Michael Kirkwood patiently waited six months to receive his new $1,600 Blue Jays leather jacket, which he'd won by entering a Kraft Foods draw over at Mr. Grocer. But considering the detailed stitching, and beautiful varieties of leather, it was well worth the long wait. The Iroquois Public School student, pictured here with brother Robert and friend Jary Hess had no idea the contest he was entering when he filled out the ballot. His dad says he won't be allowed to wear the jacket to school.

Morrisburg looks at cost efficiency in garbage and recycling contracts

C. THOMPSON

MORRISBURG—Although the matter still has to be approved, Morrisburg councillors are looking at garbage and recycling tenders for contracts covering the next three years.

Currently, the town crew is picking up household and commercial garbage but the arrangement is under review based facts and figures on the present mode of operation versus offers from other companies."We're looking at what is cost effective and cost efficient. We'll make a final decision in the next day or two," said Cam Martel, commissioner for Public Works.

Last week, a total of 16 submissions were looked at for household garbage ranging from local companies to larger conglomerates. The lowest tender was from Hume Waste Disposal of RR1 Berwick, for $112,700, followed by Maynard Coons Cartage of South Mountain for $126,403, Town Cartage Limited of Brockville for $132,070 and topped by Laidlaw Waste System of Nepean at $237,937.

The village's current contract for household recycling with Town Cartage Limited is coming to an end April 17. Recycling contracts from 11 companies were reviewed, with the lowest bid from CDT Cartage of Morrisburg Williamsburg for household recycling and recycling from offices in the shopping center.

CDT Cartage placed a bid of $43,975, while Maynard Coons Town Cartage Limited asked $51,466 and Emerson Craig Carruthers of Crysler quoted $142,900, and Laidlaw Waste System of Nepean was out of range with the highest bid.

While the two neighboring municipalities of Iroquois and Williamsburg are currently reviewing garbage and recycling contracts, each municipality will come to an arrangement with their own contractors.

Several merchants in the shopping center met recently to discuss how to go about commercial recycling for the plaza businesses. On the agenda was whether blue boxes should be used as for households, or whether larger boxes should be used. Office recycling will include the household recyclable of cans, glass bottles, newspapers and two liter plastic containers.

Some merchants also expressed an interest in recycling cardboard, which is seen as a commodity with value. At issue was the handling of the material, whether this could be improved by breaking and lashing sheets together. "There will have to be an effort put in by the commercial base to break it down," Martel said.

The merchants also discussed the pick-up of garbage and refuse in a system that would be fair to all. "We came to a consensus that if it was picked up on Thursday, recycling would take care of 90 per cent, and it could be done with one pick-up," Martel stated.

While the average production is three bags per business per week, with an overall of 80-92 bags a week throughout the plaza, some businesses are overproducing, Martel said.

"If they produce over and above, they will be responsible to arrange with a carrier to come and get it, either a private carrier or our carrier," Martel said.

Along with a view to cost-efficiency, discussions were held with the aim of meeting the provincial target date of the year 2000 for a 50 per cent cut in solid waste to landfill.

Martel added he hoped the community would continue to buy into the village's composting program. Those householders who have too many leaves and yard waste for their home composter are asked to use the industrial compost site.

"Participation will help with the composting aspect," Martel said. "We'll work on cardboard added to recycling to minimize the amount going to landfill."

The village is currently looking at a long range site for the municipal compost, and will have to work out an arrangement to meet ministry guidelines in order to avoid having a site too close to wetlands in the Industrial Park.

"The distances can be worked out, I don't perceive major complications," said Martel.

Martel added the objective is "knowing what's up and make it happen. We'll work with the province's game plan, but we must put extra effort into it and not let things ultimately be dictated by it."

Seafarers Union exploring options at former OETIO facilty

MIKE VAN RAALTE
Staff Writer

MORRISBURG—An old familiar face could be interested in buying back the present Operating Engineers Training Institute of Ontario.

Roman Gralewicz, president of the Seafarers Union, confirmed Tuesday his organization is looking into the possibility of buying back their old property under certain conditions.

"We're trying to see if its worthwhile for us," he said, revealing he'd been to a board meeting on the issue the day earlier.

"It could work out. We have to wait to see what develops from the inquiry."

Besides the high $7 million asking price tag, Gralewicz said his organization is concerned especially with legal strings which might be attached to the sale. Specifically, the Seafarers are waiting for the OETIO to come forward publicly with all the different liens held against the property, so the union leadership would know what to expect in the event they took control.

In an interview last week, Edgar Doull, Canadian Director of Operations of the International Union of Operating Engineers (which now controls both Local 793 and the OETIO), confirmed speculations the facility had been listed with the real estate firm Royal Lepage in Ottawa.

The union was said to be looking to liquidate the property to pay back huge outstanding debts to both the Bank of Commerce and the Arnprior-based company M.S. Sullivan Construction.

Last Saturday, Gralewicz and other Seafarer representatives toured the OETIO facility to see what had changed over the past decade. They were not terribly impressed with the renovations done.

"There's just no way they spent all those millions they say. Sure, they've put in new carpets and added a few rooms. But the roofs haven't been changed; they're still leaking."

Gralewicz said the Seafarers had no interest at all in any of the new property the OETIO bought to the east for an estimated $800,000. He argued the eastern parcel holds no real value because of its restricted designation with the Ministry of Natural Resources.

"It's all wetlands; you can't build on it."

Before putting down any money, the Seafarers also want to make sure there aren't any environmental problems at the site. They're looking to hire an inspection team to conduct soil studies and explore the facility's septic system.

Still Gralewicz believes the Morrisburg site could be an excellent location for the Seafarers to reopen a training facility, both for engineers, mates, captains and unlicensed sailors.

His union represents about 5,000 members; complimentary unions representing the engineers and mates each consist of an additional 1,200 members.

Before getting back into the training business, the Seafarers would have to explore if they had enough course content to sustain a program year-round.

Responding to earlier comments from Doull, Gralewicz said his union might be prepared to share a portion of the facility with the OETIO should the two unions be able to reach a suitable agreement.

"We would need a long-term lease from them before we'd make any arrangement like that."

When the Seafarers controlled the property before, the union received tax exemption status because they were operating a training centre (an estimated $90,000 a year). Gralewicz said his union would agree to take back the property only on the condition that they received that status again.

"We never did before. We never will again. We want that settled before we make a move."

However, Williamsburg Clerk Mike Waddell said his municipality has no control over taxation or exemptions. Those kinds of decisions must come through the Ministry of Finance, whose officials must adhere to specific guidelines.

"The assessment level would determine what the taxation level is."

The Seafarers sold the property to Cornwall developers in the early 1980s for $2.5 million. Later in the decade, speculator Tom Kaneb bought it for about $4 million. He sold it to Local 793 for $6 million in August 1993, having barely covered his expenses after paying out all the carrying charges and insurance.

While several parties recently have expressed interest in the facility, the property's out-of-the-way location from any major industrial centre traditionally has limited its attractiveness to outside investors.

Williamsburg Council

Township saves 20% on garbage contracts

MIKE VAN RAALTE
Staff Writer

WILLIAMSBURG—Township Council could save about 20 per cent a year on its garbage/recycling budget after conditionally accepting a tender from local firm C.D.T. Cartage to handle both jobs until December 1997.

