Chesterville's bilingual status a 'printing error'

TORONTO (Staff) - With the discovery of a mistake that overestimated Chesterville's francophone population by 660, the province has dropped the village from a list of municipalities designated for delivery of provincial services in French.

But Winchester Township, found to have a French-speaking population of 10 per cent, is now included under the French Language Services Bill, passed by the provincial legislature last week. The entire counties of Stormont and Glengarry are also designated.

After Chesterville was named in the bill introduced last May, "We realized there had been an error," said Francine Robitaille, manager of communications with the Office Francophone Affairs.

"I think it was really, quite honestly, a printing error in the beginning," Robitaille said in an interview Friday.

Initially, Chesterville was said to have a francophone population of 47 per cent. In fact, only 20 residents were later found to be French speaking, dropping the francophone share to only 1 per cent.

Winchester Township is now the only Dundas municipality included in the bill, which covers local offices of provincial ministries and government boards, commissions, corporations and publicly funded bodies such as hospitals.

School boards and provincially supported agencies under ministries or departments with provisions for service in French aren't included. But Robitaille said an amendment allows municipalities, which had originally been exempt from the legislation, to opt in. "The inclusion is very vague," she said, explaining that councils "may pass" a bylaw including their own services for delivery in French.

That the bill cited Winchester Township was news to Reeve Gerald Holmes. As of Friday afternoon, he said council had received no information about the bill.

"I hope we're notified," he said. If the township chooses to increase its service in French, he said, "I can see it would be quite a lot more administration costs."

"If it's optional, then we'll have to consider our options."

Services that could be affected by the bill include the Winchester field office of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food, the family resource centre scheduled to open in a couple of months, and Winchester District Memorial Hospital.

Winchester hospital administrator Bert Stel said the hospital is "partially prepared" to provide increased services in French "but it would have to be very fine-tuned". Delivery of the services wouldn't be a problem, he said, but financing a complete range of services including documentation could be.

Financial help through the ministry of health may be available to hospitals seeking to boost francophone serivce, he said.

While the hospital's service is "basically English," he said, pamphlets are published in both languages and interpreters in French, and Dutch can also be arranged.

Exactly which bodies must provide service in French has yet to be determined. A four-member commission to serve under chairman Gerard Bertrand, former chief legislative council to the federal minister of justice, has three years to survey the areas affected by the legislation and recommend which services are to be included, Robitaille said.

It's possible, she said, that a hospital in neighboring Stormont will be required to deliver services in French while Winchester won't.

"The township of Winchester is definitely an area that's been designated but we have to be practical," she said. "This will all be a question of give and take."

SD&G MPP Noble Villeneuve doubted the bill would mean "a great of difference" to the riding. "The last thing I want to see is people being threatened," the Tory member said Friday.

"Certainly in due course, they (organizations cited in the legislation) could develop a little more service. But as far as I'm concerned, there's no great hue or cry or need."

So far, he's received no response to the bill from the riding. "We're playing it by ear and hope that no one starts making great waves or noises."

He recalled receiving only one request for increased francophone services. About a year ago, he said a Cornwall resident asked that OMAF course on microwave cooking be offered in French. He immediately got in touch with the ministry, which arranged for a francophone instructor from Russell to teach. "I heard no more," Villeneuve said.

The commission will probably begin its work in January with the assessment of provincial offices' level of francophone service, Robitaille said. The legislation won't take effect until November of 1989.

Newsbriefs

Morewood collision

MOREWOOD (Staff) - There were no injuries last Tuesday in a collision in Morewood. Audrey Heuff, 50, of Morewood was charged for proceeding unsafely from a stopped position when the truck she was driving collided with a 1987 Ford driven by Edouard Cayer, 62, of Embrun. Police say Cayer was westbound into Morewood and the Heuff vehicle was turning on the roadway when the accident occurred.

Break-ins

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Police have no suspects in two break-and-enters in Winchester early last week. Either late Nov. 17 or early the next morning, King Arthur's Chipwagon and a garage of Wayne Laporte Trucking were broken into. Thieves stole a small quantity of cash from the chipwagon but no property was reported missing fro the garage.

Crafty sale

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Holiday shoppers will have a chance to pick up handcrafted goods at an arts and crafts show and sale this weekend at Chesterville Public School. The doors open at 10 a.m. Saturday and a bake sale will also be held. On Sunday, the public is invited to tour the craft stalls from noon to 5 p.m. Proceeds from the two-day show and sale will go to Holy Trinity Anglican Church's building fund. Admission is $1 for those 14 and over.

