It's That Time Again

What Time Is It? If a survey was taken there is little doubt this question would prove to be the one asked by most people.

Here in Winchester there is no longer a need to wonder what time it is since the Bank of Montreal has supplied the answer in the form of a beautiful clock atop a pillar near the front entrance to the branch office.

Located prominently on Main Street West, the new B of M clock is a welcome addition to the town. At night it is illuminated, providing not only more beauty to the town's business section, but another facility.—Press Staff Photo.

PRIORITY ITEM AT ANNUAL

Chamber Promises Parade In '69?

Failure, for the first time in several years, to have a Santa Claus parade in Winchester will not be repeated. That is the word from Winchester Chamber of Commerce who at a directors' meeting Tuesday morning said the entire Santa Claus day format would be reviewed immediately.

The review of Santa Claus' visit, parade and decorations will come up for prime discussion at the annual meeting of the Chamber slated for January 23rd. A full scale effort will be made to have as many members and guests as possible present at this important meeting. Complaints and the smallest turnout in years are the main reasons for the Chamber's immediate concern. Winchester Lions Club has intimated that it may be interested in helping out when the next big day rolls around. And according to the Chamber, co-operation will be given the Lions if they wish to come up with something new and different in December 1969.

For the annual dinner meeting a new slate of officers will be introduced and the Chamber is hopeful that it will be in a position to provide a key speaker for the occasion.

The expensive Santa Claus outfit was left in the hands of President Walter MacDonald Other groups wishing to use the suit and headgear must approach Mr. MacDonald for permission. A fee will be charged if the outfit is allowed to go "outside" the village.

Elsewhere in this issue The Chamber publishes a "thank you" to all persons who helped out last Saturday, with special emphasis to the business people and others who contributed cash for the purchase of the candy and other incidentals.

Council, CC Board Improvising Plans To Help Youngsters

With less than a month to go before a new Reeve and Council take over the administration of village government, Monday night's regular session of the town fathers was devoted primarily to cleaning up unfinished business.

Exception was the Community Centre and it is expected that the new council will continue on where the present board left off. Councillor Roy Fawcett reported that two prices had been obtained for the transportation of youngsters to and from arenas either at Morrisburg or Metcalfe. It is understood that a Colonial Coach Lines bus would run about $50.00 for 50 passengers per night, while a price from Docksteader Brothers revealed that suitable bus trahsportation for 70 passengers would cost about $25.00 per night.

Pending the decision of the Community Centre Board on nearby arena rentals Counci' withheld a decision. It is expected, however, that final arrangements for transportation could be reached this week if a "package' deal can be made with either or both Metcalfe and Morrisburg. Total cost of the project which would allow skaters and young hockey players "ice time' during the winter season could run as high as $2,000. Council generally agreed that the money would be wisely invested, and it is anticipated that the new incoming council will feel much the same way.

Necessity to transport the youngsters to other centres comes as a result of the decision to shut down Winchester Community Centre. Reeve Elect Don Christie said the grading and flooding could get underway at the Community Centre parking lot, immediately east of the bullding, within the next few days. More lights will also be installed, he said.

Lucky Old Santa And His Helpers

As promised, Santa Claus made his annual pre-Christmas visit to Winchester last Saturday. Although he expressed some disappointment that no formal parade had been organized in his honour, he soon regained his jovial personality at sight of the hundreds of children out to meet their chubby friend. Santa apparently has changed his age-old custom of having little elves accompany him and has replaced them with pretty maidens. Although wide-eyed youngsters seen only Santa, it was noticeable that many fathers seemed more attracted to the "helpers."

Saturday's chill north wind made the foyer of Winchester Public School chilly and draughty, but the exuberance of 700 children brought a special kind of warmth that only thoughts of Christmas could create.

While the bells in the Presbyterian Church tower filled the air with Christmas carols, the children filed past their red-coated friend. Some happily buried little heads in his silky white beard, while others seemed just a little reluctant to come too close. Be that as it may, each and every child had a special message and left convinced their request would be answered sometime in the dark lonely hours of Christmas Eve.

Assisted by members of Winchester 100 Club, Santa had candies for all and when the last of the long line had finally passed, and the children were comfortably seated in Winchester Theatre, Santa made another call.

He knew only a stort distance away there were little ones confined in hospital rooms who were expecting him, and he did not let them down. Accompanied by his three faithful "helpers" he received a warm reception and each child seemed to feel just a little better as his merry laughter echoed through the halls.

Santa did not limit his calls to the children, however, and exchanged greetings with all departments of the hospital.

Winchester Village Council, in co-operation with Theatre Owner Arthur Knapp, had a special gift for the children. All were treated to a fine matinee showing including cartoons while their parents visited the gaily decorated Winchester stores.

Santa's departure from the village is veiled in mystery, but some claim to have spotted reindeer tracks in the snow behind the Berry elevators. He'll be back again at Christmas with his sleighload of gifts, and he'll be back again next year. Winchester businessmen are, even now, predicting a more favourable reception at that time with a return of the ever-popular Santa Claus Parade.

PICTURE

Old Santa apears pleased with the help supplied by North Dundas District High School for his visit to Winchester last Saturday. Life at his North Pole workshop will seem rather dull this week with only his little elves for company, after having spent an afternoon in the company of such pretty girls. The girls, too, appear convinced their "letters to Santa" will be answered. Left to right, Faye Hutt, Bonnie Davidson and Susan Boyd.—Press Staff Photo

THE NEWS in Brief

Bell Rates Going Up !

Bell Canada announced last week that because of rising costs it has applied to the Canadian Transport Commission for approval of higher telephone rates and charges. The Company has asked that the new rates take effect March 1, 1969.

Under the new exchange grouping system, part of the company's application, Winchester will change from old rate group 4 to new rate group 3.

According to R. R. Pearson, local Bell Canada manager, the rate for individual residence service in Winchester would increase from $3.90 to $4.45 per month. Business service would go up from $7.05 to $9.00 for individual line service, and the monthly cost of private branch exchange trunks would change from $10.60 to $13.50.

No change is proposed in the rates for customer-dialed long distance calls over 35 miles. Most calls requiring services of a long distance operator will be higher.

Car Insurance Rates Too !

An average countryside increase of 4% in insurance rates for private passenger cars is expected next year. For commercial vehicles the indicated hike is just under 1%. These, Robert Catherwood reports in the Financial Post, are the implications of an analysis by the Insurance Bureau of Canada of the annual Green Book record of claims and premiums.

The average, however, covers a wide spread of changes — ranging from an 0.8 % reduction for Ontario to a 12.2% increase for Manitoba.

The Financial Post writer says that very few drivers, however, will end up with a precise 4% increase. Depending on an individual's claims record, type of car, age, how he uses the car and where he lives, he may face more than a 4% jump. Or he may even enjoy a reduction.

Looks Like A White Christmas

Many thought that first blinding snowstorm hitting Winchester November 19th was "just a warning. A few were still not convinced as each new storm piled up more and more of the lovely white stuff.

Some still don't believe "it's here to stay."

Temperatures early Monday morning may have been nature"s answers to those who can still see possibilities of a green Christmas.