The approval hinges on the new company obtaining the necessary MOEE-approved certifications and finding an appropriate Industrial Site from which to sort the township's recylables. However, neither the township staff, nor CDT partners Dale Crowder, Eric Dalton and Gord Toop, anticipate the new company having too much trouble obtaining the required papers.

"We were quite surprised to have it come in as low as it did," said Reeve Johnny Whitteker, following council's decision. "But I think contracting it out is the way to go rather than having your own people do it."

The township received a total of 16 garbage tenders and 11 recycling bids, with a wild $200,000 price range from top to bottom within the applications. Council based its final decision both on price and convenience, choosing a local contracting firm to handle both the recycling and garbage contracts together.

CDT Cartage bid $194,746.50 total to do the job for the next two years and seven months, including a surprisingly low $48,228.50 for the recycling contract. Last year, the township spent $94,000 in total, about $1,500 a month more for the same work.

Clerk Mike Waddell said he was comfortable going with the local contractors because of their proven business record. Crowder operates a local monument service in Morrisburg; Toop runs an auto repair shop in Glen Becker; and Dalton is a professional waste management/recycling expert presently employed in the field.

"We have got a very good plan together," Crowder said, speaking on behalf of the group. "This is going to be a quality act. We know we can improve on the service now existing because we'll walk that extra three feet for a box."

Crowder said the new company plans to purchase both a packer and recycler, in addition to an industrial park for sorting the recylables.

The success of the venture depends as much as anything on finding buyers for the re-

SDECD to update business directory

MORRISBURG—The South Dundas Economic Development Commission is currently updating its Business Directory.

Organizers have been gathering as much new information as possible from various resources; however they're looking for businesses to step forward to ensure their names aren't overlooked or changes made not recognized.

"We would like to list all businesses in our community," stated Cam Martel, chairman. "We are targeting June 1st as the release date. Only those firms confirming will be listed."

The project is a reactivation of one first initiated in August 1994. At that time, more than 400 notices were mailed out, and many responded with the requested information.

Now the task of researching the data on file has begun. Martel urges owners and manager to give the SDEDC a call at (613) 543-4558.

Upper Canada Village

Union president wants zero tolerance for harassment

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MORRISBURG–If there is one item on which the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, the President of the Union for Upper Canada Village and Richard Kramer agree, it is the Commission should have a zero tolerance policy for employees harassing each other.

Kramer is the independent legal counsel chosen by the Management Board Secretariat to investigate allegations of harassment, nepotism, favoritism, discrimination and work place safety and health violation at Upper Canada Village.

In a news release, Commission chair Gary Clarke said: "The Commission is prepared to take strong disciplinary action on any negative or malicious behaviour in the workplace."

"I'm glad to hear him say that. I hope the Commission has a zero tolerance policy for harassment," Local 404 president Peter Cazaly stated.

According to the Kramer report, supervisory management hadn't always acted swiftly to address complaints of harassment. Cazaly suggested a possible reason: "You have to establish that harassment has taken place. You often have to ask employees about incidents that have taken place privately, and it's difficult. Sometimes this is a matter of perception."

Complaints of harassment should be looked into, dealt with and referred up the line of management if there is evidence to back them. "Ultimately the General Manager should take responsibility for something of that nature because it's a fairly serious problem," Cazaly said.

The union itself also has procedures in place for investigating harassment of members by each other. "Members of the union are not to harass each other: both the union and management have a fairly strict point of view about this. These are things you just do not do to fellow workers," Cazaly stressed.

Some allegations would perhaps never have arisen, if regulations were being strictly followed. Cazaly agreed the Commission should "tighten up on some things. It's important that things are handled correctly or be seen to be handled correctly. This also has a lot to do with perception."

As noted in the Kramer Report, staff are living under harsh economic times, and having seen some colleagues disappear through downsizing, fear for their own job security.

Cazaly agree such an atmosphere breeds distrust and conflict. "Everyone is concerned about job security Unfortunately it often pits employees against each other as they see a seniority line-up. Obviously one fears for one's own security, when one sees oneself at the bottom of the pile."

Regarding the complaints of nepotism, Cazaly said this was a difficult question. "You can't legally turn someone down because he or she happens to be a relative. The legislation of the Ontario government would forbid you."

In addition, "we live in a fairly closed society. Chances are a great many people in Dundas County are related to each other if you do some scratching," he added.

Cazaly said the only way to handle the problem fairly "is to set up structures to guarantee that the most qualified candidate gets the job. Whether that person is a relative or not should have no bearing."

There is no need for people who interview applicants to know their names, Cazaly suggested. "In other levels of government, interviewees are identified by number."

Due to the small nature of the community, it is still hard to hide the identity of applicants. But "if you make the job selection process absolutely fair and objective, then nepotism isn't a factor. It's very difficult but possible," he added.

And if the numerical system of judging candidates is done fairly by interviewers, there shouldn't be charges of nepotism, he added.

Overall, Cazaly said he thought Kramer had acted quite honestly in the inquiry. "But it remains one persons' judgement, and largely many of the situations he investigated are matters of perception."

"I'm uncomfortable with one person conducting an investigation, I would be more comfortable if it were a group of people who could meet and share their perceptions of testimony rather than one," Cazaly said.

"It also remains to be seen whether the Standing Committee will accept this as a definitive picture of the workplace of the Parks Commission. They'll have to make a judgement about Kramer's report, whether it coincides with what they feel is the truth."

Villeneuve backs report recommendations, will speak to Legislative Committee

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

MOOSE CREEK—SD & G MPP Noble Villeneuve, a member of the Standing Committee which met to hear submissions on the St. Lawrence Parks Commission last October recently commented on the Kramer Report.

After hearing allegations of discrimination, harassment, favoritism from employees and former employees during the Standing Committee session, Villeneuve along with Cornwall MPP John Cleary and other MPPs said some very serious allegations had been made, and should be investigated. In response, the Management Board Secretariat provided an independent legal counsel, Richard Kramer to look into accusations and create a report.

However, since some allegations were and are still under the grievance process, they couldn't be commented on.

"And some who made the allegations wouldn't speak with Kramer. That is too bad," Villeneuve said.

Kramer had noted that reluctance to speak with a factfinder is not uncommon in such an investigation, and can be attributed to general fears during an age of downsizing.

Villeneuve said that some of the problems had grown from fairly small to major problems, and there was a preoccupation with concerns relating to work place improvement.

Allegations concerning nepotism had been investigated and seen as without basis in the report. "The Commission meets the letter of the law, although it isn't seen to do so," Villeneuve said.

Some complainants expressed concern that some managers had other family members working at the Village. Kramer said this was not surprising given the small size of the community and the significance of UCV as a local employer. The SLPC Anti-Nepotism policy provides a safeguard against any employee hiring or supervising an immediate family member. When a supervisor's family member has brought on staff into that supervisor's department, the chain of command is changed so that the family member employee reports to the manager above the family member supervisor.

Hiring practices require accurate and current job descriptions. Screening and interviewing of candidates include the participation of the manager of the department, another member of management and a representative from Human Resources. Candidates are asked identical questions and graded numerically: the person with the highest score is chosen.

Kramer concluded that there was insufficient evidence to prove the allegations of favoritism or nepotism. Allegations concerned the appearance of impropriety rather than evidence of impropriety.

"This conclusion does not amount to a confirmed stamp of approval on UCV's hiring practices, however," Kramer said. While allegations in this area could not be confirmed, concerns were shared by other employees, indicating a widespread belief in the existence of favoritism and nepotism.

