Here & There

If you're sitting high and dry you don't have to worry about the rising waters which we're bound to have now that Spring-like weather has arrived. Cool nights and warm days tend to produce good sap weather, a fresh crop of running noses and complaints that the water is getting higher in places where it shouldn't be. There may be consolation in the knowledge that those whose basements have suffered at times from too much water (and other substances) may in the forseeable future have the situation remedied. The matter has been looked into, as it were, and a suitable and permanent solution is being sought.

Meanwhile, keep the rubber boots handy, like the Nation River dwellers do, and you'll come out with nothing more than wet socks and sundry other minor ailments.

Merchants here will be interested in knowing that so good is the bonus buck idea in the village that another community a few miles away is expressing interest in a similar plan. . .a buck's a buck in any man's language. Maybe they'll get the idea to redeem them for something or other and we can help run 'em out of business by flooding the market. If they enjoy the fine co-operation experienced in Iroquois it will go over big but if they don't woe betide the sponsors. Grabbing a tiger by the tail is one thing. . . letting go of it may be another.

On one of our weekly visits to the local drug store (he'll like that little business plug) we were caught by a number of intriguing signs (deftly hidden from the customer's view), some of which read as follows:

"I'd like to help you out—which way did you come in?"

"Flattery will get you somewhere—start talking."

"I'm not hard hearing— I'm just ignoring you."

"Use your head—it's the little things that count."

"My mind is already made up—don't confuse me with the facts."

"Do it tomorow—you made enough mistakes today."

"There are three sides to every story —yours, mine-and the facts"

"If you have a minute to spare, tell me all you know."

"Doing nothing is hard work—you can't stop to work."

Many of the above don't actually contain much wisdom but the last one does: "When I am right, no one remembers; when I am wrong no one forgets."

Rural roads at this time of year take their worst beating and so do the cars and trucks that travel over them. . .and on some of them that would be the best way to travel. .. . .."over" them. Nevertheless, the situation can't be helped and the next best thing is to do as little damage to them as possible while they are soft and covered with water. If you don't it just costs you that many more tax dollars to put them back in shape again.

Change Draw

More people will be able to share in the weekly cash Bonus Buck jackpot, starting with the drawing this Friday night at the Iroqouis Shopping Plaza, following a slight change in the operation of the draw. Up to now the draw has been for one $50.00 chance, with only one person having a chance to win. From Friday night until further notice, the $50.00 weekly amount will be split up into two $5.00 draws which will be won every Friday night and one drawing for $40.00. If the person whose name is drawn for the $40.00 is not present, then the Jackpot the next week would be at $80.00 with the two $5.00 draws making a second week total of $90.00, and so on until it is won.

What it boils down to is that at least two people will win $5. every Friday night and someone may win the $40.00 as well.

This Friday night there will be $100.00 given away—split into one draw for $80.00 and four $5.00 draws. If not won, then it goes to $120.00 with two $5.0 draws next Friday.

Corrective Steps Being Taken

In response to a petition sent to Mr. James S. Duncan, Chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Iroquois residents will be pleased to learn that, in a letter dated March 17th, Mr. Duncan states that the Commission will take whatever action may be necessary to ensure that the local sewage system will be completely satisfactory in every respect.

The petition outlined problems being faced by village residents who at certain times of the year, had flooded basements. The petition was circulated around the village and sent to the Commission chairman to seek his support in getting immediate action towards resolving the problem.

In his letter Mr. Duncan dealt with all phases of this problem and outlined in sequenes the various steps which had been taken, following proposals by the consulting engineers, in an effort to correct the situation.

The latest effort consisted of the installation during the past week, of a 1000 gallon per minute pump for the treatment plant, which it is interesting to know, was actually ordered in July 1959 but which had to be fabricated in the United States and the gears for it obtained separately from California. This lenghty delay no doubt had a great deal to do with the feeling generally expressed locally that things had let up down and that nothing was being done to put an end to the periodical flooding of local base ments.

It is to be hoped this latest development will put an end to our troubles and while there is still some doubt in the minds of local authorities that it will do so, Mr. Duncan pointed out that failure of the 1000 gallon per minute automatic pump to solve the problem would indicate the lines were inadequate and the next step would be either provision of an additional main from the West end of the town to the treatment plant or to enlarge the present sewer.

Regardless of the success or failure of the present phase of the project, we have every confidence.

Mr. Duncan will see to it that Iroquois will have a system which will operate satisfactory and which will be completely adequate for our requirements.

