Like any kid, this sheep does not seem to enjoy having its wool sheared. But it was all part of the annual demonstration of 1860's style sheep shearing at Upper Canada Village on June 4 and 5. Harold McBride begins by cutting the wool down from the sheep's throat (below). Then the sheep lets out a bleat as it is put in a rather uncomplimentary pose to have the wool shorn from its back (left).

Pioneers demonstrate shear skill

Morrisburg — When was the last time you got your hair cut for less than one dollar? Well, there are a few guys at Upper Canada Village who are getting paid only a dollar a day to cut hair!

But then it's not exactly human hair, it's wool. And, of course, it's the 1860's.

As part of the rites of spring at Upper Canada Village, a demonstration of 1860's sheep shearing took place on June 4 and 5.

The visitors dropping by Louck's Farm in the Village, especially the children, seemed to enjoy the demonstration. The sheep on the other hand, were not terribly pleased, though it is a far better fate than ending up as mutton.

The three shearers are the regular farm hands. A good shearer is expected to shear 20 sheep a day, and each day he would be paid a dollar. The farmer, on the other hand, would get from 25 to 35 cents per pound of wool, (and you get about 10 pounds of wool from each sheep). So who's getting a raw deal?

But these farm hands were taking it well. Charlie Cameron, one of the hands, says it is actually enjoyable, ''whenever you do this and talk to the people.''

He says the technique is not difficult to learn. The shearer sets the sheep on its back and puts its head between his legs. He takes the shears, which look like an oversized pair of black scissors, and cuts the wool from the neck, then down on both sides. The wool comes off in one big fleece.

''It's just like your opening a big coat up,'' says Cameron.

Except for the occasional ''baaaa,'' the sheep stay relatively calm. ''They are very docile whenever you set them down,''adds Cameron.

And the sheep are not hurt in the process. The shearer runs the clippers along the sides without pulling on the wool. And if the sheep is nicked, the oily lanolin from the wool can be rubbed against the skin to close the cut.

It takes the Upper Canada farm hands about 35 minutes to shear one sheep. Yet rumor has it that in New Zealand, a farm hand with electric shears can finish a sheep in about one minute, (and he's probably paid more).

The sheep being shorn at Upper Canada Village are not your common sheep. They are Leicesters, a British breed whose wool is both longer and stronger than that of common sheep.

In the 1860's, Leicesters were a top breed and they are still used today. But back then, wool was in high demand. The U.S. was in the middle of a civil war, so cotton was a scarce commodity.

While raw wool went for about 30 cents a pound, cheese was about 14 cents a pound, bacon, about 15 cents and it cost about seven cents for a beer.

Harry Pietersma, manager of the agricultural program at the Village, says the shearing exposition is meant to show the importance of wool during the 1860's. It is held during the first week of June, right after crops are planted, to keep the 1860's image accurate.

''We try to show a complete cycle of the work that went on in an 1860's farm and we like to do as much seasonal variation as possible so that we're offering a different program every week of the year.''

In addition to shearing, there was a demonstration of the wool being sold, then processed at the mill.

Unfortunately, you will have to observe some other seasonal activity next time you visit the farm at Upper Canada Village. Sheep shearing will not take place again until the first week of June, next year. So if you had your heart set on seeing it, and missed it, well that's just too ba-a-a-a-d.

Three bags full?

George Dawson, plant manager of the wool mill in Upper Canada Village, weighs a bag of freshly sheared wool. Besides the shearing, there was a demonstration of the wool being purchased, then processed at the mill.

Ontario drags feet on ethanol production: MPP

WINCHESTER — The provincial government passed a resolution June 2 to promote the use of corn and substandard grain in the production of an ethanol/methanol gas mixture and of CMA, a replacement for road salt.

Because the federal government set 1993 as a deadline for a ban on all lead emissions from exhausts, there is a search on for a cleaner fuel. Already, some states and the province of Manitoba have been working on a methanol/ethanol mixture, but local MPP Noble Villeneuve, who introduced the resolution, says it is time Ontario got into the game.

"What we are looking for is a clear message that this province intends to provide a home-grown solution rather than importing one."

Villeneuve says the government has been dragging its feet on the issue, and Terry Daynard, Executive vice-president of the Ontario Corn Producers Association, which represents about 22 thousand farmers across Ontario, agrees.

