Home Hardware fire

Tuesday morning, the Ingleside Fire Department was called to a fire at Stewart's Home Hardware. Fire fighter Garnet Carbino said it looked to be of an electrical nature which started in the attic. Mrs. Stewart had alerted the department upon her arrival at the store. It was not known at press time the extent of the damage.

Residents to receive warning

SD&G gets emergency system

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

CORNWALL—Residents of SD & G and the City of Cornwall will now be notified by phone if there is an emergency situation in their area.

The Community Alert Network program was launched last month after two years of planning by the City of Cornwall.

In the case of a fire, chemical spill, earthquake, tornado or any other natural or man-made disaster, a computer system will phone all homes and businesses in an affected area with a specific warning. Up to 6,000 phones can be called per hour.

In SD & G only reeves, clerks or road superintendents can activate the system. In Cornwall, senior city officials and first responders such as firefighters can access the system.

"It's a system so that people don't overreact or under-react," says Diane Dumoulin, safety and emergency planning officer for the City of Cornwall.

The Community Alert Network costs $18,000 a year and $14,000 each year after that for five years. The cost will be shared by the City of Cornwall, the United Counties of SD & G and six industries, including Ontario Hydro and Domtar Fine Papers.

There is also a $55 hourly fee for using the system which is based in New York and California.

"The losses could be astronimical if the program wasn't in place," Dumoulin says.

The county of Leeds-Grenville has used the Community Alert Network for more than five years.

Dumoulin says the system can also be used for door-to-door campaigns or to help find missing people.

Residents are asked to call the City of Cornwall's Emergency Planning Services at 932-6252 if they have an unlisted phone number so they can be included in the emergency database.

Boards work to cope with transfer cuts

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

CORNWALL—Both Catholic and Public School Boards of Education in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry will have a balancing act to perform in regards to this year's budget.

Last week, the SD & G Catholic Board announced its plans to eliminate a deficit of $481,718 by the end of 1996.

In May 1995, the Board approved a budget for that year including an operating deficit of $923,000 and submitted a plan to the Ministry of Education and Training outlining reduced expenditures in areas such as travel, professional development, maintenance, supplies, and equipment. During 1995, the Board was able to decrease expenditures to the point where they reduced its accumulated deficit by $442,087.

In order to eliminate the remaining operating deficit of $481,718, the Catholic Board will continue its efforts at expenditure control, while at the same time trying to maintain the highest possible quality of education.

"We'll continue our careful management," said chair of the Board Charles Adams. "I hope the Ministry will give us additional guidelines on how to strike a budget with ideas to save money."

Adams was disappointed by information in the so-called tool kit released by Education Minister John Snobolen to deal with the $400 million provincial transfer reduction in the 1996-7 fiscal year.

Last November the government announced changes in funding policies with respect to Junior Kindergarten and Adult Education programming, as of this September. Snobelen intends to introduce legislation to amend the Education Act to make Junior Kindergarten optional, and provide greater flexibility to school boards with respect to Adult Education programs. The Ministry announced the changes would result in savings of approximately $150 million in 1996.

"We'll be examining the present package of kindergarten and alternatives," Adams said. One option under consideration is the adoption of alternate day junior kindergarten, eliminating noon hour busing. The Public Board has already approved full day alternate day, kindergarten and junior kindergarten programs effective September 1996, cutting out noon hour busing.

"We have also agreed with the Public Board to set joint committees to find savings in payroll, transportation, and adult education. And we hope to look at joint purchasing as well."

"We both provide adult education. We'll look at the best way to provide adult education instead of competing," he continued.

During a strategy planning session in February, the Public Board recommended the "reorganization of all programs serving students 21 years of age and over, to reduce expenditures by $205,200 in 1996."

The Catholic Board currently offers adult courses in English at St. Joseph's Secondary and in French at Ecole Communautaire in Cornwall, while the Public Board offers adult education in T.R. Leger Alternative Schools in Cornwall and in the United Counties, with campuses in Morrisburg, Winchester and Alexandria. However, it was announced recently that French adult education will be eliminated as of September.

Both Boards have been held back in their budget planning, due to the Ministry's delays in the announcements of general legislative grants.

People invited to 'surf the net' at T.R. Leger

MORRISBURG—Twenty-five people gathered at the T.R. Leger School in Morrisburg Friday morning for the official opening of the Internet.

Children from Morrisburg Public School and residents from the area took turns 'surfing the net'.

After brief introductions and a ribbon cutting ceremony, residents huddled together in front of a Pentium computer. They were surrounded by various "Internet News" articles posted on the walls and a cut-out photo of a surfer dangling from the ceiling.

T.R. Leger recently connected to the "Net" with a two-year $20,000 grant from Industry Canada. People can 'surf' the information highway for free at their leisure or can take courses at either the Morrisburg or Winchester campuses.

There will be a $5 charge per hour for instructional courses. Project coordinator Brenda King expects most people will need five hours to learn the basics.

There are presently 85 students from the T.R. Leger campus in Morrisburg using the Internet, several students from MPS and some residents. Two computers hooked to the Internet are available to the general public.

"The interest is really keen," King said. "The young kids want to go on-line right away but the adults want to take slow steps."

Denis Sabourin, assistant to Stormont-Dundas M.P. Bob Kilger, attended the opening ceremony on Kilger's behalf.

"The world is truly in our backyards," he said. "We are all now true explorers."

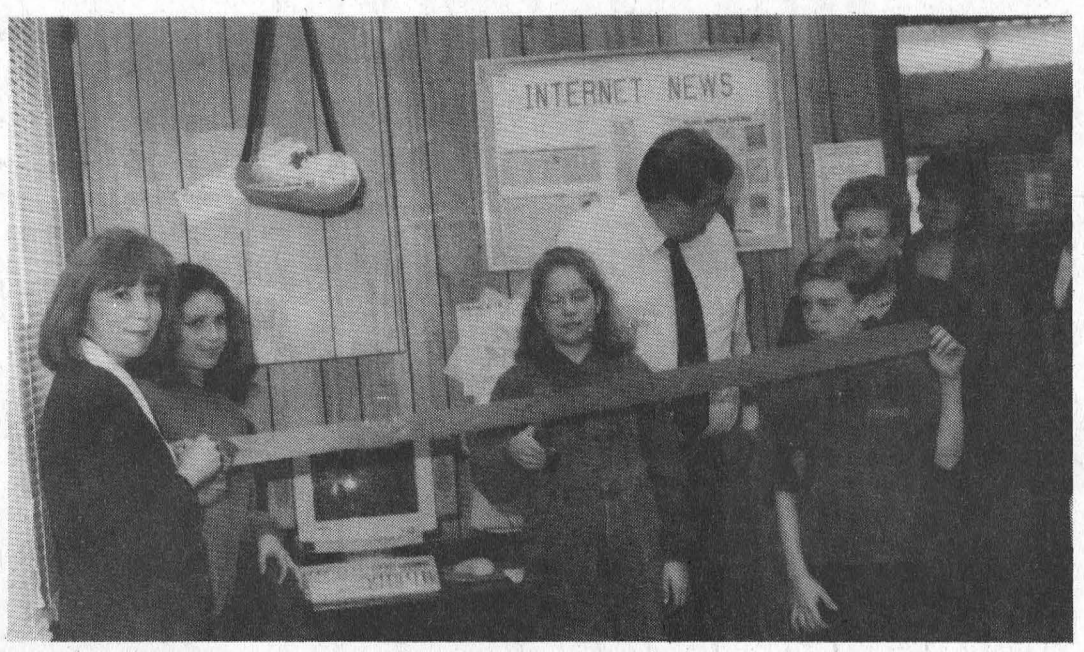
People who wish to sign up for courses should call the school and book a time. There are no set times and an instructor will simply organize the courses with groups of 10 people.

People who wish to 'surf the net' should also call the school to book a time from Monday to Thursday from 8:00 a.m. to 7:35 p.m. Saturdays and other times may also soon be available.

Dundas County was one of 271 communities in Canada chosen by Industry Canada's Community Access Program last year to receive a grant. The program is designed to improve rural communities' links with the information highway. Seven hundred and sixty communities applied to the program.

Sixteen business in Dundas County are involved with the project. King says $8,000 has been raised to date through in-kind donations, such as furniture and school space. Donations must match the $20,000 grant from Industry Canada in the next two years.

Community partners include T.R. Leger, Morrisburg Public School, Upper Canada Playhouse, Morrisburg and District Chamber of Commerce, The Operating Engineers Training Institute, North Dundas District High School and SDHS, Beavers Dental, Winchester District Memorial Hospital, Women for Survival in Agriculture, Dundas Federation of Agriculture, JobLink Resource Centre, South Dundas Economic Development Centre, SD & G Public School Board, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, and Food and Rural Affairs.



