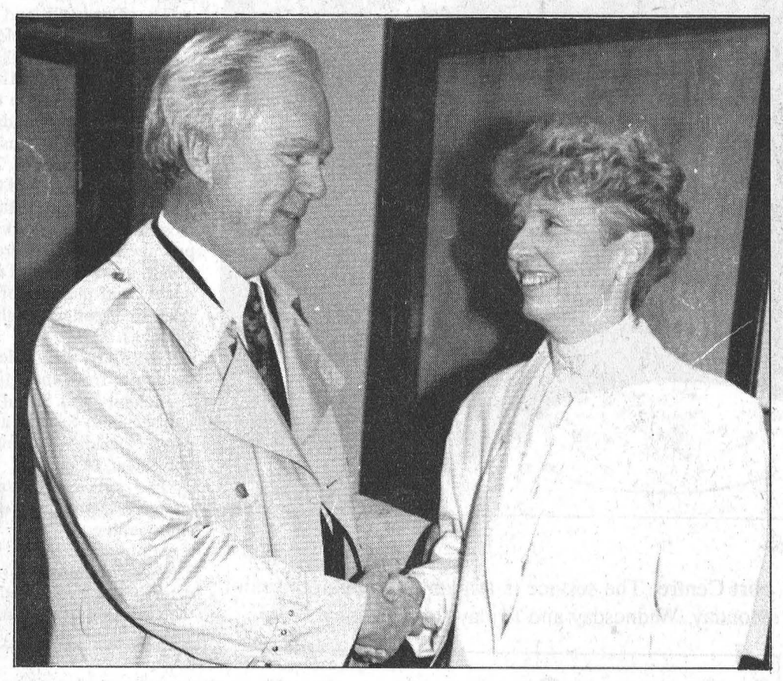
Kerr's election landslide buries Grey



Voters' choice

Bruce Kerr and Sandra Laneville share a victory handshake Tuesday night.

WINCHESTER— What started as a trickle quickly grew into an avalanche of votes for challenger Bruce Kerr who upset political veteran Larry Grey in the hotly contested race for reeve of Winchester Village.

Kerr, a businessman and village fire chief, won all seven divisions in the village, including two advance polls, garnering 1,088 votes to Grey's 169. Kerr will still continue to operate as the municipality's fire chief. Neighboring Winchester Township has a similar situation, with Reeve Claude Cousineau also operating in the same dual capacity.

Village residents turned out in high numbers to vote, with more than 70 per cent of 1,865 eligible voters casting ballots.

Kerr said the high voter turnout was to his advantage.

"The big issue (in the campaign) was people wanted change," he said. "I heard it when I went door-to- door and so did my campaign team. Either you go ahead or you slip back and the general consensus by the public was we were standing still."

Despite being a political newcomer, Kerr assembled an impressive campaign team of more than 60 people and he said he wanted to carry his strong team approach into his next three years on council.

For Grey, who has been the village's reeve since 1977, it's the end of an era. He said he would not be returning to municipal politics in the future, although he would continue to sit on the several regional committees he presently belongs on.

"I've been here (on council) for 20 years and that's enough," said Grey after congratulating Kerr on his victory. "I was not really surprised (by the loss)."

Blaming his defeat on "too much organized opposition" and an electorate that "wanted change", Grey noted that the same problems he had experienced in municipal government including the search for water would now be facing the new council.

CHALLENGER

Challenger Sandra Laneville unseated Hugh Eadie in the three-way race for deputy-reeve, netting 706 votes to his 278. Keith Marquette, the third contender for the seat who spent election night hospitalized for pneumonia, garnered 267.

Councillor Betty Cooke was the lone incumbent to hold on to her seat. She and newcomers John Klein-Swormink and Mary Jane Bertrand will fill the three councillor positions. Klein-Swormink received 899 votes, Bertrand 741 and Cooke 728.

Ault Foods Ltd. employee Bill Bouck and businessman Kenneth Reid received 536 and 203 votes respectively.

Osgoode, Russell Village easily re-elect incumbents

METCALFE — As poll results kept pouring in to Osgoode Township Hall, the picture was fairly clear from the beginning.

Young challenger Ron Stanley gave mayor Albert Bouwers a run for his money, but in the end, Bouwers held on and will serve yet another term as mayor of the township.

Of the eight seeking council seats, Doug Thompson topped the polls throughout the evening with Albert McKeown and Lloyd Cranston secure in their seats. The fourth seat, vacated by Blaine Ball, looked early on like a sure Bob Ramsay win. However, by the time half the polls had reported, the vacant seat swung over to Vera Mitchell, where it stayed for the rest of the night.

In Osgoode's only contested school board race, incumbent Michael Kelly has been returned to the Carleton Separate School Board. Carol Parker, Osgoode's CBE trustee, won her seat by acclamation.

RUSSELL VILLAGE

Veteran reeve Gaston Patenaude easily turned back the challenge from Antoni St. Onge to win another three-year term, almost quadrupling St. Onge's total by 3,164 to 818.

Deputy-reeve Claude Gregoire also had an easy time in winning another term, defeating Gerald Boyer 2,392 to 1,415.

Russell Village's get-out-the-vote-campaign paid off for Barry Hewitt as he won election on his second attempt, trailing poll horse Michele Martel-Gervais for the second council seat.

Gibson tops township polls

MAPLE RIDGE — Newcomer Ed Gibson credited his door-to-door campaign and a readiness to listen to township voters with his success yesterday as he led the polls in the four-way fight for Winchester Township council's three council seats.

Gibson swept all seven polling divisions, plus both advance polls, to win a seat on council in his first attempt.

Incumbents Jack Durant and Gordon Johnson both won re-election, Durant to his third term and Johnson to his second.

Newcomer Randy Rankin placed a distant fourth.

Gibson led the polls with 919 votes. Durant was in second place with 706 and Johnson took the final council seat with 671. Rankin had 222 votes.

Voter turnout was only about 35 per cent, a far cry from the number who voted in 1988, but interest in the campaign suffered from the lack of races for the reeveship and deputy reeveship.

Both reeve Claude Cousineau and deputy-reeve Wyman Barton were acclaimed to another term in office.

Councillor Dwayne Holmes did not seek re-election.

He campaigned hard, knocking on about half the township's doors and taking a week's unpaid leave from his job with Bell so that he could campaign full-time in the stretch run.

He made economic development and the need for co- operation among area municipalities the cornerstone of his campaign, saying the area's industries need the support of all neighboring municipal councils.

Gibson said that his in his door-to-door he promised voters not to make any decisions at the council table until he had consulted township residents "to get their feelings and to see if they feel they can afford" projects for the municipality.

Incumbent Graham Casselman led the township polls in the three-way election for the SD&G County Board of Education trusteeship for Winchester Township and village.

Casselman had 320 votes to Tom Kirkwood's 273. Susan Hanson Johnstone was in second place until the Morewood poll, the township's largest and Kirkwood's home poll, reported. Kirkwood vaulted from third to second, taking 156 of the poll's votes.

Kirkwood topped the race in Winchester Village to topple Casselman and win the seat, finishing with 437 votes to Casselman's total of 367. Hanson Johnstone finished with 359.

Simms returns

MOUNTAIN — By winning a tight race for the reeveship of Mountain Township in yesterday's municipal election, Deputy Reeve Ewart Simms engineered a return to the council's top spot after an 11 year absence.

Simms, who held the position of reeve from 1973- 1980, captured 526 votes, beating out incumbent Reeve Keith Fawcett and first-term Councillor Dwaine Berry.

Berry lost the position by 57 votes while Fawcett trailed in last with a total of 420 votes. It was the first time Fawcett had to compete for the position, winning previously by acclamation since 1980.

Simms admits the race was close.

"It was a good hard fight and we had to work hard at it. Everyone worked really hard at it," said Simms. "I think that it paid to call on every household."

Simms has spent approximately 23 years on council since he first entered politics in 1961. During his last term as reeve, he served one year as warden for the United Counties of SD&G.

He retired briefly from council in 1980 but returned three years later, saying he missed local politics.

"I said in my campaign speech I want to involve the public and I intend to ... because we have some tough decision in the 90s," he said.

Incumbent Councillor Don Johnston retained his seat, leading in eight of the nine polls. He will enter his second term on council.

The township's two other councillor positions were claimed by newcomer Robert Guy and Earl Garlough, who spent seven years as a councillor until he lost his seat in the 1985 election.

Both Johnston and Earl Garlough credited some of their success to experience.

"It's got to account for something, if it doesn't you're in trouble," said Johnston.

Although he wasn't successful in this year's election, first-time councillor candidate Frank Fata says he will try again in the next election.

Explosion rocks Ault's water search

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — A search for water had explosive results in Winchester last Friday when well drillers hit a gas pocket in a field belonging to Ault Foods Ltd.

A local water supply firm was test drilling a well for Ault Foods when workers struck natural gas 114 metres (380 feet) below the surface shortly after noon. The drilling machine, belonging to Capital Water Supply of Stittsville, was quickly engulfed in flames.

Drill operator Stephen Miller, one of the three men at the site, was manning the controls at the back of the machine when it caught fire.

"I put my hand upside my face and then I rolled and rolled. I started crawling and then I took to running," he said.

Miller suffered mild burns to his face and hands but the two other men were uninjured. Walter Kavanagh, owner of Capital Water Supply, said he's not yet sure if the drilling machine, worth approximately $500,000 when purchased last fall, is completely destroyed.

The blaze took two hours to burn down, said Winchester volunteer fire fighter Denzel Crowder, but firemen did not approach the drill for almost one hour due to the potentially explosive nature of the fire.

Fireman hosed down the drill as parts ignited but let the gas fire burn out on its own.

"There's not much you can do against gas," he admitted.

CALL BACK

The department was contacted again around 6pm when a set of tires re-ignited but two fireman easily controlled the blaze with fire extinguishers, stated Crowder.

Ault Foods, a milk-processing plant, had decided to test a field near its Winchester plant for a possible well because its water supply from the village is restricted due to a municipal water shortage. The plant has trucked in approximately 532,000 litres a day from surrounding communities.

The workers had already drilled 90 metres and were planning to go another 60 metres when the incident occurred. "We contacted our consultant and he thought that once we got into the sandstone, we might hit large deposits of water," said Rob Edwards, Ault's environmental co-ordinator.

Testing fields for gas deposits would be very difficult, said Kavanagh.

"You probably could do it if you were equipped with meters and you were expecting it — but you'd have to be expecting it," he said.

However gas pockets are very rare in this area, he added. The company has hit gas only once before, when workers were drilling in a farmer's field near Vancamp in 1974. One man suffered severe burns and the well-drilling equipment was heavily damaged.

Ault will probably not continue test drilling the field and so far, no other plans have been made to drill in other locations, said Edwards.

Hospital cannot afford more cuts

Elizabeth Moreau
Special to the Press

WINCHESTER—Ontario hospitals will have to try to balance their budgets and may face cuts in the future, according to the provincial Ministry of Health.

"Hospitals are going to have to hang on to the budgets they have," said ministry spokesman Layne Verbeek in an interview last week.

"If cuts have to be made, that's the reality they have to face."

Roy Glassford, acting executive director of the 118-bed Winchester District Memorial Hospital, said the hospital can't afford to close any more beds.

He said while intensive care and other specialty units don't always operate at 100 per cent capacity, basic service beds like medical, surgical and chronic care are usually full.

"We're not worried at this point," Glassford said, "because (the ministry) hasn't proven that we need fewer beds."

But he said the hospital, which ran a $560,000 deficit in 1990/91, has not always maintained a balanced budget.

"Our track record is not the best," he said. "But we attempt to balance our books to meet the needs of operations."

Glassford said more money is needed to expand health services beyond basic care, like outpatient programs.

"We could always use more money, not only for our current operations, but even to provide more health programs for the community's needs."

The Ontario Hospital Association says 149 of the province's hospitals are operating under deficits, with a combined total of $178.6 million for the current fiscal year.

In a brief to Ontario treasurer Floyd Laughren last week, the OHA recommended the government provide for an increase of 8.6 per cent, or $630 million, for Ontario hospitals in the 1992/93 fiscal year.

Study shows prevalence of Alzheimer's in SD&G

by JoAnne Iverson, Publicity Chairperson Alzheimer Society of Cornwall and District

CORNWALL — A recent study estimated there was a minimum of 652 people exhibiting symptoms of Alzheimer's in SD&G.

The Cornwall and District Alzheimer Society released the results of a consultant's study to estimate the prevalence of Alzheimer's disease in the counties of Stormont, Dundas, Glengarry, Prescott and Russell at its board meeting on Sept. 23, 1991.

The primary goal of the study, which is the culmination of almost two years' work, was to provide statistics to draw attention to the necessity of improved quality and quantity of care for Alzheimer patients in the United Counties.

The study was made possible by grants from the Ministry of Community and Social Services and the Levi Strauss and Company (Canada) Community Involvement Team.

The survey polled family caregivers, volunteers and health care facilities.

Main conclusions were: 1. There is a minimum of 652 residents of the five united counties who are exhibiting symptoms of Alzheimer's disease, two-thirds of whom currently reside in a placement facility;

2. A need exists to improve current care provision to Alzheimer disease patients;

3. There is public support for the development of a special care unit for Alzheimer disease patients within an existing facility;

4. Any facility or unit developed for Alzheimer disease patients requires a highly qualified, trained and sympathetic staff;

5. Alzheimer disease patients should remain in the home for as long as possible and additional support programs should be developed which cater to these patients and their families; and

6. There is a need for a central body representing the interests of all care-giving organizations, institutions and individuals in the five united counties to manage resources and encourage programming such that the quality and quantity of care to Alzheimer disease patients can be optimized.

Recommendations produced by the study will be used by the Cornwall and District Alzheimer Society for future planning with government and community agencies.

Community plans giant fundraiser for youth

by Sue Knippel
Special to the Press

GREELY—A small community of residents at Orchard View Estates is not sitting around waiting for good things to happen. They've banded together to do something positive for their young children.

A mammoth fundraising auction sale, planned for Nov. 17, from 1 to 4 p.m. at the Orchard View Country Club is the result.

The community hopes to raise at least $3,500 towards creating a play area in their neighbourhood. If they can do this, the township will match their funds and Wintario will double it again.

Councillor Albert McKeown has come up with a climbing apparatus for their park, and organizer Pierrette Houde says this will be great for 6 to 12-year-olds.

"But there are lots of babies and toddlers in our area who need a different kind of play equipment," Houde said, "and we need shelter and seating for the moms, especially during the hot summer days, because there are no trees there."

The group has amassed more than 100 quality items for what promises to be a most interesting auction sale. Each and every family in the area was asked to donate three items for the sale, and local businesses were canvassed for additional contributions.

