Parents of Seaway Valley pupils oppose integrating their school

JUDITH O'BRIEN
Leader staff

STAMPVILLE — Parents of students at Seaway Valley School are adamantly opposed to integrating their children with other schools in September.

The parents' committee met with members of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education Tuesday night to discuss the various solutions proposed to solve overcrowding problems at Iroquois Public School.

Among the alternatives, the board suggested moving IPS grade 7 and 8 students to Stampville. The special education students at Seaway Valley could possibly be integrated with the senior students or into Seaway District High School.

"Each year the trustees review the programs and facilities," said Ken McLennan, Superintendent of Education. "This year there is a significant problem in Dundas County with overcrowding at Iroquois and Morrisburg and low enrolment at Riverside Heights. These are problems the board needs to address."

McLennan said the objective of the Miniistry of Community and Social Services is to integrate developmentally handicapped students into the mainstream.

"In addition to the problem of overcrowding we have the objective of this long term goal," he said.

Fair to all

McLennan said while the board intends to solve the problems at IPS the trustees will also make sure the solution doesn't cause problems for Seaway Valley School students.

"I don't want Seaway Valley to be seen as a pawn," he said. "If change does occur it will serve equally well the interests of your children as well as the children of Iroquois."

McLennan cautioned, however, that the board is dealing with four separate schools and compromises may have to be made to serve the interests of all.

Alternatives

The school board is considering several alternatives involving Seaway Valley School.

The most desireable alternative to parents is to leave Seaway Valley School as it is and install portable classrooms at IPS.

The two schools could also be twinned with junior kindergarden to grade 3 attending Seaway Valley or grades 7 and 8.

Seaway Valley students may also attend SDHS with their classrooms still part of a protected environment or students could attend school at Elma.

"At Iroquois the environment might serve some of your students better," said McLennan. "We want to serve the best interests of all."

Provincial move

Jim Dilamarter, Superintendent of Education in charge of special education told parents there is a move across the province towards full integration of developmentally challenged children, and to close self contained settings.

He said the board doesn't believe closing all self contained schools and placing children in regular classes will benefit everyone but he said some children could benefit by integration.

"We want to provide a full spectrum of services from full time in regular classes to part time to those who would still need a self contained environment," he said. "We felt there is a need for us to be aware developmentally challenged students are more a part of society than perhaps 10 years ago. It is easier to be accepted by others if they are integrated better."

He said the board wants to create a real world environment for the students and secondary integration programs currently in place at two high schools, including SDHS, are working out both socially and academically.

Parents disagree

"I don't think people realize just how cruel children are," said George McGowan, a parent of one Seaway Valley student. "We're the parents of these children, you're the experts. You're asking them to go into a school with more worldly, sophisticated kids."

McGowan said the staff at Seaway Valley has done a tremendous job with their students and while some may be ready for integration he disagrees totally with removing the school.

"These people are special and they have special needs," he said. "It's taken kids weeks, months, even years to get where they are. If you throw them into that situation you will throw them back and they may never get back to where they are today."

"I have no problems with little children growing up with handicapped people but not in high school."

Control alcohol and drugs

In their presentation to the board two weeks ago, parents who supported sending grade 7 and 8 students to Stampville suggested alcohol and drug abuse and smoking might be better controlled in an isolated setting and this possibility has parents frightened.

"If my son gets drugs are you going to come to my home and deal with him?" asked Doug Casselman.

But Dilamarter said integration has worked out well in other schools in S.D.&G. Presently there are four integrated classes including Long Sault Public School.

What has my son done wrong?

"The government spends $50,000 a year on a murderer to keep him in prison. What has my son done wrong that he doesn't deserve the board to spend a quarter of that on him?" asked Harry Dusonos.

"The only reason you can move these people is because they don't have the intelligence to object to it," he said. "If you take this away a handicapped child are you willing to accept the damages?"

Al Gates, Chairman of the Seaway Valley School parents committee said his group will present a formal brief to the school board at their meeting this week.

The committee passed a resolution requesting the board begin a five year plan for integrating students at Seaway Valley School into regular classrooms. In the meantime the parents want their children to remain at Stampville. They are agreeable to allowing junior and senior kindergarten students to use the facilities at Stampville providing the programs for the developmentally handicapped students are maintained.

MOE working on sewer report

JUDITH O'BRIEN
Leader staff

CORNWALL — The Ministry of Environment will make its final report to Morrisburg council on the village's trunk sewer project by next month.

Environment Officer Rick Eamon said he made a commitment to report back to councillors sometime during the second week of May.

The village's $1.5 million sewer project has faced several difficulties. A second opinion report by the engineering firm of Totten Sims Hubicki Associates commissioned by village council discovered several operational problems within the system and recommended several changes be made. The price tag for varicus work ranges from $60,000 to $500,000.

Council has withheld $40,000 in fees to the original project engineer, Derek Wilson of Toronto, until MOE makes its recommendations.

"I'm not looking specifically at the Totten Sims Hubicki options," said Eamon. "What they have recommended related to the pumping station. My report is looking at the trunk sewer project as a whole. The pumping station is part of the project and the treatment plant as well."

Eamon said his report will not order the village to make certain changes but he will be making his own assessment of the situation.

As yet the liability of the parties involved, if any, has not been determined.

"That is a little premature right now," said Eamon. "When I release my report you will know one way or the other."

Waste study

Committee votes to go on tour of candidate areas for a dump

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

SPENCERVILLE — Consultants and steering committee members for the Grenville-Dundas waste management study will be using a hands on approach and actually visit the 26 areas they have outlined as possible regional dump sites.

At a meeting here last Thursday, the steering committee moved that they and the public liaison committee take a lengthy bus tour of all candidate areas.

Dick Cave, consulting engineer for the study, said that a public representative for each area could accompany the bus tour, explaining to consultants his or her reasons why an area should not be used for landfill. "This would be a constructive trip and a fair way to treat the areas," he said.

The waste study is looking for a 200 acre landfill site with a deep clay base to serve the needs of the 13 municipalities involved, including Brockville, for the next 20 years. The study is now in stage 2a: in Stage 2b, systems and sites will be looked at.

After special public meetings were held in the townships of Winchester, Williamsburg, Mountain and Matilda, consultants received a great deal of feed-back on tile drains, municipal drains, capital intensive farm land, and buffer zones around prime agricultural land, well water supplies, and schools.

The decision to take a closer look at the area came after discussion of concerns raised during the public meetings, and written comments sent the consultants.

Consensus on criteria should be obtained

Cave said that an agreement on site criteria selection should be obtained within the next few weeks from the agencies involved.

"If we have questions now on including criteria or leaving it out, it will haunt us down the road, he said. "Agencies like the Department of Agriculture should be reviewed for comments now."

"If all agricultural land from Class 1 to 4 is to be included in constraint areas, it should be agreed upon now. However, if all tile drained land is omitted from consideration, there may not be any land left."

"If so, the waste study will have to ask either the Department of Agriculture or the Ministry of Natural Resources to relax their stand," continued Cave.

Ministry of Natural Resources land is protected by laws and the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food has Foodland Guidelines to safeguard lands.

"But a compromise must be reached between the agencies if there is no agreement," said Cave. "Also the comments of the public should be incorporated as well."

New information will update maps

New information on tile drains will be used to update present constraint maps, said Consultant Andy Robinson. Class 3 and 4 tile drained land, but not Class 6 and 7, will be included as a constraint. Some land could be incorporated into the study which was not previously under consideration.

A landowner had contacted consultants about selling his orchard to the study, but the ministries involved would have to be consulted before any action could be taken. "We should look

Clean-A-Thon project to raise community awareness and cash

MORRISBURG — Morrisburg Public School students have decided to pitch in and help their community by participating in a Clean-A-Thon scheduled for May 6.

Students have been asked to obtain sponsors from amongst their family, friends and neighbors. The money raised in the Clean-A-Thon will be used for extra-curricular activities.

The fund-raiser is different from the traditional walk-a-thons or bike-a-thons and was conceived by MPS Principal Dick Turner.

"I wanted a fund-raiser that would teach kids responsibility and also do something for the community," he said.

Students from all grades will take part in the two hour clean-a-thon beginning at 9:30 a.m.

Junior and senior kindergarten and grade 1 students will clean the school grounds and track area.

