EUCHER PARTY SUCCESS

There was a good attendance at the eucher party, held in the Legion club rooms recently. Those winning prizes were Dr. Dougall McLean and Russell Crowder. The committee in charge of the affair was composed of Nelson Dixon, Arnold Casselman, James Bowman and Ernest Summers.

Following the eucher party, a meeting of the Legion executive was held with the president, E. J. Spinks in the chair.

Plans were made for holding a banquet in the club rooms on the evening of December 4, in commemoration of the 10th anniversary of the organization of the Canadian Legion. It was decided that the banquet, this year, would be confined to members of the Legion and their wives or lady friends, and the honorary presidents and their wives. Arrangements were left in the hands of the following committee: E. J. Spinks, Dr. G. H. Meredith, J. J. Gray, Nelson Dixon and James Bowman. F. Earle Helmer was appointed to look after the program for the evening.

ENTERS 96th YEAR

Mr. Dawson Beattie, who has the honor of being the oldest man in Winchester, passed another milestone on Tuesday, the 19th, when he completed his 95th year. He was the guest of honor that day at a dinner given by his grand-daughter, Mrs. Harold Droppo, of Cottage Hill Farm, near Chesterville. Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Barkley and son, Gordon, of Morrisburg; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Earle of Winchester, Mr. Harold F. Droppo and Mr. Wm. F. Droppo, of Cottage Hill Farm. Mr. Beattie received many messages of congratulations through the mails, and several gifts. Messages came from as far west as Los Angeles, and from as far east as New Jersey.

DECEMBER BRIDE GUEST OF HONOR

In honour of her niece, Miss Jeanette Petegorsky, one of the December brides, a charmingly arranged tea was given by Mrs. R. Bessin, at Ottawa.

The hostess wore a simply designed gown of black lace with a corsage bouquet of Premier roses. She was assisted in receiving by the bride-elect and her mother, Mrs. L. Petegorsky.

The rooms were attractively adorned with cut flowers and the tea table was dainty with yellow and bronze chrysanthemums, and yellow tapers in silver holders.

Mrs. L. Petegorsky, Mrs. Gerson Guttman, Miss Tessie Bessin and Miss Nettie Bessin presided at the tea table and the guest of honor was presented with a handsome gift by the hostess.

Rev. C. H. Roach Addresses 100 Club

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT MEETING LAST FRIDAY EVENING

Nearly thirty Centurians were present at the Town Hall on Friday evening last for the monthly supper meeting of the 100 Club. President Will Rowat was chairman. Dr. C. Byers, Mr. N. Rolston, of Metcalfe, and Dr. Sam Frith, of Edmonton, were also present as guests, and were extended a hearty welcome on the part of the members.

The customary sing-song was led by the pep-promoter, Centurian Chester Timmins, assisted at the piano by Miss Helen Timmins.

Following the repast, the minutes of the last meeting were read by the secretary, Centurian Eldon Fennell. Centurian Dr. Harrison Gross reported that a case of defective eye-sight was being given attention by the sick-children's committee. The president also announced that the annual Christmas tree for the children would be held this year, although the Club was badly in need of funds with which to carry on the work.

A musical concert is to be held in the near future with Ottawa talent, while a choral society is to be established here this month and a program presented at the close of the eight-weeks' course, the proceeds of which are to be donated to the Women's Institute and the 100 Club funds.

Rev. G. O. Davies was next called upon to introduce the guest speaker of the evening, Rev. C. H. Roach, rector of Trinity Anglican church, Metcalfe, who delivered a fine address on "Canada and its Destiny. Mr. Roach dealt in an interesting manner with the traditions behind the Canadian scene in which all true Canadians may take justifiable pride. He added that Canada must keep ever in mind the tenets of goodness, justice and beauty if it is to be recalled as a great nation by posterity.

A prize boost was conducted by Centurian Walter Moffatt, the prizes being won by Centurians Chester Timmins and W. J. Stewart. An impromptu quartette was given by Centurians Will Rowat, J. D. Stewart, Chester Timmins and Bill Agnew.

The vote of thanks on behalf of the Club was tendered the guest speaker by Centurian T. J. Hawkins and seconded by Centurian Bill Agnew. The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

DIED THIS MORNING

Mr. Wm. Wyatt, a well-known citizen of Dalmeny, passed away at the Ottawa Civic Hospital this morning. He was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Wyatt, and was born in the Township of Osgoode 61 years ago. Funeral arrangements have not yet been completed. A full obituary will appear in next week's Press.

RECEIVES PAINFUL INJURIES

Mrs. Wm. Froats, of Waterloo, Ont., who came to Winchester this week to attend the funeral of her sister, Miss Emma Woods, at Harmony, received painful injuries on Monday evening when she fell down stairs and struck the sewing machine on the lower floor. Dr. J. J. McKendry was immediately summoned, and upon examination it was revealed that the woman was suffering from severe head injuries and a fractured collar-bone. Her condition is regarded as critical at the present time. Mrs. Froats said she was not accustomed to lamp-light, and having poor eyesight, she slipped as she was about to descend the stairs at the home of her sister. She was unable to attend the funeral.

JUBILEE SINGERS APPEAR THE SECOND TIME

The concert given by the Virginia Jubilee Singers in the United Church here was listened to by a large and appreciative audience on Saturday evening last. The first part of the program consisted almost entirely of spirituals, all so well interpreted, some in sad mood, others in joyful contrast.

The second half of the program consisted of plantation melodies for which the costumes of the singers were admirably adapted. Roma Russell, in his characterization of Grandpa, added much humor. The program follows:

O Canada; Swing Along; Rocks and Mountains; Old Ark's Moving; Little Wheel A-turning; You Better Run; Solo—Mamma—by A. Bralton; Balm of Gilead; Battle of Jericho; Blind Man; Golden Slippers; Mighty Like a Rose and A. B. C.—Ladies' Trio; Look Away to Heaven; Climbing up the Mountain; Stay In Your Own Back Yard—Solo—I. Edmonson; O Lord, I Am Hungry; Gospel Train; Over the Billowy Sea, and Big Bass Viol—Solos—R. Russell; My Lord, What a Morning; Chiming Bells; Lord, I Ain't No Stranger, and Pie Song—Male Quartette; Listen To The Lambs.

Intermission

Plantation Melodies; Carry Me Back To Old Virginia; Roll and Rock Em; Old Man River; Lonesome Road; Has You Got Good Religion; Calope—Male Quartette; Mammy's Little Coal Black Rose; In My Father's House; God Save the King.

The caste was as follows:—Pianist and Manager—Esther Gasgin; Soprano—Alpha Bralton; Mezzo—Lillian Fowler; Contralto—Inez Edmonson; First Tenor—Harrison Jones; Second Tenor—Theodore Tait; Baritone—Oliver Chiles; Basso—Roma Russell.

They also sang two pleasing numbers at the morning service on Sunday and have agreed to return next year in response to several requests, thus showing that their program was highly satisfactory.

Canada Signs Trade Treaty With U. S. A.

RECIPROCITY AGREEMENT WAS COMPLETED OVER THE WEEK END

Countries signing—United States and Canada.

Effective date—January 1, 1936.

Expiration date—December 31, 1938, if either country serves six months' advance notice.

Canada Agrees to:

Make concession on goods accounting for three-fourths of U. S. dutiable exports to Canada in 1929-30. Duties are cut on 180 commodities, some of the leading concessions being:

Reductions on wheat (from 30 to 12 cents a bushel); off-season fresh vegetables (50 per cent.); vegetables imported in marketing season (35 per cent.); most classes of farm machinery (50 per cent.); industrial machinery (35 to 25 per cent.); mining and textile machinery, radios (30 to 25 per cent.); Electric refrigerators, tinplate manufactures, dressed lumber, building materials, motor vehicles, cotton fabrics, furs, chemicals, silk fabrics, cotton manufactures, electrical apparatus.

Also rate cuts on oranges, grapefruit, nuts, iron and steel manufactures.

An agreement to place magazines and potatoes on the free list.

A pledge to grant the United States, on 767 articles, the lowest rates paid by any non-British country.

A promise to seek legislation to permit Canadians visiting the Uniter States to carry $100 in American goods duty free back to their homes each month.

A pledge to liberalize the system of establishing arbitrary valuations on American products. (United States officials considered these valuations equivalent to higher and unreasonable duties).

A promise to keep raw cotton on the free list and to put tractors on that list.

United States Agreed:

To grant concessions to Canada on 79 major commodities which amounted to two thirds of America's imports from Canada in 1929. Chief among these concessions were: Tariff slash on 4-year-old whiskey from $1 to 50c per fifth of a gallon.

Reductions in duties on specified quotas of beef cattle (from 3 to 2 cents per pound on animals over 700 pounds); dairy cows (2 1-2 to 1 1-2 cents); cream 56.6 cents to 35 cents per gallon; white or Irish seed potatoes (75 to 45 cents per 100 pounds); Douglas fir and western hemlock (50 per cent.). Some of the quotas, which include imports from all countries, are 155,000 beef cattle; 20,000 dairy cows; 1,500,000 gallons of cream; 250,000,000 board feet of fir and hemlock.

Also reduced duties on lumber and timber of other kinds; cheddar cheese, turnips, apples, hay, maple sugar, live poultry, horses, halibut and some other fish; some leathers and ferro-manganese.

A pledge to keep on the free list Canadian pulpwood, newsprint, unmanufactured wood, shingles, lath, lobsters, certain furs, crude asbestos artificial abrasives and fertilizers.

A promise to maintain the present 10 per cent. duty on feedstuffs for obaals.

Scope of American concessions:

All reductions in American duties on Canadian products will be extended to all other countries except Germany, which has denounced its most-favored-nation pact with the United States.

FARMERS BENEFIT GREATLY BY TREATY

Of chief interest to residents of this district are the concessions to agriculture obtained by the Canada-United States reciprocal agreement, with respect to live cattle as this particular phase has a real influence upon conditions in Eastern Ontario.

Important concessions are obtained also on cream, seed potatoes, turnips, clover and grass seeds, maple sugar, hay, horses, live poultry and dressed chickens, cheddar cheese, and on a number of fresh fruits.

On the other side of the shield, the Canadian farmer stands to benefit materially from some of the new rates granted by Canada to the United States. Under the agreement, duties are reduced or removed on many types and kinds of machinery, with particular emphasis upon those lines which are not available commercially in Canada. The rates on farm implements are cut in half. The major machinery item of the Canadian tariff—item 427, "machinery not otherwise provided for"—is reduced from 35 per cent. to 25 per cent. with a new sub-item bearing a rate of 20 per cent. to apply to all machinery of iron or steel which is adjudged to be not of a class or kind made in Canada. This single tariff item represented last year imports valued at over $7,000,000, of which more than $6,000,000 came from the United States.

In summarizing the benefits to agriculture from United States tariff reductions, the statement says:

"The most important agricultural concessions secured by Canada are those relating to live cattle. Reductions in duty ranging from 33 1-3 to 50 per cent. have been granted on live cattle falling within two different weight ranges, and on dairy cows. The weight ranges which have been excluded from concessions are those of which Canada is not the chief compiler.

Protect Cattle Raisers

"The interests of cattle-raisers in the United States are protected by provisions that the reduced duties will only apply up to a certain specified number of animals admitted in any one calendar year. The regular duty will be imposed on all cattle imported in excess of the number so specified. Thus, on the most important class, live cattle weighing 700 pounds or more each, the reduction in duty is from 3 to 2 cents per pound for a total of 51,933 head a year.

OBITUARY

LATE EMMA WOODS

Impressive tribute was paid to the memory of the late Miss Emma Woods at the funeral service held at Harmony United church Tuesday afternoon, and conducted by the pastor, Rev. W. S. Atchison, who was assisted by Rev. G. I. Burns, of Ormond Baptist church. Singing was led by the choir, under the direction of Mrs. W. S. Atchison, while a duet was rendered by Messrs. Robert Carkner and Thomas Reid. Following the service, interment took place at Spring Hill cemetery. The pall-bearers were, Messrs. Herbert Poole, Hugh Raney, W. J. Poole, H. W. Cinnamon, Mac Carkner and H. A. Cinnamon.

The late Miss Woods was born at Harmony 72 years ago, a daughter of the late Alexander Woods and his wife, Virtue Docksteader. She was a lifelong resident of Winchester district where she was very widely known and highly respected. Deceased was a member of the Harmony United church and an active worker in the Women's Missionary Society. She passed away on Sunday, following a lingering illness.

Chief mourners and survivors are: four sisters, Mrs. Wm. Froats, Waterloo, Ont.; Mrs. John McGregor, Winnipeg, Man., and the Misses Lilly and Effie Woods, at home; two brothers, Henry Woods, Russell, and John Woods, Harmony.

Among the many beautiful floral tributes, which testified to the high esteem in which the late Miss Woods was held, were offerings from Harmony W. M. S., Harmoy church and Sunday School.

THE LATE MRS. THOS. CINNAMON

Many friends and neighbours were present at the funeral service of the late Mrs. Thos. Cinnamon, which was held at her late residence, Ormond, yesterday afternoon. Rev. W. S. Atchison, pastor of the United Church here, was in charge, assisted by Rev. W. D. Turner, of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, and Rev. J. M. Kellock, of Vernon.