The largest item up for grabs is a piano. Other treasures include a video arcade game, an oil painting, gold-plated cutlery for four, a sewing machine, desks, exercise equipment, baskets, bicycles and brass. There are merchant gift certificates, as well as services such as snowplowing. One resident is offering three hours of gardening assistance.

Auctioneer Stewart James will not be troubled with smaller items —there will be sales tables for those.

Earlybirds will receive free ballots on a special Christmas draw, and if they are still there when their name is drawn at 4 p.m., they will win a prize.

Orchard View Estates is located on Regional Road 25, 3 km south of Regional Road 8 and 5 km north of Enniskerry. Once there, signs will direct you to the Orchard View Country Club.

Further information is available by calling Houde at 821-3352.

Legion pours $116,000 into area

Winchester branch vital and visible in fundraising efforts

WINCHESTER—Although their membership is declining on a national basis, the role the Royal Canadian Legion plays in communities such as Winchester is just as demanding as it has ever been.

Last Friday afternoon newly elected Branch 108 president Tom Beck, 45, assembled his executive, their wives, and representatives of institutions and organizations who would realize the generosity of the Legion.

"We presented $116,000 today," Beck said with pride.

"People don't realize the hours our members put into raising this money. A lot of work goes on week after week and they (executive members) enjoy it."

Beck explains Winchester Branch 108 is no different than any other in Canada. Veterans are aging. Many, active in the past, are now deceased. Many more are ill and can't support their organization as they had over the years.

"We have about 300 members now, including fraternals (non-voting members restricted to 30% of the total branch membership). We encourage the families of veterans, widows to join us as associate members. We need the support to keep our fundraising going," the president explained.

Beck continued by saying, "we want to keep the Legion visible in our community, we want to change its image. We consider our community work to be very important but we do need the support of the vets and especially their families."

Beck and his wife Bev have been actively involved in the work Branch 108 has been doing for some time now.

Tom was the former sports committee chairman and fundraiser. Bev is on the executive and is working on compiling a history of the area's veterans.

"We are working on a Branch (108) history. We encourage local vets to submit any pictures, momentos or stories they may have to us. We are proud of the guys who fought for our country and we want to share it with the public."

Beck points proudly to the renovations going on at the Branch noting the front room of their building is being transformed into a completely remodelled lounge.

"We encourage members and their guests to come in and enjoy the facilities, as soon as they are completed. We want the public to visit us."

Beck reports the basement meeting rooms have been revamped and says they are available for use by the village's many service groups and organizations for a very small fee.

Beck says he got involved in the Legion because of his father, who was a veteran and past-presdient Dwight Hutt.

"Dwight (Hutt) still puts in hundreds of hours managing and selling our Nevada tickets. That's a very big job."

The president pointed out that all money dispensed to local causes is voted on by the membership. It is donated month by month.

"The money we raise and give to the community, from such a small branch, is the envy of our entire Zone (G). Everyone wonders how we do it. Well we can do it because of our members and the work they do. We want to be able to help this community for years to come. But we will need to keep our numbers growing".

"Small communities like ours need organizations like the Legion or Lions. I don't want everyone to think we are the only ones raising money to help others," Beck pointed out.

"Government funding for a lot of things just isn't there any more. Where would they be without this type of fundraising?"

"That's why I am, and the executive, are involved in the Legion. We like to help.

Beck says he just wants people to realize what the Legion is all about, "we will try and help when ever we can. We are proud of what we do."

Friday Winchester Branch 108 donated another $50,000 to the Winchester District Memorial Hospital's HELP fund.

They pledged $50,000 to the arena expansion project on condition of government approval of support funding.

Another $6,000 went to support the North Dundas Minor Hockey Association.

Winchester Skating Club received $3,000 to support their operation for 1991-92.

Seven local players playing with the Rideau/St. Lawrence "AA" Minor Hockey Association received support to the tune of $700.

Local arthritis, diabetes associations; the TR Leger School, Nationview Public School, as well as two families who were fire victims also received help from Branch 108.

Public input sought on long-term care

by Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — Local residents will soon have the opportunity to voice their concerns about long-term care for seniors and the physically disabled.

Minister of Health Frances Lankin recently announced the launching of a public consultation aimed at changing Ontario's direction for long-term and support services. The consultations will be conducted with interested groups and individuals such as seniors, physically disabled, caregivers and service groups.

The first scheduled locally-held meeting will be held Jan. 22, 1992 at Park Lane Villa in Williamsburg, although other meetings are being planned, says Cal Martell, Community Health and Support Services Division community development coordinator.

The division's 14 area offices, which report to the Ministry of Community and Social Services (MCSS), are helping communities organize the local consultations.

A paper released by Lankin Oct. 31 , on behalf of her ministry and the Ministry of Citizenship, outlines the government's principal goals, and priorities for the redirection of long-term care and raises issues for public discussion.

As part of the re-direction, the government will increase spending on services which enable the elderly and persons with disablities to stay in their homes.

Funding for long-term care and support services will increase over the next five years with the government planning to invest an additional $647.6 million annually by 1996-97.

The bulk of the money will be set aside for community-based programs but the government plans to spend approximately $207 million on facility care.

"One part of the strategy is to improve the quality of life in institutions but not to increase the number of beds," says Martell.

Some the new directions proposed by the government include reducing disparities in service across the province, promoting greater community participation in services and creating agencies to coordinate services.

Larry Gray, Winchester Village reeve and member of advisory group organizing consultations for SD&G, Prescott and Russell, says coordinating agencies are needed to let area residents know what services are available.

A provincially-funded coordination agency in Cornwall now helps place seniors in nursing homes and homes for the aged but its scope needed to be expanded to include other services, he says.

Consultations in this area will likely include meetings and individual discussions with concerned residents and facilities, he says.

They will finish by March and new proposals for redirection of long-term care should be underway by Jan. 1993, says Martell adding the government has already initiated such programs as the seniors' centre in Ingelside and the seniors' outreach program in Williamsburg.

"However many of the long-term changes will take longer to implement," he says.

Anyone wanting information on the paper or the consultations can call 1-800-668-1697.

Wife assault

A recent survey asked Canadian men if they had ever used violence against their wives or female partners.

One in five said yes.

They admitted to acts ranging from throwing objects to punching, from shoving to slapping, from verbal threats to using a knife or a gun.

A frightening statistic. But then the whole issue of violence against women is full of similar shocking facts.

Seventy-five per cent of men who assault their wives witness their own fathers assaulting their mothers. Wife assault tends to continue from one generation to the next.

Today's children locked into homes where parental violence occurs could be the batterers of tomorrow. The cycle of violence must be stopped.

However, the current expensive and slick advertising campaign sponsored by the provincial government is hardly the answer.

Improved legal protection for women would be a positive first step. Instead of releasing abusive partners with little more than a slap on the wrist, legislators should be imposing stiffer sentences and fines along with compulsory counselling.

Educating judges, who are at the top rung of the Canadian legal hierarchy and come into contact with both the victim and the assaulter, is of the upmost importance as well. Too often the male- dominated judicial system seems ready to dismiss wife assault as a marital dispute best kept out of the courtroom— an attitude that belongs in the dark ages.

Public education has its place, but only if it is backed up with the necessary support from law enforcement, justice systems, women's shelters and prevention programs, can society really begin to battle the violence these battered women experience during their lives.

Promises, promises

Two words were on the lips of many candidates who ran in the recent municipal election— improved communication.

Early in the campaign, candidates were quick to pick up on the impatience of taxpayers who felt they were being kept in the dark about important matters or were being forced to wait while council made its biggest decisions behind closed doors.

As the days wound down towards the November 12 election, the issue gained momentum and ratepayers began to expand on their feelings of alienation with the elected body responsible for governing their community.

Only time will tell whether the promises made in the heat of a campaign will be turned into fact or fiction as council embarks on its three-year term.

Wild kingdom revisited: Hockey parentus

As autumn wanes and the Great Canadian Northland settles in for the long haul of winter, nature and wildlife prepare for their annual hibernation.

The bears, plump with berries and other fruits of the forest, amble towards their caves.

Squirrels rush after those last few nuts to store, before curling up contented in their nests.

Beavers pull in the last few tender shoots before their waters freeze up for the duration.

But as these and other animals wind down for the winter months, another two-legged creature begins to shake off its summer sluggishness, to become more active during the colder season—the hockey parent.

It populates frigid, cave-like arenas, or occasionally can be found lining the boards of the outdoor skating rink.

It can be found in this favorite stomping ground at any hour, though it does tend to gather in greater numbers in the early mornings and late evening hours.

The hockey mom or dad subsists almost exclusively on coffee the consistency of soup, with a high enough octane of caffeine to open the eyes of the most sleep-deprived of its species.

This dietary staple is often supplemented by junk food, though not necessarily.

Accompanied by their young, the hockey parent characteristically exhibits the herding behavior, leading the young from one arena to another; sometimes traveling great distances just to show their young another new arena.

Once inside the arena, they tend to cluster under any light source or appliance that might possibly give off some semblance of heat. This occurs despite the fact the hockey parent wraps him or herself in turtlenecks, mittens, gloves, sweaters, coats, scarves and toques.

(Hockey parents have usually lost any fashion sense they might have possessed in an attempt to stay warm.)

Encounters between two or more of the species can be quite interesting, producing a variety of behaviors.

In the early mornings, the hockey parent usually limits itself to monosyllabic grunts and utterances.

However, as the day progresses and the quantity of coffee consumed exceeds safe levels, it can become more talkative and excited upon meeting..

Habitually, a portion of its population can even become volatile and abusive. But in such circumstances their aggressive behavior is usually focused on another two-legged creature, from a different family grouping, called the referee.

Such behavior is usually acceptable amongst other hockey parents, but the more offensive of the species must be watched in case their assault changes from a verbal tact to a more threatening, physical attack.

Similarly, a small portion of the species has been known to turn on its young, submitting it to a barbaric verbal barrage.

In these instances, it seems to take great pleasure in berating its young with mind-numbing criticisms and soul-destroying attacks on the young's abilities or character.

Although there has been much debate on the proper method with which to control this more hostile sector of the species, I am firm in my belief that controlled culling of the herd would prove an effective response in this area.

Don't you think so?

Remembrance Day ... that one autumn day each year when we pause, bow our heads and solemnly remember those who paid so dearly for the freedom we enjoy. It would almost seem even 'Mother Nature', aware of the horrors of war, always blankets the sun behind a cold grey haze on that eleventh hour of the eleventh day of the eleventh month. Dual cenotaphs at Metcalfe revere the names of Osgoode Township men who made the ultimate sacrifice in the two world wars. Names engraved in the WWI granite plinth have been dimmed by the ravishes of weather and time. Perhaps when the newly-elected council assumes office, steps will be taken to refinish the 70-year-old memorial. Glancing across the large crowd assembled, misty eyes were clearly visible as our kid brother Jim (a war veteran himself) read the long list of those who died far from home and loved ones. Because some readers have requested the names be published, we consider it a pleasure to be of assistance. Here they are. 1914-1918: Harry Elliott, Colin Sinclair, Charles Goodwillie, Findlay Stuart, Russell Morrow, Gordon Henderson, John Morgan, Russell Dow, Edward Lowe, David McNight, Lorne Carson, Victor Scott, John Crerar, Maynard Hill, Jesse Humphrey, John Bird, Thomas King, William Barclay, Medric Laneau, Herbert Bowen, Allen Dow, Russell Carkner, Charles McConnell, Oscar McDonald, James Dempsey, Calvin Bower. 1939-1945: Walter Anderson, Harold Armstrong, George Birtch, Kendon Boyd, Nairn Boyd, Roy Burns, Keith Cameron, Duncan Carkner, Evan Desjardins, Eugene Faubert, David Gilliland, William Gillissie, Clayton Hall, Eldred Johnston, Roy Kennedy, Oswald Linton, Glen Loney, William McCooeye, and Oliver McEvoy.

With your permission (as if you had any choice) a few more comments on the colorful Armistice Day ceremony in our home town. What may well have been a record crowd expressed pleasure at the presence of Royal Canadian Legion members and armed forces personnel including veterans of the recent Gulf conflict. Prayers of remembrance and prayers for continuing peace were offered by our good neighbor Rev. Casey (McKibbon) and, although other students conducted services in their respective schools, the Christian Reform classes all marched to the cenotaphs and laid a wreath. Although we respect the marvels of modern technology we humbly suggest that a 'tape' can never take the place of a real live buglar. And one more thing, an oversight for sure — but a mighty painful one for those concerned. Our wonderful mother-in-law is 94 years of age and a member of the local seniors organization (Wednesday Club). Because she was one of very few with poignant memories of those who served in the 'war to end all wars', she had been asked to participate in the wreath-laying segment of the program. Braving the inclement weather she was on hand, eager and willing to play her small role in honoring the memory of men she once knew. One by one the floral tributes were tenderly laid in place, but the lady most people know as 'Aunt Rose' was never called. Suppose if this happened in England they'd simply say 'pity'. But this is Canada, and what we said can't be printed in this family newspaper.

Footnote: Later, after the crowd had dispersed, someone found a band of flowers and, escorted by a Legionnaire, she did lay a wreath... one minus an identifying ribbon. Maybe next year, when Grandma's 95, she'll be accorded the honor she was robbed of this time.

Following the cenotaph ceremony, a man, admiring the attractive Township of Osgoode 'coat of arms', wondered about the significance of the 'ship's wheel'. We wanted to explain but weren't really all that sure. So we hedged. That won't happen again! Here's why. Designed in the township's Sesqui-Centennial Year (1977) it depicts the township's birth this way. The Beaver represents the fur-bearing animal that brought in the early trappers. The Castor River in Osgoode Township was also named after this animal. The log fence and ploughed ground are a reminder of the early farming settlers. The wheel is a symbol to represent those who arrived in the wilderness country by steam or paddle boat. The strips of blue on each side of the wheel stand for the two rivers running through the township — the Rideau and Castor rivers. The maple trees bring to mind the pioneers making maple sugar and maple syrup. Maple trees and pine trees stand for the logging and lumbering carried on by ancestors. The crest is encircled by a horseshoe, a reminder of the animal used by the pioneers in travel, logging and farming. The horseshoe holds forever the continued good luck in Osgoode Township. The crown represents the United Kingdom; the Maple leaf, Canada; and the trillium, Ontario.

OUT MY WINDOW

The ferry line

by Tony Welland

The elderly woman behind me pushes roughly past toward the ticket counter. I take exception, place my elbow and shoulder firmly on her and move her unceremoniously back to where she was. As much as I hate lines, I hate line jumpers even more. I'm into this line now, I'm not going to back off an inch. An hour passes.

Mexican queue are live entertainment. Normally I hate lineups, but I want to cross the Sea of Cortez from Baja to the mainland.