Appointments

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - At a meeting Wednesday night, council appointed three men to sit on the village's property standards committee. The appointments of Adrien Laflamme, Gerald McMillan and Harold Sharkey took effect immediately and the length of their term is at council's discretion but can't extend beyond Dec. 31, 1987. Council learned recently the committee must be appointed as an appeal board for village residents who feel pressured by orders to comply with the year-old bylaw.

No hunting

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Hunters have been abiding by an order to stop hunting at Chesterville's sewage lagoon. Don Scoulfield, a Winchester Township resident who lives east of the lagoon, said he has neither heard nor seen hunters at the Ministry of the Environment owned and operated site since Saturday, when the lagoon's chief operator, Doug Black, passed the word among local hunters that shooting was to stop. "I haven't seen anyone here at all," Scoulfield said Monday.

Nearing goal

CORNWALL (Staff) - The Lung Association in SD&G and Prescott-Russell is $12,000 closer to its objective of $60,000 through its Christmas Seal campaign. The annual campaign helps make possible its regular visits to elementary schools each Wednesday to promote lung health among students from Kindergarten to Grade 3. Marg Inskip, often described by children as "the lung lady", is sometimes accompanied on these visits by puppet Octopuf.

Osnabruck support for rec plan weak

INGLESIDE (Staff) - Although Osnabruck Township council won't consider a proposed recreation project for the township until Dec. 2, the future already looks bleak for the $2.8 million project.

The final draft of the proposed 20-year, four-stage project was unveiled here Monday night, and by the time the smoke had cleared, not one member in the audience, including township council members, had spoken in favor of the total project.

All four council members took turns speaking to the crowd of about 80 people. Three were partially against the project and one totally opposed it. They all stressed the township needs recreation facilities, but agreed $2.8 million is too high a price.

Councillor Carson Elliott, who's been opposed to the project since it was first brought to public late September, repeated his extreme opposition to the project, knocking its location and the "concept" itself. The township should be pursuing an agreement for the park land south of Ingleside for recreation purposes, he said. Also, recreation facilities shouldn't be placed "in the woods", he added describing the area across from Kraft Foods Ltd., where the complex would be located.

"That's my stand, I'm opposed to the present plan," he said. "I feel we have to walk before we run," he said as the crowd applauded.

But it was opposition group chairman Ross Walker, who broke the ice midway through the meeting, placing difficult questions to both recreation committee chairman Richard Waldroff and Julie Keane, a representative of consultants Cumming, Cockburn and Associates.

Walker questioned the accuracy of the 1985 recreational needs study and the figures derived from it. Too few people were surveyed to obtain a sufficient mandate for the project, he said, and repeatedly asked Keane what figures the firm based its recreation plan on. The plan was based on the figures from a needs study, she said after discussion with panel members. She said the study was completed by approximately 900 households, which Walker termed a small percentage for a township with a population of about 4,000.

"There are only so many taxes to go around in the township," he said. "If we can't look after what we've got now, what are we doing looking at $2.8 million." He's not against a new sewer line or park development, he said, but merely wants to put the cart where it belongs -- "behind the horse".

Details of the proposed project were revealed late September by Cumming, Cockburn and Associates. It was to include, in order of priority determined by the needs study, a recreation centre (incorporating a multi-purpose gym, meeting rooms, kitchen, storage areas and office), two multi-purpose ball diamonds, a multi-purpose soccer field, an out-swimming pool, tennis courts and nature trails.

The 20-year recreation project would be in four phases, the first to include a ball diamond, community centre, general park construction, roads and parking, said Richard Waldroff. The $1.6 million beginning phase would be partly funded by a provincial "new facility grant", leaving about a $1 million for the taxpayers to come up with. The grant pays one half of the first million dollars spent on the recreation projects and one-tenth of the rest. Other funding could come from parklands dedication, debentures, the township recreation reserve, the 1986 budget, the school board, local industries and community fundraising, Keane told the crowd.

The projected 1987 mill rate increase for the first phase of the project was set at 20.74 mills. This means for each $1,000 a resident is assessed for taxes, he or she would pay an extra $20.74 annually. The mill rate for the total project was estimated at 42 mills -- 30 mills for construction and 12 mills for operating costs. At that rate, a property-owner would pay an extra $42 a year for each $1,000 he or she's assessed.

Waldroff said the inflation rate, or future township projects such as the Newington water and sewer project, were not considered in the suggested mill rates.

Seasonal boost

Winter blew into town Thursday night and Greg Fyke's car was a casualty of the season's first storm. "I hate it, so far," he said Friday afternoon of the winter weather. "It is good for skidooing," he added. Area drivers apparently met the challenges of winter driving; Long Sault and Winchester OPP detachments report no increase in road accidents because of the snow.

