Rummage Sale Nets $335.00 For Hospital

Flora's Bowling Lanes were as busy as the proverbial beehive last Friday and Saturday afternoons when several sales-minded ladies from the Winchester Unit of the District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary once again sponsored the popular Rummage Sale. Regarded as another tremendous success, net proceeds from the two-day run totalled $337.60. Of that amount, $58.60 was realized from the sale of draw tickets on a beautiful Ottoman, made and donated to the Auxiliary by Mrs. D. Preston, of Merrickville. Lucky winner was Miss Audrey Docksteader, who learned of her prize Saturday evening when the draw was made by Mrs. R. D. Ledgerwood, president of the parent Auxiliary.

Miscellaneous items of every description were put on sale, and by Saturday evening practically every piece of saleable goods, most of which had been donated, had been sold to anxious supporters of the Auxiliary. The response to these Rummage Sales has been rather sensational since they were first inaugurated, and the ladies of the Winchester Unit are deeply indebted to everyone for the continued and enthusiastic support, and particularly to Harry L. Flora for the use of his Bowling Alley.

The committee in charge of the Unit's most recent Rummage Sale consisted of Mesdames Melvin Scott, George Elliott, Harold Lannin, J. K. Ault and Hugh Slater. They were assisted by Mesdames Percy Roberts, D. MacLean, R. Vice, J. Rennison, H. Balkwill and Miss Jean Wyatt.

WINCHESTER THEATRE NEWS

The Winchester Theatre features a double bill for Sept. 23-24-25, "Conquest of Cochise," and "Sarasen Blade" replace the two features as advertised on the monthly program. The "Francis Joins the Wacs" and "Hills of Utah" bill have been moved to replace Johnny Guitar, which in turn will play in October. Reasons beyond our control have made this change necessary. We are sorry to change a booking which makes confusion, but the film companies have filled the vacancies with good pictures, and you are assured of plenty of entertainment. Playing Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 27-28-29 is "Tanganyika." This feature is based on Africa and the jungle safari. Van Heflin, Ruth Roman and Howard Duff are the stars. Filmed in color with a good cast, this feature will be exciting.

Mountain Township Council Meeting

At its September meeting, the Mountain Township Council adopted a resolution to instruct the Tax Collector to clear up all arrears of taxes in accordance with instructions and recommendations from the Municipal Auditors. He was instructed to take any steps necessary to collect these arrears.

Some discussion over damage to cattle by dogs roaming at large brought forth an amendment to By-law No. 861 which provides for the payment for cattle and poultry killed or injured by dogs. The amendment is: "In all cases of damage to cattle, the amount of compensation payable by the Township of Mountain shall not exceed $75.00 for any one head, and all claims for damage shall be accompanied by a certificate signed by a qualified veterinarian stating that the damage was caused by dogs and that he has inspected the animal within thirty-six hours after the damage occurred."

The Council decided to purchase a new adding machine and to trade in the old machine at the same time.

Recommendations from the Municipal Board and the Dept. of Planning and Development resulted in third reading and passing of a by-law to regulate and control by means of liscensing all building within the Township. A fee of one dollar for each license is set and the Clerk, who was appointed to issue licenses, shall request a good description and estimate of each project. All improvements such as bathrooms, new built-in kitchens, or hardwood floors or furnaces are included in improvements, as well as all new construction and moving, but repairs to present buildings are not included.

The assessment roll for the 1954 assessment was completed and turned in by Gordon Robinson, showing the population for this year having increased to 2739.

All accounts were paid by the treasurer, including the insurance for liability on roads and bridges, which was renewed at the same figure as in force in 1953.

Harmony Harbour

Atlantic waves rolling in on a Nova Scotia beach, followed by the Eileen Cameron poem which opens: "We give you ships and tides and men, Anchors Aweigh and wind-filled sails; We give you back the sea again in sailor's song and rousing tale . . ."—these sounds have introduced "Harmony Harbour" to listeners of the CBC Trans-Canada network for some years now. On the regular Sunday show, soon to begin its eighth season, tales of the sea are told, giving listeners an insight to the great days of Canadian maritime history; sea shanties varying in sentiment from rollicking pirate's songs to sailor's vesper hymns are also offered, featuring the Arcadian Male Quartet (above). The program originates from the heart of Canada's eastern seaboard, at Halifax.

WEDDINGS

GREGOIRE—CAYER

Roses and ferns adorned the interior of St. Therese D'Avila Roman Catholic Church at Marionville at 9.30 o'clock on Saturday morning, September 18th, for the pretty wedding of Miss Colombe Cayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Cayer, and Mr. Roger Gregoire, son of Mr. and Mrs. Josephat Gregoire. The ceremony was solemnized by the Rev. M. Mayer, assisted by a girls' choir, which was accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Ovila Dagenais.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charmingly dressed in a floor-length gown of lace and net over satin, fashioned with a white elbow-length veil, tight fitting bodice and long tight fitting sleeves which came to points over the hands. Her bouquet was a spray of red flowers, and her only ornament was a pearl necklace. Her bridal tiara consisted of pearls and rhinestones.

The bridal attendant was Miss Jeanine Giroux, who wore an aqua three-quarter length dress of chiffon. The flower girl was Miss Teresse Cousineau, a niece of the groom, who wore a pink chiffon gown, and the page boy was Michelle Cousineau, a nephew of the groom, who was dressed in a wine velvet suit. The groom's attendant was Mr. Edward Cayer, brother of the bride.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Beaudin Hall, Russell, where dinner was served to 150 guests, catered to by Morrison-Lamothe.

Mr. and Mrs. Gregoire left on a motor trip to Niagara Falls where they spent their honeymoon. For travelling, Mrs. Gregoire's ensemble consisted of a light blue suit with pink and navy blue accessories. On their return they will reside in Marionville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Ottawa, Cornwall, St. Albert, L'Orignal and Maxville.

HAMILTON—BALL

A wedding of interest took place Saturday afternoon in St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Dunbar, when Miss Betty Jean Ball, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Ball, of Chesterville, became the bride of George Lyle Hamilton, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hamilton, of Winchester.