All three lines converge at the counter, squash toward the three tiny holes, and seem to merge. People flow from one line to another, queues widen and flatten at will. People from out of nowhere somehow get up to the tiny holes. Sometimes great arguments erupt. People move in front of me with excellent stories about how they have just been sent here by some unseen official and told to go straight to the front.

A Canadian is one of these interlopers with a fantastic story. I ask him why he has stepped in front of me. I'm polite, but firm. I'm not angry or irritable in this lineup any more, just fascinated. He says he has been in the lineup since 5am — for the past three days!

I have little sympathy for him. He has a loud voice, a rude approach, a demeaning comment about everything and anything Mexican. I am embarassed to even have him talk to me. I don't want anyone to think I know him or that he could be my friend. He will not speak even one word of Spanish. He's been in Baja for 40 days. He clearly deserves to suffer from the "system" that is tangling him, chewing him up and spitting him out for another, later taste.

I believe all the stories. There is a lady who has butted in just in front of the ugly Canadian. I don't question her because the elderly lady, still behind me, has already grabbed her roughly by the shoulder, spun her around, and had a few very fast, abrupt words with her. She was obviously satisfied with her no-doubt incredible story about why she was told to go to the front of the line that has no tickets to sell! If this rough, elderly lady would accept the story, I am bound to.

The interloping lady takes her place at the front. I watch the face in the tiny hole look down and write out ticket after ticket for her. But where are these tickets to? It's sold out! Another hour passes. I am still third in my well-defended position in my very short lineup. The interloping lady is passed about 10 tickets. The elderly lady reaches around me (and the ugly Canadian) and stuffs a handful of crumpled money into the backward reaching hand of the interloper, below the counter. I can only smile to myself.

Now second in line, successfully warding off all new attacks from the rear, I watch the ugly Canadian actually get satisfaction. He is so happy to get tickets from the man behind the tiny window (who he loudly insists can speak English but just won't), he beams and regales me with more obnoxious horror stories. "Tickets are just a start. Lots of people never get on the boat even if they do have tickets." My new 'friend' assures me that far more tickets are sold than spots on the boat. What a guy!

Getting a sniff of the end of the line, of the time that I will have to perform, I start feeling around in my pocket for the note. My sister Jill wrote it for me, in Spanish, just in case I ever got into a position where I could use it. I sift through maybe 10 or 12 pieces of crumpled, stained paper, all the notes and receipts and used Rolaid wrappers accumulated since I last washed my pants. I find it. It looks fresh, folded and gritty, but clear and precise. Translated it reads roughly, "I would like a ticket for my family on the upper deck. My wife and children and I will sleep in our van, so we need to park it on the top deck." Jill, in her amazing way, has discovered that this one tidbit of knowledge will deliver success. We have to get up on top of the ferry to be in the fresh air. The key word here is "arriba', up!

While I wait for the man behind the tiny hole to acknowledge me, a gorgeous senorita squeezes underneath me and up to the window. I am speechless and actionless. The Canadian now leaves, telling me he hopes it won't take me three days of lineups to finally get tickets to the wrong destination. I agree with him, watch him leave, and then turn and announce with a broad grin to the four young men behind me in line that, although a beautiful senorita can squeeze by me, they don't stand a chance.

It's my turn now. My past two hours have not been entirely wasted. I am an observer of success and I have seen much of it here today. I reach deep into my pocket, find my soiled and wrinkled note, now memorized, and tell the man behind the tiny window that my family, especially my three little boys, are anxiously awaiting their ferry trip tonight. My sister, a nun, made me reservations for today but they must somehow have gotten misplaced. Perhaps she did not know how to leave the necessary documents with him.

This entire eloquent appeal is made in Spanish that I am sure would horrify even the most illiterate Spanish language student. Even the senorita looks impressed with my attempt and says so as she waits beside me for her non-existent tickets to be written out.

The man calls over the two other officials and explains my story. They start speaking loudly and angrily to him, shaking their heads violently 'no'. They leave and the man tells me that there are no tickets, that even if there were I couldn't possibly get one without a reservation, that I should go to the reservation lineup and wait to make a reservation for more than a week from now, and could I please stand aside so that the next people, with reservations, could get their tickets.

I lean on the counter, smile at him and thank him very much, and ask if he could please repeat what he has just said, but slower, because I can't understand a word he has just said. He repeats everything again, and so do I, always smiling, thankful and polite, but firmly planted in his window. He then says to me, in perfect, excellent English, that I should just stand back from the window, be patient, and he will do his best to get me on the ferry. I thank him again, smile again, and move back from my positon.

The big gruff supervisor who had so violently been shaking his head in condemnation of my request appears by my side in the crowd and calls me aside. He has a tape measure and wants to measure my car. Does this mean I'm on the ferry, I ask? Yes. Yes? Yes! We measure, argue over the measurement, the price. He wins, of course. We go back to another window. The other 'violently no- shaking person', the woman, very pleasantly starts filling out forms. I help her. She tells me now to go back to my line, to the front of it! I have joined the blessed.

Reflections:

WWII memories vivid for Russell veterans

by Patty Fuller
Special to the Press

RUSSELL—The following are the stories of two Russell veterans who fought in the Second World War.

EWART CAMPBELL

"She must've had an awful lot of worrying to do," concedes Ewart Campbell when asked how his mother coped with having six of her eight sons fighting in World War II.

Ewart has lived in Russell Village most of his life. The Campbell Building which now houses Forster's Flowers and Re/Max on Concession St. was named after him since he owned it for many years.

His family lived in the house directly across from where the museum is located.

Ewart enlisted in the army at the age of 20, on Jan. 12 1942. He left for Ottawa on the "troop train" which travelled the New York City Railway through Russell Village. Accompanying him were his brother Donald and friends Harold Presley and James McNaught, also of Russell.

However, Ewart didn't remain with the "Russell lads" for long since he was transferred to another division. He spent most of the war working as a wireless mechanic in England.

Although six of the Campbell brothers were overseas, they were "never all together" until after their return to Canada. Ewart says he and younger brother, Keith, "used to spend the odd weekend together" in England but they didn't see each other often.

Ewart remembers seeing the "Flying Fortresses" droning overhead "just like a swarm of flies," on their way to Holland and Germany. At dawn he would watch them return, "some were on fire, some smoking. I guess a lot didn't come back."

BOMBING

He also recalls a German plane dropping a bomb on the searchlight at his base after soldiers fired at it. The bomb made a hole 30 feet deep and 15 feet across and knocked the men atop the watch tower flying through the air.

Although Ewart wasn't directly involved in the fighting, his brother Keith was wounded the day the allies crossed the Rhine River. A letter home to his mother described the injuries as two bullet holes in the back of the left leg above the knee and a bullet wound which knocked off "the top of the right kneecap."

Keith requested to be taken to the 24th Canadian General Hospital in England where Dr. Kinnaird and nurse Jean Loucks, both from Russell, were serving.

"It was quite nice to have someone from home, being a kid of only 18," says Ewart of his brother.

Ewart believes "guys were more patriotic" during the Second World War, and they "clung more to the King and the Crown." He never considered not enlisting in the war effort, since all of his friends and his older brothers joined.

Ewart's brothers who served in the war were Harold, Dalton, Keith, Ken and Donald.

KEN DUGDALE

Travelling back from the grain harvest in the Prairies in the autumn of 1941 proved to be a turning point in Ken Dugdale's life. He met a number of airmen on the train who were on leave before going overseas.

"I got talking to them and I decided it was too good a life to miss," he says.

Dugdale had been working on the family farm five miles north of Russell, but the thought of being in the air force was too exciting to resist. He enlisted on Dec. 3 in Ottawa.

"I guess people are inquisitive," says Dugdale of his desire to join the war, "I was (interested) after World War I." He had a series of books about the war as a child, "and I read them all twice."

When Dugdale arrived in England on Christmas Eve in 1943, he couldn't have had any idea he would be embarking on a journey which is the stuff epic movies and books are made of.

Dugdale was eventually assigned to a crew in bomber command with six other men. He describes the crew as "closer than brothers or family."

On the crew's eighteenth trip, life for the men changed forever.

The plane was flying over occupied Holland when a German shell came up and hit the left outside propeller, tearing it off and leaving gas and electrical lines exposed. Debris hit the inside propeller, tearing it off as well.

DELAYED EXIT

The pilot was left with no choice but to stabilize the plane and order everyone to jump. Dugdale, the mid-upper gunner, tried to exit through the door near the tail. However, debris had scarred the side of the plane and the door wouldn't open.

After pounding the door several times with a fire extinguisher and becoming progressively weaker, Dugdale managed to kick it open.

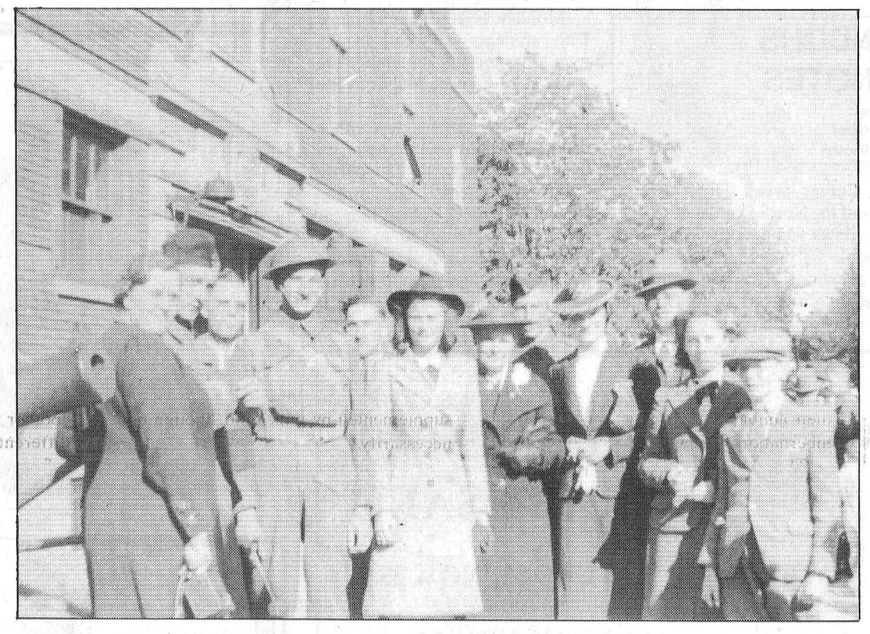
Dugdale says the next thing he remembers is looking up and seeing the ropes of his parachute extending above "a lovely white cloud. I thought I was in heaven, it's so quiet up there, and the parachutes were coming down in a semi-circle around the plane."

He landed in a field and was almost immediately surrounded by German soldiers who, upon seeing a cut above Dugdale's eye and his "problems" standing, presumed he would die soon, and ran off to capture another prisoner.

As soon as they left, Dugdale buried his parachute and sweater in a trench and ran.

He spent the next few days hiding in ditches with blackened face and hands and spending the nights running. He even slept under a rack of drying beans for a day.

Finally Dugdale made contact with a Dutch couple who hid him in their potato field and brought him food until a man from the underground found him a place to stay in the Gratama household in Dordrecht, Holland.



A fond farewell to a soldier bound for overseas.

Many women contributed to the war effort by joining the forces. Some Russell residents, like E.J. Kyle who is pictured above, invited women stationed in Ottawa for weekends in the country.

HIDDEN IN PLAIN SIGHT

The underground provided Dugdale with new identification papers, which changed his name to Peter Bosman. He remained in the Gratama home for three months, and at one point was staying in a room right next to two Nazi soldiers, who had been billeted there.

When Dugdale learned he had a 50 per cent chance of escape, he took it. The next few weeks were spent moving towards the front lines, riding in the back of a tanker truck, "moving around like rats, sleeping in barns."

Dugdale and his companions were caught trying to cross the river out of occupied Holland. They were interrogated and forced to march across Holland and 20 miles into Germany. They were then shipped to a prisoner of war camp in boxcars. It was winter, half of the prisoners were sick, there was no water available.

Dugdale and his fellow prisoners were released May 8, 1945. He says the television coverage of prisoners of war during the Gulf War brought back memories of his experience. "I can feel for the prisoners. I can know what they're going through," he says.

Many of the veterans of the wars are reluctant to speak about their experiences. "The average serviceman forgets about it and doesn't talk much about it," says Dugdale.

Perhaps books like the one Ken Dugdale is writing about his experiences will help show future generations just how terrifying and unnecessary war really is.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Poster proliferation

The Editor:

As a municipal taxpayer and voter in yesterday's election I was pleased to see most candidates, verbally and in their advertising, promoting a greater awareness and concern for the environment.

Perhaps the first test of their resolve will be the prompt clean-up of the profusion of election posters throughout the village and surrounding townships.

A concerned citizen

Thanks very mulch

The Editor:

I would like to extend a big thank you to all the leaf collectors — including the town staff — for their help in the recent pick-up.

There is a pile of leaves as high as my head and as long as the garbage truck at Oak Valley, waiting to be spread around the trees.

It will be a big help. Many thanks.

Principal takes homework to task

SD&G students to benefit from new consulting service

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — Fighting low grades on report cards may seem like a hopeless battle for some students.

It's a feeling Winchester Public School Principal George Hollingdrake experienced as a Grade 10 high school dropout. Only later when he finished night school and university did he realize he was capable of doing the work, reveals Hollingdrake.

"If I was organized I could do the work... I wasn't stupid," he says.

That's why Hollingdrake, with the help of his daughter Tracey, is starting his own part-time consulting business to show students in the SD&G area how to tackle school work — a skill that makes or breaks most students.

"Its main function is to help those students who are failing and not finding any success in school —not that they're not capable but they're not organized," he adds.

The service will offer more than just tutoring, which usually focuses on one specific subject, he says. Hollingdrake will work with both students and parents in their homes to teach them such skills as setting up a homework schedule and study techniques.

"If you put it in a systematic way, homework is not that difficult," notes Hollingdrake.

His target group will be students in the grades 5-to-8 range — a time when developing good work habits may determine the rest of the student's academic career, he says.

A student's organizational skills are usually developed through assignments however, "it's not necessarily taught at school but it's expected," he reveals.

Some students need more guidance but there aren't enough resources available to handle all children who have this problem, especially in elementary schools. He adds often the problem has to be dealt with at the family level, as parents need to be shown how to encourage their children to complete their assignments.

"One of the problems with kids today is unfortunately the family unit isn't as strong and the support falls down," he explains.

According to Bill Roddy, SD & G Public School Board superintendent of education, there are trained teachers who can help elementary students in the classroom, but he says there are always children who need more of a one-on-one approach.

Although teachers consult with parents, the board only does intensive family counselling in severe situations. The SD&G Catholic School Board offers the same services.

"The school system never pretends it can do everything. Any other services available to help children do well are of value," says Roddy, adding he is sure Hollingdrake will offer quality assistance.