"In Ottawa fuel ethanol has been a high priority, but with Ontario the response has tended to be ho hum."

Daynard says the success of two ethanol service centres in Guelph indicates there is demand for the product, and he hopes Villeneuve's resolution will help "get (the provincial government) up to speed with everyone else."

He says fuel ethanol represents major market potential across the province, especially the eastern region because one of the major markets is Montreal.

Bob Seguin, Director of Economics and Policy for the Ministry of Agriculture and Food, admits that apart from studies, the provincial government has not been active on the subject.

But Seguin says it is because none of the proposals to create an ethanol production facility have been realistic, although the provincial government is currently reviewing a proposal from St. Lawrence Starch.

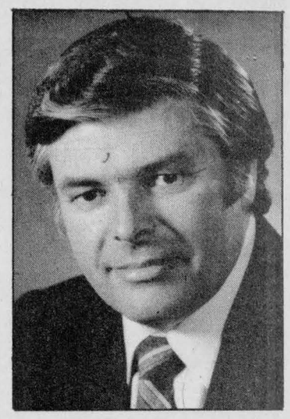
Presently, he says, the provincial government is waiting for an initiative from the federal government, expected around June 8, which may include subsidies.

In addition to ethanol, Villeneuve's resolution should help promote the developement of CMA, a replacement for road salt, which can be produced with corn.

Villeneuve wants the Ministry of Municipal Affairs to announce a plan to discontinue the use of road salt.

"Road salt destroys vehicles, road structures, damages orchards, the water supply and the environment. We need a message that (the provicial government) is promoting CMA."

Villeneuve says these alternate uses of grain will provide a long-term solution to the grain surplus, will be good for the environment and will create employment.



Noble Villeneuve, MPP

DFA to vote on proposals dealing with garbage problem

WINCHESTER — Aware of the growing problems with garbage disposal, Dundas County farmers want a reasonable system to deal with the situation, says an Ontario Federation of Agriculture director.

Arden Schneckenburger, OFA director for Dundas South, said "farmers all realize garbage is becoming a problem and we should do something about it."

Schneckenburger said the Dundas Federation of Agriculture is reviewing the 13 recommendations of the OFA Waste Management Ad Hoc Committee.

Although it will likely be at least July before the DFA will vote on the recommendations, the proposals were discussed at the federation's monthly meeting June 1 in Winchester.

While Schneckenburger said the DFA is satisfied with some of the recommendations, other proposals raise some concerns.

Schneckenburger said the OFA's suggestion to strongly promote energy from waste sounds good on the surface but he questions "the feasibility of the eost factor and physical characteristics."

He also questions the "feasibility" of a proposal calling for eventually eliminating landfill sites completely by finding ways to reduce the need for them. Schneckenburger said farmers need somewhere to put all their non-recyclable garbage like wire fencing.

Schneckenburger calls an OFA recommendation that all new landfill sites have state-of-the-art technology "pretty broad."

He said there is no indication what the costs would be using advanced technology.

Schneckenburger said he also disapproved of the recommendation for all waste management steering committee meetings to be made public because he felt certain heated discussions should be conducted in private.

He also said it would be difficult to administer one of the proposals which says that no industrial or household garbage be used for land fill until it is processed under one or more of the four Rs.

Schneckenburger said the first proposal that simply recommends incorporating the four Rs of waste management — reuse, reduce, recycle and recovery of energy — should be accepted by the DFA.

Other recommendations that will likely receive approval from the DFA include:

- Use of composting biodegradable material in farming.
- Consultation on waste management between the DFA and the appropriate ministries.
- Stringent air emission standards be adopted and enforced by the Ministry of Environment.
- Dependency on agricultural land for landfill sites be minimized.
- More accessible funds for the capital costs of waste management.

Closing the deal

Jean Michel Tessier, left, president and chief executive officer of Canada Ports Corporation, and Michael Furzer, centre, executive director of Elders Grain, sign documents giving the Australian firm a five-year lease on the grain elevator at the port of Prescott. The lease has three renewal options giving Elders chances to rent the 154,000-tonne-capacity elevator for a total of 20 years. At right is Rick Dobranski, vice-president of Elders Grain's Canadian operation.

