Sgt. Frank Casselman Rescues Wounded Soldiers

Doug. How, Canadian War Correspondent in Italy, writes that Sgt. Frank Casselman of Chesterville, was blown from his tank by a shell explosion in Italy recently, and walked through the shell fire to rescue three wounded at the same time.

Sgt. Casselman is a brother of Eric Casselman of town, and went overseas with the Ontario Tank Regiment more than two years ago. When the campaign opened in Sicily the tanks were in the thickest of it and are now believed to be with the Eighth Army in Italy.

Moriarty-MacVicar

A quiet, but pretty wedding took place on July 10 at 9 a.m. at Reserve Airport, RCAF, Sydney, Nova Scotia, when LAC Edward, Joseph Moriarty, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Moriarty of Chesterville, Ontario, took as his bride Helen Marguerite, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. N. MacVicar of Sydney. The marriage was solemnized by Flt. Lt. D. J. Mulcahey, Roman Catholic Chaplain of the RCAF.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She looked charming in a street length dress of turquoise blue with deep brown accessories. She wore a corsage of pink and blue carnations. Her only attendant was Miss Peggie Murphy of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia who wore a street length dress of rose with navy blue accessories, she wore a corsage of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by Sgt. A. Piltie of the RCAF.

Following the marriage a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where the wedding dinner was served to immediate relatives and friends. The table was beautifully decorated and centred with a three tier wedding cake which was cut jointly by the bride and groom.

After a short trip to parts of Nova Scotia the happy couple will reside in Sydney, N.S.

SHOWER

A delightful shower was held Wednesday evening, July 12, when Mrs. A. Bedford, was hostess at the home of Mrs. I. Newell, Terrace St. The guests of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Moriarity, nee Helen MacVicar.

The young couple were very much surprised when more than 80 of their friends honored them with a wide variety of useful gifts, which were wheeled into the room in an artistically bedecked carriage by little Johnnie MacVicar, brother of the bride. Irene MacVicar, cousin of the bride, opened the parcels while the verses were read by Alta Cossitt.

Games were played under the supervision of Alex Bedford and Phil MacKenzie.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Bedford, assisted by the bride's mother, Mrs. MacVicar, Florence MacVicar, Mrs. Phil McKenzie, Mrs. McLean, Mrs. J. Ginter, Jessie Davis and Alta Cossitt.

A jolly sing-song was later enjoyed when Miss Cossitt and Alex Bedford led the old favorites.—Sydney Herald.

Maxine Swerdfeger Sustains Broken Leg While Raking

We are sorry to report the painful accident which befell to Maxine Swerdfeger, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Swerdfeger, Hoasic, on Wednesday, July 26th, while raking on the farm of Oliver Alguire. The tongue of the rake broke and Maxine was thrown under the rake, breaking her right limb between the knee and hip, and also a severe cut which required several stitches to close the wound. Dr. Shannette was called to the home and she was rushed to Cornwall General hospital, in Keck's ambulance of Morrisburg.

At latest report she was doing as well as can be expected. Maxine's many friends wish her a speedy recovery.

Prominent among the champion athletes is Pte Lyle F. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene Smith, formerly of Chesterville, now residing in Kingston. Lyle's contribution was tops in the high jump.

Pre-Nuptial Shower For Popular Morewood Girl

A Miscellaneous Shower was held in the United Church Hall, Morewood, Tuesday evening, August 1st, in honor of Miss Natalia Fetterly, whose marriage to Mr. Wilburn Robinson, Grantley, takes place August 9th. The hall was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers, cut flowers and white wedding bells. After a social hour of contests and community singing, Miss Sybil Dillabough read a short address and the many beautiful gifts were presented to the bride in an artistic pnik and white wedding cake. Miss Fetterly expressed her appreciation for the many handsome gifts and all joined in singing "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow". Lunch was served by the young friends of the bride, Mrs. A. Dillabough and Mrs. Henry Steen presiding at a beautifully appointed tea table. Over one hundred guests signed the bride's book. The hostesses for the event were Misses Sybil Dillabough, Doreen Campbell, Gladys McLaughlin, Rita Faulkner, Mrs. Babcock and Mrs. Lambert.

