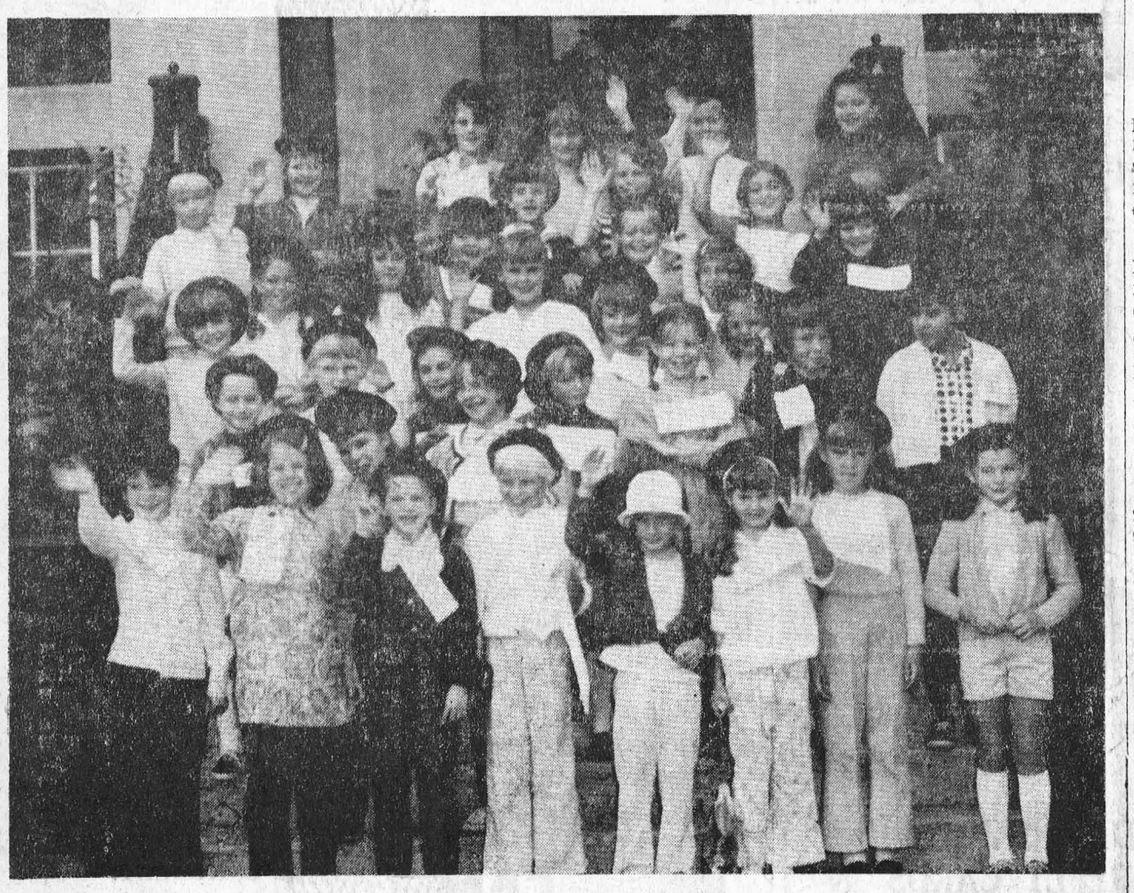
Brownies' Walk Helped to Swell Fund



On Sept. 26, Saturday morning, 1st. Morrisburg Brownie Pack, consisting of 40 girls, between the ages of 7-10 held a Walkathon to 'Lend A Hand' to Rodney Barkley of Williamsburg.

The Brownies started from Morrisburg High School at 9 o'clock and walked to Glen Becker, a distance of three miles, with check points every mile. Here they were treated to cold drinks, and date turnovers supplied by English's Family Store in Glen Becker.

Before starting the return trip, Gordon Fairbairn and Merne Baker of Morrisburg Ambulance Service, volunteered their expert care in rubbing, spraying and powdering the Brownies' feet, and thus preventing sore and blistered feet.

They arrived back in Morrisburg at 12:20 thus making a total of six miles walked and consider their venture a huge success.

Total pledges collected amounted to $731.22, which will be deposited to Rodney's account.

Morrisburg Brownies and Guiders Mrs. Joan Sheldrick and Mrs. Linda Smithson who accompanied the girls, would like to give special thanks to the Ontario Provincial Police Constables Paul Cordes, and F.J. Langlotz, and Morrisburg Ambulance Service for escorting them; Mrs. Pauline Tyo and Mrs. Pauline Tyo and Mrs. Florence McManus who walked with them as chaperones; Mrs. Sheila Cruickshank for check points; Englishs' Store at Glen Becker for their generous donation in drinks, food and cash; Irving's Store in Morrisburg for ice-cream bars and popsicles on our return; Mr. George Smith of Smiths' Photo Studio for covering our walk in pictures; and Mr. Arthur Laurin for giving us coverage in The Morrisburg Leader.

Extra special thanks to the people who sponsored the Brownies, and a big cheer to the little Tweenies and Brownies who walked the six miles to help a neighbouring child.

Casselman Reunion Held At Boundry Falls, B.C.

Because of the large number of people with the surname 'Casselman' in the Morrisburg area, the story of a western branch of the family may be of interest to readers.

Back in the 1870's, days of the Barkerville gold rush, Asa Castleman, (he had changed the spelling of his name from that of his father's, Michael Casselman.) got gold fever and headed west. This venture not being profitable, he settled near the Canadian-U.S. border, half way between the pacific coast and Alberta border, at a riproaring mining and smelting town named Boundary Falls. Here he homesteaded in beautiful rolling hillside country and raised horses, used in the mines. His daughters married and his son died childless.

