Water system underway at last

Stewart & Broad, Prescott get contract at $212,685.00

Just a year and one month from the opening paper work, Chesterville's water system is under way. A Prescott company, Stewart and Broad, won the contract for the works. On July 28, 1959, the Water Resources Commission certificate of approval to investigate the possibilities of a system and test drill was signed. Today, August 25, the first of the pipe is expected to arrive and digging will start on Monday and Tuesday. The contractors have been in town all week making final arrangements for the work to start. They hope to have the system under ground and tested before winter comes. The water tower contract was awarded to Horton Steel Works Ltd., of Fort Erie, Ont.

Tenders for the system were called last month. Six firms submitted bids and the lowest was accepted by the Water Resources Commission to do the work. Stewart and Broad, of Prescott, have had considerable experience in water system work. Their successful bid was $212,685. Val d'Or Construction, Petawawa, bid $224,290 and the third in line came from the Chesterville firm of Roads Resurfacing Co. Ltd., with $258,189.33. Two others followed: M. Barr Construction, Kingston, $280,034, and Keystone Construction, Ottawa, $306,458.96.

The steel storage tank that will rise just east of the Hydro sub-station on north Main will be erected by Horton Steel Works, Fort Erie, at a cost of $44,910. Other bids were received from Bridge and Tank, Toronto, $8,200, and Sparling Tank, the company who built the Winchester tank, $54.955.

Engineers for the system appointed by the Commission are J. L. Richards Associates, Ottawa.

Village councillors and the reeve have expressed themselves as very pleased with the speed at which the installation had begun. In spite of an occasional frustrating delay everything has whipped along at a better rate than red tape normally allows. The first hurdle had to be proof that enough water existed underground and of good quality. Ramon Casselman was ordered to start drilling last October. By February of this year he had two wells proved that offered a capacity of over 200 gallons a minute of good water. This program nicked the bankroll for just over $12,000.

Confident that Chesterville would get approval for a system, the village council went ahead and instructed J. L. Richards Associates to begin the necessary final engineering surveys. It was hoped this would save some valuable time; especially as the system was wanted in operation by the winter of 1960.

The gamble paid off. When final approval was made by the Commission, the town had most of the engineering in hand, waiting for the tender calling.

No definite time can be stated for completion of the works. Fall construction is tricky and the weather will have a lot to do with progress. The middle of November is a target date, but not binding. Construction of the 125,000 gallon supply tank will go forward with the other digging. Horton Steel estimate a time limit of 22 weeks at the outside for their part of the work. It is thought this time figure will be closed up considerably, as the job begins.

Stewart and Broad will have about 10 or a dozen men under employment for the job. They will use the open triangle of land at the junction of the Nation Valley road and Highway 43 just west of the fair grounds as a location for their equipment and construction buildings.

Pipe, made of asbestos cement, will start to arrive today, and will be laid alongside the curbs throughout the town.

Calf Club members meet at Morewood

Morewood 4-H Calf Club held its August meeting at the home of Mr and Mrs Mac Thompson on Monday, August 15. The president, Bill Smirle, opened the meeting with the 4-H pledge.

The secretary read the minutes of the last meeting which were approved. Roll call followed.

A class of Holstein cows were judged by the members. E. K. Pearson gave the final placing. Malcolm MacGregor, club leader, demonstrated the proper way to clip a calf. Several showmanship pointers were given by Mr Pearson and Mr MacGregor.

Members were invited into the house where Mrs Thompson served a delicious lunch. Bill Smirle thanked Mr and Mrs Thompson for their hospitality and the meeting was adjourned.

Chesterville's water system construction is about to start. At least that's what the headline says on this page. After the stalls, waits and general thrashing around, it will be a wonder when they finally start to dig. Even so, it will be nice to have running water about the place without the bother of pumps, wells and other noisy contraptions. Of course, lots of people disagree with our view on the matter.

Back in the early Twenties, a lot of people disagreed too when the head of the family decided to invest in a pressure system on the farm and attach a real, honest-to-goodness indoor flush toilet to it. The idea of having a room where one could sit in comfort and read Eaton's catalogue was just too much. But by the middle of the winter, when usually one was down to the harness section in the catalogue, and the north wind was whistling, then we smiled a smile of solid comfort. The indoor Chic Sale was one piece of porcelain that would never leave the premises.

The water system then was slightly different. Hydro power had not reached the country estates yet. As a result the power consisted of two young male members of the family. Every Sunday, as soon as the family jalopy was stabled, we headed for the cellar and started to pull the pump handle. We had to get the pressure up in the big tanks from then until dinner was ready. And none of your miserable little thirty-gallon tanks either. Two big, 100-gallon models squatted against the wall daring us to make them run over.