Internet kick-off at T.R. Leger

Instructional courses will also be available for $5 an hour. NDP vice president backs Hampton in leadership race

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—The Ontario New Democratic Party has its work cut out for it, if is to rebuild and have a chance at winning back the reins of government.

Ish Theilheimer, vice-president of the party, and editor of "The Ontario New Democrat" outlined some of the successes and failures of the party at the annual meeting of the provincial riding association here last Thursday.

"We came into government with great expectations and high ideals," Theilheimer said. "I venture to say that nobody in this party wasn't disappointed at one point or another at the government and some actions the government took."

One problem was the obvious inexperience of the 70 newly-elected MPPs "who woke up on September 7, 1990, not only governing a province they didn't expect to govern but having to deal with a road map that wasn't really connected."

For example, the party had to deal with a policy book full of contradictions. Theilheimer explained many principles had come from meetings where people half discussed a resolution, which ends up going to a convention and being adopted. As a result, "a lot of policies don't jive with one another."

Thus to some extent, the failures of the government were the responsibility of the party which didn't equip their leaders to do the kind of work they had to do.

But during the five years in the legislature, the NDP "learned the discipline of government, and learned a lot of responsibility of government and gained a taste for governing."

The NDP can learn from the lesson of their election loss last May. And in some ways, the Party is now benefitting from the polarization caused by Premier Harris' "slash and burn" approach to cutting the deficit by attacking the public sector.

The Party is starting to see some sign of movement in the schism (with labor), Theilheimer noted. "In a way people are coming together to oppose Harris and his quite barbaric style of ruling."

But having gained a taste for government, "It's not good enough for us just to oppose the Harris regime." Simply taking the role of opposition would probably relegate the NDP to 20 per cent of the vote as in the past, and the people would "revert to the Liberals, the safe, middle of the road party."

Theilheimer is enthusiastic over the prospects of the June leadership convention in Hamilton and "the best slate of candidates I've seen in my 12 years with the party."

Best slate

The spectrum ranges from Tony Silipo, the former Social Services and Education minister, Theilheimer described as "trilingual, urbane, polished, a decent person whom nobody dislikes" to Frances Lankin as "a forceful female politician, a real leader."

Lankin had a background in public service unions, worked her way up the party through the ridings, and provincial executives, was elected in 1990, and thrust into difficult cabinet positions, and was perhaps best known for "cutting costs in the health care system without creating havoc." Peter Kormos, was described as outspoken, "with an incredible oratorical flair and an unbelievable commitment to the working people, a great popular politician."

Theilheimer backs Howard Hampton, a former high school hockey star, teacher, lawyer, and provincial government employee in Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Like Lankin, Howard worked in the labor movement for many years, and "learned what it takes to make people work together." In government, Hampton held two cabinet positions, that of Attorney General and Minister of Natural Resources.

As Attorney General, Hampton appointed more women and visible minorities to the judicial bench than ever before, and as Minister of Natural Resources he brought in new tough laws that forced forest companies to pay for forest renewal, and opened up wilderness preservation expanses and protected old growth forest.

While the prospect of a new leader breathing renewal into the party brings hope, Theilheimer said the New Democratic Party must also "address issues which speak to the people," such as safety in the community, status of women, of marginalized people and youth.

"We have to speak to those questions in a way that acknowledges the real differences and changes and technology revolutions that are going on. This is the reality we'll have to govern after Mike Harris is done ransacking this province," Theilheimer said.

"I think we can do it because we are more mature after five years of governing. We figured out what it means to be part of a political party, to understand the kind of accommodation and trade off and compromises have to be made between what you want to do and what you have to do."

Provincial NDP elects

MORRISBURG—The provincial riding association of the New Democratic Party held its annual elections in Council Chambers here last Thursday. Re-elected to the position of president was Trevor Tolley. Michael Cowley-Owen was chosen vice-president, secretary was Randy Butler, and chief financial officer Helena McQuaig. Marion Adams was chosen membership secretary and provincial council delegate. Michael Cowley-Owen was elected the provincial convention delegate.

The association also approved two resolutions to be forwarded for consideration at the provincial convention to be held in Hamilton in June.

The first initiated by Trevor Tolley called for the introduction of legislation by the NDP whereby families that have suffered severe reduction of income may draw on the equity they have built up in their principal residences. This would enable them to make payments on their first mortgages for a specific time specified in the legislation, thus enabling them to retain their homes or allow them to sell them in a manner protecting their investment.

The second one arose out of a policy conference in Cobourg, and suggested the Ontario NDP address the issue of bringing non-elected bodies such as hospital boards and boards of health into the framework of democratic election.

Kudos to Osnabruck Council

OSNABRUCK TOWNSHIP—At a regular meeting Monday night, council was told its the envy of many townships in SD & G.

Ross Markell, auditor for the Township of Osnabruck, told council they are in very good financial condition.

"Charlottenburgh and you are extremely well off," he said. "Everyone else would have to come up to you.

"You are in a comfortable reserve position and every decision you made is informed. You're in a good position to deal with the cuts that are coming."

Markell advised council to continue spending as they have in the past and not to worry about possible amalgamation of municipalities in the future.

"It wouldn't be fair to taxpayers to slap you with another township what wasn't as financially sound, but you don't know who you may amalgamate with and what their position will be."

Council relays concerns on security in the plaza to O.P.P.

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Security takes priority over merchandising and promotions for a number of plaza business owners.

At least, that's how Councillor Jack Notman sees the priorities of local business people and indeed, many residents after attending a meeting of the Business Improvement Association. "Merchants should be concerned about merchandising and promotions, etc.. Unfortunately our merchants are concerned about security to the point where they're considering security cameras around the plaza and the cost of alarm systems etc.," he said.

He suggested these concerns be relayed in a letter drafted to the O.P.P. in the hopes a higher priority be placed on plaza security. The Village is drafting a letter expressing Council's concern addressed to the Long Sault O.P.P. Detachment.

Also at last Monday's meeting, Council endorsed a resolution that would see the elimination of the dual school board system in Ontario, and merger of existing boards to form one school board system.

The Village of West Lorne suggested the resolution as a proposal to deal with provincial funding cuts to the public sector. "If municipalities are being urged to restructure to survive the decrease in transfer payments, school boards should be encouraged to do the same," the resolution states.

The Village of West Lorne promotes merging of the existing dual board system as "the only way to eliminate duplications over the same service areas, and to return the existing tax dollars for education to the classrooms for the benefit of the children."

Council also approved a resolution from the Roma Insurance Program urging the province to amend the Negligence Act to protect municipalities from "joint and several liability."

ROMA Insurance Board initiated the resolution in response to large premium increases faced by municipalities, caused by large court settlements in which the municipality is a co-defendant. Since the other defendant doesn't have enough coverage to cover its share of the award, the municipality is held responsible to pay the difference regardless of the degree of responsibility. The resolution is based on the premise that municipalities should not be held responsible to pay more than their share of liability.

License applications from James Byers to own and drive a limousine within the Village were granted, and an additional license to drive a limousine was granted to Michael Hough. A taxi by-law amended to include rates for limousine as well as taxi was approved.

Since Lee Hess has declined the positions of by-law enforcement officer and property standards officer, Art Carkner has been reappointed to these positions until the end of 1996.

The Village is continuing work on by-laws to confirm street names and civic addresses in preparation for the 911 emergency system to be in place throughout the counties later this year. All municipalities in SD & G must have street indexes up to date, keyed into the Bell computer system, so addresses will show up immediately on ambulance screens.

Pregnant woman delivers at home with midwife

STEPHANIE WOLFE
Leader Staff

MARIATOWN—Rose Wickwire made a decision last October many expecting mothers never consider.

After giving birth to her first child in a hospital, Wickwire wanted a midwife to deliver her second child in her home in Mariatown. Her son Daniel was born at home three weeks ago.

Wickwire is the first mother in this area to use a midwife since new legislation in December 1993 ruled that the Ministry of Health would cover the cost. Previously, midwives cost about $1,000.

Although many pregnant women are concerned about the risks, Wickwire spent months reading and researching names before choosing a midwife from Ottawa.

"Giving birth is such a personal, private thing and a special moment," she said. "I read a lot about homebirth and was comfortable with the idea.

"I was a healthy person and had no signs of distress. But everyone around me said, "You're doing what?"

Midwives visit pregnant women on a monthly basis for the first eight months and spend about an hour doing medical check-ups and offering advice on nutrition, exercise, relaxation techniques and circumcision. They visit weekly during the final month and five or six times after the pregnancy.

"They are very knowledgeable and have a lot of experience with deliveries," Wickwire said.

"They would be able to spot the signs if something was wrong. You're well taken care of."

