A doll that says "papa" is now on the market, but the Toledo Blade doesn't think it will sound natural unless it also says "gimme"

"Since I bought a car I don't have to walk to the bank to make my deposits."
"Ah, you ride there?"
"No I don't make any."

It is not expected that the new school will be ready for September 1st, and it will not be surprising if it is not ready by the 1st of October.

Some parts of Dundas County no doubt suffered from too much rain, but on the whole the County will average up with other years in feed and grain production.

We are told that "this year's world output of motor cars will run into millions." We are glad of this hint, and will try our best not to be one of these millions.

Drunken drivers of automobiles are to be shown no mercy, says Attorney General Price. Wouldn't it be wiser and more to the credit of the Ontario Government to put intoxicants out of the reach of all.

Two Scotchmen went fishing with an understanding that the first one to catch a fish was to buy the "soda." One got a bite that almost broke his pole, but refused to pull up. The other was fishing without a bait.

An editor refuses to publish obituary notices of persons who, while living, failed to subscribe for his paper. He explains it this way: "People who do not take their home paper are dead anyway, and their passing has no news value."

It may not be generally known, but under a clause in the criminal code anyone is libal to five years imprisonment who wilfully damages trees, shrubs, flowering plants or other products of the soil in park or gardens, whether publicly or privately owned.

When "Bobbie" Burns died he remarked to his wife that he would be more thought of one hundred years hence than he then was. They were poor. A few days ago four of Burn's short poems sold for nearly $11,500, which again proves that truth is stranger than fiction, also that a great many people are not appreciated until they are dead.

At least 75,000 harvesters will be required to gather in the western grain crop this coming fall according to an estimate announced at Winnipeg last week. Manitoba will require 12,000 hands of which 6,000 will be obtained in that province, while Saskatchewan will require 40,000 and Alberta 23,000. A call will be made in Eastern Canada for 44,000 harvesters.

A tree well placed in a yard or lawn cannot be valued by dollars and cents. The beautiful Maple that stood in front of Mr. D. Melvin's home on St. Lawrence Street, and was broken by the wind storm of a few weeks ago, has left a vacancy that is very noticeable, and regrettably so. In fact it seems to have changed the very appearance of the home. It will take years to replace it. Its removal is like the passing of an old and dear friend of the community.

Built Summer Cottage

Dr. McKendry has just completed a small summer cottage on the banks of the St. Lawrence river about two miles east of Morrisburg, where his family will spend the warm summer months, enjoying the cool breeze from the Majestic St. Lawrence.

The United Church

(Contributed)

Very fine congregations greeted the pastor last Sunday, as the day was ideal. His talk to the young folks was on "If I were a boy again,' from which he showed that these who were older would, if they were young again, wish to study the Bible more than ever and make it their companion. They would cultivate the company of older people whose christian graces would help them live better. They would study the life and character of Jesus and so become more like Him. The morning text was Gal. 6: 17. Paul, when he sent this triumphant letter to the church at Galata is an old man with his work almost completed. For the sake of his Lord, he had endured persecution. There is great joy in his heart that he had been counted worthy to suffer for Christ. Baptism and church membership are not sufficient to mark us as true followers of Christ. There should be the mark of love so essential to the building up of christian character, also a spirit of sacrifice. Are we in danger of losing this spirit? There should also be intimate and close communion with God and consecration. Are we seeking to build up a true christian character that will be evident in our lives?

The message of the evening was evangelistic, taken from Mark 10: 51. From this of the blind man, the pastor gave some practical truths thar we would do well to heed. There was a great need There was a great need on the part of the blind beggar but his appeal was made to one whom he believed was able to meet that need. How does this fit our lives? Unless we are conscious of a real and determined need we have not recieved a satisfactory answer. Jesus made the crowd realize that they had a part to play in the bringing of men to Christ. If we have not found Christ as our personal Savour, remember that the Master is calling us, so let us lay aside every weight and sin and follow Him who will quickly receive us. Christ still hears and answers the cry of need. An appeal was made to the young to prepare to live for Christ Mr. Bert Wheeler of Ottawa, sang "Rock of Ages" very impressively at the morning srevice.

Next Sunday Rev. W. G. A. Wilson of North Gower, will have charge of next Sunday's services here while Rev. J. A. Waddell goes to Carsonby for anniversary services.

The Jolly Four

"Life is very interesting if you are interestrd in life. Imagine four sisters whose aggregate age is 297 years, travelling in a motor car from Montreal to Windsor. They called themselves the "Jolly Four" sisters and they were just that, Hapoy, healthy, knowing and enjoying life. They had just returned to Montreal having been with the King Party of Excursionist. They arrived in Montreal last week per steamship "Athenia" and were met by a daughter of one of of the four, who was to motor then to Windsor. On their way west they heard about "Waddle Inn," its charming hostesses and splendid meals, and so decided to have their dinner there. The Press learned of their aggregate age, but their aggregate weight was not told, but should jude that when they left Waddle Inn it was over 650 pounds. A happier four sisters one cannot imagine. and they were in the full enjoyment of what nature and good living had provided, health, happiness and plenty.

Mosquito Pests

Never in the recollection of any has the mosquito pests been as bad in this section as during the past few nights. They are in swarms, and say, don't they just get after you. Everywhere it is the same story, and to sit outside on lawn or veranda is out of the question. The long period of wet weather followed by the intense heat accounts for their rapid breeding. But the pests don't last long, and by the end of the week they will have practically disappeared.

A Mean Act

A car was standing in front of one of our banks a couple of days ago, while the driver was inside the bank doing business. During the brief period another car jamed into the rear fender and damaged to an extent that a new fender had to replace it. The person doing the damage did not make any effort or show any inclination to report the damage, or even offer an apology. Next to injuring a person with your car and then running off in meanness is the person who will injure another persons car and then sneak away.

Iroquois After Speedy Motorists

An Iroquois despatch to the papers on Saturday has the following:—

Since the roads of this village have been rebuilt this summer, motorists have been using them in snch a manner that it was not safe for the ordinary user of the road. Yesterday strenuous measures were taken and 18 were fined for exceeding the speed limit.

Most of these were American cars and the fines ranged from $5 to $10 each with costs. The majority of the drivers pleaded guily, some readily admitting they were driving at an excessive speed through the town where the limit is 20 miles. The attempt to stop these speed artists continued to-day. Police Magistrate John McCormick, of the County of Dundas, up to noon had fined 25 motorists $10 each and costs. Some of these were going at the rate of 50 miles per hour through the main street, which connects with Provincial Highway No. 2. Yesterday John Marcellus, a local magistrate, together with Reeve E. Strader, sat on these cases. The matter has caused much excitement in the town.

FINANCIAL NEWS

A despatch from the north states that the diamond drill on the Area, operating close to the Amulet boundary, is now down about 397 feet, with mineralization having been encountered. The hole is headed for 500 feet, at which point the management expect to cut the ore body. It is further stated that developments on the Amulet are shaping up well.

Mining Briefs

The wires have been humming, with no less than three despatches coming down from the Kirkland Larder-Lake district and one from Rouyn, all within the hour. The gist of one of these messages was that it is understood that Lake Shore have reached a depth of 1,000 feet in their new shaft, and are now cutting a station at that level. The report continues that they have encountered a new vein running parallel to the south vein and to the south.