With the mercury dipping to the zero mark and a "wind factor" of 38 below, all indications now point to the White Christmas everyone is dreaming of.

Rising Costs

Last regular meeting of the present Council was held Monday night in the Council Chambers. The theme was not much different from other meetings throughout the last two years . . . rising costs.

At Monday's meeting Council said that extra police protection on Halloween night cost $170.00. Council also intimated that a good look would be taken at security before Halloween 1969 arrives.

It was also revealed that the volunteer firemen's pay over the year will exceed $2,000. Counncil voted in favour of increasing the pay to election workers on December 2nd because of the extra long hours at both polls.

Accounts passed for payment included: Water system, $9,-118.25; Hydro, $8,891.95; and Municipal, $12,516.20.

A final brief meeting of Council will be held on December 31st to wind up affairs of the current year. First meeting of the new council will probably be held on Monday, January 6.

Steady Now . . . That's It!

Longer business hours, extra lights and a general busy time creating near overloading will create a peak demand for electrical power again this year, municipal council has been advised. Word from the Ontario Hydro Commission this week warned of the high demand and the possibilities of power interruptions if the load becomes too heavy. Hydro is prepared for such an eventuality but with an unexpectedly high demand there could be trouble.

In winding up business Monday night Council also approved of the new MacDonald subdivision and now awaits approval from the Township of Winchester for annexation of property bordering on the Winchester village east line at the end of York street and running southerly. Final agreement has also ben reached on the Lannin subdivision. All is in order and the subdivision final approval must now come from the Ontario Municipal Board. No further obstacles are seen for this subdivision, council explained. paving the way for a brisk building trend in Winchester next year.

Cathodic rods will again be installed in the water tower. The rods collect iron deposits and must be removed and cleaned periodically. It was also announced that the water tower and tank would be painted not later than 1970 and that the interior would also be painted within three years, on word from the Ontario Water Resources Commission. OWRC also notified council that rate structure would be forthcoming for the new sewer system just as soon as the design plan had ben given final approval.

Council revealed that relief payments in the village were running higher this year than usual.

Vice And Craig Opening New Funeral Home Saturday

In a special Dedication Service by Winchester Ministerial Association at 2:00 p.m. this Saturday, the renovated, ultra-modern Vice and Craig Limited Funeral Home will be officially opened.

Having undergone a complete overhaul, there is no resemblance to the Church Street house that so ably served the area for many years.

Following the opening, visitors will have an opportunity to see the beautiful interior from the spacious chapel to the quiet smoking lounges.

With the new premises open, the firm will once again have all three branches operating again. During the renovation period the funeral homes at Chesterville and Metcalfe were being utilized.

On Page 5 of this issue the Press is pleased to print a brief history of the undertaking business since the early days of the village.

Don't Have A Fireman "Dampen" Your Christmas

Here's advice from the Joint Fire Prevention Publicity Committee of Canada:

Your evergreen Christmas tree and its decorations are potential fire hazards. They head the list of a sensible family's preparations for a happy holiday.

Your tree should be fresh. A dry tree readily sheds its needles. Keep your tree outdoors until you are ready to decorate. Indoors, keep the tree standing in water, after cutting off at least an inch from the butt. Replenish the water daily.

Your electric lighting strings should be checked for frayed cords or short circuits. Buy only CSA approved sets. Use non-flammable decorations. Disconnect the lights when leaving home or going to bed. Candles, of course, constitute added hazards..

Keep matches out of the reach of little hands.

Clear wrappings away from the base of the tree as soon as the gifts are opened.

Set the tree away from the fireplace. Do not block access to exits.

Have plenty of large ash trays for the guests who smoke.

Never leave small children alone or unattended in the home.

Cookstove fires from oils or grease are an emergency. Smother the flames . . . a rug . . . baking soda . . . never water. If this doesn't do the job, get everybody out and call the Fire Department.

OPP WEEKLY REPORT

Holiday Hints For Car Driving

Ontario Provincial Police in Dundas County last week patrolled 12,657 miles in 1,173 hours. During this time there were 38 charges laid under the Highway Traffic Act, along with 71 warnings being issued. Officers investigated nine infractions of the Liquor Control Act, which resulted in ten persons being charged and one person being arrested. There was also one theft, one disturbance, and 20 miscellaneous complaints, investigated by the Ontario Provincial Police. On our area highways, there were six property damage accidents and one personal injury accident, which resulted in two persons receiving minor injuries.

Magistrate's Court was busy during the past week with Court being held in both Morrisburg and Winchester. Officers spent a total of 30 hours in these two courts and registered 108 convictions.

During the past weeks there have been several sections of the Highway Traffic Act quoted for the information of all the readers. But now, with all of our highways covered with ice and snow, and the holiday season fast approaching, we should stop and think a little about winter driving and what it means to us as drivers, and also as parents. So that all of us will still be around to enjoy all of our children's holidays, as well as our own, and with this thought in mind, here are a few tips to insure it:

1. Start Gently. On packed snow or ice, start gently and gradually. In a car with manual shift, use second gear. Turn wheels straight ahead to ease starting.

2. See and Be Seen. Keep windows and windshields free of snow and ice. Turn on headlights during daytime snowing; this helps others to see you.

3. Get the Feel of the Road. Keep a check on the surface of the road, testing it for slipperiness.

4. Follow at a Safe Distance. Keep well back of the vehicle in front, so that you will have plenty of room to stop. Drive at slower than normal speeds. It takes 3 to 12 times more distance to stop on snow and ice than on dry pavement.

O.P.P. Night Before Christmas

Twas the night before Christmas
And over the street
The traffic was heavy,
There was some snow and some sleet.
But drivers were careful,
To keep their speed slow;
They practiced safe driving,
Let their courtesy show.
So it happened that on this
Most hallowed night,
Everyone arrived safely,
And Christmas was bright.

Hockey Coaches Clinic To Be Held At Smiths Falls This Weekend

R. Greig Fowler, Secretary-Registrar, Ottawa and District Hockey Association, reports that a coaching clinic sponsored by the association, will be held this Friday and Saturday.

More than forty coaches are expected to attend, and registration will be held from 6 to 7 p.m. on Friday evening at the Carousel Hotel, and the first session, which will be held at the hotel, will commence immediately following the registration.

The Friday evening program will deal with ODHA and CAHA matters as well as the playing rules and regulations. Ken Mantin, Development Co-ordinator with the CAHA, will come to Smiths Falls from the CAHA office in Winnipeg to lead the discussions, and he will be assisted by Mel McCoy of the Ottawa and District Referees Association, and Greig Fowler Secretary Registrar of the O. D H. A.

Saturday's program will begin with an "on ice" session at the Smiths Falls Memorial Centre commencing at 9 a.m. The sessions will be given by Major Danny McLeod of the Royal Military College at Kingston. Major McLeod has had wide experience in conducting coaching clinics across Canada and while at the clinic will concentrate on instruction procedures for teaching hockey fundamentals to young hockey players. Immediately following the "on ice" session, Major McLeod will conduct a seminar on coaching techniques and will supplement his talks with several excellent instructional films on coaching which have just been released.