The late Mrs. Cinnamon, whose maiden name was Dinah Poole, was born in Mountain township, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Poole, and had lived her entire life in this district. She was in her 82nd year.

The deceased was educated in the district schools, and sixty years ago was married to Thomas Cinnamon, taking up residence with her husband in Osgoode Township, where she had resided since that time. Throughout her entire life she had been very active and took a keen interest in affairs of the community. In sickness or trouble the late Mrs. Cinnamon was a ready volunteer, and was highly esteemed by all throughout the district.

In August of this year, she suffered from a paralytic stroke, and while she rallied to some extent, she was unable to leave her bed. She passed peacefully away on Monday last.

Always interested in the affairs of the church, the late Mrs. Cinnamon was a member of the Harmony United congregation. She was an active member of the Women's Missionary Society and for a number of years had served as superintendent of the Sunday School.

During the funeral service, Mr. Atchison referred to the Christian spirit of the deceased; her kindly and thoughtful manner and her desire to render service to those about her. A duet was contributed by Messrs. Thos. Reid and Robert Carkner, with Mrs. W. S. Atchison presiding at the organ. Interment was made at Springhill Cemetery, the pall bearers being Messrs. W. O. Cinnamon, H. A. Cinnamon, Herbert Poole, W. J. Poole, Peter Poole and James E. McLean.

The deceased is survived by her husband and five sons, Albert of Manitoba, William D., of Hanna, Alta.; Isaac and Robert, at home, and Henry W., of Harmony; also five daughters, Mrs. John McGregor and Mrs. James McGregor, of Ormond; Mrs. E. C. Dillabough, of Cloverdale; Miss Zella, at home, and Mrs. Chas. Rattray, of Ormond.

Among the many floral tributes were pieces from the United Church, Harmony, and the Harmony Sunday School.

REEVE'S KNEE INJURED

Reeve Arthur Flynn, of Morrisburg, is confined to his bed this week suffering from very painful injuries to his knee, the result of a bad fall on Saturday night. The reeve was walking along a sidewalk when he suddenly fell from it and injured his leg at the knee. X-rays have revealed no fracture, but it is believed a torn ligament is causing the pain that is keeping him in bed, with the leg unable to support his weight.

REV. J. KELLOCK RESIGNS CHARGE

Resignation of Rev. John Kellock, M.A., B.D., for the past six years minister of Vernon Presbyterian Church, was accepted at the Tuesday morning session of the Ottawa Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Mr. Kellock and his wife are leaving for La Mesa, Cal., near San Diego, for an extended visit with their son who is in business there.

Mr. Kellock's resignation will take effect as on December 15. During his ministry at Vernon the number of families in the church have been increased from 60 to 78, and the members has increased by 68. All debt has been removed from the church buildings, and several improvements have been made in the equipment.

Rev. Kellock has numerous friends throughout Winchester district who will regret to learn of his decision.

Women's Institute Entertains Mothers

MRS. ANDREW TIMMINS WAS AN HONOURED GUEST

Many grandmothers accepted the gracious invitation of the members of the Women's Institute to be present at their meeting Tuesday afternoon in the Town Hall. The business meeting was in charge of the president, Mrs. Neil Hutt. In response to the roll, called by the secretary, Mrs. E. Kellogg, the members searched their memories to recall something their grandmothers had told them. This was very interesting.

Miss Jean Wallace gave a good report of the class held at Osnabruck for the training of leaders of girls. It was decided to leave the local class for training of girls in domestic work over until the New Year. Miss Wallace was given a vote of thanks. A motion was carried not to apply for the Government grant. An appeal for relief was dealt with. Miss Davidson, representing the Upper Canada Tract Society, spoke briefly of the good work done by this Society.

Mrs. Robert Suffel presided for the programme of which she and Mrs. J. W. Ault were convenors. There were more than twenty grandmothers present and at least two great grandmothers. Among the latter was Mrs. Rachel Timmins, who is in her 100th year. After all had joined in singing "Old Black Joe," Grandmother Ault gave a reading entitled: "The mothers of yesterday, to-day and to-morrow," and Grandmother Nesbitt recited: "Growing Older." Then a contest was conducted about things unknown to our grandmothers. This was won by Mrs. R. Crowder, who received a glass tray as a prize. A cup of tea, etc, was served and a short social time enjoyed. The Committee was given a vote of thanks.

GET MARKERS EARLY

Motor vehicles must be fitted with 1936 markers by the beginning of the year Department of Highways officials advised last week. The information gave notice of a sweeping reversal of policy dating back to the Conservative administration when the Department first permitted time extensions. So, with this warning given in plenty of time, car owners will have no excuses to offer if they happen to face the cadi on charges of using old plates.

FORMER BUYER DIES

Charles W. Norval, who once bought cheese in the Brockville district for W. J. Cluff, is dead at Williamsburg after a connection for more than half a century with the dairying industry. Born near Hammond, N. Y., in 1865, he commenced to make cheese at Galilee, N. Y., and then came to Brockville, going thence to Montreal and in 1898 to Williamsburg. He operated the cheese factory there until 1912 and later served as cheese inspector for Dundas county for a number of years. He served as an elder and Sunday School superintendent in the Presbyterian Church and later in the United Church.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

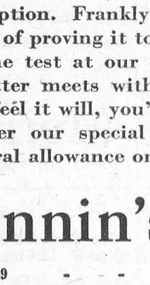
by Rev. Charles E. Dunn

HAGGAI AND ZECHARIAH

Lesson for November 24th. Haggai 1 and 2.

Golden Text: Psalm 122:1.

For 16 years no successful effort was made by the exiles who returned from captivity to rebuild the ruined temple in Jerusalem. Glad as these home - sick Jews were to get back to their fatherland, they faced a burdensome struggle for the mere necessities of existence. Not only were they few in number and devoid of wealth, but they had also to contend with drought and a consequent failure of crops.



Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Such a set-back naturally adversely affected their morale. It seemed as if God had forsaken them in anger. Their faith began to waver. But fortunately, at this critical juncture, the prophet Haggai, who combined genuine enthusiasm with unusual common sense, aroused them from their lethargy by the summons to work for the Lord. "It is true," said he, "that God has not yet come to His city. But how can He live with His people if they provide no dwelling for Him? Gird up your loins, assemble the stone and mortar, erect the temple, and all will be well."

Stirred by Haggai's imperative summons, the people at once set to work under the leadership of Zerubbabel, their governor, and Joshua the high priest. How appealing to the imagination is that September day when the foundation was laid! We can see with the mind's eye the ardent face of the prophet as he bids the people to remember well this day, assuring them that the Lord is with them in their noble effort. Although not one of the great prophets, he rendered a splendid service, at a critical time, displaying marked initiative and practical skill. As a result of his direct, plain, but pointed speech the temple, the symbol of Israel's religious unity and purity, soon rose in impressive beauty, even though it could not match the grandeur of Solomon's creation. Credit, too, must be given to the prophet Zechariah who aided Haggai in this re-building of the House of God.

ENGLAND'S POSITION

World affairs are in a measure identical with local politics. People allow one or two people in a town to do all the boosting and any hard work that is to be done. Britain has been carrying the brunt of the hard work at the peace conferences at the League of Nations meetings and it is foreign policy that has kept that League in existence. The nations today expect Great Britain to police the world.

WEEGAR—ROMBOUGH

The wedding was solemnized recently at the St. John's United Church parsonage, Cardinal, by the Rev. W. W. Jones, of Miss Helen Rombough, of Newington, to Harley Weegar, of Dunbar. Mr. Ashabel Weegar and Mrs. William E. Morris, of Cardinal, brother and sister of the groom, acted as groomsman and bridesmaid.

The happy couple are taking a trip through New York State before settling in their new home near Chesterville.

LET'S HAVE MORE LAUGHTER

Charles Dickens remarked that when he first visited this continent one outstanding characteristic of Americans was the infrequency of their laughter. He observed that they pursued their business so intently that they had little time to season their daily affairs with any manifestations of gaiety. Perhaps the reproach could be extended today to cover the entire North American continent. Certainly the people of Canada do not laugh half enough. Let's have more laughter from male and female alike. Let's not take ourselves so seriously. Let's seek out the good and amusing and pleasing things of life instead of concentrating so hard on the difficulties and the fears and the failures. Laughter is the finest tonic. Why begrudge it to ourselves?

CONSTANT VIGILANCE

Nineteen hotels lost their licenses last week as a result of investigations of the Ontario Liquor Control Commission. Of course they had violated the regulations of the Ontario Liquor Control Act by their rather round-about connection with the brewing interests. During the O. T. A. days it was the manufacturers who likewise caused the trouble and were back of the boot-leggers. There never was a means yet devised of controlling the greed for business of this industry. Always it is reaching out for more youth to make into drunkards. Men with the appetite, and no backbone, take money that should go to buy necessities for independents. Any government will need to exercise constant strict supervision to keep this trade within bounds and the closest atention woud seen to be needed on the top of the business. Ontario conditions have not improved under the Ontario Liquor Act. The home life has not been bettered. Vigilance can well be continued by the government in the enforcement of the Act and its measures taken to make the liquor interests live up to the regulations will meet with general approval.—The Acton Free Press.

MANY PURE BRED HOLSTEIN CATTLE BEING SHIPPED

Breeders of pure bred Holstein cattle in this district have recently completed the sale of several shipments to American buyers. Consignments have been made to Allen G. Brubacker, Granville, Hayden. Corfu, N. Y., Harold MsQueen, Pa., J. D. Senesac, Vergennes, Vt., E. R. Hammond, N.Y., Harley M. Lawrence, Canton, N.Y., Lewis Archer Louisville, N.Y., Frank Crary, Canton, N.Y., Paul F. Schubert, Watertown, N.Y., and Murphy Bros., Waddington, N.Y. Breeders contributing to the above shipments were as follows: P. Stuart Snider, Bainsville, 17 head; Dan W. McLeod, Dalkeith, 13; Mrs. Geo. A. Peever, Renfrew, 8; Byron Johnston, Oxford Station, 10; George A. Peever, Renfrew, Leslie Nixon, Vankleek Hill, and John L. Lewis, Brinston, five head each; Roderick McCuaig, Lancaster, Rufus Carr, Bainsville, B. E. Holmes, Spencerville, and F. C. McLennan, Lancaster, two each, and the following one head each: Chas. E. Waddell, Iroquois; Allan K. McDonald, Ormond; Howard C. Johnston, Vankleek Hill, and Lorne McDonald, Dalkeith.

Reports from the office of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, Brantford, Ont., are to the effect that there is still an excellent demand for good commercial pure bred Holsteins for export purposes. Prices continue to range for mature animals from $100.00 to $150.00 depending on the quality.

LADIES' NIGHT AT HALLVILLE

On Wednesday evening last the members of the Hallville Community Club entertained the ladies to a social evening and dance in the North Mountain Community hall. The newly elected president W. L. Brown, was in the chair.

During the first part of the evening the gathering was entertained to a talking picture, after which dancing was enjoyed to music of a Vernon orchestra, under the direction of Clifford Wilkes. A buffet lunch was served by the gentlemen, the ladies being the guests of honor.

VERNON W. I.

A successful social evening was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest W. Acres recently under the auspices of the Vernon Women's Institute. The evening was spent in crokinole and progressive five hundred. Prizes for cards were won by Mrs. Eddie Cowan, Mrs. Willard Acres, Eldin Acres and Howard Porteous. Consolation prizes went to Effie Cameron and Stanley Campbell. Refreshments were served by the committee in charge.

KENMORE W. I.

The Kenmore Women's Institute met in the town hall at Kenmore recently with the president, Mrs. E. Wilson, presiding. The roll call was responded to with "Hints on keeping fit." Mrs. H. R. McLachlan reported on the Ottawa convention, while a paper on "Health" was given by Miss A. McTavish. The committee in charge were Mrs. W. A. Loney, Mrs. G. Clarmo and Mrs. J. Hill.

MATILDA JUNIOR FARMERS

The regular monthly meeting of the Matilda Junior Farmers' Club was held at the home of Mr. Geo. Barton on Tuesday evening of last week. The former secretary, Archibald Irvin, having returned to Guelph Agricultural College, John McGuire was elected to complete the year as secretary. Arnel Bourk, vice president, conducted the meeting. Ralph Ennis gave an interesting talk on "Feeding and Care of Live Stock." Hume Grisdale, acting representative of Ontario Department of Agriculture, doing the work for H. Graham of Morrisburg, who is convalescing from a short illness, gave a talk, suggesting plans and ways for making the junior farmers' work more interesting and instructive. The meeting was well attended and all present expressed appreciation to the speakers for their instructive addresses.

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Vegetables

One should remember to cook all fresh green vegetables uncovered. Their color will then remain invitingly green.

High Seat

A chair with a high seat is far less tiring than a low seat to the worker who is ironing or using the sewing machine.

Throat Gargle

One of the most effective throat gargles is one teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of baking soda, and one teaspoonful of sugar in a pint of warm water.

