Coroner calls for stricter farm safety regulations

WINCHESTER — A five-person jury called for tougher regulations on products used by farmers and mandatory inquests into farm fatalities at an inquest Thursday.

At the urging of Dr. Gabriel Slowey, coroner for Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, the jury recommended legislation to force manufacturers to test their products thoroughly before they are marketed.

Wayne Smith, 36, died when he accidently fell through a 36-foot tear in the seam of a plastic silo liner Sept. 27. The South Mountain farmhand died when he was asphyxiated by toxic carbon dioxide inside the liner.

This is the first fatality of its kind in Ontario, said Slowey, but there have been 25 farm deaths in the province so far this year.

Slowey said farm deaths are about equal to the number of mining fatalities in the province. For every construction worker who dies on the job, two farmers are killed. Farmers should not die in the process of producing more and cheaper food, said the coroner. "No other industry would put up with this situation," he told the jury.

He also pointed out that farm fatalities are the only deaths in high-risk occupations that are not the subjects of mandatory inquests. Every death in the mining and industrial sector is investigated.

While the jury ruled that Smith's death was accidental, Slowey added that it was also preventable.

The plastic silo liner, manufactured by Guelph Silo Liner Ltd., was designed to convert a silo used for haylage or corn silage into a silo used for high-moisture corn. Since high moisture corn must have very limited oxygen, the atmosphere inside the silo is incapable of sustaining human life. Anyone inhaling the carbon dioxide would die within a minute, farm safety consultant Harold Morphy testified.

While safety experts agreed that standing in a silo separated from toxic gas by only a thin piece of plastic was unsafe, farmers said that walking around between the inside of the silo and the liner was common.

Smith's employer, Reginald Gilmer, said that the liner was installed with only verbal instructions from Ron Johnstone, the Guelph Silo Liner dealer for the area. Gilmer said the liner came with only one instruction sheet, which did not include a warning about walking on the liner.

The instructions did not warn that the seams were weaker than the rest of the liner, he said. Forensic studies concluded that the heat-fused seams of the liners are only one-sixth as strong as the rest of the material.

Gilmer said he and the other farm workers depended on hearsay for solutions to liner problems. If corn became caked to the sides of the liner, Gilmer said a worker would get into the silo between the inside of the silo and the liner and kick or push until the corn was loosened. He added that the product's representatives knew of the farmers' approach to the problem.

Gilmer's brother, Richard, pointed out that when this tactic was used, the liner would be lowered, offering enough slack so tension on the liner wasn't increased.

Farm equipment dealer Ron Johnstone, who has sold 33 of the liners in the area since 1984, says he distributed the product with literature provided by the manufacturer, and he helped to install the liners.

Johnstone admitted that "anything sharp could tear the liner," and said that he did not recommend walking on the liner. The manufacturer's instructions, he said, included the words "low oxygen".

Guelph Silo Liner Ltd. representative Don Peters admitted that there had been no testing done on the product. But he said that the company produced a sheet warning users of toxic gas, and that literature was distributed to all dealers. He did not know if literature had been sent to Johnstone.

The manufacturer has sent registered letters to the 400-600 users of the product to warn them of the dangers of walking on the liner.

A $50 million provincial grant will help farmers purchase safety equipment such as rollover bars for tractors and silo cages. Under the program, a farmer can get as much as 85 per cent of $2500, said Morphy.

Going up

A 40-foot Christmas tree, the biggest in Eastern Ontario, went up at the corner of St. Lawrence and Main Streets on Wednesday. The tree, donated by Jack McIntosh, was put up courtesy of Aults. Bulbs for the tree, which will be professionally decorated, will sell for $5 at local businesses. The proceeds of the sale will go towards turning the corner lot into a centennial park. Wise pleads not guilty

MORRISBURG — A Chesterville man charged with wilful damage in the destruction of a $4 million communications tower near Williamsburg pleaded not guilty to the crime yesterday.

Appearing in front of a packed court room, James Wise, 44, of 34 Queen St., elected to be tried by judge and is to appear in provincial court here Dec. 1 to set a trial date.

Crown prosecutor Mary MacFadyen had asked Judge Bruce Hunter for at least a two week adjournment, but Wise's lawyer, Grant Dunn, of Ottawa, argued that because of intense publicity a date should be set as soon as possible.

MacFadyen said the case is being handled by the Ministry of the Attorney General and that she didn't want to set a trial date without first consulting the ministry.

On arriving at the courthouse, Wise was at first reluctant to get out of his car and talk to reporters waiting for him.

But as he approached the courthouse he jokingly told the reporters they had done a good job and paused to answer a few questions.

The 100-metre Bell Canada tower crashed to the ground Aug. 15 across from the Cedar Glen Golf Course east of Williamsburg, when five of its 32 steel guy wires were cut with what police believe was an acetylene torch.

About 11,000 voice circuits were lost when the seven-antenna tower went down.

Liberals bend the rules to elect riding president

CORNWALL — Federal Liberals in Stormont and Dundas were asked to take a lot on faith at the founding meeting for the restructured riding last week.

"Take faith, take hope," Renfrew-Nipissing-Pembroke MP Len Hopkins told about 100 party faithful attending the riding association's annual meeting at the Travelodge here Thursday night.

"We're in this stage of renewal," the veteran MP, first elected in 1965, said. "We're going to run a very united campaign, we're going to work across this country and we're going to organize it and we're going to elect a Liberal government in Ottawa."

But the riding association was also asked to adopt a constitution they hadn't yet seen.

"Sounds like a free trade deal," quipped a man in the crowd.

Thursday's meeting doubled as the founding meeting for the shrunken riding, which lost Charlottenburgh Township after the September 1984 federal election. As a founding meeting, party members should have been given an amended constitution, explained Mauril Belanger, a member of the party's Ottawa-Carleton riding association.

A new constitution, he said, would drop any references to Charlottenburgh. As well, the Ontario wing of the party has amended its own constitution and the changes are binding on the local riding associations.

But even Belanger hadn't received a copy of the provincial changes.

He suggested that the association "approve it now and get a hard copy later."

The start of the meeting was also delayed for more than half an hour as the executive discussed whether to extend voting privileges to the seven or eight people who joined the party only that evening.

Belanger explained that memberships should have been purchased at least seven days prior to a founding meeting. But he was willing "to bend the rules" after two candidates for executive positions had no objections to allowing the new members a vote.

The election proceeded and separate school board trustee Sheila Tremblay defeated Cornwall alderman Claude Tremblay to succeed Mesman as president.

The 48-year-old Tremblay, one of four founders of Cornwall's pro-life group in the early 1970s, stressed the need to increase the association's membership and revenue as well as the need to prepare for the upcoming election.

Russell residents condemn proposed landfill site

RUSSELL — About 400 people packed the Russell arena Nov. 17 to hear what waste management specialists and their opponents had to say about a proposed landfill site and incinerator for the area.

The consensus among the citizens was that they didn't want the scheme near their homes, and Russell Reeve Gaston Patenaude has pledged council's support for the residents' groups. "If we have to spend the money, we will," Patenaude told the crowd to enthusiastic applause.

The extent of council's financial support to site opponents will be discussed at the council's Dec. 7 meeting.

"How would you feel if garbage was trucked one km from your house, and part of it was burned so that it would eventually rain down on your house, your pool and your children?" one objector demanded of the Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton's waste management task force chairman, Frank Reid.

Another objector pointed out that choosing the rural site was a way to back away from the ire of Ottawa-Carleton's voters. "They're dumping garbage on someone else's doorstep so they don't have to face their electorate," he said.

The waste site, called Site 10, is one of two currently being considered by the regional municipality. Reid referred to Site 10 as the "preferred site," indicating that it is ahead of a Walkley Road site on the task force's list of preferences.

The process of chosing a site, which began in 1984, will end with the final selection of a site in March 1988. In the next year, the waste management master plan will be developed, then, subject to the Ministry of the Environment's approval, it will be developed to accommodate the garbage of the regional municipality.

But area residents say that the emissions of the incinerator may affect agriculture in the area by getting into the food chain and affecting the production of fruits, vegetables, milk and meat.

Commuters said that the site, with a 70-metre smoke stack would be unsightly, and property values around the site would plummet.

Reid told the audience that incinerator technology has been improved to such a degree that the facility could be adjusted to fit current MOE standards, as well as raised standards for the future.

The incinerator will reduce landfill by 85 per cent, Reid said. Energy produced by the incinerator could be sold to Ontario Hydro for use in providing area homes with electricity. The incinerator proposed for the site would be a two-stage mass burn type. Toxins, such as dioxin and furans would be filtered out of adding lime to the system, turning the toxins from a gaseous form to a solid form. These "residues" would then be disposed of in the landfill.

The waste management team said that they were taking the "cautious approach" to building an incinerator, pointing out that Sweden has recently lifted its moratorium on incinerators and is once again using them as part of its waste managment strategy.

But speaker Dr. Werner Daechsel, a Ph.Ed. in socio-medical studies, called mass burning "a perfect factory for dioxins and furans," and he told the citizens that he hoped to find experts to convince the Environmental Assessment Board that incineration is no longer acceptable.

Although the task force says that it will set aside funds for the perpetual care of Site 10, Dennis Brown, a member of the Carlsbad Springs Citizens Against Site 10, said that the site would probably cost more in care than its value. The MOE has set aside $10 million to clean up past disasters, said Brown.

Recreation plan unveiled at Greely

GREELY — Public response to the Master Recreation Plan for Andy Shields Park at a meeting Tuesday night was generally positive, with some residents expressing concern about possible inconveniences from the new facilities.

Residents on the north side of the site questioned the planned location of a new baseball diamond, fearing the spectre of baseballs bouncing in their backyards come the summer season.

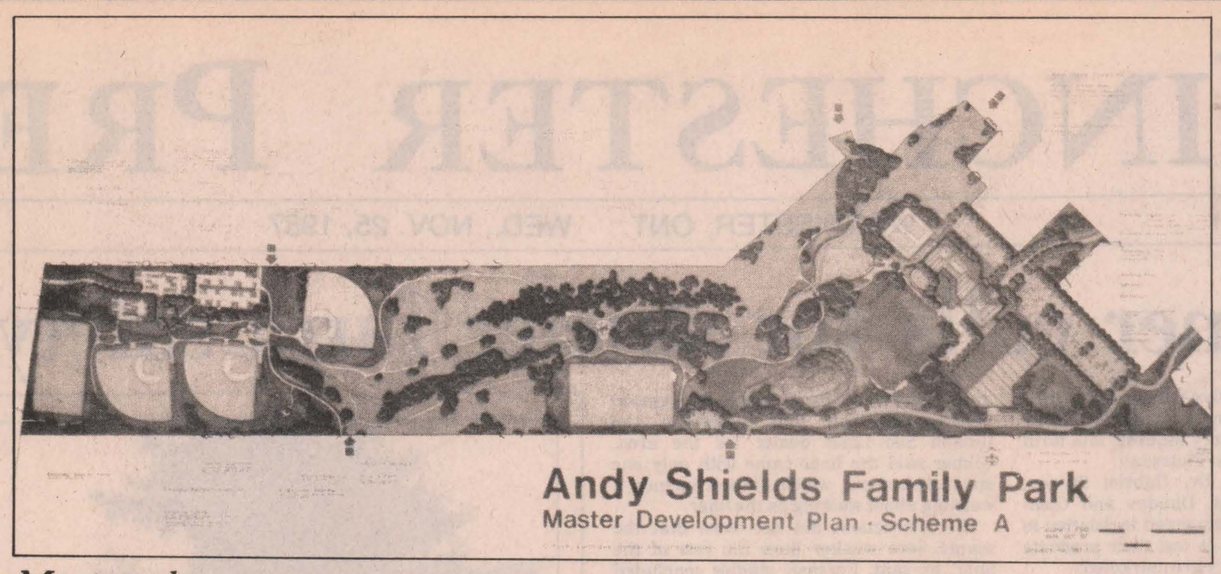
The residents were told the diamond area would be excavated to make the area at a lower level than surrounding lots.

Concerns were also expressed about the reconfiguration of a parking lot on the site. The consultant's report recommended that all the land against the north boundary be utilized to make the lot more acceptable in terms of a family park environment.

Many in attendance at the meeting were interested in the status of the planned new community centre on the site. Osgoode Councillor Blaine Ball said he hopes the new facility will be in place by the end of 1988 or early 1989.

The annual general meeting of the Greely Community Centre which preceded the public session was largely uneventful.

Doug Johnson was introduced as the community centre board chairman for 1988, and an unaudited financial report was released which showed an excess of revenue over expenditures for the centre of $1,624 for the period Jan. 1, 1987 to the end of October, 1987.



Master plan

The Recreation Master Plan for the Andy Shields Park in Greely was unveiled to good response from Osgoode Council last Tuesday. Outdoor facilities, including a fastball diamond and soccer pitch, are planned for the site's west end. The east end of the park has been set aside for new building facilities.

Community centre has top priority

GREELY — A new community centre, reception hall, seniors' centre and swimming pool are among facilities planned for the Andy Shields Family Park, according to a consultant's report released last week.

Steve Sunderland, of Corush, Laroche, Sunderland, unveiled the Master Recreation Development Plan for the 50 acre site to positive response from Osgoode Council last Tuesday.

The plan calls for the development of long-term building facilities in the park's east end, with outdoor facilities planned for the west end of the site.

Sunderland said in an interview last Friday that the new community centre has been made a priority as "the existing centre does not serve the needs of the community."

The planned 10,000 square foot reception hall, he said, is intended as a cultural centre to be used by community groups for meetings and receptions, and not intended for use as a sports centre.

The indoor swimming pool, he said, is at present a long-range goal, and the option to build an outdoor pool may also be considered.

Plans for the west end of the park include a new fastball diamond and a full size soccer pitch.

A ravine which runs through the park will be left for bird-watching and the development of nature trails, and a creek which traverses the site will be dammed to create a trout pond.

The pond, said Sunderland, will also be used as a free skating area in the winter.

Feasibility studies required: consultant

GREELY — Following the naming of Andy Shields Park as the planned location for a new community centre, there remains obstacles to be overcome before construction on the new facility can begin.

According to Recreation Master Plan consultant Steve Sunderland, feasibility studies must be done on the centre and other planned buildings in the park to assess the cost-effectiveness and practicality of sewage facilities.

"These studies could greatly impact on the feasibility of the buildings themselves," he said.

The question of funding for the new centre must also be addressed.

Osgoode Councillor Blaine Ball said last week that the maximum amount obtainable from the province for the project is about $150,000.

This, said Ball, when added to other funding sources should bring the total to about $450,000 next year.

The next step, he said, is to find an architect to design the new centre, and then commission a consulting firm to carry out the hydrogeological feasibility study.

Calling a new centre "an immediate priority", Ball said the current community centre is in a state of disrepair.

We commissioned a consultant to look at the building, he said, and they recommended it be torn down.

Other planned facilities in the Andy Shields Park, said Ball, will be done on a "project by project basis."

Money for the new fastball diamond or soccer pitch could be raised through the efforts of local service clubs, he said.

The recreation plan, said Sunderland, was developed through consultation with Osgoode council, the community centre Building Renovation Committee, Parks Canada and community groups in the Greely area.

The plan, he said, is designed "to guide growth in the area many years into the future."

