Marjorie Joan Merkley, 7, Only Child Mr. and Mrs. Ray Merkley, Chesterville, Killed When Struck By Car Near Brockville

Saturday afternoon, two miles east of Brockville, opposite Ralph's Dairy, Marjorie Joan Merkley, seven years old, only child of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Merkley, Queen Street, Chesterville, was hit by an automobile and instantly killed. The car by which she was struck was going West on No. 2 Highway, driven by Miss Muriel Westover, R.N., of New York City.

The Merkley car was parked on the south side of the Highway while Mr. Merkley and Joan went to Ralph's Dairy on the opposite side to get milk for Joan to drink. They were on their way back to their car, Joan's hand held by her father, until she apparently loosened his grip and dashed into the path of the oncoming car in full view of her mather and grandmother, Mrs. Blair. If any child is ever told repeatedly to keep a constant watch while crossing streets it was Joan, but the one forgetful moment was fatal.

Joan was a particularly likeable child and was an especial favorite among her elders as well as her play fellows. She was bright in school and her parents with the idea of starting her musical education had recently purchased a piano. She was a happy child and it is said Saturday morning she awoke singing her favorite hymn "Jesus Loves Me."

Dr. H. E. Preston, coroner, and Provincial Constable L. T. Keeler, of Brockville, investigated the accident. Acting Crown Attorney H. J. F. Stewart, KC, was also at the scene and stated that it would not be necessary to hold an inquest.

Both the parents and Miss Westover were very much shaken and required sedatives to quieten their nerves. Mr. Merkley, who had the child by the hand was at a loss to explain how it happened.

"I was holding her one second and the next second she was struck down by the car", he said. "I just had time to see her running with her head down."

The funeral was held in Trinity United Church, Monday afternoon when almost every seat was occupied as Rev. W. E. Wright, the pastor, spoke comfortingly to the bereaved parents. The remains were interred in the family plot at Hainsville.

A large contingent of Miss Westover's friends accompanied her to the funeral in a heart broken tribute to the little girl who had been struck down so tragically.

The floral offerings were particularly beautiful and profuse from parents and neighbors trying to lessen the sorrows of the heart broken father, mother and grandmother.

NARROW ESCAPE DURING SHOWER

Mr. Parnham Allison and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Allison believe that they had a narrow escape during the storm Monday evening. The storm seemed to have abated, when suddenly thunder and lightning arrived simultaneously. The pantry and kitchen, where the Allisons were at the time, appeared to be filled with fire. Apparently, the Hydro wires leading to the house were struck, as two fuses, an electric motor, and all the bulbs in use at the time, were burned out. Fortunately, there was no other damage.

FALLS 30 FEET WALKS AWAY

Wednesday, the thirteenth, was unlucky to Raymond, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Holmes, when he fell thirty feet through the chute to the barn floor at Elzie Johnston's barn. Ray was helping Walter Johnston mow back hay when the accident occurred. Although suffering from badly bruised feet Ray considers himself lucky he landed on his feet and not his head.

This week we have received quite a lengthy communication which does not carry the writer's signature. The sum of twenty-five cents was also enclosed. Unsigned communications very seldom reach any other destination than the waste paper basket. The signature is not necessarily for publication but at least shows the good faith of the writer. If the writer will call at this office his twenty-five cents will be returned to him.

RESURFACING STREETS AND REPAIRING SIDEWALKS

Village walks and streets are being tidied up all over town, giving the good appearance that a good housekeeper presents in a well kept home. One welcome change is the rounding of the corner of the sidewalk at King and Water streets. Another is the raising of the walk on King street to the same level as the south end of the sidewalk, a matter of three or four inches. It should eliminate a very slippery stretch during winter months.

Swimming Instruction Film Shown Rotarians

Presented by Dr. G. H. Barton, a film on swimming instruction was shown to the members of the Rotary Club, last Monday evening, at their regular meeting. Showing the methods of training beginners in the art of swimming, the film made a vivid and interesting study in present day teaching methods.