Rev. J. L. Kirchhofer performed the ceremony, against a background of fall flowers. Mrs. Grace Froats played the organ, and Mrs. Stanley Shay was the soloist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Mrs. Morley Munroe, of Ottawa, as matron of honor, Misses Lois Gallinger and Betty Merkley as bridesmaids, and Miss Barbara Munroe was flower girl. Mr. Dwayne Hamilton, of Ottawa, was best man, and the ushers were Jack Smith and Robert Ball.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown of net over satin with French applique on skirt, lace bodice with long sleeves coming to points over her hands. Her only ornament was a strand of pearls, a gift of the groom. Her fingertip veil was held in place by a cap of net and pearls. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Following the reception in the church hall, the couple left on a wedding trip to Niagara Falls and New York State. Going away, the bride wore a blue gabardine suit with navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. They will reside in Ottawa.

Mr. C. O. Coon, President of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, builders of the new, large cheese storage plant here, will be the guest speaker at the Winchester 100 Club luncheon meeting tomorrow night in the Town Hall.

HEREFORD STOCK FROM LANWIN FARM WIN AT RENFREW

Lanwin Farms, owned by Mr. Harold Lannin, of Winchester, won two awards at the Renfrew Fair last week in the Hereford cattle class.. It was the first time Mr. Lannin had entered these cattle in competition, and he won first prize in the summer yearling bull class with an animal he purchased in Virginia at the Vaughn Valley Dispersion Sales last fall. His other first award came in the summer yearling heifer class, with an animal bred and owned by Lanwin Farms, Winchester.

Squash This One!

No fooling—here's the squash of all squash. A fifty-five pounder that measures 60 inches (5 feet) in circumference, and stretches the ruler to 15 inches in height. The monster was grown by Wilbert O'Neil, of Winchester, and just to prove it was no freak, Mr. O'Neil reared two of them in his vegetable garden north of town. Using a trailer to haul the two out town, Mr. O'Neil donated the pair to the District Memorial Hospital where the measurements and weight were accurately taken down. All told, the two squash tipped the scales at 110 pounds.

You guessed it! The dessert menu at the Hospital for the next six years is "Squash Pie"—we have learned from authoritative sources.

Colourful Trade Fair Opens Here Next Thursday Evening

There'll be cars, candy and clothes, radio, TV and record players, washing machines, refrigerators and electric stoves, silverware, jewellery, and fur coats, groceries, fruits and vegetables, feeds, oils and greases, cosmetics, drugs and medicines, just to mention a few of the hundreds of items that will be on display at the Winchester Arena, come next Thursday evening when the Winchester Trade Fair officially gets under way for a two-day stand. And besides all these nice things to see and talk over with the friendly salesmen who will be on hand, there will also be an indefinite number of free prizes totalling well in excess of $1000.00. To top it off, there will be two hundred dollars in door prizes, and the only charge during the entire show is a meagre twenty-five cents admission fee to defray expenses which will, without doubt, be great to all contributing business men from this town.

On Page Eight of this issue of The Press there is a full page advertisement which pretty well tells the story of the Trade Fair, as well as presenting a floor plan of the Arena showing where each booth will be located, and who it belongs to. The names appearing in the various booths in this advertisement represent business places in this town, not all, and represent the persons whose time, ingenuity and money will be responsible for the exciting array fo displays that may be seen. All told, there are 26 different booths.

The program arranged by the Business Men's Association, sponsors of the event, will include entertainment in various forms, and a mammoth up-to-date Fashion Show, which will feature all the latest designs in both men's and women's wearing apparel. A special runway and stage have been erected so that everyone will be able to see the persons modelling the new fashions. One booth will feature a touch and take table with all parcels selling at an even dollar but valued up to ten. All 26 booths, or nearly all, will be giving away free prizes from individual draws that will be conducted at the respective booths. At another booth there will be a draw for a prize every hour or oftener. Give-away prizes will range from credit slips for merchandise to three valuable wrist watches. And an information man will be on hand to tell you all about each booth you visit.

Business men who are taking part in the event expect to learn quite a bit about sponsoring a Trade Fair from their first venture. They don't expect this one to be perfect, but are looking for a reasonably good show that will be to the liking of most of the large number of people expected on Thursday and Friday nights of next week. One thing is certain—a lot of hard work and originality has gone into this first Trade Fair in an effort to make it eye appealing. From what this writer has gathered from pre-fair glimpses of booths and displays, the Winchester Trade Fair will be really worth seeing. So here's a tip—For something colourful and different in the way of Fairs, don't miss the Winchester Trade Fair at the Arena on Thursday and Friday evenings, September 30th and October 1st.

A Warning!

Recently, a supposedly dead shell, resembling a flare shell and larger than a shot gun shell, was turned in to Constable G. B. Raistrick, after it had passed through the hands of several Winchester and district young boys. On examination the shell was found to have a detonating cap and powder, and was still in a position to explode if improperly handled. Such a shell explosion could be dangerous and could cause severe harm to the person or persons holding it. The shell had originally been picked up at the government bombing site north-west of the village.

So that there will not be a recurrence of such an act, Constable Raistrick has issued a warning to all persons, young and old, that trespassing on the government bombing site in this area is not only prohibited, but very dangerous. And all persons who come in contact with supposedly dead shells in this area, are asked to leave them alone and notify the authorities without delay. This warning applies particularly to young boys who have been seen wandering in this area lately. To them the Constable says, "Stay out for your own good, and leave those dead shells where you find them!"

Chesterville Fair Rained Out Again

Rain and wet grounds have again played havoc with Chesterville Agricultural Society this time forcing cancellation of their fair which was postponed until Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. ## Metcalfe Corner Mishap Sends Three To Hospital

Three Ottawa persons were taken to hospital, two of them here, following a two-car collision at the intersection of Metcalfe Corner and Highway No. 31, early last Saturday evening.

