Elma community shocked by brutal assault

ELMA - Residents in this small community south of Chesterville are in shock after the brutal assault of a woman here 12 days ago.

The woman was severely beaten late Nov. 30 after she confronted a lone male who had broken into her home.

She was taken to Winchester District Memorial Hospital with multiple injuries, including three broken and two cracked ribs, a bruised kidney, a concussion and bruises.

She remained in hospital for five days, recovering from the attack.

Const. Morgan Hill, spokesman for the Morrisburg OPP detachment, confirmed Thursday the assault took place, but would not release or confirm any other details.

According to neighbors, prowlers had previously been scared away from the woman's home on two separate occasions — three and five days prior to the assault.

On the Sunday before the assault, a suspicious vehicle was scared off from the area by the car lights of a neighbor returning home. On the Tuesday before the assault, the woman scared off prowlers with a .22 rifle.

Brigid (not her real name), victim of the assault, consented to an interview Friday on the condition that she not be named.

She is still stiff and sore from the assault, but said the mental trauma will be the toughest hurdle to overcome.

"Bruises will go away. It's the terror that I'll feel all the time."

She was asleep at the time of the break and enter. Neighbors say two men broke down the door of her home. One man stood guard at the door while the other assaulted her with nunchakus, a martial arts weapon consisting of two pieces of wood attached by a length of chain.

Brigid, who was knocked unconscious during the assault, said her biggest concern was the safety of her two-year-old son who was with her at the time.

It was the loss of control, the inability to protect her son, not her own personal safety, which bothered her most.

She said it is a shock to become a victim of violence in a quiet, rural area like Elma. It is in those type of areas that people usually consider themselves safe.

"I hear about it in the city. You don't hear about it here," she said. "If you're not safe in your own home, where are you safe?"

Neighbors are also shocked with the violence.

"It's unbelievable," said neighbor Orval Mayhew. "They (neighbors) are scared. They are a little bit shook up."

Renny Van Gilst, another neighbor, echoed Mayhew's comments. "We're all very concerned," he said Friday.

It is the first time an incident like that has happened in Elma, he said. He believes it is an isolated incident, not a foretaste of things to come.

"I think in a matter of time, it'll all be back to normal," he said.

Hill said area residents have no reason to be alarmed about the incident.

Residents should keep the outside of their homes well lit, leave some lights on when they leave home, and keep their doors locked, he said.

"Just use standard common sense."

He added that police are looking for tips concerning the incident and anyone with information may be eligible for a $1,000 Crimestoppers cash award, should their tip lead to an arrest.

As for Brigid, the toughest thing will be putting the incident out of her mind and getting her life back to normal.

"I suppose time is the greatest healer of all," she said. "Hopefully it will pass."

Helping the helper

It looks like a bit of role reversal is the order of the day as Santa positions a microphone to help one of his helpers throw his voice to the back of a packed gymnasium at Winchester Public School at one of two Christmas concerts held Monday. Over 300 people attended each of two performances held in the morning and evening.

Former Dundas MP ordered to stand trial

CORNWALL - Former Stormont-Dundas Conservative MP Norm Warner must stand trial on a charge of fraud.

Warner was committed to trial following a lengthy preliminary hearing which ended in provincial court in Cornwall Monday. A trial date is to be set Jan. 9.

The preliminary hearing to determine if there is enough evidence to send the former MP to trial on theft, fraud and perjury charges resumed Monday after a Nov. 13 adjournment. Charges of theft and perjury were withdrawn at the end of the hearing Monday.

Warner and Cornwall accountant Paul Martin were jointly charged last year by Ontario Provincial Police in connection with the awarding of a $113,575 grant to Dek-King Ltd., a now-defunct Cornwall patio deck manufacturer.

Warner pleaded not guilty to the charges in provincial court November, 1989.

The charges claim the Ontario Ministry of Revenue was defrauded through the submission of false affadavits indicating money had been invested in Dek-King Ltd. The charges also claim false statements were used to obtain money from a business incentive program.

Warner was called a "giant killer" when he ousted former MP and Liberal minister Ed Lumley in the 1984 Tory federal election sweep.

The rookie MP announced prior to the 1988 federal election that he would not seek a second term as MP and planned to leave politics to concentrate on his family-owned insurance business. He later sold the business.

Township backs down on road name promise

MAPLE RIDGE - Winchester Township council backed down from a promise to rename a disputed portion of Maple Ridge Road, and money was at the root of its decision.

A portion of the municipal road which has traditionally been part of Maple Ridge Road, was renamed Belanger Road this past summer. The road runs in a straight line from Highway 43 north to Boyne Road.

Residents were upset that a portion of the traditional path of Maple Ridge Road had been renamed and petitioned council in October to restore the original name to the sign on Highway 43.

Council initially bowed to pressure from the Maple Ridge Road residents and passed a motion renaming the disputed portion of the road.

But when council approached the Ministry of Transport to replace the sign indicating Belanger Road, it was told it would cost $500.

Reeve Claude Cousineau said that was too much. Council can't afford to spend $500 to replace a road sign.

"We can't justify that. We have so many dollars to work with and we have to stay within that framework," he said.

Instead council decided Dec. 3 to appease Maple Ridge Road residents by agreeing to place a sign pointing to Maple Ridge Road where it branches eastward away from Belanger Road. The 300-meter- long disputed portion running north from Highway 43, will remain named Belanger Road.

Olive Hutchinson, a spokesperson for the group of residents who petitioned against the name change, was unhappy with council's decision to leave the disputed portion of the road as Belanger Road.

"We still feel the same way. We do want Maple Ridge Road at the highway where the original sign (was)," she said Monday.

Hutchinson predicted residents would protest council's decision.

"(We) feel very strongly about it. It's kind of a historical thing as far as we're concerned and I think we feel allegiance to our forefathers who named that road," she said.

Pastoral care workers lend a sympathetic ear

by Shana Saper
pres staff reporter

WINCHESTER—When Anne Lyon worked as an RNA, she knew that helping sick patients get well often meant more than just the right diagnosis and medical treatment.

For many, it's a sympathetic ear and just being there.

"In nursing we were taught to care for people in the physical sense but you also have to take time to listen," says Lyon.

Now as volunteer co-ordinator of pastoral care services at Winchester District Memorial Hospital, Lyon's entire job consists of listening and responding to the spiritual needs of hospital patients and co-ordinating visits with clergy and pastoral care volunteers.

"It's mostly a listening service and a presence that we provide," says Lyon. Although pastoral care doesn't provide advice or counsel, Lyon says they do offer referral and prayer if requested.

WDMH currently has a team of 22 pastoral care workers on call ready to make visits at a patient's request. "We don't visit unless the person wants a visit," stresses Lyon, and she adds that the service is non-denominational and totally confidential.

Lyon, a South Mountain resident, left active nursing some years ago to take care of her youngest son, Michael, 10, who is minimally brain- damaged. She was drawn into pastoral care work seven years ago out of an interest to "do something outside of the home" and has been central in its growth ever since.

The pastoral care program is going into its seventh year at WDMH. Although it receives no direct funding from the hospital or churches, it does benefit from the material as well as moral support of both.

"We are trying to get funding through the churches," says Lyon who carries out her job on a volunteer basis. "Bigger hospitals do have paid co-ordinators and full-time chaplains."

Expansion ends ten-year wait

by Shana Saper
Press staff reporter

MARIONVILLE — Ste. Therese d'Avila, the three-room schoolhouse that serves the French-speakingcitizens of Osgoode, west Russell, and Winchester townships, is set for a long-awaited expansion and renovation, several sources revealed this week.

After 10 years of deliberation over the fate of the French Catholic school, the date of March, 1990 has been slated for a million-dollar-plus expansion that will add on a new gymnasium, library, and classrooms to the present school.

According to the school's principal Hector Masse, the project is long overdue. "At last, we're going to be together," declared Masse from his office inside the school's main building.

Outside his window are five "portables" or "modular classrooms" scattered around the schoolgrounds. Sand-colored and barracks- like, they've sprouted up like so many toadstools as the student population has increased.

School board adopts environment policy

CORNWALL - Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry public schools now have a co-ordinated plan of action on the environment.

School board trustees recently adopted a three- year environment plan aimed at waste reduction both within the board's administration and in its schools.

With the plan, the board is catching up with the work already being done by many of its schools. Many schools have forged ahead on their own, implementing their own waste reduction and environmental education measures well before the board considered implementing an official policy.

The plan will reinforce and co-ordinate recycling and other waste reduction measures being undertaken by schools throughout the counties.

"Our board has the opportunity to educate students and the public about the environment. As well, our board can model positive environmental practices," said Colin Vickers, superintendent of education with the board, in a preamble to the proposal.

"Our greatest resources in this endeavour are the energy, initiative and commitment of our students. Hopefully, this plan will support the positive interest of the people of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry as well as make a declaration to improve our environment."

Board chairman Roy Hastings said it is a logical step for the board to adopt an official environmental plan, especially with so many schools already taking action on their own.

"I feel the entire student body...is becoming more and more aware of the problems of looking after waste materials," he said.

He expects the environmental effort to start slowly, but grow after more schools become aware of its details.

"I expect that within a month or two...it will snowball and there will be more and more (recyclables) gathered."

Osnabruck Township trustee Bill Fleming said the environment movement in schools shows that everyone can help to save the environment.

"It's a two-way street. It just doesn't happen with the big people," he said.

By promoting environmental awareness among students, schools can capitalize on the positive attitudes and enthusiasm the youths hold. "I think that's great," he said.

Through the environmental plan, a manual of suggestions for recycling, re-use and reduction of waste will be developed and an environmental education and practices group will be formed.

In education, in the first year of the program the board will help schools implement curriculum promoting environmental awareness and provide funds for students and staff to attend environmental conferences and forums.

In 1991, the board will also sponsor a leadership conference for high school students interested in learning more about the environment, and sponsor school-based projects to improve the environment and networking with other student leaders.

As well in 1991, the board will apply for government grants and reduce the travel of board support staff, teaching and administration staff. It will provide transportation and storage facilities for recyclables, expand the use of recycled products, and seek Ministry of Environment support in locating buyers for recyclables.

In education in 1992, the board will offer workshops to all staff groups on the principles and practices of environmental conservation, will continue leadership programs and funding for conferences, and will extend leadership programs to elementary school students.

It also will organize school-based and regional development fairs to acknowledge school and community initiatives toward the environment and will educate the public about desirable environmental practices.

In practice, it will establish a full-time position to provide co-ordination, consultation and monitoring of board environmental education programs and practices, provide regularly scheduled pick-ups of recyclables in co-operation with municipalities and will continue to seek federal and provincial grants.

It also will continue, where feasible, to support environmental practices at the school and office level, and will seek a further five-per-cent reduction in paper consumption.

In 1992, the board will continue its environmental practices, evaluate initiatives and prepare long- range strategies.

School's fate decided

After 10 years of hanging in limbo, Ecole Ste. Therese d'Avila in Marionville will get much-needed renovations starting early in the new year. Increasing enrolment confirms that French education is on the rise.

Demand for French schooling on rise

But students and teachers say the portables are drafty and ill- equipped. For example, to use the school's only toilets, they have to cross the schoolyard to the main building in all kinds of weather.

Masse agrees everyone will be happier with the new facilities, especially the staff. "Many of the teachers have come from other schools, brand new schools. Here, they don't have their own washroom!"

The current population of 196 students and 10 full-time teachers is growing year by year. For the first time this year, the Junior Kindergarten was split into two groups requiring an extra teacher be hired on, he said.

"And only a few years ago they were talking about closing the school because there were hardly any students," Masse explained.

But last September, Ste. Therese became part of the wider Ottawa- Carleton French Language School Board. Now there are 38 students from Carleton, 68 from Prescott-Russell, and 99 from Winchester township and Masse says the demand for French schooling is on the rise.

School board assistant superintendent Sylvie Desmarais points out the school is currently beyond its legal limit of 105 students which may explain why the Ministry of Education has at long last approved the necessary money for construction.

"The Ministry of Education has allocated a budget of one million dollars so far," Desmarais says, confirming that tenders will be called for after the New Year.

Despite cramped quarters, Ste. Therese offers more services than many area schools.

"We have fine arts and music specialists that come here for a day-and-a-half per week, and we have a staff social worker, psychologist, and physical education instructor," says Masse proudly.

However, lack of space has meant that older students must be bused 10 miles to Carlsbad Springs to take phys. ed. while younger children have been using Marionville's Community Centre facilities.

"We'll start with the gym," said Masse referring to the timetable for construction. But he admits, it's going to disrupt normal schooling for a few months.

"There's going to be a lot of heavy equipment and fences around the construction area and it's going to bother the students." But everything should be ready for September, 1991, and all agree, it'll be well worth it.

Road naming horseshoe-shaped course unchanged for 111 years before having a portion of it renamed Belanger Road.

Residents complained in October they were unaware of the changes being made to road signs in the township until they saw the new sign on Highway 43 indicating Belanger Road in late September.

Council officially assigned about 50 names to municipal roads in a bylaw passed earlier this year. The road naming was done to conform to a new county-wide emergency response system.

Councillor Gord Johnson defended council's initial decision to change a portion of Maple Ridge Road to Belanger Road. He said the change was made to make it easier for emergency vehicle drivers to find their way around unfamiliar rural roads.

He also said it made more sense to name the disputed road portion Belanger road, because it continued on in a straight line to Boyne Road.

Cousineau defended the road-naming procedure used. He said the township published advertisements announcing a public meeting on the road naming for four successive weeks.

"Nobody complained until after the fact," he said.

Pastoral care

Recently, 53 trainees completed a 10-week workshop in pastoral care work at Winchester hospital. Given by the regional Christian Council of the Capital Area, the training focused on how to be a care-giver, the needs of hospital patients and shut-ins, and how to deal with people grieving or suffering depression.

"It's important to say it is a Christian pastoral service, with a focus on Jesus Christ and his teachings," Lyon points out. But having said that, she adds the service is available to anyone, Christian or not.

"We don't try to change that person's religion but we do try to link him up with his clergy."

According to Lyon, the pastoral care program is well-accepted at the hospital. Last year alone, there were between 1,200 and 1,500 pastoral visits. "We're definitely part of the medical team," she states.

Accident claims life

MAXVILLE—A two-car collision claimed the life of a Maxville man and hospitalized a Chesterville woman here last week.

Larry Smith, 33, died Dec.4 after his Honda Civic crossed over the median and into the path of a Plymouth Reliant driven by Ruth Gilroy, 44, of Chesterville.

Smith, father of three small children, was pronounced dead upon arrival at Glengarry Memorial Hospital.

Gilroy, who suffered a double whiplash and cracked sternum, was taken to Cornwall General Hospital where she was treated and released the same day.

Gilroy is recuperating at home and is under a doctor's supervision. In a telephone interview, Gilroy said she will be wearing a neck brace for the next 6-8 weeks. Her sternum break will take about the same length of time to heal.

According to Maxville OPP, the accident occurred some 4 km east of Maxville on County Road 22. Conditions were slushy and icy and Smith apparently lost control of his car and drove into the other lane.

Gilroy was not responsible for the accident.

CHRISTMAS SAFETY TIPS

BICCUM & McINTOSH LTD.

Some Special Notes on Electricity and Electrical Cords:

— Examine all extension cords: Often these are used only once a year, at Christmas time, and may be quite old. If they are frayed, it is time to replace them.

— Avoid "octopus" situations — circuits can become overloaded.

— Never puncture the insulation of electrical cords by nailing them to walls or floors.

— Do not run extension cords under carpetings: this may conceal a damaged cord, and will not allow the heat from the cord to escape, causing overheating.

— More electricity is used by most households during the holiday season: cold weather and entertaining increases use of stoves and other appliances. It is a good idea to ensure that all fuses are of the proper rating and in good repair.

— Fireplaces and inserts are often used more to create a holiday atmosphere. Ensure that these are always supervised. Avoid creating very hot or large fires. It is a good idea to ensure that the chimney is inspected and cleaned by a professional.

Educator bid farewell

WILLIAMSBURG — Dr. Evalene Thom of Williamsburg retires this month from her position as Co-ordinator of Special Education with the Ottawa Board of Education. Thom is leaving after 28½ years with the OBE.

She received her BA from Carleton University and did her graduate work, B.Ed., M.Ed. and PhD at the University of Toronto. She moved from the regular classroom to become a special education teacher and then to special education consultant and supervisor.