ONTARIO'S COAL MINE JUST NO GOOD

Some years ago the old Toronto Globe, before it had attained its hundredth birthday, caused some excitement and quite a bit of hilarity by advising its readers to carefully save the ashes from coal furnaces, sprinkle them freely with water and shovel them back in the furnace over a bed of live coals, whereby it would be found they would burn quite freely, thus reducing the family fuel bill. It was ascertained that without the same plentiful supply of anthracite the ashes added nothing to the warmth of the house and in a short time householders were reluctantly handing them over to be consigned to the dump heaps. The experiments with lignite in the wilds of Northern Ontario seem destined to share the same fate. It is apparently a case of fire without heat. A select committee of the Ontario Legislature has just returned from a visit to the lignite deposits situated at Onakawana, at least 126 miles north of Cochrane, far removed from large centres of population. The members of the Committee, being politicians and generous men, hesitate to cast a damper on the enthusiasm of the men of the North, and will probably recommend that further development be carried on. Already successive Governments have expended upwards of one million dollars in the development of the deposits, but in the opinion of experts from the standpoint of sound economics commercial development does not appear to be warranted. At a conservative estimate there are one hundred million tons of lignite in the Onakawana deposit, but the overburden in some areas is as much as 125 feet. Again there is the problem of excessive moisture and scientists have been unable to discover a method which would lose the moisture without having the lignite disintegrate. Installation of steam drying equipment proved costly but far from satisfactory. In the early experiments it was felt that the government-owned Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway, which travels within a short distance of the property, would prove the most logical consumer, but after exhaustive tests the Railway gave up the attempt to utilize the material, finding that it required such a copious consumption of bituminous coal to make the lignite available for steam purposes, that its use could not be further economically countenanced.

DO YOU REMEMBER YOURS

A St. Thomas magistrate is a firm believer in the old-fashioned method of spanking as a crime deterrent. He expressed this opinion when five local youths appeared before him on charges of breaking and entering and thefts, and suspended sentence on two of the culprits on the fathers undertaking to give them a sound whipping at the police station in the presence of the police. The parents of one boy admitted they had never whipped him and the magistrate stated that was probably the reason why he was in Court to-day. There is nothing calculated to take the starch out of a defiant juvenile delinquent as a public thrashing.

VETERANS WILL BE PROTECTED

It is gratifying to observe that in the regulations for the granting of free lands for servicemen, the rights and interests of the Veterans are to be properly protected. The manner in which returned men from the South African battlefields and even the first Great War were exploited by designing men in respect to land grants that the matter assumed the proportions of a public scandal. The Government put a check to the nefarious practice by the appointment of a Board to supervise the sale or transfer of such land grants. The Department of Lands and Forests in its annual report that outlined the measures adopted to provide free land grants to men who served overseas in the present war and who wish to homestead. Lands available for agricultural settlement are clearly defined and inspection of lands before settlement is required. Lands which may be acquired for agricultural purposes are restricted to such lots as are at least 50 percent fit for cultivation, being within one mile of a public travelled road and within three miles of a school. Under the regulations, eligibility to acquire land is more clearly specified and the amount of land which may be acquired, in addition to lands patented, is established. Deserted wives, after three years of desertion, are allowed to acquire the husbands' rights to land, and persons abandoning land without reasonable cause being shown are not permitted to acquire other land. Assignments of unimproved lands are prevented.

U.K. WILL NEED EGGS EVEN WHEN WAR ENDS

"An industry which realizes that its future lies in its own hands is already well on the way to making that future a successful one," declared S. C. Barry at the recent Ontario Poultry Confrence at Toronto. Mr. Barry is the Associate Chief, Poultry Products Inspection and Grading Service, Dominion Department of Agriculture, and gave the assembled poultrymen an instructive review of the Canadian poultry industry of the present day, with a recapitulation of historical events of the past as a probable guide to the future, the conclusion of the contract with Britain in 1945 brings the industry to the end of the period of definite knowledge. What of the morrow? For how long would it require Canadian egg production at or near the present level? To attempt to predict the length of that period in terms of time would be futile, he said. It might more accurately be estimated in terms of events.