Present as guests of the club were Rotarian Strange, of Merlin and Richard Casselman of Chesterville. The meeting was under the chairmanship of President L. H. Doering, who pointed out that next week would be the night of the official visit of the District Governor and a good attendance would be expected.

MOVING TO OTTAWA

Dr. Clayton having decided to make the family home in Ottawa, where he will shortly take up residence, has sold his Victoria street residence to Mr. L. H. Doering. It will be with considerable regret that this village loses the Clayton family.

Local Fishermen Check In With Several Hefty Ones

Members of the fishing fraternity of Chesterville are finally connecting with something besides the ones that got away. The entries for the prizes offered by the Chesterville Fish and Game Association show some dandies taken although some of the classes are not filled.

After Frank Merkley started the season with a 15 pounder, W. O. "Bill" Dixon coaxed a nice 'lunge into the boat that tipped the beam at just under eighteen pounds. Then along comes Wm. "Bill" Barker with a pair of small-mouth black bass that made just about nine pounds. It was a year ago almost to the week that Bill caught a similar pair. O. L. and Mrs. King made a foray on the pickerel population of White Lake last week-end, and landed themselves nearly the limit of pike and pickerel. We have caught a great deal of fresh air on the Rideau this year.

Mr. C. R. Armstrong spent a week as guest of his brother in Cleveland.

61 STATIONS FOR HOG PRODUCTION TESTING PROJECT

Regarded as the most important departure of a co-operative nature ever undertaken in regard to hog production, a co-operative project for the testing of hog feeding methods, with a view to lowering costs of production of Grade A hogs, has been set under way by the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, announces that 61 test feeding stations have been set up on that number of farms in the Province, with every county in old Ontario except Prescott and Russell represented by one or more co-operating farmers.

This project represents a new approach to the problem of determining costs of production of hogs, and is a co-operative venture in that it will be of great assistance to the Ontario Hog Marketing Board in its operations to have definite production costs established. So far as is known, it is the first attempt made anywhere to enlist the co-operation of farmers over a wide area in a cost of production project of this type.

The selection of the sixty-one co-operators was made after all of their farms had been visited by a representative of the Ontario Live Stock Branch and the Ontario Veterinary College, and the herds inspected. All the herds except one were found to be free of visible evidence of any infectious disease. This herd showed definite signs of rhinitis, but as the owner was making an honest effort to bring the disease under control by isolating infected pigs and disposing of them on reaching market weight, he was accepted. This herd was also chosen in order to discover whether or not the results might reveal some significant information relative to cost of production in an infected herd as compared with costs in those where the disease was not present. This herd is located close to Guelph, and it is the intention of the Veterinary College staff to make frequent visits to the farm for the purpose of checking the progress being made in eliminating the disease.

Those who made the inpections report that the co-operators selected are slightly better hog producers than the average of the province, but not outstanding. In other words, they are not doing anything that is outside the realm of possibility for any hog producer in Ontario.

The men selected follow a variety of feeding and management practices, and the results are expected to provide interesting comparisons between the different methods used. In the interest of obtaining complete information on costs of production and quality of product, each man will pursue his regular feeding methods for the first year. If the data acquired at the end of that period reveals that a certain method or a particular ration produces better results, then suggestions as to changes will be in order. It is the intention of the Live Stock Branch to visit each co-operator at least once in every three months period, and agricultural representatives have been requested to call on the co-operators in their counties wherever convenient.

Discussing this project, Hon. Thomas L. Kennedy, Minister of Agriculture, states that he regards it as the most important ever undertaken with regard to Ontario's $100,000,000 hog production industry. On his recent visit to Britain and the Netherlands, he had the opportunity of seeing Canadian and Danish bacon side by side. "We have an assured market for our bacon in Britain for several years to come," said Mr. Kennedy, "and so long as we can keep up our quality and lower costs of production, and through this project we feel sure that we can show our hog producers how this can be accomplished."