In those days we read voraciously and believed all we read. One of the fads about that era was "physical culture" and the two brothers in question went in for the p.c. business in a big way. We would try and get the pressure up without stopping and between gasps boast how good we felt yanking on the pump handle. We also took lessons on how to be strong by correspondence. Combine that with a normal farm boy's life of doing chores and regular farm work, and it is easy to see why we stopped manual labour long ago. The sybaritic attitudes developed by the indoor plumbing, along with the nauseating attempts to build muscle through effort left their mark on this writer. The first attitude remains, if only through necessity, but the muscle building, like walking, is a lost art.

The new water system will mean we won't even have to hear the pump work.

Fair preparations complete

President Malcolm MacGregor of Chesterville Fair has expressed his satisfaction at the state of readiness evident as Chesterville Fair approaches. Next Tuesday will find the kids in the midst of field sports and on Wednesday the big main fair will hum all day at the grounds.

Entries have been coming in at a fine rate to the secretary. Ayrshire cattle will shine this year as the big Red and White Show gets under way and Eastern Ontario Guernsey Show entries will swell the cattle pens to the bursting point. Holsteins, Jerseys and beef types will round out the cattle entries.

The horse sections have promise of being as large or larger this year, with the Cass, Bank of Nova Scotia and Royal Bank trophies eagerly sought after.

Fun for the kids will be centred around the midway tents. March's Shows will preside in that department as in other years. They will have rides galore, games for every taste and miles and miles of candy floss.

See you at the fair.

TUESDAY KIDS' DAY AT FAIR GROUNDS

Next Tuesday will be Kids' Day at Chesterville Fair Grounds. The fair board plans are just about complete for a bang-up field day full of games, contests and races to delight the young in heart.

Former principal and fair secretary Hosea Droppo will be on hand especially for the events to give secretary Sarsfield O'Connor and his directors a hand.

All kids of the community are expected to be on hand to take part in the big free field day. The events start at 2 p.m.

OPINIONS . . . OURS AND OTHERS

Chesterville Fair

Next Tuesday and Wednesday Chesterville and district will watch the skies anxiously. Just about the time for Chesterville Fair, the weather is apt to misbehave.

A great deal of effort has gone into the fair this year. Directors and others have been working steadily to keep up the high standards set other years. Cattle and horse classes promise to be full and interesting. This year there will be more machinery on display and more tented displays than for many years.

Chesterville and district Safety Council has plans for a continuous show and display under canvas. The display will include movies and a place to rest tired feet.

A word of thanks is due the baseball club. This year they took it upon themselves to see that the domestic science building got a new coat of paint. Nelson LaPrade has been working at it like a beaver and the job is just about complete.

The big March midway will be on hand again and horse races will stir the dust and the spectators.

Tuesday at 2 o'clock a special field day has been arranged for the kids. Games, races, contests and such will be under the charge of former secretary Hosea Droppo who will be on hand for the day. All kids of the district are invited to be on hand Tuesday for the big field day.

Wednesday is the big day and as we say each year: "See you at the fair."

Dry and drier

Rain is sadly needed throughout the immediate district. There has not been much more than a heavy dew for the past month or more.

Crops have benefitted and suffered. Early grain has come to a head and ripened quickly, and been harvested just as quickly. Most reports mention heavy yields and fairly long straw. Late grain and corn is another story.

Corn is getting shorter by the day. Instead of making full use of the hot weather, it has started to shrink under the long scarcity of moisture. Late grain and pastures are burning up. Pasture fields are brown and dry and aftergrass is suffering.

The Nation is feeling the lack of rain. The level has dropped steadily under the relentless sun, and every day finds the level a little lower. If it is getting a charge from the St. Lawrence, the amount can't keep up to the demands made upon its supply.

The farmer is starting to feed his precious winter hay, to supplement dry pastures, in some cases. When that happens around here, it must be really dry.

A hard rain would work wonders—any time but fair day.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Keith:

I have forwarded the following letter to N.D.D.H.S. Board, and would appreciate a bit of space to have it published in the "Record." —G.W.G.

Chesterville, Ont.,
August 22, 1960.

The North Dundas High School Board of Education,
Winchester, Ont.

Gentlemen:

As the father of three boys who have had distinct benefits from Cadet training and the personal benefit of this training as a young student, I feel it my duty to question the reasons why this benefit has been denied the students of Chesterville, particularly without some reference to the parents of those affected.

