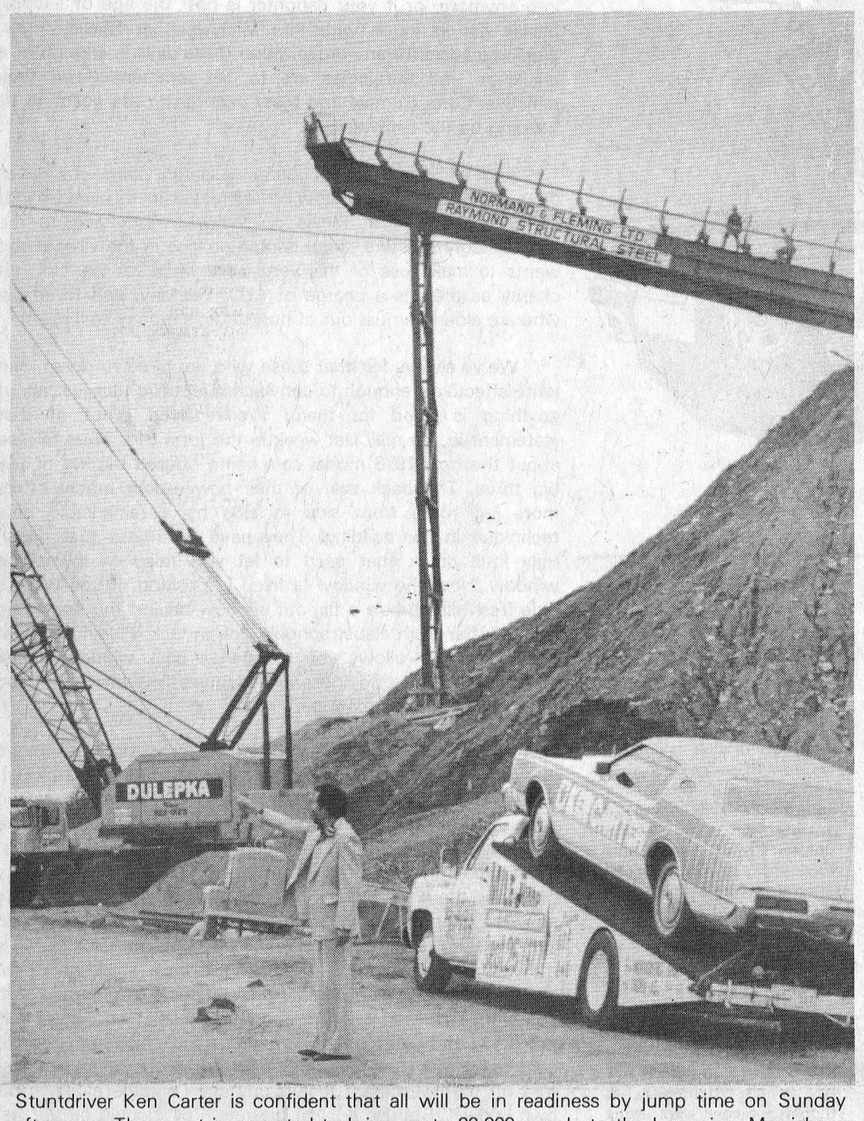
20,000 people expected

Ramp construction almost completed

Carter ready to jump Sunday



Stuntdriver Ken Carter is confident that all will be in readiness by jump time on Sunday afternoon. The event is expected to bring up to 20,000 people to the Iroquois - Morrisburg area on the weekend. A last minute check with Carter officials in Ottawa on Tuesday indicated that things were continuing on schedule and that the rain on Tuesday would not significantly hamper the construction of the ramp.

Montreal born stuntman, Ken Carter is as ready as he'll ever be for this Sunday's rocket car ride across the St. Lawrence River. At a press conference on Friday, he told reporters that he was tired of hearing people say that the jump would never take place and that he was afraid to try it.

"This is not a game," he told the newsmen. "We're really gonna do it."

Carter referred to the jump, advertised as a Country Mile, as the highlight of his career as a stuntdriver and added that both his life and his personal finances were on the line.

"If I hit the water at 300 miles per hour, we all know what could happen," he said "It will all be over; but I'm ready for that."

The press conference was held at the jump site in Matilda Township on the farm of Wilfred Zeron, about a mile west of Mariatown.

Steelworkers were welding giant girders into place in an effort to finish the ramp which rises about 100 feet above the waters of the St. Lawrence River.

Construction work went on almost around the clock last week, preparing the ramp for the pouring of three inches of concrete along the entire 1,350 foot length.

The steel framework at the south end of the ramp rises sharply in the last couple of hundred feet to give the car the altitude it will need to make the jump.

According to Mr. Carter, the rocket powered model of a Lincoln Mark IV is in Montreal undergoing final testing and will be ready to go by Next Sunday

The only thing that stands in the way now is the weather. If it rains on Sunday, the jump will have to be postponed until October 2nd in the hopes that the weather then will be better.

People are expected to start arriving on Friday for a weekend program that includes an air show, a tractor pull and a display by Benny Koske, billed as the "Human Bomb". The jump itself is scheduled to go off at around 4:30 p.m. The time may have to vary however, depending on what river traffic there is at the time.

Spokesmen at the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority have stated that they will not shut down the waterway for the jump and that Mr. Carter will have to do his jump between ships.

Parking will be provided on a 75 acre piece of land near the site, according to Mr. Carter and there will be canteen trucks and portable toilets available for patrons.

Safety for the crowd is the prime consideration, says Mr. Carter and there will be fencing erected at various points to keep people well away from the ramp area. Drainage ditches have been dug on both sides of the ramp, but Mr. Carter says that these are only for water and will not used for crowd control.

Water has been a problem with the construction of the ramp, and according to Mr. Carter, it prompted workmen to cover the ramp with polyethylene until cement can be poured.

Mr. Carter was reluctant to tell newsmen how much money he stood to make if the jump is successful, but he was quick to point out that he and his backers have already invested close to half a million dollars in the venture. Things are so tight, he added that he had to ask his son to allow him to use his car as collateral.

Although he would not disclose the amount that he would make on the jump, Mr. Carter admitted that a contract was signed ABC in 1974 that called for him to do two at least one record jump per year for three years for $250,000. He also pointed out that the jump next Sunday is considered a super jump and is not covered under the contract.

In answer to a question that compared his jump to Evel Knievel's jump of the Snake River Canyon three years ago, he pointed out that it was impossible to compare a motorcycle jump with a rocket car jump. Also, he added, Evel Knievel jumped only 1,700 feet, compared to the 4,000 feet he would be attempting.

Mr. Carter is emphatic on the subject of cancelling the jump again this year. He told reporters that he is so high now that nothing could stop him at this late date. He added that last year was a terrible disappointment for him when the jump had to be cancelled about 4 days before it was due to happen.

"One person couldn't handle the disappointment," he said, adding that he was actually two people. He went on to explain that the Ken Carter character was created 30 years ago when he got into the stunt driving business at the age of 19. Mr. Carter in reality is Kenneth Gordon Polisheuck, born in Montreal to Romanian parents.

Mr. Carter has been involved in various forms of stunt driving in every capacity from shoeshine boy to superstar and after 596 jumps and 12 broken bones he feels that the jump on Sunday will be the climax to his career.

His plans for the future include a jump off with Evel Knievel in the Olympic Stadium, although that has yet to be finalized.

Council hears complaints answered

Ambulance manager warns that service could get worse

Ambulance service in the Iroquois area has come in for some criticism and according to Claude Delorme, operations manager at the Morrisburg office of Seaway Valley Ambulance Service, it could get worse.

Mr. Delorme was invited to speak at Iroquois Council's meeting last Tuesday, following a complaint from a local woman that it had taken almost an hour to get an ambulance to come to Iroquois to take her mother-in-law to hospital.

Mr. Delmore told council a tale of lack of funds, frustration and computerized bureaucracy that is impeding the provision of the type of ambulance service that local people feel they are paying for.

