Firm feels dumped on in garbage contract

WINCHESTER — When Claude Helder returned home from a Florida vacation last Friday, he was greeted with disturbing news.

His over 100 customers in Winchester Township had their garbage collected while he was away, but it wasn't a Claude's Disposal truck that carted it to the dump.

Claude's Disposal was a loser in bidding for the contract to collect refuse from township residences and businesses. The contract was let to Hume's Cartage of Berwick, a firm that already operates in Chesterville.

A week ago Tuesday was the beginning of a new era in the township— mandatory curbside garbage collection. The area is also entering a new era in the way the landfill on the Boyne Road — operated by the township, and the villages of Winchester and Chesterville — is administered, with tipping fees expected to be introduced in the near future.

Although disappointed that he didn't land the collection contract, Helder said the loss won't destroy his 12-year-old business. What disturbs him more, he said in a Monday interview, is the potential impact that proposed tipping fees will have on major industries which use the dump.

Helder hauls waste to the dump from Winchester's Ault Foods Ltd. and he wasn't pleased to learn that soon he will have to add on tipping fees to the firm's disposal bill.

Fees to use the dump have yet to be set, but Helder said that if $15 per ton is charged for trucks entering the gate, it will cost him about $300 for every load he carts from Ault. He says his 20-cubic-yard truck delivers to the landfill, on average, three loads of Ault's waste a week.

"That's ($15 per ton) ridiculous," he said.

Township Deputy Reeve Wyman Barton, said, "We tried to come up with something that's equitable for all people."

Barton, a member of the waste management and environmental committee that oversees the dump, said tipping fees have not been set. However, he didn't feel figures such as were cited by Helder were out of line.

Exactly how much tipping fees will be set at is now being deliberated by the committee, but they will only be introduced around April 1, Barton said.

Industries are taking news of impending tipping fees in stride. David Poupore, of Morewood Industries, said when his firm's housing division is fully operational again after its recent financial problems, he anticipates about two dumpsters-full of waste will be generated.

Recycling depots sought

by Shana Saper
Press staff reporter

MOUNTAIN—A petition bearing over 200 names was presented to Council Monday night asking for support for township recycling depots.

The petition, sponsored by the Dundas Environmental Awareness Group (DEAG), wants holding depots for bottles, paper, and aluminum cans. It's also asking for government backing—moral as well as financial—to help recuperate and reprocess the materials.

Robert Hogg, who helped get the petition signed, says getting Council's approval of the initiative is a good start.

"Council has already approved recycling in principle but we weren't really sure if they would back our proposal," said Hogg, an organic farmer and miller from South Mountain.

Hogg and Dick Christie brought the petition to Council and left it in their hands to carry onto the next stage. "Basically, there are a lot of avenues to pursue," Hogg said.

For one, the Ministry of the Environment will have to determine the amount of waste to be recycled and how best to manage it. That,Hogg says, will likely involve some study. "But ultimately it shouldn't cost township residents anything to haul away glass, paper, and cans," he added.

Village chamber mounts training centre campaign

by Andy McLeister
Press staff reporter

WINCHESTER — The local chamber of commerce is taking a leadership role in a campaign to persuade Ontario Hydro to choose this village over others in the running for a planned Eastern Ontario training centre.

Brian Mann, secretary of the Winchester Chamber of Commerce, said Monday that a committee of business people is being organized to spearhead efforts to bring the centre to Winchester.

The first order of business, he said, will be to identify accommodations suitable for housing trainees taking courses at the centre. Once this is accomplished, Hydro officials will be lobbied directly, he indicated.

The chamber got the ball rolling last Thursday after listening to a breakfast meeting address from Terry O'Reilly, Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry's new economic development officer.

He used the Hydro training centre as one example of opportunities that exist to stimulate the local economy.

He told chamber members that he would assist them in persuading Hydro officials to locate their satellite school in their former Winchester area headquarters.

The complex on St. Lawrence Street has been vacant since last December, when Hydro moved down the street into new facilities. Hydro is considering establishing a centre there which would act as a satellite for its training school in Orangeville.

It is part of a decentralization program that will see satellite schools established in Eastern, Southern and Northern Ontario. Also being considered for the eastern centre are Smiths Falls and Belleville.

Ribbons show support for Gulf troops

WINCHESTER— Ellen Johnson had never done it before but last week she decided to tie a yellow ribbon around the doorpost of her house. She says she did it as a gesture of concern for the war so far—and yet so near to home.

"I just want to show support for the guys," said Johnson, a Royal Bank employee who works in Ottawa. While she says she doesn't know anyone personally in the Persian Gulf region, the intensity of the month-old conflict has stirred her emotions.

"You watch the T.V. and the people saying it (the war) is right or wrong. "I don't agree with people (demonstrating). All I say is we should support our troops and bring them home safely."