Looking at the boys and girls going to and from school, anyone can see for themselves the need of some program to help the youth of today carry themselves with some improvement. There is nothing more pleasing than to see a young person go down the street, head erect, arms swinging, and a purposeful walk. We are to institute a course of instruction in how to drive a 200-h.p. car, but not how to carry a one-man power body. The driving course will cost the taxpayers of Chesterville hard-earned taxes, but the Dominion Government will sponsor and pay the expenses of Cadet training, yes, and to those who wish it, how to drive motor vehicles at summer camp, without any direct cost to Chesterville taxpayers.

A strange procedure has come to light in this respect. We have a Board of Education, apparently not elected to carry out the wishes of the taxpayers and the parents of the students, but an appointed Board who, apparently, do not have to answer to the public whom they are expected to serve. Do we have democracy in this district, or do we have controlled action without reference to those whose children are affected?

We constantly read of accidents with firearms. Cadet training, properly conducted, can give students proper respect for guns and rifles. The writer won a place as a member of two annual rifle teams entering Provincial and Dominion competitions. Such training paid off in the proper use of such potentially dangerous weapons, rather than learning of the power only after some serious accident has occurred through lack of proper knowledge.

Please reconsider the decision to abandon this very worthwhile phase of youth education and training. It can more than pay for itself if it saves only one life.

Yours very truly,
G. W. Gilbert.

FRENDLEE FARM CHATS

by Lillian Allison

About once a year we take a drive to Ottawa and when it is over I can't refrain from telling you about our national capital and how lucky we in Chesterville are to live within forty miles of it. Now, undoubtedly, the best way to see Ottawa is to go on Sunday. The stores are closed so you won't have trouble keeping the little woman out of the hat shops. Then the people who live there are out in the country for the weekend which leaves the streets fairly navigable for us sight-seers.

We got off to a late start Sunday morning so didn't have time to travel on the side roads. For a change of scenery, however, we turned west a little past Vernon to Dalmeny and Osgoode and headed for the River Road. Now that isn't a 60 m.p.h. road by any means. But who wants to drive that fast when there is so murh to see? Cottages line the Rideau for miles. Nearer the city are some gorgeous year-round homes. There's a new subdivision springing up in a bush about half way with lots at $1,500 each. There are some lovely farms too. Really you should see it all for yourself.

Past the old airport we turned left on the Hog's Back road. Immediately we were attracted by the huge umbrella-like lunch counter and stopped to eat. We sat outdoors and ate to the roar of the big dam nearby. Afterwards we looked around.

According to the map we were in Vincent Massey Park. It's fairly new and very attractive. There are paths leading down along the river where the white water seethes among the rocks —a photographer's dream. The walks go on and on, up hills, among trees, bending and twisting in every direction. There are park benches on which to rest and a big, spacious field if you prefer to run. One could stay there all day. But we didn't.

We crossed the river and canal onto Highway No. 16 and headed north to the Baseline Road. We were curious to see what had been happening out at the Ryans' old Kilreén Farm. Our last visit there had been on the day of the machinery sale over two years ago. The farm had been sold for a housing project and the cattle and machinery had to go as well. I had taken my camera along and had photographed the buildings, the machinery, the hundreds of colourful cars and the big flock of sheep grazing near the house.

When we dropped over a rise in the road we caught a glimpse of the familiar Kilreen buildings. But what a change! Instead of the sheep pasture near the old, stone house there was a row of new, split-level houses all black as ink for they were only in the sheathing stage.

The pasture where the cars had been parked at the sale was a sorry sight. Bulldozers had been having a field day there. They'd taken out all the high spots and filled in the low ones. What earth was left over had been heaped into big anthills. "Fill for Sale" a sign said.

All suburb planners, it seems, love to play with bulldozers. They glory in knocking over trees, levelling off ground and making all suburbs look alike. There isn't one in a hundred with the imagination to leave the land the way the good Lord made it.

We drove in the lane to the buildings. The front door of the house was ajar—some windows broken. The barns were intact and wore signs proving that they were being used to house builders' supplies. The ground had been dug away from the little CFRA studio and the lawns were completely gone.

The man in the model home at the gate said the buildings would be torn down soon. "I thought the house was to be left as a sort of museum," I said. But he assured me it would be useless in the centre of a new housing development.

We felt a little sad that Kilreen Farm as we had known it was no more. And I'm sure a little bit of Mr and Mrs Ryan must have died when they left it for the last time. Of course it is not to be wholly forgotten. On the map we saw Ryan Drive and Kay St. and nearby was a sign where Ryan Farm School will be built.