County milk committees go public with criticism of $10,000 parting gift

AVONMORE (Staff) - A $10,000 retirement gift for the former chairman of the Ontario Milk Marketing Board has forced some dairymen in Stormont and Glengarry to go public with their concerns.

At the call of the Stormont milk committee, representatives of the Glengarry and Dundas groups met here last Thursday to express their frustration at the handling of some issues at the annual Geneva Park meeting a month ago.

First among several concerns was the retirement gift for Ken McKinnon, who resigned as board chairman to become the vice-president of the Canadian Dairy Commission.

"The gold watch is okay, but not the $10,000.," said Richard Lapointe, secretary-treasurer of the Glengarry milk committee.

"You give him a gift, you don't give him a retirement fund," said Joe Jackson, vice-chairman of the Stormont milk committee.

Both Stormont and Glengarry committees have protested by letters to the board that an award of two gold watches and $10,000 is excessive.

Gord Johnson, secretary-treasurer of the Dundas milk committee, said the matter will probably be raised at the committee's upcoming annual meeting. He said McKinnon has "a heck of a job," and he could see no other way to arrange a contribution from each producer.

But Paul Henderson, director of region 2 (which includes Dundas), and Grant Cameron, region 1 director (for the counties of Glengarry, Stormont, Prescott and Russell), said the milk committees had a chance to comment on the proposal at the Oct. 14-16 meeting and actually approved a more generous gift.

Soon after the meeting got underway, Cameron said Tuesday morning, chairmen of milk committees from across the province met and the proposal to deduct $1.50 from each producer's cheque was mentioned and approved in an unofficial vote.

Robin Thomson, chairman of the Glengarry committee, said it wasn't until after Grant Smith, the board's former vice-chairman and new chairman, suggested the $1.50 amount that the committees realized it would total $15,000 when deducted from the province's 10,000 milk producers.

He said he was among the committee chairmem who later told Smith the proposed gift was too much.

When Cameron heard such comments from counties he represented, he said he told them," If you feel uncomfortable with that simply reconvene the meeting and give the board new direction."

But he said the issue wasn't raised again and when the board discussed it, it lowered the per-producer cheque-off to $1.

"It wasn't as though the board made this decision without consultation with the farmers," he said. "I feel rather badly that they have chosen to go to the press over it."

But Thomson said the opportunity to reconvene the meeting for further discussion never came. He said he told Smith the chairmen should be re-called but scheduling was a factor.

Delegates were also trying to keep the discussion of a gift under wraps in hopes of surprising McKinnon. "I guess just everybody assumed it would be taken care of."

Cameron wouldn't say whether he supported or voted against the $10,000 gift. "I have to defend the board's decision," he said. "As a board member, I have to do that."

He was also "disappointed" that the only negative reaction the board has received has come from his region. But at last week's meeting, Jackson said dissatisfaction was widespread.

"It's not just complaints from the east, here, it's from all over Ontario."

Reading comments from a quick survey of 14 farm women in McKinnon's own region, conducted that morning by telephone by Crysler dairy farmer Dorothy Middleton, she said few knew of the retirement gift.

The committee representatives stressed their opposition wasn't directed at McKinnon personally. They feared the award could set a precendent for later retirements.

But Cameron said the precedent was already set years ago when McKinnon's predecessor was given the equivalent of $12,000 in today's dollars.

For the Stormont and Glengarry representatives, the retirement gift crystallized frustration with the process.

Randy Moke, secretary of the Stormont committee, said delegates to Geneva Park are told when the meeting begins that the board isn't bound by their decisions and is seeking a "general feeling".

But what's needed is "grassroots" input from producers across the country on the big issues facing the Ontario milk industry, he said. "It's got to go more from us to them

Village may undertake taxing exercise

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - A second round of market value assessments, this time updating statistics to 1984 values, may begin again next year.

At a regular meeting last Wednesday night, village council decided to request the federal ministry of revenue to review all the village's properties and determine their 1984 values. Properties are currently assessed at their 1980 market values for tax purposes.

When the first study of the impact of the change to market values was made in 1983, Reeve Carl Ward said, the ministry recommended that the values be updated every four years.

As part of the study, assessors will visit every residence and business in the village to conduct an in-house survey. The village won't have to pay for the impact study, clerk-treasurer Bob Casselman said Friday.

"It will assess the changes in taxes that will result from the study and council has the opportunity to accept the study or not to accept the study."

He said 1984 may be found to be an atypical year for property values. Council could then reject it as the basis for updating tax rolls.