PLAN VISITATIONS

Iroquois United and St. John's Join Together For Sector Plan

Through the co-operative efforts of the Iroquois United Church and St. John the Baptist Anglican Church, a Sector Plan is being organized in this community. For those who are wondering what the plan is about The Post asked the Sector Plan Publicity Chairman, James Anderson, to explain the organization.

There are some who will say it is just another scheme for raising money and it cannot be denied that the Churches are interested in money. No organization, whether religious or otherwise, can be successful without sufficient funds to carry out the program it undertakes.

Possibly the best explanation the Sector Plan is to say that in undertakes a complete inventory of the Church's resources, irrespective of what they may consist of. Permanent records are being made of every man, woman and child who is, or would like to become a member of the Church and their talents which we hope will be freely offered to the organization where they may be used to the best advantage.

The Church, irrespective of its denomination, has a great deal to offer to those who will use it in the expression of their Christian faith and when the Every Member Visitation is carried out on Sunday, May 2nd we are sure that not only the individual, but all Churches and the entire community will benefit from this experience.

Morrisburg Mourns Passing O. J. Barkley

Many friends in Morrisburg and throughout all the area, have learned with deep regret of one of the district's best known figures in the person of Orlin James Barkley, who passed away unexpectedly while on winter vacation at Tampa, Florida. He had been suffering from a heart condition for some years.

"Bark", as he was familiarly and affectionately known to thousands of residents of this area, was born at Elma, 55 years ago, a son of the late John Barkley and his wife, Elvira Beckstead.

He was educated in Morrisburg schools and later opened a butcher business which flourished in the old business district. He disposed of this business some years ago. and founded a poultry packing plant, and later a trailer court.

Surviving are his wife, the former Gladys Weegar of Chesterville; one son, Paul Barkley and one daughter, Mrs. Patrick Keyes (Eleanor) all of Morrisburg.

A twin brother, Orval Barkley of Toronto, also survives, as do 6 grandchildren.

Funeral service was held, March 26th, at the Morrisburg United Church.

401 To Prescott

Presenting Department of Highways estimates in the Ontario House, the Hon. Fred M. Cass, QC, MPP for Grenville-Dundas, stated a start will be made on 32 miles of 2-lane high way on 401, including Odessa to Highway 38, Prescott to Iroquois, and Cornwall to Lancaster.

March Meeting Riding Liberals

The March meeting of the Grenville-Dundas Liberal Women's Association was held at Chesterville in the Library on Wednesday, March 16th, at 8.00 p.m. The president, Mrs. Harry Allison, conducted the meeting, assisted by the secretary, Mrs. Mack Curran.

Among the many interesting discussions was the forthcoming dinner on April 27th to be held in Morrisburg, with Hon. Paul Martin as the guest speaker. It was decided that a committee be set up to complete all arrangements for this dinner.

The president remined the ladies present of the Ontario Women's Liberal Convention in Toronto, and expressed her intentions of attending, as well as the Eastern Ont. L.W. Convention in May to be held in Cornwall.

After the business of the meeting was completed, Mr. G. Beavers, of Morrisburg, showed some very interesting slides of South American countries he had visited recently on a business tour. Mr. Beavers' comments were very instructive, and in no small way helped the ladies present to see the advantages and disadvantages of life in South America. A vote of thanks was extended to Mr. Beavers by Mrs. Alfred Jarvis.

Folowing adjourment of the meeting, delicious refreshments were served by a committee of Chesterville ladies: Mrs. Howard Kittle, Mrs. Harold Merkley, and Mrs. Edward J. Brady.

Mrs. G. Beavers, Morisburg, expressed thanks to the Chesterville ladies for their hospitality.

CORRECTION

Mr. and Mrs. Keith St. Pierre and Carson spent the week end at Stirling, Ont., with Mr. and Mrs. Basil St. Pierre and family.

OPINIONS

Ours and Yours . . .

Tourism Is Big Business

We wonder just when more people in this area are going to realize that tourists are big business and that we have a unique opportunity to lure our share of tourists and claim a fair share of recompense for so doing. At present the most we seem to be doing, except for Council's participation in the Eastern Development Association's endeavours through trade and sports show exhibits, is to dangle a hook on a line but forgetting to put the bait on it. Not that we want anyone to get the idea we're comparing tourists with fish, but the comparison as to what we're doing to attract tourists is quite appropriate.

