Newsbriefs

Santa Claus

(Staff) - A group of Chesterville village merchants has banded together to sponsor the annual Chesterville Santa Claus parade. The pre-Christmas event has formally been under the supervision of the Chesterville Chamber of Commerce. When the future of the parade appeared in doubt a group spearheaded by Audrey Cross decided to step in to keep the spectacle going. The date has been set for Saturday, December 14 and the time will be 1:30pm. A route has yet to be decided.

New clerk

(Staff) - Chesterville village will have a new municipal clerk-treasurer November 18. Robert Casselman, 25, an Ottawa resident, will assume his duties here. Formerly from Morrisburg, Mr. Casselman, was councils choice of 52 applicants for the position.

Public meeting

(Staff) - A public meeting will be held in the village of Chesterville October 28 at 8pm in the Community Hall. Council and the village recreation department are encouraging residents of the village and surrounding areas to attend in order to discuss the community centre feasibility study which has been commissioned by the village. The public meeting will be held to outline the procedures that will be available to individuals and groups to express their ideas on the matter.

Cards galore

Staff) - Legion Auxiliary lady euchre players will descend on the village of Chesterville 160-strong on Saturday. They will be here to play in a Eastern Ontario tournament. Last year's winner of the tournament, the Chesterville branch delegation, is hosting the event. The winners of this round will proceed to the provincial final later on. There is one local team playing composed of Lois Cronin, Rita Moran, Mary McCloskey and Beatrice Riddell.

Meet the Candidates

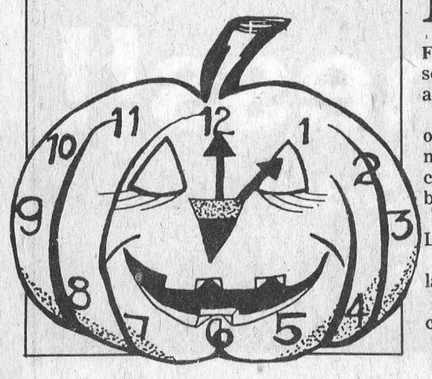
The public should not miss an opportunity to hear the Chesterville village council candidates points of view Sunday, November 3.

The Record is sponsoring an all-candidates' meeting in the Community Hall at 7pm. The public forum will be moderated by Jack Cross who will explain the ground rules to the speakers.

There are two persons contending the reeve's chair and nine candidates vying for three councillors' positions.

Timely Notice

Clockwatchers, remember to set the time back one hour at midnight on Saturday, October 27.



It's a a bird, it's a plane . . .

It was crane-out time in Long Sault last weekend when the boats came out of the water for the winter. Stormont Yacht Club was a hive of activity as craft and sailboards were stored away for the next six months. Boats at local marinas are few and far between at dockside since most of them, both power and sail, have been placed under cover until spring.

Full slate in village as battles loom

(Staff) - There's a battle looming in Chesterville village during the current municipal election campaign as the Monday deadline for filing nomination papers saw nine candidates vying for three councillors' positions.

Bert VanKessel has been acclaimed as deputy reeve in the village. But the contest for the top job, that of reeve, will be fought by Carl Ward, a veteran of seven years on council five as reeve, and Jim Cook, deputy reeve in the village for the past three years. Mr. Cook has spent five years on council.

Mr. VanKessel, who was deputy reeve from 1981-1982, lost out in 1982 in his bid for the reeve's chair.

Lining up for the three councillors' seats are Michael McMahon, Joyce Simzer, Wayne Smirle, Lorilee Erratt, Peter VanKessel, Roger Cole, Carmen Langabeer, Shirley Coons and Hugh Morrison.

Winchester Township

In Winchester Township, Gerald Holmes has been acclaimed as reeve.

Claude Cousineau will seek to retain his seat as deputy reeve but he'll be challenged by former reeve and deputy reeve Cecil MacNabb. In 1982, Mr. MacNabb, then deputy reeve, challenged Mr. Holmes for the reeve's position and lost by about 130 votes.

Albert St. Pierre and Dwayne Holmes will seek re-election as councillors, after councillor Wyman Barton announced last summer he will not run again.

Challenging the incumbents for three councillor seats are Robert St. Pierre, Norman Backes, G. Jack Durant, Douglas Warren and Ken Stewart, who has run unsuccessfully for council before.

Peter Van Moorsel has been acclaimed as separate school trustee for Dundas County. Rookie public school trustee Graham Casselman has also been acclaimed to represent the township.

Osnabruck Township

In Osnabruck Township, Stewart Hart is seeking re-election after seven years as reeve. However, he'll be challenged by former councillor Garnet Ezard.

Two men will vie for the deputy reeve's position, as incumbent Gordon Ross is challenged by present councillor Peter Zeran.

Seven hopefuls will try for three councillors seats, left vacant by the retirement of Ross Alguire and Rick Waldroff and Mr. Zeran's candidacy for deputy-reeve.

Wayne Summers, George Hehir, Jim Bancroft, Carson Elliott, Sue Doucett, Donald McElheran and Michael Dunne have announced they're running for council.

William Fleming has been acclaimed as public school trustee for Osnabruck and Finch townships.

Finch Village

November's municipal elections will not be a repeat of 1982, when all members of council were acclaimed.

Two village residents have entered the race for four councillor's seats. Terry Ouderkirk and Garry Ouderkirk will challenge incumbent councillers Barry Brownlee, Donnie Vollrath, Dalton Ouderkirk and Robert Casselman.

Long-time reeve Lynden Hough has been acclaimed as have the village's two hydro commissioners, Tom Sullivan and Gordon McIntyre.

Finch Township

In Finch Township, reeve Ralph MacKenzie will be challenged by Harry Dusomos. If defeated, Mr. MacKenzie will not become warden of the three counties in 1986.

Although deputy-reeve Donald Shane has been acclaimed, four men will be running for three councillors' seats. Newcomer Irvine Rainey will join incumbents Archie Byers, Floyd Dingwall and Armand Gibeault in the race.

School Boards

Sarsfield O'Connor, the separate school representative for Dundas County and west Stormont on the S.D. and G. County Board of Education, has been acclaimed.

Alphonse Lafrance, a Crysler area dairy farmer, has also been acclaimed in his bid to represent the township of Roxborough and Finch on the separate school board. He replaces retiring trustee Suzanne Charette.

Community-minded man donates $8000 gift to Crysler Fire Department

CRYSLER (Staff) - A Crysler man's gift of gratitude to the community may one day save lives.

Kenneth Kirk has donated a set of the jaws of life, powerful extrication equipment for us in vehicle accidents, to the Crysler fire department in memory of his wife, Elizabeth "Tiny" Blair, who died in May, 1984.

"I hope it never has to be used," said Mr. Kirk Saturday night as he presented a cheque for $7,824 to Crysler fire chief John Benoit at the annual banquet and awards presentations for S.D. and G. firefighters.

"As chief of this department, I find it very hard to find the words deserving of this very great donation," said Mr. Benoit. "You certainly have rendered their task much easier in providing the tools to do the job."

The community would benefit, he said, by equipment that could mean the difference between life and death.

The donation purchased the basic kit -- a manual spreader to separate crushed metal and a collection of hammers and knives -- and a portable, hydraulic cutter and spreader with a cutting force of 29,000 lbs. per square inch.

Crysler joins Williamsburg, Alexandria, Long Sault and Cornwall as the only fire departments in the United Counties equipped with the jaw of life.

For Mr. Kirk, the donation is a tribute to his wife.

In 1978, Mr. Kirk suffered a heart attack in Ottawa where the couple had been living. A year later, he retired as union representative on a post office union-management committee and president of the union local and they moved to Crysler, his wife's home.

He said they wanted to be close to her family if he should die suddenly. The village welcomed their return.

"We had discussed different ways of trying to be involved (in the community) and health-wise I couldn't be into too much," Mr. Kirk said.

However, they considered the fire department an essential organization in the community and discovered it lacked a set of the jaws of life.

"At the time, it seemed like a little too much money to put out," Mr. Kirk recalled. But following his wife's death of cancer a year and a half ago, the extrication equipment appeared a fitting memorial tribute.

A recent incident in his life convinced him the equipment would be appropriate. "A few months ago, some grandchildren of a very good friend of mine were in a car accident and they were trapped in the car," he said. If the equipment saves one life, he said, "It's money well-spent."

Two men were recognized for their contribution to their departments and the Mutual Aid association of United Counties' fire departments.