Additional group seminars and another "on ice" session have been scheduled for Saturday afternoon. The clinic will conclude on Saturday evening with an informal banquet and a symposium involving the candidates and the instructors attending the clinic.

In an effort to have the manority of communities represented at the clinic, the ODHA will provide all meals and, where necessary, hotel accommodations at no cost to the candidates. A travelling allowance will also be made available to each candidate.

Coaches who would like to attend the clinic for the entire session, or for Saturday only are asked to contact the Secretary Registrar, Greig Fowler South Mountain, Phone 989-2826 or 989-2156, without delay.

OFFICIAL OPENING THIS SATURDAY

New, Modern Funeral Home To Serve Winchester District

The completely renovated funeral home of Vice and Craig Limited will be open this week, and everyone is invited to inspect the new and modern facilities at the Church Street location in Winchester.

Dedication Service by the Winchester Ministerial Association will be held at 2.00 p.m. Saturday, December 14th, and following this impressive ceremony the building will be declared officially open.

This progressive-minded Winchester business firm now serves not only the village and district but also the entire Chesterville area through its branch in that village, and also extends to the limits of Ottawa by virtue of another modern establishment on Highway 31 near Metcalfe.

Like so many other successful business firms its history dates back to a humble beginning. Indeed there are some in the village and surrounding district who well remember that beginning. It was in 1900 and the man who then detected the need for such service was the late Merrick Durant who, with his son Blake, combined the "undertaking" business with the manufacture of pumps. This was not an unusual thing at that time since, in most cases, the burying of the dead was, to use modern lingo, a "part-time" job.

DURANT TO DIXON

Fifteen years later, in 1915 both businesses changed hands, Jacob Dixon took over the pump factory and his son, Albert Dixon, purchased the funeral business. Unfortunately ill health forced him to give it up and it was taken over by his brother, J. Leslie Dixon. At the same time another brother, W. O. operated the Chesterville business.

Under the leadership of Mr. Dixon the business in Winchester grew, but in nearby Chesterville a new name appeared on the undertaking scene when the late Earl Gordon succeeded W. O. Dixon. Following the death of Mr. Gordon, J. Leslie and his son Lloyd carried on serving both Winchester and Chesterville.

Lloyd enlisted in the R.C.A.F. during World War 2 and during his absence R. W. Vice and Gordon Rice worked for the firm.

DIXON TO VICE & CRAIG

In 1949, on January 1st, Robert W. Vice and George Dudley Craig formed a partnership and purchased the Winchester Funeral, Furniture and Ambulance business. At the same time, W. B. Rowe took over in Chesterville.

Only fourteen years later, in 1963, Vice and Craig purchased the Chesterville business from W. B. Rowe, and on July 1st of the same year officially opened the new Chesterville Funeral Home, which has continued to expand through the years.

On December 30th, 1964, the partnership became an Ontario Private Limited Company, now known as Vice and Craig Limited, with R. W. Vice, President, and G. D. Craig, Vice President and Secretary-Treasurer.

EXPANSION

In 1965 Vice and Craig Limited purchased a 3½-acre tract of land on Highway 31, one mile north of the Metcalfe interchange, and this became the site of an ultra-modern branch funeral home serving the northern area and Ottawa suburbs.

FIRE DAMAGE

Temporary setbacks were suffered during the 1967-68 years when fire struck three times. First the Winchester furniture store was destroyed and then the warehouse was completely gutted. Besides these two crippling blows a new car was also destroyed and earlier this year the president, Robert Vice was involved in a two-car smash on Highway 401 which kept him hospitalized for some weeks.

Another Vice name appeared on the Winchester business scene at about this time when the Furniture department of the business was sold to Melvin and Linda Vice. (This business, too, is expandng rapidly, and now has a branch in Chesterville).

AMBULANCE SERVICE

In 1968 Vice and Craig Limited was granted an Ontario License to operate a completely equipped ambulance which is the only officially recognized service between Ottawa, Finch and Cornwall.

All patients authorized by their physician are entitled to service under Ontario Hospital Services Commission at a nominal charge to the patient of $5.00 for the first 25 miles and an additional 15 cents per mile from there to destination.

This ambulance is radio equipped XND-814 and operates on frequency 150.100 and can contact any other licensed service in an emergency.

NEW FUNERAL HOME

Realizing the need for more accommodations the firm, following a detailed study of the situation, is ready to open one of the most modern funeral homes in the entire district.

Designed by Architect A. Ross Donovan, the new building is completely air-conditioned with controlled temperature and humidity. The entire bulding is beautifully carpeted and capable of accommodating as many as six funerals at one time. The spacious main chapel will seat 150 people, and a public address system makes immediate communication throughout the building possible.

There are modern smoking lounges and washrooms, and a large parking lot adjacent to the building will be completed by early spring. This fine new addition to Winchester business is at the same familiar location on Church Street.

The directors of the firm will be pleased to guide you on an inspection tour of the building on Saturday and hope many will find time to attend the Dedication Service.

IN MEMORIAMS

FADER—In fond and loving memory of John M. Fader, a dear husband, father and grandfather, who passed away December 11th, 1966.

Today recalls the memory,
Of a loved one gone to rest;
And those who think of him to-day,
Are those who loved him best.
The flowers we lay upon his grave,
May wither and decay;
But the love for him who lies beneath,
Will never fade away.
—Wife and family. 32c

NO SAFE WAY...

says Health and Welfare Minister

Over the years cigarettes have been jokingly referred to as "Coffin Nails", and now a recent report by the Minister of National Health and Welfare seems to take some of the merriment out of the expression.

"The main purpose in releasing this information" said Mr Munro, "is to allow people to know tar and nicotine levels of the cigarettes they smoke so they may, if they wish, avoid those with high and choose those with low levels."

The Minister went on to say no safe way to smoke is known and strongly recommends that Canadians avoid cigarette smoking entirely.

"Nevertheless," he went on, "many people find it difficult to stop smoking and we feel it is important to help them to reduce the inhalation of cigarette smoke constituents into their lungs. Tobacco tar contains several irritating chemicals and a number of substances that can cause cancer or contribute to cancer production. Nicotine causes the heart to beat faster and temporarily elevates the blood pressure. Nicotine is assumed to be the basis of the dependency that develops to cigarette smoking.

The release carries a complete list of various brands of cigarettes with their respective tar and nicotine content. Some were found less dangerous than others and smokers were advised not to rely on the brand of cigarette as the only way to reduce the inhalation of cigarette smoke constituents into the lungs.

"nI addition to tar and nicotine," Mr. Munro said, "there are several toxic or irritating gases in cigarette smoke. Abou' four per cent. of the gases is carbon monoxide. These gases may not be reduced along with tar and nicotine levels. However, the smoker can reduce his intake of all cigarette smoke constituents, gases as well as tar and nicotine by reducing the amount of smoke he inhales.

The Minister suggests ways this can be accomplished. Here they are:

—Lengthening the period between cigarettes.

—Lengthening the period between puffs.

—Not inhaling.

—Removing the cigarette from the mouth after each puff.

—Throwing away a very long butt. Tar and nicotine collects in the tobacco as the cigarette is smoked and the shorter the cigarette is puffed the more concentrated the tar and nicotine in the smoke becomes.

