Council starts New Year with no smoking bylaw

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—Council started out the New Year with a resolution affecting not only themselves, but municipal staff and all users of the civic building.

As of January 12, users of the building are being asked to butt out in the clerk's office, the Court Room, the hallway and the main foyer of the Civic Center. However, smoking will be permitted in the auditorium.

The by-law was passed in accordance with a 1990 amendment of the Occupational Health and Safety Act, and the Workers' Compensation Act prohibiting smoking in the workplace.

After a discussion on the enforceability of the new by-law, Council noted signs will be posted to make everyone aware, and ash trays provided.

After a presentation by Coun. Larry Schnurr, Council passed their share of the South Dundas Recreation budget. Schnurr noted Morrisburg's total budget was $10,000 less than the previous year, and that included the salary of a professional joint recreation coordinator.

The draft joint recreation budget for the four municipalities is $237,345 for 1993, which is down from $260,000 the previous year. Of this total, Morrisburg pays 30 per cent, or $71,203.

Morrisburg also has a municipal recreation budget covering items like landscaping, maintenance at the waterfront park, and the information booth. Costs amount to $95,000 this year and the combined budget is $192,000, reduced from last year's recreation budget of $202,000.

Council noted that the Village was $10,500 ahead and also had the advantage of professional services of a recreation director.

Reeve Gord McGregor added the beneficial effects of joint recreation would be even more noticeable within five to six years.

In other committee reports, Coun. Jack Notman drew attention to an amount saved from the contract to upgrade the civic building. According to a regulation in the Building Code for handicapped access, if the halls are 3.5 feet, or wide enough to turn a wheelchair, the doors to a court room may be 2.5 feet wide.

The Civic Center meets the regulation, so it will no be longer necessary to widen the interior doors to permit handicapped access. From the money saved, the Village can afford to paint the court room, and the clerk's office, which are in dire need.

Also, interior decorator Peggy Leroy had volunteered to coordinate a paint color scheme under the SPIRIT volunteer program.

"Yes" to resolutions

Council then busily endorsed a number of resolutions addressed to the Ontario government, circulated by other municipalities.

Council approved a resolution from the Township of Hamilton that the Ministry of Municipal Affairs should amend the Planning Act to provide a municipality with the authority to regulate development activities which may impact on wetlands. Government policy directs municipalities to protect provincially significant wetlands in their official plans, zoning by-laws and development decisions.

Development defined as "construction, site grading, excavation or drainage works" is not to proceed within these wetlands. However, municipalities are presently unable to enforce wetlands protection as the Planning Act does not provide a municipality with the authority to regulate these activities.

Councillor Jack Notman said although the Village was not affected by the policy, municipalities should have more control in these matters. Reeve Gord McGregor added he appreciated the Township of Hamilton's position.

Also endorsed was a resolution of Newmarket Council on provincial municipal relations. The resolution asks the provincial government "to refrain from implementing any initiatives upon matters of local municipal concern such as land use planning, municipal conflict of interest, disentanglement, amendments to the Municipal Act, and provision of landfill sites in municipalities to serve other municipalities until there has been meaningful consultation."

Council approved a resolution of Elgin County Council concerned over the potential effect of provincial planning initiatives on local issues such as a two-acre minimum lot size. Elgin County complains about the "arbitrary" use of policy documents, and that each application should be evaluated on its own merits.

Councillors commented that the above resolutions all reflected the same concern, that the provincial government was interfering too much in the affairs of the municipalities. Coun. Larry Schnurr noted, "It's the same thing. All these municipalities are saying, 'Get out of our business.' "

A resolution from the Town of Caledon was endorsed and sparked criticism of the taxation system. Caledon has adopted a motion to freeze the mill rate to "contain the escalating burden on property taxes, as a result of down loading and fiscal irresponsibility on behalf of the school boards and the province."

The resolution notes a decreasing provincial share of education costs, while educational requirements are increased, with municipalities being forced to pick up the difference.

Increasing tax arrears and powers of sale properties were noted as a sign that the burden on taxpayers had reached the saturation point.

"They don't like it and we don't either. It's a case of provincial downloading," one councillor noted.

Changes in garbage collection

MORRISBURG—Starting this Thursday, Village residents are being asked to cut down drastically on the amount of garbage they produce.

As of January 14, the town crew will no longer pick up any more than three garbage bags or containers, and bags are to be no larger than 26" by 36," and weigh less than 50 pounds.

The Village has also entered into a contract with Town Cartage Limited to collect clean corrugated cardboard. Cardboard will be collected on Thursdays, as well as recycled materials in Blue Boxes. Cardboard must be broken down flat and bundled into parcels no larger than 30" by 30" by 8" thick, with a minimum of tape. Dirty cardboard, waxed or coated cardboard or cardboard boxes lined with plastic, styrofoam or foil will not be accepted.

Council has issued a Garbage Guide outlining changes with the water bills, and for many months, has been studying how the existing garbage by-law may be revised to better reflect provincial standards. An amendment to the garbage by-law will be presented to Council in the near future.

Shelley Gibson walks away with Matilda Crown

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

DIXONS CORNERS—A large crowd at Matilda Community Hall once again saw the miraculous transformation of high school students into poised contestants for the title of Matilda Carnival Queen.

There were six Seaway High students in Saturday's competition, from which 17-year old Shelley Gibson emerged victorious.

Her rivals for the crown were Michelle Ault, Marsha Markell, Nonnie Benson, Laurie Casselman and Kim McInnis.

The daughter of Marilyn and Doug McInnis, Kim was chosen as Miss Runner-Up. Kim will act as understudy to the Queen, attending functions Shelley is unable to attend.

Laurie Casselman, daughter of Gerald and Marlene, was chosen by her peers as Miss Congeniality.

Three Brinston-area residents were selected by the Recreation Committee as judges for the pageant: television director of the children's program Chuck Rubin; television director for the "Montreal Expos" Claudine Langan; and crown attorney Donna Eastwood.

Prior to the pageant, each contestant was interviewed by the judges and evaluated on factors like extracurricular activities and personality. The girls gave a short description of themselves, and their goals in life before the crowd.

After an interlude, they reappeared in formal attire to answer questions regarding life situation scenarios. They were judged on an overall impression of appearance, personality, speech and poise.

The daughter of Sandy and Verna Gibson, Shelley is now in Grade 12 and plans to complete OAC credits at Seaway in preparation for a course at York University in veterinary science. During her spare time, Shelley works at Tupper's Bakery, likes to watch movies with family and friends and cheer on the Winchester Junior B Hawks.

Shelley must have impressed the judges with her warm-hearted response to the following personal question.

"If offered a job anywhere in the world, what job would you choose and where?"

"To be a vet. I love working with animals and helping them. I'd like to work in the local area, to help the people here look after their animals,"she replied.

Shelley's immediate duties include appearing as Queen at the remaining Carnival events. She will also participate in the Iroquois Summer Festival Parade.