Injured were Arthur Morrison, 74, of 539 McLeod St., in the Winchester District Memorial Hospital, with chest injuries, in good condition; Mrs. Morrison, 68, in Ottawa Civic Hospital, suffering fractured upper arms and a fractured back, reported in fair condition; Mrs. Pearl Winters, 68, of 17 Washington Ave., Eastview, bruises, in good condition in Winchester hospital.

The Morrison automobile rolled over in the ditch, and came to rest on its wheels, facing south. It was wrecked.

Prime Minister Scolds Quebec!

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, in an unprepared two-hour address to 300 Liberal organizers at Quebec City, told his native French-speaking province last Saturday night that he stands for a strong, united Canadian nation and rejects the view that Quebec cannot be a province like the others. Delivered in French, Mr. St. Laurent hit directly at Quebec Premier Duplessis and Quebec Nationalists who wanted to be separated from "these cursed Protestants."

He told Quebec, the only province to refuse taxation agreements, that the Federal government will never recognize that a single province is more important than the entire country; that the Federal government represents the majority of Canadians, and would spread the wealth across the nation by subsidies. If English-speaking Canadians regard the government as their national government, that should also be the view of all other Canadians, he said.

"If Quebec finds that this is a bad policy, it can vote against us."

Wedding Anniversaries

MR. AND MRS. SANDY McLEAN CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Fetterly was nicely decorated with white gladioli and silver and white streamers and bells, recently, for a dinner in honour of Mr. and Mrs. Sandy McLean, who were celebrating their 25th Wedding Anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. McLean were united in marriage by the late Rev. J. A. Waddell of the Winchester United Church. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stewart, their wedding attendants, were also present at the dinner. After the dinner the guests of honour were presented with a silver tea service by those present. Later in the evening, the friends and neighbours gathered together and surprised Mr. and Mrs. McLean by visiting them and presenting them with a silver coffee pot to match the tea service they had just been given. The presentation was made by Mrs. Walter Johnson. They also received a matching silver cake plate.

HONOURED ON 50th WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunter of Pleasant Valley, were pleasantly surprised on Sunday afternoon when their family and a few close relatives gathered with them to extend congratulations and good wishes on their Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary. Owing to ill health, the afternoon was spent quietly. An address was read by Glen Hunter, one of their grandchildren, and a gift was presented by Donald Barkley, another grandchild. Lunch was served and the afternoon brought to a close by all wishing them many more years of happiness together.

Set Clocks Back Sunday

That hour lost last April will be returned this week-end when Winchester and district, like most other municipalities, reverts from Eastern Daylight Time to Eastern Standard Time. Returning to Standard Time means that all persons retiring Saturday evening should not forget to set their time-pieces BACK, not ahead. By following this simple rule, embarrassing moments may be avoided on Sunday morning. Standard Time becomes effective midnight, Saturday, Sept. 25th.

Letters to the Editor

CHEESE

Editor, Winchester Press.

To discuss here the value of cheese in the economic life of the nation and the value of it in our diet, would take too much space in your valuable paper, and perhaps the majority of people are familiar with this aspect of the situation.

A great many people do not realize that the sale of cheese must be promoted. There is much competition, and our Canadian product, due to higher costs, is much higher in price than the product of our competitors.

In England, where we have found our main market in years gone by, New Zealand cheese is selling at 25c per lb. Our Canadian cheddar is being offered at 80 shillings per cwt. above the price of other suppliers. It is, therefore,small wonder that the sale of our cheese to England is small. Besides, in the current year, England is expected to produce 200 million lbs. of cheese.

In Canada, the wholesale price of cheese is about 31c, and selling in our food stores for 40 to 43 cents. Many people say cheese is too high priced to buy what they would like to use. Is the answer New Zealand cheese, or Danish or Dutch?

At the Canadian National Exhibition this year, the advertising booth for our cheese was about one-third the size of Dutch and Danish products. Moreover, the last two named were more attractive and doing more business. It is true that there was an almost life-size replica of Roy Rogers and Trigger in butter, but perhaps it advertised the famous cowboy more than it did the butter. By the way, our surplus butter now amounts to 50 million pounds, and many farmers are not using this product on their tables.

There is at present a surplus of dairy products in many countries, perhaps not more than the world needs, but certainly more than can be traded at the prices North American producers feel and know they must charge.

There should be an almost unlimited market for cheese, but consumers will undoubtedly be guided by the price and by the eye appeal of the packages.

The cracker barrel has gone, the butcher's meat cart and unwrapped bread has gone. We are now due for improved methods of retailing cheese.

Farmers are feeling the pinch. Prices of their products are down and prices of what they buy are steadily maintained.

How about patronizing these good Canadian products? Co-operation should turn the trick.

—"Old Farmer."

A NEW WEED!

Winchester, Sept. 20, 1954.

Mr. Editor:—The worst of all weeds has invaded Winchester. It was first seen in South America, and has spread to almost all countries of the world.

The botanical name is Galinsoga. It is also called French Weed, and properly named by many as "The Devil's Weed."

It is one of the most prolific of all weeds in producing seeds—millions from each plant. It is the fastest growing of all our weeds. It can be identified by its little white petaled flower with a yellow centre. The seeds will be ready to drop in a week or so. To save the work of fighting this nasty weed in our gardens next year, it should be pulled out and destroyed, or sprayed with 2-4-D,—this will destroy it. It is an annual. Let us get busy and stop its spread in our district.

S. A. MERKLEY.

WARNING TO BICYCLISTS

Parents, teachers and all safety-conscious adults cannot warn enough the young bicyclists travelling our roadways these fall days. Commenting on cycling conditions, the Smiths Falls Record-News says, "Now that the school holidays are over, town streets see again the rush of cycling pupils and students." The Record-News continues: "Athough the anxiety to reach home is understandably greater than the anxiety to reach school, young cyclists would do well to temper their impatience with caution and remember that it is better to arrive safely than not at all. While many young bicyclists obey the rules of the road, there are quite a few others who take risks carelessly, endangering their own lives and those of others.

