Public School Board Discuss Salaries

A regular meeting of the local Public School Board was held in the Council Chambers last evening, with the chairman, Mr. Frank Davidson, presiding. Mr. Edward Shaver was present on behalf of the Horticultural Society and requested that the usual grant of $25.00 be given to the society. His request was granted after due consideration. The semi-annual report as presented by the Inspector, Mr. W. J. Stewart, was accepted by the Board. It revealed that conditions at the school were 100 per cent perfect.

The question of teachers' salaries was discussed at some length, and it was unanimously decided by the Board that a cut would be made, but no action will be taken until the next meeting, the latter part of May.

That Discount Offer

The Press offered a discount of 25 per cent. to delinquent subscribers. The offer expired on Saturday. A good many took advantage of the offer, and some who would like to have taken advantage but could not, called to explain their position. We are trusting them to keep their promise. We regret that some of the names will have to be struck from our list and the accounts handed in for collection.

THE NEW TAX

Effective, Monday, May 1, all bank cheques of $5 and under must bear a three-cent stamp to be affixed by the drawer, as heretofore applicable to cheques over $5 and up to $100. Over $100 the previous tax of six cents will apply.

Also effective May 1, the three-cent tax applies to express and post office money order of $5 and under. On postal notes the tax of one cent is increased to three cents.

Annual Meeting Of W. M. S. Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial Held Yesterday.

MANY DELEGATES ARE PRESENT —MRS. GEORGE E. EARLE IS RE-ELECTED PRESIDENT

The seventh annual meeting of the Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada was held in Brinston United Church on Wednesday, May 3rd, 1933, with a large attendance at each of the three helpful and inspiring sessions.

The executive met at 9 o'clock and delegates registered at 9.30. The meeting opened with the President, Mrs. G. E. Earle, of Winchester, presiding. All hail the power of Jesus' name was sung and the Hallville Auxiliary led in the worship period. Mrs. Coleman read the 23rd chapter of Isaiah and prayer followed by Mrs. Morrison.

Mrs. Thomas Johnston, of Brinston, read the minutes, after which members of the press and courtesy committees were appointed.

Mrs. (Rev.) Wilson, president of Brinston Auxiliary, on behalf of Brinston Auxiliary gave words of greetings and extended a hearty welcome to all present. Mrs. Herman Throop, of Maynard, replied to Mrs. Wilson's greetings.

The President then addressed the meeting, giving a short but inspiring message how duty never should be shirked or cast over on the other person, but do what is asked of you. Vice-Presidents then spoke of the help required for their work. "Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung. The young people held a conference in another room from 10.15 to 10.45.

The treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Allison, Morewood, gave a full report showing a chart of the money received and sent the branch treasury, also the reports of the Rec.-Sec., Mrs. T. Johnston, Brinston, and the Cor.-Sec., Mrs. Jas. Smith, Chesterville, showed how that work was progressing.

The Supts. of the various department reported the work advancing although circumstances seemed hard, great work was being accomplished. Mrs. J. H. Earl, Spencerville, the 1st Vice-President, led in prayer of thanksgiving.

Good reports of the year's work in the following departments were given:—Christian Stewardship, Mrs. Carlyle; supply work, Mrs. Murray; associate helper, Mrs. Wallace; missionary monthly, Mrs. J. R. Wilson; press and literature, Mrs. Morley Earl; temperance, Mrs. Preston; strangers, Mrs. Wiggins; circle, Mrs. H. Johnston; band, Mrs. Cecil Hess; C.G.I.T., Mrs. Chas. McGuire.

The offering was taken after which Mrs. J. J. Murdock, of Brinston, was in charge of the memorial service, reading the names of those who had answered the call to higher service and while paying tribute to these, spoke of the challenge to those who remain for greater service. Hymn "We can not think of them as dead," was sung, and prayer was offered for the service of that life which is gone to its reward. This closed the morning session.

During the noon hour various departmental conferences were held. The afternoon service opened with hymn, "Come let us sing of a wonderful love," and members of Hulbert Auxiliary conducted the worship service. The minutes of the morning session were read and approved.

Roll call of Auxiliaries, Circles and Bands was made by J. Smith. The presentation of a Banner, donated by Mrs. J. McDougall, of Winchester, was presented by Mrs. Faulds, of Cornwall, to the Merrickville Mission Band. A report of how the prayer group is carried on in different places was given by several members. Hymn "Take time to be holy" was sung and Mrs. A. Dillabough, Morewood, gave an interesting paper on the "Methods of Band Work." Miss Alguire, of Cornwall, was called on to address the afternoon meeting on the "Work of the strangers." A duet by the Misses VanAllen and Barriger was much enjoyed. Mrs. Faulds, of Cornwall, congratulated all Auxiliaries for the splendid work that was being done. This is a day for clear vision, we need a greater vision of Christ and a good chance is to be a W.M.S. worker to teach young people to sacrifice. Every sacrifice we make for the Master is gain to us. Hymn "See how great a flame aspires" was sung.

Mrs. Faulds carried out the election of officers, which was read by the nominating committee, Mrs. J. H. Earl, Spencerville:

A New Slate of Officers.

Past President—Mrs. J. I. Murdock, Brinston.
President—Mrs. G. E. Earle, Winchester.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. J. H. Earl, Spencerville R. R. 2.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. T. F. Townsend, Inkerman.
3rd Vice-President—Mrs. W. K. McKinley, Fairfield East.
4th Vice-President — Mrs. Charles Graham, Chesterville.
Rec.-Sec. — Mrs. Stanley Knapp, Merrickville.
Cor.-Sec.—Mrs. Jas. Smith, Chesterville.
Treasurer—Mrs. A. B. Allison, Morewood.

Secretaries of Depts.

Christian Stewardship and Finance —Mrs. G. W. Carlyle, R.R. 2, Mountain.
Young People's Work—Mrs. Harvey Johnston, Brinston.
Baby Bands—Mrs. Ward Earle, Prescott.
C.G.I.T.—Mrs. Chas McGuire, Spencerville.
Supply—Mrs. J. Holt Murray, Prescott.
Strangers—Mrs. Jas. A. Nash, Iroquois.
Associate Helper—Mrs. O. W. Wallace, Winchester.
Missionary Monthly—Mrs. J. K. Wilson, Kemptville.
Press and Literature—Mrs. Merril Foster, Mountain.
Temperance—Mrs. Herman Throop, Maynard.
Sec. of Intercession — Mrs. A. W. Seaton, Shanly.
Mission Band — Mrs. Cecil Hess, Heckston.

Announcements were made and an invitation extended from Prescott to hold our next Presbyterial there. This invitation was accepted. Mrs. Merril, of Morrisburg, gave thanks to retiring officers and voiced appreciation of the new ones in the Presbyterial. Mrs. J. MacKay, of Winchester, gave the closing thoughts of this very helpful afternoon session, the lovely duty of faithfulness to be faithful in that which is small, we can be faithful in that which is great. The Rev. Wornell pronounced the benediction.

The executive of the Dundas-Grenville Presbyterial met at five o'clock for their first meeting.

At the evening session, Rev. Wilson of Brinston United Church presided. Greetings were brought from Dixon's Corners Presyterian W.M.S., the Women's Institute of Brinston and replied to by Mrs. Tuttle of Heckston.

A very pleasing chorus was given by the Brinston Mission Band. Rev. Wilson conducted devotions and the Brinston Choir rendered several anthems that was much enjoyed.

Greetings from Presbytery was given by Rev. Newman, of Chesterville.

A circle conference was held by Mrs. H. Johnston, and the following questions asked: Why we organize a circle, replied to by a circle member from Prescott. How we learn to pray in public, Hulbert Circle answered. How we secure leaders, Morrisburg. How we acquire missionary knowledge, Winchester. How we raise our money, Mountain. All those replies were of a very educational phase of mission work.

A playette "Aunt Polly Joins the Mission Circle," put on by Morewood Mission Circle. This was very interesting as well as amusing and was much appreciated. Mrs. A. W. Seaton, of Shanly, was then called on to address the gathering. She said we should be disperately in earnest for the Kingdom of God. How do we measure up. We need faith in the adventure, faith and works. If we have faith with works God will reward that work. We should all consecrate ourselves anew for the Lord said "I am with you always, even onto the end." Hymn "From Ocean unto Ocean" was sung and the offering taken. Mrs. Houlehan, of Chesterville, reported for the courtesy committee and the billeting committee reported that 210 had registered.

Letter To The Editor

Winchester, May 1, 1933.

To the Editor of the Press:

I hope you will be good enough to allow me a little space in your paper to correct what seems to me a most unfair impression conveyed to the public by an article appearing in the issue of April 13, under the heading "Major Adams Resigns H. S. Staff." Although this letter is not written in any official capacity I am satisfied it voices the protest of many of our citizens, judging by the number who have come to me re this "write up" or have sent me the Press containing it.

I shall not comment on Major Adams' reasons for resigning, nor have I any criticisms to offer re any words of commendation you may see fit to make as to the merits of the retiring Principal so long as you do not accomplish this by a process of de-meriting the splendid services of Major Adams' predecessor.

The statement that the school was "Rather on the decline," when Major Adams came must surely have been made without any facts before you and if so it surely was a sweeping statement to make.

As a member of the board for many years I have followed closely the progress of the school. I have interviewed Inspectors for ten years past, have studied examination results, have viewed cadet inspections, and been present at various functions of the school and I am convinced that "decline" is the wrong word.

Without reference to present or past principals or staffs, for results are not always to blame on the teachers and we are living under abnormal conditions, I might state that results academically are not in keeping with former years and punctuality and truancy have become a problem.

There is much more which might be said to refute this word "decline" but it is not my purpose to do so. We all desire the steady growth and development of our school, remembering that the future must build on the past.

OBITUARY

THE LATE BENJAMIN BOLTON

The death occurred on Monday, May 1st of a highly respected and life-long resident of Mountain Township in the person of Benjamin Bolton in his 82nd year. He was born at the old home on the Nation River, near South Mountain, and lived all his life in that district. When a young man he was married to Eliza Higginson of Inkerman, and took up residence in that place in 1874 carrying on a business of a tinsmith and later an agency for musical instruments.

After some years in active business Mr. Bolton retired and has since that time lived his life at his residence above, Inkerman. His wife predeceased him in 1899.

For the past three months Mr. Bolton has been failing in health, after suffering a severe fall in January in which he injured his hip. He never fully recovered and about a week ago bronchial pneumonia set in. He passed away peacefully about 9 p.m. Monday last.

The late Mr. Bolton was a member of the Methodist Church and at the time of Union, became a member of the South Mountain United Church. He was a life-long Conservative in politics and was actively interested in all local affairs throughout his life.