One of Kramer's recommendations to avoid the appearance of impropriety was to follow hiring procedures strictly. For example, offering less than eight week contracts should involve Human Resources, and not be at the sole discretion of a line manager. To ensure fairness, classified vacancies t during the off-season should be posted at the beginning of the season when seasonal staff have returned to the workplace. Meanwhile, the vacancy should be filled by a competition for an unclassified contract open to all seasonal staff.

Kramer commented that there wasn't evidence to support the conclusion that discrimination on the basis of sex, nationality and disability are systemic. Two complainants have ongoing grievances in which discrimination is alleged, which can only be assessed by the Grievance Settlement Board.

Kramer said there was little to report under occupational health and safety violations. All allegations on these issues were made by one person before the Standing committee, and the individual would not cooperate with the investigation. Thus, allegations could not be substantiated. The Village's own Health and Safety committee did an investigation, including these allegations, and the report was released on December 2, 1994.

Villeneuve remarked that one area which could see an improvement was the area of employee relations among each other, how these affect the work environment, and the liaison with the public. This area was also among Kramer's recommendations.

Among recommendations Kramer suggested any complaints of harassment brought forward be acted on in a timely manner. And any staff member who has engaged in harassment of another staff member should be disciplined.

Happy in workplace

Kramer reported that "for the most part, the staff at UCV are happy in their workplace. There is an almost unanimous enthusiasm for the work they do and role that the Village plays in the community. Most of those staff interviewed did not experience any problems with their supervisors that they could not solve informally on a one to one basis."

However, "at the same time, staff are living under the cloud of harsh economic times."

Kramer noted the vast majority of staff who are seasonal are frustrated by the "lack of protections afforded to them under the current operating collective agreement. This frustration and lack of protection has played itself out in the grievance process as the only venue available for most employees who are laid off to challenge their job loss."

He goes on to comment on the "fractions nature of the Union local" as having as significant an effect on staff morale as any problems between management and the bargaining unit.

According to the Kramer Report, "day to day on-site efforts to address employee relations problems have not always kept up with the official responses as set out in the SLPC's many policies and procedures."

Kramer believed the more general allegations were the result of individual conflicts with supervisors as well as an ongoing attempt to discredit the newly elected Union executive. Conflicts with certain supervisors could be corrected by senior management to ensure that individual supervisors take direction as required and do not operate their departments autonomously.

Kramer concluded that a certain "lingering mistrust amongst some staff must be addressed in a serious way. It is my belief that management has failed on certain occasions to put into practice its comprehensive series of employment policies. Working together with a more cohesive bargaining unit, I believe that management can succeed in restoring mutual trust in the workplace and improving the quality of life at Upper Canada Village."

Villeneuve said that he along with other members of the Standing Committee would make recommendations on the Kramer Report to the Legislative Assembly Committee, in addition to their personal observations.

St. Lawrence Parks responds to Kramer

MORRISBURG—The Standing Committee on Government Agencies held a public meeting in Cornwall on October 12 and 13, as part of its current review of The St. Lawrence Parks Commission.

The Committee is a provincially appointed committee of MPPs from all parties which carries out regularly reviews of agencies, boards and commissions within the Ontario Government.

In addition to many positive submissions from community groups and tourism associations, a few individuals brought forward allegations about discrimination, harassment, favoritism and safety concerns at Upper Canada Village.

Management Board Secretariat provided an independent legal counsel, Mr. Richard Kramer, to investigate their allegations. The Board of Commissioners have examined the Kramer Report, accepted his recommendations in principle, directed the General Manager to report on implementation action in more detail and have responded to the Standing Committee on the allegations.

Chair of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission Gary Clarke has prepared the following statement regarding the report. "Allegations of nepotism, harassment, favoritism and discrimination as presented by the few individuals, for the most part, could not be substantiated by Mr. Kramer due to insufficient or no evidence and in some cases matters were under the formal grievance process. On balance, Kramer found that there was no evidence to suggest, as alleged, that systemic problems exist."

"One situation of potential harassment not presented by an individual appearing before the Standing Committee is being investigated further. On balance, Kramer found many good practices and many actions to improve the environment at Upper Canada Village and said: 'That healing process is largely in part to management's regular effort to officially respond in a quick and meaningful way to problems that presented themselves," Clarke stated.

He went on to say: "At the same time the Kramer Report indicates the need for stronger management action to ensure day-to-day performance throughout the Village at all levels is within stated Commission expectations. Mr. Kramer observed that management 'have been successful most of the time, but not always' and his recommendations will serve as a catalyst to further improve labor relations and business practices. At the same time, the Commission is prepared to take strong disciplinary actin on any negative or malicious behaviour in the workplace."

"Many of the problems deal with perceptions and lack of trust which the Commission is confident can be overcome by management working together with staff and the union local. commission staff at all levels learn from experience and always strive for better results," Clarke added.

The Commission has also received a report of health and safety at Upper Canada Village through investigators from its joint Occupational Health and Safety committee. The investigators made a thorough review of practices and determined that the allegations about health and safety hazards were not substantiated. In fact the opposite is true as the investigators concluded that 'reasonable efforts have been made by the employer to make the Commission a safe workplace.'

The Commission has complimented all staff on their efforts to ensure the Village is not only safe and healthy but an enjoyable environment for its visitors.

In view of the many budget constraints and program changes since 1990, the Commission believes its tourism success and revenue growth in 1994 is strong testimony to the quality of management and professionalism of staff. In responding to the Standing committee on the Kramer Report, Clarke stated emphatically: "We have built a winning team and the Commission is proud of its parks and its people."

"In summary, it is important to say that the Standing Committee has seen and heard many good things during its tour of the 'Parks of the St. Lawrence' and from the presentations made by the Commission, tourism partners and communities about our key role in Eastern Ontario's tourism economy. The Commission is greatly encouraged by these submissions and believes these positive concerns should form a strong focus for the current review by the Standing committee on Government Agencies," Clarke concluded.

Tourism merger among options for resolution at annual meeting

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

WINCHESTER—A proposal to form a single body to promote tourism in the United Counties of SD & G and Cornwall will be tabled at the Seaway Valley Tourism annual meeting in Apple Hill March 29.

Recent news reports have carried conflicting stories about the proposed merger, with some carrying positive and some negative messages.

Under the umbrella of the United Counties Economic Department, the office of Seaway Valley Tourism handles marketing and administration. Representation is for the area of the United Counties outside Cornwall through membership and an elected Board. The Cornwall Regional Visitor and Convention Bureau has an office, a membership and Board of Directors to handle the needs for the City of Cornwall.

The former Seaway Valley Tourism Council served both districts but was dissolved a few years ago. The City created its own bureau in 1992, while the Counties formed a representational body sponsored by the SD & G Chambers of Commerce, funded by the United Counties and membership.

At the time, representatives of Seaway Valley Tourism said the dissolution was inititated by Cornwall, and Seaway Tourism was therefore averse to the Cornwall Bureau's subsequent overtures to reamalgamate.

However, it was agreed on by both groups there were areas of marketing and publications where it would be more cost-efficient and effective for both groups to eliminate duplication.

A resolution was formed by United Counties Economic director Neil Williamson and then assistant Jeff Marshall to set up a joint liaison committee with the Cornwall Bureau. The committee has since been formed, and has been working on a proposed restructure, mission statement, staff requirements, name, operating budget and funding sources.