"The public system would never second-guess someone who has the background George has," he says.

Hollingdrake has worked in education for 24 years, the last 12 as a principal. His daughter, who holds an Honors Bachelor of Commmerce degree from Queen's University in Kingston and is currently working at a financial investment firm in Toronto , will mainly act as a resource person.

The services will also offer career planning for high school students.

"Tracey will mainly help with that," he indicates.

Hollingdrake may also hire tutors on a part-time basis if they are needed.

The service will likely cost between $80-$100 for six weekly sessions and will operate separately from his duties as principal, he says.

Hollingdrake says he hopes to have the business running by January 1992.

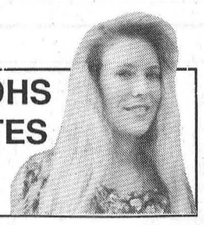
Students honor war dead in Monday ceremony

This week was rather slow around North Dundas. About the only thing happening, other than the usual school work, was career week.



NDDHS NOTES
by Hazel Booth

Career week is an annual event for North Dundas students. It allows students to speak with people of different careers and occupations. This year, students could choose one of four panels to attend. The panels included careers in law, community and social services, business and agriculture and natural resources. As an added bonus, two 'Start to finish' T-shirts were given away at the end of each panel session.

Monday, being Remembrance Day, students gathered in the gym to honor and remember the many soldiers who fought in the wars.

There are just a few other dates you might want to mark on the calendar. Nov. 18-22 is Drug Awareness Week. The junior achievement will take place in the gym on Nov. 20 at 2pm. December 6 marks the date for the air band dance and, finally, only 27 school days left 'till Christmas vacation!

There's a lot of truth in Schneiders slogan, "Taste the difference quality makes." If you compare a few labels, you'll never find the phrase "May Contain" on any Schneiders meat package.
Schneiders still make their products the same way J.M. did back at the turn of the century...using fresh meat, smoked to perfection over hardwood fires.
And to make sure you're getting more value, Schneiders trim their meat a special way...so that you get more meat and less fat.
People still keep coming back for more...you can still taste the difference quality makes.

Native commissioner advocates open discussion on sexual abuse

Elizabeth Moreau
Special to the Press

WINCHESTER—Talking openly about domestic violence and child sexual abuse is the first step toward solving the problem in small communities, says Mary Sillett, a member of the Royal Commission on Aboriginal Peoples.

"Every time someone speaks up...we are one step closer to dealing with the problem," she told board members of Naomi's Family Resource Centre, a Winchester shelter for battered women and their children.

Sillett, who is from Labrador, described how Inuit women have brought the subject of abuse out from behind closed doors, and encouraged victims in Northern communities to come forward.

"(The subject) has become high profile in the North partly because Inuit women have had the courage to talk about it," she said.

Sillett, past president of Pauktuutit, the Inuit Women's Association, said there is no evidence to indicate sexual abuse is more prevalent in the North than in southern Canada.

But the ramifications of abuse in small communities are different than in larger urban centres.

"In the North, child sexual abuse is tearing us apart," she said.

"In small communities, every victim is someone we know personally...We are acquainted with or related to the abusers...Some of the abusers are highly respected members of the community."

In 1990, Pauktuutit received federal funds for a study on child sexual abuse in Inuit communities.

Their report, called "No more secrets," showed that 85 per cent of health care professionals, police, and social and child welfare workers knew of a case of child sexual abuse.

"It is indeed a reality in our communities," she said. "But it is vastly under-reported."

Sillett said while the report may have "opened up some wounds, it acknowledges a problem exists and allows the healing to begin."

She said people in small communities, both in the North and in southern rural areas, need to openly discuss the issues of domestic violence and child sexual abuse in their own communities.

"I don't think anyone from the outside can solve the problems," she said.

She said it's often the women in a community who take the initiative to organize and look for solutions.

"For the most part, it's the women who've been abused. They feel it...And as mothers, women will want to protect their children at all costs."

She said people in small communities should meet in small groups and discuss what can be done to encourage disclosures of abuse.

"As a group, (people) are much stronger in addressing these issues because they're very sensitive ones."

Although the issues of domestic violence and child abuse are becoming part of public discussion, the problems in the North are still far from being solved.

Isolation, a lack of treatment services, prevention programs and emergency shelters are all problems which plague Northern communities, as well as many small rural communities.

Pauktuutit's report recommends developing more services in the North.

"We've gone from seeing (abuse) as an individual problem too shameful to talk about," Sillett said, "to seeing it as a serious social problem which is everyone's problem to address."

Reform Party to hold meeting at Maple Ridge

MAPLE RIDGE — The Stormont Dundas interim constituency association of the Reform Party of Canada will hold its first general meeting on Nov. 19, 1991 at the North Dundas District High School.

The meeting marks the final phase in formal recognition as a riding association.

The association now has 163 members and has been growing at a rate of about 30 members a month over the last two months.

It is expected that the standard constitution will be adopted and the Board of Directors elected.

The guest speaker for the evening will be Bob Armstrong, the newly appointed member of the national executive.

The meeting will also mark the start of the program whereby the Reform Party members and general public of Stormont Dundas will be asked to help define the issues that they think should be dealt with during the next federal election campaign.

For further information contact Richard Mitchell at 652-4003 evenings, or 678-2023 work; or Shirley Armstrong at 534-2568, evenings.

COC battles sagging attendance

WINCHESTER — Organizers are hoping fewer gatherings may help alleviate sagging attendance at Winchester's Chamber of Commerce meetings.

Usually only 10 to 15 of the chamber's 94 members attend the organization's monthly meetings, says Treasurer Brian Mann, although approximately 30 members attended an information session about Winchester's water situation at the last meeting.

"With no pressing issues, it's hard to get people to come out," he says.

As a result, the chamber is now considering holding quarterly sessions for members and instituting an eight-person board of directors to attend monthly meetings.

Right now the chamber has only two executive members acting as treasurer and secretary. The president and vice-president resigned in February at the end of their terms.

No election was held because there aren't usually enough members present at the meetings to vote, says Mann.

He feels eight elected board members could take some of the workload off the executive and provide more in put.

Mann adds he will investigate other local Chambers of Commerce to see if they follow the same board of directors format.

"I think most operate that way now," he concludes.

Widowed Support Group takes trip

CHESTERVILLE — The widowed support group of Stormont and Dundas, along with many friends, went to Lake Placid on Oct. 26.

The group enjoyed a delicious meal at the Holiday Inn which overlooks Mirror Lake.

A guide joined the bus trip and took them on a very informative trip of the area.

At the last meeting, the guest speaker was Michele Brochu, an OPP officer from Casselman, who gave members a talk on home and street safety for the single person.

The next meeting of the Widowed Support Group will be on Mon., Nov. 18 at 7:30pm in St. Mary's Hall, Chesterville.

Amateur theatre group flying high with comedy production Boeing-Boeing

by Sue Knippel
Special to the Press

ENNISKERRY— They've done it again — the local amateur theatre group, Isle in the River Review, has come up with yet another winner.

Their two-act comedy, Boeing-Boeing, has been flying high for its first three performances since its first takeoff Thursday evening at St. John's Hall in Enniskerry. And they've provided many a laugh for those wise enough to hop aboard for the flight of fancy.

The scene throughout is a Parisian bachelor pad — but a special one that is home to not one, but three, lovely fiances of the suave and usually organized man-about-town, Bernard, convincingly played by Garnet Quaile of Vernon.

With no real intention of wedding any of them, Bernard has convinced each of the girls, all airline stewardesses, that she is his one and only — through careful planning with their different airline schedules.

Manotick's Laura Gonis made a successful stage debut as the American stewardess, Janet, complete with southern drawl.

Yvette Roberge-Venditti, also of Manotick, returned for a second time with ITR this year to portray the lovely Air France hostess, Jacqueline — and lovely she was indeed.

But, without doubt, the most entertaining of the three was Lufthansa's Judith, with Meredith Gilbert-Brophy of Dalmeny providing the German accent —as well as the hot, hot, hot scene that drew special applause for at least one performance. (Her debut with ITR was as Felicity Fair in its spring melodrama, Caught in the Villain's Web.)

The most important roles in the play, the two that hold the entire storyline together, are those of the housekeeper, Bertha, and the visiting "old school friend" Robert.

In spite of being a little classy for the style of housekeeper she portrays, Manotick's Eve Spraggs (now an ITR stage veteran with four roles under her belt) plays the part of Bertha beautifully.

With both feet truly on the ground, she manages Bernard's strange lifestyle, changing photos and menus as the flight schedules demand — but not without copious complaining. She is priceless.

And Ron Watson of Kemptville, back for a third time with ITR, is wonderful in the role of Robert. With Bertha, he is forced into coping with most of the problems that ensue when each airline's advancement to the Super Boeings combine with weather problems to throw the time schedules all askew.

A true babe-in-the woods when it comes to Bernard's frantic lifestyle, he copes hilariously — and comes out of it all a more knowledgeable and happier man.

ITR stage veteran Bob Papp of Manotick who, with the assistance of his wife Susan, directed Boeing-Boeing, deserves much credit for the excellent production.

If any criticism could be made, it is that the many "kisses" between the actors were less than authentic and the embraces just a wee touch stilted. This is merely a reflection of the natural reserve of most Canadians — and a reminder that it is, after all, amateur theatre in a community where many, thankfully, still feel strong loyalty to their spouses.

For those of you yet to see Boeing-Boeing, watch those doors. There are six of them — no mean feat according to long-time ITR set designer Ross Batstone. Three doors are the norm on most ITR sets, and this script called for seven. But six were the most that could be managed, given the limited stage size, according to Batstone.

The split-second timing of the entrances and exits through those many doors are an integral part of the play. The cast handles them beautifully.

Boeing-Boeing runs for three more performances this week, from Nov. 14 to 16. Call 822-1470 or 826-2286 for tickets, but don't be surprised if they're mighty scarce — most of their performances are sellouts.

Branch 589 remembers

by Sue Knippel
Special to the Press

This year's Remembrance Day activities were shared by many members of the Royal Canadian Legion Osgoode Branch 589.

More than 100 attended the Remembrance Day Dinner held at the Osgoode Legion Nov. 9. A number of awards were presented on this occasion.

On the morning of Nov. 10, a color party from the Osgoode Legion participated in Remembrance Day ceremonies in Kenmore, an annual tradition.

That afternoon, local Scouting and Guiding groups, as well as many local residents, joined with Legion members for an ecumenical service in the Legion Hall, followed by the laying of wreaths at the Cenotaph.

A final salute was made on Remembrance Day itself —at the Cenotaph at the Township Hall in Metcalfe.

Continuing their service and fellowship with the community, members of the Osgoode Legion have a few special functions lined up for next month.

A Wine and Cheese Party will be held Dec. 7 in the Legion Hall on Stewart Street. It runs from 7 to 10pm, and special organ music will be supplied by the talented Glen Cochrane. Admission is $7.50 per person.

All Osgoode children are invited to attend a Children's Christmas Party, from 1 to 4 p.m. on Dec. 8. There will be lots of games, balloons and prizes, as well as a hay or sleigh ride (depending on the weather) —and an appearance by a very special surprise visitor!

On New Year's Eve, the Legion will open its doors to the community for a New Year's Eve Bash. A $12.50 entry fee will provide party favors, a buffet dinner and music by a DJ. It starts at 9pm and runs until 2am.

Further information about these functions is available by calling Linda Terry at 826-2284.

Mountain Musings

by Shirley Mills

Nationview Public School in South Mountain will again be holding a book sale. This will be in the school on Thurs., Nov. 21 from 4-9pm and on Fri., Nov. 22 from 9am-4pm. This sale will be covering both new and used books, and if you have any used books to donate, please have them at the school by Nov. 20.

While still on the subject of Nationview, any retakes of school pictures (for those who were absent or whose pictures didn't turn out well), will be on Nov. 21 at 9am.

Our congratulations to the children of Inkerman Public School. They collected over $412 for UNICEF when they were out on Halloween.

I saw an interesting thing the other day which still has me wondering. The railway men were out working on the tracks near my home with quite a few of those big machines. Then I noticed one of the workers climb down from the cab and crouch to put his ear to the rail. He then did the same thing with the other track. Gosh, I thought it was only kids who listened at the rails to get warning that a train was coming. Anyway, whether it was modern technology or old-fashioned savvy, it worked. When the train trundled past shortly after, the machines were on the other line.

Pilot project for E. Ontario

OTTAWA — Heritage Canada, a national, non- profit organization, is extending an open invitation to the people of Eastern Ontario to participate in its pilot Heritage Discovery Project.

The project aims to work within local communities in Prescott-Russell and Stormont-Dundas-Glengarry to promote and raise awareness of their heritage based on community priorities and consensus.

Two discovery teams for Eastern Ontario will be based in Rockland and Cornwall and will be travelling throughout the area to meet with as many people as possible. Heritage nights will be held in selected communities throughout Eastern Ontario where everyone who attends gets a chance to talk about what and who makes their community special.

Senior Devils good enough for A playoffs

MAPLE RIDGE—The North Dundas Devils won twice and lost eight of their 10 SD&G Senior girls high school basketball games but still qualified for the "A" Division semi-finals.

On the downside of making the playoffs is the fact the Devils must play the undefeated Char-Lan Crusaders in a one-game showdown. That match was played in Williamstown on Nov. 12.

Last week the Devils wrapped up their 10-game schedule, losing to both the Crusaders and Seaway Spartans.

Last Friday, in their final game of the regular season the Crusaders stopped the Devils, 57-38.

"We played the best game of the season," Senior Devils' coach Deanna Corbett-White said.

"Char-Lan is by far the best team in the league. And we were playing really well against them," she added.

At half time the Crusaders held a 25-23 lead and were able to put the game away in the second half.

"They just chipped away and chipped away and got a bigger lead on us," Corbett-White said.

The Devils' coach credited the entire team with having a strong defensive game.

But she added, "Tamara Bond played the best game that I have ever seen her play. She played solid defence and made some really good passes."

Last Wednesday the Seaway Spartans posted a 43-39 victory over North Dundas.

The Devils got off to a weak start as the Spartans took a 12-5 lead after a quarter. By the half it was 25-13 for the visitors.

North Dundas mounted a comeback in the second half outscoring the Spartans 15-13 and 11-5 in the fourth to finish within four points.

"We played much better in the second half. We really came on strong," the coach said. "It could have gone either way."

Rebecca Kennedy led the Devils offence scoring 16 points. Brenda Koekkoek sunk 10 while Heather Graham, Laura Zrymiak, Catie Clapp and Amy Vermilyea dunked a deuce each.

JUNIOR DEVILS

North Dundas' Junior Devils also completed their '91 season dropping their final two games.

