55th Anniversary for Mariatown Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baker of Mariatown, celebrated their 55th wedding anniversary on Saturday, April 21st. To mark the occasion, they held an "open house" when friends, neighbours and relatives called to extend congratulations and best wishes. William Marshall officiated at the informal get-together.

Harold Baker and the former Hattie Jane Carruthers were married by Rev. John Gollon at the manse of Morewood Presbyterian Church with Mrs. Baker's twin brother, John, and her sisteri Ida, in attendance. Mr. Carruthers died three years ago, but Ida (Mrs. William Ouderkirk) was present at the celebration.

A honeymoon vacation by train to Toronto, followed the wedding 55 years ago, prior to Mr. and Mrs. Baker settling on the farm four miles west of Chesterville on the Nation River, where they resided until they came to Morrisburg in April of 1956.

They are the parents of one daughter, Jean, (Mrs. Archie York) of Lyn, Ontario and grandparents of Marilyn of Waterloo, and Marion, of Ottawa.

The popular couple received many gifts, flowers and messages of congratulation. Among these was a plaque from the Ontario Government, as well as a telegram from Premier William Davis, and letters from Hon. Lucien Lamoureux, Hon. John Diefenbaker, Donald Irvine, M.P.P. and Walter Baker, M.P.

Rattlers Rattle in 13 in Pre-Season Opener

A keen interest in the game of lacrosse and its development initiated Morrisburg to take the daring jump into the Senior loop of the North American Lacrosse Association. A league that has now been in existence for seven years and well noted for its quality of lacrosse. The N.A.L.A. is split into two interlocking leagues with an east and west division.

Teams from Massena, Syracuse, Montreal and Morrisburg comprise the east division while the Western rivals are Niagara Falls Hawks, Brantford Six Nations Chiefs, Buffalo Senacas and Rorchester Golden Eagles. Each team engages in a home and home series.

The majority of the players of the Morrisburg Rattlers are made up from the old Morrisburg Mets team of 1968 when the Mets reached the Canadian finals.

Also temporary coaching and instructional skills from Chuck Chin, a former player with the Detroit Jackie McLennan, who previouss Olympiams and the signing of Jackie McLennan, who previously played in the professional leagues in Windsor will certainly make Morrisburg a serious contender in the N.A.L.A.

On Saturday evening the Morrisburg Rattlers of the N.A.L.A. outclassed the Syracuse Redmen 13-4 in their pre-season opener.

Adapting a fast-breaking style of lacrosse the Rattlers developed an early lead in the game on goals by Don Mabo and Jackie McLennan and continued to outhustle the Redmen (from a different league) at every opportunity.

Former Junior star Gary Hess exploded for three goals in the second period before being forced out of the game early in the third period with an injury. Speedy Donny Mabo playing one of his finest running games, and taking advantage of the fast-break brand of lacrosse clicked for his second goal while Steve Casselman netted the other goal. Don Marks and Alvin Cook added a goal each for the Redmen, ending the second period 7-2. Joe Billings thwarted the Redmen on several point blank shots and allowed only two goals before Terry Ferguson entered the net for the third period. Terry, playing his first senior lacrosse game allowed only 2 goals and robbed the Redmen on several occasions.

Steve Casselman and Jackie McLennan displayed their fine shooting skills by clicking for their second goal apiece of the evening. Also in his first senior lacrosse game Toni Veerhoven played an excellent game. The young teacher from Seaway High scored his first lacrosse goal. Other goal scorers for Morrisburg were John Johnston and Jack Notman with one apiece, and Henry Storgoaard with a goal and three assists while Jim Cameron picked up three assists also. Scoring for Syracuse was Don Gilson and Howe Edwards.

The Morrisburg Rattlers will be opening the season at home on May 12th against Syracuse Warriors.

U. C. W. HEARS SPEAKER FROM NORTHERN INDIA

Mrs. Surinda H. Gupta, an Indian lady from Northern India, was the guest speaker at the Evening Unit of the U.C.W. at the Allen Hall, Lakeshore Drive, on Tuesday, April 24th.

Her personality was one of charm and graciousness, and she also possessed a gift of humour and expressed it now and again, much to the delight of her interested audience.

