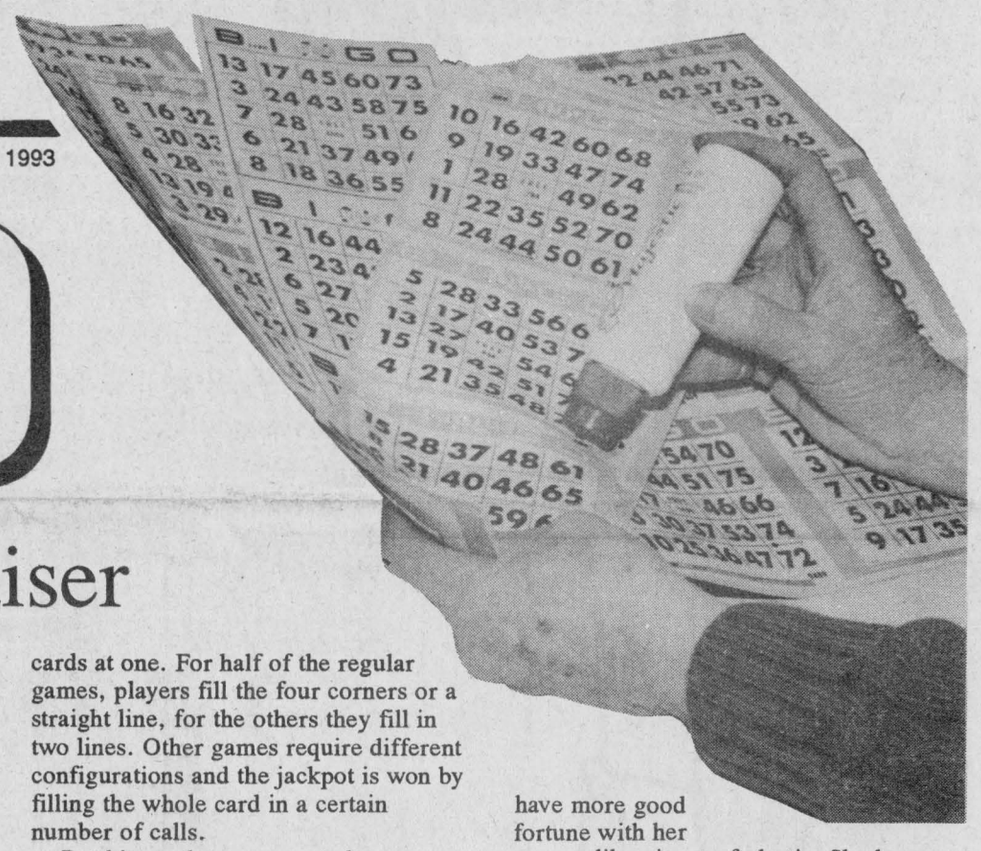
BINGO



Lions Club gambles on sure-fire fundraiser

Liz Edwards
Press Staff Reporter

WINCHESTER — The slightly smoke-scented air is almost still except for the popcorn sound of multi-colored, numbered balls jumping in a metal and glass case.

It's bingo night at the Winchester Lions Hall... and hardly anyone is talking. The players, seated at rows of low wooden tables, are too busy dabbing their playing cards with their big pink, purple or green markers.

As a ball pops up the chute of the case, the bingo caller picks it up and drawls out its number in an almost hypnotic tone.

"Under the B, Beee one ... Beee one, Under N, N 32... Nnn thir-tee-two..."

Suddenly, among the rows of tables, a white-haired woman wearing glasses raises her hand, calling out quietly ...

"Bingo! I've got one!"

Not all winners are as subdued as the white-haired woman, some can hardly contain themselves, according to Lions Bingo Co-chairman Bob Porteous.

"Some people it doesn't bother but some people really get excited and they're perspiring and shaking. It depends on who it is," he says.

But even if they're quiet, the players are enthusiatic. Monday night bingo is the Lions' biggest money-maker, raking in about $20,000 last year.

CROWD PLEASER

About 80 people on average go to the Winchester bingo every Monday. The game has attracted up to 200 at times during the last 12 or so years the Lions have run it.