She was perhaps the one most surprised by the judges choice. "I was very shocked. I didn't think I had it," she said modestly. "Now I'll try to contribute back to the community what they gave me by allowing me to win."

Organized by the Matilda Recreation committee chaired by Ann Bylsma, the contest was the 17th annual event.

This year Robert Thompson was chosen Matilda Citizen of the Year and declined the honor of singing to the Queen, with Seaway High student Todd Larocque performing in his place.

Brockville radio announcer Bruce Wylie put the audience and contestants at ease with his stories and antics.

Fine musical entertainment was provided by Billie Sypes on the accordion, and Amy Casselman on the violin. Cindy Alguire accompanied Todd Larocque on the piano.

Playhouse winners

The Upper Canada Playhouse held its annual New Year's Eve and Early Bird calendar draws recently. Both events were worth 2,500 combined. Taking home the yearly $2,000 dollar prize was Janice Valade from St. Andrews West (behind), and Lena Edwards (front) won the Early Bird $500 prize.

New program offered in South Dundas

Customer service a priority

IAN McMILLAN
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — Customer service plays an important role in attracting tourists, businesses, and families to the area.

Therefore, the South Dundas Economic Development Commission in conjunction with the SD&G Community Futures have come up with a program designed to train people Customer Service Excellence.

The program is being offered to owners, managers and employees of businesses in South Dundas.

"We want this area to be the Banff of Ontario," said SDEDC Project Manager Linda Bowers.

There will be two types of courses offered, the first will be a 15 hour course specifically designed for front line employees. The participants will have the opportunity to brush up on the skills needed to deliver excellence in customer service in every interaction with the potential customer.

The second course is geared to the owner\manager or a designated individual within the organization, whose role will be to design and train the rest of the employees in the company.

This 30 hour Train-the-Trainer course includes such topics as curriculum development, how adults learn, presentation skills, customer service basics, as well as the case study method, and how to make training sessions more participatory.

Participants in this program will become more self sufficient in training by developing an on-site trainer who will be able to conduct training sessions in-house on a variety of topics in addition to customer service.

"We are very excited about these sessions because they will be part of a new marketing initiative within the region," said Secretary Treasurer of SDEDC, Mike Waddell.

The courses offered are not a "canned program" that exist elsewhere, he said.

"These courses are specifically designed to be consistent with a comprehensive marketing strategy developed by the business people in our area."

Commissioner of SDEDC, Cam Martel agreed.

"This new marketing strategy will help us capitalize on the tourist trade, and help retain some of the dollars that may be leaking out of our communities, as well as attracting outside customers in our media range."

If you're planning to make tracks for the border, then think again.

So you think you can get a deal by buying auto parts and tires in the States? Well think again.

While Canada Customs may give you a break if you have had emergency repairs carried out in the U.S., those who travel to the States just to buy cheaper tires or parts, and to escape Canadian taxes, can get a rude awakening when they re-enter the country.

Did you realize that when you take your car out of the country, in effect, you are exporting your vehicle from Canada and when you return, you are importing it back into the country? If you purchase auto parts or tires while out of the country, you are eligible for duties and taxes on these goods.

The same is true for tires. The duty on tires is 6.4 per cent if they are manufactured in Canada or the U.S. and 10.7 per cent if manufactured outside North America.

If, however, you have the parts or tires installed on your vehicle while it is outside the country, then you have enhanced the value of your car or truck and you can be charged duty and taxes ON THE FULL BOOK VALUE OF THE VEHICLE before you can bring it back into Canada.

And that can be VERY expensive. For instance, the duty on your vehicle will be 5.5% of its book value PLUS 7% GST. On, let's say, a car listed in the Blue Book at $15,000, you would have to pay $825.00 in duty and $1,050.00 in GST, for a total of $1,875.00. All so you could save a hundred bucks on the price of a set of tires.

Canada Customs line officers know what they're looking for. If you've bought tires in the States, you'd better not have them mounted on your vehicle while outside the country (or you'd better have a receipt stating that they were replaced on an emergency basis). Otherwise, you could be sent back to have your old tires remounted, unless of course you want to pay 13 per cent of the value of your vehicle to get it home.

And then there's this to consider: a Canadian garage will charge you about $35.00 to mount and balance four tires not purchased at that location. And then there's GST and PST and the $2 per tire disposal tax.

So when it's explained this way, doesn't it make more sense to shop in Canada?

Parent information meetings on destreaming at R-O, Seaway

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — Destreaming as it affects schooling for your children in Grade 9 will be the subject of parent information meetings in February.

Parents of Grade 8 students planning to enter Grade 9 at Seaway High School may find out more information the evening of February 11. There will be a meeting for Rothwell Osnabruck School parents of Grade 8 students on February 10.

Changes by the Ministry of Education affecting the Grade 9 program in Ontario schools have been widely publicized, and can be summarized as follows.

As of September 1993, there will be no credits attached to subjects in the Grade 9 program.

According to the current system, a student needs 30 credits from Grade 9 on to attain a Grade 12/ Ontario Secondary School diploma, and those planning to go to university take Ontario Academic credits.

But as of next September, a student will accumulate 22 credits from Grade 9 on to attain a diploma.

Courses will be offered at one not three levels. Instead of offering courses at a Basic, General and Advanced level, Grade 9 students are to meet ministry objectives in the areas of Language Arts; Math; Science and Technology; and Self and Society.

"These four areas will not be individual subjects, but these areas are to be reflected in the Grade 9 program. " said Superintendent of School Services Bill Roddy.

"There's a learning outcome package of expectations for Grade 9 in the areas of language, math, science and technology. All Grade 9 programs regardless of the school are to meet the objectives."

However, there will still be provision for special programs for students with special needs such as the "learning disabled", or gifted.

At some schools, there will be modified programs for these students for part of, not the entire year. At some schools, students may be taught within the regular classroom by a resource person. At other schools, special needs students will continue to be cared for in self-contained classrooms.

There will be more integration of study areas in the new destreamed program, and integration is to be developed over the next few years.

As there will no longer be a necessity to teach a formal class such as "Social Studies," this subject may include English Language "outcomes" or objectives.

And students may work on keyboarding objectives, in combination with English or Social Studies skills.

No time restrictions

No longer will a time element such as 110 hours be attached to a subject, as long as learning outcomes are accommodated.

The Ministry of Education announced a destreaming policy as a white paper in 1989, but the implementation by law is September 1993. To prepare for the changes, principals are using the policy known as the Transition Program for Grades 7, 8 and 9 which was intended to make the transition from 7 and 8 to 9 easier. The Transition Program could include destreaming, but not necessarily: however, Grade 9 is definitely to be destreamed.

The Grade 10 program continues as a "streamed" program for the coming year, but the ministry has indicated the "destreaming" process will eventually include Grade 10.

Local Boards have set up writing teams and individual schools have transition committees to help develop curricula.