Allan McIntyre, the late fire chief of the Avonmore department, was awarded the Labatt's tray for outstanding services. Dean McIntyre, also of Avonmore, was presented with the Labatt's mug for distinguished services.

Chesterville fire department won the Fred Hill Insurance Training Program Award, only the second year in which it has been presented.

"We have two meetings a month or two practices a month," he said. "We train for ladders and we train for rescue equipment and breathing apparatus."

Occasionally firefighters practise using extrication equipment on old cars.

Arie Oosterman and Ross Casselman are in charge of the department's training program.

Newington fire department continued to sweep the points system, winning the Jack MacMillan trophy for the fourth consecutive garnering 243 points out of a possible 256.

Rick McDermid accepted the Labatt's Fire Prevention Trophy on behalf of the Newington department. It's awarded annually to the department designing and carrying out the best fire prevention program.

"Our goal is to fight the fire and there's no better means than to prevent it," said Mr. McDermid, the department's fire prevention officer. "It helps out really, and the public is getting more fire-wise too."

In 1984, the department responded to 19 calls. This year, Mr. McDermid said they've answered only about ten.

"This is a year-round project. It's based on home inspection, public meetings, educating the public about fire prevention, hazards at home and around the house."

Newington and Ingleside shared the Levitt Safety Supplies trophy for attendance at Mutual Aid meetings.

Finch seniors' complex opens doors

FINCH (Staff) - The long-awaited Finch senior citizen's complex will be available for accommodation November 1.

Sunday, October 27, the complex will be open for inspection by the public and manager Derla Loynachan said there's a lot o curiosity in the area about the interior of the building.

Asked what it looks like inside Mrs. Loynachan replied in one word: "Gorgeous."

"I wish I was able to move in," she laughed.

At the open house, which is from 1 to 4pm, coffee and donuts will be provided.

Mrs. Loynachan said there are 20 apartments already rented and six still available. Of these six two are two-bedroom units, three are one-bedroom apartments and one is designed for the handicapped.

In addition to the bedrooms there is a living room, kitchen equipped with fridge and stove and a fairly large bathroom. Each unit has either a balcony or private patio. A storage room and linen closet comes with each unit.

For those people who require parking space this can be arranged and each apartment has its own hydro meter. Hydro bills are then paid by the tenant according to his or her usage of electricity.

Renting one of the units can mean a move from a private home and people may take time to make this sort of decision, Mrs. Loynachan explained.

She noted Sunday's open house is not the official grand opening which will take place in the spring of 1986. This is an opportunity for members of the community to visit the facility and in her words "to realize it's not a nursing home."

The landscaping of the building is being undertaken on a voluntary basis by the Stormont Junior Farmers organization and many hours are being dedicated to beautifying the grounds by these volunteers.

Scout's honor

October 19 was Apple Day in Canada for the boy scouts. All over the country the boys were taking the opportunity to raise funds for their organization and Chesterville was no exception. The lads were part of the team which blitzed the village after school last Friday and Saturday. The Editor of the Winchester Press, Chris Must, helped David Smith and Chad McMahon with their sales.

Newcomer to municipal politics tries for top job in Finch Township

FINCH (Staff) - Saying his campaign stresses "co-operation, not confrontation," Finch township cash crop farmer Harry Dusomos is seeking the reeve's seat on council.

In his first run at municipal office Mr. Dusomos said his experience at the executive level with such organizations as the Ontario Farmers Union, the Stormont Soil and Crop Association and the Eastern Ontario Soil and Crop Association should stand him in good stead.

"I know a little bit about community life," he said.

Asked what he considers the major issues in the election locally he said "our township is falling behind."

Harry Dusomos

Of special concern to him, Mr. Dusomos said, is the road allowance where "the brush is coming out onto the roadway and the equipment we have in the township is not able to cope with the situation."

"I think I can give something that isn't there now, he said, speaking of his candidacy.

"If someone comes up with a problem I can at least give a definite answer."

"We can all promise castles in the sky," he added, "but we need help in getting some of these things when they are available."

He said there are many government grants at the disposal of those municipalities which pursue cash grants from the province. "A spirit of co-operation is being missed," he said.

Car stolen in Chesterville village

(Staff) - The latest of several vehicle thefts in the area occurred early Sunday morning when a Chesterville man's van was stolen from his home.

The 1981 Chevrolet van, belonging to Stan David, was stolen sometime after 1:30am Oct. 20 from the David residence on South Street.

Morrisburg police located the van on Church Road in the area of the Williamsburg township dump later that morning. It had been backed into a ditch and some of the interior's cushions removed, apparently to provide traction to get out of the ditch.

A 1984 Ford pick-up truck belonging to Greg Sullivan of RR1, Chesterville was then taken from his home near the dump.

Winchester OPP recovered it later that morning in Fulton's parking lot in Chesterville. Police have no suspects in either theft.

Morrisburg police say a similar incident occurred three weeks ago. Winchester OPP request anyone with information about this or any other vehicle theft to call them.

The Long Sault detachment recovered a car Monday reported stolen the day before. The brown, four-door 1982 Mercury Lynx, stolen from an Ingleside residence, was found undamaged near the Upper Canada bird santuary. No one has been charged.

Long Sault police have no suspects in a break-and-enter at a Finch Township residence Sunday. Thieves entered the house during the day and stole some money, apples, beer and cigarettes valued at $302.

Winchester police are investigating a break-in Sunday afternoon at the home of Arnold Kittle of RR3, Chesterville. Thieves forced open a rear door between 1:30 and 6pm and took a 19-inch color television set and a video cassette recorder.

A Williamsburg area man has been charged with failing to report an accident after a collison in Chesterville early Saturday morning.

Dalton Barkley, 42, of RR1, Williamsburg was southbound on Main Street South when his truck, a 1984 Chevrolet truck, struck a telephone pole near the municipal park.

Local crime prevention programs

(Staff) - A policeman's lot is not a happy one, according to the song, but the week November 3 to 9 is Crime Prevention Week in Canada and that should afford a little measure of happiness to local policemen.

Mainly involved with public public relations activities are the community service officers, Al Lummiss in Chesterville, Morgan Hill in Morrisburg and Bernie Gadbois of the Long Sault D detachment.

All three officers will be attending a banquet to be attended by the Ontario Solicitor-General in Cornwall at 5pm, November 4. At that time the Solicitor General will be honoring local groups which have contributed to preventing crime in our communities.

The officers will be attending a crime prevention seminar during the day, Monday, November 4, at the Cornwall Civic Complex. Some of the topics under discussion will be abuse of drugs and alcohol, crimes of violence, crimes against children, crimes against women and the plight of victims of crime.

November 7 and 8 will see quite a lot of activity as a workshop in the VIP (values, influence, peers) will be presented in conjunction with the teachers of SD&G.

In the village of Crysler a parent night to discuss the VIP program with teachers and parents will be attended November 5.

Newsbriefs

Heads caucus

OTTAWA (Staff) - Don Boudria, federal MP for Glengarry-Prescott-Russell, has been appointed chairman of the Ontario Liberal party caucus in Ottwa. The caucus includes all MP and senators from Ontario.

Block Parents given green light by council

(Staff) - Block Parents will soon be a reality in Chesterville village. Council gave the go-ahead to organizer Helen Wells at Monday's council meeting.

Mrs. Wells said the officially registered organization means "real security is involved" both for youngsters returning home after school and for older members of the community who might need assistance in case of accident or shortness of breath.

She emphasized, though, that Block Parents are not there to provide "a watering hole" or to administer first aid or lend other extraordinary assistance. They are there in place to serve as a relay station to obtain help from the proper sources.

"If a sign is in the window," she said "there is a responsible person at home willing to relay information."

"The volunteer has to pay a registration fee," she continued.

She explained what the group needed from council was both support and a commitment to place signs in the village. Council members agreed and the town foreman will arrange to place four signs at the outskirts of the village.

Tenders

Town foreman Jack Smith presented a list of tenders approved for the winter season. Snow clearing is as follows: three-ton truck, Roger Salmon at $45 per hour, with a standby of $2200; 150 hp snowblower, Jack Durant Farm Services $55 per hour with standby of $1250; 100 hp snowblower, Jack Durant at $50 per hour; tractor backhoe, Monast Backhoe at $30 per hour; payloader Jack Durant at $29.50 per hour; bulldozer, Sullivan Bros. at $50 per hour; all trucks tendered will be rotated at rates ranging from $32 to $35 per hour.