TIME FOR DECISION

By George W. James
The Statesman, Bowmanville

(Articles No. 13)

Article 12 of this series brought the discussion of the British wheat deal and the equally arbitrary Marketing Act down to the point where John Bracken, leader of the Progressive Conservative party, rose in the House to speak his mind on these questions. He agreed that any commitment made in the name of Canada should be honored. But he questioned where policies of this nature would lead.

Farm Confusion

Basing his arguments on the 30-point national program he announced four years ago which set forth a square deal for farmers he proved beyond question that the powers now assumed by the present government over farm production led to a state of uncertainty and confusion which resulted in a progressive decline of saleable farm products all along the line. The points he made were not challenged by Prime Minister King who followed him in the debate.

Wide Controls

Speaking about boards and controls that hampered farm production at a time when world requirements were at an alltime peak, Mr. Bracken said: "For years the government through its numerous boards has had complete control over prices of farm products and the cost of things that farmers have to buy. It has controlled the slaughtering of livestock, the import and export of seeds, feeds, fertilizers, the export of livestock."

Income Falling

"It has rationed foodstuffs; entered into long-term food agreements at arbitrary prices; paid direct and indirect subsidies to farmers. Yet the over-all net farm income of Canada has been declining since 1944 in spite of the highest domestic and foreign demand for farm products in our history. The British government has been led to over-optimism of what we can produce and supply. We are falling behind in delivery because prices to Britain in many lines are below costs of production."

Sharp Decline

"Speaking a year ago I warned this would result from the policies laid down. We have failed 100 million pounds in bacon commitments. Egg production has fallen by 100 million dozen short of the British agreement. Butter production has been falling for three years. This past year the decline was the greatest in 20 years. We are in fact importing from New Zealand and seizing shipments on the high seas."

Demoralization

"Cheese production has fallen 25 per cent, the greatest decline in one year in the past 25. Aside from grain the whole dairy and livestock industry is in a state of demoralization due to failure of the government to foresee the effects of its control and price policies on agricultural production. In this day-to-day program of political expediency, farmers have been treated to increasing and unnecessary irritations." This is the position into which controls are plunging the Canadian farmer.

Official Figures

In case any reader might conclude that Mr. Bracken spoke for political effect rather than very strong conviction it can be told definitely that he spoke before the release of official government documents in the case. A 63-page booklet, "Canadian Agricultural Program, 1947" issued by Minister of Agriculture Gardiner, who engineered the British Marketing schemes, confirms generally what Mr. Bracken stated, that production has fallen all down the line.

Balanced Opinion

Naturally there is much controversy over these agreements and controls. This column which pursues a non-political approach to this entire farm question simply to invite a balanced public opinion, once again submits highly creditable Liberal opinion on these established Liberal government policies. In fact almost all arguments in this series are based upon what high-ranking Liberals have asserted.

Ultimate Factor

Now the central consideration in this whole question is: "What will be the ultimate effect of selling to Britain most of our surplus at a low price and of offering the small remainder or none at all to the peoples of other nations at world prices?" Can we hope for their confidence and trade after these by-lateral deals end? The next article will quote a great Liberal newspaper and a Liberal ex-Minister on this whole question.

THE LOST

By Jessie Lane Thomas

The air will be warm and golden at sunset
Over my fields of wheat and hay...
My Wee Lad wants to water his pony;
Shall we go with him, children?

We pass the barns and skirt a clover meadow.
The creek runs here, prattling and merry
Like my Annie, who shakes her curls and cries,
"Father, old Snow had a little white calf today."

I say, "Let us cross the bridge to the woods;
Perhaps we shall find the early berries ripened."
But Rose, my thoughtful dark one,
Must run back to help her mother with supper.

And so we all return,
Through the mellow, piney-scented dusk,
While my tall son tells what trails he rode today...

Too quickly the light fades...
Do not leave me, children!