People come for a night out and since the money goes to charity, they can feel their money is well spent, says Porteous. On Jan. 25, the Lions donated their proceeds to the Kaitlin Atkinson Fund to aid the family of a three-year-old who needs a heart-lung transplant at a United States hospital.

For $9, players can buy a package giving them nine bingo cards for each of the 18 regular games as well as cards for the three special games. There are also less expensive packages with cards for those who don't think they can manage nine at a time.

"Some people play three nines," says Porteous. "Some people will buy two nines, some people will buy a nine and a six, some people will buy only a six because they can't play as fast."

Players pay 50 cents extra for each jackpot, winner-take-all and 50-50 card where the player wins half the money collected.

Ivan Armstrong, 33, of Winchester Township and his wife France, 34, who are regulars at the Winchester Lions Bingo, spend around $60 a night at community bingos four times a week. He comes both to win and for entertainment, but mostly entertainment.

"The biggest I've won in Dunbar was about $200 and a bit," he says. "It's a night out... to get away from the kids."

LUCKY CHARMS

Bingo is a matter of luck rather than skill, save for the skill of blotting several cards at one. For half of the regular games, players fill the four corners or a straight line, for the others they fill in two lines. Other games require different configurations and the jackpot is won by filling the whole card in a certain number of calls.

But bingo players seem to be a superstitious lot who don't like to leave much to chance — not if they can help it with a few lucky charms.

A plastic green iguana sits in front of Armstrong's card. It's the iguana's first game and if things don't go well, he may not be back for another.

"I'm going to try him out. If he doesn't work, he goes in the garbage," says Armstrong.

Lorrie Munro, 29, of Winchester always brings a fuzzy, orange-haired troll when she comes to the Monday night bingo with her sisters.

"I've had it for a couple years. Oh I don't know. I think it's so ugly it's cute," she says, laughing.

The most she's ever won at one time is $100. Her sister Lea Anne, 20, may have more good fortune with her gnome-like pieces of plastic. She has won a number of times, including a jackpot of $540.

"It depends on the crowd, if there's not that many people here you have more chances of winning," she says.

The stakes aren't exactly Las Vegas proportions but the jackpot is at least $500, growing every week if it's not won. A regular game winning is $25, a special is $40.

The game is a favorite with many of the Florida- bound seniors crowd but Winchester's attracts a lot of people well below their retirement years as well. Lea Anne's sisters got her hooked on bingo. Generally her friends aren't interested but that doesn't bother her.

"They thought it was okay when I won," she says.

Farm update

Byvelds receive cropping award

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

WINCHESTER — Peter and Gerry Byvelds of RR2 Brinston were recently one of only five Ontario farmers — and the only ones in Eastern Ontario to receive the prestigious American Forage and Grassland Council's Outstanding Grasslander Farmer Award.

"It was a nice surprise that we won it. It's quite a big territory involved and we were the only ones in Eastern Ontario chosen...," said Peter Byvelds on accepting the award during a Dundas Soil and Crop Improvement Association meeting last week.

The Ontario Soil and Crop Improvement Association is a member of the American Forage and Grassland Council and OSCIA members are therefore invited to take advantage of the AFGC Awards Program.

The Byvelds brothers, also winners of both the 1991 and 1992 Dundas Forage Master award, operate Holland Vale Farms as a partnership and have been working together since 1981.

They operate a 350-acre dairy farm with 130 head of purebred Holsteins — 63 milking. The family uses AI and Eastern Breeders CAMP Program to assist with sire selection. They classify regularly and received their first excellent in June 1992. The cattle are housed in a tie stall barn with a pipeline milking system.

The feeding program consists of haylage, corn silage, dry hay, high moisture corn and roasted soybeans, all homegrown. The herd is on a monthly Herd Health Program with the Dundas Veterinary Services and a dairy ration consultation service is used to assist with ration formulation. The herd obtained the seventh highest composite BCA in Dundas County in 1991 with a composite BCA of 198.

The 1992 crop program included: 219 acres of corn, 61 acres of soybeans, 56 acres of spring wheat, 6 acres of barley and 182 acres of forage.

Besides the 350 acres of owned land, the Byvelds rent an additional 200 acres. Extra corn is grown as a cash crop.

The Byvelds are also involved in a number of local farm organizations and community groups. Peter is a director of the newly formed Golden Triangle Co-operative, director on the Dundas Dairy Herd Improvement Association, a director of the Dundas Holstein Club, and a past director of the Dundas Soil and Crop Improvement Association.