But controversy has grown as the general public and teachers federations have become aware of the approaching September deadline.

The Teachers Federations have expressed concerns that better training and resources are needed. District president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation Ken Ward said: "We're not opposed to destreaming 'per se' but we're upset with the way the government is implementing without putting everything in place first: that is, curriculum, training and evaluation of the current system and review of pilot projects that have already been done."

"And to make it work, destreamed classes will cost more and the government is not prepared to fund." Ward added this is probably the biggest problem as the promised funding is only "a drop in the bucket" compared to the real need.

Training workshop

The ministry will pay for a cooperative workshop between the Board and OSSTF in January for interested teachers, but no other training has been stipulated.

Teachers are also concerned that as yet no "benchmarks" or "learning objectives" have been published except in mathematics, although these are to be forthcoming. "The ministry has not provided a curriculum. We are concerned this should be done first, then implemented," Ward stated. "Each individual school decides what to do and what to cover."

However, most educators and the public are coming to a realization "it is a done deal."

Ward explained, "We're caught in a bind in the Federation. We think it's premature, but we still must face up to reality. The teachers must operate under it and still be sure the education students receive in SD & G is the best. We'll be sure our students don't lose out no matter what."

In the words of Superintendent Roddy, "We have to comply and it's our intent to comply."

However, in the upcoming parent information meetings, parents may notice one good thing immediately. "They won't have to make so much choice for Grade 9. And all kids will have some opportunity to develop the same skills," Roddy said.

The Grade 9 class will be similar to Grade 8 in structure, but with new "learning outcomes." And as students continue for another year with more subject areas, the choice of Grade 10 subjects will be easier.

Presenting plans

The parent information meetings are to present the Grade 9 program, its organization and learning outcomes.

"We will present the plan we've developed for the next year. This will not be a community meeting on the merits or non-merits of destreaming. It won't be politically-driven," Seaway High principal Doug Murray explained.

"The staff have already had an opportunity to vent their objections," he stated in reference to previously publicized criticisms.

Murray has been discussing restructuring plans with his staff and feeder schools, and was working out a destreaming program "to take the best of the past and new thinking for the future."

Principal of Rothwell Osnabruck School, Doug Anderson said a transition plan is pretty well in place, although there are still some revisions to be made in the timetable. Integration of units is nothing new as the school is already a "leader in Grade 7 & 8 integration of units, and integrated units will continue to be part of the Grade 9 program."

There will be a provision next year for all standard subjects, English, Math and Science, French Core and French Immersion.

Anderson added that some schools have the facilities to offer one kind of programming in the arts, while others may not have the same capabilities. As Rothwell Osnabruck extends from Junior Kindergarten to OAC, Grade 7 and 8 students are able to use the high school band room during the second semester for instrumental music. And by Grade 9, they have already benefitted from two semesters of instruction.

Anderson said he had received many questions from parents, and more would arise at the upcoming meeting.

"We're caught with smoothing the waters. We've heard some concerns, but I believe it'll work at RO, and our students won't suffer compared to any other schools," he said.

Thompson is Citizen of the Year

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

DIXONS CORNERS—For the first time in 17 years, the Matilda Carnival Queen was not serenaded by her customary performer, Robert Thompson.

A soloist for the event which started in 1976, Thompson has had the distinction of singing to every Carnival Queen since then. But this year Robert Thompson declined the honor, which was performed instead by student Todd Larocque.

This year Thompson received another honor, the Matilda Township Citizen of the Year Award, presented by deputy reeve Norm Tinkler.

The residents of the Township nominate the recipient for this annual award for community involvement. This year, Floyd Thompson, Gerard Bureau, Mrs. Meerakker, and Dale Lewis were also suggested, but Council's choice was Robert Thompson.

A life-long resident of the Township, Thompson is employed as a warehouse person at the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority.

Thompson has served on the Recreation Committee in the past, and with other members was instrumental in starting the annual Matilda Carnival and pageant. He also chaired the Recreation Committee for a year.

Thompson has served on the Matilda Hall Board, of which he is currently a member, and which he chaired from 1981 to 1983.

He has also been involved with the community and the church for years in his affiliation with the Iroquois United Church. For the past 12 to 13 years, Thompson has improved a fine natural singing talent by participating in the Matilda Trio, a gospel musical group which is invited to sing for different denominations.

"Thompson has always been available to do more than his share of special preparations for the Pageant, and was involved in getting the first pageant underway, a tradition since 1976," Tinkler told the audience.

"This is an honor to receive such a prestigious award," Thompson said in an acceptance speech.

"Not many have had the opportunity to sing to every Queen, and I enjoyed it over the years. I think it's a citizen's responsibility to do as much as they can for the community, and I try to do that."

School Board slammed

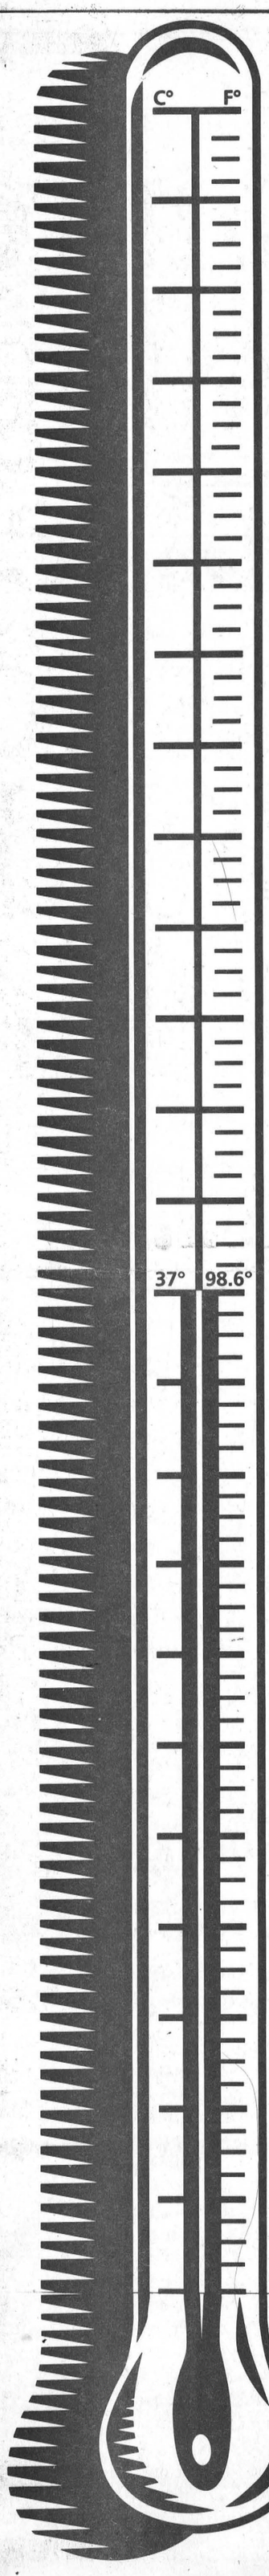
As an example of "fiscal irresponsibility," Reeve Gord McGregor criticized the decision of the Public School Board to travel to Quebec for a weekend meeting, instead of holding a local meeting.

