Campaign total in

MAPLE RIDGE — The total is in for the South Nation's Fight for the Breath of Life campaign which took place over 10 days in May. The campaign raised more than $30,000 for Cystic Fibrosis research. Communities throughout northern Stormont and Dundas took part in the fundraiser which featured a number of money-raising events including a fashion show, dance and casino night, bike-a-thon and monster bingo. About 22 service groups and area schools took part in the fundraiser. The money was recently presented to a Cystic Fibrosis association representative in Ottawa.

Story hours

FINCH — The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Library will start story hours at the library in Finch as well as four other area branches in October. As well as Finch the story hour will begin in Morrisburg and Avonmore in English, and Crysler and Moose Creek in French. The story hour will also be continued in Long Sault. Anyone interested can contact their local branch for the exact day and time and to register for the four-week sessions.

Organic fair

OTTAWA — The first ever organic fall fair to be held in the Ottawa region, the Harvest Festival and Fair, will be held Sunday at the Exhibition Hall in Almonte. A host of local exhibitors will be on-hand to show and sell crafts and organic produce. Information and demonstrations will be given on composting and other organic growing techniques. And raffle tickets will be sold for a collector's handcrafted by Canadian Organic Growers members. Admission is $2 for adults and $1 for seniors and children.

Complaints anyone?

MORRISBURG — There has been much to complain about where politicians are concerned lately and area residents with complaints have a chance to have them heard Oct. 18. Klaas Bylsma, the Ombudsman of Ontario's district officer for the area, will be in Morrisburg to hear complaints involving provincial government organizations. He will be at the Morrisburg Municipal Office from 1 to 2:30 p.m. He will be in Cornwall earlier in the day, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. Inquiries from the public can be made by phoning 239-1487 and collect calls are accepted. The ombudsman is empowered to resolve disputes by investigating concerns raised by the public with actions or ommissions of provincial government organizations.

Sign hit

CHESTERVILLE — A speed limit sign was knocked down near Chesterville Bowling on Main Street South in Chesterville when it was hit by a car Sunday evening. Winchester OPP Constable Bryan Helmer said Craig Smith, 17, of RR3 Chesterville, was driving southbound when his car began to slide at the curve leading out of the village and went into the west ditch hitting the sign and a culvert. Damage to the car was estimated at $1,500. There were no injuries and no charges were laid.

Osnabruck's Farran Park to realize $4,000 profit

Greg Kielec

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — The verdict is in; Osnabruck Township's Farran Park will turn a profit of more than $4,000 this year.

Paul McAllister, Osnabruck recreation director, said the park is expected to have a profit of between $4,200 to $4,400. The final figure will be determined when the township receives the final electric bill -- likely to be about $300 -- for the park.

Osnabruck took over the park on a one-year trial basis in April, after a February announcement by the St. Lawrence Parks Commission that it would not operate Farran and four other parks this year.

Township officials had anticipated a $30,000 loss in the operation of the park, basing their assessment on parks commission figures from previous years. But lower wages and increased revenue has ensured the township of a profit.

The township hired students to staff the park this summer, and did not have to pay full parks commission wages, resulting in a large saving. It also had increased revenues, a total revenue of $47,000, about $16,000 more than taken in by the parks commission last year.

"I think the year was more than we expected," McAllister said.

Park staff established itself with cleintele very quickly and visitors were impressed with the cleanliness of the park and the friendliness of the staff, he said. Visitors' praise quickly turned itself into more business, drawing campers from Quebec and northern New York to the park.

"I think word of mouth got around very quickly that Farran Park was a good park to go to," McAllister said.

Reeve Stewart Hart said the township was not aiming for area youth and tourist dollars for local businesses.

So when it was learned the park would turn a profit this year, it was a pleasant surprise for council. "It is) better news than (a deficit of) $30,000," he said.

Hart hopes the township will be able to run Farran Park and Nairne Campground west of Ingleside, next year. Township and recreation officials will be meeting to formulate a proposal for the parks commission for operation of the parks.

The parks commission has invited bids from businesses and municipalities to operate the five closed beaches and campsites. Hart said in late August the parks commission will give Osnabruck first choice to take over Farran.

But if a business comes up with a better proposal for the park which may benefit the municipality, the township may decide not to operate the park, Hart said.

McAllister is already looking at the park as a long-term operation, if the township does take it over next year. And he has no problem finding places to spend the profits from its operation.

"Hopefully it (profit) will go back into the park if we get the park back next year," he said.

As well as the $4,000 profit the park is expected to have, he may be able to tap into the $30,000 council budgeted for an anticipated deficit in the park's operation.

Short-term plans included the expansion of electrical sites at the park and the construction of a shower facility. Long-term goals included construction of a mini-putt golf course, a golf driving range and a boat dock, McAllister said.

Money may also be invested in expansion of the canteen at the park and for reparis to one washroom. And if Nairne is taken over, money may be spent to construct a shower there.

If Osnabruck takes over Nairne as well as Farran, it may mean even more profit for the municipality. McAllister said the two parks could be run with the same amount of staff used just to operate Farran this year. Other costs would also be nominal, he anticipated.

Carson Elliott, Osnabruck deputy reeve, gave McAllister the majority of credit for making the park a profitable operation. "That was the turning point," he said.

But he said if Osnabruck continues operating the park, the township should take over ownership, not lease the land from parks commission, he said.

In fact, he said all five closed parks should be turned over to the municipalities they lie in and the parks commission should concentrate on operating the Long Sault Parkway, Upper Canada Village and Old Fort Henry in Kingston.

Dam jamming
Several leaks at the Eric T. Casselman dam in the South Nation River were plugged last week by a diving team from Ottawa. The leaks which occured underneath three of the dam's stop logs, had to be plugged so water levels remained high enough for Nestlé Enterprises Ltd. to get water essential to it's operations. Two men, pictured above, in a rowboat assisted a diver place sandbags underneath the stop logs to plug the leak.

Divers scramble to repair leaky Chesterville dam

CHESTERVILLE — Divers were called in last week to plug several leaks at the Eric T. Casselman dam in the South Nation River at Chesterville.

The move was taken to prevent a shutdown of the Nestle Enterprises Ltd. plant in Chesterville. The food processing plant relies on water from the South Nation to operate.

Jim Cummings, Nestle's plant manager said the water level was alarmingly low.

"If we hadn't taken the remedial action....we could have been in deeper trouble," he said.

Any further loss of water could have been costly to Nestle and the village. Without an adequate water supply Nestle's could be forced to partially shut down, he said.

"We're a major employer in the area. By curtailing operations it would mean that we would have a temporary layoff situation and loss of revenue that could affect the whole community," he said.

Last week's repairs at the dam does not mean the end of Nestle's troubles though. Cumming said the river's level was still low. But now that the divers have fixed the dam, an end to the dry spell is needed to raise the level of water in the river.

"We need to have some good soaking rains where it allows the river to catch up with itself, to get that reservoir built back up again," he said.

Dennis O'Grady, South Nation River Conservation Authority general manager, said Friday the leaks had to be fixed to keep the water levels behind the dam above the Nestle Enterprises Ltd. water intake.

Roy Steele, SNRCA's works superintendent said the water was leaking through three of the five stop logs which control the water flow of the South Nation.

O'Grady said the intervention by the divers, from the Ottawa firm, Ottawa Divers Services, saved Nestle from any expenses it might of had its water supply been cut off.

"It hasn't cost Nestle's anything yet, because the water level was above Nestle's intake," he said.

Hiring the divers to fix the leak will cost SNRCA less than $1,000, said O'Grady.

The divers fixed the leaks by placing a

SNRCA looking for municipal support for new regulation

Greg Kielec

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — The South Nation River Conservation Authority is looking for municipal support for a proposed regulation to curtail flooding and landslide problems in the watershed.

Members of the conservation authority, which controls a 3,900 square kilometre watershed stretching from Elizabethtown near Brockville, east to North Plantagenet Township near the Quebec border, were at Osnabruck Council Monday night to lobby for support for the proposed regulation.

The regulation will control construction and the placing of fill in wetlands and also control the alteration of waterways. The regulations are essential to prevent property damage and possible loss of life through flooding and landslides.

The authority needs the approval of a large number of the municipalities in the watershed before the provincial government approves the adoption of the regulations by the authority.

SNRCA General Manager Dennis O'Grady said the authority has received approval from 17 of the 28 municipalities in the watershed. A number of municipalities still haven't decided to endorse the regulations.

He said no specific number of municipal approvals has been requested by the government; it has only asked that the authority get approval from as many municipalities as possible.

He stressed the regulations are not meant to control development or take power away from the municipal decision-making process. "We're not trying to stop people from building, not at all," O'Grady told council.

The regulations would prohibit construction in areas prone to flooding or landslides. They also would ensure fill placed on building lots does not cause flooding on neighboring lands and that any alteration of a water course does not result in flooding.

A large part of the prevention process will be education. Area lawyers, real estate agents, and the public in general, must be informed of the proposed regulations, O'Grady said.

"It's important. We're not playing around with some theoretical game here. What we're dealing with...(is) risk to life and severe property damage."

Many municipalities who haven't yet endorsed the regulations feel that there is little chance a large flood will ever hit the area. But O'Grady said Eastern Ontario is just as likely to be hit by flooding as the rest of the province.

There have been instances of severe flooding in various areas of the province over the past few years. If flooding can happen elsewhere in the province, it can happen here, he said.