The farm has participated in the Dundas Forage Masters Competition, the Corn Management Club and has hosted tours and groups to their farm. Both Peter and Gerry's children are involved in the 4-H program.

Peter and his wife, Faye have three children, Allison, Trent and Benjamin; while Jerry is married to Wendy and has two children, Lori and Jason.

The Byvelds were nominated for the award by the Dundas Soil and Crop committee. A provincial panel evaluated and selected the winners, who were announced at the 1993 OSCIA annual meeting, held recently in Toronto.

Wilkinson warns of failing safety nets

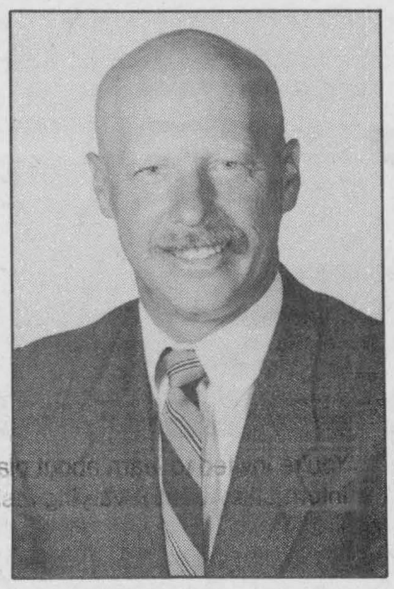
Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

SOUTH MOUNTAIN — Ontario Federation of Agriculture and Canadian Federation of Agriculture vice-president, Jack Wilkinson raised concerns over the effectiveness of current Canadian safety net programs, during the Dundas Federation of Agriculture's annual banquet held here last Friday evening.

"It's important to see what we should do regarding safety nets... if we do sign a GATT deal there will be limits on the amount of support we can put on any commodity," Wilkinson said.

"What do we do to support our family farm income? Do we continue to rely on off-farm income or do we design decoupled farm programs similar to the U.S. Farm Bill or the support programs provided by the European Economic Community?"

Decoupled programs provide a certain amount of support for farmers regardless of the amount of production. In some cases, farmers are even paid to keep land out of production, he explained.



Jack Wilkinson

Under the current Canadian system, support is tied directly to what is produced.

And according to Wilkinson, if a GATT deal is signed "these safety nets would provide very little ability to increase support above current levels."

Wilkinson said he became concerned about the effectiveness of our safety nets after reviewing recently released net farm income projections.

While figures showed Canadian farm incomes were almost twice those of the U.S. in the 1980s — U.S. farm incomes are now 60 per cent higher than ours, he said.

"There is a substantial shift in the relation between farm net incomes. The big change came about with the introduction of the U.S. Farm Bill in 1985. It helped increase the net farm income of U.S. farmers, while ours remained lower," he explained.

KEPT BUSY

Wilkinson has served farmers in a number of capacities over the last decade.

He was first elected as vice-president of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture at the OFA annual convention in November, 1990.

In 1991 he was elected second vice-president of the Canadian Federation of Agriculture and has travelled extensively across Canada working on national farm issues with farmers and provincial farm organizations.

His special areas of interest in the CFA and the OFA have related to farm finance, government taxation policies and environmental issues.

Wilkinson and his family operate a cow/calf, sheep and cash crop operation in the Temiskaming area of Northern Ontario.

He has stated that he will be letting his name stand for nomination as CFA president at the annual meeting in Hull in March.

Ormond Busy Bees meet

by Dan Marion

ORMOND — The January meeting of the Ormond 4-H Busy Bees was held at the home of leader Joanne Toonen with leader Betty Jean Mark helping.

With the members actively busy, working as a team, they made honey-garlic spare ribs, honey rice crispy squares, heavenly healthy honey balls, and honey apple crumble for all to taste.

Later in the meeting a video 'Hobby Beekkeeping' was viewed by the members, while they ate honey popcorn balls prepared earlier in the evening. Following the video, Lilli Dietrich had a trivia contest dealing with bees.

A game bee pictionary was led by youth leader, Lilli Dietrich, with all members having their turn. Great fun for all, including the leaders.