Some sections of Ontario are awakening to the fact that they have a historical background which might be of interest to others, if only others could learn about it. Signs and advertising have played a large part in promoting "tourist" areas and creating tremendous business opportunities. As it develops in this area, and it will with our help or without it, it will open up a whole new concept in our thinking and in our gradual progress. we will come to realize its economic importance.

From The Prescott Journal this week comes a suggestion that the communities from Brockville to Long Sault unite in providing signs at the east and west junctions of No. 2 and No. 401 Highways, outlining the No. 2 Seaway scenic route to tourists. In addition The Journal suggests signs be placed along the highways approaching these junctions, leading up to the major signs.

This and many other sound ideas are among the line of thinking that is needed to see our area take full advantage of luring the tourist to, our district. Ontario has much to offer the vacationing traveller, but we must seize every opportunity and use every avenue to make him welcome and make him enjoy his visit.

Helping The Crippled To Walk

When a child who lives far from any large orthopaedic centre is crippled and cannot walk to a clinic because of polio, cerebral palsy or an injury through accident, he is not forgotten. As a matter of fact he is being sought out more and more these days as the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, along with the members of some 222 service clubs throughout the province, sponsor more of the unique mobile clinics in which the doctors, nurses and equipment go as close to the young patients' homes as posible.

Financed by the Easter Seal Campaign, the clinics are held in a hospital, if the town is large enough, but have been held quite successful in community centres, town halls and other buildings. For several years large numbers of crippled children- sometimes as many as 100 a day - have been examined by specialists in this type of portable clinic at Timmins, Cochrane, Kirkland Lake, Haliburton, Sault Ste. Marie and many other centres.

When a day and place are settled for clinic, the local newspapers and radio stations usually advertise the details. Doctors within a 75-mile radius are alerted and send registration cards so that crippled Kiddies wishing to attend might do so through their family doctors.

If a transpotation problem is involved an Ontario Society nurse and a crippled children's committee of the local service club work out the details so that the child reaches his appointment on time. They also make sure there is a good supply of milk and cookies and toys on hand for the restless and fretful children while they wait their turn.

The team of experts who examine the long line of handicapped children usually consist of two orthopaedic surgeons, one neurologist, and x-ray specialist, several secretaries, the Society nurse and public health nurses in the district and service club members as well as private physicians.

As the child's disability is examined the doctor dictates his diagnoses and recommendations into a recording machine and these are transcribed later for the use of all the medical personnel involved.

Often the doctors advice a camp session at one of the Society's summer camps. The child may be hospitalized locally if equipment and personnel are available to cope with his particular ailment. Otherwise he may be sent to Toronto or one of the other large medical centres for new braces, crutches or physiotherapy.

Important follow-up work is usually necessary in every case and carried out officially by a core of nurses on the staff of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children - an organization which now needs $350,00 to continue to take hope and opportunity from one end of the province to the other in similar clinics. The campaign runs from March 17th to April 17th.

TEN COMMANDMENTS OF BUSINESS

4. Customers do us a favor by serving them.
5. Customers are part of business—not outsiders.
6. Customers are not cold statistics—they are flesh and blood human beings with emotions like our own.
7. Customers are not ones to "argue" or "match wits" with.
8. Customers are the ones who bring us their wants— it is our job to fill those wants.
9. Customers are deserving of the most courteous and attentive treatment we can give them.

THE CLUB SECRETARY

If he writes a letter, it's too long.
If he writes a postcard, it's too short.
If he doesn't send notices, he's worthless.
If he attends committee meetings, he's butting in.
If he stays away, he's a shirker and slacker.
If he duns the members for dues, he's insulting.
If he fails to collect dues, he's slipping.
If he asks for advice, he's not competent.
If he doesn't ask for advice, he's a know-it-all.
If he writes complete reports, he's long-winded.
If he condenses them, they're incomplete.
If he talks on a subject, he's trying to run things.
If he remains quiet, he's lost interest completely.
So what can the poor felow do?

Hon. F. M. Cass Writes from Queen's Park

It has often been said that while Nero fiddled Rome burned. And certainly last week in the Ontario House while the opposition parties talked, Elliot Lake and Bancroft folk could see the promise of future security put forward by the Frost Government being obstructed by Liberals and CCF who had no alternative to offer. The serious plight of our great uranium mining communities has engaged much public attention and the most earnest efforts of the Government. But with a modicum of co-operation from the Federal Government, Ontario will surely, as always, produce a solution based on progressive and far-sighted planning.