"There is no 'riding test' for bicycle riders similar to the one for motorists, but the Highway Traffic Act lays down a number of rules for cycling. Young people often have only a hazy idea of these rules and this, perhaps, accounts for the way in which they are sometimes broken. Occasionally one passes a cyclist blithely riding along a road at night without a light on his machine, or making a wobbling progress with a passenger perched on the cross-bar. Both practices are illegal, as is also the one of shouting for someone to get out of the way because the machine is not equipped with a bell or horn.

Apart from the illegality, all these practices are selfish for they show a complete disregard for the safety of other road users and cause considerable anxiety, particularly to motorists. While caution may not be an attribute to youth, a sound knowledge of the rules of the road and a determination to apply them is just as good. Bicycling is a healthy exercise, but only if the rules are observed.

ALL MERCHANTS SHOULD READ THIS

Merchants who do not advertise are invited to read the following from the American Bankers' Magazine, as it might give them a new slant on business, your own business, as well as the matter of building up your town.

No business man in any town should allow a newspaper published in his town to go without his name and business being mentioned somewhere in its columns. This does not mean you should have a whole, half or even a quarter page advertisement in each issue of the paper, but your name and business should be mentioned, if you do not use more than a two-line space. A stranger picking up a newspaper, should be able to tell what business is represented in a town by looking at the paper. This is the best possible town advertiser. The man who does not advertise his business does an injustice to himself and the town. The man who insists on sharing the business that comes to town, but refuses to advertise his own is not a valuable addition to any town. The life of a town depends on the live, wide-awake and liberal advertising business men.—Leduc Representative.

I THOUGHT IT WAS A DEER!

A red cap sits at a jaunty angle on his head. A rifle shining with newness is gripped tightly in his hands. His eyes peer up the well-worn game trail. A dry twig cracks sharply in front. Leaves move as if something were passing through the trees. He whips his weapon to his shoulder, aims quickly and fires. A body thumps into the dry leaves carpeting the forest floor. A human body—that of his hunting companion. The hunter thought it was a deer!

There is no need to elaborate on the genuine remorse this hunter must have felt over the accident. But it is hardly believable how such accidents could happen. Men are not only taken for deer but recent reports show that they've been mistaken for squirrels, partridges, racoons, moose, fox.

Then there are other hunters who handle their guns so carelessly they not only endanger the lives of those around them, but their own. Such a theme is expressed in a 20-minute 16 millimetre motion picture film available from Canadian Industries (1954) Ltd. This production "stars" Trigger Happy Harry who is the epitome of the man who does eevrything wrong with a rifle. His antics serve as a convincing lesson to hunters who are in the "sound shot"'class or whose impatience impells them to let loose at the slightest movement in the bush. The film is well worth seeing.

Our constitution has given every Canadian the right to own a rifle or shot gun without the benefit of permit or registration. Let us not usurp this right by making murder weapons of them. Make absolutely certain you know what you're shooting at this coming hunting season before you squeeze the trigger. Statistics show hunting is still one of the safest sports. Let's keep it that way.

AID TO SCRABBLERS

Browsing through a dictionary, says The Printed Word, one is occasionally struck by the number of good words that have been allowed to pass out of use. No one greatly regrets the loss of long Latin derivatives that have been replaced by shorter words. Such a word as "calamistrate," meaning to curl or frizzle the hair, can never have been much in demand while its simpler equivalents existed; but simpler words have also vanished.

Some simple words may have become obsolete because they were never adopted by literary persons. For example, the Anglo-Saxon "byland" is quite as good as the Latin "peninsula," and more useful to headline writers, but the Latin form has won out. "Isle" and "island" mean the same thing, but the former term now usually connotes smallness. The fact that there is a word, "inch," meaning a small island, is forgotten, or the word is not used for fear that it might be confused with the unit of length.

"Sloom," meaning a light sleep, comes from Scotland, and may still survive in dialect. It could not well compete with "nap" or "doze" for everday use, but might still be handy for poets.

Another word useful to headline writers is "cag," to offend or insult. It should be invaluable in the editing of reports of town council meetings or higher legislative bodies.

The general vocabulary of insult is so large that it is not strange that some of its words have fallen into disuse. One may drop a tear for the passing of that expressive term, "slipstring," meaning one who deserves to be hanged. Most people can think of several others to whom it would be applicable.

RURAL MEDICAL FRATERNITY

New ideas for encouraging doctors to take up practices in rural and small-town areas may be a step toward solving a problem in many communities.

The problem itself was discussed again at recent graduations across the country. Speakers advised young doctors just coming out of the medical schools to go into general practice for a few years, at least, rather than go on immediately to become specialists.

The same sort of advice has been offered in other years, but some communities looking for country doctors have had to go without the medcial service they desired.

The difficulty has been to bring together the district wanting a doctor and the doctor looking for a place to settle. Such a doctor is not necessarily the eager young graduate. Sometimes a resident physician in a big-city hospital hopes to find a private practice. Occasionally a metropolitan specialist looks around for more congenial surroundings in a rural practice.

Finding a suitable doctor becomes a community task and an important one. The area stands to benefit from his professional services and also from the way he, and his family as well, can fit into the life and activities of the community.

One small Ontario centre found a good man by financing a new house and selling it on attractive terms to a young doctor who had just married and was looking for a place to settle.

This was one case in which both the village and the doctor gained by their association. For working in the smaller places enables a newcomer to the profession to gain prestige, a broad range of experience, a knowledge of human nature and an acquaintance with community affairs—all of which may later stand him in good stead in a wider field.

Occasionally, too, a young doctor goes to a small community to get his start and becomes so interested in its welfare that he stays on year after year. Eventually he may become the country doctor who retires with satisfaction after a lifetime of hard work during which he has made himself a secure place in the affection and gratitude of the people he has served.—Contributed.

EDITORIAL NOTES!

And still it rains! There are few old timers who can remember far enough back to recollect a more rainy season and fall (so far) than the wet season we are unpleasantly experiencing now. It has now reached the stage where crops are being ruined, and farmers can't get on the land. A month of sunny weather is the remedy, but it may be too late.