Before this time, in 1907, Asa's nephew, John Carmi Casselman, who had lost his wife, Christine Macleod, and left two young sons with her people, near Casselman, Ont., decided to join his uncle. John was a son of Asa's older brother, Ezra.

Here he met and married Florence Burkmar, who, with her family, had arrived from London, England, a short while before. John became an operator at the Boundary Falls powerhouse which supplied electricity for the city of Greenwood and surrounding district. Here their three sons and seven daughters were born. When he died in 1929, the family moved to Victoria, B.C.

Boundary Falls became a ghost town with barely a trace of its former industry remaining. Recently the old homestead, now owned by family and connections. The affair lasted two days, and was attended by about 250 people, who came from many parts of B.C. and a few who reside in Alberta and California. Almost all of the 99 direct descendants were there. In over forty years, only three deaths have been recorded, one, an infant grandchild; a grandson killed in an industrial accident and a daugh ter who died last year.

In spite of the large number of descendants, none in the west will carry on the family name as the three sons have no sons of their own. This honor goes to John Casselman's frist family, who remained in Ontario. These consist of two grandsons, four great grandsons and two great grand daughters.

Wedding of Interest In Old Danish Church

The quaint little 800 year-old Mejrup Kirka was decked with flowers on Saturday, September 12 for the marriage of Karen Sondergaard of Toronto and G. Wm. Gorrell, Q.C. of Morrisburg. Rev. Fr. Anders performed the 4 p.m. ceremony. Music was supplied by the local choir and Dawson Roberts of Nassau was best man

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eimar West Sondergaard of Birk (The Manor House) Mejrup. The groom is the son of Mrs. G.W. Gorrell and the late Dr. Gorrell of Morrisburg.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white brocaded taffeta with taffeta with fitted bodice, bouffant sleeves, high neckline accented with Guipure lace embroidered with sequins. The full back panel formed a chapel train. A cap of net with tiers of stephanotis outlined her coiffure and from this her voluminous veil added to the elegance of the chapel train.

She carried a large bouquet of red roses, stephanotis and fern arranged against a background of embossed net with net streamers featuring traditional miniature gol den horseshoes and small red flowers, representing good fortune and happiness.

Four young nieces, Mariane Nohn Kirsten Nohn, Merete Nohn and Helle Sondergaard attended the bride as flower girls. They were identically gowned in blue frocks with daisy trim and daisy headbands and they carried nosegays of multicolored flowers.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the local hall where 130 guests enjoyed a banquet of numerous courses lasting from 6 to 10 p.m. Each table held floral arrangements of roses, orchid type blooms and contrasting flowers flanked by tall white tapers. Running the central length of each table was a streamer of white tulle effectively strewn with delicate pink flowers. During the dinner an archestra supplied a musical background of Danish and Canadian music. Then followed a dance with the bride and groom leading the first dance accompanied by singing and hand-clapping.

The bride's mother welcomed guests wearing a brocaded gown with fall access ories. The groom's mother chose a turquoise ensemble with gold lace applique and win ter white accessories.

Guests were present from Africa, Nassau, Williamsburg, Cornwall, Morrisburg and surrounding area.

LOCAL OFFICERS GIVE EVIDENCE IN CITY BANK ROBBERY TRIAL

Police who searched a car stopped after a chase at high speed near Morrisburg on August 10, 1968, found $11,400 in two suitcases in the trunk, a general sessions jury was told Tuesday.

Provincial Constable Leo Heidinga testified that he went up to 100 miles an hour but was unsuccessful in trying to overtake a car going east on Highway 401.

Constable Heidinga said Constable Steven Fraser only stopped the car by zig-zagging his cruiser acros the highway. The driver was Larry McClemens, 28, and Claude Pion, 42, was a passenger.

McClemens and Pion, both of Montreal, are being tried on a charge of robbing the Bayview Village Plaza branch of the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce of $14,473 on Aug. 9, 1968.

Constable Heidinga told Crown counsel Robert McGee that when he commented on the amount of money Pion was carrying, Pion told him he was involved with cablevision.

Constable Fraser said he became suspicious of a driver's licence McClemens handed over, and asked McClemens and Pion to follow him to the OPP's Morrisburg detachment, where a search of the two and the car disclosed a total of $12,032.

The serial numbers of some bills seized matched those provided by headquarters in Toronto, Constable Fraser said.

His address and coloured film depicted life in Latin America and revealied, in a most challenging manner, the work being done by the Bible Society in the world today. Scriptures in their own langu age are being made available to the Maca Indians, a small tribe living on the Paraguay River in Venezuela, is one of the particular projects at the present time.

The election of Officers for the forthcoming year was held and Gordon W. It was also decided the Annual Campaign for Funds would be carried out locally during the week of October 5th.

A quiet evening wedding took place on Sept. 13, 1970 at Orchard Hill, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Johnson of Tinley Park, Ill., when Judith Ann Carr became the bride of Leslie Johnson. Judy is the daughter of Langton Carr of Morrisburg and Elma Carr of Long Sault, Ont.

Rev. D. Chappell Praised by Police

Rev. David Chappell, former minister of Elma United Church, who has been studying at Yale University was lauded by New Haven police for aiding a police officer, shot in the arm during a scuffle with a man later charged with assault with intent to commit murder theft and burglary.