Committee work dwindled during the week as legislation reached more advanced stages in the House. However much out-of-Session and year round work was envisaged by the announcement by Prime Minister Frost of several Select Committees of eleven members each to study and report on such important matters as the Gordon Report on Government Organization in Ontario, the drug supply and cost problem, compulsory automobile insurance and the unsatisfied judgment fund, and expropriation and land compensation proceedings, and also farm crop insurance.

The presentation of the estimates for various Departments to cover the year 1960-61 has been the main work of the House this last week. Each Department has had to run the usual gauntlet of question and criticism from government and opposition alike. In addition the opposition groups have been following policy stated in the House by Elma Sopha, Liberal M.P.P. for Sudbury, that the duty of the opposition is "to harass and obstruct the government", which statement would surely appear to negate any possibility of useful contribution by opposition members. And so it has developed; during each Departmental estimates the same opposition members have made the same speeches resulting in some very late sittings of the House.

The estimates of the Department of Highways showing a reduction of some $14,000,000.00 in highway construction expenditures were passed after a stormy day and night long session which saw the Minister your (Member) on the receiving end of a great barrage of indignation from opposition benches and criticism of the alleged high handed tactics of the Minister and his Department. Of course the results of the progressive, fair, widely-spread highway program of this Department has met wide public acceptance and I am sure many members so outspoken in the unbridled heat of debate could not take the same attitude in their own areas where so many evidences exist of the co-operation between Highways officials and local officials and people.

TODAY!

World Refugee Year has gripped the imagination of Christian people of the world as the words of Christ take on further meaning: "In as much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye have done it unto me". The Bible Society, remembering that Jesus and the Holy Family were refugees from tyranny in the flight into Egypt, has always endeavoured to bring the consolation of the Scriptures to the homeless and the dispossessed.

The Bible House in Hong Kong ministers to the 20.000,000 Chinese outside China. Two million refugees are in Hong Kong itself. To these as to all homeless wanderers the Scriptures bring the eternal message of hope. A total of 502,290 Bibles, Testaments and Gospels have been circulated through the Hong Kong Bible House.

The Bible Society is also distributing the Scriptures in the refugee camps in Europe from which Canada is helping to rescue some of those whose hope for a settled abiding place had almost vanished.

NEED SOMETHING? SEE THE WANT ADS?

Mrs. Jean Casselman, MP, Reports
Parliament Topics

When one considers the problem involved in any one large, or even small industry, it is somewhat staggering to attempt comments on the financing of our country and the buying and selling of goods on a national scale. There are such a myriad of outside influences, climatic, diplomatic, psychological.

Small wonder then that we have pessimistic forebodings from Governor Coyne and optimistic hopes from Trade And Commerce Minister, the Hon. Gordon Churchhill. It seems the more study is given this enormous subject, the more opinions we receive. This is all to the good, if somewhat confusing.

As stated last week, I believe Mr. Coyne's words should be heeded and carefully considered. This week we have Mr. Churchill's side of the picture which should also be studied. He has worked with the utmost concentration and dedication, and it is encouraging that he is optimistic. Running a business is never easy and many of the problems seem insoluble to those knowing comparatively few of the facts. Presumably with his world travelling and his expert advisers Mr. Churchill should be in a position to give us a complete picture of the situation. For two and a half hours in the House of Commons this week Mr. Churchill attempted to do just this, and at the end of this report many of us felt considerably cheered.

He pointed out that far from being complacent this government has considered Trade as one of its main preoccupations. On taking office in 1957 Mr, Churchill was handed the unsolved problem of the Liberal regime, namely 730 million bushels of unsold wheat. In each succeeding year Mr. Churchill has decreased this surplus by 100 million bushels, which gives him sound basis for some optimism and satisfaction.

Mr. Churchill stated that it was through the initiative of this government that we secured the relaxation of the control imposed by the United States on their importation of our oil. Through 1958 when world trade was declining Canada's export position was maintained, and no other country can say that.

Mr. Churchill pointed out that this was a poor time for a major attack on Canada's trade policy, because the third quarter of 1959, for the first time in seven years, showed a favourable trade balance.

Mr. Churchill denied that he was the only optimist and quoted optimistic reports from all the provincial premiers as to their expansion and development.

Mr. Churchill points out that while foreign investment in Canada has been growing in the post war period, in absolute terms, the rate of the economie expansion of our country has been even more rapid, passing the rate of increase in Canadian foreign indebtedness.

In 1939 we had a net international indebtedness of 5.5 billion which was 98 percent of the gross national product in that year. This means that the present ratio of Canada's net foreign indebtedness to our ability to support such an indebtedness, and that is reflected in the total value of goods and services, produced, is currenly less than half of what it was before the war, namely 44 percent compared with 98 percent.