Wickwire's son Daniel was born on March 6. She almost delivered in the tub but got uncomfortable and moved to a bed.

"I wanted to have a home birth for my first child but others were nervous," she explained. "I decided to go ahead this time."

Wickwire spoke to Morrisburg's Jeanne Ward-Barkley who had a birth with a midwife four years ago and knew she wanted the same thing.

"With my first birth I was nervous and went to the Winchester Hospital," Wickwire said. "There are so many people and strangers at the hospital and the separation was hard for two or three nights without my husband. The care givers are excellent but it's not like being at home."

When she starting looking for a midwife last October, Wickwire had difficulty finding someone who was able to commute to this area. There are no registered midwives in Dundas County and only a limited number in Ottawa.

Pam Fitzgerald of the "Midwifery Group of Ottawa" says there is a long list of expecting mothers waiting for a widwife. There are only five practicing in her association.

Wickwire finally found Betty-Anne Daviss in December when she was six months pregnant.

Daviss, who works with the "Midwifery Collective of Ottawa" has worked as a midwife around the world since 1976, including Nicaragua, Mexico, Belize, and Afghan refugee camps in Pakistan. She has attended just under 1,000 births.

Alison Bowen of Chesterville assisted Daviss. Bowen works as a neonatal resuscitation instructor at the Riverside Hospital in Ottawa.

"I think because of the home delivery, I recovered quicker," Wickwire said. "I couldn't believe how quickly I got back into doing things."

Her husband Tom, who was initially apprehensive about a home birth, was pleased with the procedure and enjoyed catching his son during the delivery.

Assisting the vulnerable

From the time of its inception over 100 years ago, the International Red Cross Society has attempted to assist the vulnerable in society. Vowing to aid thousands of dead and wounded during the battle of Solferino in Northern Italy in June 1859, a young Swiss doctor Henry Dunant organized relief efforts with the help of the local populace. He proceeded to write a book "A Memory of Solferino," and persuade influential citizens of Geneva to set up relief societies for the wounded to be recognized by the state, leading to the launching of the International Committee of the Red Cross.

In Canada during the 1885 North West Rebellion, an assistant surgeon with the Royal Grenadiers, George Ryers organized an ambulance corps and converted one of the army's wagons into a makeshift ambulance. To distinguish it from military wagons, Ryerson cut two strips of red cloth, placing them on white cotton which he erected as the first Canadian Red Cross flag at the Battle of Batoche. Appointed the first Canadian Red Cross Commissioner during the Boer War, he continued to crusade for the cause. On October 15, 1896, he established The Red Cross in Canada, made official in 1909 by an act of Parliament. By 1910, the Canadian Army Medical Corps was created, and he was appointed head of the Canadian Medical Service, serving as president of the Canadian Red Cross during the First World War.

Chartered since 1939, the Dundas County Red Cross Society has expanded its services to include water safety education, equipment loans, blood clinics, emergency services, the coordination of first aid training and support of Homemakers. The Dundas Branch also supports the Society's work at the national and international level through "Creations," a quilting group which donates proceeds to relief and development work of the International Red Cross.

Whether the Red Cross assists someone who is drowning, sends in a homemaker to help senior or disabled citizens, assists locally in fire or flood, nationally or internationally in times of earthquake or warfare, its services are consistent with the mandate of helping the most vulnerable.

The Canadian Red Cross Society is celebrating the 100th anniversary of its formation during March, Red Cross Month. Donations to the Canadian Red Cross annual campaign are directed to the work of the local branch. C.T..

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Laurie Day

Disturbed by the high taxes on gasoline and diesel fuel imposed during the previous provincial budget, S. D. & G. MPP Noble Villeneuve was to introduce a private members' bill to abolish the tax on fuel used by commercial farm vehicles.

The Morrisburg Legion offered to pay the remaining $9,000 tab for the almost $14,000 lighting system at the waterfront park. In exchange, the Legion wanted the site named the Carrie B. Utman Park. Utman was a long-time member of the Legion ladies' auxiliary who died May 24, 1969 at the age of 74. She was instrumental in organizing that day's walkathon which raised about $2,500 towards the original lighting and bleachers for the ball diamonds along St. Lawrence Street. She suffered a heart attack while registering participants for the 18-mile event and died that evening.

Parents of children at Riverside Heights Public School were ready to compromise and accept triple grading - if it would stall the closing of the small community school. The 30 parents and few teachers at the hall urged school committee members John Bayham and Gord McNairn to stress this point to the S. D. & G. County Board of Education.

The Junior B Lions won the Gill Cup after dousing the Cardinal Broncos, 5-1, in game five of the best-of-seven series. They were to meet the Gananoque G-Men in the divisional final. Ken Morrow was named the Coach of the Year and received the Bill Linegar Memorial Trophy. Don McNairn picked up the trophy for top goaltender and Kevin Duvall won the St. Lawrence Junior B scoring race.

The committee working on the 1976 Old Home Week discussed having a symbol designed to be used in promoting events happening in Morrisburg. Enquires were sent to several graphic artists in Toronto and Ottawa, names chosen at random from the yellow pages, and Art Gardner's design from the Toronto area was chosen. The design, not unfamiliar to Morrisburg, was the Merry Bug.

The Leader reported Mrs. Jean Wadds, MP, and the Hon. F.M. Cass, M.P.P., attended an inspection visit to the recently opened Dundas School for the Mentally REtarded in the sixth concession schoolhouse, Williamsburg Township. Children at the school were to be given a great deal of individual attention and were to be taught according to their mental capacity. Carol Ivens was principal and assisting her was Dorothy Morgan.

The Williamsburg Jets, after winning the St. Lawrence League pennant for first place at the end of the regular schedule, had been eliminated from further play by the Cornwall Beavers.

At the Dominion, a one-pound package of humbugs was selling for 38 cents and 20-oz. tins of Clark's tomato juice were six for $1.

Many people were phoning the Leader to report robins back in the area. As well, flocks of Canada geese had been returning to the St. Lawrence parks sanctuary.

With automation hitting the sugar bushes in North America, authorities at Upper Canada Sugar Bush had decided 12 trees should go modern. Sap was to flow from the maples through a three-eighths inch plastic pipeline into a large tank.

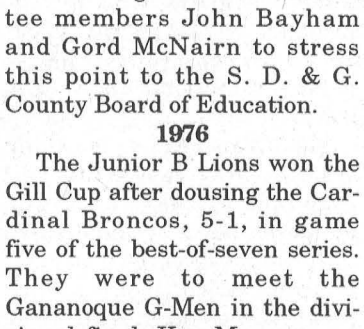
Let's get Personal

Stephanie Wolfe



As the Internet becomes more accessible, it is affecting us in a myriad of ways that no one could have envisioned in the early days of its development. The concept of the Internet slowly evolved from a military application into a multifaceted communications tool used by millions of ordinary people across the earth.

Although I was connected to a few Bulletin Board Systems (BBS) in Ottawa during the past five years and had my first taste of the Internet through the Ottawa Freenet last year, I was apprehensive about buying a 'package' to connect me to the Net. Never much of a computer expert, I worried about how easy the Internet would be to use.

When Mor-Net opened in the village last December, I decided I needed access to the Net, especially as a research tool for my work. Spending hours that first night 'surfing the net', I was awed by the universe of information available at the click of a key. With my handy "Internet for Dummies" manual, I explored a whole new world.

My initial fears quickly dissipated when I realized how user-friendly the Net was. In essence, you point and click and the universe instantaneously is at your fingertips.

As a journalist, I have quick and easy access to research sources at thousands of Web sites around the world.

Every morning when I wake up, I check out several newspapers on-line and read various national and international columnists. The Encyclopaedia Britannica has also been invaluable.

In my daily search through cyberspace, I visit several travel sites to map out a route for a motorcycle trip I'm planning this summer in Europe with my crazy Newfoundlander, Louis, and his parents.

Another significant advantage is the Internet's electronic mail system, which has saved me hundreds of dollars. Long distance phone bills to Louis in Ottawa were exorbitant before we decided to save money and e-mail each other. Louis's mom and dad in Athens, Greece, frequently send Louis and me e-mail, updating us on travel plans. I also communicate via the Net with my brother in Toronto and my parents in Ottawa.

I wonder what long-term effects the Net will have on society, particularly journalism.

Current research suggests that electronic news is the wave of the future. If this is true, many conventional media may not be able to compete.

Some media experts insist that newspapers will always exist as "hard copy" in order to satisfy the three B's of readership: bathroom, bus and bed. As long as most people want to read in the bathroom, on the bus and in bed, there will be a demand for concrete written material. Of course, if you have a complete computer system, all you have to do is create a print-out and bring that to the three "B's".