From Cornwall's standpoint, it was reported that the Bureau was intended to operate as an independent group with funding from both the city and counties, along with tourism industry operators in the private sector. But the counties were reluctant to join, and the city had to provide for more than 90 per cent of the bureau's funding, amounting to more than $200,000 in 1994.

While Williamson helped form the resolution for a committee to investigate areas of joint cooperation, he said he was concerned over the prospect of a take-over by Cornwall. "In my mind, this is not the best way."

Williamson feared that some small operators might not have the funds for programs available to some of the larger operators. In addition, some small operators might not have extra time for some of the required demands.

Seaway Tourism has a general membership of 115 members, and a Board of Directors of 26: however, some positions are vacant.

The proposal would see a new board of directors with 12 voting members, replacing the current board of 26 with 13 voting members. On the new board, there would be only two political representatives, one for the City and one for the Counties.

James dePater, manager of Seaway Tourism was quoted recently as being positive towards the amalgamation proposal. With only two political representatives on the amalgamated board, the remaining industry representatives would have a much stronger voice in decisions.

DePater said the current voting board of 26 has vacancies, and many don't attend meetings. He said the small operators have as much chance of getting involved as the big ones. "The Board includes those who have a small gift shop to Bed and Breakfast to managers of larger establishments," he said.

For example, the accommodation seat is now held by a Bed and Breakfast operator in South Mountain.

"Lots of large operators have less time to devote to it and the little operators have as much chance of getting involved as the big ones," he stated.

DePater reiterated tourism officials must speak with a united voice if they wish to gain maximum benefit from tourism, and local operators must get involved if they want to have their voice heard.

Under the proposal, Seaway Tourism and the Cornwall Regional Visitor and Convention Bureau would operate under a single manager over-all. The combined association would put together a budget and present a separate fee for service to the Counties and the City.

DePater said the budget for the amalgamated groups is unknown until a united association is formed. Counties Council had already been approached with a proposed budget, which was turned down because the united association is only proposed. However, a budget based on figures from the formed association would be considered.

Congratulations

Doug Duncan retired August 30, 1991, after 26 years of service with Beavers Dental. In a special ceremony held last Tuesday, March 14, the company recognized Duncan's significant contribution in the development of the Carbide Dental Bar with a memorial plaque (seen here presented by Robert Leroux, Vice President and General Manager). In his retirement, Duncan has kept busy representing the Reform Party throughout SD&G. He was an instrumental backer of candidate Annette Turner's strong showing in the last federal election.

Bike path in doubt

WILLIAMSBURG—Changing priorities within the Ministry of Transportation could strike a severe blow to those counting on a St. Lawrence bicycle path this summer.

MTO officials recently informed Williamsburg Clerk Mike Waddell that Hwy. 2 between Ingleside and Morrisburg had been taken off their list of repaving assignments this summer.

Instead, the government will target the money they'd set aside for that project for reconstructive surgery up Hwy. 31, from Morrisburg to Winchester Springs.

"They felt Hwy. 31 was in more need of repairs than Hwy. 2," Waddell said, referring to deteriorating sections along the major northern provincial artery.

At this point, Ministry official aren't able to confirm when the Hwy. 2 work would be rescheduled.

Nevertheless, the change in plans comes as a major blow to those lobbying for the completion of a bike path along the St. Lawrence River this summer.

Organizers especially within the Parks Commission were counting on the Ministry to pick up linking-portions of the path along Hwy. 2, especially between SLPC property and Morrisburg.

A major extension of the proposed plan between Upper Canada Road and Morrisburg would have to cut back from the river to Hwy. 2 to detour around the privately-owned Super Dev property holdings, (presently designated Class 2-wetlands, meaning no construction).

SPLC planners hoped the MTO would pave the shoulder of Hwy. 2 while provincial workers had all their machinery in the area; the SPLC in turn would make connecting loops in and out of their various riverfront parks and the Upper Canada Village.

Recyclables

cylables, which Crowder believes won't be a problem.

"Recycling is the key to a lot of things. Down the road, I think the trend will be to recycle up to three quarters of what we now dump in the waste site. The more households we can get involved in the program, the better off everyone will be."

As it stands now, the partners still await word back from Morrisburg council on the possibility of earning the village contract as well: CDT remains on the village short list; a decision is expected Friday. They also apparently have secured the Iroquois recycling contract, although nothing is confirmed.

Crowder said the partners are "more than happy to take what they can get." Nevertheless, a Morrisburg endorsement would "make the package a little bit better."

New gun law curtails traditional rights

The government of which Justice Minister Allan Rock is an important member would be well advised not to ignore the firestorm of protest now mounting daily over the proposed new gun law.

This protest is coming not from any criminal element, who do not want to be deprived of the implements of their profession – they could not care less. They do not obey nor even recognize the gun laws which already exist. They invariably make use of stolen or smuggled weapons, which are not registered, and will not be registered, no matter what laws Mr. Rock and his Honourable colleagues conjure up.

The opposition, and it is very, very real and very, very angry is coming from hunters, collectors, farmers and rural residents, millions of them, all law-abiding, peace-loving Canadians, who strongly oppose their rights being curtailed, and their pockets books being rifled by this outrageous proposal, which most see as a thinly-and sloppily veiled tax-grab of another billion or so, which will disappear into the hungry maw of government.

It seems that it is hard for our lawmakers to know or to grasp the concept of a real friendship between a hunter and his weapon, or a collector, and some of his prized acquisitions. It is the usual thing for a rural resident to take his son hunting at an early age, to instruct him in the careful use of arms, and to guard against their misuse. And it is also a usual thing for such a father to pass along his favorite weapon to his son on his demise. Under the proposed new law, that practice would cease. Upon an owner's death, the weapon, regardless of its condition or its real or sentimental value, would fall to the crown and be destroyed.

To a man (or woman) who has come to know and love his weapon, who can take it apart, clean it and polish it, and then re-assemble it use use the next season, that doesn't constitute a reasonable law. It constitutes thinly-disguised legalized theft, and will, it is predicted, create a whole generation of law-breakers. It is an assault on our way of life, our customs and our tourist industry. If you object to this further assault on your rights, let your Member of Parliament know, and let him know right now. Tomorrow may very well be too late.

Tobin's "fishy" seizure move

Fisheries Minister Brian Tobin should be commended for taking such a tough stand last week against a Spanish trawler accused of overfishing just outside Canadian waters.

The Minister's courageous decision was of pure national self-interest, something we haven't seen from a Canadian leader on the international front in quite some time. Tobin has helped revitalize the shaky self-esteem of our Maritime brothers, giving them some needed confidence that their concerns will no longer be ignored. He also has provided the impetus for a renewed sense of Canadian nationalism at the exact moment the country is preparing for another referendum on its future.

Even if our government does receive some minor scolding from its other allies, the world community now knows that Canada means business in wishing to preserve the declining turbot stock off the Newfoundland coast. Sometimes "gunboat diplomacy" still is the only way to prove a point.

Still, the timing of the seizure could leave the government wide open to questions about its sincerity. Cynics might wonder for instance why the Liberal government waited a full year-and-a-half after coming to power before taking such a dramatic stand. After all, rumors of exceeded Spanish quotas and illegal nets aren't exactly new. (And it has been only one week since Finance Minister Paul Martin delivered that controversial budget the media already has forgotten about with all the excitement)

Surely there wasn't a political motivation behind the noble move to protect our Eastern fishermen? —MvR

This Week In Morrisburg's History

Compiled from The Leader's fyles by Catherine Thompson

The March 20th edition of The Leader reported an American company's interest in moving to the Morrisburg Industrial Park.