OPP say stay safe on Halloween

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Spooks and goblins are great and Halloween is a fun time of year but local OPP officers are warning children they must observe the basic rules of safety on this special night.

The local detachment is beginning a series of presentations in the local schools to teach youngsters how to remain safe on Halloween. The program centres around primary school age children and deals with such topics as wise costume choice, road safety and basic street-proofing.

A major concern at this time of year is vandalism. Although Halloween is thought by some to be a night when police rules are relaxed, this is not the case. The police want to remind everyone that damaging personal or public property is a criminal offense and those found to be responsible for such acts will be charged and required to appear in court. A conviction would result in a criminal record.

A spokesman for the Winchester detachment said vandalism has decreased in recent years and hopes are that the trend will continue. To that end the OPP has a full slate of officers on duty this coming weekend.

Milk producers prepare to elect representative

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - On Oct. 20, the 990 milk producers of Dundas, Grenville, Frontenac and Leeds counties will choose between two men running to be the Ontario Milk Marketing Board's regional representative.

Chesterville farmer Gord Johnson and Paul Henderson from the Spencerville area each hope to replace Dwight Bennett, a Kemptville farmer soon to complete his second four-year term as the four counties' representatives.

Johnson, 41, operates a 60-hand Holstein herd on 440 acres near Chesterville. A past chairman of the Dundas County Milk Committee and second vice-president of the Chesterville and District Agricultural Society, he moved to Chesterville in 1973 from Lanark County, where he ran a small beef operation. He was employed as a research technician at Agriculture Canada's Food Research Institute in Ottawa.

He wants within-quota levies, now about $5.14 per hectolitre, reduced further. The levies are paid to the Canadian Dairy Commission to dispose of surplus production. Mr. Johnson said the levy reached $5.75 a couple of years ago and was then projected to rise to $6.25.

He estimated the levy in costing him between $10,000 and $12,000 annually.

"If we had that extra money in our pockets, it would double what some of us are making a year."

Among his priorities are an end to the 15 per cent quota transfer assessment, which requires a farm owner to give up 15 per cent of his market sharing quota when he sells his farm his farm as an ongoing operation.

"That puts the new owner in a very awkward position," said Mr. Johnson, explaining the purchaser usually needs more quota to cover the expense of buying the farm, not less.

He said the assessment was introduced to control supply and build up the OMMB's quota bank. But he disagreed the assessment is necessary now.

Paul Henderson, a 15-year-old farmer from the Spencerville area, disagrees that the assessment should be abolished.

He said the 15 per cent quota loss penalizes the seller, not the buyer. If the purchaser's interested in the farm as an ongoing operation, he should be aware of all the costs and requirements.

The assessment, he said, prevents speculation when purchasing farms and quota.

Henderson, his father and brother milk 128 Holsteins on some 330 acres. A graduate of Kemptville College of Agriculture in 1970, Henderson has sat on the Grenville Milk Committee for several years and is now chairman.

He's been a director of the Spencerville fair for the last eight years with a total of 19 years involvement with the fair board.

"I think youth is on my side," he said, adding his age had initially caused him misgivings. He hopes his youth will be balanced by older members of the board.

"I personally feel the dairy industry is quite strong right now," he said, attributing its success to OMMB policies.

But he'd like to see quota prices, currently about $285 per litre for Pool 1 fluid milk, drop.

He agrees with Johnson that the within-quota levy should be reduced and suggests that processors, whom he holds partially responsible for the surplus of skim milkpower, should share some of the costs of its over-production.

Outgoing representative Dwight Bennett from a farm west of Kemptville said he has seen more "refinements" in marketing policies over the last eight years than actual changes.

He's proudest of the quota exchange, operating by telex across the province. He said the board experimented with other means of buying and selling quota before settling on the telex system.

"Mind you, we still have some concerns about rising quota values." Bennett said he would rather the money spent in other areas of the farm operation or to improve a farmer's standard of living.

Bennett said the regional representative must deal with local producers' groups who sometimes disagree with the board's policies.

The 12 regional representatives in Ontario are elected on a rotating basis. Grant Cameron of R.R. 2, Green Valley will continue to represent region 1.

New SFA leader slams "spills" bill

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - Warning Stormont farmers against the perils, of soon-to-be enacted provincial legislation David Whetter said the "spills bill is the most amazing thing of all. The potential for legal costs against farmers is tremendous."

Speaking at the annual meeting of the Stormont Federation of Agriculture Mr. Whetter took the place of last year's president, Don McAllister who was unable to attend the dinner here. Mr. Whetter was later elected to head the SFA for 1985-86.

He cited several projects during the year in which the SFA contributed, such as the Ontario Hydro power transmission line; a tribunal into crop insurance; and a lobbying day on Parliament Hill as well as a similar foray to Queen's Park.

He said the SFA had input into all these undertakings and had made its voice heard in many ways. He told members the group had a busy year working on behalf of the farming community. To this end he urged the membership present to make greater efforts during the year at recruiting more members.

"Last year our membership was second in the province but we've dropped five people this year," he said.

Because of the loss the rebate from the parent organization, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, would be considerably less this year and the books would be harder to balance, he explained.

Also elected to the new executive were director Bud Atkins who will represent the SFA in Toronto at meetings throughout the year. Attending the three-day annual convention in Toronto will be delegates Don McAllister (as past president); David Whetter; and Ian Hunt. Peter Mesman is an alternate

Vice president of the SFA for the coming year is Ian Hunt. A secretary will be appointed later by the executive.

Several township co-ordinators were elected. To represent Osnabruck townships Joe Jackson will serve for the coming year. A second delegate has not yet been found. In Cornwall township Stuart Clark and Barry Grant agreed to serve while in Finch township Joe Mekker and Case Michels are on the slate. Roxborough township will be represented by Rheal Forgues and Alain Legault.

Family farm concept endorsed by OFA

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - The Ontario Federation of Agriculture continues to stand firm behind the concept of the family farm.

At last Thursday night's annual meeting of the Stormont Federation of Agriculture here Doug Avery, an OFA director, said the OFA's official policy is that the "family farm should continue to be a cornerstone of the agriculture industry."

Mr. Avery described the goals of the OFA, recently formulated for presentation in a brief to both the federal and provincial governments.

The organization wants "to have the agricultural sector self-sustaining and working with government regarding a national policy for agriculture."

"This is the first time the OFA has set out goals for the agricultural industry in general," Mr. Avery said.

Mr. Avery, a Brockville farmer and farm management instructor at Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology, said lobbying projects undertaken by the OFA in the past year were a significant part of the organization's work. This will continue to expand, he explained, reminding Stormont farmers there are 24 greater Ottawa area members needed to be present at a nation-wide lobbying effort on Parliament Hill October 29, 30 and 31.

"The lobbying efforts of the OFA are increasing and this will be good for our policy down the road."

Another major area of concern to the OFA, Mr. Avery continued, is the Ontario Spills Bill. The OFA is opposed to the structure of the Act in which farmers will be held responsible for costly clean-ups they have no control over. "We're concerned about who is responsible and who should be obliged to pay.

Low prices, bumper crop may cause storage squeeze

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Low prices and a bumper crop could result in a shortage of storage space for Ontario corn.

"In Eastern Ontario, I do believe we may end up being a bit short on storage," said Clare Brown, a commodity purchasing manager with Casco Ltd. at Cardinal.

Because yields in the American cornbelt are expected to reach record levels, international prices for corn are predicted to be low.

Brown said producers will probably want to hold onto their corn and hope for higher prices in the fall.

"When prices are low people look for alternatives to selling," he said. "There's a resistance to sell. They (growers) want to retain ownership of it and look for the best market for it."

But he said Eastern Ontario farmers have no choice but to sell because there are few local storage elevators and on-farm storage facilities.

"As we're getting closer to harvest they know they have to sell. They can't leave it in the fields."

But he said the shutdown of the Seaway because of the recent Welland Canal closure will not immediately and directly affect local producers who sell to Casco. He said the four to five-week projected period for repair work is usually the time when Casco purchases locally grown corn.

However, should southwestern Ontario ports become backlogged with corn, Brown said all the province's exports could be affected.

Bill MacDonald, co-owner of MacDonald Feed Mill Otd., said it's too early to know whether there will be sufficient storage.