It is to be hoped that this debate between some of Canada's best brains, holding and recognizing their responsibility, interests all Canadians. Only by our constant study, discussion and observation can we keep Canada strong and healthy.

Even Editors Deserve Good Word Once In A While

by Dorothy Barker

I hustled the notes on my Maritime trip into a brief case and heeded the signal to return to Ontario and attend the annual regional convention of weekly editors, held this year in Hamilton.

There was a special reason I wanted particularly to attend, not only to meet old friends, but to witness one of the most rewarding ceremonies the Association undertakes each year.

That is the recognition and tribute paid to the "Newspaperman of the year". Thunderous applause greeted the choice for 1960, and a very surprised editor heard his name called. "Frank MacIntyre, would you please come forward?" asked the chairman of the selection committee.

In reporting the well deserved eulogy read during the presentation to this outstanding weekly newspaperman, I want to take the opportunity of saying a few things to you readers, which your editors cannot very well say about themselves.

But first, why did Frank MacIntyre rate this award? Because he is the very epitome of the "grassroots editor", the spark that ignites community spirit, beamed through all levels of newspapering in his weekly, "The Dundalk Herald". There is very little ever happens in this town of 863 people that the 2,219 sworn circulation does not hear about.

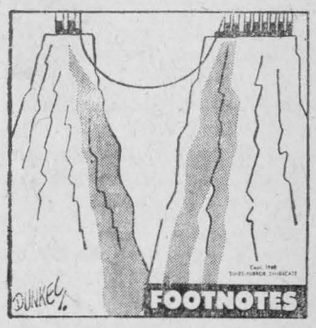
Frank MacIntyre not only supports community effort through the columns of his paper, but through active participation by playing in the band, teaching Sunday School, supporting the Boy Scout movement and giving leadership in all causes peculiar to a town's activity. This remarkable circulation figure shows his affinity with his community and his constructive influence.

Editors are, for the most part, a very reticent segment of the humanrace that populates this Dominion. For one reason, they are too busy putting across publicity, providing news and supporting causes to even give themselves a thought. Those I have known, and they have been legion from coast to coast, are dedicated slaves to their profession. Their long hours and enthusiasm for their job have, in many an instance, been the cause of nerves, ulcers and a deadly lethargy from lack of sleep. Yet they meet each weekly deadline with renewed enthusiasm and honesty of purpose.

Readers have been known to believe that weekly editors have nothing to do from the moment the paper is off the press, til the following Monday morning. What a fallacy! It is after the paper is "put to bed" that most editors assume their hardest tasks, for in the success of the local paper is reflected the success of the community. A newspaper is not just so many printed sheets, but a business as well. Management is a important as editing and salesmanship accounts for the success, or failure, of any local paper. Therefore, your editor must be many things to many people. Above all, an editor, if he is worth his salt, must have a hide like a rhinoceros to withstand critical barbs, the vision of a Lincoln and the diligence of a Diogonese, ever searching for truth and upholding progress.

Frank MacIntyre is all of these things and it gives me great pleasure to salute "Mr. Ontario Newspaperman for 1960", not only as representative of his profession in Ontario, but because his effort is representative of all weekly newspaper editors who are making such an outstanding contribution to their communities right across Canada.

It may be a little difficult after the excitement and fun of this most recent convention to pick up the thread of my trip east, but my bulging portfolio is crammed with pieces of copy that, like the imps in Pandora's box, await liberation. I enjoyed writing about an old sea captain's treasures, the memory of my interview with Kentville's lady mayor and my reminisence of last year's Blossom Festival in the Annapolis Valley. Relating them is all part of the great thrill of keeping this Diary.



"How did you get over there, stupid?"

Highways Spending Down

Net expenditures of the Ontario Department of Highways will total $251,500,000 in 1960-61as compared with net expenditures of $253,261,000 in the fiscal year ending March 31, 1960, according to estimates for the Department presented recently by the Minister, the Hon. Fred M. Cass, Q.C.

The estimates provide for continuation of the Department's capital construction program on King's Highways and Secondary Highways at a level slightly under the record attained in 1960. Increased provision has been made for maintenance and municipal subsidies.

Expenditures on capital construction are estimated at $138, 165,000 as compared with $150, 000,000 in 1959-60 and $138,000 000 in 1958-59. New projects to be started in 1960 include 763 miles of grading and or paving and 105 structures. In addition construction will be supervised on 77 miles of resources roads and 19 miles of development roads.