Parker Professional Painting Inc. was considering a 13,500 square foot addition to the industrial park site, to make room for its parent company from Massena New York. The one-year old company was involved in cleaning straightening, painting and repairing cheese barrels for many of the country's leading cheese producers. The expansion would mean five or six new local jobs, bringing the fledgling company's total workforce to 17.

Village council approved the site control plan for the expansion to lot 13, subject to a minor variance board hearing.

The Village gained a new dining spot, after Jimmy Chan had a site control plan approved by Village Council for Chan Gardens, a licenced 125-seat dining room to be built north of Highway 2 between Parcoll and the Shell station.

Counties Council gave the nod to a $13.7 million spending package, up from the previous year's $13.1 million budget. The increased levy would boost contributions by the 21 municipal members by eight per cent to $2.5 million, up from the $2.1 million spent in 1984.

Williamsburg Township had spent $42,000 for the season's snow ploughing and removal. The previous year's tally was $48,000.

The costs for snow removal and clearing in Morrisburg since New Year's Day came to $43,124 while $11,566 was spent for sanding, salting and ice removal.

"Despite the economy, 1975 can and should be a good travel year" said Bill Elliott, managing director of the Eastern Ontario Travel Association at the Morrisburg meeting of the Seaway Valley Tourist Council.

Elliott said "Ontario East" had much to offer, including the St. Lawrence Parks system, the Capital, Ottawa and Rideau area as well as other attractions. He predicted that with leisure time increasing, recreational business was serious business. Former Morrisburg reeve Earl Baker was master of ceremonies, reeve Bill Dillabough and Mrs. Dillabough were among head table guests and prior to the dinner, Morrisburg's Gordon McGregor piped head table guests to their places. Under the direction of Mrs. Marion DeGray, the Seaway Singers sang several Irish selections and entertained with an Irish band.

Ed Lumley, member of Parliament for Stormont Dundas announced the opening of his constituency office at the Capital Theatre Cornwall, 29 Second St. West. "The office is intended to assist those who have urgent and pressing needs, but who would otherwise have to wait until their M.P. could find an opportunity to return from Ottawa," Lumley said.

Several Morrisburg and area residents viewed a new Ontario Government film, "The St. Lawrence More Than a River" at the National Arts Centre, Ottawa. Guests were welcomed by the Hon. Claude Bennett, Minister of Industry and Tourism, who said the film was representative of Eastern Ontario's main attractions including the areas of the St. Lawrence Parks Commission, Upper Canada Village near Morrisburg and Old Fort Henry at Kingston.

The March 21st edition announced an increase in Morrisburg's water rates due to increased costs. The average householder who was being billed $6.00 per quarter would be billed $8.00 for the same period, representing an increase of 67 cents a month or approximately two cents per day.

E.G. (Ted) Foggo was re-elected president of the Morrisburg branch of the Canadian Red Cross at the annual meeting. The women's work committee had shipped 29 pullovers, seven blouses and six pairs of shorts during the year as well as making several quilts. The Society hoped to raise between four and five thousand dollars the following year in the Morrisburg, Williamsburg and Riverside Heights area.

Pictured on the front page of the March 26th, 1965 issue of The Leader was Morrisburg Combines ace marksman and league scoring champion Rowdy Gillard accepting the Glengarry Transport Trophy from Mr. Garand, a representative of that firm.

Gordon W. Thom had been appointed the local representative of the National Brokers' Council in the area. The purpose of the council was to give better service to people who were moving to new areas in Canada because of job transfers.

At Brinston's Allied Food Market Fry's cocoa was 61 cents a one-pound tin and Jaffa oranges were 49 cents a dozen.

Floyd Fisher Real Estate had an attractive six room bungalow in Morrisburg listed for sale for $11,500. The house featured a four piece bathroom, oil furnace, sunporch and carport.

The March 25th issue reported that a 60 ton giant shovel was a test for the new Iroquois Bridge. The shovel crossed the recently-erected bridge spanning Lock 25 and was taken on to Point Iroquois to be used in preliminary work by Pentagon Construction company.

Flying Officer Frank C. Black of Morrisburg was among the crew members flying three CF-100 jet fighters to an air base in the United Kingdom. The Canadian built jets took off from St. Huberts.

The Aultsville correspondent wrote: Monday, March 21st was the first day of spring, but it was more like the first day of winter, as there was a raging blizzard all day and the thermometer hovered around 20 degrees above.

Headlines in the March 23rd, 1945 issue of The Leader read Takes German Prisoners. Sgt. Ronnie Cameron son of Mr. Ed Cameron and the late Mrs. Cameron of Morrisburg was mentioned in a Canadian press dispatch from Germany as being in charge of a platoon which rounded up 100 German civilian prisoners in Werheyen, Germany. Ronnie was 22 years old and had attended the local public school and Collegiate as well as Miami Technical High School, Miami, Florida. He went overseas in July 1941 and went in on the Normandy beachead on D-Day.

A mixed rink skipped by Mrs. Harry Meikle of Morrisburg won the mixed curling bonspiel at the Seignory club. the rink included J.A. Edgerton, Mrs. J.H. Wilson, Mr. Harry Meikle and Mrs. Meikle.

Dr. G.M. Gorrell was re-elected president of the Morrisburg Fish and Game Club.

Flight Lieutenant John Carr, RCAF had completed a tour of operations overseas with a Typhoon squadron and was back in England taking a fighter leader's course.

Edmund H. Thompson of Williamsburg found a pansy in full bloom in his flower bed.

1935

The March 29th issue of The Leader reported that with the calendar stating we are well into the first week of official spring we have been informed the May flowers are blooming. The robins were beginning to pair and killdeer had been heard.

The ice in the river had opened away leaving a wide channel with plenty of ice still along the shore. The yield of maple syrup was just average and there was still plenty of snow in the woods but everywhere else it had disappeared.

In a turbulent 40-minute struggle Morrisburg-Waddington Sailors trimmed Brockville Rowing Club at Ottawa, to the tune of 40-25 and captured the Ottawa and District Intermediate cage honors by a two game round score of 77-68. The Sailors qualified to enter the Canadian Intermediate playdowns and were to start the long trek leading to Dominion laurels.

The Canadian Radio Commission decided to prohibit sales talks or spot advertising on Sunday over all Canadian stations.

The March 20th issue of The Leader reported the Bachelor Maids Reunion was an unqualified success. With a packed hall of standing room capacity and with order of exceptional quality the setting was complete for the Musical comedy staged by the amateur performers and others assisting the Epworth League of the Methodist church in their presentation of The Bachelor Maids Reunion. Penelope Armstrong was played by Jane Dillen and Della McLatchie had the role of Julia Longfellow. Richard Winnett as Dr. Herman looked and acted the professor and much of the success of the play was due to the splendid manner in which he carried out his part.

W. Shennett was selling genuine Pengee shirts for $3 each.

The 35th anniversary of the Womens Missionary Society of the Methodist Church, Aultsville was celebrated. Rev. A. W. Stewart acted as chairman of the public meeting and the choir rendered excellent service under the leadership of J.S. Morgan. The Society was formed February 27th, 1890.