And if you're interested in the rest of our Ottawa drive drop around to this corner at the same time next week.

SOEST, West Germany—Eastern Ontario was to the forefront of an important trophy presentation at Headquarters of the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group, when Brigadier Donald C. Cameron, of Alexandria, accepted the Pearkes Trophy won by our NATO formation by leading all services in vehicle accident prevention.

The 20-inch gilt and marble colonnaded trophy was presented to the Brigade Commander by Lt.-Col. T. W. Bigelow, of Ottawa, on behalf of the Minister of National Defence, Hon. Geo. Pearkes, V.C.

The trophy, offered for annual competition by all three services —Navy, Army and Air Force— and Defence Research Board, was originally given to the Minister by the Automotive Transport Association for Ontario for military participation in the annual truck roadeos.

The presentation ceremony by the head of the transport section of the Directorate of Supply and Transport, Lt-Col. Bigelow, was witnessed by the officer who supervises the brigade's accident prevention program, Major Earl Ward, of Halifax, N.S., and three soldier drivers who have accumulated well over 100,000 miles in the past year without accident. These three drivers were Gnr. John V. Evans, 1 RCHA, of Abbotsford, B.C.; George Lewis, HQ 4 CIBG, of Halifax, N.S., and Pte. Joseph G. J. P. Cliche, 1 Tpt. Coy, RCASC, of Wolfe, P.Q.

Caanda's 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group won the valued trophy for showing the greatest improvement in military vehicle accident rate during 1959. The brigade had 1.7 less accidents per 100,000 miles in 1959 than in the year previous. During the winning year about 1,000 vehicles travelled 9½ million miles through Europe with an average of 3.1 accidents per 100,000.

Brigadier Donald C. Cameron acecpted the trophy on behalf of units of his brigade. He has directed that during the coming year it will be placed in temporary custody of major units winning the local quarterly Safe and Skilled Driving competitions.

Brigadier Cameron, beloved of his officers and men for his personal interest in everyone under his command, began his military career in 1926, at the age of 15, when he enlisted as a private in his local unit, the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, and was commissioned in 1928.

Going overseas in 1940 he went to Italy with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment. In April of 1944, Brig. Cameron was appointed commanding officer of his unit.

He was awarded the Distinguished Service Order and Bar for gallantry and leadership in action. He was also mentioned in Despatches for his service in Italy and Northwest Europe.

Promoted in 1945 to the rank of colonel, he was appointed Commander 7th Canadian Infantry Training Regiment. At the end of the war he reverted to the rank of lieutenant-colonel to command the SD&G Highlanders in the Canadian Occupational Forces.

Returning to Canada in 1946, Brig. Cameron was appointed Commandant of Fort Churchill,

The BIBLE TODAY . . .

In Camaguay and Manzanillo, two cities in Eastern and Central Cuba, the Baptist, Methodist, Pentecostal and Adventist Churches co-operated in two one-week campaigns to distribute the Scriptures.

Two hundred and fifty volunteers were trained in Camaguay and sixty in Manzanillo in preparation for the work of distribution of the Scriptures. Special services were held and the co-operation of local radio stations was secured.

The campaign was carried out on the basis of house-to-house visitation. The visitors were generally well received and the American Bible Society reports that considerable success was obtained.

It is expected that further campaigns will be conducted in other parts of Cuba in the future.

Man., serving there until 1948. Later, he commanded the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. In 1950 he was promoted to the rank of colonel and appointed Commandant of the Royal Canadian School of Infantry at Camp Borden, Ont. In August, 1953, he became Director of Infantry.

He was promoted to the rank of brigadier and appointed Commander 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade (now the 4th Canadian Infantry Brigade) in February, 1955. In November, 1957, his brigade took over as Canada's NATO formation in Germany.

In congratulating Brigadier Cameron, and the drivers who heeded the accident prevention campaign, the army's Quartermaster-General, Maj.-Gen. Robert Moncel, wrote: "That your brigade group should be able to qualify for this trophy despite the many millions of miles travelled by your vehicles is proof indeed of a most conscientious and successful effort to achieve a high standard of driving skill. Please convey my congratulations to all those who contributed to your success.

The German accident prevention program continually stressed with drivers of the brigade and which was responsible for the 1959 win, awards windshield safety stickers to the major and minor unit which establishes the best record over a three-month period. It also presents careful military and civilian drivers with lapel pins and 24-, 48- and 72-hour special holidays. Now, as long as it remains in Europe, the Pearkes trophy will honour the major unit with the best three-month record.