The police chief stated that a Yale University Police officer, Stephen Craig, reponded to a report of a burglary in process at a home next door to the Yale Infirmary. Mr. Chappell who works nights at the infirmary said that nurses spotted the burglar and a juvenile and called the police. He entered the house with policeman Craig, followed the juvenile as he slipped past him at the door but lost him. On his return to the house he found the policeman shot and went to his assistance. Other police arrived and apprehended the suspect.

The New Haven Register reports: "A civilian bystander won the applause of Police Chief James F. Ahern for going to the rescue of a policeman. He praised the efforts of Mr. Chappel and said, "This kind of co-operation and courage is the keystone of a lawful society"

Let's Have a Strike on Strikes

Last year, Canadians lost 7.7 million days of labor during strikes. That was a record. This year is much worse; for the first seven months 4.5 million days were lost in 303 work stoppages. The indirect costs of a strike are even more costly. Strikes make a staggering contribution to poverty. At a time when we have excessive unemployment and face the industrial competition from countries where the strike is outlawed, we need to find a better way to solve labor-management disputes.

In some industries effective weapons are still needed for battles yet to be won. But that is no longer the whole story. Organized labour is part of the power structure and is no longer looked upon by the rest of the working people as the exploited minority fighting for its rights. Big labour does much of its fighting within the establishment for its own status and increased privileges.

In a changed era the leaders of labour have become the intellectual peers of the best that management, industry and govrnment can produce. They could, and should, co-operate in pounding out policies for the common good. In such policies there should be no unnecessary waste of natural resources, human skills or working days.

The strike should be declared obsolete.

We are not going to get anywhere by saying "Tut, tut", to labour. Denouncing the "moneyed interests" is no more helpful. Somehow the partners in production — government, management and labour — must find a substitute for the present strike-ridden and costly system. — United Church Observer.

To Save Dollars or Save Lives

Ontario Highways Minister George Gomme and Transport Minister Irwin Haskett made a joint statement last week that studded snow tires would be banned in the province after April 30th, 1971. Ontario thus became the only Canadian province, and indeed one of the very few administrations anywhere, to ban the use of studded tires, hailed only a few years ago as one of the greatest single safety aids ever devised for today's fast-paced traffic on the nation's highways.

Some 32 percent of the vehicles in Ontario are already equipped with these tires, and the new ban was received with no enthusiasm whatever by owners of these cars and trucks. It will, in addition, pose a ridiculous situation for motorists from other jurisdictions, where the studs are legal. According to Mr. Haskett, it is the government's intention to ban studded tires from all provincial roadways no matter what the origin of the vehicle. One can hardly visulaize lines of stopped cars from the United States, Quebec, Manitoba and other points outside Ontario, industriously changing to "summer tires" at the sacrosanct borders of this province.

Reason given for the ban is the alleged damage to the highways (which officials estimate may rise to $127 million in the next ten years). Opponents of the ban hotly dispute these figures, claiming that increased traffic, increased loads and increased speed cause more of the damage than do the studded tires. To an unbiased observer it would seem strange that such extensive damage would occur only on the highways of one province. Are our legislators in Toronto putting the saving of highway maintenance dollars ahead of the saving of lives?. The Transport Minister of the Province of Quebec, which has nearly the same traffic conditions and weather conditions as Ontario, is stoutly against such a ban in his province. He says, "To save a human life, that is much better than saving on the cost of a little asphalt. The cost of asphalt is nothing; what concerns me is the loss of lives".

You can be sure that, between now and April 30th, 1971, a powerful lobby will be active in Toronto, seeking to have the ban lifted before it is even enforced. The stud manufacturers will be joined by dozens of safety-conscious organizations, almost all of which have found that the studded tires contribute significantly to highway safety and lower death tolls.

Office Problem

Dear Miss Brookfield:

I am a mature woman, employed for many years in a supervisory capacity. Lately I have been hiring recent college graduates. Can you tell me what's wrong with this younger generation? One girl, hired as t typist, was home disabled with a broken leg or a broken arm for weeks on end. When she did show up at the office, she spent half the time on the telephone and the oth er half in the ladies' room. Fortunately, her replacement seems to be in excellent health (no broken bones so far). But she can't spell simple words, she broke the copying machine three times, and after a two-hour lunch when she was asked to "rush through" some work, she complained of a headache and went home. Is this problem common?

D. O.

Dear D.O.

Not all of these problems are common. We have no answer, but we do have a question: Is your business still solvent?

Adopting a Child

Dear Miss Brookfield:

Our 13-year old daughter died in an accident recently. (We also have a married son.) I want to adopt a child. My husband had doubts agout this but finally consented, to please me. We consulted an adoption agency but they suggested we return in a year. Since then I have come to the conclusion that I would like to adopt a child of preschool age. Friends say we're foolish to take on the responsibility of raising a young child. Are we? I am 54, my husband is 56.

E.B.

Dear E.B.:

It is possible that the adoption agency asked you to wait a year to allow you time to see whether the desire to adopt a child isn't prompted by the wish to "replace" your daughter. The agency was following sound adoption policies. When you return in a year's time, if your decision remains unchanged, talk frankly with the agency's representative about your husband's misgivings and the doubts in your own mind raised by the advice of friends.

In cautioning you against the wish to adopt a pre-school child, your friends are thinking ahead. If you were to adopt a child, say, five years old, your husband would be past retirement age when the child became 15. At present, the idea of having a young child again to love and mother may seem to be an emotionally satisfying goal. But we would suggest that you wait a year, return to the agency and discuss all these matters with them.

NEW PLANT AT PRESCOTT TO CONTROL WATER POLLUTION

A public ceremony marking the start-up of construction on Prescott's water pollution control plant was held on Wednesday, September 30, on the site on Highway No. 2 at Johnstown, one half mile west of the grain elevator. Cost of the new plant is set at $646,000.