However, will there ever come a time when every home has a comprehensive computer system like most homes have television sets today? Yet, at the advent of television, few people could afford this new technological marvel. Perhaps in the future, computer systems will be universally affordable.

In Canada alone, there are now 44 newspapers on the Internet. Although these newspapers may initially be losing money, some studies suggest that online publications promote the product and enhance overall revenue.

Since the Internet has grown in leaps and bounds in the past few years, Bell Canada has suffered dramatically, losing millions of dollars in long distance charges. Video rental companies have also reported lost revenues. Many people are trapped in the Internet's web and are spending most of their free time online.

However, despite its growing attraction, there are still many problems with this relatively new technology. Much of the information is still very unorganized and takes a long time to access. As fibre-optic cable systems become prevalent, the speed will increase dramatically.

Censorship is another key concern for many people. Pornography and privacy are growing issues.

Computer experts believe the problems will eventually be resolved. In the meantime, the Net continues to revolutionize mass communications and the future unwinds as it must.

Dear Editor—In our town we don't have a by-law enforcement officer due to the shortage of funds. One is badly needed especially with the tourist season approaching.

Since the town office has been computerized at considerable expense, don't we have too many staff? This would certainly be of more benefit to the town to supply a by-law person.

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Edward Marcellus were working on the machine lathes.

Mrs. Clara Henry and her daughter Florence were honored with a party prior to their departure from Morrisburg. Mrs. Henry, the former Clara Marshall, had made here home for more than 30 years at the "Centennial Cottage", one of the finer brick residences with a splendid view of the St. Lawrence. This many-gabled home, at the west end of Main Street had an interesting history having been built shortly after Confederation by Alex McMartin. Mrs. Henry, a former school teacher, was moving with her daughter to South Burnaby, British Columbia.

It was announced in The Leader that the Seeley's Health Clinic, Main Street, Morrisburg, had reopened after being closed for a period of two months due to the illness of Dr. M.R. Seeley. The clinic had been redecorated and refitted to offer to patients the utmost in clean, healthful and restful surroundings. Among additions to the equipment was a large size x-ray machine which could x-ray anything from a chipped finger bone to a fractured spine.

Mr. and Mrs. Edmund H. Thompson of Williamsburg celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary.

At Hess' Grocery, a one-pound box of Catelli macaroni was 10 cents and Christie's bread was 10 cents a loaf.

The story on Oscar Beckstead, reeve of Williamsburg Township, appeared in the Ottawa Citizen. According to the piece the Becksteads came from the Mohawk Valley in the van of the United Empire Loyalists and the rugged stone house built by the pioneers in the fourth concession line of Williamsburg still stood - a monument to the zeal and stability of those early pathfinders. Adam Beckstead, the son of the original pioneers purchased a farm in the sixth concession. It was located on a stage coach road half way between Chesterville and Morrisburg.g For years the place was known as the 'half-way house', a favorite of travellers who sat about the great open fireplace trading horses and swapping yarns. The half-way house was erected in 1866 and on it was erected Dundas' first cheese factory. The property was still owned and operated by Oscar Beckstead in 1936. Beckstead's mother was Anetta Crysler, descendant of the owner of the historic Crysler FArm and Crysler Village. Reeve Beckstead entered municipal politics on a plank of "abolish statute labor". Beginning in 1917 he served three years as councillor and in 1921 was elected deputy reeve. After one year, he quit public life. In 1940 he returned to politics and was elected reeve by acclamation. In 1041, he again dropped out not to return again until after 1936.

Engineers who had inspected that portion of Hwy. 31 lying between Williamsburg and Winchester Springs strongly advised a new road be built connecting the two places. The proposed route day directly south from the Springs, through the intervening bushland, to join the present highway at the hess cheese factory. The estimated cost was $100,000.

At Barkley's Meat Market pure lard was 13 cents a pound and oysters were 45 cents a pint.

The March 26th issue of The Leader reported Urias S. Algire of Syracuse was celebrating his 100th birthday. Born in Williamsburg, he had been a life-long abstainer from alcohol and tobacco.

The boys of the Morrisburg Junior hockey team were at the champions of the ST. Lawrence Junior Hockey league having won the playoff series against Cardinal 6-5. The first game finished tied at three and Morrisburg won the second game 3-2. Players on the team included centre "Bus" Ryan, right wing Ernie Eamon, left wing Harry Meikle, defense Don Wells and Scotty Campbell, and goal Arthur Loucks. Spares were Gerald Coligan, Timmy Lapierre and Reub Cassel.

Williamsburg W.I. meets

WILLIAMSBURG—With 29 Williamsburg Township Seniors members attending the monthly meeting on Tuesday a noon buffet was enjoyed by all.

Vice-president Ruth Casselman was in charge of the meeting, opening with O'Canada, and a welcome to all present. Following the usual reports, and a motion to pay all bills as presented, the correspondence was heard.

Olin Smith reported from the Williamsburg Community Association. Evelyn Whitteker volunteered to be program coordinator.

In future, the prizes for the euchre have been increased.

"Happy Birthday" was sung to all members celebrating March birthdays. The program consisted of two readings, "Auld Lang Syne" by Joyce Patterson, and "If" by Hilda Garlough.

Cards and visiting were enjoyed during the remainder of the afternoon.

NOTICE

On July 14th, 1993, paid parking was implemented at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital. The parking lot provides specific area for the general public, physicians and handicapped parking. Parking revenues are used to fund parking lot maintenance.

Since July, 1993, the cost to park at W.D.M.H. has been maintained at $1.00.

Since 1993 the Hospital has had reductions in funding due to the Social Contract Act, and now, effective April 1, 1996, a further reduction due to the Savings and Restructuring Act, Bill 26. An increase in the charge for parking is now necessary for parking lot maintenance, as well as other Hospital operating activities.

Effective April 1, 1996, the cost to park at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital will increase to $2.00. No other parking changes will take place. The system is a "pay as you leave" and a change machine is available by the Emergency/Admitting Departments. The parking system does not currently work with the new two dollar coin.

MORRISBURG—Just last week, an earthquake in the Ottawa area registering 4.5 on the Richter scale, helped to remind people that natural disasters can strike anywhere at any time.

During times of disaster, natural or man-made, the Canadian Red Cross is ready to provide shelter and first aid for the victims.

Chartered in 1939, the Dundas County Chapter now embraces four centers of population in Morrisburg, Iroquois, Chesterville and Winchester, and offers a variety of services, expanded from its original purpose to supply assistance to victims of war during the Second World War.

At the time, the Dundas Branch was involved in AID, (Assistance International and Domestic), provided by ladies who knitted scarves, mittens and socks for soldiers and war victims overseas. AID is represented here by its modern day equivalent "Creations," a group of quilters who finish quilts for customers and donate the proceeds to the international efforts of the Red Cross in Development or Relief.

The ladies have been meeting on a Thursday afternoon in the Red Cross room in the Old High School, where they enjoy socializing while piecing squares into a pre-designed pattern, and stitching front to back to assemble a quilt.

Dundas County has a reputation for generosity at Blood Donor Clinics, with some families making donations of "the gift of life" an annual tradition. Partly because of a good response for its clinics and partly because the mobile unit doesn't have far to travel out of Ottawa, the County was granted two clinics in addition to the three held last year. Three blood donor clinics are to be held at Winchester Public School, and two at North Dundas High School, and the next one is May 8 at Winchester Public. Overall, the demand for blood donations has gone up as a result of concerns over increased screening and repercussions from the Krever blood inquiry.

But local Red Cross services don't end there. The Dundas Branch also has a "Home Help Equipment Service," to loan wheelchairs and walkers for three months, in exchange for a donation for a service provided. The Branch tries to keep its collection of equipment up to snuff, through purchases and regular cleaning. The equipment loan service can be contacted in Morrisburg by phoning Liz Gummeson at 543-3151 and Nancy Kenney at the Iroquois Civic Center. If there is a need for specialized equipment, local volunteers can contact the Ottawa Branch for help.

One of the most familiar functions of the Red Cross is Water Safety Activities, a program of swimming and water safety classes through which children advance through color levels representing graded skills. The programs which have been offered during the summers at the Morrisburg and Iroquois Beaches have graduated hundreds of children adept in swimming and water safety.

Although Dundas County has yet to offer a Red Cross Boat Safety program, education is available on another front, that of first aid certification. There are no Red Cross First Aid trainers in Dundas: however, Beavers Dental may obtain the services of trainers for a two-day course lasting 16 hours, the equivalent of a St. John Ambulance course and including CPR. The company has brought in trainers for some of its employees and Morrisburg firefighters, and may be able to contact trainers for outside purposes.

A little known aspect of Red Cross work is Emergency Services, for individual families in case of a fire or flood.