Among major projects, work on Highway 401 and the Trans-Canada Highway will be continued at an accelerated rate to meet scheduled completion dates; a major start will be made on a skyway over the Welland Canal at Homer, and on the Chedoke Expressway which will form part of Highway 403 within the City of Hamilton. Work will be continued on the Ottawa Queensway and work will be completed on King's Highways in all sections of the province.

"For the past five years the Department has been initiating and completing a record construction program for each successive year and is now at the point where the volume of work can be stabilized", Mr. Cass states. "Subject to changes in the purchasing power of the highway dollar, the present level of expenditures, if continued, will enable the Department to fulfill its long-term program several years sooner than originally anticipated".

Provision for maintenance of King's Highways and Secondary Highways is estimated at $45, 983,000, an increase of slightly over a million dollars over the amount provided for 1959-60. The greater part of maintenance funds are allotted to district offices and include $17,7770,00 for summer and general maintenance and summer highway patrols and $14,940,000 for winter maintenance.

Subsidies and other provincial aid for municipal roads and streets are estimated at $75,485, 000 for construction of rural roads and urban streets while subsidies for maintenance will total $24,500,000. In addition funds have been provided for development roads which have a special importance to a local area or the general public, and also for assistance to Statute Labour Boards or groups of settlers in Northern Ontario, where work has been under way.

What's Going On At Legion Branch 370?

Four years ago the Very Reverand J. O. Anderson, the Dominion President of the Canadian Legion, sounded a challenfe. He told delegates attending a convention that the Legion was at the cross-roads. It had reached the point where it either went ahead or slipped backwards.

"We can add to our basic character and develop or we can become a backward organization where ageing members sit in lengthening shadows and contemplate the glories of a youth that is dead", the colorful leader told his audience.

Dean Anderson urged a vigorous interest in community affairs. The response to his challenge has produced remarkable results. Although many branches were active in community projects before this speech, the increased activity has been most pronounced since 1955.

The Legions answer to the challenge is reflected in some 2000 branches across Canada when toddlers assemble in Legion halls for nursery school classes. Their older brothers and sisters assemble for supervised Teen Town dances.

There is a great variety of projects undertaken by the Legion such as choral groups, drama societies, blood banks, eye banks a square dance or any other of the varied interests one finds in a community.

The Legion influence in juvenile sport needs no stressing as almost every branch is active in this respect. Yet the impact of this magnified by some 1500 branches means that some 35,000 boys receive sports training through the Legion.

The same applies to Cubs and Scouts, with the Legion being the largest single sponsor of such activities among service clubs.

It would be impossible to name each branch programme but here are a few projects which the various branches conducts, housing developments, community centres, swimming pools, playgrounds, summer camps, equiped hospital rooms, soap box derby's, public speaking contests and schools for retarded chillden.

The total value of Legion housing developments is very close to two and a quarter million dollars. These provide low cost housing for elderly Canadians who otherwise might have to live out their days in a single room.

Legion scholorships and bursaries exceed $65,000 a year. Within the past two years more than twenty items of Legislation requested by the Legion have passed. Last year the service Bureau enabled the Canadian veteran to obtain $213,000 in two years.

From all appearance the Legion has gone beyond the Cross-Roads. It has found new challenge, new vigourand new members by opening it's doors to community needs.

With nearly $500,000 coming in from a brother who died recently, Henry Marshall of Carleton Place, Ont., finds even more enjoyment as he lights a favorite cigar to celebrate the news. But "every cent will be put to good use," he stresses. Marshall, 80, will get money left by older brother William R. Marshall, a Washington, D.C., real estate broker who died February 5.

Easy To Converse With Strangers

by Dorothy Barker

There are three things which will always start a conversation among strangers, especially travellers. They are children, dogs and fancy work.

Continuing my trip to the east coast I as was sitting comfortably in the train coach crocheting a tea cozy. We were just commencing to round Bedford Basin and the distant subdivision, that looked as though myriads of brightly coloured fruit drops had been scattered on the horizon, came into view. New homes climb the steep hill where hundreds were destroyed in the explosion that rocked Halifax during the first world war. A woman sitting opposite, who had apparently enjoyed her own company all the way down from Montreal, unexpectedly leaned toward me. She asked me where I had found the pattern for the cozy I was making.

She obviously doubted my explanation that I had made it up as I went along, but seemed to welcome the change to talk to me. With only a short time before we were due to pull into the station, we covered the subject of how to brew tea properly, the regret that the ritual of making tea at the tea table is almost a thing of the past, and yearned about rare old tea caddies.