"That's difficult to say. My crystal ball isn't clear at this stage," said MacDonald. "If there is a tremendous demand for storage then yes, I could see there would be a problem."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC MEETING

Proposed Comprehensive Zoning By-law

Township of Roxborough

Notice is given to all persons in the Township of Roxborough. Notice is also given to all persons assessed in respect of land within 120 metres of the Township in the following municipalities: Townships of Finch, Cambridge, South Plantagenet, Kenyon, Charlottenburgh, Cornwall and Osnabruck.

Take Notice that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Roxborough will hold three public meetings concerning a proposed comprehensive Zoning By-law under Section 34 of the Planning Act, 1983. These public meetings will be held as follows:

November 25, 1985 - 2:00 p.m. - 4:00 p.m. at the Community Hall, Monkland

November 25, 1985 - 7:00 p.m. - 9:00 p.m. at the Community Hall, Moose Creek

November 26, 1985 - 7:00 - 9:00 p.m. at the Community Hall, Avonmore.

All residents are invited to attend these public meetings to have an input into the proposed Zoning By-law.

The purpose of the Zoning By-law is to regulate the use of land, buildings and structures as part of the process of implementing the approved Official Plan of the Township of Roxborough.

The Zoning By-law consists of a text and two maps. The text covers the following subject matters:

First - there are sections dealing with definitions, administrative procedures and interpretation which are designed to assist the reader and the Zoning Administrator in understanding and interpreting the By-law.

Second - there is a section on general provisions which are applicable to some or all of the zone categories and must be considered in conjunction with the specific zones.

Third - there are sections dealing with the specific zone categories for which there are lists of permitted uses as well as development standards such as yard requirements, lot areas, etc.;

The two maps are entitled Schedule 'A' and Schedule 'B'. Schedule 'A' covers the overall Township. Schedule 'B' provides the detailed zoning for the hamlets of Moose Creek, Avonmore and Monkland.

In general, the Zoning By-law classifies land according to the existing uses. The establishment of new uses will, therefore, be controlled through the rezoning process. This gives the Council the opportunity to assess the appropriateness of the location of a proposed development and to ensure that such development conforms to the policies of the Oficial Plan. However, any use which was legally in existence before the adoption of the Zoning By-law may exist for as long as the use continues, even if it is not zoned accordingly in the By-law.

Residents are encouraged to visit the Municipal Office prior to the public meetings to view copies of the proposed Zoning By-law. If you are unable to attend any of the public meetings, we will be pleased to receive your written comments.

Following the public meetings, Council will review all verbal and written comments received and may revise the Zoning By-law accordingly. After the adoption of the Zoning By-law by Council, notice of the passing of the By-law will be given and there will be a specified time period for filing of appeals (objections) to the By-law.

Copies of the proposed comprehensive Zoning By-law are available for inspection at the Municipal Office during regular office hours.

Dated at the Township of Roxborough this 15th day of october, 1985.

STUDY BYLAWS BEFORE BUYING
Before buying a house, study local bylaw restrictions as well as rights to make sure you can turn the property into the home you desire. Perhaps you want to increase the size of the house once you move in? Will the land-to-building ratio in the neighbourhood permit an addition? If so, what type of permits and inspections will be required? What types of materials and workmanship? Check for height restrictions, set-back minimums and grade allowance maximums if you plan to plant hedges, install fences, build a patio or pool, or regrade the lot. By studying relevant bylaws you avoid the possibility of having to do the work twice in order to conform.
Bylaws may also contain general regulations covering the type of vehicles which may be parked in the area and when they may be parked. There may be anti-noice laws and building and garden maintenace rules. Being aware of bylaw restrictions as well as rights before buying can prevent costly errors.

Executive elected for Seaway District Scouts

IROQUOIS (Special) - The first St. Lawrence District Scout meeting of the new season was held here. Over 50 leaders and committee members were present as the nominations and elections were held to fill the offices for the 1985-86 year.

The slate for this year include, president and public relations, John McAuley from Prescott; secretary, Etta Strong from Williamsburg; Chris Slater, from Prescott as treasurer.

Mr. McAuley gave a brief review of the past year, with highlights including the St. Lawrence regional conference, hosted by this district, visits to the U.S. scout camp in Pennsylvania and the return trip by the American groups. Some thirty scouts and leaders attended the Canadian Jamboree in July. Leader training was on the up-swing last year as several leaders took their part 1 and part 2 wood badge course. In addition, leaders from the Kemptville and 7th Prescott troop successfully completed their water safety course. Scoutmaster Wayne Tuck from 7th Prescott, also completed a campmaster course.

Last year also saw the district take part in the Trees for Canada program for the first time. About $4500 was raised through this event with 70 per cent staying in this district.

Don Kennedy, provincial field executive for this region then presented registration kits to each group.

Mr. McAuley reported that one of the highlights for this new year was already here, as he introduced the leaders of a new scout group from South Mountain. Under the sponsorship of the Matilda and district Lions club, a beaver colony and cub pack have started and will be known as 1st Mountain.

Groups represented at the meeting included Winchester, Chesterville, Williamsburg, Morrisburg, Iroquois, Cardinal, 9th Prescott-Johnstown, 2nd Prescott, 7th Prescott, Spencerville, Mountain and Kemptville.

DFA hopes to get politicians' ear

WILLIAMSBURG (Staff) - Farmers in Ontario are hoping the efforts of agricultural groups and sympathetic politicians will reverse the direction of two recent government projects that threaten the future of the industry.

At the annual meeting of the Dundas Federation of Agriculture last week, director Gordon Garlough authored two resolutions that spell out the local federation's opposition to the impending spills bill legislation and a recent drainage report that belittles the value of drainage projects in Eastern Ontario.

Both resolutions were supported by the crowd of 150 and Mr. Garlough will take up the cause again at the Ontario Federation of Agriculture meeting in Toronto next week.

Of major concern to Mr. Garlough is the spills bill which was passed in 1979 by the Conservative government but lay dormant until this summer when the Liberals took over and pursued the matter in earnest. The legislation has enormous implications for farmers, though he feels they aren't the target of the new laws. Farmers are the victims of poor planning and many could be wiped out if changes aren't made.

Mr. Garlough said the new spills law is the result of public concern over accidental spills of substances such as PCBs. The bill would make the owner of the substance absolutely liable for damages regardless of where a spill occurs and whose fault it is. A farmer who orders a substance and has it spill en route to his farm would be liable for all costs involved in cleanup and legal matters.

"Our major concern is the part that says the owner is liable rather than the organization at fault," he said. "In any other situation I know of, the liability is assessed by the courts according to who the court feels is responsible."

As the bill stands now, farmers would have no option but to pay damages and seek retribution through its courts.

Insurance companies have indicated risks are too high to offer any security to farmers, and companies selling the dangerous products would make sure farmers pay for the products before delivery to protect themselves from liability.

The result would ruin any farmer involved in a damage suit, said Mr. Garlough. "Farmers would have to pay damages up front, and while they might be able to get the money back through the courts in about five years, any situation like that would wipe a farm business right out. You wouldn't have to worry about the five years."

Mr. Garlough is not optimistic that any changes are in store for the bill before it takes effect Nov. 29. "As far as I know the provincial government hasn't shown any willingness to back away from its intentions. From the contacts we've made, it appears the bill is going through as it was made, period."

Hearings concerning the bill were held in late August, but Mr. Garlough, who attended one in Kingston, said the panel discussing the matter was more interested in advice on how to implement the bill rather than its contents.

While opposition to the spills bill appears to be in vain, Mr. Garlough expects the Environment Canada report on drainage can be successfully contested. In short, the report stated that much of the $11 million spent through the five-year Eastern Ontario Subsidiary Agreement was a waste. Grants through the joint federal-provincial program supplied farmers with two-thirds of the funds for drainage projects and the authors of the report stated that much of the land effected was inappropriate and wouldn't have been drained if farmers had been required to cover more of the costs.

Federations of agriculture across Eastern Ontario disagree, stating that the report is full of inaccuracies. Agriculture Minister Jack Riddell has joined the opposition and recently demanded that Environment Canada withdraw the report and issue a public statement in explanation.

"The report was obviously done by people who don't know agriculture and aren't aware of everyday facts of life," said Mr. Garlough. "I hardly know how to describe it, but the way they used the information was simply incorrect."

Mr. Garlough said the land inventory sources used to indicate that some of the land wasn't appropriate for drainage weren't accurate enough for the government to issue a fair statement. He said the sources couldn't provide for accurate translations to farm scale or field scale.