Where are you?

Now I know it all again...
Fabric of dreams.
Those children—they are not mine—
They never were—
And never can be.
My farm is long since sold into alien hands...
Almost my name forgotten.
For I was the boy the Princes sent to war,
And I died in France these many years ago.

VACANT LOTS

Now that even the most skeptical concede that summer is here, that vital group, the thinking public, are worrying themselves into their annual tizzy over children playing in streets, back alleys, freight yards, and other unsuitable places.

A singularly sane man in one crowded city owns the vacant lot beside his house, and will not sell it as long as there are children in the neighborhood. There is reward enough in seeing children from blocks away playing there—and not in the street. Perhaps officials of congested cities could play ball with their younger citizens by buying vacant lots here and there, cleaning them up, and then forgetting all about them. The neighborhood youngsters would take over in a hurry—for free. Given summer and children, you might well take the "vacant" sign off the lot and toss it into the alley.

Of course, the children also play in the street, right in front of the vacant lot.

IMMIGRANTS MAKE JOBS

It is difficult to follow the reasoning of those who argue that, because we regularly lose many of our young Canadian men and women as emigrants to the United States, we should therefore do nothing about encouraging immigration.

No one will deny that Canadians, particularly those with advanced technical training, can contribute much to the development of their native land if they remain here and put to use the skills they have acquired. But the encouragement to remain must be more tangible than pious hopes and sermons. The first requirement of the young graduate is a job, and in normal times he is likely to find a greater choice of jobs in the United States than in Canada.

The relative scarcity of openings for trained men in Canada as compared with the United States is no fault of Canadian business. It is a matter of the greater size and greater number of United States industries, and they have grown large and numerous precisely because of the open-door policy of immigration that prevailed there during the country's growing days.

If Canada's population were equal to or even half as great as that of the United States, the loss of our trained young people would be negligible. Until the discrepancy is repaired, we must face the fact that many of our young people will continue to drift away.

The movement can be reversed in time by bringing in immigrants who will not only make jobs for themselves but will create more opportunities for those who are already here. Discouraging immigration will only make the loss of our young people more probable.

She Heard

A Preacher was visiting one of his poorer parishioners, an old woman afflicted with deafness, who expressed her great regret at not being able to hear his sermons.

Anxious to be sympathetic, he said, with self-deprecation: "You don't miss much."

"So they tell me!" was the unexpected reply.

Creative Banking
GIVES HER BETTER THINGS TO BUY

THERE are new fabrics for hats and purses, new styles in shoes; variety in costume jewellery, modern gadgets for the kitchen, better foods, a range of new furniture . . . and behind all the goods in all the stores across the country are hundreds of businesses, large and small.

If there had been no money available, and no men of ability to turn it into factories and goods, there would be far fewer products on the shelves and counters, far less variety in price and style, far less value to be had for your purchasing dollar.

At The Bank of Nova Scotia we're proud of our share in the creation and expansion of business. Over $200,000,000 is invested in commercial loans, helping large companies and small bring you better and better things in Canada.

Let's do it together!

Question of Identity

When he was in America a number of years ago, Wu Ting Fang, the great Chinese diplomat, met an American woman at a reception. She did not know who he was, and she asked him sweetly, "What 'nese" are you Japanese, Javanese or Chinese?"

"I'm Chinese", replied Dr. Wu, and then he continued, "What 'kee' you—monkey, donkey or Yankee?"

THE HOME NEWS

Not all the news appears on the front pages of the newspapers. There the big "news breaks" are played up, but it is in the inside pages that people learn the news of their home communities, the news about the people they know and in whom they are really interested.

The other day on the Herald's district news page there were stories of brother and sister meeting for the first time in fifty-six years, and brother meeting brother after forty-one years. A mother is flying the ocean to visit the graves of her two hero sons. A pioneer couple celebrate ther golden wedding. A town talks about halfsurfacing its main street. A mounted policeman has flown back from his post in the far north to visit his family. A mutual telephone company elects officers and a pioneer club holds a picnic.