A Wood Fire

Use a stout piece of canvas to carry the wood from the cellar or shed to the fireplace. It will avoid dropping pieces as well as dirt.

Melting Chocolate

Try melting chocolate by putting it on a piece of wax paper and placing it over a boiling teakettle. The chocolate can be removed without difficulty.

Care of Linens

If both the table and the bed linens are ironed in different creases from time to time, instead of always creasing in the same folds, it will make them last much longer and also lessen the mending.

A QUEBEC ELECTION

Premier Taschereau, of Quebec, has dissolved the Legislature and announced a general provincial election for Nov. 25th. He might have waited until next year before holding another battle at the polls, but probably felt that the time was opportune for the plunge. The standing of the parties at dissolution was as follows: Liberals, 60; Conservatives, 9; Ind. Liberals, 1; Ind. Conservatives, 1; vacancies, 19. Premier Taschereau has headed the government since 1920, when he took the Liberal leadership following the retirement of Sir Lomer Gouin. The Liberal party has been in power in Quebec since 1897. Governments which have appealed to the people during the depression years have been thrown out on their ears. Whether this will be the fate of the Taschereau government time only can tell.

MORRISBURG POULTRYMEN HEAR EXPERT ADVICE

Experts in production, government and commercial ends of the poultry business met in the agricultural offices at Morrisburg last Thursday night, and the producers were told exactly what the packers want from them, and what condition the buyers expect the product to be in, when placed on the market. Among those present were Dr. J. H. Grisdale, ex-Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Ottawa; John I. Brown, veteran Canadian poultryman, and H. G. Groundwater, general manager of one of Canada's largest packing firms, of Montreal.

The farmers were told of the large English trade and the millions of pounds of turkeys and large chickens shipped there annually.

Commercial poultrymen told the producers that, in the future, the poultry would be classed according to food value and not according to weight, whereby the farmers would be putting out a better product and profit more.

Food value is now the great consideration, and the proper time for the producers to place their poultry on the market is only when it is ready to sell. The proper preparation of food, it was also stated, would do away with a lot of illness and substantially reduce the cancer death rate. The producers were also warned not to dump on the market a product not ready for sale.

The WOMAN'S ANGLE

Something recalling the old wasp waist is being talked about in Paris as the new styles come into the fore, with busts and hips of generous proportions outmoding the match-stick models of yesteryear. Rich brocaded silks and wools in Italian blue and Veronese greens are presented by fabric designers.

When summer's over and you're through with that tan, half lemon juice and half peroxide is about as good a bleach for the skin as any. Or use it now to lighten the color of freckles.

While summer lasts, there'll be a demand for waterproof rouge. The liquid type is a bit difficult to apply. The cream type is blended carefully until the edges can't be seen. . . . And eyelashes may be dyed to stay dark for two or three months, too. But have it done by a reputable beauty salon.

YOUNG COUPLE KILLED AT IROQUOIS

Fifty feet from the home in which they had said goodbye to her parents a matter of seconds before, Wilda Ellis, 17, of Iroquois, and her escort, Earl Perry, 18, of Cardinal were instantly killed when the automobile in which they were driving was struck by an east bound Canadian National freight train at 8.20 o'clock on Friday night last.

Carried 200 Yards

The car was carried about 200 yards with Perry's body in it. The body of the girl was found 100 feet from where the car was hit.

The two young people had just started out to see a moving picture show, presumably at Morrisburg. Before leaving the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ellis, they were warned by the parents of the girl to keep a sharp lookout for trains at the dangerous private crossing a few feet from the house.

They had hardly left before people in the Ellis home were startled by the noise of the crash. They rushed out to find the automobile a heap of tangled wreckage and the two mangled bodies.

Train Going About 30.

The train was a "pick-up" freight travelling from Toronto to Montreal. It was travelling between 30 and 35 miles an hour at the time, the train crew stated. It was in charge of D. Demmany, engineer of Brockville, and W. Rowley, conductor of Montreal.

Dr. E. H. Marcellus and Dr. F. W. Snedden of Iroquois were both called. After they arrived at the scene shortly afterwards and examined the bodies, they stated that the two young people had undoubtedly been killed instantly.

Perry was driving the car, which approached the crossing from north to south. As the crossing is obscured by houses and trees, it is believed that he did not see the oncoming train and the roar of the car's engine as it gained starting speed drowned out the noise of the train. He had driven the car squarely onto the crossing when the train crashed into it.

Previous Accidents

Unprotected, the crossing is regarded by residents of that town and district as a dangerous one. Five years ago a girl was killed there and about 12 years ago a man severely injured, according to E. A. McInnis, town clerk.

Both bodies were taken to the W. E. Fitzsimmons parlors at Iroquois.

Earl Perry was employed in the glucose department o fthe Edwardsburg starch factory at Cardinal and Miss Ellis was an employe of the Superior Stores in Iroquois. They were a popular young couple, Perry, a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Perry, was a promising hockey player with junior teams and was well known in sport circles throughout the district.

In addition to his parents, Perry is survived by three brothers, Bert, Chas. and Clifford, all of Cardinal; two sisters, the Misses Verla Perry, of Ottawa, and Glenna, at home.

Miss Ellis is survived by her parents, and three brothers, William, Donald and Dwight, all at home in Iroquois.

Miss Verla Perry is an employe of the Auditor General's Department, Ottawa, and lives at 370 Chapel street. At ten o'clock that night she left for Iroquois after receiving a long distance telephone call from her parents.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED BY AGRICULTURAL SOCIETY

Considerable etnthusiasm was shown at the annual meeting of the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society held recently in the town hall at Chesterville. W. J. McConnell, of Morewood, was unanimously elected president with the following officers:

First vice president, Thos. Allen, of Chesterville; second vice-president, Dr. J. H. Grisdale, Iroquois; secretary, W. H. Casselman, Chesterville; treasurer, H. E. Wales, Chesterville; directors, Preston Elliott, David Allison, Harold Durant, Howard Kittle, Victor Johnston, Melvin Beggs, Orrin Dillabough, and W. A. McElroy; auditors, P. S. Boyd and T. J. Bourke.

Secretary W. H. Casselman will head a nominating committee to report to a meeting which will be called later, naming the officers of the standing committees for the different features of next year's fair.

OLD PARSONAGE IS REMODELLED FOR FINE PARISH HALL

The old Lutheran parsonage at Riverside, which has stood for a great many years unoccupied, is once again proving its usefulness to the congregation by becoming its new parish hall. The old edifice, which has stood there for over one hundred years, has been renovated and re-decorated and is now as modern a parish hall as any could wish, and the congregation is very happy over it. The building was erected in a most substantial manner and has, of recent years, been standing unoccupied. The congregation, with volunteer labor and the fine co-operation of the church organization, undertook the work of renovating the place and the result is most satisfactory.

The Family DOCTOR

by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

IF YOU ARE HEALTHY

The fox being chased, or the hunted hare, runs in circles, if left to his own instinct. The big planets above our heads move in circular orbits. It seems to me the human mind also performs in a similar manner—in circles—as I watch the developments of years. Many of us are coming out at the same door where in we went, like the old poet, Omar.

Time was when we lifted hands in holy horror, at a diet of fat meat. Today, our calm judgment is, that fat meats, and well-nourished bodies are the best fortification against tuberculosis! I have heard meats, cheese, eggs, and other dependable foods condemned solemnly, even for healthy people! If you had a greasy skin, you were ordered off substantial diet immediately.

We know better now. Lean meat is not only desirable, it is essential to life and strength!

People have looked at me slant-ways when I have told them that gravy was better for their "kids" than cod-liver oil—and I've been telling 'em that for nearly a half century.

I knew a family who, all of them, were swept away by tuberculosis of the lungs—all but one, the last little daughter. She consulted me a few days after my graduation in Medicine—about her lungs! Her three sisters and a brother had died of it. She naturally felt that she was doomed.

"Fanny," I said, "you go home and learn to live on fat meats, rich milk and eggs. See that you do that, as many times a day as you sit down to the table." I made it as impressive as I knew how. She promised strict obedience.

Today, Fanny is getting a little old—but she weighs 175, and still enjoys her fat bacon!

If our dietitians would tell us how to avoid the human hog, we would be happier and healthier.

TRY THIS STUNT

A silver egg that turns black when you touch it sounds like something out of a story book, but you can do this trick ver yeasily. Hold an egg over a candle until it is blackened all over by the smoke; then put it in a glass of water. In the water it looks a beautiful silver color; hand the glass to someone and ask him to pick out the egg. To his surprise he picks out a coal-black egg instead of a silver one! This is because the air bubbles collecting over the candle-black gave the egg its silver appearance when in the water.

ALBERTA CHEESE WINS

Alberta cheese leaped into the limelight when an exhibit of three entries from a cheese factory near Edmonton, in competition with such famous dairying areas as the Fraser Valley in British Columbia, took all three first prizes in the cheese classes at the Vancouver Exhibition. The prize-winning Alberta cheese came from a little factory at Burford and the fact that this pioneer settlement was able to sweep the boards in the face of stiff competition from cheese factories of many years' standing was widely commented on by dairymen at the coast.

Of the subways, New York's new city-owned Eighth Avenue line is among the coolest. And people are to be found on the hottest days of summer actually sitting on the steps of the station at 53rd and Lexington, because at this deep point, where the trains are about to dive under the East River on the way to Queens, the air is actually cold, and frequently the platforms are so cold that they condense the moisture of the air and are all but running with water.

Quiet Greenwich Village—they pronounce it "Gren-itch," you know—was the scene of a minor neighborhood feud last Sunday. Because some residents had been kept awake until two a.m. the night before, they decided to retaliate on a pleasant afternoon by playing their radio out the window as loud as it would go. Such shouting! What banks of windows framing craning necks from a dozen apartment buildings around a large court. And the police would do nothing!

New Yorkers aren't likely to sleep any too well on any summer's night, but when you add the noises of garbage collection in the wee small hours of the morning, you can be certain of idle curses, and tossing sleepers, for the sound of galvanized iron barrels banging on concrete isn't the most restful.

The cloppety-clop of the milkman's horse will soon be a thing of the past in New York, for milk delivery is being motorized more rapidly than ever.

CARELESSNESS AT CROSSINGS

The grade crossing accident is one of the leading contributors to our auto traffic death list. And the thing every driver should remember is that in most cases such accidents are the fault of the motorists themselves. Figures compiled by the Pennsylvania railroad system show that during the first four months of this year, one-third of all grade crossing accidents occurred when motorists drove into the sides of trains. And in exactly half of these cases, the train involved was either standing still or moving at a snail's pace of less than 10 miles an hour. The blithe carelessness with which some drivers approach railroad crossings could not be illustrated more clearly. It is sheer folly to drive up to any crossing without making absolutely sure that no train is in sight; but to blunder against a train that is actually on the crossing at the time is the next thing to simple suicide.

GOOD WORDS FROM ENGLAND FOR FERGUSON

The Empire Review of London, Eng- has the following to say of Hon. G. Howard Ferguson which would make it quite clear that as High Commissioner to England from Canada, he filled the the position:—

"No representative of Canada could have served the Dominion more loyally or more faithfully than Mr. Ferguson has done, while his loss will be widely felt in this country. Nor has he been only the representative of Canada, he has shown himself a great Imperialist, and his advice and counsel will be greatly missed on this side.

More especially do we refer to the discussions at Geneva, where he was always listened to with attention and respect. His geniality and capacity have gained for him golden opinions in many spheres, commercial, political and social, and should he decide to return home, he will do so with the knowledge that he is leaving behind him in the Old Country a large circle of friends in all classes of life.—Kemptville Advance.

A MALICIOUS PRACTICE

Had we the power to give any town one gift, we would give it freedom from gossip. That gift would mean as much, perhaps more, happiness as anything we could think of. Gossip, plain devil-tongued gossip about other people and their affairs is one of the outstanding social curses of our day. More unhappiness is caused by the careless repetition of guesses, rumors, scandals, half-truths and untruths than by any other one cause. It may be that all communities are alike in this respect—probably they are—but we are safe in saying that our town has its full share of these people who seem to take an unholy delight in discussing freely and with little though of results, any and every matter concerning people. That there be little or no truth in the remarks doesn't matter. A little more consideration for people's feelings is a fine gesture, one which might be well remembered the next time you feel inclined to pass an unkind remark about a person.

CONTRIBUTE TO PEACE BY GOOD EXAMPLE

President Roosevelt, leading the Armistice observance of the United States at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, struck sharply at trade restrictions as a cause of discord among nations.

To thousands gathered with him at Arlington Cemetery, Mr. Roosevelt stressed "the power of a good example," as the "strongest force in the world." and announced that the United States and Canada further had cemented a century of friendship with an agreement to lift "unreasonable" trade barriers.

"If we as a nation, by our good example, can contribute to the peaceful well-being of the fellowship of nations" he said, "our course through the years will not have been in vain."

"BIG THINGS" FOR YOUTH

Ambitious youth seeking to find their places early in life in a maladjusted world will find enouragement if they will take a look into the pages of history. E. B. DeGroot, California Boy Scout executive, in the Rotarian magazine tells of a few of the young men and women who have "done big things."