The Dundas Chapter offers food, accommodation and clothing to families who have been burned or flooded out of their homes. Such help is available on a 72-hour basis to help tide the family over the first critical period. Although families have been referred to the Red Cross for clothing over the years by police or firefighters, there have been no requests for accommodation or food. And during the last year, despite a couple of severe local fires, there have not been any requests for clothing. Don Hill, president of the Dundas Branch, says this is probably due to a lack of awareness of the service rather than an absence of need. Hill says the Red Cross can supply a family with a complete outfit of clothing for each member, if there is a need and can also provide bed clothing.

On a larger scale, the local branch can help with planning for disasters such as earthquakes or chemical spills and currently is involved in the Morrisburg Emergency Disaster plan coordinated by Bill Shearing. Don Hill is a trainer of emergency trainers, and Wayne Johnston has been trained as an emergency coordinator.

The local branch can help with inquiries and registration, while an emergency trainer would organize accommodation for large groups. The local branch can also contact other branches for bedding and other supplies.

Last but not least is the Red Cross Homemaker Program, offered to elderly and disabled adults in need of housekeeping assistance. The service is not a Branch function as such, but available to Dundas residents, managed out of the Cornwall office, and paid for by user fees and government subsidies. Eastern Ontario has the largest home-making service in Canada, but due to severe government cutbacks, the Red Cross had to cut the hours of the service, and the Winchester office was closed as well.

Help Us Continue the Tradition of Caring

For more than a century, the Canadian Red Cross has been part of our national fabric.

Support the Red Cross centennial campaign. Contact your local Red Cross branch or call 1-800-668-2866 to make a donation.

Canadian Red Cross 1896 1996 Friends for Life

To replace government funding for Homemakers, the Dundas Branch has three charity designated Nevada outlets at Beckers stores throughout the County. Proceeds from sales are earmarked for the Homemakers Program.

The main fund raiser for the Red Cross Society is the annual mail campaign in March. Although the campaign is centrally organized, donations are returned to the local branch for their use.

"There are three ways to help the Red Cross," says Hill. "Volunteer with money, volunteer with blood, and volunteer with time. If we had more volunteers there are other areas we could get into."

Hill points to a program for seniors at Vankleek Hill, where volunteer drivers take people to Ottawa for doctor visits. In addition, there is a program in the schools, which involves discussions with youth and teachers about Red Cross work on the local and national level.

Membership in the local Branch remains fairly static at about ten, although Henny Stewart was recently recruited as the new treasurer. Marg Reynolds is chair of Blood Donor Recruitment, and Liz Gummeson is in charge of Equipment Loans. Wayne Johnston is secretary and in charge of Emergency Services, while Shelley Martin is over International Awareness.

If anyone is interested in helping as a volunteer, contact president Don Hill at 543-3622 or at Beavers Dental, 543-3791.

Located at 111 Water Street West in Cornwall, the Canada Employment Center for Students will be open for 1996 summer season May 1. Students are encouraged to drop by and meet with officers to discuss possible summer employment. Rice signs deal with Toronto Agent

RIVERSIDE HEIGHTS—Julie Rice signed a contract last week with a modelling and talent agent in Toronto, Jack Timlocke.

She will continue to work for Angie's Models & Images in Cornwall.

Rice has been busy in the past few weeks with various auditions outside the province.

She believes her four-month co-op placement at Lise's Hair Salon last September to December has helped her enormously in her modelling career. During her placement she learned about various hairstyles and manicures.

"During the past year, I've become really interested in hair and make-up," Rice added.

Rice is looking forward to the release of "The Father Goose" in theatres in December, where she plays a sales clerk and had the opportunity to work with Jeff Daniels and Dana Delaina from the movie, "Dumb and Dumber."

Rice wants people to know that she is on the road to recovery from her anorexia and would like to thank her friend Sarah, her family, and Helen, Loretta and Lise at Lise's Hair Salon for their continued support.

NOTICE

The Emergency Department has, for some time, provided medications to patients to take home with them following treatment. This practice was to carry a patient over the weekend or overnight until their local pharmacy was open to fill their prescription. Due to severe budget cuts experienced by the Hospital, this practice will no longer be available to patients free of charge.

Effective April 1, 1996, a flat administration fee of $5.00 will be charged when patients are given medication(s) to take home with them. There will, of course, be no charge for medication(s) given to a patient while being treated at the Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

Dundas representatives recieve funds for seniors

WINCHESTER—Last Thursday, Mountain Township reeve Estella Rose awarded grants from the "John Stewart Estate Memorial Trust Fund" to five recipients from Dundas County.

There were 27 applicants from the three United Counties and City of Cornwall. "We had enough requests to spend $30,000, and only $9,000 to spend," said Estella Rose, who presented the grants on behalf of the Foundation.

The three Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry received $2200, and the City of Cornwall received $2400. In Dundas County, Carolyne Rooney received $450 on behalf of the Winchester Meals on Wheels, which she will use to purchase Aladdin take-out containers and glass inserts. Elka Brown received $450 on behalf of the Chesterville Meals on Wheels towards the purchase of a microwave for the new Senior Support Center in Chesterville.

Doris Cross was granted $500 to go towards the purchase of a stove to be used in the Lion's Hall for the Golden Years Society in Winchester. Janet Levere received $300 to be used for an overhead projector screen for the Williamsburg Park Drive Villa Senior Support Center. Nancy Gibson received $200 towards the purchase of a new downstairs heating system in Nor-Dun Seniors Support Center in Winchester.

The John Stewart Estate Memorial Trust Fund was established in 1993, following the sale of the John Stewart Home, 613 Second St. East Cornwall, Ontario. Income from the investment of proceeds is distributed annually in the form of grants to agencies serving the needs of seniors in the United Counties of SD & G.

John Stewart (1833-1903) was a bachelor farmer who lived near Moose Creek, Ontario. Upon his death several institutions were beneficiaries of his largesse, as well as "the aged, poor and indigent Protestant people of the United Counties". A first attempt at establishing a Home was made after his death, but failed. When the trusteeship passed to National Trust definite action was taken, and a commodious brick home was opened in 1930, to meet the needs of nine residents.

A small monthly rental was charged and the Home administered by a Committee of local citizens.

Due to increased expenses over the years and difficulty in attracting residents, a request was made to the Ontario Court to sell the Home and establish the Memorial Trust Fund. This was granted in 1991.

Appropriate agencies are invited to apply for grants each year, and these are adjudicated by the Board of Directors, consisting of residents of the United Counties and the City of Cornwall. In recognition of the religious heritage of John Stewart, a permanent member of the Board is the Minister of St. John's Presbyterian Church, Cornwall.

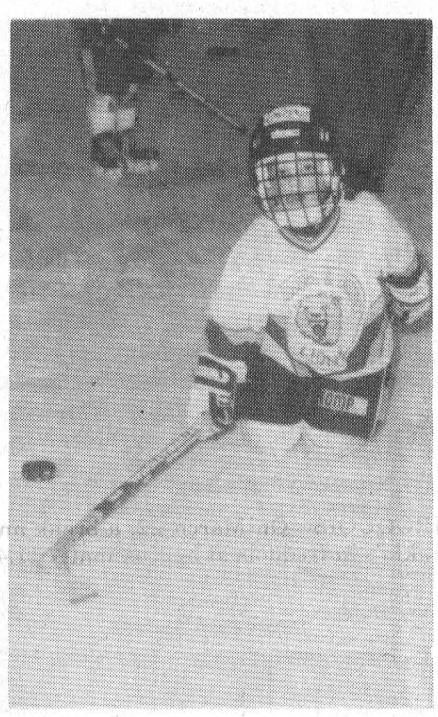
Fun Day for the Initiation Program participants

The young hockey players who were registered with the Morrisburg and District Minor Hockey Association's Initiation Program took part in a Fun Day Sunday. Sam Moss, one of the 12 instructors with the program says he hopes next year's registration will surpass the 60 they had this season. He especially hopes that more girls will get into the program like the three pictured above: Katie Casselman, Jane Moss and Jennifer McIntosh.



Initiation program deemed successful

Young hockey players enjoy fun day

MORRISBURG—Some of them couldn't even stand up in skates. Now they can handle a puck along with the most advanced.

The Initiation Program of the Morrisburg Minor Hockey Association had a Fun Day Sunday at the Morrisburg Arena to wrap up its second successful season.

"It was a very successful year," said Sam Moss, one of the 12 'keen' instructors with the program who are all experienced with the sport in some aspect or another.

"The ultimate measure of success is, of course, the progress of the players and their enjoyment," he added as he watched the kids participate in a few fun games.

Of the 60 youngsters who signed up at the beginning of the year, only three were girls.

"We'd really like to get more girls out next year," said Moss.

For Katie Casselman, 6, Jane Moss, 6, and Jennifer McIntosh, 7, playing with the boys was 'no big deal', as they said they all had fun.