In crosscutting at the 300-foot level, Goodfish is reported to have picked up the extension of the vein that was encountered on the 150-foot level, said to be well-mineralized and having a width of approximately seven feet. Assays are now being run. A mining man from that section who was in town to-day stated that this company should also be into their vein on the 600-foot level within a short time. In shaft sinking the company picked up several veins. The workings at 600 feet, where the shaft is bottomed for the time, are also said to be in good mineralization.

The dope from Larder Lake contained in a wire which states that on the 500-foot level Crown Reserve have cut into what is believed to be the No. 2 vein, which had faulted where worked by the old company. Width was given as 34 feet, showing heavy mineralization. No assays have been made as yet.

Canadian Situation a Puzzle

New York—Commenting on the Canadian Exchange situation, the New York Times says:

Bewilderment has existed in Wall Street this week over the lack of large gold shipments from Canada to New York at this time, as a result of the record discount of 3-8 of 1 per cent. on Canadian Exchange. It is realized, of course, that the banks in Montreal have little of the metal to spare for export, and that added expense involved in bringing gold here from Ottawa, but even so the present discount should be bringing large supplies from the Dominion. A few shipments have been made since the first of June, but the total, less than $24,000,000, is smaller than would ordinarily come here in a few days in the face of such an exchange discount as prevails at present. As a rule the exchange rate would be steadied by the shipment of gold or, if that course were not considered desirable by the Canadian financial authorities, credits would be botained which would correct the present situation. The discount is attributed to the heavy movement of Canadian funds to New York, based on the high money rates here.

Noranda's "H" Ore Body Grows—

Smelter Recovery Up—What Will Seven Other Zones Show at Depth

Noranda management for some little time past has been concentrating on proving the dimensions of the No. "H" ore body, which, from being a minor grade ore zone at shallow horizons, has attained foremost rank among some eight ore bodies already opened up in the mine. Proving full dimensions is a big job, because the zone is a big one. Drills from points in the shaft and lateral workings have penetrated the further reaches of ore east and west, and between 600 and 700 feet length, mostly in high-grade material has been indicated. This is the length so far, the width evidently being 121 feet.

Ore from these workings is going to the smelter. Officials won't say what smelter results are, but the daily treatment is up to 800 tons. Mixing the $50 material from the "H" ore body with the general run of mine rocks, which averages $23 per ton, recovery in copper and gold is estimated to be better than $30 per ton, which would mean an annual rate of $9,000,000.

The second half of the smelter will go into operation next month.

What will the "H" ore body show below 1,000 feet?

What will the seven other ore bodies show between 1,000 feet and 600 feet and also below 1,000 feet? These are questions the future will answer, and the stock, which is now more than $10 below the recent high, will reflect developments as they are reported.

Mining Stock Index

The weighted index of seventeen mining stocks computed by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics on the base of 1926—100 was 137.6 for the week ending July 12, as compared with 133.7 for the week ending July 5.

Gold copper stocks represented by Noranda and Amulet rose from 270.3 to 295.4. Eleven gold stocks fell from 108.8 to 108.5. Four silver and miscellaneous stocks rose from 85.3 to 85.9.

Among the gold the stocks averaged weekly prices behaved as follows: McIntyre fell from $25.07 to $23.39; Coniaurum from $4.50 to $4.01, and Kirkland Lake from $1.50 to $1.43. Dome rose from $8.20 to $8.45, Hollinger from $13.46 to $13.59 and Sylvanite from $2.51 to $2.58.

Average prices were higher for two gold copper stocks: Noranda rose from $49.22 to $53.65, and Amulet from $4.14 to $4.62.

In the silver and miscellaneous group the average price of Coniagas fell from $4.42 to $4.15, and Beaver from .99 to .93. Mining Corporation rose from $3.40 to $3.65.

Central Manitoba Mines Current Assets

Arthur B. Miles, president of the Central Manitoba Mines, commenting on the current resources of the company, points out that these have been strengthened by the option given Oro Grand Mines in the Solo Claims, which has netted $25,000 cash. Supplies at the mine are sufficient for nearly a year, and are valued at $135,000. The mill was operating on a basis now where a surplus over all expenses may be expected to accumulate each month from now forward.

Canadian Bond Sales

Canadian bond sales for the week ended July 14th totalled $8,761,000, of which $8,490,000 were corporation and $271,000 municipal issues. This brought the total sales for the year to date to $293,150,621, as compared with $315,833,795 in the corresponding period a year ago and $400,121,826 in 1926.

Of the total bond sales this year $271,278,000 have been corporation issues, while Government bonds ranked second with $49,770,000, municipals third with $16,706,626 and railway fourth with $9,296,000.

Massey-Harris Company earned $2.69 per share on its present common stock in the fiscal year ended November 30th last. In view of the increase in sales and the new connections made by the company this year, the report for 1928 should show substantially better results. If nothing untoward occurs before the harvest, Canada will reap probably the largest crops in its history. This would further strengthen the hands of farmers and enable greater numbers of them to equip their farms with modern machinery, so vital to the economic safety of agriculturlists to-day.

World's Best Enter Third Wrigley Swim

Canadian National Exhibition Will Witness Greatest Swimming Event Ever Staged

Practically every civilized country of the world will e represented in the Third Wrigley Marathon. Entries have been received from Australians, Poles, Austrians, Finns, Norwegians, Italians, Hawaiians, Germans, South Africans, French, Spanish, Swiss, Armenian and English. To date no Japanese, Chinese, Siamese nor Turks have signified their intention to participate but even this is not too much to expect.

The huge money prizes have attracted the very best athletes of the world in this division of sport; Adrian of Australia, coach of the famous "Boy" Charlton; Finlay of Australia, winner of the King's Cup in England in 1911; Vierkoetter of Germany, the present world's champion; Young, the conqueror of Catalina; "Flying Fish" Summers of California; Michel of France, who twice swam the English Channel; Creegan, who holds the Hudson River record from Albany to New York, 150 miles; and scores of others who, while not so famous, have all won noteworthy swimming events that called for speed and endurance.

Vierkoetter's troubles, caused by the apparent inability of his manager, Erich Barranchee, to have his leave of absence extended have now been settled and he will defend his title against the greatest field of competitors ever gotten together. He is not worrying unduly and says that 15 miles suits him equally as well as a longer distance. He is in a wonderful condition and should repeat his victory of last year in record time.

COMPLETELY RUN DOWN

Symptoms That the Blood is Thin Should Not be Neglected

Weak, run-down, lacking strength, energy and ambition, nervous, sleepless, poor appetite, digestion disturbed—these are the symptoms named by a great majority of people who have been benefitted by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These tonic pills correct the condition described and if you have any of these symptoms you should give these pills a trial. Their great value in cases of this kind is shown by the statement of Mrs. James A. Tibbetts, Halifax, N.S., who says:—"I was completely run down in health. My blood was thin and watery, and my nerves so bad that I did not sleep well at night. My appetite was poor and the least exertion left me weak and trembling. When I went out I would have a severe headache, and would have to lie down as soon as I got in the house. A friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I soon found they were helping me and by the time I had taken the sixth box I felt like a new woman, and have enjoyed good health ever since. For this reason I can highly recommend the pills to anyone run-down or troubled with their nerves."