William Pitt, Mr. DeGroot cites as his first example, filled the responsible post of Chancellor of the Exchequer at 23 and served as Prime Minister of Great Britain at 24. George Washington was only 23 when he led the Virginia troops against the Indians and French. Abraham Lincoln campaigned for public office at 24. Robert Louis Stevenson wrote "Treasure Island" at 23. Galois at 19 proved that equations higher than the fifth order could not be solved algebraically, and thereby advanced the theory of groups for the solution of higher equations.

Westinghouse, he continues, invented the air brake at 23. Alexander the Great conquered and ruled the world before he was 30. Sir Isaac Newton at 24 formulated the law of gravitation. Whitney was not more than 29 when he invented the cotton gin. Charles Dickens wrote "Oliver Twist" at 25. Napoleon at 27 was in command of the Italian army. Patrick Henry was but 27 when he made his conquering and historic speech again the Stamp Act. Thos. Edison was not far above the Youth Service age level designated by Rotary (24 years) when he astounded and benefitted mankind with many of his inventions. And so on, almost without end, could we record the achievements and services of youth in the fields of statesmanship literature, invention, science and courage.—Gananoque Reporter.

The youngest member of the new Canadian Parliament is Sarto Fournier, elected for Montreal constituency who is aged 27 years. Prime Minister King was but 33 when he was first elected in 1908.

FIRST CHEESE FACTORY STARTED IN ONTARIO IN 1864

The early French settlers in Canada brought the act of making cheese to this country. Certain families on the Island of Orleans still make a peculiar type of cheese for which the process has been handed down from generation to generation for possibly 300 years.

The United Empire Loyalists brought with them from the United States a knowledge of the manufacture of the Cheddar type of cheese into different parts of Ontario over 100 years ago.

All cheese was made on farms in Ontario until the early '60's.

In Oxford County large herds of cattle were kept from quite an early date and home-made cheese was a common article of commerce. For years, Mrs. H. Ranney, with Robert Facey as assistant, made cheese from a herd of 100. The factory system of manufacture developed in New York State in the '50's and spread into Ohio. Schooners plying on Lake Erie often brought across this "Western Reserve" cheese. Oxford farmers became interested, and in 1862 John Adams and others visited New York State to see how the system worked. In the spring of 1864 Harvey Farrington, originally from Herkimer County, N. Y. State, opened a cheese factory, the first in Canada, in Norwich Township. In the same year John Adams took in milk from two neighbours, paying 7 cents for 10 lbs. The next year several factories were in operation. In this year Adam Brown of Hamilton, began what was to become one of Canada's greatest export trades with a shipment of 50 boxes of Ontario-made factory cheese to Britain. Mr. Brown lived to around the century, and saw nearly a billion dollars worth of of cheese go overseas.

With the abrogation of the Reciprocity Treaty with the U. S. in 1866 Canadian farmers were compelled to find new markets in a hurry. As a result there was at once a very rapid development of the cheese industry, especially in Ontario. By the end of 1867 it was estimated there were over 200 factories built or building. The great centre of the business, both making and selling, was Ingersoll and the name was well advertised throughout the U. S. and and Britain by the famous "mammoth cheese" a 7,000-pounder made in the George Calloway, James Harris and Hiram Ranney factories, and shipped—with appropriate ceremony—first to the New York State Fair and then to England where it was exhibited at fairs and in parks before meeting the fate of all cheese.

There are now cheese factories in every province, but about 97 per cent. of the cheese is still produced in Ontario and Quebec.

Canadian cheesemakers confine their activities almost wholly to the Cheddar type. It is practically the only kind made in the factories. It is made in various sizes ranging from five to 80 or 85 pounds.

The 10-pound cheese are often wrongly caller "Stilton" or "Canadian Stilton." Stilton cheese is a moldy variety and quite unlike Cheddar. A few genuine Stilton cheese are made at the Domin-Experimental Farm at Agassiz, B.C. The Trappist monks at Oka, Quebec, made a cheese of medium texture and pronounced flavor. This is known as "Oka" cheese.

The agricultural colleges and government departments make a comparatively small quantity of cream and other soft varieties. There are few private makers of these types of cheese.

There is another class of cheese on the Canadian market, put up in jars, packets and small loaves. This is only cheddar cheese ground up and to which extra fat and flavouring material is sometimes added.

Cottage cheese is prepared in many households from sour, skim-milk, without the addition of rennet. It is a delicious and wholesome food and should be much more extensively used than it is.

Cheese is made much easier to digest by combining it with other foods. When eaten with bread, or some other starchy food, such as potatoes or macaroni, it forms one of the most satisfactory food combinations and one which will not be difficult of digestion to most people.

If eaten at the end of a heavy meal, as is a common custom, it may tax the digestive organs. But if eaten as the main dish at a meal which is finished with a light dessert it is not likely to cause any digestive disturbances.

STRUCK IN EYE BY A STAPLE FROM FENCE

Mr. John Burnie, Ventnor, met with an accident one day last week while ploughing in the field. He came to the end of a furrow and as he turned the horses, the whipple tree caught in the wire fence, pulling a staple out with such force that it struck him in the corner of the eye. It became badly swollen and very painful so that he found it necessary to go to Dr. McIntosh for treatment. We are glad to report that it has responded to treatment and is doing nicely.

GIVING

Some men give so that you are angry every time you ask them to contribute. They give so that their gold and silver shoot you like a bullet. Other persons give with such beauty that you remember it as long as you live, and you say, "It is a pleasure to go to such men." There are some men that give as springs do: whether you go to them or not, they are always full; and your part is merely to put your dish under the ever-flowing stream. Others give just as a pump does where the well is dry, and the pump leaks.—Beecher.

THE VETERANS AND WAR

It is interesting to note how the veterans of the last war feel about armed conflict. At a meeting of the representatives of war veterans of Germany and the allies in Paris recently a resolution was passed calling for the maintenance of peace, abolition of war-like policies and settlement of international disputes by arbitration. Unfortunately the men who did the fighting in the last war are in many cases too old to go to another. If the young men had their experience there would be little likelihood of war in the world.

MILLIONS BEING TAUGHT TO LOAF

"Millions of people are being educated in our country today to believe that someone owes them a living. The laws of nature do not seem to recognize this doctrine," says The Wainwright Star. Go out into a primitive country and see who owes who a living—you will soon find that your existence depends on your ingenuity and initiative. Governments were organized to go nature one better and make it a little easier to live and to take care of the helpless whom nature would otherwise unceremoniously remove. But to-day millions of perfectly healthy, able-bodied people are being taught to loaf at the expense of the savings of others instead of to rustle for themselves. Such a system can endure only so long as there are stored-up savings to confiscate, then the inexorable laws of nature will prevail. An epidemic of pests completely devours a tree or a field of grain and then the pests die. Nature does not owe them a living. The same thing can happen to governments—if they eat up their capital to maintain idleness, they will eventually find that nature refuses to hear their demands that "someone owes them a living." This may not be a pleasant-sounding philosophy, but it is a fact which honey-coated political cure-alls try to hide.

TODAY and TOMORROW by FRANK PARKER STOCKBRIDGE

FOOD . . . . emergency

The Pilgrims were hard put to it for food, more than once. That is why they established Thanksgiving Day, to celebrate the first year in which they had enough to eat. But out of their necessity they developed a variety of foods which have become American staples.

The Indians taught them how to get sugar from the maple trees, and how to cook the swamp cranberries. It must have been one of the Pilgrim mothers who first made jelly out of the beach plums that grow so profusely on the sandy shores of Cape Cod Bay. Certainly the American taste for clams, in chowder or on the half shell, harks back to Plymouth Colony, as well as our national taste for salt codfish. I know few foods so palatable as a properly made codfish cake, but maybe that's just my Yankee upbringing. Indian corn was new to the Pilgrims, but out of it they evolved Johnnycake—which is as different from cornbread as chalk from cheese—and its improvement, blueberry Johnnycake.

But I wish I knew who invented that supreme dessert, Rhode Island Pandowdy. I'd try to get his—or her—statue into the Hall of Fame.

BEER . . . . . evaporated

One thing the Pilgrims yearned for and couldn't make was beer. They wrote back to their patrons in England, asking them to please send some beer by the next ship.

A tragic-comic episode in history over which I have often smiled, was the fate of that beer, as recorded by Governor Bradford. The beer was shipped, all right—many hogsheads of it. But it was a long and stormy and — apparently — thirsty voyage. For when the ship reached Plymouth all the beer barrels were empty. The captain thought the beer must have evaporated!

Not until trade began with the West Indies and rum and molasses began to be imported did the New England settlers get anything they thought fit to drink.

LIFE . . . . . Russian law

I've just been reading the most illuminating book about Russia that I have yet seen. It is Walter Duranty's "I Write As I Please." I got new light on the Socialist experiment in Russia.

What strikes me most forcibly in his revelations is the supreme indifference to life, not only on the part of the ruling minority, who apply the death penalty ruthlessly for any sort of insubordination, but among the Russian people themselves.

The main reason why Communism can't succeed in America, it seems to me, is that we set a high value on human lives. At this stage in the world's development radically new ideals of government cannot be successfully implanted without killing off those who don't like them and are bold enough to resist them.

THANKSGIVING . and fixin's

Around this time of the year my New England heritage begins to assert itself. I'd like to sit down again to an old-fashioned Thanksgiving dinner, with all the relations gathered around the long table, stuffing ourselves with turkey and all the "fixin's" — including, of course, three or four kinds of pie.

One of my most vivid recollections of childhood is a Thanksgiving dinner at my grandmother's house in Maine, sixty years ago. Twenty-eight of her sons and daughters and their husbands and wives and children sat around the table. We all went to church first—for Thanksgiving Day was a religious feast-day, even more important than Christmas.

Thanksgiving is America's own holiday. I hope its spirit never dies out. It is a good day for everybody to give a little serious thought to the roots from which we sprang.

PILGRIMS . . . and now

I get annoyed at times at people who persist in referring to the Pilgrims of the Plymouth Colony as "Puritans." The Puritans came along later and settled Massachusetts Bay Colony. They were a different sort of folk, religiously and otherwise, from the Pilgrims. They took fewer chances, for one thing.

When I think of the courage of the Pilgrims and the gallant fight they made against almost overwhelming odds, I wonder how much of that spirit of independence still persists. I find it hard to imagine any group of young men and women of today cutting loose from all their old ties and associations and facing starvation and terrific hardships merely because they felt that their right to act and believe as they thought right was being infringed by authority.

I wonder if life hasn't become so easy for us in America that we lose sight of its real values. I've never been able to believe that dollars can compensate for the sacrifice of independence and convictions.

OVER-CODDLING

It doesn't do a child any real harm to be hurt a bit. The mother or father who kisses and fondles and over-sympathizes with a child whenever he does himself a hurt is being foolish at the expense of the child's future. Some of the most difficult problems that have to be dealt with in after years arise from the foolish over-protection of the parents.

THE APPLICATION OF SANCTIONS

With the application of sanctions against Italy on Monday last, the world witnessed, for the first time, collective action on the part of the nations in an effort to halt an act of aggression. It now remains to be seen what effect such a move will have on the conflict.

For months past, representatives of the League of Nations have endeavoured to find a peaceful solution to the Italo-Ethiopian war, but their efforts were coolly received by the Italian dictator, who was apparently determined to conquer the small African kingdom.

Since the sanctions were imposed, Mussolini has spent much time in delivering "pep talks" to the Italian people in an effort to overcome, by enthusiasm, the drastic economic effects of the sanctions. How long will the Italian people thrive on their enthusiasm? Italy is known to be an importing nation of no mean proportions, at the same time dependig on her export of certain commodities in order to make ends meet. With both in-flowing and out-flowing trade practically severed, the nation now must become virtually a self-sufficient unit.

Whatever may be the result, it will eventually prove to the satisfaction of all whether the weapons now in the hands of the League of Nations are effective in maintaining or forcing world peace. The testing time has come ,and the results will be watched with keen interest throughout the entire world.

THE REACTION TO RECIPROCITY

The new Reciprocity Treaty between the United States and Canada has been received with mixed feelings on both sides of the border. While the farmers and other primary producers in Canada look upon the pact with favour, uncertain rumblings are to be heard throughout the industrial centres and the fruit and vegetable districts in Southern Ontario, where it is stated the treaty will be decidedly injurious to business.

Meanwhile a storm of protest has been launched throughout the United States over the terms of the treaty. United States lumbermen are threatening a boycott and demand that Canada lift the preferential agreement with England and the British colonies which virtually bars American lumber from those markets. The National Grange, a country-wide farm organization, is also said to be up in arms over the agreement concerning agricultural products. Strong possibility now looms that the treaty will be a main feature of the 1936 election campaign in that country.

There is no doubt but the lowering of duties on cream, milk, butter and other dairy products, as well as beef cattle, will be beneficial to the farmers of Eastern Ontario, and prices should react accordingly. However, as the old saying goes "the proof of the pudding is in the eating," and a definite answer to the treaty will be learned following the application of its terms on Jan. 1st next.

THH LEVEL CROSSING FATALITIES

During the past few days, several lives have been snuffed out prematurely in accidents involving automobiles and railway trains.