At the root of the problem is money, the lack of which has forced the ambulance company to leave the Morrisburg based ambulance on standby between 1 a.m. and 9 a.m. This means that if an ambulance is required in or around Iroquois between those hours, it is dispatched from either Winchester or Prescott, depending on the ultimate destination of the patient.

The only deviation from this practice, Mr. Delmore added, is if the call is for a motor vehicle

Iroquois council meets

Home renewal program underway in Iroquois

The Ontario Home Renewal Program is underway in Iroquois, following approval by village council last week of 9 applications by local people for a total of $33,000. in funding.

OHRP administrator for the village, Hubert Casselman appeared at council's meeting on Tuesday night with applications ready for approval that used up the money that has been granted so far, but there is hope that another $28,000. will be coming along as well.

The money is made available to local homeowners on a first-come first-served basis for the purpose of repairing and renovating their homes. No new construction is permitted under the plan and only homeowners can take part. The money is given partly as a loan, and partly as a grant with the ratio depending on the adjusted family income. Repayment is made at low interest rates with the maximum available per home being $7,500.

In other council business, Ron Whitteker appeared before council to discuss his proposal to serve as the village animal control officer. It was noted that he has had his premises inspected and is prepared to carry out the necessary renovations to enable him to accept the job.

He had several questions to ask council about the work and it was agreed that someone local would be desirable because of the distance involved in contacting the present man who lives in Russell. Mr. Whitteker was instructed to prepare a quotation, spelling out how much money he would want to carry out the work. It was noted as well that all calls regarding dogs would continue to go through the village clerk, during office hours, regardless of whether or not Mr. Whitteker was retained for the position.

In his report to council, village works superintendent, Ray Delegarde pointed out that new streetlighting had been installed at all three entrances to the village along Highway Number 2 and that all reports on the lights were favourable. He added that he had received plenty of comment when the old lights were taken out but not nearly as much when the new ones were installed.

He also reported that all weeds in village parks had been sprayed a second time this year.

Mr. Delegarde asked for and received council's permission to close and lock the gates on the beach road, now that the swimming season is over. The gates were open a little later last year and it resulted in extensive vandalism to several buildings at the beach.

He reported as well that the new hydro truck that was purchased from the town of Prescott is in the process of being painted and will be on the road shortly.

Council devoted some discussion to the sewage treatment station, noting that already $13,000. has been spent on soil tests, treatability tests, consultants fees, engineers, and proposals but so far nothing definite is planned. There was some frustration expressed because of the bureaucracy that must be dealt with. Councillors noted that while the village's consulting engineers dickered with similar engineers from the Ministry of the Enviornment, the bills were mounting up at fees of from $25 to $50 per hour. It is hoped that some definite plans will soon be forthcoming on what must be done to upgrade the plant.

It was also reported by the housing committee that the village's housing policy statement has been approved by the Minister of Housing. This document was submitted for approval last Spring in the hopes of getting approval to go ahead with the development of more building lots in Iroquois.

With the approval of the policy statement, the next step is to purchase the land that is needed. Financing will be needed and it was stated that CMHC is prepared to loan the village the money but must first see a plan of the proposed subdivision. The village's consulting engineers are at present preparing a new plan of the land east of Island Park Drive, now that the boundary has been located.

Council was informed that the local airstrip had been inspected recently by Transport Canada and found to be satisfactory. A letter was read complimenting the village on the strip, which the inspector felt was a definite asset to Iroquois.

A report from the village's industrial committee included a recommendation that a sign be erected in the industrial park area near the water tower advising visitors of the availability of land. This was approved by council.

The committee also recommended that council meet with the local representatives of the South Dundas Planning Board to go over zoning by-laws.

It was reported that work is still continuing on the erection of a sign along Highway 401, noting the tourist attractions in Iroquois. The recreation committee, it was reported, will be sending a letter of thanks to the S. D. & G. Board of Education, thanking them for their permission to use the facilities at Seaway High for the summer recreation program.

Councillor Peter Swank reported that stone dust that was to have been placed along the south side of Lakeview Drive near the Anglican Church will be put there as soon as it becomes available. The work on Highway 2 has made stone dust rather scarce in the last few months.

Council looked over several sample by-laws on property standards and decided to pursue the matter further at a later date. A property standards by-law will require amendments to the official plan and will have to be approved by the Minister of Housing. The property standards by-law is an extension of the Ontario Home Renewal Program, and as such is part of the future of housing in Ontario.

Canadian Tennis champ visits Iroquois

Members of the Seaway Tennis Club took another step forward on the weekend in their efforts to promote tennis in the St. Lawrence valley. Jim Boyce, 1976 national tennis champion came to Iroquois to give local players and fans a look at top level tennis action.

Those who were present saw plenty of action and heads-up play by both Jim and Seaway's own Barry Casselman. Jim didn't have too much trouble with Barry with scores of 6-0, 6-2 in straight sets.

Accompanying Jim Boyce from Ottawa were two surprise guests in the person of Steve McRae and Michael Hurtubise. Steve is the number 2 player in Canada in the 14 years and under category and Michael is number 1 in Ottawa in the 16 years and under category.

Both boys put on their own display of top line junior tennis as they played a set. Michael won a close set 6 - 4 over Steve.

Jim Boyce put on a display showing how he works out the two junior players in Ottawa at the All-Seasons Racquet Club. After the workout, those who had watched, realized that to be good, you have to work at it, and there's no doubt that Jim puts the players through their paces.

A doubles match was fitted into the agenda with Barry and Jim winning 8 - 6 in a close contest.

Turnout for the event was only fair, due to the fact that it had rained on and off all day and most areas around Iroquois was experiencing rain, leading to the belief that the exhibition game would be called off.

According to Seaway Tennis Club president, Jeff Beaupre, Mr. Boyce will be returning to Iroquois in the beginning of the 1978 tennis season and will bring with him the members of the Fisher Tennis Racquet team. This group from Ottawa will put on a tennis display.

Membership in the local tennis club has grown by 25% this year, according to Mr. Beaupre, continuing testimony to the popularity of the sport.

As part of the program on Saturday afternoon, the Seaway Tennis Club presented a pewter mug to Jim Boyce for his efforts in helping to promote tennis in the Iroquois area.

Blood Donor Clinic next Wed.

Next Wednesday has been set aside as another blood donor clinic day at Winchester District Memorial Hospital. Sponsored by the Hospital Auxiliary the clinic is one of the two held each year at the local hospital to replenish the supply of blood that is so vital to accident victims, surgical patients and many others.

The hours are from 2 to 4:30 p.m. and again in the evening from 6 to 9 p.m. Make plans now and circle your calendar for September 28 and give the gift of life.

Senior citizens meet tomorrow re housing

Senior citizens are reminded that tomorrow afternoon (Thursday, September 22) is the date for a meeting in the Iroquois Civic Centre to voice their support for the construction of more senior citizen's housing units in Iroquois.

Unless more applications are received at this meeting, senior citizens of Iroquois, Matilda and Mountain township may have to go without additional housing units.

A decision was scheduled to be made early this month regarding the construction of more units in Iroquois, but because of the low number of applications, the decision was postponed until a meeting can be held to sort out just how many people really are in need of housing accomodation.

There have been several foul-ups with applications that have already been submitted and it has been suggested that those who applied once would be well advised to do so again just to make sure that their applications are on file.

Representatives of the Ontario Housing Corporation will be present at the meeting to answer questions and those who are interested in having an apartment should be prepared to sign an application. This is not a legally binding document, but does demonstrate to the OHC that there are potential tenants for such units.

The meeting will be held on Thursday afternoon at 2 in the Iroquois Civic Centre and is open to the public. If you know of any senior citizens who may be in the market for housing accomodation in the future, make a point of seeing that they know about the meeting.

Anyone who is interested in attending but is unable to do so should contact the clerk's office in their own municipality.

INDIFFERENCE - THE GREATEST SIN

Our newspapers, radio and television broadcasts keep us well informed on the suffering, poverty and injustice at home and in all parts of the world. In recent years we have had so much of this that many of us now suffer from what has been called "compassion fatigue". Our hearts are touched and our minds prodded so frequently that they become wearied preventing continued attention to the suffering of others.