GOOD GREEN APPLE PIE

WHAT COULD BE BETTER than green apple pie with a wedge of sharp Canadian cheese? Or juicy blueberry pie with a big scoop of vanilla ice cream atop? Or again a golden pumpkin pie smothered in whipped cream. Are you beginning to drool, or would you like to consider a tender lemon pie with inch-high meringue?

Pastry

A successful pie begins with light, tender pastry.

2 cups pastry flour
½ tsp. salt
1/3 lb. lard
¼ cup cold water

Measure flour; add salt. Cut in lard, using a pastry blender or your own finger tips. If you use a pastry blender it is easier to keep the ingredients cold. When the mixture resembles coarse crumbs add cold water and mix just enough to make pastry hold together. This amount makes one two-crust pie or two one-crust pies.

If you do not use all the pastry shape the remainder into a ball, roll in wax paper or place in plyofilm bag and store in refrigerator.

Blueberry Pie

1 quart blueberries
1/3 cup sugar
2 tbsps. flour
1 tbsp. lemon juice

Wash and pick over blueberries. Drain. Add sugar, flour and lemon juice, if desired. I never think fresh blueberries need lemon juice but if you are using canned ones a little lemon juice adds flavour. Line pie tin with pastry; add blueberries. Top with a criss cross crust. Bake in 400 degree oven until juice is bubbly. Serve with a generous scoop of vanilla ice cream.

Green Apple Pie

Slice apples onto an unbaked crust, heaping them up well in the centre. Add ¾ cup sugar. Dot with small pieces of butter. Add top crust which has slits cut in any pattern that suits your fancy. Bake in 400 degree oven until apples are thoroughly cooked. Serve warm with a scoop of ice cream or a generous wedge of your favourite cheese.

Lemon Pie

1 cup boiling water
1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks
1 tbsp. butter
4 tbsps. cornstarch
Juice and rind of 1 lemon

Make syrup of water and half the sugar. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon coloured. Add rest of sugar and cornstarch mixed to the egg yolks. Add syrup slowly and stir until it thickens. Add butter, lemon juice and rind. Cook over hot water about 15 minutes. Pour in cooked pie shell. Make a meringue from two egg whites and two tablespoons fruit sugar. Spread on filling and brown 20 minutes in a slow oven.

Pumpkin Pie

1 cup cooked or canned pumpkin
¾ cup brown sugar
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. ginger
1 tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. cloves
2 slightly beaten eggs
1 cup milk

Combine pumpkin, sugar, salt and spices. Add eggs and milk; blend. Pour into 9-inch pastry lined pie pan. Bake until mixture does not adhere to knife.

STRANGE

A New York taxi driver is apt to find anything left in his cab. But the items the other day were strange indeed. Two granite stones engraved with what was believed to be Egyptian hieroglyphics.

Driver Abe Kerner told police he discovered the stones on his back seat after two men left his cab.

The stones, about 30 inches long and eight inches wide, were mounted on a flat board. They were turned over to the police property office.

It was on August 17, 1910, that the late Rev L. M. McCreery united in marriage Miss Lily Victoria Smith, daughter of John Smith and his wife, Carrie Snider, and Henry R. F. Schewrdtfeger, son of Reuben Schwerdtfeger and his wife, Katherine Barkley. The marriage took place at St. Paul's Lutheran Parsonage, Morrisburg.

Since their marriage they have farmed near Morrisburg.

Their family consists of three sons, Frank, Graham and Russell, all of whom reside in the vicinity, and one daughter, Gladys (Mrs Homer Schwerdtfeger), Froatburn. Mr Schwerdtfeger was twice married. By his first marriage he has one son, Fred, at Gallingertown, and one daughter, Mrs Willard Alguire (May), of Morrisburg. The couple have nine grandchildren.

A bountiful buffet lunch was provided for the many friends and relatives who called to extend congratulations and best wishes for many happy years ahead. For their happy day Mr and Mrs Schwerdtfeger were the recipients of many congratulatory cards, letters and gifts.

IN MEMORIAM

FROATS—In fond and loving memory of our mother and grandmother, Mrs Elgin Froats, who passed away August 23, 1950.

There is always a lonely heartache,
And often a silent tear,
And always precious memories
Of the days when you were here.
It's lonesome here without you,
And sad, the weary way,
For life is not the same to me,
Since you were called away.
I remember you in silence,
And make no outward show,
What it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.

Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Shirley, Basil, Rickie and Connie Barkley.