She currently co-ordinates all special education programs from Kindergarten to Grade 13 for the Ottawa board.

During the 1970s, Thom was instrumental in expanding OBE special education to include secondary programs. A pilot program for students with severe learning disabilities was implemented in Brookfield High School with a second unit following at Laurentian High School.

Special support units for students with behavioral problems have also been placed in many secondary schools assisting those at high risk of dropping out. These are but two of the innovations for which parents of special education students in the Ottawa board can thank Thom. Her talents and expertise have been sought as far away as Scotland, Malaysia, Thailand, Mauritius and Kuwait.

The final farewell speech at Thom's retirement party at Highland Park High School couldn't have been more fitting. She was thanked by Andrea Old, a Grade 13 deaf student at Glebe Collegiate who says she owes her ability to speak to Thom. Andrea is just one of hundreds of Ottawa students who have gone through programs designed by Thom.

"They are tremendous programs," said Andrea, who added that the unique program for hearing-impaired students enabled her to remain in the mainstream of education. The youngest student in this program, Bria Cole, a four-year-old deaf kindergarten pupil at Regina School, then presented Thom with a bouquet of red roses.

Words of appreciation were sent by Mayor Jim Durrell of Ottawa. Tributes were also brought from elementary and secondary principal associations, teacher federations, the Ministry of Education, OBE Psychology Dept., the Council for Exceptional Children and various parent associations.

VOICE Parent Association presented Thom with the first Honorary Life Membership in recognition of years of service to hearing-impaired children. The Learning Disabilities Association of Ottawa is donating to their library a book for teachers, in appreciation of her work with these students.

Many OBE staff, colleagues and friends presented her with one of the highest tributes — the 'Dr. Evalene Thom Scholarship Award' to be presented annually to a special education student going on to post-secondary education.

Thom does not plan to leave the special education field. In January, she will go to Mauritius for a year as a special education consultant through the Presbyterian Board of World Mission and the government of Mauritius.

Two injured in accident

MOREWOOD—Two people were injured in a single car accident Saturday night on Morewood Road near the Castor Creek drain, OPP reported. Donald R. Billings and Susan Billings of Church St. in Finch drove into the cement barrier at the road construction site totalling their 1989 GM pickup truck.

According to police and firemen called to the scene, the couple had to be extricated from the vehicle and were transported to hospital in Winchester. WDMH records show that Donald Billings was released the same night.

Frank Bailey

Frank Bailey, a former parts manager at Ault Foods, passed away Nov. 15 in the Providence Manor, Kingston. He was 82 years old.

He was born Jan. 14, 1908 in Inkerman, the son of the late John and Sarah (Barrigar) Bailey.

Mr. Bailey was predeceased by his parents, brothers Roy, Earl and Percy, and sister Annie Crowder. He is survived by daughter Norma (Mrs. Frank) Stoyles of Nepean; and sons Clair of Kingston and Lloyd of Ottawa.

Funeral services were held Nov. 17 from J.R. Vice Funeral Home, Winchester, with the Reverend Angus MacDonald officiating. Interment followed in Knights Cemetery, Inkerman.

Pallbearers were Lloyd, Clair, Robert, Brian and Michael Bailey, and Craig Stoyles.

Race relations committee to promote cultural harmony

CORNWALL - The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry public school board has formed a committee to seek public input on race relations.

The board recently created the committee to seek ideas and comments from residents of SD&G as well as the Akwesasne Reserve.

The committee will also review, devise and monitor an implementation plan for existing race relations and ethno-cultural equity policy.

The committee includes one representative from elementary and one from the secondary professional council, three from the Cornwall and District Multicultural Council, two students, two trustees, the superintendent of education and two ex-officio members.

The committee will focus on school-community relations, support services in guidance, assessment and student placement, personnel policies and practices, curriculum, staff development, racial harassment and leadership.

Board chairman Roy Hastings said the formation of the committee does not mean there is a problem with race relations within board schools.

"As far as staff and students, I think everything is harmonious," he said.

Nor was the committee brought about because of the events at Oka this summer, which brought native issues to prominence. Educators have been discussing the formation of a committee since June, 1990, well before the Mohawk confrontation at Oka.

The committee's main role is to find ways to promote understanding of different cultures. It will gather materials promoting multiculturalism, will assist in course programming, including obtaining speakers from various embassies, he said.

Members include Alexandria-area trustee Lusia Jasiewicz, director of Worldfest, an annual multi- cultural festival in Cornwall, and Mamie David, a school board representative from Cornwall Island.

The school board already has a multi-cultural flavor through 200 Mohawk students who attend General Vanier Secondary School in Cornwall. Hastings says the natives are an asset to the system.

"We are very happy to have them there. They add to the system and the school by being there," he said.

Bill Fleming, board trustee for Osnabruck Township, said race relations have not been a problem within the board. But he still hailed the formation of the committee a positive move.

"Even if it [racism] happens to one family, it's a problem," he said recently.

Egan pats figures on renovations at hospital

by Thelma Corey

Winchester WI met on Nov. 20 in the Lions Hall and were joined by one visitor, guest speaker and two 4-H leaders. On display was a beautiful project of Bread Dough Art done by 4-H members.

A poem was read by president Vivian Fawcett commemorating Remembrance Day. Roll call was answered by the name of a town or city with a Canadian industry. Thirteen Winchester WI members attended a WI meeting in Mountain and had a very enjoyable evening.

The new contest for WI members in '91 is in the categories of prose on "My Country" or song writing with one to three verses using old tunes or your own music.

Winchester WI members are invited to Carman House in Iroquois on Dec. 15 from 2-4pm.

Irene Woolford will give a landscaping course in the spring. Convener Irene Nugent had as her guest speaker, Mr. James Egan, administrator of the Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

Mr. Egan spoke about the cost of repairing the hospital. Some minor work has been done on the electrical system, filtration in the operating room, venting in the boiler room and to eliminate flooding in X-ray room No. 3.

"What we must do"; operating room heating, ventilation, air-conditioning system - $120,000; general ventilation and air-conditioning system - $800,000; ground-floor mechanical room - $400,000; flammable storage room - $80,000; plumbing - $600,000; emergency diesel generator - $195,000; fire alarm system - $220,000; drainage - $111,000; medical gas system - $250,000; elevators - $120,000; and hospital roof - $208,300.

The entire project is estimated at almost $6,000,000. The Ministry of Health may reimburse two-thirds of the total cost. "We have to bring the hospital up to various codes and standards. If we fail in this quest, the future of the hospital may be in jeopardy," said Egan.

Mr. Egan was thanked by Stella Potter and presented with a gift. The committee and convenor were thanked by Marion Renwick for an interesting speaker and a lovely lunch.

The next meeting will be held on Dec. 18 with a potluck supper at 6pm and exchange of gifts.

Learning in comfort

Those who take advantage of services provided by the Dundas Community Learning Centre will be tutored in comfort now that the Winchester branch of the Tri-County Literacy Council is settled into its new home at 512 St. Lawrence Street. Numerous well-wishers visited the Centre during its open house and official opening Saturday afternoon. Above, visitors crowd the front porch on the municipally-owned house as Winchester Village Reeve Larry Gray cuts the ribbon held by (from left) June Garlough, who named the Centre; Claire Bonneville, who spearheaded the project for Tri- County; Centre president Susan Hanson-Johnson; and the Tri-County's Dina McGowan.

St. Lawrence Parks given financial boost

The provincial government announced today the St. Lawrence Parks Commission will receive $685,000 for various projects including forest management and park improvement, new storage facilities, repairs and renovations at Upper Canada Village and Fort Henry, a final design for improved marina facilities and enhanced recreation facilities for the Long Sault Parkway.

"These projects will encourage more residents and visitors to come and see some of Ontario's best attractions", said Ontario Minister of Tourism and Recreation, Peter North. "The completed projects reflect the government's commitment to tourism and recreation and their importance to the economy."

"This injection of capital funds will stimulate the winter economy in Eastern Ontario and allow the St. Lawrence Parks Commission to improve and enhance its facilities for the 1991 tourism season. We have targetted the long Sault Parkway as a focus of our parks improvement program for 1991, including playground equipment, picnic shelters, a band shell and interpretive displays" commented George Speal, Q.C. Chairman of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

Parks' injection welcome

QUEEN'S PARK — Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry and East Grenville MPP Noble Villeneuve says that he is pleased that Upper Canada Village and the St. Lawrence Parks will receive extra funds for new job-creating capital projects.

The government has allocated $685,000 for projects at Upper Canada Village, the marina, for recreational facilities for the Long Sault Parkway and other Parks facilities.

"It's a start. Any jobs that we can get at this particular time are needed and appreciated," says Villeneuve. "But we must not stop there. Northern Ontario has received half of the province's $41 million in new projects. In my opinion, the need in Eastern Ontario is just as great — if not greater."

Villeneuve strongly supports ongoing improvements at Upper Canada Village and the St. Lawrence Parks: "We're still hurting from park closures under the Liberals, so I'm hoping that together with area municipalities, we have been successful in showing Toronto how important the parks are to us."

However, Villeneuve feels that the province has to take one further step: "Now that work is being done to improve facilities, we have to take new measures to bring more people to those facilities. With the recession, we need to advertise more and better in order to bring scarcer tourist dollars to the parks. We simply have to do this to keep from falling further behind. It won't be easy, but it has to be done, and it has to succeed."

There was an interesting point that Terry O'Reilly returned to frequently in a Press interview, for a profile that will appear in next week's issue.

Mr. O'Reilly is the United Counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry's director of economic development. This is a new position created just in the nick of time for an area that finds itself sliding down the slippery slope of the latest recession.

Basically, the message he delivered several times sounded uncannily Biblical. It's the "The Lord helps he who helps himself" admonition. He didn't put it in those words, exactly, but the message was the same, nonetheless.

What he was saying was that the short- and longterm solutions to the region's economic problems can be found within ourselves. Outside help, in the form of government intervention when an industry is on the skids, or grants to stabalize, rationalize and revitalize the region's commerce, are things he would like to see rejected in favor of local initiatives.

There seems to be a general perception among Eastern Ontarians that all our problems grow out of Queen's Park's negligence. We tend to accept as truth that to the provincial politicians, Ontario ends somewhere west of Kingston.

This perception is not completely out of whack, and it would be almost treasonous for us, as Eastern Ontarians, to even make such a gratuitous suggestion. Eastern Ontario has been ignored by the centre, as has the North.

However, Mr. O'Reilly doesn't think this should matter all that much. And, he is probably right.

He sees a lot of possibilities for the area. We have one of the world's great waterways on our front doorstep, and the nation's capital is just out back. The three counties are rich in history, and make a compelling study into the movement of European settlers as they fanned out across the continent. The resulting tourism potential is boundless.

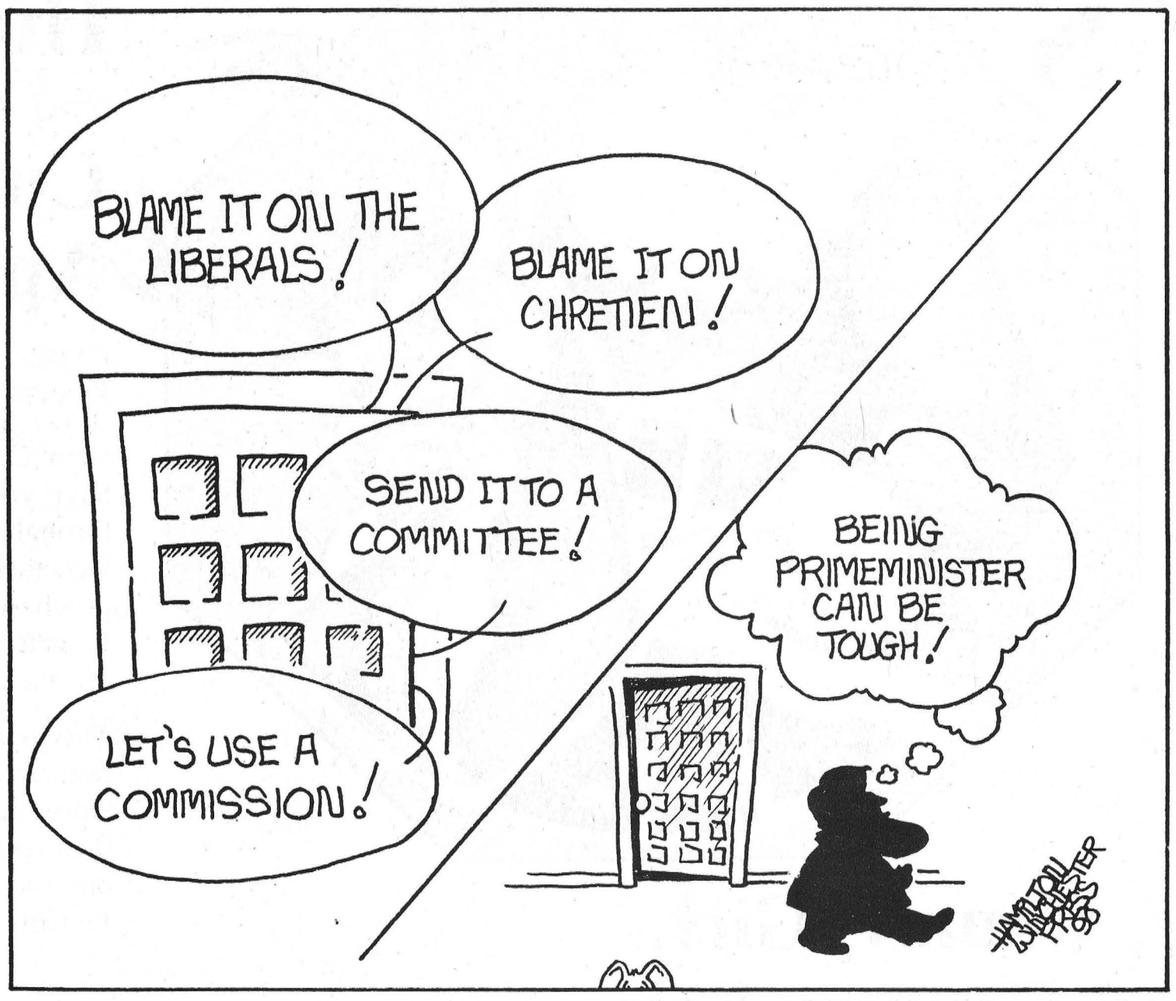
As Mr. O'Reilly indicated, tourism is one way to draw in the people, who someday may want to return for good and bring their investment dollars with them. But attracting newcomers is only part of the job in bringing prosperity to the region.

The new economic specialist is embarking on a journey of discovery in SD&G, and he is inviting everybody along. He hopes to encourage the counties' business and agriculture sectors to protect what they have and build from that base. But first, he wants to identify exactly what we have to build on.

To meet this end, Mr. O'Reilly plans to compile a comprehensive inventory of existing businesses, industries, services and amenities in the tri- county area. From this will emerge a detailed data base that should serve as a handy reference book for existing businesses that want to discover more about their marketing potential for expansion purposes. The same theory applies to attracting outside investment.

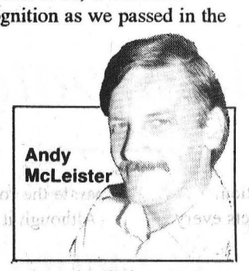
Although Mr. O'Reilly has a wealth of economic experience behind him in the private and public sectors alike, he isn't offering a miracle cure for our economic troubles, and candidly admits he doesn't have one.

But he and the department established by counties council may be just what is needed to get us on the right track and on our way in what will be a lengthy and, perhaps, arduous journey.



It only hurts when I laugh ... or even smile

Forgive me if I haven't been myself the past week or so, if I haven't smiled in recognition as we passed in the street, or haven't appeared too talkative.



I haven't felt the urge to smile lately. Neither have I felt inclined to engage in lengthy, stimulating conversation. Forgive my uncharacteristic terseness.

Try what you may to cheer my sullen spirit, and I doubt you will succeed. You could offer me a night out on the town and I would have to take a rain check. And you could offer to buy me a steak dinner ... and I would be obliged to decline.

No, I'm not carrying the weight of the world on my shoulders. The crisis in the Persian Gulf isn't getting me down any more than usual and, in the mood I'm in, war could break out and I'd be called up for active duty ... and it wouldn't bother me a bit.