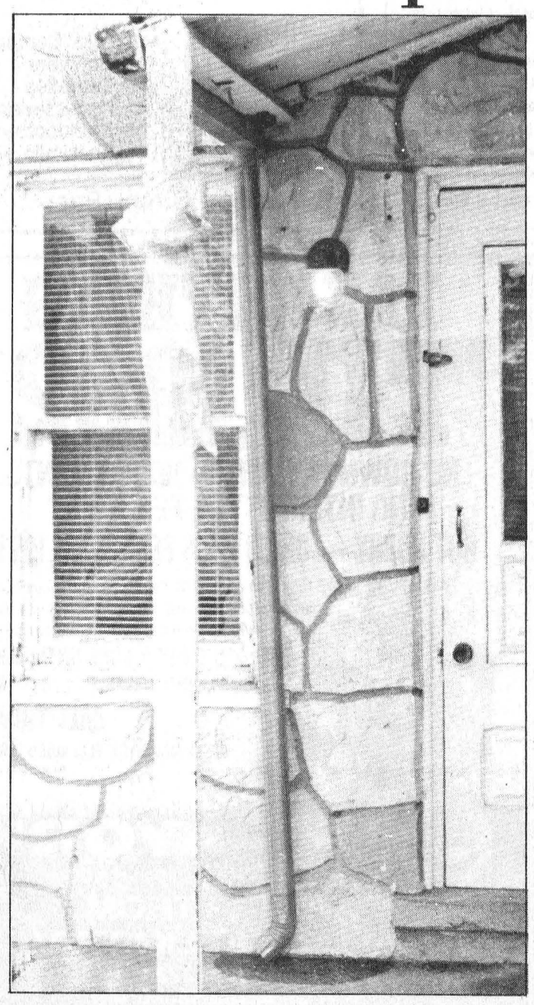
The idea of the yellow ribbon came from watching American television, Johnson said. "If they can do it so can we," she declared. But she insists there is no political meaning to it— just a "general feeling" that the Canadian troops should be brought home as soon as possible.

Another Winchester house is bedecked with ribbons these days. Gib Raistrick put yellow streamers around the two maple trees on his property as part of an informal support movement.

"They're doing it in Cornwall and Ottawa and it goes with that song "Tie a yellow ribbon around the old oak tree," said Raistrick, a Royal Canadian Legion member. "The song says if you think of me, tie a yellow ribbon around the tree."

Raistrick says he doesn't know anybody over there but he's heard of some local boys who might be called up.

"We don't know how long we'll have to keep them (ribbons) up," he said, "but we'll do it until the boys come home."



100 names attached to road petition

MAPLE RIDGE - A group of Winchester Township and Mountain Township property owners are petitioning both municipalities to improve a shared boundary road.

A petition with over 100 names was submitted to Winchester Township Council Thursday night and to Mountain Township Council Monday night by a group of four people.

Henry Doornwaard, spokesperson for the group, said the boundary road which runs from north from Highway 31 to Osgoode Township is in poor shape because of heavy traffic and poor drainage.

"It gets so bad you can hardly find your way through the potholes," he said.

The 1.5 km-long road is heavily travelled by Ottawa-bound commuters who use the boundary road to get to an Osgoode Township road as a quicker route to Ottawa.

Doornwaard said the two townships sharing the road should improve the gravel surface to handle the traffic and improve drainage on both sides of the road.

"We've been after them for a few years and we...should get some results by now," he said.

Although Doornwaard is the boundary road's only resident, the petition was signed by property owners and local people who frequently use the road.

Council told the delegation that some work could be started next autumn by cleaning out the drain on the Winchester Township side of the road.

Reeve Claude Cousineau said cleaning out the ditch would not be a big deal, but council stopped short of promising any immediate improvements.

Tipping fees

"If you're talking a couple of hundred dollars (a dumpster) that adds up," he said. He noted that in addition to tipping fees, there are expenses involved in collecting and delivering waste to the landfill.

In the past, Morewood has investigated ways to cut back on waste-disposal expenses, he said.

Poupore, one of seven employees who formed a partnership to rescue the firm when it declared bankruptcy last fall, said he would like to explore ways in which to cut down on, re-use and recycle waste.

In the past, the company considered installing a heating system that would burn wood waste. But the problem was that the Morewood plant did not generate enough waste to justify the expense.

Poupore said to use waste as a heat source would have required the firm to purchase wood from an outside supplier to make up the shortfall.

At this time, the only items Morewood uses regularly that are returnable are wooden pallets on which paint cans are delivered, Poupore said. He added that "we will certainly avail ourselves" of any opportunities that may arise to recycle wood and drywall that comprise the bulk of waste generated at Morewood.

Jim Cummings, manager of Nestle of Canada's plant in Chesterville, noted that his company is a major user of the Boyne Road landfill. But he isn't surprised that tipping fees are being introduced, "because of the environmental situation and pressure on industries to more or less get their acts together."

In this regard, Nestle apparently has been on the cutting edge locally. Cummings reminded a reporter that an in-house committee was established at Nestle to address the waste issue in general, and recycling specifically.

"We are now in the throes" of starting to be able to recycle cardboard, glass that breaks on the line, metal caps, plastics, and other materials, Cummings said. "We're looking at every aspect of what is going into the (landfill) and how we can work with suppliers...."

"We had started this initiative without even knowing there would be a change in how they are admninistering the landfill," he said, adding that it is all for the good of the environment.

Had Nestle not started changing its ways, and tipping fees were introduced, Cumming estimated his plant's disposal costs could be over $100,000 annually.

"If we we are paying that type of money for tipping, it will only force us to get into recycling, which we're already into," he said.

Recycling depot

The Mountain Lions Club aluminum can recycling project, which has been operating at the Mountain landfill site for about two years, shows how successful recycling can be.

According to Terry Foley, the Lions' can depot accepts aluminum cans and sells them by the tractor-load to ALCAN. Any profit is donated to the Children's Hospital of Eastern Ontario, Foley said.

He added the DEAG proposal doesn't conflict with the Lions recycling project. The township agreed to let the Lions continue the can project for charity. "Other depots can be set up for paper or bottles," he said.

Council unanimously approved the DEAG initiative Monday night and councillor Estella Rose said she was personally "encouraged" that something could be done and soon. "I don't think we can go astray with recycling in the township," she stated.