Friday the Char-Lan Crusaders extended their unbeaten string beating the Devils 40-32.

Although the season ended with a 2-8 record Devils' coach Julie Lewis felt the team ended the season with a strong game against the Crusaders.

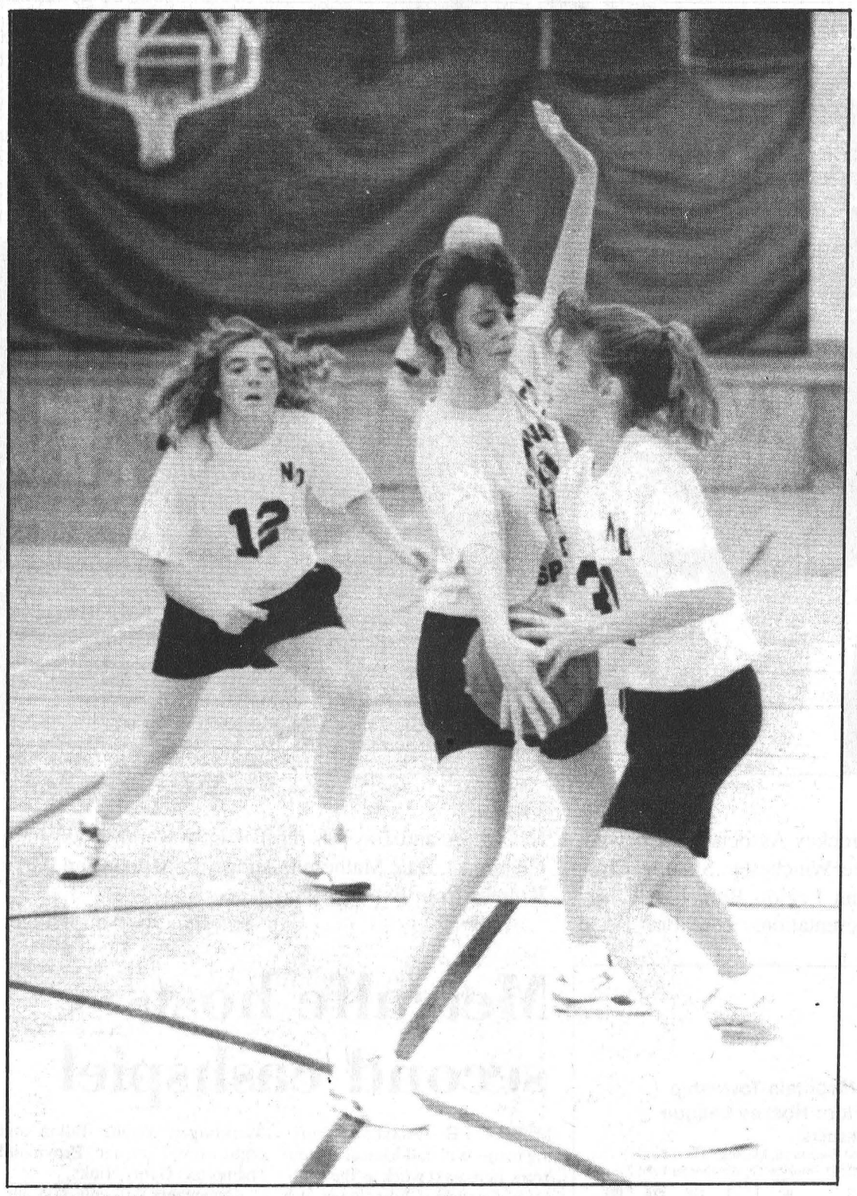
"We played really, really well. They played so much better than they had been playing. I was really pleased."

Last Wednesday the Devils lost a 32-18 decision to the visiting Seaway Spartans.

North Dundas trailed 9-4 after a quarter, 19-11 at the half and 27-15 after three periods.

Christine Harper led the Devils' attack hooping 11 points. Donna Riddell hit for four and Lauren Colbridge netted two. Lisa Prentiss was one for two from the line.

Jayme Hamilton was Seaway's sniper with 11 points.



Devils retired

The North Dundas Devils completed their 1991 SD&G basketball campaign hosting Tagwi and the Char-Lan Crusaders. Junior Devils' Andrea Lannin and Lauren Clobridge did battle with the Seaway Spartans in a loss last Wednesday.

Dodd scores six in weekend sweep

KEMPTVILLE—At the present time one of the sweetest deals made by Hawks' GM Bill Wammes seems to be the Dennis Dodd for Jeff Egan swap.

Wammes acquired the big 19-year old forward from the Metcalfe Jets for veteran Hawks' defenceman Egan several weeks ago and since then Dodd has piled up a total of 22 points.

Over the weekend Dodd, a Gloucester resident, scored double hat-tricks leading the Winchester Hawks to a 7-2 win over the Brockville Tikis at home last Friday night and a dramatic 5-4, overtime, victory over the 73s here Sunday evening.

"He (Dodd) isn't fast but he is big, steady on his feet and good around the net," explained Wammes. "He is always there."

Hawks' head coach Peter DeRooy agreed with his GM," Dennis was a big key to Sunday's win over Kemptville. He scored two times in the third period and then got the winner for us."

Winchester's two wins kept them even atop the St. Lawrence Division standings with the red-hot Morrisburg Lions. Both clubs have won 10 times and lost twice and are slowly pulling away from the pack.

"Friday against Brockville I think we played our first complete game. I mean we played three complete periods. We really dominated Brockville," coach DeRooy said.

The Hawks out-shot the Tikis 45-17 and out-scored them 7-2.

"Sunday in Kemptville we were flat. They were ahead of us 1-0 after a period. It was 2-1 and 4-1 for Kemptville but we came back in the final eight minutes," DeRooy explained.

"We played half a game. But I liked what I saw. The boys showed they could come back. I don't want them to do that every game."

DeRooy said Kemptville was playing hungry and he had his doubts when his team was down by three and the time hit the 10:00 mark. But the players dug deep and rallied for the win.

Dan Vajcovec gave the 73s their first period lead. Jason Quesnel netted the home team's second goal at 2:45 of period two.

Dominic Menard's shot put the Hawks on the board at 1:02 of period two. Steve Johnston and Todd Marcellus engineered the play.

Brent O'Reilly and Sean Audet scored on Shane Wittenburg early in the final frame and opened up some breathing room for Kemptville but the Hawks roared back to tie it up and send it to OT.

Dennis Dodd scored on a powerplay engineered by Scott Barkley and Kevin Tallman at 10:49. He hit again at 15:49 scoring from Menard and Greg Cream.

Todd Marcellus tied it up scoring from Bill Griffiths 10 seconds later and then Dodd put the winner into Peter Speziale's net at 1:30 of OT.

Doug Armstrong and Menard engineered the winning goal.

Friday in Winchester the Hawks were never threatened by the visiting Tikis as they took 3-0 and 4-2 leads to a 7-2 win.

The only time Brockville shooters beat Hawks' starter-winner Dale Wilson came on second-period powerplays.

Brian Byrnes and Mark Millward notched the Tiki goals.

Dennis Dodd fired up the Hawks' attack scoring three times and drawing an assist. Todd Marcellus, Steve Johnston, Dan Bottiglia and Martin Hughes (AP from the Casselman Stars) netted the other goals.

Assists went to Martin Pancirov (2), Jeff Hyndman, Derek Brannan, Martin Germain, Greg Cream and Bill Griffiths.

Missing action over the weekend due to illness or injury were Jeff Hyndman, Chris Williams, Dan Adams, Taj Schaffatt and Kevin Tallman.

This Friday (Nov. 15) the Hawks host the Alexandria Glens. Saturday they play South Grenville in Spencerville.

Jets honor Darcy Provost, club retires sweater No. 17

METCALFE—For seven seasons Darcy Provost proudly wore Metcalfe Jet sweater No. 17.

Last Friday night the Junior "B" club honoured their former defensive star with several presentations and the retirement of his jersey.

After spending his short minor hockey career in Russell and with the Ottawa Valley Titans, Provost joined the Junior "B" Jets in 1983.

That first season he was part of an Eastern Ontario Junior "B" championship and went on to play six more seasons with eight different coaches.

Over 205 games Provost collected 46 goals and 120 assists for a total of 166 points. The hard-hitting defender also compiled 758 minutes in penalties.

Provost also earned the Jets' award for Effort and Desire in 84-85 and then claimed five Top Defensive Player and two President's awards over the remainder of his career.

Bev Skillen who has been associated with the Jets' organization for 20 years stated, "What Darcy lacked in scoring talent he made up in hard work and hard hitting and went about it in a most gentlemanly fashion."

In thanking the star for his contribution to the Metcalfe Jets, special presentations were made by councillor Doug Thompson representing the Township of Osgoode, former Jet president Stuart Holmes on behalf of former teammates, fans and executive members and former coach Brian Kerfoot representing former coaches.

Hugh Ferguson, 1991 Jet club president, presented Provost's #17 sweater to the retiree and hoisted a banner to the arena rafters in his honor.

ON THE ICE

On the ice here Friday the Metcalfe Jets and Vanier Voyageurs squared off in a battle for first place in the EOJBHL's Metro Division.

Nothing was decided as the squads skated to a 5-5 overtime tie.

Hugh Ryan's slap-shot from the point changed direction on its way to the Jets' net and beat Scott LaFlamme between the legs with 1:02 left in the third period to tie the game 5-5.

Chuck Benoit, Vince Peters and Darrell Warren scored to give the Jets a 3-1 lead after a period of play.

Myles West made it 4-2 in the second scoring on a short-handed play.

Vanier counted three times in the final period to send it to OT. Moe Pelletier's unassisted goal with 3:57 left in the game gave the Jets a brief 5-4 lead.

"We played a very strong first period but seemed to let up in the second and third. We had a chance to bury them (Vanier) when we had a three goal lead midway through the second but we just didn't seem to have the killer instinct," coach Kevin Reynolds explained.

Jets' newest acquisition is former Ottawa Jr. "A" Senator defenceman Bob Gould.

Metcalfe plays host to Clarence Creek this Friday (Nov. 15) and travel to Arnprior on Sunday.

Provost honored

Former Jet defenceman Darcy Provost accepted his retired jersey from 1991-92 Metcalfe president Hugh Ferguson prior to last Friday's Jets-Vanier contest.

Vikings too tough for Tagwi Warriors

CORNWALL—The General Vanier Vikings senior boys' volleyball team showed no mercy on the visiting Tagwi Warriors during the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry single-A championship match last Thursday.

The Vikings swept the best-of-five championship match, posting 15-4, 15-1 and 15-6 victories.

The lopsided title victory came two days after the semi-final match that saw the Vikings sweep a best- of-three series with 15-8 and 15-9 wins.

Senior Warriors' coach Larry Poirier said the Vikings were just too much for the Warriors.

"We were the underdogs and GV has proven to be a better team than us."

Poirier said he expected the SD&G championship to be a closer match. But he didn't want to take anything away from General Vanier, who controlled the Warriors from start to finish.

"They're an excellent team, and I was quite impressed with them."

NORTH DUNDAS OUT

General Vanier and Tagwi reached the championships by knocking out the North Dundas Devils and Seaway Spartans in the semi-finals.

Tagwi beat the Devils, 15-4 and 15-9 and defeated the Spartans, 15-1 and 15-4.

General Vanier also swept the best-of-three series against both teams.

North Dundas and Seaway didn't play each another in the semi-finals, because Seaway forfeited the game.

Warriors' coach Larry Poirier said, "I thought North Dundas would give us a tougher run than that, because they're a good team and they work very hard. It was just that their attack wasn't functioning and ours was."

North Dundas coach Marc Trottier said, "I think we could have been in the finals, if my players would have played like they did (in the final game of the regular season)." But he added, "Not everyone is on their game all the time."

OTHS Panthers ousted in three straight games

METCALFE—It wasn't the finale they had hoped for. Especially when they had the strongest team ever assembled here at Osgoode Township High School.

But the OTHS Senior Boys volleyball team dropped three straight sets to Gloucester last Tuesday and bowed out of the Ottawa High School "AAA" playoffs in quarter-final round action.

"My guys came out flat," coach Russ Catt said. "We played an average game and unfortunately, we needed our best effort. We are capable of much better."

"If we had played well it would have been a good game. Their coach left with a little smile on his face. I think he knew he'd stolen a win."

The loss, however, does not mean the end of the playoffs. The Panthers claimed the 1990 "AA" title, representing the region at the provincial championships. Because of that finish they have an automatic bye to the "AA" finals this week.

Their regular season finish of 10-1 nabbed the Panthers a berth in "AAA" post-season play and a win at that level would be a first for a rural school.

Gloucester took the first two games 15-7 and 15-11 but were pushed to the limit in the third before earning a 15-13 victory.

"We lost the first two games as opposed to them winning them," Catt said. "But they won the third."

"Gloucester did get the breaks, but I've got to give them credit, they had the guys in the right place."

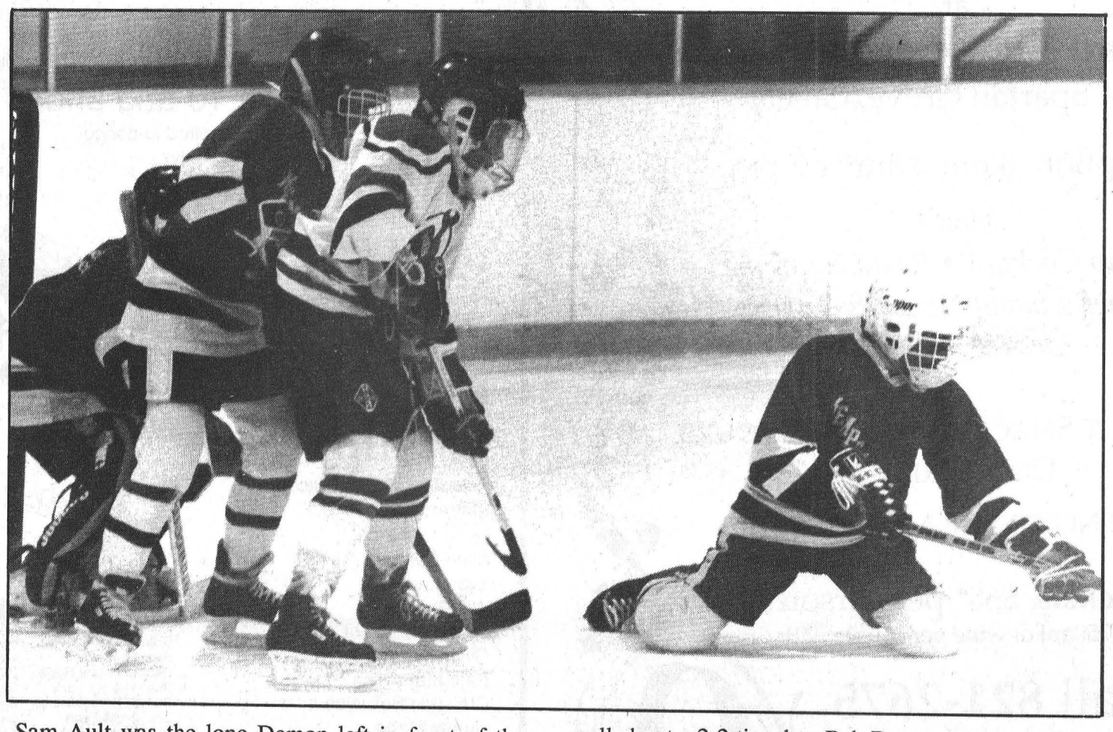
Both Jeremy Harrison and John Meuller pounded the ball at the Gloucester defenders but were unable to consistently find holes in the defence.