And of course the most effective course is not to smoke."

Views On The New Math

Don't feel too depressed if you have not mastered the "New Math". The new math may not be suited to modern needs for mathematical skills, suggests Canadian University in its report on recent mathematics conference in Ottawa.

Curt Moser, head of mathematics at Algonquin College's School of Technology in Ottawa maintained that high schools are graduating students with a low mathematical skill . . . they can't do things like simple interest, percentage and fraction problems . . . even though, through some of the techniques used in the new math, they have high abstract mathematical skill.

To Send Or Not To Send

Each year, at this time, comes the same task. Pondering over the long list of those "dear friends" who remembered us last year with a card. With red pencil poised and an evil glint in eye, we set out to cut that long list down to size.

Usually, an hour or so later, bewildered and frustrated, the pencil is laid down, the list is set aside and no names have been left off.

Having given up in despair most people resign themselves to the fact that no solution is possible and it is simply a necessary evil and fortunately only happens once a year.

Not so with a prominent Morrisburg businessman — he thinks something can, and should be done.

His major complaint centres on the cards that are sent, every year, to workers, friends and neighbours with whom we have already shaken hands and extended warm wishes.

"I have often thought," says Les Cruickshank, President of Cruickshank Construction Company, Morrisburg, "of a way to cut down on this duplicaton, and would like to pass the idea along to others I know feel as I do."

Mr. Cruickshank's plan is something that could only work locally and would need the wholehearted co-operation of the weekly newspaper media or some willing sponsoring agent.

He proposes publishing a list of names — the names of those who do not prefer to exchange Christmas Cards locally. A brief glance at such a list would indicate immediately that this year "John and Sarah Doe" were NOT sending cards on the local level and thus their names could be "scratched" from that ever-growing list.

"And what's more," says Mr. Cruickshank, "a local Service Club could make this a money-raiser by charging a little extra for the necessary administration of such a plan."

When asked if he planned to organize some type of campaign to sell his idea to the public, and if so, what steps he intended to take, his answer was "I'LL DO MY LEVEL BEST."

Not a bad idea, Les, but we can think of a couple of card manufacturers and 15 or 20 thousand dealers, not to mention the post office who think Christmas cards are just the thing. Matter of fact, the Christmas card business contributes greatly towards the economy of the country. And although the lists have, indeed, grown to lengthy proportions, it is doubtful that the Chrstmas card business will go out of style for a long, long time.

Safety For A Better Christmas

There's nothing like a blown fuse to darken the festive season—unless it's standing around watching firemen hose down the living room, while the Christmas tree goes up in flames.

As the Christmas shopping budget gets thinner and thinner, householders tend to ignore warning signs on lighting equipment for indoor decorations and outdoor holiday displays. The tendency is often to say, "It's good enough for another year," one too many years in a row.

"Safety should be part of everybody's holiday preparations," says John Scully, electrical inspector in Winchester. "All wiring should be checked carefully for signs of wear, particularly that used on Christmas trees. Trees dry out quickly in homes and apartments and become real fire hazards unless watched very carefully.

If a lighting set has frayed wires, cracked or brittle insulation, broken lamp sockets or damaged plugs, throw it away. Another sure sign of trouble is when a fuse blows after the lights are turned on. If trouble persists after the fuse has been replaced and new equipment purchased, switch to less heavily loaded circuits. Two further things to remember, never use fuses of more than 15 amperes capacity, or indoor light sets for outdoors.

A useful tip always is to check whether the lighting equipment carries a mark indicating it has been approved by the Canadian Standards Association.

Where's The Funk And Wagnall??

Rowan and Martin's popular "Laugh-In" show on television has had more than its share of laughs out of the name of a famous word encyclopedia belonging to Funk and Wagnall.

Now a Canadian Board of Education is reported to be experimenting with a new teaching alphabet with about 100 youngsters whereby word spelling will be changed so that the youngster can learn easily.

Admittedly the English language is difficult to master. And some of the double meaning words with the same spelling leave a lot of people wondering. The alphabet in question was devised in England, where else, and it is supposed to be a "tool by which children learn to read more quickly."

Here's an example: "Wuns thaer wos a man in an oeld house." To many a harassed business man it seems that students already are graduating from high school and going into jobs with that kind of spelling entrenched. Why encourage it at the primary level if we are not going to change the entire muddled mess? Surely it is just as easy for a child to write "there" as it is to write "thaer" and "old" is simpler than "oeld." As pointed out, the English language is complex but it would seem that the experimenters are seeking the easy way out until the stage is reached where non-teaching is the fashionable thing. Then, each child will have his own spelling style.

After all, if "wuns thaer wos a man" is accepted, what is wrong with "wunce ther wuz a man" and everyone to his own dickshunary . . . or should that be dixshonerrie or . . .

Better stay with the Funk and Wagnall!

My Christmas Carols

I love to sing. Just as some crows do. Have you ever stopped and felt a pang of pity for that crow who was trying to get a little vibratto into his "Caw-aw-aw"? I have. I know exactly how he feels.

There are strong, rugged men throughout the British Commonwealth today who turn pale and shudder every time they remember my trying to get through such intricate melodies as Knees Up, Mother Brown, or There Was An Old Monk of Great Renown.

There are tenors and altos and sopranos and contraltos, and all sorts of other singers. I sing bass.

As a lover of singing, and the possessor of a bass voice. I am particularly obnoxious at pre-Christmas parties where everyone, after a few belts of orange juice or something, start warbling beautiful descants to the carols.

I just caw away at them, and they all come out sounding much the same. Good King Wenceslaus comes roaring out on a Silent Night, decks the Herald Angels with Bows of Holly and goes back in for another bash at the wassail bowl.

After a lot of thought; I've decided that it's the words that are wrong, not my voice. I know the first line of all the great carols and Christmas songs, but after that, I just sing, "Ho Ho Ho and Yah Yah Yah and Something Nice and Something Else."

New words; that's what we need. We must remember that these lovely carols were written, for the most part, by people who didn't realize that Christmas was going to turn into the biggest cash-register-ringing season of the year.

They were monks and priests and reverends and musicians who thought that Christmas was a time of joy. They weren't with it. They didn't even know that the turkey was a sacred bird. They didn't know that an atom-bomb toy was just the thing to make sparkle the eyes of your little boy. Or that a necklace of real pearl was just the thing to make sparkle the eyes of your big girl.

And that's why I decided our carols and Christmas ditties had to be brought up to date, with words that relate to the 1960s. Thus, we'll remember the words better, and won't have to fill in with stuff like, "Di Do Dee Dah Dee Dum Dum."

These songs are both sacred and secular. But enter into the spirit and you'll see how important the up-dating is. Now, I haven't the time, energy or talent to write complete versions I'll just give you the first verse. Then you're on your own, and the whole family can join in the game.

All together now. The first is to the tune of Jingle Bells.

From there on I won't give you a clue. And don't mind the odd spot where the stanza has a few extra words. That's half the fun.

Jungle war, jungle war,
Jungle all the way.
Oh, what fun it is to shop
On a mad December day.

* * *

God rest ye merry, gentlemen,
Let nothing you dismay.
You'll have your Christmas bills all paid
By the 24th of May.