According to Hogg, it's about time Mountain got something off the ground. "Matilda, Williamsburg, and Oxford already have recycling programs going," he said. "People are just as interested here."

Hydro site

Available accommodations for trainees and instructors will be a determining factor in Hydro's choice of a location for the eastern centre.

At last Thursday's meeting, chamber member Sharon Jordan suggested the Winchester District Memorial Hospital's nurses' residence, which has been under-utilized, could accommodate Hydro trainees.

However, Mann said hospital officials have advised him that plans to more fully use the residence are on the drawing board.

In an interview following last week's chamber meeting, O'Reilly told the Press that centre proponents must discover exactly what criteria Hydro will use in choosing a site and then ensure that they can be provided in Winchester.

"We've got to get everything they (Hydro) need," Mann agreed. "That's where we stand right now."

Boundary road

Cousineau told the delegates council faces a tough decision over which township roads to improve each year because many of the gravel roads are potholed.

"We get lots of these kind of petitions. It's the second one tonight," he said referring to an earlier request by another township resident.

Council usually decides what township roads to pave or improve during its annual budget deliberations in March. The decision-making involving a boundary road is usually complicated because another municipality is involved, he said.

But Cousineau said the more cumbersome decision-making process can also be rewarding, because any work done on the boundary road would be split in half between the two municipalities.

Cousineau admitted the road to Osgoode Township is heavily travelled.

"It's a short cut and there's no police, so speeders like to take that section," he said.

Doornwaard stressed he wasn't looking to have the road paved. He doesn't want any more traffic on the road than there is now.

"We're not really looking for pavement," he said. "I've seen good gravel roads that stand up good," he said.

Municipalities face stiff environment fines

MAPLE RIDGE — The villages of Winchester and Chesterville and Winchester Township are being taken to court for allegedly violating the Environmental Protection Act.

The three municipalities, which own and operate a sanitary landfill site on the Boyne Road, have been charged with failing to use, operate, alter, enlarge or extend a waste disposal site in accordance with conditions set out in a Provincial Certificate of Approval between July 18 and August 2, 1990.

If convicted, the municipalities could each face fines of up to $50,000. They are scheduled to appear in Provincial Offences Court at Morrisburg next Monday.

The charges caught reeves by surprise and one of them, Winchester Township's Claude Cousineau, expressed anger, calling the charges unjustified.

"We waited two years to get a grant so we could improve the landfill," he said. "We did so and it's looking a lot better as everybody knows."

Cousineau slammed the Ministry of the Environment for making the township divert its scant financial resources from waste management to a court case.

He complained about legal costs the municipalities will incur as the result of "one asinine guy" in a new position who suddenly has "a badge", and says, "hey, I'm going to nail you guys."

MOE investigator Paul Sauve said Tuesday the municipalities failed to meet one of eight conditions outlined in the dump's provisional approval certificate.

He maintains waste was not deposited at the landfill in an orderly manner. He said it was neither compacted, covered or separated as it should have been.

This is the first time the municipalities have been charged under the Environmental Protection Act.

Sauve said the MOE decided to charge the municipalities because the dump had a "history" of violations.

An MOE inspector noted further violations at the dump as recently as last November, but the MOE has not decided whether to follow up with more charges, Sauve said.

"The way they operate (the dump) it's costing them more money, because they don't have segregation," he said.

Death being investigated

WINCHESTER—Carman V. Brown of Winchester died at Ottawa Civic Hospital Jan. 30 of injuries resulting from an automobile accident two days earlier.

Brown, aged 63, was driving a 1973 Datsun pickup westbound on Country Road 3 in Mountain Township, when he made a left turn onto County Road 2. His car struck a eastbound Chevrolet station wagon driven by Nancy Woeldike, 36, of Inkerman causing what appeared to be minor injuries to both drivers.

According to Ontario Provincial Police, Brown was at fault for not yielding to the oncoming vehicle. Both drivers were taken to Winchester District Memorial Hospital where they were examined, treated for minor inuries, and released the same day.

But the next day Brown returned to the hospital. Nancy Sheldrick, director of admissions, would not release any details of Brown's condition but said he was immediately transferred by ambulance to the Ottawa Civic Hospital. He was diagnosed as having a subdermal hematoma or blood clot to the brain and he died the following day.

A post-mortem was performed by doctors at the Civic Hospital but results weren't available at presstime. A spokesperson for the coroner's office would only say that the death was currently "under investigation."

Brown leaves his wife Norma Doreen, sons James, RR2 Newington, Douglas of Ottawa, and Brian of Kemptville, and daughter Darlene of Winchester. His funeral took place last week in Winchester.

DEAG to review activities

MORRISBURG - The Dundas Environmental Awareness Group will be reviewing the success of its environmental activism at its annual meeting Feb. 18, at Nationview School in South Mountain. Last year the group joined a province-wide campaign, led by Environmental Action Ontario, to get the province to ban disposable dishes at fast- food restaurants and to fight excess packaging. "We will probably hear some of the results from their campaign," group spokesperson Claire Theijsmeijer said Thursday. The meeting will start at 8pm.

Township refuses to set precedent

MAPLE RIDGE - Winchester Township Council is refusing to compensate an Airport Road resident for a flat tire.

John Melenhorst demanded that council reimburse him for the flat tire which he said occurred when he ran over a piece of blade broken off from a township grader.

"I blew a brand new tire and a piece of the grader went through it on the township road," he said following a council meeting Thursday night. The incident occurred on Airport Road, near where he lives.

Melenhorst was asking for about $115. He felt he was entitled to claim the flat tire because he ran over a piece of township equipment on a township road.

But council rejected the claim on the basis that it would set a precedent and lead to a flood of claims against the township.