"It would be like taking a globe of the world and trying to measure in its scale the distance between Winchester and Ottawa. It's absurd."

Mr. Garlough said the immediate effects of the report would be to cut funds for drainage and make future drainage improvements prohibitive through costs. He added that the report neglected to acknowledge the other effects of drainage, most notably improved water quality and erosion control.

He said indications from the government on the drainage issue also reveal little interest in reversing a decision, but with the support of local politicians and the agriculture minister, he maintains a certain amount of optimism that the report will be withdrawn.

The Chesterville Unit is, once again, in charge of the Cabbage Patch corner. Please arrange that your many outfits for these dolls are in our hands by Nov. 14 to be mounted for sale. Please contact Millie Bradford, Anne Franklin, Verley Edwards or Olive Cass.

We would like to express our apreciation for all the support the ladies of the Chesterville area have given our hospital unit in the past...the bridge and euchre marathons, the baking and knitting and handicraft items and the many hours given by the 23 in-service volunteers in the hospital.

Kay Sharkey, blood donor committee convenor, and her faithful phoners and helpers are once again arranging for a donors' clinic to be held in the hospital on Nov. 27. Support from the donors in this area has always been very, very gratifying to donors and organizers alike.

Canada Post announces cut for Christmas

OTTAWA (Special) - Canada Post announced last week a two-cent discount on postage for Christmas cards mailed to destinations within Canada. Special stamps packaged in booklets of ten will sell for $3.20 and will be available for general sale at all postal outlets on November 4.

As a result of a cooperative effort with members of the Gift Packaging and Greeting Card Association of Canada, the Corporation with propose, for Christmas 1986, a five-cent reduction on postage. This special rate will be available to users of greeting card envelopes which will bear a printed matrix on which the postal code must be "ticked."

The plan will be monitored closely to assess its impact on public acceptance, mail volumes and processing efficiency.

Weber's "wabbit" feed

Believe it or not but those are giant carrots Mike Weber grew in his vegetable garden this season. Mr. Weber, a Crysler area resident, says he bought the seed for the vegetables locally. A retired farmer, he is a keen gardener and last year grew some extra-large potatoes as well. The carrots weighed two-and-a-quarter pounds apiece. Record Photo - Hanrahan

Colossal carrots

Gary Ouderkirk had a great crop of carrots this year, including one weighing 2½ lbs. The Finch area seems to have the right soil formula for prize vegetables.

Keep your kids in their place...

It's the law for everyone travelling in a car... but too many people don't secure their children properly.

For example:

- Small children must have harness straps fastened.
- Child safety seats must be attached to the car by the seat belt.
- When required, tether straps must be fastened.
- Shoulder belts or harnesses should not be under the arms.
- Lap belts should be low on the hips.

Child safety seats are only effective in reducing injuries when they are used properly.

Buckle them in.

The Editor's Notebook

Law of the road

In considering increasing the length of drivers' license suspensions for convictions of impaired driving the Ontario government is on the right track.

This savage crime must be controlled and lengthening the time of automatic suspension from three months to one year is the way to go in one dimension.

Another track is to educate the public, to hammer away at the awful implications of setting out in a potentially lethal machine in a drunken state.

Changing people's attitudes is imperative. The public in general is demonstrating increasingly less tolerance. And according to the police more and more people who have exceeded the legal limit of alcohol consumption to operate a car safely are opting to call a cab, or have a friend drive them home.

The Ontario attorney-general, Ian Scott, last week assured members of PRIDE (People to Reduce Impaired Driving Everywhere) his government is considering legislation to increase penalties. He cautioned the group that changes would be made but refused to give a time frame. He also said he favors revoking licenses completely after a third offense.

On the other hand, he has to balance the effectiveness of the rate of penalties correlated with the conviction rate. Judges may be reluctant to convict if penalties are too severe.

Meanwhile 40,000 suspended drivers are at liberty to drive their vehicles in the city of Toronto. Current budget restraints prohibit prosecutions.

Values like this are rather skewed. Public money can and must be better spent.

Democracy at work

The candidates are off and running for municipal office and in some local areas political debate should prove interesting.

One trend that has emerged in Chesterville village is the number of women candidates on the roster. A total of three women have joined six men for three councillors' jobs.

There has never been a woman on council in the village although Morrisburg village, Osnabruck Township and Matilda township have all elected at least one woman to office in the last five years.

This first in Chesterville is a positive sign of the times and an indication that women are taking an interest in civic matters to the extent of pledging their intentions to "do something."

Women, of course, have always contributed a great deal through the various organizations locally like the Women's Institute, the auxiliaries of the Legion and the hospital, the benevolent organizatoins like the Rebeccas and Eastern Star. But the commitment to join the men's world of government is often slight. This is a universal phenomenon in every country at every level of government.

We commend the spirit of these three women.

Doctors 'opting out' of OHIP not a problem

The Editor:

Your editorial in last week's Record dealing with "extra-billing" was a statement worthy of a politician, full of rhetoric but short in substance. May I give you some substance?

Doctors use the term "opting-out," politicians and journalists use the term "extra-billing." How many "opted-out" physicians do you know? Is it a problem? No, it is not. But it makes good politics.

There are 15,000 physicians in Ontario. Less than 10 per cent are opted-out, and they are specialists, located mainly in Ottawa and Toronto.

Some people in Chesterville will elect to attend an opted-out specialist, who will see them inside of three weeks, rather than wait three months for an OHIP specialist. This is the difference in service outside this area. Feeling spoiled?

Setting a schedule of fees, as the Ontario Medical Association does, is no different from you declaring in print that your newspaper is worth 35 cents. How would you like it if the public offered you 28 cents for it, indicated it was good enough for you, and that you could lump it or like it, but you have no legal claim to collect the other seven cents? Furthermore, while the price of your paper increases with increases in newsprint price, you are paid 28 cents for at least 5 years. This is the scenario that exists between the OHIP and Ontario Medical Association.

But "opting-out" is more about independence than money. The independence of the doctor and the individual person who is ill is at stake. Presently, there is a balance, where the system is in favor of the patient and doctor together. New legislation, outlawing the right to "opt-out" will load the system in favour of the government.

With the present system the doctor can work in favour of the patient; with a new system the government will tell the doctor what he can deliver to the patient and for how long. Doctors will become effectively civil servants. With that will come civil servant's hours, attitudes and service.

The next generation of doctors won't have any incentive to establish homes, offices, or reputations in rural Ontario's towns and villages. Commuting from city to rural clinics will be the order of the day. All services after 5pm will be through the local hospital and then only the very ill will be seen. Have you waited in a city hospital out-patient department recently? Three hours is a "normal" waiting time.

OHIP was set up originally as a friendly arrangement between the government and doctors of Ontario in 1967. The government is only friendly as long as it suits it and that applies to Conservatives, Liberals or NDP.

Doctors use their time looking after people and thinking about them. There is no time left to consider the next methods which the government will use to restrict doctor-patient relationships or a patient's access to medical care. Any confrontation with any government is an attempt to preserve the quality of medical care to the citizens of Ontario.

Drainage holds 'glimpse of hope' for farmers

The Editor:

On Radio Noon agricultural news, the Ontario minister of agriculture, the Hon. Mr. Riddell, stated that working paper number 40 should be retracted. This was also stated in the Eastern Ontario Farm Paper Oct. 8, Page 5, and other daily and weekly papers.

Do you know that that working paper holds a glimpse of hope for the farmers of all of Ontario, especially of Eastern and Northern Ontario, because it recommends (reference Page 48, article 9, working paper 40) that we as farmers would have a chance to participate in a democratic society by taking part in legal tender for drainage works, by calling for tenders to select an engineering firm to design proposed drains. According to the Hon. Mr. Riddell, we are to be denied this very basic right under the Canadian Constitution.

The Payne was named as one of the drains. This drain has now had three engineering reports, plus one more from H.H. Todgham, Engl. of Chatham. If this was done on a democratic tender for engineers, the "in tender" cost would more than likely have been a third, not counting the hundreds of thousands already wasted. Is the Hon. Mr. Riddell now also allowed to curtail freedom of expression in any and all publications, or do we look to you for protection in the hope that we may someday soon be able to partake in a democratic system which up to now has been denied us?

The Life of Riley

by Wayne Riley

1965.

As I sat cross-legged in the circle of the wolf cubs, I found myself almost unable to control the shaking in my arms. My elbows bounced against my ribs and my mouth was dry. This was no ordinary evening. Tonight, I would either falter or move a step closer to being a wolf.