Mrs. Gupta brought a wealth of information about the part of India where she had lived previously with her parents, and friends. She spoke of her background and culture, gave descriptions of Indian cookery and customs, and even showed the ladies how the sari is worn correctly.

Her own sari was of beautiful crimson silk with silvery stitches woven into the material. There were several of her other saris also displayed, many of which were beautifully embroidered by hand in some glorious designs. Many pieces of her valuable gold jewelry were also shown and everyone was quite impressed—nothing quite like it is seen worn by Canadians.

Mrs. Isabel York thanked Mrs. Gupta warmly for coming at such short, but unavoidable notice and presented her with a gift of appreciation. Afterwards, delightful refreshments were served, and all considered it an evening well spent.

DENTAL TOPICS

The Number is Important

Few people know how many teeth they're supposed to have. Too few care. More would take interest if they are reminded frequently that teeth are necessary for good health, an asset to good appearance, needed for chewing and they assist in speech.

There are 20 foundation or "baby" teeth. They are partly formed before a child is born and begin to appear when a baby is about 6 months old. Eruption is usually completed at 2½ years.

Because the foundation teeth have important duties to perform during the first 12 years of life, they should have the best of attention and care.

At six years of age the first permanent molars appear immediately behind the baby molars - forming a corner stone for the development and placement of the permanent teeth to follow.

A change in location or movement of the six-year molars due to premature loss of the baby molars could result in crooked teeth.

Aside from their vital chewing and guiding functions the baby teeth help the normal development of the jaw.

Normally, there are 32 second or permanent teeth. The loss of an early secondary tooth may cause other teeth to shift position. This shifting could destroy the natural form of the face and even the good appearance of a child.

The first permanent molars should be examined by a dentist just as soon as they erupt in the mouth. They, as well as the other permanent teeth, should be preserved throughout life if proper care is taken.

Teeth are to keep a lifetime.

YOURS SINCERELY

BY MRS. WELLWOOD ADAM

Are you fond of reading? There are many who are not, or say they do not have the time for it. On the other hand, there are a few who must read what is extremely necessary regarding their chosen work in life, and others who actually enjoy reading for its own sake. I belong to the last group, although my own reading is quite variable . . . from the religious to the secular, the serious to the comical, the heavy to the light. It goes without saying that the sexually overdone, plus pages of bad or obscene language, any poor plot and equally poor continuity— are consigned to the garbage, actually, or in thought!

However I came across a little favorite of mine, and it is actually a true story, called simply, "JIM".

It seems that a clergyman . . . and I quote from here: "—a puzzled frown on his face, hurried to have a word with the church janitor. "I am worried, for every day at 12 noon, I have noticed a shabby old man going into the church. He only stays a few minutes. It is all very mysterious, and you know the sanctuary furnishings etc. are quite valuable. I wish you would keep an eye open and question the fellow."

So one day the janitor saw the old man and stopped him. "Look here!" he said to him, "What are you up to, going into the church every day?"

"I go to pray." the old man replied quietly.

"Now, come," the janitor said sternly," you don't stay l o n g enough to pray. You are there only a few minutes, for I've watched you. You just go up to the altar every day, then come away."

"Yes, that's true," answered the old man, "I cannot pray a long prayer, but every day at 12 o'clock I just come to say "Lord, it's Jim!" Then I wait a minute, and then I come away. It's just a little prayer, but I guess He hears me."

Some time later, old Jim was knocked down by a car and was taken to hospital where he settled down while his broken bones mended.

Now the ward Jim was in, had been a sore spot to the nurses for a long time. Some of the men there were cross and miserable, others did nothing but grumble from morn till night. Try as they would, these patients never seemed to improve. Then slowly, things changed. The men stopped their complaints and were more cheerful. One day, hearing a burst of laughter, the nurse asked, "What has happened to all of you? You are now such a nice cheerful lot! Where have all the grumbles gone

"Oh, it's old Jim," one of the men answered. "He is always happy, even though we know he must be in a lot of pain. He makes us ashamed to grumble. No, we can't do this while Jim's around."

The nurse crossed over to where Jim lay. His silvery hair gave him an angelic look, and his quiet eyes were full of peace. "Well, Jim," she said, "the men say you are responsible for the change in the ward. You seem to be always happy!"