Locals raise $2,000 in Lions Club bike-a-thon

Greg Kielec

CHESTERVILLE — Sixteen cyclists took part in the Chesterville and District Lions Club's first bike-a-thon Saturday to raise about $2,000 for Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

The 20 km. bike-a-thon started at 10 a.m. Saturday and wound its way south to just past Dunbar, east on Weegar Road, back west on Church Road and back south on Dunbar road to Chesterville.

The biggest concern among organizers Saturday morning was the weather. Threatening clouds hung overhead for most of the morning but the rain managed to hold off until the afternoon, after the event was completed.

Although disappointed with the small turnout of riders, event organizer Darren Kirkwood was pleased with the overall success of the event.

Except for one menacing dog along the route which took after the heels of Lions Club member John Edgerton, the bike-a-thon was incident free.

Edgerton was also involved in another race, an unofficial contest against a younger participant in which he just squeaked out a win, stealing away a planned come-from-behind victory from the late-starting youth.

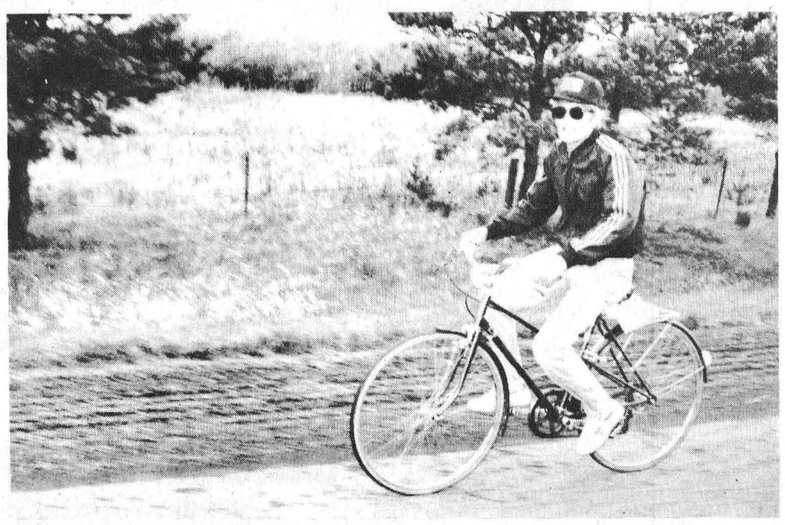
Edgerton, and other participants had their work cut out of them, especially during the first half of the course from Chesterville to Dunbar. The gradual climb from Chesterville to Dunbar, coupled with a strong wind from the south, made tough biking for the first half of the route.

Kirkwood said if the event is held next year, members will likely hold it earlier in the year. The club will also promote the event more to attract more riders.

But he had no complaints about the $2,000 fundraising total. Considering the amount of people entered in the event, the total was a good one, he said.

The event featured a number of prizes. Top prize winner, of a bicycle, was Siebren DeJong for the most money raised. Winner of a portable stereo for being closest to the hidden time was Curtis Smith.

Other participants and prize winners were Chantelle Ducolon, Darryl Burns, Henry Kramer, Shawn Rutters, John Edgerton, Melissa St. Denis, Theresa St. Denis, Melanie MacLeod, John Monteith, Sharon Monteith, Siebren De Jong, Curtis Smith, Brent Sheldrick, Jason Sheldrick, Len Moran, Mike Gruich and Greg Kielec.



Wheeling
Leonard Moran, (above), of Chesterville, was one of 16 participants in a Chesterville and District Lions Club bike-a-thon Saturday to raise money for Winchester District Memorial Hospital. The event raised about $2,000 for the hospital.

Fall teachers meeting held

AVONMORE — The annual fall dinner meeting of members of the Superannuated Teachers of Ontario, District 25, was held at the Avonmore Community Centre Sept. 11.

The members of the Ladies' Aid Society of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Avonmore, served a sumptuous turkey dinner, which was enjoyed by 153 members from all parts of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry.

Head table guests were introduced by Clifford MacRae, president of District 25.

Special guests included J. Irwin Coulthart and Miss L. Jean Cameron, who were instrumental in the organization of the local group in the early 1970's.

Mr. Coulthart gave an excellent resume of events leading up to its formation. The local is proud of a beautiful crest and plaque which was designed and created by the late Angus McKenzie and which is still proudly displayed at various meetings.

Various reports were presented including ones by Gordon Winter, Health Services and Insurance; Miss Verna Levere , Projects Overseas; Mme Jeannine Leroux, treasurer; and Mrs. Marion MacMaster, the Mentors' Program which is sponsored by the S.D. and G. County Board of Education.

Mabel and Maldwyn Watkins had charge of community singing. Others contributing to the program, which followed the dinner, were Ted Sonne, Mlle Laura Sabourin, secretary of the local group; Allan McPhail, Catherine Defreitas, and Mrs. Marion Hough.

Lloyd MacDonald thanked the ladies and Sister Rachel said Grace.

The next social event for the members will be a Christmas party to be held in Cornwall on Tuesday, Dec. 4.

WI to battle pollution

BERWICK — The Berwick W.I. held its September meeting in the home of Irene Casselman September 13. After the Opening Ode and Mary Stewart Collect, members went on to the Motto: "There are a thousand thoughts lying within a man that he does not know till he takes up a pen to write."

Roll call was: "Something I can do to better the environmental battle." This was answered in various ways but all members agree that each of us should do our share, no matter how small an effort. It is a step in the right direction and for years we have been too complacent and taken nature for granted.

The minutes of the late meeting and the financial report were read by secretary treasurer Violet Robertson. Both were adopted as read.

Correspondence involved details regarding the annual convention to be held at the Talisman Hotel in Ottawa on October 15 and 16. Registration is $5 and $22 for dinner plus price of room, which revealed some members displeasure of a two day convention.

All seemed to favor a one-day convention and, perhaps a change of location. The last few years do not speak well of the service provided by the Talisman at rather expensive rates.

A training school will be held at Kemptville on Saturday, Sept. 29, on bread making and home landscaping. Two leaders have been selected, one from Finch for break making and Mary Luykx from Berwick for home landscaping.

The Berwick WI craft show will be held in the Berwick Hall, Oct. 20 and 21 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Sunday. The kitchen will be operated as usual for those two days. Soup, sandwiches, pies and carrot cake are on the menu and coffee is free.

To date, the institute has reservations for 22 booths displaying many crafts, something for everyone to see. Also tickets for the Institute's raffle (a beautiful braided rug made and donated by Irene Casselman) will be on sale for $1 each during both days of the craft show.

A $25 donation from our oldest member, Lila Foster, was acknowledged.

A reading entitled, What are Seniors Worth, ready by Vaughn Burd, caused much laughter and to keep the mood going a funny story about The Three Sisters, told by Isabel O'Donohur, led to the following true story: A prestigious member of ours (name withheld) while making preparations for a trip to Western Canada, purchased a pair of slacks at a bargain price. prior to packing, she tried them on and then placed them on her dresser. Now the mystery begins. When the packing operation began, the slacks were nowhere to be found. There are two possibilities: One -- memory failure; Two, they walked back unassisted to their point of origin, whatever that is. However, our member friend enjoyed her trip without her slacks (wearing another pair, of course) and returned with a gift for each one of us -- a key ring attached to some "Prairie Gold" from the wheatfields of Saskatchewan.

FROM THE FRONT

filter cloth covered by a row of sandbags underneath the stop logs.

Last week's intervention by divers was the second year in a row SNRCA has had to enlist divers to fix leaks at the dam.

Last year during the summer, the river level was deliberately lowered to permit the construction of a pipeline, part of Chesterville's water project, across the river.

When the stop logs were dropped to raise the river level in September, divers were called in to help prevent water from going through one of the stop logs which wouldn't close properly.

Cumming said prior to last year's leak, Nestle has never had a problem with water supply. He said he sent a letter to SNRCA asking what kind of remedial action would be taken in the future to prevent water levels from getting low again.

O'Grady warned the remedial action taken last week at the dam was not a permanent solution to the leaks. He predicted the leaks at the dam would continue. He said the stop logs don't fit tightly enough to prevent water from escaping through the dam when the stop logs are down.

O'Grady blamed the problem on the dam's design. "It's just not a well designed dam," he said.

He said the dam does a good job retaining flood waters, but when it comes to retaining it during a dry spell, it's a different story.

It costs the SNRCA between $20,000 to $30,000 a year to maintain the dam, a cost that might have been avoided had a simpler design been chosen at the time it was built in, he said.

O'Grady said it is unrealistic to replace the dam at this stage and SNRCA will have to continue fixing leaks when they arise.

Compounding the leak problem is lower flow levels in the river because the number of wetland areas near the South Nation's headwaters is dwindling.

The wetlands serve as sponges to absorb rainfall and the water retained in the wetlands is gradually released during dry periods ensuring a constant flow of water. Less wetlands means less water flowing down the river in dry periods, O'Grady said.

Steele said since Sept. 1, 40 inches of head water behind the dam has been lost because of the leaks.

Lyman Holmes (centre) of Chesterville won an all-terrain vehicle when his ticket was chosen in a draw held by the Chesterville Fire Department during the Chesterville Trade Fair recently. Holmes is flanked by Ross Casselman (left), fire chief, and Graham Ball, (right), fireman. The fire department sold most of the 500 tickets for the draw at $20 a piece. The $3,200 raised from the draw will be used to purchase new protective suits, which cost between $700 to $1,000 apiece, for the volunteer firefighting force.