Trusting God in the Extremities

A steampacker was crossing a stormy bay when the engine suddenly stopped, and for a few minutes the situation was one of real peril. An old lady rushed up to the captain, and anxiously asked: "Is there any danger?" "Madam," was the uncompromising reply, "we must trust in God." "Oh, sir," wailed the inquirer, "has it come to that?" Many are willing to trust in everything — except God. They can always see the coming storms, but cannot trust the goodness that sends them.—Selected.

Extra hired hands—
at the touch of a finger

With electricity, you can set extra helpers to work for you in your barn or home. At the touch of a finger, you can summon them to speed farm tasks, making life easier and more pleasant for you and your family. But before you can enjoy this modern miracle, you may need power lines, and equipment. That's where a Farm Improvement Loan comes in. A loan to finance farm electrification may be arranged at any branch of The Royal Bank of Canada. Your local "Royal" manager will be glad to discuss it with you.

You never know how much your bank can do for you until you ask. Make a habit of discussing your farm finances with your local Royal Bank Manager.

Our free booklet "Farm Improvement Loans", explains how they may be arranged, the purposes for which they can be used, terms of repayment and other details. You can get a copy at any branch.

"Home—the father's kingdom, the mother's world, and the children's paradise."

Man Descended From (?)
(Reprinted by Request)

Three monkeys sat in a cocoanut tree
Discussing things as they're said to be.
Said one to the others, "Now listen you two,
There's a certain rumour that can't be true;
That man descended from our noble race.
The very idea. It's a bare disgrace!
No monkey ever deserted his wife,
And you've never known a mother monk
To leave the babies with others to bunk,
Or pass them 'round from one to another
Till they scarcely knew who was their mother.
And another thing: You'll never see
A monk build a fence 'round a cocoanut tree,
Forbidding all others to taste,
Why, if I put a fence around this tree,
Starvation would force you to steal from me!
Yes, man descended, the ornery cuss,
But, brothers, he didn't descend from us!"

Spotlight on HEALTH

by Science Features

Infantile Eczema

Infantile eczema is one of the most common and annoying diseases affecting young children. Youngsters find it difficult to understand the reason for the constant itching that it causes and parents find it hard to cope with the troubled youngsters.

Dr. Lila Redmond McCorriston of Montreal has found that the hydrocortisone drugs, such as Cortril, are "remarkably effective in clearing up the skins of infants and children with eczema." She treated 104 young patients at Children's Memorial Hospital and in private practice with the new hormone ointment and reported it to be "70 to 100 per cent effective in all cases . . . Improvement occurred within 24 to 48 hours of the beginning of the treatment."

Why should an otherwise healthy child become afflicted with this skin disease? Doctors have found that eczema in infants usually occurs when there is a family history of allergies — conditions of unusual susceptibility to specific substances which are harmless to most people.

The disease can occur if the child is allergic to certain foods such as chocolate, oranges, strawberries or tomatoes; from physical contact with strong solutions, oil, wool or other fabrics; from friction from clothing or from inhaling dust or pollen.

The outbreak usually appears on the face, ears, hands or legs. Asthma or hay fever sometimes coexist or alternate with eczema, according to doctors, and treatment is necessary to prevent children from becoming life-long victims of these allergies.

Cue For Fun

Songstress Joyce Hahn plays buffer to the ideas being culled by Bill Bankier (left) and Frank Heron (right) from current literature in a vain attempt to prevent the inevitable explosion of wit, mirth, and zany antics when the two comics get together every Tuesday evening on the CBC Trans-Canada network for their show, "Cue For Fun." In support of Bankier, Heron and the charming Miss Hahn are tenor Fred Hill, the Bob Hahn Vocal Quintet, and Art Morrow who conducts his 18-piece orchestra. The show, which features a guest artist every week, is broadcast before an audience in the Westhill High School Auditorium in Montreal.

Gospel Gleanings

WARNING WORDS

"Religion Is Not Salvation"

Having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof: from such turn away.—II Tim. 3:5.

Satan would rather have one servant with "a form of godliness" than a dozen living in ungodliness.

Religion is trying to do something to save yourself; Salvation is trusting in what Christ has done for you at Calvary.

Priests, prophets, preachers, penance and prayers may all be good: but all are helpless to forgive sin.

Only Christ can save; for there is none other name under heaven given among men, whereby we must be saved.—Acts 4:12.

Religion or Salvation—which have you?

THE COMPROMISE

By Ona Lathrop

There was a sheepish look on Bill Carlson's face this June when we met him on the street of the Northwoods resort town.

"Hi, Bill, how's tricks?" my dad and I hailed him, shaking hands, even though relations had been a trifle strained last summer.

"Fine, fine! Everything's fine with us. How about you?" He seemed somewhat ill at ease, and no wonder.

For years Bill had been our fishing guide and companion up here, although he never charged us a cent. He was a brother-in-law of a brother-in-law of a guy we knew in our home town—used to live there himself before he came north—so for old time's sake he always took us around.

"Got a new lake spotted over in the flowage," he'd gloat. "Never been fished. Fish just jumpin' in your boat," he'd grin, and come by for us before dawn or about dusk, and we'd get all we could haul in. He'd toss a light boat on the top of his little cream roadster and take us back in to lakes nobody else ever seemed to know about — lakes he named himself such as Lost Lake, Crooked Lake, Weed Lake.

Bill worked for the power company, but that was just incidental. His first love in life was fishing, and that caused his downfall. Olga, his wife, declared he loved fishing better than he did her, the way he spent all his off-hours at it, leaving her alone day and night with the kids. So to get even she took up Bridge. She played Bridge day and night and got to be as crazy about it as he was about fishing.

Then last summer it came to a head. He said if she didn't stay home more and watch the kids, he was through, and she said all right, if he'd give up fishing, she'd give up Bridge. When we got up there for the summer, Bill shook his head mournfully when he met us.