"I wish we could help you, but it looks like we're not going to," said Reeve Claude Cousineau. "The trouble is not paying the one bill, it's setting a precedent."

Councillor Dwayne Holmes simply said council was not liable for the flat tire.

Councillor Gord Johnson asked what would prevent another resident from claiming damages to his car caused by a sharp piece of stone which had been placed by the township on the road, if council compensated Melenhorst?

Council had rejected Melenhorst's damage claim at a meeting Jan. 28. At the meeting Thursday night, council refused to even put forward another motion to consider Melenhorst's request.

Melenhorst also asked council to consider paving Airport Road this year. He said the road was in poor condition and had a lot of traffic.

Cousineau, however, virtually ruled out the possibility of paving Airport Road this year.

"We'll give it due consideration, but I know it's not high on our priority list,'' he said.

NDP seems uninterested in rural municipalities

by Shana Saper and Yves Cossette
Reporters

MOUNTAIN—The conference of the Rural Ontario Municipalities Association ended in Toronto on a low note last Wednesday for some SD&G area participants.

Citing "lack of interest" on the part of provincial ministers—most of whom didn't show up—and typical government ambiguity, Mountain Township's reeve came home with slightly bitter feelings about it all.

"It went well (but) so few NDP ministers showed up," said a disappointed Keith Fawcett.

Only four out of 14 invited ministers turned out to hear the concerns of rural municipalities and Fawcett sees it as bad public relations coming from the five- month-old New Democratic government.

"They're trying to ignore us," he stated in a telephone interview Friday after his return from Toronto. "When you have 500-600 members of municipalities meeting at one time, it's a clear chance for the ministers to come out, not to stay away. We were very disappointed," he added.

However, Premier Bob Rae did show up to deliver the keynote speech to a crowd of over 600 reeves and municipal officials Feb. 4. And four cabinet ministers including the Minister for Natural Resources Bud Wildman, Energy Minister Jenny Carter, Agriculture and food Minister Elmer Buchanan, and Minister of Community and Social Services Zanana Akande were on hand.

Rae spoke of developing a "co-operative partnership" with the rural municipalities and he threw his support for the principle of "disentanglement" from the current 80-20 cost-sharing arrangement between the province and municipalities.

But the premier's speech got only a lukewarm reception from Hugh Eadie, deputy reeve of Winchester village and a member of the SD&G county council. Eadie, one of more than 40 area participants, said Rae had "nothing new" to say and appeared skeptical of Rae's verbal support. "What does he mean by disentanglement," asked Eadie?

Federal Liberal MP Bob Kilger (Stormont-Dundas) and Progressive Conservative MPP Noble Villeneuve (S-D-G and East Grenville) were on hand at the Royal York Hotel last week. And Villeneuve, in particular, was active in setting up a special session with local officials to discuss the question of flood control on the south branch of the South Nation River.

According to Villeneuve, a debate ensued on the pros and cons of dredging including flood control, environmental impacts, and lack of provincial financing to carry out the estimated $1.8 billion project.

Fawcett, who attended the session, said the discussion lasted about two hours and devolved into an "interministerial debate" leaving the question open to "further study".

While the Minister for Municipal Affairs, Dave Cooke, was absent from the conference, his parliamentary assistant, Will Ferguson, came in his place to chair a panel discussion. And his special assistant, Colin Goodfellow observed the first day's proceedings.

According to Goodfellow, more than half of Ontario's municipalities were represented at the conference. "There were some clear frustrations with five years of the previous government and transferring of costs to the municipalities," he noted.

But informal comments gave him the impression people liked what Rae said. "I think they're quite interested in continuing to work with the government in a co-operative partnership." And he pointed out, "four cabinet ministers and all the senior staff (of the Municipal Affairs Ministry) is not a poor turnout."

Other delegates were disappointed that nothing Rae said gave any indication of how much and when the New Democratic government is willing to loosen the purse strings.

They want to know how much money they will get this year to fund municipal responsibilities like social services, roads and other infrastructures. The extent of provincial funding will play a significant role in determining local property taxes.

Winchester Township Reeve Claude Cousineau said he felt the current recession might result in municipalities having to pick up the provincial government's slack in spending.

"I didn't particularly like his speech either," the reeve said. "Because he's got a budget crisis, I feel he's going to dump more (responsibilities) on us."

But Cousineau went to the conference with low expectations, saying later that he wasn't surprised because the New Democrats are "not very well-versed in government.

New era arrives

We are entering a new era in terms of how we handle waste.

It will become costly to haul your garbage to the dump in the near future. Or should we say, to cart your refuse to the landfill site, to use more polite language.

And what does end up permanently buried under carefully-layered mounds of dirt will bear little resemblance to the hodge-podge of waste we now routinely throw away and forget all about. We will be encouraged to divide our refuse into separate piles for disposal or recycling.

"Blue boxes" will dot the curbs of town and country on garbage pickup days in the not-too- distant future.

We will be encouraged to buy and use composters, so some of our organic waste will nourish domestic gardens instead of greening the grass over abandoned landfills.

The costs being faced by municipalities and their residents as they enter this new era of waste management will be substantial. What were once dug-out fields in which refuse was deposited and covered with a layer of dirt are now carefully managed operations.

Society in general will be the ultimate winner once all the wrinkles are ironed out of plans being formulated here and on a regional basis for handling waste. Cost-wise, for example, the life expectancy of the Boyne Road Landfill Site — used by Winchester Township and the villages of Winchester and Chesterville — should be extended through this new approach to waste management.