Quebec could separate and go its own way, the West could join the States, and I would consider it far less important that the woes that now beset me.

Extraterrestrials could land on my front lawn and I'd probably give them a muffled, "high, guy" in welcoming them to Earth. If they made the standard alien request — "Take me to your leader — I'd pass the honor on to my neighbor: "Maybe they can help you. I'm kinda busy."

I've got more pressing things to think about than the state of the planet and the universe. I've entered the first stage of middle age, you see, a couple of years ahead of schedule.

Okay, I've still got a full head of hair. I walk without a cane. My forgetfulness has nothing to do with senility. But the signs of aging are all around — or, at least, in — me.

All I have to do is open my mouth to demonstrate how old I'm getting, to show you how I've lost some of the vitality of youth. You will notice how my upper teeth are slightly straighter than they were a week ago. They line up and gleam like ivory soldiers. But appearances can deceive.

What you see was bought and paid for (or will be, honest, Dr. Carlin). They are my teeth, but they didn't come with the rest of the package. What you see gleaming in the dark are dentures.

Oh, it wasn't as painful as I thought it would be in the days leading up to my session last Wednesday with Winchester dentist Dr. George Carlin. As he solicitously assured me while simultaneously talking about politics and sadistically jabbing that awfully long hypodermic needle into the roof of my mouth, there was some noise when he wrenched my uppers from my mouth ... but little physical pain.

There was little bleeding, and the dentures fit like ... well, like well-fitted dentures. There was surprisingly little pain after the freezing thawed, as well. The first day, soup was all I could manage, but within a few days I was eating almost anything that didn't require excessive chewing. Any day now, I'll be able to take you up on that steak dinner.

My speech hasn't quite returned to normal, either. The movement of my tongue has been restricted (to the delight of many friends and colleagues, incidentally). But it, too, will make a comeback.

If your teeth are false, you will relate to my sense of perturbation when I first coughed. It wasn't pretty. Thankfully, no-one was watching.

What I won't regain, though, is my youthful zeal and my lengendary devil-may-care demeanor. How can I feel young when I can't bite carelessly into an apple anymore? At this time, anyway, the only way I can handle a juicy MacIntosh is with the help of a paring knife.

A number of friends tried to console me. Some who are younger than I am popped their plates to show me that they, too, are beneficiaries of modern dentistry. They complimented me on my new looks, telling me how I look much younger. Wait a few weeks, I was told, and I won't even feel the dang blasted things.

True, I hope. Yet, aside from what I said above about the pain, it may be a while before you evoke a hearty guffaw from this guy, 'cause I'm feeling a bit psychologically wounded. And it hurts deep down to laugh ... or even smile.

Seventh Column

by Joe Rowan

Friend Eddie McCabe (former Ottawa Journal sports scribe) always delighted pre-Christmas readers with interesting tales of years long passed. This intriguing "gambler" tale is not a distant past revelation. Matter of fact it was only a year ago, and it all began at Paddy's Inn, Morrisburg. On that particular mid-December day Brian Mulroney- type "dice-tossers", legal beagle Peter MacEwen and our road-building son (Cruickshank Marty) were quaffing "Irish coffee" and lauding the real estate entrenpreneurial skills of their mutual friend Gerald Morris. "Gerald", suggested the lawyer, "launched his selling career as an Albert Gale associate". With the finality of an enraged bulldozer Marty disagreed — and within seconds the cool-handed gamblers had their chips on the table with their "seconds" (Mike Casselman and Jack McIntosh) standing in the wings. All agreed only Gerald Moris himself could set the record straight. And he did, when the following "clarification" arrived at Morrisburg, Dec. 20, 1989, signed by the lass who has been Gerald's "partner" for nigh onto a half century.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

Once there was a young farmer who had a dairy farm. He also had a bad back and was told that he needed surgery to correct the problem. He also had a young wife and six children. What could he do? One fall day in 1958 he was in very deep thought regarding his situation, when a man by the name of Charlie Heuvel dropped by — Charlie introduced himself as a real estate salesman, he was looking for a dairy farm for a Dutch couple, and had been told that this young farmer with the bad back, the young wife and the six children might possibly sell his farm. Would this farm possibly be for sale? Well, yes, it could be! After a lengthy discussion, listing papers were signed, and in a few days an offer was received for this good farm. There were a lot of details to work out, so Charlie called in his boss, Irving H. Mlilar, and eventually with Charlie, Irving, the young farmer, his young wife and his six children, papers were signed for the sale of the property. After the transaction was completed, Irving H. said to the young farmer, "you should be in real estate, you really sold this farm yourself, so how about coming to work for me?" So having this bad back, and the young wife and the six children, and an old house in Metcalfe Village, which was in need of extensive repair, and no job, and no cows or farm, and real estate fees to pay said Mr. Miller, he gave a great deal of thought to this proposition, and said "Yes, I'll work for you, I have sometimes thought about this business, but if I get along well and like the work, I would like to own my own business, but I will stay with you for a while." Mr. Miller and the young farmer shook hands on this new deal. So the farmer moved to Metcalfe, with his young wife and his six children, and his bad back, into the old house which needed repair, and after studying diligently he was soon a full-fledged, highly respected real estate broker himself. Lawyers happy to be associated with him included a "still quite damp behind the ears" Peter MacEwen and veteran Mike McGinnis. The years have drifted speedily by and today this young farmer with the bad back, the young wife, the six children, the old house, and the real estate business, has become an old farmer, with a good back, an old wife, six children who have flown away, a new house, a real estate licence which he hasn't used lately, because he is too busy with his Limousin and Scotch Highland cattle, his Appaloosa horses, his John Deere tractor, his work shop, and his books to read which have been gathering dust for many years. I am sorry to learn that Peter MacEwen is down on his luck, and cannot affortd Christmas gifts for his wife and family. I also understand that he hopes to gain $100 today, and I would help him if I could, but sorry Peter I cannot — Gerald never worked for Albert Gale Agencies. Irving H. Millar, a fine fair man, gave him his start in the real estate business. Best wishes to you all for a wonderful Christmas and much success and happiness in the New Year.

Sincerely, Effie

Guess the moral of this tale is that even lawyers don't always know "when to hold em — and when to fold em".

Justice prevailed. See note: Marty: Congratulations - you got there first, and as Gerald says "money talks", cheque enclosed. - Peter

OMAF challenged

The Editor:

I read with great interest the decision of the Ontario Agriculture and Food Department stating that the 100 acres of Kanata so-called farmland be kept for farming purposes rather than an NHL hockey franchise.

The previous owner said that all he could raise was weeds, the picture in the Citizen clearly shows that at best it is a few degrees better than a swamp, yet some Ag. & Food inspector in Kemptville maintains that it is prime farmland!!

Possibly the same inspector made the same decision on a lot in Winchester Township which the undersigned wanted to build a retirement home on my home property. In the springtime and after heavy rainfall I call the proposed one-acre lot "my little Lake Ontario", yet our inspector calls it prime farmland.

If it is not too late, I strongly urge that the credibility of said Department be given a thorough inspection.

There are many, many good acres of farmland in the Ottawa Valley not being tilled, not for the lack of its ability to do so, but for the lack of farmers to till it. What we need is good common sense approaches to certain requests and not off-handed decisions being made by so-called inspectors trying to justify their existence.

To add insult to injury when the OMB finally gets around to meeting some 12 to 16 months later, I am told by the Land Division Committee Clerk that the judge views that the Dept. of Ag. and Food are right, and you, the appeal person, must prove them wrong.

Minister mistreated

The Editor:

Chill out everyone! That is the new message across our United Church. The fight is over, we have made our decision re the ordination of homosexual persons. We are on the move again. No getting even - have you hugged your former opponent today? Rhetoric is now in vogue around the church.

As a minister who has been documenting church fights and clergy abuse of all kinds for over a decade, I am more than encouraged by this new and positive message. Imagine my surprise a few days ago when I picked up my paper and read "United Minister Fired for Stand Agianst Gays". I wish this was just an isolated case but it is not.

In the context of our new 'make love not war' message from church leaders, two items in the story demand a response. First, the minister was fired against the wishes of the congregation and after he had already resigned on a moral principle. Second, the tortured logic and distorted view of the church used to justify the act.

The church official, chairman of Halton Presbytery, in rationalizing the firing of the Rev. Dr. Brown of Burlington, Ont. said: "There has been a precedent in the church as there has in other institutions, to ask for immediate resignation when you sort of bad mouth the institution." Incredulous. Nothing could be further from the truth.

The real tradition and strength of our church has always been different from the secular institutions at this very point. Unlike secular institutions, the United Church has always encouraged and even welcomed dissent. There is a line but you don't cross over it by "sort of bad mouthing". Former Moderator Muchmore used to say in this regard that the church was an anvil that has worn out many hammers.

Part of our ethos is that we take criticism. If it is true, we change, if not, we learn from it and journey on in our struggle for social justice. If a pastor can't live with some policy, he or she resigns on a matter of principle as Dr. Brown did. This type of action has always been seen and recognized as the ethical thing to do. Now it seems when a person does just that, they are humiliated, even destroyed, too often by spiritual zombies eager to defend their idea of the institution.

The United church fights for human rights and justice all over the globe but needs to take a look at how our own clergy are treated. The significance of this ugly deed happening to the Brown family during this Christmas festival of the Prince of Peace should not be lost. Dickens could not have written a better modern version of his 'A Christmas Carol'.

The Editor:

Your photo and write-up of Wed., Dec. 5 concerning the South Mountain Lions Arts & Craft Fair certainly did no justice to the local artists and artisans. If the photographer/writer had cared to check with the craft organizer, he/she would have been told and I quote: "Our aim is to highlight the skills and the talents of area artists and artisans. We (the local Lions Club) recognize that a variety of mediums can be used to create fine handicrafts and art work. Items for sale must reflect the original work of each artisan. The show is not open to dealers or retail outlets."

Why this importer of African crafts was allowed into the show — I do not know. However, there was quite a bit of very good "Home Grown Variety" art and crafts, and it was most unfair to us, the local craft people, to highlight the African exhibitor.

I would suggest that the least the Winchester Press should do is print a new photograph and caption reflecting the local flavor of the artists and artisans at the Arts and Craft Fair.

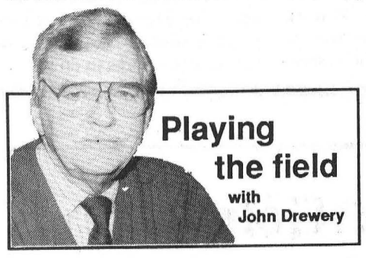
CBC's troubles self-inflicted?



It was a shock but no surprise when the government chopper hit the CBC squarely in the vitals last week.

It had been flung at the network before but until now the full force of the blade was deflected, partly because of compromises and promises by the CBC to economize, partly because of pressure exerted by Corporation supporters, both on and off Parliament Hill.

The CBC's "Old Boys Club" represents a very potent lobby group that extols all the virtues and none of the faults of what it calls the "The Crown Jewel of the Canadian airwaves". Despite the shielding, the attacks DID cause some wounds over the years.

Occasionally the PooBahs at the network's head office, commonly known as the Kremlin, took some time off from empire building and planning ways to augment their pension funds, to figure out how to shape up the Corporation.

First, of course there would have to be a series of expensive studies and conferences that would produce blizzards of paper, signifying very little. They would be held in concert with tours of executive teams who would fly here and there across the country to "feel the pulse" of the CBC's Regional offices and stations.

It is suspected that the voluminous notes they took on those occasions were really meant to line the wasterpaper baskets at the Kremlin since most of the ideas and suggestions presented to the emmisaries from the head office never seemed to resurface again.

Eventually, when it ran out of space for further hemming, hawing, stalling and footwork the CBC would finally respond to the government's call to clean up its act.

There would be a spate of lay-offs of expendables, almost invariably from the lower paying jobs. Heavens above, you surely couldn't expect to fire any of the high-ranking help in charge of paper shuffling (including one vice-president who reached a high point in his career by decreeing that on-air reporters who owned fur coats would not be allowed to wear them in front of TV News cameras). Oddly enough, some senior staff members who were pushed out into the cold were subsequently rehired as consultants, with fat salaries.

During the next stage of the weeding out process, certain on-air programs were offered up as token sacrifices. For some reason, the shows that got the chop were often those with low budgets and high ratings in viewer popularity. But, as the corporate culture vultures were fond of pointing out, the CBC couldn't care less about something as vulgar as ratings.

When the dust settled after each convulsion of restraint, things went back to normal. Small stations and regions outside of the main centres of the network continued trying to provide decent programming to their communities with inadequate funding and antiquated equipment.

Meanwhile, the people running the network continued to shovel buckets of taxpayer's dollars into ill-advised projects. One of them was a late- night TV talk show called "Canada After Dark". The host of that multi-million dollar fiasco, accompanied by a great entourage of TV production people and a full orchestra, travelled across Canada interviewing people designated as "celebrities".

The show was recognized as a disaster from the beginning but it ground on for a year or so because a group of power brokers at CBC head office, who had initiated the project, kept convincing each other that it was great intellectual entertainment. Who cared if even the most dedicated CBC watchers ran like greyhounds to change channels when Canada After Dark appeared on their screens?

That's only one example of capricous and unnecessary spending that dipped the network deeper and deeper into the red, year after year. The corporation's attempt to put a Canadian spin on international news coverage led to the creation of enormously expensive foreign bureaus.

The CBC's movers and shakers were not content with the news gathering potential of those establishments. They massaged their egos and the hopeless dream of being "World Class" by sending additional CBC crews off to assignments around the globe. Canadian events, crying out for coverage, were ignored, unless they were gory, spectacular or political. Canadian news took a back seat to happenings in places like Lebanon, Beirut and San Salvador.

Unfortunately, the so-called flagship of CBC Public Affairs, The Journal, will continue that tradition as it sails blithely self-righteously on, often spending astronomical amounts of money to cover subjects of little interest to most Canadians.

Although the bureaucrats who have been running the CBC for the last few decades must shoulder much of the responsibility for the financial and personnel mismanagement that has pushed it down the road toward oblivion, the unions that infest the company have to share a large part of the blame. The network's capitulation to their demands has led to feather-bedding, paralysis of individual initiative and sometimes ludicrous union-management disputes. The results have swallowed vast amounts of time, energy and money.

I find it difficult to feel sorry for a corporation that was mutilating itself long before the government moved in to inflict further damage. But I do feel sorry for the casualties of last week's action ... for the people who have been put out on the street through no fault of their own ... for the communities that have lost access to sources of local news and programming. They deserve better.

Reflections: Barr on the back roads

OSGOODE—Rain, ice, smoke, and fog are his worst "enemies". And he claims a combination of alertness, defensive driving, and prayer help get the job done safely.

For 36 years, Sam Barr has been plying township backroads in his yellow bus, dropping off kids at Osgoode Township High School in the morning and taking them home in the afternoon.

He's driven the same route for most of those years through the proverbial rain, sleet, hail, and even smoke from fires. It's a job a lot of people simply take for granted.

"It's a hard job driving a school bus," he says almost solemnly, then adding with a flash of Irish-born wit, "but it's better than working!"

Wry humor comes naturally to the youthful 65-year- old Barr as he eagerly talks about his work and what it means to him.

"The Lord has been good to me," he says, "I only missed five days in 36 years."

Barr explains his initial motivation was to get away from doing seasonal work—he did masonry work for Boyd Bros. home builders of Osgoode. Before that he'd worked in a general store and spent two years on a navy mine sweeper in World War II.

But when the new township high school opened in 1954, Barr leaped at the opportunity. He bought himself a brand new 54-passenger bus for $5,000 and began driving for operator Charlie Lindsay.

His wife Grace worked with him driving a "feeder" route along River Road and Rideau Forest Road. Three hundred pupils in all were transported by bus to the new school, at that time under the former local school board.

"In those days, it was a novelty to see another school bus on the road, but now it's a nuisance," Barr remarks of the large number of school buses on the roads today.

But, he adds, the safety factor is much better now than before. "We didn't have alternating lights." he says. "They were introduced in the '70s and the stop-arm only came in a few years ago."

According to Barr, bus driving in the early days was often full of surprises and occasional dangers.