Knitting needles busy over summer

WINCHESTER — President Gail VanNoy welcomed a large attendance to the September meeting of the Winchester Hospital Auxiliary and issued an appeal for male and female volunteers.

Anyone who can spare a couple of hours once in a while should contact Gail or the unit director in your area.

Many knitting needles were busy over the summer. Chesterville brought in eight knitted baby sets, four pairs of baby socks, four pairs of long bed socks, and a pullover sweater. The members are also holding another Linen and Collectible Fair Oct. 13 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Morrisburg knitters sent 72 pairs of mittens, two baby sets and an afghan. Golden Valley Unit sent two baby sets and six pairs of spiral baby socks. Jennie Moore a Winchester senior citizen sent a whole shopping bag full of knitted slippers.

Summers Cass Bridge Maple Ridge will hold its canvass before the bazaar.

Arlene Davidson, Winchester unit director, reported receipts of $6,586 from summer bingos with an approximate profit of $5,000.

The meeting welcomed Board Chairman Wayne Burns who once again acknowledged the tremendous assistance given to the hospital both financially and through the volunteer program as well as the help with re-decorating the waiting rooms and gift shop.

Louise Shaw gave a glowing report of the junior volunteers over the summer. The season ended with a pizza party, presentation of pins and certificates. Some of these young folks may be used on weekends and after school this winter.

The meeting approved the recommendation of the purchasing committee to purchase two Anesthetic Monitors at a cost of $50,700 from the in memoriam fund.

Joanne Jones, volunteer coordinator, gave her final report as she is moving to New Brunswick. She introduced her successor Edna Levere who will be known to many because of her many years of working in the hospital.

The Sunshine Circle reported a busy summer and will be given $150 to continue work with patients in 1-East.

The next bazaar meeting will be held Oct. 11 at 10 a.m. at the hospital. In the meantime members should keep in mind the bazaar on Oct. 27 at North Dundas District High School where members' extra jams, jellies, crafts and garden produce will be most welcome.

Teens who have worked as teen volunteers and are furthering their education in a health-related field should get their applications in to Lynne Cummings, Chesterville, for the auxiliary teen bursary.

The Fall Conference will be held at the Talisman on Oct. 25.

A story in last week's Record incorrectly stated how money raised from the Chesterville Trade Fair will be spent. It will be used by the Chesterville and District Lions Club for various community projects.

An article on the Chesterville Fair Hereford Show Sept. 5, stated breeders Doug and Betty Meredith did not repeat last year's success at the annual show. They in fact were not entered in the show this year.

Setting standards

Politicians of all government levels have come under fire recently for imposing unpopular laws on people or unfairly enforcing the laws once in place.

Prime Minister Brian Mulroney is under fire for trying to ram through an unpopular Goods and Services Tax at the federal level, former Ontario Premier David Peterson was turfed for not listening to the public, and Quebec Premier Robert Bourassa is under fire again for his notorious sign law.

All three politicians have incurred the wrath of the public for not listening to voters, for not providing accountable government, for imposing unjust or unpopular laws on the people.

What many politicians fail to realize is what happens to a law after its passed; how it will affect the average citizen. A law may look good on paper, but the average citizen is not looking for poetic legal prose, he or she is looking at how the law will affect the average person.

Unpopular laws, or bylaws or regulations perceived as being improperly enforced, is beginning to become more of an issue in municipal politics. More and more, the public is holding municipal politicians accountable for the laws they pass and how they enforce them.

And as rural municipalities become more urbanized, politicians find themselves forced to make increasingly tough decisions where municipal laws and the interests of companies and private individuals are concerned.

Too often, municipal councils are gung-ho to press a municipal bylaw to its fullest extent against one township resident and willing to overlook an infraction by another resident as a minor incident.

Such is the case with property standards bylaws and it is one reason why there has been so much debate over them in area municipalities. If a municipality is given control over the appearance of a person's property, who can ensure the municipal action is fair and proper?

The problem with property standards and bylaw enforcement in general is it can be used as a small municipal tool of oppression by a council, council member, or administrative officer to seek retribution against an individual through the complaint of another ratepayer.

Roxborough Township residents let it be known they were against a proposed property standards bylaw which would even give municipal control over farmers manure piles in the township. And a proposed property standards bylaw in Charlottenburgh Township has caused similar headaches.

Osnabruck Township pursued to the bitter end, the clean-up of a property owned by a businessman near Long Sault, finally making an exception for the person to speed up the resolution of the dispute. All the time, one council member said no execption should be made and the bylaw should be followed to the letter.

At a council meeting after the Girard Furniture clean-up battle was completed, two other incidents of zoning bylaw infractions were brought up and readily dismissed by council, even though they clearly contravened township zoning bylaws.

It is the inconsistent enforcement of bylaws that make ratepayers think twice when municipal councils consider adopting bylaws giving government powers over such issues as property standards and zoning.

Often it isn't so much the law that is at issue, but how it is applied. It doesn't matter how good a law is, if it isn't applied fairly, it isn't worth the paper it is written on.

From Chesterville's Past

10 From the Record Sept. 19, 1910

A consignment of 13 cars of raw silk and silk goods from the Orient were ferried across to Ogdensburg from Prescott, Monday morning. The value was $100,000 per car. The valuable consignment, which is going to New York, left Vancouver last Sunday at 8:20 a.m. over the C.P.R. and the trip across the continent was made in exceptionally fast time.

30 From the Record Sept. 25, 1930

This morning, following heavy detonations from blasting operations in or near the village, a piece of rock weighing a pound and a half was picked up from the bowling green, where it had embedded itself about five seconds after the explosion was heard. Billy Dixon and Tom Flynn were at the greens at the time when the rock ploughed in. The consequences may be imagined had a citizen been the target.

Hunters for the elusive Hungarian partridge and all other hunters are asked by the Department of Lands and Forests to co-operate with the local associations in an endeavor to assess the game population of the province.

A very interesting program was enjoyed last Sunday afternoon in the school house at Bethune Bush when their first Rally Day was held.

Letters

A step forward

To the Editor:

The Public Liaison Committee (PLC) of the Stormont-Glengarry Waste Management Master Plan expresses its enthusiastic congratulations to all area municipalities who are pursuing environmental initiatives with vigor.

Lancaster Twp., Charlottenburgh Twp., Cornwall Twp. and Osnabruck Twp. are all holding their very first and very important household hazardous waste collection day at the end of this month. This is a significant undertaking and one which area residents have long anticpated. The city of Cornwall, which has already hosted similar collections, can attest to the success of this endeavour.

The PLC encourages all residents of these townships to co-operate, as the participating townships have done, and to participate in the important step of removing hazardous waste from our landfills.

Such initiatives are of the utmost important in achieving clean management of our land and water resources. The participating townships deserve credit for this undertaking.

Sincerely,
Anne M. MacGillivray
PLC Co-ordinator

Military and politics not a good mix

For the Record

Yves Cossette

Television viewers last Tuesday night were greeted by the ugly scenes of riot at the Kahnawake Mohawk reserve as federal troops raided an alleged illegal weapons depot.

A huge melee erupted as Mohawk warriors, women and children attempted to resist the raid. More than 100 people were sent to hospital for injuries.

If there is anything good to say about the incident, it would have to be that it could have been worse. In most countries when the military is used for police work or counter-insurgency, there is a lot of shooting and death. The soldiers are continuing to show admirable restraint in the face of personal danger.

But the military has now come under fire for what is regarded as heavy-handed involvement in the Mohawk crisis and the legality of the raids is being questioned.

Legalities aside, one has to seriously question the role of the military in this entire affair. What is the army doing police work for, (if it can be called that)? Admittedly the army handled taking down the barricades much more competently than the SQ--Surete de Quebec (Quebec Provincial Police).

But using the military to do police work is setting a dangerous precedent, especially in this crisis, because the distinction between what is considered police work and a political problem is blurred. Many argue justifiably that the solution to the Mohawk crisis is a political one.

There are two reasons why the military shouldn't be involved.

First of all the military, injected into what is considered by many as political conflict, is thrust into a position where it makes political decisions. The army has practically admitted as much. A military spokesman confirmed last week the military doesn't consult Quebec City or Ottawa on the specifics of its actions.

The latest actions by the army on Tuesday and cutting off communications between journalists trapped behind the Mohawk blockade at Oka and the outside world has been denounced as repressive.

The denunciation is understandable and justifiable because the army's role in the crisis could easily, if it already hasn't, become political. An army that takes part in political decision making is undesirable and undemocratic. This is the case in a lot of countries and the end result is repression.

Canada for the most part has been lucky to have a military that has traditionally stayed out of politics.

In the United States, the military (department of defence) plays an influential role in foreign and domestic policies, because the allocation of the federal budget allows it to dwarf competing ministries in policy making.

In many Latin America countries the military forces are major powerbrokers, often resorting to armed might to achieve a political end.

The second argument against the use of the military in what is largely viewed as a political problem is that the army could be easily used as an instrument of repression by government.

The Quebec government has argued the used of the military was necessary to restore order; one can't help but think the Quebec government is using the military as a means to deflect attention from legitimate native grievances.