Not only do Dr. Williams' Pink Pills help the nerves. Their main function is to enrich and increase the blood, and as the blood supplies the whole body, new life is given to the entire system. Better sleep, steady nerves, improved appetite, increased vigor—all these can be yours by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Begin them to-day. Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail post paid, at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Befuddling the Brain

Y. Y. in the New Statesman (London): (In an article on the Prince of Wales. a writer in a London Sunday newspaper says: "You will not find him befuddling his mind with books.") I do not remember ever reading a sentence with more curious implications. . . . If books only befuddle the brain, then it would obviously be better if all the schools were shut and schoolmasters who teach reading, writing and arithmetic to innocent children should be sent to prison as public dangers. . . . (Still) we are inclined to-day to exaggerate the importance of reading and writing to the growth of the intelligence. A considerable perecntage of human beings would be just as intelligent as they are a t present if they had never learned to read or write, and I have known men who could not read or write and who were nevertheless better company, more imaginative and more intelligent than others who could. Speech plays a far more important part in the life of the ordinary man than reading and writing. It is possible for a man who can neither read nor write to be either a good poet or a good farmer, and a world containing good poets and good farmers is a world in which any of us ought to be reasonably happy.

The Color Bar in South Africa

London Economist: All who are concerned with the permanent interests of South Africa, and not with the actual interests of any given industry at the moment, will agree that a foundation of low-paid, low-standard, uncivilized labor is not likely to carry above it a really healthy society. What then? Are we to have a "white labor" policy, with color bars and a steady ousting of the native by the white, however inefficient the latter may be and however efficient the former? No one seems able to give a satisfactory answer to the question, either where the adequate supply of suitable white labor is to be found, or what is to be done with the displaced natives.

Empire Diplomacy

Manitoba Free Press: The wisdom of increasing the bonds of knowledge and understanding between all the English-speaking nations is now everywhere acknowledged; and there is no better means of helping on this movement than by bringing the Governments of these nations into constant diplomatic relations with one another. An inter-imperial diplomatic organization is certain to emerge in the near future; and if this were supplemented by the opening of avenues of communication between every British capital and Washington, the English-speaking nations would be brought into an intimate relationship which might easily prove the greatest stabilizing influence in the world.

British Settlers Below Demand

Ontario and Maritime Provinces Make Increasing Calls

Quebec.—Canada's demand for British settlers has not been met so far this year and by a considerable margin, declared Dr. W. J. Black, director of the Canadian National Railways Department of Amigration and Colonization, in making known, as he sailed from Canada for England July 20 aboard the Cunarder Ausonia that 1,400 new families were settled on farms by this department within the present calendar year.

Dr. Black, former Deputy Minister of Immigration and Colonization at Ottawa, spoke of the increasing calls from farmers asking for British farm workers. This demands, he said, was particularly marked in Ontario and quite definite in the Maritime Provinces, the Canadian west being, also, in need of more workers.

With reference to the apparent desire of the Maritime Provinces to absorb many more British farm settlers, the C.N.R. director said that the need was much greater there than last year.

The English-speaking settlers brought out to Canada by the Colonization Department of the railway had proved themselves worthy of optimistic predictions, it was learned from Dr. Black, and they were apparently well contented with conditions as they found them. This, he felt, was due to the rigid methods of selection employed in the work of enlisting these settlers. There were, of course, said Mr. Black, a few cases of disappointment over wages paid in Canada, but that was inevitable considering the large number dealt with.

The colonization director will spend several weeks in Great Britain, it is understood, studying conditions likely to affect immigration to Canada next year. He announced that he would attend a conference of officers of the organization in London. R. L. Stead, secretary to the immigration secretary, accompanied him aboard the Ausonia.

Emigration

Marquis of Tavistock in the Manchester Guardian: It is about time that this country and the Dominions realized that, human nature being what it is, parents of a normally affectionate disposition will not send their immature offspring to the other side of the world, nor will children normally be willing, while still in their teens, to say good-bye to their homes for a long period of years and perhaps for life. It is also high time that the fact was faced that the man for whom an overseas home must be found whenever possible is not the rather scarce trained agricultural worker, but the wholly untrained urban dweller with no money at all to contribute to the cost of his passage. There are, of course, some town men and women, who never will make satisfactory emigrants, but there are thousands, perhaps millions, of others who only need training. They are the real problem, and it is something of a mockery to talk about opportunities overseas and the cry of the Dominions for settlers as long as their case is ignored.

SAVE THE CHILDREN

In Summer When Childhood Ailments Are Most Dangerous.

Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets relieve these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child they will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed to be absolutely harmless even to the new-born babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Vandalism in England

J. L. Hammond in the Nation and Athenaeum- (London): (Modern efficiency threatens to destroy the beauty of English towns and villages, while the wealthy will not spend a penny to prevent it). Private wealth to-day looks coldly on such objects. The new rich in the fifteenth century built town churches ; the new rich in the Industrial Revolution, ill as they served the towns, kept up the great estates. To-day the last family estates are passing, and with them the tradition that preserved these amenities. The newest rich have not inherited that spirit. The desperate efforts that are needed to save any threatened masterpiece show how subordinate a place the care of beauty takes in the imagination of the rich. (Yet an anonymous donor has given a great sum to the Chancellor of the Exchequer). What kind of man can he be who thinks that the nation will be much happier fifty years hence if the national debt is reduced by ten or twenty millions, and that it will not be much more miserable of buildings like the Foundling disappear, if the squares are buried under sky-scraping flats, if Oxford and Cambridge are Spoilt . . . and if hundreds of quiet villages lose the last vestige of their picturesque and interesting past?

The word knowledge, strictly employed, implies three things, namely, truth, proof and conviction.—Archbishop Whately.

Rubber wrist watches are the latest fad on southern beaches, but it takes more than a rubber watch to stretch a two weeks' vacation into a month.

The World's Work

Church Times (London): The lucky minority earn their living with pleasant and sometimes exacting tasks. They work with a zest. They are not the least inclined to strike for an eight-hour day. But for the majority, in the circumstances of the modern world, work is monotonous and dull. A man might well write a book or paint a picture or preach a sermon or spend long hours in a chemical laboratory without any thought of wages on Saturday. It is not conceivable that a sane man would clean a sewer or a chimney just for fun. And since there are many dull and unpleasant things to be done in a modern community, it is surely only decent that society, which benefits, should see that its servants are paid adequately and should have sufficient leisure to compensate them for their hours of labor.

Servants of the People

Saturday Review (London): (Though the debate on the ex-Speaker's pension disclosed the fact that Ministers of the Crown are hopelessly underpaid, there was lamentation from the Labor benches at the suggestion that pensions should be improved.) The question now is not whether the State can afford to pay adequate remuneration, but whether is can afford not to, and the House of Commons is grossly remiss in its duty not to have raised and settled the whole question of Ministerial salaries and pensions long ago with a single regard to the public interest. As things stand it runs the risk of spoiling the Ship of State for a ha'p'orth o' tar.

Tribute Paid to Hon. P. C. Larkin

Canadian Agriculture Department Tenders Dinner in London

AMERY SPEAKS

London.—High Commissioners of the British Dominions in London were described recently by Hon. J. S. Smit, South African High Commissioner, as a "rare, valuable species serving their countries better than any politician."

Speaking at an all-Canadian dinner, given by the Canadian Department of Agriculture, Mr. Smit paid high tribute to the activities of Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canadian High Commissioner, in gaining certain social rights and privileges for the Dominion representatives in the British capital.