He recounts: "It was in the fall of the year and they were burning muck off the fields just north of Winchester. The smoke was so thick two boys had to sit on the hood of the car to see ahead." Somewhere around Metcalfe corner and Highway 31 the police turned Barr's bus around and sent them back.

He tells of strong winds that once blew the bus off course and into a ditch. But the most bizarre story he tells is of the time his bus was charged by a horse gone loco on Dozois Road.

"It came running fast with a rider and it came right at me.". The rider was thrown and the horse was so badly injured it died at the side of the road, he recalls of the horrifying experience. The school bus, too, had to be towed away.

Barr says school bus driving has improved in many ways, including better working conditions, especially since he, Ken Crump, and Jim Pritchard got together in 1970 to found the Carleton Bus Operators' Association.

School buses had to tender contracts every year, he explains. "They (the school board) started demanding things of us so we got together in Ken Crump's garage and decided to tender together."

Since then, union-type contracts are negotiated through the Association with the Ottawa-Carleton Board of Education that took over the local authorities in the '70s. According to Barr, "you feel more protected now than you did."

Along with raising their three children—Sharon, Ann, and Rick— Grace Barr was also involved in school bus transportation in the early days, first, with her "feeder" route and later as a bus monitor.

"I rode two years keeping discipline on Mr. O'Rourke's bus," she says, pointing out the kids' pranks had gotten far out of hand. "Somebody once emptied a jar of spiders down somebody's back," and she recalls having to separate the rowdiest ones.

Although it wasn't the most popular job in the world— "I got phone calls at home from angry parents" —, she still believes it helped free the driver from unnecessary distractions and let him keep his eyes on the road.

Today she is retired, painful arthritis forcing her to cut back on her activities, including secretary for the baseball team. The Barrs are devoted grandparents to Jamie Baird, Jennifer and Michael Davidson, and Chelsea Barr. A fifth grandchild is expected in the new year.

Despite the fact that he's past official retirement age, Sam drives his regular route without fail.

"I'm driving a half load now — 34 kids — and my route takes me 50 minutes in the morning and in the afternoon," he says.

Although it's a job that requires his full attention—checking both mirrors, watching the traffic, the conditions, and the students— "the kids are really great," he says, "especially in the last few years."

Asked when he'll retire, Barr quips, "who's going to drive the kids?" But, seriously, he's begun to measure his own endurance by the longevity of his bus.

"I figure it'll be ready for a trade-in in a couple of years, then I'll quit."

Board deals with potential asbestos problem in area schools

CORNWALL - Public schools in Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry have been given a program designed to deal with the problem of asbestos.

A number of schools within the board have limited amounts of asbestos, mainly as insulation around piping. The asbestos does not pose a problem unless it is disturbed or decomposes.

To ensure that asbestos insulation does not become a problem, the school board has sent an asbestos management program to its schools, detailing inspections and how asbestos which becomes loose and may be releasing fibres should be dealt with.

Area schools sampled which have asbestos include Maple Ridge Senior Public School, North Dundas District High School, Elma Public School, Rothwell School, Newington Public School, Inkerman, and Nationview.

The majority of the schools had pipes in an electric room, boiler room or custodian room insulated with material containing asbestos.

Maple Ridge and Nationview and Rothwell School in Ingleside, are the only area schools with asbestos in an area other than piping, according to school board documents.

Rothwell School had asbestos in a rink mat in the school gym. It was removed in November this year.

Asbestos, a fire-retardant substance commonly used in car brake linings and clutches, was detected in a ceiling tile in Maple Ridge school's custodian room. And it was detected in the air exchange unit damper in Nationview Public School's junior kindergarten room.

Dave Petepiece, school board plant controller, in charge of the welfare of all school board buildings, said the provision of an asbestos management program is not unusual.

Implementation of an asbestos management program has been recommended by the provincial government to schools across the province, he said. "All we're doing is following guidelines."

The program ensures areas containing asbestos are identified in all schools and that the custodial staff are familiar with the areas and familiar with the handling of asbestos. A number of board workers have been sent on asbestos handling courses and the board's major plumbing and heating contractor has also received training.

In the early 1980s, the province funded many asbestos removal projects. But after a Royal Commission into the handling of asbestos four years ago revealed removing asbestos may constitute a larger health hazard, the province's focus changed to containment.

Asbestos is not uncommon, and is encountered by most people in their daily routines. According to Dr. J. Fraser Mustard, in a provincial video on asbestos in schools, the average person inhales one million asbestos fibres a year with no noticeable effect.

Fraser, a member of the Canadian Institute for Advanced Research and member of the mid-1980 Royal Commission, said asbestos in schools is minor in comparison to some commercial workplaces. And it is not a cause for undue concern.

"When you turn the risk to well-maintained buildings, it is far, far less," he says in the video. "Properly maintained asbestos does not really produce fibres, and therefore, you cannot produce disease because you do not have the fibres to do it."

Ladies Aid shares potluck

by Betty Larmour

On a snowy, blustery Monday, December 3, the Ladies Aid of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church held their monthly meeting, beginning at 6pm with a delicious potluck dinner.

President Norma Duncan began the meeting with a poem entitled "It's Christmas", followed by everyone singing "Joy to the World", accompanied by Violet Wilson on piano. Sue Johnstone handled the devotion time. The minutes from November were read by secretary Vivian Strader. Roll call was answered by 24 members. Seven guests were also present.

The members agreed to make up plates at Beattie Bailey's to be delivered to shut-ins on Dec. 11.

The treasurer's report was given by Elizabeth Morrison, and showed $76.25 extra income from the Christmas Tea and Bazaar, bringing the total to $2,207.05. June Johnston reported the cards sent out and Margaret Johnstone read four thank you cards.

Doris Cross played several Christmas selections on piano with everyone joining in and singing along. Santa Claus made an appearance, bringing each lady a bag of tasty morsels. Here's wishing each and every one a Merry Christmas.

Russell rink wins big at cash 'spiel

WINCHESTER—There was plenty of local content here Sunday evening as the final four curled for dollars in the 1990 Men's Invitational Cash Bonspiel.

Russell's Kevin Cochrane and his team of Bill Gamble, Jamie Hicks and Bill Johnston wound up in the "A" showdown against a Winchester foursome skipped by Ron Rutley and composed of Glen Vasey, Brent Copeland and Lester McInnis.

It didn't take long to determine a '90 champion.

Cochrane earned the $1,000 first prize downing the WCC rink 9-2 in four ends.

Rutley, coming off an impressive championship win in the Cornwall Blue Light 'Spiel, joked that the final score could be omitted from the Press report but said this year's event was a great 'spiel which netted his team $500.

Cochrane was extremely happy to accept the $1,000 prize, explaining it was the first pay day for his team this season.

"It's been a tough season. This is the first money we've won but hopefully with this $1,000 and a couple more wins (bonspiels) we can get back in the Tankard challenge," the winning skip explained.

The local flavor carried over into the consolation event as the Dan Morris team of Adrian Ross, Bryan Petersen, Jeff Meek and Ray Dumouchel edged Navy's Rothwell 6-5 and collected the $500 prize. Navy took home $300.

Dave Levere, event organizer, reported, "it was a good 'spiel again this year. We were very pleased with it. We were still turning entries away at 42 (32 teams took part). We had positive feed-back on our ice and, of course, the food the ladies prepared."

Champion Kevin Cochrane opened the event defeating Hall of Carleton Heights Friday evening. He then ousted Rideau's Bertrand, Findley of Granite 4-2 and City View's John Shea 8-3 to reach the final, where he put away Winchester's Ron Rutley.

Rutley took out Collier of Navy in a 7:00pm draw Friday and hit the ice again that evening at 11:00pm and did away with Gannon's Cornwall rink.

Sunday's three-game slate produced a 9-1 win over Carleton Heights (Emon) and a 5-4 decision over Skogstad of the Ottawa Navy Club.

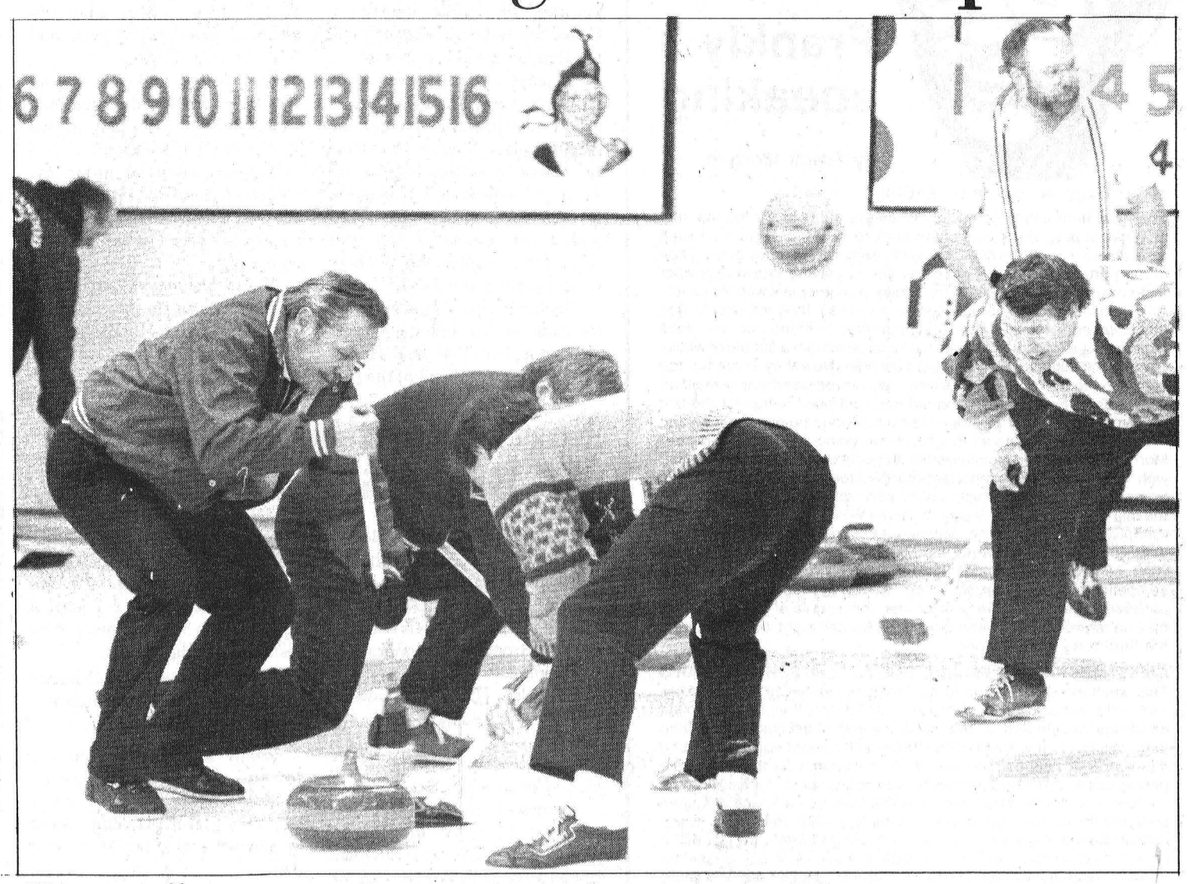
The Dan Morris squad, skipped by Metcalfe's Adrian Ross, lost their first game Friday night but defeated Hall of Carleton Heights, Stewart of Manotick, and Flynn of Rockcliffe 6-5 to qualify for the consolation final.

Ross' opposition in the championship match, Rothwell of Navy, lost Friday but bounced back with three wins to make the final.

That "B" title match was 5-5 heading into the 10th and final end. Second stone, Jeff Meek buried his shot behind a string of guards. That rock survived a barrage of take-out attempts and a final draw shot and decided the game in his squad's favor.

Winchester's Dan MacMartin rink dropped its opening game, won a second encounter, 6-5 in an extra end, but was eliminated in a Sunday quarter- final match.

Semi-final losers on the "A" side earned $250 each while the losers in the same bracket on the "B" side took home $150.



House call

Russell third Jim Gamble (R) screamed instructions to his teammates during a key shot in the late ends of a Saturday draw. The Russell rink suffered a 7-6 (extra end) loss to Carleton Heights and was eliminated after two games.

Hawks squeeze by Rideaus

WINCHESTER—Defenceman Jeff Egan took a pass from Scot Bell and scored a very big goal here last Friday evening.

Egan's goal, which was scored with 5:25 left in the game, enabled the Winchester Jr. B Hawks to defeat the Westport Rideaus 6-5. The tally also kept the Hawks even with the Alexandria Glens atop the St. Lawrence Division standings.

Winchester's record went to 13 (wins), three (losses) and one (tie) with the result. This weekend they host the improving Morrisburg Lions (Fri. Dec. 14) and then travel to Gananoque for a Sunday game.

Winchester grabbed a 1-0 lead on the Rideaus when Todd Marcellus finished off a powerplay started by Dave Boyd and Dean Wilson at 16:04 of the first period.

Westport jumped back into the game at the 7:34 mark on Mike Gray's short-handed marker. But Dean Wilson handed the Hawks a 2-1 lead with 1:48 left in the frame when he finished off a play started John Dyks and Sean Gordon.

The teams traded second period goals with the Hawks maintaining a 3-2 lead after 40 minutes.

Todd Mallette tied it 2-2 when he scored 3:57 before the second intermission. Sean Gordon gave that goal right back to Winchester when he made it 3-2 on a play started by Jason Doucette at the 2:30 mark.

Mallette put his second shot behind Hawks' Eric Skalaustas at 17:21 of the final frame and tied it up 3-3.

Jeff Egan gave the Hawks a 4-3 lead when he scored from Dyks at 16:01 of period three. But Westport drew even again (4-4) when Dana Edmunds scored at 15:02.

Sean Gordon hit for his second goal of the night at the 11:01 mark and once again gave the Hawks a lead (5-4). Jason Doucette and Dean Wilson engineered the play.

Jeff Egan's second goal came on a feed from Scot Bell 5:25 and opened up a 6-4 lead for the Hawks.

Jeff Snow closed the final difference to 6-5 scoring the last Westport goal with 1:38 left on the clock.

Hawks peppered 46 shots at Stu Porter. Eric Sakalauskas stopped 24 for the win.

Hawks took seven minor and one 10 minute misconduct penalty. Westport was whistled for nine minor infractions.

Saints split North Dundas results

CORNWALL—The North Dundas Devils met with mixed results here last Thursday.

The Junior Devils pulled out a 67-64 victory and extended their SD&G win string to two games.

North Dundas' Senior Devils gave it the "old college try" but fell 61-31 to a strong Saints contingent.

The loss evened Gerry Jean's squad's record at one and one.

"We did our best but it wasn't good enough. We missed a lot of shots but ran our plays well, just couldn't sink the ball," he explained.

St. Lawrence led North Dundas by five (14-9) at the quarter but only Chris "Sleepy Floyd" Van Bridger and Chad "Tower" Simpson hit in the second period as the Saints pulled ahead 26-13 at the half.

It was out of reach (42-20) at three-quarter time.

Darren Hutt led the Devils hitting for nine points. Chad Simpson drained a six pack 'o points and Trevor Plumb was good for five. Ashley Byers (3), Chris Van Bridger, Scot "No more names" Bell, Jason "50" Kennedy and Trent Antille completed the scoring.

Jason Mathews was St. Lawrence's most "Saintly" shooter hitting a game-high 19 points. Roger Hobson nailed 14.

Devils 67 - Saints 64

Junior Devils' coach Deanna Corbett-White described her squad's second consecutive win, " not very pretty." but quickly added, "we will take it."

"It was a weird win. The refs took us out of our game. It was a strange game but we managed to come out on top."

She felt the Devils played an "OK" first half but only shot 9 for 26 in the second half and only counted four points in the fourth quarter.

"It was a post game - our guards just fed it into the forwards and they took it from there. There was a lot of outside scoring - our game is inside and then back out for the shot. Guards like Ryan Buske didn't shoot, he only took five shots."

"The fast break saved us. We just didn't play our style. No way any team should score 64 points on us. But Troy St. Germain got hot (33 points). He was shooting three pointers and nearly killed us. Thank God time ran out."

Coach Corbett-White said Sean Salter played "a very good game" for her squad. Salter nailed 24 points shooting 10 for 14 from the floor and 4 for 6 from the line. He also pulled down 11 rebounds, had two steals and one assist.

Rodney "Rodman" Merkley drained 17 points firing six for 19 from the floor. He was good for 12 rebounds and three steals.