Multi-national takes over Johnstown elevators

JOHNSTOWN — While passersby may not notice much of a difference, the Ports Canada grain elevators here underwent a change in management as a multi-national Australian firm took over.

During a May 26 press conference in Prescott, Ports Canada officials announced that Elders Grain Company Ltd., the Canadian arm of the giant Australian Elders IXL Limited, would lease the facility for at least the next five years, with the possibility of the lease being extended for up to 20 years.

Elders officially took over operation of the 154,000 tonne elevators at the start of business on Fri., May 27.

In making the announcement, Jean Michael Tessier, president and chief executive officer of the Canada Ports Corporation, said he was very excited about the new opportunities the leasing arrangement would present.

"Elders will provide new and dynamic opportunities for the elevator that are good for the port, the farmers and the local community," he said. "Elders IXL is a strong diversified corporation and Canada Ports Corporation looks forward to the new, joint cooperation."

Michael Furzer, executive director for Elders Grain, told the gathering that his firm was pleased about coming to Prescott and he predicted the move would "open a lot of exciting business opportunities."

In addition to continuing to serve as a transfer point for wheat from the Canadian Wheat Board and the Ontario Wheat Producers Marketing Board, the elevators under Elders management will also play a large part in the production of specialty crops for domestic use and for export.

Rick Dobranski, vice-president of the Canadian arm of Elders Grain, said the firm already has contracts for 1,000 acres of locally produced specialty grains this year. Eventually, he said, he hopes to have up to 50,000 acres under contract to Elders, all within a 100 mile radius of the Johnstown elevators.

Among the grains Elders will be looking to produce locally are canaryseed, lentils, faba beans, peas, safflower, sunflower, buckwheat, mustard, canola and flax.

Long process

The decision to turn over the operation of the elevators to the private sector was the end result of a year of studies and negotiations. In May of 1987 the crown corporation called for proposals from the private sector to operate the facility and Elders was one of four to respond.

The decision to award the lease to Elders was made by the board of directors of the ports, on the recommendation of an internal task force which reviewed the private proposals.

Mr. Furzer, who travelled from Melbourne, Australia to attend last week's press conference, said the firm will spend between $100,000 to $200,000 over the next year on alterations and renovations at the elevator. He also said that while Elders had some changes in mind for the facility, all of the current workforce would be kept on and he expressed confidence that everyone would fit in with the firm's plans.

"We are going to expand the products going through Prescott," he said. "We're going to see a greater variety of grain. As far as any noticeable changes go, you may see some containers lying around since we are also going to be involved in bagging and palleting and there may also be a few structural changes.

"I can assure you that we will be doing some new and interesting things in Prescott, although they may not be readily apparent."

Under terms of the agreement, Ports Canada will complete repairs to the roof hoppers and the rail line, projects which had already been approved before the Elders takeover.

The Canada Ports Corporation will continue to operate at the port, being responsible for the two water berths and a warehouse. Two employees, operations manager Eldon Bailey and finance and administrative officer Claire Worth, will remain employees of the crown corporation.

Villeneuve pleased

The announcement was welcomed by local politicians, and especially by Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Tory MPP Noble Villeneuve. Mr. Villeneuve, who also represents the East Grenville area, has been lobbying for years to promote non-traditional uses for grains, such as in the production of ethanol as a fuel additive.

This week the Legislature will debate a private members bill submitted by Mr. Villeneuve on the issue and he said the timing of last week's Elders' announcement "couldn't be any more appropriate."

Mr. Villeneuve said he feels that his plans for non-traditional uses for grains could fit in well with Elders' plans for the elevators and he promised company officials that "you'll be hearing from me about this."

With annual revenues of approximately $7-billion (US), Elders IXL Limited has extensive international involvement in the agribusiness, brewing, finance and resource industries.

Last year the firm bought out Canada's All-State Grain, which was renamed Elders Grain Company Limited, and it also purchased Carling O'Keefe Breweries and in the process took over as owners of the NHL's Quebec Nordiques.

AgriNotes

Milk marketing totals lower

Total milk marketings were one per cent higher in April 1988 as opposed to April 1987, a smaller increase than the previous three months.

Year-end MSQ utilization will be influenced by a number of factors in addition to total marketings. These include fluid sales performance, the provincial average butterfat test and cream producers' utilization of their share of the provincial MSQ.