Less garbage will be hauled to the landfill and much of that which still is will be recycled or put to other less-inanimate purposes than leaving clues about our culture for future archeologists to uncover.

But there will be short-term pain for some. A local contractor lost in his bid for the new township collection service. Besides the approximately $67,000 he hoped to earn had his bid been successful, he also loses over 100 township customers he has been serving.

Then there are the major industries in the area that will have to factor tipping fees into their disposal cost estimates. No decision has been taken on how much industries and commercial operators will be charged for using the landfill, but there has been discussion about setting tipping fees for garbage trucks at as much as $15 per cubic yard.

At this rate, an industry that generates several truckloads (of 20 cubic yards apiece) per day can expect an annual six-figure garbage bill.

In fairness to the municipalities that own and oversee operations of the Boyne Road site, we should add that the onus will be placed on all residential, commercial and industrial users to cut back on the amount of garbage they send to the dump.

But let's hope that our local politicians who control the dump will do whatever is possible to temper the short-term pain so all stakeholders can realize longterm gains.

Reviving carnival spirit

Despite a record year in terms of money raised, the 1991 edition of the Winchester Winter Carnival was not the runaway success that organizers hoped it would be.

How can it be suggested that something which generated an above-average profit was not an overwhelming success? Easy, turning a profit was not the primary goal of the event's organizers.

The main objective of the carnival was to provide mid-winter fun and entertainment for the community. For those who participated in the various events, it was a great time, but the participation level has dipped.

Perhaps the best indicator of the decline in participation was the cancellation of the carnival queen contest which had enjoyed immense popularity in previous years. Lack of entrants shelved this contest.

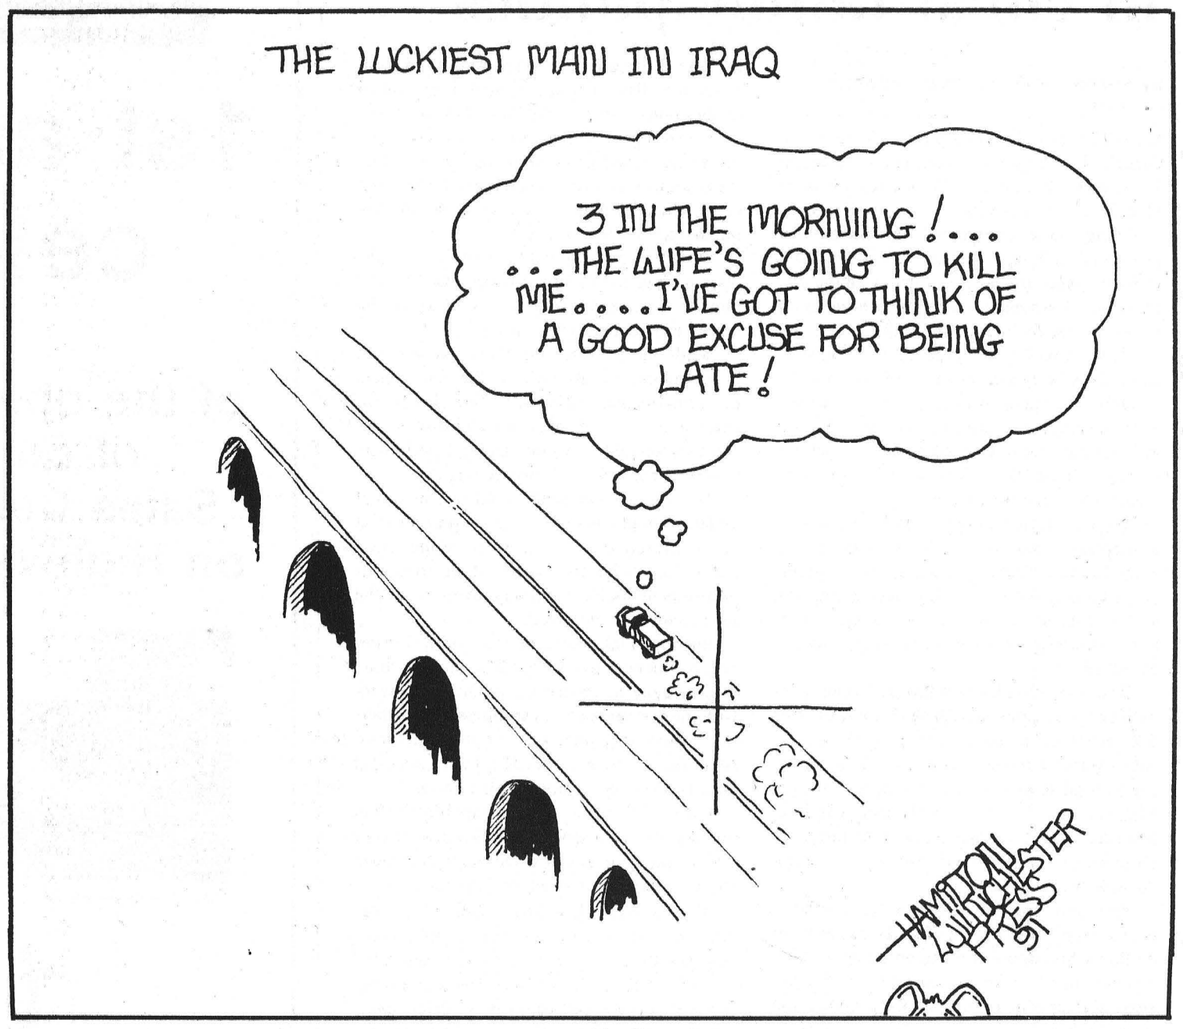
Other carnivals have suffered similar experiences. These contests obviously are not as appealing to potential candidates as once they were. Perhaps the time has come to re-examine the concept of choosing young women to reign over carnival activities.