Mr. Larkin presided at the dinner, at which Hon. M. R. Motherwell, Canadian Minister of Agriculture, and Rt. Hon. L. C. M. S. Amery, Secretary for the Dominions, also spoke. Mr. Motherwell said he anticipated that the recent amendment of medical regulations would result in a freer movement of British immigrants to Canada, while Col. Amery pleaded for less minor restrictions in the Canadian immigration regulations to encourage British emigration.

Proposing Mr. Larkin's health, the South African High Commissioner said Mr. Larkin belonged to that "rare valuable species serving his country better than any politician." If. Mr. Larkin had lived before the invention of microphones, dictaphones and newspapers, so loved by the man who goes stumping the world, he would have been one of the world's diplomats, Mr. Smit said.

"Whatever we High Commissioners have gained in status, it is in a large measure due to Mr. Larkin," Mr. Smit added. "Strange as it may seem our rights and privileges have not in every instance been conceded as a matter of course. We still find the importance and dignity of our countries not sufficiently studied. There is still to be overcome a mentality which when considering the British Constitution stops at Great Britain and overlooks the very important part of Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the seas. It is an unpleasant task to ask for social rights and privileges in which one may be personally interested, but this has not deterred Mr. Larkin, who has always, in a happy and pleasant way, without giving offence, insisted upon those rights and privileges."

Freer Movement

Mr. Motherwell said it was sometimes averred that if less or no financial assistance were given by Canada towards migration, more Britons might be disposed to go on their own, especially if the general ocean rates were somewhat lowered. With the recently amended medical regulations a freer movement of Britons might be anticipated, he added. Meanwhile the thrifty, hard-working Europeans would continue to flow into Canada and so long as they come from the hardy, northern countries, Mr. Motherwell saw no need to worry about their good citizenship and allegiance.

The British Government's emigration policy was not a "device for getting rid of the unemployed," said Col. Amery. The British Government believed in the policy of co-operation in giving opportunities to likely and willing migrants. Even if the migrants from the British Isles were a little less tractable for a few weeks than other nationalities, they were likely to prove the best in the long run.

Col. Amery therefore asked that the doors be opened wider without too many minor restrictions so long as the principle w as observed that no person should migrate who was not qualified to make good.

Designed FOR Dependability

Firestone engineers found that the life of a tire depends as much upon the flexing life of the cords of the carcass, as upon the toughness of the tread.

To provide extra strength, stamina, and long wear, Firestone dips the cords of the carcass in a rubber solution. This saturates and insulates every strand of every cord, minimizing internal friction and gives thousands of extra miles. AUTO ACCIDENTS AND THEIR PROBLEMS

The Province of Quebec has adopted a most effectual way of putting a stop to "Speeders" in that province. The driver found guilty of speeding will have his or her license cancelled for the season. Of course that can only effect holders of a Quebec license. But outside offenders may be heavily fined, and that is not always an agreeable experience to a motorist. It is rather a big and complex problem to regulate the driving of automobiles, and a great many lives will yet be sacrificed before a law can be framed to meet the situation. Every car driver, and in fact every occupant of a car, takes a chance every time they go out on the highway. The car load of ladies who were so badly injured down near Cornwall a few weeks ago, were not in any way to blame. As a matter of fact liquor was to blame for the pitch-in and the death of one person. Had the men in the car that was travelling on the wrong side not been meddling with liquor there would not have been an accident, and innocent women would not have been nearly killed through no fault of their own. Thus we have to deal not only with a careless and reckless driver of a car, but also with drivers who are under the influence of liquor that make them reckless and indifferent to consequences.

THE KIND THAT COUNTS

To be a good, useful citizen is about the highest tribute which can be paid to any man, for the term 'a good citizen' embraces many qualities and attributes which all should endeavor to possess. It is well to take a cheerful outlook on life and to remember that residents in the larger areas are not so much ahead in intellectual equipment or executive powers of those in the smaller communities, as some may imagine. The home town is the feeder of the big cities, and a point which should not be overlooked is that it is advantageous to any community now and then to have an Old Home Week, during which former residents come back again to the haunts of their youth or the days of their apprenticeship or scholarship, and live once more amid surroundings that will ever remain dear. The fires of memory and companionship are rekindled in a way that will make love for the scenes of their birth and early associations linger as long as the sun shines or water runs.

And speaking of "Old Home Week" reminds us that while some years ago Winchester planned such a Old Home Week the scheme was abandoned and evidently forgotten. The Press was about to suggest that the Women's Institute take up the scheme, but surely there are enough men in Winchester to shoulder and carry through such a proposition.

MOCK MODESTY

Because the Brockville Recorder published a picture of Miss Ethel Catherwood, of Saskatchewan, who set the world's record in high jumping at the Olympic games, a woman wrote a letter to Hon. Mr. Graham, President of the Newspaper Co., protesting against such "obsene" pictures. The letter was unsigned. The Recorder-Times takes the opportunity to read the anonymous writer, and all other such, a severe lecture on "Mock Modesty." The only mistakes the R. & T. made was, in first paying any attention to the protest, and second in calling it mock modesty. It is false modesty. The Press would call it "Hypocritical Cant." The young girl athlete would never even think the evil that was in the mind of the person who objected to her sporting outfit. Twenty-five years hence this old world will be a better place to live in morally and every other way than it is today. But the improvement will not be because of the lives, actions or views of such persons as the one who wrote that anonymous letter to the Brockvile paper.

LET THEM DEPART

The most undesirable citizen or employee is he who is all the time knocking and sulking, who is never satisfied and thinks that conditions in the world are topsy-turvy, and that the bottom has fallen out of existence. Such a being is not much use to himself, to his associates or the centre in which he resides. He should at least be discreet enough to keep silent if he is not satisfied, until he moves to some other place, and do all his fault-finding and kicking away from home. Travel is cheap, the mode of locomotion is swift and the conveyance of such human barnacles as knockers and grouchers twenty-four hours away from their starting point, would be a blessing in disguise to many municipalities.

KINDLY MESSAGE OF ENCOURAGEMENT

Huntingdon, Que., Aug. 8th, 1928.

Dear Mr. Ross:

Enclosed find postal note for $1.50. Will you please send me the Press. I am a native of the vicinity of Winchester and during my visits home in recent years have heard both you and your paper much commended for your stand on the great temperance issue. I am also a reader of the Globe and have been delighted to see the Press so often quoted in Globe editorials.

The late Robert Sellar, founder and long editor of The Huntingdon Gleaner did more than any other in the way of "putting Huntingdon on the map." He was a persistent and fearless advocate of temperance and moral advancement. I have long admired his life and work and am glad to know that my old home town has a Press directed by a man of like spirit. You deserve the support of the community and the prayers of all its praying people. With all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,
(Rev.) J. I. Hughes.

Expressing as it does the unsolicited, honest, and sincere opinion of one who is in a position to express an opinion on such matters, the editor of the Winchester Press not only appreciates, but highly values the estimate of his usefulness and influence as voiced by the writer of the above letter. The editor of the Winchester Press would sooner leave to his memory a good poem, such as "Home Sweet Home" or "Rock of Ages" than all the wealth of Henry Ford. And we would much rather be remembered in a community for standing out and fighting for the moral welfare of others than have our name prefixed with "Hon." or "Sir" or even Premier of Ontario.