"Yes, that I am." said Jim. "I can't help being happy. You see, it's my Visitor. Every day He makes me happy."

"Your visitor?"—the nurse looked puzzled, for she had always noticed that Jim's chair was empty on visiting days, for he was a lonely old man with no relatives.

"Your visitor?, she asked, "but when does he come?"

"Every day," Jim replied, his eyes growing brighter. "Yes, everyday at 12 o'clock He comes and stands at the foot of the bed. I see Him, and He smiles and says . . . "Jim, it's the Lord!" (end of quote)

I am glad that this is a true story for there is a wealth of rich meaning within it and inbetween the lines as well, don't you thinkz If more of us saw with the 'inner eye' the same as old Jim, there would be more inward serenity to share. I think this upset world greatly needs this kind of thing, or outlook.

CORRECTION

In a recent issue of your newspaper, in an account from the April meeting of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital Women's Auxiliary, it was reported erroneously that "a group of ladies from Chesterville" turned o v e r funds from a Women's Institute which no longer existed.

Three representatives from the former Crysler W.I. attended the meeting and contributed the sum of $121.00 to the Auxiliary Treasurer.

We are deeply indebted to the members of the former Crysler Women's Institute and we offer our apologies to both the Chesterville and Crysler Institutes.

MINISTRY OF NATURAL RESOURCES—

Weekly Report

Ordinarily, getting a flush isn't serious. On people it means anger, a touch of fever or some other disorder, such as love. In poker, if it isn't "royal" or "straight", a flush is merely respectable, but no cause for excitement.

It is, at the Ministry of Natural Resources tree nursery in Kemptville, where more than 160 workers are now scrambling to life and pack for shipment millions of seed lings for the spring tree planting program, now going full tilt.

There, as at the other six major Ministry nurseries in Ontario, "flushing" means the seedling buds have started to open and the plants have switched from a dormant to fast-growth stage. When that happens the seedlings' chances of surviving the lifting-moving transplanting process of spring planting are diminished. Even if the plants make it to the site, extra care must often be taken and the trees watered to keep them alive. With thousands of other trees waiting to go into the ground, this extra time and trouble could mean big headaches for supervisors in the field trying to schedule men, their movements and seedling supplies.

With the recent period of dry, warm weather the scramble is on at the nursery to beat not only the flush, but keep up with the demand for trees that have been pre ordered. Every year at this time the Kemptville nursery becomes the main ammunition dump for hundreds of men with pails and shovels in Ministry crews from the Quebec border west, p a s t Kingston and Belleville, and north past Pembroke and North Bay.

To satisfy tree needs in the Ministry's new Eastern Region — an area of 10,000 square miles - the Kemptville nursery must come up with more than 4,500,000 seedlings. The species most in demand include Red Pine, White Spruce, White Cedar, Jack Pine, Tamarack and Silver Maple.

The majority of the trees are being planted under the Woodlands Improvement Act as well as on county, township and municipal land judged to be unsuitable for agriculture. Thousands of trees are also being planted on the land of private property owners who want to put their poor acreage to good use at minimal expense. They pay only slightly more than a cent a tree, but are required under the agreement with the province to have at least two acres of land, discounting buildings, and manage and protect the growing trees.

In townships all over the Eastern Region planting crews are marching over the fields leaving behind rows of wispy seedlings, while back at the nursery, fleets of incoming and outbound trucks are spinning dust into the air over the packing shed loading docks. Last week transport trucks from as far away as Pembroke were leaving at three in the morning to be at the ramp when the doors opened and be away and home so the trees could be planted as soon as possible.

Behind the nursery buildings are 240 acres of medium-textured, sandy soil divided by windbreaks and cedar hedges into neat compartments. The seedlings growing in bands in this compartments won't all be harvested this spring. The 4½million seedlings required will come from an area of only about 25 acres in size, so dense are the seedlings in the nursery beds.

Most of the trees will be lifted by machine, a converted potato digger whose blade passes under the band of plants which move onto a conveyor belt of rods where the dirt is shaken off and then are dropped into huge wooden boxes. The seedlings are then whipped off to the packing shed for counting, grading and bundling.