Osgoode to buy building

OSGOODE — Council authorized an agreement to purchase the Loyal Orange Lodge building in Osgoode Village for $15,000 at their last regular meeting.

Councillor Albert McKeown said no decision has been taken on what the building will be used for.

The purchase, he said, was made to control potential uses of the building which could be detrimental to the area.

Mountain musings

by Shirley Mills

As you may have been aware, J.J. Clarke of CJOH was invited to open the Hallville United Church bazaar on Nov. 21 at 11am. Well, J.J. was at the bazaar — but he didn't arrive until about 11:30. He got lost.

Apparently he first visited the church (after all it was their bazaar); sidetracked to what sounded like Heckston; detoured through South Mountain where he discovered a wedding rehearsal party; and was finally steered towards the Mountain Hall where the bazaar was in full swing. Anyway, he enjoyed the lunch and it was good of him to take time to visit (much) of our area.

For the second year the Mountain and District Lions Club is sponsoring a Craft and Art Sale in the South Mountain Agricultural Hall on Dec. 4, 5 and 6. This is an exciting event you won't want to miss. Not only are there crafts of all descriptions but local artisans will have their work on display and for sale.

One final word about bazaars. As you may know, South Mountain and Inkerman United Churches usually, in spite of their best efforts, end up with their individual bazaars on the same day. This should not be a problem next year.

On the church bulletin last week South Mountain had a thank-you note for those who had helped with the event. Also mentioned was that next year's bazaar would be held on November 12! (Now, Inkerman United wouldn't dare have theirs on the same day.)

Umbrella RA over first hurdle

MAPLE RIDGE — An umbrella recreation association for Winchester Township has made it over its first hurdle, receiving "enthusiastic" support at a meeting last week.

Although worried members of the township's recreation commitees might question the need for the association, township councillor Robert St. Pierre said it seems all are in support of it.

Township council decided earlier this month to form the association in an effort to police recreation spending and avoid the duplication of special events.

The province is getting "very stingy" in its awarding of grants, especially for recreation buildings, and wants more use of existing facilities in municipalities, St. Pierre said.

If a recreation association wants funds, it must first make a plan detailing how the money will be used, St. Pierre said. The plan must then be approved by Judith Cronin, ministry of tourism and recreation representative for the area.

Cronin was at last week's meeting to explain how the umbrella association is needed to help in the planning of events in the township.

If township recreation associations want funds, they must show that they can put the money to good use, St. Pierre said. "They've got to plan if they want extra funds from the province, he stressed.

One option the umbrella association is "looking at" is joint-use of the school ball diamond in Morewood, St. Pierre said. The township could use the diamond and in return, provide funds for its maintenance.

The association is also looking in to options for greater use of the Morewood Public School gymnasium. "It's not used too much because it's always closed," St. Pierre said.

It is also having members draw plans of their association's events occurring between now and spring for a meeting Dec. 15.

Ditch rerouted

METCALFE — Barb Lafontaine, of Township Road, has won her battle to get a section of the proposed Little Municipal Drain off her property.

At last Tuesday's regular meeting, Osgoode council voted to move the drain section to a new location, between the properties of Morris Roth and Dwight Fischer.

Over the last several months, Lafontaine has attended public meetings, and met with A.J. Graham Consultants Ltd. to express her concern that the drain section would cause serious flooding problems on her property.

A.J. Graham had originally recommended that the drain be located in a ditch which runs the length of the Lafontaine property.

When contacted last week, Lafontaine said she is pleased with the decision to move the drain.

And as to the ditch, the location of which on her property caused her so much trouble, Lafontaine said she and her husband will fill it in and contact a tile drainage company to solve their flooding problems.

Local artist illustrates herbal cookbook

by Joanne Laucius
Press Staff Reporter

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — When artist Susan Hamilton was asked to illustrate the Herb Society of America's new herb cookbook, she wanted to go beyond traditional botanical drawings. The result was a "post-modern herbal."

Hamilton, who began her art career as a scientific illustrator, wanted to deviate from the rigid tradition of botanicals. She decided to add punch to her drawings with the addition of the creative juxtaposition of the herbs and their characters.

When Hamilton first did work for National Museum scientists, most of the detailed drawings were done with a microscope to show the complex veinage, scales and wings of her subjects. But scientific drawings were too dependent on the appearance of the animal, and not enough on the spirit of the plant or animal, she says.

Going between realistic drawing and abstracts is not difficult, says Hamilton, who learned abstract painting in art school before she tackled realistic work. Going from abstract to realism, she admits, is "a backwards approach", but it has always helped to find the spirit of the subject.

Susan Hamilton's indoor herb garden includes a rosemary plant that has been growing indoors for several years. Many herbs when grown outdoors reappear year after year, even though they may "wander" when they reseed themselves, says Hamilton. Some, including sage, maintain their flavor even after the first few snowfalls, she says.

Susan Hamilton's camomile illustration shows two facing crescents. "There are no laws or patterns to the creative process," she says.

Sometimes the final form of a drawing comes as a shock. "I'm always surprised with something when it comes out," says Hamilton, who doesn't believe that the creative process should be subject to laws or patterns.

The herbal drawings all use the traditional skills she acquired as a scientific illustrator, inking in the wealth of detail usually found in botanical drawings.

In many cases, Hamilton says the shape of the plant or its leaves suggested the form of a finished product. The elegant leaves and flowers of chive became an Art Deco motif. Sometimes looking at the plant from different perspectives would spark a drawing.

Hamilton, who teaches community college courses in art and creative thinking, says some of the drawings are inspired by the nature of the subject. She used the leaves of marjoram to represent the scales of a fish, the shape of camomile for two facing crescent moons, or a cat covered in catnip to represent catnip.

The cookbook, which was produced by the Southern Ontario Unit of the Herb Society of America, was edited by Beatrice Jeanneret, a native of Brinston. The society, whose members are all committed advocates of herb usage for culinary purposes, presented the book as a way to encourage the use of herbs in cooking. Many of the recipes included in the book are prepared for the society's luncheons.

Hamilton says most of the recipes included in the book are very simple, and easy for the novice herbalist to prepare. Few of the recipes include exotic herbs, and most of the herbal ingredients in the recipes can be grown in this climate.

An avid herb gardener, Hamilton says she has learned a lot from the people of the area. Since starting her own garden, she has had to "debunk" some of the myths about growing herbs in Ontario, she says.

Contrary to popular belief, herbs can grow through snow and maintain their flavors, she says. Only recently did she learn that sage could be picked and eaten after it has grown through the snow. Sage goes grey, but still keeps its flavor, she says.

There are only 32 different ways to cook food, she says and one way to introduce flavors is to add herbs. Hamilton, who plans to start a course on herb gardening in the spring, suggests that cooks use their intuition instead of the directions when preparing a recipe using herbs.

The amount of flavor in an herb depends on how long it has been dried, and how it has been preserved, she says. Dampness tends to suppress herbal flavors, and powdering a dried herb before it is ready to be used tends to rob it of flavor. Hamilton suggests preserving herbs in oil or vinegar, or keeping them in the freezer, to keep maximum flavor.

Even after Hamilton's garden is long covered by the winter snows, she still has fresh herbs to add to food. The area in front of her south-facing picture window is dominated by an indoor herb garden in terra cotta planters. The garden is not only attractive and unusual, but also provides fresh greenery all winter long. Among the herbs in the indoor garden are a rosemary shrub and a small bay tree, each of which can provide fresh pinches of greenery whenever needed.

Although she recommends buying fresh seeds from a seedhouse to start a garden, Hamilton says once a garden is planted, it can usually be harvested for years afterwards if it is carefully maintained. Many herbs are perennials, and others are annuals that can reseed themselves. It was years before she found out what types of herbs grow best in this climate, but Hamilton says she sticks to what has been successful in the past.

For the beginning herbalist, Hamilton suggests chives as a first project. This herb is one of the first bits of greenery that can be eaten in the spring, and adds tang to salads and cooked foods. The plant, which sports a delicate magenta flower, can also be used to hide the foundation of a house.

Thyme is another hardy herb that can usually survive with very little care. Sage, a multipurpose herb, livens up the flavor of pork and tends to neutralize the fatty flavor in meat.

Dill and savory are annuals and may travel from the spot they were originally planted when they re-seed themselves. The flavor of dill usually livens up potato dishes and soups, and can be added to marinades for fish.

Basil, she says, is "a bit of a hassle to grow, but worth it." It needs a lot of sun to thrive.

Some oreganos grow wild, but they can be transplanted and cultivated by the herb gardener, she says. One species, wild marjoram, can be used for most dishes in which oregano is used.

Herbs are excellent for teas, too, she says. Mint and lemon balm are cooling while bergemot and sage offer the soothing qualities of a cup of tea without the caffeine.

The herbal cookbook will be available at the Mountain Lions' Christmas Craft Show, Dec. 4, 5 and 6 at the South Mountain Agricultural Hall.

Author holds signing session

WINCHESTER — Behind a bookshelf near the back of the Book Place in Winchester, a slight man wearing jeans and worn work boots, waves a Matinee Extra Mild with his right hand.

An ashtray crowded with cigarette butts sits on the edge of a round table along with three hard-copy novels entitled "Broken English".

David Thompson, in Winchester Saturday to promote Broken English, said he has never read the final version of the book he wrote and says he never will.

"What is done, is done. I'm working on the film script now."

The name Broken English was actually the working title of a film script Thompson started over two years ago. It was named after a 1979 Marianne Faithfull song. But in an effort to get a clearer picture of the story, he ended up putting the entire narrative down on paper — always considering how the story could be worked visually.

Broken English centres around a plot to assassinate the Prince of Wales and reflects the deep-rooted hatred surrounding Ireland. Although Thompson has never been to Great Britain, he managed to capture the color of the island by hanging around Irish pubs in Toronto for the past five years.

"I took the experiences from as many friends as I could to use as emotional landscape for the novel," he said.

"People remember by emotions, not always by facts."

He had friends on "both sides of the trouble" and wrote his novel based on these encounters.

The most difficult part of the novel for Thompson was getting background in the story without burdening the reader with great historical essays.

"Can't have the characters sitting around saying 'what about that 1690 thing'. The character had to flip back — do a monologue to get in the background."

It was detail and historical accuracy which is Thompson's forte and it is the stuff that brings back memories of a Grade 10 English class at North Dundas District High School, taught by Phil Groves. It was there, more than 15 years ago that Thompson wrote his first story based on real life situations.

It was a short story ("It seemed long at the time") about the possibility of civil war during the FLQ crisis. It was a lesson that showed Thompson the importance of historical understanding and sufficient research.

David Thompson grew up in Chesterville and graduated from NDDHS in 1972. He finished his undergraduate degree in Fine Arts — Film Production at York University before entering Osgoode Hall. He currently practices criminal and entertainment law and teaches seminars on legal philosophy and film theory at York University.

He said his law background has helped with his writing.

"Law," he said, "is about relationships between human beings. It's just another story to tell."

McNabb wants boxes out

MOREWOOD — The former Morewood postmaster is still waiting for Canada Post to remove equipment from his building two months after handing in his resignation.

Kenny McNabb says he is losing $300 per month because the crown corporation has failed to remove lock boxes from the old Morewood Post Office.

Until the boxes are taken out, McNabb said he can't rent out the building.

McNabb, who resigned Sept. 30 when Canada Post forced him to take a $270 pay cut per month, said he sent a registered letter to Canada Post officials on Oct. 26 but has not received a reply.

According to Pierre Robinson, Field Support Postmaster, the removal of the boxes can't be done overnight."

He said Real Property, a division of the postal corporation responsible for installing and removing lock boxes, is aware of the situation.

McNabb is upset because at 4pm on his last day employed by the postal service, a Canada Post official "showed up" to move the post office's belongings across the street to a store owned and operated by Germaine Baker. Baker now runs the Morewood post office in one of Canada Post's bids to privatize post offices.

In the meantime, McNabb is charging Canada Post $10 per day for rent on his building. If Canada Post doesn't take action within three months, said McNabb, "I'll let the courts decide the issue".

Bolt contest final fundraiser

OSGOODE — With only $340 needed to meet the target goal of $50,000, the building fund committee for the Osgoode Community Centre is sponsoring one final fund raising event.

Tickets are now available for the "Guess How Many Bolts It Took To Erect The New Building" contest. Half the money from ticket sales goes to the contest winner, and the other half goes to the building fund.

Over the last six months, $49,740 has been raised by the community as part of the total cost of replacing the arena.

Considering the population of the community, the Building Fund Committee had set a two year timetable to raise the money.

Thanks to generous personal and corporate donations, however, the money was raised in only six months.

The centre officially opened Sept. 19, and building committee chairman Don Service announced recently his appreciation to those who helped make the day a great success.

Among those singled out for special thanks were: the Osgoode Lions Club for the chicken barbecue, the Ladies Auxiliary Branch 589 of the Osgoode Legion for the free coffee, Roy Pitcher for the puppet show and model aircraft display, A.J.'s Garage for the helium for the balloons, the Osgoode Firefighters for the hot dogs and refreshments, the Osgoode Legion for the color party escort onto the ice for the opening ceremonies, and Dave Robb for the piping at the ceremony.

Police recover stolen trailer

GREELY — A phone call from an alert resident last Wednesday led to police recovering a stolen tractor trailer valued at over $50,000.

Manotick OPP were contacted and advised by the resident that a highway tractor trailer unit was parked behind the Greely Community Centre.

Officers were dispatched and found two males hiding in the trailer. It was later determined that the vehicle had been stolen in Ottawa earlier that day.

Charged with possession of stolen property are Shaun Shannon, 24, of McLaren St. in Ottawa, and Denis Robitaille, 21, of Walkley Road in Ottawa.

Ottawa police will be laying additional charges.

Musicians back on stage with country music club

CHESTERVILLE — At the back of the Chesterville Legion, two bartenders with arms crossed, lean across the bar counter straining to catch a glimpse of the eight musicians on stage.

They were just as curious as 100 country music fans who paid $3 a head to hear whoever showed up to play whatever instument they showed up with.

Called the New Country Music Club, Friday night's premier performance featured more than 20 musicians who played everything from spoons and fiddles to the accordian and electric steel.

As the first set ended and a new troupe of amateur musicians took the stage, the two bartenders shrugged their shoulders.

"Look at that," said Russ Sirvage. "They're giving them all a chance to play."

Bob McLaughlin shook his head. "They're here to play music, all right."

The New Country Music Club is the brainchild of Winchester's Brian Allison. He started the club as a way of getting older musicians back on stage while entertaining an older generation of country music lovers.

Chesterville's Hubert Casselman, who turns 70 in February, was disappointed it wasn't a larger turn out but was surprised the musicians were so good.

These dances will give "senior citizens some exercise," he said. The band started playing 'Maryanne' and Hubert Casselman and his wife Alice were off. "Better get up and dance for the good ones."

The youngest musician at Friday's show was 12-year-old Troy Cross of Chesterville. Troy practices the piano with his grandmother, Helen Cross, also a participant in the country music night. Troy said he'll be back for the next dance only "if my grandmother comes."

Finch's Bill MacLean, one of several lead singers on the evening, said he hopes the club catches on.

"Everyone's having a whale of a time."

Similar clubs currently exist in Metcalfe, Osgoode and Russell and at Friday's show musicians turned out from Ottawa, Smiths Falls and Cornwall to help kick off the evening.