"No fishin' this summer, fellows," and told us all about it. "So you see I'm stuck. I promised her not to wet a line this summer if she'd quit that everlasting Bridge. And she took me up on it. I'm sorry. No way to get around it."

Well, we argued and we kidded Olga, but she was adamant.

"No sir, a promise is a promise. I never played a single game of Bridge all winter, and now he's got to abide by his bargain."

So Dad and I fished old Oxbow and had to be content with what we caught. We didn't have a light boat, and we couldn't get back in those wild places with our heavy car. It made us almost tough at Bill, letting a woman lead him around by the nose, but maybe he really loved her. I wouldn't know. Anyway, he dodged us all summer.

And now we were back again and wishing for the good old days—or nights—of hauling in the big ones as fast as you could get them off the hook. So when we met Bill, we tried to sound him out.

"How's the family?" Dad asked cordially.

"Fine, just fine," he answered noncommittally. "And yours?"

"Never better," we assured him. "Uh—how's the fishing up here this year?" my dad ventured.

"Wonderful! I get all the pan-fish we can eat."

"You—you mean you're fishing again?" my dad asked joyfully. "Well, then—"

"Now don't get me wrong, fellows," Bill said forlornly. "I'm fishing, but not for the big ones back in those lakes we use to fish. I'm fishing, but on one condition."

"What do you mean?" we questioned.

"Well, you see, I took up Bridge last winter. Nothin' much to do these long winter evenings up here, so Olga talked me into learning it. It's not bad! She said she'd teach me Bridge and she'd only play when I played too this winter, if I'd teach her to fish and take her along every time I went fishing this summer. So you see, we compromised." He shrugged his shoulders and turned up his palms.

If waffle batter spills on the outside of the waffle baker, let it "bake" before removing. Then wipe off with a damp cloth and polish dry with a soft dry cloth.

Grids on a waffle baker can be cleaned with a stiff wire brush.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK
Orange-Cranberry Punch
(Makes 1½ quarts)

¼ cup sugar
¾ cup water
¾ cup concentrated, quick-frozen orange juice.
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 bottle (½ pint) sparkling water

Combine sugar and ¾ cup water in saucepan. Place over heat and bring to a boil. Stir until sugar is dissolved. Cool. Add remaining ingredients. Mix well. Serve with ice cubes or cracked ice.

Never wash the grids with water as this will damage the pre-treatment which has been given to them.

Keep coffee makers of any type well cleaned and sweet if you want every batch of coffee to taste good. Oils permitted to remain in them become rancid and spoil the freshly made coffee.

Filter cloths should be rinsed with cold water after each use. Change them when they become too stained or well used.

Never let cords rub against appliances when they're in use. Heat and friction may cause the insulation of the cord to wear off.

No thermostat control on your iron? Don't let it get too warm. Switch off the iron frequently and let it cool before using when it gets too warm.

SECRET ROMANCE

By Priscilla Smith Botti

THE young men stood before delivery trucks belonging to the Adams Drug Store. They were college friends spending their summer vacations working for a druggist in a distant city. Dan was assigned deliveries on the east side of town and Fred the west. Everything had gone smoothly until Dan, very suddenly, wanted to change runs with Fred.

"Sure I'll change," Fred answered, "but for Pete's sake why?"

"I'm in a jam," Dan replied. "Last night when I enrolled in that evening typing class I met a girl. Her name is Marcia Morgan and she's a college student learning typing too this summer."

"So it's a girl! I might have known."

Dan ignored his friend's remark. "Remember how it was raining and I told you I got wet? Well, not her. She arrived in a long sleek limousine driven by a uniformed chauffeur. We became acquainted and when she asked what line of work I was in, I lied."

"You what?"

"I told her I was a pharmacist at Adams Drug Store and intended going to school for advance study in the fall."

"Wait," called Fred. "I'll take your run, but for the life of me, I don't get the connection."

"The connection is this—Marcia lives at Estate of the Elms on the east side."

"Well, why didn't you say so in the first place," cried Fred as he jumped into Dan's truck and drove off.

Seeing Marcia walking the next night they attended class, he asked if he could escort her home. She readily accepted. When they reached Estate of the Elms, she said they were having company, but not caring to visit, she slipped quietly in the back door—a habit she continued all summer.

One morning in early September Fred was stricken with a virus. Dan would gladly have changed places with him, rather than risk being seen on the east side driving a delivery truck. To make matters worse, there was a delivery for Estate of the Elms.

Fred coached him as best he could. "Use the last driveway and pull up to the rear entrance. Ring the buzzer and the cutest little maid you ever saw will answer, but don't ask her about Marcia. I've tried it, but she's been well trained and won't say boo."

Following Fred's advice, Dan drove to the back door. As he stopped, he felt weak all over because he saw Marcia enter the door. The day was unseasonably chilly and she was wearing a light top coat. Suddenly his carefully guarded secret ceased to matter. He decided to tell the truth and take his chances.

Ringing the buzzer, he cheerfully called, "Delivery from Adams Drug Store."

He smiled at the look of bewilderment which came over Marcia's face when she opened the door and saw him. Stepping inside, he forced a brave grin. "My apologies my dear for eight weeks of deception. I am not a pharmacist. I took this job as delivery boy to help pay my college expenses. I should have told you that first night, but seeing your car, your chauffeur—well, I couldn't—"

Marcia's eyes began to dance, then she threw back her head and laughed until she cried. "To think," she finally said, "all summer I've been afraid you might find out about me through that other delivery boy. 'My car, my chauffeur'—they were only loaned to me because it was raining. You see Dan, I too am working my way through college." And as Dan stood speechless, Marcia slipped off her coat, revealing the neat, trim, black and white uniform of a maid.

OTTAWA WINTER FAIR DATES—OCT. 26 TO 30

The fall fair circuit is in full swing all over Eastern Canada today and breeders and farmers who show at their local fairs are aware that the final hurdle for their stock or produce comes October 26 to 30 when the Ottawa Winter Fair is staged. Only the top animals and champions at the local shows compete in Ottawa, the only all championship breed show in Canada. Also, it is the largest 4H Calf and Swine show in the country.