Grades 2 and 3 have been designated to clean the Civic Centre grounds and Post Office block.

Grade 4 students will head to Orchard Way Park to clean up the area and grade 5 students are responsible for cleaning the village park east of Church Street.

The senior students, grades 6 to 8, will pick up rubbish from the waterfront area east of Ottawa Street.

Teachers, as well as parents who wish to volunteer will supervise students during their spring cleaning. Sponsors may be collected up to May 2.

Prizes will be awarded to the top fund-raiser in each class. As well, one student in each class, who shows a positive attitude and does a good cleaning job, will be presented with a medal from the school.

Teachers Andre Charlebois and Susan Marsden-Whelan are organizing the clean-a-thon.

Counties select consulting firm

CORNWALL — DPA Group Inc., a Toronto-based consulting firm specializing in social services and health issues has been awarded a contract to develop and implement a plan for proposed satellite homes in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

A steering committee, with Mountain Township Reeve Keith Fawcett as chairman, was set up recently to develop a strategy for a single facility and a wide range of community, residential and support service alternatives.

The consultants will report to the committee which consists of representatives from the United Counties, the City of Cornwall, the Ministry of Community and Social Services and concerned community members.

It was established following MCSS Minister John Sweeney's refusal to fund the construction of a home for the aged in Williamsburg Township.

The policy of the ministry is to fund supportive housing for seniors, allowing them to remain in their own communities as long as possible.

The ministry did agree to reconstruct a 125 bed extended care facility to replace the Glen-Stor-Dun Lodge at the existing site.

The types of housing that will be considered include joint housing ventures between the municipalities, MCSS and the Ministry of Health, and the serviced groups of non-profit housing.

Book buy

Steven Neild, a grade 1 student at Morrisburg Public School buys a book about dragons from MPS secretary Barb Phifer. The school presented a book fair last week as part of Education Week. The fair featured a wide variety of titles ready for purchase.

Norm Warner assures students of increased prosperity under FTA

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

INGLESIDE — Norm Warner, MP for Stormont-Dundas, told a group of Rothwell-Osnabruck high school students here last Monday that free trade would cause little or no job less in the immediate area. He said that, in fact, he was looking forward to the job opportunities that the agreement would create for local youth.

The politician returned last week from a discussion of trade issues in the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT) headquarters in Geneva, where Canadian representatives were explaining current decisions.

"Kraft Foods of Ingleside is producing at full capacity and so is Domtar Fine Papers of Cornwall," said Warner. These industries are not likely to be affected although there may be some adjustments.

Tariffs cannot be removed too fast for Courtaulds of Cornwall who would like to see them eliminated now rather than phased out over ten years, as the agreement presently proposes. Negotiations are now underway to eliminate that tariff.

Ten reasons in favour of Free Trade

Warner listed the following ten reasons to support FTA (free trade agreement). Our continued prosperity depends on our ability to export, which is threatened by trade barriers. Our two countries are more interdependent in a trade relationship than ever before, and co-operation is needed rather than confrontation.

Ninety per cent of Ontario exports go to the U.S. while 83 per cent of Ontario's imports come from south of the border.

"As the smaller partner, Canada will lose in a fight based on a raw power politics, and it is in our interest to ensure that disputes are resolved on the basis of facts and the rule of law," Warner said.

Canada has long exported natural resources such as natural gas and not processed goods like petrochemicals, because tariffs are higher on value-added products. By eliminating tariffs, barriers to manufacturing and processing are removed.

The FTA will encourage investment in energy projects which will mean greater energy security for Canada in the future.

Access to the U.S. market will mean more job-creating investment in Canada, stop the exodus of firms to the U.S., and make Canada more attractive for the location of foreign firms.

Our FTA negotiations accord with the liberalization of trade barriers we are pursuing in GATT, so we can enter these negotiations from a position of strength.

The FTA means special status for Canadian exporters in the American market. Under GATT, countries must treat products from all other countries equally. But, if trade flows freely between two countries, they may grant each other preferential status.

Consumer prices are to fall as the agreement goes into effect. Our increased prosperity will improve our ability to finance social programs.

Problems in the Food Processing Industry

Warner agreed there had been problems in the food processing industry. "No final answer has yet been found for the wine industry, but when areas of trouble are identified, there will be a program to assist," he continued.

"Farmers had a problem with ice cream and yogurt, which agricultural groups wanted resolved immediately, and it was accomplished by talking to the Americans," he continued.

In the east, marketing board powers are left untouched, and in the west, cattlemen have access to the U.S. market.

"We have made progress in ending the insane grain trade war, and horticultural producers have received special protection." Ontario fruit and vegetable producers will be protected for 20 years by special tariffs which may be placed on their products when prices are unusually low.

One student was concerned about the difficulties Canadian authors and publishers would face. Warner said that publishing was a special area of negotiations, which would require monitoring, and there would always be tinkering in the area of culture.

"If our authors don't get the opportunities they need, we'll introduce new programs. With more prosperity created by free trade, there'll be more corporate sponsorship," he added.

"Our social programs are not at risk," he continued. Equalization payments to poorer provinces, health care and education, old age security and the Canada Pension Plan, Unemployment Insurance, the CBC, and Canada Council will remain in place. But we need the continuing economic growth ensured by free trade in order to maintain these programs.

He denied there would be a takeover in investment by U.S. interests. "Canada retains the right to review potential acquisitions of companies with $150 million in gross assets, which are the largest 1000 companies in Canada." Cultural investments are excluded, and statutory limits in energy, communications, and fisheries remain.

"We have agreed to reduce our energy exports on a proportional basis in a time of shortage." Warner denied this was an energy sell-out. The Liberal Government signed a similar agreement on oil in 1974 calling for increased oil exports to assist our allies in times of crisis, whereas our agreement calls for reduced exports on a proportional basis. "It is in Canada's interest to keep the U.S. economy from shutting down for lack of fuel."

How about our ability to pursue an independent foreign policy? Whether we reach an agreement or not, Canadian and American foreign policy will pursue the same goals of global peace, nuclear disarmament, collective defense, human rights, and economic growth. But the same goal such as peace in Central America does not preclude different means of achieving it.

Warner said that Canada has been negotiating with its trading partners for forty years to lower tariff barriers, with resultant prosperity. In the 1980's the process continued as the last GATT agreement was implemented, to the point where more than three quarters of Canada-U.S. trade now flows freely.

He cautioned the group on the consequences if the agreement is not finalized, and we continue to trade with the U.S. "It would also be more difficult to sell to other parts of the world, and a quarter of our jobs would be jeopardized."

Canada's wildflower heritage

The beauty and diversity of the native wildflowers of Canada are among nature's greatest gifts to all of us, and may be found and enjoyed throughout the seasons in meadows, woodlots, roadsides, bogs, and even on abandoned lots in the hearts of cities and towns. But this beauty and diversity is largely unknown and unappreciated by many Canadians.

Did you know that cactus grow wild in Ontario? Or that the Bruce Peninsula is home to more species of wild orchids than any other part of Canada? Even the rugged northern sections of our province have a wide variety of attractive and interesting wildflowers and other wild flora.

But with our insatiable demand for more land for housing, roads and commercial developments, much of the habitat of our wild flora is being destroyed daily. And we compound the problems by the use of pesticides, herbicides and other plant-destroying chemicals.

The Canadian Wildflower Society was formed in 1984 to help increase public awareness and knowledge of Canada's wild flora (which term includes wildflowers, trees, shrubs, mosses, grasses, fungi and lichens), and to serve as a strong voice for their protection and preservation. The Society now boasts more than 3,000 members in Canada, the United States and overseas.

As a tool for the spread of knowledge, the Society publishes "Wildflower", the only magazine in North America devoted exclusively to wild flora. The publication has received rave reviews around the world. Membership in the Society costs $20.00 per year, and includes four issues of Wildflower. Any readers interested can obtain more information (or a membership) from The Canadian Wildflower Society, at 35 Bauer Crescent, Unionville, Ontario. L3R 4H3.

Honoring our volunteers

National Volunteer Week, observed annually throughout Canada, serves to remind all of us of the importance of the contributions made by volunteers, to our cultural and everyday life, and of the tremendous debt of gratitude which we owe to this group.