Good old Stanislaus looked out

And the Russ stood all about
Deep and Crisp and even a little ashamed of themselves.

Hark, the Herald's ads all sing,
Big, fat gifts are all the thing.
Don't be scared to ask for lots,
Cheaper junk will please the tots.

Oh come, all ye faithless,
Hopeless and on acid,
Oh come ye to Yorkville
And worship the grass id.

Deck the dolls with poison ivy
Then you won't be tempted to
Get all warm and sort of live-y
And end up in a cold, domestic stew.
See what can be done? We
Three Kings of Orient are . . .
What rhymes with "are"?
That's right. "Car," not "camel." Go to it.

In December

Snowflakes softly drifting down
Over countryside and town,
Give the earth an ermine crown
In December.

Warmth of glowing hearthside fire,
Brightness of winter attire,
Spicy flavours all conspire
In December

Eyes are smiling, bright and gay,
Hearts are singing all the day,
Joy of Christmas comes to stay
In December.

The Seventh Column

The last few issues of this newspaper, this one no exception, have been jammed with the commercialized message of Christmas. We refer to the many exciting advertisements telling Winchester and the district of the extra special buys in Winchester and district stores, and also offering more than a few suggestions as to what makes a good Christmas gift. We may not like the idea of a commercialized Christmas...but most of us take part in it if we buy even one gift. For the store owners it is a most important season. It could make the difference between a profit and loss year...or maybe it will just add a little to the pot. The point is this: These same people who want our Christmas dollars are the ones who year round support this town and the district in taxes, donations and, as a rule, activity in one or more worthwhile projects. So, when you are thinking of slipping out of town for that gift or ten why not give the home town merchants first chance. Ten chances to one they have exactly what you want, and at the right price. It's really an investment and you, the shopper, will pick up the dividends in a dozen different ways in the days ahead.

Because Christmas comes on Wednesday this year The Winchester Press will come out with a regular edition next Thursday to be followed by a complete Christmas special on Monday, December 23rd. Each subscriber should receive his copy "before" the big day, and persons wishing special Greeting advertisements should notify this office immediately if arrangements have not already been made. By the way, this year's Christmas special will be the largest ever published by this newspaper, and because of a record high circulation it will be read by more people than in any previous year.

All news media make them. We refer to the "slips" which crop up even in the best from time to time. They make choice reading and provide a chuckle or two. Consider the following exact quotations taken from newspapers across the United States and recently published in a book appropriately called Press Boners:

Mr. Matthews is in Clay, Texas, where he is taking the place of the Santa Fe Railway for two weeks.

He felt the Canadian beauty at her apartment and went home.

After the literary program refreshments were saved by the hostess.

Steady down-pours swept the western half of the state into north-central Texas.

Here the bridal couple stood, facing the floral setting and exchanged cows.

The president has been sick for several days and he is now in bed with a coed.

We wish to thank our many friends and neighbours for their kind assistance in the recent destruction of our home by fire.

The fire broke out while the parents were milk cows in the barn.

Meditations . . .

REV. CECIL W. TUININGA

Matthew 5:9: "Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God."

In the beatitudes Jesus calls men blessed. They are that in the first place because of what they are, and not for what they experience. But they are also called blessed for what they do. So in this beatitude. A peacemake is one who acts. He imparts something to others. By his words and actions he influences others, quieting roused feelings and soothing irritated dispositions. Such people are a blessing for society and are to be envied.

How the world today needs peacemakers! One can rightly conclude that there are few of them, but many troublemakers. There have been over 40 wars since the last world war, not to mention the many riots and uprisings all over the world. One wonders: Just where are the peacemakers? Why, in a world that works and prays for peace, is peace not found?

The trouble with our warring world is that men no longer listen to the peacemakers. Men are seeking peace but they seek it without the peacemakers of which Jesus spoke. Jesus was not speaking about men of a conciliatory disposition, but of men who seek to impart to others the true peace of reconciliation with God in Jesus Christ. That is the only peace that can bring peace on earth. Sin brings unrest. Wars are the result of hateful hearts. The apostle James says of it, "From whence come wars and fighting among you? come they not hence, even of your lusts that war in your members?—James 4:1. Men first have to repent of their sin and be reconciled to God before they can work for true peace among men. Only God's born again children can be true peacemakers.

Those who have the true peace of God in their hearts also seek to bring peace to others. They do that by proclaiming the Gospel. God in Christ is the Great Peacemaker. He makes peace with men who are at war with Him and among themselves. When He makes peace the enmity is broken. All, therefore, who are peacemakers, are that by virtue of being Children of God. They have peace in Him.

The world of unbelieving men refuses to receive this peace. It also refuses to see that those who have the true peace with God are truly sons of God. The time is coming when they will not only see it but also call them that. No they will not call them "children" of God but "sons" of God. Those who have peace with God have it in Christ Jesus. In Him they share high honours. In Him they are restored as sons of God that share in His royal majesty and dignity. They will judge the world with Him (I Cor. 6:2) and eternally reign with Him over all things.

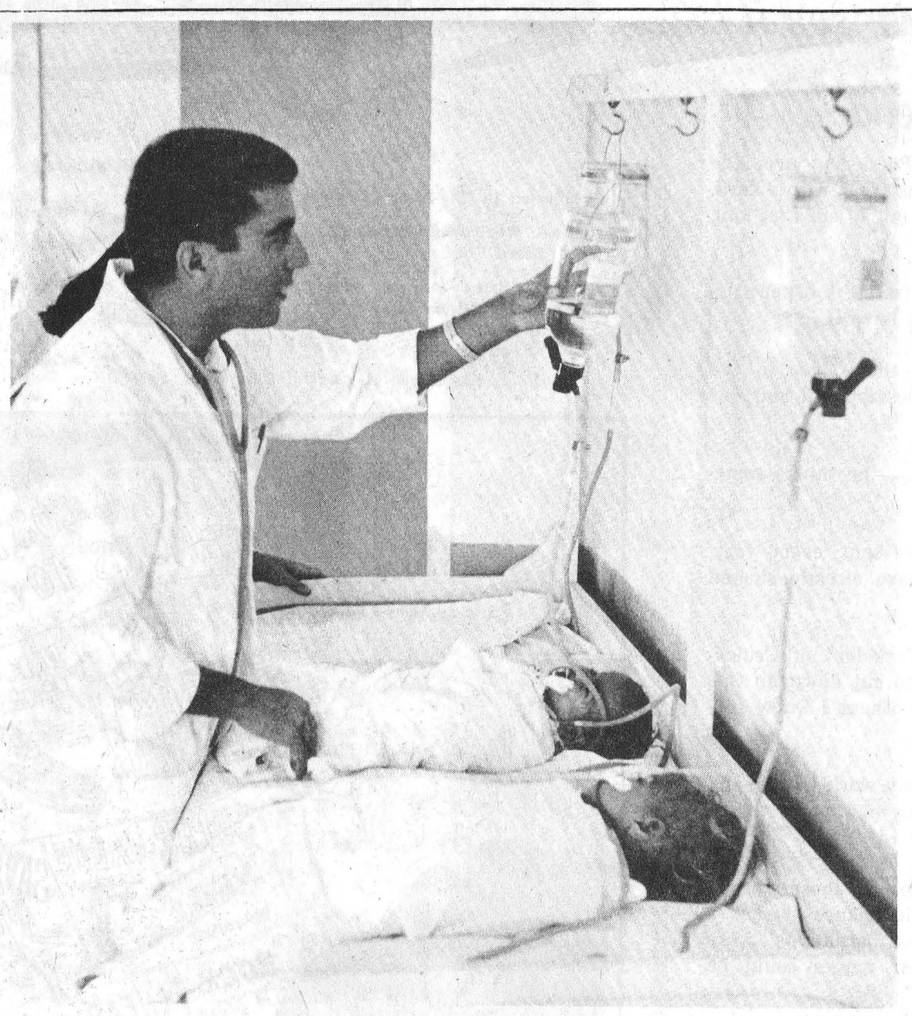
The blessedness of the peacemakers is therefore a present reality with a future fulfillment. Those who seek to bring men, by word and deed, to a saving knowledge of Christ Jesus, are now sons of God. But when Christ comes to judge the world, then their glory in Him will appear to all. Then they will be acknowledged as such. That is blessedness indeed. Do we possess it?