For some inexplicable reason, there appears to be a type of driver who, with reckless abandon and no thought for his passengers, will endeavor to beat a train to the crossing every time he is given the opportunity. Common sense should be one of the first requisites of all drivers, and yet this quality is noticeably lacking among some motorists with respect to railway crossings.

The railway companies, in an effort to avoid accidents, have caused warning signals of various types to be erected at nearly all main crossings; train crews are warned to be constantly on the alert against possible accidents, and yet people get killed with exceeding regularity.

It is about time that Ontario adopted a law similar to that of Quebec province, compelling all motorists to come to a full stop at all railway crossings. It seems absurd that laws are necessary to compel people to look after their own safety, but such is the case, and accidents will no doubt occur until such legislation is passed and rigidly enforced.

THE RECEPTION AT CHORLEY PARK

It is to be hoped that the rumor concerning the refusal of Ontario Cabinet Ministers to attend the official reception at Chorley Park in honour of Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir in Toronto on Nov. 26th is without foundation.

Invitations to the function have been issued, and it is understood that the members of the Liberal cabinet have graciously declined to attend. Such action on the part of the Hepburn ministers will not be well received by the citizens of the province generally.

Tact and foresight are presumably are two prerequisites of leadership and if the Ontario cabinet ministers fail to put in an appearance at the official reception to the Governor General, it may be assumed that they fall far short of standards with respect to those two qualities—to say nothing of courtesy.

EDITORIAL NOTES

A man who thinks of nobody but himself, usually has a very limited field for thought.

No man can make a fool of himself all the time. He has to sleep occasionally.—Ottawa Journal.

What about the municipal elections? It may seem a bit premature to discuss such matters at this date, but now is the logical time for the ratepayers to be giving some serious thought to the selection of candidates for the various offices on the Council and Boards of Education.

The Press offers heartiest congratulations to our friend and contemporary, H. J. Pettypiece, of the Forest Free Press, who celebrated his 80th birthday on Armistice Day. Referring to Editor Pettypiece recently, the London Free Press says:—"One of the outstanding residents of the district, Mr. Pettypiece has been twice member of the Ontario Legislature, and in 1903 was the president of The Canadian Press Association. He has been editing The Forest Free Press and publishing it for over 52 years. Another distinction which Mr. Pettypiece holds, is that of being the first electric car passenger in America. For 30 years he was the C. P. R. agent at Forest."

THE LATE GEORGE A. GAGNON

With reference to the untimely death at Durham, of Mr. George A. Gagnon, we quote from the Durham Chronicle as follows:

"The town was deeply touched late Sunday night by the sudden death of Mr. George A. Gagnon, one of its prominent citizens for the past 30 years, who passed away from a heart attack while sitting in his home on Bruce street. In the enjoyment of good health previously, and not having complained of feeling ill, his sudden passing was a terrible shock to his family and even yet it is hard to realize that this comparatively young man has passed on. It was a great shock to the writer, who with Mr. Gagnon, watched the Veterans' parade to church Sunday morning, and later visited for a brief few minutes with Mr. Peter Gagnon, at his summer home at the Rocky. Returning shortly before twelve o'clock noon, we parted with our old friend of many years, returned to town late that night and almost the first news we received Monday morning was that he had passed away. During our short drive Mr. Gagnon had commented on his good health, told us of his plans for the next few months, and death to him was in the distant future. Last summer he had built a summer home some three miles east of town. He had slept there the previous evening and it was his intention this fall to have a heater installed in his car that he and his family could from time to time journey to the home during the winter. He told us of the fish he had in the stream that ran through his property, of his intended improvements next year, and what a pleasure it was for him to get away from arduous duties and with his family spend a few hours amid pleasant surroundings. George was a real family man. His whole being was wrapped up in his family, his brothers and sisters, and his friends, and his passing away within an hour without previous illness was indeed a terrible shock to all.

The late Mr. Gagnon was born in Winchester in 1887, a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Gagnon. Coming to Durham in 1905, the whole of his business career has been lived in this town with the exception of two years spent at Calgary, Alberta. During all this period of three decades he had been employed with the Durham Furniture Company, and for twenty years was foreman in the cabinet department.

Twenty years ago the deceased was married to Miss Reta Darling, who survives, with one son and three daughters, Jack, Helen, Mary and Norma. Surviving also are three brothers and three sisters, Peter L. Gagnon, managing director of the Durham Furniture Company here; Charles Gagnon, Croghan, N.Y.; Fred Gagnon, a former resident here, but now in Atlanta, Georgia; Mrs. Pelletier, Fort William; Mrs. Root, Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. Gariepy, Beauharnois, Quebec.

The late Mr. Gagnon took a deep interest in the affairs of the town, was a member of the Odd Fellows, active in the work of game preservation, was on the executive of the Grey and Bruce Fish and Game Protective Association, and a lover of Nature and all outdoors.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from his late residence, and in accordance with the previously expressed wish of the deceased, was private. The service was conducted by Rev. J. R. Thompson, rector of Trinity Anglican church. Interment was in Durham cemetery.

The pall bearers were Messrs. G. Jucksch, W. A. Glass, H. McCrae, B. Stonehouse, R. E. Richardson, B. Saunders and M. Knechtel, all associates in the employ of the Durham Furniture Company. The floral tributes were many and very beautiful, the casket and room being banked with these expressions of sympathy and esteem from the Durham Furniture Company and employees, societies and citizens. These were borne by employees of the cabinet department and close friends with whom the deceased had so long been associated.

Among those present from a distance were Mr. Charles Gagnon, Miss Anna Gagnon, Mr. Fred Gagnon, all of Croghan, N.Y.; Mrs. Root, Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Alex Forsythe, Mr. Hilton Forsythe, and Mr. Lyle Forsythe, all of Simcoe; Mr. and Mrs. John Dack, of Brantford, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Linklater, Kincardine."

Word was received the latter part of the week that Mr. Herb Price, of New York State, a well known cattle buyer, died the latter part of the week. Mr. John Millar attended the funeral.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marquette and Miss Muriel Marquette of Ottawa, visited friends here Sunday.

We are pleased to report Mrs. Minor Henderson able to return to her home at Shanly after being ill at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Asa Scott, for several weeks.

MR. L. A. ELLIS ILL

The Press regrets to state that Mr. L. A. Ellis, prominent local merchant, who is at present undergoing treatment in the Ottawa Civic Hospital for an infection of the eyes, is not making as much progress as was hoped for by attending physicians. Local citizens will join in wishing Mr. Ellis a rapid and complete recovery from his illness.

THHE UNITED CHURCH

Rev. W. S. Atchison spoke on Sunday morning from I Timothy 4: 13, also II Timothy 4: 13, emphasizing the literature of our church, which he said is priceless in the inspiration and the information given. He spoke of the worthlessness of poor literature and of the time wasted in reading such. "There is but one book," said Sir Walter Scott. This is true said the pastor. He told of the great contribution the Bible had made to his life. It is the Great Book. If you find it dull you have not learned to read it aright. It makes us wise into salvation. Read it, study it. and build your life upon its teachings to every difficulty.

A very fine missionary address was given by the pastor at the evening service when he took for his subject, "The World" and John 3: 16, for a text. He said we must first have our own lives lighted and then go and take the light of others. He brought a challenge in regard to the situation to-day in our mission world. Missionaries may have to be recalled because of lack of funds. A suggeston has been made that all across Canada the weekly givings to the M. & M. fund be doubled throught Nov. and December. This was the challenge and the only way it can be met is by sacrifice. In closing he said: "May the missionary spirit possess us. The Lord our God hath done great thing for us, whereof we are glad." He made a passionate appeal to this church to do its part.

Men often blame a dog for what they indulge in themselves—barking unnecessarily.

MOUNTAIN

Mr. B. George and son, David, of Kemptville, was a Saturday guest of Mrs. W. Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. John Marquette, of Ottawa, were Sunday guests of Mr. Hugh Marquette.

A very inspiring W. M. S. meeting was held at the home of Mrs. H. C. Fader on Wednesday last. Mrs. W. R. Johnston gave the report of the Sectional meeting held at Iroquois and Mr. Fader very ably explained the first chapter of the new African Study Book.

Miss Elsie Whitley spent the week-end at her home in Roebuck.

Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Cameron and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Cameron of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Baker and family, of Merrickville, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moorhouse.

Miss Rae Derby spent the week-end at her home in Maple Ridge.

Mr. Bert Campbell, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, Mountain, is now taking his holidays. He is being relieved by Mr. Cross, of Ottawa.

Mr. and Mrs. S. W. VanAllen and Messrs. Allan and Clair VanAllen were Sunday guests of Mr .and Mrs. Andrew Logan.

A very impressive church service was held in Mountain United Church on Sunday morning with Rev. W. R. Johnston in charge. Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Moorhouse presented their son, Donald, for baptism. Eight persons were received into the church, and one transferred. At the close of the service, Holy Communion was ministered.

Mrs. A. Bouck is spending a few days with her brother, Mr. E. J. Hamilton, of Glen Stewart.

Tenth Anniversary Rally of Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial Mission Bands

A special Tenth Anniversary Rally of Dundas-Grenville Mission Bands was held in Mountain United church Saturday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, to celebrate our ten years' growth as a Mission Band. The Presbyterial Mission Band secretary, Miss Violet VanAllen, presided over the meeting. The Rally theme was: "Let us look up and lift up; let us serve our King." The meeting opened by singing hymn "Upward, Ever Upward," and the Lord's Prayer in unison. Four members from Winchester Mission Band led the opening worship period.

Master Lloyd Cameron, of Mountain, extended the address of welcome and Miiss Vivian Flegg, of Hulbert, replied.

During the service Miss Coreen Hyndman of Hallville, favoured the audience with a solo; Miss Erla Steinburg, of Morewood, a missionary recitation; and five girls from South Mountain put on a playette: "Our Japanese Cousins," portraying life conditions in Japan.

The roll call of mission bands showed fourteen mission bands present, and an attendance of over two hundred persons. Hymn "In Christ There Is No East Nor West," was sung, followed by "Our Mission Band Emblem," recited by Miss Evelyn Christie, of Kemptville.

The 1935 Mission Band Branch Secretary, Mrs. W. G. Beddoe, of Ottawa, was the guest speaker of the day. Mrs. Beddoe pictured for us "Life Conditions of the Butcher Boys of Korea," before and after our Missionaries carried the Word of God to them. How the request of one missionary brought the Butcher Boys the Freedom to choose their own profession in life.

Miss Aileen Cheney and Master Lloyd Cameron, of Mountain, rendered a duet —"Open the Door for the Children." Mrs. A. B. Allison, of Morewood, the Presbyterial president of the W. M. S., explained "What Church Union means," at the close of which she conducted the birthday cake service.

Rev. W. R. Johnston, of South Mountain, brought greetings from the church and board, and lit the first candle, representing the United Church of Canada. Those bringing greetings and lighting the ten candles were: from the W. M. S. —Mrs. W. S. L. Merrill, of Morrisburg, the 1925 Presbyterial President, and Mrs. A. B. Allison, of Morewood, the 1935 Presbyterial President. From the Mission Bands, Mrs. J. Anderson, of Heckston; the 2nd Presbyterial secretary, Mrs. W. G. Beddoe, of Ottawa, the 1935 Branch secretary, and Miss Violet VanAllen, the 1935 Presbyterial secretary. In the absence of Mrs. J. I. Murdock, Branch W. M. S. president, seven girls from Kemptville Mission Band rendered a vocal chorus. Miss Mabel Gilroy of South Mountain, moved a vote of thanks to all who helped to make the Rally a success. Hymn, "Gentle Jesus, Meek and Mild," was sung, and Rev. Mr. Johnston pronounced the Benediction. Miss Evelyn Cheney presided at the organ. The members of Mountain Mission Band passed a birthday treat of apples and candy. Mrs. Beddoe brought curios from China and the boys and girls examined them at the close of the meeting.

CHRISTMAS IS ON ITS WAY

Yes, there are only five weeks left to plan for your Christmas shopping. Time does slip by quickly. Hours run into weeks so rapidly when everyone is active. It does not seem possible that the time is at hand for the people to look about for the annual shopping event. Yet it is a fact. People are now planning their Christmas presents. This means that the merchant who is awake is presenting the pleasing merchandise to the customers. It means that the people are expecting to hear from the merchants. What are the local merchants doing to present their claims to the public to buy locally? This is one of the most important questions of the day. It is necessary that every local merchant makes plans to secure a bigger proportion of business this year than he did last year. The big chain stores and departmental stores are working on the plan. Surely the local merchant can find new methods and mediums by which business can be increased. If he is to make a start in building greater business, now is the time to begin. Every local merchant should be alive to the opportunity.—Weston Times-Guide.