Organizers plan on holding the New Country Music Club every two months and charging an annual membership fee of $35 per couple.

Proceeds from Friday's dance will go to charity.

Community spirit is primary, says Bouwers

by John McBrearty
Press Staff Reporter

METCALFE — Albert Bouwers has been involved in politics long enough to know that it's a game of give and take, but there are some issues on which he simply won't compromise.

Like, for instance, getting the job done.

"We work as a team here in Osgoode," he said. "I don't think I would ever consider entering federal or provincial politics for the simple reason that there isn't that sense of teamwork."

Bouwers, currently in his fifth term as mayor, believes that differences in political stripe should take a back seat to the concerns of the electorate.

"All this Liberal versus Conservative versus New Democratic makes me sick," he said. "Where is the sense of co-operation?"

If Bouwers feels strongly on the matter, it all goes back to his original motivation to enter politics 12 years ago.

"I thought I owed the community something," he said. "I'd raised three kids in Osgoode and felt it was time to put something back." In many respects, Bouwers said he got a lot more than he bargained for when he entered the political arena.

"Serving the people is rewarding," he said, "but incredibly time consuming."

It's impossible, he said, to do everything that is expected of you all the time. "There is so much night work," he said, "I've had to give up active membership in the Lions Club and the Township Choir, as well as get used to spending less time with my family."

Despite the demands of the job, Bouwers is not a man to complain too much.

On the contrary, his affinity for politics shines through in conversation, especially when discussing issues which relate to Osgoode Township. Whether in dealings with the regional or provincial government, Bouwers said he does his best to insure that Osgoode gets "its share of the pie."

With respect to regional government, Bouwers said he is aware of public sentiment that the region does not do enough for the people in the area.

While it's true, he said, that 95 per cent of matters dealt with by regional council do not concern Osgoode specifically, the region does provide valuable service.

"The most visible service provided by the region is in the area of roads," he said, "but other services such as welfare and social support programs are provided as well."

Bouwers, who in addition to sitting on regional council is the provincial director of the Association of Municipalities of Ontario (AMO), said he wants to ensure that Osgoode continues to be fairly represented on regional council.

"We as a township of 12,000 have one representative on regional council," he said, and when compared to the wards of the city of Ottawa with one representation per 20,000 it may seem as if there is an imbalance.

Not the case, though, says Bouwers.

"Osgoode has eight libraries, four fire halls, four libraries and many community centres. We work every bit as hard as areas with larger populations."

Bouwers said dissatisfaction with regional council may stem from the fact that it is so large.

"Services such as water and sewage systems, which are important to Nepean and Gloucester, are not really needed in Osgoode." Legally, he said, Osgoode residents are not taxed for these services but is difficult to tell whether these costs are appropriated by the region in its overhead.

As to the method of electing a regional chairman, Bouwers said he is afraid of a general election turning into a kind of popularity contest which would not be in the best interest of the region.

"The head of regional council," he said, "should be the head of a municipality, and all councillors should be elected at large.

At present 32 people sit on regional council. Eleven are mayors, and the balance are elected.

In a brief sent recently to the Regional Planning Committee the township of Osgoode made recommendations in the area of farm severances, a subject with which Bouwers is well aquainted.

While acknowledging that the region's concerns about strip development along main roads is valid, Bouwers said "bonafide farmers should be allowed severances."

The regional plan must be fair, he said, as there are pockets of land which are of no use agriculturally which should be alloted for severances.

Bouwers said he shares the region's concern that the selling of farm lots to urban families may cause disruptions in the rural atmosphere of the area. Farmers, he said, should be protected from complaints from new dwellers about farm noise and odours.

Generally, said Bouwers, there is a trend in Osgoode towards a decline in rural population, with new people coming in and settling in their place.

"The new residents are great," he said. "They create new enthusiasm, and provide many volunteers."

Bouwers is of the opinion that people will continue to be drawn to Osgoode if another related problem is addressed.

"Seniors' housing," he said, "serves two purpose. It helps seniors to get away from hard to manage larger houses, and it frees these homes up for younger people moving into the area."

"Seniors' housing," he said, "serves two purposes. It helps seniors to get away from hard to manage larger houses, and it frees these homes up for younger people moving into the area." Currently, Osgoode has about 85 units of senior housing, and Bouwers said the township could easily use another 35 units.

"We will continue to press for these units at the regional level," he said.

A project on the immediate horizon, he said, is to obtain funding for development of the Dozois road on the west side of the township. Expansion of the road would increase access to Osgoode from the city of Ottawa.

Bouwers said a plan is also being considered to turn the river road into a parkway, to hook up with Limebank road and open up the township even more.

"There's been a fair amount of expansion in Osgoode," he said, "but I don't like to see it go too far. We must try to retain the rural character of the area."

The growth in Osgoode, he said, has been of an even nature, as compared to Rideau Township which "has growth in Manotick and little elsewhere."

Though obtaining government for road projects is difficult, Bouwers said Osgoode is holding its own in this area.

"In 1975 we received $150,000 from the government, whereas this year we received over one million." he said.

As to whether Bouwers will run again for mayor, he says he "really doesn't know."

"The workload sure isn't getting any easier," he says.

In his experience over the last twelve years, Bouwers said he has learned the ins and outs of the political process.

"You have to work through the system, and build on your connection, and most of all be tenacious," he said.

Bouwers said he is particularly proud of his efforts in obtaining $4 million from the province for a drain project in South Castor.

"Some farmers got as much as $20,000 in hardship payments," he said. "I'm proud of that."

Bouwers said he is in full agreement with the recent study which recommended that municipal politicians be given a pay hike.

"To serve the people is genuinely rewarding," he said, "but for the time involved municipal politicians really do not get paid enough. You have to pay to attract quality people."

On the subject of his being acclaimed as mayor four times in the last 10 years, Bouwers claims to have mixed emotions.

"In one way it's a compliment," he said with a smile, "but in another it sounds like nobody else wants the job."

Bouwers is a firm believer in the notion that politicians must be assertive and not afraid to take a stand.

"You can't run government by polls," he said. "You have to make decisions, bite the bullet."

"If I had to operate for the sake of getting a vote, I wouldn't be doing this," he said.

There is no point in fretting about what may happen in upcoming elections, he said. "I can't work like that."

If there is anything to be said about Bouwers approach to politics, it must be that it works. One doesn't get to serve five consecutive terms as mayor without doing a lot of things right.

While he won't commit to running for a sixth term as mayor, it is obvious from Bouwers enthusiasm that he is as comfortable as ever in the mainstream of local and regional politics.

Betty M. Baker

Betty M. Baker died at the Victoria Hospital, London, Ontario on Nov. 19, after a short illness. She was 42.

The daughter of Olive Brown and the late Ray S. Brown of Williamsburg, Mrs. Baker attended North Dundas District High School and received her R.N. at the Civic Hospital in Ottawa. She was on the staff of Dr. Ganz and the South Huron Hospital in Exeter, Ontario.

She is survived by her husband, Kenneth C. Baker, and her sons, Anthony and Lee, and by her four sisters and their husbands, Eldon and Shirley Bailey of Prescott, John and Eleanor Patterson of Carleton Place, Ross and June Waddell of Vernon, and Bernie and Donna Hopback of Ottawa. She is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held at Hopper-Hockey Chapel in Exeter on Nov. 22 at 2pm. Rev. Richard Hawley officiated.

Committee suggests separate school

OTTAWA — A separate high school by the fall of 1988 and the formation of two new school boards by the new year in 1989 were the primary requests made by a Prescott-Russell school board study committee.

First on the list of recommendations is a request for extended funding to separate high schools, said Maurice Proulx, the liaison between the ministry of education and the study committee. As early as the beginning of the next school year, there may be a French language separate school in Prescott-Russell.

Proulx says if this comes about, there will be an "en bloc" transfer of students, programs and buildings to the separate board. Three French language schools in Rockland, Embrun and Casselman are under consideration.

The study also considered the existence of mixed secondary schools, both English and French, within the board. Three schools are being considered including Vankleek Hill, Plantagenet and Hawkesbury.

If this recommendation is carried out, one school would become entirely French, and another would become entirely English. Proulx says the committee recommended the Vankleek Hill and Hawkesbury schools because of their proximity to English and French-speaking populations. If this happens, he says the committee wants the Vankleek Hill school to upgrade its facilities to accommodate vocational classes so both linguistic groups will have schools with similar facilities.

The Plantagenet school is now what is referred to as a "two-entity" school. Within the same school, there are two schools with separate administrations, although students may take courses in both French and English if they choose.

Proulx says these changes will require an overhaul of the school boards. Presently there are two school boards in Prescott-Russell, a separate and a public. If the recommendations are carried out, there will be four school boards, French public, French separate, and English public and English separate.

Under Bill 75, linguistic minorities are designated a greater degree of autonomy. Proulx says that, on many levels, there already are four different boards in the riding.

The reommendations call for the new boards to begin operations in January 1989, with November 1988 elections for board members.

The study, based on a series of public hearings in February and March of this year, took into consideration the suggestions of about 75 individuals and groups, as well as about 60 written briefs. The three-man committee came up with 74 recommendations to be presented to education minister Chris Ward, said Proulx.

Parents' group organizes monthly dances for teens

WINCHESTER — The co-founder of a group of area parents trying to keep young teenagers out of trouble by giving them something to do says village response to the project has been "excellent".

Donna Proulx said she has received encouragement from both parents and teenagers for organizing a Nov. 13 teen dance that attracted 150 people.

The dance, the first of a planned series of social outings that could be held as often as twice a month (the next dance is Dec. 4), was open only to teenagers between the ages of 13 and 17.

Proulx, who ran a similar project successfully in Embrun three years ago, said the sight of "kids hanging out on street corners" prompted her to get involved in Winchester.

"Unless they're into sports, there is nothing for kids between 13 and 17," said the Winchester mother of two teens. "We just thought that teenagers needed something."

Proulx met Nancy Jendron, who shared her concerns, and the two organized a parents group to get the project off the ground.

The group's work, which included coming up with about $275 to stage the first dance, has since been endorsed by Winchester council and the OPP.

Particularly popular with parents is the group's strict guidelines. No one is allowed to leave the dance and return after paying a $3 admission and alchohol is absolutely forbidden.

Two teenagers are also enlisted to help the parents chaperone.

"In a way we're babysitting the kids for the evening," said Proulx, "and the parents like that. But we also want to make sure the kids have a good time."

Despite relying heavily on word of mouth at local schools, the group's first dance attracted 150 teenagers, 50 more than they expected.

If future dances are as popular, Proulx said the group would like to expand the activities to include outings to Ottawa.

Although she admits "the music can get to you after awhile", Proulx said none of the group's six members have any complaints about being stuck in a roomful of teenagers for an evening.

"Rather than have them stuck on corners we'd gladly give up a Friday night," she said.

Hallville UCW raises $2,000

Jean Milne, head of the Hallville UCW fundraising committee, thanks CJOH weatherman J.J. Clarke for officially opening the annual Christmas bazaar held in Mountain on Saturday. Organizers say about $2,000 was raised for charities including Winchester's Naomi House, a partner child in the Sudan, the United Church's Mission and Service outreach.

Another Lions bike winner

Again this year Metcalfe and District Lions Club donated a spanking new bicycle to the elementary school pupil holding the lucky ticket. Every girl and boy, attending local public and separate schools received free passes to the fair on Friday and this year's winner was Dallas Barnes, a Metcalfe Public School pupil. In accompanying photo Metcalfe Fair president Harold Cowan, who is also Lions bike committee chairman, makes the official presentation.

Keepsakes have story

by Jean Casselman

WILLIAMSBURG — Nine members attended the WI meeting Nov. 20, chaired by Mrs. Clair Algire and assisted by acting secretary Mrs. Parker Locke.

Members answered the roll call by showing a keepsake and telling about it. Many interesting articles were shown and the stories told were most enjoyable.

The motto was, "Do not resent growing old, many of us are denied the privilege." This related to a tribute that was paid to those who lost their lives in World War I and II.

A report on the Area Convention, recently held in Ottawa, was given by Mrs. Ralph Casselman.

Program convener for "Heritage and Tradition" Mrs. Ralph Casselman gave a reading entitled "The Quilting Bee", followed by a film presentation, "Patterns of Love", assisted by Mrs. Roger Gilmour. Following the film, Mrs. Parker Locke read a poem entitled, "The Old Things". Lunch was served by Mrs. Wilbur Garlough and her committee.

Site 10 opposition grows

OTTAWA — Residents of Russell Township appeared before the Regional Waste Plan Task Force last Thursday to voice their objections to a planned landfill-incinerator site in the Edwards area.

In a brief presented by Joseph Wallach of the Russell Community Association, the task force was accused of moving too quickly in establishing a short list of preferred sites.

The brief called for "geologic, geophysical, geochemical, and engineering tests ... to rigorously evaluate the capability of site 10 to accommodate both disposed waste and an incinerator."

The brief concluded that insufficient work has been undertaken by the task force for any pronouncements to be made on the suitability of site 10 as a municipal waste disposal facility.

At present, site 10, located on a block of land hemmed in by Boundary Road and Hwy. 417, is listed as one of two preferred locations by the task force. The other, site 19, is in the Cumberland area.

Roland DeMers, Chairman of the Citizens Group - Site Ten which is composed of over 1,100 residents of Russell and surrounding townships, submitted a brief which recommended that "under no circumstances should an incinerator be built and operated for disposal of waste."

The first priority of the region, said the Citizens Group, is to insure that waste be handled in a manner which would create least possible harm to human health.

The operation of an incinerator, said the group, is an extremely excessive risk and not worth whatever benefits might be derived.

Private citizens appeared before the task force as well, to complain about possible traffic congestion, soil structure damage, and water pollution from the landfill site.

The hearings were held last Thursday and Friday to give the public a last chance for input before a final recommendation is made in February.

The waste master plan looks ahead 25 years, and should the Edwards site be selected, it may expand to as much as 1,400 acres within that period.

Aeros blast Hawks

Scott Martin unbelievable in Athens' net

WINCHESTER — The memory of Friday night's exciting 7-5 victory over the Spencerville-Cardinal Combines here, slowly evaporated on the long drive home from Athens Sunday night.

The Winchester Hawks could not solve former Navan Grad goalie Scott Martin's style in that Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League game against the last-place (Rideau Division) Athens Aeros and lost 7-2 to split their weekend games and remain at the 500 level (five wins, five losses and a tie).

It was just the second victory in 11 games for the struggling Aeros and the 7-2 loss was compared to a 6-4 setback to the last place 73's in Kemptville on Nov. 8 by Hawks G.M. Ken McClatchie.

"We went to Kemptville, they (73's) were something like one and seven at the time, and lost. Sunday we went to Athens and lost to them (Aeros) and they were one and nine. I wonder if the guys are prepared for teams like those (last place)," the G.M. said.

Winchester coach Bill Murphy said his squad came out hard and fast in Athens Sunday but were stymied by their goalie (Scott Martin).

"The guys came into the room after the first period shaking their heads. They couldn't believe the stops he (Martin) made. In the second we took some bad penalties and they got ahead (4-2 after two)," Murphy said.

Although disappointed with the loss, the coach felt Winchester should have been in command after the first period. Athens, a disorganized team at best, he explained, got his Hawks playing their run-around style and it cost his club.