Phil Burns hit nine points from the inside. Jason Stevens shot five for seven from the line. Mike Singh and Danny McLeod sunk three points each while Sean Hachey and Jason Ball dunked a deuce each.

This week (Dec.11) the Devils hosted the Panthers of St. Joseph's and next week (Dec. 19) travel to Cornwall CCVS for a doubleheader with the Raiders.

Nationview squad keeps volleyball title

SOUTH MOUNTAIN—Nationview Public School hosted and won another Dundas County Senior Boys' Volleyball championship here last Friday.

Tournament convenor and team coach Jack Barkley guided this year's edition of the county championship squad through an impressive day.

In round robin action the host school defeated Maple Ridge's "A" team 13-15, 15-1, 15-5; St. Cecilia 15-10 and 15-5; Stampville's Grade 8s 15-2 and 15-5; Maple Ridge Bs 15-4, 13-15, 15-4 and Stampville Grade 7s 15-6, 15-4 to qualify for the championship match undefeated.

St. Cecilia's only loss came at the hands of Nationview. They finished number two because of wins over Maple Ridge Bs 15-3, 15-4, 15-10; Stampville Grade 7s 15-1, 15-2; Nationview Bs 15-5, 10-15, 15-11 and Stampville Grade 8s 15-7 and 15-5.

Nationview's B team wound up third with eight points. Maple Ridge "A", Maple Ridge "B" and Stampville Grade 8s all finished with four points. Stampville's Grade 7s squad went winless.

The best of three championship match saw Nationview break out to a 5-0 lead on St. Cecilia on Bryan Peterson's perfect service. Adrian Pancirov then hit four of five serves opening up a 9-0 lead for Nationview.

Geoff Hardy hit 10-0 and 11-0 scores before St. Cecilia managed their first point (11-1). Peterson returned to the backline and served up the remaining four points for a 15-4, Nationview, win.

Nationview started in the opposite direction in game two allowing St. Cecilia to serve up an 8-0 lead before they broke service.

Adrian Pancirov dished up three points to get Nationview back in the game at 8-3. Geoff Hardy came to the line with his Red team trailing 8-3 and managed to close the gap to 8-4. But St. Cecilia ripped into an 11-4 lead and looked to be in position to tie the match and set up game three.

Scott Clark staved off defeat getting Nationview into it at 13-7. Bryan Peterson kept the wolves from the door moving Nationview to within four (14-10).

St. Cecilia couldn't serve the winning point and watched as Ricky Harper when to the line and propelled Nationview to an impressive come-from- behind 16-14 victory and the 1990 championship.

Coach Barkley had words of praise for his team and all of the competitors and their coaches who made the day a success.

He noted that the Dundas Volleyball (Sr. Boys) trophy has remained in the Nationview showcase almost continuously since 1983.

Metcalfe Jets register back-to-back losses

METCALFE—Goalie Shawn Bradley stopped 36 of 39 shots here Sunday but wasn't rewarded with a victory.

The visiting South Ottawa Canadians could only beat the Metcalfe Jet goalie three times but it was enough for a 3-2 Metro Jr. B Division victory.

The Canadians led 2-0 after a period and were up 3-1 after 40 minutes. The Jets notched the only goal of the final frame.

Geoff Ross and Stephane Barjolin scored the Metcalfe goals. Dan Vajcovec (2), Darrell Warren and Barjolin earned assists.

Brent Shelp scored two goals, including the winner at 10:49 of the second period, for South Ottawa.

Before the game Metcalfe signed Denis Dodd and Chuck Benoit, recent cuts of the Vanier Voyageurs. Dodd is an aggressive centreman who likes to forecheck and Benoit will play defence for the Jets explained GM Bill Wammes.

During Friday's 6-2 loss to the Vanier Voyageurs forward Steve Regan left the team. Sunday's signings have covered the loss.

Scott Carter and Geoff Ross counted Metcalfe goals in the 6-2 defeat. Matt Gordon, Ken Tricker and Dan Vajcovec drew assists.

Metcalfe GM Bill Wammes says both the Metro Division South Ottawa Canadians and Vanier Voyageurs have declined to participate in the Dec. 26 Boxing Day Tournament in Metcalfe.

"I don't understand why the city teams refuse to participate. It is a prestigious tournament and teams should be proud to participate," he said.

A meeting this week will confirm the teams taking part and the day's schedule.

As of Tuesday Winchester, Gananoque, Renfrew, Perth, Cumberland (Navan) and Metcalfe will make up the field.

Alexandria and Kemptville are also strong possiblities.

This Friday night, Dec. 14, the former Jet stars and today's squad will meet in the Alumni Night game.

Old veterans Doug Hartin and Doug Harvey expressed the desire to play a full contact game but team VP Hugh Ferguson says it won't happen. He doesn't want to risk injury to any of the teams.

Some new recruits for the vets include - Carson McVey, Johnny Kelly ('60s), Ken Kelly and Tim Oshier ('70s) as well as Stuart Patterson and Kevin McManus.

Jets travel to Ottawa West on Dec. 13 and then host the Alumni Game on Friday Dec. 14.

TIGHT RACE IN JUNIOR B LEAGUE

The most unpredictable hockey is always the race for the top spot in Junior B play. Early cuts come back to haunt you and producing lines are split up. Then one also has to expect the moody playing age of the participants for we often see young players throwing temper tantrums over not being played or a minor disagreement with the coach. All of this leads to the unexpected, with teams hitting hot streaks and others faltering — thus the old adage that anything can and does happen in Junior B play. Hawks held a large margin a couple of weeks ago but have since seen their lead dwindle. Now they share the top spot with the Alexandria Glens who have played one more game than the locals. A hot Kemptville squad has controlled things for the last couple of weeks and has moved to a narrow one-point margin behind the two leaders. While all this has been going on, the slow-to-start Morrisburg Lions have put together a couple of wins and now are tied with Char-Lan for the important fourth-place spot. This all leads to interesting placement which makes each game important as we hit the mid-mark of the year's play. It seems Winchester, Alexandria and Kemptville are the teams to watch, but things can change during the final run for the roses. A hot Morrisburg club, with two consecutive wins, comes to Winchester this Friday. You will never hit a more competitive coach than Big Doug, so the Hawks better be more consistent than they have been in their last couple of games, or they may be returning from Gananoque this Sunday night looking up from the third rung of the ladder.

CHRISTMAS PARTIES ENDING, TIME TO PLAN FOR NEW YEAR'S

This weekend sees an end to our string of yearly Christmas parties with Ault Food employees planning for 300-plus at their Saturday night extravaganza. On Sunday afternoon, the staff of the hospital will bring their children to the upstairs hall to meet Old Santa and that will end this year's Christmas activities at the community centre. With time getting close, you would be wise to finalize your plans for New Year's, as tickets do seem to be quite rare. The Winchester Lions will again take over the upstairs hall to welcome the New Year and tickets, (which include the dance, your favors and a midnight buffet) are just $20 a couple. Give Jamie a call at 774-2008 and you're all set to spend a fun-filled evening in town. For those in the Mountain area, Westburg Union is playing in the Agricultural Hall in South Mountain, with tickets, covering everything, available from Lynn Boyd or Bill Shaver.

RAIDERS DANCE THIS FRIDAY NIGHT

Friday night has not only become the traditional night for hockey in Winchester, it seems that you take in the game then finish things off at the dance in the upstairs hall. This week the Raiders broomball team present the activity. Remember your age of majority, it will be required.

Forgues goals salvage point for Canadiens

METCALFE—Gaetan Forgues scored both goals here Sunday helping the Hicks Insurance Canadiens hold the Dewan Painting Red Wings to a 2-2 draw.

Sunday's other Metcalfe Town Hockey League encounters produced win number eight for the first place Shields Mechanical Canucks as they edged the Prestige North Stars 3-1. In game two the Howison Leafs remained within two points of top spot when they doubled the Wichers Construction Bruins 4-2.

Gaetan Forgues' first goal tied the game up 1-1 with the Wings. He connected from Don Honey and Jim Hand at 15:42 of the first half. John Hickling had given the Wings a 1-0 edge when he connected on a power play engineered by Pete Nooyen and Neil Quinn at 16:56.

The Wings took a 2-1 lead 10:44 before the half when Neil Quinn finished off a play started by Nooyen and Hickling.

Forgues snapped home his second goal and tied the game 2-2 at 18:47 of the second half. Jim Hand and Mike Foubert assisted on the play.

Kevin Downey scored twice and helped out on the other two goals leading the Howison Leafs to their 4-2 decision over the Wichers Bruins.

The Bruins led 2-1 at the half on a pair of late goals scored by Fred Young at 2:35 and Leo Campbell at :48 seconds. Leafs' Kevin Downey had opened the game at 21:42 when he scored from Jim Kerfoot and John Vandentillard.

Willis Stevens knotted the count at 2-2 when he scored on a Downey rebound at 15:44 of the second half.

Vandentillard ripped home a Stevens-Downey rebound at 14:29 and made it 3-2 (Leafs). Downey iced the win making it 4-2 with help from Kerfoot and Vandentillard with 5:04 left.

The front-running Canucks scratched out a close 3- 1 decision over the North Stars in the card's third game.

Jeff Stanley gave the Canucks a 1-0 lead scoring from Steve McIntosh at 21:16.

North Stars tied it up (1-1) at 11:03 when Fred Zlepnig cashed in a feed from Dave Vanderydt and Bruce Kerfoot.

Rudy Grisel drilled home what would prove to be the winner scoring from Mike Petrusic 58 seconds before the half.

Ron Flanagan iced the win (3-1) scoring unassisted (14th goal of the year) at 13:23 of the second half. Roger Kargus missed the shut-out by one.

North Dundas Bantam Cs nip Brockville Warriors 2-1

WINCHESTER—Jason Sloan's unassisted goal, scored with 8:14 left in the game, gave the North Dundas Bantam C Demons an exciting 2-1 UCMHL victory over the Brockville Warriors here last Thursday.

Saturday (Dec.8) a power-play goal 12 seconds before the final buzzer gave the host Kemptville Royals a dramatic 5-4 victory over North Dundas.

Demons broke up a scoreless game at 12:42 of the second period when Clayton Bowman ripped a Barry Bell relay into the Brockville net.

The Warriors tied it up 1-1 at 13:01 of the final frame on Darren Metcalfe's unassisted goal.

Jason Sloan's unassisted marker at 8:14 of that last period made (2-1) winners of the Demons.

Bruno Marion was the winning goalie.

Saturday in Kemptville the Demons were down 2-1 after a period but up 3-2 after two before losing 5-4 to the Royals.

Steve Cross gave the Demons their first-period goal on an unassisted play at 10:38.

Randy McLeod then clicked for two second period goals, scoring from Cross at 5:20 and then on a power play engineered by Allan Potvin at the 31- second mark.

Steve Cross tied it up 4-4, scoring unassisted with 9:07 left in the game but Kemptville's Chris McFarland snapped the tie, scoring on a power play with just 12 seconds left on the clock.

McFarland's winner was his third goal of the game.

Demons earn tourney awards

ARNPRIOR—Several members of the North Dundas Atom C No. Two Demons earned individual awards here during Saturday's Arnprior minor hockey tournament.

Although they dropped a couple of close decisions, the Demons did give their opposition a struggle before bowing out.

North Dundas lost a 4-2 verdict to Nepean but Adam Moss was named his team's MVP for scoring both goals. Ryan Moore and Brent Sheldrick earned assists on Moss' goals.

Scott Dellaire netted two markers in North Dundas' 5-3, semi-final, loss to Arnprior. Dellaire scored the Demons' first two goals and also drew an assist on Joey Geertsma's tally. Brian Slowey was also presented an award for his outstanding play between the pipes.

Something for that hard-to-buy-for person.

Knights knock down Vikings in overtime

WINCHESTER —In spite of losing 3-2 to the Prescott Road Knights, the Morewood Vikings were able to use their overtime bonus point to re-claim sole possession of first place in the Winchester and District Broomball League's "A" Pool.

Prescott Road won the game 3-2 on Stef Rawling's goal in OT but Morewood earned a bonus point for losing in the extra session and used it to take possession of first place.

In another "A" Pool encounter the Voyageurs defeated Ormond Cloverdales 5-1 in a game Ormond forfeited.

Following Sunday's card the "A" Pool rankings showed Morewood with 17 points, Ormond and the Voyageurs with 16 each and Prescott Road closing in with 14.

The "B" Pool contests produced a 5-1 decision for the Manotick Merchants over the Toyes Hill Roadrunners and a 4-1 win for the Winchester Raiders over Newington.

Winchester and Manotick are now tied with 11 points, Toyes Hill has seven and Newington is still looking for a point.

Rawlings scored at 24:20 of the second half and tied it up 1-1. Guy Marion gave Morewood a 2-1 edge, scoring from Brian Como at the 18:48 mark but John Koenier tied it up, scoring from Jeff Hope and Glen Petersen at 12:06. Rawlings' second goal then decided the issue.

Guy Marion and Brian Como had combined for the first Vikings' goal at 20:10 of the first half.

Ormond Cloverdales forfeited their game to the Voyageurs.

The contest was played out with the Voyageurs winning a 5-1 decision. Ken Carscadden and Gary Gallinger each pegged a pair of goals for the winners. Steve Boucher helped out with a goal and one assist. Barton Heagle (2), Gallinger, Maurice Chartrand and Meryl Patterson collected assists.

Kirkwood hustles with nine goals

WINCHESTER — Tom Kirkwood has been carrying a hot stick for the Harvex Huslers. In their last three outings, all wins, Kirkwood has netted nine goals.

Here last Tuesday Kirkwood scored four times in a 10-8 win over the Metcalfe Oldtimers. he didn't manage a point in Friday's 4-2 win over the Bulldogs in Cardinal, but struck for five goals in Sunday's 19-2 win over the short-staffed Embrun Oldtimers.

Kirkwood led the way with four goals in the 10-8 win over Metcalfe. Phil Lyall and Dick Christie fired in a deuce each. Al Van Bridger and Peter McKay hit for solo shots.

Bob Volks was a two-goal gunner in Friday's 4-2 win in Cardinal. Peter McKay and Dick Christie netted the others.

Harvex's offence was hitting on all cylinders against a weary Embrun crew as they dashed to a 19-2 win.

Kirkwood scored five times. Richard Gilmer was in the right spot for four tap-ins. Bob Peddle returned from the injured list and scored four times. Phil Lyall and Kevin Farrel scored two each while Al Van Bridger and "Accordian" Gary Lapier hit for singles.

Harvex's record went to 20 (wins), 7 (losses) and 2 (ties) following those encounters.

Cold cash

Jamie Hicks, skip Bryan Cochrane and vice Bill Gamble were all smiles as they accepted a $1,000 cheque from Winchester Curling Club Men's Cash 'Spiel chairman Dave Levere Sunday evening. The Cochrane trio, without the services of lead Bill Johnston, defeated Winchester's Ron Rutley in the championship match.

Pennock earns hat for victorious Rams

WINCHESTER—Jim Pennock was a very big part of the Boyd Chrysler Rams 5-2 Winchester Town Hockey league victory over the number one ranked Aqua Fun Flyers last week.

Pennock scored three of the five goals and drew assists on the other two, helping the Rams deal the Flyers just their third loss in 10 games.

In Tuesday's other test the CountryBoy Kings scored four times in the final 6:37 of their game and dumped the Country Kitchen Canadiens 5-3.

After 10 games the standings show Aqua Fun with 13 points, CountryBoy with 10, Boyds with nine and Country Kitchen with seven.

Jim Pennock's first goal came at 2:17 of period one and was set up by Fern Gauvreau and Gord Milne. Pennock then engineered the Rams' second goal, along with Gauvreau at 11:20 of period two, as Gord Milne made it 2-0.

Doug Coleman teamed up with Eric Winters and cut the deficit to 2-1 at 9:12 but the Rams butted in three more goals and were up 5-1 as the second period ended.

Peter Marriner made it a 3-1 game, scoring the winning goal on a feed from Pennock and Keith McGrisken at 5:17. Pennock then beat Flyers' Kevin Baldwin on a play set up for him by Pete Marriner and Bruce Angus at 3:37 and then again on an unassisted play 48 seconds before the end of the frame.

Aqua Fun's Kevin "Alfa" Gowdy scored the third period's only goal when he converted a feed from Doug Last into the 5-2 final.