No news? Why, the pages are full of it, the home news about the people who count in our daily lives.—Lethbridge Herald.

ADDITIONAL TRIBUTES

In addition to the names of those who paid tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Bernard Gibbons, Mass cards have been received from Mr. and Mrs. P. Chambers, Miss Mary Kearney, Miss Clara Donovan, Louisville, N.Y.; Charles Shane, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. M. D. Relyea, Norwood, N.Y.; and Mrs. James Creighton.

Jones and his wife were on a fishing expedition. At the end of a trying fishless day, Jones brought things to a climax by falling into the water.

Just as he crawled out, his wife appeared on the scene.

"Did you fall in?" she inquired, in surprise.

"No! No! Just crawled in to see which fish it was that got away from me!"

"MY WEEK"
By
R. J. Deachman

I met not long ago a banker, now retired. He had spent the greater part of his life, in different branches, mostly in the Province of Quebec. I asked him, as I often do with all classes of people, for the funniest incident in his business experience. This is the one he placed first in the list. I give you the story as closely as I can but cannot put on paper the fine Irish voice of the man who told it to me as he imitated the tone of his customer on this occasion:

"In the town, which must be nameless, we had an account of an Irishman, a small contractor who carried a balance with us of from three to seven hundred dollars. One day a cheque came in which wiped out his deposit and left him with a deficit of about $200. I phoned him and suggested that he come in and cover up or give us some security.

" 'You are calling me about my account', he said, and every word sounded as if it came from Dublin. 'How much did you say I was over?' "

"Two hundred dollars, I answered"

" 'Now how much would I be having in your institution last week' ".

"I looked it up. $550, I told him."

" 'Then did I call you up.' "

"No, why should you?"

" 'Then why in hell should you call me up now?' "

"I was stumped, what could I do with a man like that?"

"What happened then", I said. "We paid his cheque, he covered it in two or three days. Sometimes he went over for a few dollars but we never mentioned it to him. I always felt that his answer was worth any risks we took."

-:- -:- -:-

Here is another one from the same source:

"A man came in one day and asked the price of a Safety Deposit Box. The price was $5.00. He asked if I could let him have it for $4.00. I said, 'No, the bank doesn't cut the price, everybody pays the same'. He went out sorrowing.

"A few days later he came back and asked if we loaned money on victory bonds. This was during the first Great War and, at that time, we loaned up to the full value of the bonds. He came in the next day and wanted to borrow $100. I made out the note, he handed me the bond. Imagine my surprise when I looked at it, it was for $10,000. I asked him why he wanted to borrow $100 when he had a bond for $10,000. He suggested that he needed it, I didn't ask any more questions. After all he was entitled to the loan.

"I forgot about then in a few days he stuck his head through the door and said: 'Well it didn't cost me $5.00 to get a Safety Deposit Box from from you did it?' He was quite right. We paid him 3% interest and provided safety for his bond, he got what he wanted for $2.00 less than if he had rented a box."

"But he didn't get the box", I said. "No", said my banker friend, "but he certainly did get perfect security for his bond. On the other hand we still had the box and for all I know may have rented it to some other needy soul. Besides, he may have lost a little by "loaning" that money to us at 3%. He might have made a better alternative investment. My own opinion is that he really wanted to get safety for his bond without paying us anything for it. Was it worth the effort?"

Will somebody please tell another story. Some day a book will be written entitled "Humor in Business". It may have been done already. It's a good subject.