Census figures indicate that some 2.7 million Canadians volunteer, and this represents some ten per cent of the population. Of these millions, 46 per cent are male, 54 per cent female. A typical one spends 137 hours per year doing volunteer work, is married, employed, well educated, and between 25 and 44 years of age.

Much of the work that is done in our society for money is worthless to almost everyone except those who profit directly from it. Voluntary service, on the other hand, is so valuable to all its many beneficiaries as to be literally priceless. Who could ever put a value on teaching a crippled child to swim? How do you establish a price to do the shopping, or just to drop in for a chat once in a while, with an elderly shut-in?

While the attitude that only paid work really matters is lamentably all too common, it is nevertheless a fact that voluntary activities account for an estimated 3.3 per cent of Canada's gross national product. One in every seven Canadians is involved in some sort of voluntary activity, and organized voluntary work in this country amounts to a total of more than 375 million man-hours annually.

While great numbers of Canadian volunteers are active in fields of sports, the arts and civil rights, 31.5 per cent of them work in the social welfare and health fields. Another 25 per cent donate their time to various religious groups, which are also partially involved in health and education and social welfare. In other words, these people are directly concerned with helping others — for free — and, in so doing, they are making a great contribution to the whole of society.

One of the mainstays of our way of life is the understanding that the stronger must share their strength with the weaker. There could be no social order at all if the community interest did not have priority over purely selfish aims. The religions, which did much to establish a social order in the very beginning, have always stressed that the individual has an obligation to his fellow human beings. The concept of mutual support is implicit in almost every religious belief.

Today, even the most right-wing political parties agree on the premise that government must provide some basic measure of social services and security for all who really need them. And, at the same time, even the most left-wing parties concede that government simply cannot do all that needs to be done.

Public services, no matter how efficiently they are administered, lack the human touch that those in distress need so badly. Volunteers can either supplement the services provided, or take care of the special problems which government-sponsored programs so often overlook.

When volunteers are asked the reason why they volunteer, they usually cite the satisfaction they derive from helping others. A typical reaction came from a former champion figure skater, teaching skating to blind children: "Don't get me wrong; I don't teach these classes as charity. I teach them because it gives me such a tremendous satisfaction".

The need for volunteers is bound to keep growing constantly, because there is so much hardship and trouble to be alleviated everywhere, so many who need a helping hand which is often not offered by officialdom. The watchword of voluntarism is "do what you can", and if each and every one of us will do all that we can, it will never be too little. Mother Teresa of Calcutta, who was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for her work among the poorest of the poor in India, put the principle of volunteer service in its proper perspective, when she said: "We feel ourselves, that what we are doing is just a very small drop in the ocean. But if that drop was not in the ocean, I think the ocean would be less because of that missing drop".

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles
by Bonnie McNairn

1978

Headlines in the April 26th, 1978 issue of The Leader read Lions favored to win series. The Morrisburg Junior B Lions were in a favored 3-0 position to win the coveted Citizen Shield as champions of the O.D.J.H.L. for the second time in three years. The Lions had defeated the Richmond Royals 6-5, 7-5, and 8-4.

Lila and Gordon Mulholland of Morrisburg were celebrating the 50th anniversary of their marriage.

The Rohm and Haas, Seaway Chemical plant east of Morrisburg was preparing to celebrate its third year with no loss time injuries. The plant had passed 1,012 days without losing any time to injury.

Graham Froats of Williamsburg was dealt the perfect cribbage hand by his wife and so astonished, he let the hand lie where it was and began another game elsewhere.

Introduced in the Meet Your OPP column was Constable Russ Lackey who was born in Perth and joined the OPP in 1967. He came to Morrisburg in 1976.

Jim Notman was presented a list of sponsors, with pledges totalling $535, by the employees of Beaver's Dental to assist him in his effort to raise money for Cystic Fibrosis. He was preparing to run in the annual Ottawa Regional Marathon for the purpose of collecting money for the foundation.

Pictured on the front page of the May 3rd, 1968 issue of The Leader was Dawn Froats with Morrisburg municipal clerk Lloyd Barkley. Dawn was one of 21 Seaway High students involved in a work experience program.

At Brybar Flowers in Morrisburg red roses were $4 a dozen.

Introduced in the Meet Your OPP column was constable John Burke who was a native of Kingston. In 1967 he joined the OPP after a stint with the Royal Canadian Air Force and seven years employment as a draftsman. He came to Morrisburg in 1967.

Effective immediately, the Board of Directors at Winchester District Memorial Hospital had opted for open visiting hours. This allowed patients to have visitors from 2-8 p.m. Restrictions were in place in obstetrics which allowed visits from parents and grand parents only and in all departments, children under 11 years, were not allowed to visit.

The May 2nd, 1958 issue of The Leader reported that Rev. John Hardwick, pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, was one of three clergymen to receive honorary doctorates of divinity from the Presbyterian College of Montreal. Rev. Hardwick came to Morrisburg in 1951.

Fund raising efforts were continuing for the Morrisburg Community Centre but some organizers were discouraged when a canvasser returned, after canvassing 50 residences in a newly-built area of Morrisburg, with less than $10.

Mrs. Robert D. Roberts, a member of one of Morrisburg's pioneer families, died at her home in Toronto. Born at Morrisburg, she was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Kennedy. Her father started the Morrisburg Courier and Dundas Advertiser in the 1860s and her maternal grandfather, James Holden, was a merchant and the first postmaster of Morrisburg. His place of business was located on River Street and later on Lock St., in a building which later became the Windsor Hotel. She was educated in Morrisburg and later married D.R. Roberts who operated the Ontario Packing and Provision Co.

Work on the Seaway project was continuing and the old No. 2 Highway had officially been closed by Hydro. All those travelling on it were doing so at their own risk as all signs and guard rails had been removed.
The only thing left was the Lutheran Church and it was rapidly being torn down.

It was reported in the April 30th, 1948 issue of The Leader that Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Saddlemire were celebrating the 61st anniversary of their marriage which was solemnized at the Presbyterian Church Manse in Morrisburg in 1887 by Rev. E. Bayne.

Ron McLean had left Morrisburg to join the crew of the S.S. John Misener as deckhand.

Clouthier's in Morrisburg was selling men's blue overalls for $3.75.

1938

The May 6th, 1938 issue of The Leader reported that J. Frank Rose, Provincial Constable at Morrisburg, was severely burned about the chest and one arm when he tripped and fell while carrying a large pot of water at his home. He was expected to return to work in a few days.

At Lloyd's Market, grapefruit were five cents each and hamburg was two pounds for 25 cents.

The May 4th, 1928 issue of The Leader reported that Donald Montpetit, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Montpetit, of Iroquois, had mysteriously disappeared and was believed drowned.

After 18 years of service as postmaster at the Brinston Post Office, Thomas Hamilton had resigned.

At Fisher Brothers, cottage rolls were 27 cents a pound and prime rib roasts were 30 cents a pound.

Mission Possible prevents dropouts

"Mission Possible" drew over 600 educators from every corner of Ontario and across Canada to Toronto to share proven strategies for reducing drop-out rates and facilitating re-entry into the publicly supported school system.

This two-day conference, jointly sponsored by the Ontario Teachers' Federation and the Ministry of Education, featured keynote addresses and workshops given by some of Ontario's most prominent educators in the field of student retention.

In his opening remarks, Education Minister Chris Ward said that ongoing Ministry research projects, school board pilot projects and events such as "Mission Possible" form a solid base for fundamental decisions about the future of education in Ontario. "Some of the best solutions to prevent drop-outs come from those closest to the classroom," he said. "Effective change will be the result of joint planning and decision-making by all the partners in Ontario's educational community—government, educators and parents alike."

"Team work is essential," agreed Ken Weber, Professor of Special Education at the Faculty of Education, University of Toronto. "The most successful programs to prevent drop-outs are those which have the full support of the school team. By acknowledging the unique atmosphere and requirements of the local community, the school experience will be more meaningful, thereby facilitating the bonding of students with the school and connecting with the system." Dr. Weber stressed the need for teachers to heighten their sensitivity to the particular needs of students enrolled in general and basic level courses.