The Country Kitchen Canadiens were cruising along with a 3-1 lead as time ticked away in their game with CountryBoy.

There was just 6:37 left on the clock when the Kings began to awaken. Darrell Shelp connected from Jamie Utman at that time and closed the gap to 3-2.

Shelp then smashed in an unassisted goal (his third of the game) with 4:42 to play and suddenly it was a 3-3 tie.

Steve Dillabough nailed a pass from Steve Plummer and Mike "Goose" Guy into the Canadiens' cage with 2:07 left and then shoveled a Plummer-Jamie Utman relay into the empty net with 36 seconds to go to complete the (5-3) comeback.

Goalie Steve "Twister" Guy was able to gain the victory while Dan Hogaboam watched his lead vanish.

Darrell Shelp scored the Kings' first period goal on a play started by James Milne.

Brad Hanes, Dan Emon and Steve Crowder had given the Canadiens an early lead. Geoff Summers, Lyle Servage, Dave Corkery and Mark Guy helped out on those goals.

Demons battle Warriors to draw

WINCHESTER—Brad McMahon was a one-man wrecking crew here last Saturday. The Russell Bantam C Warrior scored all four goals, three in the third period alone, leading his squad to a 4-4 exhibition tie against the North Dundas Demons.

Brett Hillis gave North Dundas a 1-0 lead, scoring unassisted at 5:17 of the opening stanza.

Brad McMahon then tied it up for Russell, scoring his first of four 28 seconds before the end of the period. Neil Rogers assisted on the play.

North Dundas turned the game in their favor, scoring three unanswered goals in the latter stages of period two.

Kevin McConnell scored from Randy McLeod and Clayton Bowman at the 7:08 mark and made it a 2-1 contest. Captain Barry Bell then upped it to 3-1, connecting from Dave Dauphinee and Brett Hillis at the 4:55 mark.

Randy McLeod's unassisted goal at 3:18 gave the Demons a 4-1 edge.

North Dundas held their lead until the 8:04 mark of period three. That's when Brad McMahon scored and made it 4-2. He dented twine again at 7:18 (assisted by Neil Rogers and Trevor Flay) and closed the gap to 4-3.

Neil Rogers drew his third assist as he passed to McMahon at 3:22. That goal gave Russell a 4-4 tie.

In an Upper Canada Minor Hockey League Bantam C contest played in Kemptville on Nov. 24, North Dundas suffered a 6-2 set back.

Paul Brannen and Dave Dauphinee scored the Demon goals. Barry Bell picked up an assist.

Pee Wees tame Demons

METCALFE—Metcalfe's Pee Wee C (No. One) Mustangs galloped to a 4-1 UCMHL win over the North Dundas Demons here Saturday.

The evenly matched squads skated into the late stages of period one in a scoreless tie. Dan Perron shattered the goose egg when he hit the top corner of the Demons' net.

Cory Bekkers notched Metcalfe's second goal hitting from Dan Perron at 7:48 before North Dundas' Denis Mayer sliced into the Mustang lead (2-1) scoring from Jason Heuff at 6:49

Kandie Perron gave Metcalfe a 3-1 edge late in period two when she wristed a shot into the North Dundas net from the blueline.

Curtis Knuth made it a 4-1 final when he scored on a feed from Riley Hatherall with 2:23 left in the final frame.

Demons fall to Hawkesbury Midgets in final

CHESTERVILLE—Hawkesbury goalie Luc Charbonneau prevented the North Dundas Midget "A" Demons from winning their own tournament here Sunday.

Charbonneau blanked the host team 3-0 as his squad claimed the NDMHA's "A" Division silverware. The Hawks were up 2-0 after a period and salted their championship away with a third goal 2:00 before the end of the game.

Carl Bougie scored the first two Hawkesbury markers while Charles Dicaire added number three.

Bougie also scored twice in Hawkesbury's opening 4-1 win over South Grenville Rangers. Patrick Laflamme was the hero in the "A" semis, leading Hawkesbury to a narrow 6-5 win over the Kemptville Royals.

North Dundas skated to a 5-3 win over the Metcalfe Midget Jets in the 8:00am tourney opener and then qualified for the "A" final, posting an impressive 3-0 win over the Alexandria Glens in the semi- final round.

Metcalfe took a 1-0 lead on North Dundas when Dennis Dalgleish beat Demon goalie Al Sheldrick at 6:25 of period one.

The Demons scrambled back and tied it up 1-1 at the 4:25 mark. Captain Craig Smith took a drop pass from Brad Robinson and blasted a slap shot home from the blueline on the play.

Metcalfe regained the lead (2-1) 2:01 before the first break on Jason Gervais' unassisted goal.

North Dundas pulled away in the sandwich session, scoring three unanswered goals. Troy McNaughton snapped in a rebound created by Jason Ouellette and Mike Singh tied it up 2-2 at 9:26 of the second. Defenceman Corey VanDelst took a pass from Jason Ouellette and made a nice rush at the Jets' cage to made it 3-2, Demons, at 3:20.

Brad Robinson banged home what would prove to be the winning goal when he scored unassisted at 1:44.

Metcalfe closed the gap to 4-3 with 6:03 left in the game when Adam McDonald scored from Jamie Morris. But Mike Singh iced the 5-3 win when he gathered up a Craig Smith pass and hit the empty Jets' net with 26 seconds left in the game.

Demons' Matt Giles was between the pipes and red- hot for the semi-final test against the Alexandria Glens.

He came up with perfect marks in that encounter, posting a 3-0 win.

Defenceman Corey VanDelst blasted home an unassisted goal 9:22 before the end of the second period. His marker proved to be the winner.

Shawn Backes made it 2-0, connecting from Jason Ibbetson and Brad Robinson at 1:34 of the same frame.

Trevor Barkley made it a 3-0 final when he drilled a Jason Ouellette pass into an empty net.

Unfortunately for the Dennis Ouellette coached Demons, Hawkesbury had a little more fuel left in their tank for the championship match.

Consolation Round

The South Grenville Rangers blanked the Canterbury Crusaders 3-0 to gain the tournament's consolation trophy.

Following their opening 4-1 loss to Hawkesbury the Rangers were unstoppable.

Dominic Cullietta posted back-to-back shutouts enabling the Rangers to walk away with the "B" side title.

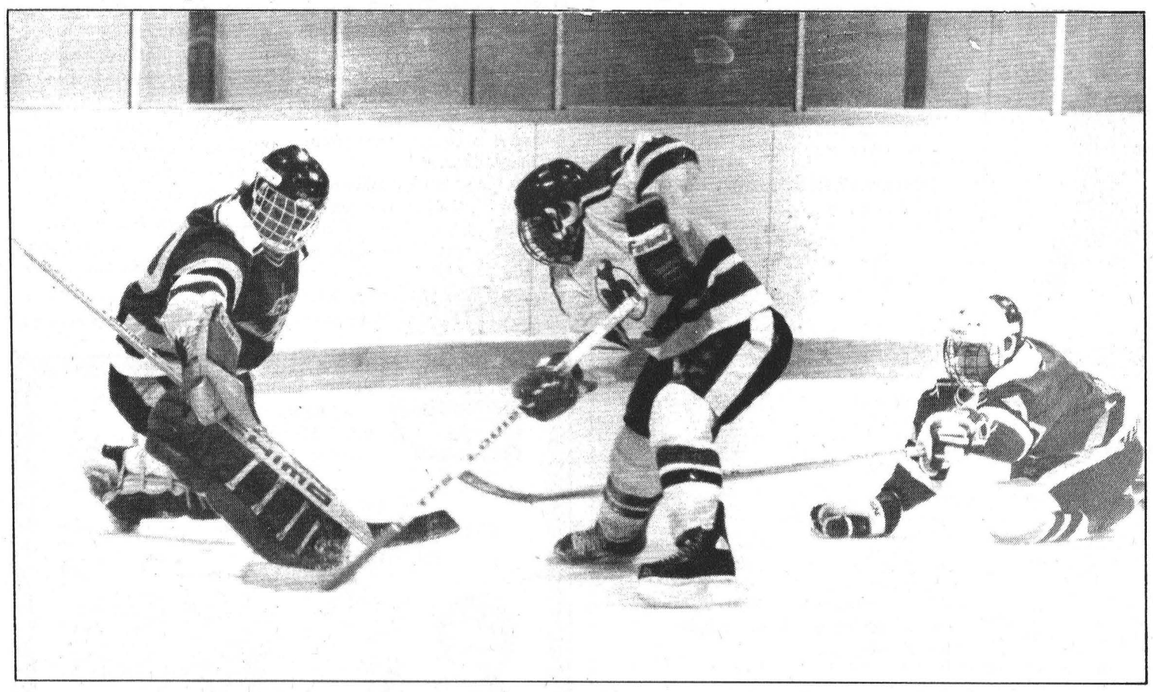
He stopped the Stittsville Redmen 5-0 in semi- final action and then stymied the Canterbury Crusaders 3-0 in the "B" final. Ranger captain Brian Byrns notched the winning goal with 2:17 left in the opening frame.

Canterbury reached the "B" showdown eliminating the Metcalfe Jets 4-3 in the semis. Brent Bishop, Dennis Dalgleish and Brian Sinclair scored the Jets' goals.

TOURNAMENT SCORES - Round One - North Dundas 5 - Metcalfe 3, Alexandria 3 - Canterbury 2, Kemptville 5 - Stittsville 0, Hawkesbury 4 - South Grenville 1.

CONSOLATION SIDE - Canterbury 4 - Metcalfe 3, South Grenville 5 - Stittsville 0. "B" Final - South Grenville 3 - Canterbury 0.

"A" SIDE - North Dundas 3 - Alexandria 0, Hawkesbury 6 - Kemptville 5. "A" Final - Hawkesbury 3 - North Dundas 0.



Scoring rush

Defenceman Corey VanDelst displayed his offensive skills beating Metcalfe Jets' goalie Chris Cram on this second period play. North Dundas won the game 5-3 but lost 3-0 to Hawkesbury in the midget tournament's "A" championship game.

Link pockets four in exhibition tilt

RUSSELL—Murray Link scored four of seven goals here Saturday powering the North Dundas (Ault Foods Ltd.) Pee Wee Demons to a 7-0 exhibition win over the Russell Warriors.

Darryl Beck and Terry Wagner shared the zero.

Link netted what would prove to be the winning goal when he connected on a pass from Craig Holmes at 7:41 of the opening period.

Link scored again with 4:55 left in period two and slapped in another pair in the final period.

Geoff Hardy drew three assists while Robbie Raistrick canned a goal and helped out on two others.

Stephen Henderson and Ryan Filion each supplied a goal and one assist. Craig and Ryan Holmes each picked up an assist.

Results weren't as positive for the Demons in a pair of Upper Canada Minor Hockey League Pee Wee A games.

Last Thursday in Spencerville the host South Grenville Rangers thumped the Demons 8-2 and in Brockville Nov. 29 the Warriors nipped the Demons 4-3.

Wes McLeod and Robbie Raistrick netted North Dundas' goals in the 8-2 loss. Curtis Sears and Geoff Hardy drew the assists.

South Grenville led 2-0 and 5-1. George Lockett, Anthony Windsor and Kevin Vanasseldonk all scored a pair of goals for the winners.

North Dundas and Brockville were even at 2-2 after a period and the Warriors were up 4-3 after two. Period three was scorless.

Murray Link notched both first period markers scoring from Ryan Filion and Andy Carkner at 8:41 and again at 4:03 from Filion and Wes McLeod.

Robbie Raistrick accounted for the Demons' final goal when he connected on a pass from Link and Jennifer McDonald at 6:52 of period two.

Atoms win pair

PRESCOTT—Only the Brockville Atom A Warriors prevented coach Bob Peddle and his North Dundas Demons from enjoying a perfect Upper Canada Minor Hockey League weekend.

Last Thursday in Brockville the host Warriors edged the Demons 4-3. But North Dundas started to roll right after that setback and won two straight.

Friday night at home in Chesterville the Demons were right on target scoring an impressive 6-3 win over the visiting Kemptville Royals.

Their win string went to two games Saturday as the Demons nipped the South Grenville Rangers 4-3 here in Prescott.

Craig Holmes gave the Demons a 2-1 lead when he scored at 7:54 and 7:10 of the first period after the Rangers had taken a 1-0 lead on Clarke McCurdy's goal at 8:00. Mike Casselman assisted on the second Holmes' marker.

Tylor Copeland opened up a 3-1 lead with his unassisted goal at 6:43.

McCurdy cut the Dundas lead to 3-2 scoring at 6:07 of the second but Mike Casselman opened it up to 4-2 scoring one second before the end of period two.

South Grenville narrowed the final gap to 4-3 when Mark Wood scored 5:01 before the end of the game.

Darryl Burns tended North Dundas' nets.

The day before in Chesterville the Demons led the Royals 3-0 after a period and 5-0 after two as they steamed on to a 6-3 victory.

Mike Casselman and Craig Holmes each scored twice for the Demons. Tylor Copeland and Shawn Peddle cracked in the other goals. Peddle and Casselman each drew two assists. Andrew Bradley, Craig Holmes and Shawn Williams each collected one.

Brockville scored twice in the second and twice again in the final period as they edged the Demons 4-3 on Dec. 6.

Craig Holmes and Andrew Bradley each had a goal and one assist for North Dundas. Tylor Copeland blasted in the other. Mike Flowers, Brock McBain and Chris Mann all earned assists.

Demons outskate Kemptville Royals

CHESTERVILLE — The North Dundas Atom C Demons dominated Kemptville here while skating to a 6-3 victory last Friday night.

The Demons counted a 5-0 advantage before Kemptville hit the net three consecutive times within a 1:26 time frame of the third period. However, the Demons ended Kemptville's comeback plea with a last minute goal by Shawn Peddle.

Craig Holmes was the first skater to slap in a goal. Mike Casselman set up the play that gave North Dundas a 1-0 lead at 5:57 of the opening period.

It took 53 seconds for Holmes to count his second marker of the game. He connected on a pass from Andrew Bradley.

Casselman gave the Demons a 3-0 lead with an unassisted goal at the 3:35 mark.

Tylor Copeland took advantage of the pass from Casselman and Peddle to stengthen the Demons lead, with 6:38 showing in the second period.

At 2:29, Casselman slapped in his second and the Demons fifth goal of the game. Peddle and Shawn Williams made the play possible.

Kemptville closed the gap 5-3 with 5:01 left in the game. Scott Dickson marked the first at 6:27, while Jason Valcour scored at 5:42 and again at 5:01.

With only 39 seconds left in the contest, Peddle scored with assistance from Holmes, tallying a 6-3 victory over Kemptville for the two league points.

Belanger fires in eight for Smokies

SOUTH MOUNTAIN—Blair Belanger scored all but three of his team's goals here Monday night leading the MTFD Smokies to an 11-9 Mountain Township Floor Hockey League victory over the Lions Club.

The victory enabled the Smokies to move into a share of second place with the Lions. Both teams now sport identical three (wins) and three (losses) records.

The league-leading and undefeated Winchester Print crew published another win as they nipped SM Electric 10-8. The Print now has won all six and the Electric crew has lost all six.

Lions roared into a 4-1, first period, lead on the Smokies on two goals by Andrew Torrance and singles by Adam Shane and Janet Adams. Blair Belanger's first of eight came at 13:50 and put the Smokies on the board.

Belanger ran wild in the second period scoring six times for the Smokies who burnt into an 8-5 lead.

Lions scored four times to the Smokies' three in the final period but still came up short, 11-9.

In addition to Belanger's eight goals the winners got single goals from Andrew Mullin, Katie Stewart (one assist) and Karen Lewin.

Andrew Torrance led the Lions scoring four times. He also drew two assists. Janet Adams fired in three goals. Adam Shane tallied two markers.

Winchester Print churned out a 5-1 first-period lead on SM Electric and held on for a 10-8 victory.

Mike Hodge and Scott Clark each potted three goals for the Print. Randy Spear netted two while Paul Derraugh and Ricky Coxford banged in one each.

Mike Preston led the Electric crew with two goals and two assists. Scott Woods also snagged a pair. John Topping, Stephanie Matt and Todd Boyce all had a goal and one assist in a losing cause. Jason Flemming also dented twine once.