The prize list for the 1954 Ottawa Winter Fair is now available and can be secured by writing Manager H. H. McElroy at The Coliseum, Lansdowne Park, Ottawa. Prize money has been considerably increased in many classes this year, and many new events listed. For the evening Horse Show a spectacular circus attraction has been secured.

Closing date for all Winter Fair entries this year is October 4th.

STALLION INSPECTION THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 27th

The Live Stock Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture. reminds stallion owners that the regular inspection of stallions for 1954 is scheduled to take place during the week of September 27th. Under the provisions of the Stallion Act, no person may stand, travel, offer for use or sale, a stallion unless he is enrolled. Before a stallion can be enrolled he must be inspected and approved.

Usually stallions are inspected once in every three years. The classification given to a stallion following a regular inspection is not altered during the three years following unless the owner elects to have his stallion re-inspected during that period. Consequently, an owner who feels that his stallion is worthy of a higher classification can have the stallion inspected at the time of this year's regular inspection.

In addition to those who may choose to exercise this privilege, the owners of all stallions which were last inspected in 1951, and the owners of stallions which have never been inspected previously, should present their stallions for inspection this year. There is no charge for inspections made at the time of a regular inspection, but a fee of $10.00 is charged for each special inspection.

A schedule of the route to be taken by inspectors is published in the annual report of the Stallion Enrolment Board, which can be obtained upon request from the Secretary of the Board, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. Persons wishing to have stallions inspected this fall should get in touch with the Agricultural Representative for their county.

EASY SAFETY

Long ago, vaccination wiped out smallpox, as far as Canada is concerned. When all children are given this protection as a matter of course, a contagious disease has not much chance of ever again causing an epidemic. Similar immunization against diphtheria could make this equally dangerous disease just as obselete as smallpox. The simple method of giving this protection is a matter for the local health clinic where it is free of charge, or it can be done by the family doctor.

PASTEURIZATION AGAIN

A study of vital statistics will always offer evidence in favour of compulsory pasteurization of milk. Whenever a city or a province makes pasteurization of milk compulsory, infant mortality rates drop almost immediately. Canada's poor showing with respect to infant mortality (some 13 other nations have lower rates) may be attributed entirely to those provinces in which pasteurization legislation is most strenuously resisted. Ontario and Saskatchewan, which have province-wide pasteurization regulations, have comparatively low infant mortality rates. In fact, if the infant mortality rates in all the provinces were as low as in these two, Canada would rank among the top four or five nations in the world.

This sounds as though the whole business of infant mortality is a sort of golf game, in which a low score is the goal. Actually however, it is extremely important. Canada needs manpower. Canada makes a great effort to attract immigrants for this manpower, and spends a great deal of money helping these immigrants through long and tortuous periods of adjustment. This is a sound policy from a point of view of economics, but it seems odd that so much time and toil should be put into the procuring of manpower from other countries, when so little effort is put into saving the lives of our own Canadian children. In one year alone, 1951, some 20,000 Canadians died before reaching maturity. It is, of course, almost impossible to judge just how many of these might have been saved by compulsory pasteurization. Many of the listed causes of death might or might not be milk-borne. It is possible to state conservatively that about 3,000 of these deaths might have been prevented by a combination of pasteurization and immunization. Imagine what 3,000 additional native-born citizens every year could do for population-hungry Canada.

Yet the objections to pasteurization keep coming up:

QUESTION: "I have heard that pasteurization destroys disease-producing bacteria, but that it also destroys the organisms which form lactic acid, and also most of the vitamins. If we have to ruin the value of our milk just to prevent disease, why not go one step farther and outlaw milk altogether?"

ANSWER: There is just enough truth in this claim to make it difficult to refute. Some of the lactic acid forming organisms are undoubtedly destroyed by pasteurization, with the result that the souring of the milk is delayed and therefore pasteurized milk will stay sweet considerably longer than raw milk will. Whether this improvement in the keeping qualities of pasteurized milk can be considered a serious objection or not is a matter of opinion. If you really want sour or acidopholous milk, it is a fairly simple matter to obtain it.

As for vitamins, the principal ones found in milk are Vitamin A, riboflavin and niacin. Milk, which has not been specially treated, contains a negligible amount of Vitamin D and only small amounts of Vitamin C and thiamine. In feeding infants and small children, it is necessary to supplement milk with cod liver oil, orange juice or tomato juice and whole wheat products to supply the deficiencies of these vitamins. It is true that pasteurization does affect Vitamin C and thiamine, which are both thermolabile, and also destroys about 2 per cent. of the riboflavin. But since milk does not provide enough Vitamin C or thiamine to be a reliable source of these vitamins, and since it is so plentifully supplied with riboflavin that the loss of a mere 2 per cent. is negligible, the objection that vitamins are destroyed by pasteurization, while true, does not carry much weight, because those vitamins that are lost must be supplemented even when unpasturized milk is used.

GREAT MOMENTS IN HISTORY

HOME HINTS

Mice

Bunches of peppermint, or essence of peppermint, placed around the haunts of mice will drive them away.

Rusty Knives

A rusty knife can be cleaned very satisfactorily by dipping a damp cloth in ashes and rubbing the blade thoroughly until the rust disappears.

Moth Preventive

Hang a coupe of small bags of gum camphor inside the piano near the felt, but not touching the resounding keys, and this will discourage moths from feasting on the felts.

Olives

If the olive bottle is still half filled after the meal, put a small pinch of salt in the bottle and pour in a teaspoonful of olive oil, replace the cork, and the olives will keep nice and fresh.

Deflects Heat

Do not leave a fork, spoon or other metal utensil in a pot which is desired to heat rapidly, as the metal will deflect the heat and prolong the time of reaching the boiling point.

To Polish Dishes

Add soda to the dish water and it will give a nice polish to the dishes. This will also brighten the tinware.