Some of us go in for the detached academic or study-group kind of interest in the plight of others. This sometimes leads to constructive action -- but generally it is a subtle exercise in evasion. We use pious chatter and the drafting of impressive resolutions as an excuse for not rolling up our sleeves and trying to do helpful things -- even such a helpful thing as reaching for a cheque-book.

Compassion fatigue can encourage us to cultivate convenient ignorance: if we do not let ourselves know too much about the suffering of others we will not feel called upon to do anything about it.

Many comfortable Canadians do cultivate a convenient ignorance -- ignorance of the malnutrition from which the majority of the world's people suffer, ignorance of the injustices inflicted on so many people everywhere, and of the deprivation in our own nation. Even in our own neighborhoods.

The complexity and confusion of life today, the compassion fatigue it engenders and the convenient ignorance it encourages, causes indifference to settle rather easily on our hearts. Perhaps indifference is the great sin of our time.

Girl Guides and Brownies are on the move in Iroquois again. After a period of dormancy that has lasted for at least five years, a group of local ladies is getting the group rolling again. They have already received a donation from the Iroquois Lions Club to help buy flags and other regalia and they have asked us to pass along a request for used uniforms. If you know of anyone who might have a uniform that they can't quite fit into anymore, or if your daughter is past the age of Guides, please get in touch with Rita Michielsen or Shelley Prins. Finding leaders for any organization these days is enough of a challenge and the ladies are to be commended on their initiative. Carol Rumble and Mary Jean Craig are going to be heading up the Brownies.

And while we're conducting a search, keep your eyes open for anyone who might be interested in receiving a hot meal each day from Meals on Wheels. According to the Iroquois co-ordinators, there is now no one in the village who wants to make use of this very worthwhile service. It's not charity as there is a charge of $1.20 per day, and for those who are elderly or just out of hospital, it's money well spent.

We've always felt that those who are hired to do so, can write effectively enough to convince the public that just about anything is good for them. We received proof of that statement in the mail last week in the form of a press release about the new 1978 model cars being offered by one of the big three. The back seat of their new 4-door model offers more leg room from side to side by a remarkable new technique in car building. They have taken out that nasty, ugly little crank that used to let you raise or lower the window. Now the window is fixed in position. If you want a little fresh air, there's a flip-out window behind the door, and if you suffer from claustrophobia, tough luck. Finding any car these days that allows you to open a back window is just about as tough as finding one that costs less than you used to pay for a summer cottage.

One of our co-workers here at the Post took the plunge into the sea of matrimony over the weekend, and although we've only been married a little over a year, it has been long enough to qualify us to give a bit of advice on marriage. The most important thing, Pat, that you have to remember is what is called non-verbal communication. We've personally perfected the art of sighing to a point where a sigh can signify anything from passion to rage. Without a single word, a sigh can say such things as "You're the greatest" to "Don't bother me now, I'm busy" to "I'd rather not have swiss chard for supper." With the added feature of a couple of clucks, a sigh can warn that you're losing your grip or that you don't feel like going browsing through Madame Fifi's boutique. And if confronted with the fact that your sighs are annoying, just toss off the question, "Can't a guy even breathe aloud in his own home?" But use a bit of discretion or it could be the last time you breathe anywhere.

Perplexing questions

By BILL SMILEY

This week, I am perplexed by several questions, and I turn for possible answers to the only people in the world I can trust for honest answers: my faithful readers, all four of them.

For example. By what editorial inanity does the Globe and Mail, which grandly calls itself Canada's National Newspaper, run on its front page a five-column by eight inches photo of Pierre Trudeau getting his hair cut? What is the symbolism, the hidden meaning, the secret code, the deep, interpretive analysis, behind this picture? Can anyone help?

Is Mr. Trudeau symbolically trimming his sails for a fall election? Is it to show that the P.M. is mortal, after all, and that his hair grows, like that of us lesser beings? Perhaps it's a secret warning to Margaret that, despite talk of a reconciliation, he's not going to let his hair grow and become a flower child. I dunno, but it sure has me baffled.

Next question. Where do things get lost to? It seems to me that my wife and I have spent more time this past summer looking for things than we have sleeping. Looking for things that were "Right there, right on that counter yesterday."

Looking for things is one of the most frustrating, irritating pastimes in this materialistic society of ours. It has brought many a marriage to the teetering point, and if the union was already teetering, pushed it over the brink.

A couple of weeks ago, she lost the keys to the car. After a 12-hour non-stop search, no keys. Oh, we had keys for the other car, the battered old Dodge. Only one catch. It was in the garage, and the keyless car was sitting right behind it, immovable.

Twenty-four hours later, I called a lock-picking specialist. He was out of town, but would call me when he got back. Just before he did, and I had to fork out eleventy-seven dollars, the old lady found the keys, without looking. They were in the vegetable bin, with a turnip, a butternut squash, and a bag of cooking onions. It was certainly the logical place for them.

Then my new black $10 belt went missing. It was the first belt I'd bought for 12 years, and I was rather proud of it. I knew it wasn't really lost, because I always hang it up with my ties. It was obvious that my wife, in her eternal tidying, had stuck it away somewhere, as she so often does with things that I then cannot find. But she swore, as she always does, that she hadn't touched it, mentioning in passing that she was sick and tired of looking for things that I had lost. Naturally, words followed, in which the phrase "car keys" inadvertently popped out several times.

But the mystery of the missing belt was readily solved when I decided to wear my new, blue, fit-like-a-glove summer trousers. I couldn't find them. High or low. Then with a flash of intuition, I knew where my belt was. It was with the pants, because I never unbelt, just hang the whole works on a hook.

It was quite a relief to know where my belt was. It was equally reassuring to know that the pants were with the belt. But it was slightly dampening to admit that both were lost. They still haven't turned up.

There are only two possibilities. One is that a pantless burglar crept into our bedroom, snatched my trews and crept off into the night, once more modestly attired. The second I don't even like to dwell on.

The last time I had worn those pants, that belt, was to a party. It wasn't a strip poker party, but it was a fairly lively one.

Did I do a strip tease and forget to redress my little pecadillo?

Did I tear them off on the way home from the party and throw them out the car window? Sounds silly, but the other morning I went out to get the morning paper, and there on my back walk was a pair of brand-new blue shoes, with thick white rubber soles, in a shoe-box, with only the lid missing. Only the Lord knows who, for what mad reason, in what temporary mental abberation, flang them there. But they are just my size and finders keepers.

And this whole probe brings up the Case of the Missing Socks. What in the name of all that is unholy becomes of socks when they are put through the washer and dryer? They never go missing in pairs, always singles. I'll bet I have nine single socks in my drawer, all different colors or knits.

I've gone down with a flashlight and peered, a bit shaken, into the interiors of those machines. No socks.

They can't go down the drain, or it would be plugged. Do they do a reverse Santa Claus and go up the spout of the dryer with the hot air? It's a little frightening, as though someone were trying to tell me something. About my feet? Someone with a feet fetish:

Just one more question. Where were all the editorial writers who are now screaming about the stupidity of changing highway signs to kilometers instead of miles, when I was lambasting the whole metric-Celsius nonsense almost a year ago?

Can you, gentle reader, do a fast bit of arithmetic in your head when you encounter a road sign announcing the speed limit is 45 kilometers per hour? When your speedometer is marked in miles per hour? And will be for years to come?

Will you happily pay your fine when the cop puts the big blue arm on you and claims you were exceeding the speed limit by seven k.p.h.? Must we all start driving with a calculator-computer in one hand?

Now these questions may not be as important as some: How old is God? How hot is it in hell? How long is a straight line? How far does a rolling stone? Whither the Flat Earth Society? Why does everyone pick on me?

But they are, poor things, mine own, and I'd like some answers.

Seek bursary funds

Dear Sir:

Once again the graduating students of our school will be honoured on October 7 at the Commencement Exercises.