It was decided by Achievement Day Co-ordinators, Lilli Dietrich and Helen McRobbie that a demonstration of candle-making would be presented along with honey — a source of good food.

Plans by the members have been finalized to visit Benson's Bee Supplies and Crerar's Apiaries in the next meeting.

Markets opening up for red wheat

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

KEMPTVILLE — Hard red wheat is something local farmers should be taking a look at says a University of Guelph Crop Sciences professor.

"We now have decent varieties (of red wheat) and those better varieties will drive the system," Rick Upfold told a crowd during Crops Day last Thursday in Kemptville.

There are markets available for the red wheat, Upfold said. "Ontario produces only a small amount of the over one million tonnes of hard red wheat that is milled each year in the province. The millers did an informal survey and concluded that with the varieties we presently have, there is a market for 150,000 tonnes of Ontario-produced red wheat. If higher quality varieties become available, the market could expand to 500,000 tonnes."

This past year buyers were purchasing red wheat for approximately $137 per tonne as opposed to the $103 per tonne farmers received for white wheat.

"There is an economic advantage there (with red wheat) although it may not always be," he added.

Even a farmer growing only soft-white wheat would see an economic benefit from other Ontario farmers growing hard red wheat because if the total wheat acreage remains the same, a red wheat will mean less white wheat is going into the export market.

1992 CROP

The 1992 hard red winter wheat crop was lower in protein than the expected 11.5 per cent. Protein ranged from 8.8-13.6 per cent and averaged 10.6.

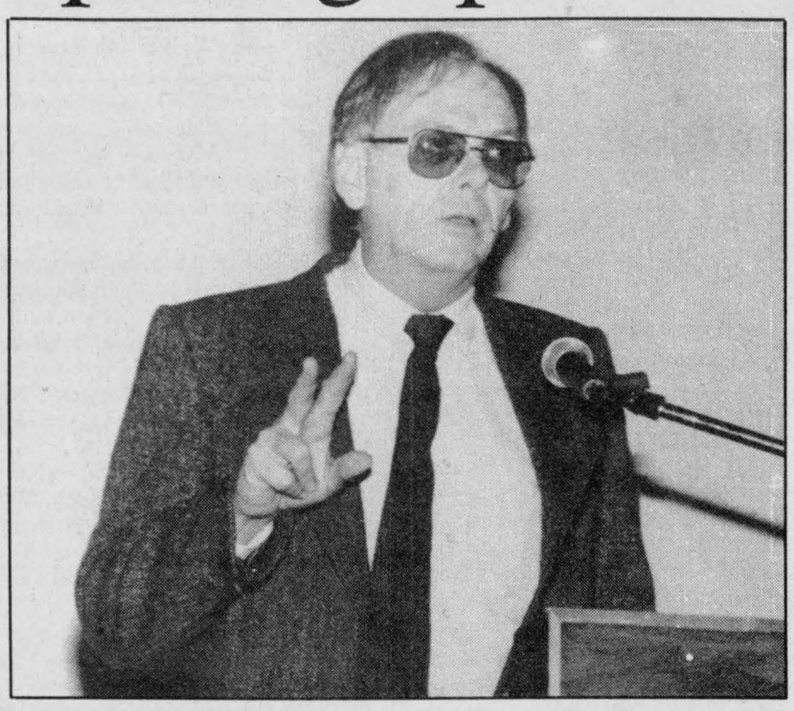
However, Upfold says he isn't concerned with the low protein content in the winters because this past summer was "not normal" and a number of factors affected the protein.

"There has never been a problem before and I don't predict protein problems in the future, he said.

On the lighter soils, nitrogen was leached out of the root zone. As well, in the heavier soils which stayed wet for extended periods of time, nitrogen was lost through denitrofication. Also, there were some great yields this year and high yields mean low protein, Upfold added.

From data he has received over the past year, Upfold sees no problem with the protein content of the hard red spring wheats.

"All the hard red spring wheats achieved that 11.5 per cent protein minimum," he explained.



Professor Rick Upfold discussed production practices and varieties of red wheat last Thursday in Kemptville.

RED SPRING WHEAT

There are two varieties of red spring wheat recommended for milling, Celtic from W.G. Thompson and Roblin from Secan. As well, there is one variety Norseman, also from Thompson's on the recommended list for feed.