From Queen's Park by Fred M. Cass

The policy announcements by Prime Minister Robarts and by his Minister of Municipal Affairs as to a provincial plan for regional government coupled with the erection of the Ottawa-Carleton Regional Government on January 1, 1969, and of the amalgamation into one large city of the twin cities of Fort William and Port Arthur and surrounding areas on January 1st, 1970, has brought forcibly to the attention of all, especially municipal officials, that we in Ontario are entering a new era of municipal government. While such large units of local government have been mooted for many years it seemed until this year's amalgamation of all school areas, districts and boards that such far reaching changes would still be but rumour. It now behooves all councils, municipal officials and citizens to study carefully the plans outlined by the government and prepare for the day when their local municipality is to enter a larger region. It will not be easy to change the laws and usages of a hundred years, especially in rural Ontario, but the need to up-date is evident and urgent.

During the week, a new Bill with respect to compensation to citizens for the forcible taking for public use (expropriation) of their property was introduced, given second reading and referred to the appropriate Committee in the hope that it could be enacted into law before the Christmas recess. On first examination the Bill does appear to provide finally a reasonable basis for such compensation, including the right to re-establishment at the expense of the expropriating authority of one's home or business which is a distinct change from the old rule of "market value only." The Bill is to apply to all cases not finally settled when it receives Royal Assent so that all those now negotiating with any expropriating authority should undoubtedly not settle until the new law comes into effect; this includes, of course, persons whose lands are taken for road or highway widening, for hospital, school, park, conservation or other similar use.

The Throne Speech debate continued intermittently during the week but none of those speaking particularly distinguished himself nor brought up any matter of more than local constituency importance.



"CANSAVE" At Work

Many infants and children in the Gaza strip who suffer from malnutrition and dehydration brought on by the prevalent gastra-enteritis and diarrhoea would undoubtedly die except for the treatment given them at the Re-hydration Nutrition Centre at Khan Younis. An annual grant from The Canadiian Save the Children Fund largely supports this vital work Through your contribution to "CANSAVE" you give them help now and hope for the future. Send your donation to The Canadian Save the Children Fund at 70 Hayter St, Toronto.

Thefts At Christmas Reason For Expense

Thefts by customers and staff will cost Canadian stores an estimated $375 million this year, much of it during the Christmas shopping weeks, Jean Danard writes in the Financial Post.

To counter pilferage during the pre-holiday season, Danard says, retailers are hiring additional spotters. These security experts will be on the lookout for the youngster lifting a toy, the grandmother pocketing a $5 pair of gloves, and the daring young man who carts off a color television set.

They will also keep a sharp watch to see that employees ring up all cash sales. The Financial Post writer says that the spotters know they are working under conditions that bring thievery to its peak. Shoppers throng the stores. More merchandise than usual is on display. Clerks are too busy to safeguard goods properly. Temporary staff members lack the experience to ward off the con man's tricks.

Faced with pilferage losses of 1% to 6% depending on the type of business, The Financial Post says that some large department stores are resorting to closed circuit television, false cameras, peepholes and one-way mirrors to detect the shoplifters.

Santa At The Hospital

What they want most for Christmas is to be home with "Mommy" and "Daddy", and the sound of Santa's merry laughter was music to their little ears. During his visit to Winchester last Saturday he did not forget his little friends confined to hospital and had words of encouragement for each as he passed from room to room. Christmas Trees . . . And Safety Hints

With many thousands of trees certain to be decorated in Canadian homes in the next few days the National Safety League of Canada issues some timely hints on the subject.

"Christmas is a happy time" says the League, "but each year the Christmas season is spoiled by a frightening number of preventible mishaps."

Safety officials remind Canadians that while a Christmas tree is a delightful ornament in the home at this time of year it can also be a deadly enemy if it catches fire.

Here are some ways to reduce the possibility of fire:

—Make sure the tree is fresh when you buy it and keep it fresh by standing it in water. A dry tree is an invitation to fire and if it is dry enough, it will actually explode if it is exposed to flame.

—Put the tree in the coolest room in the house, away from radiators, television sets, fireplaces and all sources of heat. Put it where it will not obstruct an entrance or exit even if it should fall.

—Take extra care with electric decorations on metallic trees. A power leak could burn or kill anybody who touched the tree. Off the tree flood or spot lights are recommended.

—With all lights, inspect the cords carefully and replace the worn ones with new wire carrying the CST label of approval. Turn tree lights off at night or when leaving the house.

—When the tree becomes dry dispose of it safely outdoors.

Seaway Valley United Presbytery Hears Reports At Quarterly Meeting

The regular quarterly meeting of the Seaway Valley Presbytery of the United Church of Canada was held at Brinston on November 28th. Rev. L. M. Ferguson, president, occupied the chair, and guests included Rev. A. Cameron, B.A. B.D., President of the Montreal-Ottawa Conference, and Rev. Donald Pipe, Field Secretary, Missionary and Service, formerly of the Avonmore-Monkland pastoral charge. A hearty welcome was extended to all by Mr. Shaver representing Sessions.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was adminstered by Rev. Ferguson, President, Rev. J. Stewart, pastor of the Brinston Church, and Rev. A. Cameron, who gave an inspiring meditation.

During the report of the Commission on Outreach of the Church it was announced that contributions from The United Church of Canada toward the Nigeria-Biafra Relief Fund has amounted to $249,419.00 to date. This is the largest contribution received and represents almost 40 per cent. of all amounts collected. A report on the summer student work in the South Dundas area was received and it was agreed Presbytery would provide some funds in order that the work be continued in 1969.

Following up the action of General Council and of Conference, a Committee of Clergy and Laymen was appointed to discuss Church Union with a similar Committee established by the Anglican Church.