He is survived by three children, Miss Florence, at home; Mrs. L. T. Munro, of Carleton Place and one son, Mr. Benjamin S. Bolton, of Ottawa. The funeral took place from his late residence on Wednesday, the service being conducted by Rev. Mr. Townsend of Inkerman. Interment took place at the Union cemetery, South Mountain. The pall-bearers were Messrs. Mahlon Shaver, Chas. Shaver, William Marquette, John Corry, Edgar Brown and Ira Ennis.

LITTLE ONE TAKEN

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Merkley and Mr. H. A. McQuaig attended the funeral of the latter's little grandson at Shawville, Que., on Monday. The little lad, Donald Hamilton, age 2 years and 4 months was taken to Ottawa Civic Hospital on Monday, April 24, for treatments. On the following Friday he was to have an operation but on making the incision a large growth was found and it was growing so rapidly that an operation was found unnecessary and he passed away the following day. He was a great sufferer, but a patient little fellow and a great favorite with other little chums in the hospital. He knew his parents galmost to the last and raise his little hands heavenward as though he was beckoning to some one. He leaves a little sister and a baby brother besides his parents. The funeral was held on Monday, May 1st, 1933, in the Wesleyan Methodist Church and was largely attended. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved family as he was only ill about two weeks, but they know little Donald is safe in the arms of Jesus, where no sin or suffering can enter.

WILLIAM SCOTT BEATTIE

The death occurred in an Ottawa hospital on Saturday last, following a brief illness, of Mr. William Scott Beattie, a life-long and highly respected resident of Russell township.

Born near Russell 67 years ago, he was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Beattie, pioneer residents of the district. He had been prominent in the affairs of the district all his life and was a Presbyterian in faith. His wife predeceased him four years ago. Left to mourn his loss are an adopted daughter, Mrs. Cecil Acres, of Vernon; three brothers and one sister, Mrs. Edward Eastman, of Russell.

THE LATE MRS. SILAS BAKER

The death occurred on Wednesday, May 3rd, at noon, of one of the most highly respected and widely known residents of Cass Bridge in the person of Ella Melinda Merkley, beloved wife of Mr. Silas Baker, in her 78th year. For some time past, Mrs. Baker has been failing in health and a week ago, she was stricken with bronchial pneumonia. She passed to her Eternal Rest on Wednesday.

The late Mrs. Baker was born in Morrisburg and continued to reside there following her marriage in 1883. Later, she came with her husband to Winchester. She lived the balance of her life in this district and was one of the most esteemed citizens.

The late Mrs. Baker was a devoted member of the United Church, which she attended regularly throughout her life. She was a devoted mother and leaves to mourn her passing a wide circle of friends as well as her husband, two daughters, Mrs. William Cook, Mrs. Frank Hogaboam; one sister, Mrs. John R. Baker, of Morrisburg, and four grandchildren.

The funeral will be held on Friday at two o'clock from her late residence, the service being conducted by Rev. John MacKay. Interment will take place at Maple Ridge cemetery.

MRS. THOMAS STEWART

There passed away at her home at Van Camps on Wednesday, one of the community's most highly esteemed citizens in the person of Laura Adeline Wylie, widow of the late Thomas Stewart. Deceased was in her 73rd year and was a life-long resident of Mountain Township. She is survived by one sister, Mrs. Albert Guy.

The funeral is being held from her late residence this afternoon. Interment will be made in Van Camps cemetery.

SAD TRAGEDY

Occasionally one hears of a tragedy arising from a family dispute, but the incident which took place in Viking, Alta., is particularly terrible. Getting into a dispute with his wife over family affairs, Thos. Harray 45, slashed her throat with a pen-knife and then turning upon his 18-year-old daughter, stabbed her above the heart. The man then committed suicide after attempting to escape on a freight train from which he fell, bbreaking a leg. Mrs. Harray died within an hour of the attack, but the daughter is given a chance for recovery.

One would hardly believe that so much rubbish could accumulate during a few months, as was carted to the dump heap on Tuesday.

IMMORTALITY

The flower and the tree, though dying, live again
Each Spring; after the long cold Winter's sleep
They break in floods of glory o'er the earth
That we again may dreams of beauty reap.

Since they return from their brief stay in earth
Again to light the world, and warm the heart,
Of much diviner mold than flower or tree,
Have we not in this glory too a part?
—Dorothy Sproule

SAME OLD SPRING

Same old miracle, same old spring,
Nothing different, not a thing;
Same brown earth from the hand of God,
Fresh, clean smell of the upturned sod.
Same soft patter of gentle rain
Turning the brown grass green again.
Same old way that the ferns upfold;
Blossoms revealing hearts of gold;
Budding trees by the winds caressed;
Same bright flash of a robin's breast,
Same as before will our spirit sing
As we note the gloss on a blackbird's wing;
Again we'll remember the old-time thrill
At the eerie call of the whippoorwill;
Nothing is different, not a thing,
And, say! Aren't you glad it's the same old spring?
E. EMILY PICKARD

IF ?

If no dark shadows came my way?
Life's skies were always blue.
Perhaps I'd miss the joys of day.
When dawn and light shone through?

If troubles never came to me?
No losses marred my gain,
Perhaps I'd know no sympathy?
Nor heed another's pain?

If life's a song? then I would sing,
To make some other glad?
Sincere and kind in everything.
Cheering the weak and sad.

If all that comes to me each day?
Is part of His great plan?
Then I would live, skies blue or gray,
So dark or light, come cloud or sun.
To do the best I can.

Clear skies, or stormy way.
Let us be glad life's race to run,
Till sunset ends our day.
—Frank Sanders.

"RULES FOR DAILY LIVING"

Begin the day with God, kneel down to Him in prayer
Lift up, thy heart to his abode
And seek his love to share.

Open the book of God, and read a portion there
That it may hallow all thy thoughts
And soften all thy care,

Go through the day with God, whate'er thy work may be
Where'er thou art at home, abroad,
He still is near to thee.

Converse in mind with God, thy spirit heavenward raise,
Acknowledge every good bestowed
And offer grateful praise.

Conclude the day with God, thy sins to Him confess,
Trust in the Lord's atoning blood,
And plead His righteousness.

Lie down at night with God, who gives His servants sleep
And when thou tread'st the vail of death,
He will thee guard, and keep

BEFORE THE MAGISTRATE

Roger Greenberg, of 1147 Bank St., Ottawa, was fined $20 and costs in police court at Morrisburg last week on a charge of peddling fruit in Dundas county without a license. In the same court, Magistrate John McCormick fined Ralph Smith of Iroquois court costs and released him on suspended sentence, finding him guilty of illegally hunting wild ducks. Seventeen careless motorists were also fined on various traffic charges as a result of a recent check-up on offenders by Traffic Officer Eugene Rose of Morrisburg.

THE SMALL TOWN TREND

The present trend of populaton, from the cities back to the rural areas, has added greatly to the towns and villages during the last two years.

Many of us are prone to classify our population into two groups, city dwellers and farmers. This is a grave error. Between these two classes are the inhabitants of small towns, and these soon will number 25 per cent. of our entire population according to the present rate of growth. They are neither city dwellers nor rural inhabitants, but a separate class, containing much of the best, the steadiest, the most progressive of our citizenship.—The Kingsville Reporter.

PRESENTATION AT CHESTERVILLE

On Friday evening last the congregation of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church held a delightful farewell party in the Oddfellows hall for Mr. and Mrs. Milton Shaver and family, and Mr. Roland Shaver, prior to their departure for their new home in Ottawa.

The evening was spent in music and games with solos by Mr. George Brooks and a duet by Mrs. Lloyd Smith and Miss Marguerite Shaver. The presentation of a beautiful floor lamp was made by Irvine Cross and the address read by Rev. A. H. Sproule. Mr. Shaver responded in a few hearty words. Congratulations were extended to Mr. Roland Shaver as this occasion also marked the anniversary of his eighty-first birthday.

The Temperance Man

Fountain Inn (S.C.) Tribune.

The virtue of temperance doesn't consist in doing without. It consists in moderation. And it isn't limited to the use of alcoholic beverages.

The temperate man is one who does all things in moderation.

He drinks, if he so desires, but he doesn't get drunk.

He enjoys food without being a swine, or limits his diet without risking his heath to please his vanity.

He believes in himself and respects himself without assuming that he is made of finer clay than other men.

He respects other men without being servile.

He feels a friendly interest in others without meddling in their affairs.

He works when he must without thinking leisure an evil, or enjoys his leisure without scorning those who work.

He scorns the things that are vile and degrading without being a self-righteous work.

He stands up for his convictions without being an opinionated ass.

He professes and practices the religion of his choice without becoming a fanatic and a nuisance to others.

He feels a decent patriotism without being blind to his country's faults or the virtues of other lands.

He expresses a natural preference for the region of his birth without asserting that the people of other sections are imbeciles or rogues.

He supports the candidate or cause of his choice without assuming that all who disagree with him lack sense and honor.

He makes all the money he can without losing his sense of values and sacrificing everything to get money.

He is thrifty without being a miser and generous without being a waster.

He is kind and generous to his family without being a self-made martyr or an over-indulgent Santa Claus.

He praises when praise is due without descending to the level of a yes-man, and criticizes without being a common scold.

He demands his due of respect without continually watching for something to be offended about.

In short, he does all things that nature and reason prompt him to do, but imposes upon himself the restraints required by good taste and the rules of civilization.

And if he doesn't do these things, he isn't a temperate man, though he finish his days without knowing the taste of alcohol.

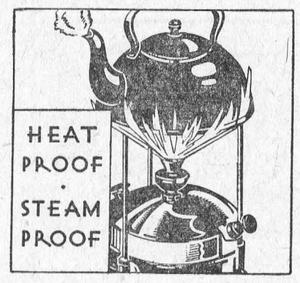
Nepto-Lac

QUICK DRYING ENAMEL



The Latest Development in HEAT and MOISTURE Resisting Enamels

Look at the illustration! It shows one of the severe tests to which Nepto-Lac Enamel was subjected. A kettle partly filled with water, finished in Nepto-Lac, was boiled for hours over a strong open flame, without peeling or blistering.

Nepto-Lac is the answer of the Research Laboratory of The Lowe Brothers Company, manufacturers of the famous "High Standard" Paints and Varnishes, to their many thousands of Consumer Friends for an enamel that can be used with as great success on Cooking Utensils—Hot Water Pipes—Radiators—Furnaces—Table Tops and other surfaces subject to heat—as on Furniture—Walls—Woodwork—Floors—Etc.