Drawing upon his seventeen-year experience as founder and teacher at Hamilton's Alternative Cool School for troubled youth, McMaster University Professor of Psychiatry Jim Anderson offered strategies to reach the student at risk. These included smaller schools and classes; more diagnosis of cognitive problems; increased on-site access to mental health professionals; and more alternative learning programs. "Teachers must make themselves accessible to the students and be prepared to fail many times before they succeed," he said. "It may not be fair, but schools have to accept the burden of society's failures."

In his address opening Wednesday's session, George Radwanski, author of the recently released "Ontario Study of the Relevance of Education, and the Issue of Dropouts," recapped key elements of his report. In referring to his recommendation that a pre-school learning environment be made available across the province as a matter of right for children from the age of three, he said, "Because I see the problem as a continuum, we can't wait to address it in high school or even earlier in the school system. It's a fact that kids from less advantaged households will be the ones to benefit most from pre-school learning. I'm suggesting that this option not be compulsory but be promoted and be made available particularly to these students."

She's a good talker

Tamara Bond, 13, a grade 8 student at Nationview Public School won the intermediate public speaking contest held at Morrisburg on Monday. Tamara's speech on divorce beat out five others for the top prize. She is pictured above with Nationview Vice-Principal Brenda Waddell.

Waste study goes on tour

at land that is offered us," Robinson added.

Ministry of the Environment representative, Rick Eamon, said that a lot of land under consideration for landfill because of its clay base should be looked at now for depth, to see if it is really suitable.

"The areas should be looked at more closely now, or the people will lose confidence in our abilities if information doesn't come up until site selection stage," said Eamon.

The bus tour will take place after candidate areas are more clearly defined, and will include public land in the Edwardsburgh landbank, at the insistance of Reeve Lorne Mellan. But Cave cautioned that if public land is considered acceptable for landfill, "you have relaxed the criteria which should be hard and fast."

"But the province might relax criteria for the landbank, whereas they would not relax criteria for an eight kilometer buffer zone around the airport," said Eamon.

Chairman will contact other studies

The chairman of the waste study is to contact chairman of other steering committees in Eastern Ontario to discuss and share knowledge of the various studies in the region, with letters of information sent to the directors of the south-east region, the Environmental Assessment Branch, and a copy to the Minister of the Environment.

Funded by the ministry, the meetings could be beneficial on progress for the short term, and on finances for the long term.

Cave suggested that a compensation policy be formulated by the steering committee for landowners who own property at or near a site, pool and hall which can be rented for weddings, anniversaries, etc.

The new owners don't intend to make changes to the site but are hoping to open up the downstairs hall for dances, brunches or other entertainment.

before more public meetings are held.

The next public meetings will be held near the end of June. The updated constraint map should be available, with some narrowing of candidate areas. Also, alternate systems of waste disposal will be looked at with regards to feasibility.

One day mail service

Morrisburg resident A.L. Randell had proof last Wednesday, that mail delivery between Toronto and Morrisburg is possible in one day or less—but not necessarily through the conventional service.

Walking along the Morrisburg Beach early that morning, Mr. Randall discovered a balloon, with card attached, which was caught on some weeds, there. Investigating further, he found that the balloon had been released one day previously, on Tuesday, April 19th in Toronto, by a member of a junior school group called "Inner City Angels". It was one of many released that day in their 10th Annual Balloon Race. Prizes are offered for the return of the balloon which travelled the longest distance in the shortest time, and proceeds from the events are used to help finance further education in fine arts for the city students.

Caravan Camp changes owners

MORRISBURG — Caravan Camp is under new management.

Four Ottawa area residents bought the trailer park from Ann and Jack Barkley two weeks ago. Donna and Gary Little, Fay Lyttle and David Shields took possession of the site April 15.

The group ended up buying the trailer park through chance.

While David and Fay were out driving one afternoon they decided to visit a real estate office and pick up a listing of properties for sale.

"David wanted to get into the recreation business," said Fay. "We picked up a pamphlet and saw Caravan Camp. I used to have a trailer down here so I knew where it was. Next thing you know we drove down."

Fay has already sold her home in Ottawa and the Littles will be moving shortly.

"We love it down here," she said.

Caravan Camp consists of overnight and seasonal comp sites, 100 serviced lots, a swimming

Report from Ottawa...

Norm Warner

Together with most of my colleagues in the government, I have been receiving a large volume of letters from constituents concerning the issue of abortion.

Since the Supreme Court decision in February which rendered illegal that section of the Criminal Code of Canada which deals with abortion, the government must now bring forward updated legislation which will conform to the Canadian Charter of Rights and Freedoms and our new constitutional arrangement which was concluded in 1981.

The House of Commons has debated the issue of abortion only once in recent years when Dr. Mitges presented a Private Member's Motion, M-37. Dr. Mitges wished to have the Charter amended to include rights for the unborn.

The vote taken last June was defeated by the House. I was one of the government members who voted in favor of the motion, that is, in favor of including rights for the unborn in the Charter.

Currently, the Solicitor General, Hon. Ray Hnatyshyn, and his department are working on the needed legislation and will introduce a bill in the near future.

I would like to see this bill, as would many of my colleagues, introduced as soon as possible because of the absence of legislation that presently exists.

Students from St. Lawrence High School visited the Hill last Wednesday and brought as their guests several exchange students from France. The grade 9 students and their teacher, Mr. Roy, toured the Parliament Buildings.

Also visiting on the Hill Wednesday were journalists from the Standard-Freeholder, the Morrisburg Leader and the Iroquois Chieftain. Judy O'Brien, Sandra Johnston and Shawn Upton were my guests for lunch in the Parliamentary Restaurant.

On Thursday I was pleased to attend the official opening of Helko Systems Furniture. I would like to welcome this fine company to the industrial community in our area.

Ladies have opportunity to bid on favorite bachelor for charity

OTTAWA — On Thursday, May 12th, the Chateau Laurier Ballroom will be the scene of Ottawa's first ever Bachelor Bid. The evening begins with cocktails at 6:30 p.m., followed by dinner at 7:00 p.m. Bidding gets underway at 8:00 p.m. with CJOH's Max Keeping acting as Master of Ceremonies.

Noted Ottawa area bachelors Wayne Rostad, Alderman Mac Harb, Dave Smith (The Place Next Door), Ralph Tannis (Fat Albert's), Dennis Ruffo (Bass Clef), Pat Lowell (Children's Wish Foundation), Ottawa Rough Riders Tom Dixon and Larry Mohr, along with several media personalities and other single gentlemen from both the public and private sectors are busily preparing their date packages. Details of these date packages will be provided that evening and may include such things as limousine service, roses, elegant dinners and trips away.

Bachelor Bid is a joint fundraising project between the Ottawa Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation and the Children's Hospital Foundation. CF is an inherited lung disease that affects one in 2,000 births and is the leading genetic killer of children and young adults in Canada. Your support of Bachelor Bid will allow us to fund on-going research projects and education programs, as well as continuing "Excellence" in health care for our children.

Tickets for Bachelor Bid are available through all Davis Agency outlets, or call Cathy Cavanagh at 737-2782 or the Ottawa CF Chapter at 729-1969. Cost of tickets is $75.00, a portion of which will be tax deductible. Door prizes will be an added bonus for everyone in attendance.

Bachelor Bid promises to be an enjoyable evening.

Counties literacy council progressing

The Tri-County Literacy Council is pleased to report that they have made excellent progress in a very short time and have already realized many short term goals. Students and tutors have been matched and strides have been made towards reducing the illiteracy rate.

The co-ordinator of the Council, Geraldine McGowan, and a co-worker of Cornwall, will be present at the United Church Women's Meeting, Monday, May 2, 7:30 p.m., Allan Hall, Lakeshore United Church, Morrisburg.

The Literacy Council is considering the possibilities of forming a satellite group here and becoming more readily available to reach the more than 15,000 to 20,000 illiterates in the Tri-Counties.

All those interested in this subject are urged to attend.

In search of the goose . . . with the golden egg?

Eggs carefully removed

SUMMERSTOWN — Some 500 Canadian Geese will fly out of here this week, but they won't be part of the Spring migration common at this time of the year.

The 500, as yet unhatched, will be passengers aboard a specially equipped twin engine Beach Craft bound for Oklahoma where state wildlife officials are in the third year of a program aimed at establishing a resident flock.