The fluid market is buoyant but the upward trend in the provincial average butterfat test is offsetting the market's gains.

$20 million awarded

More than $20 million will be sent to Ontario and Alberta white pea bean producers enrolled in the National Triparite Price Stabilization Program.

Approximately 2,700 white pea bean producers are eligible for this stabilization payment based on 1987 crop yields.

After the supplementary premium is deducted, the net payout will be $192.55 per tonne.

Ontarians love strawberries

A recent study of Ontario consumer attitudes discovered seven in 10 strawberry buyers are aware of the difference between Ontario grown and imported berries.

The survey was commissioned by Foodland Ontario.

According to 70 per cent of the respondents the major difference is taste. Consumers say Ontario grown strawberries are sweeter and richer tasting.

When in season, strawberries are bought at least twice a month, but 48 per cent of strawberry lovers indulge at least once a week.

Junior Farmers donate money to juvenile Diabetes research

TORONTO — The possibility of a cure for juvenile Diabetes is closer than ever as a result of a $22,030 donation by the Junior Farmers Association.

Dundas Junior Farmers and other clubs throughout the province held events to raise money for the foundation.

The local club raised money by holding a pie contest, donating money to answer roll call at meetings and gave proceeds from its annual banquet. The Dundas club raised $375.

The majority of the money raised came from the Provincial Auction held at the annual conference in March in Toronto.

The money raised during the campaign was presented to Betty-Jean Findley, National Executive Director of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation. Delegates representing Dundas County were Heather McDiarmid and Greg Holmes.

Horse course

KEMPTVILLE — Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology is offering an equestrian program commencing in September.

The program concentrates on developing skills required for employment in the horse industry. Under the direction of college staff, students will be given the opportunity to develop skills in riding, coaching and stable management techniques.

The course begins in September and ends in April. Deadline for applications is June 30.

Health unit predicts peak year for rabies

OTTAWA — In response to an alarming increase in incidences of rabies this year, the Ottawa-Carleton Regional Health Unit is holding rabies clinics in Manotick and Metcalfe on June 11.

Residents may bring pets of over four months of age to be immunized at the clinics. The charge for the service is $10 per pet.

In Metcalfe, the clinic will run from 1-5pm at the Metcalfe Firehall, and in Manotick from 1-5pm at the Rideau Township Arena.

Health Unit spokesman Rob Dolan, in an interview Monday, urged pet owners to get their animals immunized.

"We're quite concerned," he said. "It looks like it's going to be a bad year (for rabies)."

According to Dolan, rabies "tends to move in waves." In 1982 there were over 200 incidences reported in the Ottawa-Carleton area, but the numbers have been steadily dropping until this year.

There have been over 75 reported incidences since January 1988, said Dolan. By comparison, there were 75 incidences reported during the entire year of 1987.

A pet is most likely to contract rabies through contact with a fox, racoon or skunk, said Dolan. Symptoms of the disease include "erratic behaviour, frothing at the mouth, and aggression."

"Also, one should watch for unnatural behaviour in wild animals," he said. "Wild animals who act strangely passive, or nocturnal animals who appear in daylight and get close to humans".

Anyone observing a pet or wild animal with any of the above symptoms should call the Public Health Inspection Division of the Health Unit at 722-2200.

Ormond Owls taught safety

by Linda Vanderlaan

ORMOND — On Wed., May 25, 1988, the Ormond Outdoor Owls met for the third meeting of the Encounter the Outdoors 4-H project of this summer.

The meeting was called promptly to order at 7pm by president Shawnalee Mark with all of the members rising for the recital of the 4-H pledge.

The minutes of meeting two were read by Shawnalee with no errors or omissions to record.

"Safety in the Outdoors", poison ivy and other poisonous plants, "Handling an Accident", "Swimming on the Trail", "Drinking Water" and how to start an organized search party when someone is lost was discussed with full participation by everyone. Youth leader, Linda Vanderlaan had some of the members do demonstrations of injuries and the proper first aid to treat them.

The members were informed by the leaders of the date the books are due — July 25, and the club's special outing — a camping trip — is planned for July 15.

The home activities were discussed and the date of the next meeting, June 29, was decided upon. The meeting came to a close at 9pm.