Nepto-Lac with all its unique and extraordinary features is surprisingly economical. It sells for less than many ordinary Quick Drying Enamels. Come in and ask for a free Nepto-Lac Color Card and other literature on this outstanding household product.

THE UNITED CHURCH

A large congregation was present on Sunday morning when Miss Nina Yeoman, girls' work secretary for Quebec Province, brought an interesting message on the meaning of C.G.I.T. work and its relation to our church and Sunday school life. She showed how religion has to get behind this upside down world to change the lives of people and that church membership should be a challenging fellowship.

At the evening service a splendid message was given by Rev. J. McKay from Acts 9:8. Reviewing the circumstances of Paul's journey to Damascus. Mr. McKay said that Paul was the strongest persecutor of the church. Particular reference was made to "When his eyes were opened he saw nothing." The worries of life do not bother us when we gaze upon the sufferings of our Lord and the sufferings of others through the ages. We were reminded of John the Baptist's preaching of repentance. In closing the pastor said: "Let us see ourselves as we really are," and say "Lord what wilt Thou have me to do."

Next Sunday Rev. H. M. Beach, of Oxford Mills, will be the preacher at both services.

WASTED ENERGY

One of the secrets of accomplishment is to use your energy on the things that matter, instead of letting it dribble away on things that are worthless, or worse than worthless. Anger, for example, is something that uses up a lot of energy, with nothing to show for it. If you lose your temper, you waste in five minutes energy enough to do your work for a day. Probably you feel more weary after such an outburst than you do after a day of hard work when you have been self-controlled.

Sensitiveness accounts for a fearful waste of energy in many lives. You young people who are always getting your feelings hurt, feeling snubbed and slighted, and grieving about it, are seldom successful in your undertakings. The reason is that you use up so much energy in feeding hurt that you have little left for achievement.

It would be well for some of you to take account of stock. The chances are that you have no more energy than you need for making yourself a success. If you waste it in getting angry or in moping because you think your circle does not appreciate you, you limit your advancement in proportion to the energy you throw away.

4-H CLUB NEWS

Hot School Dishes

The 4-H idea has given the children of a consolidated school near Kelley, in central Iowa, hot foods every day all the past winter and at the unbelievable cost of a penny a dish without loss. And what's more the food has been the best that could be prepared from a nutritive and health standpoint.

Miss Hazel McKibben, home economics teacher, is the major domo of the unique enterprise. The school grounds are large enough to permit the use of a half acre for a garden. A year ago the plot was planted by the pupils in home economics with crops which would mature on or after Sept. 1, which was the opening date for the fall term. The janitor cared for the garden after the spring term closed.

When school opened in the fall the home economics pupils gathered the crops as they matured and canned them as a part of their class work. Some of the root vegetables were canned and others placed in a storage fitted up in the basement. The vegetables thus put away were used as the basis for the school lunches. Besides there was supplied a vegetable soup and a milk dessert, or a vegetable dish and cocoa, or two similar dishes. This was for variety. The foods lacking in the stored supply were obtained by bartering for them with children who were willing to take the hot dishes in trade. About one half the children pay cash for their food. The others bring food to eat and barter for some of the hot food. Sounds like a miracle, but it just shows what can be done.

Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario

Home Owners must make application for survey of premises to secure Free Electric Flat Rate Water Heaters

IN ORDER to secure early installation of free electric flat rate water heaters it is necessary for house-owners, landlords and tenants to send in their application now, by means of the coupon shown below. The method is simple and direct. Simply write your name and address in the space provided, and mail it to your own local Hydro or apply at your local Hydro offices or municipality and a preliminary survey will be made of your home to determine conditions of wiring, the existing system of hot water heating and your hot water requirements. From that the type and capacity of the flat rate water heater is decided and, also, whether a "Booster" heater is required in addition. Then installation proceeds.

This absence of elaborate detail and unnecessary red tape in applying for free installation of water heaters is one of three direct advantages conferred on the people of Ontario by the Ontario Hydro Free Installation Plan. The other advantages are:

1. The installation of flat rate electric water heaters will be absolutely free of cost to the house-owner, landlord, or tenant. Cost of heater element, tank insulation, thermostat and necessary wiring will be borne by the Commission. All the consumer will do is to pay a new low rate for the service he receives.

2. In any home where the new low flat rate electric water heater is installed a higher standard of comfort, convenience and economy will immediately be created. The fact that electric water heating is the best and most economical means known; that the new equipment will be trouble-free, automatic in action and requiring no attention from the householder, and that Ontario power rates are among the lowest in the world, indicates how much this free heater plan means to the citizens of Ontario.

If you desire any additional information on any point, your local Hydro officials or municipality will gladly furnish it.

C. G. I. T. MEET IN WINCHESTER

MANY DELEGATES ARE PRESENT FOR ANNUAL CONFERENCE

The Dundas-Grenville C.G.I.T. annual conference was held here on Saturday and Sunday last, and was one of the most successful since the inauguration of the teen age girls' society. The conference in general was under the leadership of Miss Nina Yeomans, of Montreal, Quebec Girls' Work Secretary.

The initial session was held in the United Church Auditorium, when the delegates gathered at 9.30 o'clock, Saturday morning for registration, which was in charge of Miss Laura Dukelow, of Winchester, registrar, who delivered an address of welcome, following a song service led by Miss Yeomans. The address was replied to by Miss Ruth Wilson, of Brinston. A short talk on "Delights of Shared Experience," by Miss Yeomans then followed, after which the election of officers was conducted with the following result:

President—Miss Vivian Lee, Winchester.

Vice-President — Miss Jean Armstrong, Iroquois.

Secretary — Miss Ruth Fairbairn, Spencerville.

Treasurer—Miss Hilda Shortt, Chesterville.

During the C.G.I.T. hour which followed, Miss Madge Coons gave a short talk on "How C.G.I.T. came to be," "What our groups were discussing on Sunday," was outlined by Miss Olive Bellinger, while Miss Lidley Cooke addressed the gathering on "Projects our group enjoys mostly." Her example was a mother and daughter banquet. Miss Vivian Lee, the new president then told her idea of a typical C.G.I.T. camp day. The session closed with prayer by Miss Yeomans.

The Saturday afternoon meeting opened at 2.30 o'clock, when devotions were conducted on the church lawn by the president. The topic was "The joy of living." Following this, the groups divided into five sections for the discussion period. The first subject was "Missions," under the leadership of Mrs. McGuire, of Spencerville. The second group discussed "Art," led by Mrs. (Rev.) Russell, of Williamsburg. The third topic was "Outdoor Activities," under the leadership of Miss Gwen Oliver, President of Ottawa Girls Work Board, while Miss Yeomans, the conference leader, discussed the "Worship" topic and "World Affairs" discussion. During this part of the meeting many splendid addresses were delivered and much valuable and instructive information given to the girls in attendance.

The conference benediction was taught by Miss Jessie Watt, President of Ottawa Girs Council.

In the evening a very pleasing banquet was held in the Presbyterian Church. Following this, brief talks were given by Rev. Mr. McKay, Rev. Mr. Coburn, Rev. Mr. Woods and Rev. Mr. Turner.

Miss Watts told about the activities of the C.G.I.T. groups in Ottawa and Miss Yeomans outlined the work of the C.G.I.T. Council in Montreal.

During the evening session which took place in the United Church hall, a very delightful pageant was presented. A story of Japan, told by a little Japanese girl, was also greatly enjoyed. A reading entitled, "The House of Many Lamps," was given by Miss Phyllis Henderson, while Miss Yeomans delivered a very interesting address, after which the session closed.

Sunday Meetings.

On Sunday morning the girls attended the regular church services with their hostesses. Miss Yeomans conducted consecration service in the United Church, while Rev. Mr. Turner and Rev. Mr. Woods had charge of the Presbyterian and Baptist services, respectively.

In the afternoon the Conference was brought to a close with a grand rally in the United Church, at which outsiders were permitted to attend. Following a song service, Invocation was repeated by the delegates, led by the president, Miss Lee. A talk on "Negro Spirituals" and "The Value of Common Place Things" by Miss Yeomans was the highlight of the meeting and proved very interesting. The closing candle-lighting ceremony was also very impressive. The conference closed with the C.G.I.T. benediction.

During their stay in Winchester, the large number of delegates were billeted at the homes of members of the local C.G.I.T. Group, and were given the freedom of the town in general.

INTERESTING NEWS FOR FARMERS

(Furnished by the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

Heaves, the ailment common in horses, is frequently caused by repeated gorging with food or water, or both. Dusty grain or hay also predisposes to this trouble.

Early in spring is the best time to transplant most kinds of trees and shrubs, evergreens included. Evergreens may be transplanted in summer but greater precautions must be taken to do it successfully.

Although held back in some districts by wet, cold weather, spring farm work has become general throughout Ontario. In many counties cultivating has been general and in some cases spring wheat and oats sown. The reports indicate that fall wheat is looking decidedly good and that clovers, alfalfa and timothy have come through the winter in fairly good condition.

Exports to U.S. Jump.

A tremendous increase in the export of farm products to the United States was noted for the year ending Jan. 31st, 1933, as against the previous 12-month period, according to a recent statement by Hon. T. L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture. Citing some of the Canadian items which mounted in export trade, Colonel Kennedy referred to canned fruits, tobacco leaf, honey, cheese, condensed milk, and canned meats. In the last-named item the increase was 2,443 per cent., there being 15,388 pounds exported in 1931, and 391,354 pounds in 1932.

Sow Good Seed.

One of the best services rendered by the experimental farms is the testing of varieties of grain to determine their suitability to particular areas. That this work has been extensive and satisfactory is indicated by the general adoption of varieties that were first distributed from the farms. Outstanding examples are Marquis and Garnet wheat in the West, and O. A. C. No. 44 and O. A. C. No. 72 oats in Ontario. In the face of all this, attempts are made at times to push the sale of seed from the United States of so-called new varieties at fancy prices on the claim that fabulous yields may be obtained. About a year ago a carload of an inferior sort was sold in central Ontario at $1.35 to $2 per bushel, even though it graded No. 3. This leads A. H. Martin, of the Crop and Markets Branch, to state that not one variety every introduced into the province by high pressure salesmen has ever been equal to the standard varieties already grown.

Another matter to be kept in mind at the seeding season is that quality counts, either in home grown or purchased seed. Experiments at the O. A.C., prove that arge plump kernel yields 20 per cent more than light or shrunken seed. These experiments also show that an additional outlay for plump seed will increase the yield from 10 to 15 bushels per acre, which at the present price of 40 cents per bushel for feed oats means a cash increase of from $4 to $6 per acre.