"If there was a positive note from that game, it was the first period. Not to worry, we will play two good games this weekend (both at home Friday against the Metcalfe Jets and Saturday against Morrisburg). It's still early (in the season) to panic over a loss, they are bound to happen," the coach said.

WIN FRIDAY

Here at home Friday, 250 fans watched the new Spencerville-Cardinal Combines shoot it out with the Hawks in a 7-5 contest.

Winchester took a 4-3 lead in the first period, neither team could score in the second, and the Hawks outgunned their visitors 3-2 in the final period to win by two, 7-5.

The Combines were trailing 7-3 but notched two late powerplay goals to make the score respectable.

Gord Shields was top Hawks shooter with two goals and one assist. Veteran Kirk Barkley continued his torrid pace, scoring two more, his 15th and 16th goals.

Newcomer Mario Halle scored once and drew an assist. Corey MacIntyre and Don Larocque each nailed a single goal.

Denis Verville, Scott Barnes, Dan Dubois, Mark Smith, Brad Holmes, Don Marcellus and Jeff Holmes all picked up assists.

Goalie Dave Monsour made his first start at home and made 34 stops for the win.

Hawks took 12 minor penalties to the Combines' eight.

Dave Lapier and Brent Murray each potted two Combine goals. Kevin Hart added a goal and two assists.

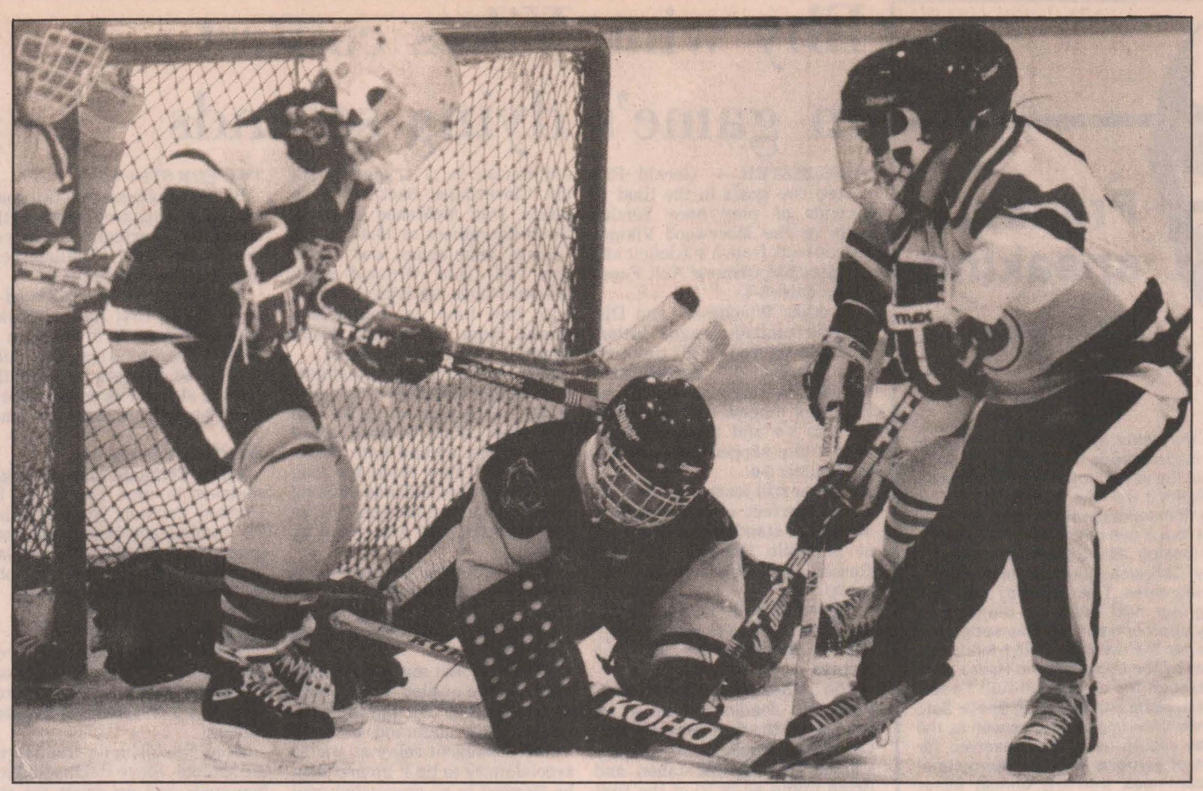
IN ATHENS

Hawks led 1-0 after the first period but trailed 4-2 after two. Aeros' Chris Tyo scored three unassisted goals in the third period to rout the Hawks (7-2).

Scott Barnes and Kirk Barkley each had a goal and one assist for the Hawks. Corey MacIntyre picked up an assist. Barry Kennedy suffered the loss in nets. Winchester took nine and Athens eight penalties. The Aeros drew a major cross-checking penalty as well as a misconduct and a game misconduct.

Winchester was without Dolton Henry (school), Mario Hall (working), Scott Gibson (injured) and Tim Ouderkirk (away) Sunday.

Friday, only J.D. Van Noy (school) and Scott Gibson (injured) were out of action.



Bearing up

Smiths Falls goaler Darrin Lewis had a devil of a time against the North Dundas Pee Wee A Demons here Monday night. He had to bear up under a lot of third period pressure as his Bears lost a 4-2 UCMHL decision to their hosts. Kevin Williams netted two of North Dundas' four goals. Press Photo—Van Bridger

Vandemheen keeps S.M. record at top

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — Marty Vandemheen's third goal of the game snapped a 7-7 tie and kept S.M. Electric's Mountain Township Floor Hockey League record best among the circuit's four teams.

Vandemheen's third goal of the game and 17th of the season came with just 34 seconds left on the clock and lifted the S.M. Electric crew to a slim 8-7 victory over the South Mountain W.I.

S.M. remained undefeated with three wins and two ties in five games. In Monday's other contest Mountain Township Fire Department Smokies and Lions Club battled to a 4-4 tie.

S.M. leads the league with eight points, Smokies have six, Lions five and W.I. one.

S.M. took a 3-2 first period lead on W.I. on goals by Vandemheen, Jeff Berube and Rebecca Comfort. Marguriette Lafaver and Hazel Booth replied for WI hitting at 7:32 and 8:53.

S.M. led 6-4 after two but Mike Patterson scored at 2:20, Billy Derraugh hit twice scoring at 2:42 and again with 18:08 gone to give WI a 7-7 tie but Marty Vandemheen finished his hat trick at 19:26 to snap the tie and give S.M. Electric an 8-7 win.

Marty Vandemheen led the winners with a three goal effort. Rebecca Scott and Jeff Berube scored two goals each and Jennifer Shields netted a single.

Billy Derraugh had three for WI. Kreg Raistrick, Mike Patterson, Marguriette Lafaver and Hazel Booth added a goal each.

FOUR GOAL TIE

Eric Patterson scored three times helping Smokies tie their game 4-4 with the Lions. His third of the contest came with 11:53 gone and proved to be the tying goal.

Dave Sullivan netted the other Smokie goal at 17:16 of the second period. Tracey McLeod and Daryl Stewart each earned an assist.

Kyle Marriner scored two of the Lions' four goals. Scott Beggs and Dave Lafaver scored the other two. The Beggs goal at 7:54 of the final frame had given his team a brief 4-3 lead.

Williamsburg Oldtimers host 20 teams

MORRISBURG — Twenty hockey teams played 37 games over parts of four days here as the Williamsburg Oldtimers Hockey team hosted its third annual hockey tournament.

Sunday's five final games presented fans with an over-40 years final, a 35-years and over overtime showdown, a 30-years and over playoff and two excellent fast-paced contests in the "Open" division.

Winchester's Hydro crew emerged with the Open "A" Division championship trophy and an individual award earned by Doug Wilson, who clicked for a pair of goals in his team's 7-2 win over Brockville.

The Hydro crew, dominated by 11 former Winchester Junior 'B' Hawks, battled the Boucks Hill Boulders to a 5-5 tie, dumped the Jiggers 4-2 and slammed the Morrisburg Chubbs 7-1 to qualify first from their "A" division.

Brockville took top spot in the "B" division with a 7-3 win over the Arctic Cats No. 1 team, and a 5-3 decision over the Flamingos. They did lose a 3-2 decision to Cardinal to finish two and one in the round robin.

Flamingos and Boucks Hill Boulders squared off in a lively "B" Open final, won 4-1 by the Flamingos.

Goalie Dave Black was voted MVP for his solid play in the Flamingos' cage. His team posted 4-2 scores over both Cardinal and Arctic Cats No. 1 but lost 5-3 to Brockville in round robin play.

The Boulders didn't lose in their section, blanking the Jiggers 2-0 and holding Hydro (5-5) and Chubbs (1-1) to ties.

OVER 40

In the over 40 division, the Dundas Flyers doubled the Chesterville Chops 4-2 to win that title. Flyers' Jim Powers was judged MVP while teammate Les McCalister was named top goalie.

Flyers won all three round robin games and outscored their opposition 22-4 while doing it. Chesterville lost 6-2 to the Flyers but knocked off both Iroquois-Massena and the Greely Wiser Guys to qualify for the final.

35 PLUS

Morrisburg Golden Knights went three and zero in the opening round, blanking Dunbar 7-0, Winchester Old Hawks 3-0 and downing Prescott 4-1 to reach the 35 and over final. They then nipped the Old Hawks 4-3 in double overtime to secure their award. Winchester's Bob Carkner was judged top goalie and Morrisburg's Jack Notman MVP.

Winchester lost 3-0 to Morrisburg, tied Dunbar 3-3 and defeated Prescott 5-2 to make the final game.

CATS WIN

Arctic Cats No. Two squad proved to be number one in the 30 and over final, doubling the Harvex Huslers 4-2 in that division's final game. Jim Tuttle was named MVP and goalie Dean Ault, top puck stopper. The team edged Harvex 4-3 Wednesday, lost 6-3 to the Matilda Devils and nipped Spencerville 2-1.

Harvex defeated Spencerville Hotel 4-3 and Matilda 2-1 after losing 4-3 to the Cats but lost (4-2) to them again in the championship match.

Members of the Williamsburg Oldtimers thanked sponsors Cruickshank Construction, Molson Breweries, Jiggers Restaurant, Rose's Tavern, SD&G Collision, Ault Foods, Morrisburg House of Carpets and Bauer, as well as all of the sports fans who took part in, and attended, their successful event.

Hawks in running for Dec. 26

WINCHESTER — Following five games, which count in the qualification for a berth in this year's Eastern Ontario Junior B Hockey League's Boxing Day Tournament, the Winchester Hawks have seven points and a chance to compete in the Dec. 26 event.

Winchester and Char-Lan Rebels are currently tied atop the St. Lawrence Division (tournament) standings with seven points each. The Hawks have earned points in their 9-9 tie with the Rebels, a victory over Morrisburg and two wins against Kemptville.

Winchester has a big home-and-home series with the Alexandria Glens on Dec. 5 and Dec. 11 and this Saturday's contest here at home against the high-flying, third place Morrisburg Lions left to play in their slate of qualifying tournament games.

Points in those three games could lift the Hawks into the Boxing Day competition.

Char-Lan with seven and Alexandria with six are also making strong bids to represent this Division on Boxing Day. Kemptville (3) and Morrisburg (2) trail the other three clubs.

In the Rideau Division, Prescott and Westport lead the pack with 10 points each and both have played seven qualifying games. Brockville with six, Gananoque and Cardinal-Spencerville with four each and Athens with two, complete the picture in that division.

Atom A Demons lose two tough contests

WINCHESTER — North Dundas' Atom 'A' Demons dropped a close 3-2 Upper Canada Minor Hockey League decision to the Brockville Braves here on Nov. 16.

They also lost a tough one goal, 3-2, exhibition decision to Nor-Stor-Glen here the day before (Nov. 15).

In Atom 'C' action North Dundas' two Demons squads met in an exhibition match on Nov. 12. The Demon No. One squad claimed the win in that one, coming out on top by a 5-2 count.

In an UCMHL contest on Nov. 19, the Atom 'C' Demons battled Kemptville to a 1-1 sawoff. Dennis Mayer netted the lone Demon goal on an unassisted play at 12:45 of the first period.

Clayton Bowman and Kris Young netted two goals each for the C1 Demons in their 5-2 victory over the C2 squad. Greg Stewart added a goal and two assists to the total. Chris Stewart (2), Mark VanDelst and Shawn Johnston all earned assists.

Kevin McConnell scored both C2 goals. Jamie Birtch, Jason Sloan and Clinton Berry earned the assists.

The winners led 3-1 after a period and 3-2 after two frames.

North Dundas' Atom 'A' Demons dropped 3-2 decisions to Brockville (UCMHL) and Nor-Stor-Glen (exhibition) recently.

A pair of late third-period goals cost the Demons a 2-1 win over Brockville. They were up 2-1 after two periods but faded in the final frame. Jason Desormeaux and Barry Bell notched the North Dundas goals. Matthew Cotton and Geoff Hardy each earned an assist. Seamis Gordon and Clint Hedge shared North Dundas' goaltending duties.

Barry Bell and Clint Holmes scored the goals in the 3-2 loss to Nor-Stor-Glen. Matthew Robinson picked up one assist. The game was even at a goal after one period and still tied 2-2 after two. The winning marker came with just 59 seconds left on the clock.

Gamble remains in Russell

Winning the Gamble Mixed Bonspeil really isn't much of a gamble for Russell rinks. Since 1981-82 that club has secured the trophy five times including this year. Ron Furuness edged clubmate Laurie Duguay 8-7 in an extra end to win it on Saturday in Metcalfe. Morrisburg's Bob Beddingfield nipped Winchester's Dave Levere 9-8 in the consolation final. All star Devil

Rombough named All-Star

CORNWALL — Russell's Rose Rombough, a second year senior with the North Dundas District High School senior girls' basketball team, has been named to this year's edition of the SD&G All-Star team.

The Devil's top shooter piled up 112 points in eight games this season and was the second highest scorer in SD&G senior, averaging 14 points per game.

Only CCVS's Shannon Bergeron hit for more, averaging 16.4 points an outing. Judy Baker was third with a 12.4 point average. Rombough is described by her coach Jerry Jean as the best athlete in the league.

"She has got to be the best athlete in the league. She's the best ball handler, not a great outside shooter, but hits over 50 because she is so strong driving to the boards," explained coach Jean.

Her coach also noted that teams can't trap her because she is so strong moving the ball and can dribble with both hands.

Rombough was selected as forward to the 1987 SD&G "AA" senior team in a poll of the league's five coaches, run by the Cornwall Standard Freeholder, last week. She received four of a possible five first place votes earning the all-star selection.

Although St. Lawrence Saints' six foot centre, Line Roy, was named senior MVP, Rombough and fellow all-star Laurie McLean of CCVS also received MVP votes.

One of the other voting coaches said, "Rombough was unstoppable when she was on her game this season. She can do it all from bringing the ball up the court, to driving, to rebounding, to scoring."

Joining Rombough on the '87 dream team are Line Roy at centre and Marilyn Grant of St. Lawrence on the other wing.

Laurie McLean of CCVS and St. Lawrence's Judy McLean are the starting guards.