In the milling types, there is basically no difference in disease resistance. However, Roblin is very susceptible to Fusarium Head Blight and will therefore probably not be on the recommended list next year, said Upfold.

Head blight leads to tombstones and in red wheat, the limit is .5 per cent for grades 1, 2 and 3, less than five per cent for feed and over five per cent it becomes sample, he explained.

Upfold also recommends hard red spring wheat not follow corn because the rotation will increase chances of getting the head blight.

The key to getting high yields of spring wheat is to plant as early as possible. Early planting allows the crop to develop under cool moist conditions which promotes good filling of the heads.

A seeding rate of about two bushels per acre is recommended by Upfold. A higher seeding rate doesn't pay enough to pay for the extra seed, he explained.

Seventy kg/ha of nitrogen on spring wheats is advised; while the amount of potash and phosphate depends on a soil test.

Broadleaf herbicides are basically the same as would be used for spring oats or barley.

HARD WINTER WHEAT

Karat by C&M Seeds is the only recommended strong gluten type of hard red winter wheat. However, it yields about 15-20 per cent less than the medium gluten wheats and will probably be dropped from the list next year, suggested Upfold.

In the medium gluten types, only Ruby from W.G. Thompson and Sons will be in the 1993-94 Field Crop Recommendations guide. However, another variety, Fundulea from C&M wasn't recommended this year, because the cereal committee requires two years of data — and so far Fundulea only has one year of data.

Crowds come out to popular forums

KEMPTVILLE — Good weather last week contributed to a very successful Farmers Week.

"Overall, attendance was up 15 per cent... I would say that made for a very good event," said program co-ordinator John Madill of the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology.

Figures were up or average for most days, with the popular Dairy Day attracting close to 350. Ecological Day attendance was also up this year and Crop Day and Beef Night received average numbers. Despite an ice storm on the first day of Farmers' Week, Pork Day still maintained average attendance.

The new addition to Farmers' Week — Vegetable Day, also attracted a good crowd and appeared to have a popular agenda with the pumpkin and sweet corn production said Madill.

Turnout for Money Matters last Friday was the only disappointment. Attendance for the event was down slightly — probably hampered by the bitter cold, he said.

And with above average turnout and no major problems, Madill says he expects the program to stay basically the same for next year.

Whether the January timeslot remains or whether any changes are in order is still open to discussion.

As well, there is a possibility that Sheep and Goat Days, which weren't on this year's agenda, may return next year. "We had a number of inquiries about them," he said.

Good publicity in local papers prior to the event, and the realization by farmers that they need access to good solid information as they look to the future, also aided in a successful event, added Madill.

Farmers' Week activities are organized by the individual commodity groups participating, while facilities and program co-ordination are provided by KCAT.

TMR works for Metcalfe family

Dianne Fetterly
Agricultural editor

KEMPTVILLE — A Total Mixed Ration (TMR) mixer installed at a Metcalfe-area dairy farm recently, appears to be paying off for the family.

"We wondered why we waited so long," said Karen Velthuis speaking along with husband, John to a large crowd during Dairy Day last Tuesday in Kemptville.

The Velthuis, in partnership with Karen's parents Ron and Betty Eastman of Riverdown Holsteins were on hand to outline some of the changes experienced in their 325-acre dairy operation since installing a TMR 15 months ago.

Although the family has experienced both pros and cons with the system, the advantages have outweighed the disadvantages in herd health, production and labor savings, suggested Karen.

According to Karen, the veterinary bills have gone down a bit and they have had less incidence of ketosis and twisted stomachs. As well the cows are back up on production quickly after calving and maintain that level of production for a longer period.

The weather no longer has as much effect on production, and cows cannot "sort" through their feed, she added.

Less labor is another plus with the TMR. While the family used to make four trips around the barn with corn, protein and haylage, they now feed everything in the one pass.

As well, the ration requires less baled hay, and therefore saves time at hay season.

The herd's production has also increased, probably because every ingredient is measured, said Karen. The herd's BCA was boosted about 28 points the first year and has leveled out since, she said.

DISADVANTAGES

The initial cost of the mixer was the biggest negative factor of the system, said John. While the machine was priced at about $19,000, the final cost was around $30,000 when extra features were added.