In conjunction with the Ministry of Natural Resources here, officials of the Oklahoma Department of Wildlife Conservation have been in the area collecting Canada goose eggs to transport home.

The project started Monday when nesting areas around the 401 and Upper Canada Golf Course were scoured for eggs and Tuesday the group headed for Lake St. Lawrence.

Maps indicating previously known nesting sites were used but still a great deal of searching took place to locate the nests.

John Aldrich of the Oklahoma Department explained the project began in 1986 when 500 eggs were collected. Last year another 600 were shipped and the group hopes to collect around 600 this week.

The project is a component of the Giant Canada Goose East Program started in Oklahoma in 1980 under the State Duck Stamp Program.

"We've been translocating Canada geese from the Toronto area, as well as Michigan, Minnesota, Colorado and Wisconsin," said Aldrich. "The picked adults have been taken to Oklahoma and released in an effort to set up a resident free-flying flock."

Aldrich explained that historically the Canada goose did not nest in Oklahoma. They did winter there, but they didn't nest. Nesting took place from mid-Kansas north.

"At the turn of the century we had no water but now we have 1,500,000 acres of surface water," he said. "So we do have the habitat."

Too early to evaluate

Aldrich explained it's a little too early to evaluate the program as the Canada goose doesn't generally nest until its third year.

"But we do have some two-year-olds that are nesting now so it is encouraging," he said. "It'll take three-four years to produce an accurate evaluation."

Once the eggs arrive in Oklahoma they become part of a Gosling Co-operation program in which they are delivered to game farms. There they are hatched, and when 10 days old, they are given out to individuals involved in the program.

The criteria needed to be a recipient of, from 10 to 20 goslings, is that the person must have at least 200 acres of controlled land, there can be no hunting on the land for five years and there must be at least 20 acres of water within the 200 acres.

In total Aldrich estimated about 7,000 geese have been brought into the State which has resulted in a current population of about 9,000.

The egg hunt begins

The egg hunt began Monday and the groups realized about 230 eggs. By lunchtime Tuesday the figure was around 300 and it was expected that after the search Tuesday afternoon and Wednesday the target number of between 500 and 600 eggs would be met.

In the first year of the program, in 1986, the hatch rate was an unbelievable 92 per cent, explained James Dorr, another official from Oklahoma.

"There were a few non-fertile eggs, so had we taken them out our hatch-rate would have been up around 96 per cent which is really good," said Dorr.

Dorr explained that a third year goose will have three-five eggs in a nest and older geese can have as many as nine. The average is between five and seven.

The birds begin nesting in early April and the incubation period is from 25-30 days.

"We've allowed the eggs about three weeks of incubation," said Steve Aubry of the Ministry of Natural Resources here. "The longer the eggs are allowed to incubate the more stable they are and the better our success rate will be."

All but one or two eggs are carefully removed from the nest and, along with some down, they are placed into a cooler to maintain their warmth.

"We always leave some eggs," said Aubry. "That way we ensure the goose will return to the same site another year."

Once the required eggs are removed the remaining down is pushed back around those left. Normally when the goose leaves the nest to feed she will push the down around the eggs but when scared off they are left uncovered.

Unlike some birds Aubry explained, geese do not abandon the eggs if they have been disturbed. In all instances Tuesday, the bird was back on the nest within 10-15 minutes.

"Once collected our biggest concern is not letting the eggs cool before getting them back home and into incubators," said Dorr.

The eggs are transported from the sites in the coolers to an incubator at the home of Eric Johnston west of Morrisburg.

Johnston, who is retired from the ministry, was an initiator in a similar program in 1981 when some 441 eggs were shipped to Arkansas.

The temperature is maintained inside the incubator at 99 degrees Farenheit until the eggs are transported to the plane at Summerstown.

In the first project back in 1981, 11 eggs hatched before they reached the plane and as a result the cargo included 430 eggs and 11 goslings.

Later this week the eggs will be flown to Oklahoma in a specially-equipped twin engine Beach Craft. Special hoses from the engine to the back of the plane have been hooked up to maintain the heat during the eight hour flight.

Flown in comfort

"The first year we had to go home in shorts," quipped Dorr. "We had no partition between the seats and the back of the plane and to say the least it got warm. In fact we melted the side of a plastic brief case."

The birds that have been transferred from the Toronto area and other states are now a permanent flock in Oklahoma.

"We have a relatively mild winter with little snow," said Dorr. "A snowfall might last two or three days and if the snow stays up to five days it is really unusual."

"Most of the birds or eggs are settled in the southeast portion of the state where the weather is cooler than in the panhandle and there is more water," he said.

Local population controlled

The program is actually two-fold in nature. Not only is the Ministry here assisting in the set up in Oklahoma but at the same time the local population is being controlled.

The Upper Canada Migratory Bird Sanctuary east of Morrisburg is the summer home of 2,000 Canada Geese. Officially established in 1961, it is now operated jointly by the Ontario Ministry of Natural Resources and the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

The site was acquired after the St. Lawrence Seaway construction and the local flock was established by releasing 55 geese from central Ontario in 1959 and 15 mated pairs from Delaware in 1960.

The progeny of these geese along with the New York State flock now number more than 4,000 birds.

"We get complaints about the geese from farmers and golf courses," said Aubry. "So by shipping some out we are controlling the population and making everyone happy."

Exceptional winter reported

Golf courses need warm weather

MORRISBURG — While the flags are flying at all area golf courses, except Upper Canada, there is still one main ingredient missing and that's warm weather.

The flags have been in at Iroquois, Cedar Glen and Morrisburg for about two weeks but the cold weather has been keeping most players at home.

It has been a good spring as far as drying up is concerned but the lack of warm weather and warm rains is preventing the grass from really getting started.

Jim Riopelle, who is starting his third year at Upper Canada, says it was a remarkably good winter.

"There is no winter kill but some of the greens that aren't well protected were desiccated due to the lack of snow," he said. "But the crowns were okay so they are greening up now."

Riopelle reports that if it hadn't been for the January thaw there could have been more damage.

"The way the winter started in November, when it turned extremely cold wasn't good and we ended up with ice under the snow," he said explaining that the grass can live under ice for a certain period of time depending on the variety.

Had we not had the January thaw, which allowed the ice to melt and the water to get away, the grass could have been severely damaged.

"After that there was no problem because we got the snow right back," he said.

Riopelle cut the greens at Upper Canada for the first time on April 15th and says there was a lot of growth.

"We took a pile of grass off then but there hasn't been much growth since," he says. "We did a second cut on the 22nd but didn't get much off them."

Upper Canada will open Saturday, May 7th and green fees for 1988 have been set at $14 weekdays and $17 weekends.

After five rates are $6.50 weekdays and $7.50 weekends and electric cart rentals are $18. Other rentals are $3.25 for pull cards and $5.50 for clubs and bag.

A season membership at Upper Canada for one person is $375 and for a family, which includes two adults in the same household and children under 16 years, is $650.

A senior citizen membership is $250 and is valid for weekdays only.

Tee off bookings at Upper Canada are mandatory and are taken up to three days in advance. Bookings for the opening on the 7th will be accepted beginning Wednesday, May 4th.

Riopelle reports one major change to the course, a new drainage pond near the number one green. He also expects to put in some new teeoffs on five and seven but they won't be in play this season.

Iroquois

Burns McAdam at the Iroquois golf club who has been working with greenkeeper Percy Robertson, reports that Iroquois wintered beautifully as well.

"Really we just need some warm weather now," he said. "The grass is really not growing yet."

Iroquois club president Jeff Beaupre says he is looking forward to the season and says he has a young aggressive board of directors who have been working hard.

"Our memberships are growing and we expect to go over the 400 mark this year," said Beaupre.

The green fees at Iroquois this year are $7 weekdays and $10 weekends. The clubhouse is open now and is being looked after by the club directors. Beaupre says the summer staff will probably be in place in early May.

Memberships are due by May 21st and new members can enquire and pay at the snackbar.

Membership fees at Iroquois are: husband and wife $225; man $155; woman $135; family $280; senior man $120; senior woman $105; senior couple $185; junior with parent member $55; junior without parent member $70.

Morrisburg

Morrisburg also wintered well, with little winter kill but the lack of snow took its toll on some greens and teeoffs.