However, Harrison's spikes did account for nine of Osgoode's points.

"Gloucester was consistent," Catt said. "They had a very smart setter and two or three guys who hit well."

Osgoode had anticipated a lot of cross-court hitting but had difficulty stopping one Gloucester player who continually nailed shots down the sideline.

"We weren't expecting that and it took a number of points to adjust to him," Catt admitted.



Sam Ault was the lone Demon left in front of the Kemptville net during the second period of Monday night's UCMHL Pee Wee "C" contest. North Dundas pulled out a 2-2 tie when Rob Desormeaux scored on an end-to-end rush with 37 seconds left in the game.

Pee Wees win

PRESCOTT—Rob Desormeaux scored three times leading the North Dundas No. One Demons to a 4-1 UCMHL Pee Wee "C" victory over the South Grenville Generals on Saturday.

South Grenville took a 1-0 lead when Junior Thompson beat Demon goalie Brian Slowey on an unassisted play with 5:33 left in the opening stanza.

But from that point on Slowey was unbeatable. His stellar effort in the nets enabled his offence to find their footing and get back into the game.

Rob Desormeaux's first goal came on a pass from Danny Stobo and tied the game up 1-1 at 6:18 of the second stanza.

Andrew Bradley and and Danny Stobo engineered a play that resulted in Desormeaux's second goal at 7:20 of the final frame. That marker proved to be the winner.

Mike Francis then hit from Adam Moss at 7:05 and opened up a 3-1 lead. Desormeaux scored unassisted with 2:34 left on the clock to make it a 4-1 final.

In two early games the Demons dropped a 3-2 decision to the Morrisburg Lions and doubled the Kemptville Royals 6-3.

Rob Desormeaux hit for a goal and assisted on Andrew Bradley's third-period goal.

Brad Casselman scored twice for the Lions. His second goal scored with 4:42 left on the clock stood as the winner.

North Dundas scored three times in each of the last two periods of their game in Kemptville and came away with a 6-3 win on Nov. 2.

Period one of the encounter was scoreless but the Demons were up 3-2 after two periods.

Sam Ault scored at 6:26, Mike Flowers hit at 1:15 and Rob Graham clicked the red light on :07 before the end of the period to put North Dundas up by one.

Andrew Bradley made it 4-2 scoring at 8:42 of the final frame. Kemptville cut their deficit to 4-3 on A. Brown's goal with 4:09 left on the clock, but the Demons stormed back and iced the win (6-3) when Flowers scored from Ault with 1:30 showing on the clock and Rob Desormeaux connected for an unassisted goal with just 1:11 left to go in the game.

Canucks close gap on front-runners

METCALFE—Mike Anderson's second goal of the game resulted in a 3-3 tie for the Hicks Insurance Canadiens against the Wichers Construction Bruins.

Doug Reaney's pass engineered the tying marker with 5:07 left in the game and kept the Canadiens on top of the Metcalfe Town Hockey League standings.

In Sunday's other action the Shields Mechanical Canucks stayed within a point of the Canadiens thanks to a 6-4 win over the Howison Amusement Leafs.

Wayne Widenmaier posted the shutout for the Prestige Collision North Stars as they blanked the Dewan Red Wings 4-0.

The Stars broke up a scoreless contest scoring all four goals in the second half of their game. Steve Wade banged in the winner on an unassisted play at 19:30 and then Jeff Stanley at 11:52, Erin Franey at 6:14 and John Vandentillard with 4:09 left scored to ice the Stars' fourth win in nine starts.

CANADIENS 3 - BRUINS 3

The Bruins jumped into a 2-1 lead in the first half after the Canadiens' Ron Flanagan had put his team up 1-0 scoring on a feed from John Melenhorst at 19:42.

The Bruins took the lead on a pair of Ed Chiarotto markers. Chiarotto struck quickly on a feed from Tyrone Franey at 19:13 and again at 13:08 on a play started by Steve McIntosh and Tyrone Franey.

Anderson's first goal knotted it up 2-2 at 17:38. Tyrone Franey answered for the Bruins with the go- ahead marker (3-2) at 10:02, but Anderson tied it up for good with 5:07 left on the clock.

Roger Kargus (Bruins) and Mitch Lavergne (Canadiens) faced each other in the nets.

CANUCKS 6 - LEAFS 4

Rick Bloom and Dave Vanderydt each scored twice as the Canucks kept the Leafs in the MTHL basement with a 6-4 decision.

The Canucks led it 5-2 at the break and used Brian Kerfoot's goaltending skills to hold on for the win.

Bruce Kerfoot and Jeff Quinn rounded out the winner's attack with single goal efforts. Gaetan Forgues (2), Bruce Kerfoot (2), Scott Patterson and Frank Morozuk earned assists.

Doug Hicks, Mike Miller and Marc Cousineau each collected a goal and one assist for the Leafs. Blake Morrison scored the other goal and Don Honey drew two assists.

The North Dundas Minor Hockey Association received $6,000 in assistance and the Winchester Skating Club $3,000 from Royal Canadian Legion Branch 108 last week. On hand for the presentations were Bev Beck (NDMHA and Br. 108 rep.), Cindy Kerkhof (Skating Club rep.), Dale Mathesen, Audrey Robertson and Barry Holmes from Branch 108.

Beck and Burns perfect for Demons

CHESTERVILLE—Goalies Darryl Beck and Darryl Burns have been perfect while working in the North Dundas Demons' cage.

Neither goalie has surrendered a goal as their UCMHL Pee Wee "B" squad has rung up two one-sided wins in as many games.

Here at home last Thursday the dymanic duo slammed the door on the visiting North Leeds North Stars as their Demon offence pumped out an 11-0 victory.

Saturday in Smiths Falls another zero went into the record books as North Dundas blanked the Bears 7-0.

Center Ryan Filion sparked Saturday's 7-0 win with a two goal, one assist effort. Tylor Copeland hit for a goal and two helpers while Mathew Foley and Chris Mann each put a goal and one helper in the books.

Wes McLeod and Stephen Henderson each hung a goal in the Bears' cage. Craig Holmes (2), Andy Carkner (2), Ryan Swedfeger, Jennifer McDonald and Mike Casselman all collected assists.

North Dundas held period leads of 4-0 and 6-0.

The Demons kicked off their 1991-92 regular season here at home last week and made an impressive 11-0 debut.

It was 4-0 after a period and 8-0 after two frames.

Mike Casselman, Tylor Copeland and Ryan Filion all scored twice and assisted on a third goal. Stephen Henderson hit for a goal and helped out on three others.

Craig Holmes, Chris Mann and Ryan Swerdfeger all collected a goal and one assist while Zack Gauvreau scored a single.

Jennifer McDonald drew a single assist.

North Dundas put 30 shots on the North Leeds' net while Beck and Burns turned aside a total of 10 shots.

Atom C Demons edge Lions

MORRISBURG—Joey Hillis scored three times and Ryan Thompson connected for the deciding goal with 6:29 left in the game here Sunday as the North Dundas Atom "C" Demons edged the Morrisburg Lions 4-3 in an UCMHL contest.

Hillis teamed up with Thompson and gave the Demons a 1-0 lead at 7:17 of the first period.

Hillis scored a second time after he had taken a feed from Thompson and gave North Dundas a 2-0 cushion at 9:20 of period two. But Lions' Bobby Paradis slipped one into Jesse MacLean's cage at the 7:18 mark and made a 2-1 game of it.

Hillis completed his hat trick, scoring unassisted with 6:23 left in period two but the Lions stayed close (3-2) when Jamie Paradis connected for the second Morrisburg goal 2:05 before the end of the period.

Jason Hill tied it up, scoring for Morrisburg with 6:51 left in the contest but Ryan Thompson came through with the winning goal (4-3) at the 6:29 mark.

Old Hawks paste Centennials

WINCHESTER—The Winchester Centennials dropped a pair of exhibition contests last week.

Last Wednesday Boucks Hill posted a 9-8 win over the Cents. Bob Peddle netted three goals for Winchester and Earl McBean added a pair. Dave Coleman, Smiley Beckstead and Al McLean scored one each. Reg "Freddy" Hyndman earned the "Mario".

Sunday the Winchester Old Hawks thumped the Cents 8-2. Keith Moore and Bob Peddle accounted for the goals while John "Moose" Ralko picked up the "Mario" award.

The Centennials' record dropped to five wins, five losses and three ties.

Johnson powers Stars to victory

WINCHESTER—Jeff Johnson smashed in three goals and drew an assist on another tally here last Tuesday as he powered the fast-rising Country Kitchen Stars to their second consecutive Winchester Town Hockey League victory.

The Stars pounded the Boyd Chrysler Rams 7-1, improved their record to two and four and moved out of the WTHL basement.

Darrell Shelp also enjoyed a three-goal game the same evening as he lead the undefeated CountryBoy Kings to a 5-1 win over the basement-dwelling Aqua Fun Flyers. It was the sixth straight win for the Kings.

Country Kitchen took a 2-0 first-period lead on the Rams thanks to Tony Kelly who scored from Pete Marriner at 15:36 and Mark Guy who clicked on a play started by Johnson and Gord Milne at 4:33.

The Stars zoomed into a 5-0 lead before the Rams finally beat goalie Rob Samojllo at the 2:05 mark. Ken Quaile put the Rams on the board scoring from Mike "Goose" Guy.

Johnson's first tally opened up a 3-0 gap at 18:05. Mark Guy and Terry Richardson helped out on that marker. Johnson found twine again at 16:06 when he finished off a play engineered by Mark Guy and John Ralko.

Pete Marriner's first goal of the year made it 5-0 and was assisted by Tony Kelly and Barry Fawcett at 7:42.

Johnson completed his hat trick scoring from Rick Grisel at 18:05 of the final period. Tony Kelly netted the seventh and final Stars' goal at 5:30. Barry Fawcett and Pete Marriner picked up assists on that play.

The Rams' final goal was an effort by "Goose" Guy, who scored his 10th of the season with help from Fred Young.

KINGS 5 - FLYERS 1

Darrell Shelp keyed a four goal third period for the Country-Boy Kings as they stretched their win string to six games with a 5-1 win over the Aqua Fun Flyers.

The game remained scoreless until Shelp took a feed from Mark "Freddy" Smith and Wally "World" Vandekemp and gave the Kings a 1-0 lead at 14:45 of the second stanza.

CountryBoy held their 1-0 lead until Fern Gauvreau made it 2-0 with Andy Wattie's relay at 18:07 of period three.

Shelp then scored at 14:26 and again at 9:18 to make it a 4-0 contest. Mike Moran set up Shelp's first tally and teamed up with Mark Smith on the second marker.

Andy Wattie bashed in the Kings' fifth goal with 4:03 left on the clock. Mike Moran (third assist) and Shelp helped out on the play.

The Flyers finally cracked Steve "Twister" Guy's bid for a second straight perfect game when James Milne put them on the board at 2:58. Eric Winters and Glenn Simms drew assists on their squad's lone goal.

Tween B's tie twice

OSGOODE—Metcalfe and Kingston battled to a pair of NCRRL Tween "B" ties here on Sunday.

In both cases the score wound up knotted at 2-2.

Sherri Brind'Amour and Heather Clark took care of all of the scoring in the one encounter. Brind'Amour scored from Clark 50 seconds before the half and then Clark tied it on a relay from Brind'Amour with 4:27 left in the game.

Mandy Archer provided all of the offence in the other tie scoring both goals. Sophie Nizman assisted on one goal and the other was unassisted.

In a game played in Rockland on Nov. 2, Metcalfe suffered a 9-2 loss.

Melissa Heeley and Sophie Nizman netted Metcalfe's goals while Mandy Archer picked up an assist.

Isabelle Payer scored three times for Rockland while Chantal Payer and Brigit Deault each found the net twice.

Demons down Generals

SPENCERVILLE—Goalie Tyler Shortt was almost perfect here last week as the North Dundas Demons posted a 4-1 UCMHL Senior Novice victory over the host South Grenville Generals.

Shortt came up with a couple of key saves and surrendered just one goal en route to the win.

South Grenville trailed North Dundas 2-1 after a period of play but managed to close the gap to 2-1 when Tyler Dukelow took a feed from Aaron MacDonald and Derrick Byrd and beat Shortt at 8:14 of the middle stanza.

That was the only time Shortt and his defensive crew would be beaten.

On the offensive side of the ledger the Demons' scoring came from the line of captain Jon Chambers and his wingers Aaron Kelly and Pat Hamel.

Chambers gave the Demons a 1-0 lead when he finished off a play started for him by Kelly at 7:06 of period one.

Kelly upped the lead to 2-0 clicking on a pass fed him by Chambers and Hamel 3:39 before the end of the first period.

South Grenville netted the only goal of period two and made it a 2-1 game, but North Dundas iced their win scoring a pair of unanswered goals in period three.

Pat Hamel made it 3-1 on an unassisted play at 8:07 and Chambers made it 4-1 hitting from Hamel with 3:34 left on the clock.

What to look for when buying a new home.

For the past 10 years I've studied building techniques to discover how to build a better home. A home that would meet the needs of today's energy and comfort conscious home buyers. What I learned was that one home—the R-2000 home—is your best choice. Why? Well, there are a lot of reasons. Here are just a few.

Superior Construction
- greater attention to detail prevents excess air leakage.
- continuous operating ventilation system offers superior indoor air quality all year round.

More Comfort
- reduces cold spots and drafts, with even temperature from attic to basement.

Lower Heating Costs
- the R-2000 home saves you money because it is more energy efficient than a conventionally built home.

Individually Inspected
- every R-2000 home is inspected and awarded a certificate if it meets R-2000 standards.

QUALIFIED PURCHASERS CAN RECEIVE A $2,000 REBATE FROM ONTARIO HYDRO.