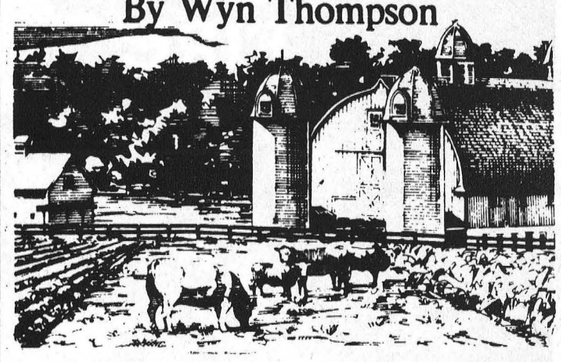
That in itself is a form of repression. The remedy? The National Defence Act should be amended to prevent provincial governments from using the military to implement provincial policy, especially when the policy, in this case to restore order, is being used to mask a political problem.

Its quite obvious that the Mohawk crisis is not just a policing problem. Even after all the barricades are dismantled, and the arms have been confiscated, the federal and provincial governments across the country, not just Quebec, will have to deal with pressing native issues.

More Indian militancy is inevitable if our political leaders fail to address native grievances. Therefore it is important to seek a political solution instead of a military one.

The Farmer's Wife

By Wyn Thompson



With the hay in the barn and the corn not yet mature enough to harvest, the Farmer and I decided to take a holiday.

"One of the advantages of retirement, of being a farm helper and no longer a farm owner, is that one can take a holiday when one gets tired," said the Farmer as we crossed the International bridge at Prescott.

It was a golden September afternoon, still warm and hazy and lazily reminiscent of a summer that has almost faded.

Autumn colouring was beginning to show. The elms had grown rusty, but the clematis bloomed white or purple by the wall, asters and goldenrod coloured the countryside, last fading proof of summer.

We skirted the Canadian border for several miles, then crossed into Vermont at Rouses Point. The earliest autumn colouring noted along these country roads was on the woodbine and poison ivy, except for here and there where a fiery maple bough glowed.

We camped under a full moon at Stowe, famous in Eastern Canada and the northern states for its winter skiing.

After breakfast the next morning, we took the mountain road to Mount Mansfield which, at 4,393 feet above sea level, is the highest peak in Vermont, and a favourite skiing area for a son who would rather ski than eat.

His three children almost fall into the same category, although as teenagers eating still rates quite high on their list of priorities.

"The Mountain" receives approximately 264 inches of snowfall annually, we were told. "Better it than us," remarked the Farmer.

We debated about taking the gondola ride to the top of the mountain but, I chickened out. I decided to rest on my laurels of having taken a gondola ride to the "Old Man of the Mountain", over three mountain ranges if I recall correctly, in the Swiss Alps, without being ill.

Of course, no excursion would be complete without a little browsing of the craft shops, after which we drove the short distance to Waterbury and the "Cold Hollow Cider Mill", New England's most famous cider mill.

We longed for a taste of autumn's special treat - apple cider - something we drink a great amount of at home for we live very close to Mountain Orchards which serves up delectable apple juice and apple cider year round.

At Cold Hollow Cider Mill, we watched the cider making process and enjoyed the free, fresh sweet cider samples. Delectable, it surely was!

The making of cider is a fascinating process. Large bins of apples (20 bushels each) were dumped into the main holding bin from which they are fed into an elevator which carried them to the grinder.

The ground apple, called pomace, was dumped through a flexible hose to the press. The pomace was folded into cloths and stacked about fourteen layers high on a cart.

Each layer contained about 5 bushels of apples and each batch contained about 70 bushels of apples and the yield per pressing was about 230 gallons.

The cart was rolled to the centre of the press where the hydraulic press pushed the batch upwards generating 120 tons of pressure, thus squeezing the cider out of the pomace.

The cider was collected in the holding vat below the press where it was pumped directly to cooling tanks, then strained, chilled and bottled daily for distribution.

The Farmer was intrigued with the output - one operator equalled 300 gallons per hour; two operators equalled about 500 gallons per hour. Why the 100 gallons difference - I didn't like to ask?

The pomace that remained after pressing is not wasted, we were pleased to learn. It is used by local residents and farmers as animal feed, and in the fields and gardens as a nutrient. Talk about recycling!

The Cold Hollow Cider Mill enterprise, of course, operates year round. Their store sells everything that apples can be made into - apple jelly, jam, mustards, even apple doughnuts which the Farmer claimed were the best he had ever eaten.

We bought some mulled cider spices, a jug of cider, and decided much later that evening that we could have had no better accompaniment for our campfire that a mug of this hot toddy.

Always being interested in herbs and perennials of all sorts, a throwback from my Granny, I asked the Farmer to stop at the Misty Meadows Herb and Perennial Farm.

There herbs and wildflowers galore were hung in the drying sheds which themselves, smelled wonderfully of pot pourris. Seasonings and herb vinegars caught my eye as a friend of mine excels in making just such vinegars.

I also admired the pottery pumpkins in which one might place a candle on All Hallow's Eve. The Farmer though it wouldn't be quite the same, though. I thought it was a great idea - no more cutting and scooping and one could burn it a week before the celebrated Eve and a week after, if one so chose. This stop was great fun and I enjoyed the maturing plantings of herbs and wildflowers in such a lovely mountain setting.

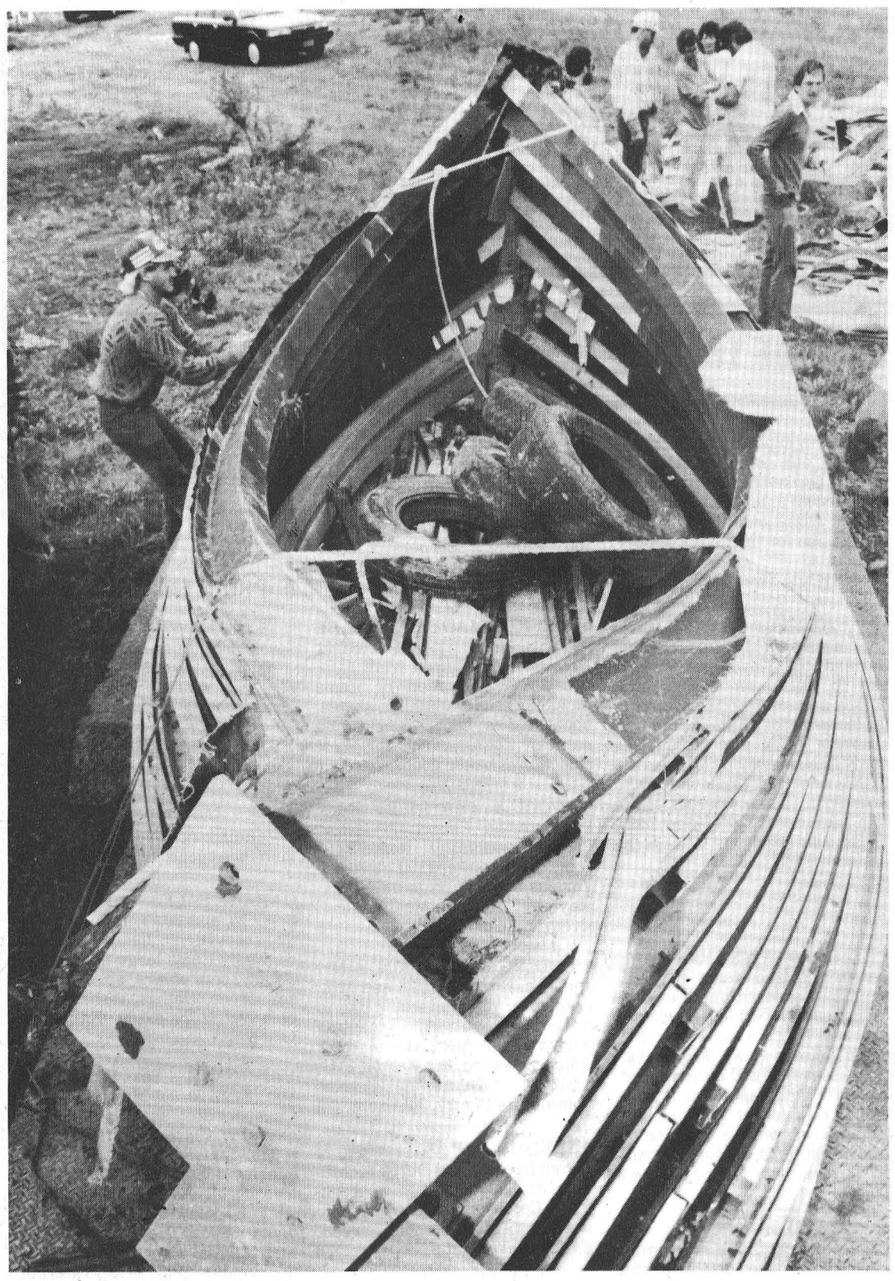
Like all tourists, I had to have afternoon tea at the Trapp Family Austrian tea room, and sat again on the verandah overlooking the hills, magnificent even though not alive with the sound of music.

En route back to the campsite, we took the Covered Bridge road where we stood a while and relaxed to the sound of a mountain stream racing to the sea below that covered bridge. The Farmer noted that there appeared to be almost as many covered bridges as campgrounds in Vermont - approximately 90.

Another note of interest was that the blinking light in Stowe was the pivotal point from which all directions were given. We laughingly wondered, after having sought directions a few times, what would happen if the blinking light went out.

Lady and the Farmer yelled for mercy and home, "Enough sightseeing for one day," they stated, each in their own way.

It was back to camp, a campfire, and bed. A good day!



Teardown

Workers tie up the arches of the Upper Canada Playhouse tent theatre after it was dismantled Saturday morning. The playhouse abandoned the theatre and moved to a site in Morrisburg this year. The playhouse plans to save the arches and possibly incorporate some of them into an addition at their Morrisburg site.