McGregor noted the cost of the proposed trip to the taxpayers, and that this money was departing from the province, not helping the local community.

Council pointed out that municipal councils are forced to collect taxes for the school boards, are often criticized for the amounts collected, and have to operate their own affairs on a shoestring budget.

A County of Essex resolution was endorsed, urging the Canadian Radio-Television Telecommunications Commission to accept Bell Canada's proposal to permit an enhanced 911 telephone emergency system to be paid for by telephone subscribers.

The proposed subscriber fee amounts to approximately $0.01 per day. Morrisburg Council agreed with Essex County on the necessity of a province-wide 911 emergency system, and that this may not become a reality unless subscriber billing is approved.



TAKING THE HEAT OFF OHIP

This past year, the Ministry of Health took a long, hard look at our health care system to find ways of taking the heat off an already overburdened plan. It discovered that taxpayers were incorrectly paying for as much as $20 million for third-party services.

WHAT ARE THIRD-PARTY SERVICES?

Third-party services are those not required by a patient for treatment of illness or health promotion, but are requested by someone else.

These services include physical examinations for insurance forms, school and camp registrations, driver and pilot certifications and medical notes to give employees time off work.

Physicians are being reminded not to bill OHIP for third-party services. Instead, they will request direct payment for these services.

WHEN IT REALLY COUNTS

Services required to receive health or social assistance benefits remain insured. For example, medical certificates for wheelchairs or other medical devices provided through the Assistive Devices Program will be covered. There will be no charge for certificates for Northern Health Travel Grants or access to nursing homes.

Nothing that affects the basic principles of medicare has changed. You will not be asked to pay for direct medical care and some of the heat will be taken off OHIP.

For further information on how this may affect you call the Ministry of Health toll-free Infoline.

A no win situation

Ian McMillan
Leader Staff

Federal NDP leader Audrey McLaughlin must be shaking her head as she watches her provincial counter-parts make a mockery of themselves.

On the eve of an expected federal election, the third place party must be concerned about its chances of maintaining support in Ontario, after all Bob Rae has proven an NDP government can accomplish when elected to power.

But the frightening part is Rae's provincial government hasn't yet stopped turning once proud NDP supporters against him and his party.

Just when you thought the NDP had done everything in its power to sway the voters against them, they turn around and add some more fuel to the fire.

In a recent report released by the provincial Liberal party, it claims the NDP increased or created 32 fees in last April's budget. The fact we weren't informed about these "hidden taxes" is further proof that the NDP in Ontario is not being accountable to the electorate.

These fees range anywhere from fishing licenses to environmental certificates. The total revenue expected from this underhanded manoeuver by a less than respectable government is $212 million in the 1992-93 and 1993-94 fiscal years.

Now being taxed isn't anything knew for Ontario residents. We're taxed more than most provinces, without question. But the troubling aspect of the whole situation is what we're getting in return for all this money we're forking over to the NDP. What sticks out like a sore thumb are the scandals, disputes with police concerning the use of their firearms, no-fault insurance and anti-scab legislation. Is this worth the cost?

Recently, legislation was introduced by the NDP at Queen's Park concerning the implementation of toll booths along major highways throughout Ontario. Apparently the taxes Ontarians pay already, aren't enough to maintain our roads. Trucking associations have even cautiously supported the proposed legislation because they know the terrible conditions of our highways.

So what we're left with is the very real threat that toll booths will become reality. Opposition leaders have balked at the move as have a lot of voters because they don't believe the NDP will use the revenue generated from toll booths specifically for the roads. With a deficit expected to reach $12.3 billion next year, Finance Minister Floyd Laughren doesn't care how he gets money, he just does whatever he has to and we end up the losers. How else do you explain casino gambling in the province?

And after all this, poor Audrey has to go to the people and make us believe that the federal NDP is different, that her party would be more accountable to the electorate and that the NDP is the only alternative to Brian Mulroney's Progressive Conservatives in the upcoming election.

With the federal deficit running in the $30 billion range her chances aren't very good. Rae's already proven what a mess a NDP government can make when it's first elected to power.

National non smoking week

As you consider lifestyle changes for the new year or during National Non Smoking week, January 17-23, The Lung Association asks you to do something for yourself and your children — please quit smoking.

Pregnant women and parents should be aware of the effects of smoking on their unborn children and infants. Before birth an unborn child practices some motions of breathing. The effects of cigarette smoke are so immediate, and so powerful, that the unborn child's movements slow down after the mother smokes just two cigarettes.

Also, some of the harmful gases and poisonous substances in smoke actually pass from the mother's blood through the placenta and into the baby's blood. One of these gases is carbon monoxide, which forces oxygen out of the red blood cells — both the mother's and child's. Nicotine, a chemical in cigarette smoke, adds to the damage by narrowing blood vessels, including those in the placenta itself. This means not as much oxygen and food is delivered to the developing child.

A child born to a mother who smokes is more likely to be born undersized. These children have a greater chance of dying soon after birth. Studies clearly demonstrate that women who smoke during pregnancy also have more still births, spontaneous abortions and premature deliveries than women who don't smoke.

Infants and young children also breathe much faster than adults. They inhale more air — and more pollution — in comparison to their total weight. Many of their lungs' defences have not been developed yet.

"We also want parents to be aware of their enormous influences on their child's behaviour. Parental smoking is a major factor motivating children to smoke," said Lynn Blanchard, President of The Lung Association, Eastern Counties.

About 20 residents of Matilda Township asked council during its regular meeting to oppose the opening of a quarry near their residences when it was to come before an Ontario Municipal Board hearing in February. The ratepayers presented a petition to council signed by 99.9 per cent of adjoining property owners, voicing their disapproval concerning the proposed opening of a quarry on Lot 30 on the front concession. The complaints included the devaluation of surrounding properties, structural damages to buildings in close proximity to probable blasting, dust pollution and safety hazards caused by increased truck travel on the broken second.

The driver of a transport truck was lucky to be alive as he escaped injury when an accident occurred on the Highway 401. The truck swerved into the median and literally vaulted over Hosaic Creek. On the trailer were solvents used in paint and some leakage occurred but Ray Amell of the Ministry of the Environment said it would evaporate quickly. The creek, normally low at this time of year, was at one of its highest levels at the time of the accident because of recent rainfall.

Morrisburg area food stores were scheduled to convert their scales to weigh food in grams and kilograms during the second half of January. A Metric Commission Canada spokesman said the conversion was part of the national changeover from Imperial units that began in 1971.

Village residents were paying 50 cents more for taxi services within the three mile limit. Village council agreed to Casselman's Taxi request for a hike in rates during its regular meeting. Rates for out of town fares were up to $3 from $2.75 and from $3.75 to $4.