"EASY DOES IT"

BY..... HELEN HALE

BRAIDED or crocheted rugs will lie perfectly flat if, after washing, you lay them on a flat surface and go over them with a rolling pin until perfectly flat.

If you do not have a fancy mop for dusting Venetian blinds, you'll find that an ordinary dish mop does very well. It's easy to wash out after use and will then be clean each time you dust.

Ice cube trays can be filled easily without any spilling if you use a long-spouted tea kettle brought right to the refrigerator.

Before cleaning wallpaper, place a scrap of newspaper on each nail from which you've removed, pictures, mirrors, etc. When cleaning you'll know where each nail is and can avoid it, and at the same time save replacing nails which have been removed to avoid accidents while cleaning.

Open shelves can be covered with printed material if you glue on snap tape around the shelves and sew the corresponding snap tape on printed material. It's easy to remove for laundering.

Place socks over one arm as they come from the washing machine, hold pins in that hand and hang with the other hand. It will save much stooping to get them from a laundry basket.

RECIPE OF THE WEEK

Date-Pecan Sundae
(Serves 6)

1 quart vanilla ice cream
½ cup sliced, pitted dates
¼ cup water
¼ cup brown sugar, firmly packed
½ cup corn syrup
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped pecans
½ teaspoon vanilla

Combine dates, water, sugar and salt. Bring to a boil, cook 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat, add vanilla and nuts and cool. Pile ice cream in dishes, top with sauce.

C. P. R. Has New Scenic Coach

A series of views of the Canadian Pacific Railway's new scenic dome loungecars which will form part of the 15 new streamlined stainless steel trains now on order to replace existing equipment on the transcontinental runs between Montreal and Toronto and Vancouver, is shown above. Eighteen cars of this type, now being displayed in a transcontinental tour of Canada, are included in the C. P. R.'s $40,000,000 order for 173 new cars, which will be put into service on existing trains as they are received from the builders, the Budd Company of Philadelphia during the next year. The first of the new scenic dome cars is shown in the centre above, while top photo gives an idea of how Canada's exhilirating scenery will be viewed by Canadian Pacific travellers of the future. Bottom left is a photo of the car's exciting mural lounge, with rural decoration an original oil painting executed by a leading Canadian artist in background. Bottom right is scene in car's lounge, showing curving stairway up to scenic dome.

CANADA'S health

BEAN STANDBY

Most useful and versatile vegetables are beans. Whether served as plain boiled beans or as one of the savory varieties of baked beans, they lend themselves to a host of recipes. Beans are an excellent source of protein and they make a very good substitute for meat.

GETTING TOGETHER

Many people who need exercise or recreation just don't get down to doing something about it. The local recreation centre often provides just the kind of recreation suitable to age, physical condition and capabilities, which may be needed by young or old. It also offers the kind of exercise needed by those who are lazily putting on weight. It is a good idea to explore this neighbourhood centre.

REASON FOR ABSENCE

One of the chief causes of absenteeism in school or industry is the common cold. This troublesome disease could be avoided by staying away from people who already have one, since the germs are usually spread by coughing and sneezing without covering nose and mouth with a disposable tissue. Building up resistance with a good basic diet will help, too, to ward off the cold. Canada's food rules offer an adequate diet for the average family.

PASTEURIZATION

In those areas where it is not possible to obtain commercially pasteurized milk, the raw product is often taken. This may be dangerous if the raw milk is infected. It could be the cause of undulant fever, paratyphoid, dysentery, bovine tuberculosis or septic sore throat. To pasteurize milk at home, simply heat the raw milk to 140 degs. F. for half an hour and then cool quickly.

CANADA'S FAMOUS CHEESE

Canada's cheeses are popular in many other parts of the world. They should be even more popular in this country, since they provide protein, calcium, vitamin A and riboflavin, a good source of nutrients needed for the maintenance of a healthy body. There are many ways of eating cheese —from the cheese and bread enjoyed out-of-doors on a hike to the very tasty dishes achievable with cheese as a base. Cooked cheese, provided it is not overcooked, is just as nourishing as in its usual form.

FEEDER'S NOTEBOOK

by BASIL DAWLEY

QUALITY, A "MUST" IN EGG PRODUCTION

Housewives all over the country are asserting themselves strongly nowadays on the quality they want in food for their families. This is leading meat packers to put premiums on lean, meat-type hogs for pork production. It is reflected in the premium housewives will pay for top grades of beef. And this demand for quality is strongly evident in the premium eggs housewives want to buy.

Quality eggs that command premium prices are the result of proper feeding and flock management, plus the right kind of care of the eggs on the farm. Every flock owner recognizes that the quality of the feed he puts before his hens will reflect to an important degree in the quality of eggs he gets. After that, the care of eggs on the farm becomes one of the most important steps in developing a premium quality egg program.

The temperature of an egg when laid is approximately 105 degrees. Quality drops quickly at temperature. That is why it is important to gather eggs at least three or four times a day and cook them quickly if top quality is to be maintained. A good egg storage room is essential for premium quality. Temperatures in the stoage room should be between 45 and 65 degrees. with humidity around 75 per cent. A number of farmers have converted storm cellars into good egg storage rooms with a minimum cash outlay.

Temperatures and humidity have important effects on the rates of yolk flattening and the evaporation of moisture from the egg. The albumen quality has been shown to decrease more in four days at 80 degrees than it does in ten days at 65 degrees. The yolk will flatten more in two days at 100 degrees than it will in several months of cold storage.

With the consumer emphasis so much on quality, flockowners aiming at premium prices have to be quality conscious throughout their operation.

A bargain for Mrs. Renaud...

"When you have to do everything for two small children it's not easy to leave the house even for essential shopping," says Mrs. Bernard Renaud of 755 Desaulniers Blvd., St. Lambert, Que.

"I've really appreciated our telephone in the last few years. It means I can still pick up bargains I see in the paper and do my shopping in a matter of minutes . . . by telephone. So, my 'phone saves me money and gives me time to do other things that crowd my busy day. That's why I think one of the best bargains I ever bought was our telephone!"