New recreation director hired

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

CHESTERVILLE — A new recreation director will take over Chesterville's recreation department Oct. 1 just two weeks after former director Tom Lee moved on to a new job.

Howard Smith, Chesterville's clerk, said the new recreation director was selected from six finalists applying for the job at a special meeting Sept. 17. The selection is expected to be ratified at the next regular meeting tonight.

Robin Langille, 27, a native of North Bay, is expected to officially take over as recreation director Oct. 1.

But Reeve Jim Cook said Langille would probably oversee the ice surfacing of Chesterville's arena this Saturday.

According to Smith and Cook, Langille brings with him a long list of qualifications and has just completed a course in arena management.

Cook said choosing Langille wasn't easy. There were 40 applicants for the job, six who were shortlisted for interviews.

Of the six, council felt Langille was the best qualified to replace Lee.

"Tom (Lee) will be difficult to replace but I think we've found someone who will do a very good job for the village," he said.

Langille already has four years experience in a similar position he held in the remote Northern Ontario town of Moosenee.

"In Moosenee, he had a full range of activities both in facilities and in programs," he said.

Cook also said Langille "is well prepared academically".

He graduated from Canador College in Applied Arts and Technology in 1986 with a diploma in recreation and leadership. In 1989, he attended the Ontario Arena Association Parks Maintenance and Design Workshop at Guelph University. He received a certificate in parks maintenance and design as a result of that workshop.

He also has had work experience in recreation in his hometown of North Bay, Smith said.

Chesterville 4-H introduced to breadmaking

CHESTERVILLE — The "Breadventure" project got underway on Sept. 17 in the kitchen of the Chesterville Community Hall from 7 to 9 p.m.

A demonstration to introduce Chesterville 4-H members on how to prepare bread was conducted by leaders Ruth Szini and Florence Hoople. The nine members present prepared "Fancy Butter's". The name "Bread Busters" was chosen for the club.

Election of Club officers placed Andrea Sharkey as president; Melanie MacLeod, vice president; Emily Slowey, secretary; Jill Byvelds assistant secretary; and Jennifer Dean, press reporter. Other members are Maggie Graham, Theresa St. Denis, Holly Carr and Alyson Pringle.

Members are Maggie Graham, Theresa St. Denis, Holly Carr, Emily Slowey, Jennifer Dean, Andrea Sharkey, Malanie MacLeod, Jill Byvelds and Alyson Pringle.

Bridge closure overrated

CORNWALL — The president of the Seaway Valley Tourist Council has downplayed threats of drastic cutbacks at U.S. government border crossing offices.

Paul Lefebvre said threats that U.S. Customs may close border crossings at Masena and Ogdensburg, N.Y., are being used to pressure the U.S. Congress into passing the federal budget before an Oct. 1 deadline.

Border crossings were at an all-time high this summer as many Canadians were lured into the U.S. by cheaper prices.

The tourist association has cited higher Canadian prices and an unstable political situation as causing the estimated 15 to 20 per cent drop in visitors from Quebec and the U.S.

Tourism news for this summer was not all bad though. Heavy tourism promotion and favorable weather late in the season saw a rebound in visitiors to area parks, beaches and accommodations.

Restoration workshop

CHESTERVILLE — The history of an area is reflected in its older buildings. And while Chesterville may not be Rome, the area does possess an important heritage of older structures, from humble dwellings to more decorative Victorian residences.

Those interested in preserving this important aspect of our past may wish to take a second look at their own home and consider the possibilities offered by restoration.

The Chesterville and District Historical Society is co-sponsoring a one day workshop with the Ontario Historical Society entitles, Restoring Your Own Home. The program will be presented Sat., Sept. 29 at the Nelson LaPrade Centre, Chesterville from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Restoring Your Own Home will provide the insight necessary to recognize the historically important aspects of an older home as well as information on dealing with the practical and technical problems of restoration. The workshop will be given by restoration expert Ian K. Woods, with guest speaker, Barbara Humphries, architectural historian from Manotick.

IN MEMORIAMS

IN MEMORIAM
STRENG — In memory of our son and brother Leo, who left us on Sept. 28, 1986.
Looking back in memory
Upon the path you trod.
We bless the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.
Always loved and missed,
Mom, Dad,
sisters and brothers

IN MEMORIAM
CROSS — In loving memory of R. Earl Cross who passed away Sept. 28, 1989.
He has achieved success who has lived well, laughed often and loved much; who has gained the respect of intelligent men and the love of little children; who has filled his niche and accomplished his task; who has left the world better than he found it, whether by an improved poppy, a perfect poem or a rescued soul; who has never lacked appreciation of earth's beauty or failed to express it; who has looked for the best in others and given the best he had; whose life was an inspiration; whose memory is a benediction.
Audrey and Family

IN MEMORIAM
FAWCETT — In loving memory of Terry, who passed away Sept. 30, 1987.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
Sadly missed by brothers and sisters

IN MEMORIAM
WALDROFF — In memory of a dear grandmother and great-grandmother who passed away October 2, 1988.
Two years have passed
But there is not a day,
That we do not think of you,
We hold you close within our hearts
And there you will remain.
Sadly missed and always remembered
Mike, Cindy,
Sara and Matthew

IN MEMORIAM
WALDROFF — In loving memory of our dear mother, Nina who passed away October 2, 1988.
Two dear bright eyes, a tender smile
A loving heart that knew no guile,
Deep trust in God that all was right.
Her joy to make some other bright.
If sick or suffering one she knew,
Some gentle act of love she'd do.
No thought of self, but of the other,
I know He said "Well done", mother.
Lovingly remembered,
Phyllis and Cecil

IN MEMORIAM
WALDROFF — In memory of a loving mother and grandmother, Nina who passed away October 2, 1988.
Time speeds on, two years have gone,
Since death its gloomy shadow cast
Upon our home, where all was bright
And took from us a shining light,
We miss that light, and ever will;
Her vacant place none can fill,
Here we mourn, but not in vain,
For in Heaven we will meet again.
Lovingly remembered,
Brenda, Kim and Jackie

Local fire chief gets surprise send-off

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

CRYSLER — John Benoit was expecting a quiet little get-together comprised of family, friends and fellow firefighters Saturday night.

He was right on all three counts; family, friends and fellow firefighters were there to greet him at the Crysler Community Hall. But it wasn't a quiet get-together and it was, by no means, small.

About 150 people turned out for the surprise party to celebrate Benoit's 42 year's of service with Finch Township's Crysler-based fire department. And like most people honored with a surprise party, he was surprised.

"It was very impressive when I came in," he said Saturday night, but he didn't expect it to be of such a large magnitude.

Benoit, a 60-year-old Crysler businessman retired from the fire department in June, after an illustrious 42 years on the department. He has been honored with a variety of awards and medals over his firefighting career, including awards from the federal government, provincial government, the fire marshall's office, and the mutual aid association.

Benoit joined the fire department at the age of 18, his interest perked after witnessing and reporting a fire at a home which was struck by lightning. He joined the fire department soon after, starting a love affair which lasted 42 years.

He has seen the department progress considerably since joining; "coming from a bucket brigade to a tractor, to a converted hydro truck, to a locally made fire truck, to the triple (pumper, tanker and emergency van) combination."

One of the highlights during his lengthy career came five years ago when the department was presented a hydraulic Jaws of Life by a local widower. The man made the presentation after the death of his wife, saying the money would do more good than for a stone in the cemetery, Benoit said.

The department likely wouldn't have the jaws if the donation wasn't made. The hydraulic device, used to extricate people from auto wrecks, at the time of the donation cost more than $10,000, Benoit said.

He has "great satisfaction" seeing how the fire department has progressed over the years. And it is due to the support of the township council that the department has progressed with the times, he said.

One thing he didn't envision during the natural progression of the fire department was his eventual retirement.

He now says the stressful role of firefighting is "a young man's job." He adds reassuringly, there are plenty of capable young members qualified to fill his shoes.

He has no regrets serving the time that he did on the fire department. "If I would have (had regrets), I would have quit a long time ago," he said.

He never took the chance when he first joined, to envision what the fire department would be like 40 years down the road. The furthest members would peer was five years into the future as they planned their destiny according to budget dollars and political agendas.

The next big change for the fire department will likely be the creation of a central dispatch system for emergency response in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry. A new survey is being done and a dispatch system could be implemented in the next few years, he said.

A central dispatch system has been proposed for a number of years but has not yet come to fruition. The problem, simply summed up, is dollars. "It's money again," Benoit said. "You're looking at 23 different fire departments."

Under the present system, fire calls are made to the local fire department which relays the calls to the home of a member. The problem in SD&G, especially during summer months, is having someone available to answer calls.

One thing he relished the most camaraderie between area firemen, always willing to offer each other help. On a more sombre note are the fatalities over the past 42 years in fires he helped fight, something also he will never forget, he said.

Osnabruck Township approves takeover of park, campground

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

OSNABRUCK CENTRE — Osnabruck Council has voted to go ahead with the proposed takeover by the township of Farran Park and Nairne Campground next year

In a unanimous decision, council agreed to endorse a township recreation committee recommendation that the township submit a proposal to the St. Lawrence Parks Commission to take over the two parks next year.

Osnabruck took over operation of Farran Park in April this year after the commission announced it would not operate it and four other parks this year. But the township did not take over Nairne Campground.