CONDUCT COUNTS

A certain type of youth may sometimes wonder why opportunity does not come its way. It may all be that those who are passed by when there is a position to be filled in some business establishment have themselves to blame Perhaps their conduct has been such that is doesn't spell dependability. Boys who wish to get ahead should heed the sage remarks of a wide-awake observer who says: "When we see boys on the streets and public places, we often wonder if they know that business men are watching them." Youth should bear in mind that in every bank, store and office there will soon be a place for boys, even young men, to fill. Those who have charge of hiring employees are looking for boys who are gentlemanly and courteous. They are not looking for rowdies. When a boy applies for one of those places and is refused, they many not tell him the reason why they do not want him, but they can depend upon it that he has been rated according to his behavior. Boys cannot afford to adopt the habit and convention of loafers and rowdies, if they want to be called to a responsible position. Good character and ability form a potent combination in any endeavor to land a position that may be the first rung on the ladder of success.

THE VOTING PRIVILEGE

There are some people who do not value their franchise very highly—some not highly enough to use it. Others, maybe if they had to pay for it, would think it worth more than they do now that it is free. It has been figured the cost of the election was $1.60 for each vote polled. If we had to pay that much for the privilege of voting, we might value it a little more highly. 'Tis certain that we would be more particular about choosing men that we'd want to spend $1.60 before voting for them.

ROWENA RIDES THE RUMBLE

COPYRIGHT 1931 BY THE AUTHOR

by ETHEL HUESTON

FINAL INSTALMENT

"I have thought it over. I've been thinking it over since that night in Cheyenne—the first time we had to show the certificate. We won't have to show any certificate here We're as free as the birds and the flowers."

"Rack and Ruff will expect us in tonight. They won't like it."

"They're not expecting us. I wired them two days ago that we wouldn't be home until Monday."

"Are—we going to stay here—until Monday?"

"We are," said Peter firmly.

"Peter, Peter," said Rowena, "be careful, oh be careful! If—you do this it—it will give me a grand chance to be mean to you—if I want to. I can make it hard for you to get a divorce—I can get alimony——"

"It'll be worth it," said Peter grimly. "Besides," he added smiling, "even when you are Mrs. Peter Blande in fact, at heart you will still be just Rowena Rostand. You are immortal."

Rowena did a strange thing. She clasped both her hands tightly over Peter's arm and looked up into his face—deep, deep into his eyes—searchingly, for a long time and did not speak. Peter's fell at last before the intensity of her silent gaze but there was no diminution of purpose in his manner.

"And you ought to know by this time that when I make up my mind, it's made," he said doggedly. "So you needn't try to talk me out of it."

"I'm not going to try," said Rowena faintly.

He helped her out of the rumble and cautioned her to be careful of the rocky path up the hill.

"It's easy to get a twisted ankle here," he said.

He even asked her to help carry his bundles up from the car and filled her arms with them. At the foot of the steps that led to the wide unroofed piazza he kicked over a stone and produced a big brass key that lay beneath.

"Look at this," he said. "The cabin's a sort of open house for everybody and his friend, and the key bears the household motto, 'Come easy—go easy'—see?"

"Appropriate to week-end honeymooners, like us," she said quietly.

"You would say that," said Peter. "I assure you, that was not the idea back of it."

The cottage, which consisted of but one immense room and a huge screened bath, with miniature kitchenette, was roughly finished with heavy oaken beams. There was a great fireplace of natural stone, and running end to end away from it on both sides were studio couches against the wall, comprising three full sides of the cottage.

Water was supplied by a windmill among the rocks higher up the hill, and Peter invited Rowena up with him to witness the ceremony of chaining the wind.

"It's our one servant up here," he said. "Loosing the windmill is one of the real events of coming up. When there is a crowd they do it with a great processional, with incense and incantations. But our minds are on other things tonight so we won't bother."

Rowena followed him down the steep rocky path to the cabin again.

"Been here often?" she asked casually.

"Yes." Peter was laying a fire in the grate.

"Were you here with crowds—or just—alone?"

"Both."

Rowena walked about the cabin ruffling her bronze-bright hair with both hands. She looked at the pictures—the autographs—the candlesticks—the incense burners.

"Belongs to a woman, doesn't it, Peter?"

"Yes."

Peter was opening up his bundles and putting the food supplies in their proper compartments.

"Do you think she'll like your bringing another—woman—here?"

"I don't care whether she does or not."

Rowena threw off her air of quiet moodiness. She rolled up the sleeves of her blouse and asked for a job.

"You can put the rolls in the oven," said Peter. "And you may as well get as much fun out of things as you can. There's no use to try to get away. You can't."

"I'm not going to try," she said.

Peter pressed the button that started the electric refrigeration, pulled out the drop-leaf table and measured four cups of water into the tea-kettle.

"I hope you're hungry," he said. "We're eating camp rations tonight. Tomorrow I'll show you some good country cooking for I'm really the cabin's star chef. But tonight my mind's on other things and I don't want to be bothered. Our fare will be quick and rough, and it will require an appetite to enjoy it."

"I'm just ravenous," said Rowena politely, although knowing very well that the smallest crumb would catch in her throat.

Peter measured four tablespoonfuls of coffee into the pot and poured boiling water over it to drip. Then he set the table with silverware of sorts and paper plates—"We never wash anything but silver and pans up here," he explained, "and toss a coin to see who has to do it." He laid out slices of cold roast beef, and liverwurst, potato salad, crackers and cheese. Then he opened a can of soup, adding an equal portion of water according to directions on the can.

"You see, when I think of providing for you as a good husband should," he said, "I can't get away from soup and crackers and cheese. The cheese trust ought to give you a discount. I wonder you haven't got a band of mice following you about. What a Pied Piper you'd be for Hamelin!"

"This place is my mother's," said Peter, gently.

Rowena laughed tolerantly. "Cheese is very good for one," she said.

Peter opened up a bottle of horse radish, put salt and pepper on the table, and sugar, cursing softly because he had forgotten cream for the coffee. Then he filled a great bowl with fresh fruit for a center piece with candlesticks around it.

"Here you are, Mrs. Blande," he said jauntily, and held a chair for her.

Rowena sank down, a little breathless, rather pale.

Just the barest fraction of an instant Peter hesitated. Then he lifted her face with a very determined forefinger—and touched his lips to hers, faintly, almost timidly at first and then with stubbornly rising courage crushed them roughly It was with quite an air of bold bravado that he went to his own chair opposite, but his face was flushed and his eyes did not meet hers.

Rowena threw off her nervousness in forced laughter.

"Oh, Pumpkin Eater," she said gaily, though her voice was that of one who has too little breath for a torrent of tumbling words, "fancy all this furor after three solid months of marriage."

"You won't be laughing about it three days from now" he said grimly.

"Oh, maybe I will," she answered cheerfully. "I'm one of the grandest little laughers you ever saw in your life."

He smiled at her suddenly. "Yes, you are, I'll say that for you You are just great about—things like that."

Deftly he served a portion of salad and meat on a paper plate for her, and poured the coffee.

"Sorry to have nothing better than canned cow for your wedding-night," he said.

"Oh, I adore canned cow. I always ask for it at all my weddings."

She was glad to have the coffee and drank it steaming hot although it scorched her throat. But she could not eat.

"Why don't you eat, Rowena?" he demanded.

"I'm not hungry."

"You're not nervous, I hope—not frightened, or anything."

"Not in the least. I'm just not hungry."

"Why aren't you hungry? You haven't had anything to eat for hours," he persisted stubbornly.

I never have much appetite, Peter. You know I never eat much."

But you haven't eaten anything. You usually eat something. You didn't even eat your adored soup. You're not sick, are you?"

"No." She smiled at him, the friendly warn smile that was genuinely Rowena. "I think maybe it's because I feel so sorry for you, Peter."

"Sorry—for me——"

"Yes. Because you're doing such a very stupid thing and putting yourself in my power like this. I can do quite terrible things to you—after this—if I want to.—And I can be most frightfully mean—if I want to."

"Yes, I know that."

"You don't know anything yet," she assured him.

"Oh, well, I'm taking the chance."

When they had finished supper he cleared away the dishes quickly and shoved the table into its corner. Then he drew the big, high-backed divan before the smoldering fire and heaped it with cushions, and turned out all the lights but left two candles glimmering on the mantel.

She did not hesitate but went over at once and sank down among the cushions in the corner of the big divan. Peter sat beside her and drew her into his arms, and Constantine crouched at their feet. Rowena made no resistance. For some time they sat there, motionless and silent, both staring, a little awed and very sober, into the flickering fire. It was very still—the stillness seeemed to touch them, to make them one with it. The light was low. Little soft scents of wood and pine and smoke crept out to them. Little soft sounds of night in the hills crept in to them. The chirr of katydids filled the air.

Suddenly Peter lifted his hand and drew her face toward him until her lips lay against his throat. His hand caressed her shining, bronze-gold hair.

"Close your eyes," he said. "It's quite dark here and I will not talk. Maybe you can forget it's only Peter and think it's some one you like."

Rowena lay very still, scarcely breathing, against him. He could feel her lips upon his throat quivering ever so little.

"Peter," she said.

"Mmmmm," he murmured indistinguishably.

"Who—whose cabin is it?"

He laughed softly. "Do—do you care?"

Unconsciously she stiffened a little in his arms, her quivering lips grew firm. But she pressed more closely into the curve of his arm.

"No," she said firmly.

"It's my mother's," he said. "She likes this sort of thing."

Rowena relaxed and laughed a little, tremulously. And the throbbing silence enfolded them warmly.

After a long while—"Peter," she said again.

"Mmmmmmm."

"It's the third and last warning. —You'd better take me to town—take me right away quick—as fast as ever you can——"

"It's too late now."

"Too late is better than—never," she said. "And pretty soon it will be never." Unconsciously their voices had fallen to whispers. "It's never really too late—until it really is—too late," she added enigmatically. "Peter—believe me—you'd better——"

Again he laughed softly. "Why, Rowena, why?—You are my wife—"

"Because, if you don't—I warn you, Peter!—I'll never let you go again—never—as long as you live—and it will be too late for ever."

Even against the straining of her arms about him she wondered breathlessly if he would rise up at that and go away. But of course he didn't. He laughed again, an odd pleased laugh, and pressed his lips to her fragrant hair.

And Constantine murmured quiet contentment at their feet.

Watch For Our New Serial Story Which Will Start Next Week.

ORIGIN OF HUMBLE PIE

A humble person has but a poor opinion of himself. He is willing to take an inferior position and to allow others to regard him as beneath their rank.

In the Middle Ages, lords and ladies rode to the hunt with huntsmen and retainers as members of the party. However, the latter only had charge of the hounds and the horses and did not share in the noble part of the sport that of killing the deer at the end of the chase.

When the venison pasty was served to the lord and his household, the nobles sat upon a dais or raised platform at one end of the dining hall as an indication of their high rank. At the other end of the room, the huntsmen and servants were fed upon a pie made from the heart, liver and entrails of the deer. These parts of the deer were called the "umbles." So you see that eating the "umble pie" or "humble pie" was an indication of low rank.

As we use the expression, "eating humble pie" means to act in a humbly apologetic manner.

THE MOST IMPORTANT RACES

Johnny was notoriously inattentive during lessons.

"Tell me," requested his teacher "what are the three most important races of mankind?"

"The hunndred yards, the quarter-mile, and the mile" replied Johnny, whose thoughts were in the playing-field.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS—By JOHN HIX

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

Lotteries—frowned on, forbidden and outlawed today—were once a very respectable way to raise money in the United States. When money was needed for projects deemed worthy by the State, permission was given to conduct one. Harvard University got two buildings that way.

Holworthy Hall on the north side of the Yard at Harvard University was built in 1812 from the proceeds of such a lottery. It was named for Sir Matthew Holworthy whose bequest of $5,000, made in 1678, was the largest single gift received by the college in the seventeenth century. Another building at Harvard, Stoughton Hall, just north of Holden Chapel, was built seven years earlier, most of the money for it coming from another State authorized lottery.

Aged and virtually retired, a man notorious for his love for ease and inaction, John of Brienne was roused to action when a horde of 100,000 Bulgarians marched on Constaninople and 300 enemy warships jammed the adjacent waters. With only 2,000 soldiers and 160 knights, John marched out to meet the enemy—and when the fight was over, the routed Bulgarians were counting dead in 45 of their 48 squadrons.

Civilians and soldiers alike caught the spirit of the leader's actions—and to complete the victory they swarmed over the enemy warships, capturing 25 of them.

THE TEST

"Gus," said Bill, as he caught up with him on the way back to camp," are all the rest of the boys out of the woods yet?"

"Yes," said Gus.

"All six of them?"

"And they're all safe?"

"Yes," anwered Gus, they're all safe."

"Then," said Bill, his chest swelling, "I've shot a deer."

A steward stood at the gateway of a big liner, and as he stood there he kept shouting for the benefit of the arriving passengers:

"First-class to the right! Second-class to the left."

A young woman stepped daintily on board with a baby in her arms. As she hesitated before the steward he bent over and said, in his chivalrous way:

"First or second?"

"Oh!" said the girl, her face as red as a rose. "Oh dear, neither—I'm only the nurse."

The boy from the city was visiting his grandmother in the country. The hired man was showing him around the place. In the back lot a cow was grazing and the boy's curiosity became greatly excited.

"Oh, what's that?" he asked.

"Only a cow."

"And what are those things on her head?"

"Horns," answered the hired man.