The packing shed is London's Kensington Market or Les Halles of Paris in miniature: dirt-covered men and women with scarves on their heads juggle bales of plants into stacks, fork lifts wing in and out among the packing tables and knots of workers, and truck drivers mill around on the loading docks. Lines of graders stand along the conveyor belts picking out small or damaged seedlings. The remaining good stock moves down to teams who pack bundles of 25 plants in sphag num moss. The moss, soaked with water from a hose, keeps the seedling roots from drying out during the haul from nursery to planting site. The trees are baled in sheets of waxed paper and burlap sacking or in celery crates depending on the order size, distance and means of transportation. Orders not being picked up the same day are wheeled through the huge doors of the shed's cooler and stacked on the shelves of steel tubing to prevent any growth in the plants' systems.

Machinery doesn't lift the entire spring crop. In some nursery compartments dusty gangs carefully pull the seedlings by hand and grade, count and bundle them on small wooden tables nearby.

Another crew in a special compartment digs and pots shrubs that will eventually decorate the landscape along provincial highways, overpasses and around provincial office buildings and institutions.

All this activity is only the tip of the iceberg. For months before hand Ministry clerks, technicians and foresters spend hours totalling up figures, planning, making out forms, placing orders and walking the fields with farmers and landowners who want advice. Fall work crews gather s e e d cones to be shipped to the Ministry's seed plant at Angus for processing. At the nursery there's fall sowing, sand and mulch layers to be put down, transplanting, construction and erection of slatted wooden shades to protect the tender seedlings from the sun, fertilization, addition of peat to the soil, irrigation and inventory to be taken. Then there's the equipment: during the winter months sparks from welders' torches sputter in Ministry workshops as the men make or repair planting machines or massive ploughs for soil preparation.

The pay-off for all this trouble is beautifully simple — trees.

PARKS ON HYDRO RIGHTS OF WAY?

In a new policy announced recently by Ontario Hydro Chairman George Gathercole, Hydro will make available to municipalities at $1 a year land suitable for park purposes on rights-of-way presently used as corridors for electrical transmission lines.

The land will be leased for a specific period of up to 25 years, Mr. Gathercole said. "In the event that Hydro requires the land — and these cases are likely to be exceptional — it will reimburse the municipality fully for its capital expenditures on the park."

Mr. Gathercole said, "We want to encourage more uses of power line rights-of-way for a number of purposes and we consider theeir function as public parks and recreational facilities as particularly desirable."

Previously, he said, the municipalities have failed to take advantage of the opportunity of developing these lands and integrating them into their park system because of the shorter term leases the risk that their investments on such parklands might be lost, and rental payments payable to Hydro equal to part of the taxes on the lands required under our former policies.

Under the new policy, Ontario Hydro will ask no provision for relief of taxes or grants from the municipalities. It will need, however, to maintain routine access to the transmission line towers, provision for anti-climbing barriers and any other safety features as necessary. These will be built by Ontario Hydro at its own expense.

Mr. Gathercole said, "Many Hydro rights-of-way are now being used in Ontario areas for a variety of purposes other than transmitting power. Several are used as part of golf courses, some as surface lines for subways at certain sections of their routes and some for bicycle paths and walkways. We also are considering setting aside some land for garden plots."

One of the more unusual uses is the "Kiss 'n Ride," provision at the Finch Avenue subway stop in Metro Toronto. It gets its name from the fact that cars can be driven across a right-of-way to the subway entrance and spouses can kiss their mates goodby before the journey into downtown Toronto.

To gain a better knowledge of the policies and operations of municipal parks, meetings are being held between Hydro and park officials of a number of municipalities. Preliminary hearings have been held with park officials of Metropolitan Toronto, the City of Toronto and the Boroughs of Scarborough, North York, Etobicoke, and East York.

"Municipalities, government agencies and many other organizations including commercial users will now have the opportunity of developing Hydro rights-of-way for public parks and recreational purposes, thereby expanding their recreational areas at relatively little cost and no risk of losing their investment."

CONSEIL D'EDUCATION DES COMTES DE

STORMONT, DUNDAS AND GLENGARRY

COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

Dear Parents: April 12th, 1973.

A crucial issue facing today's educational system is the unpredictable trends of a fast and ever-changing society; the adult of tomorrow will, in his lifetime, be expected to fill a multitude of social roles, probably hold many jobs, and live in many different places; in other words, live in a world entirely different from any known today.