Back-to-Farm Movement.

The present increased employment of men on farms is a definite step toward minimizing the unemployment situation, declared Dr. Christie, president of O.A.C., in a recent address. He referred to the fact that more boys and more men as farm managers on salaries had been placed on farms this spring than in any like period for the past ten years. "These boys and men are being welcomed back to thee farms and they are looking forward to a good hom, healthy living, and a small but steady wage. More farmers are taking on help this year than usual. Throughout the rural communities there is generally a feeling of faith, a feeling that things are going ahead." In his opinion, it is the rural people who are saving the situation today and it is the farm which is leading the way in stablizing conditions throughout the country.

Better Cows and Higher Milk Production Needed.

"We do not need more cows in Ontario—we need better cows," declared George H. Barr, director, Dairy Branch, of the Department.

"Without doubt," he continued, "one of the greatest opportunities in the dairy industry to increase profits on a dairy farm is to increase he production of the individual cow.

"We have information which is reliable that in some of our so-called dairy districts or counties, the production of milk per cow fo r six months is less than 3,000 pounds, and less than 80 pounds of butter fat. Estimating the fat at 22 cens per pound, he revenue is $17.60. Just how can here be any profit in keeping such a cow?

"In the same neighborhood there are herds which average 6,000 pounds of milk and over 200 pounds of fat per cow for the same period. Fat at the same price gives a revenue of $40.00 per cow.

Morewood Presentation

On Wednesday last week members of the Crusaders' Mission Band of the Presbyterian Church, Morewood, held their annual Easter tea and money shower. The hall and tables were tastefully decorated with Easter chickens, rabbits, potted plants and green and yellow streamers. Tea was served from five to eight o'clock to a large number of people. It being the regular day of meeting of the Ladies' Aid, the society met with the band and spent the afternoon in quilting.

In the evening a good program was given by the Mission Band, assisted by others. At the close of the program a very interesting feature took place.

Mrs. James Moffatt, has been president of the Ladies' Aid for the past two years, was 73 years old on Wednesday. She was called to the platform, where a three-storey birthday cake with 73 lighted candles was placed before her.

An address was read by Mrs. A. Nimmo, and Mrs. Chesley Marcellus presented Mrs. Moffatt, on behalf of the aid, with a potted plant and handbag. Mrs. Moffatt, though taken by surprise, made a very suitable reply. She then cut the cake, which was then sliced and passed by the Mission Band girls to those present.

The address was signed by Mrs. A. Smirle, first vice-president; Mrs. T. E. Coulthart, second vice-president; Mrs. A. Nimmo, secretary; Miss Lill Feeley, treasurer.

CANCER AND HEART TROUBLE

Cancer and heart trouble are not identical diseases and have nothing really in common. The reason for grouping them in a single article is merely to emphasize their importance as death-dealing disorders and to stress the fact that early diagnosis is most essential in all cases.

No one need die of cancer nor of heart trouble. And if people could only know that they are suffering from these diseases and be properly treated for them right from the beginning, heart disease would no longer take the lead as the worst emeny of life, with cancer following as a close second.

Why should we be afraid to know the truth about ourselves, anyway? And why be timid about visiting a doctor?

Once a year is none too often for a physicial examination, especially after middle life, And if we are found to be suffering from some ailment, no matter what it may be, a thorough going-over at least every six months is indicated.

We allow chronic states of illness to lay us low and we die before our time often for no better reason thar carelessness on our parts. Science knows a lot about disease, as well as about health and how to maintain it. If, however, we do not avail ourselves of this knowledge it might as well not exist so far as our own welfare is made, the greater the chances of complete cure.

As to the method of cure, whether surgical, radium, etc., no general statement can be made. Everything considered, complete eradication of the cancerous growth is probably best. For the chief characteristic of this disease which makes it such a menace is its so-called "malignancy." That is, a cancerous growth starting in one ogran soon poisons the system so that other cancers appear in other parts of the body, perhaps even remote from the original site of the disease.

A common belief is that all growth —which doctors call tumors because the two terms mean the same thing —are sure signs of cancer. On the contrary, all tumors are not cancerous or milignant. A tumor, however, may give trouble because of the pressure it exerts on nerves or normal tissue. Therefore those, also, should be removed.

And when any growth, even a supposedly harmless mole—starts bigger, no time should be lost in having it out.

Regarding heart trouble, many type are to be found. Some are organic and some purely functional. Any form of heart disease, really, need not prove fatal or shorten a patient's life, provided the patient does what he is told and sticks to his treatment and general regime faithfully.

That a continually upset emotional state is bad, even for a normal heart, there can be no question. Rheumatic conditions and toxic states from infected tonsils, etc., are also frequent causes in producing heart disease. Excesses of all kinds—alcohol, tobacco, coffee, etc., — may likewise help to lower the vitality of the heart.

But whether the question be one of cancer, heart trouble or any other disorder — even if the individual feels perfectly healthy and efficient—don't forget what doctors are for and visit them regularly.

No one should ever be afraid of physicians. Whether they are seen in their private offices or at a clinc remember that their object is to help you.

FORGET YOUR FAILURES

If you are aggressive, inclined to boast, a little too sure of yourself, then you can properly give considerable attention to your failures. If you are timid and inclined to self-distrust, however, pay as little attention to your failures as possible. Put all the emphasis on your successes. One of the surest ways to make your whole life unsatisfactory is to form the fatal habit of worrying about past failures.

PROVINCIAL POLITICS

We sometimes are led to marvel at the way in which the old game of "playing party politics" has survived through the decades. Since the days of Sir John A. and the "Canadian Pacific Scandal," it has been the chief aim of some politicians to ferret out every possible error in judgment, every personal misdemeanor on the part of the Governmental leaders and hurl such information across the front pages of their party organs in an effort to make their own particular group appear to be "whiter than snow" in comparison. The object of course is to gain control of the Administration at the subsequent elections.

As it was in 1873, so it is to-day in spite of the fact that we are attaching problems which require the enthusiastic support and co-operation of every politican in the province. There should be no time for political thrusts, charges and counter-charges, there should be unity and a spirit of earnestness in the efforts of all our leaders and there should be no relaxation, until such time as the province is well on the way towards better living conditions for all its inhabitants. Is such the case? The leader of the provincial administration is alleged to hold certain stocks and bonds, certain other leaders raise objections and spend hours in condemning the Premier for such holidays. Everything attached to the government comes in for its share of destructive criticism, nothing is overlooked, speeches are made all over the province in an effort to poison the minds of the electors against the party in power.

The usual remedy suggested by such critics is "Put me in power—the great I am—and I shall reform the province." To which any sane, clear-thinking individual must inwardly reply, "utter rot." The people of Ontario realize the difficulties facing not only the Henry Administration at this time, but every Government in the civilized world. They are not interested particularly in the personal holdings of the Premier in stocks and bonds nor of any of his colleagues. They are interested vitally in economical administration, careful attention to provincial affairs, increased employment, reductions in taxation, rises in prices and only in these problems, for they are matters common to all and equally important to every class. Sooner or later the so-called party leaders will learn that the electors would appreciate less "stumping for the party" and more real efforts on their part towards bringing Ontario back to its former level of contentment and prosperity.

THE STUDENT'S RESPONSIBILITY

The students in our schools are once more approaching a crucial period in their lives — June examinations. It is a testing time of efficiency and earnest application to studies. It means much to each and every one of them, in fact, more than they may realize.

We are living in an age when an education takes precedence over any other form of equipment in earning a living, an age which emphasises brain power over physique in estimating an individual's capacity. While health and physical development are all essential to the young man or woman in facing the problem of gaining a livelihood, inability to apply oneself mentally may result in blocking what might otherwise be a most promising and beneficial career.

The world to-day is passing through an interesting if critical period. The burden is taxing the capacity of leading statesmen, economists and financiers in every nation to the limit. Careful thought, concise action, deliberate planning are of vital importance. The days of inefficiency must be over if we are to regain a semblance of former prosperity.

At the present time the brain power of the world is concentrating on a few major issues, striving to overcome almost insurmountable obstacles, but the period of readjustment, which must of necessity follow, will have to be taken up by other hands. The next ten years belong to the younger generations and it is to them that the leaders of the world look for recruits to carry on the work. Young men and women with the ability to use their mental powers in an orderly fashion will be at a premium and to those having a thorough education will go the benefit.

The world needs clear-visioned, quick thinking men and women. It will be a greater need in the future, and now is the time for our students to prepare themselves to fill that need. The approaching examinations are but one step towards that end and it is the responsibility, as well as to the advantage of every student to be successful in hem.

ABOUT CHURCH GOING

The Huntington, Quebec Gleaner, one of Canada's outstanding weekly newspapers, in a recent issue said, in referring to the large Easter attendance at the Protestant Churches in that town:

> "Was it because it was Easter that so many turned out to church? Was it because the day was not a perfect day for diversion that so many attended church? We do not think so, but believe it was a perfect piece of hypocrisy on the part of many. Too many people are inclined to the old belief that if you turn out to church on Easter Sunday, that that will square you off with your Maker and the world until the next prescribed date for Easter. Our churches do much towards moulding the opinion of a sane law-abiding people, but if we become careless we will become a disorganized population, and ruin will follow the Church and State."

The Gleaner had much more to say on the subject, but the point is that "Easter" has become in too many places the day for ladies to display their newest and prettiest hats, and the men their new spring suits, etc. Of course it is a day when many visitors come, and to church they must be paraded in their new finery. The Gleaner heads its editorial "Are We Christians or Hypocrits." Well, that is not for the Winchester Press to say. What the Gleaner informs us is that the church is to many, made a show house at Easter. But even so, it is well for them to go even at that time. Sometimes they get a shock, sometimes a surprise, but if they got anything that will divert their thoughts from themselves, and to the solemn service, it is well. In Winchester the attendance at the several churches on Easter Sunday was the largest, outside of special occasions, in a long time. Perhaps the church officials can plan to make more of the Sunday services so attractive that the 'non-attenders" will find an irresistible inclination to find their way to the church.

QUALIFIED TRUSTEES

The Federation of Women Teachers' Association are out for academic qualifications for school trustees. They are going to ask the Department of Education to enact a regulation or secure legislation requiring all trustees to have entrance certificates of their equivalent in the public school system. They feel that those administering education should at least be more than mere office holders—and they have some argument in their favor.