How a young hockey player gets that first taste of the sport is crucial. If a beginner is having fun, developing some basic skills and building confidence, there is a good chance that player will go on to enjoy hockey for many years.

But if a beginner is not having a good time on the ice, chances are that he or she will quit at an early age and never discover the real joy of Canada's great sport.

The CHA made the Initiation Program mandatory for all member associations. Instructors are required to take a course and become certified.

The Initiation Program has been developed by some of Canada's top amateur coaches and is simply an approach to teaching entry level children (ages four to seven years) the fundamentals of hockey.

The program emphasizes fun, skill development and confidence to participate and play the game.

Players are taught about skating, puck handling, passing and receiving and shooting. Players progress through a program of four levels (from beginner to advanced) based on skill and age.

Little emphasis is given to actual games, although these Morrisburg players were in exhibition situations with other "Initiation Program" participants from different associations.

"The MDMHA program offers instruction that was previously available only to players fortunate enough to receive instruction outside of the regular minor hockey programs, like hockey schools," said Moss.

"Older children looking to start are also welcome to the Initiation Program. With emphasis on skill development, it does not take long for the older child to progress to the point where they can move up to their own age level," he added.

The purpose of the "Fun Day" was to reward the kids, enhance skills, and to encourage enrollment for next year. But above all else, they had fun while doing it.

Morrisburg Bantam C Lions win B division

MORRISBURG—The Morrisburg Bantam C Lions were the B division winners in their March break tournament two weeks ago.

Playing a total points format touranment, the Lions played three games, winning two and tying their first one.

Against North Dundas in the opening game of the day, the Lions played to a 1-1 deadlock.

Adam Legue had the team's only goal in the first period. He was unassisted.

It wasn't until the third period that North Dundas could get on the board. Johnathan DeJong was unassisted at 5:22.

Morrisburg then shut out Perth in their second meeting of the day with a 1-0 score.

Michael Honders had the game winner at 6:22 of the first peirod. He was asisted by Jason Hill.

Morrisburg then claimed their title with a 3-1 win over Kemptville.

Honders fired two goals in the win, including the insurance marker with only four seconds left to play.

Hill fired the team's second counter with assists going to Legue with a pair, and Josh Tambash, Robert Corbett and Lance Lapage with one each.

Bobby Hamelin and Derek Watson shared the net minding duties throughout the day.

Winning the A division was North Dundas.

After their tie with Morrisburg, they went on to blank Osgoode-Rideau 3-0. Scoring in the win were Ryan Moss, Shawn Francis and Todd Levers.

North Dundas also won a 4-1 battle over West Carleton II.

Moss, Francis, Todd O'Brian and Andrew Domoua were the goal scorers in the win, with assists coming from Domoua, Dean Kerr, and Bruce Reaney.

In other action, Kemptville and West Carleton played to a two all deadlock; West Carleton and Osgoode Rideau also tied at two apiece, and Kemptville got by Perth 2-1.

In-line hockey league sign up

WINCHESTER—In-line hockey has made its way into sporting arenas everywhere, including Winchester where local fanatic, Jamie McIntosh is hoping to come up with 66 other people to form yet another league.

The non-body contact four-on-four format league will be starting early in May.

You can sign up in Morrisburg at Impact Sports, Gary's Automotive, in Winchester at Sports Unlimited or call the Winchester Arena.

McIntosh recommends full equipment be worn. Helmets are mandatory.

Goalies have the option of wearing in-line skates, steel toe workboots or steel toe running shoes.

For women, Marie Shelp is organizing a league and training camp will be held May 1st and 8th. Coaching and instruction will be offered for those who have little or no experience.

The women's league will be made up of four teams, and participants are asked to wear shin pads, elbow pads, and helmets with face shields.

The cost to join is $70 for the men and $60 for the ladies.

Just Another Day...

Laurie Day

So, have you been to that new gambling casino in Hull yet? I know, I know. It's only been open to the public since Sunday, but honestly, have you made the trek yet?

As if the gaming facilities in this neck of the woods aren't enough to commit the average Joe to the local Gambler's Anonymous building. (Where is the closest GA hall anyway?)

If you want, you can hit a Bingo around here every night of the week. If the $400 to $1,000 jackpots aren't big enough for the average Bingo-er, you can always go to Cornwall of Brockville.

I think I'll just stick to the good ol' scratch Bingo tickets. Or even those Nevada tickets. They're quite addictive enough actually.

Case in point.

Saturday morning Lar and I ventured to our favorite movie store in Brinston where all the local gamblers were gathered round the Nevada box.

The garbage pail below the box was overflowing with duds, but the boys were more than convinced they would be $100 richer by the time they left the premises.

Larry grabs a buck's worth.

"Ha! Ding, ding, let the bells ring," he chirps. And of course, he had to rub in the fact that he only spent a loonie to win $25.

Well, I think this got the boys all excited so they dug a little deeper, but still no $100 winners could be heard squeeling.

We left with some movies and a couple of scratch Bingos. I was a lucky $5 winner. (Yippee.)

The next day upon returning our movies, Larry cashed in my $5 ticket for a couple more scratch Bingos.

Usually, he lets me pick which one I want to scratch, but as luck would have it on this particular day he chose first. Lucky me!

I'm scratching away and by the time I was half way through the caller's card, I had a diagonal line.

"Bingo," I said kind of wooopdeedo-like. "Oh hum."

I kept going. Larry's was a dud.

"How's the ticket coming?"

"Just fine and dandy, thanks."

Dum dee dumm dee dumm.

"Bingo again," I said. "Oh hum, I just won $50."

"Yeah, right. You'd be a little more excited if you won $50," he says.

"Well, what does the letter 'L' stand for.

"Loser!" He laughed.

"Well, check out this 'loser' ticket," I flaunted the 50-buckeroo ticket in his face. "I guess that means you don't want half."

His face dropped to the floor when he saw I wasn't kidding.

It was at that particular point in time when I decided I'd tell him about the other ticket I'd won on this week.

"Hey, you think maybe you should buy a lottery ticket or something?"

"Why, my dear, is it my moon or something?"

He's always checking out the calendar to see when his 'moon' is out so he knows when to go bingo-ing at the local establishments.

I dunno. Call me crazy, but I think I'll just stick to the scratch tickets, and let him howl away at the full moons.

He's way better at howling anyway.

Morrisburg Little Rockers second at 'spiel

MORRISBURG—The Morrisburg Curling Club was packed Sunday with Little Rockers, their parents and relatives for their year-ending bonspiel.

Two other contingents from the Morrisburg club placed sixth and 10th. The teams consisted of Kelly Smith, Laurie Irvine, Crystal Phifer, Abbey McCann, and Mary Jane McCourt, Betty King, Christine Kirkwood and Karla Nugent.

On behalf of the Little Rockers, a huge thank you is extended to local businesses who so generously donated prizes for the bonspiel. Due to their generosity, they were able to supply each of the 48 participants with a gift to take home.

Also, a special thanks is extended to the Morrisbg Legion Branch 48 for their generous donation.