Iroquois looks at forming disabled awareness committee

C. THOMPSON
Leader Staff

IROQUOIS—Council is looking at the formation of a disabled awareness committee to assist seniors and people with disabilities to participate in community life.

They are forwarding information to Dr. Peter Playfair from the SD & G Developmental Services Center on National Access Awareness Week. The Access Awareness Committee is encouraging municipalities to set up committees including one council member, consumer representatives and professional service providers.

The committee's mandate would be to advise and make recommendations to municipal council on matters affecting senior citizens and people with disabilities, with the aim of raising awareness and removing physical and attitudinal barriers to community life.

Possible projects include a survey of municipal buildings to improve access, council's approval of a policy asserting the right of disabled people to access the services of the community, the survey of housing needs, public education and educational workshops on barrier free design, human rights and adapted recreation programs, review of the needs of hearing-impaired individuals who community events.

Playfair's input will help council determine whether such a committee is needed and should be formed.

For the next three years, Marcel Charette will be picking up the Village's commercial garbage.

At a cost of $12,800 plus GST, Council awarded the commercial garbage contract to Charette as the lowest bidder who will be picking up garbage in the plaza three times a week, and once a week for the other commercial garbage producers. The contract will run for the term of council until December 1997.

No decision has yet been made on the contract for household recycling, although CDT, a new company based in Morrisburg and Williamsburg had the lowest bid of $19,147.70 for the term of council. Offers per household pick-up were $13.10 for the first year, $13.36 the second and $13.63 the third. Council will award the contract to the lowest bidder, provided Morrisburg and Williamsburg choose the same recycling contractor.

Commercial recycling of cardboard was not discussed and the village crew will continue to do residential recycling,

Reeve Peter Swank announced the Lions Club will be donating materials and labor for a new tourist information booth to be located at the north corner of HIghway 2 and Carman Road on Fetterly's Garage property. "It will be at no cost to the village except for a small operating cost for power," Swank said. The new tourist booth is to be built before June 1.

In addition, they received for information correspondence from Ron MacDonell, reeve of Lochiel Township, the new president of the Roma Insurance Program for municipalities.

MacDonell relayed the concern of members over large premium increases, explaining the main reason as being the generous awards allowed through the courts. All municipalities suffered increases, with some more pronounced due to an unfavorable claims experience.

A request for funding by the Dundas County Hospice, an organization committed to assisting the families of terminally-ill patients was referred for budget discussions. A donation was not made last year, as council was still contributing towards a grant for Winchester Hospital.

Funding for Agri tourism

TORONTO—The United Counties of SD & G will receive $12,385 in jobsOntario Community Action funding to promote opportunities for community economic development through local agri-tourism, Elmer Buchanan, Minister of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs, has announced.

"Working in partnership, the counties of SD & G will identify, enhance and encourage agriculture-based tourism which will contribute to their rural economic development and strengthen the community of the region," said Buchanan.

The jobsOntario Community Action grant will be used to carry out phase two and three of "Agri-tourism—A Crop ready for Harvesting" which is being developed in consultation with staff from the Ministries of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs and culture, Tourism and Recreation.

In phase two public consultations and community-based focus groups will be used to determine priorities and a vision for a marketing strategy and action plan. A Vision and Action Report will be produced in phase three based on the finding in phase two.

jobsOntario Community Action is a $300-million component of jobsOntario. Other components include training, youth summer employment, housing and capital construction. As of February 9th, 1,100 projects have received $143 million in JobsOntario Community Action funding creating 6,739 person years of employment

Junior Bs could take control of Village Picnic

MIKE VAN RAALTE
Staff Writer

MORRISBURG—The Junior "B" Lions hockey team might be interested in taking control of the annual Morrisburg/Williamsburg Village Picnic.

At Tuesday's meeting of Williamsburg Council, Jr. "B" co-owner Mike Waddell said his team was prepared to run the annual tradition provided all parties involved agree to certain conditions.

Most importantly, the team wants to move the Picnic from its present Canada Weekend time slot to the Monday of the "Tubie Long Weekend." The team also wants a guarantee that no liquor or beer will be sold on what they consider should be a family-day event. And they're hoping to maintain the present fund-raising support levels from the various communities participating.

"We're not interested in making money with this, but we don't want to lose money either," Waddell said.

"Nobody right now seems willing to carry on with it, and it's tough to get something like this going again once it has died out."

Morrisburg Leader Advertising Manager Sam Laurin and his wife Margi, together with several of their friends, first brought back the village picnic idea to the Waterfront Park in June of 1989; basing their plan on the Broder Island village picnics from a generation back.

"The idea was to tap into, and try to install some village spirit," Laurin said.

In past years, the picnics have drawn anywhere from 1,000-2000 plus, featuring such events as horseshoe tournaments pie-eating contests, face painting and fish pond.

In its peak years, the crowds have been so large people could hardly get into the parks to see the entertainment and enjoy the fireworks at night.

Nevertheless, Laurin said he and the other organizers believed it was time for someone else to take a turn running it.

"We needed a break; we've been doing it for six or seven years now and it's time for some new blood to come in and take over."

Laurin welcomed the Lion's participation, saying he would be interested in offering his expertise in any capacity they saw fit.

"It's nice to see somebody step up and run with it. They will have their new ideas which will be good for it."'

Waddell said the club is hoping to turn the former "Tubie Weekend" into a five day event, with a circus being booked for the Thursday evening. At this point, the club is looking for volunteers to step forward from the community so the club can keep expenses down and the events running smoothly.

In past years, organizers raised between $8,00-10,000 from the community to help pay for entertainment, games and prizes. The Jr "B's" hope the same groups step forward this year as well and they're pushing for the support of both Morrisburg and Williamsburg council.

Schell Street lot prices are now set

MIKE VAN RAALTE
Staff Writer

WILLIAMSBURG—Township council is ready to begin unloading lots on the recently completed Schell Street subdivision.

Having surveyed the present housing market, council has set the price for each of the 23 single lots at $24,500; the seven double lots will go for $35,000.

Clerk Mike Waddell said the properties can be bought individually or as a group package.

"We're ready to dicker if we get a good proposal."

Reeve Johnny Whitteker doesn't anticipate the township experiencing too much difficulty in unloading the properties.

Each lot will come with all the infrastructure work already completed, including cable, Bell telephone, electricity, underground gas, plus water, sewers, blacktop roads and street lights.

There's also the added feature of living within Williamsburg itself, the reeve pointed out.

"Don't forget, we have the lowest taxes in all the three United Counties!"

The Schell Street subdivision, located in behind Williamsburg Hamlet, represents how the township spent the $365,574 approved under the Canada/Ontario infrastructure project.

In setting the lots at such a low price, council will barely cover their immediate investment in the contracting business. The real money will come in the long term.

Besides creating some needed jobs in the area, council initiated the project to expand their long-term tax base and increase the likelihood of holding onto the hamlet's bank and post office.

Whitteker said the subdivision would make the area more competitive for commercial, residential and industrial development. He defended council against charges the municipality might be "crowding out" private investment, suggesting the township needn't have been involved had local contractors moved more quickly in developing affordable housing.

The Schell Street project represents the township's third such venture into local developing.