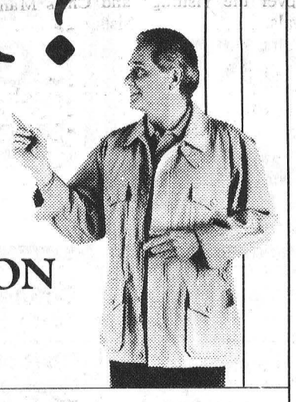
THIS WEEK YOU ASKED THE GST CONSUMER INFORMATION OFFICE.



Q: I'm thinking of buying a new car in 1991. How will the proposed GST affect prices?

A: The outgoing Federal Sales Tax (FST) is now part of the price of new cars. So, while they will be fully taxed at 7% in 1991, the expected effect of replacing the FST with the GST on the average $22,000 mid-size car is a reduction of around $850.

Q: My son has figured out it will cost $500 in lumber to build a dock at our cottage if he bought it now. How much will that lumber cost with the proposed GST?

A: You can expect to pay about $512 for that same amount of lumber for personal use based solely on the changeover from the FST to the GST.

Q: I know the proposed GST won't apply to city bus fares but I take the commuter train to work. Will I have to pay GST?

A: No. Daily commuter trains are considered a municipal transit service, so fares are exempt from GST.

We're here to answer your questions about how the GST will affect prices. Call us toll-free Monday to Friday 9am-9pm. Ask for your free copy of the "Consumer's Guide to the GST and Prices."

Hydro transforms new site into working headquarters with weekend power surge

WINCHESTER — If you blinked, you would have missed it.

Late Friday afternoon, Ontario Hydro's Winchester area office looked much as it has for the past 23 years. Bills were being paid as usual, new customers were scheduling electrical hook-ups, and work crews were being dispatched to jobs throughout the area.

By 8:30am, Monday, though, while the activities were identical to those described above, Hydro's 113 office and field workers were going about their duties, looking almost oblivious to their new surroundings. The only detectable change in activities was the lighter step of employees and the smiles on every face.

Over the weekend, Hydro moved its entire operations down the road from their familiar St. Lawrence Street headquarters, lock, stock and barrel. Furniture, word processors, computers, a fleet of 60 vehicles, reels of electrical wire and the zillion odds and ends that are required to make the utility function efficiently were packed up and carted the short distance to Hydro's spanking new, spacious $5 million home.

Hydro's employees had reason to be in high spirits Monday. Their numbers and the services they provide had far outgrown the cramped quarters they previously occupied.

"We have grown to 113 staff and now are serving close to 40,000 customers," observed area manager Dave Harris, while escorting a reporter on a tour of the new building.

When Hydro moved into the old facilities in 1967, they housed a staff of 35 to serve between 13,000 and 14,000 customers.

This year alone, 2,000 new customers began receiving power from Hydro's 3,200 miles of distribution lines in the roughly 1,300-square- mile Winchester area.

"This might very well turn out to be the biggest year (for the area office) on record," Harris said.

Aside from the size of the new building — 25,000 square feet — the new facilities boast a number of features that should make it an easy place to work in.

For starters, there is the three-bay garage that will accommodate the largest of Hydro's trucks, unlike the old place where some of the fleet's vehicles couldn't enter the single bay. These had to be serviced at private garages.

(Harris noted that although the fully-equipped garage can handle just about any mechanical job, with just one mechanic on staff, many repairs still will be contracted out to local garages.)

There are larger storage facilities, and an expansive loading dock. Much of what had to be piled out of doors is now stored inside.

The office work stations were also designed with efficiency and the comfort of staff in mind. A grey color scheme is softly illuminated by lights that are inset in the ceiling behind grates to cut down the glare on computer screens.

Passersby might wonder at the half-columns that bulge from the south wall of the edifice, and the turret that adorns the main entrance. The turret, explained Harris, was incorporated into the architectural design to reflect the rural characteristics of the area and is intended to remind viewers of a silo.

The smaller, cylindrical columns are as functional as they are decorative. Into one can be rolled a wall that divides a conference room when the extra space is needed. The other will be altered to perform the same task.

Appropriately, inside and out, the complex has been built as a model of energy efficiency, in keeping with Hydro's mandate to promote the practice. High pressure sodium bulbs light the parking lot. The interior is kept warm in winter and cool in summer through a heat-exchange water- pumping system.

The annual energy savings are projected at about 32 kilowatt hours from the sodium lights and 100 kwh from the heat pumps.

The public will be given an opportunity to explore the new building next spring when the area office holds its grand opening and open house, replete with tours of the facilities, electrical displays and exhibits, and presentations on energy-saving ideas and innovations.

On the job

After a hectic weekend of moving, it was business as usual for staff at Ontario Hydro's Winchester area headquarters. Clockwise from top left: Fern Gauvreau hands a parcel to Lloyd McDiarmid in the new warehouse; Gord Burns, area lines supervisor discusses distribution map with manager Dave Harris; lines supervisor Wayde Roles takes care of paperwork; clerk Cathy Fawcett serves customers at lines department counter; and Doug Casselman, forestry department supervisor, confers with trades support clerk Valerie St. John.

Farm update

Revenue Canada explains ins and outs of new tax

Dianne Fetterly
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — Local farmers discovered they will have to keep their pencils sharpened to stay on top of the paperwork that the new federal Goods and Services Tax will create, if it makes it through the Senate in time for its January 1 debut.

David Moore of Revenue Canada's Excise Branch, speaking to a group at Dundas Federation of Agriculture's Information Day, explained the GST is a multi-stage tax where farmers will pay tax on some input items and make a claim to the government to have it returned.

Moore says the GST is based on a consumer-pays basis and will apply to most transactions through the production and marketing processes.

How the tax works

Anyone registered under the GST who provides taxable goods must pay the tax on purchases and charge it on sales. If the GST you charged is more than the GST you paid, then the difference must be remitted to the revenue department. If it is less, you can claim a refund.

Farmers will be able to claim an Input Tax Credit for the GST paid on business purchases (inputs) relating to the production of taxable goods and services.

Upon completing the GST return, they can deduct the input tax credit from the GST paid on the transactions, therefore removing the tax on goods or services until they are purchased by the final consumer of the product.

Who is affected?

According to Moore, any business where the gross income is greater than $30,000 per year must register for, charge and send in the GST. Anyone with annual sales of less than $30,000 may opt to register for the GST.

Moore says it may be advantageous for farmers in the less than $30,000 category to register since a number of items used by farmers will be declared non-taxable.

As well, any small business with an income of less than $5,000 in the first quarter of the year may apply for a transitional credit of up to $1,000, he says.

What is taxed?

Under the tax, goods and services will either be taxed at seven per cent, zero per cent (zero-rated) or be tax exempt.

Most farm products will be taxable, but at the zero per cent rate, meaning you will not charge the GST when you buy zero-rated goods or services and will not charge the GST when selling them.

However, farmers can claim the Input Tax Credit for any GST paid on purchases used to produce the zero-rated farm products. For example, farmers could claim an input tax credit on such items as veterinary services or tax paid on milk transportation.

A proposed list of farm purchases which would be zero-rated is as follows:

- Fertilizer in bulk quantities of more than 500 kg.;
- Farm tractors 70 hp or more;
- Combines, headers and pick-ups;
- Field, fruit and vegetable harvesters;
- Field and row crop cultivators (more than 10 ft.);
- Plows: mouldboard, disc (three or more furrows) and chisel (over 10 ft.);
- Bulk milk coolers and tanks;
- Stone pickers;
- Discs and rod weeders (over 10 ft.);
- Airflow seeders, seed drills, (over 10 ft.), row crop and tool- bar seeders and planters;
- Pull and self-propelled swathers and windrowers;
- Mower conditioners, hay balers, rakes, tedders, hay conditioners, crushers, crimpers and swath/windrow turners;
- Combination disc-cultivators (over 10 ft.);
- Complete feeds and feed supplements sold in bulk, or bags of 25kg or more and
- Sales of quotas between farmers for zero-rated products (dairy, turkey, chicken, eggs and tobacco).

Most larger pieces of farm machinery will be zero-rated (taxable at 0 per cent) under the proposed Goods and Services Tax. Press Photo — Fetterly

Although most farm products are zero-rated some will be taxed at seven per cent. The following is a list of farm products and services which will be taxed at seven per cent:

- Livestock not normally raised as food or to produce food for human consumption (eg. horses, mules, exhibition poultry, llamas, mink or ostriches);
- Sheep not normally raised for meat or wool;
- Furs and animal hides;
- Dead animals not suitable for human consumption;
- Cut flowers, foliage and trees;
- Bedding plants and sod;
- Fertilizer in bulk or packaged quantities of 500 kg or less;
- Beeswax and maple sugar;
- Gravel, stones, rock, soil and soil additives;
- Canary seed;
- Processed wool;
- Custom harvesting and other custom work for other farmers;
- Stud or artificial insemination services;
- Road clearing services;
- Transportation of goods and elevation of goods and
- Crop dusting.

Some GST-exempt goods and services, (meaning no GST will be paid by farmers or no input tax claimed) include items such as: previously owned residential housing, most services provided by financial institutions, insurance and crop insurance, insurance services and provision of quotas by a government or marketing board.

Preparing for the GST

With farmers wondering what to do if the GST is implemented, Moore recommends farmers follow three steps. After registering, he says a farmer should determine a filing frequency which can be either monthly, quarterly or annually.

He recommends a quarterly or monthly system to ensure returns are processed as quickly as possible.

Step three would be setting up an accounting system. Revenue Canada claims a farmer should be able to use a current bookkeeping system with a few minor modifications.

How to file

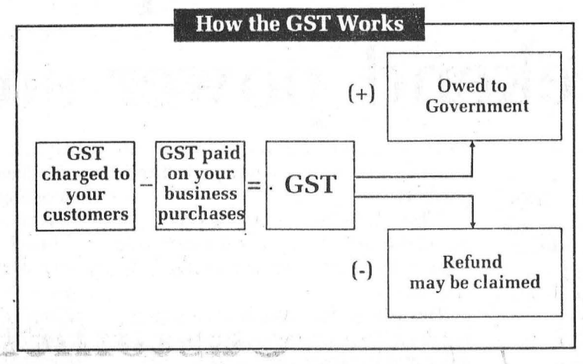
After registering, Revenue Canada will suggest the filing frequency depending on annual income, says Moore. Farmers need to calculate their remittance or return and send in a one-page form to the department.

Everyone registered to collect the tax must file a return even if there is no money to be remitted.

Moore says books and records should be kept for six years as with a regular income tax return.

The proposed GST replaces the current Federal Sales Tax, which Moore says is not effective and not treating everyone fairly.

For assistance or inquiries on the GST, farmers may call Revenue Canada toll-free at 1-800-465-6160.



Hay barn destroyed by blaze

WINCHESTER SPRINGS — A blaze at Lot 8, Concession 2 Winchester Township completely destroyed a barn and the hay stored there.

According to Winchester fire chief Bruce Kerr, the department was called to a fire on Nesbitt Road, one and one-half miles east of Hwy 31. at 2:25am, last Thursday.

Although the barn, owned by Hubert Hess, was totally destroyed by the time the department arrived, Kerr said there was concern for a nearby house and remained at the scene until the situation was safe.

The hay housed in the barn belonged to Allen Hess of RR4 Winchester.

Kerr said the cause of the fire is unknown.

OFA forum debates agricultural issues

Dianne Fetterly
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — The Ontario Federation of Agriculture held another successful annual convention recently with discussion centring around global issues.

Farm locally, think globally was the theme for this year's convention and, according to the Dundas Federation of Agriculture provincial director, Gordon Garlough, Canada-U. S. free trade and the General Agreement on Trade and Tariffs (GATT) are still a big concern and a hot topic of discussion.

Garlough said Canadian Federation of Agriculture president Don Knoerr appeared pessimistic about anything good coming out of the GATT talks and warned farmers even if the government is successful in getting the agreement it wants, agriculture, especially for grain producers, would still not be in a good position.

There was no keynote speaker for the conference, but a number of speakers, representing both producers and processors, discussed the competitiveness of the different sectors of the industry, explained Garlough.

Dairy producers were represented by Ontario Milk Marketing Board Chairman John Core, while the industry side of dairy was represented by Ault Foods Ltd.'s chief executive officer, Graham Freeman.

Representing poultry producers was Ken Crawford of the Canadian Turkey Marketing Agency, while Phil Kudelka of Cuddy Foods spoke on behalf of processors.

For the red meat sector, beef farmer Murray Greaves outlined changes his farm has undergone over the past few years, and Lorne Goldstein from Better Beef Packers represented industry.

Garlough said Goldstein, who represents one of the largest remaining Ontario packing companies was quite upbeat about potential in the beef industry in Canada, and added, he seems to believe we should be looking at beef not as a carcass, but as the cuts you can get from it.

Gary Fread of Campbell Soup and Marshall Schuyler, chairman of the Ontario Vegetable Marketing Board, debated for the fruit and vegetable sector.

Garlough said this discussion was also quite positive because the two sides of the industry were recently able to solve a major problem where processors were demanding U.S. prices for their fruits and vegetables.

The processors and producers were able to come up with flexible arrangements where producers were able to supply processors using individual agreements.

Establishing a general farm organization is still a big issue with the OFA. Garlough said there was some concern among delegates as to the New Democratic government's position on the issue.

Brigid Pyke's decision not to run for another term as OFA president was the biggest change as far as the executive was concerned, noted Garlough.

The federation's new president is former vice- president Roger George, who hails from Northern Ontario. First vice-president is Jack Wilsinson from Temiskaming, while second vice is Bill Weaver of Dresden.

The only new person on the executive is director Gerry Carey of Grenville County, who has been active in local farm organizations for the past few years.

The OFA convention is the annual meeting for the 20,000 members and about 25 farm organizations, commodity and marketing boards. Roughly 350 delegates attend with representation based on the membership in each county.

1991 executive

The Dundas Holstein Club elected its new executive for the upcoming year at its annual meeting held last Wednesday (Dec. 5) at the Winchester Community Centre. The new executive is, back (left to right): Anna Smail, secretary/treasurer; Gord Milne, first vice-president and Mark Smith, second vice-president. Front row is Peter Guy, past president and Reg Gilmer, president.

WINCHESTER — About 52 people attended the Dundas Holstein Club's Annual Meeting held here last Wednesday, at the end of what the club's president described as a very successful year.

Peter Guy says the year's success was mainly due to the hard work and effort put out by the directors and other executive members.

The club elected its new directors for the upcoming 1991 year as follows: Jim Adams, Glenn Beggs, Robert Byvelds, Doug Carruthers, John Douma, Reg Gilmer, Paul Helmer, Barry Holmes, Greg Holmes, Jack Hoogenboom, Danny Johnstone, Robert McMenomy, Archie Mellan, Kevin Mellan, Gord Milne, Mark Smith, Bernie Vander-Zweep, Henry Velthuis, Gerry Westenbroek and Peter Guy.

Ontario Holstein Association president Gordon Dodge reported on the association at the provincial level. He says the Ontario branch of the association is working with the provincial government to establish a leukosis testing program for Ontario milk producers, which has been slowed down because of the change in government.

Dodge also announced plans for a Festival Showcase Sale on Fri., April 12, 1991, before the Ontario Spring Show in Stratford.

National director Charles Farlinger updated members on 1990 activities of the Holstein Association of Canada.

The year's activities included topics such as: a new relationship between the national association and its branch; the approval of a membership survey; a new standard format for extended pedigrees; new reporting procedure and fees for embryo transfer registrations; new billing statements; and qualified entry animals.

Farlinger also reported that after studying the costs and implications of installing a 1-800 number to the association it was not found to be cost-effective.

Fieldman Lynn Boyd presented the Holstein representative report and also stressed the need to work towards a leukosis-free herd necessary for anyone wishing to sell live animals offshore.

He also reported during 1990 many dairy producers took advantage of good beef prices to cull their herds while purchasing replacements at numerous herd dispersals or special sales held throughout the area.

As well, Boyd said the classifiers would be covering the area in the following days. A classifier meeting is planned for sometime later in December or January at Bert Smail's Brinston- area farm.

The guest speaker for the day was veterinarian, Dr. Allan Rathwell, who discussed body scoring.

Another highlight of the annual meeting was the presentation of the Master Breeders Shield to Delmer and Jim Adams of Adamdale Holsteins in Dixons Corners.