Paul McAllister, Osnabruck recreation director, said council felt it would be too risky to take over both parks in one year, especially when it predicted a $30,000 loss operating just Farran Park.

But with the likelihood the township will make about a $4,000 profit in Farran's operation this year, council has decided to take over Farran and Nairne next year. And the township expects to repeat its park operating success and turn a profit in the operation of both parks.

Council and recreation committee members were to meet today to go over the park proposal. The proposal must be submitted to the parks commission by Oct. 5.

Contained in the proposal will be a request for a long-term lease from the parks commission. The township hopes to get a lease of 20 to 25 years to operate the two parks.

The 53-site Nairne Campground, a couple of kilometres west of Ingleside, will be operated similar to the 118-site Farran Park, McAllister said. The same staff will be used, likely with the addition of some part-time workers.

Improvements to the two sites are also being planned. The township wants to extend the park season to the end of September and plans to build shower facilities and expand the number of electrical campsites at each park.

Other, more long-term, plans include providing a beach volleyball court, games room, small laundromat, baseball diamond, mini-putt golf course, driving range and boat docks.

McAllister stressed two parks will continue to be operated as campgrounds in the future.

"There will be some level of upgrading and continuing maintenance on facilities there. But it is our hope to maintain the integrity of the campsites as it presently is," he told reporters.

Nairne will likely be operated "as is" next year with little financial investment, the same way Farran was operated this year, McAllister said.

Township officials will be "very, very happy" if the two parks are transformed into a top area tourist attraction, McAllister said. "We feel that it is a service that is needed," he added.

But he cautioned the township's interest in the two parks isn't solely for profits. "We're not in the camping business. We're in the business to do what's best for the taxpayers."

Osnabruck Township has been given first option by the parks commission to operate Farran and Nairne, McAllister said. It can decide not to take over the parks if it believes another proposal may be of more benefit to the municipality.

Cornwall based economic development organizations join forces to assist growth in three united counties

Yves Cossette
Record Staff

CORNWALL — Three Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry organizations that assist area economic development, have joined forces to form a co-operative association in an effort to pool resources, save money and provide more services.

The Industry-Education Council, the Community Futures Committee and the Industrial Training Council, all based in Cornwall, took up residence together in the same Cornwall office building, and yesterday (Tuesday), officially opening the SD&G Centre.

The Community Fugures Committee uses federal funding to create and maintain jobs. The Industrial Training Council specializes in helping train people for jobs for which there is a shortage of qualified people.

The Industry-Education Council serves as an information bank for educators, industry, labor, and government. The bank is designed to give industry, business, labor and government input into educational programs or courses aimed at qualifying students for jobs in those sectors.

One example on how the centre can help involves education, Flockton said. A teacher intending to teach a course on entrepreneurship may want to consult entrepreneurs on course content. The Industry-Education Council will help the teacher find those entrepreneurs, Flockton said.

Together the three organizations will share the cost of rent, phones, fax machines and share information to assist economic development in SD&G.

Flip Flockton, the executive director of the Industry Education Council said the move to join forces could cut operating costs by two-thirds for each of the individual organizations.

"That extra two thirds (money) that it frees up means that we can do more," she said. Flockton couldn't say how much money would be saved.

The move by the three organizations, which have been created to assist economic development in an economically depressed area, is unique in Canada.

She said the move to join forces makes sense because the three organizations share a common goal, to assist economic development in the three united counties, but have different specific mandates.

"It speeds up the whole co-ordination and referral process," she said.

The SD&G Centre will serve as an information bank for the school boards, industry, businesses, government and labor. It will provide information on what is happening in industrial development, industrial training and education in SD&G, she said.

Sandra Beckstead of Smyth's Apple Orchard at Dundela, holds three McIntosh apple specimens, two normal sized apples and one giant Mac, found on one of their trees this year.

Nutritious, delicious apples

Yields down, but still plenty left for apple lovers

Greg Kielec
Record Staff

IROQUOIS — A rainy spring has hurt apple yields in the area, but area growers are predicting there will be enough apples to meet demand.

Some growers have experienced yield drops ranging from 40 to 80 per cent due to an extremely cold winter and a poor spring. But they still expect to have apples well into the winter this year.

Sandra Beckstead, owner of Smyth Apple Orchard at Dundela, expects to have apples until April. But in order to have a lasting supply, the orchard won't be selling apples to processing companies.

The company lost 80 to 90 per cent of its yield this year due to the cold winter and poor pollination during a rainy spring. To make the most of their losses, they won't be shipping apples out. Instead they will sell all of their crop right at their farm.

"We're down. We only have about 10 to 20 per cent. It's very down," Beckstead said last week.

"It stayed so cold in May and June...when things started to bud out, the buds got frozen off. And then pollination time when blossoms were out, it was a rainy week and bees couldn't pollinate."

So to recoup some dollars, they will be selling all their apples at the farm. Because there is no shipping involved, they will be able to make more money than if they sent the apples to the processors.

And there won't be disappointed customers coming to their orchard only to find they are all out of apples. So the "everyday customers" should be able to get some varieties apples at the orchard until April.

The varieties the orchard sells include Lobos, Winter McIntoshs, Wealthy, Joyce, Cortland, Spartans, Empires and Delicious. Prices range from $11 a bushel for Joyce cooking apples to $17 a bushel for top grade apples.

Mountain Orchard was also hard hit this year. Owner Bob Hobson said yields at his orchard are down about 40 per cent. "It's not a great year, but it's O.K. We can't complain," he said.

The orchard had a good crop this year, but like Smyth's, his orchard was hurt by poor pollination because of rain. "There was just real wet weather for two weeks and it just didn't happen," Hobson said.

But it has been a good growing season with plenty of rain and sunshine, making the crop that is on the trees a good one.

"It's been a good summer and it's been good growing weather and that's probably what saved us at this point of time."

In fact the crop on the trees is a lot better than expected early in the year, he said.

"What we got is better than what I expected in the spring. When you hit that type of weather, you don't know whether you're going to have a crop at all."

The good growing season, coupled with fewer apples on the trees, means the apples he has are larger and of better quality. A high percentage of his apples are the top grade "fancy" apples.

He anticipates he will have apples until about Christmas. Varieties he sells include Spartan, Empire, MacDonalds, Honeygolds and Lobos. Costs range $8 to $17 a bushel, depending on the variety and the grade.

Like other growers, Robertson's Apple Farm along the St. Lawrence River west of Morrisburg, does have good quality apples. But it doesn't have the quantity it could have had this year. "We've got a good crop, I'm pleased to say. I'm different than the other growers," said Scott Robertson.

He attributes his good crop to his location right along the banks of the St. Lawrence River. But while he had a good crop on his older trees, such wasn't the case for his young trees.

"I had a lot of potential crops that I didn't get because it was killed by winter. In general, I'm about the same as last year."

Last year was not a good crop either. Like this year, his young trees were unable to produce because of poor weather conditions.

He is selling McIntosh, Spartan and Atlas apples and expects to have apples until about Christmas. He will have pick-your-own apples next year but doesn't have any this year. The price of his apples range from $18 a bushel for top grade McIntosh apples to $4 a barrell for cooking apples.

Meanwhile, apple growers cross their fingers and hope for better next year.

Record Sports

Jackets win playoff title in cliffhanger over Wings

CHESTERVILLE — The 1990 Chesterville-Winchester District Ball Hockey League has crowned the Yellow Jackets as its champion.

Regulation time was not enough for the Jackets to win the final game of the best of five series against the Red Wings.

It took 8:66 of overtime for the Jackets to break the 2-2 deadlock to count the third win against their rivals.

Darrell Shelp was the Jackets hero. He marked the playoffs victory point to end the best of five series three games to two.

During the five game series, Shelp tallied seven goals and three assists. He was the highest scorer in the playoffs.

The Wings dominated most of the final contest. The season's third ranked squad lead the top notch team twice during play, but the Jackets only allowed for a one point lead in which they always fought back for the tie.

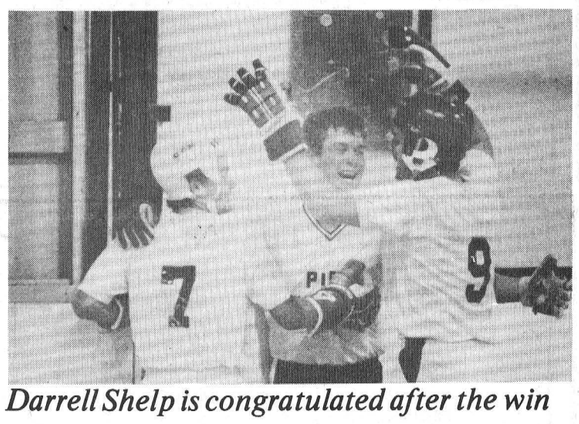
The Jackets' netminder Paul Bjerso and the Wings' goalie Richard Gauthier kept the nets silent during the opening frame.

Scot Bell scored the first point of the encounter for the Wings. He marked the goal with assistance from Kevin Boyce with only 50 seconds played in the second period.

The Jackets' Dwayne Bazinet equaled Bells' performance by scoring with 9:57 showing. Sean O'Connor and Doug Newman helped Bazinet on the play.

With only 1:19 left in the period, the Wings tallied another slim lead. Boyce took advantage of a pass from Junior Hamelin and Rene Boulanger, to give the Wings a 2-1 lead.