'AA' champs oust Devils

CORNWALL — Losing to the three time SD&G "AA" senior girl champion CCVS Golden Raiders was no disgrace for the North Dundas Senior Devils.

The powerful defending champs ousted North Dundas 58-33 in a sudden death semi-final here on Nov. 18.

The fourth ranked Devils (three wins and five losses) and the number two ranked St. Lawrence Saints were eliminated in last week's semi-final round. The third ranked La Citadelle Patriotes had their Cinderella season ended here at CCVS Friday night when the Golden Raiders dumped them 59-33 to capture their third consecutive "AA" senior title.

NDDHS' all-star forward Rose Rombough did all she could against CCVS in Wednesday's semi-final match, scoring a game high 23 points. But her mates Tracie McVey (4), Shannon O'Reilley (4) and Linda Hamelin (2) couldn't crack the Raider's stout defence for enough points.

"Our girls deserve a lot of credit. They played with heart and played well," explained Devils' coach Jerry Jean.

"We said before the game that we were going to give them (Raiders) a run for their money and I think we did."

The coach said it was close at the half (31-20) but CCVS' vast experience took over in the second half.

Jean also praised CCVS coach Chuck Stewart for his tireless work in the sport and acknowledged him as the top coach in the area.

Stewart also said he thought North Dundas came out wanting to win but his team rebounded well and controlled the boards, and prevailed.

In a junior "AA" semi-final game the same day at CCVS, Stacey Berry hooped five points in North Dundas' 41-15 loss to the host CCVS Raiders.

Undefeated Tweens double Nepean

METCALFE — Jodi Mulligan scored three of Metcalfe's four goals here last Wednesday, leading her Tween team to an exciting 4-2 Ottawa Carleton Ringette League victory over Nepean II.

Metcalfe's 4-2 decision kept them on top of their division and undefeated in six games. The division leaders now have outscored their opposition 41-13 in those six starts and enjoy a two point lead over the West Carleton-Kanata entry who boasts a five and zero mark.

Nepean used a stout defence and strong goaltending to open up a 2-0 lead on Metcalfe, but couldn't hold off the home team who roared back to knot the score at two before the first period was over.

Heather Myers cut into the Nepean lead when she made it 2-1, scoring at 2:21. Jodi Mulligan then tied it up, scoring the first of her three goals at the 32 second mark.

Mulligan broke up the 2-2 tie scoring in the second frame with 4:40 left on the clock. She then pumped in an insurance goal with just two seconds left in the game to give Metcalfe a 4-2 victory.

Krista Benson and Leanne Reaney each earned a pair of assists for the winners. Michelle Savoie, Kim MacDonald and Amanda Fader picked up the others. Stephanie Smyth posted the victory working Metcalfe's nets.

This Friday (Nov. 27) the Tweens will tangle with Nepean I at the Bell Arena at 8pm.

PETITE B ACTION

Metcalfe's Petite B squad wasn't as successful in their weekly Gloucester League encounter, losing 13-5 to Orleans here on Saturday.

Division leading Orleans, still undefeated, opened up an early 2-0 lead and sailed on to their big 13-5 decision thanks to a four-goal effort by Bennett and a three-goal game by C. Ascah.

Five shooters figured in Metcalfe's goal scoring. Carrie Mondoux, Kim Ellerton, Kandie Perron, Amanada Lauder and Janice Isaac all notched a goal.

Amy Dalgleish, Lindsay Kelly, Kandie Perron and Janice Isaac drew the assists. Karri Strom suffered through the bombardment on the Metcalfe net.

The Petites will get the opportunity to put another win on their record on Dec. 6 (Sunday) when they will travel to the Clarence Creek Arena to challenge the home team in a noon game.

Thompson scores three for Novices

ROCKCLIFFE — Angela Thompson scored three goals here Saturday to lead Metcalfe to a 10-5 Gloucester Novice Ringette League victory over Leitrim.

The win improved Metcalfe's second place record to four wins and a loss. Their eight points are second only to Ottawa's 10.

Metcalfe led the contest 3-0 after just four minutes of play as Kim Nesbitt scored on her team's possession. Leitrim did manage to reply with a pair of late goals but it was still 3-2, Metcalfe, at the half.

Angela Thompson scored the first of her three goals at the 11 minute mark of the second period. And within a three minute span Metcalfe had slammed in four more for an 8-2 lead.

It took just a minute for Leitrim to score three times and close the gap to 8-5 but Metcalfe regained their touch and drove in two more in the final four minutes of play to seal a 10-5 decision.

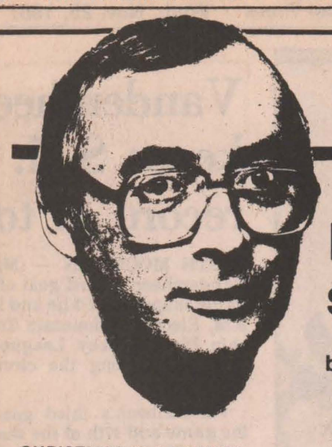
Angela Thompson led the shooters with three goals. Sheri Brind'Amour, Kim Nesbitt and Melissa Lauder all bagged two goals apiece. Chelsea Miller added a single.

Thompson also helped out on two goals for a five point total. Sophie Nizman, Amy Nesbitt, Chelsea Miller and Melissa Lauder all earned an assist. Mandy Archer was the winning goalie.

This Saturday (Nov. 28) Metcalfe will travel to the Orleans Arena to play Orleans in a 6pm start.

Metcalfe's Belle B squad dropped a pair of Gloucester League encounters last week losing 8-3 to Almonte in Almonte on Tuesday and 7-4 to the same team Sunday in Metcalfe.

Score sheets from these games were not available. The Belles' next home game will be played at the Metcalfe arena on Wed., Dec. 2 against Rockcliffe.



Frankly speaking

by Frank Morgan

CHRISTMAS IS A COMING

It is quite evident with all of the lights appearing in downtown store windows that Christmas is just around the corner. Last week a giant evergreen was placed on the vacant lot at the corner and it will soon glow with the many lights it will take to decorate the big beauty. It is my understanding that some fundraising scheme will be initiated to recover the cost, but it will be money well spent to see the corner area again nice looking. At the arena we anticipate a busy few weeks with many Christmas parties planned. You might take note of the following dates. This Saturday we begin with the Winchester Cheese group, next week it is the hospital staff party. On Dec. 6 a Sunday afternoon party will be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce for the merchants and members. Sat., Dec. 12 is the date chosen by the Local Ontario Hydro boys and girls, then on Sunday afternoon the children of Ault Foods' employees gather for their annual skate and visit from Santa. Sat., Dec. 19 Ault Foods will hold their Christmas party. As well as the Christmas parties, three Friday nights have been reserved for dances. There are also 12 days of aerobics and four agricultural meetings. The busy month continues with the annual Minor Hockey tournament between Christmas and New Year's. Our centennial celebrations kick off with a midnight fireworks display and opening ceremonies planned for the south park area. Remember our Santa Claus parade next Sat., Dec. 5. There are only 24 more shopping days until Christmas.

HAWKS PLAY HOME DOUBLEHEADER THIS FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Bring in two old rivals on the same weekend and it's for sure that you will see some exciting Junior hockey. On Friday night the Metcalfe Jets make their only appearance on Winchester ice and that should renew old rivalries and an all out effort. On Saturday night the Morrisburg Lions come to town and that too should cause some excitement. Over the weekend Hawks continued their break-even habit by winning Friday night's game against Spencerville-Cardinal, then dropping the Sunday encounter against Athens. Maybe it was the long trip or just the end of another big weekend, but the boys were never in it on Sunday. With two big ones and both home games, maybe this will be the weekend to break the habit and pick up four big points.

WINCHESTER CHEESE PARTY THIS SATURDAY

As stated above, the boys and girls from Winchester Cheese will kick off the festive season this Saturday night with the first of our many Christmas parties. Staff members and their guests will gather for a pre-dinner beverage followed by a delicious buffet and an evening of dancing. Should be fun.

No Saturday night public skating this week because of Hawks-Morrisburg game.

Eby wins Vikes contest in game's dying seconds

WINCHESTER — Gerald Eby scored two goals in the final 50 seconds of play here Sunday night as the Morewood Vikings roared back from a 4-3 deficit and defeated the Ormond Ault Foods Cloverdales 5-4.

In other Winchester and District Broomball League action, shutouts figured in all three results. Toyes Hill Roadrunners blanked Newington 3-0, Dunbar Panthers nipped Prescott Road Knights 2-0 and Russell's Magnum Force sapped the Winchester Raiders 5-0.

Dunbar still leads the "A" Pool with a perfect nine-win record. Morewood stands two points back at 16 while Ormond (11) and Russell (10) round out the "A" group.

Sloan drilled in his second goal of the game and ninth of the year at 22:10 on a play set up for him by Linton, to put Ormond up 3-2 early in the second half. Morewood won't stay down for long and it was Noel Lalonde clicking on a play started for him by Dan McMahon at 14:10 who tied it up at 3-3.

Bill Robinson completed a three-way play engineered by Sloan and Keith Young at the 11:40 mark to give Ormond a 4-3 edge.

Once he was over the opening period jitters, Hawks' goalie Roger Kargus was unbeatable but his team managed just three goals of their own in a 5-3 loss.

Wes Kinkade (2), Larry Shields and Carson McVey drew assists for the winners. Mike Preston was the winning goaler.

Willis Stevens fired in two goals for the Hawks. Bruce Carson netted the other while Steve Porteous, John Melenhorst, Dan Morris, Wayne Howison and Mike Miller each collected an assist.

The night before in Metcalfe, the home town Mustangs nipped North Dundas 4-3 as Cory Bekkers led the home team with two goals and one assist. The game was even (1-1) after a period but the Mustangs were up 2-1 after two periods.

Cats double Huslers in final

MORRISBURG — Led by MVP Jim Tuttle and most valuable goalie Dean Ault, the Arctic Cats skated to a 4-2 victory over the Harvex Huslers in the 30 and over division championship game here Sunday.

Arctic Cats defeated Harvex twice in divisional play to become the 30 and over division champions in the third annual Williamsburg Oldtimers Hockey Club's hockey tournament.

Harvex dropped their Wednesday night opener to the Arctic Cats by a 4-3 count. The Cats erased a 2-0 deficit and came back to win it when Ray Cinnamon pushed in their third goal and Brent Theede notched the winner. Don Marcellus, Phil Lyall and Bill Mullin recorded the Husler goals.

Saturday the Huslers evened their record at one and one, posting a 4-3 win over the Spencerville Hotel Blues. Spencerville took a 1-0 lead but Bill Mullin popped in two quick goals to put Harvex up 2-1. Tom Kirkwood and Phil Lyall added a goal each to make it 4-2. Spencerville scored in the final minute with their goalie on the bench, to make it a 4-3 final.

Sunday at noon the Huslers got goals from Bob Peddle and Brian Halpenny in a tight-checking 2-1 win over Matilda Devils.

Their two and one record matched that of the Arctic Cats and put them into the division championship.

Three quick goals erased a 1-0 Harvex lead and powered the Cats on to their 4-2 victory. Brian Halpenny and Phil Lyall scored for the Huslers.

In their regularly scheduled Sunday morning contest, the Huslers split their team with a short-staffed Barrhaven squad and wound up losing an 8-5 exhibition decision. Jim Shaw and Bob Peddle each scored twice for the Huslers. Zeke Sanders netted the other. Gary Lapier, Brian Halpenny and Butch Oldford all scored for Barrhaven.

Bantam Warriors edge Ogdensburg

RUSSELL — Russell's Bantam C Warriors cruised through two periods of their Upper Canada Minor Hockey League game against Ogdensburg with a 4-0 lead, but had to hold on for a 4-3 victory.

The New Yorkers fired in three unanswered goals in the final period to make a game of it. Harkin started it off with a short-handed goal at 7:55. Williams made it 4-2 at 3:34 and Carter narrowed the gap to 4-3, scoring a powerplay goal with 33 seconds left on the clock.

Derek Smith was able to shut the door at that point and hold on for the one-goal victory.

Shawn Savoie opened the game for the Warriors when he scored on a powerplay set up for him by Darin Lampman and Stephane Robinson at the 58 second mark.

Savoie clicked again at 14:06 of the second period for a two-goal margin.

Stephane Robinson scored Russell's second unassisted goal of the period with 35 seconds left to make it a 3-0 game.

Savoie's third goal of the game and second unassisted marker of the period, pushed Russell into a 4-0 lead with 20 seconds left in the frame.

EXHIBITION LOSS

Russell dropped an exhibition game by a 2-0 count to West Carleton, Saturday in Carp. Sharpshooter Stephane Robinson came closest to scoring for the Warriors when he drilled a breakaway shot off the goal post in the first period. But West Carleton's goalkeeper managed to hold the fort until Matthew Fredrick netted the winner at 13:00 of the second period. Robin McMillan then made it a 2-0 game when he scored on a powerplay at 9:08 of the third period.

This week (Tues., Nov. 24) the Warriors were hosting the North Dundas in their regular league game while Morrisburg Lions will provide the next UCMHL opposition for Russell.

Helmer, Adams lead Demons to 2

WINCHESTER — Dan Adams and Bryan Helmer took turns scoring hat tricks for the North Dundas Bantam 'A' Demons in their last two Upper Canada Minor Hockey League games.

Sunday in Ogdensburg, New York, Dan Adams fired in three of the Demons' four goals as North Dundas doubled their hosts 4-2.

Here Monday night Helmer took over, scored three times and assisted on a fourth goal, as North Dundas whitewashed the New Yorkers 5-0.

The double victories improved the Demons' UCMHL record to four wins, a loss and a tie.

Here Monday, goalie Craig Lyon posted his second shutout in six games as the short-staffed Demons blasted Ogdensburg 5-0.

North Dundas had just nine skaters available but still got the job done. Defenceman Chris Van Bridger netted the winning goal when he scored from Bryan Helmer and Derrick Brannan at 9:23 of the first period.

Dan Adams' unassisted goal at 7:54 of period two made it a 2-0 game.

Bryan Helmer then cut loose for three third-period goals as the Demons screamed on to a 5-0 win. Helmer made it 3-0, scoring from Willy O'Connor and Jason Thompson at 7:34. He then scored unassisted at 2:05 and finished it off, hitting from Chris Van Bridger and Dan Adams with 56 seconds left in the game, to make it 5-0.

Dan Adams, a major Pee Wee-aged player, was the big gunner in New York Sunday scoring three times. He also assisted, along with Dave Harper, on Jason Thompson's first-period goal.

Harper also set up an Adams goal at 11:09 of the first period.

Adams notched his second goal from Thompson at 10:31 of the second and scored again at 8:37 of the third period.

FIVE FOR FITZ

Barry "Fitz" Casselman scored twice and drew three assists for the CountryBoy Blazers as they hammered the Country Kitchen Canadiens 8-3.

Zeke Sanders had a goal and two helpers for the Blazers while Peter Marriner and Doug Duncan both added a goal and one assist. Gary Lapier and Terry Richardson each scored a goal. Don Fawcett (2), Marty Little and Bruce Cowell earned assists.

Kevin Baldwin gave up a first period goal to Ken Quaile and second period markers to Butch Oldford and Glen Simms but blanked the Canadiens in the final frame.

Peter Filion drew two and Geoff Summers one assist for the one (win) and six (losses) Canadiens.