As they started away the cow mooed loud and long. The little city boy was astounded and looking back with feverish interest demanded, "Which horn did she blow?"

The WOMAN'S ANGLE
by NANCY HART

An amusing bauble on the market: scales that, appropriately enough, have gone musical. The new gadget has a music box attached to the weight register. It automatically plays nursery songs when you weigh in the baby. Ho-hum!

* * *

The diet fad for reducing has taken to the woods, and now that we are all a bit more sensible about it, we realize that a slow, sensible, regulated and diminished diet plus exercise is the most satisfactory solution excepting only those who should see their doctors.

* * *

Dr. Alexis Carrel, in his "Man, The Unknown," states that children have a contempt for their parents, but willingly imitate their ignorance, vulgarity, selfishness and cowardice. . . . If he's right, what a terrific burden is placed on every parent who would bring up his child to a stature of nobility! No matter how fine the child's heritage back through the ages, so much of his personality and character depends, not on his conscious training, but upon the unconscious examples set by his parents! I wish every parent might read Dr. Carrel's book.

The street-length dress of metal cloth is being seen in fashionable places at the cocktail hour and for semi-formal evenings. The ankle-length dress, on the other hand, doesn't make an appearance until the dinner hour. Rich colors of reds, purples, and purple-blues suggest a jubilee note in rich velvets this season.

H. G. Wells' suggestion that women's styles might be standardized in the future has been widely criticized by stylists here and abroad. After fifteen years of standardized styles, even Russia has come back to fashion, they point out.

HIS HERITAGE

My son, you'll soon be leaving,
As youngsters often do;
Your mother will be grieving,
Your dad will miss you, too.
You'll never find a fonder
Or better home than here,
But youngsters like to wander,
The springtime of the year.
Temptation will surround you
To lead you into wrong;
But, from the way I've found you,
I know you'll get along.
I know, somehow or other,
Because you always had
A whole lot of your mother,
And a little of your dad.

A queer old world awaits you
Out there beyond the hill,
A world that loves you, hates you,
That gives you good and ill.
Be humble in your riches,
Be glad without a cent;
The roses in the ditches
Bloom on, and are content.
Though other men have money
(And money helps a lot),
You've got a fortune sonny,
Some others haven't got:
You've got a wealth, another
That ought to make you glad—
A whole lot of your mother,
And a little of your dad.

There's lots of mother in you—
I've seen it day by day;
Temptation will not win you
Nor lead you far astray.
In every tangled byway
The mother will arise
And help you find the highway—
I can see it in your eyes.
And so, I'll never worry,
Wherever you may go,
However you may hurry,
Whatever you may know:
A boy ,somehow or other,
Won't turn out very bad,
With a whole lot of his mother—
And a little of his dad.

—Douglas Murdoch.

DO YOU KNOW?

When a car has travelled 10,000 miles—

The crankshaft has revolved 30,000,000 times.

The camshaft has revolved 15,000,000 times.

Each valve has opened and closed 15,000,000 times.

The pistons have travelled 2,840 miles.

Average gasoline used, 825 gallons.

Rear axle and tires have revolved 7,500,000 times.—Citizen.

SOME TURKISH PROVERBS

A foolish friend is more troublesome than a wise enemy.

Even if your enemy is small as a fly, fancy him as large as an elephant.

The man who weeps for everyone will soon become blind.

He who rides only borrowed horses will seldom mount into the saddle.

WOULD CURB NOISE

At the most recent meeting of the Kemptville village council, Chief of Police J. McIntyre was promised the full support of that body in any action he might take to stop unnecessary noises on the streets of the village late at night. It was reported that a great deal of unnecessary noise was annoying citizens who were sleeping.

BANKS NOTIFIED THAT LOANS TO ITALY BANNED

Formal notification was reaching Canadian banks last week that under the Geneva sanctions, no loans to Italy are permissible. While this is just reaching Canadian banking institutions, it is believed that they have governed themselves in the belief that such an order would become operative, and have not since the beginning of the Ethiopian controversy made any credit advances to either nation.

SPEED COSTS

It is not generally known that the faster automobiles travel the greater the consumption of gasoline. But such appears to be the case. Thirteen kinds of cars were tested to ascertain if that fact applied to them all. The American Automobile Association gives the following as the result of tests made: 30 miles an hour, 18 miles per gallon. 60 miles an hour, 12.6 miles per gallon. 80 miles an hour, 8.6 miles per gallon. Oil consumption is seven times as great at 55 miles an hour as at 30 miles an hour. This is, we suppose, no concern of a person who starts out on a trip at eighty miles or more per hour. Doubtless he never worries about the bill—his widow can take care of it out of the insurance money.—Acton Free Press.

HENS NOT AS STUPID AS THEY LOOK

At Fort Erie recently Mrs. Elizabeth Parsons claimed ten hens from a large flock in a poultry keeper's yard, for which she entered a complaint. When she spoke to them they recognized her voice and came out from the rest of the flock. The ten were part of a group of thirty-seven stolen from her henhouse at Stamford on October 9th. In the presence of the Provincial Police Mrs. Parsons summoned her hens from a miscellaneous collection, and was permitted to take them back home when they responded to her call, and walked into the same gate that they had been in the habit of using there, feeling happy to be home again.—Gananoque Reporter.

SNOW BARRIERS

Approximately 75 miles of snow fence will be erected within the next couple of weeks along district highways, according to W. F. Noonan, Brockville engineer of the Department of Public Highways. Word has been sent out to district patrolmen to start at the beginning of the month of November to erect fences at all places where drifting of snow is common. Sand piles will be placed at all curves, hills, and other dangerous sections, where icy roads make driving precarious. The sand is treated with calcium chloride to prevent freezing. Last winter was a record one for the use of sand, fully 5,000 tons being used on hills and curves in the local residency.

WON GRAND CHAMPIONSHIP

Cragie Keynote, the Clydesdale stallion imported from Scotland last year by George T. Fulford, M.L.A., with the object of improving horses throughout the county of Leeds, was successful on Thursday last in winning the grand championship for all Clydesdales at the Ottawa Winter Fair.

REPLACE OLD BIBLES

After having been in use by The Britons Lodge No. 14, A. F. and A. M., Perth, since the time of its establishment in 1818, a Bible, belonging to that organization, has now been replaced by a new volume, a gift of Osiris Lodge, Smiths Falls. It was made in appreciation of the Perth lodges kindness in affording use of its quarters. The old Bible is to be preserved by the lodge.

TOOK SECOND PLACE

The team representing Grenville county took second place in the junior inter-county live stock judging competition at the Ottawa Winter Fair last week with 2,548 points out of a possible 3,000. Peterborough county captured first place, and Leeds was in seventh place. Members of the Grenville team were Lloyd Earl, Merrickville; W. E. Burchill, Spencerville.

ACCIDENTS INCREASE

There were 5,596 accidents reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board during the month of October, this being the largest number reported during any month this year. The fatal cases numbered 28, as against 20 in September, and 33 last October. The total benefits awarded amounted to $517,878.61 of which $434,917.01 was for compensation and $82,961.60 for medical aid. This brings the total benefits awarded to date this year to $4,461,922.85, as compared with $3,668,826.62 during the same period last year.

INTERESTING EVENT

An interesting event took place at Toyes Hill on Friday evening last when about eighty friends and neighbors at the home of Mr. Joseph Hunter, the occasion being in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Murphy whose marriage was solemnized recently.

About 10 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. Murphy were called to the floor and Mrs. Arnold Peterson read an appropriate address, while a beautifully decorated wagon drawn by Lucy Mae Wylie and Eldred Moore, laden with useful and beautiful gifts was presented to them.

Lunch was served and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

GIVES WARNING CROPS MAY SUFFER NEXT YEAR

G. H. Hammond, of Apple Hill, Ont., addressing the 72nd annual meeting of the Ontario Entomological Society on Friday last, gave warning that damage may be severe next year in some townships, particularly around North Gower, Smiths Falls, Prescott and Hallville from the ravages of what is called the white grub. Lanark, Carleton Place, Grenville and Dundas would likely suffer also.

Potatoes, strawberries, Timothy, corn and various grass seedlings would be the chief sufferers, he said. The grub feeds underground, and cuts the roots of these crops.

LINE FENCE CASE ADJOURNED

A line fence case came before Magistrate John McCormick on Wednesday afternoon last at Kemptville when Herman Ficko was charged with wilfully and unlawfully damaging the line fence of Archie Seymour, of Oxford Township, to the extent of $10 damage. Ficko pleaded not guilty and asked for an adjournment as witnesses and his lawyer from Ottawa were not present. The adjournment was granted on condition the accused paid any just claim for the appearance of plaintiff's witnesses to be determined that day.

BICYCLES MUST HAVE LIGHTS

The section of the Highways Traffic Act dealing with lights on biycles reads as follows: "Whenever on a highway after dusk and before dawn, every bicycle or tricycle shall carry on the front thereof a white or amber lighted lamp, or reflector approved by the department as well as a white surface not less than 10 inches in length and 2 inches in width, all of which shall be so placed as to be visible to the drivers of other vehicles." While the Act merely specifies highways, the Act applies to all highways and to streets in towns. We notice some cyclists in Winchester who do not carry lights or reflectors as required by the Act.

WHAT MOTORISTS PAY

Canadian motorists are big spenders and, indirectly, important employers of labour. They are in the upper bracket when it comes to circulating money for, in established areas of spending in 1934 official statistics prove that they dug down into bank accounts to the extent of $186,078,976, and this figure covers only known purchases. For instance, they spent $75,872,796 on new cars, $47,604,760 in registration fees and gasoline tax, $14,272,000 on vacations overseas and $32,645,000 on holidays in the United States. What they paid for the purchase of second hand cars is not known, but they did contribute $13,684,420 to the financing of 51,731 used car purchases. Gross sales of gasoline were 534,782,018 gallons and, allowing an average of slightly less than 20 cents per gallon, would add another $100,000,000 to the total purchases, excluding the cost of oil lubricants, anti-freeze, etc.

In four divisions of industry last year 27,836 men and women owed their ability to meet their regular household bills, to buy clothes, call the doctor in when John had a "tummy ache," and go to the occasional movie, to the pocketbook of motorists for, in 1934, the automobile industry employed 9,674 persons and paid them $12,938,933 out of the income from new car sales. Automobile accessory plants had a payroll of $3,569,483 to cover 3,776 employees; the old industry, a payroll of $6,141,945 for 4,628 men and women; and the rubber industry, $8,910,124 to cover the wages and salaries of 9,758.

When it comes to spending the motorists occupied a front seat, for their total expenditures last year of $172,998,369 were approximately $60,000,000 more than the vaue of the total mineral production of the Dominion for the previous year and their aggregate purchases equalled 35.1 per cent. of the national debt.

THE ANNIVERSARY OF CRYSLER'S FARM

November 11th was the 122nd anniversary of the glorious victory of the British over the Americans at the battle of Crysler's Farm, a few miles east of Morrisburg.

On November 11th, 1813, a shot was fired from behind the bake oven near a little house in the fields about five miles from Morrisburg; the shot, fired by an Indian, being the signal for the advance of the Americans. The battle last five hours, 93 Americans were killed and 237 wounded, and 24 British killed and 145 wounded, the ranks including 3,000 Americans and 900 British.

The Crysler house was General Morrison's headquarters and later a hospital. 82 years later the present obelisk, 38 feet high, was erected to commemorate what was described as "the most important and best fought battle that took place during the war" of 1812-14.

The Family DOCTOR
by JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

THE SICK ROOM

Granted that the sick room is inevitable in your home and you have an invalid to provide for, the sick room becomes a matter of prime importance. The recovery of the sick one depends, in a large measure, upon how he is quartered.

The duration of illness may of course vary from a few hours to months or years. Hospitals have very strict rules concerning room-decorations. But we are talking about sickness in your home.

Unless the physician orders them, clear the sick-room of everything that looks like a lace curtain. Between doses of medicine, the sick one finds the hours long. He may enjoy looking out of the bed-room window and his vision should not be dimmed. He may take special delight in watching the rain fall on his favorite garden or the chickens in the back yard. Anything about the place in which he may take special interest will get his attention. Believe me, a day in a pleasant sick-room will equal in effect on most patients, the most soothing drugs.

I have seen many patients go to Rocky Mountain resorts confined to rolling chairs. I have invariably advised rooms having large windows for the shut-ins. Rooms which afforded the most magnificent scenery. What the patient looks at may be very good or indeed very bad for him.

If I have any special abhorrence in my practice, it is for the over-dressed, stuffy sick-room. The room with fifteen cheap pictures on every wall and the windows bunged up with lace curtains.

—Canadian School Journal.

A lawyer candidate in the recent Federal election was appealing to a rural audience and in order to get on the good side of the electors started out by saying: "Ladies and gentlemen, I was born on a farm. As a youth, I planted and hoed corn, hilled potatoes and picked potato bugs. I was, as it were, brought up between two hills of potatoes. At this juncture, a rude chap in a back seat called out: "A pumpkin by gosh."