The contract for the project was awarded to M. Sullivan and Sons Ltd., of Arnprior. It is being financed under a provincial plan which will require Prescott to pay for the service on a use basis only. The facilities will be owned and operated by Ontario Water Resources Commission on behalf of the municipality. Consultant for the project is J.D. Lee Engineering Ltd., of Kingston.

A $710,000 system incorporating sanitary sewers, forcemain, factory built sewage pumping station and outfall to the St. Lawrence River is presently under construction with completion expected in October. Being constructed, under the provincial plan, by Louisbourg Con struction Ltd., of Montreal, the sewer system will hook up to the treatment plant.

With a treatment capacity of one million imperial gallons per day, the plant, scheduled for completion in July of 1971, will be capable of servicing the townships of Edwardsburg and Augusta, although it will initially service Prescott only.

J.H.H. Root, M.P.P., vice-chairman of the Commission, and D.A. Moodie, OWRC Commissioner, officiated at the inauguration ceremony along with representatives of all levels of government.

Since sewage from Prescott is presently discharged untreated to the St. Lawrence River, the new treatment plant will be a great step forward in the community's fight against pollution and in the improvement of the St. Lawrence river areas around Prescott as a water recreational centre. Certainly also, it will make things better for those communities downstream from the Fort Town.

Construction of the plant climaxes negotiations carried on between OWRC and Prescott since 1966.

CHEVY'S NEW LITTLE CAR IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

Vega is here at last.

Now you can buy what we modestly believe is the best little car in the world.

It does everything well.

Everything? Everything.

Vega moves well, stops well, steers well, rides well, handles well, responds well, passes well, merges well, travels well, parks well, sits well, wears well, and is priced well under what you'd expect to pay for such a totally talented car.

In highway tests, Vega has been getting around 30 miles to the gallon. Yet unlike your average little car, ours steps right out when you step on the gas.

The standard engine is a specially designed 140 cubic inch overhead cam four with a lightweight aluminum alloy block. You can order the optional engine which has a 2-barrel carburetor and delivers 20 extra horsepower. The brakes are something too. Discs are standard in the front, new-type drums in the rear.

The wheelbase is 97 inches. Width: nearly 5½ nice, stable feet. Weight: 2,190 lbs. for the standard sedan. Engine displacement: 140 cubic inches; horsepower: 90 SAE gross, 80 SAE net. Seating Capacity: four adults. Turning circle: 33 feet, curb to curb.

What it all adds up to is a lot of little car.

Three cars and a truck.

Vega turned out so well that we couldn't turn out just one. So we made four: a sporty little hatchback coupe shown open and closed in the foreground below; the sedan, on the right; the Kammback wagon, on the left; and the little panel express truck, in the rear.

You have a choice of 10 outside and 5 inside colors plus a pretty fair selection of available options.

September 28th is Opening Day.

All Chevrolet dealers across Canada are handling the Vega, so you shouldn't have to go very far to find out more about it.

Chevy's new little car is open for business.

Look into it.

Presbytery Executive Held Meeting at Maxville Church

A well attended meeting of the full executive of Seaway Valley Presbyterial United Church Women took place recently in Maxville United Church, beginning at 10:30 a.m. In attendance were 16 executive members, 22 local presidents and 10 visitors. Mrs. F.W.B. Shaw of Hawkesbury, Presbyterial president, opened the morning session with a brief worship service. Mrs. A.A. Morrison, corresponding secretary, read several letters expressing opinions on whether a copy of the minutes should go to each UCW. After discussion pro and con, a motion was passed that the minutes should continue to be sent to each local president.

Mrs. Allan VanAllen of Kemptville, treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $1990.78. She stated that 64 locals had sent receipts for the Mission and Service Fund, and 57 had sent in their expense share. For the first two quarters, $14,710. had been received in Toronto for the M&S Fund, down $1174.70 from the same period last year.

Mrs. Wilbur Garlough, Stewardship Secretary, had some questions, and in answer to these it was confirmed that there is an adequate supply of ordained ministers and deaconesses, though there is still room for lay ministers for certain types of work. The two lay women recently appointed to the Montreal-Ottawa Conference executive are Mrs. Stanley Knowles, recording secretary, and Mrs. A. K. Wasson, president-designate — the first time a woman will hold the office of President.

Mrs. Shaw commented that Seaway Valley is the only one of the four Presbyterials in Montreal-Ottawa Conference which does not have a news bulletin. She asked that this be considered by the members.

The afternoon session began with the roll call. Mrs. D. J. Cooper, of Kemptville, Chairman of Citizenship and Social Action, presented three women to talk about three different types of drop-in centres. Mrs. Gordon Ennis reported on the Seaway Community Services Camp which has just finished its third year. This began in response to a dire need in Keelerville — a slum area in Dixon's Corners. She told how the camp had changed and progressed over the three years. They are now considered a full-time worker, winter and summer. Mrs. J. K. Jensen of Oxford Mills told of a programme for Oxford Mills, Burritt's Rapids and Bishops Mills, for children and young people this summer who had nothing to do. She told of getting the use of the town hall, of a walk to raise money, of the young people painting the hall, of buying baseball equipment, of bus trips to various places of interest. Mrs. Shaw in turn told of a different kind of drop-in centre — a coffee house in the United Church hall in Hawkesbury, which was open from 12 noon to midnight, and of the problems encountered. She urged those present to read up on the problem, and give thought to a situation that is here with us now.