Bantams edge Mustangs 2-1

CHESTERVILLE — First period goals by Brad Cotnam and Richie Sarault held up for North Dundas as the Bantam C squad edged the Metcalfe Mustangs 2-1 here in an Upper Canada Minor Hockey League contest last week.

Cotnam clicked from Jason McIntosh and Kevin Droppo at 12:03 of the first period for a 1-0 Demon lead. Richie Sarault then converted a pass from Cotnam into a 2-0 lead at 10:37.

Metcalfe ruined Brad Pringle's shutout when Wayne Langeland connected on a pass from Dustin Brodribb with 1:46 left in the first frame.

Neither squad could muster any more offence as the score remained 2-1 in Sports Unlimited favor over the final two periods.

TWO EXHIBITION LOSSES

Later in the week the Sports Unlimited-sponsored Demons dropped a pair of exhibition decisions to the Leitrim Hawks.

Wednesday North Dundas lost 2-1 to the host Hawks at the Barett Arena and then were hammered 7-0 by the same squad here on Thursday.

Brad Robinson scored the lone Demon goal from Kent Young and Richie Sarault with 1:36 left in the final period of the first game.

Bowman goal breaks tie

CHESTERVILLE — Lance Bowman's goal with 8:59 left in the third period of an Upper Canada Minor Hockey League Senior Novice game here last week handed North Dundas Demons a 5-4 win over Kemptville.

Bowman scored the winner on a play started by Warren Holmes with just 8:59 left in the game. Kemptville had tied it up 4-4 at the 10:15 mark of the same frame only to have Bowman's shot decide the issue in North Dundas' favor.

The contest was deadlocked 2-2 after a period and North Dundas led 4-3 after two stanzas.

Bowman, Warren Holmes and Ryan Filion all collected a goal and one assist for the winners. Stephen Henderson and Derik Gates each popped in a goal.

Curtis Smith and Mike Francis each picked up an assist. Terry Wagner was the winning goaler.

Bantam Demons still undefeated

KEMPTVILLE — North Dundas Minor Hockey Association's Bantam C Demons remain undefeated in Upper Canada Minor Hockey league play following Saturday's 2-0 victory over the Royals here in Kemptville.

Brad Pringle kicked out all the shots Kemptville could fire at him for the victory.

Kent Young scored what would prove to be the winning goal when he scored from Richie Sarault and Jason McIntosh.

Jeff Miltimore pumped a Scott Curran relay into an empty net with 40 seconds left in the game to make it a 2-0 final.

Demons' coach Junior Helmer says his team has been playing extremely well in league action but was expecting a real stiff test when they challenged the Warriors in Russell this week.

Knights nip Old Hawks in overtime

MORRISBURG — Morrisburg Golden Knights, on a goal by Roger Morrell, nipped the Winchester Old Hawks 4-3 in double overtime here Sunday to win the 35 and over division of the third annual Williamsburg Oldtimers Hockey Tournament.

Harry Castle, George Bloom and Gary Hoy had scored Winchester's goals to force O.T. Goalie Bob Carkner was named MVP for his solid play.

Winchester had lost 3-0 to Morrisburg in their first game last Friday but rebounded with a win and a tie to make the final game.

Reg Hyndman led the charge in the Hawks' 5-2 win over Prescott, scoring two goals. Don Swerdfeger, Sheldon McLeod and Gary Hoy scored single goals.

The Hawks then battled Dunbar to a 3-3 sawoff in game three. Reg Hyndman, Gary Hoy and John Sloan notched goals in that contest.

Last Tuesday in Smiths Falls the Hawks downed their hosts 10-7 in an exhibition contest.

George Bloom, Darrell Shelp and Keith McRoberts each scored twice for the Hawks. Sheldon McLeod, Don Griffith, Don Thompson and Rod Bowman also hit for single markers.

PROPERTY ASSESSMENT

and your 1988 Municipal and School Taxes

Regional Assessment Offices located throughout Ontario are responsible for assessing all real property for the purposes of municipal and school taxation.

Assessment Rolls are prepared and delivered to municipalities which use them to set mill rates and calculate property tax bills. The amount of property tax you will pay on your home or business in 1988 is determined by multiplying the assessed value of your property by the mill rate.

If you want to learn more about your property assessment, the Regional Assessment Office invites you to attend its Open House Session.

Open House Sessions

Open Houses are held in every municipality at convenient times and locations to provide you with the opportunity to discuss your assessment with the staff of the Regional Office.

An assessor will be pleased to explain the basis of your property assessment and is authorized to amend any inaccurate information prior to the delivery of the Assessment Roll to your municipality.

If you have any questions, but are unable to attend the Open House, please contact your Regional Assessment Office at the address or telephone number shown below.

Notice of Property Valuation

Property owners and tenants will receive a Notice of Property Valuation only if information relating to their property assessment was changed during the past year, if the assessment was appealed last year, or if there has been a general reassessment in the municipality. If you receive a Notice of Property Valuation, it may reflect changes you have requested in your school support designation, in the amount of your assessed value, or other recorded information on last year's Notice.

Appeal Procedure

If, after attending your local Open House, you are still dissatisfied with your assessment, you have the right to appeal it to the Assessment Review Board. This Board is responsible for determining whether the assessment under appeal is fair and equitable with the assessments of similar properties in the vicinity. The Assessment Review Board is more informal and relaxed than a regular court of law.

Appeal Deadline

The final date for appealing your assessment is January 12, 1988.

If you wish to appeal your assessment, you can use the form provided on the back of your Notice of Property Valuation, write a letter, or use a Notice of Appeal Form. You need to include your property address, roll number, and the reason for the appeal. Your appeal must be filed on or before January 12, 1988.

To assist you, Notice of Appeal forms and the address of the Regional Registrar of the Assessment Review Board are available at Open Houses, your Regional Assessment Office, or your municipal office.

New used equipment

NDDHS's auto mechanics teacher Ken Morrow shows a student some features of the school's new used equipment. The high school acquired a 1985 Oldsmobile and a 1987 Chevrolet after Transport Canada's testing facilities had used the cars for tests. Expansion throws St. Mark's High into 21st century

MANOTICK — Students at St. Mark's High School have a lot more to consider these days than reading, writing and arithmetic, thanks to a $250,000 high-tech building expansion.

New facilities recently opened at the school include two computer labs, two science labs, and four technical areas — electronics, graphics, transportation and manufacturing.

Principal Starr Kelly and Carleton Roman Catholic School Board technological consultant, Trevor Walker said, "students who come into the school this year will graduate to the 21st century".

While this claim may sound extravagant, a look at the new facilities tells you otherwise.

From the manufacturing areas to the automobile service bay, one sees sophisticated computer systems and brand new, state-of-the-art equipment, all designed to give students a head start in the workplaces of the future.

"Technology is impinging on everything," said Walker, "and we want students to learn computer skills other than playing games."

The use of computer technology, said Walker, also makes for neat and tidy labs which do not occupy much space. With the new equipment, he said, "you just don't need an eight-bay auto shop in a school anymore".

Kelly and Walker share the view that computer skills should be an essential part of every student's education.

"These are courses for everybody," said Kelly, "those who are university bound and others".

An automotive technician, said Walker, needs to know computers just to find a job.

"Garages these days will only take students who are computer literate," he said.

In the auto plants of the future, he continued, cars will be diagnosed by computer, with the data fed back to the master auto plant.

"The greasy corner station is going to be a thing of the past," he said.

In the area of manufacturing, the new school labs enable students to view the process from start to completion.

"A student can produce a computer-assisted drawing, which is fed into a milling machine," said Walker. "The machine makes the mold, plastic is injected and you have a finished product."

One of the aims of the technological program is to make up for shortcomings in the traditional methods of high school education.

"In the past," said Walker, "kids who wanted to be engineers would take science, math and go to university with no drafting skills. By this training, you end up with an impractical engineer."

Now, he said, if a student decides in Grade 11 that he wants to be an engineer, it's a matter of selecting the appropriate courses and going from there.

Kelly said the program at St. Mark's was designed to meet new guidelines from the school board.

The philosophy behind the initiative, he said, was "to start training students properly" for the jobs which lie ahead.

Futures option offered in SD & G

CORNWALL — A new option of the Futures program is being offered through the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Board of Education's Alternative School.

The program, designed to help young people who want to improve their educational qualifications, was announced this summer by the Ministry of Skills Development.

The program consists of part-time school and part-time work. Participants will be able to organize a part-time educational program, working towards a minimum of three secondary school credits over one year.

During the year, the students will earn $100 per week in the school operation. In addition, these participants will work on a job 16 to 20 hours per week earning the minimum wage. This part-time work option will be co-ordinated by the Cardinal Youth Employment Centre or St. Lawrence College.

Vocational and educational counselling will be provided by the Alternative School in conjunction with the Cardinal Youth Employment Centre or St. Lawrence College. Educational services will be provided by the SD&G County Board of Education through the Alternative School.

More information may be obtained by contacting Mike Lewis at the Alternative School's Winchester branch (774-2981) or Mike Lewis and Sandra Magee at the Morrisburg branch (543-2375).

OTHS student nominated

Osgoode Township High School student Tracey Pratt has been nominated to attend the Forum for Young Canadians, a one week intensive study session of the process of government in Canada.

The forum will be held at Ashbury College in Ottawa and will include meetings with federal members of parliament, visits to the Parliament Buildings, and a special meeting with the Speaker of the House.

Bob Greenfield, head of social studies at OTHS, said Tracey was chosen for the nomination based on her achievements in Grade 13 history and economics, subjects which "relate most to the study of government."

Should her nomination be accepted, she will pay one third of the total $525 cost of the week-long stay at Ashbury, with the remainder of the tab split between the school and the Township of Osgoode.

At last Tuesday's regular meeting, council passed a resolution to send $175 to the Carleton Board of Education for Tracey's registration in the program.

CWL members hold successful tea and bazaar

METCALFE — St. Catherine's CWL members have been very busy aiding the Parish Council in the organization of the Fall Harvest Supper as well as co-ordinating an extremely successful Christmas tea and bazaar.

Following a couple of craft nights, the members displayed a beautiful variety of crafts along with an array of baking, plants, honey and preserves.

A raffle was held during the bazaar and Mary Grimes was the first prize winner, taking home a pair of quilted cushions made and donated by Mary Klein-Swormink. Second prize winner was Mary Ellen Klein-Swormink and she received a dainty stained-glass angel donated by Judith Sargenson, the principal of St. Catherine's School. It was made by her husband.

Katie Brunton's name was drawn third and she received a Christmas wreath made and donated by Heather Higgins. President JoAnne Nixon had only words of praise for all the members who worked so hard for this special event.

The CWL extends congratulations to its new member, Therese Ferie, on the birth of her beautiful new daughter, as well as extending a hearty welcome to Cheryl Rochon, Karen Juno and Lynn Robillard, all of whom just joined the league.

The annual CWL potluck supper will be held on Dec. 6 when the ladies will entertain the important men in their lives.

Institute meets

by Isobel Lewis

WINCHESTER — Improving Public Relations was the theme of the Nov. 17 meeting of the Winchester Women's Institute, held in the Lions Hall and convened by Isobel Lewis.

The special speaker, Mrs. Audrey Renton of Kars, gave a talk on how to improve the WI image and how to make the community more aware of this fine organization for country women. She commended Winchester WI for its record membership of 85.

Mrs. Edna Trory gave a glowing report of the recent area convention in Ottawa. At the Christmas meeting, members are asked to bring gifts for Naomi House. The Institute plans to have an entry in the annual Christmas Parade.

Following lunch Mrs. Louise Freeland expressed thanks to Mrs. Lewis and her committee.

Trip planned

WILLIAMSBURG — Fifty-six members and one visitor attended the November meeting and dinner of the Williamsburg Senior Citizens.

Business included sending $50 to the Seaway Valley School for their Christmas party. The plans for a trip to Bayshore Shopping Centre were finalized, as well as for the Christmas dinner. Program convener, Mrs. Peggy Thompson gave a reading, "A Little Mixed Up". She introduced her daughter, Sharon Anne Duprau, who displayed various crafts, and told how she made them. Then she made a Christmas candle table-centre, decorated with pine cones and ribbon, an ecology box and a tree decoration made from a cookie cutter. This was a very interesting presentation.

Following the meeting, cards and visiting were enjoyed.

Protecting farmers

For every construction worker who dies on the job, two farmers are involved in fatal accidents. So far this year, 25 Ontario farmers have been forced off their land in the worst possible way - death. And if this year follows the patterns set by most years, one-third of the deaths will be children. It is a situation that, if it had occurred in any other sector of the economy, would have been corrected long ago.

As long ago as 1985, a provincial task force on health and safety in agriculture suggested, in a very strongly worded report, that the farm market should be monitored for new products that offer potential hazards to farmers. If electricians were being killed by faulty wiring, legislation would be rushed into place. If miners were working with unsafe equipment, it would come off the market. If factory workers had to handle carcinogenic chemicals on a daily basis, the chemicals would be forced off the market by law.

But farmers work each day with products that have not been tested, that are not subject to Canadian standards and that may prove to be dangerous to his health. Farmers put up with situations that would be considered intolerable for most other workers. They often work without being aware of the dangers of the workplace.

To make farm equipment more safe, the provincial government recently sank $50 million into grants to make Ontario's farms more safe. Farmers can get up to 85 per cent of $2,500 for such equipment as rollbars for tractors and warning signs.

But $50 million is a mere drop in the bucket. Producing food in an increasingly competitive marketplace is an economic pressure that has squeezed some farmers out of business. There is pressure to produce more food, and to produce it more cheaply.

The census of 1981 revelated that there were over 82,000 farmers in the province. Just five years later that number plumetted by almost 10,000 farmers. But it is not only the economics that are making Ontario's farmer an endangered species.

Smoking in the schools

To the Editor

The Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Catholic Schools have recently enacted a policy for the total elimination of smoking on school premises. Unfortunately, the three other boards of education in the five county region served by the Eastern Ontario Health Unit have not.

The verdict is in on passive or second hand smoke — and it's been in for some years. It is dangerous. These trustees are, I am sure, aware of this, but they have no policies to ban smoking in their schools.

Here are a few facts:

1. It is almost impossible (and extremely expensive) to seal off designated areas. In any case, smoking clings to the breath, the body and to clothes. Designated areas are only a short step on the way to a total ban but three boards have no policies.

2. Public opinion surveys carried out by the Health Unit in parts of the five county area this summer show that 80 per cent of adults believe smoking should be banned completely on school premises. Smokers and non-smokers were of the same opinion but three boards have no policies.

3. There is incontravertible evidence that involuntary exposure to smoke causes lung cancer. (Smokers have some protection from filters.) It is estimated that between 250 and 520 people die from second hand smoke in Canada every year — the third ranked cause of such deaths. A study in France indicates that passive smokers have twice as many cancers related to tobacco as people who are not subjected to second hand smoke but three boards have no policies.

4. Our public opinion surveys this summer showed that in Cornwall, there has been a 3 per cent reduction in smoking inside six months. We still have one of the highest prevalence rates of smoking in Canada but three boards have no policies.

5. A recent study in Hamilton has shown that involuntary smoke harms children more than any other form of air pollution but three boards have no policies.