Time was running out for the Jackets when they finally managed to tie things up. With just 5:22 remaining in the contest, Bernard Grady went to the Wings net to mark the second point.



Darrell Shelp is congratulated after the win

Shelp and Rob Steele assisted the game saving goal.

With seconds left to play the Wings swarmed around the Jacket territory, but they were unable to get anything past Bjerso.

The sudden death period ended when Shelp counted a 3-2 lead for the Jackets, with assistance from Grady. The team cleared the bench to swarm around its championship player in congratulations.

During the five game series the Jackets scored 15 points, while the Wings tallied 11. Shelp was the playoff's highest scorer. But Shelps most vital role was marking the point that captured the C-WDMBHL's chamionship title.

After dropping the first two encounters (5-3 and 4-1), the Jackets fought back to even the series at 2 apiece.

The Jackets' netminder, Paul Bjerso, managed to shut the Wings out during the third and fourth games to count 3-0 and 5-0 victories.

Vikings easily eliminate Knights in Newington

WINCHESTER — The Morewood Vikings had an easy time taking out the Newington Knights during the opening night play of Winchester and District Men's Broomball League.

The Viking squad went on a scoring spree against their unworthy opponents here last Sunday night. Last season's champions counted a 13-2 win over the Knights.

The Vikings' Gerald Eby was the first to hit the Knights net. The point was made with 18:41 left in the first period and from then on the game belonged to the Vikings.

After the first period ended the Vikings held a commanding 6-1 lead. Brian Thatcher counted two goals in the frame, while Brian Como, Guy Marion and Lou Proulx along with Eby marked one goal each.

The Knights' Mike Allard was the only Viking's opponent able to score during the first period.

Both Eby and Thatcher scored twice during the second period for the Vikings. Chris McKibben, Larry St. Pierre and Marion each counted a point during the period to give the Vikings a 13 point total.

Allard was again able to score on the Vikings in the final period to raise their point total to two.

Other Winners

The Prescott Road team tallied a slim 3-2 victory over the Winchester Raiders.

Ormond outplayed Manotick to win their first match-up by a score of 3-1.

It was a disappointing game for Toyes Hill. They were on the losing end of a 8-0 score against Voyageur.

Devils win one, lose one

MAPLE RIDGE — North Dundas District High School hosted the season's first tournament in the SD&G boys' volleyball league, last Monday.

The junior Devils, the only male volleyball team at NDDHS, played for a win and a loss in the two matches of play.

The Devils were victorious against Cornwall Collegiate, but were later beaten by La Citadelle.

Ryan Buske served up 11 of the 15 points made by the Devils during the first game against CC.

The first game was a slim victory over their opponents. The Devils won by a score of 15-13.

The second game of the match wasn't a difficult one for the home team. It was the squad's second straight win but they only allowed CC to mark five points before they counted the winning 15th point.

After the second game was completed the Devils were walking off the court, but the referee informed them that they had to play the third game to complete the match, Roach said.

Roach explained that the league counts the number of points in a match that is why the Devils had to play the third game.

The Devils lost the third game to CC by a score of 15-3.

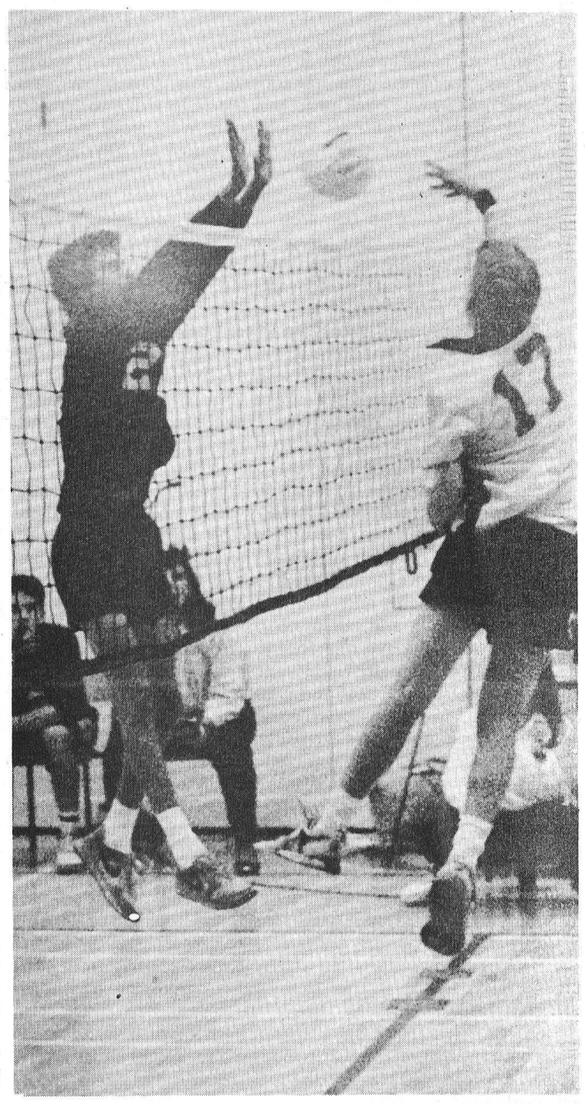
Roach said some bad calls were made against the Devils, but the team has to learn to except them.

During the match against CC, Dave Straby and Sean Salter "hit some amazing spikes," Roach said. Their performances helped the Devils win the first two games.

Devils Lose

La Citadelle had just completed a three game sweep to take the winning match against Cornwall Collegiate, when they came up against the Devils.

"It was a tough match," Roach said. The Devils lost all three of the games against their powerful rivals.



Up and away

It took quite a while for La Citadelle to claim their first win. They rallied for a 15-7 finish.

The Devils were unable to make the plays that were needed in the match. Some of the Devils had difficulty getting the serves over the net, therefore allowing La Citadelle to take possession.

Seniors up record with a win against SLHS

WILLIAMSTOWN — The North Dundas District High School boy's soccer teams competed in a double header here last Wednesday, September 19.

After the Devils' games against St. Lawrence and Char-Lan, both the junior and senior teams held a one win, a tie and a one loss record in the SD&G league.

The Senior boy's team improved their one loss record by posting a 0-0 tie against Char-Lan. They achieved their first win of the season by pulling off a slim 3-2 victory over St. Lawrence.

The Devils' senior coach, Doug Carroll, said "our forwards weren't working as hard as they should have", during their game against Char-Lan.

Because of the forwards lack-luster performance the defensive squad "had to work even harder" for the tie.

However, by the second half the defensive line were starting to wear down because of the strong Char-Lan attack.

Carroll said that the goalkeeper "Simon Wilson was superb." When the defence was unable to stop their rivals, Wilson prevented them from hitting the Devils' webbing.

"We were actually being beaten by Char-Lan," he said. But, Wilson stopped all of their attempts on the Devils goal.

The forwards performance was "disappointing." Carroll said the team played better in the loss against St. Joseph's on Friday, September 14.

After the final whistle blew ending the game, the Devils went to Face St. Lawrence.

Carroll said, after viewing St. Lawrence in action earlier that day, he believed it would be a lop-sided score in the favor of their opponents.

"I thought we were going to get wiped," he said.

With about five minutes played in the contest St. Lawrence booted in the first goal. But, Matt Zermilyea equalled the score for the Devils.

Zermilyea hit the penalty kick high into the top left hand corner, giving the St. Lawrence keeper no chance to stop the goal.

The St. Lawrence keeper made things easy for Devils to net their second point. The keeper mishandled a corner that was taken by Luc Tedford.

The Devils added to their lead during the second half. Willy O'Connor attempted to make a play "look good."

Realizing that the St. Lawrence keeper was not working on a play, O'Connor dashed for the ball. He outplayed his opponent by getting around him, and after that, he had no one to beat.

The opposing keeper was removed from the game after this play because of abusive language directed towards the game's referee.

The Devils were unable to take advantage of St. Lawrence's weakness in the nets. In fact, they had difficulty holding St. Lawrence back.

With about 10 minutes left, St. Lawrence tightened the Devils lead, to trail 3-2.

The increasing pressure by the St. Lawrence team was a strong match for the Devils, but Wilson didn't allow the tying goal.

"Simon (Wilson) is our superstar," Carroll said. Wilson held on for the Devils first win of the season.

Carroll was pleased with the rookie goaltender's performance during the two encounters. "Wilson played tremendous games, and if he can keep that up we'll be very happy."

Junior Boys

An unlucky bounce in the final minutes of play, marked the first loss of the season for the North Dundas Junior Devils boy's soccer team.

The Devils dropped a 1-0 decision to last season's SD&G league champions, Char-Lan.

Murray Shane the Devil's coach said he was pleased with the performance of the team. He said, the squad just got an "unlucky break."

"We thought we did very, very well to keep that team (Char-Lan) to nothing-nothing for about 68, 69 minutes," Shane said.

Time was not on the Devils' side. The last minute goal by the Char-Lan team, made it impossible for the Devils to establish comeback.

The Devil's first match-up of the day, against St. Lawrence, ended in a 2-2 tie.

Billy Streng gave the Devils a two point lead at the half. Streng capitalized on a penalty kick to count one of his two points.

With help from Martin Pancirov and Brendon Bumbaco, Streng outplayed the St. Lawrence keeper to boot in the second point.

During the second half, St. Lawrence came from behind to tie the game at two-apiece. The Devil's keeper Cory VanDelst wasn't able to hold back St. Lawrence's powerful forward line.

Shane said, "we just let our guard down, and they walked in and scored."