Pauline Lister and Jane Anderson, above, have seen three months of preparation pay off with the May 20 opening of their new tea room and gift shop in Osgoode Village. The partners have succeeded in creating a peaceful atmosphere in their establishment, with just the right touch of class.

Old church houses florist, tea room

OSGOODE — The former Presbyterian Church in the heart of Osgoode hasn't lost its country charm after being converted into a tea room and gift shop.

A stained glass window over the entrance and six church pews with their Victorian print upholstery give a refreshing air to Ye Olde Kirk Tea Room which seats 40.

At the rear of the building behind three gothic-style windows is the Gothic-Florist and Gifts shop.

The project is the brainchild of co-owners Jane Anderson and Pauline Lister. With nine years experience in floral design they felt they had the expertise to set up a professional shop in Osgoode.

Last fall they took a small business management and marketing course and the idea for a business venture took root. The results of a survey showed there was a high population of senior citizens and young families.

They felt that the two shops in one building would attract a greater scope of customers.

"Each business helps the other," said Anderson.

"We wanted a certain look," said Lister, looking around the inside of the converted church. They created a peaceful atmosphere with a touch of class.

Quiet background music plays in the shop, similar to the theme from the movie Out of Africa. And both the interior and exterior are set off with burgundy and rose tones.

The tea room and flower and gift shop officially opened on May 20 after three months preparation. A total of nine are employed including three part-time summer students.

Tourism still undeveloped in region

WINCHESTER — In a year when Winchester is celebrating its centennial and Chesterville is celebrating 150 years, the awareness of tourism in the area may be higher than usual. But while there is a tourist push this year, it may still be a neglected industry.

Last year, tourism in the Seaway area was up by about four per cent after having risen by even more in previous years. In addition, county councils have been allocating more money to the Seaway Valley Tourist Council, which promotes tourism within the United Counties, Grenville, the villages of Prescott and Cardinal and the city of Cornwall. In the past four years, its budget rose by about 24 per cent.

But the area's promotion is still far behind that of others.

For example, while Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry decided to allocate 47.6 cents per capita per year to the tourist council, and Cornwall allocates 55 cents, places like Renfrew allocate over a dollar per capita for tourism.

"We've been way behind other areas and I think we've got to start to produce," says Williamsburg Township deputy reeve Glen Cunningham who represents the United Counties on the tourist council.

Cunningham says services offered by the tourist council have been improving, but county councils should make tourism a higher priority if they expect more growth.

The council publishes a calendar of events every two months, posters and brochures are also distributed from one of its seven information booths throughout the Seaway Valley. It also promotes the area on radio and television shows throughout Ontario, Quebec and Northern New York.

In addition, Cunningham says the council holds seminars for businesses that would benefit most from tourism, like restaurants and gas stations.

But he says many of the businesses are not taking advantage of the service. For example, Al Scott, vice-president of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, says he doesn't know of any business that has dealt with the tourist council.

But though Winchester cannot compete with 'tourist meccas' like Morrisburg, Terri Lalonde of the tourist council says the village has a lot to gain.

"We hope that as more people visit, for example, Upper Canada Village, people will filter through to the rest."

George Currier, Warden of the United Counties, says he is satisfied with the work of the Tourist Council so far. Though he agrees there is room for growth, he thinks "tourism could be made a higher priority by the provincial government".

And while the provincial government has announced a "destinations east" program that should help market the area, according to Lalonde, "there has been no impact yet."

This year, the centennial celebrations and the 30th anniversary of the St. Lawrence Seaway should draw more tourists, but Cunningham says if the tourism industry is to grow, more money and effort will be needed.

□□ CHEESE TIPS □□

Cheese is one of our most versatile foods. You can eat it at any meal, anytime of the day, and you can find a use for it in any course from appetizers right through to desserts.

To get the most from your cheese purchases, here are a few tips:

- The best quality cheese will deteriorate rapidly if you don't look after it. Keep cheese tightly wrapped in plastic wrap or foil in the refrigerator. Double wrap strong ones so their flavour doesn't affect other foods.
- We do not recommend freezing cheese, however, the firm types will freeze if you find you have too much, but you can expect a change in their texture, appearance and sometimes flavour.
- Don't freeze large blocks of cheese. Cut them into smaller one pound packages before wrapping.
- To enjoy the flavour of any cheese to its fullest, bring it to room temperature.
- Wondering how much cheese to buy for that new recipe you want to try? You'll get about four cups of grated cheese from a pound.