SEE THEM IN PERSON THIS SATURDAY

We have experienced some major events at the old arena during the last couple of years. But had anyone told me that the Richards, Ulmann, Mahovlich, Talbot, only to mention a few, would be coming to the Winchester Arena for a game this Saturday night, I would never have believed it. In fact, this one will have to rank at the top of my 17 years of special events, just slightly behind Terry Carkner night or maybe Lick Hutt's stag. But believe it or not, those stars will be here to take on the Ault Old Stars beginning at 7pm sharp, with introductions and warm up at 6:30pm. Souvenirs and autographs will be available following the game as well as a dance featuring Shad's Disco, to be held in the upstairs hall — for adults only. There are tickets still available at Sports Unlimited, Shadbolts, The CountryBoy, Ault Foods and the Cheese House — but you better hurry. Admission to the game will be $5 for children and $10 for adults, which also includes admittance to the dance. All profits will go to charity.

THE CONTINUING STORY OF THE HAWKS AND THE LIONS

Morrisburg Lions and Winchester Hawks each racked up two victories this weekend remaining tied on top of the St. Lawrence Junior "B" league. Kemptville 73s took both teams to overtime before losing. Last week Winchester came from behind to beat Alexandria Glens and Morrisburg scraped by Gananoque by only one goal. As you can see, it could happen at any time. This Friday Alexandria comes to Winchester, then the Hawks will be in Spencerville on Sunday. Next weekend Hawks play Friday night in Morrisburg for their only game while Morrisburg plays in Spencerville on Saturday. We will await the outcome. Hockey fans will also be pleased to hear that the Winchester Capitals have a dance along with the game this Friday night. Photo ID will be required.

LARGE CROWD JOIN LEGION IN REMEMBRANCE

The Winchester Legion Branch 108 held their annual Remembrance Day services last Sunday at the Cenotaph and, although the marching members are thinning out, it was indeed great to see such a large crowd on hand. It's always gratifying to see so many younger people in the crowd which expresses the fact that many still remember the meaning behind Remembrance Day. As you will see in this week's Press, once again the community was the benefactor of the continuing generosity of our branch when the hospital, community centre building fund and minor sports were presented with cheques totaling $110,000 last Friday. Once again a mere thanks seems inadequate for the generosity so often extended to our community by the Legion, but I can assure everyone that this continuing effort is greatfully appreciated by all who share in the help so generously bestowed on so many occasions. Thanks again guys and gals.

NOTE: There will be no skating the next two Saturdays due to the game and a tournament.

Sr. Novices sweep series

KEMPTVILLE—North Dundas' Senior Novice Demons put together a couple of solid efforts in a home and home series against the Kemptville Royals.

Here on Saturday Tyler Shortt registered the shutout in the Demons' 4-0 win. Last Friday in Chesterville North Dundas got a three-goal effort from Pat Hamel as they skated to an 8-1 UCMHL victory over the Royals.

With Shortt playing well between the pipes and their defence backing them up, North Dundas enjoyed numerous scoring opportunities in Saturday's match but managed just four goals.

Jon Chambers scored the winning goal, finishing off a play started for him by Aaron Kelly and Pat Hamel at 8:50 of the second period. He then snapped in an unassisted goal at 3:39 of the same frame to give the Demons a 2-0 edge.

Pat Hamel then finished it off, scoring a pair of unassisted goals in the third period. He dented twine at 5:13 and 2:23 and made it a 4-0 final.

Last Friday in Chesterville the Demons were right on target scoring an 8-1 decision over the Royals.

They led 1-0 after a period and 4-0 after two.

Tyler Shortt lost his bid for the zero when Bobby Arcand scored the lone Kemptville goal at 6:38 of the final period.

Pat Hamel scored three times and drew one assist. Will McLean turned in a strong effort scoring twice and assisting on two other goals.

Tyler Hoy, Alexander Last and Jon Chambers each contributed a goal and one assist.

Tiffany Holmes (2) and Aaron Kelly collected assists.

Pee Wees win two of three

CHESTERVILLE—North Dundas' Pee Wee "C" No. Two Demons skated to two wins in three outings over the past weekend.

Here last Thursday four different shooters found the target as the Demons defeated the Metcalfe Pee Wee Jets 4-1 in an exhibition match.

Sunday in Morrisburg the host Lions nipped the Demons 5-4 in an UCMHL contest. Monday night North Dundas travelled to Spencerville for another league match and came away with a 7-3 decision over the No. One South Grenville squad.

A five-goal first period gave the Demons a big lead they were able to protect enroute to a 7-3 win.

Andrew Roach potted a pair in that first period and also drew an assist. Derik Gates, Navin MacDonnel and Morgan Dillabough each collected a goal and one assist. Darcy Roberts nailed the other marker.

Scott Dellaire and Terry Wagner earned assists. Miles Hanscomb and Jeff Esposito shared the goaltending duties.

A Lions' goal scored with 7:25 left in the game gave Morrisburg their 5-4 win over the Demons on Sunday.

Lions led it 2-0 after a period but the Demons made it close scoring three third period goals.

Terry Wagner was top gun for North Dundas shooting in two and assisting on a third goal. Brock McBain and Andrew Roach notched the other goals.

Scott Dellaire and Megan Arsenault picked up an assist each.

Megan Arsenault, Andrew Roach and Derik Gates each came up with a goal and an assist in the Demons' 4-1 victory over Metcalfe. Darcy Roberts supplied the other goal.

Terry Wagner (2) and Scott Dellaire (2) helped set up the goals.

North Stars edge Atoms

WESTPORT—The North Dundas Atom "B" Demons dropped their first UCMHL game of the season here Sunday losing a hard-fought 4-3 decision to the North Leeds North Stars.

North Leeds jumped into an early lead in a high- scoring first period. The teams traded five goals in a six-minute span of that session as the Stars took a 3-2 lead.

The Stars pulled into a comfortable 4-2 lead netting a second-period tally. But the Demons didn't give up and scored the third period's only goal and came close to tying it up (4-4) on several other occasions.

B.J. Brus, a big forward with North Leeds, got the hat trick while Jason Card potted the other goal.

Jessica Dillabough and Steve Mattice each scored a goal and drew an assist for North Dundas. Becky KleinSwormink scored the Demons' other goal. Chris Wyatt and Jeff Beck collected an assist each.

Barrett Brundige and Dana Hunter played well in the Demons' net stopping several hard shots by Brus and his fellow North Star forwards.

Remembrance spans generations

A Beaver holds his troop's flag high during the parade at Winchester's Remembrance Day ceremony last Sunday. More than 100 Beavers, Brownies, Cubs, Girl Guides, Scouts, Venturers and Pathfinders participated.

Reeve Larry Gray lays a wreath at the cenotaph on behalf of Winchester Village.

WINCHESTER — The tradition carried on in Winchester last Sunday.

As a buglar sounded the mournful notes of the Last Post, approximately 40 legion members stood stock-still in front of the village's cenotaph at the Remembrance Day ceremonies held by the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 108.

For two minutes they, along with other area residents, paused to silently honor Canada's war dead.

Although there were few among the younger members of the crowd who remember any conflicts more recent than the Gulf War, the ranks of people attending the ceremony don't seem to be faltering, said Parade Marshall Len Steck.

Attendance usually depends on the weather but generally the parade is well supported by the town, said Steck.

Along with veterans and the Ottawa Police Pipe Band, more than 100 Brownies, Cubs, Scouts, Girl Guides, Venturers and Pathfinders also marched in the ceremony's parade. Representatives from local municipalities, schools, institutions and organizations laid wreaths at the cenotaph.

Poppy chairman Bill Lloyd, who served in Nova Scotia and Newfound- land in the Royal Canadian Air Force during World War II, said the spirit of the day will never fade.

"I can't predict what will happen, but I think there will always be a Remembrance Day," he said.

The significance of the day was not lost on the children who participated in the parade, he added.

"I think their leaders are pretty good. They tell them why they're doing this and what it's all about," he said.

Mountain Township Cub Scout Jeremie Caza, 8, responded quickly when asked about the meaning of the day.

"It's a day where you remember about the soldiers that died in the army in the First World War and the Second World War," he said.

But Brownie Stacey Simzer, 7, also seemed to understand of the cost of war.

"It was bad…it's not nice for them (the soldiers) to die," she said.

Legionnaires keep in step during the parade preceding the Remembrance Day ceremony.

Master Corporal Denis Bisson plays "The Last Post" in Williamsburg Monday.

Williamsburg Legion dedicates cenotaph

WILLIAMSBURG—Nearly 80 years have passed since the first Canadian soldiers set sail for the trenches in World War I and 50 years since the call came for duty overseas in World War II, but the contributions made in these conflicts assumed renewed prominence with the dedication of a new cenotaph in this community on Remembrance Day.

The white stone-monument which sits to the left of the township's municipal building, was constructed under the auspices of Williamsburg's Royal Canadian Legion Branch 538 for $6,500.

The memorial bearing a plaque with the words "We will remember them" was only recently erected and those laying wreaths during the Nov. 11 service stepped deeply into the fresh-laid sod surrounding the structure.

More than 60 people attended the half-hour outdoor service which was followed by an indoor ecumenical service.

Representatives from churches, community organizations and service groups were among those who braved the cold and overcast skies to lay wreaths at the base of the new memorial.

The "Last Post" was played by Master Corporal Denis Bisson. He is currently stationed at CFB Uplands with the air force. Monday's ceremony was held in considerably cooler climes than his last attended Remembrance Day service. Bisson was deployed with other Canadian soldiers to Qatar, Saudi Arabia during the Gulf War last year.

The dedication of the cenotaph marks the completion of months of planning and preparation by the Williamsburg Legion.

"We've been working on this project for a number of years," said Legion Sergeant-at-arms Bob Stephenson. "It's nice to see everything finally in place."

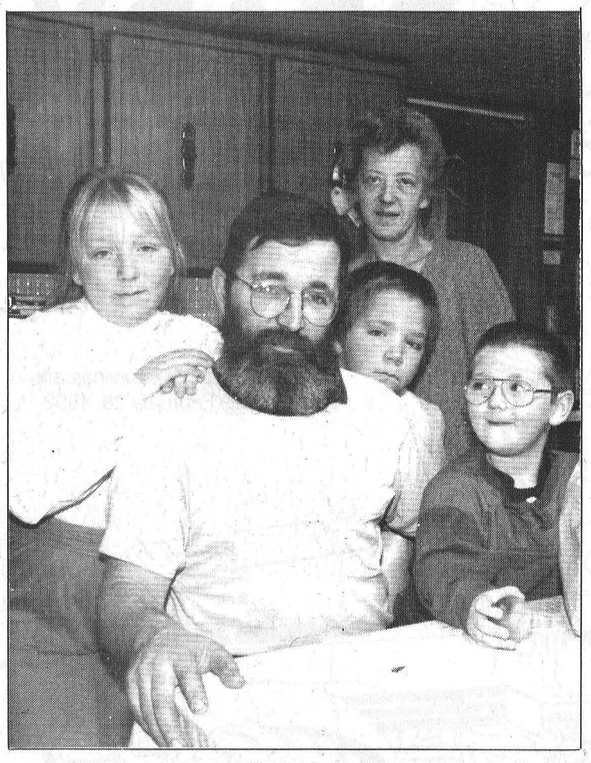
Dairy industry changes crippling small family farms



The Wyss family has been operating a dairy farm near Russell for 13 years. From left: Stephanie, Eric, Christian, Trudie and Hansueli.

by Collin Chenier
Special to the Press

RUSSELL — The surroundings at the Wyss household are simple yet secure. On this grey November day, a woodstove warms the well worn but functional kitchen

Eleven-year-old Christian and his younger brother Hansueli are in the kitchen getting dressed for a hockey game. Six-year-old Hansueli introduces himself, immediately praises his father Eric, and then kisses him goodbye.

Outside, the wind is blowing hard and Eric is nervously amused about having to keep the door shut with a piece of wood wedged against its base.

The members of the family exude an obvious love and respect for one another.

Wyss is an intelligent man with a deep love of the land and an enduring love of his chosen profession — farming.

The Wyss's operate a dairy farm on Route 500 just south of Russell. The family has a herd of 95 cattle, with 45 milking.

Judging by his education and work ethic, Wyss and his family should, by most people's standards, be at least a middle income household. He has had more than ten years of post-secondary education, including a Master's Degree in Agriculture.

He works 12 to 14 hours a day, and hasn't taken a holiday since he came to Canada from his home in Switzerland in 1978.

This year the combined efforts of Wyss, his wife Trudie and their three children, will generate an income of $13,000.

Despite this, Wyss wants to continue farming because it is what he loves to do.

"It's a way of living," said Wyss. "If you are ready to give this idea lots of thinking, then you are ready to live with it."

Not all dairy farmers are in the same financial position as Wyss, but the problems he faces trying to earn a living from his farm are typical.

Wyss notes that since he arrived in Canada 13 years ago, production costs for milk have risen 204 per cent, while the price he receives for Pool 1 milk has only increased 33 per cent. For industrial milk the increase has been only 67 per cent.

During the same time period in Europe, Wyss says, production costs to dairy farmers have increased 750 per cent while the price they receive for their milk has increased only by 250 per cent.

Production costs, however, vary among farmers, depending primarily on debt load.

Paul Sabourin, an employee at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food office in Embrun, says the Milk Marketing Board, which sets the price of milk, does so by using a pricing formula which takes into account production costs. He says the formula does not adjust for cost of living or the heavy burden of paying for milk quota.

Dairy farmers must buy milk quota from the Ontario Milk Marketing Board. They give nothing to the farmer but the right to produce a certain amount of milk. Quotas are expensive — average dairy farmer has 35 to 40 per cent of his farm operation invested solely in quota. Wyss has $280,000 invested in quota.

Sabourin says that when quotas were introduced, dairy farmers thought it was a great system because it meant a guaranteed market and price for their product. Now he says quota is pricey for some farmers and the production costs have risen by more than the marketing board can charge the consumer for milk.

"Back in the 1970s more quota meant more money. You had to be a pretty bad farmer to lose money," said Sabourin, "now quotas are high. It's especially hard for people trying to get into the business or expand their operation."

Because of rising production costs in the dairy industry, a farmer today must increase his production or become more efficient in his work each year to remain at the same income level as the year before..

Because many farmers are unable to finance an increase in production, many are eventually forced out of the business.

In Ontario and Quebec, two dairy farmers a day are getting out of the business. In Prescott- Russell County, 10 to 12 dairy farms are closing every year.

Ironically, the county is producing more milk every year. Sabourin says this is the case because many farms are becoming bigger and more efficient.

"You can't stay at the same point in this business. Even though there is supply management you are still competing with the next guy to survive. If one farmer can produce the same amount of milk with five less cows than you, he will be able to buy more quota," said Sabourin.

A few years ago Wyss was looking to expand his operation by renting land from another farmer to feed more cattle. He was, however, unable to afford it.