Many trophies, pins and cash prizes are awarded to the graduates on that occasion. We feel that the time has come to renew our efforts to sollicit monies for students bound for both universities and the community colleges. I have met a number of people in the community, individually, but time does not permit that everyone be contacted personnally.

At this time, I am extending an invitation to any business, organization or individual to contribute to the Seaway District High School Bursary Fund. Official income tax receipts will be issued.

Your support now, as in the past, would be sincerely appreciated by the graduates of our school.

Sincerely yours,
John McAllister

Road job draws complaint

Dear Sir:

Lakeshore Drive was paved last fall, one contractor covered the sector from Mariatown west and another paved the road east of Mariatown.

The west section started to disintegrate the same month it was paved and by spring the whole section was pot-holed. Meanwhile the east section remained in good shape. Last spring additional taxpayers money was spent filling in the pot holes on the west section and now one year after the initial paving job they apply a sealer supposedly to extend the life of the botched paving job.

Hence we now have a dirty, dusty, rough road where once we had a clean paved road. Because of the sand layer atop the asphalt it is not possible to paint a center line - a rather dangerous situation considering the number of curves along the Lakeshore Drive.

Meanwhile the sector east of Mariatown remains not potholed, not sealed and not sanded because a proper paving job was done there in the first place.

Tell it as it is Mr. Cooper.

A Bureaucrat's Wink

by JIM SMITH

Q: How does a bureaucrat wink?

A: He opens one eye.

Q: Why doesn't a bureaucrat look out his office window in the morning?

A: Because he needs something to do in the afternoon.

And on. And on. You've heard your fill of bureaucrat jokes by now. Perhaps – after all, it's hard to resist the temptation – you've made up a few of your own. At the very least, you keep a supply of bureaucratic horror stories on hand to amuse your friends.

No one really likes a bureaucrat. For that matter, even the bureaucrats themselves don't like one another. But stop and think for a minute: where would society be without some career civil servants to make the tough decisions?

You see, for all its attractive features, democracy has one major flaw: it doesn't work.

That is, democracy doesn't work without the civil service. The politicians – who, it says on paper, should be running the country – are more concerned with getting elected and re-elected than with making the tough decisions that will have profound impact on the shape of society a decade or more from now. So the civil servants are left with the thankless job of ensuring that there will be a country held over for the next generation.

Consider, for a moment, the politicians' approach to the twin problems of unemployment and inflation. The politicians want to hand out more subsidies to firms which will buy more machinery and buildings (which, incidentally, would tie those firms to more consumption of energy). That's the way these problems have always been solved in the past and that's the way big business and big labour would like to see them solved today. Sure, this sort of policy will blow up in our faces in a few years' time but six or eight months is a long time to a politician.

They call this kind of piece-meal approach to planning "band-aiding". And it works – when the problems aren't very serious. But, as the Canadian Federation of Independent Business points out, when the wound is deep, band-aides alone won't do the job; only major surgery can provide a cure.

The bureaucrats – who aren't nearly as dumb as their popular image suggests – understand the limitations of band-aiding only too well; they know that they'll be around when the economy collapses in a few years' time. But, even though the bureaucrats are scrubbed and ready for surgery, they can't go into action without the politicians ready to wield the economic scalpel.

So much for the jokes about bureaucrats.

65th anniversary for Iroquois W.I.

The 65th Anniversary of Iroquois Women's Institute was observed Thursday September 15 in the Civic Centre, with many members of district branches of the W.I. and local guests in attendance. Group pictures of the local branch were taken prior to evening's programme.

Singing of the Institute Ode and repeating the Mary Stewart Collect opened the session, after which a minute of silence was observed in memory of Life Member Eleanor Hyslop who died that morning.

Councillor James Styles brought greetings from Iroquois Council - in the absence of Reeve Rooney. Greetings were brought from Past President Grenville South W.I. Mrs. Elsie Simpson, and from District President Mrs. Kenneth Hillis o of Morewood W.I.; who along with District Secretary-Treasurer Mrs. Inda Beckstead sat at the presiding table with Iroquois President Mrs. Vi Hare and Secretary Mrs. Eva Summers.

Life members were introduced and mention made that one Mrs. Lottie Merkley has over 50 years membership.

One Charter Member - Mrs. Eva McInnes was unable, because of illness, to attend.

A resume of the past 5 years activities in Iroquois W.I. was presented by Mrs. Eva Summers.

Much appreciation for the following programme from all present attested to the work and study involved in each performance. Piano selections were presented by Catherine Whittaker in her most charming manner. A novel interpretation - "Put on your old yellow bonnet with the blue ribbons on it" (W.I. colours) was composed and sung by Mrs. Florence English who was then joined by Mrs. Jane Graham in 2 duets - "The Ash Grove" and "Let The Rest of The World Go By", with Mrs. Shirly Moffat at piano. A sing-song to relax by was enjoyed by all. Three of our prize winning dancers - local girls - danced their respective dances; Karen Craig "The Sailor's Hornpipe", CherylStyles - "The Seanntriubhas" and Cindy Patterson "The Irish Jig". These dances were much enjoyed by all, they require much practice and hard work and showed the girls knew their work.

During this time of entertainment those present were priveleged to enjoy many selections by the Matilda Band under the very capable direction of Mr. G.J. Westervelt. The band played their selections at different times during the evening and received enthusiastic applause. This band has been in existence only since March and is really tremendous.

A large Anniversary Cake centred the tea table which was graced by tapers and floral pieces. Lunch served from this table brought a very enjoyable evening to a close.

The Iroquois W.I. is most thankful to any person or group who assisted or contributed in any way - whether by performance of presence - to help make this 65th anniversary celebration a memorable one. We look forward to amny good and successful years which may be shared with "Home and Country" - our community.

Lumley office corrects insulation mix-up

An advertisement in last week's Post and in most other area papers has apparently created some confusion. According to a spokesman who called on Friday from MP Ed Lumley's office in Cornwall, a coupon in the ad notes that applications for the program can be obtained from CMHC in Montreal.

Mr. Lumley's office has received many phone calls asking why the forms are to be returned to Montreal when the province of Quebec is not participating. Apparently the program has been assigned to the Montreal office of CMHC for administration on a national level.

For more information on the program, readers are invited to call toll free to 514-341-1511.

Meals-on-Wheels

Do you know anyone who could benefit?

The Iroquois Meals-on-Wheels committee is looking for more participants in the local program. According to Shelly Prins, one of the local co-ordinators of the program, only one or two meals are being delivered in Iroquois at present and the time and effort of the volunteers and drivers can hardly be justified.

The meals for the program are prepared jointly with the village of Morrisburg and are served from the kitchen of the civic centre in Morrisburg. They are supplied to the elderly, the sick and shut-in at a cost of $6. for a five-day week.

Mrs. Prins asked the Post to make it clear to readers that the Meals-on-Wheels recipients were not accepting charity, but were paying for their meals which are delivered to their homes by volunteers who use their own cars and donate their time.

If more recipients could be found in the Iroquois area, the service would be better able to justify the work that is being done. Anyone who is interested in receiving Meals-on-Wheels is urged to contact Shelly Prins by leaving their name at the Iroquois office of the St. Lawrence Medical Clinic.

The Meals-on-Wheels volunteers are involved in another project to raise funds for the operation. A cook book of local recipes is being prepared with that in mind, local and area ladies are asked to sort through their files and find one or two of their favourite recipes that they would like to share with their friends.

These recipes can be deposited in a box at either the Iroquois Post or the Royal Bank in the shopping plaza. The results will then be prepared in recipe book format and will be for sale to aspiring cooks.

Bird Notes

Autumn arrives officially this week, as September slips by in a succession of dull damp days. The many lovely poems describing this month do not seem to apply this year. There is some colour in the landscape, however, and Nature's garden is at its best. The wild flowers which bloom in the Fall are in vibrant colours to complement the rich reds and golds of the trees: Golden Rod and wild purple Asters growing side-by-side with the smaller mauve and white Asters in profusion; elder turning to deep crimson and even the lowly Mullein leaves are a warm russet shade now. Milkweed pods are bursting at the seams, and Sumac "candles" are glowing among the scarlet leaves; Hawthorn bushes are laden with the small red apples so much enjoyed by many birds, especially in the Spring, when these are the only "leftovers" to be found.