Mrs. Clifford Larmour, nominating chairman, reported that Regions 3 and 5 have no vice-presidents, and that other vacancies exist. She urged that suggestions be given her, to fill the vacancies. Mrs. Arthur Woodland, reporting for the Supply and Welfare Secretary, Mrs. Leslie Eamer, stressed the fact that bales should be between 10 and 20 lbs. as the cost for anything below 10 lbs. is prohibitive. The request for supplies by Dr. Bill Milligan in Angola was discussed and difficulties cleared up re sizes, etc.

The next executive meeting was set for January 18, Monday, at 10:00 a.m., place to be set later. With regard to the annual meeting of Seaway Valley Presbyterial UCW the date was set for either Wed., February 24 or Wed., March 3rd, in Spencerville or Kemptville, the meeting to be planned by the sub-executive.

Regional rallies were discussed. For Region 1, Mrs. K. Dalrymple Regional vice-president, announced her rally would take place at Riceville on Wed., Sept. 30, at 10:30 a.m., the theme to be "It's a Big Responsibility" in the form of a panel discussion. Mrs. Milton Hillis, Vice-president of Region 2, announced that her rally would be held in Cornwall Knox at 10:30 a.m. on October 7, Wed. During the afternoon session the 3 drop-in centres mentioned above would be discussed in much greater detail. Region 3: to be planned by Mrs. Garlough and Mrs. Forward. Region 4 and 5, plans not complete.

A motion was passed that the Rally minute books be returned to the January executive meeting, so they would be available when needed. Mrs. Morrison read a letter of appreciation received for greetings sent by Seaway Valley Presbyterial to Quebec-Sherbrooke Presbyterial's annual meeting. An expression of appreciation on behalf of those present to the ladies of Maxville for their hospitality was given by Mrs. David Frappier, recording secretary, and the meeting was adjourned.

Roll up your sleeve to save a life...
BE A BLOOD DONOR

Doris Clark

Break more hearts, honey!

DEAR DORIS — I have known this boy for several years and I'm sure he knows I like him, but all we are is just close friends.

I would like to know his other side, but he never asks me out on a date. Oh, sure! He asks me to go for a drive with his sister and his other girlfriend or hers, but that irritates me because they are French and persist in talking it when I'm present, even if he talks English.

I have gone out with four boys and broken all their hearts, because nobody but he interests me. What I really want to know is if I should come out and show him I like him or lie low?

Not Sure

DEAR NOT SURE — Lie low. Some of the best marriages result from neighborhood friendships, but you both have a long way to go before that.

It isn't actually thoughtful of him to bring along the family and friends and let them talk French all the time, is it?

Better risk a few more hearts and dates, and notice how the other boys take care of you.

DEAR DORIS — We raised a grandchild as our own. She kept company with a man who she later found was married. She was pregnant and kept the baby herself.

Now a boy she knew as a child wants to go with her, but she evades him. Should I scold her for turning this nice young man down? He could give the baby a name and be a father to him.

It seems like she is ruining her life and the baby's. She has good baby-sitters and works in a big hospital as a nurse's aide.

Frustrated Granny

DEAR GRANNY — I know it is hard for you to see the girl you raised in trouble. But wouldn't it be worse trouble for her to enter a loveless marriage? Have you ever tried living, day after day, with someone you had no feeling for?

Not to mention the effect an artificial situation like that would have on the little one you are seeking to protect.

Better let her work it out herself.

DEAR DORIS — Your readers have been sending us used greeting cards and we are grateful. This centre depends solely on the help we receive from our friends abroad to continue the work of spreading the Gospel here in Burma, particularly to those remote places on the Burma-China border where no pastors can reach them.

We remodel the cards and sell them to finance the radio and audio-visual work. Some really beautiful ones are made up into calendars.

We national Christians now are on our own, shouldering all responsibilities in mission work. It is made so much lighter and more pleasant with prayers and material help from our kind friends over the seas.

Saw Lader,
Christian Audio-Visual Centre,
82nd Street, Mandalay,
Upper Burma

Dear Mr. Lader — Glad to help. I understand you can use all kinds of greeting cards, which should be put in plastic bags, tied securely, and marked: "Used Greeting Cards, No Commercial Value." The official-looking form should not be put on at all.

Confidential to Puzzled Mother — Your daughter's attraction to persons of her own sex may have roots in her father's coldness. Children need affection; if a father fails to give kindness and understanding to a daughter, or a mother to a son, the daughter or son may be put off any normal interest in the opposite sex. Then he or she may turn to members of the same sex for emotional — and even physical — satisfactions.

It would help you a great deal to talk this all over with a social worker or psychiatrist.

Okay, boys! Open fire!

OTTAWA — On Oct. 4 the House of Commons will be back in business at the same old stand, with a slightly revised list of characters.

Pierre Trudeau and his assembled ministers have looked reasonably good to the Canadian public through their first two parliamentary sessions — but mainly because of the cream-puff opposition they've faced.

One has to question both the talent and the tactics of the Tories; the New Democrats have been so wound up in tub-thumping they rarely get around to pinning the Government down; and the Creditistes have never proved they should be taken seriously.

This time the Opposition has been handed a gold-plated issue on a parliamentary platter.

Before Paul Hellyer left the defense department, he ordered 115 CF-5 jet fighters for the armed forces, designed to give the ground troops support in the global-mobile role he assigned to them.

The fighters went into production at Canadair in Montreal and the role disappeared as the Trudeau Government pared the armed forces budget.

Those fighters are still rolling off the production lines, but we've got no place for them to go. Each new aircraft is lined up in mothballs at Trenton, Ont., as soon as it is delivered.

By early January there will be nearly 80 aircraft — worth almost $2 million each — sitting in storage at Trenton.