"Wayne."

"Yes, sir," I called as I stood to attention. I walked inside the circle, the eyes of the other cubs following me.

"You are being tested," the old wolf said, "on your homemaker's badge."

"Yes, sir."

"Did you prepare a meal?," the old wolf asked.

"Yes, sir," I said. "I made bacon and eggs."

"And your sewing?"

My heart jumped. In every young man's life there is that moment when he knows he is no longer a boy. I tightened my grip on the shirt in my hand and then held it up to the old wolf.

"I sewed on this button, sir. My mother didn't help."

The old wolf held up the shirt and examined it. He looked at the knot of thread under the button. He looked at the knot of thread on top of the button.

"How much thread did you use?," the old wolf asked.

"Everything that was left on the spool,sir," I said. "I didn't want it to fall off."

"Well," the old wolf said, "it won't fall off. You've passed."

As I gave the cub's salute and turned to take my place in the circle again, the old wolf did a strange thing. He laughed.

1985.

The sizzle and flash of pain came so quickly that for a split second I completely forgot why I had, a moment before, licked my index finger and pressed it against the iron.

As I jumped back and cried out, it came back to me. This is the way it was done. Cut onions under water. Put salt in water to be boiled. Touch a hot iron with a wet finger.

While I tried to figure out what had gone wrong, I examined the smooth, shiny patch of flesh. It was eerie. I rubbed the spot with my thumb, hoping the sense of touch would reveal what my eyes could not see. It was no use. The fingerprints were gone, melted away as quickly as a plastic spatula on a stove

I held up the unidentifiable finger and suddenly it was all clear to me. The realization was as brilliant as the light bulb on a sewing machine. I was lousy at domestics.

This, of course, is not the kind of a realization that novels are based on. But this small moment of illumination still filled me with a warm glow.

You don't say someone is less of a man because he can't play the piano. You don't strike someone off your Christmas card list because he can't shoot less than 100 on the golf green.

I can't iron my pants without putting a double crease in them. So sue me.

Images of the past were now piling on one another. The potential sweater that became a blanket for my G.I. Joe because my mother wasn't able to teach me how to sew anything but rectangles.

The taped pant cuffs during my bachelor days that came unstuck during a date and the follow-up stapled hem that scratched my ankles.

The bed sheet that stuck to my iron.

Yes, I understood it all now. You don't judge a bed by its cover. You judge the man sleeping under the wrinkles.

But maybe there was more to this than just insight into myself. Yes, a philosophy for all men and women who have felt humiliated by their lack of knowledge of what colors can go together in the wash cycle and what sewing machine stitch should be used for shirt cuffs.

If you've ever examined magnets, you know that like repels like. It's the same thing with the business of domestics. Lint repels lint. Lint-free attracts lint.

The proof? Take the average married couple. One partner knows how to mend a tear. The other knows how to tear a mend. One is neat. The other is not so neat.

When one partner tries to make the other partner conform to what he or she wants around the house, the other partner is repelled.

I swear, this is no cheap attempt at getting out of housework. We are talking about the stuff of the universe here, the inner workings of nature.

The old wolf laughed at me 20 years ago because he was of the old way. Science, as advanced as it was (four-slice toasters and teflon are nothing to be sneezed at), was still in its infancy. He did not know that nature compensates short-comings through marriage.

The old wolf's laugh died away as my scorched index finger came back into biew. I turned the iron off and walked out of the room.

"Heidi," I called to my wife. "I need my shirt ironed."

"Oho," my wife said. "Are both your hands broken?"

"No, no, just listen," I said. I explained my theory. I talked about the magnets and the north and south poles and married couples. I explained and then waited for my wife to agree.

At first, she just looked at me.

"That is the most stupid thing I've ever heard," she said finally. "You're just too lazy to do your share of the work. Lint repels lint. It's not fair for one person to do all the work. Everyone has ..."

And one and on. I finally went back and finished the ironing. But I had won the point. She was repelled by my way of thinking.

The Farmer's Wife

by Wyn Thompson

October is a magical month, from hunter's moon to Hallowe'en. It is a time of chrysanthemums, of grapes and Macs and cider, of woodpiles and woodsmoke, of sunny days and cool nights. October is the traditional time of harvest, home, Thanksgiving and simply hearts full of pleasure at being alive.

It is now the season of the hunter and the hunted, small game first, then the bigger game of deer and moose and bear. The Farmer got all excited recently at the number of wild geese that abounded in our corn fields and dispatched me post haste to secure a new gun license and small game license for him from the powers that be. I did and he hasn't seen a goose since. Secretly, I am rather relieved for they are a majestic bird, but on the other hand as the 'Old Fiddler on the Roof' said in that magnificent play, I can understand the Farmer wanting at least one of those birds he feeds so well spring and fall each year.

Back to the other hunters! In your magical retreat from the mad world, amidst the tall and magestic timbers, where you annually spend a couple of indescribable weeks during November, do you, on occasion, even as Gregory Clark did complain, "Always," he muttered, "there is some damn fool who insists on spoiling the fun by wanting to fish all the time."

No doubt there are still a good number of hunting trips, during the month of November, about which that lively wit and fisherman could make the same complaint. Their sole aim is treking off into the wilds is the shooting of game and the bringing home of same. To this end make their abode, for two or three weeks of generally miserable weather, in old tumbledown farm houses having the roughest of accommodations.

They consume hurried meals of tinned food and well-boiled coffee. They tramp through dank and dismal bushes all day long, and spend relaxing evenings drying out their soggy socks and longjohns by a smokey kitchen range, interspersed with a few hands of poker and a few shots of whiskey, finally rolling lumpy mattresses, the kind that their wives would have sent to the dump long ago had they been able to get their hands on them. Comes the chilly dawn, and they shiveringly set forth into the bush once more.

"Nothing like it! Nothing can quite equal it!" said the Farmer after each of his few forays into this mystical, magical world of the dedicated hunter.

I think these are the types of hunters who never fail to bring home a deer. Those may even be the indominatable kind who smile gleefully from the front pages of our local papers each fall, with their magnificent trophies displayed on lines at their backs. And let's face it, that kind of "holiday" has its appeal to those who like it. God bless every smilin' one of them.

But there are others among the hunting fraternity who seem, to my way of thinking, to have much more fun. They, too, retreat into the thickly wooded wilds in the appropriate manner, where they are safely hidden away from bothersome jobs, demanding managers, feminine wiles kids and civilization generally. And whether they bring home game or not, they see to it that they have a whale of a time and gourmet meals three times a day with a healthy snack at bedtime to sustain them through their hours of fasting.

As far as I am concerned, I could enjoy this last retreat. With a few books, a good woodpile, a well-stocked larder, a bush trail to walk, I would need no further diversion being neither an ardent hunter nor fisherman.

The last place I'd yearn to be, during the month of November, would be stuck in the middle of the bush with the winds howling about me and no indoor plumbing. But I can understand those whom the weeks of November are a time of hardship and serious business. But I salute both kinds of hunters in their magical month of November, they've earned it.

On second thought it might not do, actually, to turn a hunt camp into too much of a resort, in two accessible a location. For one think, it might attract some female visitors, and that, I know, would be the last straw, for the ardent hunters.

But it seems to me, as a female looking on from a safe distance, that a sojourn in the heart of the bushland is good for the soul as well as the nervous system...for those who like it. And if fun and fellowship abounds, so much the better. Even if wild game dinners are mighty few and far apart.

Chesterville's Past

05 From the Record, Thurs., Oct. 26, 1905

Mr. Gordon Robinson, blacksmith of this place, grew a wonder in his garden this summer in the form of a squash. It measures 6 feet and 3 inches in circumference and weighs 104 pounds.

A verdict for the plaintiff for five hundred dollars and costs was given by the jury in the high court at Ottawa on Monday evening in the famous Moose Creek libel action, Watts vs. Munroe.

This was an action for $5,000 damage for alleged libel by Dr. J.E. Watts against Alex. Munroe of the same place. The action arises out of the following notice which was posted up in the village: Notice -- Asma cured in 24 hours. Coffins for sale cheap. Apply to E.J. Watts, M.D. and D.B. This action has already been tried three times and each time the jury had disagreed.

The jury was out almost five hours before it reached a verdict. The costs will cover the four trials and the taxed costs to be paid by Munroe will probably be about $3,000. In addition both parties have had expenses not covered in this amount.