The Bluejays are moving in from the woods, probably lured by the sight of Sunflowers heavy with delicious seeds, Chickadees and Goldfinches were also seen in the vicinity of the sunflower patch. A Downy Woodpecker was having good luck at finding insects in the bark of a dead tree. This is an attractive bird, in its smart black and white, with the bright red cap on the back of the head. We watched as he backed down the tree, using his tail as a prop, in order to keep his balance.

Evening Grosbeaks are usually thought of as Winter birds, but they are coming back already; perhaps these are scouts checking out the bird feeders, but it is the earliest date we have ever had for this species. A neighbour was telling us about a female ' beak that came to her bird bath and put on quite a show. First, she tested the water with her beak, and finding it satisfactory proceeded to put her head in; this led to a jump into the water and a couple of vigorous flips with her wings. All this was so delightful that a full-fledged swim was undertaken, a rush from one side of the bath to the other, under water, "Bottoms up", just like a duck.

End of season for Matilda Squirts

On Saturday September 3, the Matilda Squirts travelled to Ottawa to take part in a four team invitational tournament.

The first game saw the squirts take on Parkwood Hills and come out victorious by a score of 10 to 1. Matilda collected 11 hits with Mike Veltkamp hitting a home run in the first inning with a man on to put the game on ice early. Reggie Francis pitched the win.

In game two Matilda beat Riverside by a score of 9 to 2. Kevin Ault led the hitting attack going 3 for 4 at the plate. David Lapier started but was relieved by Reggie Francis in the second inning after giving up two runs. The boys were presented with A champion crests for their efforts. This was the closing of the season for the boys.

Day of events for Morrisburg Applefest Sat.

The Morrisburg Lions Club, in conjunction with the St. Lawrence Valley Apple Growers, will host Morrisburg's Second Annual Applefest this Saturday at Morrisburg Arena in celebration of another apple season. The Applefest, held for the first time this year, has been redesigned to include several events that should draw a varied crowd of all ages to the event. There are prizes, door prizes, music, dances, all kinds of Apple products, pie eating, pie baking, sale of cheese and vegetables, home baked goods, apple dunking and best of all there is no admission charge to the arena throughout the day.

Doug Grenkie, chief organizer and publicity man for the event told the Post on Monday that because the first Applefest had already come and gone the organizers had learned from this experience and their second such show would be more entertaining, more fun and more festivities for the whole family.

The doors of the arena open at 10:00 a.m. and patrons will be treated to a gigantic sale of baked goods of all kinds, cheese and vegetables and other apple products.

An Applefest Garden opens, at noon and carries through to 5:00 p.m. and all attending are invited to enjoy a few cool ones throughout the afternoon.

At 2:00 p.m. the real fun begins starting with an Apple Pie Eating Contest. The entry fee for this event is 75 cents and all pies are five inches in diameter. Prizes of $15. for first, $10. for the second and $5. for third place will be handed out.

For the ladies, and gentlemen who are into baking, a Apple Pie Baking Contest will take place in the afternoon. All entries must be at the arena by 11:00 a.m.; and regulations call for a double crust straight apple pie. Generous prizes for this department include $25. for first, $15. for second and $10. for third.

For the youthful (or for that matter anybody who feels youthful) there is also an Apple Dunking Contest and this year organizers have decided to eliminate the problem of stems in this contest. All dunkers are invited to attempt a chance to pick up one of the apples and could win a prize of $5. for a first, $3. for a second, $2. for a third, $1. for a fourth and 50 cents for fifth. Everyone is welcome.

In the evening and as a gala closure to the one day event there will be a dance on the arena floor with music supplied by the Brigadoons, a popular musical group.

The admission price to the dance is a very comfortable $2. per person in advance or $3. at the door with dancing from 8:30 p.m. to 1:00 a.m.

It should be kept in mind that Morrisburg's Applefest is sponsored by the Lions Club, a group who support every needy cause in the village and a group who are concerned mostly about our village. Supporting this event not only supports the Lions and the village but for a minor charge will bring you a day of fun with the whole family. Come out and support the Applefest and at the same time remember, "An apple a day keeps the doctor away."

Tent city largest in match history

Construction is continuing on a 100-acre tented city, nine miles northeast of Kingston, Ontario.

It will house the 500 exhibits which will be featured at the 1977 International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery Show, September 27 to October 1.

"The Tented City, located on the farm of the Greenlees Brothers and neighboring farms, will be the largest in the match's 64-year history," says E.A. Starr, secretary-manager of the Ontario Plowmen's Association.

The Tented City is fully serviced with electricity, telephones and washroom facilities for the five-day match.

Exhibits in the City will include outdoor displays of new farm equipment, 1978 automobiles, building supplies, home appliances, camp trailers and other recreational items.

More than 50 caterers will provide food for approximately 200,000 visitors who are expected to attend this year's match.

Daily features at the site will include cooking demonstrations, fashion shows, demonstrations of steam-driven farm machinery and noon hour parades. There will also be rides for the children and helicopter rides.

But Tented City and the exhibits are only a part of this spectacular agricultural event.

Special plowing classes will be held for Queen of the farrow, mayors, wardens and regional chairmen, and for media representatives.

The 1977 International Plowing Match and Farm Machinery Show site is located one mile north of Highway 401, just east of Kingston, at the corner of Woodburn Road and Joyceville Side Road.

Ambulance service complaints heard by Iroquois council accident or for a situation that is deemed to be life threatening, such as a heart attack. In that case, the Morrisburg ambulance attendants are called at home and can be on the road within about five minutes, says Mr. Delorme.

Tha ambulance service which is co-ordinated from the Morrisburg base serves an area of 600 square miles that stretches from Prescott, east to around Ingleside and north to the Ottawa-Carleton boundary. In 1976, the vehicles operated by Seaway Valley Ambulance Service covered 67,000 miles and carried close to 2,000 patients, according to Mr. Delorme.

All calls, mileage, and patient data are fed into a computer in Toronto says Mr. Delorme and this is where the problem arises. The computer sees only statistics, not isolated homes, long distances, bad roads, and suffering.

According to Mr. Delorme, the computer calculates the number of calls that his crews respond to in a given month and reports that they are not doing enough to warrant having them there. For that reason, budgets are restricted and increases are extremely difficult to come by. As an example, Mr. Delorme pointed out that his firm had only one call in 14 days during one period on the 1 - 9 a.m. shift. As a further example, he pointed out that there had been only 27 requests for an ambulance in Cardinal during the 1st quarter of the year, noting that Iroquois figures were even lower.

The ambulance service is operated by a private corporation, under contract to the Ontario Ministry of Health. The vehicles are owned by the provincial government and are staffed and operated by Seaway Valley Ambulance Service, which has 16 staff members including dispatch staff and four ambulances, one of which is a backup.

According to Mr. Delorme, the Ministry of Health had originally believed that the ambulance service could make a use of a good deal of volunteer and stand-by help, but that has not turned out to be the case.

The Morrisburg operation has recently been granted a budgetary increase of $43,000. but there is no guarantee from the provincial government as to how long the extra funds will be coming. Owner of the ambulance service, Robert Horton claimed the increase was necessary in order to comply with a government request for extra service. Mr. Horton claimed that the original budget figure of almost $300,000. would not allow his firm to provide the type of service that the ministry wanted.

Volunteer staff were sought, but the salary offered them would have worked out to around $1.25 per hour, and for that reason, claims Mr. Delorme the volunteer program has just not worked out. As it is now, he expalined, the employees are putting in well over 70 hours a week with newer cadets serving 96 hours a week. This includes the time they are on stand-by at home. According to reports, the ministry of health still feels that ambulance service for the Seaway Valley is costing too much and is looking at ways of cutting back.