With this thought in mind, The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education is deeply interested in and committed to updating present programmes as well as implementing new programmes to adequately prepare young people to the challenge of their future role.

In keeping with this policy, the Board of Education wishes to open a new educational avenue to the youngsters whose education you have entrusted to us - the avenue to English-French bilingualism. Large metropolitan areas like Toronto, Montreal, and our national capital have, for a number of years, promoted a similar programme. Because of the proximity of this area to these centres it is most fitting and long overdue that equal opportunities be made available to those students and their parents desirous of developing mastery of French as a second language.

Educational research from many renowned educators has proved that the younger the mind, the more receptive it is to the concepts of second-language learning. Research has also proved that intellectual ability and the learning of a second language are not necessarily interdependent, and that the transfer of knowledge and skills across languages contributes to the intellectual development of the young learner.

1. THE FRENCH IMMERSION PROGRAMME - KINDERGARTEN LEVEL

Effective September, 1973, a French Immersion Programme at the Kindergarten level, will be offered where feasible on an optional basis. Let us assure you that, within this scheme, a resolution has been approved to the effect "that parents and educators involved recognize that a child may be withdrawn from the programme should the need arise".

May we point out that the French Immersion Programme at the Kindergarten level will be in addition to the regular English programme presently offered, and not in place of that programme. In this way, the child will be adequately prepared for the regular Grade 1 programme.

We can derive then, that no teaching positions at the Kindergarten level will become redundant.

In the light of the success met to date in those areas referred to above, you will undoubtedly welcome the opportunity for your child to take advantage of similar programmes. We wish to reassure you that we will not hesitate to advise you to withdraw him (her) from the course should it prove mentally and socially advisable to do so.

2. THE 80 MINUTE DAILY FRENCH PROGRAMME - GRADES 1 AND 2

Second in priority to the Immersion Programme in French at the Kindergarten level, and subject to the feasibility of obtaining a sufficient number of qualified teachers. It is the wish of The Board of Education to implement as early as September, 1973, a French programme for a maximum of 80 minutes per day, the Grade 1 and 2 levels. Though the exisiting 20 minute programme from Grade 3 to Grade 8 adequately prepares the students upon entering a secondary school, it is not sufficient to develop a reasonable mastery of the French language in terms of a "working language" in the business, trade and professional world.

The second level of ability in English-French bilingualism can only be achieved through a more intensive programme similar to the one we propose.

3. PILOT PROJECT - FRENCH IMMERSION PROGRAMME - GRADE 7 AND 8 LEVELS

Third in priority is the implementation of a French Immersion at the Grade 7 and 8 levels as a pilot project in each of the Three United Counties under the jurisdiction of The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry County Board of Education. This programme is indeed subject to the interest shown by students and their parents and the availability of qualified personnel.

4. ENGLISH-FRENCH BILINGUALISM

To this day, French as subject of study on the elementary and secondary school curricula has been essentially an academic subject. Experience has proved to us that unless the students have the opportunity to speak the language amongst their peers, or at home, they regard as unlikely any pratcical application of their knowledge of French.

Our aim and objective is to develop two levels of funtional English-French bilingualism:

Dr. Stern, o fthe Modern Language Centre, Ontario Institute for Studies in Education, qualifies these two levels in these terms:

a) High level of functional bilingualism

i) they can meet with ease all day-to-day needs of intercommunication
ii) they can accept professional training in either language
iii) they can accept employment without handicap, in either language.
iv) they can liev in either speech community and adjust to it without any special linguistic or cultural difficulty.

b) Second level of bilingualism

i) the capacity to read newspapers and other informative writing
ii) the capacity to follow without difficulty programmes on radio and television
iii) the capacity to accept training or employment in the second language, or to live in the other language community
iv) the capacity to participate, through the use of both the first and second languages, in interpersonal conact, and
v) the capacity to understand the thoughts and feelings of the other language community and to share a certain level of information with the other language group.