25 From the Record, Thurs., Oct. 22, 1925

Saturday last Mr. Allan Ball a well-known farmer living on Maple Ridge, net with an accident that might have proved fatal. When driving home from Chesterville in the neighborhood of Mr. James Ball's place one of the driving lines broke and losing control of the horse it ran away. Mr. Ball attempted to jump out of the buggy at the rear and in doing so his overcoat caught on the back of the rig throwing him off his feet.

The horse ran west to Mr. John Allison's with Mr. Ball dragging over the rough road behind and the only thing that saved him from very serious injury was the fact that his head was kept from striking the road by the coat caught in such a manner that it held his head clear.

He received many painbruises and cuts and his clothing was almost cut to pieces.

A novelty Dance will be held in the Music Hall, Friday October 23rd, in aid of Chesterville Citizens' Band. Admission 50 cents each. Lunch at Mrs. Gillissie's Cafe.

On Saturday Oct. 17th, the auction sale took place at the former Methodist Church. Although the weather was raw and cold many a stalwart was present. The sale was lively and prices realized were far above the expectations of many.

The materials sold brought the round sum of $1365. The beautiful ash ceiling, the quarrystone of the foundation wall and the stoves were reserved. Considerable success is due to the eloquence and management displayed by the auctioneer, Mr. Ephrem Racine of Crysler and we are doubly grateful to Mr. Racine as he donated his service to the church.

Construction is expected to commence Monday on the new modern building to replace Fulton Bros.' store lost by fire early this spring, J. Howard Fulton told The Record yesterday. The firm of Sullivan and Sons, Arnprior, are the contractors.

The building will be a modern two-storey fireproof structure with a single-storey warehouse, and concrete floored basements. Concrete floors in the warehouse will add to the fire safety.

Chesterville and District has done itself honour once again by contributing almost three tons of used clothing in the National Clothing Collection. The third shipment was made Monday, this time 2140 pounds.

Parents predict growth over next decade:

St. Mary's CPTA recommends expansion, not transfer to St. Bernard's

(Staff) - A group of concerned parents oppose a suggestion to transfer grade 5 from St. Mary's school in Chesterville to St. Bernard's in Finch.

Last week, Ken Melchin and Neil McMartin presented a brief to the S.D. and G. County Roman Catholic Separate School Board on behalf of the Catholic Parents-Teachers Association (CPTA) protesting the proposal.

Rather than move a grade from St. Mary's, which now houses junior kindergarten to grade 5, Mr. Melchin suggested the school's facilities he expanded to accommodate the existing number of students and an increase of up to 20 students over the next decade.

Mr. Melcin said this week 203 students now attend St. Mary's although the school was designed for a maximum of 200. The school now uses two detached, portable classrooms.

The CPTA brief recommended that four attached rooms to provide space for storage, the library, French, special education and regular classroom teaching be added immediately.

In five to ten years, a fifth classroom would be needed for the additional 20 students.

Mr. Melchin said the CPTA was responding to a suggestion by the board last spring that a class be transferred to Finch because St. Mary's wasn't large enough.

He said parents were "resoundingly" opposed to the suggestion and began researching exactly where the students are and would be coming from.

Based on enumeration data and information from builders in Winchester and Chesterville, Mr. Melchin said St. Mary's could expect at least 20 more students over the next ten years.

Mr. Melchin said they found the "demographic centre" of the majority of St. Mary's students is moving to the Chesterville-Winchester area "rather than points east".

Should these incoming students be moved to Finch, Mr. Melchin said "a fairly high percentage" of children would have to be bused more than 12 or 18 miles to school. Some would even have to travel more than 24 miles.

"The population centre is moving farther west, and the school board wants to move them farther east," he said.

Although the delegation hoped to persuade the board to expand facilities at St. Mary's to accommodate the present number of students, Mr. Melchin said the board might consider, in light of the data, increasing the number of grades attending the school.

He also cited recent guidelines issued by the provincial ministry of education recommending that grades 5 and 6 be kept with younger students when possible for the benefit of all.

He noted that the St. Bernard's-St. Mary's split is already an exception to the guidelines and the proposal would make it more marked.

Speaking as a parent, he said he's very happy with the quality of education of his own two children receive at St. Mary's.

"My children get an extraordinarily good education at the school," he said. He added the board was made aware that it is responsible for the "distinctive" program the school offers.

He said board members and trustees at the meeting Oct. 15 commented they were impressed by the professionalism of the brief.

He said the board initially proposed the transfer because it thought moving a grade to St. Bernard's would be cheaper than additions to St. Mary's. However, he said finances are only one criteria by which the board should decide.

The board has not yet issued a decision.

Grin and bear it

Barney the safety bear whispers bus safety tips to Jason VanOers, a grade 3 student at St. Mary's School, Chesterville on Monday. Constable Al Lummiss of the Winchester OPP detachment and Barney return Wednesday to tell children how to be "street-smart" and stay safe on the highway, in the playground and at Halloween. Teachers Suzanne Higgins and Marianne Wouters organized the week's safety program, which replaces weeks devoted only to bus safety. Children from each grade will concentrate on a particular aspect of safety over the week and daily share with the entire school what they've learned.

Native South African speaks to UCW

(Special) - Mrs. Lorna Howse of Nepean, a native of South Africa, was the guest speaker on Thursday, Oct. 10, for the Thankoffering meeting of Trinity United Church Chesterville. She gave her listeners a personal look at South Africa and the people's troubles.

Mrs. Howse and her husband came to Canada several years ago by choice and two years ago were happy to become Canadian citizens. She titled her talk, "What it is like to live under apartheid." She showed slides of South Africa with its enormoux gold and diamond mines and its beautiful scenery. One member had travelled there.

The dining hall was beautifully decorated in autumn finery and guests were present from Williamsburg, Morewood and local town churches. Mrs. Howse was introduced by Hilda Belsher and thanked by Isabel Forward.

The meeting was opened by Gladys Smith who read an autumn poem.

Addie Campderros lead a sing-song of Thanksgiving numbers accompanied by Elsie Graham at the piano.

Suzanne Coyle read the scripture for the workship service following which Gladys Smith read the meditation and closed with a prayer composed by Peter Marshall.

The offering was taken by Alma Brownlee and Jean Kittle and dedicated by Gladys Smith.

The closing hymns were "Sing to the Lord of Harvest" and "Thank you God for Everything". A delicious lunch was served by the committee..

Meals on Wheels meets

(Special) - The Chesterville Meals on Wheels organization held their annual meeting and party for the recipients, drivers and friends Oct. 17 in the Nelson LaPrade centre.

The business meeting was brief and the reports all satisfactory. 1255 meals were delivered last year.

The previous executive was returned with the addition of Fred Cass as vice president.

Door prizes were won by Janet Schofield, Jack James and Freida Fawcett.

Addie Campderros and Helen Cross led a sing-song and Jim Bulger sang and played his guitar.

Marion Lynch directed a skit about the first female doctor in Chesterville with a cast of five.

Delicious refreshments and perfect weather completed a very successful occasion.

Laflamme, Anderson head ND student body

By Marjorie Rose
and Elena Pizzamiglio

After the long-awaited Thanksgiving break, we arrived back to school with lots of excitement in store for us. Once we returned, the head boy, head girl campaign was nearing its finale, with the candidates presenting themselves on Tuesday. On Wednesday, the whole student body cast their ballots, and our new head boy and head girl are Damian Laflamme and Carolyn Anderson.

The yearbook was once again on sale, and everyone had a chance to buy one before the Tuesday deadline. School jackets were also on sale, and we're sure that everyone grabbed a chance at this fabulous opportunity to remember "Tippy."

The citrus fruit campaign is also underway, with everyone able to sell fruit this year.

North Dundas could receive its very own Moon Ball. If we collect 1000 Mountain Dew cap liners, we could receive a moon ball to add to the long list of school activities available.

The Hallowe'en dance will be held tomorrow night (Thursday). It promises to be a good one, and everyone should be in attendance for this extravaganza.

The girls soccer team did not do that well against their tough competition at the tournament at Seaway, losing all three of their games by a close score. The Senior girls basketball team did do well though, capturing a 31-28 win against Char-Lan. The Juniors won 50-29.

A collection for the Eccleshell family was held on Friday after they lost their home to fire. We were able to raise $155.00.