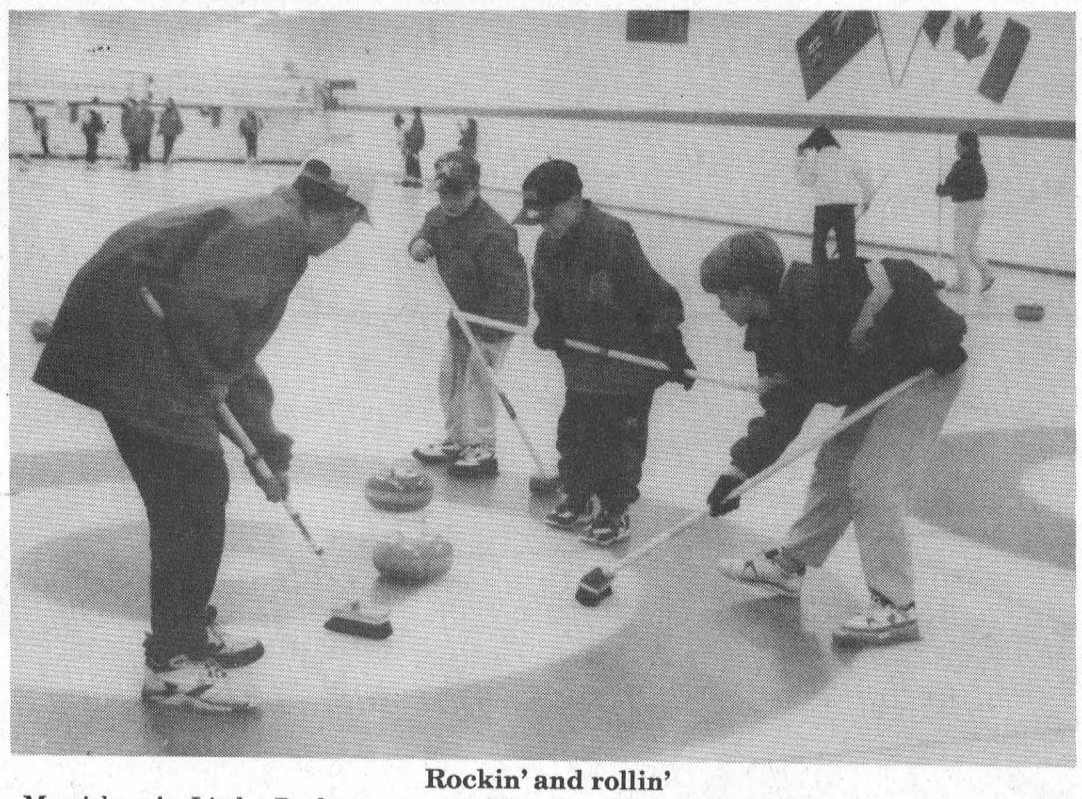
Other curling news

In other curling news, the Seniors will be holding their closing one-day on Friday. They issue special invitations to their curling fraternity who are players in spirit but for whatever reason physically are unable to play. They are looking forward to a day of regalling.

The annual spring meeting is scheduled for April 1 with a wine and cheese at 6 p.m.

On April 19th, the annual awards presentation is slated for 6 p.m.. The price is $15 per person.

Don't forget: Thursday night wings, Saturday closing bonspiel and to watch the Worlds three and eight this week



Rockin' and rollin'

Morrisburg's Little Rockers were rolling Sunday as they played in their annual touranment to help close off the successful season. Here, the team of (from the left) skip Mike Kirkwood, J.J. Hollister, Andy and Matthew Derouchie, were second overall. Two other Morrisburg teams placed in the top 10. This Sunday, the Little Rockers will be wrapping up their year with a touranment against their parents. A pizza party will follow at the curling club.

Atom B II Lions take UCMHL title after sweep over Gan

GANANOQUE—A four point playoff series against Gananoque last week proved that the Morrisburg Atom B Lions were unstoppable this season.

Morrisburg was crowned the Upper Canada Minor Hockey Atom B Level II League champions after two big wins over the West division winners from Gananoque.

On Sunday, the Lions were in Gananoque where they won their championship with a 1-0 win over the host team.

The players kept the fans on the edge of their seat until the third period when Richard Banford slipped one between the pipes, assisted by Justin Elliott, for the 1-0 upset.

Matt Dillabough kept the Lions in the game with his stellar net minding performance.

Thursday was day one of the final playoff series, as the Lions hosted Gan in game one.

Morrisburg gave the home town crowd something to cheer about with their 3-0 shutout victory.

Scott Carswell had two big goals in the game: his first was unassisted in the opening period.

Number two from Carswell came in the second with 4:52 remaining as he was assisted by Richard Banford and Ian Tait.

The Lions final tally was scored with 1:21 left in the second as Josh McElheran scored from mates Lindsay Johnston and Liam Maguire.

This time it was Nick Cryderman in the crease for the shutout bid.

After Sunday's final game, the Lions were presented with individual player plaques, a keeper trophy and the league playdown silverware.

However, teammates expressed sympathy to Scott Carswell, as he was not on the ice to receive his keeper, "but we are all glad to hear that he did not give the nurses at Hotel Dieu a hard time."

The team was awarded a number of honors this season which included: first place in the UCMH Atom B Level II League; UCMHL East Division champs; UCMHL champs, and they received the Sportsmanship trophy which is awarded to the team with the least number of penalty minutes.

The team also recorded the most goals scored for and the least goals scored against in the league.

While these impressive stats are credited to all the team members, the coaching staff deserves a special pat on the back for continued dedication and patience with this group of players.

Thank you is extended to coach Phillip Dillabough, assistant coach Wally Baker, trainer Dave Marshall and managers Sandy and Calvin Elliott for all of their support and encouragement.

Chung is seventh in Ontario

MORRISBURG—Allen Chung has been figure skating for seven years.

Quite a feat when your just 11 years old.

Recently, Allen took part in the Eastern Ontario Sectional Interclub Competition where he was fourth best in his division, senior bronze men.

Just a few weeks ago, he finished seventh at the Ontario Sectionals.

"They (the competition) averaged three and four years older than me," Allen said Monday as he took a break from his "patch" work at the Morrisburg Arena.

The competition was also about a foot taller!

Allen's goal is to make it to the Worlds by the year 2002, or by the time he's 18. He is coached by professional, Young-Soon Benoit.

His vigourous schedule includes four days a week of figure skating—at least seven hours of ice time.

When he's not at the rink, Allen cross trains by "doing crunches, and running up and down stairs."

Allen also plays volleyball, baseball and football. He is in grade seven at Iroquois Public School.

Presently, he is working on his senior silver, and is confident his will obtain that goal by the end of the summer.

MFSC Spring School

From April 1 to May 4, Spring School will be taking place at the Morrisburg Arena.

But there are only a few spaces left in the Senior division. Both the Junior and Intermediate classes have been filled.

Presently, there are 75-80 figure skaters signed up for the spring session.

For more information on the spring school, please contact Diane Law at 652-2421.

Moon Mullin is fourth overall at Autodrome, Edelweiss

HULL, P.Q.—Autodrome Edelweiss Speedway held its first Awards Banquet on Saturday, March 16 in Hull, Quebec.

The top 10 drivers were presented with trophies as well as points money. Several other awards were also presented.

Promoter, Roger Lalonde, started off the evening with a few comments regarding the 1996 season. Friday nights will still be the regular race nights for Edelweiss, with a few other dates also on the schedule.

The Sportsman division has been eliminated (some may be able to run with the 358 Mod by invitation). New four cylinder and eight cylinder Pure Stock classes have been introduced replacing Novice. A Ladies class has also been introduced. The Ladies class is not on the regular schedule and a number of races will depend on participation. Plans are also in the works to hold go-cart races at the Speedway.

The 1996 Dream Weekend 200 scheduled for for September 27-29 will be at Autodrome Edelweiss Speedway.

Brian Mulligan will be the track announcer this season and was made Master of Ceremony for the banquet as well. Brian is a welcome addition to the speedway staff and brings with him years of knowledge of the races and drivers and a true love of the sport.

An excellent four-course meal was preceded by a blessing from Rev. Pastor Mel Vice of Brockville. Pastor Vice is also an experienced race fan and participant. His blessing included praying for the safety of all drivers.

Awards were presented to drivers by promoter Lalonde and Clement Doyon, Autodrome Edelweiss Speedway Committee president.

Doyon organized a volunteer committee to help with promotion and organization. Two of the committee members, Guy and Manon Bernard, were the principal organizers of the banquet. Hats off to all the committee members.

Dancing and socializing followed the awards. A good time was had by all.

Question: How would you suggest starting seeds indoor?

Answered by : Ginette Brown

Growing your own plants from seed is not only cheap, but very satisfying and it is often the only way you can grow some of the lesser-known varieties.

Starting off seeds indoors means that you can cheat the seasons. With the extra warmth, the young plants will be well away by the time they are transplanted outdoors. Just make sure that you have space to keep the growing plants indoors until May and don't be tempted to sow more than you can accommodate.

Only those half-hardy annuals which need a long development period should be sown indoors now; fibrous-root begonias, carnations, gloxinias, lobelias and sweet peas.

Don't be tempted to sow faster growing half-hardy annuals now as they always get too big and sit straving in their boxes long before the weather is warm enough to plant them out. A minimum temperature of around 59 degrees F (15 degrees C) is necessary for good germination.

Seeds need two things to get them started: moisture and warmth, preferably bottom heat of some kind.

The most dangerous time in a seedling's life is when it is transplanted; minimize the danger by using a compartmented plastic tray. A series of individual soil blocks are formed when the soil mix is packed into the compartments. A seed is sown in each one, or several on the case of smaller seeds, and the soil mix watered. As the tiny plants grow, pop out the soil mix cubes, plant the seedlings without disturbing their roots, and re-use the tray for another crop.

Very fine seed should simply be scathered over the surface of the soil mix, then dusted over with sieved soil mix or peat.

Hard-coated seeds benefit from soaking first, to speed up germination. They also have their tough outer coat scratched or chipped to let in the moisture; sweat peas are a prime example.

Once you have sown the seeds, cover the trays or pots with a lid — glass covered with paper or clear plastic — to keep the soil mix and the air humid. When the seeds have germinated, remove the paper covering, as the seedlings will need light as well as warmth and moisture.

Happy planting.