Another disadvantage was that the herd's fat test went up. And although production has increased, more quota may be necessary, he added.

The dairy herd's ration consists of, among other things: high moisture shelled corn, haylage, sorgham sudan grass, mineral, and protein. All the ingredients are weighed into the ration, which is mixed twice a day. The cows are fed four times a day and feed is always available.

Riverdown has about 50 milking cows housed in a tie stall barn. The herd is on milk recording, classifying and a herd health program. The Somatic Cell Count averages 138,000.

The cows remain indoors year-round, but are let out at night during the summer for exercise. However, they are still fed while outdoors in order to control what they eat. The heifers are fed outdoors year-round.

Karen and John Velthuis of Riverdown Holsteins in Metcalfe discussed their TMR during Dairy Day held last Tuesday as part of Eastern Ontario Farmers' Week.

$180,000 barn fire

VERNON— An early morning fire on Thurs., Jan. 28, completely destroyed a barn and machine shed at 4332 Porteous Rd., just south of Vernon.

According to Osgoode Township Fire Chief Gerald Bennett the call was received at 2:30am. By the time fire-fighting units were on the scene, a few minutes later, the barn was completely engulfed in flames.

The buildings, owned by Gerard Oude-Egberink were not being used for animals but a quantity of hay and machinery was lost.

Bennett said that a fire shield was put in place to minimize damage to two large silos beside the barn.

Approximately $180,000 damage was caused in the blaze which saw all Osgoode Township fire stations including Metcalfe, Osgoode, Greely and Vernon respond.

Bennett would not speculate on the cause of the fire, adding an investigation is still ongoing.

The loss was fully insured.

Profits hatched by Vars emu breeder

Anne Craig
Special to the Press

VARS — What exactly is an emu?

Many ask that question and one answer is, an alternative livestock that more and more farmers are raising because they are one of the easiest and most profitable animals to raise today.

Don McNeely, owner of several emus, tends to agree.

"They are a clean animal," McNeely says. "They are a great converter, they don't require much food, they use a low overhead to breed and they are easy to handle."

Emus grow to between five and six feet tall and weigh about 150 pounds full grown. They also can run at about 40 miles an hour. Emus live about 30 years.

McNeely has two breeding pairs of emus which were purchased in Texas. He has been in the business for two years along with his partner Denvil Brown.

McNeely finds emu-breeding to be very profitable. A breeding pair can sell for about $25,000 and $3,000 for a chick. As noted before, they are quite easy to raise.

The one problem is, the sex of an emu is almost impossible to tell. The male and female both grow to the same size and coloring.

"When I first got them (the breeding pair) I did have a problem," McNeely says. "I had two females together."

McNeely's two breeding pair stay in the back part of a barn. They stay in a type of stall with a run outside for fresh air.

The cold doesn't bother them even though they originated in Australia. The younger chicks stay in a heated room which used to be a pig barn. He also has three incubators for the emu eggs which cost about $600 each.

McNeely says the operation was easy to set up because "everything was already here".

Emus breed during the winter and an average female emu lays between 20 and 40 eggs each season with the breeding age about 2 or 3 years old. They lay an egg every three days during the laying season and the egg is about five inches long and a greenish color.

McNeely has successfully hatched quite a few eggs which incubate for about 50 days. He has since sold several of these chicks for profit.

McNeely explains that emu will always be needed because the entire bird can be used for several different things.

The meat is a red meat that tastes like and has a similar texture to beef but is lower in cholesterol and fat.

The feathers are used to make different fashion accessories as is the leather on the body and on the legs. Some examples are hats, earrings and boots.

The oil that can be removed from a layer of fat on the emu's back is used in cosmetics and also for medical products.

More and more people are starting to breed emus and McNeely will be offering a seminar on breeding emus on March 6.

He encourages anyone interested to come out and see what it is all about.

Core retains chairmanship of milk board

MISSISSAUGA — John Core was re-elected Chairman and Peter Oosterhoff was re-elected Vice-Chairman at a special meeting of The Ontario Milk Marketing Board held here recently.

Core has been Chairman since January 1990. He had served as Vice-Chairman of the Board since the summer of 1986, having served since 1981 as an elected member representing milk producers in Lambton, Middlesex, Kent and Essex Counties.