This is a suggestion that has not fallen on deaf ears. As organizers analyse the results of the winter festival, they will be focussing on dwindling interest among prospective contestants.

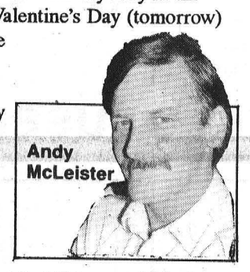
They already are talking about replacing the queen contest with something new and innovative.

They are also pondering the future of the carnival in its entirety. Have locals lost interest in a festival that pales in comparison to such mega- shows as Ottawa's Winterlude? they will be asking.

What is needed to save the carnival is a revival of the community spirit that made it such a great success in the past. The spirit is out there, as organizers well know and the sustained interest in summer activities like Dairyfest prove, it just has to be tapped.



14th stirs 'mixed emotions'



Not being married or seriously involved with anybody at the moment, Valentine's Day (tomorrow) would have come and gone without my really noticing it. And if I did glance at the calendar and realized that February 14 had arrived, I would have nonchalantly shrugged my shoulders and immediately returned my attention to more pressing matters.

This time, though, the approach of the day on which love and romance are celebrated has stirred some conflicting emotions within this ordinarily unsentimental fool.

First on the positive side. I learned last week that veteran Press scribe Joe Rowan and his wife, Lillian, are celebrating their golden anniversary on Friday, the day following Valentine's. They became engaged on Valentine's Day of 1940 and tied the knot a year and one day later.

It's typical Joe, by the way, who in the sentimentality department is my exact opposite.

Joe wasn't home when I telephoned to find out exactly why they didn't get married on Valentine's itself so all I can do is speculate that, perhaps, Feb. 14, 1940 fell on the wrong day. I don't have a perpetual calendar here to support my theory, but it seems the logical answer.

I learned from Frank Morgan of the anniversary and the party being thrown for the couple on Saturday in Metcalfe, when I ran into the recreation director/columnist at the Community Centre. The occasion and the party were advertised in last week's Press, but Frank told me the news before I saw it.

Frank said he'd poke some good-natured fun at Joe in his next column and I thought I'd also engage in some friendly ribbing in this space.

Because Joe's a colleague and friend who enjoys a good joke even when it's directed at him, I knew I could get away with it. I planned to evoke riotous guffaws and peels of laughter from you, the reader, with such jewels as: How long has Joe been married? So long that the service was conducted by the captain of the Ark.

That corny line wouldn't provoke more than a chuckle or, more likely, a painful moan. But it would be only my first shot. By the time I finished, you would be howling.

I lost my impetus after devising the first joke when I found myself involuntarily pondering a study in contrasts. It happened when I took a coffee break Friday morning.

Before I go on, I'd like to advise the feint of heart and parents of young children that they might not like what they are about to read. In fact, I feel a certain reluctance to embark on the topic that follows.

As I'm wont to do, I gathered up about a dozen newspapers to peruse over coffee and a smoke— we get numerous papers in the mail here, weeklies from all over the country and area dailies. They are great for keeping one informed and for suggesting story ideas.

Last week's batch was enlightening, but not because it provided a bumper crop of story ideas. There wasn't much to get my teeth into, because the items highlighted with banner headlines and racy leads have no application here ... I hope.

It seemed that every paper I thumbed through was exposing the underbelly of society for all to see. In one daily alone, there was more on the Prescott sexual abuse scandal, a Brockville man was sentenced to a lengthy stay in prison for a number of crimes, including rape, another was imprisoned for incestuous behavior, and yet another for the molestation of a minor. Then there was the sensational trial of the Ottawan accused in the sexual killing of his infant nephew.

One would naturally infer from the above that a sexual crime-wave is rising and threatening to inundate our part of the world. The inference would only be part right, incidentally. These sorts of offenses have been getting a lot of ink lately, but this in itself is not an indicator of a growing problem.

What the news coverage is an indicator of is our belated admission that a problem does, indeed, exist.

Why I offer this commentary in the same breath as writing about Valentine's and the milestone Joe and Lillian are about to reach may not be obvious to most. To me, though, one might provide the key to abating the other.

People don't stay together for five decades unless they understand the true nature of love and romance, and practise both generously. I also suspect that they don't stay together for very long if they can't distinguish between love and lust.

Many of these sexual abuse crimes that have received so much publicity, I sense, might stem from confusion between spiritual love (on which lasting relationships are founded) and pure animal lust. And we aren't helping the unfortunates in society to understand these concepts in a positive manner unless we talk openly about them.

Many of these sexual offenders were themselves abused as children, especially in the Prescott scandal. They didn't have role models like Joe and Lillian on which to base their own behavior. Their role models were the offenders who introduced the younger generation to acts of perversion. They grew up being molested and accepted the abuse as a legitimate demonstration of affection, knowing no other form.

There may be redemption yet for our society and I can predict with confidence that we might be setting ourselves on the proper course to reach that noble goal. We are taking the first step in this lengthy journey by talking about it, writing about it, and expressing our outrage.

We can't cure a problem until we admit it exists.

And sexual crimes have existed since before the dawn of history. They have, unfortunately, been allowed to fester beneath a veil of secrecy.

For example, several years ago I was covering a school board meeting in rural Alberta. An item on the agenda was a demonstration of a kit and program designed to detect signs of child sex abuse.

Initially, I thought trustees and educators were over-reacting to a problem more associated with seamy urban ghettos than the bucolic countryside. But before I put my thoughts to paper, I took the time to telephone the nearest RCMP detachment to obtain some data on the matter.