The Commission on administration reported the establishment of a new pastoral charge, formed by amalgamation. This will be known as the Finch-Avonmore charge and will become effective in February 1969, with Rev. H. A. Funge as minister. A further amalgamation to be known as the Ingleside-Newington pastoral charge is expected to become effective June 30th, 1969. The report also contained the information that Revs. W. E. Black, South Mountain; R. G. Percival of Kemptville, G. E. McPherson of St. Lawrence and L. S. Wollfrey of Glengarry East would be leaving this Court, having accepted calls to other fields. They will be missed from this Court which has been enriched by their presence over the years and the prayers and all good wishes of Presbytery will accompany them as they continue to labour in His Service.

The Commission on Congregational Life and Work reported a special meeting to discuss the philosophy of camping will be held in Chesterville from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on January 9th. Another event of importance will be a Conference on Rural Life, sponsored by the Provincial Government, to be held at Kemptville on April 21, 22 and 23. More details will be published in the near future.

The delicious lunch served by the ladies of Brinston was much enjoyed by all present.

Termed Success

Favourable weather added to the attendance of the annual South Mountain United Church Women's Christmas Fair, held on Dec. 7th in the church hall.

The president, Mrs. Arnold Graham, introduced Miss Gladys Bayne, President of Winchester District Memorial Hospital Auxiliary, who officially opened the Fair at two p.m. with comments on the time, fellowship and good times involved in any successful bazaar.

Along with the home baking, touch and take, and attic treasure tables, a special feature was the novelty table displaying many useful articles, with the mod paper flowers being most appealing.

In keeping with the Christmas tradition this year the ladies made mincemeat which was a successful attraction. Many Christmas shoppers enjoyed refreshments from the cafeteria before the closing of another favourable fair.

All officers were returned by acclamation. The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction. Lunch was served by Mrs. W D. Dow and Mrs. Ed. Lanoue. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. H. M. Lee on January 2nd, 1969.

Vernon Baptist Mission Circle

The afternoon group of the Vernon Baptist Senior Mission Circle was held at the home of Mrs. James Ferguson on Dec. 3rd with 12 members present.

The President opened the meeting with a Christmas poem. Mrs. Keeler took her devotional from the passages of Micah, Isaiah and Luke, prophesying the coming of Christ. A letter was read from Christians in Bolivia asking for our prayers. Several members took part in the prayer period.

Roll call was answered by either a verse of Scripture or a Christmas poem. Mrs. Harrison McDiarmid gave a splendid message on the Peace of God.

The meeting closed with a Christmas hymn and prayer. Lunch was served by Mrs. Harold Ferguson and Mrs. Harry Anderson.

Mrs. Winston Bellinger Hosts Presbyterian W.M.S Gathering

The December meeting of the Vernon Presbyterian W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Winston Bellinger on Thursday evening with fifteen ladies present.

The president, Mrs. W. D. Dow, opened the meeting with a reading "The Old Fashioned Christmas" and led in the responsive reading taken from St. Luke, Chapter 1.

The secretary Mrs. J. K. Campbell gave her report, summarizing the year's activities of the W.M.S. It was agreed that Mrs. Stewart look after ordering the "Everday" booklet, and that a donation be sent to the Indian school at Kenora to assist in the purchase of a duplicating machine.

Mrs. Ray Longstreet was presented with a life membership. Mrs. H. M. Lee, Mrs. Harold Cowan and Mrs. Ray Longstreet gave readings with Christmas themes. The meeting closed with a prayer.

Save Those Stamps!

Miss Jean Wyatt is grateful for the kind response by Winchester and area residents who answered her call and have been saving stamps for her.

Just a reminder at this time to keep up the good work. Since thousands of letters and cards will be received during the Christmas season, Miss Wyatt hopes all will find a little time despite the "mad rush" of the festive season to continue clipping. These stamps serve a very useful purpose and please, says Miss Wyatt, leave a margin of paper around each stamp.

Metcalfe Clergy Assisting Teens

Metcalfe clergy are aware of the dangers faced by teen-agers with the great increase in the use of alcohol and drugs. Sponsored by the Youth Club of St. Catherine's Parish, with the co-operation of Father Frappiers, Rev. Dawes of the United Church, and Father McGregor of All Saints Anglican Church, teenagers met in the United United Church Hall last night.

Speaker for the evening was Mr. Pony of Ottawa whose work in this field is well known through his association with the Alcohol and Drug Foundation.

Following an enthusiastic question period, lunch was served.

Gordon Blair Stages Gala Yule Party

Gordon Blair, M.P. for Grenville-Carleton, entertained those who helped him to victory in the summer election at a gala Christmas Party last Friday night.

Over 500 happy "Liberals" from Cardinal to Ottawa cheered their little hero as he spoke briefly, thanking once again those who had such great faith in him and predicting many more great Liberal victories in the huge riding.

Unfortunately, Prime Minister Trudeau was unable to be present, but sent along greetings through George McIlraith and Dr. Lloyd Francis.

The sparkling chandeliered Confederation Room in the West Block of the Parliament Buildings was the setting for the party with music by the "Gruesome Twosome."

Marvelville Community Club Elects Officers At Annual

Harry Nooyen was elected President of Marvelville Community Club at the annual meeting last week. The election took place at the Annual Turkey Supper with over 100 in attendance.

Retiring President Arnold Park was thanked for his efforts which guided the club through a very successful year, and Lawrence Brunton presided over the election of officers.

Officers elected were as follows: Past President, Arnold Park; President, Harry Nooyen; Vice President, Gerald Hill; Recreation convener, Mrs. Chris Van Dongen; Sports convener, Ray Robinson; secretary-treasurer, Verna Fader; sick and visiting committee, Dora Nooyen, Edna Hume and Agnes Park.

Arrangement for the banquet and election were directed by John Langens and his committee.

Biccum Trophy Winners

At ten in the morning there were eight strong rinks ready to do battle for the coveted Biccum Trophy. Twelve hours later seven had tasted defeat and the four happy girls shown here had earned the right to have their names engraved beside the winners of other years. Proudly holding the spoils of victory are, left to right: Mrs. Jessie Summers, lead; Mrs. Cathy Keys, skip; Mrs. Norma Wylie, third, and Mrs. Doris McNeil, second.—Press Photo.

District Lions, Ladies Attend Gloucester Charter Night

The formation of two more new Lions Clubs in the district means more and more communities will benefit from the welfare work that has made the Lion movement famous across the world. Led by President Gerry Flucke, Winchester Lions and their ladies attended the Charter Night of the new Gloucester Lions Club last Saturday night.

Charter President Fred Barrett received the official charter from District Governor Doug Baxter of Alexandria while representatives from 15 valley clubs welcomed the new members into the brotherhood dedicated to helping others.

WINCHESTER LIONS

Members of Winchester Lions Club are busily engaged in Christmas projects which include the erection and decorating of the beautiful Christmas Trees at the Memorial Hospital. Like other welfare clubs, Winchester Lions will also be offering help to less fortunate families this Christmas.

Another very worthwhile project at this season of the year was the "Skate Exchange" last week-end at Winchester Fire Hall. This afforded an opportunity to get your child good skates in exchange for the ones he or she had outgrown.

METCALFE LIONS

Metcalfe Lions, equipped with chain saws, trucks and manpower, spent last Saturday at a Christmas Tree Farm where over 200 trees were carefully selected and distributed to the various outlets.