As a member of the OMMB, Core is an executive member of Dairy Farmers of Canada and sits on the Canadian Milk Supply Management Committee. He is a past director of the Ontario Dairy Herd Improvement Corporation.

Core and two brothers milk about 70 Holsteins on their 600-acre farm near Wyoming in Lambton County.

Vice-Chairman Peter Oosterhoff was first elected to the Board in 1975 and is in his fifth term representing milk producers in the counties of Wentworth, Niagara North, Niagara South, Haldimand and Brant.

He is first vice-president of Dairy Farmers of Canada, has served on the Advisory Committes for Milk, Cheese and Transportation as well as a number of other Board Committees.

Oosterhoff, along with his family, milk about 50 Holsteins on their 400-acre farm near Beamsville, Ontario.

The meeting was held on day after the 27th annual meeting of the board held in Toronto.

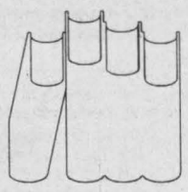
NEW GRADE 9 PROGRAM PRESENTED
THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 11, 1993, 7:30 P.M.

The Transition Years...



- Involves grades 7, 8 and 9.
- Link the skills and knowledge of grades 7, 8 and 9
- Give students time and support in making important career choices.
- Help students make the change from grade 8 to 9.
- WHY ARE WE DESTREAMING?

When students choose a level of difficulty they choose an educational and employment path. Research on adolescents indicates that grade eight is too early to be making such decisions.

In a destreamed course, students are encouraged to work to their full potential. They are told how their work compares to the expectations of the basic, general or advanced levels so they can evaluate their own effort and progress in relation to their life goals.

At the end of the course, each student will be better able to choose an appropriate level of difficulty for further study.

NEW for 9's in '93

Changes include...

- All courses offered at the same level of difficulty.
- Promotion based on achievement and effort throughout the year.
- Restructuring of part of the school timetable and emphasis on subjects to prepare students for the 21st century.
- Students working more with classmates under teacher guidance.
- Integrated year-long studies in English, Computers, Math and Physical Educ. in 40 minute periods.
- More integration of curriculum and learning life long learning skills.
- Students remain as a group as much as possible.

In Memoriam

QUINN — To a grandmother and great grandmother, Margaret Quinn, who's missed by us more than words can ever say.
There will never be a yellow rose in the garden of heaven quite as special as you.
— Forever loved by Rhonda, Vicky, Heather, Joshua and Jacob

QUINN — In loving memory of a very dear mother, grandmother and great grandmother, Margaret, who passed away Feb. 6, 1991.
To us you were someone special,
You were loving, kind and true,
You will never be forgotten,
For we thought the world of you,
So if you have your mother,
Cherish her with care,
For you never know the heartache
Until she's no longer there.
— Daughter Myrna and family
44

BLOW — In loving memory of a dear wife, mother and grandmother, Lena Pauline, who passed away Feb. 6, 1989.
God looked around His garden,
And found an empty space,
He then looked down upon this earth,
And saw your smiling face.
He put His arms around you,
And lifted you to rest,
God's garden must be beautiful,
Cause He only takes the best.
— Sadly missed, forever loved, husband Gordon and family

McAllister re-elected waste study chairman

ST. ANDREWS — Iroquois Reeve John McAllister has been re-elected as chairperson of SD&G Waste Management Master Plan, a co-operative planning effort by SD&G's 20 municipalities to find an economically and environmentally sound long-term way of managing the area's wastes.

Re-elected to the position of vice-chairperson at the Plan's Steering Committee meeting Jan. 7 was Roxborough Reeve Carson Payne.

Steering Committee membership in addition to McAllister and Payne consists of: Warden James Cook; Reeve Charles Sangster, Lancaster Twp.; Deputy-Reeve Estella Rose, Mountain Twp; Deputy Reeve Jacques Joly, Alexandria; Deputy-Reeve Gerald Montcalm, Roxborough Twp.; Public Liaison Committee (PLC) chairperson Susan Shaw, of Morrisburg; PLC vice-chairperson Pat Ager of Bainsville.

In keeping with the Ministry of the Environment's proposed ways to streamline the process, the Master Plan is working on parallel streams: a Diversion Study Report and Siting Process.