The end of the European phase of the war by no means marks the end of the time when Britain will require considerable egg supplies from Canada, but history might be taken as a guide for determining the length of the adjustment period. After the last war, it was 1920 before Denmark began to approach her pre-war exports to Britain and 1921 before she reached her previous volume. Holland did not reach her pre-war figure until 1923; Belgium and Sweden not until 1926. And Denmark, Holland and Sweden were neutrals and unharmed.

The Pacific war enters into the calculation, said Mr. Barry. In pre-war years Britain took from China, as the major supplier, a slightly larger volume of eggs in frozen and dried form than Canada would supply to Britain in 1944. Certainly, not until the war with Japan was concluded and its immediate damage repaired could that trade be resumed. If, in the meantime, Britain were to require those products, and they are reasonably dispensable, it might be expected that Canada would be asked to supply at least a portion of her needs.

Even if the most pessimistic view of Canada's future as an egg exporting nation were taken, if Canada should consider that as soon as the aftermath of war permitted Britain would secure her eggs and egg products from the same source that supplied them in the past, it must be agreed that at least until that time a greater or lesser volume would be departmental official. required from Canada, contended the

A Narrow Escape

Smith was in his den with a few of his friends talking about his wife and her peculiarities.

"I have thought for some time," he said, "that my wife is utterly devoid of taste, but the other day she put on a new dress which was atrocious beyond words. I daren't, of course, say a word about it, and dared hardly look at it, but as she went out I went to the window to have another look at her and—"

At this juncture his wife entered suddenly.

"And the funniest part of the whole affair," continued Mr. Smith, without showing the least embarrassment, "was that they found the cat 11 days later on the top of the Eiffel Tower!"

And Mrs. Smith still does not understand what there was in that ridiculous statement to make them all laugh so uproariously.

Quite So.

HE'S WONDERFUL

THE statesman throws his shoulders back and straightens out his tie,
And says, "My friends, unless it rains the weather will be dry."
And when this thought into our heads has percolated through,
We common people nod our heads and loudly cry, "how true!"

The statesman blows his massive nose and clears his august throat
And says, "The ship will never sink so long as it's afloat."
Whereat we roll our solemn eyes, applaud with main and might,
And slap each other on the back, the while we say, "He's right!"

The statesman waxes stern and warm, his drone becomes a roar.
He yells, "I say to you my friends, that two and two makes four."
And thereupon our doubts dissolve, our fears are put to rout.
And we agree that here's a man who knows what he's about!

AUGUST WILL SEE PEAK OF DEMAND FOR FARM HELP

The month of August will see the demand for volunteer farm help reach its peak for the 1944 season and the maximum demand will continue until the end of September, says Alex MacLaren, Director of the Ontario Farm Service Force, in a statement appealing to the urban citizens of Ontario to lend a hand to the sorely pressed farmers.

"We have never before," said Mr. McLaren, "had so great a demand for holiday and spare-time farm workers as there will be during the harvest season. Not only is there increased acreages in many important crops, but crops are going to be very heavy. If all this essential food is to be harvested, we must have thousands of additional volunteer farm workers. The grain crops have to be taken in and the picking of tomatoes and other canning crops, including fruit, will be in full swing by the middle of August. The only way these crops can be saved is by the use of extra help and that help can only come from the towns, cities and villages. There is no other available source of supply. It is up to the urban people to come to the rescue of the farmers if we are to save all the food that will be so badly needed before next winter is over."

Mr. McLaren emphasized the need of holiday farm brigades and farm commando brigade workers. Hundreds of people willing to spend their holidays for one to three or four weeks, on a farm, can be placed during the months of August and September. "I cannot imagine any more healthy, profitable and worthwhile way of spending holidays than that of living and working on a farm said Mr. MacLaren.

Farm Commando workers, willing to devote their spare time, half-holidays or off-shift hours helping to harvest crops are needed in thousands. In most Ontario towns and cities, local committees have been set up to enroll these volunteers and place them on farms and every individual who has any spare time is urged to register with the local Commando Committee.

The headquarters office of the Ontario Farm Service Force, at the Parliament Buildings, can place all the holiday help that is offered and applications from those who can give some time in August and September should be sent at once to that office. in fact any person willing to help harvest the crops can speedily find a place to work by getting in touch with Mr MacLaren's office at the Parliament Buildings, Toronto.