The above statement has appeared in many newspapers during the past week, and is significant of the attitude of the "Federation of Women Teachers" toward those who have the management and control of our Public Schools. Of course in the cities and larger towns it may be possible to pick and choose those who have academic qualifications to act as Trustees, but we have our doubts. In the smaller towns and villages the chief trouble is to find men who are in any way qualified to fill the position of Public School Trustee. They get no salary, they give much of their time to the work they are chosen for, and too often they are subjected to ridicule and even abuse because they do not see things in the same light as the educated teachers. Most men are open to reason and men who hold the position of Public School Trustees display an amount of common sense and patience that compares favourably and to the advantage of many teachers in their dealing with public school problems.

THE SWIMMING SEASON

We wish to call to the attention of parents in Winchester the fact that the season is almost upon us when their boys make trips to the various quarries in the district and engage in the season's first "dip." The dangerous part of this practice lies in the fact that such are undertaken on the spur of the moment; that parents are, as a rule, unaware of the "urge" on the part of their young sons to try the "ole swimmin' hole." The second danger is that they are usually unaccompanied by any responsible, older person who would be capable of rendering immediate assistance in case of accident. A shadow has crossed the doorstep of homes in this district in previous years, from just such boyish pranks, and the community saddened by a young boy's life being sacrificed needlessly.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Says the Pembroke Observer:—"The Ontario Legislature is to be commended for cutting down the cost of government by reducing the number of members. If the Legislature had reduced the number of members in the County Councils, or provided something to take their place, a further step in the right direction would have been taken.

Canada, remarks the Calgary Herald, with less than 11,000,000 of people has a federal cabinet of nineteen ministers, sixteen of whom are heads of departments. The United States, whose population with that of Alaska and possessions abroad exceeds 135,000,000, has ten cabinet members. Another daily paper wants to know why Canada should require six more ministers than the United States has found to be necessary for national administrative requirements.

For a dozen years, says La Soleil, Quebec, we took no count of the real value of things. Everyone, from the most opulent to the least well-to-do, wanted to enjoy everything which could be had for money, and further, "the habits of extravagance become more and more widespread even in the poorest homes, and as habit is second to nature, the belief arose that society was obliged to cater to all these extravagances." To-day, we are surely paying the full price for past pleasure.

If only the predictions and the promises of politicians could be realized, what a happy world this would be. By this time Canada would be the land of milk, honey and bananas.

ARE THEY ALL ALIKE?

Monday afternoon a young man, fairly well dressed and of good appearance, called at the editor's home, and asked for a meal ticket. The editor was working in the garden at the time and he asked the young man if he was willing to work for a meal. It was after five o'clock but the young fellow said he was hungry and would work. We showed him what to do and gave him a meal ticket. In conversation he said he had tramped from Toronto, and was looking for work. He didn't know much about farming, but he did about gardening, as he had worked with his father in England, who was a gardener. He was told to come back the next morning and he would be given work. He said he would be glad to do so. But he didn't and we have not seen or heard of him since. There are too many such tramping the highways, and it is about time the government at Ottawa took some decisive sep to round up such transients and see that they did work.

WORK AND RELAXATION

In this country we are likely to think of play as a relaxation allowable in those who have done sufficient work, while the truth of the matter is that well-chosen relaxation is as important a factor in life as work. Our pleasures and our friendships have as much to do with making us the right sort of men and women as the work by which we justify our right to standing room. We should not work fifteen hours a day, even if we can stand it physically, because that does not leave time enough for other important things.

HAVING A GOOD TIME

No one needs to apologize for having a good time. Part of your business in this world is to enjoy yourself. Those who get through life without having any fun are poor and imperfect, for an important factor in their development has been left out.

While good times are important, some young people have an entirely wrong idea as to what constitutes a good time. It is not something that happens when your work is done. You should have a good time while you are playing. It is not necessarily extravagant. If you cannot have a good time without spending money, you have a wrong idea of pleasure. Of course, you do not check your conscience at the door when you start to enjoy yourself. A good time of which your conscience does not approve means misery at the end. Have a good time, but have the sort of good time that does not mean shame and humiliation next day or even a headache.

PRUNE YOUR SHRUBS

The wise garden maker is careful to prune his early flowering shrubs as soon as they are through blooming, provided such pruning is necessary. If he waits until next winter he will sacrifice many flowers. The pruning of shrubs consists of thinning out and removing some of the older wood in order that new shoots may have a chance to develop. It is the new shoots which come along year after year that produce the best flowering branches. The gardener who run amuck with the pruning shears at this season is likely to do more harm than good. Heavy runing is injurious. The proper plan is to do a little cutting each year, and in such a manner that the natural growth of the specimen or group is not spoiled. Old canes should be removed where they emerge from the ground. Cutting off the tops of the branches givs an unnatural and trimmed appearance.

THE RADIO ALL RIGHT

The debate "Resolved that the radio has done more good than harm to the church" was greatly enjoyed by the forty Luther leaguers who attended the monthly meeting held in the basement of the Lutheran church at Williamsburg last week. The affirmative argument was taken by Howard Whitteker and Miss Ruth Barkley, while Lyle Schell and Miss Vivian Barclay supported the negative side. Many interesting points were presented by both teams. Rev. C. R. Cronmiller, Miss Mary Beckstead and Mrs. Lyle Casselman acted as judges and brought in a report in favor of the affirmative side.

IF YOU WANT A THING BAD ENOUGH

Nobody has any fault to find with the people who are always wishing they had a more congenial job, a bigger salary, a better reputation, or more loyal friends. The only criticism to be passed on many of these persons is that they do not wish hard enough. For people who really wish for a better salary, work so hard that they earn it, or for a better reputation, are so watchful of themselves that they secure it. The only trouble with many people is that their wishing is too weak to do any good. If they wished hard enough, they would get all that they wished, not by magic, but because their desire was strong enough to make them work.

Every year British milk suppliers need 65,000,000 new milk bottles to replace losses due to breakage and theft.

JOYOUS WORK

The most optimistic are bound to become discouraged over the young man who is continually complaining that he has to keep his nose to the grindstone. No one who thinks of his work in that fashion can possibly make a success of it. When in his youth Frank Munsey worked sixteen hours a day, it never occurred to him that he was an object of sympathy. If it had, he would probably have been one more of the poor boys from the country who become the poor men of the city.

Any one can work hard, but to work joyously and with enthusiasm is the endowment of the few who are to achieve an outstanding success.

SEVERE STORM

The storm that passed over the Ottawa Valley on Tuesday evening was very severe in certain sections, and especially in Ottawa and vicinity. The sewers on some streets were unable to carry off the tremendous downpour of rain, and for a time traffic on Bank street was suspended. Many cellars were flooded and much damage down. At Aylmer a big tree adjoining St. Paul's Catholic Church, was struck and set on fire. The church was filled at the time, mostly with children, and the lights in the church were put out by the storm. Had it not been for the coolness of the presiding priest there would have been a stampede, and probably lives lost.

DANGER IN NEGLECT

(Winnipeg Free Press.)

Because the ravages of diphtheria are nothing like what they were some years ago, the public are apt to minimize the danger of the lurking germs and to overlook the necessity of preventive work. It is a very serious disease, especially with young children, and the mortality figures were formerly very high. Toxoid treatment, however, has very largely overcome the scourge. Where it is generally used the community is fairly safe; where it neglected there is most serious danger of an outbreak of the disease and the loss of many young lives.

BORROWING THE WEEKLY PAPER

One of the many handicaps that confront a publisher these days is the pernicious practice of passing the weekly paper over the back fence. We have always contended that if a person isn't interested enough in a newspaper to subscribe for it he shouldn't ask his neighbor to loan it. This habit is fairly common. No one could find the least objection to a person borrowing his neighbor's paper if he could not afford the small, annual subscription price. But there are quite a few people well able to subscribe who club with their neighbors or else borrow the paper outright. This is a form of petty, miserliness that would out-Scrooge Old Scrooge himself.

ON A DETOUR

A little girl was crossing the Atlantic with her mother. It was her first ocean voyage. The sea was as smooth as the proverbial mill pond for the first three days, then the ship began rolling and pitching heavily.

The child could not understand what had happened. "Mamma," she cried, "What's the matter? Are we on the Ridge Road."

HEALTH SERVICE IN EASTERN COUNTIES

Supplementing our statement of some few weeks ago re the proposed study of health conditions in Eastern Ontario under the auspices of the Provincial Department of Health, we note that with proposed programme is actually in effect. Dundas County has been divided into four divisions and one nurse has been stationed in each. They will make an early contact with the schools of the County.

The purpose of the survey is not to disconcert parents with the discovery of slight physical abnormalities which may be of no material significance to the health of the individual concerned. Its purpose is to find out what conditions are detrimental to the health of infants, children and adults, the extent of their existence and attempt to find a sound, non-irritating programme of prevention. The plan warrants the co-operation of all those in both high and low places within the County.

Wants $10,000 For Breach Of Promise

DON'T PAY TO PLAY FAST AND LOOSE WITH AFFECTIONS

Alliston Herald.)

Claiming that Stanley Albert Thompson, Watford district farmer, courted and won her promise to marry him and then eloped with another girl, the young daughter of an East Williams farmer has entered supreme court action for $10,000 "heart balm." She is Marie McKenzie, daughter of John McKenzie. Being under 21, she enters the suit in the name of her father. In a statement of claim, filed with the writ of summons, the East Williams girl states that in 1932, while she was in training as a nurse at Strathroy General Hospital, Thompson courted her. After a friendship of several months, the man promised in November, 1932, to marry her, and they became engaged, the girl being given an engagement ring. Following the engagement, the statement further sets out, Thompson desired to be married immediately, but the girl wanted to finish training. By mutual consent last February the engagement was broken off, but shortly afterwards, Marie states, she yielded to the man's desire for an early marriage, and on Feb. 28, when they were at her home, the engagement was renewed, it being arranged for them to wed this June. Miss McKenzie says that she proceeded with her plans for the wedding, bought a trousseau, and spent large sums of money in preparation for the marriage. "Subsequently, on or about Mar 20, 1933, without notice to Miss McKenzie, the defendant eloped with one Margaret Anderson, and entered into marriage with her," the statement alleges. The girl claims to have given up training, and is unable to resume her studies as a result of the burst romance. She claims to have suffered $10,000 damages. The action will be heard at London.

FORBIDDEN TO DRIVE CAR FOR FIVE YEARS

J. L. Youngs, of Stratford, Ont., pleaded guilty in police court to a charge of misconduct while driving a car, resulting in bodily harm. He was given suspended sentence by Magistrate J. A. Makins on the condition he does not drive a car for five years.

HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD

Always drive fast out of alleys. You might hit a policeman. There's no telling.

Always race with locomotives to crossings. Engineers like it. It breaks the monotony of their jobs.