Greenkeeper Harry Nicolaassen did the first cut on the greens on April 12 and the flags went in on the 15th. The fact that the course dried up fast has allowed a lot of cleanup work to be completed.

The membership count currently stands at 227, mainly the result of early bird memberships paid prior to March 31st. Memberships are due May 1st and for 1988 are: men's or ladies $150; husband and wife $255; family (includes two adults in same household and children up to 19 years) $305; and junior (up to 19) $55.

Green fees at Morrisburg this year are $10 weekdays and $12 weekends and late day rates which are in effect after 6 p.m. May through July are $7 and $9.

Club rentals are $3.50 and pull carts are $1.50. The Morrisburg Club house will be open Saturday, April 30th.

Cedar Glen

Dennis Casselman at Cedar Glen, just east of Williamsburg reports the same conditions and is also looking forward to some warm weather to get things started.

The flags have been in for two weeks and the clubhouse open on the weekends, but Casselman says he hopes to have it going full time this week.

Green fees at Cedar Glen are $10 weekdays and weekends and rental equipment is available. Cedar Glen does not offer after 5 p.m. rates.

Memberships are $160 for men, $110 for women, $215 for couples and $240 for families. Juvenile, ages 16 to 18 are $50 and juniors, ages eight to 15, are $35.

Both walk ons and reserve times are available on the weekends. The Cedar Glen Golf calendar starts May 4th with the first ladies night and May 5th for the men.

New curling executive

MORRISBURG — Members of the executive for the Morrisburg Curling Club were elected at the annual spring meeting held at the club last Tuesday night.

The members of the executive representing the various groups within the club are: Kathy Johnston evening ladies; Graeme Doig evening men; Margrit Dutta mixed curlers; Reg Wild senior men; and Helen Laurin afternoon ladies; The junior curlers position is vacant.

As well the board includes four members at large, positions filled by Allen Brunt, Brad Bradford and John Wilson. One spot remains open.

Kathy Johnston, the ladies representative, was the club president for the 1987-88 season.

As well members of the board for the Granites Club were elected as follows: Kathy Johnston, Donna Moore, Ian McGillis, Sid Morrell and Reg Wild.

Graeme Doig and Allen Brunt hold positions on the board until 1989.

Legion bowling

INGLESIDE — Trailing the Cyclones by a single point going into the final night of playoff bowling here last Thursday the Go Getters produced a 3024 team pinfall to claim the 1988 Legion mixed bowling league playoff championship.

The Cyclones settled for second with a 3010 pinfall.

Gary Brewer led the Go Getters with a 696 cross on single games of 244-207-245 and Vicki Boivin backed him with a 630 (221-235-174).

Other members of the championship team were Barbara Marriner, Gayle Hart and Dave Zewuster.

The Go Getters finished the three nights of the playoffs with a 9026 team pinfall while the Cyclones had 9013.

The Cyclones had three bowlers cross better than 600 in their unsuccessful bid for the championship. Frank Marriner led it with a 643 (210-233-200), followed by Lynn Dillabough with a 639 (192-207-240) and Karen Holmden with a 626 (200-199-226).

Third place went to the Bad News Bears with a three night total of 8737. Thursday they put together 3036 points which moved them out of fifth place.

Linda Stata had a big night for the Bears with a 726 cross (181-278-267) and Hubert Massie crossed a 642 (218-292-132).

The Basement Team clained fourth place with an 8641 pinfall, 2703 of that coming on the final night. Top roller here was Larry Stata.

Fifth place went to the Silver Bullets with a 8639 total. Gary Cryderman produced their best effort Thursday with a 653 cross (180-294-178).

The Dipsticks claimed sixth place, the Back Spinners seventh and the Three Ballers eighth.

Top roller for the Dipsticks was Martin Nicolaassen, for the Three Ballers it was Guy Hart and for the Back Spinners George Baker.

Go Getters	9026
Cyclones	9013

The 19th hole

MORRISBURG — It was more of the same at the Morrisburg Golf Course this week...cold weather and snow flurries.

As a result only the hardiest of golfers continue to hit the links, but the number is continuing to grow. Obviously there are many who are getting tired of waiting.

A reminder about the golf lessons scheduled to begin May 2nd. Our column last week gave the wrong phone number for Barb Sheridan, so please note: if you are interested in lessons call Barb at 543-2349.

Barb has arranged lessons through Don Fraser, who for many years was the club professional at the Cornwall Country Club.

Lessons are being offered Monday mornings and afternoons and Friday mornings, afternoons and evenings. The cost is set at $12 for a 50 minute private lesson and $20 for four group lessons.

By now everyone should have received their membership package and will have read the summary of the study done last year.

Some very interesting information came out of the study and everyone is urged to attend the annual meeting Sunday, May 1st when the consultants will be on hand to give their presentation.

As well, at the meeting which begins at 2 p.m., the 1988 budget will be passed.

The clubhouse will officially open Saturday, April 30th and we are pleased to report that Charlotte Cougler has been re-hired as supervisor.

For the first week of operation, the clubhouse will probably run on shortened hours until the weather becomes good and the summer staff is trained.

The first ladies night is Tuesday, May 10th and after golf there will be a pot luck supper and short meeting. Ladies mornings kick off Thursday, May 12th.

The men will open their season Thursday, May 12th.

The tees for both ladies' and men's nights close at 4 p.m.

Sneak preview of Seaway High track team

IROQUOIS — The track season is well underway at Seaway District High School, and Friday morning coach Keith McIsaac got a sneak preview at an intramural meet.

"The athletes have been training inside since before March break," said McIsaac. "And the whole idea of today's meet was to get as many kids out as I could to see what I have."

McIsaac expects to have between 30 and 40 athletes on the team by the time the S.D.&G. meet rolls around on Thursday May 12 at St. Lawrence High School.

"Many of the athletes out today, will be on the team but they haven't had any actual competition," he said.

"The strength of our team will definitely be from the girls again this year," said McIsaac. "Especially from the junior girls."

Last year at the S.D.&G. the junior girls led Seaway to a first place finish in the A school category as well as claiming the junior girls' championship and the overall girls' championship.

As for individual performances McIsaac says he has had some pleasant surprises from several newcomers.

I'm expecting some big things from midget thrower Sean Backes and Mary Dulmage is looking very strong in long distance running," he said.

"In the junior boys Thomas Schraner has been a big surprise," he said. "He is very strong and is working very hard on the long distance events."

McIsaac is also looking for things to happen with veterans Laura Dawley, Debbie Cooper, Lisa VanHoof and Kim Bucking.

VanHoof and Bucking both had good seasons last year, working their way to Regionals, VanHoof in high jump and Bucking in the 400m hurdles.

Neither Dawley nor Cooper made it to the Regionals last year which came as quite a surprise, but both are experienced athletes and should have a shot at it this year.

Dawley specializes in field events—discus, javelin and shot put—and is still junior age this year while Debbie is a senior and excels on the track.

Laura is looking good, but Debbie had some trouble with her training due to asthma," said McIsaac.

McIsaac noted that one big hole in the team is the spot left by Mike Reichert who represented Seaway at the All-Ontario last year in shot put.

Reichert is currently ranked number one in the province in both shot put and discus but now lives in Ottawa.

Overall McIsaac appears pleased with this year's team and eager to see the season get underway.

The first event on the calendar is the David Stevens Memorial Relay meet on April 28 at Seaway.

Jr. B Glens in trouble

MORRISBURG—The Alexandria Glens have been unable to mount much of an attack against the Renfrew Timberwolves in the Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League championship final.

The Glens dropped the first game at Renfrew to the Timberwolves 6-5, the second 11-8 and the third 13-5. They need a win tonight (Wednesday) in Alexandria to stay alive in the best-of-seven series.

Game five if necessary will be played in Renfrew Friday, April 29th.

The Glens won the Southern division championship last week when they finished off the best-of-seven series against the Prescott Saints with a 12-4 victory for a four game to two series win.

The Glens opened the 1987-88 playoffs when they eliminated the Morrisburg Lions. For the St. Lawrence Division Championship they downed the CharLan Rebels and then advanced against the Rideaus Division champs from Prescott for the southern championship.

Seaway News

IROQUOIS — Hi again this week. Nothing much has happened in the last while so this could be short.

Friday morning there was an intramural track meet at the school and Friday afternoon there was a half day off to get an early start on the weekend. I hope everyone enjoyed it.