When asked by councillor Jim Styles what local people could do to ensure a high standard of service, Mr. Delmorme summed it up in one word - complain.

He emphasized that his office needed written complaints about the lack of coverage if he was ever to be successful in getting more money for more people at budget time. Mr. Delorme explained that last year an advertisement was placed in this paper and all other area weeklies asking for comments on the ambulance service because the firm was submitting a tender with the province. At that time, he said, only one letter was received and it was complimentary.

While Mr. Delorme felt that it was gratifying to receive a compliment, he added that it didn't make things any easier when asking for money if it appeared that things were being well looked after and everyone was happy.

As well, he said, local people should seriously look at their need for an ambulance when making a call. Quite often, someone who is simply not feeling well or who has suffered a cut could be taken to hospital by private car. This is most important since the ambulance could be called to one end of the area to deal with a broken arm and be unavailable for a stroke victim at the other end of the area.

Mr. Delorme told council that he was sympathetic to local feelings that an ambulance should be here within a few minutes and stated that Iroquois should never be more than about ten or fifteen minutes away from an ambulance in case of an emergency. During any shift but the 1 -9 a.m. shift, the ambulance from Morrisburg is available to Iroquois unless it is on another call. In that case, Prescott or Winchester based vehicles would take over.

During the night, the Morrisburg vehicle is available as well, if the situation is deemed to be life threatening.

Mr. Delorme added that each municipality must decide if it is being adequately served and should act accordingly. It was noted by Reeve Frank Rooney that if there were enough local complaints about ambulance service, village council could get into the discussion and make a formal request to the provincial ministry of health.

Local CNIB Canvass almost complete

September is CNIB month in Eastern Ontario. During the month of September until the end of October an army of volunteer workers will be calling on citizens to ask for financial support for the work of the CNIB in Dundas, Stormont, Glengarry, Prescott and Russell.

It is said that six Canadians lose their sight every day. The CNIB has set itself the task of helping these people to re-adjust to a reasonable normal way of living in spite of blindness. The types of service that are given depend on age and ability of the individual concerned. All are eligible for training in basic skills of living without sight. Many take special training in basic skills of living without sight. Many take special training to enable them to earn a living while others, with the help of a rehabilitation teacher who works with them in their homes, learn to carry on household tasks

This summer, several people spent two weeks with their sighted escorts at a special training and holiday centre at Lake Joseph. Others took courses preparatory to higher education. Some competed in athletic events that brought them a great deal of pleasure. The programme is widely varied and there is something for everyone.

So, when the canvasser calls to ask for your subscription to the CNIB, please give generously knowing that the money will help someone who lives in your neighbourhood.

Your Community Newspaper Staff

Iroquois Printing Limited has undergone some changes in the past few weeks. The firm has been sold by the previous owners, Jim and Lynn Morrison to Ellwood Patterson and Brian Dwyre. The sale included The Iroquois Post, the Dundas County Farmer and the printing business operated by the firm.

At the same time, the building housing Iroquois Printing Limited was sold by Ken Kirkby to Mr. Patterson and Mr. Dwyre.

All staff who were with the business at the time of the sale have been retained and there has been no change in the day-to-day operation of the local firm.

The new owners are confident that they can continue to provide the area with an award winning paper and will be offering a new service as well.

Within the next few weeks, a line of stationery, office supplies, and office furniture will be offered by Iroquois Printing Ltd. It is hoped that the sale of such products will fill a need that exists within the community.

Ellwood Patterson, with an extensive career and background in accounting and finance will also be establishing a bookkeeping and income tax preparation service.

ELLWOOD PATTERSON has lived in the Belleville area for the past seven years and has lived at several other locations throughout Ontario and Quebec. He was formerly with Cembal Publications, a Belleville based firm that printed several weekly newspapers. Mr. Patterson served as comptroller and general troubleshooter for that firm. He has an extensive background in the management areas of finance and accounting, and will be serving as Business Manager of Iroquois Printing Limited.

Mr. Patterson's wife Dorothy is working at the Bank of Montreal in Iroquois and the family is living on Ault Island, east of Morrisburg. The couple has one son attending Seaway District High School and three other children at Rothwell Public School in Ingleside.

JIM MILLARD is a native of Iroquois and has worked in radio and television in Brockville and Ottawa before joining Iroquois Printing Ltd. Jim is a graduate of Ryerson Polytechnical Institute in Toronto and is editor of both the Iroquois Post and the Dundas County Farmer. He lives with his wife Brenda on Beach Avenue in Iroquois.

ANN KEELER has been with Iroquois Printing for the past 8 years. She comes originally from Montreal, but has lived in Iroquois with her husband David for more than 30 years. She is circulation manager for the Post and is also a press operator. She has prepared more cups of coffee for the staff in her time with the firm than she would care to remember.

JANE EWING is the compuwriter operator for the Iroquois Post and Dundas County Farmer. She converts the handwritten copy into neat, legible strips of type ready for the paper. A graduate of Seaway District High School, Jane has been with the Post for three years and lives with her husband Bill on Ellis Drive in Iroquois.

BRIAN DWYRE is a native of Kingston and a graduate of a course in commercial communications at St. Lawrence College. He spent 7 years with the Whig-Standard, Kingston's daily paper before moving to Cembal Publications a chain of weeklies in the Marmora area. Brian, a bachelor, is living in Cardinal and will be serving as sales manager of the firm, as well as publisher of the Post and Dundas County Farmer.

PAT LEMAIRE comes from Morrisburg and is a graduate of Seaway District High School. She has just recently been married and might be known to some of our customers and friends as Pat Steer, her maiden name. She is the receptionist and secretary at Iroquois Printing and lives with her husband Mike, in Morrisburg.

GAIL SMOLLETT is a graduate of Seaway District High School and has studied interior design in Toronto. She is involved in the layout of advertisements in the Post and Farmer. Gail lives in Iroquois and lists sewing among her favourite pastimes.

LOUIS ARSENAULT is originally from New Brunswick but has worked in both Kemptville and Ottawa before coming to Iroquois 13 years ago. He is fully skilled in all phases of printing and newspaper production and handles linotype operation, printing preparation layout, press operation and camera work at Iroquois Printing Ltd.

Louis, his wife and four sons live on Beach Avenue in Iroquois.

Casselman - Melbourne vows exchanged

Iroquois United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday August 13, 1977, when Lorraine Lynne Casselman became the bride of Bob Melbourne. The marriage took place at 3:30 with Rev. Brown officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray K. Casselman of Iroquois, and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Melbourne of R.R. 5 Spencerville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full length gown of organza trimmed with white flowers and pearls. Her finger tip veil was adorned with a crown of flowers. Her bouquet was red roses and white mums and baby's breath.

Nancy Couglan, good friend of the bride was Maid of Honour and Gail Douglas and Deb Casselman were bridesmaids.

The maid of honour wore a blue polyester floor length halter dress and the bridesmaids wore yellow dresses with capes and picture hats to match. They carried white mums and forget-me-nots to match their dresses. The flower girl was Jennifer Ashton wearing a white organza gown carring a basket of white mums and forget-me-nots to match her dress.

The groom and his attendants wore baby blue tuxedos. The best man was Wayne King and ushers were Woody Casselman and Claude Melbourne. The ring bearer was Micheal Marchand.

The brides mother wore a pink pastel full length grown with a corsage of pink sweetheart roses, and the groom's mother wore a blue chiffon gown and matching corsage.

Later in the evening the bride, changed into a blue blazer suit with a corsage of red roses, mums and baby's breath. The couple left for a honey moon to Quebec City.

Guests attended the wedding from Windsor, Toronto, Port Elgin, Cornwall, New York State, Brockville, Kingston, Ottawa and surrounding area.

The couple are residing in Prescott.

Mrs. Eleanor Hyslop mourned in Iroquois

A well-known resident of Iroquois, Eleanor Hyslop died on September 15th in Cornwall General Hospital at the age of 81, following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Hyslop was the wife of the late Milburn Hyslop, a former clerk of the village of Iroquois who pre-deceased her in 1965.