Prior to 1983, the village's taxes had been determined by the Actual Value System, which was begun in the 1950s and was based on values from the previous decade.

At the time of the first review by the Cornwall assessment office in November of 1983, Ward said council had made the move to market values voluntarily because it believed the province would probably direct it to do so soon.

Had the village waited, he said, provincial funding for the study may not have been available.

The snow came a day later, but snowplow operators from SD&G and Prescott-Russell proved they were ready last Wednesday when 38 road superintendents and road crew members competed in the second annual Eastern Ontario contest. Teams from the townships of Williamsburg, Osnabruck, Cumberland, Caledonia and Cambridge, the town of Rockland and the United Counties wound their way through a pylon-strewn course. Winning the event was the team from Cambridge Township. Placing second was the SD&G pair from St. Andrew's patrol.

DCAMR contract dispute could be settled today

MORRISBURG (Staff) - Both sides are hoping for an agreement today, but with two outstanding issues left to solve, the Dundas County Association for the Mentally Retarded may still yet be worlds away from settling its two-year-old contract dispute.

The money has "finally" come through and the only two outstanding issues are "timelines" imposed on retroactive pay for employees and the conditions for a payment in lieu of retroactivity the association is supposed to receive, DCAMR spokesman John Hollister said yesterday.

With the timelines, an employee would have to be with the association from June 12, when the agreement was ratified, to Sept. 29 in order to receive a retroactive pay increase. The second item of concern, Hollister said, is a condition stating employees have to be in the association from Oct. 1 of this year to April 1, 1987, to receive their full payment in lieu of retroactivity.

The actual contract looks good," he said. "It's a good starting block, but, as usual, money's the problem."

"It's so close and yet so far."

The association's employees voted overwhelmingly in favor of a new contract proposal early this month. The employees had already agreed to most aspects of the government offer. They dropped the only unmet demand, a signing bonus for four association employees. Hollister is hoping all differences can be put aside and a contract reached today.

"I believe they're still going to remain flexible," Hollister said, adding if an agreement can't be reached, only one alternative would be left for the employees -- strike action. At no point during negotiations did the employees ever want to strike, he said. Christmas is coming soon and a strike wouldn't be a pleasant prospect for the new year, he said.

Phil Moore, administrator for the association, said the negotiating committee hasn't changed it's position and has been "bargaining in good faith."

"We're playing with public money," he said yesterday, defending his stance on the issues.

Moore said the first issue in contention is merely a wording problem in a letter sent to the association by its chief negotiator. Moore said employees don't have to be employed on both June 12 and Sept. 29 to receive retroactive pay.

But he remained firm in his stand on the second issue, maintaining employees would have to be employed on Oct. 1, 1986 and Jan. 1 and April 1 of next year to receive their full payment in lieu of retroactivity.

Hollister maintained the money has been already earned by the association employees and shouldn't have extra conditions attached to it.

Golden handshake given to McKinnon

(the directors) than from them to us," he said.

County milk committees need better access to the information available to board members prior to such meetings, he said. "It (information) is not easily forthcoming," he said.

Cameron said an agenda and copies of papers to be discussed at the meeting were mailed to all committees in advance. Neither Henderson nor Cameron favored giving delegates to the annual fall meeting a vote.

Cameron said the board will take an unofficial vote "to get the general feeling. Then the board members will go back and make the final decision because they're in the end the ones who have to answer for it."

Calling mass votes on many issues as in Quebec, he said, makes it difficult to even get through the agenda.

Henderson said delegates have no real power under the OMMB constitution. "But their mood or feeling is definitely understood by board members and that's why we're bringing questions to them," he said.

"But to say that whatever they decide is law, that is has to be done, I don't know. Sometimes a group of people can get all worked up and get going in the wrong direction."