On Monday, Jeff Furguson travelled to EOSSA for senior boys singles in badminton. The results were not back at press time. I'll have them for you next week.

On Monday afternoon the band returned to Seaway from Myrtle Beach, all of them just lightly toasted. And we're all glad that Spot, Puff and Jane are back aren't we everyone? I missed you Shar-bear.

Grade 10 drama will be performing Oliver, on May 17 and 18. The grade 12 classes will also be performing a play but I'm not just sure when.

Well that's it thhis week. I warned you it was going to be short. Hopefully next week something new and exciting will have happened at Seaway. Not likely though. See you.

Crown fails to find evidence, charges dismissed

MORRISBURG — In Provincial Court yesterday, the Crown had difficulty producing evidence which resulted in the withdrawal of a charge of driving with excess alcohol against Lawrence Merkley, and the dismissal of a charge of impaired driving.

The Crown failed to produce a motion of intention to use a certificate of blood analysis sample.

Under the Evidence Act, either notices that are to be used in court should be sent the accused, or the witness who did the analysis should have appeared. But the Crown did produce a certificate which showed that Merkley drove a vehicle while disqualified January 24, 1988.

Merkley was charged January 24, in Williamsburg Township, after a pick-up truck he was driving smashed into a concrete median at the Shell Service Station on Highway 401, three miles east of Highway 31.

The vehicle was heavily damaged, and the driver was taken to the Emergency Department of the Winchester District Hospital with a possible concussion as well as cuts and bruises. Blood samples were taken for analysis at the hospital.

The accused was given a $300 fine for driving while disqualified, and prohibited from driving for six months, to be served consecutively to other suspensions.

Failure to stop for police

Russell Sullivan who pleaded guilty to failure to stop for a police officer March 3 in Matilda Township, netted a license suspension of three years from Judge Bruce Hunter. He also pleaded guilty to driving the same day with an excess of alcohol in the blood.

He was fined $300 for this offense, and prohibited from driving for six months, to be served concurrently to the other sentence.

Although Sullivan pleaded guilty to speeding at 133 kilometers in an 80 kilometer zone, Hunter dismissed the charge of speeding, "since it was all included in one offense."

On March 3, Sullivan gave rise to a high speed police chase as he sped from Highway 2 at 143 kilometers in an 80 kilometer zone, and at high speed through the Village of Morrisburg, failing to stop for a stop sign. He was arrested for impaired driving and breathalyser tests later revealed 120 milligrams of alcohol in 100 millilitres of blood. The accused was a probationary driver with no previous record.

Stephen Bush pleaded guilty to operating a vehicle while impaired on April 22, 1988, and was given 14 days in jail, and prohibited from driving for one year. The accused had a prior conviction in 1984. Hunter recommended that the jail term be served in Brockville, and a charge of driving with an excess of alcohol was withdrawn.

4-H club learns bush survival

On April 2nd, our group of 17 had our first meeting of 4-H at the home of our leaders, Ralph and Japke Tibben. Nominations were held and voted in for president was Mary Byvelds; Vice-president, Mike Tibben; secretary, Christy Berkelaar and press reporter, Julie Bylsma. We decided to call ourselves the "Bushwackers". We also learned how to construct a fire.

At our second meeting on April 16, we went out to the bush. We were split into four groups and each group had to build a shelter out of whatever was available in the bush. This was to prepare us for surviving in the woods in emergencies. We also learned how to forecast weather and how to select a campsite.

At our 3rd meeting on April 23, we learned about safety in the outdoors including the prevention of accidents and basic first aid. We also went for a hike through the bush and discovered many early signs of Spring.

Within the next few weeks we plan to have an overnight camp-out in the woods.

Waste conference

"We've got to get people thinking." "Where does our garbage go after suitable sites are filled up?" "We're a lazy, wasteful society." "Recycling is the first law of waste management."

Such statements and questions as well as Branch resolutions prompted the Federated Women's Institutes of Ontario (FWIO) to select waste management as their project topic for 1988.

To focus on this topic, FWIO has organized a Leadership Development Conference which will be held at Queen's University, Kingston from May 13-15 with the theme "Educate-Initiate".

Attending the Conference will be women from across the province who are interested in increasing their knowledge and abilities.

The objectives of the Conference are two-fold:

1) to provide the participants with information about all aspects of waste management so that they are better informed and responsible citizens;

2) to provide the participants with the necessary motivation and leadership tools to organize productive projects.

The keynote speaker will be Hon. James Bradley, Ontario Minister of Environment. Other speakers will represent the Recycling Advisory Council, Municipal Government and Rural Organizations Services. Workshops will emphasize the techniques of fund raising, volunteer management, program planning, public relations and speaking with confidence.

The goal of the Women's Institutes is to educate and motivate women across Ontario who will then promote and initiate projects and programs that address the waste management concerns in their communities.

Williamsburg seniors see slides of South Africa

Guest speaker at the Williamsburg Senior Citizens' meeting on Tuesday was Miss Isobel Forward, Chesterville, Mrs. Cecil Dennison, program convenor for the meeting, introduced Miss Forward, who has just recently returned from a trip to South Africa. She gave a slide presentation showing many places of interest that she had visited on the several trips she had made to Africa through the years. This included a most interesting commentary covering places from Egypt to Capetown, South Africa. This was very much enjoyed by everyone.

The business part of the meeting followed the program, with Mrs. Ruth Casselman, 2nd vice president in charge.

Forty-eight members and three visitors were in attendance. The correspondence included two thank you notes, and Beatrice Saddlemire reported three cards were sent to members. Following the meeting, playing cards and visiting were enjoyed.

At the Williamsburg Senior Citizens' euchre held recently the winners were Muriel Gow, Kezia Wells, Violet Bellinger and Eva Jackson; Harold Pemberton, Myles Casselman and Doris Hill.

Door prize winners were Helen Gillespie and Ron Hulley.

Draw winners were Eva Jackson, Doris Hill, Betty Desjardins, Nors Larsen and Audrey Whitteker.

The next euchre will be held on Wednesday, May 4th and everyone is welcome.

Ingleside seniors club meeting

INGLESIDE — Vice president Amy Pollock welcomed 50 members of Ingleside senior citizen's club, number 283, to the April meeting in St. Matthew's Church Hall.

After O Canada, happy birthday was sung for four members.

In the past month the benevolent committee has sent three cards. Members who have recovered from illness thanked for the thoughtfulness.

Mansel Flegg reported on the Zone meeting. The zone is made of 10 clubs for which a rally is planned on June 15 at Dixons Corners.

Arthur and Lennie Buckmaster are to represent the zone in Kingston at the U.S.C.O. meeting in August. Rita Partridge will be the representative from Ingleside.

There was a report on plans for the tea and sale being held on Saturday, June 4.

The seniors' club of Iroquois have invited our members to their dinner meeting on May 10 at 11 o'clock. Anyone needing transportation is asked to phone Rita Partridge at 537-2782.

Seniors are to participate in the Moon Walk in the week of May 20-29.

The signing group, Hill's Angels (the leader is Dorothy Hill) of Long Sault seniors gave an excellent entertainment of singing. They were thanked by Nellie Stillson, and lunch was served after a blessing by Mansel Flegg.

Table prizes were won by Kay Flegg and John Blue. The jonquils given by Art Ostrander went to Sandy Raymond.

Ham and egg breakfast wraps up education week

INGLESIDE — A breakfast of ham and eggs here last Friday wrapped up Education Week at Rothwell-Osnabruck School, as members of the school community socialized with co-operative education students, employers and municipal representatives.

The co-operative education program, involving Grade 11 and 12 co-operative technical students, is the only one of its kind in the system, according to Principal Doug Murray. Students work for local employers three days a week, and attend school for two days, to earn four credits.

"It is Rothwell-Osnabruck's attempt to reduce the drop-out rate," said Murray.

Other activities in Education Week featured V.I.P. graduation for Grade 6 students, finals for intermediate and junior public speaking, drama and music presentations by groups of elementary and secondary students, and community breakfasts.

For the last five years, students from the intermediate grades have participated in auditions for the Elementary Drama Festival held yearly in Cornwall.

This year students from Grades 6 and Grade 8 entered the festival along with students from about 11 other schools. It is a non-competitive event to provide stage experience to youngsters in area schools.