1973

There were no shortages of whoppers in the annual Big Fish Contest although no contest records were broken. A 46.9-pound Maskinonge caught in Eagle Lake by H. Baltz of Joliet, Illinois was only five pounds under the contest record.

Plans for the Morrisburg Winter Carnival were announced and scheduled for publication at a later date. The weekly events were to be sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, Lions Club, Firemen, Legion and the Orange Lodge organizations of Morrisburg. Some events scheduled were a giant snow slide, skating, hockey, and a bean supper.

A special winter works program by the Province of Ontario funded through the Ministry of Natural Resources was expected to add $250,000 to area payrolls during the first three months of 1973. Ninety five men, recruited for the most part through Welfare Agency referrals, were presently employed and it was expected the work force would increase by an additional 36 men in the near future. Work groups located on parklands in the S.D.&G., Leeds, Frontenac, Lennox and Addington were carrying out preplanned projects which were to continue through March. Some of the projects included the removal of many dead elm trees and underbrushing, clean up of these areas, and tree thinning at the Crysler maple Sugar Bush.

This issue of The Leader reported on the first meeting of Morrisburg's new council. J. Dain Connor was administered the oath of office as Reeve and he in turn then administered the oath to councillors Fred Hill, Carlton F. McInnis, Dr. Donald M. Robertson and Trevor Allison.

A letter from the St. Mary's Separate School board indicated the intention in the spring of 1963 to begin constructon of a separate school and requested that a roadway, water and sewage services be made available.

The first key move of the January meeting of the United Counties Council was the election of a new warden to succeed Wardon Robert Smith who did not seek re-election as Reeve of the Village of Finch. The man in line for the position was Reeve Mahlon Zeron of Matilda Township.

Taking the oath of office at Williamsburg Township was Don Kyle, reeve, Johnny Whitteker, deputy reeve and Graham Hess, Harold Pemberton and Hugh McMillan as councillors.

At Brinston's Allied Food Market a 10-ounce jar of Maxwell House instant coffee was selling for $1.29 and Kellogg's corn flakes in a 12-ounce box were 27 cents.

The purchase of an ironing board pad and cover for $2.59 at Crest Hardware enabled the customer to get an extra cover for the appealing price of one cent.

Floyd Fisher had listed for sale a nine-room solid brick home in Morrisburg for $10,000. It featured a full basement with a new oil furnace and was convenient to the shopping centre and close to the park.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Morrisburg Leader,
Morrisburg, Ontario

Dear Editor — Happy New Year. As 1993 dawns, I'd like to remind you and your readers about some of the ways in which life has now changed, here, in Bob Rae's Ontario.

We are now living under the most restrictive labour legislation in North America. The NDP's Bill 40 will extend the scope of unionization into more areas than ever before. It will now be illegal, in most cases, for businesses hit by strikes to keep operating through the use of replacement workers. And for the first time, we're going to start seeing picket lines in shopping malls, industrial parks and other new areas.

As of January 1, life for our police officers has become even more difficult and dangerous, as a result of the NDP's new use-of-force regulations. The new measures may prompt officers to leave their guns holstered in situations when it would be prudent to have their weapons in-hand. At the very least, this NDP meddling tips the balance even further in the criminals' favour. At worst, I fear the second-guessing could cost the life of an officer.

Finally, the fastest-growing mountain of debt in Ontario's history continues to pile up. By the time the fiscal year ends in April, the NDP will have spent all of us another $12 billion or so into the red. And what do we have to look forward to? Treasurer Floyd Laughren's promise of even higher taxes in his next budget.

So Happy New Year, Ontario. Or at least, as happy as possible, under the circumstances. Try and look on the bright side: we're one year closer to ridding ourselves of the liberal policies of Peterson and Rae; and of Nixon and Laughren. We're one year closer to the day when, with your help, we can restore hope and prosperity to Ontario through common-sense government.

Sincerely,
MICHAEL D. HARRIS,
MPP Leader

Dear Editor — I would like to comment further on the issue of destreaming. One of the reasons being given for introducing this program is the reduction of the drop-out rate. Destreaming, it is argued, will improve the grades of the students in the middle stream, and especially of those in the basic level. But the fact is that students do not drop out because of bad grades. Studies show that 72 per cent of drop-outs have 'B' averages. Students drop out for reasons that seldom have anything to do with schools, and that the school system can do very little about. It is time we realised this and refocused our attention on those things that the school system can do something about.

The school system can set academic and behavioural standards. It can monitor a student's achievements with regard to these standards. In this respect, it can be accountable to the taxpayer who pays for this system; for, the primary purpose of the 'Public' education system is to develop in the students the skills, habits, and attitudes necessary to make them contributing members of society.

The proponents of destreaming advocate a new 'teaching' method that utilizes 'peer teaching' and 'group' work in the classroom (for many of us over 40, this used to be called 'copying'). The teacher is to be nothing more than a 'guide on the side' while the children teach each other. Why then are we paying teachers rather generous salaries, with increases for each additional qualification they obtain, if we are not going to

There goes my baby

Just Another Day
LAURIE DAY

Ever since I wrote the ad for the paper, Junkmobile for sale, I had a mixed feelings about getting rid of my baby. Yeah, that was my junkmobile, the one and only.

After three weeks of it appearing in The Leader, it is now a memory. The lad who bought it said he liked the ad. It went something like this: "The best offer will take it from the only yard it has ever seen... comes with cruise control, four speed transmission and bungee cords but don't let that scare you..."

Anyway, it's gone and I now have my sights set on a hot little candy apple red Mustang, but unfortunately the cash flow will not allow me to rush right out and buy it. It may be in my best interest though as I am not too good with new vehicles.

Take my mother's T-bird for example. When I first got my license she was good enough to let me drive her car to work. But I didn't tell her that I was going to play in a ball tournament, and my worse fears came true when I wrapped the car around a nice little elm tree.

I was so busy watching a guy hit a few golf balls in an open field beside me that my brain lapsed into a time warp and I ended up with a permanent scare on my soul because of it. Mom didn't care that the car was wrecked, but my dad sure did, after he saw that I was still in one piece of course. I got a careless driving charge out of that one.

My next beauty accident was with my very first car. Dad backed me for a loan to buy a Chevette. It wasn't the original car I had in mind though, a 1978 Camaro was. But because Dad was backing me, I was "persuaded" to buy the Chevette. He didn't think I could handle the eight-cylinder Camaro. (Ha! If he could see me palm the truck!)

So I was coming home from work one night and traveling down a relatively busy road near Athens. A girlfriend of mine was behind me in her car.

I wasn't doing anything I shouldn't have been doing, like speeding or anything, when I came upon an object in the middle of the road. I tried to swerve to avoid hitting it when the car flipped onto its side, then rolled about six times and came to rest driver side down in a hayfield.