As committees of parents would undoubtedly appreciate receiving additional information as to various aspects of the programmes included above, the writer together with the Area Superintendent are planning to hold a series of meetings in the various areas as indicated below:

PLACE	DATE	TIME
AREA 1
Winchester Public School	Monday, May 7	8:00 p.m.
Morrisburg Public School	Wednesday, May 9	8:00 p.m.
NOTE: At Winchester Public School for parents of Mountain and Winchester Districts. At Morrisburg Public School for parents of Matilda and Williamsburg Townships.
AREA 2
Vincent Massey Public School	Wednesday, May 2	8:00 p.m.
Long Sault Public School	Thursday, May 3	8:00 p.m.
AREA 3
Roxmore Public School	Monday, May 7	8:30 p.m.
Maxville Public School	Tuesday, May 1	8:30 p.m.
Laggan Public School	Wednesday, May 2	8:30 p.m.
Williamstown Public School	Wednesday, May 9	8:30 p.m.

Parents could proceed with the registration of their child in the French Immersion Programme, Kindergarten Level, in the following manner:

a) On the evening of the meeting scheduled for their area.
b) By telephoning the Principal of the school.
c) By personal interview with the Principal of the school.

May we continue to work together in the never-ceasing process of educational improvements for a better future for our children.

JOHN J. COMTOIS,
Superintendent responsible for French Education

Get pollution off your chest.

Ontario is a fast-growing province—more people, more vehicles, more factories, more machines every day.

With that growth comes the threat of damage to our environment. Pollution of all kinds.

The Ministry of the Environment is Ontario's guardian of our air and land and water.

Here's who we are and what we do:

Air Pollution.

1. We monitor the air for pollution and order corrections if unacceptable levels occur.

2. We track down strange odours in the air and many things you can't smell and eliminate them if they are dangerous.

3. We investigate suspected air pollution injury to people or property.

4. We are responsible for noise pollution and are creating enforceable noise control measures.

Land Pollution.

60 YEARS IN CORNWALL

Victorian Order of Nurses marks 75th year in Canada

Although this is the 75th Anniversary of the Victorian Order of Nurses in Canada, only four branches was established in 1913, with one nurse who cared for 290 patients in their homes, traveling on foot, very often through mud over her boot tops. In the first decade the nurses did school nursing as well, and often acted as truant officer when it did not take too much time from the sick.

The local board, under the first president, Mrs. A.F. Cameron, at various times asked the Town Council to consider such subjects as wrapping bread, the setting aside of a special building to care for smallpox cases, and heartily supported the I.O.D.E. in writing to Council regarding the need for garbage collection. They advocated a greater regard for the health of the children, the hope of tomorrow, by recommending the passing of a milk by-law. As we today look back and take these things for granted, do we wonder how many lives have been saved through safe milk alone.

In 1927, the newly formed Kiwanis Club donated a new Chevrolet car to the Order, which must have been greatly appreciated.

The Branch continued to grow steadily, and at the time of the 25th Anniversary served the town proper and the more thickly populated areas of the township. The homes were for a large part those of people employed in local industries.

Although total health supervision and education were commitments, home confinements played a large part in the case load, over 200 being attended in the year 1926, along with 199 pneumonia cases. Weekly conference were held with mothers, with an average attendance of 20 to 40. Transportation did not seem to be an impediment. The nurses stressed the need for better sanitation and better housing conditions.

The service as for all people, but, due to unemployment, and very low wages, in the early period the Order had to fight and work against being regarded as a service of charity only.

Through the war years, with shortage and constantly changing staff, the Order was still able to maintain an excellent calibre of service, and must have been a great comfort and help to young mothers left alone to rear children while their fathers served in World War II.

Fees ranged from a minimum of 25c to a maximum of $1.00

Through the years, we find changes. By 1944, home confinements and maternal care were still a large part of the case load, but there was beginning to be concern about the liseases of later life, involving varied and difficult problems, particularly in the area of emotional health.

The V.O.N. led the field in making citizens aware of the importance of rehabilitation of men returning from war service.

At the Golden Anniversary of the V.O.N. in Canada in 1947, the National Office referred to Cornwall as one of the oldest and most stable branches. By this time a staff of five nurses nobly carried out the duties.

In the nineteen-fifties, Health Services here as elsewhere in Canada went through a period of change in health care. Long term illnesses increased, putting an emphasis on rehabilitation. A decrease in bedside nursing became apparent, perhaps the result of the termination of insurance service, and, at the same time, more prepaid plans for hospitalization.