Special thanks from Kayleigh Boyd

On Saturday, March 16th, the Morrisburg Lions Club hosted the CJOH No Stars in special event to help raise funds for Kayleigh Boyd, an eight-year-old youngster from South Mountain who was diagnosed with Rett Syndrome when she was two years of age.

Kayleigh has since outgrown her wheelchair, and is need of a new one. The fund-raising special hockey game was for the purpose of helping to raise money in order to purchase a new wheelchair.

The following is a letter to the editor, which was submitted by Kayleigh's mom, Mrs. Terry Boyd.

Dear Sir:

On Saturday, March 16th, the Morrisburg Lions Club held a fund-raiser consisting of a hockey game against the CJOH No Stars. At the end of this entertaining game, our daughter, Kayleigh, received a generous donation. This donation will help us greatly with the purchase of her new wheelchair which she needs because she has outgrown her old one. (The old chair) is also net meeting her orthopedic needs and concerns and she needs to be able to rest properly after having a seizure and a bed or couch is not available. It is our hope to give her outgrown wheelchair to another little girl.

Our daughter, Kayleigh, was diagnosed with Rett Syndrome when she was two years old. Before then, Kayleigh never walked independently, had rapidly lost her speech, hand skills, crawling on the floor and up and down the stairs, began to hyperventilate and breath hold every waking hour and put her hands in her mouth. After diagnosis she lost interest in her world, laughed and screamed throughout the night and had difficulty chewing and swallowing foods. This is the second stage of Rett Syndrome. Today, she is in Stage Three. Some of the difficulties have left and others have arrived. Kayleigh is bright, happy and enjoys life. We a re all still learning and searching new ways for Kayleigh to communicate with us. She has so much to say (like any eight-year-old), but cannot express it verbally. She is very patient with us as we teach ourselves and her new methods. Her zest to learn surprises us daily.

Having Kayleigh in our lives has taught us so much. We cherish each day with her. Her bright eyes talk to us, her big smile every morning, her patience when we don't understand, her courage as she faces daily seizures and the operations that lie ahead and most of all that good health is a gift, not to be taken lightly. There are so many other special children who have taught others the true gifts in life.

Throughout the past six years, we have received great support from our families and the communities surrounding us. This recent donation from the Morrisburg Lions Club is just one example of the wonderful work of local service clubs. Children like Kayleigh benefit every day from the generosity of these clubs. We wish to express our deepest thanks to the Morrisburg Lions Club, the CJOH No Stars, and to all those who attended the hockey game. Judging by the huge smile on Kayleigh's face when we talk about choosing her new wheelchair, we know she is proud and excited. Once again, thank you for remembering and caring about our daughter.

Sincerely,

TERRY, DEAN, KAYLEIGH BOYD & FAMILY

BAKER–Richard and Lorraine are extremely proud to announce the birth of Megan Victoria weighing 8 lbs. 5 ozs. on Thursday, March 21, 1996. A little sister to Jessica. Granddaughter for Earl and June Baker, Morrisburg and Cecil and Margaret Skuce, Ottawa. Great-granddaughter for Nina Skuce of Lynwood Park Retirement Lodge, Nepean. Special thanks to Dr. Sharon Caughey, case room staff and maternity ward nursing staff at the Riverside Hospital for support and care. 13c

CARD OF THANKS

CAMERON–We would like to thank all the people who sent us sympathy cards, all the neighbors who took such good care of Russell, along with everyone who took the time to take him to the hospital, The Village Green who took care of the beautiful flowers, and the Church for their delicious lunch. We would also like to give special thanks to the staff of Winchester Memorial Hospital for the loving care they gave Alice. Special thank you to our wonderful friend and doctor, Dr. Houze.
–Russell Cameron and Elizabeth Dillabough 13p

SALMON–I would like to thank all my friends and family for their cards, calls and flowers during my recent illness and stay at W.D.M.H. A special thanks to Dr. Chande and the O.R. nurses on the 2nd floor. I would especially like to thank my mom for her help these past months.
–Sandra 13p

LAUSHWAY–To say thank you to everyone who helped us in our time of sorrow, just doesn't seem to be enough. Though our hearts are heavy, we are overwhelmed by the outpouring of kindness. They say one of the downfalls of living in a small town is that everyone knows everyone's business, but there are many great things about small towns. One being, the sense of community support. Though Greg is gone and sadly missed every day, we can consider ourselves blessed that we knew him and blessed that a part of Greg lives on in Steve and Baylea. We thank everyone for their love and support.
–Steve, Patti and Baylea 13c

CAMERON–A sincere thank you to all those who helped make my 90th birthday a huge success, with their gifts, cards, phone calls and those who came from a distance to attend the birthday party on Saturday.
–Clifford Cameron 13p

IN MEMORIAM

BARKLEY–In loving memory of Linda (Van Allen) Barkley, March 26, 1995.
A smile for all a heart of gold
One of the best this world could hold
Never selfish, always kind
These are the memories you left behind.
Our heart still aches with sadness
And secret tears still flow
For what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
When we are sad and lonely
And everything goes wrong
We seem to hear you whisper
"Cheer up" and please be strong.
They say time heals all sorrows
And helps us to forget
But time so far has only proven
How much we miss you yet.
–With love always, Mom and Dad and family 13c

HOLLISTER–In loving memory of a dear grandmother, Mabel, who passed away March 25, 1989.
Your presence is ever near us,
Your love remains with us yet;
You were the kind of grandmother
Your loved ones would never forget.
–Nancy, Gary, Jeff and families 13p

RUTHERFORD–In loving memory of a dear husband and father, George E., who passed away 4 years ago on March 30, 1992.
Tis well he will suffer no more
In the loved land of the blest,
Pain fled as he trod heaven's shore;
It left him at peace and rest.
–Lovingly remembered by his wife Vera and daughter Mary Ann 13p

BARKLEY–In loving memory of a dear sister and aunt, Linda, who passed away March 26, 1995.
Sweet memories will linger forever;
Time cannot change them it's true;
Years that may come cannot sever
Our loving remembrance of you.
–Sadly missed Rodney, Jill, Scott and Carrie 13p

Catholic Women's Institute prepares for elections

MORRISBURG —"This year, 1996, is the time for election of a new Catholic Women's League executive," said Nominations and Elections Committee chairperson, Elise Weagant at the council's regular March meeting on Monday the 18th in Morrisburg.

Mrs. Weagant distributed Nomination Form papers to the 24 members in attendance and noted that copies would be at the back of both churches for those who were absent. "The only position not open for nominations is that of President," she added, "because President-elect, Debbie Byvelds has assured me she will assume that office."

Mrs. Weagant encouraged all members to consider the matter thoughtfully but at the same time, to "not hesitate to nominate someone you think can represent your feelings on the executive; someone that, like you, cares about their Church and their faith; whom you think would be good at a particular position." The nomination papers must be in by April 15th and the new slate of officers will be presented at the May meeting.

Other business entailed an account of the St. Patrick's Tea and Bazaar success; notice of the death of Father Fred Magee, the Oblate priest in charge of the mission at Davis Inlet; and a report on the safe return of the St. Joseph students and teachers who had been on a Dominican Republic mission trip. Also noted was the upcoming membership drive to be held during the last two weeks of April and the invitation to all members by President Sandra Brunt to attend the Diocesan Convention in Kingston on May 4th and 5th.

Guest speaker for the evening, Andre Bourget, was then introduced by Spiritual Convenor, Mary vanMoorsel. Andre, who is deaf, lives in Iroquois with his wife, Gertrude who is also deaf. Through sign language and the help of a blackboard, Andre explained the difference between ASL (American Sign Language) and AEE (American English Exact) and how a combination of the two methods is the best means for the deaf to communicate with others. He emphasized how important facial expression is in communication, as well as gestures.

The Bourgets moved to the area two years ago from Sault Ste. Marie where Andre worked with the Ministry of Transportation until his retirement. Andre was ordained a deacon of the church in 1985 and his ministry is The Deaf of Ontario, a huge undertaking where he can be in the Sault area one week, Ottawa another week, Cornwall, and here the next. He has instructed sign language classes for 24 years and is presently teaching a small class on Wednesday nights at St. Cecilia's school.

Through facial expression and hand gestures, Andre had no problem making CWL members follow his skit, a humorous look at an impoverished fellow who knows how to get what he wants without paying for it. In the same way, he told them about his early relationship with his wife who, before their marriage, was taught in Oral French and could not sign. Andre, who was taught in Belleville, said he had to first overcome the language barrier and teach Gertrude sign language and then, he says, they fell in love! He added, "Our signs are gifts of God because now we can communicate."

Mr. and Mrs. Bourget were thanked for coming and Mr. Bourget was presented with a gift by member Rejeanne dePuyjalon for his presentation.