When I come to the end of the road and the sun has set for me,
I want no rites in a gloom-filled room.
Why cry for a soul set free?
Miss me a little, but not too long and not with your head bowed low.
Remember the love that we once shared.
Miss me— but let me go.
For this is a journey we all must take and each must go alone.
It's all part of the Master's Plan,
a step on the road to home.
When you are lonely and sick at heart
Go to the friends we know and bury your sorrow in doing good deeds.
Miss me-but let me go...

Council has agreed to provide and present the award for the Citizen of the Year competition, which will be run by the Festival Committee.

Williamsburg Legion abandons Nevada ticket fundraising campaign

MIKE VAN RAALTE
Staff Writer

WILLIAMSBURG—Local fundraisers blame provincial government red tape for smothering their decade-long campaign for Williamsburg charities.

After raising thousands of dollars over the years for the Winchester District Hospital and other local philanthropic groups, the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 538 will no longer be selling Nevada Tickets out of its Williamsburg headquarters.

Member Bob Stephenson told township council Tuesday the fundraiser was no longer viable because of ever-tightening licensing regulations being imposed by the provincial government.

"It was becoming too much of a hassle. They told us we had to have a budget — discuss with them where it was going to go. But we don't have the membership or the time to do it. After some discussion, we just said to hell with it."

The 44-member branch, composed mostly of Canadian veterans and their families, had sold Nevada Tickets in the community since the early 1980s.

When organizers applied for the necessary documentation this time round, the provincial government told them they had to set a budget in advance and send financial reports for a yearly audit.

Branch member Larry Empey said none of the members could understand the province's rationale for clamping down on what had been a successful campaign.

Besides the Nevada Ticket sales venture, the Williamsburg branch were allowing local boys and girls groups to use the Legion facility when the membership wasn't meeting there.

"Whatever we've raised has always been donated back out. The money has always stayed in the community. That's why we're having trouble accepting this."

In closing out the campaign, Branch 538 donated $1,673 to Williamsburg Recreation, to be split among the various township recreation committees in North and South Williamsburg, Dunbar, and Winchester Springs. The Legion also donated that same amount to both the Winchester Hospital and to Camp Kamaga, a summer day-camp for kids located just east of Ingleside.

Some additional money was put towards the Legion's building fund.

Williamsburg Women's Institute sees local crafts

Williamsburg Women's Institute held its monthly meeting on March 14 at the Williamsburg Township Municipal Building.

President Mrs. Parker Locke opened the meeting and graciously welcomed the guests.

Reports were read and approved. A letter was received from the District Secretary inviting the executive meeting at Brinston, April 5 at 1.30 p.m. as well as the District Annual meeting on May 18 at Dixon's Corners Community Christian Reform Church. Workshop '95 plans were finalized. It is to take place on March 23 at 1:00 p.m. at Park Lane Seniors Support Center in Williamsburg.

Convenor Mrs. Peggy Thompson proudly introduced the guest speaker, her daughter, Sharon Duprau. Sharon creates her beautiful crafts from her farm home in Lunenburg. She delights in working with flowers of all kinds, dried, silk and fresh.

She demonstrated a lovely floral arrangement for a Church wedding to match the bride's and bridesmaid's bouquets, which were on display. Sharon showed the group how to make a ten-loop bow and a small corsage with a small bow. Some of her crafts are sold in Cornwall in a shop at Pitt and Second Streets. Jean Casselman thanked Sharon and presented her with a Tweedsmuir History Book.

Delicious refreshments were provided by Norma Herriman, Audrey Casselman and Joyce Patterson.

8-ball tournament Saturday at Nick's

MORRISBURG—If you haven't already registered for the first annual 8-ball tournament, you better do so soon.

Spots are being filled quickly as Nick's Sports Bar gears up for the first ever tournament Saturday, March 25th.

Beginning at 12 noon, the tournament will run approximately eight hours, and organizer Charles Sypes expects to have a full house by that time.

A double elimination format, the tournament will consist of a best two of three series against each opponent, with the final series slated for a best three of five round.

"It means that before you record a loss, you have to lose to the same person twice," said Sypes. It also guarantees each person a minimum of four games.

Door prizes will be given out to contestants during the tournament, and local businesses have been kind enough to sponsor this event, said Sypes.

Cost of registration is $10, and you can register at Nick's or by calling Charles at 537-8490.

In the final game, the Lions held a 3-2 lead after the first period with goals from Matt Collins, Garlough and Bobby Bird.

In the second North Dundas tied the score at three apiece with 6:25 remaining.

Collins claimed the tying goal and scored the winner at 7:26 of the game.

He was assisted by Bird and Brad Casselman on the championship goal.

Nick Hart claimed all three wins in the crease.

Playoff notes

In Upper Canada Minor Hockey League playoff action, the Lions are sporting a 6-2 record with 12 points total after losing both games last week.

Their first game was a 3-1 loss to South Grenville on March 8.

"The boys played a super game against a very strong team," commented VanAllen. "You can't play run and gun hockey against South Grenville. You have to play a defensive game and take advantage of the chances you get. We did everything right but could not get enough shots on the net."

The only goal they did get was one scored by Adams from Greg Millard and Collins at 1:43 of the opening period.

South Grenville got their goals from Ashton Spencer with two and one assist, and Dan Beattie.

Against South Grenville on March 14th, the Lions lost a 4-3 heartbreaker, in a game the coach said the Lions gave 110%.

"They (S.G.) had us 3-0 at one point, but the boys kept fighting back. The team knows they played a super game, and gave it their best."

Greg Millard scored two goals in the game for the Lions, while Garlough tallied one goal and two assists. Other assists came from French, Casselman and Collins.

Bantam Bs to meet Brockville in league bout

MORRISBURG—The Bantam B Lions were in Smiths Falls Sunday for a tournament where they lost out after the second game, but coach Steve Barkley was just as pleased as punch with the outcome.

"I couldn't have been any prouder with the boys if they had won the Stanley Cup," said the coach after the Lions lost a 3-2 game to Alexandria.

"We out-played them in the first two periods, and the winner wasn't scored on us until 2:30 of the third period," he said.

The Lions, who begin their league playoffs against Brockville in a four-point series, faced a tough opponent in Alexandria.

"They're (Alexandria) a real skating team," said Barkley. "Every time they got the puck, we knocked them down. The forwards were playing back and the defense was getting the puck out. They really played well as a team."

"I think they wanted to show Brockville (who watched the game being played), who lost an 8-1 decision to Alexandria earlier in the tournament."

"I just can't say enough about the whole team," added Barkley. "They played a game that every coach strives for to see."

Dan Goss was named the MVP of the game, and Barkley added that both goal tenders Rene Croteau and Brandon Cassell, covered the crease extremely well.

Scoring in the game were Rob Murphy and John Derouchie with assists going to Jeremy Adams with two and Josh McIntosh.

In the Lions first game of the tournament, the Lions won a 3-2 game over Cornwall.

Jamie Barkley was named the game's MVP.

Scoring in the win were Rob Murphy, Adams and Brad Boivin, with assists going to Jamie Barkley, Jon Derouchie, and Matt DeJong.

The Lions will host Brockville in Game 2 of their series on March 28th at 8 p.m. Come on out and watch the sparks fly.

Briefer therapy is better: "Keeping Health in Mind"

"Keeping Health in Mind" is a monthly newspaper column made possible with the help of the clinical staff of Tri-County Mental Services.

Brief Solution-Focused Therapy"

When Briefer is Better

Some may think that brief therapy is a condensed version of traditional psychotherapy, and that it is brought on by government cutbacks in public health services.