Always pass the car ahead on curves or turns. Don't use the horn because it might unnerve the other fellow and cause him to turn out too far.

Demand half the road — the middle half. Insist on your rights.

Always lock your brakes when skidding. It makes the job more artistic. Often you can turn clear around.

Drive as fast as you can on wet pavements. There is always something to stop you if you lose control—often a heavy truck or a plate glass window.

New drivers should be shown how to drive fast in heavy traffic. It gives them the experience every motorist should have.

Always speed. It looks as though you were a man of pep even though an amateur driver.

Never stop, look or listen at railway crossings. It consumes valuable time, and besides no body believes in signs.

In wet weather always drive in trolley tracks. It's smoother going around.

Always drive close to pedestrians in wet weather. Dry cleaners will erect a monument to your memory.

Always try to pass cars on a hill when it is possible. It shows your bus has more power, and you can turn somewhere surely if you meet another car at the top.

Never look around when you back up. There is never anything behind your automobile.

A few shots of booze will enable you to make your car do real stunts. For permanent results quaff long and deeply of the flowing bowl before taking the wheel.

SYNOPSIS: Pauline, sentimental, trustful, sincere and loving love, becomes engaged and marries Dennis O'Hara in the belief that their blissful happiness will continue unchanged thru all the years. On her wedding morning she awakens with a strange premonition that maybe love does change, a thought buried in her mind by a letter from her closest friend, Barbara the night before. Pauline adored Barbara who had been married, was the mother of a child which died, but now divorced and living a life which some of her friends could not understand. Between Dennis and Barbara is a seeming wall of personal dislike by both. Six months after Pauline's wedding, Barbara comes for a short stay. During this visit Barbara confesses to Pauline that there is a man she really loves, but she refuses to tell his name. Barbara decides suddenly to go home and Pauline insists Dennis drive her to the station. Irritated, Dennis drives recklessly, and they are in a crash. Barbara escapes injury but Dennis' leg is broken. As he returns to consciousness he learns who the man is that Barbara loves. It's himself. Dennis spends several weeks in the hospital. Barbara returns to stay with Pauline, but on one pretext or another fails to visit Dennis with Pauline at the hospital. Pauline plans highly for Dennis' return home. . . . NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Pauline was only too ready to obey. This headache fitted in nicely with her scheme of things. It seemed providential when, about half-past three, she peeped into Barbara's room and found her still fast asleep.

She was all ready to meet Dennis—one of the doctors was bringing him home in his car, a man named Stornaway, with whom Dennis had struck up a great friendship.

It would be so wonderful to have him at home again. The moments seemed to drag. Everything had gone perfectly, the house looked a picture, so Pauline thought with pride as she wandered about, unable to settle to anything.

The little maid came to her breathlessly.

"Oh, please, madam, the fruit hasn't come for dinner, and it's early closing day. What shall we do?"

Mistress and maid stared at each other aghast; then Pauline said firmly:

"I'll go round to the shop myself. There's plenty of time before the master comes. She went on her errand with cheerful readiness, almost running down the garden path.

It was the slamming of that gate that woke Barbara; she started up, conscious of having long overslept, and glanced at the clock beside her bed—half-past three!

"Heavens! What waste of a lifetime." She bathed hurriedly, dressed and went downstairs; her headache had not gone, and she felt a little heavy and depressed.

The little maid heard her in the hall and came from the kitchen.

"Can I get you anything, madam? Mrs. O'Hara said I was to go up presently and see if you were awake."

"I'll have some tea, please." Barbara was at the door of the drawing room. "Why, what lovely flowers!" she said. "Are we expecting visitors?"

The maid giggled. "The master, madam! He's coming home! It was to be a surprise, and—oh, dear, I believe there he is, and the mistress out! Oh, dear, what will she say, not being here to meet him! It's long before his time, too."

She heard Dennis's voice and the pleasant voice of another man.

"No, I won't come in, thanks. You've seen enough of me during the last month. Some other time. Don't overdo it, now—good-bye."

A moment, and Dennis was in the hall. He did not look ill except that he was thinner and walked with a stick. The little maid was greeting him excitedly.

"I do hope you're better, sir. It's nice to see you home, I'm sure."

"Thanks."

Barbara waited for him to ask for Pauline. But he did not—he came across the hall unassisted, slowly and with some difficulty; then he saw her.

Barbara went forward coolly. "Welcome home," she said. She gave him her hand. "Pauline will be disconsolate. She has just run out for a moment. Oughtn't you to sit down? There's a fire in the drawing room."

"Thanks." Dennis's voice was rather grim, but he gave his coat to the maid and followed Barbara into the drawing room. When he was safely ensconced in the armchair he looked up at her.

"You came off better than I did," he said. "Is that wrist a memento?"

"Yes, but only a sprain." Barbara waved her bandaged wrist in the air to show what little damage had been done. "Will you have tea, or shall we wait for Pauline?"

"How long will she be?"

"Not long. I think she has gone to the shops for something they forgot to send."

"Why didn't you go with her?"

"What do you mean?"

"Only that as you refused so steadily to come and see me all these weeks I thought I should probably find you had run away."

Barbara laughed lightly. "You would have done, if you had come to-morrow, as you originally intended."

"You did not want to meet me?"

"Oh, no. I merely had a previous engagement."

Dennis's eyes darkened. He had thought about this woman more than he cared to remember during the past tedious weeks, and he had looked forward to seeing her with a queer sort of pleasurable anticipation.

Was it in a dream that she had kissed him and implored him to speak to her? Looking at her now he was sure it must have been.

"Was it a dream that she had kissed him and implored him to speak to her? Looking at her now he was sure it must have been."

But the memory of her lips on his was real enough.

Dennis looked at Barbara's lips, artificially reddened, and felt ashamed. Thank God, Pauline never made her face up—no rouged cheeks and darkened eyes. Almost angrily he contrasted the two women. Pauline with her simplicity and wholehearted devotion to himself, her interest and happiness in the small things of life, her pride in her home, her loyalty and sweetness—and then Barbara Stark!

A woman of the world, spoiled and insincere, A poseuse who had been taught by an unhappy experience, no doubt brought about by herself, that life was a bitter jest and that faithfulness and loyalty were nonexistent. And yet once—just for a moment—he had seen a glimpse of the real woman hidden beneath all the veneer of artificiality; or had that been the sham and this the real woman who stood before him now, cool, unruffled, almost insolent in her self-possession.

"Oh, my dear—Dennis—Dennis—speak to me."

Perhaps he had dreamed those words, perhaps they had been the conjuring of a semiconscious mind, founded on the thing that Pauline had told him—"She does love someone—frightfully!"

Was he the poor devil, then—or the lucky man? It all depended so much upon which way one looked at the question.

Dennis O'Hara sighed restlessly and shifted his stiff leg. He wished with all his heart that Barbara had gone away before he came home. She was an irritating, disturbing influence.

"Oh, Dennis—darling!"

Pauline burst into the room like a whirlwind and flung herself on her knees beside him. "And I wasn't here to meet you! Oh, what a shame! Does your leg hurt very much? Oh, it is lovely to see you back home."

Her arms were round his neck, and she was kissing him rapturously; even his coat came in for a share of attention.

"Steady—my dear child!" Dennis glanced over his wife's head to where Barbara stood, but she had calmly turned and walked out of the room. He gently put his wife from him. "You'll have the maid in the room in a minute," he protested.

She sat back on her heels and looked at him with dancing eyes.

"Aren't you glad to be home? Isn't it wonderful? Oh, Dennis, I could go mad with joy."

"I shouldn't do that, if I were you," he said comically. He took her hand and pressed it. "Of course I'm glad to be home. Stornaway brought me in his car. I asked him in, but he wouldn't come."

"Wise man! I suppose he guessed we should like to be alone, as it's so long since you were here."

Dennis dragged himself to his feet.

"Confound my leg! Wonder how long it will be before I can walk decently. By the way, Mrs. Stark tells me she is clearing off to-morrow."

"Yes. I wanted her to stay, but perhaps it's as well—I shall have you all to myself." She snatched his hand and kissed it.

"Baby!" Dennis said, smiling. "And what about tea?"

"It's coming now. I'll go and see." Pauline rushed away, and Dennis limped over to the window and looked out at the little garden.

Very tidy and neat, very suburban, he thought, and wondered why it had never struck him in that light before. Life was inclined to be humdrum—at least, his life was!

Outside in the hall he heard Pauline's happy laugh, and he checked his wandering thoughts with a firm hand.

"Ungrateful devil!" he apostrophized himself and turned to greet her as she came in. What more could one desire in a wife? She was loving and pretty and charming, and yet——

"Doughnuts for tea!" she said gaily. "You see I remembered how fond you are of them."

Dennis allowed her to instal him in a corner of the couch, submitting with a good grace to be kissed before she gave him his tea.

"Where's Barbara?" he asked.

"She's just coming in. I think she thought we might like to have a little while alone," Pauline said.

"Oh!" Dennis frowned. He wished he could cure Pauline of her sentiment.

Barbara came into the room.

"Do I intrude? I'm just dying for tea. No, please don't get up, Mr. O'Hara."

"Why don't you call him Dennis?" Pauline asked. "'Mr. O'Hara' seems so silly and formal."

"Well, if he doesn't mind," Barbara said with a charming smile.

"Delighted," Dennis mumbled.

"No doughnuts for me," Barbara said. "I have to consider my figure."

"Barbie! when you're as slim as a willow," Pauline protested. "Oh, dear—what is it?"—for the little maid had appeared at the door. "Very well, I'll come."

She put down her cup and left the room. "Domestic cares, you see!" she said archly to Dennis.

There was a little silence when she had gone.

Dennis spoke suddenly. "Are you really afraid that one doughtnut will spoil your figure?"

Barbara laughed. "Not one, but one might be the thin end of the wedge to other things that would."

He frowned. "Such nonsense! You've got a beautiful figure."

What the devil had made him say that? "I beg your pardon," he muttered sullenly.

"Not at all." Barbara's voice was quite serene. "It's a great achievement to have extracted a compliment from you."

"The truth is not a compliment."

"I think it is from you."

"Many thanks," Dennis said grimly. "By the way, I feel that I ought to apologize for smashing you up."

"Smashing yourself up, you mean."

"Well, you hurt your wrist. Is it better?"

"Nearly well, thanks. I've had massage. It's been a very small inconvenience. I'm an idle person, you see, with nothing to do."

"Better for you if you had."

She looked at him with wide eyes. "Oh, why?" she asked.

He met her gaze squarely. "It would keep you out of mischief."