I become excited as a kid at its first party as she related many of the "finds" she had purchased in a well known Halifax antique store. But the real thrill for me was her tale of an old sea captain who lives by himself, surrounded with treasures that would make a connoisseur blanche with envy. Though he had no living relatives, not a single dealer had been able to persuade him to part with anything in his collection, she said. I made a mental note of his name and the little coastal town where he lives in retirement and said a cordial goodbye to my informant.

Only those who have been attacked by the antique virus, will understand the lengths I went to, to meet the old salt of her storey.

Two hours by rail down the coast and I found myself standing for a moment outside his ancient house. I was admiring the quaint double doors with their coloured, etched glass panels, when the right-hand door opened and a stooped, elderly gentleman with gray sideburns and a shock of curly white hair asked me if there was someone I was looking for. It must have been my frank "yes, you" that either intrigued him, or was such a surprise he opened the door even wider and invited me to enter.

What a delightful afternoon I spent toasting myself beside his funny little Franklin stove, while he made tea in a staffordshire teapot with boiling water heated on the hearth. He spooned the China tea from a sterling silver caddy with its etching worn almost flat where it had been lifted perhaps a thousand times in such true hospitality. Outside, the surf boomed and a gale pried at the shutters that hung at every window.

He sat in a winged chair that looked as though it would fall into tatters where his rough hands, knotted with rheumatism, constantly rubbed the arms as his seafaring tales were spun. When I admired an old cane with an ivory handle, deeply carved in dragon fashion, he handed it to me and said "keep it my dear".

There was a tale about the cane as well. It had belonged to a Mandarin, he said. The story went that his grandfather was a guest in this venerable gentleman's home on one of his sailing voyages to the Orient, when he fell and fractured his hip. For months he was confined to his bed as the hip knit and when he was ready to take his first steps, the Mandarin offered him his cane.

There is a legend that the Chinese always give you any article of theirs you admire. Evidently this generosity is catching. It made his story quite believable that the cane, which is now mine, had been a treasured belonging of the Captain's family for more than a century. What I would ever do with it, at that moment did not puzzle me. I only wished I hal thought quickly enough to admire the winged chair.

Perhaps there is hope that eventually my longing for this particular chair may be fulfilled, for the captain and I parted close friends. I promised to return to his seaside vilage the very next time my vagabonding brings me to the east coast. His loneliness and my attentive listening to his adventures, proved a fast bond betweeen two lovers of the old and the beautiful. Someday I may be old enough too, to totter about assisted by his grandfather's, or shoulud I say the Mandarin's cane.

"Dad, I read about a man who was a 'financial genius'. What does that mean?"

"It means that he could earn money faster than his family could spend it".

THE RECORD WORLD

AT LAST!

by Gary Parmeter

PICK OF THE WEEK

At last! We have a new record by the King. Last week ELVIS PRESLEY did some recording at RCA's Nashville studios for the first time in two years, and after hearing ELVIS'S exciting new release it's obvious he hasn't lost the old touch; he sounds as great as ever. This new release has also squelched rumours to the effect that ELVIS would change his style, although his manager, COLONEL TOM PARKER, had already denied this. As a matter of fact, he gave a few RCA officials a blast some time ago for announcing that ELVIS would change his style.

This new disk features a swinger and a ballad by ELVIS. The former is a great rhythm tune called "Stuck On You" similar to some of his past efforts, while the ballad is an excellent piece of material entitled "Fame And Fortune" which the King does up terrificly. Both ends are liable to wind up in the top ten. Every groove of this round sound is sensational and it'll keep the juke boxes working full time.

If you've got the impression that I like this disk, you're absolutely wrong - I love it.

SURE SHOTS

That country boy, MR. JOHN R. CASH, has a new platter for Columbia, his first since "The Little Drummer Boy". JOHNNY'S new slicing is called "Smilin' Bill McCall", a tale about a country radio celebrity whom everyone thinks must be a handsome strapping six-footer. He tries to commit suicide when he fears people will find out his secret - that he's only four feet tall - and bald to boot. It's very amusing, and it's done in a talk-sing fashion by the artist. "Seasons Of My Heart", a country ballad, is the flip.

"Besame Mucho" is the latest (though not the greatest) by those crazy COASTERS on Atco. For a change, one of their records wasn't written by LEIBER and STOLLER, although they produced the session. The boys take the old Latin tune for a vocal ride on Part One, while Part Two features mainly KING CURTIS'S solo sax work.