Total War Effort In Dundas Public Schools

During the school year September 1943 to June, 1944, the pupils of the Public Schools of Dundas County made their usual excellent contribution towards the national war effort. Results, as tabulated below show that both teachers and pupils are not lagging in their efforts to contribute generously toward final victory.

1. Red Cross donations (including Jr. Red Cross) $1195.07
2. Purchase of War Savings Stamps and Certificates ...$8577.00
3. Purchase of Victory Bonds 1600.00
4. Donations to Special funds Navy League, etc.) 290.00
5. Miscellaneous donations . 84.65
6. Clothing donated or made (number of Articles) 203
7. Tons of salvage material collected 9
8. Value of other donations 254.55

In the amount invested in War Savings Stamps and Certificates the pupils excelled last year's record by thousands of dollars. The objective had been set at $6000. Had an amount of $10,000 been invested, the pupils of the county could have been credited with the purchase of a training plane, named for the county. Perhaps it may be possible to reach an objective of $10,000 for the school year 1944-45. Boys and girls are asked to save through the holidays so that they may establish a good start in September. Stamps sold to other people by the pupils count toward the school's objective.

CIGARETTE BURNS ON TABLE

With a razor blade scrape out charred wood. Touch up with two or three thin coats of orange shellac (for maple), or quick-drying varnish (for dark-coloured wood). This scraping will leave a slight depression, but it won't justify refinishing the entire table top.

A Simple Problem

A motorist was 100 yards from an open railway crossing and was proceeding at 50 miles per hour. A train was also approaching at 60 miles per hour, and its distance from the crossing was 375 feet. Problem: Did the motorist get across?

Solution: Yes the motorist got a cross. His widow bought it out of the insurance money.

Garden Party Huge Success

The Nation Valley Red Cross Garden Party held at Dixondale Farm, Tuesday evening was the largest attended and the most successful event of the kind ever to be held in this locality.

The weatherman frowned threateningly until about 9 p.m., when he finally decided in favor of the event. More than 700 persons paid admission at the gate and they consumed over 1000 hot dogs at the refreshment booth. A total of $402.00 was realized. The lawn was beautifully illuminated for the occasion under the direction of Mr. Chas. Marcell, local Hydro representative. It was a real pleasure for those who attended, to spend a few hours with their friends and acquaintances amid such pleasant surroundings. Bingo, a dance platform and a loudspeaker system added much to the attractions. Several musical numbers from the "100 Club Follies" of Winchester were well received and much enjoyed. To the Nation Valley Red Cross goes the credit of having on two occasions during this year, the largest crowds, ever to gather for a similar local event.

The President, Mrs. Enos. Munro and the other officials and members of the unit are to be congratulated on their achievement.

It is the enemy we do not suspect who is the most dangerous.—Rojas.

TONS OF FOOD ARE GOING TO WASTE IN THIS DISTRICT UNLESS YOU ACT NOW!

Chesterville! It's up to YOU!

This community is faced with the immediate task of organizing to SAVE FOOD materials urgently needed by our invading Armed Forces.

There is not available at this moment one half the farm help required to save the abundant food crops ready for harvest on farms in this community. Yet these crops must be saved to feed our invading armed forces—to whom food is as vitally important as ammunition. They can't win if they don't eat.

The man power needed to save this food can be provided ONLY in one way; and that way is by the citizens of this community organizing to provide help for its farmers; organizing the "spare hours" of its men in the cause of Saving Food for Victory.

The organization has two parts:

1. Organizing a Farm Commando Brigade, with office and telephone, where information can be given and the enlistments of loyal citizens received and through which men may be placed on farms requiring help most urgently.
2. Enlisting every available man in the community who will pledge his evenings, week-ends, holidays, half-days,—every spare hour—during this critical harvesting period.

The Department of Agriculture of the Ontario Government will provide organizers and will co-operate and assist at every point in the formation and operation of the Farm Commandos.

The need is Urgent! It Requires Immediate Action! Unless such help is provided thousands of bushels of vitally-needed grain will go to waste in the fields in this district.

★ Council You can lend, effectively, the weight of your official influence by appeals to your townsmen; by proclaiming a "Help the Farmer" holiday when the situation demands; by permitting municipality vehicles to transport commandos to and from farms; by giving leadership in organization work.