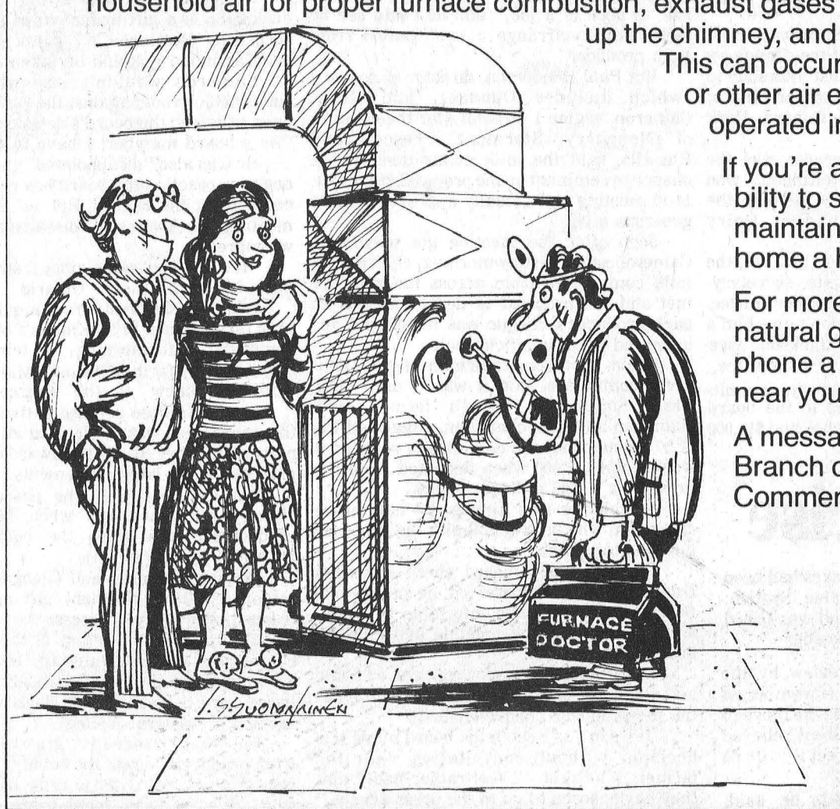
A Neglected Furnace Can Be Dangerous.

The best way to ensure that your furnace is safe is to have it checked periodically by a registered heating contractor. A quick check can reveal small problems, before they become large problems.

A blocked chimney or faulty furnace can cause serious health problems and even death by allowing carbon monoxide gas to spill into your home. Also, if there isn't sufficient household air for proper furnace combustion, exhaust gases may be prevented from rising up the chimney, and leak back into your home. This can occur when the fireplace, kitchen fan or other air exhausting appliances are operated in a home.



If you're a homeowner, it's your responsibility to see that your furnace is properly maintained. A safe furnace makes your home a healthier place to be.

For more information, contact your natural gas, oil, or propane supplier. Or, phone a registered heating contractor near you.

Getting your back in shape

The best way to control back pain is to keep in good physical condition. A reasonable exercise program will go a long way in preventing the most common forms of backache. Even if you now suffer from back pain, your doctor of chiropractic can suggest simple exercises within your ability and tolerance, and suited to your particular condition.

Using good judgement in the performance of routine tasks can increase your chances of going through life without any serious back problems. Here are a few suggestions.

- Try to sleep on a firm bed. Sleep on your back with your head on a posture pillow. Never sleep on your stomach.
- Always sit with your knees slightly bent. Use a footstool, box or pillow to keep the knees above the hips. Avoid soft, deep chairs or sofas.
- Do not stand with both feet flat on the floor, or with knees "locked" back. Keep one foot on a low stool if you have to stand for a long period of time.
- Try not to arch your back when reaching for or lifting objects. Use your legs for lifting, not your back, and keep the object close to your body.
- Learn to squat while working or playing close to the ground. It is a good way to give your spine a rest. Never stoop forward with your knees straight.
- Stand close to windows when opening or closing them. Never bend over furniture to reach for windows.
- Try and keep your weight down. Excess poundage increases the likelihood of back problems.
- Avoid twisting your body severely or bending too far backwards. This is excellent advice when engaging in your favorite adult pastime. Always assume a comfortable position.

If you do experience pain and discomfort in your back, remember that your chiropractor is the leading authority on problems of the back and spine. When it comes to back pain, your family chiropractor is the best friend you have.

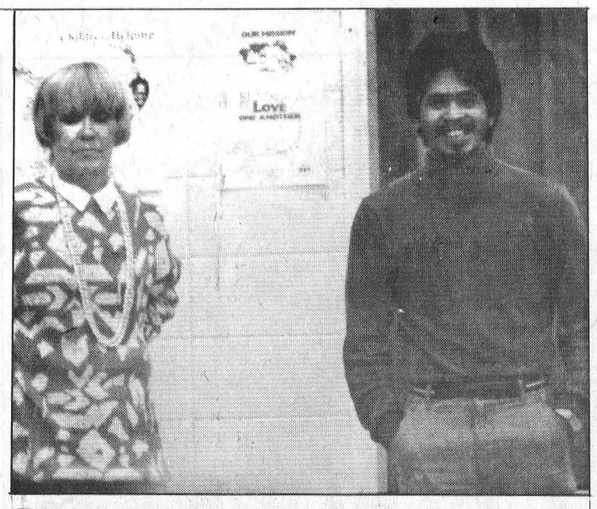
St. Mary's students get hard look at Philippine extremes



Philippine message

St. Mary's School principal Shelagh O'Connor and Filipino Ivan Enriquez teamed up to answer some often humourous questions about the Filipino way of life Friday at the school. Enriquez is presently studying for priesthood here in Canada. The school will be raising money for the Filipino poor this year and Friday was the chance for the students to see a slide show and talk to Enriquez about his life there. The children will be undertaking various fundraising activities this year to help poor children in the country.