THE PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

The presidential election in the United States this fall and the campaign now being waged will probably go down in history as one in which religion and liquor were so mixed and the electorate so confused that none could predict with any certainty the result. Hoover, the choice of the Republican party, a protestant and supporter of Prohibition; Smith, the nominee of the Democratic Convention, a Roman Catholic and "wet" are the men who are striving for the position, and in the next three months things are likely to happen in the United States that at present it would be hard to predict. While both parties profess to be trying to keep "religion" out of the contest, an outsider can see, perhaps more clearly than those engaged in the contest, that religion will be a very important factor. That prohibition will divert many votes from both parties is very evident. It is an election when party lines will be observed most by office holders and office seekers. Whether the old time organizations will be able or not to hold together the reliables remains to be seen. Anyway the election is weekly growing warmer and fiercer and what the end will be is only a guess.

THE PERTH COURIER

It is not renewing its youth, but just keeping up its full vigor of early manhood. We refer to the Perth Courier, entering as it did last week on its 95th birthday. No newspaper in Eastern Ontario is better conducted than the Perth Courier. The Courier was founded and reared in troublesome times, but it stood out manly for the rights and the liberty of the people. It's founder Hon. Malcolm Cameron, was a strong advocate of Temperance, and during its 95 years the Courier has never wavered in its allegiance to its illustrious founder. For over 60 years the Courier has been in the Walker family, and its present proprietor is ably upholding the splendid reputa- and character of the Courier. The Winchester Press joins in congratulations.

THE SAFE BULL

The Renfrew Mercury expresses a wise thought when it says that the only way to treat a bull is to treat it kindly and always keep a ring in its nose. Never trust a bull, no matter what breed or how tame and gentle it may seem. During the past week two cases have been recorded in Eastern Ontario of men being gored to death by a bull. They are never to be trusted, and wise as you think you are, and careful as you may be, you cannot afford to neglect every precaution when you have anything to do with an ordinary, everyday bull. whether is in the field or barn.

MAKING GOOD ROAD

Under the supervision of Mr. Joseph S. Robinson, Highway No. 31 between Winchester and Morrisburg is now in the best condition it has ever been. Direction signs are being placed, and every diligence is being exercised to make motoring safe and convenient. When the highway between here and the Carleton boundary is put in as good shape it will be a highway that little fault can be found with.

As an instance of how rapidly the world is moving and how distance is being eliminated, recently two men left Ottawa in an airplane made a non-stop trip to Winnipeg, 1500 miles at the rate of 100 miles per hour.

WITH the superb ease of a thoroughbred that takes all in its stride, the "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet never falters in the most trying circumstances—proves its mettle on the steepest grades and in the face of the greatest obstacles.

The ruggedness of Chevrolet construction alone makes these things possible. There is no part of the engine—of the chassis—of the body that was not designed primarily for rugged endurance—put to the test again and again on the General Motors Proving Ground.

As a result the "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet sturdily climbs without a halt, the steep slopes of the Rockies, and ploughs its way through the deep mud and gumbo of half-made prairie trails. In whatever conditions it may be placed, the splendid ruggedness of Chevrolet remains loyal in the service of its owner.

Its long life has become proverbial—the very name Chevrolet is a synonym for strength that endures.

The "Bigger and Better" Chevrolet — beautiful in form — luxurious in appointments — supremely rugged in construction—powered by the famous Valve-in-head engine—offers solid, enduring, trustworthy performance even under adverse conditions.

Flowers All Summer Long

The empire being nearly two thousand miles long running north and south, Japan has all the climates between Russia and Egypt, so that the blossoms do not all appear simultaneously over the country. By starting in the south and travelling slowly northwards, the tourist may have cherry blossoms through most of March and April. Through May, June and July the country is all aglow with other blossoms; azaleas, white, blue, purple or red, all along the roads and hillsides, as well as in parks and private gardens. Almost every dwelling has its trellis of wisteria; and it may be seen climbing lofty cliffs in the mountains, running riotously over vast . . . spaces of rock, with its giant purple clusters suspended in countless numbers, some of them from two to three feet in length. Nor would one omit mention of the camellia, the magnolia and the japonica, which may be seen adorning even hillsides and hedgerows as well as parks and gardens. Hills, downs and moors, too, are covered with a wealth of wild flowers of every color, but oftenest of purple and gold; and frequently a whole firmanent of lilies stretching away like endless eastertide. The iris also is nowhere more lovely than in Japan, iris purple, iris golden, iris variegated with magic hues and tints elsewhere unknown. Roses are cultivated in a few gardens, but mainly by horticulturists for the market.

Scarcely less alluring than the cherry blossoms is the lotus. The atmosphere is hot and humid, enabling the giant blossoms to burst and blush with warmth and health. One of the most refined amusements of the Tokyo elite, especially those of poetic temperament, is to rise at dawn and go out to hear the blossoms open with a pop in the lotus ponds, of which there are many in the capital. Such a pond in some big park forms a favorite resort for lovers of this pleasure; for there the stillness of the early morning remains longest unbroken, and the unique and enchanting echo of the bursting buds is the more easily detected. Mounting one of the graceful bridges that arch some indent of the lake, the eerie listener faces a glassy surface marked here and there by large pink buds, rising like tulips among the basin-like lotus leaves; if there be a wind, blue-green wavelets of velvet softness sway the many bowls upturned to catch the moisture and the dews of the past night. Here and there are seen big blossoms of pink or pure white, the offspring of the previous day, and now decorating a sea of green. The watcher on the bridge concentrates an eye on the largest soft plump buds."—L. Ingram Bryan, in "Japanese All."

Our American Cousins Fed on Misinformation

American Farm Journal Gives Extraordinary Editorial Which Invites Comment From Our Hydro Electric Province

THE FACTS FOR OUR READERS

Under a prominent heading an American farm journal ("Successful Farming") gives its readers some strange information. The article is headed as follows:

ONE-THIRD OF FARMS ARE MODERNIZED

Then comes the bald statement:

One out of every three New York State farms uses electricity. It is also shown that each home has an average of 23 outlets, 12 for each tenant home and 9 for the barn.

The editorial continues: "There were 860 motors on 1,181 farms, nearly 30 per cent. of which were of quarter horsepower and the great majority were of one horsepower or less, used mostly for milking machines, pumping, cream separating, shopwork, etc.

"Aside from lighting, electricity is most used in these New York homes for irons, vacuum cleaners and washing machines. And in decreasing number used for toasting, battery charging, curling irons, heaters, percolators and sewing machines. Less frequent use is made of electric pads, stoves, grills, fans, waffle irons, hat plates, ranges and refrigerators.

"It would seem that these New Yorkers have stuck pretty closely to the cheaper equipment and the uses that most relieved the workers from drudgery. If it were not for this factor, refrigerators should stand well at the head of the list, and fans have a very important place. Only about a fifth of them are pumping water by this efficient method.

"In other states or localities the equipment will vary according to the way in which equipment has been made popular by salesmanship or demonstration, or perhaps buying ability."

Worthy of Comment

If this journal did not have any Canadian circulation one might simply pass the article by with a shrug and a smile, but many Canadians will see it, and the editor of this page cannot refrain from comment.

U.S. Authority (?) Quoted

A certain Professor A. E. Stewart of the United States has recently been in the public eye owing to the publication of a pamphlet striving to point out how much better privately operated electrical production plants are than publicly-owned projects. In this pamphlet he failed adequately to bring out the accomplishments of the Ontario electrical undertaking, effecting certain comparisons, on the basis of percentage of farms served, between Ontario and some of the States of the Union.