6. Smoking causes allergic reactions in children. They get asthma, headaches, and sore throats from it. In plain words, cigarettes stink and cause foul breath. Smoking on school premises sets a lethal example for students but three boards have no policies.

I make a public appeal to these trustees to save the children and I invite parents, students and the public to join the Health Unit in demanding that they weed out the weed. NO CIGARETTES — NO REGRETS.

Help brighten someone's day

The Editor

Are you retired and bored?

Do you enjoy meeting people and feeling useful?

Then the Winchester Hospital Auxiliary is looking for you.

For the past few years the firm of Sterivision has been responsible for the rental of TV sets to the patients. However, low rental activity makes the cost of a paid rental agent no longer possible. Sterivision will be withdrawing their service soon.

With the help of volunteers, the service could continue under the sponsorship of the auxiliary and has an income potential for the auxiliary of between $7,000-$10,000 depending on how enterprising our sales people are.

Quite often in the past, retired gentlemen have volunteered their services to the auxiliary, only to feel greatly outnumbered by the ladies. Here is the perfect opportunity to serve.

The hours are 3-5pm six days a week and the contact with people less fortunate than yourself is guaranteed to keep you young. With enough volunteers (and we are excluding the ladies) you might have only one day a week or with a larger number of volunteers, only one day a month.

The program also should have a convener so even if you are only able to co-ordinate the program from your home, we would like to hear from you.

The televisions help to brighten the day which might otherwise be long and empty and quite a few patients are very happy to have a visitor. This also increases the treasury of the auxiliary and enables them to help the hospital.

If you fit into the above categories or you know someone who does, please give president Gail Van Noy a call at 774-3025 or get in touch with one of your local unit people. The auxiliary would like to know how much interest there is in this project before the Dec. 10 meeting.

Maybe this is your chance to brighten your day as well as someone confined to hospital.

The Sport Edition and I were on our way to Owen Sound, Ont., when a pickup truck appeared out of nowhere, forcing me to make a sharp right to avoid a collision and a sharp left to avoid a traffic island. The Sport Edition and I then fishtailed for about 100 metres and executed a perfect 360-degree turn and a few other manoeuvres last seen on the Dukes of Hazzard.

The Sport Edition and I then, in the words of the OPP, entered the south ditch; where upon the pickup truck disappeared.

The Sport Edition, there was no doubt about it, was definitely in the ditch. Several witnesses to the incident were good enough to call a tow truck, where upon I decided that it would be appropriate to call the police. I called two police stations. It appeared that no one was in at either station.

Luckily for the Sport Edition and I, a policeman on patrol noticed the Sport Edition's posterior rising out of the ditch at a 45-degree angle.

I ran across the highway. "Hello," I said to the officer. "I'm having a nervous breakdown. My car is in the ditch, and the cause of the accident just drove away. I've never been in an accident before. I'm having a nervous breakdown." My mother always told me to look for a policeman if I was ever in an accident. A policeman is your friend, said my mother.

"Can I see your driver's license, insurance and registration?" said the nice policeman.

"Why certainly," I said. "But you'll have to excuse me while I have a nervous breakdown."

After the nice policeman had checked the requisite amount of paperwork, he checked my car, making tsking noises.

I was alarmed. "What is it?" I demanded, lovingly caressing the hood of the Sport Edition.

"You'll be lucky if your wheels aren't bent," said the nice policeman. "Your frame might be bent, and you may have damaged something underneath."

Meanwhile, the owner of the ditch had wandered outside. "Is this your car?" he said.

"Yes, it is," I admitted. "Would you mind getting it out of my ditch?" he said.

"Are you using it right now?" I said. "Can it wait a minute?"

The nice policeman decided that it was time for me to write a statement.

"I was be-bopping down the road when this guy in a pickup truck ran in front of me, and I ended up in the ditch," I said.

"Not like that," said the nice policeman. "Like this: 'Westbound on Highway 26 at 80 km per hour, I encountered a vehicle nearing the centre line,' "

"I get it," I said. "I negotiated sharply to the right, then sharply to the left, at which point my vehicle entered the ditch," I finished.

"Right," said the nice policeman. "Can you describe the truck?"

"It was beige," I said.

"Right," said the nice policeman. "Did you happen to get a license number?"

"I was too busy negotiating the road and avoiding the vehicle at the centre line," I said.

By this time, the tow truck had come to extract the Sport Edition out of the nice man's ditch, leaving my wallet $50 flatter, and the Sport Edition with a gouge on the rocker panel the size of a small Mediterranean country.

I was a little miffed to be honest. But it was the day after Friday the 13th, and things could have been worse.

Joy to the world!

by Gordon C. Smyth

In the fiercest weeks of the Nazi attempt to break the spirit of Britain, a Presbyterian church in Glasgow was planning a social evening, the proceeds of which were to be sent by the Church of Scotland to mission fields overseas.

Three weeks before the social evening, bombs completely destroyed the edifice. The undaunted minister quickly sent a mimeographed letter to all his families.

He pointed out that every bomb aimed at the supremacy of what a church represented, in spiritual truths and moral values, actually revealed that the one sure hope of a just and durable peace lay in the worldwide Mind that is in Christ Jesus.

The church building was in ruins. The social evening had been cancelled. But, the minister asked, would each member of the congregation please forward to him the equivalent of what he or she would have contributed, including — note the Scottish touch — round-trip bus or car fare!

The Mission Board in Edinburgh was subsequently surprised to receive from the people of that bombed church in Glasgow twice as much money as the special social evening had been expected to raise.

This account dramatizes the history of the missionary movement, with its perennial relevancy. Of course, anthropologists have criticized missionaries for creating a cultural vacuum among native peoples. No record is perfect. However, on the whole, the record of missions, from St. Paul to Mother Teresa of Calcutta, is one that deserves gratitude rather than apology.

For instance, the vision, courage and accomplishments of our Canadian missionary forebears may well be brought to public attention. (They would rejoice in the ecumenical enterprise and development of a sense of universal Christian community nowadays)!

In 1534, Jacques Cartier planted a large wooden cross at Gaspe. Isaac Joques, Apostle to the Iroquois in Ontario, was to be so mutilated that friends did not recognize him when he returned to France.

Bishop Bompas of the Church of England only once in 40 years emerged from his Arctic fastness of the Mackenzie River. In 1840, Methodist James Evans, at Norway House, invented Cree syllabic and "taught birch bark to talk."

As a missionary of the Presbyterian church, James Nisbet went west in 1866. He founded Prince Albert, opened the first school in Saskatchewan, and pioneered agriculture on the central prairies.

All in all, while it was honest for our latest General Council to apologize for the Church's treatment of native peoples, it would have been more objective to twin with it a statement of thanksgiving.

In any case, one loving heart sets another on fire. Politicians at Queen's Park have succeeded in removing the name of the Prince of Peace from daily prayers in the Legislative Assembly. But once again a number of civil servants will likely gather to sing Christmas carols.

I anticipate that as they sing "Joy to the world, the Lord is come!" at least a few members of the House will sing with them.

You've heard them many times. You've enjoyed and loudly applauded their beautiful blend of gospel, country and modern harmony. The happy and super-friendly group of harmonizers has no glamorous name to use on modest 'reminders' of yet another public appearance programmed to benefit some worthy endeavor. By now you already know the above photo, taken in Osgoode Township council chamber by brother Jim, is the Osgoode Township Men's Choir, 30 (sometimes more) country gentlemen who love to sing. Their policy is almost unheard of (and definitely unbelievable) in this age of high finance... their services are free. That's right! They don't charge a cent for musical presentations that put the majority of television 'specials' to shame. Instead they willingly and eagerly offer to appear on any fundraising endeavor they consider of value to their respective communities. Yes, that's right - 'communities' - since, for a singing engagement they converge from many directions and a wide variety of faiths. The natty, crested uniforms might lead one to believe they are all Osgoode Township residents. Wrong! Although Vernon Baptist Church has to be considered 'home base', those Presbyterian, United, Roman Catholic, Baptist, Christian Reform and Salvation Army vocalists converge from areas including Russell, Winchester, Ormond, Edwards, Dalmeny, Greely, Osgoode, Manotick, Nepean and Metcalfe. Since that evening, some ten years ago, when the first attempt was made to blend the voices of businessmen, craftsmen and farmers, their efforts have benefitted an almost endless list of community projects. Maymie Koenger, director of St. Catherine's Church Choir at Metcalfe, thinks it's time the community showed appreciation in a more tangible way than simply offering the melody makers 'coffee and cookies'. The evening of Sunday, Dec. 13 is the date to remember - St. Catherine's Church the locale - 'Christmas In Song' the program - and featured will be the church choir, children's choir, trios, quartettes, and the guests of honor, members of Osgoode Township Men's Choir. Now everyone knows full well these men make great sacrifices to honor so many requests, and this time, when those familiar church collection baskets make the rounds, generous donations will help defray the mounting expenses of this dedicated group. Ask any choir member who inspired the formation of these singing crusaders who continue to grow in popularity, and the answer is always the same... 'Elizabeth'. Elizabeth is, of course, Miss Stewart, the retired Dalmeny school teacher whose determination and leadership skills converted an abandoned school into a fast-growing historical museum. "I told her it couldn't be done when she first proposed the ridiculous idea", grins choir secretary-treasurer Harry Anderson, another retired school master. "But", he adds with a twinkle in his eye, "saying no to Liz is an exercise in futility, she simply ignored me saying you find a leader and I'll do the rest." Fate played into his hand. Harry's good friend, Salvation Army bandsman and choir director Archie Smith lived at Dalmeny - and the new male choir, following a few training sessions at Dalmeny Hall, made its debut at Vernon Baptist Church in June 1979. Archie was quick to realize that singing, like cooking, needs a 'woman's touch' and again dame fortune favored them with another gentle smile, and two talented musicians, organists Iris Ferguson and Donna Cherry. In more recent months the men have warmly welcomed a talented ladies' trio - Eva Hammond, Julia Mills and Diane McClelland. Male soloists are Calvin Ferguson, Tom Gilliland, Bruce Porteous, Henk Huizenga, Roy Connolly and Bas Vanderhorden. A highlight of every presentation has to be the male quartette - Calvin Ferguson, Harold Ferguson, Russ Hammond and Archie Smith. Needless to say they are preparing a genuine old-fashioned Christmas Concert for this special occasion. Suggest you make a special effort to 'go to church' that Sunday evening - Dec. 13.

JFC Farms wins trophy for highest herd average

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — The Dundas Dairy Herd Improvement Association met Saturday night to honor the county's best and most-improved milk producers.

The ODHIC's regional supervisor for Eastern Ontario, Richard McNamara, told the dairy farmers that numbers are stable in the county at 368 producers. Dundas, which is the seventh largest dairy production county in the province, has 240 herds, 64 per cent of which are supervised by ODHIC.

Dundas has above average BCA for Ontario, said McNamara. Since the DHIA's amalgamation with ROP, the average BCA in the county has risen by six points.

The award for the most improved supervised herd, presented by the Winchester and Iroquois Royal Banks, was given to John Stoodley, who had an improvement of 18 points. The second most improved honors went to John DeJong, who also had an 18-point increase. The award was presented by the Bank of Nova Scotia of Chesterville, South Mountain and Morrisburg. The tie between the two was broken using the calving interval, with Stoodley at 12.9 and DeJong at 13.1 months.

The Strader trophy and certificate for highest composite BCA was presented to J. Frank Casselman at 181 BCA. Second highest honors, at 178 BCA, was presented to Sunnylodge Farms Inc. by Ontario Glass-Lined Storage.

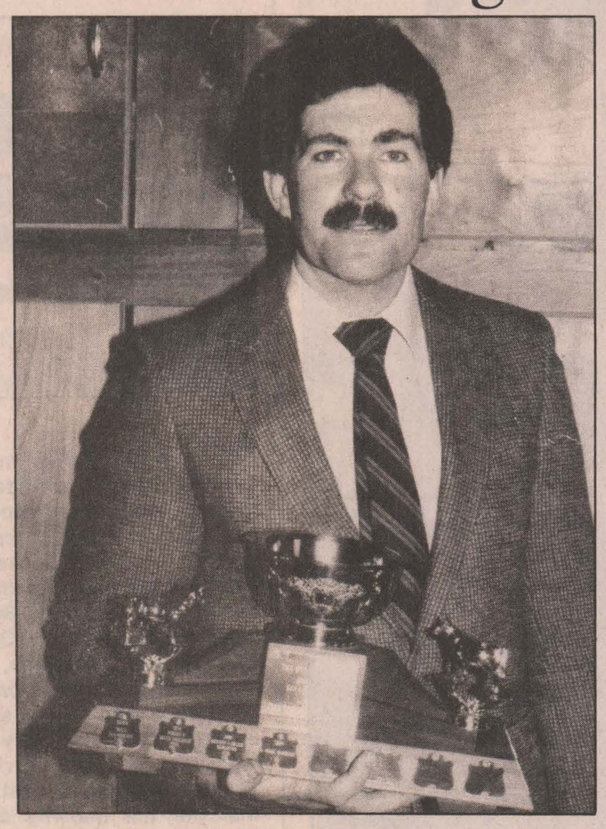
The county DHIA award for breeding efficiency was given to Fred and Deborah Dings.

Rosayre Praline, owned by Donald S. Rose, picked up four awards. Praline was the winner of the highest plus production cow award presented by C & L Feeds, the highest BCA milk award, at 244 BCA, presented by the Bank of Montreal, the highest BCA fat award, at 239 BCA presented by MacDonald Feed Mill Ltd., and the highest BCA two-year-old, presented by the United Co-operatives of Ontario.

Since the DHIA's amalgamation with ROP, the association has instituted the awarding of seals for BCA over the provincial average. Gold seals are given to producers with 20 points or more over the provincial average, red seals go to those with 10 to 19 points over the average, and nine points or less above the average garners a blue seal for the producer.

This year, gold seals went to J. Frank Casselman at 181 BCA, Sunnylodge Farms Inc. at 178, Malcolm and Marion Graham for 175, Henry Geurkink at 172, Bruce and Gordon Garlough as well as Donald S. Rose at 171, Herman Van Wylick at 168, John DeJong as well as Earl and David Bryan at 166, Martin K. Verburg as well as William Meerakker and Hesshill Farms at 165, William G. Klein-Swormink as well as John M. Devries and Frank Devries at 164, and Tibben Farms and Dwight Gilmer & Sons Ltd. at 163.

Producers who did not pick up their framed certificates at the banquet may get them at the OMAF office, Main Street, Winchester.



J. Frank Casselman accepted the trophy for the highest composite BCA. JFC Farms attained a BCA of 181. Casselman was given the Strader Trophy and an ODHIC certificate. Press Photo—Laucius

Farm women offered alternative

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — Planning began early to set an agenda for the 1988 eight-week course specifically designed for farm women.

Once again, the course, organized by Women for the Survival of Agriculture, will be sponsored by the Alternative School under the auspices of the SD&G County Board of Education. It will be held Wednesdays, beginning Jan. 13, at the W.B. George Centre at Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

Judy O'Connor, one of four course co-ordinators, said organizers planned speakers based on ideas course participants suggested last year.

Among the speakers is Maude Barlow, deputy chairman of an organization opposing free trade. Politics and women will be the focus of another session when Evelyn Gigantes, who lost her seat in the Sept. 10 provincial election as Ottawa Centre's NDP member, visits.