The object I hit was a cow, if you can believe it. My girlfriend dragged my from the car and as I sat in the police cruiser on the side of the road, my father drove by. He saw the accident and my car in the field upside down, but he never stopped.

After the police business was finished, my friend took me to my house (I still lived at home at the time) and Dad wondered what happened to me. Blood had dried on my face from a cut above my eye, and one from my ear, but I insisted I was fine. A seatbelt mark was beginning to redden on my body and I was starting to hyperventilate.

"You know that accident you passed near Athens?"

Yes," he said.

"Well, that was me."

"What?" He almost freaked on me, but my buddy said she would take me to the hospital to get checked out.

I later learned that the cow I had hit was hit by two other vehicles before me. It had escaped from a local butcher shop. It was doomed from the beginning.

That was quite a night.

I then got a Capri with an eight-cylinder motor and it was the best car I ever had.

Then came the junkmobile, (four-cylinder) which Larry and I bought when we got married.

On my first drive to Brockville on a snowy day, I had her scrapped before I got home. I just kind of slid through a stop sign and dinged the front end.

So I guess I'm not supposed to have a new vehicle, or get behind the wheel of anything other than an eight-cylinder vehicle.

That's where my new Mustang comes into play.

fully utilize their expertise and knowledge? Imagine being able to have Albert Einstein as a teacher, and all he was allowed to do was to organize us into groups, and watch as we 'teach' each other.

I will agree that students in the primary school system are "officially" destreamed, but the essential purposes of the primary system and the secondary system are different. The purpose of the primary system is to provide all students with the essential skills they need in order to learn (up to grade four, students are taught to read, after that they are reading to learn). If secondary school teachers had wanted to teach children the essential skills, they would not have chosen to do the courses that lead to a Secondary School Teaching Certificate. At the very least, if the officials at the Mystery of Education had really thought destreaming out, they would have moved grade nine to the elementary system. The teachers there are trained to teach destreamed classes.

Dear Editor — An open letter to Brian Mulroney; What part of NO don't you understand?

On October 26, 1992, the people of Canada said NO to your Constitutional reform package. The revised constitution had not even hit the bottom of the waste basket yet, when you and your cronies were already going about implementing the defeated Charlottetown Accord on a piecemeal basis.

On the last Friday before Christmas recess, with only 20 members in the House, you had the audacity to amend our Constitution and entrench New Brunswick's Official Bilingualism Legislation into the Canadian Constitution. I am absolutely outraged at your arrogant flaunting of the expressed will of the Canadian people. You may have the legal right to do this dastardly deed, but just because it is legal, doesn't mean it is right. Either you can't hear and can't read, or you and your government are utterly bankrupt of any moral principles. I will leave it to the voters to decide. I know you will say that New Brunswick approved the Charlottetown Accord, but I say to you, "so what!"; it is not New Brunswick's Constitution you have revised, it is Canada's; and that means that ALL CANADIANS should make the decision. Will you never learn?

Frank McKenna has made his deal and now he gets road funding; Brian, it will be interesting to see who you invite to the next taping of Let's Make a Deal.

McGillis Home Hardware on the move

IAN McMILLAN
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG — Three times a charm or so it would seem for McGillis Home Hardware.

The family run business is well on its way to moving shop for the third time since 1924. It will be located in the almost completed store on the north side of Hwy. 2 bearing the Home Hardware name.

In 1924 the business was purchased by Norman McGillis and located in old Morrisburg.

However, in 1957 it moved to the shopping center where it has been ever since. In recent times though the business has become too large for the space it currently occupies.

Hence, the new store was built for an undisclosed amount of money and it will be opening during the second week of February.

The 8,000 square foot store will have new electrical and plumbing sections along with additional sections to hold current stock.

When asked if any new employees might be hired Manager Ian McGillis didn't know for certain.

"I don't know right now," he said. "It's possible we might though."

In the meantime, workers have attach some more trim to the outside of the store. After that they can turn all their attention to the interior.

On the inside the flooring and shelving still have to be laid, said McGillis. Once that's complete the final step is moving into the new store.

"Our grand opening will be sometime in March," he said.

Australian student visits South Dundas

IAN McMILLAN
Leader Staff

WILLIAMSBURG — For many Canadians snow at Christmas isn't a big deal.

But for James Ray it was the first time he'd ever seen the white frozen stuff. In fact, before December, James had only seen snow once before in his life.

This may sound strange but for James it's not. That's because he's not Canadian, he's Australian.

And considering this is his first trip to Canada snow is something he's just had to deal with. Fortunately, James doesn't seem to mind. In fact he likes the snow.

"It's pretty amazing," he said.

James is in Canada as part of a high school exchange. While he's been here, back in Australia it's summer time.

"The average temperature there is usually between 30°C and 35°C this time of year," said James.

But weather aside, the reason he's here now is because in Australia it's his summer break.

"This way we don't miss any school at home," said James.

The two schools involved with the exchange are Knox Grammar in Australia and Crescent High School in Toronto. In total 10 students are taking part — five from Australia and five from Toronto.

To avoid any complications the Toronto students will be flying to Australia this June and July during summer vacations. And even though it may be the Australian winter then, the students won't have a problem adjusting because the lowest the temperatures get there are 10°C.

"It sometimes gets colder than that but not very often," said James.

What brought James to Williamsburg for a visit was family. His Aunt Sylvia Demary hadn't seen James in 14 years.

Demary came to Canada when she married and has been a resident for 17 years. Nevertheless, her love for her family and Australia is evident as the Australian flag and pictures can be found throughout her home.

"The last time I saw him he was one-years-old," said Demary.

It took James 16 hours to fly the distance between the two continents. From Australia he landed in Los Angeles, boarded another plane for Detroit, and eventually landed in Toronto.

"It wasn't as bad as I thought it would be," he admitted.

And even though the flight was 24 hours in total, when James arrived in Toronto it turned out to be the same day as when he left Australia.

"Here we're 16 hours behind so it's actually tomorrow there," said James.

Since arriving in Canada James said he's noticed a few things Canadians do different than Australians. One such thing is the way we put ketchup, mustard and relish on everything.

"And we don't call it ketchup," he said. "We call it tomato sauce."

Another difference James has noticed is our use of the word "pop" in reference to what Australians call a soft drink.

But these subtle differences in culture haven't tainted his outlook on Canada. In fact he'd like to visit again maybe next year with his family he said.

"The family I'm staying with in Toronto has been very nice," said James. "I've been treated well."

In the meantime, James is expected to visit Rothwell-Osnabruck High School before travelling to Ottawa to tour the capital. From there he'll be taking a train back to Toronto and leaving for Australia on Friday.

"There's two weeks of summer break left when I go back," said James.

Australian comes north
James Ray visited his Aunt Sylvia this week while on an exchange trip from Australia. The 15-year-old student finishes his six week trip January 15th and is looking forward to spending the last two weeks of his summer vacation relaxing.

Village Green owner happy in new undertaking

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG—What could be more satisfying than continually working with beautiful living things and giving pleasure to people?