The high school concert band gave an instrumental presentation Thursday evening. The 29 members will be going to the Kinsmen Music Festival in Cornwall before going on a trip to Fenelon Falls, May 8, as part of a band exchange.

Vocal students from Rothwell-Osnabruch Elementary School will also be participating in the Kinsmen Festival.

Local organizations seek incorporation under MCSS

MORRISBURG — Respite care is similar to organized good neighbourliness except that the Ministry of Community and Social Services organizes and funds the service.

In the past, neighbours or relatives were sometimes able to care for frail or disabled people, but nowadays this is not always feasible.

Reverend Don Smith of Lakeshore Drive United Church expanded on the role of respite care at the annual meeting of Meals on Wheels here last Thursday. The organization is in the unusual position of having start-up funds available for the program before they have clients.

"I can't believe there isn't a need here," said Smith. "But Meals on Wheels took years to become a reality in Morrisburg, too. It may take at least two years for respite care to get started."

In 1987, the Respite Care program was formed under the umbrella organization Meals on Wheels, which has been in existence in Morrisburg for 13 years. Both organizations are asking for incorporation by the Ministry under a new name, "Home Support Services for Morrisburg and District."

Such an organization could incorporate other home related services under its umbrella at a later date, such as assistance for battered women.

The respite care program is funded 70 per cent by the Ministry of Community and Social Services, although the client pays part of the salary of replacement workers set at the minimum wage. The ministry is in favour of the program because personalized and less costly care can be provided when the chief responsibility for care is in a home situation rather than in an institution.

The service is set up at the request of caregivers, enabling them to leave for short periods of time from three hours a day to two weeks. Regular visits by the Victoria Order of Nurses, Red Cross Homemakers would still be made under respite care.

Anyone interested in availing themselves of the service may telephone 543-3398 and a programme co-ordinator will arrange an appointment to discuss the service more fully.

Election of Board Members

The following board members for Home Support Services were elected for two years — Barbara Bradford, Joan Brunt, Jim Bain, Nan Bain, Sid Irwin, Isabel Irwin, Reatha Riddell, Don Smith, Janny Vanderbaaren, Kathy Johnston and Sylvia Jones.

Up to 60 volunteers assist with the Meals on Wheels program, and in the last fiscal year there were 44 participants. Last year a total of 4,494 meals were delivered representing a 13.7 per cent increase over the previous year's total of 3,950.

Playhouse holds fundraiser at Parkway

MORRISBURG — "Lucien" fans take note! The loveable Acadian Millworker will entertain at Upper Canada Playhouse's Fund Raising Dinner on Sunday, May 1st, Best Western Parkway Inn, Cornwall. Marshall Button alias "Lucien", Artistic Director of Upper Canada Playhouse will also bring news about the progress of "The 401 Show", this season's new production, as well as other features of the season.

The Board of Directors is delighted with the growing number of new patron members. Support of the community is a motivating force as the company grows and the Board initiates renovation plans.

At the April 18 Board Meeting held in Morrisburg, the Board's first Constitution was ratified. The Board is indebted to the work of Gordon Thom and Gay Cook whose resignations were accepted. The present Board will be composed of 15 members and represents a wider geographic area. Directors are as follows: John McAllister (Iroquois) President; Edith Stiles (Cornwall) Vice; Ross Conners (Maxville) Treasurer; Shelley Bentley (Iroquois) Secretary; Gerry Rosenquist (Morrisburg), Doug Grenkie (Morrisburg), Wendy Gibb (Iroquois), Fran Laflamme (Ingleside), Clive Marin (Ault Island), Lily Worrall (Avonmore), Ron Sullivan (Long Sault), Roger Croxall (Cornwall), Andy Trasuk (Cornwall) and Lionel Tessier (Cornwall).

Tickets for the Gala Dinner are $25 ($12.50 tax receipt) and can be reserved by calling the Playhouse number (613) 543-3298 or Andy Trasuk in Cornwall at 938-2329.

Success reported in sheltering abused families

CATHERINE THOMPSON
Leader staff

WINCHESTER — Naomi Resource Centre, located in Winchester, has had a successful first year in offering shelter to victims of family violence.

During 1987, 119 residents were sheltered here, including 49 women and 70 children. Thirty-seven out of 49 cases were from Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, six from Prescott-Russell, and twelve from outside the United Counties.

"Our crisis line has been very busy," said Judith Running, Executive-Director of the Centre.

Naomi Centre held open house February 2, 1987, attended by representatives from the Ministry of Community and Social Services and municipal representatives of the United Counties. On February 3, the doors were open to women and children needing shelter, and a 24 hour crisis line was set up. By February 10, clients were arriving.

Support of Community Groups

"Community groups have been very supportive," said Running.

The centre is funded jointly by the MCSS, United Counties Social Services, and donations, and by those who can pay their own way. The Legion, the Lions' Club, and the Women's Institute have been helpful in providing goods and cash donations.

Local churches have provided goods at Christmas time. "So far, we haven't had a need for fundraising drives," said Barb Guffroy, President of the Board of Directors.

The food budget was stretched by home-grown vegetables, supplied by the Dundas County Junior Farmers. Workers at the centre froze young beans, cauliflower, and broccoli which lasted throughout the winter.

Two pantries are filled with canned goods, and the freezer and two refrigerators are kept full all the time.

The women are responsible for cleaning, looking after the children, and cooking. "It's like a safe home, not like a hotel," said Guffroy.

Children go to school, bussed by the public or separate board and life goes on as normally as possible under the circumstances.

"Last year in May, with 125 per cent occupancy rate (three women and nine children), the neighbours hardly knew anyone was there," said Running. The community has never objected to the presence of the newcomers, probably because they were the victims and not the perpetrators of violence.

They have also given the centre moral as well as financial support. The only security in the centre is locked doors and the presence of staff, with the local OPP for back-up.

Last year, neighbors alerted police and the staff to the presence of a car cruising suspiciously around the centre.

Volunteer drivers transport victims of violence from rural areas. If the driver is endangered by a violent man, the centre may phone the police who would go to the place of complaint, and a staff member would also go there.

This situation, where driver and or staff members require police protection, has not yet arisen. Police must not become involved with participants, but should their help be necessary, they would be entitled to lay charges.

Wife battering treated too lightly

At the annual Board of Directors meeting here last Tuesday, some discussion centred on the need for stiffer sentences for battering husbands. At present, wife battering is treated rather lightly in the courts—one example of a sentence given for a first offence that amounted to attempted murder, was 18 months probation.

"If the assault were done to a third party, or if it were the other way around, it would be treated as attempted murder," said Running. "But to change the situation, a women's group would have to lobby the Attorney General for stiffer sentences."

The centre claims a 50 per cent reconciliation rate with 18 out of 49 cases reunited with their family after discharge, and 26 out of 49 living on their own. Two cases out of 49 were admitted to hospital for psychiatric assessment, and three of 49 left for unknown places.

"Some of those reconciled have been successful due to counselling, or a change in the man, while some have not been successful," said Running.

Four of 49 files were admitted more than once. The centre is staffed 24 hours a day, seven days a week by four full-time Support Staff, Casual-Relief staff and an Executive Director.

A casual relief person will be hired to start in May. Running sees the need for another full-time Family Violence Counsellor, so that clients can be counselled once a week instead of twice a month.

Play Group Considered as Pilot Project

Although the centre was successful in sheltering a number of victims of violence last year, there is a need for expansion as a social resource centre. A pilot project may be formed as a play group similar to those in the outreach program of Family Focus in Leeds and Grenville.

Mothers and children would meet together on a weekly basis for socialization, and toy-lending, using the existing resources at the centre.

Financial matters were touched on such as repairs to the roof or replacement if necessary. The year's budget is based on last year's figures, with a 4.5 per cent over all increase.

The Board of Directors elected for 1988 are as follows: Barbara Guffroy, President, Dianne Harkin, Vice-President; Paula Shaver, Secretary-Treasurer; Larry Gray, Gerry Rosenquist, Linda Patterson, Gerry Arts, Ed Thompson, Ann Carruthers, Shirley McGowan and Sandra Jennings.

Anyone wishing to reach the 24-hour toll free crisis line may dial 1-800-267-0395.