WHISKEY DOES THIS

Quebec, April 29.—Battered by a chair swung as a club and gashed with the jagged edges of a broken milk bottle, Mary Ann Walker, 30, was found dead in a rooming house here yesterday. A man was held for questioning pending the coroner's inquest.

Mrs. F. X. Clouthier told police she summoned to the scene that Miss Webster and the man held by police had rented a room in her house a little over a week ago and had quarrelled furiously yesterday. At noon she heard the sound of blows and breaking furniture. Mrs. Clouthier claimed that she ran to the door of the room and saw the man clubbing the woman with a broken chair.

The landlady called the police and Constables W. Charland and George Patry placed the man under arrest after a doctor had pronounced Miss Webster dead of her wounds.

A one-year-old child was living with the couple. The man had a deep cut in one hand and required medical treatment at police headquarters.

DIXON'S CORNERS DRAMATIC CLUB

Under the auspices of the United Church choir, a three-act comedy drama entitled, "The Strange Bequest" was creditably presented by the the Dramatic Club of the Presbyterian church, Dixon's Corners, in the town hall, Spencerville, on Wednesday evening, April 26.

The cast of characters included Mrs B. Johnston, Mrs. B. Saver, the Misses Laura Johnston, Mae Bell, Claire Bell, Winnie Vey, Messrs. Clinton Stewart, Ben Johnston, Stanley Waddell and John Thompson.

Between the acts, vocal duets were rendered by Mrs. B. Saver and Stanley Waddell, and a minuet danced by the Misses Stewart and Countryman.

The members of the Matilda community orchestra furnished music for the occasion.

A Terrible Tragedy

MOTHER AND FAMILY MEET DEATH IN PREFERENCE TO DISGRACE

St. Paul, April 28.—Rather than face what she had termed the "disgrace" of serving a six-months' term for contempt of federal court, Mrs. Genevieve A. Clark, of Minneapolis, juror in the first Foshay trial, sought refuge in death with her husband and two sons.

Their bodies, crowded together in a small sedan, were found last night, three days after Mrs. Clark was to have appeared to begin her sentence in jail here. The discovery ended a search for the family that had extended over several northwest States and Canada.

Carbon monoxide gas, carried into the car by a rubber hose attached to the exhaust pipe, snuffed out their lives. In the rear seat was found the body of Mrs. Clark, her arms around the two boys, Rowland, 10, and Dean, 7.

NO WOMEN TRANSIENTS

(Huron Expositor.)

Everyone knows what a transient means. We have had a very close and intimate acquaintance with this new class of society which has sprung up so quickly and has reached such numbers in the past two or three years. Some are worthy of help and sympathy; others are not. Both kinds are to be seen everywhere. They are on every road and highway; every householder has catered to and fed them, every town hall in every town and village has sheltered them almost every night during the past winter. But they are all men. Why? Thousands upon thousands of them. How do they live or exist and how do they clothe themselves in these times of depression? Is it pride, or are they willing to work at any kind of work? Are they more adaptable than men, more easily satisfied? Are they more grateful for small mercies—Have they more bone and less wishbone than men; more sand or what? Whatever it is, there are no women transients—not in the country at any rate.

HOW IT HAPPENED

In the village hall the well-disposed physician was conducting an anti-tobacco campaign, and so, having denounced smoking much, he there and then asked his audience if one among them had anything to say in defence of the weed.

"Tobacco saved my life 50 years ago, sir," wheezed an ancient peasant.

"Pray, give us details," said the physician.

"I'd been digging a well," he replied "an' I come up out of it for a good smoke. While I was up the well caved in."

SOME COW

London, Ont., April 27.—G. H. Lawrence, of Londesboro, received a shock yesterday when he discovered his cow had given birth to a headless, tailless, legless calf. Otherwise it was as normal as a dead calf could be.

THE FAMILY DOCTOR

By JOHN JOSEPH GAINES, M.D.

A LESSON

I wish it had not happened, for it makes me sad to think of it. But it is true in every particular, for I know of the incident first-hand.

A little boy of about nine took an acute attack of appendicitis. The diagnosis was unquestioned, for a fine surgeon was called — he advised immediate operation. The father rebelled stubbornly; "I don't want no cuttin' done," he said with finality. The surgeon returned to his place of business.

Four days later the same surgeon—a man of eminence—was called hurriedly to see the boy; he had grown much worse. The doctor found him with cold, clammy extremities, thready pulse, dilated pupils, swollen enormously in the body,—peritonitis!

A glance was enough; the boy was dying. "He can't live another hour," the surgeon said quietly; "it's no use to try the impossible."

The father wrung his hands and begged the doctor to do something —operate—anything. He writhed in despair with his unreasonable requests. But it was too late.

The doctor was in deadly earnest when he spoke to that father—a bitter lesson was to be studied. "I called here and told you what should be done," he said; "you didn't want me to do what I knew should be done. You wanted to temporize—I hoped the child might get well, in spite of my better judgment. You refused to listen — you are responsible for this child's death!"

Which was too true. So many people step in front of the trained physician. That boy could have been saved, but the one in authority objected. What do we learn from this?

Two Health Publications

Two very creditable publications have just been issued by the provincial department of health under the direction of the Minister, the Hon. Dr. John M. Robb.

The first of these is the 1933 issue of the Ontario Health Almanac, which contains a great mass of information relating to the health services of the province and the steps that have been taken to cope with disease. As a treatise on the subject of health in general, written in terms that can be understood by any individual, this health almanac fills a most useful purpose.

The second publication, bearing the simple title of "The Baby," is an ambitious and attractive effort the 64 pages of which are crammed full of information relating to the proper care and treatment of infants. This booklet is perhaps the finest on the subject of the care of babies that has yet been prepared in Canada for popular circulation. It ought to prove of very great utility and value.

These booklets, given widespread circulation, should be of much assistance to the department in the fight which it is continualy waging upon disease in this province.

THERE ARE SOME REAL GOOD MEN AFTER ALL

The Alliston Herald tells the following story:

Some little time ago The Herald related that a mortgage holder in town had materially helped a mortgagee who is doing his best by reducing his principal sum by some $4,000 and reducing the interest rate to 5 per cent. A few days ago a similar act was bestowed on a young fellow in another section of Alliston district when a landlord went onto the place where he had himself started in life with very little capital many years ago. Asking for a statement of last year's operations the young mortgagee produced a complete accounting. Complimenting the young man on his industry and perseverance through a period of adversity all obligations due the landlord for the past year were concelled and the young man wished the best of luck in 1933.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

If the book is your own you have a right to do with it as you please. You can break its back, tear its leaves, soil its pages, turn down a corner to mark your place, underline or score out what you approve or disapprove of or loan it to some one else. If it is a Library book or one borrowed from a friend, you have no right and should not do these things, but use your best endeavor to keep the book in perfect shape and condition. The writer just lately perused a Public Library book which had only forty leaves turned down and broken evidently for the purpose of marking the place. This book was printed on extra heavy paper and every folded leaf was more or less spoiled. There is more pleasure in reading a new looking, clean book than a dirty wreck, so do your part. Are you guilty?—G.M.H., in The Globe.

Warning To Hunters

All persons carrying firearms or air-guns in the bush in Ontario for the purpose of shooting or hunting birds or animals must have a license, according to an amendment of the Game and Fisheries Act which went into effect this year. The amendment was passed on April 13th of this year. In former years no permit was required for Ontario residents to hunt in Ontario but under the new law all must have licenses.

There have been many complaints about youths hunting birds, squirrels, etc., in the bush and this new enactment applies to them also. The penalty for a breach of the act is a fine from $10 to $100 and confiscation of the weapons. Farmers are allowed to hunt on their own property however without the permit, this being the only amendment.

THE CHARM OF BEING DAINTY

Once we heard of a wealthy misogynist who married his secretary because she wore crisp organdie cuffs and collars, freshly attached every day! Though a talent for daintiness is certainly not the only necessary ingredient or a happy marriage, it is a powerful charm to hold a man's love and esteem.

Now, some people seem born with the knack of fastidiousness. To others from childhood up, it is a real struggle to have clothes looking neat and tidy to conquer hair that will run wild, to keep a constant watchful check on little details that distinguish the careful from the careless. Is it worth the effort? A thousand times. Yes, for next to sheer, breath-taking beauty, the quality of exquisiteness is a charming thing in woman.

Never before has it been so easy to preserve that exquisite finish as it is today. Modern plumbing makes the daily bath or shower a simple, pleasurable experience. Toilet soaps, produced in quantity by the finest of soap making experts, are mild, fragrant and ridiculously inexpensive.

And it's just as easy to keep underthings freshly sweet and clean as it is to preserve bodily cleanliness. A bathroom without its supply of gossamer flakes or granular soap for fine things is as strange as one without running water. Whisking silk hose and underwear in and out of lukewarm suds has become almost second nature to the modern girl.

FIRE AT DUNBAR

Barns, horse stables and other outbuildings on the farm of James Kearns situated on the Dunbar road about two miles south of Chesterville were destroyed by fire about five o'clock on Saturday morning last. The origin of the fire is unknown as the family were sleeping in the house some distance away and were not aroused until the fire had gained considrable headway. Three horses, a number of pigs and fowl, a quantity of hay and all the seed grain were burned. Several pieecs of machinery in the barn were also destroyed. The loss of $3000 is partly covered by insurance.

Successful Play At Williamsburg

A three-act comedy "His Irish Dream," presented under the auspices of the Young People's League of the Williamsburg United Church, in the church hall, on Friday evening, was a decided success. Every one in the cast, in the recital of their several roles, were practically letter perfect and their enunciation was characterized by a naturalness in expression and action. This was brought out by the direction and training of Mrs. (Rev.) A. M. Russell and was well received by the audience. Between acts Miss Rose Hill and Rev. A. M. Russell contributed delightful solos.

A NEW RIDEAU SERVICE

Travelling the old Rideau route between Kingston and Ottawa on a de luxe yacht, equipped with showerbaths, electric heating and various luxuries, and enjoying fishing, swimming and other diversions en route, will be a new experience this year for those who patronize the service that is being initiated by a Toronto travel bureau.

The itinerary of the return cruise, with a side trip to the Thousand Islands, will be one of ten days' duration, with pauses being made overnight at various points along the route The tourists will also enjoy the services of a lecturer, learn a great deal about the construction and history of the canal and connecting lakes and begin to appreciate a part of Ontario which has been largely neglected in tourist calculations since the time of the "Ella Ross," the "James Swift" and other vessels which once navigated the route.