The order for CF-5s was something the Government should have thought about before it changed the armed forces' role, so that excuse isn't good enough.

The Canadian taxpayer has forked over $225 million for those aircraft, and what have we got? There are two squadrons — one for training at Cold Lake; one for operations(?) at Bagotville, Que. — and the rest are mothballed.

The Opposition should allow no passing of the buck. This is the Government that is responsible — and they should be made to come up with some answers.

So far they've been allowed to get away with a collective Gallic shoulder shrug, and it's not good enough.

The Government has been successful in shunting off things like the CF-5 goof — and the expensive Bonaventure refit — onto the shoulders of the armed forces.

Why? The only answer possible is that the Opposition either doesn't understand the situation, or is so hopelessly inept at tactics that it can't make the point.

Robert Stanfield has been hamstrung by a divided party since he became the leader of the Opposition, and that situation hasn't improved over the summer.

But surely one of the main reasons the party has remained divided has been lack of leadership. The Tories are in an excellent position to map strategy, then concentrate on one after another of the Government's shortcomings — but instead they mount an apologetic blanket attack that bogs down by tripping over its own verbiage.

Oh yes, sometimes they win the clever game in question period and draw a laugh or two at a minister's expense — but that is not the kind of Opposition our system needs to keep a Government on its toes.

This Government is long on theory — but extremely short on implementing even the most brilliant of ideas. That's the weak point, Bob Stanfield. Pick the specifics in each area one after the other and hang on like a bulldog.

If you don't, you may find that there's growing support in Canada for the idea that was presented half in jest and whole in earnest during a chit-chat in one Liberal backbencher's office.

"Things are so restricting for a Liberal backbencher," said one of those worthies, "that there's talk of us lending half-a-dozen good ones to the Tories for six months.

"It would be great experience for the under-employed — and Lord knows, the Tories need the help."

Pretty Wedding at Williamsburg Sat.

Beautiful potted mums and fall flowers decorated the Williamsburg United Church on Saturday, September 26th for the wedding of Myrna June Pitts and Lawrence Millard Carkner. The 2 p.m. ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. Adam.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pitts of Williamsburg, and the groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Carkner of Chesterville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in a full-length gown of white velvet trimmed with daisies, as was her white velvet train. She wore a crystal choker, a gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of yellow and bronze mums.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Barbara Laurin of Markham as matron of honour; Mrs. Bonnie Rushton and Miss Faye Henophy as bridesmaids. Flower girl was Monica Henophy.

Best man for his brother was David Henophy, and guests were ushered by Lester Carkner and Roy Pitts.

The attendants were similar to that of the bride, in bronze velvet, timmed in gold, and they carried bouquets of yellow mums. The flower girl carried a basket of yellow and bronze mums.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church hall, and the couple later left for a wedding trip to Niagara Falls, returning home via the United States.

Guests were present from Markham, Lanark, Ottawa, Ormstown, Inkerman, Chesterville, Winchester Winchester Springs, Belleville, Petawawa and Morrisburg.

CAMPAIGN FOR FUNDS BY BIBLE SOCIETY IN AREA NEXT WEEK

The Annual Campaign for funds for the Canadian Bible Society will be held in Morrisburg and the surrounding area during the week of October 5th, 1970. Plans have been completed to have this campaign carried out within the week during which time every householder will be canvassed.

As the source of supply of Scriptures in the language of people everywhere, the Bible Society strengthens the whole Church in all the world. Consequently, people of all denominations are vitally interested in the work of this Society.

The ministers of the Churches, Laymen representing the various churches, the executive and all the members of the local Branch make this urgent appeal to everyone to assist the work of the Society by having their donations ready for our canvassers. Donations should be made only to those canvassers who are equipped to give the properly numbered receipts which can be used for income tax purposes.

NOW HEAR THIS

Inside From The Outside, the end-of-the-month satirical look at the news which has been heard since last March, becomes a weekly show, Sundays, as of October 4. Starring such funny people as Max Ferguson, Michael Magee (also known as Fred Dobbs), David Hughes and Judy Sinclair, it makes frequent reference to a couple of fellows named Pierre and Robert and sundry other figures currently in the limelight. Faded film star Wendy de Vries hosts the series which now takes a weekly tongue-in-cheek look at the news. The series is written by part-time sociologist Murray Soupcoff, who prefers to be a fulltime satirist. He'll be aided by other comedy writers in the weeks to come...

The first show taped during the recent (and highly successful)— Funny You Should Say That western tour will be aired Oct. 4 with impressionist Rich Little as the guest. The popular satirical revue with Joan Stuart, Barrie Baldaro, Peter Cullen and Ted Zeigler will regularly be heard right after the NHL games which start Oct. 11.

Helen Hutchinson, the weekday afternoon host of Matinee becomes Mrs. David Harrison on October 2. In addition to her hosting duties on Matinee, this pert and vivacious young woman also appears on two local Toronto TV shows. Life Style, a daytime program which takes a discerning look at the way people live, and The Morning After, a Sunday noonday show about Toronto and what's going on there. She shares the spotlight with Bruno Gerussi, who of course has his own radio show, and Dan Finkleman, a regular reporter on Matinee.

Studio 71 returns to the network Oct. 4 with a reading of Out of Africa by Danish writer Isak Dinesen. Read by actress Maria Corvin, it will be heard for four weeks. Isak Dinesen is the pen name of Karen Blixen who lived in Kenya for 17 years where she managed a coffee plantation. This book contains reminiscences of her stay in Africa.