-:- -:- -:-

Writing of money reminds me of something. In 1940, MacMillan and Company, published Colin Clark's book "The Conditions of Economic Progress". I have quoted it before. It listed labor income (per person) in thirty-one different countries, the United States, Canada, New Zealand, Great Britain, Switzerland, came in order given. Russia was fifth from the bottom—27th from the top. The first countries were democratic countries, the democracies with their stupid parliamentary governments, with a press which can state anything it wants to state—aside from libel, of course, seems to be doing fairly well. Communism, from the material standpoint, seems to be a rather hopeless philosophy, suitable mainly to backward looking people. Still I am in favor of more criticism never hurt anybody much less those who talk too much and do too little. —criticism of a constructive nature

Where Does the Money Come From

"It does not come, for example, from natural resources revenues. These natural resources revenues were absorbed in government budgets long ago, to help to pay for routine expense of government which are far in excess of the most buoyant revenues which natural resources could ever produce.

"Again these new services cannot be financed from the profits of business enterprises in which the state engages. When the state takes over a business it destroys a taxpayer. Generally speaking, in a democratic country, it is easier over the years for the state to get revenues by taxing the profits made by others than it is to make profits itself. For example, our government telephone system was on the verge of insolvency when the present government came into power. We, with the able assistance of its fine staff, have transformed it into one of the most efficiently operated and profitable public enterprises in Western Canada. Yet all of the profits which we have been able to take out of this concern are small in comparison with what it would have had to pay in taxes if it had been in private hands.

From a Radio Address by Stuart Garson, Premier of Manitoba.

GARDEN CHATS: By Mrs. Harry Allison

Hello Neigbours:- Well, here it is cucumber season again, and my annual trouble is back. I had the first attack this afternoon. This was my first real 'picking". I'd only gotten three big ones previously, but this afternoon I had a large dishpan full. Then came my trouble. What would I do with them, I got out three or four reliable cookbooks and began a half hour's heavy reading.

On one page I found a recipe that looked good, but it called for cauliflower, and I didn't have any. Then there was another that required sweet red peppers. Now I've an abundance of peppers but they're as green as grass. Every single recipe, it seemed needed at least two or three pounds of sugar, which I just couldn't spare. Finally, I cut up a gallon of them for Nine Day Pickles, and threw out the rest.

Now, that happens every summer, and next year will be no exception. In February I'll order my usual two packages of "Straight Eights". I'll plant them, expecting that they won't all come up, but they always do. Then next summer I'll wonder once more what to do with my surplus crop.

Last year, we tried selling some of them, but found that other people didn't have any sugar either. Near the end of the season, I couldn't even give them away.

My planting so many would be excusable if we were a pickle eating family, but we just don't like them. Thus my pickles are reserved for visitors and the hired man.

Next year, will somebody please warn me to not plant too many cucumbers?

Did you see by the RECORD that the first prize for the Flower Show will be 15c and the second 50c Rather strange, isn't it? It is just one of those things we call a typographical error or something. It should read, 75c and 50c. That looks better, doesn't it?

It's just about a week until the Show (Aug. 29th). Keep an eye on your flowers, and remember to bring them on time.

By the way, we shall require some help at the Hall on Friday morning. So, Executive and Members, plan to feed the family warmed-up potatoes that day so you can come and help us.

Don't forget to come and see the Show and have some Tea and a chat on Friday, August 29, at 3.00 p.m.

Sincerely.

THE WEED OF THE WEEK— WILD CARROT

Of all the weeds growing along the roadsides, fencelines and in pasture fields of Ontario, Wild Carrot is one of the worst offenders. It is a biennial with a tap root, and produces only a small plant and no bloom the first year. The second year it grows 2-4 feet high, and produces several clusters or umbels of small white flowers. These flowers are often referred to as Queen Ann's Lace. It begins flowering about the middle of July and continues until September.

Wild Carrot produces a copious supply of seed, which is spread by wind, water and animals, as well as an impurity in clover and grass seeds. After the flower cluster or umbel has begun to mature, it forms a cup-shaped cavity which is full of green seed. However, even if the plant is cut down at this stage, many seeds will continue to mature.

Wild Carrot will not become a serious problem in land where a short rotation of crops is practised. Do not leave a field down to sod for more than two or three years.