Beating a path to Pennsylvania

These three local pathfinders have returned from an exciting four days on an exchange with American girl scouts in Pennsylvania. Their American counterparts visited Eastern Ontario in June. The girls, from left, Caitlin Wells, Elise Fodrek, and Gabrielle Slowey, demonstrated a few of the gifts they exchanged with their host groups in Pennsylvania. While there they visited historical sites, sampled Moravian food and went on a few shopping trips. Areas visited were Allentown and Bethlehem.

Three-way race for reeve in Rox. twp.

MOOSE CREEK (Staff) - An unemployed railway worker is challenging two veteran council members for the reeve's job in Roxborough Township.

Edmond Saucier, recently laid off by Canadian National Railways, announced last week he'll run for reeve. George Crites, now the township's deputy reeve, and John McIntyre, a councillor, are also seeking to replace retiring reeve Garnet Robertson.

Edmond Saucier

In a press release, Mr. Saucier said, "In this township when you're poor or in trouble the present government will reject you. I do not think that kind of treatment should be applied to any human being."

Last year, unemployed because of a back injury, he approached the reeve for municipal help in buying heating oil for his home.

"I believe that a change is needed for the simple reason that when I asked the present reeve for help the only thing I got was a brush-off."

In 1982, Mr. Saucier lost to Mr. Robertson by a vote of 42 to 1048.

Among Mr. Saucier's priorities are the improvement of Moose Creek's water supply, fire facilities and sewer system and the repair and maintenance of older homes through grants.

A graduate of St. Lawrence College, Mr. Saucier is bilingual and vice-president of Community and Personal Rights Organization, a Lunenburg-based organization that tries to help welfare recipients and the unemployed.

There will be a two-way race for deputy-reeve between Peter L. Mesman of RR1, Monkland and Donald Cumming of Maxville.

Five residents are running for three councillors' seats: John Brabec of RR1, Maxville; present councillor Ray Alguire; Erwin Loewen of RR1, Avonmore; Gilles Sabourin of Moose Creek and Laurent E. Souligny of RR1, Moose Creek.

M.H. Lusia Jasiewicz of RR5, Alexandria is challenging incumbent K. Fraser Campbell to represent Roxborough and Kenton township as public school trustee.

Money for music

The Stage Band Festival being organized and hosted by Rothwell-Osnabruck School in Ingleside received some financial help last week when the Finch and District Lions Club donated $100 to the cause. At left, Mavis Morris, a teacher at Tagwi, one of the participating schools, receives the cheque on behalf of RO principal Doug Murray. Archie Byers, Lions club president, makes the presentation.

Resource centre to go ahead

WINCHESTER (Staff) - The steering committee to establish a family resource centre here has officially informed the provincial Ministry of Community and Social Services it will go ahead with the project.

The candidates will meet next week to draw up a job description for a community worker to lay the groundwork for the centre, which will provide shelter for battered women and their children as well as various counselling services.

The 13-member committee was officially formed Oct. 17 at a public meeting of area residents volunteering their help for the centre, which will serve Stormont, and Glengarry counties.

"The community support is fantastic," said Erva Durant, chairperson of the committee to get the project underway, last week.

"I was afraid at first that we weren't qualified out here," she said, but added she was heartened that legal, real estate and employment restraining professionals had already offered their help.

Donna Denham, the social worker who had researched the need for a centre here, reassured the group there was help available from many provincial agencies and professionals.

She also said that Winchester is a model for the community-oriented approach the province will take to the establishment of centres elsewhere.

"Everytime we venture into something like this it's unique," Ms. Denham said. "Toronto is watching to see what happens here."

Few women from outside Dundas and Stormont attended last week's meeting and the majority were from the Winchester area. There is only one Glengarry County woman on the steering committee.

"I think one of the tasks will be to move out and involve woman from your other counties," said Ms. Denham.

More than $150,000 is available for the construction or renovation of a 10-bed house. On-going funding for staff and programs will be provided by the province, but the United Counties will pay a share of the daily occupancy charge per resident.

Although the counties will own the building, its daily operation will be the responsibility of a community board of directors.

Jr. C Flyers show they are ready to defend their league title

(Staff) - After shaking off the rust of summer in exhibition play, the defending champion Jr. C Flyers made it clear before a home crowd Saturday that they are ready to defend their title.

The Flyers pummeled the Lions 9-4 to close their exhibition schedule with a record of three wins and one loss.

The team was to open its regular season against the St. Isidore Eagles Tuesday night.

Despite the solid exhibition outing, Flyers coach Mike Armstrong said Saturday he wasn't taking the season opener, or the season itself, for granted.

"We had a good game tonight but Russell lost 11 players from last year and they're in the rebuilding stage," said Armstrong. "We'll get a better idea on how we're doing against St. Isidore."

Also anchoring Armstrong's optimism is the loss of Jerrold Boulanger until at least Christmas, Boulanger, one of the team's top players, injured his wrist in exhibition play against the North Stormont 86s last week.

On the plus side, Armstrong said a combination of tough league stick rules and better team discipline will cut down the number of penalties the Flyers take this year.

In Saturday's game last year's league MVP, Kevin Moore, made a strong effort of four assists with Jamie Cheney adding to the easy win with three goals.

The Flyers were the first to light up the scoreboard as Doug Newmon scored on a pass from linemate Terry Barkley at the 12-minute-mark in the first frame.

Four minutes later the Russell Lions replied with a goal scored by Bob Goodman to tie up the match 1-1.

Cheney scored his first goal of the game with a wrist shot high on the glove side of goalie Wayne Paquette. Moore made the assist to give the Flyers a 2-1 lead at 3:59 in the first period.

Barkley upped the Flyers lead by one with one minute left in the first period as Pete Van Kessell and Vince Cousineau combined for the assists to give the Flyers a 3-1 lead over the Russell Lions.

Then three minutes into the second period Russell reduced the Flyers lead to one with a goal scored by right winger Dave Warren to tally the score to 3-2 for the Flyers.

The Flyers kept up with their goal making pace as Cheney closed in on the net and flipped the puck in between Russell's goalie and the post to take a doubling lead over the Lions, 4-2.

Again the Lions came back to keep within a goal of the Flyers as defenceman Jeff Bracken scored from the blueline with a slap shot that deflected off a Flyers stick and went low into the net.

From then on the game belonged to the Flyers as rookie Kevin Byers scored the first of a series of goals on a pass from Todd Findley to lead 5-3 over the Lions at 3:09 in the second period.

With 40 seconds left on the clock Mark Guy took over to score after Barkley had out maneuver two of the Russell players for the pass to Guy to give the Flyers a lead of 6-3.

The Flyers continued to score early in the third as John Guy and Mark Guy connected for the assist on Cousineau's power play goal to lead 7-3 over Russell.

The Flyers followed with a short-handed with a goal when Cheney blasted a shot from just inside the blue line at 9:08 making it 8-3.

The Flyers last goal of the game was at 5:38 in the last frame as Carl Bartholemew finished off a scoremaking pass from line mate Moore on a power play.

Russell made a last second effort to mend a scoring disaster as Pat Paquette scored with 43 seconds left in the last period as Paul Cochrane made the assist on the short-handed Russell goal to finish the match 9-4.

The Flyers will be playing away at Alexandria tomorrow night at 8pm and away again on Sunday in Embrun at 8pm. Their second home game will be Tuesday at 8pm against St. Isidore.

Collision course set

A confrontation in front of the Russell Lions net went against all the new rules set down for the Eastern Ontario Jr. "C" League as one of the Chesterville Flyers has a Lion's player bent over backwards. The Flyers defeated the Lions 9-4 in exhibition play, giving Chesterville their third win out of four exhibition games.

Three teams share first in Finch Broomball league

FINCH (Staff) - After two league games of the Finch Men's Broomball Legue Brownlee's, Finch and Avonmore Animals share a three-way tie for first place.

The eight team league played here on Saturday as D&F Foam took a convincing 5-1 victory with D&F Foam's Noel Lalonde leading the squad with four out of the five goals scored.

The Rush City Raiders clung to a 2-1 edge as Raider's captain Doug Ferguson scored both goals with linemate George Bell collecting on both assists to narrowly defeat Monkland.

Brownlee held their first place standing after defeating the Bush Bandits 2-0 as Roy Steel and Derrick Summers powered the team to their 2-0 win.

The Avonmore Animals easily defeated the Avonmore Rockets 3-0. Danny St. Pierre was the chief scorer on the team with two goals and Donnie St. Pierre scored the remaining goal.

The league continues on Saturday night with the first game beginning at 7pm.