The Entertainers, Oct. 4 premieres a new folk cantata, Prairie Sailor, especially commissioned by CBC Ottawa for performance at the National Arts Centre as part of the CBC Ottawa Summer Festival. Prairie Sailor was prepared and sung by the popular Ottawa folksinger Tom Kines, and orchestrated by composer Robert Fleming. Fleming had been on the staff of the National Film Board until last July, when he became associate professor in the Music Department of Carleton University. He's written over 200 film scores, ballet suites, piano, chamber and symphonic music during his long career.

Education and the methods of application are getting quite an overhaul these days. With this in mind, Ideas Network has scheduled a five week series bluntly titled, School You! Starting Oct. 7. The series is made up of introductory programs to the vast theme of education, presenting the system as it has developed, as it is, and some of the alternatives to it. The first program was recorded at the Alternatives In Education conference held this summer at U. of T.

HIGH CLASS CANADIAN BULLS PURCHASED BY MEXICAN GOVT.

The Government of Mexico has purchased three high class Holstein bulls in Canada. These will be added to the battery of Holstein bulls at the Government's artificial breeding station at Queretaro. This station, opened a year ago, is one of the most modern in the world and its bulls are used to breed cattle throughout Mexico. The Holstein bulls are all of Canadian origin and have been supplied by Richard Schleissner, Jerseyville, Ontario.— who has ably selected richly bred Canadian bulls for the Mexican Government for the past twenty years.

One of the three bulls just shipped by Mr. Schleissner is from the herd of C.J. Cerswell, Beeton, Ontario, one from Glenafton Farms Alliston, Ontario, and one is jointly owned by Spring Farms Streetsville, Ontario and Floyd Watts and Son, Inglewood, Ontario.

The bull from Glenafton Farms is Mooreville Citation Graham who is classified Very Good and was bred by Donald C. Moore, Peterboro, Ontario. He is a son of the famous Class Extra Sire, Rosafe Citation R, who three times has sired the All - Canadian Get - of Sire. Graham has an average production on his three nearest dams of 22,856 lbs. milk containing 866 lbs. fat and testing 3.79 percent butterfat. His dam is a daughter of the Class Extra Sire, Rosafe Shamrock Perseus, and she and her two direct maternal dams are all classified Very Good.

The Cerswell bull is named Bond Haven Dinamo. He is by a son of the Royal Winter Fair, Toronto, Grand Champion bull, Thornlea Texal Supreme and his dam is one of the most famous cows in the history of the show ring in Canada. She is Bond Haven Signet Dolly, three times Grand Champion Female at the Royal Winter Fair Toronto, Ontario, and three time All-Canadian. MUSEUM VISITS IN ONTARIO ARE THE LARGEST ON RECORD

The Honourable James Auld, Ontario's Minister of Tourism and Information, and Public Records and Archives, announced last week that 1969 had been a record-breaking year for museums in the province.

In his statement he said, "In the past few years the province has experienced a tremendous increase in people's awareness of and interest in our historic past. Latest figures indicate that Ontario's museums received almost 7,400,000 visits in 1969, surely a dramatic illustration of the drawing-power of our historical heritage both from an educational and a tourist point of view".

There are 210 musums in Ontario Of these, 22 are owned by provincial agencies, 12 by the Dominion Government ,and 176 are run by municipalities, conservation authorities, Indian Band Councils, historical societies, service organizations and private interests.

Mr. Auld said he was particularly interested in these figures because of his Department's deep involvement in this field. Apart from the large historical complexes we run directly, such as Upper Canada Village, Old Fort Henry, and Sainte Marie among the Hurons, the Historical Branch of the Archives administers a very wide-ranging programme of technical assistance to the smaller museums in the province. In addition, many of those institutions qualified for provincial grants totalling almost $90,000 last year. "The efforts", he said, "of the dedicated group of people who run these local institutions, modestly assisted by us, have obviously been very successful. Moreover, there is every expectation that attendance figures will continue to rise".

Recent surveys conducted by the Department among visitors to Ontario indicate a very widespread interest in our history. Returns indicated that history was third from thetop in this tourist-interest analysis.

The Minister said, "the government is very conscious of our citizens' concern with the preservation of our heritage, and over the past fifteen years or so has initiated many programmes to attain this worthwhile end. While we are presently faced with very limited budgets and have to exercise the most stringent economy, we hope to continue our widespread activities in this field".

CONCERN

Herb Breithaupt is a man well-qualified to host CBC radio's weekly series Concern Wednesdays at 8:03 p.m. A United Church minister, Breithaupt describes himself as "a quiet revolutionary" who's found a new career as a sympathetic and openminded broadcaster. Concern probes the minds of people and their concerns in a fast-moving and often confusing world. It frequently charges full tilt into some "gutsy" issues whoch has earned it the kudos of both critics and audience.

Women Can Use Actions Effectively

BODY MOVEMENT AFFECTS PERSONALITY

Actions do speak louder than words, according to Julius Fast, author of the current best-seller, "Body Language." Mr. Fast says anyone can interpret the hidden or unconscious meaning in the movement of someone else's hads, feet or arms.

With the right body language, a hostess can put shy guests at their ease by a light touch on the arm, and wives and mothers can transmit a message of love to their husbands and children. "Touch is a tremendous part of our lives and all too often you run into women who say: 'I can't touch my children. I can't touch my husband.' I think this is the saddest thing of all," said the author.

Body Expresses Personality

He is quick to point out, however that body language—called kinesics, or non-verbal communication —is not new. Among certain ethnic groups, the expressive use of the hands is an important element in communication. Also, body language is part of the actor's stock in trade. For example, a 20-year-old thespian can successfully portray an elderly man by the movement of his hands, face, body or even the way he shrugs. "This is body language," said Mr. Fast.