Where only an occasional plant is present, hand pull them religiously to prevent seeding. However, where this weed has taken possession of many miles of roadside it becomes a serious problem. Mowing and scything this weed merely results in it shooting up numerous short stalks, each producing flowers and seed, and in a few weeks all this work is undone.

To effectively control and eventually eradicate Wild Carrot from roadsides and fencelines, spraying with a chemical weed killer is recommended. One pound of Atlacide per gallon of water will readily kill Wild Carrot. The various brands of 2-4-D on the market when used according to directions will also do an efficient job of killing Wild Carrot.

Property on which Wild Carrot has been neglected and allowed to go to seed, should be mowed, raked and burned to prevent the seed from spreading far and wide during the winter, over the frozen ground and snow.

Co-operate and do your share in cleaning up man's great enemy, Wild Carrot.

MORE EGGS AND BACON FOR BRITAIN

Eggs and bacon - the traditional breakfast dish of the Englishman - are to be more plentiful in Britain. This will be the result of the new ration allowance for pigs and poultry just announced by the Minister of Agriculture. Farmers will now be able to keep four pigs where they only kept three last winter and 24 chickens as against 20. Increased scales for feeding stuff rations will come into force from the beginning of next month. The effect of this twofold addition to the ration will make possible a 20% expansion in Britain's pig and poultry population.

SILKWORMS MAY PROVIDE MATERIAL FOR ROYAL WEDDING GOWN

It is possible that the material for Princess Elizabeth's wedding gown will be made by Britain's silkworms. At Lullingstone Castle, in Kent, there is a colony of 4,000,000 who have already provided silks for a previous State occasion. They made the fabric for the robes worn by the Queen and two Princesses at the Coronation, each cocoon producing two miles of thread. Enough raw silk is already set aside for Princess Elizabeth's dress.

THE MIXING BOWL

By ANNE ALLAN
Hydro Home Economist

Hello Homemakers! The world belongs to the harvesters these days. With so much work to be done and such a short time to do it in, our men should have meals provided on the "dot" and the best meals we can prepare.

Finally, if we remember to put strangers at ease in a cool dining room or kitchen, we probably won't want for help next harvest.

Amounts required for 12 servings:
Soup—Three quarts
Veal or Beef—Eight pounds as purchased
Potatoes—Four quarts, prepared
Lettuce and Cucumber Mix—Three quarts prepared
Bread—One loaf
Open Face Pies—Two pies
Applesauce—Two quarts
Drop Cakes—Two dozen
Tea—One-quarter pound

Orange Tea Biscuits

3 cups sifted flour, 6 tsps. baking powder, 1 tsp. salt, ⅓ cup shortening, 3 tbsps. orange ring 1 1|3 cups skim milk.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt; sift again. Cut in shortening. Add orange rind to milk and sprinkle into dry mixture until a soft dough is formed. Turn on slightly floured board and knead ½ minute. Roll one-half inch thick and cut with biscuit cutter. Place on slightly floured pan and bake in electric oven at 450 degrees for 12 minutes.

Fresh Blueberry Pies

1|3 cup flour, 1¼ cups sugar, ½ tsp. salt, ¾ tsp. nutmeg, 3 qts. blueberries, 3 tbsps. lemon juice, 3 tsps. lemon rind, 3 tbsps. butter.

Plain Pastry

Line 3 pie plates with plain pastry. Flute on an edge as for a lemon pie; cut strips of pastry for placing across the top. Chill pastry in elctric refrigerator while the filling is being prepared. Mix together the flour, sugar, salt, nutmeg; sprinkle one quarter of this mix on the uncooked crusts. Blend remainder with blueberries, lemon juice and grated rind; fill pie shells; dot with butter. Lay on strips. Bake in preheated electric oven at 425 degrees for 45 minutes.

Dutch Plum Cake
(12 servings)

1 cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 2 tsps. lemon rind, 4 eggs, unbeaten, 2 cups sifted pastry flour, 2 tsps. baking powder, ½ tsp. salt, 2 doz. blue plums, 2|3 cup white sugar, 1 tsp. cinnamon.