SPOTLIGHT ALBUMS

"JAN and DEAN"—Dore LP 101. A good looking, clean cut pair of fellows who have scored with "Baby Talk", and more recently, "Clementine". They sing those two plus "Cindy", "Don't Fly Away", and "My Heart Sings". All the selections are well gimmicked with echoes and overdubbing and the like. Teen type tunes.

"GOLDEN GOODIES"—Various Artists—Mercury R 60217. Another in the series of goodies, and this one too should be popular with teens. It includes "Endlessly"—BROOK BENTON, "The Stroll"—DIAMONDS, "Sea Of Love"— PHIL PHILLIPS and "What A Difference A Day Makes"—DINAH WASHINGTON.

"DOWN BY THE STATION"—FOUR PREPS—Capitol T1291. A collection of past singles by the group who are currently clicking with the title tune of this set. They also sing "26 Miles", "Big Man", "I Ain't Never", and that pretty pretty one that didn't become a hit but should've—"She Was Five And He Was Ten".

PLATTER CHATTER

It's a strange business, this record racket; you never know what's going to become a hit or where. Several months ago, the Colt 45 label put out a record in the U.S. of A. by BARRY DARVELL called "How Will It End". The record, a great sound by the way, bubbled under the top hundred but never really got off the ground. The disk was released in Canada, and after being a sleeper for weeks and weeks, things started to happen; it's now one of the top platters in all the major cities and number seven on Canada's Best Sellers Now BARRY has started a series of personal appearances and club dates that will include Toronto, Ottawa, and Montreal.

PERRY COMA and PAT BOONE will be heading for Europe next month to film TV shows. PERRY leaves April 13 for London where he will film his April 28 show. PAT will land in Paris April 1 and film shows for April 14 and 21 showing. He will also film in Munich, Venice, and Salzburg.

Station KENO, Las Vegas, Nevada, was not content to hold world records for "broadcasting live from horseback" and "broadcasting live from underwater". Recently they set another, this time for "broadcasting from an operating taxicab". For 74 hours and 50 minutes the station broadcasted from seats of operating taxicabs. (I'm glad I didn't have to pay the fare.)

"BETCHA DIDN'T KNOW DEPARTMENT"—ELVIS PRESLEY made his screen test for Paramount back in '56 with an actor named Frank Faylen. Who's Frank Faylen you say? (I bet that's what you said.) Well perhaps you know him as Herbert J. Gillis, the distraught, harried father of Dobie Gillis on the TVer "The Many Loves Of Dobie Gillis".

75 unpublished JEROME KERN compositions have been found in the safe of the late composer's publisher. 20 of the songs will be used in a musical play being written expecially for them.

I get a kick out of DICK BIONDI pitching for Gillette Blue Blades on WKBW and DICK COOK recommending different brands of beer on the commercials on WSTS. BIONDI has a beard and COOKY doesn't drink.

Dot records are in an uproar over the appointment of JONI JAMES to sing "The Five Pennies" on the Academy Awards TV Show. Dot had a best seller on the song by DODI STEVENS, as well as the sountrack album, yet an MGM artist was assigned to sing the song. It seems more than coincidental that ARTHUR FREED, who is producing the Awards Show, also happens to be a producer for the MGM peolpe.

DISK DATA

JIM REEVES'S recording of "He'll Have To Go" is well past a million in sales; he's now making an album. . . .BONNIE BROWN, of the singing BROWNS, eloped last month with a Little Rock interne . . . ..The EVERLY BROTHERS are recording their first LP for Warner Bros. . . . Twenty different versions of "Sleepwalk" have been released in Europe. . . .BOBBY DARIN and DUANE EDDY left last week for a month's co-starring tour of the British Isles. . . . CARMEN CAVELLERO has sold a million copies of his LP "The Eddy Duchin Story" . . . The UPSETTERS LITTLE RICHARD'S old band, is now touring with LITTLE WILLIE JOHN. . . . . IN STAR WEEKLY

Everyone fears radio-active fall-out. But, asks Marjorie Earl in the current issue of The Star Weekly, how many of us are even aware that peaceful uses of the atom could poison our entire planet?

Millions of tons of radio-active waste products from nuclear power-plants lie buried in Canada and the United States, a potential threat to everyone for hundreds of miles around. Accidents can happen - indeed, they already have; yet we are told we need not worry. Readers can decide for themselves by reading the facts revealed in this interesting, important Star Weekly article.