L. O. L. DEGREES CONFERRED

Headed by Ald. Harold C. Shipman, Grand Master of Ontario East of the Loyal Orange Lodge, a degree team of Ottawa L.O.L. officials conferred the degree of R.A.P. on Geo. Rutherford and M. A. Beckstead of L.O.L. No. 3127, Morrisburg, on Saturday last. Following the ceremony, several addresses were given including one by the Grand Master of the district, Shipman, Grand Secretary Sutherland and H. H. Nesbitt, past county Master of Dundas and Warden of the United Counties.

TRAIN HITS CAR AT AVONMORE

What might have been a very serious accident occurred at the C. P. R. crossing, Avonmore, on Sunday evening. Mr. David Ferguson was proceeding north from the village and failed to see the approaching train until he was on the tracks. He pulled the car down the track in front of the train, which hit the rear of the car damaging the body and fender on the right side and breaking the left rear wheel. The occupants escaped with only a bad scare.

AESOP'S FAMOUS FABLES SURVIVE PASSING YEARS

Of course you are acquainted with many of Aesop's fables. Have you ever wondered just who this famous story teller was?

Aesop is supposed to have been a Greek slave who lived from 620 to 560 B.C. He had a brilliant mind, but an ugly, crippled body. This, however, did not prevent his becoming famous as a wise man who could teach moral lessons in short, pithy stories.

So great did his reputation become that his master freed him, and he went to live at the court of Croesus, the famous and very rich king of Lydia. Once the king sent him to the temple of Apollo, at Delphi, and there he met his death, being thrown over a precipice by the angered inhabitants of that place.

Aesop told his stories by word of mouth, and they were handed down from one generation to another. Two hundred years later they were collected and written down, only to be lost for 1,000 years. Finally they were discovered in a monastery at Mount Athos in 1844, and given again to the world.

TALKING NONSENSE

The chairman of the Radio Commission implies that current attacks upon that body are part of progaganda emanating from New York.

As far as the rank and file of Canadian listeners are concerned, they are nothing of the sort. Canadians objected to the establishment of this Commission, with the million-dollar costs involved, and are still objecting to it, because they saw no immediate necessity for such an expenditure being made at a time when there was a pronounced demand for the exercise of economy in the conduct of government.

The people who had their radio fee doubled last year in order to meet the cost of operating this Commission, with its various extremely well-paid officials, did not ask that such should be done. They did not ask even that the Commission should be named. They were in the main satisfied with the programmes being received and they were perhaps better satisfied then than they are at the present time, particularly as a result of the Commission's meddling with frequencies.

To say that the thousands of Canadian people who have little or no use for the Radio Commission and see no reason why this additional expense should be assumed by an already hard pressed people, are inspired in their opposition by propaganda from New York or anywhere else is sheer nonsense.—Exchange.

SERVICE, NOT SERMONS

JESUS rose from his seat, drawn by that splendid outburst of faith and without hesitation or questioning he started. He went with the father whose daughter was dead. All his life He seemed to feel that there was no limit at all to what He could do, if only those who beseeched Him believed enough. Grasping the father's arm He led the way up the street, his disciples and the motley crowd hurrying along behind.

Bruce Barton

They had several blocks to travel, and before their journey was completed another interruption occurred.

A woman who had been sick for twelve years edged through the crowd, eluded the sharp eyes of the disciples and touched the hem of His garment. "For she said within herself, if I may but touch His garment, I shall be whole." . . . What an idea. . . . What a Personality His must have been to provoke such ideas. . . . "My daughter is dead, but lay your hands on her and she will live." . . . "I've been sick for twelve years; the doctors can do nothing, but if I only touch His coat I'll be all right." . . . How can the artists possibly have imagined that a sad-faced weakling could ever inspire such amazing ideas as these!

The woman won her victory. By that touch, by his smile, by the few words he spoke, her faith rose triumphant over disease. She "was made whole from that hour."

Again He moved forward, the crowd pressing hard. The ruler's residence was now in plain sight. The paid mourners, hired by the hour, were busy about the doorway; they increased their activities as their employer came in sight—hideous wails and the dull sounding of cymbals—a horrible pretense of grief. Quickening his stride Jesus was in the midst of them.

"Give place," He cried with a commanding gesture. "The maid is not dead but sleepeth."

They laughed him to scorn. Brushing them aside he strode into the house and took the little girl by the hand. The crowd looked on dumbfounded, for at the magic of His touch she opened her eyes, and sat up.

Front page stories five and six. A woman sick twelve years, and healed! A child whom the doctors had abandoned for dead, sits up and smiles! No wonder a thousand tongues were busy that night advertising His name and work. "The fame thereof went abroad into all that land," says the narrative. Nothing could keep it from going abroad. It was irresistible news!

He was advertised by his service, not by His sermons; this is the second noteworthy fact. Nowhere in the Gospels do you find it announced that:

Jesus of Nazareth Will Denounce The Scribes and Pharisees in the Central Synagogue Tonight at Eight O'clock . . . Special Music.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

by Charles E. Dunn

Jesus Faces the Cross
Lesson for May 7th. Scripture:
Mark 10:32-52.
Golden Text: Luke 9:51.

The lesson begins with a very striking picture. Jesus and His disciples were on their way to Jerusalem. For some reason not stated the Master was walking along, ahead of the others. Perhaps, lost in thought, He had unconsciously quickened His pace. At any rate, there must have been some strange expression upon His face, and something unusual about His manner. For Mark tells us that the disciples were both astonished and frightened. Apparently they had never seen Him look and act in such a way before.

Rev. Chas. E. Dunn

Our Golden Text helps us to appreciate the significance of this scene. "He proceeded with fixed purpose towards Jerusalem." The crucifixion, at once shameful and triumphant, drew Him forward by an irresistible impulse.

But note that He accepted the dire fate awaiting Him voluntarily. He was not forced into the shame of a bitter execution against His Will, but deliberately chose the Way of Calvary. As Paul says, He "gave Himself for our sins."

Liszt, the composer, once spoke of the "madness and the exultation of the Cross." As we think of the fickle crowd that hailed Jesus on Palm Sunday, only to crucify Him on Good Friday, we are reminded of the collective insanity of man. At the same time, as we think of Jesus soon to die, we feel an unmistakable note of triumph. Here is a matchless Master so brave, so resolute, that He does not shrink the Cross.

The disciples naurally did no understand the necessity of the Cross. They were thinking in terms of wordly fame and success. James and John, in our lesson, pleaded for favored positions in the glorious new Age Christ was to introduce. And the Master had to make it clear to them that they must be ready to drink His bitter cup, and be baptized with His baptism of fire. And He proclaimed that sovereign truth that the golden Way of Life is not the path of lordship and authority, but of humbie ministry in the spirit of the Son of man, a suffering Servant.

In 1932 Great Britain was Canada's best cusomer, the United States coming second, but Canada bought most of her imports from the United States Great Britain coming second.

McCarney, of Burritt's Rapids. She was rushed to the Chambers Memorial Hospital, where it was ascertained that she had suffered a fractured skull and other injuries. She may recover.

BE CAREFUL WITH YOUR TONGUE

The action brought by John Lyons, of Portland, against George Mattice, claiming $2,000 damages for slander has been settled by the defendant to the satisfaction of Mr. Lyons. Lyons, in his writ, claimed damages for alleged slander by the defendant alleging in the statement of claim that Mattice had stated he had stolen a spare tire and rim off his car in Smiths Falls. An explanation signed by Mattice and payment of a sum satisfactory to Lyons disposes of the matter and the case will not come to trial. W. McCue, K.C., of Smiths Falls, acted on behalf of Lyons, and Nickle & Nickle, of Kingston, represented Mattice in the settlements.

Robinson is remaining in the city while her mother is in the hospital. That she may have a speedy recovery is the sincere wish of her many friends.

WOMEN'S ASSOCIATION OF THE UNITED CHURCH

The May meeting of the Women's Association of the United Church was held on Tuesday in the S. S. Rooms with the President, Mrs. Dukelow, in the chair. Rev. Mr. McKay led in prayer.

Reports from the various committees were encouraging and showed progress in each branch of the work.

Arrangements were made for a play to be given at some early date. A welcome donation, consisting of sufficient blocks for two quilts, was received from a friend of the association. A social half hour followed the business session. An enjoyable solo was rendered by Miss Norma Robinson. Rev. Mr. McKay, the guest speaker of the afternoon, gave a very interesting address on "Women and the Church." The members then took in a contest and homemade candy was served by the committee.

It was moved by Mrs. Faith and seconded by Mrs. Wm. Lannin that a hearty vote of thanks be given to those assisting with the programme, to the donor of the quilting blocks, and to the committee, Mrs. John Moffat and Mrs. Kenney.

Now that our surroundings have been cleaned-up, let us all get busy and do a little painting. The town will become very attractive and much beautified by the liberal use of paint at this time.

Tuesday was one of those days a fellow would feel better out on the water in a boat, a straw hat on his head, and a fishing pole in his hand, even if he didn't catch any fish. Oppressiveely hot and sultry.

If the pound sterling, the United States dollar and the Canadian dollar all become stabilized in value, as it is hoped that they may be following the Washington conversations, one great obstacle to the conduct of international trade on a settled basis will have been overcome.

More than one-third of Canada's coffee requirements comes from Jamaica. One-third comes from other countries within the British Empire and the remainder comes from foreign countries, mainly in Central and South America.

Canada headed the world's list of exporters of oats to Holland in 1932, and for the same year almost quadrupled her export of rye, namely, 68,376 metric tons as against 17,745 tons in 1931, displacing the Argentine as headliner.

POLICE DOGS

In many places the citizens have declared war on police dogs. So many children have been attacked by these so-called police dogs, and even grown persons have to defend themselves. In Ottawa they have passed a law prohibiting them to be at large.

WE ARE IN THE GOITRE BELT

An American authority on goitre had publicly recommended that every girl in the continent's "goitre belt"—embracing roughly the southern strip of Canada and the northern half of the United States—receive an iodine ration throughout the school year until she reached maturity.

In making his recommendation before the Missouri Medical Association Tuesday, Dr. Arnold S. Jackson, of Madison, Wis., said the spread of goitre in the so-called belt threatens the bodily and mental health of this and succeeding generations unless adequate preventive measures are taken.

He estimated 20,000,000 North Americans now suffer from the malady in some form.

A PUBLIC NUISANCE

There were several men and women canvassing the homes of Winchester on Sunday, presenting a petition to be signed with reference to the liberty of the radio broadcasting. In many cases they were unnecessarily insistent in presenting the petition, and in some cases positively impudent. The door might well be slammed shut in their face. They are evidently of a religious (?) cult—better known in Russia than in Canada and their mission (?) is certainly not one that should appeal to Canadians. They are a new class of transients that are a bigger nuisance than the ordinary.