In reality, briefer methods of doing therapy were first developed in the 1970's while public health services were still growing and cutbacks in government spending was not yet a major concern.

The major reason for a briefer approach to helping people in need of social and mental health services was to effectively help more people than through traditional means. Studies reveal that most clients were using no more than 10 individual sessions regardless of treatment methods and success.

It was thought that a briefer and effective method of helping would increase overall treatment success for those being helped. Studies since the late 1970's have shown a significant improvement in treatment success when using these new, briefer therapies. The overall average number of sessions per client have since then decreased to the point where an average of four or five sessions is necessary to bring on the necessary changes and improvements.

The Brief Family Therapy Centre in Milwaukee, Wisconsin has developed such a model. Long term follow up studies reveal their success rate as increasing from 72 per cent at termination time to 86 per cent 18 months after treatment. This would suggest that the short term progress achieved through treatment has grown into long term solutions: also, clients have remained confident that they can resolve their problems and that the need for further therapy has been significantly reduced.

Many clients who have experienced the old and new method are surprised by the nature and number of questions being asked by the brief therapist. Indeed, briefer methods require a greater focus on solutions. The client is helped in finding and noticing immediate changes and improvements to their situations, no matter how small they are. Permanent solutions are build upon these successes.

The length of treatment does vary according to the problem and the individual. The overall reduction in treatment sessions per client has been of benefit to both clients who no longer have to wait so long for treatment, and to social services and health organizations in their struggle to do more with less government funding.

This would explain the incredible success of a recent training workshop on brief solution-focused therapy, hosted by the local Ontario Association of Professional Social Workers. Brief Solution-Focused Therapy is becoming for all a beacon of hope in these times of budget reductions in both social and health care services.

Special tribute to commemorate 50th anniversary of Holland liberation

A special tribute to commemorate the 50th anniversary of the liberation of Holland has been planned for Friday, March 24, 1995, at 7:30 p.m. at the Williamsburg, Christian Reformed Church, 531 Church Street, Williamsburg. This special evening is part of a 30 city tour sponsored by The Bible League of Canada.

On this special evening, the men and women who served in the Armed Forces will be remembered and honored. A brief visual flashback will capture one soldier's personal reflections on his service in Holland and some touching memories of his comrades who sacrificed their lives for our freedom. Also, a giant screen multi-media presentation will feature many of the beautiful towns and cities of Holland and the unique Dutch culture. Don van Polen, an award-winning photographer has created this full-color production.

While all are being encouraged to attend, the evening will provide a wonderful opportunity for those of dutch heritage to say "Thank you" to those involved in the liberation.

A special freewill offering will be received for the "Children's Fund" of The Bible League, a Scripture distribution organization dedicated to providing Bibles and related materials to over70 countries around the world. According to Rev. John Klomps, the Bible League's Executive Director, "On this evening we will look back with gratitude, but we also want to look forward to the next generation's future. Providing Bibles for our children is one means for them to find true Peace. Hopefully, they will never have to experience the horrors of war, and some of us have."

If you would like more information about this evening please phone The Bible League at 1-800-363-9673.

Atom B Lions lose close call in tournament

CORNWALL—The Morrisburg Atom B Lions made it to the semi-final round in a tournament hosted by Cornwall Friday.

Held in the competition by the goal tending prowess of Todd Beckstead, the Lions lost a heart breaker to Aylmer late in the game.

With 5:58 left in the game, Stephane Tremblay got by Beckstead and with just 46 seconds remaining, an empty net goal added insurance for the win.

The Lions won their first game over Cornwall by a 3-1 score.

Darcy McGann scored the winner unassisted with 6:48 left to play.

Morrisburg trailed 1-0 after the first period, buy Tony Barkley tied the score in the second with 3:47 on the clock, which made room for McGann's winning shot late in the third.

In their second game, the Lions upset Brockville 4-2 led by Darcy McGann with two goals in the effort.

Single counters were scored by Stefan Barkley and Tony Barkley while assists went to Shawn Hitsman with two, Pat Foley and Mike O'Brien with one each.

Throughout the tournament, a few of the Lions were named "hustlers" and were awarded medallions for being such.

Those athletes to claim a little something for their hard work were Tony Barkley, Bruce Lewis, Stefan Barkley and Mike Shaver.

WDMH Aux. meets

WINCHESTER—At the Winchester District Memorial Hospital meeting for March, members learned the volunteer pins they'd applied for had arrived from provincial headquarters.

The pins feature of bouquet of provincial flowers with the logo—"Volunteer the Way to Grow."

Organizers say they will try to pass them out to all volunteers in hopes they will will enjoy wearing them, especially during Volunteer Week, April 23-29.

Marion Carkner, Winchester Director and Joan Farlinger, Auxiliary president held a meeting with Lorna Mackenzie, President of Rerion 9 Auxiliaries, to view places in which to hold the President's Luncheon. After some discussion, it was decided to hold the event in the local hospital cafeteria, as the women attending wished to tour facilities in the hospital at this time. The event will take place on May 16th.

The spring conference of Region 9 Auxiliaries will be held on April 19th in Arnprior — based around the theme"Making the Most of What We Have."

Attending from the WDMH auxiliary will be Joan Farlinger; Carol Allan; Ethelwyn Carkner; Graham Barkley; Doris Cross (Winchester); Margaret Bowers; Hilda Vandekemp and Roma Halarides.

THe WDMH received a letter from the hospital administration thanking them as well as the gift shop workers, the Sunshine Circle in long term care, the purchasing committee, and In Memoriam correspondents for their continuing efforts as "part of the health care team.'"

Secretary Dawn Oeulette called the roll: Chesterville 8 and director Grace McCauley turn in beautiful knitting, including a colourful afghan done by Mrs. Alice S. Hay; Winchester 6 Lil Lancaster reported that the Winchester unit will again be hosting the Summer Bingos this year at the Lions Hall; Evelyn Cowan and Rose Campbell turned in $700 from Golden Valley Unit; Morrisburg 2; Morewood 2; Summers Cass Bridge-Maple Ridge 6.

In CEO Don Smith's absence, Jean Holmes gave the administrator's report. Jocelne Contant, v.p. and director, Patient Care Services, has accepted the position of Executive Director; District Health Council of Eastern Ontario. We were also sorry to hear that Executive Assistant Pat Campbell was leaving as well to join the staff at the Riverside Hospital. The auxiliary's relationship with these two women has been excellent and we shall miss them, but wish them continued success in their new endeavors.

Lil Lancaster reported for the Gift Shop and said that Aylsa Appleby and Barb Scott had a successful buying trip in Montreal. She urged everyone to stop in at the sho[to see all the latest. Lancaster also turned in a check for $2,000, bringing the gift shop's total for the year to an amazing $13,000. the WDMH saluted the loyal folks who work in the gift shop – their hours for this past month along were 230.

Sunshine Circle reported that Dr. Slowey's St. Patrick's Day concert on Saturday was a great happy nostalgic treat for all. Ken Melchin and Peter Thibaudeau accompanied Dr. Slowey and some 34 patients from all floors in the hospital in a joint sing-a-long. Sunshine Circle worked 42 hours in February. Betty Crear will be down from Vernon to sing this Tuesday coming and be accompanied by Doris Cross on the piano.

The dessert and card party is scheduled for April 26.