★ Employers You can give vital assistance by releasing a shift, or your entire staff, for a day or more; by impressing the urgency of their going to the farms for the period of release.

★ Merchants You can organize to go in a body with your staffs on the weekly half-holiday, evenings and week-ends; or you could close your stores for an entire day once a week to assist during this critical period.

★ Clergymen You can impress the need on congregations; call organization meetings of your men and boys; assist service clubs and other bodies to organize enlistments.

★ Mechanics Also artisans, labourers, clerks, salesmen, students. You can provide the greatest service because you constitute the largest body of citizens. Assist in organization wherever you can, but particularly in pledging your spare hours to help on the farms.

★ Service Clubs You can add to your laurels of social service by enrolling members for this most constructive task; by forming committees to work in co-operation with commando headquarters on many phases of the work.

JOIN THE Farm Commandos

HERE'S WHAT TO DO

Officials of the Municipal Council, Executives of Board of Trade, Merchants' Association and Service Clubs should arrange for an organization meeting as soon as possible. Ask the Agricultural Representative of the district to be present. He will be glad to assist and co-operate in every way. Or write direct to Ontario Farm Service, Parliament Buildings, Toronto, for information and literature. Let the farmers know what you are doing, enlist their aid in helping you to help them.

Act Now! The Need is Urgent!

Don't Let Our Troops Down!

Re-enact Last Spike Ceremony

FIFTY-NINE years after he, as a boy, witnessed the driving of the last spike, completing the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company's and Canada's first transcontinental railway line at Craigellachie, B.C., Col. Edward Mallandaine, of Creston, B.C., was an interested spectator as members of the Kinsmen Club of Revelstoke, B.C., re-enacted the historic 1885 "last spike" ceremony as a highlight of Dominion Day celebrations in Revelstoke. Proceeds of events sponsored by Kinsmen during this period were applied to local charities, including the Kinsmen Milk for Britain Fund, and the Revelstoke Civic Centre.

From Montreal, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company forwarded to Revelstoke Kinsmen the mallet used by Donald A. Smith (later Lord Strathcona) to drive the last spike. This added further authentic detail to the reconstruction of the 1885 tableau which featured costume garments and flowing, home-grown beards.

Col. Mallandaine is shown at right congratulating the youth who impersonated him in the re-enactment of the "spike" ceremony, and in the background are Kinsmen who participated.

Now, the former hardware authority presents the latest news reports to listeners from coast to coast—including the folks back home in Moose Jaw.

Presentation and Address To Popular Young Couple

A large number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Loughridge, nee Jean McLean, who were recently married gathered in the Community Hall, Monday evening, tendering them a reception and for the purpose of presenting with tokens of their friendsship which included a splendidly filled purse. The following address was read.

Dear Jean and Harold:

The many friends and neighbours who have known you and have highly regarded you during the years you have resided in Chesterville have met here this evening to extend to you their congratulations and best wishes on the happy occasion of your recent marriage.

For many years you have both played your part in this community, and as you both are native residents of this community, you have a long record of happy associations and participations in many social, church and civic activities and your personalities and genialities are of such a character that you have won for yourselves a high place in the esteem of all who know you and with whom you have formed a lasting friendsship.

Someone once said that a woman will wear a dance frock when she doesn't care to dance; a golf outfit when she doesn't know how to play golf; a swimming suit when the very sight of water makes her seasick; but when she buys a wedding gown, she means business. And it's a good thing, for when a girl means business. nine times out of ten she will make a good wife.

I want to say to Harold that after he has lived with his wife for a few weeks, he won't know how he ever got along without her. He'll be in the same boat with the man whose small son was entertaining a visitor during his father's absence. After a brief silence the little lad turned to me and said, "Have you got a wife?" "No, sonny," I replied, "I haven't." "Then who tells you what to do?" demanded the youngster.

Harold is going to find it very useful to have someone to tell him what to do. And the sooner he learns that what she tells him is exactly what he wants to do, the happier he will be.

Of course, no two people ever thought just alike about everything, so there may be times when you won't agree. That makes married life more interesting. But don't let your differences ever become the cause of a quarrel. Eugene Fitch Ware, the poet, must have had in mind a couple who disagreed all too often, when he worte that clever little verse entitled "He and She.":

When I am dead you'll find it hard,
Said he.
To ever find another man
Like me.