The boundaries of the City of Cornwall were extended, and the nurses had difficulty in keeping pace with the fast-growing city. The addition of Car No. 2 was greatly appreciated. But, in the later part of this decade, other problems reared their ugly heads, namely the visible effects of unemployment. Although housing needs and medical care and food were being adequately dealth with the V.O.N. personnel saw the worst effect — the morale depression — and tried to counteract it.

In 1960, only two hame confinements are noted, the work now turning to other fields — care of the elderly, cancer, and post-surgical care.

By 1968, the area of service included the three United Counties.

Today, sixty years after its establishment, a stall of seven full-time nurses provide nursing care to patients in their own homes in the City of Cornwall, and the five counties of Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry, Prescott, and Russell. The V.O.N. nurses are on call 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

Travelling to these homes over the years has been varied, and has had to change with the times, from travel on foot, horseback, bicycle until 1927, when the first car was provided by the Kiwanis Club.

The early founders could hardly have dreamed of the varied activities of the V.O.N. of 1973.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

Richard's anxious and eager smile typifies his attitude towards life and especially towards the future.

He would love to be settled and to know he belongs somewhere. Yet he is fearful: "Maybe I won't be adopted." Or: "Maybe I will and it won't work out."

At 13, a boy should be able to take his next few years for granted. But Richard can't — unless he finds a home where he knows he is welcomed and loved.

Slightly built Richard is small for his age and pleasant-looking with blue eyes, brown hair and fair skin. He is in good health.

Richard is in Grade Seven and though not academically minded, he is a great reader, regularly taking out books from the school library.

Tense, sensitive and shy, Richard is inclined to choose solitary projects like fishing. But he enjoys swimming and last summer played baseball when he found that being part of a team could be a pleasant experience.

This boy loves animals. His foster home is on a farm and he spends some of his happiest hours helping with the chores. He enjoys feeding the cattle and milking.

Richard needs understanding parents who can get through the protective shell he has built around himself and can help him believe that he is really part of a family.

To inquire about adopting Richard, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto.

Giving and Receiving

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

This may seem like a strange time to be writing about Christmas, but I have to begin getting ready for it now. The reason is: I have a real problem with Christmas gifts. There are so many children, grandchildren and great grands — plus the neighbor children with whom I babysit — to get presents for. And since my funds are quite limited, I can't spend more than a dollar or two on anyone, and I make handmade gifts. So I have to begin making them right about now. Everyone says they're so delighted with my presents and that's nice. But I wish they wouldn't give me such expensive gifts in return. I didn't need new silverware. I don't have much use for a new fur coat, since I seldom go beyond the bird feeder or clothes lines. And the new soft they gave me only makes the rest of my furniture look shabby. I would have been happier with a few pairs of stockings and some writing paper. When I tell them this, they don't believe me. They think I'm being ungrateful, which I am. So I've started to hate Christmas and to pray constantly that I won't survive another one. Is there any hope for such a situation? A.E.

Dear A.E.

The saying goes: never look a gift horse in the mouth, and it seems as though you have. Your relations and neighbors apparently are pleased to receive your unique handmade gifts and wish to reciprocate in their own way. They aren't going to change. The only hope lies with you. Why don't you smile your most dazzling smile and say thanks to one and all. If you don't, you'll make those nice well-intentioned people as miserable as you are — which will hardly improve matters. And why not use the gifts you can, while neatly packing away the others. Your friends and relatives might then get the idea that some of their gifts are more appropriate for you than others.

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

My doctor says I may have to have a hysterectomy. I'm 41 years old. Will this mean I'll have an early menopause? J.S.

Dear J.S.:

There's lots of confusion about hysterectomy, which is an operation in which the uterus, the womb is removed. Your doctor can tell you that after suregry, you won't have periods, nor can you conceive. And since the uterus does not produce female hormones (that's the job of the ovaries), taking it out will not hasten the change of life. You'll go through menopause whenever your ovaries would normally slow down.

However, if your doctor determines your ovaries must be removed to prevent further disease, then you will have what is called a "surgical menopause." Many women experience hot flushes and other symptoms of estrogen deficiency after such an operation, but just like in "natural menopause," these symptoms may be eased with hormones prescribed by your doctor. And be reassured that hysterectomy will not make you any less attractive or less feminine.