McAllister noted the group's progress since November includes: work on the Diversion System Report, which should be ready in about two months, and work in drafting criteria for landfill site selection, including digital mapping.

"The consultant presented us with information on the estimated required site size for landfill," said McAllister, "and the estimate is for a site of 87 acres (35 hectare), keeping in mind that the public input we received indicates that 50 per cent diversion of waste from landfill should be our goal."

"We agree that the Diversion System should maximize use of existing opportunities in SD&G and minimize costs, in keeping with the public's thoughts on the matter.

"We will also be asking SD&G residents to comment on criteria for landfill selection in the near future, the same way we did in asking for public input on what's important about selecting a waste diversion system. This process always uses the input we receive from the public as a base for decision-making in each step.

"We're also looking at a new type of approach called 'co-operative siting', since past efforts in other areas seem to indicate the old way of doing things hasn't been markedly successful in many municipalities."

McAllister also noted that study co-ordinator Anne MacGillivray has been invited to join the province's Waste Management Planning Steering Committee, as a representative for Eastern Ontario.

"We're pleased that SD&G is being represented by our co-ordinator at this top level of decision-making," said McAllister, adding that the SD&G WMMP was also recently recommended by MoE supervisors to creators of a Waste Study Training Program as an example of commitment to co-operation and public participation.

The next Steering Committee meeting will be held Feb. 18 at 7:30 pm at Roxborough Twp. Council Chambers. Meetings are open to the public.

The next PLC meeting will be Feb. 10 at the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food (OMAF) offices in Avonmore at 7:30pm. The public is invited to attend any and all PLC meetings, notes Shaw, PLC chairperson. On the PLC agenda is the discussion of a reduction/reuse directory for SD&G. Anyone with suggestions for reuse of materials that would otherwise go to landfill is encouraged to attend.

"We're also looking for suggestions from the public about how businesses and offices have reduced their waste for our newspaper series on waste reduction in SD&G," said Shaw. "There's a lot going on in SD&G and by publicizing waste reduction activities, maybe we can help show exactly how success happens."

For information about the Master Plan and its activities, interested residents can contact Study Co-ordinator Anne MacGillivray, P.O. Box 240, St. Andrews West, Ont. K0C 2A0, tel./fax 938-6112.

Golden Years Society elects new executive

by Myrna Cinnamon

WINCHESTER — The first regular 1993 meeting of the Golden Years Society was held on Thurs., Jan. 21 with a good attendance.

After singing O Canada and repeating the Lord's Prayer, Rev. Heather Jones from the Presbyterian Church installed the new officers.

They are president, Leila Helmer; past president, Violet Reaney; 1st vice, Doris Cross; 2nd vice, Gladys Clarke; treasurer, Isobel Lewis.

No secretary has been elected as yet. The new president thanked Rev. Jones and asked for help and co-operation from the members during her leadership.

Two birthdays were reported, no anniversaries and no visitors.

Minutes were read by Myrna Cinnamon, acting as secretary and approved as read. Two thank you notes were received.

The treasurer's report was given and adopted, seconded by Isabel Baker. Gladys Clarke and Doris Cross offered to act as auditors. The new card secretary reported that three get well cards had been sent.

This year will mark our 20th year anniversary and our president asked for help and suggestions for this special event. It was officially formed on June 14, 1973 and named "Golden Years" by Mrs. Ida Hansen.

A euchre party sponsored by the Lions Club will be held on Feb. 6 in conjunction with the carnival and hoped that many seniors would attend. Watch the Winchester Press for more details.

Our new president, Leila Helmer announced as we need money, we will be having several euchre parties on Thursday nights, the first one being Thurs., Jan. 28 at 8pm. The price is set at $2 with prizes and lunch. Many willing members volunteered the food.

There will not be a meeting on Feb. 18 as the Lions Club is catering a dinner for all "paid up" members of the Golden Years Society. It will be held on Feb. 18 at 7pm in the Lions Hall.

Shuffleboard was discussed and cancelled until later. A short intermission of music and singing took place with Olive Whitteker at the piano and Edie Riches leading the singing. Leila presented Rev. Jones with a bouquet of fresh flowers. Grace was offered by Rev. Jones after which all enjoyed a delicious pot luck dinner.

The meeting concluded after dinner.

New members are always welcome.