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - St. Mary's students got a chance to see firsthand what life is like in the Philippines and quizzed Filipino university student Enriquez with other tricky questions Friday.

Enriquez and two St. Paul's University professors Richard Hardy and Ken Melchin were at the school to enlighten the students, who plan to sponsor the Filipine child, about the country's way of life.

Hardy, who was a Philippine resident for two years, gave a slide show revealing the nation's extremes, from the richest mansions surrounded by walls and armed guards to the poor collecting their daily ration of a pail of water.

The kids also had their turn to take the floor, asking questions ranging from how long it takes to walk or swim to the Philippines to why are there more kids than grown-ups.

Enriquez told the students it would take a "very long time" to walk or swim to the Philippines, pointing out on a map the vast distance between the island country and Canada. The second question was neatly answered by Hardy, who said Filipino parents like children and that parents there also die young.

"Most of the kids are like you," Enriquez told the students. But most children, he said, have to walk a half hour to an hour to attend school in classrooms packed with 100 people. Most of them wear "slippers" to protect their feet from glass or other sharp objects, he added, when asked about footwear.

There are 50 to 55 million people in the Philippines, he said. He and his family lived in a town one hour and a half south of the capital by plane. With a population of 1 million, by Canadian standards it would be considered a large city, but in the Philippines, Enriquez said, "that's a small village".

Enriquez has been in Canada for over a year and is studying for priesthood at St. Paul's University. He was invited by a former professor to come study in Canada and he jumped at the opportunity. "That was my break," he said.

He's not sure if he'll go back to the Philippines where his parents, four sisters and one brother still live, he said. His mother is an elementary principal there, his father a provincial deputy assessor and his two eldest sisters are nurses. His two younger sisters and one younger brother are all still attending school.

St. Mary's School students choose a country each year to which they send money in support of the poor. When asked, they said they'd like the money to be used for children's education and housing for the poor. This year skate-a-thons, book fairs, money boxes, white elephant sales and bake sales were some of the fundraising methods they suggested.

Seaway Valley Presbyterial considers boycotting war toys

WINCHESTER SPRINGS (Special) - The sun gradually broke through the grey November 12 skies as 48 ladies joined ogether at Winchester Springs for the Seaway Valley Presbyterial meeting.

Linda Kubelka opened the meeting with the reading of The Teacher. Eleanor Robinson welcomed everyone on behalf of the hosting UCW, then Alice McIntosh gave us a lively history of her church. Highlights included their memorial stained glass windows, their 100th anniversary, having five members enter the ministry from their congregation and building their new hall, with its unique wall hangings.

Worship was led by Margaret Dutta from Morrisburg, aided by Amy Holmes who played for the hymns. We began with No. 65, Jesus Where'ere Thy People Meet. II Timothy, Chapter 3 tells us to be true to what we have been taught, and in keeping with the day's theme of Christian Development, Margaret likened our development to that of learning to play the piano well. In both, we must have our basic teachings, then we must study and practise in order to grow more proficient. We concluded worship with No. 301, O Master Let Me Walk With Thee.

Various reports followed. The short report forms are out. Please fill them all in and return them to the appropriate person. If you have no member serving in a particular area, have someone fill it in and send it along with the rest.

Phyllis Noble reported two vacancies on the executive: - vice president and chairman of communications.

If your group would like to know more about General Council this past summer, the representatives would be pleased to speak. The regional representatives gave rally reports, all having been most worthwhile. Our literature convenors had been to each one and were pleased with the results.

A joint Fellowship Day for Seaway Valley and Ottawa Presbyterials is under consideration, possibly looking to September 1987.

The M & S fund is considerably down from the objective. If many worthwhile projects are to be continued, we need to give this serious thought. We are asked to set goals in our UCWs for M & S, strive to meet these goals and then increase them by some amount every year.

As we are coming close to Christmas we are asked to consider not buying war toys. An excellent article on this may be found in the Nov.-Dec. Mandate, Terror in the Toy Box. It states, "If you buy a child a toy, he or she recognizes that you are endorsing whatever that message is." Something to think about.

A request is out for slides of UCW history, action shots, possibly of Summer Event, or camping, something that will show a part of our history. These are for use in Waterloo next year, and cannot be returned. If you have any available, please contact Linda Kubelka.