Looking on the bright side of things, Shane said that the defence did play a commendable game against both teams.

Flyers hope to sign VanBridger, Holmes

METCALFE — The Chesterville Junior "C" Flyers had its final practice at the Metcalfe arena on Saturday, September 22.

However, no further discussions about the team's roster had been made.

The Flyers Head Coach, Jerrold Boulanger said in an interview last Monday that he's planning to sign more players to the Flyers club following last night's ice time at the Winchester arena.

Chris VanBridger and Dereck Holmes are two players that Boulanger said he hopes to sign. Both players were cut by the Winchester Junior "B" Hawks last Sunday.

Boulanger said he expects that Holmes and VanBridger will practice with the Flyers but it is uncertain about their plans in Jr. "B" play. So, he will be kept waiting.

VanBridger has also sparked an interest in the Morrisburg Jr. "B" club. He will be practicing with that club as well as the Flyers.

It is likely that Tony Holmes will be signed to the team, Boulanger said. "I just want to keep him working hard," so that is why he hasn't been signed yet.

Forward, Kent Young also has a great chance at making the club, Boulanger said. In last Saturday's scrimmage Young played in the front line with Dan Dubois and Chris VanBridger.

Boulanger said, "We (the Flyers) still need a couple more guys," for this season's club.

The Flyers are still concerned about the lack of goalies in the club. Only two netminders have tried out for the team and they are both midgets.

During Saturday's practice Boulanger spent time on the ice working with the players. Boulanger said his impression of the team is that it is "not too bad."

Time playing without the red line will improve the Flyers, he said.

The Junior 'C' Flyers will start the 1990-91 hockey season with a game against Russell on Friday, Oct. 12. Flyers will host their team's first home game on Monday, Oct. 15 against Rockland. Record Photo - Boersma

BACK AGAIN

More than 60% of Canadians will suffer from some sort of back problems during their lifetime.

Some problems may be congenital, such as sway back or scoliosis (lateral curvature of the spine). Others may be the result of an automobile accident, a fall or sports injury (in which case the pain may subside, only to reappear years later). But most back problems are simply due to tension and muscular tightness which come from poor posture, being overweight, inactivity, and (most of all) lack of abdominal strength.

Stretching and abdominal exercises can help your back if done with common sense. If you have a back problem, consult your physician who will give you tests to see exactly where the problem lies. Then ask your doctor which exercises and stretches would be beneficial for your particular problem.

Anyone with history of lower back problems should avoid stretches that arch the back, called hyperextensions. This creates too much stress on the lower back.

The best way to take care of your back is to use proper methods of stretching, strengthening, standing, sitting and sleeping. For it is what we do moment to moment, day to day, that determines our total health.

Some suggestions: Never lift anything, heavy or light, with you legs straight. Always bend your knees when lifting something, so the bulk of the work is done by the big muscles of your legs. Not the small muscles of your lower back. Keep the weight close to your body, your abdominals tight, and you back as straight as possible.

Getting in and out of chairs can be a hazard to your back. Always have one foot in front of the other when rising from a chair. Slide your bottom to the edge and, with you back vertical and chin in, use you thigh muscles and arms to push yourself straight up.

If your shoulders are rounded and your head tends to droop forward, bring yourself into new alignment. This position when practiced regularly, will lessen back tension and keep the body fresh with energy. Pull your chin in slightly, not down or up, with the back of your head being pulled straight up. Think of your shoulders being back and down. Breathe with the idea that you want the middle of your back to expand outward. Tighten you abdominal muscles as you flatten your lower back into the chair. Do this while driving or sitting to take pressure off the lower back. Practice this often and you will naturally train you muscles to hold this more alive alignment without conscious effort.

If you stand in one place for a period of time, as when doing the dishes, prop one foot up on a box or short stool. This will relieve some of the back tension that comes from prolonged standing.

When standing your knees should be slightly bent or flexed, about half an inch, with your feet pointed straight ahead. Keeping the knees slightly bent prevents the hips from rotating forward. Use the large muscles in the front of the thighs, quadriceps, to control your position when standing.

Do not stand with knees locked. This tilts the hips forward and puts the pressure of standing directly on the lower back: a position of weakness. Let the quadriceps support the body in a position of strength. Your body will be more aligned through the hips and lower back with knees slightly bent.

When you are aware that your posture is bad, automatically adjust yourself to a more upright, energetic position. Good posture is developed through the constant awareness of how we sit, stand, walk and sleep.

My Silent Achievers this week are all the Seniors who are, more and more, becoming involved in exercise programs everywhere. It really is NEVER too late to start. Excellent!

We are so very lucky to be able to do it for ourselves.

OPP urges hunters to avoid carelessness

TORONTO — Another hunting season is upon us in Ontario, and while it can be a challenging activity, the Ontario Provincial Police would like to remind citizens it can also be dangerous if engaged in carelessly.

Every year in Ontario, many people are killed or injured in hunting accidents that could easily have been avoided. In the 10 years from 1980 to 1989, an average of 35 people a year were injured in Ontario hunting accidents, while an average of five were killed.

The most common hunting accidents involve careless use of firearms, unsafe use of boats, and getting lost in the bush. These can be avoided by taking a few "common sense", but essential, precautions.

Treat every firearm as if it is loaded. Never point a gun at anything you do not intend to kill, and know where your firearm is pointed at all times.

Never fire from a vehicle, and never carry loaded guns in vehicles. Unload guns before climbing fences, jumping ditches or walking through dense bush.

If hunting with a partner, always know where the other person is. Wear florescent orange or red clothing rather than camouflage gear, so that you are highly visible in the bush. Unload all guns after returning to camp.

When using a boat, never overload, and ensure weight is evenly distributed, even if it means making additional trips. Life jackets should be worn by everyone on the boat.

Take extra clothing that is warm and waterproof to protect yourself from hypothermia. Carry an area map and compass at all times, and leave a timetable with a friend or relative, so they'll know when to expect your return.

For more information on hunting safety, contact your local OPP detachment.

Senior girls Devils destroy Seaway in season opener

IROQUOIS — Destruction hit Seaway District High School last Wednesday, September 19.

The North Dundas Devils senior girls' basketball team travelled to Seaway, demolished the home team by a score of 57-20 in the season opener.

Peter Fortin, the Sr. Devils coach said, that the team's performance on the court was "amazing."

"They didn't let up" at anytime during the game which saw the Devils take a powerful 16-6 lead after the first quarter of play.

Vicki Gryspeerdt led the scoring for the Devils in the opening quarter. She hit the basket three times for the double points and mastered two of four attempts on foul shots.

The Devils lifted their lead over Seaway during the second quarter. The half ended showing a 28-10 advantage for the visiting team.

Seaway was no match for the Devils veterans, Gryspeerdt, Stacey Berry and Shealyn Summers. Fortin said, "they got onto the floor and clicked."

These three players started making points for the Devils, while newcomers to the team began to fit into play.

Raffaella Malaguti, an Italian exchange student made the most hoops for the Devils in the third quarter.

Malaguti successfully made one of her two free throws and also hit the basket twice for the major. She counted five of the Devils 15 points in the quarter.

By the end of the third quarter the Devils put together a lop-sided score. The squad was leading Seaway by a score of 45-12.

The Devils managed to hoop another 12 points during the final quarter. Sandy Gonderman who played for Tagwi High School last season led the scoring during the second half. She made two free throws and three two point hoops.

The Dundas squad man-handled Seaway team for a 57-20 victory.

Fortin said the win "was a team effort, although there were some shining stars."

Gryspeerdt hit the basket more than any other player on the court during the game. Her performance enabled her to make 12 points for the Devils.

Berry and Gonderman played a 10 point game, tying for the game's second highest scorer.

Gonderman stole the ball away from the Seaway squad nine times to count the greatest amount of steals. Berry was right behind with six.

Both Gryspeerdt and Summers created four turnovers for the Devils winning cause while Summers made a total of seven defensive rebounds in the game. Chris Lightfoot made the second most defensive rebounds by counting five.

Fortin said the senior girls' basketball team will be practicing for three hours on the following two Sundays. Since the team had only had one practice before their first game.

The Sunday schedule is in hopes to "pull the team together," Fortin said. Other teams in the league have spent more time together than the Devils team has.

Junior Girls

The junor girls' basketball team started their season on a winning note. They outplayed Seaway by a score of 33-18.

"First game jitters," slowed down the Devils performance in the first half, Deanna Corbett-White the Devils coach said.

The Devils finish the first quarter with a 6-2 lead over Seaway. The opposing squad hit the basket for their first major with only 1:19 left to play in the quarter.

Seaway dominated the second quarter cutting down the Devils lead by one point (12-11) at the half.

During the third quarter Seaway fought for the lead but they never had solo possession of it.

The Devils jumped in and out of the lead during the beginning of the quarter. Seaway counted 12-12 tie just to allow the Devils to take it back with a point.

Seaway tied the score at 13 apiece and then the Devils' Tonia Foley sunk the two pointer to lift the team to a 15-13 lead.

The basket reunited the Devils. The third quarter ended with a 22-13 lead for the visiting team.

In the fourth quarter the Devils were in control. The passing game was being played much better, Corbett-White said.

The game ended with a 33-18 Devils' victory. Sherry James was the game's highest scorer with a point total of seven.

Katie Clapp, Heather Graham and Jennifer Preston all counted four points for the Devils winning cause.

Corbett-White said, "we have a very young team but they are very coachable and willing to listen and learn.