Four convictions were registered in the past year, the detachment commander told me. These were for sexually abusing children, and all involved incest.

I was shocked— four convictions in one year in an area with half Dundas County's population! In a part of the country that we used to jokingly refer to as the buckle of the Bible belt!

Why, I wanted to know, weren't we told about this? The answer: all these cases were dealt with behind closed doors to protect the identity of the victims.

With the law as it was written in those days, the problem was effectively and neatly swept under the rug. Police and courts went beyond the usual practice of banning the publication of certain information to protect victims and ensure a fair trial for the accused. They banned any publicity at all ... even that a crime had occurred.

The law has changed, for the better. Now we are treated to full disclosure in sexual abuse cases, all but the names of the victims and, in cases of incest, the accused. We are no longer pretending that if children are being abused at all, they are isolated events.

We will be hearing more about sexual abuse, and it won't all be coming out of Prescott, either. If here in Dundas County we are spared the indignity of similar scandals, we may be the exception and not the rule.

If we someday discover that these crimes don't occur here, we can thank positive role models for instilling a sense of decency in successive generations.

Seventh Column

by Joe Rowan

Why are we, this week, focusing the spotlight on a onetime gas- station attendant, sometimes Kenmore farmer, and an Ottawa Valley "character" whose entire life has revolved around his love and understanding of horses that move fast — very fast? But there was a time in his life, it must be remembered, when "cupid" moved even faster, and his priorities underwent changes. It was some 58 years ago when a pretty lass "reined him in" and, since that time, his equine friends have had to rate "second" after his lovely wife and their family. But we haven't answered that lead question! Why Claire Smith this week? First, of course, because we've had the good fortune to number him among our valued friends since the day he turned on that youthful charm and robbed the educational system of a top-notch high-school teacher. And, if that's not enough reason to salute one of Canada's most illustrious horse owners and judges, here's another one. Two weeks ago, in Vancouver, he was inducted into the Canadian Horse Racing Hall of Fame ...a prestigious honor that immortalizes horses and individuals responsible for the stature of the sport. Claire dropped in at 8400 Rowan Drive last week for a chat and brought along the attractively-engraved plaque. Our initial enquiries, however, had nothing to do with horses or stables or plaques. We were much more interested in the health and well- being of his wife — the former MCS (Metcalfe Continuation School) teacher who once kept that boisterous "second form" class in line. After being assured his "Marge" is just as pretty, and lively and knowledgable today as the "Miss Blakeston" we so vividly remember, it was time to direct attention to Claire's favorite subjects — horses — races — people (and he knows about a million) — and the Hall of Fame. Here, in brief, is how the Canadian Horse Racing Association introduced the Kenmore farmer to a packed house at Vancouver: "Mr. Smith, an Ottawa resident, has been driving since he was a teenager competing at Ottawa Valley meets. He criss-crossed Eastern Ontario in the 1930's and 1940's buying, trading and racing horses as a part-time profession. While a noted horseman in his own right, it is as an official of the sport that he made an indelible mark. Integrity was his goal. Never has there been any judge as fair to the public, the track, and the horseman." The 83-year-old father, grandfather and great-grandfather likes to turn back the pages of time and delights in reliving memories of his wedding day, April 1, 1933. "I married Marge on April Fool's Day", he quips, "because if I wasn't satisfied I could tell her it was just a joke." Understand our "school marm" of yesteryear soon convinced him being married to her would be no joke. Congratulations you old "sod buster". An honor well deserved for sure. But, heck, we think your "fair lady" deserves Hall-of-Fame rating too. She once almost succeeded in a real "mission impossible" — making her second formers bilingual. We admit being a dismal failure, but we vividly remember seeing Ernie (Whiteside) stand proudly by his desk and advise Emily (Walker) to "Ferme la porte, s'il vous plait". Happy April 1st, 58th wedding anniversary you two, and may you enjoy many more happy, healthy anniversaries

Ever get the scary feeling the world is on "automatic pilot", and spinning completely out of control on the very edge of oblivion? Reports of children, numbering in the millions, dying of starvation have to pierce the most hardened of hearts. But, even more puzzling is the blaring fact that, while children starve, men playing games demand annual salaries in the millions. And consider this one as well. A bundle of the money we pay in taxes will finance an annual "thank-you parcel" (pension?) for ex- premier, millionaire David Peterson. Perhaps it makes sense to you. Not us!

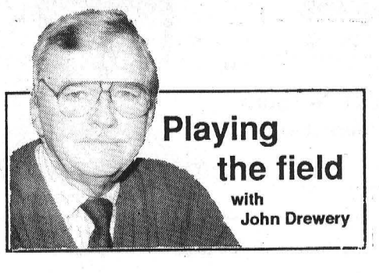
Gagging the bad guys



"Now Gunther, I want you to re-write that news release you prepared. Give it the old zing so the lead hits 'em right between the eyes in the first paragraph.. You know what I mean. One more thing, mention the name of our organization right off the top and at least twice more in the body of the release. Public relations, Gunther, you always gotta remember the principles of public relations"

"You, Ramos, pay attention. I want you to distribute copies of the release when Gunther has it re-written so the newspapers can follow up on the radio and TV bulletin. Use a messenger service. Right?"

"Okay. Blanche, here's the bulletin I've written, a list of the broadcast media and the telephone numbers. They may tape your call and I know you love to get on air but don't get carried away like last time. Read the bulletin straight, no dramatics. No improvisations. Blow it again and I'll suspend you from the PR team".

"Enrico, I want you out in the bars tonight to check the public reactions to the news about our latest product. Be discreet and ..."