"I want a shave," said the sergeant as he climbed into the barber's chair. "No hair-cut, no shampoo, no rum, witch-hazel, hair-tonic, hot towels, or face-massage. I don't want the manicurist to work on me, nor the bootblack to handle my feet. I don't want to be brushed off, and I'll put on my coat myself. I just want a plain shave with no trimmings. Understand that? "Yes sir," said the barber quietly. "Lather, sir?"

VICTORIA LODGE L.O.B.A. MEETING AT WINCHESTER

The annual meeting of Victoria Lodge No. 817, L.O.B.A., was held in the Orange hall on Wednesday evening last, with a good attendance. The election of officers resulted as follows: Past mistress, Mrs. Louis Bouchard; worthy mistress, Mrs. W. J. L. Boyd; deputy, Mrs. James Crawford; chaplain, Mrs. E. M. Shaver; recording secretary, Mrs. George Wilson; treasurer, Mrs. George Robinson; financial secretary, George Wilson; 1st lecturer, Mrs. L. Bouchard; deputy lecturer, Mrs. Orland Coughler; director of ceremonies, Mrs. James McLaughlin; inner guard, Mrs. H. Smith; outer guard, Thomas A. Bailey; 1st committee, Mrs. Bert Smith; 2nd committee, Mrs. J. Empey; 3rd committee, Mrs. J. Riddell; 4th committee, Miss Helen Taylor; 5th committee, Mrs. James Blackburn; guardian, Bertram Smith; auditors, W. J. L. Boyd and Edward M. Shaver.

The election and installation was conducted by Mr. E. M. Shaver. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served.

UNITED CHURCH W. M. S.

The attendance was large at the November meeting held last Thursday afternoon in the United Church S. S. rooms with the president, Mrs. Geo. Earle, in the chair.

A Nominating Committee was appointed and Mrs. W. S. Atchison consented to be responsible for the program at the next meeting. A letter was read from Mrs. Ward Earle, of Prescott, regarding the organization of a Baby Band. No action was taken.

Reports of work done were given by the Secretaries, and articles read on Temperance and on Christian Stewardship by Mrs. Sherman Christie and Mrs. Fay Scott, respectively.

Mrs. Karl Helmer, convenor of the Program Committee, read several passages from Luke and from Acts, about Jesus and the disciples carrying on work in the power of God's spirit, after which several led in prayer. A leaflet on power was read by Mrs. Nesbitt.

A short missionary playette was given by Mrs. Lindsay and Miss Annie Walker.

The first chapter of the Study Book, "The New Africa," was introduced by Mrs. Helmer, and other leaflets on this chapter, descriptive of the African life, were read by Mrs. J. F. McVey and Mrs. K. Carlyle.

Mrs. Earle gave a talk on the map of Africa, asking several questions which were answered by others. The meeting closed with a hymn and the benediction. Mrs. Mabel Allison was pianist.

THE NEW RECIPROCITY TREATY AT A GLANCE

"An entirely separate quota is provided for dairy cows up to 20,000 head per year, and the maximum reduction of 50 per cent. is accorded for animals imported under this category. These tariff quotas are aggregate quantities and apply to imports from all countries. But no other country can ship calves under 175 pounds or dairy cows to the United States, while, with respect to cattle weighing 700 pounds or over, including milch cows. Canada, in the first nine months of this year, supplied 56.781 out of a total of 59,648 head imported into the United States.

"Since according to Article II of the agreement, quotas will be allocated among supplying countries on the basis of a representative period, Canada is assured of around 95 per cent of the large cattle tariff quota. The resultant average saving in duty will amount to around $9 per head of cattle.

Helps Cream Trade

"A second important agricultural concession is that granted on cream. Prior to the imposition of the Hawley-Smoot tariff there was a large export of fresh cream from Canada to the United States, the peak of the movement being reached in 1927, when 4,495,917 gallons were shipped. The prohibitive duty imposed in 1930 put a stop to this trade, which should now be revived in a substantial measure by the provision of the trade agreement whereby the duty is lowered from 56.6 cents to 35 cents per gallon on a quantity of 1,500,000 gallons per annum. An export of this quantity of cream would be equivalent to 6,000,000 pounds of butter-fat. This will give some indication of the importance of this concession to the Canadian industry.

"Another important agricultural concession is that on seed potatoes. During the period March to November of each year the duty on seed potatoes is reduced from 75 to 45 cents per 100 pounds. In the other three months of the year the reduction is to 60 cents per 100 pounds, on account of commitments which the United States has assumed in a trade agreement with Cuba. These months are not so important to Canada as October, November and March, during which the bulk of Canadian seed potatoes are shipped. The reduced duties on seed potatoes will apply on quantities imported up to 750,000 bushels, which is three times current export.

"The trade agreement provides for a 50 per cent. reduction in the duty on turnips. This will be of great benefit to farmers in Ontario and Prince Edward Island particularly, who formerly exported considerable quantities to the United States.

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NEWS

Service will be held in St. Matthias' church next Sunday evening at 7.30 p.m.

Service will be held in St. Peter's church, South Mountain, next Sunday at 2.30 p.m.

An interesting debate took place at the United Church Sunday School hall last evening, when members of the C. G. I. T. opposed the Trail Rangers on the following subject: "Resolved that the League of Nations was justified in imposing the economic sanctions against Italy." The affirmative speakers were Misses Edrie Boyd and Sybil Summers, representing the C. G. I. T., while Ronald Cass and Wendell Atchison upheld the negative side for the Trail Rangers. The latter were declared winners by the judges, who were Mesdames J. W. Ault and O. Miller. The chairman for the evening was Rev. W. S. Atchison.

On December 6th (Friday) Winchester will be favored with a high class entertainment by the Beatty School of Art, Ottawa, under the auspices of the 100 Club of Winchester. It will be a Spectacular Revue with Miss Marion Hawthorn, who does floor work dancing; Miss Queen Baker, radio soloist; Miss Doris Desjardins, elocutionist, (gold medalist of Canadian College) who will do novelty numbers with her partner, Billy Martin. Special costume numbers by pupils of the Beatty school, with musical monologues and a Fantasy will comprise the balance of the programme. Help the 100 Club in their Christmas work by enjoying this entertainment.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED

Mrs. J. Wesley Durant wishes to announce the engagement of her second daughter, Mary Jane, to Ernest Roy Morrison, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Morrison, of Osgoode. Marriage to take place the latter part of November.

FORMER RESIDENT PAYS VISIT

Dr. S. A. Frith, of Edmonton, Alta., was the guest of numerous friends throughout this district on Friday and Saturday last. Dr. Frith was down East attending a meeting of the directors of the Canadian Guernsey Association held at Amherst, Nova Scotia.

Dr. Frith will be remembered by the older residents as the first dentist to settle permanently in this place. Twenty years ago he moved to Calgary and this is the first visit he has paid to Winchester in that time.

EXPLANATION!

The line appearing at the bottom of the Cameo Theatre Advt. in the last two issues of the Press, and which read "This Friday and Saturday—'The Man They Could Not Hang,' " was, through an error on the part of the Press, left there unintentionally. We, therefore, express our regrets to the management of the Cameo Theatre, for any inconvenience it may have caused his patrons from this district, who read this advt. We make this explanation to relieve the management of the theatre from being accused of advertising a feature which was not shown. As the Cameo Theatre receives good patronage from this district, it is Mr. Morton's desire to keep his advertisement up to date each week, and we humbly submit an apology for the error for which we were entirely to blame.

TEACHER AND PUPILS ENTERTAIN

An interesting program was presented at S. S. No. 18, Mountain Ridge, recently, when the teacher, Mr. Wilburn Coons, and his pupils, entertained the parents and other residents of the school section. The program was in the form of a contest in public speaking and recitations. The judges were Rev. D. W. Summers, of Winchester, and Miss E. Barkley, of Inkerman. The chairman was Mrs. Victor Armstrong, who welcomed the parents on behalf of the pupils and teacher.

Winners of the public speaking contest and their subjects were: Fourth Class, Lyle Armstrong, "The First Christmas Tree;" Evelyn McVey, "A Dream;" Third Class, Marion Suffell, "How I Learned to Ride a Bicycle." Recitations. 2nd Class—Dorothy Armstrong and Jean Barkley; First Class—Orland Burd and Roy Fawcett. Primary—Percy Armstrong.

At the close of the program a hearty vote of thanks was extended to the teacher and pupils for the entertainments provided.

WINCHESTER WINS HOLSTEIN PRIZES

Winchester took the majority of the main prizes in the Holstein judging at the Ottawa Winter Fair last week when Melvin Dawley and W. J. Fawcett each took three first prizes. The judging of the cattle, which took place Thursday morning last last, proved to be extremely difficult as so many of the animals were in such excellent shape and it was only after considerable extra time had been taken that the judges finally concluded the events.

Mr. Fawcett won the heifer event with Willola Polly Keyes, the junior get of sire, three animals get of one sire under two years of age and not more than one male, all bred by the exhibitor and also won the Royal Bank of Canada Trophy for junior herd, one years of age, bred and owned by the bull and three females under two exhibitor.

Mr. Dawley won three events all with the bull Rag Apple Pabst Pietertje. He won the bull three to six years, the bull senior champion two years or over, and the grand champion.

The Bryson-Graham special for the best animal any sex bred by exhibitor actually engaged in farming was taken by Herbert Miller, with Tayside Blossom Pontiac.

Other first prize winners were James Oshier, Vernon; Jas. G. Moir, Smiths Falls; J. D. Ewart and Sons, Perth; G. A. Brethen, Norwood; Stewart W. Fisher, Vernon; Sam H. Sparks, Kemptville; Hopkins Brothers, Ottawa; W. A. Davidson, Carleton county.

Mrs. Robert Lang is spending this week the guest of friends in North Osgoode.

Miss Dora Christie of the Mackay Institute teaching staff, Montreal, spent the week-end with her brother, Mr. E. J. Christie, and Mrs. Christie.

DEATH OF CHARLES W. NORVAL

(Contributed)

Charles W. Norval, one of the best known residents of the Williamsburg section, and a cheesemaker whose product for over almost half a century earned for him the reputation of being one of the outstanding makers in Ontario, passed away at his home in Williamsburg on Thursday, November 7th, 1935, after about two months' illness.

Mr. Norval came to this locality in 1898 from Montreal at which time he purchased the Williamsburg factory and from that time until 1912 when he sold the factory to Mr. M. O. Trickey, he had been making cheese in this district. After disposing of the factory, he was cheese inspector for the County of Dundas for a few years. Before coming to Williamsburg, he made cheese at Galilee, N. Y., where he owned a factory. Later he disposed of the factory and came to Brockville,Ont., where he bought cheese for Mr. Cluff.

Besides being celebrated as a cheesemaker, Mr. Norval enjoyed the respect and esteem, not only of his patrons, but of the people of the district generally. A man of generous disposition, kindly in his intercourse with people, and very highly respected by all who knew him, he was recognized as an honorable citizen and his passing will cause much regret among a large number of relatives and friends. Mr. Norval was a faithful and active member and worker in the United Church. He served as an elder in the former Presbyterian church for twenty-three years, and for the past ten years in the United church of Canada. He also served as superintendent of the Sunday School for the past twenty-three years. For a number of years during that time, he taught a young ladies' Bible class.

Mr. Norval was born near Hammond, N. Y., in 1865, a son of the late Mr and Mrs. Thomas Norval, who came to the United States from Scotland

He was twice married, first to Miss Nettie Bellinger, of Black Lake, N.Y., in 1887, who passed away in 1908, and of that union three children were born. One child died in infancy and a daughter, Mrs. Wilbert Johnston, and a son, Robert F. Norval, both of Williamsburg, are left to mourn the loss of a loving father. In 1910 he was married a second time, to Miss Belle Robson, of Lancaster, who survives him. He is also survived by five grandchildren, a niece, Mrs. Albert Denny, and a nephew, Mr. Herbert Norval. One sister, Ida, and one brother, Robert, predeceased him several years ago.

The funeral was held on Saturday afternoon last from his late residence to the United Church, Williamsburg, and was conducted by his pastor, Rev. C. A. Adey, assisted by Rev. T. Knowles of Iroquois United Church, and Rev. S. T. Burman, of the United Church, Dundela. There was a large attendance of friends at the funeral, showing the esteem in which the deceased was held, and the sorrow felt at his passing

The choir was in attendance under the direction of Mrs. Jas. McMillan, and by request rendered: "Asleep in Jesus" and "In the Sweet By and By," in addition to the hymns. The pall bearers were Messrs. Jas. D. Beckstead, Chas. Phifer, Conrad Whitteker, Henry Merkley, Geo. L. Barclay and Merton Saddlemire. Interment was made in the Williamsburg cemetery.

Many beautiful tributes were received, and expressed love, gratitude and sympathy, and included: "Gates A-Jar," the family; pillow, the United Church session; wreaths, Mr. and Mrs. Jas. D. Beckstead, Mr. and Mrs. M. O. Trickey, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Trickey, Mr. Parjseau, W. J. Coby, Cheese Makers' Association, Arthur Storey, president; sprays: Mr. George Buchan, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Marshall, Mrs. Allen, Mr. Geo. Barr, Eastern Ontario Instructors' Association, and the United Church Sunday School.