She was the daughter of the late Mary Froats and Simon Schwerdfeger.

She is survived by one daughter, Joan, and by a brother Homer Schwerdfeger of R.R. 2 Williamsburg.

She was a member of Knox Presbyterian Church in Iroquois and was a life member of the Iroquois Women's Institute.

Funeral services were held at the C.W. Marsden Funeral Home in Iroquois on Saturday September 17 at 11 a.m. with Rev. Charles Maclean officiating. Interment was in the Iroquois Point Cemetery.

Pall bearers were Ray Parmeter, Arie Den Hartough, Alex Millar and Duane St. Pierre.

Good Companions begin 5th year

The Good Companions Club of Iroquois and Matilda held its first meeting of the season last Wednesday beginning it's fifth year as an organization. It was fee day and in spite of an all day down pour there was a goodly attendance of happy faces despite the gloom of the out-of-doors.

Our genial president welcomed as our treasurer and secretary received fees and wrote in members names to the roll which is a substantial one.

From 11 o'clock cards, games and chatting kept us occupied until the noon lunch with Rev. Brian Gee asking the blessing as well as leading us in our theme song "Here we are, we are the Good Companions". At Birthday time 12 members received congratulations. In the Happiness Corner there were 4 Anniversaires.

At the June meeting it was moved that we plant a tree in the grounds of the Senior Citizens' Apartments as our gesture to Senior Citizens' Week but it was found out that September not June is the time to plant. Aden Marcellus as a committee of one was to see about it which he did. Discussion followed regarding the price and the matter was tabled until further information could be gained.

Regarding our usual Fall bus tour several suggestions were brought forward but nothing definite was decided so at the October meeting a decision will be arrived at.

Secretary Allan McIntosh reported on the U.S.C.O. convention in Toronto which he attended as a delegate.

Our special speaker was Reeve Frank Rooney on the subject of grants for Senior Citizen's home owners, stressing the importance of attending the September 22nd meeting at 2 p.m. for further information on the subject. There being no further business the meeting adjourned.

Rain slows playoffs

The Dundas Senior Fastball League Finals got underway Sunday evening in Brockville after rain delayed the start for a week, drowning out 3 scheduled games. Williamsburg Pioneers took a 1-0 lead in the best of 7 series with a 13—3 victory.

Weather permitting the series will resume in Williamsburg on the 19th, and back to Brockville on the 21st and to Williamsburg the 22nd. If it rains one night, the game will be played the next night.

Personal

Mrs. John Riddell entertained about 30 children and their mother's to a Birthday Party at her home Monday evening in honour of - Alton John's 2nd birthday, at Hainesville.

The little ones played games after this a bountiful lunch was served including a nicely decorated birthday cake and ice cream.

Alton John would like to say "thanks" for all his lovely gifts.

The annual agricultural show and ploughing match was held on the weekend at Upper Canada Village, and in spite of the cool and somewhat wet weather, organizers are happy with the results.

The show is a re-creation of a fall fair that might have been held in this part of Canada some 120 years ago. Two large tents were erected on the military reserve in the centre of the village and there exhibits ranging from preserves to grain to handi-crafts were on display. Outside livestock was shown and on a plot of ground near the cheese factory a ploughing match was held both days.

Carter ticket sales slow

Ticket sales for the Ken Carter Rocket Car Ride to New York, scheduled to take place this Sunday are slow. According to Mr. Carter, the tickets are not moving as fast as had been expected, but he expressed confidence that sales would pick up.

The $15. tickets will allow spectators access to the grounds for the whole weekend in anticipation of the "Country Mile" jump on Sunday afternoon.

Part of the problem is the availability of tickets. Sales are being handled by TRS, a computerized ticket sales operation with outlets in all major cities. However, the closest TRS outlet to this area is in Ottawa.

Tickets are also on sale at the Towne Line Motel in Cornwall, owned by one of Mr. Carter's backers, Arnold Wyma.

Promoter Ralph Hurley, acting on advice from several area newspapermen has promised to try and set up a ticket depot at Charlie's Sports Shop in Morrisburg for the convenience of local people.

The Carter organization has printed 20,000 tickets for the jump and are expecting many people to buy their ticket when they arrive at the site. In addition a spokesman for the group stated that tickets would be on sale at booths set up in strategic locations on jump weekend.

Also available are 800 VIP tickets going for $50. each. These will allow the holder to be escorted to a reserve seat by a white-uniformed attendant. Bleachers will be set up on the front lawn of the Wilfred Zeron home to afford the VIP ticket holders a view of the whole event, from blastoff to touchdown on Ogden Island, New York.

According to Mr. Hurley, a number of these VIP tickets will be made available free of charge to members of the local municipal council.

A number of young people have already been hired, says Mr. Hurley to act as parking attendants and on-site assistants, and all will be identifiable by their white suits.

97th anniversary for S. Mountain church

The 97th Anniversary of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, South Mountain will be held next Sunday evening September 25th at 7:30 p.m.

The special preacher for the Anniversary Service will be the Reverend Alexander Morrison of Cardinal, Ontario and special music will be provided by the Dutch Choir of The Christian Reformed Church, Williamsburg.

A social hour will follow the service of worship and all are invited to attend.

Matilda Hall Board encouraged by canvass

Members of the Matilda Township Community Hall Board are pleased with the results so far of the canvass to raise funds for the new building.

According to Jim Locke, chairman of the board, the canvassers are being well received at most homes they visit and donations are gratifying.

The new hall, to be built at the south end of Dixon's Corners is slated to begin construction any day, as contractor John Entwistle and architect Bill Mack of Cornwall settle the final few details for design.

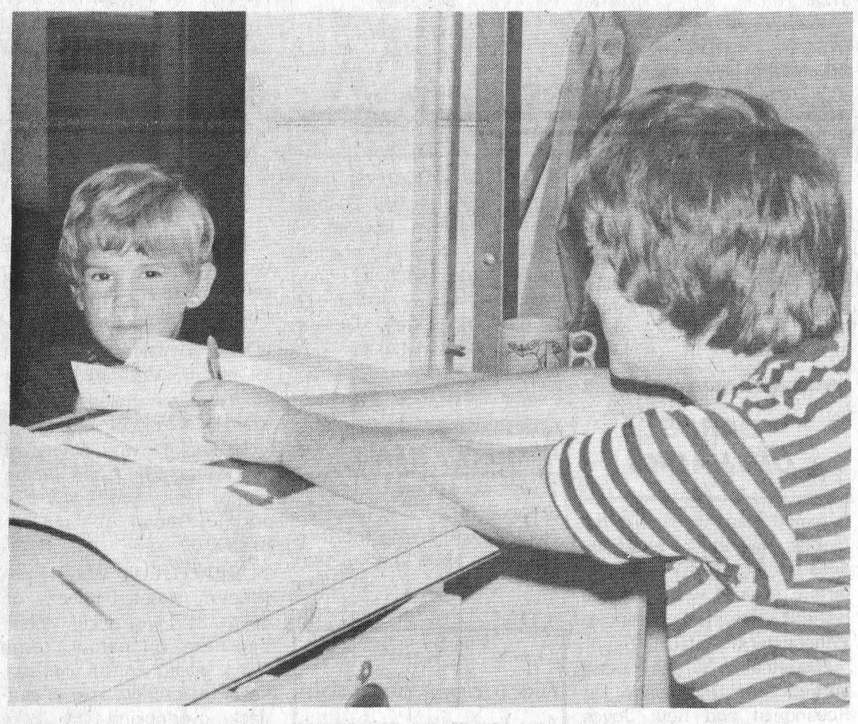
With a contract price of $225,000 for the basic building, the canvassers have their work cut out for them, but according to Mr. Locke, they are optimistic that between private donations, corporate donations, and receipts from various projects, the building can be put up without adding anything to municipal taxes.

The hall board members feel that if $53,500 can be raised through various donations, it will be matched 2 to 1 by Wintario for a total of $107,000. On top of this amount there is a flat grant from the province for recreational buildings of $75,000. This all adds up to $235,000, more than enough to finance the hall.

