recreation

(Staff) - Chesterville and District children from ages 6-13 years-of-age can be a part of the fastest growing sport in Canada if there's enough interest amongst adults and the children.

Boys and girls born in 1973-80 can join a local soccer league including Metcalfe, Russell and Winchester.

If enough interest is shown from adults in which to run and coach in the league and children to play in the mixed soccer leagues then a meeting will be set up by Chesterville's recreation director Dave Arnold. Anyone interested in either coaching or playing may contact Arnold at the Chesterville Parks and Recreation office 448-3285. Arnold will lift the project off the ground but is hoping interested adults will be able to keep it going in the future.

Registration will be early April if there is enough interest and Arnold would like anyone interested to call as soon as possible.

Jr. C League final shaping up as rematch between Flyers and 72s

(Staff) - The Chesterville Junior "C" Flyers are sitting in the wings waiting the outcome of the St. Isidore-Embrun best-of-seven semi-final series which Embrun leads 2-0.

The Embrun 72s defeated the St. Isidore Eagles Friday at home and Sunday in St. Isidore with 8-6 scores.

If Embrun goes all the way, the league's best-of-seven final series will be a repeat of 1985.

Before meeting Embrun in the finals last year, the Flyers had only defeated the 72s only once in six matches. This year the Flyers have been undefeated against the 72s, tying once in six games.

The Flyers also climbed the standings ladder this year, up from 1985's third place finish to claim the regular season championship.

Nestle pounds Ault in opener

Gary Jarvis scores five goals in 12-3 semi-final win

(Staff) - The semi-finals may be short-lived for Ault's if the first match is any indication of what's to come. Nestle defeated Ault's in the opening match of the Winchester and District Men's Industrial Hockey League, play-offs 12-3.

In the second match of the semi-finals Winchester Hydro won 5-2 over Winchester Cheese.

Nestle's Gary Jarvis collected the most points on the team with five goals, two assists, Pat Kelly and Blair Henderson each scored two and assisted on four. Wally Van de Kemp, Greg Beckstead and Pat Imrie tallied the team's toal of 12 goals.

Ault's Ed Gove scored two and Terry Gove scored the third for their 12-3 loss to Nestle.

At the end of the first period Cheese and Hydro were tied 1-1 but a strong second period effort of three goals gave Hydro their win as they split a pair of goals in the third.

Pat Moran and Rudy Grisel led Hydro to their victory as they both scored two goals each and B. Moran scored one and assisted on two.

Winchester Cheese's Don Crowder and Mike Guy scored each a goal for the team's total of two goals scored in the first and third period.

Clarence Creek goalie red hot in tourney

ORLEANS (Staff) - Goaltending made by Clarence Creek's A.A. Lalonde stopped the Chesterville Atom C team from advancing into the B semi-finals of the Atom B house league tournament held here March break week.

"We outplayed and outshot Clarence Creek but we just couldn't score on their goaltender who won the most outstanding player award for the game," said manager Terry Buske. "Considering they are a level C team playing B level teams, they were outstanding," said Buske.

Chesterville lost their match to Clarence Creek 3-2 and defeated Orleans.

Chesterville's Ryan Buske and Richard Kelsey both scored a goal and an assist to lead their team to a 2-1 victory over Orleans and Shawn Steinburg collected a single assist.

Buske scored both goals in the match which Chesterville lost to Clarence Creek and Jason Desormeaux and Steinburg picked up on the assists.

Newington wins final opener

FINCH (Staff) - The Newington ladies team has captured the first of a best-of-five finals series game defeating Finch 2-1 here on Monday.

Finch placed first at the end of the regular season and Newington, second.

At 15:18 in the second period Newington's Barb Johnson, the league's top scorer, scored a goal to tie the match 1-1 as Kelly Moore made the assist.

It was a goal set up by Newington's Pat Rupert that put the finishing touches on Newington's first of the series win as Marie Gove scored to break the 1-1 tie at 8:57 in the second and later win the match.

The two teams play-off again on Monday at the Finch Arena at 8pm in the second game of the final.