Cream together shortening, 1 cup sugar and lemon rind; beat until fluffy. Add eggs one at a time; beat each into batter thoroughly. Add sifted dry ingredients, beat until smooth. Pour half batter into greased pan. Cut plums, remove stones and lay pieces on the batter. Cover with remainder of batter, spreading evenly. Mix sugar and cinnamon together and sprinkle over batter. Bake in preheated electric oven at 350 degrees for 1 hour. Cut in squares and serve warm.

TAKE A TIP

1. Do not prepare potatoes more than an hour before cooking, because they lose nutritive value and they may also become sour.
2. You may double a cup of salad dressing by the addition of an egg and a cup of milk. Beat thoroughly.
3. Set the table for the harvesters well in advance and pull the shades, put flowers in the room and close the doors to keep out excess heat.

THE SUGGESTION BOX

Mrs. T. B. says: If your rubber plate scraper becomes sticky, clip off the gummy part with kitchen scissors.

Mrs. J. R. says: A vegetable peeler is worth twice its cost. It saves time, nutritive value and inconvenience.

Mrs. M. B. says: To remove buttons without nicking the fabric, slide a comb under the button and cut thread with a razor blade.

Mrs. T. D. says: Garden tools will stay rust-free if stacked in a box of sand moistened with old crank-case oil.

SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. John Scott of Melvins, was pleasantly surprised on Monday evening when she went to spend the evening with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Poole of Winchester, to find all her family present, with their husbands and wives and several grand children.

The evening was pleasantly spent in visiting and Mrs. Scott was presented with a plastic purse and other gifts besides a number of cards from friends wishing her many more happy birthdays.

Ice cream and cake were served and a very pleasant evening was brought to a close when all joined in wishing Mrs. Scott many more happy birthdays.

WEALTH OF RURAL EASTERN ONTARIO

A point about the Carp bank robbery not mentioned is its indication of the unostentatious wealth of rural Eastern Ontario.

Out of the safety boxes of this small branch bank in a small community the thieves took securities and cash of a value of $230,000. And this very substantial amount, it should be noted, takes no account of deposits in that branch which of course were not molested, or of the wealth of the community in other forms—in farms, homes, automobiles, livestock, stocks of merchandise and so on

Multiply Carp by a thousand such districts, smaller and larger, and we get some small idea of what Eastern Ontario has been able to do for itself under the "capitalistic" system which some tell us has outlived its usefulness.

SUFFERS HEART ATTACK

Mrs. John Redmond of Winchester suffered a sudden heart attack at her home Saturday evening. At present her condition has considerably improved and her many friends wish her a speedy and complete recovery.

CORRECTION

In the list of Upper School Exam Results published in last week's Record errors were:

Eileen Ball was credited with French Composition "C". This should have read—Fr. C. II (second).

Lila Young received Latin Authors II (second) instead of III as was published.

The happy married man dies in good style at home, surrounded by his weeping wife and children; the old bachelor don't die at all—he sort of rots away like a pollywog's tail.—Artemus Ward.

IN MEMORIAM

IN LOVING memory of a dear husband and father, John Loucks, who departed this life August 22nd, 1946.

Some may think that we forget him,
When at times they see us smile,
But they little know the sorrow
The smile is hiding all the while.

Now only a memory of bygone days,
And a sigh for a face unseen.
And a certainty that God alone
Knows best what might have been.

He shall never be forgotten.
Never shall his memory fade,
Loving thoughts will ever linger
Round the grave where he is laid.
—Wife, Sons and Daughters.

PAUL—In fond and loving memory of a dear husband and father, Napoleon Paul, who suddenly passed away August 25, 1940.

The blow was great, the shock severe.
We little thought the end was near.
For only those who have lost can tell.
The pain of parting without farewell.
—Wife and Family.