Doesn't Mention N.Y. State

Of the States cited by this writer, the State showing the greatest percentage of farms using electricity was California, where the extensive use of electric power for irrigation pumping has simplified the difficulties of rural electrification. Even in the case of California, however, only 23 per cent. of the farms were reported as using electricity. In the other States mentioned, the percentages ranged from 7 per cent. to 2 per cent. The per cent. of farms using electricity in New York State was not even mentioned, and it seems certain that if the figure had been 33 per cent., or even one-tenth of that amount, it would not have been omitted by Professor Stewart. For the whole of the United States, Professor Stewart estimated that about 2.6 per cent. of the farms were electrified, and as this includes California and the other selected States, it seems clear that the per cent. of farms receiving electrical service in New York State must have been very small indeed.

The New York State Public Service Commission has jurisdiction over all electrical utilities serving consumers in the State, but, in the extensive statistical reports published by it, rural consumers are not regarded as being sufficiently numerous to justify separate classification.

Ontario's Rural Service

The rapid extension of facilities for electrical service in rural Ontario is a noteworthy source of satisfaction to all who have at heart the best interests of the Province as a whole, and agricultural industry in particular. Every since, in 1910, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario began to transmit power from Niagara Falls over the first sections of its transmission lines, the problem of providing electrical service in rural districts has been studied. Various means of overcoming the handicap of high cost of service which is inherent in territory where consumers are so much more widely separated than in the cities and towns, were investigated, and the first rural lines were constructed in 1912. It was not, however, until some years later that the co-operation of the farmers and of the Provincial Government had been enlisted to such an extent that a really rapid expansion of the service was possible.

Some Startling Figures

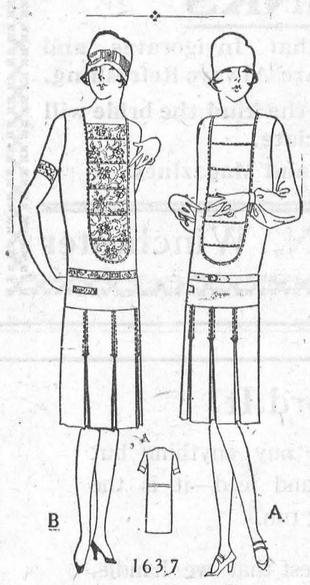
The activity that has been in evidence in recent years may be illustrated from figures taken from the Annual Report of the Commission for 1927. To the end of that year, rural primary lines totalling 3,100 miles in length, and costing over $6,600,00, had been approved for construction. Of these, over 2,900 miles were in actual operation, serving 25,000 consumers, distributed over an area of about 12,000 square miles in 211 townships. It is planned to construct, in 1928, and probably in subsequent years, additional rural lines at the rate of about 1,000 miles per year. Extensions can be made from the power lines that traverse the Province wherever there are thre farm consumers or the equivalent for each mile of line needed to distribute the electrical energy.

The Cost of Power

As in the case of the towns and cities, service is given at cost, with the additional advantage in the case of rural power districts, that the Provincial Government, as part of its policy of assisting agriculture in various ways, makes a grant towards a part of the original cost of constructing the lines, which reduces the interest an dsinking fund payable by the farmers. The average charge for rural consumers in 1927 amounted to about $4 per month. Considering that the service, in a large portion of cases, included lighting of barns as well as houses, the operation of motors for such farm work as feed-chopping, milking, separating, silo-filling and water pumping, and also in many cases, an electric range, and other household appliances, the average charge of $4 is remarkably reasonable. Out of the revenue derived at these rates, however, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission pays all expenses of producing and delivering the power, pays off a part of the original cost of all the equipment used, from the generating station to the last distribution transformer, and has a substantial surplus in hand that can be returned to the consumers. Last year, there was returned in cash about $230,000, from the surplus of previous years.

Users Benefit

It is found that, when a rural power district is first built, some of the farmers are hesitant about taking the service, and others do not make full use consumers enter into contract with of it. In a short time, however, more the Commission, and all soon find it profitable to extend their use of electricity. Under service at cost, the effect is to reduce the charges, as is clearly seen from the figures in the report. While the "service charges" for farmers in the "light farm service" class, for example, may be as high as $4.55 a month in some of the newer districts, yet in the older districts the "service charge" may be as low as $2.50 per month for the same classification. It is anticipated that this tendency to increase the use of this beneficial service, as well as to reduce the cost, will characterize future operations in the field of rural electrical development in the Province of Ontario. So, on the whole, Ontario compares not so badly with any State in the Union to the South.



A Modish Daytime Frock

Decidedly smart is this chic frock having a tucked vestee, set-in pocket, long or short sleeves, and a trim belt. The plaited skirt front is joined to the bodice, thereby giving a two-piece effect, and the back is plain. NO. 1637 is for Misses and Small Women, and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 (36 bust) requires 2⅞ yards 39-inch, or 2¼ yards 54-inch material, and ⅝ yard additional 39-inch contrasting for View B. Price 20 cents the pattern.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

HOW TO ORDER PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Enclose 20c in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number and address your order to Wilson Pattern Service, 73 West Adelaide St., Toronto. Patterns sent by return mail.

Total Power Installation

By the end of 1927 Canada had a total hydraulic installation of 4,777,921 horsepower of which 82 per cent. was installed in central electric stations.

A witness told a magistrate that he never knew what happiness was until he married. It was then too late of course.

Alsatian Chief Is Released By M. Poincare

Dr. Ricklin, Leader of Autonomists in Chamber, Receives a Pardon

Paris. — President Gaston Dermergue, at the instance of the French Government, has pardoned Dr. Ricklin, leader of the Alsatian Autonomists, whise condemnation to prison at the Colmar trials last May aroused a furore in France and whose election to Parliament created consternation in Government circles. Three other Autonomists imprisoned at the same time have been recently set free, and that action is regarded as among the most courageous which the Government has taken since Raymond Poincare has been Premier. Thus Poincare follows Britain's methods with subject rebels. Smutts and Botha of recent date made true imperial subjects. So, France will find, will these Alsatians.

These Alsatians, however, in the course of their trial, pleaded that their demands for an autonomius government in Alsace was the limit of their wishes and that never did they desire Alsatian withdrawal from France. They reiterated that they had fought the Germans on the same point as strongly as they have opposed the complete absorption into France.

Following the armistice there have been French governments which have admittedly proceeded too fast in trying to make all Alsatians good Frenchmen. The efforts were too strenuous to teach French to the inhabitants who knew only German, and to break up a system of confessional schools which applied to Alsace and not to France. M. Poincare saw that Alsace must be absolutely a part of France, but that the process of assimilation must be gradual.

The Alsatians could be encouraged and were ready to be loyal Frenchmen, but could not be bullied. Wisely, Mr. Poincare has busied himself reversing the mistaken policies and has promised that the Government would "respect their traditions and customs and preserve so long as they had the desire their school and religious system, namely the confessional and bilingual instruction and a regime of the concordat."

M. Poincare went further and appointed an Alsatian, Alfred Oberkirch, Undersecretary of State to advise on Alsatian matters. Finally he has allowed the sentenced Alsatian leaders to go free. In every way the Government has shown its good will, and though there may be some grumbling now, if the Alsatians are wise and show in Parliament their sole wish is to be thorough Frenchmen, the past will be forgotten and the Alsatian problem may quite probably be completely liquidated. Certainly a splendid beginning has been made.