What makes you think, as I suppose
You do,
I'd ever want another man
Like you?

And so, to further add to the happy expression of regard for both of you on this occasion, we wish to have you accept this gifts on behalf of those present here tonight, and in addition to the presentation may we couple the sincere wish that your married life will be blessed with good health, happiness and prosperity, and that you both may enjoy all the blessings that life can bestow in the happy years that lie ahead.

Signed on behalf of: Louis A. David, Leon Marcellus, Leo Gallagher, Wm. McCloskey, Jas. Campbell.

A very fitting response was made after which all joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows", and with the singing of "God Save the King", a very pleasant evening was brought to a close.

RELAX AND LEARN

The other day your reporter dropped into the Royal Ontario Museum. It was a hot humid day and the pavements had seemed particularly hard. Inside the building, it was cool and there was no glare from sunlight. The broad passages between the orderly and attractive exhibits looked most inviting. Down at the end of one of the galleries, there was a machine that automatically projects lantern slides on to a screen. Best of all—there was a bench in front of it! Your reporter gratefully relaxed for a few minutes and watched as the changing pictures told a story about meteorites. He learned that a meteorite is a portion of another heavenly body which exploded long long ago. Since then, the pieces have been travelling through space until one or more of them collided with our earth. These meteorites vary in size from dust to 36 tons—the largest so far located. After the completion of the series of pictures and feeling rested and relaxed, your reporter spent several minutes examining the actual meteorites on display in the gallery.

POST-WAR PROGRAMS SHOULD COMMENCE WITH AGRICULTURE

In an address to the recent annual convention of the Canadian Society of Technical Agriculturists at Toronto, Dr. E. S. Archibald, Director, Dominion Experimental Farms Service, reviewed some of the major problems which might be offered as a basis for post-war works program in the best interests of Canada as a whole and with special reference to the future prosperity and permanency of agriculture.

In the course of a comprehensive study of the situation Dr. Archibald said that he was not so optimistic as to think that Canadian taxpayers, both rural and urban, would be readily content to enter into very heavy expenditures after the cessation of hostilities. Nevertheless it was obvious to all Canadians that the future of Canada could not stand periods of unemployment and relief. The loss financially to the country as a whole in idle manpower was substantial.

For that reason alone it was imperative that all who were in a position to give constructive thought should do so and aid materially towards the development of a program which was economically sound and which might be used as needed in national development. It was evident that a post-war work program on which to base full employment, good houses, and contented people should start with agriculture, because on that industry depended adequate food at reasonable prices, employment in the city through agriculture providing the best peace-time markets for urban industries, and the vast number of products produced on the farm which add comfort alike to both rural and urban homes.

REGISTRATION OF THRESHING MACHINES IS DISCONTINUED

It is not necessary for the owner or operator of a threshing machine, including a combination machine, clover huller, bean thresher or harvester combine to register it this year before starting threshing operations, it is announced by John D. McLeod, Director of the Crops, Seeds and Weeds Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture. The sections of the Ontario Weed Control Act which previously made such registration compulsory were rescinded by legislation passed by the Ontario Legislation at its 1944 session.

Legislation with respect to the cleaning of the threshing machine and equipment before moving, however, still remains in the Weed Control Act. This section states as follows: "Every person in possession or charge of any machine used for threshing shall, before removing such machine or any equipment used in connection therewith, to another farm, or before travelling upon any public roadway, clean or cause the same to be cleaned thoroughly both inside and out, by the removal of all seeds and other crop refuse."

A threshing machine which has not been cleaned before it is moved will carry weed seeds on to clean lanes, roadsides and neighbouring farms, mixing of varieties will occur and smut and other seed borne diseases will be carried from farm to farm.

Farmers are urged not to risk contamination of farms and crops by permitting a threshing machine to enter the farm gate in an unclean condition. When engaging your thresher insist that the machine and equipment be thoroughly cleaned immediately after the previous job has been completed. Weed Inspectors have been advised to contact every thresher regarding this matter and threshers are urged to co-operate in this necessary measure of weed control.