In Memoriam

MORROW — In fond and loving memory of a dear, kind husband, father and grandfather and great grandfather, Howard Morrow, who entered into eternal rest June 14, 1977.
You left some beautiful memories
But sorrow too great to be told
To us who loved and lost you
Your memory will never grow cold.
May the winds of heaven blow gently,
On the quiet and hallowed spot,
Where one we love is sleeping
And never will be forgot.
—Lonely wife Lillian and family
9

LAWRENCE — In loving memory of a dear father, grandfather and great grandfather, Walter C. Lawrence, who passed away June 7, 1987.
Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of him today
Are those who loved him best.
The flowers we lay upon his grave
May wither and decay,
But the love for him who lies beneath,
Will never fade away.
—Donalda, Anita Patricia, Walter and families
9

LINK — In loving memory of our dear mother and grandmother, Pearl Link, who passed away on June 9, 1985.
Three years ago today,
A heart of gold stopped beating,
Hard working hands at rest
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the best.
The leaves and flowers may wither
The golden sun may set
But the hearts that loved so dearly,
Are the ones who won't forget.
—The Family
9

FAWCETT — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Merrill, who passed away June 13, 1982.
Remembering you is easy,
We do it every day,
Missing you is the heartache
That never goes away.
We have learned, with silent effort
To hide the tears that start,
But we cannot hide the longing
That lies within our hearts.
Loved and lost forever,
But always in our hearts.
—Wife Mable, sons, Jimmy, Donald, Raymond, Dwaine, daughter, Margaret, Joyce and children.
9c

ATCHISON — In loving memory of a dear brother, Newman, who passed away June 9, 1986.
A loving brother, true and kind,
No friend on earth like him we'll find
For all of us he did his best,
And God gave him eternal rest.
In our hearts his memory lingers,
Sweet, tender and true,
There is not a day dear brother,
That we do not think of you.
—Forever missed, always remembered, Russell and Gwendolen
9

BELLINGER — In loving memory of a dear mother and dad, grandmother and grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Silas Bellinger, who departed their lives, mother May 31, 1966, dad June 4, 1972.
Fond memories linger everyday,
Remembrance keeps them near.
—Ever remembered by daughter Olive, son-in-law Herb, granddaughters, Helen and Patricia 9

HITSMAN — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, William Hitsman, who passed away June 8, 1986.
We often sit and think of him
When we are all alone,
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.
—Lloyd and Marilyn Guy and family
9

ATCHISON — In loving memory of our dear father, Newman, who passed away June 9, 1986.
If dad could have spoken to us before he died,
These are the words he would have said,
"This life for me has truly passed,
I've loved you both to the very last,
Weep not for me, but courage take
Love each other for my sake,
For all, I did my very best,
Till God called me to eternal rest"
To us you were someone special,
God must have thought so too,
Nothing could be more beautiful,
Than the memories we have of you.
—We will always love you Dad, Ann and Robert 9

ATCHISON — In loving memory of my dear husband, Newman, who passed away June 9, 1986.
There is someone who misses you sadly,
In the house where you used to be,
There is someone wo wanted to keep you,
But God willed it not to be.
I remember the day I met you, dear,
And the day God made you mine
I remember the day I lost you, dear,
I will till the end of time.
May you always walk in sunshine,
And God's love around you flow
For the happiness you gave me,
No one will ever know.
It broke my heart to lose you
But you did not go alone,
For part of me went with you dear,
The day God called you home.
—Lovingly remembered, Wife Evelyn
9

In Memoriam

ATCHISON — In loving memory of a dear uncle, Newman, who passed away June 9, 1986.
He left us quietly,
His thoughts unknown,
But he left us memories
We are proud to own.
So treasure him God,
In the Garden of Rest,
For while on earth,
He was one of the best.
—Forever missed and always remembered, Duane, Linda, Stewart, Susan and Matthew

HOW DOES IT FEEL TO REALLY BE NEEDED?

Sure, we always need blood. But that's just the beginning. Who runs the blood donor clinics? Who telephones, registers and assists at each clinic?

In fact, who runs the Red Cross? Volunteers, like you. And, that's what we really need, YOU.