The Bolshevik Menace

J. Baker White in the National Review (London): The Bolshevik leaders regard the Britih Empire as the greatest barrier against the World Revolution, and believe that until that barrier is destroyed World Revolution will never become an accomplished fact. They recognize also that the Empire cannot be brought to the ground by an attack concentrated merely on the British Isles, but that our Colonies and Dominions must be attacked as well.

If the colleges are going in for intellectual championship contests, some provision should be made for the lightweight class.—Springfield Republican.

Canada's Treaties

By R. J. Deachman.

This is the open season for Trade Treaties. Minister of Finance Robb has put through a few more. Financial experts on the other side of the House cry "Ruin!" The cry is a bit far fetched. The fountains of the Great Deep will not be broken up because we increase either our exports to, or our improts from Checko-Slovakia, Esthonia or Portugal.

Our Trade Treaties.

We have made a number of Trade Treaties in the past andthey seem to have done some good. Our trade with those countries is in a really prosperous condition. Canada has treaties or has admitted to treaty privileges, France, Belgium, Holland and Italy, and a number of others. The United States, on the other hand, has a stand-and deliver- tariff. No concessions are made to anybody. They work on the theory that the foreigner pays the tariffs. Mr. Dooley exploded that long ago when he said: "Yis, the foriner pays, providin' he gets past Ellis Island!"

It is not difficult to determine what has really happened in regard to our Treaties with different countries. We can get a clear idea, by making comparisons between Canada and the United States. We can also go back to the days before those Treaties were made and note the changes which have taken place since. It is customary to suggest that we have been in the habit of giving away our birthright. How we sell our birthright in disposing of wheat out of which the "Dagoes" make macaroni, is a problem which we prefer to leave to others. If a part of our birthright goes with each bushel, wouldn't the same amount of birth-right go out with a bushel of "Yankee" wheat?

Nineteen hundred and twenty-two, as everybody knows, was the bottom of post-war depression. If we take the comparative imports and exports of Canada and the United States with France, Belgium, Holland and Italy in 1922 and again in 1927, we will have an idea as to the relative progress made by the two countries during this period:

Canadian and American Trade With France, Belgium, Holland and Italy

	Exports of United States	Imports of United States
1922	$602,353,364	$296,848,737
1927	624,865,134	436,116,177
	Exports of Canada	Imports of Canada
1922	$45,488,260	$22,171,140
1927	82,190,104	49,083,598

You will note from these figures that exports from the United States to the countries named increased in the period by more than 3 per cent. Exports from Canada went up over 80 per cent. Total increase of exports from the United States amounted to over $22,000,000. From Canada in the same period, exports increased over $30,000,000. On the other hand, American imports increased $140,000,000. Canadian imports by approximately $26,000,000. It is interesting to note that United States figures reveal exports as fairly stationary—in Canada there is a sharp increase. In both countries imports are up. In 1922 the United States imported 49c for every dollar of exports—Canada, 48c. In 1927, the United States imported 70c for every dollar of exports—Canada 60c for every dollar of exports.

The Credit Balances

Then, having failed in all other arguments, the apostle's misery proceeded to tell us that anyway, if we have increased our exports, it is only in agricultural products and these, of course, make no difference. Glance back for a moment at the figures in the story. In 1922, we had in round figures, a credit balance in our trade with these four Treaty countries of $22,000,000. That is, after paying for our imports from these countries we had $22,000,000 of a credit balance available for the purchase of other things. In 1927, our balance was $32,000,000. Nor were all our exports agricultural products. The Belgium convention was made in the fiscal year of 1924. We shipped to Belgium that year, goods to the value of $17,452,442, of which $14,850,206 was composed of agricultural products. In 1927, the exports were $21,341,116, of which $16,445,885 were agricultural products—in other words, our exports of products other than "crude agricultural" are now almost double what they were before the Treaty, or exports of non-agricultural products increased as much during three years of treaty operation as in all previous times.

The world's trade continues to grow from generation to generation. Yet the world to-day, is only at the beginning of commercial development. We shall laugh a generation hence at the puny volume of the nation's business as transacted to-day.

Of course, it is quite true that the Treaties are not of tremendous importance. They are however, minute tiny infinitesimal lowerings of the blockade of production which stifles our growth and checks the progress of agriculture, mining and manufacturing. No one could criticise them, save in the sense that they do not go far enough to do much good. The arguments used against them in the House of Commons are senseless beyond words. Still, members of Parliament must have their fling—the common people take a saner view—more treaties would be welcome—broadening out th existing ones would be a help. Every stone knocked off high tariff walls helps forward National development.

The Native Question in S. Africa

L. Marquard in the Nineteenth Century and After (London): The days of exploitation are rapidly passing. The native cannot remain where he is, but to grant him complete civil and political freedom is, at the moment, out of the question. The history of the native question in South Africa has been the history of failure—a failure to recognize the impossibility of maintaining, as subject a race that outnumbers the ruing race by four to one; failure to recognize that the interests of the two races are one and not two; failure to recognize that the native question and the industrial problems are the same thing, that the native is in fact the proletariat; failure to recognize the potential economic value of the native as a citizen of the Union; in a word, failure to recognize that the economic exploitation of labor, whatever the color, is uneconomic.

New Mayon Crater Terrorizes Filipinos

Villagers at the Volcano's Base Flee Before Flowing Lava as the Earth Rocks

Manila (Sunday).—Belching tons of lava, the volcano Mayon early to-day was in the throes of its worst eruption since 1900, with a series of earth shocks rocking the countryside and spreading terror over the western portion of Albay Province.

Hours after the first molten rock shot high into the air the lava flow and earth rumblings continued. At the first sign of renewed activity natives fled and, with the disturbance continuing, the few remaining inhabitants of the little town of Libog, near the foot of the mountain, moved to safety.

As molten rock, fire and ashes shot skyward from a new crater which opened yesterday about 500 feet from the summit, women and children paraded the streets of Legaspi, their song sand prayers for divine protection mingling with cries of alarm. When lava from the new crater hit the base of the mountain it splashed a quarter of a mile.

A vast area slowly was being covered as the lava flowed to lower levels. Considerable damage had been done in the higher country and a stream has been dried up by the hot liquid rock.

Mayon began eruptions of serious proportions in June and continued until early July, when the disturbance apparently had been ended. At that time Governor General Stimson visited the province to inspect the situation and added his assurance to that of scientists that the worst of the cycle of eruptions had passed. Thousands of natives who had fled at the first rumbling then gradually filtered back to their homes.

A Man's a Man for a' That

Le Monde Ouvrier (Ind.): The survivors of General Nobile's Italian expedition were nearly all saved from certain death by the crew of the Russian ship "Krassin". . . . There has been a concert of praise from all parts of the world, they have been called the bravest of the brave and their herculean labors have been followed with admiration. Nevertheless these are the Bolshevists for whom we had nothing but contempt and against whom the Governments of the greater part of the co-called civilized world have taken rigorous measures to defend themselves. All of which goes to prove that no matter what may be the political opinions of a people and whatever their form of government there are brave souls everywhere; and we might just as well stop talking about the mote which we see in our neighbor's eye, while we still have a beam to remove from our own.

HENRY'S SHORTHAND SCHOOL
Ottawa, Ontario

No school in Canada offers a hetter training, or ensures a more successful future. Henry's leads all others, and ranks among employers as "THE SCHOOL OF HIGHER EFFICIENCY"—a fact borne out by more than 600 pupils who have, since January, 1913, left other Ottawa Schools to come to it.