BIRDS TAKE THEIR HOLIDAYS IN AUGUST

This is vacation time for most birds according to ornithologists of the Royal Ontario Museum. Their family responsibilities are over for the year and the hard work of food-hunting is made easy by the annual peak of the crop of insects, seeds and berries. Even the business of singing is largely suspended. Although most birds are obliged to grow a new suit of feathers in August, this can be accomplished while loafing. By autumn they will be dressed in fresh new attire and fortified for the long trek southward by a reserve layer of fat beneath the skin.

ADOBE FROM ANCIENT EGYPT

The word adobe—a name for unburnt bricks dried in the sun—is generally associated with the semi-desert regions of the south-western United States.

In Egypt, another dry country many thousand miles away, exactly the same kind of brick is made today and has been made without interruption for 5,000 years. The Egyptian collection of the Royal Ontario Museum has several examples of ancient bricks. Their label is illustrated with a brick-making scene from a tomb painting of the 15th century before Christ.

The modern adobe of the New World derives its name from these ancient bricks of the Old World. The word passed into English from the Spanish. It came to the Spaniards from the Arabic-speaking conquerors of Spain, who in their turn inherited it from the Copts of Egypt. The language of the Copts was a direct descendant of the Ancient Egyptian, whose word for brick was pronounced approximately dobet.

LITTLE CONE TELLS BIG STORY.

Coniferous trees similar to present day forms evidently flourished, in the area we now know as Southern Alberta, lang before the appearance of man. Quite recently the Royal Ontario Museum unearthed a splendidly preserved fossil cone resembling a pine cone in general appearance. It was discovered in the rocks of the Red Deer Valley, the same rocks in which dinosaur skeletons are entombed. The specimen is a rarity for probably only 'one in a million' cones reached the fossil state. The tree that produced it grew in a forest which occupied the borders of a long-vanished inland sea. It and the other trees of this ancient forest finally perished, sank to earth and became buried. They are gone but not forgotten because their compacted remains give us today at least some of our western coal reserves and too, there is the fossil cone in the museum as a reminder.

Sharing Guilt

"Johnny" said his mother, severely "someone has taken a big piece of ginger cake out of the pantry."

Johnny blushed guiltily, and fidgetted around.

"Oh, Johnny," she exclaimed, "I didn't think it was in you!"

"It ain't all," replied Johnny, "part of it is in Elsie."

It was at Mount Wilson Observatory. A distinguished scientist was scanning the heavens through the huge telescope. Intent upon the sight, he remarked to his colleagues without turning his head, "It's going to rain."

"What makes you think so?" queried a brother scientist.

Still peering at the heavens, the astronomer replied: "Because my corns hurt!"

Something Lacking.

Walter Savage Landor was one of the most absent-minded of men. One thing he was apt to do was to arrive at a friend's home without a key to his valise.

One day, however, he determined to overcome this failing, so he placed the key in his pocket before starting to make a two days' visit, and on the journey he took out the key a dozen times to make sure it was safe.

He reached his destination and exclaimed proudly, "See I have the key this time!"

But, alas, while he had the key, he did not have the valise. He had left it behind in his library!

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN

Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! We are really doing a thorough inspection job during canning operations. Safeguarding the food that is being stored in jars means rigid inspection of each step in home preserving. Vegetables require special attention.

If you did not can any of the vegetables at the beginning of the season you may want to store some of the second crop in sealers. Although acid vegetables such as, pickled beets, red peppers and tomatoes are readily processed in boiling water bath, the non-acid vegetables should be done in a pressure cooker. However, if you have small jars with a perfect seal, success may be assured by the water bath method if every precaution is used.

Important canning rules for the safety of vegetables are:

1. To permit a perfect seal the jar rim and top must be smooth, even, no nicks, no imperfections.
2. Equipment—jars, measuring cup, knife, spoons, funnel, two large bowls, saucepan, processor or deep kettle, tea towels, brush and box of salt—should be assembled before the "canning bee".
3. Wash jars in rich suds and get them clean using a good brush. Rinse the jars thoroughly.
4. Sterilize by placing a clean towel in the bottom of a pan and putting the jars on their sides with matched glass tops beside each one cover with hot water and boil 15 minutes. Leave in hot water until needed.
5. Thorough inspection of vegetables is necessary. Discard any old, blighted, bruised or ones with decay.
6. Washed vegetables get a three minutes precooking. This shrinks them and sets colour. Have the water boiling. Time the 'boil.'
7. Now hot vegetables go into hot jars. Allow one inch at the top of each jar when you can peas and corn. Use the cooking water to fill the jars. Add one teaspoon salt to each pint jar. Wipe off the top of jar—one pesky bit will keep the jar from sealing.
8. Dip the rubber ring into hot water (having soaked them in a cup of warm water with a teaspoon of baking soda in it for five minutes or so) and place on jar. On with the lid. Screw band down tightly; then loosen (turn back one quarter inch).
9. Carefully lower jars into hot water bath in a kettle with a wire rack in the bottom; add more hot water to cover two inches over the jars. Jars should be one inch apart. Cover the processor.
10. Count cooking time when the water actually begins to boil. Process corn 3 hours in water bath. Process sweet peppers 45 minutes. Process tomatoes 20 min.
11. When time is up lift rack with jars from water. If no rack, dip some water and use a thick cloth to lift them out. Screw band tight. Cool jars away from draft, then turn upside down to test for leakage.

THE QUESTION BOX

In answer to many queries about preserving vegetables by salting, we give the following directions, stressing thorough cleanliness of vegetables, drying after washing with absorbent towels, the use of dairy salt and a cool storage place.

SALTING METHOD FOR GREEN BEANS, PEPPERS AND CAULIFLOWER.

Vegetables such as green beans, peppers, and cauliflower that do not contain enough juice to form their own brine can be preserved by being covered with brine.

Wash, dry and weigh the vegetables. Cut green beans into inch lengths; separate cauliflower into flowerets; leave cucumbers and peppers whole. Pack the prepared vegetables loosely into stone jar, leaving space for brine to cover them. Estimate the amount of brine you'll need to fill.

To make the brine, use 3¼ cups of salt to 6 quarts of water ("common" or "coarse" salt or dairy salt is better here than fine table salt). Pour brine over vegetables, and cover jar with plate or pie plate right side up. Weight down as you do for kraut. Next day add 1 pound salt for every 10 pounds of vegetables used. (This is to bring the brine up to its original strength). At the end of the week, add ¼ pound salt and repeat the process every week until five weeks have been marked off the calendar. Now your vegetables should be cured.

One thing to remember when adding salt is to place it on top of the plate so that it will dissolve slowly without sinking to the bottom. Salt should not touch the vegetables. Skim off the scum as it forms.

Clip the following method to desalt since you will not be using these vegetables for several months.

To freshen vegetables cured in brine, place them in a big kettle, cover with cold water, and heat slowly to lukewarm, stirring frequently. Pour off water and repeat process several times until vegetables are only slightly salty. Or, soak until they taste just right; then cook. The beans and cauliflower are seasoned and served as usual; green peppers are often stuffed and baked.

TREASURE-HUNTERS, BEWARE!

Souvenirs from the battle-fields of Europe are already finding their way into the Royal Ontario Museum. The other day a returned soldier brought in a huge coin which he had found in Sicily. A house-wall had blown up in front of him, scattering big and little coins in his path. The largest was 2 9|16 inches in diameter, made of cast brass. On one side it showed a sow suckling seven little pigs. As it certainly appeared to be an old coin, we at the Museum promised to identify it. But we were rash. Apparently Museum staffs and Museum books don't "know" everything, for we couldn't find anything like it high or low. Finally we got the American Numismatic Society on the trail. And what did they say?—that it was a fake, put over on the innocent soldier by the wall. Had he stumbled on the house of a forger? We shall never know, but it's a warning to souvenir-hunters that all that glitters isn't even ancient brass.

PEACE OF MIND

Only if you KNOW you are adequately protected by good automobile insurance can you drive with that peace of mind which makes motoring a pleasure. Only in this way can you protect yourself against serious financial loss through bodily injury to other persons or their property.

Because nowadays you are driving fewer miles than you used to is certainly no reason for being without the protection an Automobile policy will give you.

Remember that your car is older and, therefore, less reliable mechanically. And remember that it takes but a split fraction of a second for "something" to happen.

Let us plan your automobile insurance to give you the protection you need TODAY.