"I hope the government will help us, but not with subsidies," said Wyss. "All we need to get is a price for the food we produce that would cover our production costs plus a small profit to keep on producing."

Wyss realizes though, that the likelihood of getting a guaranteed price for his milk in the future is uncertain.

Presently Canada, the United States and the 12 countries that make up the European community are discussing amendments to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT).

At the centre of concern for Canada in these talks is the proposed elimination of Article XI. This clause allows Canada to use marketing boards to limit the flow of international dairy and poultry products into the country. If the article was taken out, the world market would be wide open and the marketing boards would lose their power to regulate imports.

For farmers, it would mean the loss of the money they invested in quotas. Also, cheaper milk would flood the Canadian market forcing the Canadian family-run farms with higher input costs out of business.

Sabourin predicts that if the quotas are dropped, big corporations will set up huge dairy farms because there will no longer be a maximum amount a producer can supply.

"The farms that survive are going to get bigger," said Sabourin.

To a farmer like Wyss, it would probably mean disaster.

"Farmers used to be the backbone of the economy," said Wyss "now I don't know if our kids have the possibility of going on. I doubt it very much."

Dundas ROS leaving

WINCHESTER — After almost four years as the Dundas County Rural Organization Specialist Keith McGriskin has taken another position with the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food in Orangeville, effective Dec.2.

McGriskin, who started with the Winchester OMAF office in June of 1988, says he is looking forward to his new duties as Farm Management Specialist and says it should be an interesting change from what he's been doing here.

The job of ROS involves helping develop rural leadership by working with the community and rural organizations. In Dundas county, that mainly pertains to the 4-H program, says McGriskin.

OMAF is currently in the process of finding a replacement for the position left vacant by McGriskin, but so far no successor has been named.

A visitor to Boyd's South Mountain dairy farm makes friends with one of the cows.

Scouters enjoy day 'down on the farm'

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — Winchester Guides and Cubs got a first-hand look at farm life during a tour of two South Mountain area farms on Saturday.

Organized by the Dundas County Junior Farmers, Farm Tour '91, was designed to increase children's awareness of agriculture. Although some of the participants were familiar with farming operations others found the tour a learning experience.

During the morning part of the tour, the Cubs and Guides visited Kevlyndale Farm, where they learned about dairy farming. They had the opportunity to pet the calves; feed the cows; and see what types of rations are fed to the animals.

Kevlyndale Farm is located just east of the village of South Mountain. Brothers Kevin and Dale Boyd and nephew Dean all work on the 400-acre operation, while Lynn is an area rep for the Holstein Association of Canada.

The Boyd's have 170 head of Holsteins, including 65 milk cows, 80 heifers and 25 calves. They grow about 130 acres of barley, 30 acres of corn and the remainder of the 400 acres is hay and pasture.

After lunch at the South Mountain IOOF hall, courtesy of the Junior Farmers, the children headed to the Freeman Sheep Farm, north of South Mountain, where they not only saw sheep but pigs, beef, cattle, goats, chickens, cats and dogs as well.

The 100-acre farm, owned by Gail and Wilson Freeman has 275 Suffolk, Dorset and cross-bred sheep including 180 ewes and 95 rams. The children learned that each ewe lambs every eight months, with three lambing periods per year (Jan/Feb., June and October).

Wilma Nyenkamp, who organized the tour along with Thom Mueller, said the 13 piglets at the Freeman farm were the highlight of the day, but generally the children enjoyed all aspects of the day.

Although organizing such a tour took a lot of effort, Nyenkamp said the event was a great success. This is the second year in a row the Junior Farmers have hosted farm tours and the organization plans to continue them, she said.

Members of the Junior Farmers Association of Ontario learn leadership and sportsmanship by organizing sporting events and social functions throughout the community. The association also works as a social club by donating money raised through activities to charities.

The Dundas Junior Farmers thank the Boyds and Freemans as well as Ault Foods for supplying milk and ice cream; Cannamore Orchards for providing apples; and the Dundas Agriculture in the Classroom Committee, Dundas Pork Producers, Ontario Milk Marketing Board, Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food and the Ontario Sheep Agency for providing information.

Farm debt review process working against farmers: OFA

Elizabeth Moreau
Special to the Press

TORONTO—Some Ontario farmers will lose their farms if the federal government doesn't provide an alternative to the debt review process, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture (OFA) warns.

In a statement last week, OFA vice-president Jack Wilkinson said as poor crop prices take their toll on Ontario farmers, more may be looking to the Farm Debt Review Board for help.

But he questioned whether the board actually helps keep farmers on the farm, or just helps creditors get their money back.

"We don't want these boards to be processing plants to get farmers out of farming," he said. "Surely their primary role is to help farmers become productive citizens again."

Michel Jobin, general manager at the Ontario office of the Farm Debt Review Board, said the board's mandate has always been to negotiate an agreement between financially-troubled farmers and their creditors.

"It was never written or said anywhere that the mandate of the Farm Debt Review Act was to keep farmers on the farm," Jobin said in a telephone interview from his Guelph office last week.

He said the Ontario board has fielded 2,609 applications since it was established in 1986, and a negotiating team was able to reach an agreement in 86 per cent of the cases.

Jobin said the 86-per-cent rate is "extremely high," but added he has no figures to indicate how many farmers who came before the board are no longer farming.

Jobin explained that a five-person panel, which could include farmers, bankers or agricultural representatives, helps farmers and creditors negotiate an agreement.

He said an agreement could involve debt restructuring, a lower interest rate, or debt rescheduling.

"For every concession a creditor is giving, we ask the farmer to come up with a plan," Jobin said. "We always remind the farmer that you can't have it all."

Jobin said most creditors don't want to seize the farmer's assets—they would rather come to some sort of agreement.

Wilkinson said the board's success rate is misleading.

"In no way can you tell if there are working farms coming out of the debt review process," he said in an interview earlier this week.

"If the board's mandate is not to assist in the restructuring of farms and to keep working farms...then what the hell is their mandate?" Wilkinson said.

He said the federal government should provide farmers with funds for legal counsel to help them in the negotiating process, and to help farmers stay on the farm.

Jobin said farmers already get free assistance from the board's panel of experts, who help each farmer work out a five-year plan.

"We try to provide farmers with some options," he said.

The OFA suggests court-imposed arbitration if the negotiating process breaks down.

"If the mediation process doesn't work," Wilkinson said, "there should be a situation where the judicial system can kick in at some point and settle it."

Wilkinson said 25 per cent, or 50,000, Canadian farmers are technically insolvent or in severe economic stress.

"We have asked for financial resources to balance the table, but we just haven't gotten enough," he said.

"We have to look at a group that can do more than pull a meeting together, but a group that can put together a settlement."

Care Centre bazaar

Many local residents got a head-start on their Christmas shopping by attending the Osgoode Care Centre's craft sale and bazaar. Rolla Campbell was thrilled to have his wife Katie and great-granddaughter stop in for a visit at the event.

Suspicious fire leaves new family homeless

by Sue Knippel
Special to the Press

OSGOODE—While many local residents slept, the skies at the west side of this village were lit by fire in the early morning hours of Nov. 3.

Osgoode's volunteer firefighters were called to 5431 James St. at about 5am to find the small bungalow there ablaze.

"The fire was fully involved when we got here," acting fire chief Grant Watson said, adding that the whole back wall of the house was almost gone when they arrived. It was an hour before they were able to bring the inferno under control.

Three pumpers and three tankers were on hand to assist in the operation, made even more difficult, and hazardous to nearby homes, because of the high winds.

Some of the manpower and equipment were deployed to protect neighboring homes. Two homes requiring particular attention were located on Albert Street and Boyd Street.

"Priorities shift when you know you have a full loss on your hands and a few other houses are threatened," Captain Dan Prest said.

The heat from the fire was so intense, a new house situated directly behind it on Albert Street suffered melted siding and broken windows. It was an unhappy welcome to Osgoode for its new owner, Ian Charter, who had moved in only the day before.

The privacy fence between the two houses no longer exists.

Firefighters hosed down the roof of the home of Claire and Jane Robinson on Boyd Street. Dropping embers were causing concern.

Other neighbours could not occupy certain rooms in their homes for a time, due to the incredible heat felt in those rooms.

Fortunately, Joseph and Barbara Pintcher and their five-year-old son Matthew were not at home when the fire occurred. They could not be reached for comment, but a neighbour speculated that they might have been visiting with relatives in Ottawa.

"They spent endless hours working on the house," neighbour Debbie Churchill commented sympathetically. "They hauled loads and loads of stone to make their flower beds. It's so hard to believe it's all gone."

It appears that arson is suspected as the cause of the fire, due to its sudden intensity and fast progress. The area was cordoned off Sunday while the Ontario Fire Marshall and two OPP officers took photographs and investigated the scene. The area is still off limits.

While laboratory results are being awaited, no official statement is available as to the fire's possible cause.

The Corporation of the Township of Mountain

Public Meeting

Concerning A Proposed Zoning Bylaw Amendment

TAKE NOTICE that the Council of the Corporation of the Township of Mountain will hold a public meeting on December 9, 1991 at 7:30pm at the Township Municipal Building to consider a proposed zoning bylaw amendment under Section 34 of the Planning Act.

The proposed zoning bylaw amendment would add a special provision to the Zoning Bylaw dealing with the "Special Estate Residential Zone (ER-1)" which applies to the Forestwood Heights Subdivision situated in part of the East Half of Lot 24, Concession XI, in the Township of Mountain.

The amendment would deal specifically with front yard, setback provisions and established building line, and has been necessitated as a result of discrepancies which have arisen through the utilization of the comprehensive zoning bylaw and subsequent amendments. A map is not necessary as the amendment is strictly textual in nature.

ANY PERSON may attend the public meeting and/or make written or verbal representation either in support of or in opposition to the proposed zoning bylaw amendment.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION relating to the proposed amendment is available for inspection at my office during regular office hours.

DATED at the Township of Mountain this 7th day of November, 1991.

Bilingual position filled at Cornwall ARF office

CORNWALL — The Addiction Research Foundation has recently appointed Ginette Goulet as program consultant in its Cornwall office.

Goulet has had previous experience with ARF in its Northern Ontario Region, and has also worked as a consultant in developing employee assistance programs for various corporations.

According to Goulet, she will be focusing on "assisting in the development of addiction services for the Francophone communities in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry, and Prescott and Russell counties, and acting as an additional community resource".

She sees her role as "networking with the community: continuing and establishing partnerships that have the underlying goal of keeping our community healthy".

Along with providing addictions information to the general public in both official languages, Goulet anticipates working with school boards, health and social service agencies, addictions services and voluntary associations.

"I'm here to listen to and learn from our French and English communities" says Goulet. Peter Barkway, her colleague at the ARF office, adds "I'm looking forward to expanding ARF's commitment for developing addiction services according to these communities' special needs with Ginette."

Ginette Goulet can be reached during regular business hours by calling 613-937-4035. Do not hesitate to visit their offices at 132 Second Street East, Cornwall, Room 406, for further information.

T. R. Leger honors grads

The T.R. Leger School of Alternative Studies will honor over 100 of its students at upcoming commencement exercises on Nov. 15.

The ceremony will be held at 8pm in the CCVS cafetorium. This brings to over 600 the number of students who have graduated since the school's inception.

This year, 13 students fron the Winchester area will be among the graduates.

Since 1978, alternative education has grown tremendously throughout the three counties. The development of the program has flourished over the past decade.

A significant part of this growth has been marked by the establishing of education centres in Morrisburg, Winchester and Alexandria.

Over the years, students have benefitted from an expanding curriculum in alternative education including Adult Basic Education, English as a Second Language, Academic Studies, Co-operative Education, and Business/Office Technology. Other specialized programs include Education-Health Care, Education Practicum, Computer Technology, and a Self-Employment program.

Many students have appreciated the opportunity of furthering their education through government-sponsored programs such as Job-Entry/Re-Entry and Futures. Currently, numerous people are returning to school under options made available through the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Drug awareness family affair

WINCHESTER — Organizers of this year's drug awareness week are making the event a family affair.

The group, which has co-ordinated a whole range of drug awareness activities in Dundas County for Nov. 17 to 23, plans to cap off the week with a free family skate at several community arenas around the area.

Winchester (8pm-9pm), Chesterville (6:30pm-7:30pm) and Morrisburg (2pm-3pm) arenas will feature free public skating with refreshments on Sat., Nov. 23.

Nancy Waldroff, who belongs to a coalition of social and health agencies from across Dundas County including the Addiction Research Foundation, Cardinal and District Resource Centre, Eastern Ontario Health Unit, Canadian Red Cross Society and Beavers Dental-Employee Assistance Program says organizers want to increase awareness of drug abuse amongst residents.

Waldroff also says the planning group wants residents to use their newly learned awareness to decrease their use of drugs and alcohol and to promote responsible use.

High school students will get a jump on the week's activities. Seaway Valley High School is hosting a "Good Neighbor Dance" and inviting neighbor schools such as North Dundas District High School, Rothwell-Osnabruck High School and South Grenville District High School to the Fri., Nov. 15 dance.

NDDHS will also be running a variety of activities from dancing to panel discussions.

Children and pre-teens haven't been forgotten either. All Dundas students in grades 3-8 will receive wallet-sized information cards to help direct them to experts if they have drug-related questions.

Lions Clubs in Ontario are making funds available for the purchase of red ribbons. The red ribbons will be worn by all Dundas County elementary school-aged children who have decided to be drug-free.

The popular Dr. Cooper videos will be available at county libraries including Winchester, Morrisburg, Chesterville and Iroquois. During drug awareness week and until mid-January these six-video sets will be free to library card holders.

A new program called Beginning Alcohol and Addictions Basic Education Studies (BABES) offers groups an opportunity to have a puppet play communicate the drug awareness message to children.

For more information on BABES or any other drug awareness week activities contact Nancy Waldroff, Cardinal and District Resource Centre, 657-4455, Margaret Hendricks, Eastern Ontario Health Unit, 774-2739 or Peter Barkway Addiction Research Foundation, 937-4035.

Announcement

The Board of Funeral Services, Province of Ontario, has advised all funeral establishments in Ontario to cease accepting monetary donations on behalf of any charitable organization, due to potential liabilities involved.

Therefore, as of November 11, 1991, the staff of J.R. Vice Funeral Homes will no longer accept monetary donations from individuals.

Acknowledgement cards will be conveniently available for individuals to fill out and be placed for families' recognition of their donation. Envelopes will also be available from each charitable organization so that the donation may be mailed directly to the particular charity to which the individual has donated.

We, the staff of J.R. Vice Funeral Homes, realize that our efforts in collecting donations have helped raise thousands of dollars in donations for charitable organizations over the past years, but we are obligated to follow the guidelines of the Board of Funeral Services.