Such has been the experience of Bo Fodrek, the new owner of "The Village Green". Fodrek has been in the flower business only since December and says one who has not had the experience couldn't possibly know.

"You get verbal information, you try to imagine, but you don't know until you experience it. It's plain wonderful!"

It's not merely the goal of money-making that spurs on a flower shop owner, but working in a beautiful environment and making people happy are emotional bonuses, he has discovered.

"It's fun, a nice business. You seem to be giving pleasure to people, happiness to happy people, and a little uplift to people who are a little less happy," he stated.

"You're in a very positive environment all the time. You're surrounded by beauty, nice people, and surrounded by people who love to give."

Working in the flower business also fulfills an inner sense for beauty and function, he concluded eloquently. "When I do something it has to be functional and aesthetically well-presented too. The flower business gives me satisfaction in that direction."

Bo and his wife Maureen Fodrek first heard "The Village Green" might be for sale last spring and negotiated the purchase during the fall of 1992. Roger and Deanna Bouchard were retiring from the flower business and this represented an opportunity for the Fodreks to fulfill a dream of owning their own business.

They also looked at alternatives but for several reasons gave the flower shop their serious consideration.

During the summer Bo and Maureen gained experience by working on flower arrangements with his sister Maria, and helping her sell them at the Byward Market. "She is well trained in the flower business and we learned from her," he said.

On weekends, Maureen assists Bo at the store and their three children university student Elise, Grade 10 student Kathleen and Grade 5 student Robbie also help, gaining valuable retail experience.

Another reason for starting a business was a preference to remain in the area rather than move to Toronto. The Fodreks faced the possibility of having to relocate on a suggestion of Nestle of Chesterville, where Bo was previously employed as a project engineer.

"We liked the area and wanted to stay here," Bo explained.

In the last month, the Fodreks have discovered that in many ways starting a business in Morrisburg is just like coming home. The Fodreks had lived in the Village from 1980 to 1983 and made many good friends here.

"It's a really good feeling when you have so many well-wishers come into the store," he added.

During start-up in December, the Fodreks had the assistance of the Bouchards, who worked alongside the new owners until they were established. "They were very helpful and it made the transition gentle," Bo said.

In this way, the new owners became acquainted with the suppliers and met the local clientele right from the beginning. "I introduced myself, chatted with them, and delivered the product from the store to the customer," he said.

Bo added they were well aware of the "high reputation" of the business they were purchasing, and are determined not to disappoint such a loyal clientele. "The tradition of the Village Green is not changing, it's continuous," he said.

"If people just tell me what they were used to some special treatment, I need to know it. If they were used to some special treatment, I will try to accommodate," he said.

A thing of beauty
Bo Fodrek and wife Maureen are the new owners of "The Village Green" flower shop, which changed hands in December from previous owners, Roger and Deanna Bouchard. Bo is shown here arranging a floral display.

Weedless Wednesday

MORRISBURG — January 20th is Weedless Wednesday and for those wanting to "butt out" a special service is being offered.

Operated by the Eastern Ontario Health Unit a hotline number is being offered to smokers thinking about quitting. It will be in effect in the five counties from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

Smokers who call will receive information on how to quit and be sent materials to help them along the way, such as a day-to-day do it yourself guide, and a "Smoker Poker" — a dummy cigarette lighter to replace the real one in the car.

Although the hotline is mainly intended for smokers, their friends and partners who would like to help them quit are invited to call as well. Research shows that ex-smokers are less likely to have a relapse when they have the support of close friends or partners.

Up to 90 per cent of smokers who quit do so on their own, and a recent study of a hotline in Toronto showed that it was as successful in getting people to quit and stay quit as most group programs.

Immunization for childhood illnesses

Diphteria, tetanus, polio, measles, mumps and rubella are six childhood diseases that may bring serious complications and a life of misery. The good news is they can be easily avoided with a regular immunization schedule. A child may be immunized free of charge by a family physician, a pediatrician or by local Health Unit personnel. Please contact your Health Unit office regarding details on clinic hours.

By law, Ontario pupils must be immunized. If not, they could be suspended from school, and the parents may be fined. Parents are directly responsible for the immunization status of their children and must report the information to Health Unit officials each time the child receives an injection. In Eastern Ontario, this information should be channeled to the Health Unit office in Alexandria (525-1112). Call collect if necessary or information may be mailed to Eastern Ontario Health Unit, Highway 34 South, Alexandria K0C 1A0.

All Ontario residents can obtain a yellow personal Immunization Record card at the time of immunization. It is important for the parents to keep this record and have it updated each time their child is immunized.

Jr. Bs give coach roller coaster ride

MORRISBURG—They almost blew it here Sunday. But that's the way they play.

Down one minute, then up the next.

It was enough to make coach Doug Casselman reach for the Malox...Plus.

The Morrisburg Jr. B Lions had a 2-0 edge against the Alexandria Glens after the first period and were coasting on a 3-0 lead with 8:12 left in the second period.

That's when the roller coaster ride began.

The Glens scored a pair to end the second period 3-2 and Casselman was losing his patience.

"When I get mad at the boys, they know I mean business," he said, "And I want them to keep their win string intact."

"Alexandria has added a few new players to the lineup since our last meeting (January 2-Lions won 12-4) and the boys were expecting another easy victory."

"They (the Glens) are going to win a few more games, and I just didn't want Morrisburg to be one of their victims," he added.

"Besides that, their goaltender was stopping some great shots, and so was Dennis (Lions' net man)."

Going into the final period, Alexandria tied the score at three apiece with Serge Bellefeuille's second goal of the game.

Ray Jock put the visitors in the lead at 12:24 of the period.

As the last half of the period ticked away, a glimmer of hope came in the form of Mark Donnelly's goal at 8:12.

With just 2:30 left to play, Rob Domanko scored the winning tally to extend the Lions' win streak to 10, putting 23 of their last 25 games in the win column.

At Kemptville Friday, the Lions defeated the home team 7-4.

The break didn't come until the second period as Morrisburg led 4-2 at the end of the frame.

Rob Casselman and Mike McAllister each scored twice in the game, and singles went to Craig Villeneuve, Geoff Hare and Steven Serviss.

Jeff Hopkins was the winning goalie.

Scoring for Kemptville were Dan Vajcovec with a pair, and Marty Algire and Mike Speziale with singles.

"We have two tough games this weekend with Winchester and CharLan," said Casselman.

Winchester's head coach Peter DeRooy has recently been replaced by then assistant coach Dennis Casselman, and Doug feels that the team is starting to turn around because of the change.

"They (the Hawks) beat Westport Sunday (8-5), and they are going to be tough against us Friday," he said.

The Lions will travel to Winchester for an 8:15 p.m. start and Sunday they will host CharLan in the afternoon.

Before the All Star break, the Jr. B Lions will be in Spencerville Friday, January 22 to take on the South Grenville Rangers at 8 p.m.