Remember our anniversary coming up in 1987. Hope we are all planning special services and parties, and remembering that $25 special gift to M & S.

Summer Event next year is in Ottawa July 10-12 with the theme Catch the Spirit, Share the Spirit.

Volunteers in the church were mentioned, and we were asked now many churches thanked choir members, Sunday School teachers, etc. Many locals described thank you dinners with a gift of a rose or special card to honor those accepting these responsibilities.

Remember your Campbell soup labels - just the front panels, no staples or elastics please. These may be brought to Presbyterial or Presbytery meetings and will get to Kemptville from there. They contribute so much to the School for the Deaf in Puerto Rico in supplies. that the time it takes to cut and slip the panels into an envelope is a worthy contribution on our part. Service clubs are still collecting eyeglasses and cases for reuse.

Grace was said and the group broke for lunch and a look at the books and supplies that Avie had set up at noon.

The afternoon session was under Christian Development with Rietta Hillis leading. Christian Development begins early and must be nurtured along the way as we grow. As we learn from watching others, we also must witness in what we say, how we act, how we spend our time and money. We grow through personal service, and should encourage others to become involved. Adults need encouragement and praise. No task is small in the eyes of God. We must do any chore with joy.

We need to develop as Christians through reading, fellowship and Bible study groups.

Reitta conducted a workshop on two Bible study methods. Several Bible passages were given out, one to each small group and we were to either read and rewrite in our own words, or read and prepare a role play on the passage. These were given before the group and we could see which illustrated the passages better. Further suggestions were given in several pages of notes which we could look into at home. Prayer ended the session.

Linda thanked Rietta for her program, the ladies for their hospitality and Avie for her book display, then closed with No Longer Strangers.

See you at our next Presbyterial meeting at Finch Feb. 10 (Feb. 11, snowdate). The program will be under Church in Society.

Avonmore WI

AVONMORE (Special) - On Nov. 17, 12 members met at the home of Mrs. Irene McIntyre for a Women's Institute meeting. The attendance was taken with each member answering with a verse containing the word Peace. The motto was Not just today, but every day in silence we remember". Two minutes silence were observed.

Two minutes of silence were also observed in remembrance of Mrs. Grant Tinkess who passed away recently. Mrs. Grant Tinkess had been a longtime member of the Avonmore WI.

In the business part of the meeting, $25 was donated to the Legion.

The next meeting will be held Dec. 15 at Mrs. Mable Watkins.

Apartments add to rental boom

The first tenants moved into Jim Sullivan's apartments on Main St. North Nov. 1 and the other three units will be rented by the new year. The Chesterville builder says there is a local demand for spacious rental accommodation. Record Photo-Johnston

CHESTERVILLE (Staff) - Jim Sullivan has added to the village's mini rental boom.

As of Jan. 1, each of the four apartments in the building north of Nestle on Main St. N. will be rented and Sullivan believes there's a great local demand for spacious apartments.

"There's just none in Chesterville or Winchester," he said. "And in a lot of apartments, if you want to turn around, you've got to go outside and back in."

He said his new venture may attract families and single parents who need room for children (each apartment offers 1,200 square feet) or roommates sharing the rent. "I feel that Chesterville needs it. Winchester needs it too."

He's familiar with the site, having constructed the original building there in 1949. At various times, the site has been used to house poultry and store equipment for Nestle and Sullivan. When the apartments were constructed, Sullivan retained only the roof and rebuilt the rest.

Next spring, he said, he may convert another building to apartments.

Owners at loss should snowplow hit mailbox

CORNWALL (Staff) - The United Counties is once again warning rural residents to construct a mialbox and post that will withstand the rigors of both winter and snowplowing.

"It is a fact of Canadian life that it snows and this snow, in order to maintain our lifestyle and economy, must be plowed off roads," said county engineer Don McDonald in a recent press release.

Mailboxes can be damaged by heavy snow coming off the plow or wing but only "very rarely," he said, will a snowplow actually hit a mailbox.

He said owners of mailboxes damaged by snowplows have no recourse. The municipal road department, he said, "owns its road allowance outright and mailboxes placed at the edge of the travelled roadway are in effect trespassing. They are there at the sufferance of the Roads Departments."

To avoid damage, he suggested that the box be suspended from chains which in turn are attached to a well-braced cantilevered arm and post.

A box perched on top of a cedar post can't withstand Ontario winters, he said, and a boiler pipe set in concrete is a traffic hazard.

He said the counties' road department plows 745 kilometres of road. "Should our efforts affect your mailbox we ask for your understanding."