Although the board doesn't expect the canvass to raise $53,500., Mr. Locke stated that they feel it is not unrealistic to hope for that total from all sources.

Already, he said, several organizations are planning events from which they intend to turn over the entire proceeds so it looks as if this could be a busy winter of fund raising.

In addition, the Community Hall Board is planning to sponsor a series of 50-50 draws that will be getting underway in a few weeks. The draws are expected to be a quick and painless method of raising funds.



Sat. last chance for registration

Saturday was the first day of registration for Iroquois and district minor hockey, but the ladies who were handling registration were not overworked. Only about 20 people turned up in Iroquois with substantially fewer in Brinston. Next Saturday, (September 24) is the final chance to register and after that there will be a late charge of $3. each. In this photo, Scott Cherry hands his registration form to Joan Ault. Scott is the four year old son of Jean and Bill Cherry of Iroquois and will be playing with the Tykes this year.

Special deal for the handicapped

The federal government has recently announced amendments to the gasoline excise tax regulations concerning the entitlement of handicapped persons to a refund.

Effective June 16th, 1977, persons, who have been certified by a qualified medical practitioner as suffering from a permanent impairment of locomotion to such an extent that the use of public transportation by them would be hazardous, will be entitled to a refund of the excise tax on all gasoline purchased for sole use.

Prior to June 16th, 1977, handicapped persons were only entitled to a refund of the excise tax on gasoline consumed for travel to and from work.

If further information should be required, it may be obtained from the Revenue Canada District Excise Office in Belleville or the Regional Excise Office in Ottawa. The addresses are as follows: Ottawa, 5th Floor, Teron Bldg., 215 Argyle Ave., P.O. Box 8257, Ottawa, Ontario. K1G 3H7 or Belleville, Federal Bldg., 11 Station St., P.O. Box 87, Belleville, Ontario. Four new teachers join Seaway staff

The Public Relations Club of Seaway District High School is happy to again this year bring you the news and events of our school.

The 1977-78 school season brought four new teachers to Seaway.

Mrs. Hanemaayr, a first-year teacher, will be teaching grade 10 and 12 mathematics and also grade 11 and 12 computer science. She attended the University of Waterloo and graduated with a Bachelor of Mathematics degree. Mrs. Hanemaayr lives in Prescott.

Also joining the staff is Mrs. Notman, who is originally from North Carolina. She has a Bachelor of Science degree from the University of North Carolina in 1972. Mrs. Notman continued at the university for one year working on a graduate degree in business. After teaching elementary school in Brockville for two years she came to Seaway to teach occupational science, typing and informatics. Mrs. Notman is also an advisor to the Public Relations Club.

Mr. MacKenzie is teaching grade 12 and 13 chemistry and grade 10 sicience. He is from Seaforth and attended university at Waterloo and also Queen's. Before coming to Seaway he taught math in Peterborough.

Mr. Jepp, from Victoria, British Columbia, attended both the University of Victoria and the University of Western Ontario. He teaches grades 9, 10 and 12 math and also English and geography at the grade 9 level. Mr. Jepp currently lives in Ingleside.

All four teachers are a welcome addition to Seaway.

First season meeting for Iroquois-Matilda Citizens Assoc.

The Iroquois-Matilda Citizen's Association held their first fall meeting last Thursday evening.

The Association is looking forward to a year of many varied activities. It was agreed that more culture should be brought to the area in the form of plays and live entertainment.

Several members felt that improvements could be made in different areas of our community and are referring their ideas to the committees concerned.

The Young Canada Works program which the Association was instrumental in setting up was reported as having been very successful. The young people who were hired this summer are to be commended on the manner in which they carried out the different programs.

The next meeting will be held on October 27th at 8:00 p.m. at the Civic Center. We are hoping more people from both Iroquois and Matilda will attend for the betterment of the community.

You too can measure up

T.V. PROGRAMS

by Ross Mutton

ABC started the season off with another blockbuster, taking aim at the Emmy Awards for this season. "Washington, Behind Closed Doors" was the best television serial this side of Roots and Rich Man, Poor Man. The series was based on John Erlichman's novel about political power and corruption, but of the 12 hours of television material, only about 90 minutes closely followed the book. The rest was further developed to explore the characters and provide some romance. Although the whole affair was fictional, there was little doubt as to what had inspired this saga and who the actors were actually portraying. I found myself saying "that one's Haldeman, that one's Kissenger and of course, that one's Nixon." I found the series grew more and more addictive as it went along until I started planning my evenings around it. Although the ratings placed the series in third place for the week, I would have to rate it as a qualified success and the sort of thing that television should be providing.

Looking at the sort of thing that television could just well not bother providing, I turn to the premier of Soap. There's been a bally-hoo in the States about this parady of soap operas, mainly because of the explicit sexual references. Some scenes have been edited down for the American premier. However, CTV ran the program as originally produced. I would have to say that the sexual references did not offend me. But, the main object of the program as I understand it was to provide a satirical look at soap operas, go one better than Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman. Well, I believe I cracked one smile in the half hour. No titters, giggles or uproarious laughter. It's not funny. It's not coy, subtle or tongue-in-cheek. So, all the kafuffle in the States is really missing the point. The show just isn't funny enough to put on television in the first place.

WHAT'S COMING - On Thursday night at 8 p.m., Carol Burnett returns to CBC television. This year, Dick Van Dyke replaces Harvey Korman.

On Saturday night, Ch. 13 carries coverage of the Ottawa Roughrider Winnipeg Bluebomber football game at 9 p.m. at 10 p.m., CBC reruns the Let's Save Canada Hour starring Don Herron and Yvan Deschamps.

On Sunday afternoon, Ch. 4 carries coverage of the Montreal vs. Hamilton football game starting at 2 p.m. At. 7 p.m., Ch. 13 runs That's Entertainment 11, featuring clips of films from Hollywood's golden days.

At 9 p.m. Ch. 4 presents a special, Canada's Other Nation, a look at the province of Quebec by David Halton. At 9:30, Global presents a Buck Owens concert taped at Ontario Place. And at 10 p.m. CTV reports with Peter Trueman debuts on Ch. 13.

On Monday at 10 p.m., Newsmagazine examines the effects of Bill 101 on Quebec's schools this fall. At 11:34, 90 Minutes Live returns for another season. That's all on Ch. 4.

And on Tuesday night at 8:30, the Rene Simard show debuts on Ch. 4.

Cardinal figure skating executive attend provincial conference

The weekend of September 9, 10, 11, 1977 saw three members of the Cardinal Figure Skating Club attend a C.F.S.A. - sponsored seminar at Lake Couchiching which dealt with problems faced by skating programes across the province.

Representing the local club were Bernice Stewart, Barbara Owers and Helen Robichaud, ideas were exchanged with other figure skating clubs large and small from throughout Ontario.

Lack of ice time, a major problem to all clubs was discussed at great length. The average club, reguardless of size averages 20 - 50 hours of ice time per week.

On Wednesday September 14, 1977 a meeting was held in the sound room of the Cardinal and District Community Centre. This meeting was to set up the different committees and their heads.

Many problems and ideas were aired and a lot of minor things were settled. One of the most important facets of theis meeting was the setting up of a Ways & Means Committee, headed by Mrs. Gail McDonald, being assisted by Mrs. Linda Johnston and Mrs. Rhonda St. Louis.

A meeting to set up registration dates and fees was called for Thursday September 22, 1977 at 7:30.

The club has asked for seven (7) hours of ice time this year and this has not been confirmed, also ice fees have not been quoted.

Our Pro staff this year will be Mary Jayne Rashotte, Cindy Roeger, and Jo An Sherwood. It is hoped to have power skating again. One of the requirements brought to our attention on the seminar was, the Power skaters attending lessons should wear full hockey gear minus their stick.

More information will follow next week reguarding registration dates and fees. The club will have representives at the Iroquois Civic Centre at the same time as the Minor Hockey registration on Saturday September 24, 1977 10:00 - 12:00, at the Iroquois Civic Centre.