Angels meet tough competition in A final

LAURIE DAY
Leader staff

MORRISBURG—The Angels met with some competition in their A final match up against the Canton Blades here Sunday.

They were almost shut out and the final seconds were ticking away when Kim McInnis scored on Tracy Kenyon to spoil her shut out. But it was too little too late as the Morrisburg Angels fell to the Blades in a 3-1 upset on home ice.

"Don't think you didn't play well, because you did. You all did," said coach Gary McInnis after the disappointing loss. "You just came up against a tough team."

McInnis stated that the Angels deserved to be in the A final but after a few bad breaks, and a fluke lobbing goal gave the tournament victory away.

"They were outskated by a better team," he said.

McInnis has been coaching the girls' team of Morrisburg for the past five years.

He played throughout the area since he was old enough to don a pair of skates and coaching girls hockey just came naturally.

"Both my sisters (Camille and Kim) play hockey," he said. "I've tried to help them along the way", and he stated that was the main reason he never really thought about coaching a boys' team.

And his hard work has paid off as McInnis and the Angels have brought a division title to Morrisburg three of the last five years he's been coaching the ladies.

But Sunday, a tournament win was not meant to be.

Canton's Jen Murphey picked up the MVP award for the A final as she notched a pair of assists in the contest.

The Blades' goals came from Cary Charleboise in the first period, Michelle Leonard in the second and Brandy Bresesette in the final frame.

McInnis' goal from Jennifer Adams and Julie Gurnhill spoiled the Canton shutout in the works.

The Angels won their first two game of the tournament taking Cornwall 4-0 in the opening game, and North Franklin 4-2 in their second match.

Against the Cornwall Midget C's, Tammy Mayhew picked up a shutout in the 4-0 bout.

Both McInnis and Adams scored twice in the game with Amanda Mabo taking the credit on the final counter.

In the Angels' second game, North Franklin fell 4-2 to a strong host team.

This time Jaime Notman scored a pair and helped out on a third goal. Allison Banford and Adams (two assists) picked up singles in the game.

This win set up the Canton/Morrisburg A final round.

Canton won their first two games of the tournament as well taking Spencerville 5-0 and Embrun 2-1.

On the B side, Lake Placid defeated Spencerville 4-3 for the hardware.

Robin Barney and Briget Barney scored for Lake Placid in the second period and Heidi Kratts scored twice in the final frame.

Trisha Powers had all three goals for Spencerville.

Angel notes

Jo-Anne Laroque was rushed to the WDMH by ambulance after Morrisburg's second game of the tournament. She was suffering from a neck injury after taking a hit in the last minutes of the game. In the latest report, Laroque was taken from WDMH to CHEO for further x-rays, but sources say she's in stable condition.

•

The top scorer for the Angels as of January 1 was Kim McInnis. She has 11 goals and one assist for 12 points. She is second overall in the ROMEKS league, behind only Trisha Powers of Spencerville who has 15 goals and four assists for 19 points.

•

As of the first of the year, Morrisburg was in second place with eight points behind Spencerville I and Embrun who are tied with 11 points. Spencerville II's are in fourth place with four points.

•

The Angels have since changed their name—from Charlie's Angels to the Morrisburg Angels. The girls are now sporting new jerseys thanks to lobbying efforts by the coaching staff and girls. Both Jiggers of Iroquois and Rohm and Haas of Morrisburg helped to make the new-jersey wish come true. Soon, the ladies will be wearing new socks as well.

Bantam B Lions' win string broken with tie

CHESTERVILLE—They didn't lose, but their win streak was broken.

The Morrisburg Bantam B Lions settled for a 3-3 tie in Upper Canada Minor Hockey League action as the North Dundas Demons were a little to hot to handle Tuesday.

The Demons took an early lead in the game with a short-handed goal at 5:52 of the first period as Rob Raistrick scored.

Rick Hess replied for the Lions at 3:37 of the period, and in the second frame, Aaron Banford put the go-ahead goal in the net.

But with 1:24 left to play in the second period, North Dundas tied it up with Shawn Johnston's counter.

The Demons then took the lead in the third period as Ryan Filion scored at 8:04.

Morrisburg saved face at 7:25 with Darryl Kirkwood's goal unassisted, but the Lions couldn't get by Troy Elliott to keep their win-streak intact and the team settled for the three-all tie.

Jr. Pepsi playdowns

Morrisburg's rink of Jon Ball (foreground), Jeff Casselman, Mike Brunt and Spencer Cooper lost this B final match to RA of Ottawa in the Jr. Pepsi Playdowns held here over the weekend. The RA curling club will now advance to the Regionals at a later date along with the A winners from the RCMP curling club.

Alexandria claims Atom tourney

MORRISBURG—When it all boiled down, it was Alexandria who came out on top in the Atom B tournament held here Saturday.

Alexandria defeated Ogdensburg 2-0 in the A final for the tournament hardware.

KITCHENER/WATERLOO—It was announced from Kitchener/Waterloo on January 5th that the 1995 Canadian Women's Curling Championship has been awarded to Calgary, Alberta.

"We fully expect that they will set new records for the Scott Tournament of Hearts in 1995," said Bob Stewart, President and Chief Executive Officer of Scott Paper Limited, sponsor of the event. "Calgary has an outstanding reputation for hosting major national and international events."

The 1993 Scott Tournament of Hearts will be held in Brandon from February 27-March 6. In 1994, the premier women's event will be held in Kitchener/Waterloo.

"Sport in general and curlers in particular are very fortunate to have enjoyed the on-going support of Scott Paper," he said. "This is the 12th year of their sponsorship and we sincerely hope that it will continue for many years to come."

UCP kicks off season with "Summer in January"

MORRISBURG — Upper Canada Playhouse will kick off its tenth anniversary celebrations with its "Summer in January" benefit evening on Saturday, January 30th at 8 p.m.

The evening will feature the stars of Upper Canada Playhouse (past, present and future) performing excerpts from such Playhouse productions as Salt Water Moon, The Gin Game, I do! I do!, The Affections of May, and The Honeymooners.

A number of actors representing past and present performers at UCP will be present, including Rona Waddington, Bill Luxton, Alison Lawrence, Chip Chuipka, Dean Hawes, Mark Morton and, of course, Marshall Button (along with his friend Lucien!).

Adding a dash of glamour to the evening will be the dancers from Joey's School of Dance in Mountain. Lance Cassell of Morrisburg, the youngster whose poem recitations have gained him fame, is also lined up to perform and Mary Jo Rosenquist will be on hand to add a touch of music.

A special tribute will be made to A Day to Remember, the musical by George Blackburn for which the tent (the original home of Upper Canada Playhouse) was built in 1978.

Don't miss out on this opportunity to share special memories of 10 exciting years of theater in the Seaway Valley.

There will be a cash bar and refreshments will be served. Tickets are $25 per person (with a cash receipt of $12.50) Please call 543-3713.