Therefore, it is not surprising that business men, in advertising for stenographers should specially say, "Graduates of Henry's School preferred."

Caused Actors to Sneeze.

When the curtain rose for the first act of the performance at the town theatre at Weissenfels, the audience noticed that the actors on the stage seemed to have bad colds. They all sneezed so volently that they could hardly say their lines, and matters were made worse when the favorite actress of the town swept on to the stage and joined in the chorus of sneezing.

The audience rocked with laughter while the company on the stage struggled to control themselves and get on the play. It was all in vain, and the curtain had to be lowered.

Before it was raised again it had to be brushed and squirted with water to get off the sneezing powder which some practical joker had put on it so that, as it rose, a cloud of powder should spread on the stage and set the actors sneezing.

Place of a Million Skulls.

A railway passing through a place of a million skulls is now in course of construction beneath Paris.

Drills and hammers are pounding a way through the famous catacombs to make a new line that will relieve the congested traffic in the southern part of the city.

The bones of the dead have been placed here for centuries past, and secret meetings of criminals, and even of religious cults, have been held here from time immemorial.

The catacombs were originally hollowed out as a quarry, whence building stone was extracted. They were used later as a depository for the skeletons taken from disused Paris cemeteries on which buildings were erected. The skulls were built into pyramids and the bones were laid in such a way as to form walls.

Ottawa Exhibition

Six Wonderful Days, Half a Dozen Nights.

This the promise given to all visitors to the 1928 Ottawa Exhibition, the big annual event in the Capital, and considered from all angles the exhibition week, August 20 to August 25, inclusive, should prove the outstanding attraction. Never has the outlook seemed more promising or conditions more auspicious for success. His Excellency the Governor General has graciously consented formally to open the exhibition.

It may be safely stated the Ottawa Exhibition this year will present new features. Some of these were booked early in the year and all are the best available.

Continuing the policy for a high class, daily musical feature, the directors this year have arranged for the appearance of James F Victor and his famous band for daily concerts.

California Frank's wild rodeo and stellar vaudeville features will combine to make the grandstand show the strongest ever assembled for the exhibition. Other factors in the big exhibition will include: live stock, poultry, automobile show, airplane and radio displays, child welfare, baby show, hobby show, pure food show, a new and better midway and a hundred and one things which will make the educational and entertainment features of the 1928 exhibition eclipse all previous records.

The admission to the grounds will be 35 cents but by buying the coupon tickets which are now available, five admissions for a dollar are secured. These tickets admit to the grandstand in the afternoon and to the dog show. With the exception of the grandstand, dog show and midway shows, no extra charge is made. The price of admission entitles the patrons to view the displays and demonstrations in every building, to enjoy the daily concerts by Victor's famous band, to see the horse show in the Coliseum, the baby show, child welfare demonstrations, in fact to fill in every moment, not only of one day, but of several days.

Chaffe—Greer

Knox United Church, London, beautifully decorated with fragrant summer flowers, was on Wednesday afternoon at five o'clock, the setting of a very pretty midsummer wedding, when Evelyn Maybelle, daughter of Mrs. Annie Greer, and the late Joseph Greer, Bruce Street, became the bride of Mr. Elmore T. Chaffe, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Chaffe, of Dresden.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. R. B. Ferris, pastor of the church, and the wedding music was played by Mr. J. H. Castle-Graham. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, V. K. Greer of Toronto, was very lovely in her bouffant bridal dress of white crepe romaine. The skirt, fashioned longer in the back, was lined with pale green georgette and the bodice was tight fitting. Over all, fell her long tulle veil, arranged under a wreath of orange blossoms clustered over the ears. The bride carried a sheaf of Mary Lilies with streamers of white satin ribbon.

Miss Louise Greer, of Montreal, as her sister's maid of honor, wore a pretty frock of pale peach geogette designed with pleats and a clever cape effect. Her hat was of mohair in the same tone, and she carried a shower of Butterfly roses. Mr. Lloyd Chaffe, of this city, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man.

The two small nieces of the bride attended as flower girls, Gertrude Greer of Toronto, and Helen Greer of Perth, both were frocked alike in mauve georgette over little yellow slips, with big tulle hair bows and baskets of summer flowers. Jim Ferguson and Gordon Crozier, of this city, were the ushers.

An informal reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, where the rooms were effectively decorated in mauve and pale peach hues

Mrs. Greer, mother of the bride, received in a handsome black lace gown, with touches of purple, and wore a corsage of orchids. Mrs. Chaffe, of Dresden, mother of the bridegroom, was gowned in flowered georgette with smart mohair hat. Mrs. V. K. Greer, of Toronto, was in white with a white picture hat. Mrs. Charles Greer, of Perth, chose a rose and grey costume.

In addition to the immediate family, the guests included only Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Ferris and Mr. and Mrs. Castle-Graham. Assistants in the tea room were Miss Marjorie McDougall and Miss Velma Deacon.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmore Chaffe left for Toronto whence they will go on by boat for their wedding journey. The bride travelled in a grey pussy willow silk gown with small grey felt hat, grey shoes and smart navy coat collared in moleskin. On their return they will live in Welland.

Graham—McIntyre

A pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday, August 8th. at 3 o'clock p m., when Elizabeth Irene, second eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm McIntyre, of Mountain, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony with William Ernest Graham, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Graham, South Mountain, Rev Butcher, of Winchester, officiating.

To the strains of wedding bells played by Miss Winnifred Vanallen, the bride entered the drawing room leaning on the arm of her father. She looked winsomely pretty in a gown of bright crepe trimmed with deep ecru lace and carried a bouquet of roses. During the signing of the register Mrs. Butcher sang a beautiful solo.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served to the immediate friends present.

Later the happy couple, under showers of confetti and good wishes, left by motor for Brockville to tade the boat for Toronto and Niagara Falls.

On their return they will reside on the groom's farm about a mile west of town.

The Boy

Just a little baby
A little while ago
Then to sturdy childhood
I watched my baby grow.
No more, rock-a-bye-o,
How the days have flown.
Never more the baby,
Never all my own.

Just a little school boy
With his strap of books,
Such a world of questioning
In his puzzled looks.
Then the lessons over,
Hear his merry call,
"Where's my glove? Oh, Mother!
Where's my glove and ball?"

Father Time steps slowly
Do not kill my joy
Let me have him longer
Just a little boy.
All oh! all undeeding
Swiftly striding on,
How the boys is growing!
Boyhood almost gone.

Studying, working, playing,
Swiftly pass the days
Ever bringing nearer
The parting of the ways.
Would I thwart ambition?
Would I bid him stay?
Mine the little baby—
The man, to send away.

What would I, if asking
I could have for mine?
Would I call him to me
Be the clinging vine?
No, Dear Lord, for holding
I might only lose.
I'd ask that he stand foursquare
A man, that God could use.

When Hens Trespass

The following questison is asked in The Municipal World: "I would like to get some legal advise with regard to my neighbor's hens, which spend the greater part of the time during the summer in my garden. I am sure it is needless to tell you of their work in it. I have asked the owners to keep them at home but they will not. Is there any law against allowing hens to trouble the neighbors, and what is it?" Here is the answer: Yes you may have the hens impounded for trespassing If you notify your neighbors in writing of the trespass and they refuse or neglect to prevent the same they are liable to a penalty of $10.00.