Police seek man for September licence office robbery

(Special) - Registering a vehicle was the last thing in the mind of a man that went ot the Automobile Licence Office in the Galerie d'Aylmer.

On Mon., Sept. 15 at about 2:15pm the manageress of the office was in the process of assembling the daily bank deposit. A man entered the office, and in order to serve him, she placed the deposit bag aside and walked to the service area of the branch.

The man pointed a handgun at the woman and demanded money. She gave him an envelope that was in the bank deposit bag, however he asked for more, and ordered her to empty the cash register's.

The bandit ordered the frightened woman not to say a word or call police. He then backed out of the office, continuously pointing the gun at her. Once in the mail he ran through the corridor, disappearing amongst the crowd.

Description of suspect: Male, white, French speaking, 25, 150 lbs., having a full beard, a plaster cast on his right hand, a ring on the left. He was wearing blue jeans and a baseball cap with a crest.

Crime Stoppers will pay $1,000 for information, that if received this week leads to the arrest of the person responsible for this robbery. If you have information about this, or any other serious crime, call Crime Stoppers at 233-8477 or 1-800-267-8477, you do not have to reveal your identify, and should your tip lead to an arrest, you qualify for an award.

There is a new Ontario law that provides workers with greater protection against toxic agents.

Whether you work in an office, a mine, a factory, or a shop, you could be exposed to hazardous biological or chemical agents without ever knowing it.

On November 6, a new regulation was made by the Ontario Government which will come into effect December 6, 1986. This new regulation provides greater protection to everyone in the workplace in two different ways. First, it sets out specific legal limits on exposures to more than 600 different toxic agents. And second, it requires exposures to toxic agents in the workplace to be reduced by engineering controls, such as improved ventilation, rather than by the use of respirators.

If you'd like a listing of the agents and information about the exposure limits placed on them, visit the Ontario Ministry of Labour Office nearest you.

If you'd like to order a copy of the booklet which contains the regulation and lists the toxic substances and exposure limits, send a cheque or money order for $1.00, payable to the Treasurer of Ontario, to:

Streak grows to five as Ormond wins 5-0

WINCHESTER (Staff) - Ormond kept its unbeaten string alive with a 5-0 romp over Prescott last Sunday in Winchester and District Broomball League action.

In other games, Dunbar defeated Toyes Hill 4-1, Crysler lost to Morewood 3-0 and Newington edged Winchester 1-0.

Dunbar has been scored upon only four times in its 10 victories. Paul Peterson led Ormond with a goal and two assists. Also scoring for Ormond were Brent Taylor, Tony Vanderlaan, Dan McDiarmid and John Veltuis. Carl Patterson, Doug Sloan and Bill Robinson each chipped in an assist.

League scoring leader Keith Young was held off the scoresheet but he remains on top in the standings with 21 points, including a league-leading 13 goals.

The league's number two scorer Laurie Blanchard (20 points) scored a goal to help Dunbar stay within two points of Ormond. Larry Gallinger netted two first period markers, including the game winner, to pace the victors. Lynn Whittaker potted the other goal to move within one of Young in the goal-scoring parade. Toyes Hill's record drops to 0-9-1.

Morewood received goals from Brian Como, Gerald Eby and Larry St. Pierre in upping their record to 8-2. Adding assists were Eby, Pete VanGurp and Vince Cousineau. Crysler remains in second place in pool B while Morewood remains in third in pool A.

In game number four, Newington chalked up its first win of the season thanks to a goal by Dave Dingwall midway through the first period on a setup from Calvin Beaudette. While Winchester's record dropped to 4-6, it remains in first place in pool B.

Revival services at Newington

NEWINGTON (Special) - The congregation of Newington Wesleyan Church invites the community to join it at upcoming revival services.

Rev. Oland J. Kent is a commissioned Evangelist of the Atlantic District of the Wesleyan Church. He has conducted evangelistic crusades throughout the Maritime Provinces, Ontario, and Maine for various denominations, with an emphasis to the Body of Christ and the accompanying privileges of revival, healing, sanctification and the spirit-filled life.

He served for 26 years as a pastor, founding four churches in Nova Scotia. He became the Atlantic Regional Director for World Vision Canada. He resigned after five years in that position, founding the organization Revival Ministries and entering the field of full-time evangelism.

His wife, a native of Port Maitland, N.S., is an accomplished soloist often signing for the deaf while singing. She founded and is director of Sunshine Personal Home Care, a ministry and service to the elderly.

Special services will be held Sun., Nov. 23 at 11am and 7:30pm. These services will continue nightly at 7:30pm until Thurs., Nov. 27.