Many psychiatrists view body language as an expression of personality. The layman, however, can gain insight into his own body language to understand what movements convey resistance, acceptance, rejection or approval. Body language can be controlled — even changed. "You can walk into your boss' office and make him feel comfortable or uncomfortable," — said Mr. Fast.

Now this awareness can also help alter one's personality. Mr. Fast explained: "...if your personality changes, your body language changes. Now reasoning backward, if you change your body language, you can change your personality. You can have an effect on your personality by changing and tailoring your body language."

Ties to Eyes

Although politicians can be coached in body language to improve their images or to enable them to project a greater aura of sincerity, the majority of people use body language unconsciously. This can range from the man straightening his tie as he greets a woman friend —a "courting gesture," according to Mr. Fast—to the gay Lotharios who can read a whole world of innuendoes in a woman's eyes.

Such a man can enter a crowded room and "automatically seem to know which woman is for him," said the author. The method is fool proof and is accomplished with a glance. Looking at each woman, he will hold her eyes as long as possible. "Most women will break the glance. But one or two won't... These are the women who are interested in him — whether sexually or not they don't know at this point. But they are certainly interested in him as a man." Next, the Lothario zeroes in on the favored woman, and with further body language measures the woman's acceptance of him. "He can touch her hand as she lights a cigarette. He can gauge her acceptance by the way she lets the touch linger or whether she draws away from the touch or returns it," said Mr. Fast.

Language of the Eyes

The eyes are the most meaningful instrument for body language. Mr. Fast points out that, except for children playing a game, people seldom hold a stranger's glance for a long period of time. Normally, in a crowded bus or elevator the tendency is to blink or look away. Mr. Fast has experimented with this and the reactions are sometimes "very strange," he said. Some register annoyance, anger or embarrassment. "But I also get some very pleasant reactions. I have discovered how basically friendly and outgoing people can be, even in a hostile a city as New York". All you need do for a friendly reaction, said Mr. Fast, "is speak the right body language."

In almost all infants, thumbsucking is a normal pastime. This pleasurable sucking occurs at bedtime, or when the child is bored or upset. A certain amount of thumbsucking is normal in preschool children as well.

Generally, if thumbsucking continues beyond the age of five, it becomes a problem and requires attention. The habit is probably fulfilling an emotional need and it is usually better to try to relieve the basic problem than to draw attention to the habit.

A mechanical restraint to prevent thumbsucking only causes frustration and aggravates rather than improves the situation. However, if the thumbsucking habit is not checked, real damage to the developing arch and teeth can result.

When the child is old enough to co-operate and has a genuine desire to stop thumbsucking, but cannot do it alone, there are certain devices which may help him. These include mittens or thumbguards, bitter-tasting medication painted on the thumbs, and oral reminders such as rakes and cribs. These appliances can be successful only when the child wants to stop and the thumbsucking habit is just that, not a fulfillment of an emotional need.

There are both fixed and removable cribs available. The choice and design of these depends on the dentist's own preference and on the degree of the reminder necessary.

Generally, the correction of the thumbsucking must be individual, depending on the particular child. No fixed rules can be applied to all children.

The minimum wage is going up.

An announcement on the new Minimum Wage and some improvements of Employment Standards in the area of job security.

As of October 1, 1970, the general minimum wage goes up to $1.50/hour, and the construction minimum to $1.75/hour. Then, on April 1, 1971, the general minimum jumps to $1.65/hour, and construction to $1.90/hour.

If your wage depends on the established minimum, get the whole story on the rising minimum wages by writing or phoning the Regional office of the Ontario Department of Labour nearest you.

At the same time the minimum wage goes up, new regulations come into effect to improve your job security.

For example, if you work for one of an associated group of companies and are assigned to another company in the group for a period of time, you'll get paid for any overtime you work just as if you were still working for the original company. All the other provisions of the Act apply the same way.

If, for any reason, your company closes down, all wages owed to you (up to $2,000) have preferred claim against the assets of the employer.

The same rule covers any vacation pay you may have coming (vacation pay must now be held in trust for you by your employer).

How much vacation are you entitled to? The law says you must get at least one week's paid vacation after your first twelve months of employment, and two week's paid vacation after each of the next twelve months.

Some new teeth in the law.

The Employment Standards Branch has the power to assess any money owing to you, either wages, overtime or vacation pay, and to collect it from your employer on your behalf.

Employers must also pay the Department a 10% penalty for withholding any money from you.

For the whole story on what these changes mean to you, write or phone your nearest Employment Standards Branch.

THANK YOU SO MUCH!

When coming home from a little trip with our four visitors from Holland, we got the nicest surprise of our life. A party had been organized to welcome our visitors and a lovely gift was presented to us on our 25th Wedding Anniversary. We were deeply touched by such an overwhelming show of friendship we hardly could have expected to deserve. It is only with poor words that we can express our deepest gratitude to all participants and well-wishers, which we do also on behalf of our Dutch friends and relatives. A special word of thanks and appreciation to Mrs. Cephus Smyth and Mr. and Mrs. J. Harvey who went out of their way to arrange this delightful surprise.

MR. & MRS. KURT POLAK.

IN MEMORIAM

CAMERON — In loving memory of our dear father, Edward Cameron, who passed away September 30th, 1966.

Time rolls on, and we are reminded
Of a day when our hearts were crushed;
When God took you, oh, so quickly,
And we all in gloom were thrust.
Now, lonely is our home without you,
But we hope some day to meet
And be forever with you at Jesus' feet.