The club's executive for the upcoming year was also elected at the meeting. They are: President Reg Gilmer, past-president Peter Guy, first vice- president Gord Milne, second vice-president Mark Smith and secretary-treasurer Anna Smail.

Wilson stresses PTO safety

by Dianne Fetterly
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — The area's farm safety advisor is cautioning farmers to be extra careful around power take-off shafts.

Mark Wilson, speaking at the Dundas Federation of Agriculture's Information Day last Tuesday, says since PTOs are used so often around the farm, PTO safety is something that should be looked at more closely.

He warns at 540 rpm it only takes about one to three seconds to strip a person's clothing off if it gets caught in the PTO, or if clothes don't tear, to wrap a body around the shaft. And, he adds, "Consider yourself lucky if only your clothes are torn off."

Wilson says although there haven't been a large number of deaths related to PTO accidents, a fair number have resulted in serious injury.

He says there are a number of potential dangers associated with improperly-maintained PTOs and farmers should be on the lookout for them to help prevent accidents from occuring.

Often, Wilson says, shields or halves of shields are missing. They should be in place and checked to ensure they are in good condition. Shields should be replaced after servicing.

Forage wagons, used a lot in the fall, are often used without shields. Again, he stressed the shields should be on at all times.

Wilson also stresses proper maintenance of the master shields over the PTO shaft of the tractor and the PTO itself. He reminds farmers to ensure the drive line is well lubricated and suggests looking at the telescopic section and locking systems to ensure they're in good condition and operating properly.

Drive shaft guards should also be well lubricated and checked to ensure they are spinning properly. As well, it is "essential they be left on," Wilson stresses.

Beef farmers get more clout

TORONTO — A two-year pilot program designed to facilitate the financing of Ontario's feeder cattle industry was recently announced by Ontario Agriculture and Food Minister Elmer Buchanan and the Ontario Cattlemen's Association.

The Ontario Feeder Cattle Loan Guarantee Program enables cattle feeders to work co-operatively to finance the purchase of their cattle.

Twenty or more cattlemen may form a feeder finance association, under the Co-operative Corporations Act, for the purpose of negotiating cattle loans. The association, which retains ownership of the cattle, may be able to negotiate a preferential interest rate since it will apply for one large loan, as opposed to several smaller ones.

"This program will greatly enhance the flexibility and availability of credit for Ontario cattle feeders," Buchanan said. "As a result, it will help increase the competitiveness of Ontario's cattle feeding industry."

"The Ontario Feeder Cattle Loan Guarantee Program is one of the planks Ontario cattle feeders can use to strengthen the cattle feeding business in Ontario," said Douglas Gear, a member of OCA's executive and chairman of the subcommittee which developed the loan project proposal. "It will provide an alternative source of credit by working with a traditional lender but through a producer controlled co-operative."

The government will provide a 25 per cent guarantee on association loans. It will also provide each association with a start-up grant of $10,000 to help defray initial costs.

"This program reflects the co-operative, self approach we are committed to developing in agricultural finance," Buchanan said.

The program is a co-operative effort between the ministry, the Ontario Cattlemen's Association and the Ontario Agricultural Committee of the Canadian Bankers' Association.

Contaminated soil at township dump not a threat: MoE

CHESTERVILLE - Gas-contaminated soil was removed Friday from a lot behind Nestle Enterprises Ltd. and taken to the Winchester Township dump on Boyne Road.

The Ministry of Environment downplayed any concerns over the contaminated soil, saying it was not hazardous to human health.

The procedure was supervised by Jeff Columbus, an environmental officer at the Cornwall office of the Ministry of Environment. He said the gas-contaminated soil was removed as a precautionary measure.

"We don't like to see it left at the site. It could cause ground water contamination, depending on what the site is to be used for in the future, " he said.

The small lot on the north side of railway tracks which pass through Chesterville, belongs to Esso Petroleum Canada. Until recently the site was a gasoline storage place.

The above-ground storage tanks were removed last week and a local firm, David Brown Construction Ltd. removed the contaminated soil and replaced it with clean fill Friday.

Rene de Vries, a consultant with Central Projects Group Inc. is conducting tests at the site for Esso to ensure all the gas-contaminated soil is removed. He said the storage tanks had been at the site since 1958 when they were put there by Texaco Canada.

The tanks supplied fuel to local gas stations and farmers. The site was turned over to Esso when the petroleum giant took over Texaco earlier this year. The storage site was closed upon Esso's takeover.

He said the company has no immediate future plans for the site.

Columbus said the removal of the contaminated soil conformed with MOE's decommissioning guidelines for the closing of industrial facilities. The guidelines, which are not enforcable, are in place to encourage industries to keep their properties clean.

Columbus said the level of contamination found at the Esso site is not high.

"If (the storage site) was going to be staying as a gas transfer facility the levels (of contaminatation) might have been acceptable for that type of use," he said.

Columbus expects de Vries to submit a final report based on his tests to the MOE in the new year. That's when the MOE will conduct a review of de Vries' report.

Preliminary tests conducted by de Vries show no gas has seeped into the groundwater at the site.

Columbus said the contaminated soil posed no danger to the village's supply of water which is being drawn from a well two kilometers away from the Esso site.

"It's doubtful that (the contamination) would travel that far," he said.

Columbus believes the soil contamination was the result of small spillages over many years. Although possible, Columbus considered groundwater contamination unlikely because the groundwater level around Nestle wasn't high and the clay soil, which is not permeable, would slow down any downward seepage of gas to the groundwater, he said.

Jim Cumming, the manager of Nestle, said Tuesday he isn't concerned about the gas-contaminated soil found next to the plant. The plant draws some of the water it uses for processing from wells, but they aren't near the Esso site.

"We monitor our wells and we haven't had any incidents or problems," he said.

Despite the fact the soil was contaminated with gas, the MOE considers it safe enough to be used as fill at the dump.

"For disposal of waste it is considered non-hazardous, meaning it can go to a normal domestic or industrial landfill type of thing so it won't cause a problem at the landfill," Columbus said.

That's entertainment!

There's sure to be something special under the tree for each of these talented youngsters. They earned whatever rewards they'll get from Santa for being well-behaved after delighting parents and teachers at Metcalfe Co-operative Nursery School's Christmas concert held Sunday at Holy Trinity Anglican Church.

Old fashioned carol service

MORRISBURG — The true Christmas spirit is alive and well and may be rediscovered this Sunday at Upper Canada Village.

On Dec. 16, at 1:30 and 3pm, the Village's Christ Church will resound with all-time favorites such as "The First Noel" and the reading of the Christmas Story.

Under the direction of Mrs. Wallace, a music teacher at Front of Yonge School in Mallorytown, grade five, six and seven students, in period costumes, will present their rendition of "Silent Night", "While Shepherds Watch Their Flocks by Night", "Good Christian Men Rejoice", and more.

Children from Morrisburg, Iroquois and the Brockville area who participated in the Village's Young Interpreters program during the summer will play the role of 1860's Sunday School scholars and tell the Message of Christmas in a traditional setting and manner.

Visitors are invited to join in the singing and round off their stay with a stroll through the wintery Village or a horse-drawn sleigh ride offered between the two church services.

Admission to this event is $1.25 for students and seniors and $2.50 for adults. Children up to five years of age admitted free of charge.

Christmas shopping spree comes to TOCC residents

OSGOODE — To the delight of the residents, the shops came to the Township of Osgoode Care Centre this year.

Their Christmas shopping was made a pleasure, particularly for those residents whose mobility is more impaired than others.

A mini-mall was set up in the large atrium of the Care Centre Monday. Co-operating in bringing an excellent selection of wares were The Bay, the Blossom Park K-Mart, Canadian Tire from Heron Road, Crabtree and Evelyn of St. Laurent Shopping Centre, Manotick Gift and Jocus Toys.

The event was not planned as a fundraiser, but rather to promote the independence of the residents, staff members pointed out. Area seniors were also encouraged to take advantage of the mini-mall

"It's been wonderful to see how the stores have participated," staff member Martha Muhl said, happy with the success of this first-time venture.

K-Mart offered free gift-wrapping services to the residents, and at least one of the stores offered a donation to the Care Centre at the day's end.

The Care Centre itself was festive in its new Christmas attire, acquired at a decorating party recently. Members of the Metcalfe Lions Club and their wives came to put up the tree and prepare the centre for the holidays.

"The place was jam-packed," Muhl said. "Families were here too, and even off-duty staff returned to participate."

Everyone joined in to sing beloved Christmas carols, accompanied by activity director Jane McLaren on the piano.

Santa's busy itinerary

Santa Claus was a busy fellow Dec. 5 as he touched down in both Winchester and Metcalfe, in a pre-Christmas schedule that tested the mettle of his reindeer. Above, St. Nick enjoys the company of fans at St. Catherine's Catholic School during his Metcalfe visit.

Henbest teaches tree R's

CHESTERVILLE - Kim Henbest wants her students to become future guardians of the forest.

And she has just the right tool to prepare her students for their future guardianship.

Henbest, a part-time English and science teacher at Chesterville Public School, is introducing her students to a new curriculum called Discover The Treasure: Our Forest of Today and Tomorrow, a program she wrote.

With it she hopes to teach students to appreciate the forest while covering basic subjects like reading and writing, science, art and drama.

Henbest would also like to see her students use what they learn to become politically active when they're older.

"If they start asking questions now...eventually they will become caring voters," she said.

The curriculum is divided into three parts. The first part, the learning stage, deals with the forest (or treasure as it is called in the curriculum) itself, how it benefits the environment, the economy, and recreation.

The second part, the curing stage, deals with the enemies of the forest— fire, disease and pollution; and the friends of the forest— forest management, education, recycling, and technology.

The third part, the acting stage, is about forest management and how students can become guardians of the wilderness.

"The whole thing is geared to getting students to act," said Henbest.

Discover the Treasure also offers the students plenty of incentive to learn. The plan offers teachers a wide range of suggested activities to get students interested in forestry. The activities range from making shoebox models of a forest to acting out skits.

Henbest called her study plan student-friendly, made easy enough for students between grades four and six to comprehend but challenging enough to make them think for themselves.

There is another aspect to Discover the Treasure that will appeal to students. Henbest said the topic of forestry management is a leading environmental issue. Chesterville Public School students are already familiar with leading environmental issues and have responded enthusiastically to them.

Recently published by P.J. Spratt and Associates for the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, the teaching aid was written in the summer of 1988 by Henbest and Cornwall teacher Suzanne DiLabio.

Henbest worked on the English version while DiLabio wrote the French version, which is expected to be published early next year.

For now Henbest will be putting the English version to use at CPS, but it won't dominate her class time, nor will her study plan be the sole basis for her class' study on forestry, she said.

Slim pickings

Sean Salter, Gr. 11, and Lisa O'Connor, Gr. 13, display what remained of a truckload of citrus fruit from Florida after North Dundas District High School students sold 1,400 crates of grapefruits and oranges to raise money for the school and Winchester District Memorial Hospital. Sean was the top sales rep in the drive, flogging $1,275 worth, while Lisa came second with $678 in sales. Stephanie Page, Gr. 9, Roland Brunner, Gr. 11, and Jeff Annable, Gr. 10, were also listed among the top salespeople. Once expenses are paid, the school hopes to split a net profit of around $7,000 with the hospital. Press photo—McLeister

In Memoriam

CAMPBELL — In fond and loving memory of my dear husband, Elborn F.W. Campbell, who passed away Dec. 9, 1981.
Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest;
And those who think of him today
Are those who loved him best.
The flowers we lay upon his grave,
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who lies beneath
Will never fade away.
—Deeply loved and sadly missed,
wife Margaret Alma
36

PAUL — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Eldon, who left us Dec. 16, 1989.
Not just today
But every day
In silence we remember.
—Sadly missed,
Irene and family

In Memoriam

BAKER — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Garfield,
Who 13 years ago, Dec. 9th,
Went so quickly before our eyes
Your death is memorable
In the minds of us who loved and miss you
As the day God took you home
Thou you're gone in body
Memories of things we used to do
Are as fresh 'each day' as when you were here.
—Ever remembered; wife Nancy, daughters Bonny and Beverly and grandson Shawn 36

BOOTH — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Robert Booth, who passed away Dec. 15, 1989.
The rolling stream of life flows on
But still the vacant chair
Recalls the love, the voice and smile
Of one who once sat there.
—Sadly missed,
wife Hazel, Brian, Grant and families
36

SPEARMAN — In loving memory of our dad, Walter, who passed away Dec. 11, 1989.
The hardest thing in life to bear,
Is to want you Dad and you're not there,
With broken hearts we whispered low,
'God loves you, Dad, we love you so'
As long as we live we will always be glad
That we were your children and you were our Dad.
God's garden must be beautiful,
He only takes the best.
Look after him Lord, don't leave him alone
For this is his first year away from home.
God in heaven please let him know,
That here on earth we miss him so.
—Miss you forever, the family
36

CARKNER — In loving memory of Ellis, who passed away Dec. 14, 1988.
We watched you suffer,
We heard you sigh,
And all we could do
Was just stand by.
For when the time came,
We suffered too,
For you never deserved,
What you went through.
God took your hand,
And we had to part,
He eased your pain
But it broke our hearts.
Although we smile,
And seem carefree,
Nobody misses you
More than we.
—Sadly missed by Irma and family
36

CAMPBELL — In loving memory of my dear father, Elborn, who passed away Dec. 9, 1981.
Nothing can ever take away
The love a heart holds dear,
Fond memories linger every day,
Remembrance keeps him near.
—Always loved, daughter Margaret, Jean and George

The Corporation of the Township of Osgoode

Notice of the Passing of a Zoning Bylaw by the Township of Osgoode

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Township of Osgoode passed Bylaw No. 103-90 on the 20th day of November, 1990 under section 34 of the The Planning Act, 1983.

AND TAKE NOTICE that any person or agency may appeal to the Ontario Municipal Board in respect of the bylaw by filing with the clerk of the Township of Osgoode not later than the 27th day of December, 1990 a notice of appeal setting out the objection to the bylaw and the reasons in support of the objection.

AN EXPLANATORY NOTE of the purpose and effect of the bylaw, describing the lands to which the bylaw applies (or, alternatively, an explanation as to why a key map is not provided) is below. The complete bylaw is available for inspection in my office during regular office hours.

Dated at the Township of Osgoode this 5th day of December, 1990.

Wayne Robinson
Clerk
Township of Osgoode

EXPLANATORY NOTE

Purpose and Effect of Bylaw
The purpose of this amendment is threefold:

1. The zoning bylaw amendment deletes the Open Space (1) zone from the zoning bylaw and replaces it with two new Open Space (01 and 02) zones.

The new Public Open Space (01) zone is created for all parkland and recreation uses (such as parks, playgrounds, campgrounds, ball fields, museums, arenas, etc.) which are owned by the Township, Regional Municipality, or the Provincial and Federal Governments and which are intended for public use. In addition, certain institutional or quasi-institutional uses such as schools and cemeteries are also permitted uses.

The new Private Open Space (02) zone is created for all private recreational uses (such as golf courses, campgrounds, trailer parks, driving ranges, amusement parks, fish and game clubs, etc.) which are privately owned and which are operated as businesses or private/exclusive clubs.

Both the 01 and 02 zones would permit accessory uses such as refreshment stands, restaurants, pavilions, and retail stores.

The zone provisions for minimum lot area, minimum lot frontage and minimum yards for both the 01 and 02 zones are the same as for the existing Open Space (0) zone.

This amendment is a general text amendment which applies to the entire township.

2. In addition, this amendment:

i) rezones all of the presently zoned Open Space (0) lands to either Public Open Space (01) or Private Open Space (02) depending on whether the land is a "public" or "private" open space use.

ii) rezones all "public" open space uses which are presently zoned residential (R), village (V), rural (RU) or Hazard (HAZ) to the new Public Open Space (01) zone.

3. Finally, this amendment would clarify the intent of the general provisions governing "public uses". At present, the zoning bylaw permits public uses in all zones throughout the township. Since the permitted uses in the Public Open Space (01) zone are also "public uses", the amendment would clarify the intent of the zoning bylaw by providing that "public uses" are specifically listed in some zones (such as the Public Open Space (01) zone) but not in other zones.

4. There is no Key Map. The bylaw applies to all the publicly owned parks in the township. Please contact the clerk for a list of the parks affected.

Mr. W. Robinson, clerk, may be contacted for further information at 821-1107.