This Saturday (Dec. 14) is Lions Christmas Broadcast Day. Through the co-operation of Radio Station CFRA money is raised for the ose of welfare work, and donations to the Metcalfe and District Club is used in their district. Headquarters this year is the "Castor Room" at the home of Gordon Boland and, as in other years, your donation will be read over the aid and you may be the winner of a valuable prize as well.

RUSSELL LIONS

If the Metcalfe Club is the mother of Winchester Lions, then it follows that Russell must be the grandmother, since this active club sponsored Metcalfe and District in 1960. Like all other clubs, Russell too is working on Christmas plans and will be seeking out families needing help and then assuring a Happy Christmas for all.

Former Area Man Co-Hosts CBC's Business Of Farming

A face familiar to Carleton County Farmers will be seen by television viewers in January. Don McArthur, of Centralia College of Agricultural Technology along with Don Graham, Brantford Agricultural Representative, will host the "This Business of Farming" program.

Don will be remembered as the popular Assistant Agricultural Representative for Carleton County who developed a keen interest in curling and was, for a time, an active member of Metcalfe Curling Club.

For the fifth consecutive year, the television series will be broadcast in January, it was announced by Hon. Wm. A. Stewart, Minister of Agriculture and Food.

The two one-hour programs, which will be broadcast on January 7 and 8, 1969, at 10.30 a.m., have been produced by the Ontario Department of Agriculture and Food and the Farms and Fisheries Department of the Canadian Broadcasting Coproration.

The first of the new programs, to be shown on January 7, will be of particular interest to livestock producers. Entitled "Grain from Field to Feed," the program deals with the grain necessary for livestock rations.

Grain corn, which has become extremely popular in the last 20 years, is used as the example in showing the principles of a grain handling system.

The second part of this program features farm operations, filmed on farms which concentrate on beef, swine, or dairy cattle.

The program organizer is Don Hill, Soils and Crops Branch Specialist, with offices at Ridgetown College of Agricultural Technology. The second program deals with various aspects of finance and, appropriately enough, is entitled "Money Matters."

The basic premise of the program is that farming is big business, and for that reason, business methods and attitudes must be applied in operating a farm. The proper use of credit family budgeting, life insurance and estate planning are among the subjects discussed.

COMPARING VALUES . . .

Shelled Corn vs Ear Corn

Area farmers will be interested in information released by Carl Moore of the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology:

Much corn is harvested as ear corn and stored in cribs. Some of this corn may be sold at a later date as ear corn for feed. All corn prices are quoted on shelled corn at 15.5 per cent. moisture basis. Confusion exists as to the comparative value of ear corn sold out of the crib for feed.

Ear corn contains both grain and cob. Two thousand pounds of ear corn will shell out to about 1640 pounds of shelled corn and 360 pounds of cob. Therefore one ton of ear corn at 15.5 per cent. grain moisture would be equal in value to 1640 pounds of dried shelled corn.

However, ear corn requires several months crib storage to dry to 15.5 per cent. moisture. Ear corn sold during the fall and winter may range from 20 to 40 per cent. moisture and is worth proportionately less than 15.5 per cent. corn.

The following example shows a method of determining the value of one ton of ear corn at 30 per cent. grain moisture.

The shelling percentage is 82 per cent. Therefore, the ton of ear corn is equal to 1640 lbs. of shelled corn at 30 per cent. moisture. However, shelled corn is sold at 15.5 per cent. moisture. In reducing the moisture content, the 1640 lbs. now becomes 1359 lbs. of shelled corn at 15.5 per cent.

Therefore, if shelled corn at 15.5 per cent. moisture is selling at $50 per ton, one ton of ear corn at 30 per cent. moisture is worth $34.00.

Area Resident R. J. McDonald Dies In 85th Year

An esteemed area resident Robert James McDonald, died December 3rd following an operation. Mr. McDonald, who farmed in the Ormond district until his retirement nine years ago, was in his 85th year.

Born at Ormond, he was a son of the late Thomas McDonald and his wife, the former Annie McVey. In September 1907 he married Ada Frances Morris who predeceased him some years ago. The late Mr. McDonald is survived by five daughters and three sons: Mrs. Harrison McIntosh (Alice), Mrs. Edwin Cumming (May), and Stewart, all of Winchester; Robert, of DeLeon Springs, Florida; Mrs. Patrick J. McKenny (Jean), Ottawa; George, Niagara Falls; Mrs. Leslie Robinson (Isabel), Marvelville, and Mrs. Allan Lacarva (Doris), of Toronto.

Funeral service was held from the Vice and Craig Ltd. Funeral Home, Chesterville, conducted by Rev. Geo. Cawfield on Friday, December 6th. Pall-bearers were six grandsons: Jack McIntosh, Donald McIntosh, Brian Robinson, Larry Robinson, Jim Cumming and Kevin McKenny. Interment was in Ormond Cemetery.

Gordon Blair Reports

REFORM OF PROCEDURE IMPORTANT ISSUE BEFORE COMMONS

Reform of procedure is now the most important issue before the House of Commons. The report of the Special Committee on Procedure, of which I was Chairman, was filed last week and is now in the process of debate. In my opinion, if the report is adopted, it will produce immense benefits for the people of Canada. Parliament will have adopted rules of procedure similar to, but not as restrictive as those of the United Kingdom and other parliaments, and which are necessary to deal with the immense burden of public business in the twentieth century.

The basic rules of the House of Commons have been little changed since 1867. At that time the rules were simple and provided for unlimited debate because the problems which governments and parliaments faced were relatively few in number. The necessity of streamlining and making the operation of parliament more efficient is apparent to everyone and this was the principal aim of the Committe. In addition, the Committee wished to make parliament more effective — in the sense of giving Members a much better opportunity than they have now to check, criticize and constructively amend governmental proposals. As matters now stand, on many occasions, while one person is talking in parliament the other 263 Members are idle and frustrated. The impatience of new Members to take a more effective part is one of the outstanding characteristics of this session.

All parties in the Committee recognized the need for reform and its meetings, which were closed, were marked by cordiality and frank discussion. The suggestion in some press reports that the Committee broke up in violent disagreement is entirely false. As a matter of fact, there were differences of opinion on only two or three of the many recommendations for reform made by the Committee.

In essence, the Committee recommended procedures under which all the business of parliament could be transacted in an orderly manner. To do this, much more work would be given to the committees of parliament where estimates and legislation will be subjected to more careful scrutiny than they have ever had before. The opposition parties would be given an opportunity they do not now possess, to raise important matters for debate on twenty-five days spaced throughout the parliamentary session. The sessions of parliament would be regularized to commence in September of each year and terminate around July first. A special committee of the House leaders would be given authority to program time for specific stages of debate, and it is expected that all leaders will cooperate to ensure that the system operates effectively. Only in the event of disagreement would the government have the right to propose a debatable motion to the House to establish a program.

The purposes of parliament have been stated to legislate, debate and control the supply of monies to the government. These will be better served, in my opinion, if the changes recommended by the Committee are adopted, because at every stage Members will be better informed and have a greater opportunity to express their views through committees and in the House.