Mary Jane Hardy of the Carleton Board of Education will describe the role of the school board when dealing with family violence situations. Judy Running of Naomi's Resource Centre in Winchester, a resource centre and shelter for the victims of family violence, will also speak about alchoholism and the family.

Dan Carlow, Rural Organizations Specialist in Grenville, will explain the how to's of time management. Lobbying techniques will be the topic of WSA president Dorothy Middleton and founder Dianne Harkin at one of the sessions.

During KCAT's annual Farmer's Week, women attending the course will take part in the Wednesday seminar on financial matters. An accountant will be on hand at another session to discuss income tax.

O'Connor said organizers also hope to offer a session on farm safety.

There is no charge for the course, for which participants will receive one-third of a credit. The course, which runs Wednesdays from 10am to 3:30pm will accommodate 40 students.

In charge of the course this year are O'Connor, Hiltrud Weiher of South Mountain, Corry Martens of Iroquois and Eda VanDerLinden of Metcalfe.

Silo death inquest recommendations include stricter product regulations

WINCHESTER — The silo death of South Mountain farmhand Wayne Smith was the first such fatality in Ontario, Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry coroner Dr. Gabriel Slowey said at a Thursday inquest. "And I hope it's the last."

The inquest's five-person jury concluded that Wayne Smith, a 36-year-old farmhand who fell through a rip in a plastic silo liner, died accidentally. Slowey added that while the death was accidental, it was also preventable.

At Slowey's urging, the jury recommended that the provincial government legislate to have the Ontario Farm Machinery Board or the Ontario Centre of Farm Machinery and Food Processing Technology be responsible for keeping itself informed about new farm products entering the marketplace.

The jury also recommended that such equipment should be government inspected for safety.

Slowey encouraged the jury to recommend that all farm fatalities be subjected to an inquest. Farmers have the third highest accident rate in Ontario, but farm fatalities are not subject to mandatory inquests. So far this year, there have been 25 farm fatalities in Ontario.

Dr. Gabriel Slowey

Slowey told the jury that farmers' searches for cheap ways to produce food have allowed unsafe products on the market. "You can't blame farmers for wanting to produce food more economically, or entrepreneurs for filling the gap," he said. "Farmers are too precious to lose for lack of standards."

He said that often farmers are unaware of the dangers presented by the products they use. Farmers, said Slowey, have to be jacks-of-all-trades, and left to their own devices, they have to do everything possible to produce food as cheaply as possible. But he added that the lack of safety standards is something that would not be tolerated in any other field. "No other industry would put up with this situation," he said.

Smith died on Sept. 27 of asphyxiation after he fell through a 24-foot tear in a plastic liner designed to convert a silo designed for corn silage or haylage into a silo for high moisture corn.

Part of the appeal of the liners is that they are about one-tenth of the price of a sealed silo. They cost between $4,000 and $12,000, compared to $50,000 for a sealed silo. OMAF engineer James Bellman said the liners are an attempt to cut costs, but he added that the system has limitations.

The liner, which was suspended from a tripod at the top of the silo, prevents oxygen from entering the silo and lethal carbon dioxide from leaving the silo. If exposed to oxygen, the corn will rot within a week.

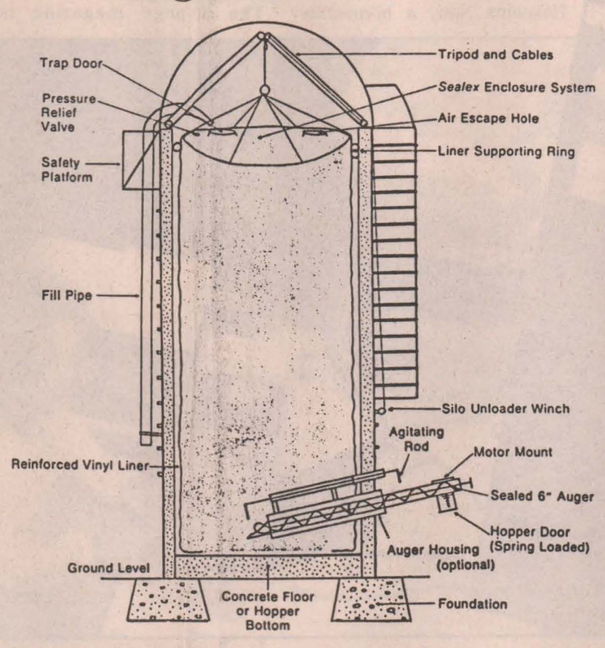
Most of the converted silos have a funnel-shaped bottom with an auger that takes corn from inside the silo to the barn. Problems arise when the moist corn cakes to the side of the liner. Farmers handle the problem by walking between the silo wall and the liner, and kicking or pushing the caked corn from the liner so it falls to the bottom of the funnel.

Farm safety consultant Harold Morphy says he was unaware that farmers were using this practise to dislodge corn. "I would have frowned on it from a professional point of view," he said.

The liners, which are produced by Guelph Silo Ltd., have no regulations enforced on their testing or marketing, he said, estimating that about 400-600 of the liners are in use in Ontario. Farm equipment dealer Ron Johnstone said that 33 of the liners had been sold in the area and the manufacturers have sent letters to all liner users warning of the dangers of walking on the plastic.

Morphy indicated that the company put out eight rules for the use of the liners. The seventh rule warned, "do not enter the liner at any time after use because of fatal toxic gases." But many farmers did not get the warning.

Smith's employer, Reginald Gilmer, said that the liner, which was purchased two years ago, was installed by farmers with verbal instructions from Ron Johnstone. He added that he was not warned not to walk on the liner.



Between 400 and 600 silo liners are in use in Ontario, said farm safety consultant Harold Morphy. The liners, which convert a silo used for corn silage or haylage into a high moisture corn silo, restricts oxygen in the silo. The heavier-than-air carbon dioxide that forms within the silo is toxic. The gas can kill a human being in less than a minute after inhaling, said Morphy.

Gilmer said the method used for knocking corn from the sides of the liner by kicking it was developed by hearsay. It is a common approach to the problem, he said, adding that the company knew of the farmers' approach to the problem.

Brinston farmer Archie Mellan, who has a similar liner, says his liner has been torn on two occasions. Both rips were on the seam of the plastic. "It ripped like tissue paper," he told the jury.

One of the main selling points of the product was its durability, the inquest was told. Johnstone demonstrated the strength of the material by drilling a hole through it, and asking the buyer to tear it apart. It was impossible, Mellan said.

When Mellan ripped his silo liner, he repaired the damage temporarily with vise-grips, he said. He told the jury that he entered the liner, taking a deep breath, and shovelled out enough corn to last for several days. "I didn't understand how quick and how deadly the gas really was," he said.

"We were ignorant, and farmers are great for that." He said that kicking the side of the liner was the recommended way to dislodge corn.

Equipment dealer Ron Johnstone said he distributed the literature provided by Guelph Silo Liner Ltd. He conceded that "anything sharp can tear a liner," and said that he did not recommend walking on the liner.

Guelph Silo Ltd. representative Don Peters told the jury that he usually included a sheet with a warning about toxic gas to all dealers who sell the liners. But he could not recall if the literature was sent to Johnstone.

The jury also recommended that air packs and warnings be included with all silo liners, that no worker should enter a silo alone, that signs warning of danger should be posted, and that liner manufacturers should distribute more and better literature.

Slowey added that better liners should be manufactured, and that they should undergo further investigations to determine their usefulness.

OFA shelves proposal to reduce board size

WINCHESTER — This year's OFA convention should be a "fairly quiet" affair, says DFA Dundas North director Alvin Runnalls.

Runnalls says the annual convention, held this week in Toronto, will be nothing like last year's volatile event, which featured a race for the federation's presidency and the introduction of the controversial Grenville Resolution.

About six or seven resolutions have already been distributed to OFA directors says Runnalls.

One of the first items on the agenda will be changes in the executive. Second vice-president Jack Wilkinson will be stepping down, as will be two of the executive's four members, Doug Avery and Bill Benson. The first vice president, Keith Buechner may also have to face a race if he wants to keep his position.

Waste management has been brought up by several counties as an important issue, says Runnalls. Some counties have already submitted that they would like to see a push for a clear-cut policy. Resolutions encouraging recycling and shredding to keep the sizes of dump sites at a minimum will be discussed.

The Farm Debt Review Board will also be under fire. A recent OFA survey on the board revealed that 85 per cent of the respondents wanted the board to have legal authority to establish a settlement. OFA president Brigid Pyke says the OFA wants the board to be able to continue to have the right to propose a final settlement. If the proposal is unacceptable, she says the board should be able to send the matter to be resolved in a higher court.

The survey said that the board has improved since April, 1987, and Pyke wants the board to continue to take time to do its job, despite urgings from the federal government to speed up the process.

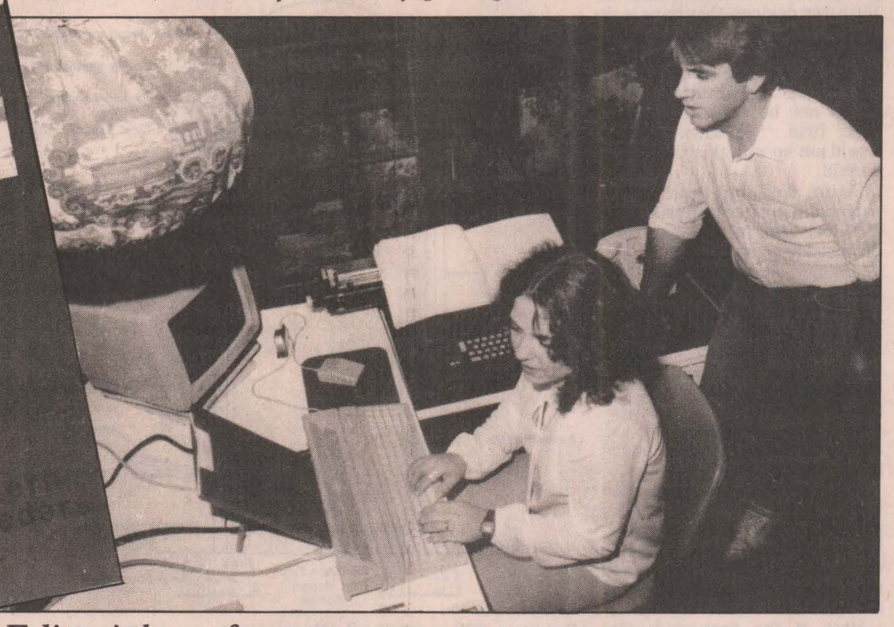
The OFA wants debt review to allow as many farmers as possible on the land. If the farm must be closed, the OFA would like to see the process take place in an orderly manner considering the long-term needs of the farm family.

Runnalls says proposals to change the OFA board have been shelved. Although Pyke was concerned that a 100-member board was too cumbersome and expensive, a study revealed that the board claimed only four per cent of the OFA's budget, and reducing the number of board members would only save $12,000.

Maintaining the number of board members will maintain the level of grass roots input into the federation, says Runnalls.

Last year, the Grenville resolution initiated a meeting between red meat producers and the OFA to discuss a united marketing system. Despite allegations that the OFA was meddling and claims that the marketing system would result in supply management, the resolution was accepted. Runnalls says some individual resolutions may look at this issue.

Holsteins Now hot off the presses



A local publishing company has launched a new magazine aimed at Holstein breeders in Eastern Ontario.

Holsteins Now, a bi-monthly magazine about the Holstein industry in 11 Eastern Ontario counties, was distributed this week to 2,000 homes.

The 40-page magazine is among the first ventures of The Foxworth Network, a publishing and word processing partnership started in January by Crysler entrepreneurs Linda Grant and Pat Coyne.

The premier issue features profiles of the cattle nominated for all-Eastern Ontario awards, updates from the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food and an article on farm women.

Future issues will include regular columns on veterinary care, the latest developments in the Holstein breed and marketing and features on prominent Eastern Ontario breeders.

"The idea wasn't exactly ours," explained Coyne, 32. "Some of the breeders in Eastern Ontario wanted an advertising vehicle but also an informative magazine where they'd be able to feature their stock.

"There are some good cattle in Eastern Ontario and I guess it's time the world started to know they exist."

Grant, 31, said she eventually hopes to see Holsteins Now distributed in the northern United States and Western Quebec as well as the counties between Kingston and the Quebec border.

Despite the work involved — the pair put more than a month into getting the first issue off the ground — Coyne said he is confident the magazine's local flavor will make it popular with breeders turned off by the expense and broader focus of larger publications.

"We felt there was a need for regional publications," he said.

Editorial conference

Linda Grant and Pat Coyne go over some last minute changes to stories for Holsteins Now, the region's newest magazine for Holstein breeders.

Masons from across Ontario hold service at St. Paul's

KENMORE — Sunday, Nov. 8 at 3pm members of A.F. & A.M. Masons of Ottawa District 1 of the Grand Lodge of Canada in the Province of Ontario assembled in St. Paul's United Church to celebrate the annual District Divine Church Service.

The service was under the direction of Very Worshipful Brother, Rev. M. John Moor District Chaplain, assisted by Rev. Keith Brown, minister of the host church. The Masonic choir of Ottawa led in the singing with two special anthems.

The first lesson was read by Right Worshipful Brother Charles Clark, D.D.G.M. of Ottawa District 2, and the second lesson by Right Worshipful Brother Grant Bowman, District Deputy Grand Master of Ottawa District 1.

The attendance of over 250 filled the church to overflowing with visitors from throughout the area.

Rt. Wor. Bro. Bowman thanked the visitors for making the day a great success, the Masonic choir for their music and the United Church ladies for the refreshments.

In Memoriam

DIOTTE — In loving memory of a dear brother and brother-in-law, Gary, who died Nov. 25, 1985.
God saw him getting tired,
When a cure was not to be,
So He closed His arms around him,
And whispered come to me.
He suffered much in silence,
His spirit did not bend,
He faced his pain with courage,
Until the very end.
He tried so hard to stay with us,
His fight was all in vain,
God took him to His loving home
And freed him from all pain.
—Forever remembered by sister and brother-in-law,
Shirley and Forest Johnston 33

SHELDRICK — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Hartley C. Sheldrick, who passed away Nov. 25, 1971.
Calm and peaceful he is sleeping,
Sweetest rest that follows pain;
We who loved him sadly miss him,
But trust in God to meet again.
—Always remembered,
Jean and Family 33

DIOTTE — In memory of a special brother and uncle, Gary, who died Nov. 25, 1985.
Wishing today as we wished before,
That God could have spared you many years more.
No one knows the grief we share
When we are all together, and you're not there.
Life goes on, we know that's true,
But not the same, since we lost you.
Though absent, you are always near,
Still loved, still missed, still very dear.
—Loved and remembered by
Sister Marjorie, brother-in-law Bill, nieces, Barbara, Sandra, nephew Edward 33

In Memoriam

What the heart has once owned ... it shall never lose.
—Lovingly remembered, Dianne, Shawn and Timothy 33

DIOTTE — In loving memory of a dear brother and uncle, Gary, who passed away Nov. 25, 1985.
We often think of days gone by,
When we were all together;
A shadow o'er our lives has cast,
Our loved one's gone forever.
—Reg, Ev, Karen, Jason, Harry, Gayle, Adrian and Ben 33