The scene is imaginary, of course, but it's a fair approximation of what happens when a group of professionals get together to prepare an advertising blitz of a new product.

In this case, the people I'm talking about are purveyors of violence and their product is terrorism. They have become very successful in getting publicity for their various organizations, using the same kind of public relations techniques used to sell soft drinks, shampoo and automobiles. Access to world media is as easy as picking up the telephone. At one time or another, anyone who has read a newspaper or tuned in on a news broadcast has been informed about the name and often the aims of the terrorist organization that has just committed an outrage somewhere in the world. The readiness of the media to give their exploits publicity is one of the most important assets in the arsenals of the hundreds of Liberation or Action or Revenge organizations that exist. To allow them to claim responsibility for their murders, bombings and hi-jackings inflates their sense of self-importance and satisfaction.It does wonders for their recruiting programmes. Some news media have taken their reporting of terrorist incidents one irresponsible step further.

When Lord Louis Mountbatten was killed by Irish extremists, at least one British newspaper reported that the organization was claiming "credit" for his murder. During a hijacking standoff an international wire service reported the name of the terrorist group together with the information that it too was claiming "credit" for the crime. It then followed up by repeating, verbatim, the aims and demands of the group.. a superb coup for homicidal psychopaths seeking to establish some validity for their cause.

How do you stop terrorists from finding publicity outlets in the media, without interfering with the freedom of the press to seek out and distribute information? The idea of government-imposed censorship, even under extraordinary circumstances, such as war, has always been bitterly opposed because it tends to creep into areas that are not related to national security.

It seems that the answer lies in the exercise of common sense by the media itself. Although editors and reporters would continue to publish and air stories of terrorist activity they would no longer give the organizations responsible the twisted satisfaction of having their names, and sometimes their objectives attached to accounts of their outrages. They deserve to be left in the dark, where they belong.

Pearl Bryan says she and Ernest lived 13 of the happiest years of their lives together.

Reflections:

True love rekindled in storybook fashion

by Shana Saper
Press staff reporter

WINCHESTER—They first met at South Mountain School when they were both children. Then Pearl and Ernest lost track of one another, marrying other people, and raising families—she in South Mountain, he in Rome, New York.

But as true love would have it, they met and fell in love all over again— 50 years later.

Pearl Bryan, born Crowder 86 years ago in VanCamp, recounted the almost story-book encounter that changed her life. She was living alone in town seven years after first husband, Milton Murdock, had died:

"I said I'd never marry again after Milton passed away but one day Ernest came back to town. He asked Ernie Boyd if I was still there and Ernie told him to go down the road and see for himself!"

By this time Ernest Bryan was a widower, too. They both liked what they saw and, this time, there were no obstacles in their way—their love rekindled.

"He'd never gotten me out of his mind," she recalled recently. "Ernest was a good-looking and good-living man...the best.You can't find any better," she declared of the love of her life.

From then on they were inseparable, living part of the year in her house in South Mountain and the rest of the time in Rome. Life took on the dimensions of continuous rounds of lodge and church activities, dances, receptions, weddings. She says they always seemed to be on holidays.

"It was a very, very happy marriage," she said. "The best thing that'ever happened to me in my entire life."

Their happiness lasted for 13 years. Then Ernest died suddenly. "He had an aneurysm...he was sitting in his chair and his head just rolled over to one side. He was gone like that," she recounted the painful memory.

That was three years ago and Pearl returned to South Mountain to live with her daughter, Ruby Crowder. She was profoundly affected by Ernest's death. "It just about killed me," she said, "but here I am still alive."

Pearl confesses, she wanted to die. But her deep religious belief kept her whole. "I know how to pray and how to get my direction from Jesus," she said, adding, "I'm sorry for anybody who doesn't know that great love."

To meet Pearl Bryan today, one sees a slim, well-dressed woman with fine grey hair appearing younger than her true age. Although slightly hard of hearing and tiring a bit faster than before, she still walks two miles every day (weather permitting) and rides a stationary bike for exercise. "It's easy, I've always done it," she stated.

She recently moved into Dundas Manor as she says, "on a trial basis".

"I need very little care," she stated. "I need my meals prepared for me...and I get help with my bath—I don't want to break any bones or get into any trouble like that," she said. Still she says she isn't strong enough to live alone in a senior's apartment.

She admits she feels a bit cooped up these days when it's too cold to walk and she's looking forward to spring. "I just read a book about being born again," she said. "I like reading and especially I like religious stories."

"And I like this window (in my room) because I can look at that oak tree out there. It reminds me of an oak tree I planted in our yard in Rome. My tree should be about that big by now."

Bill C-72 opinions sought

The Editor:

Prime Minister Brian Mulroney still clings to Canada's bilingual myth even though 98% of respondents across Canada want a referendum held on forced official bilingual. He increased cynicism and sank any credibility when he empowered a former chief of language police to command "Spicer's Forum on Canadian Unity".

Our politicians are failing Canada miserably, wasting billions of taxpayers' dollars, sewing disunity and ripping its very soul with irresponsible lemming-like party politics. They pass divisive myth-based language laws they can't defend.

Tolerant Canadians ran out of cheeks to turn on Sept. 6, 1990. Ontario Liberals were booted out of office the first election after they snuck through the controversial provincial Language Bill 8, based on Canada's bilingual myth.

In 1988, federal politicians shoved through Bill C-72 (the Official Language Act) based on the false bilingual premise. I've not seen one substantive defence of C-72; only politicians calling critics vile names. Kid stuff!

After 12 requests to our politicians, they've failed to list any advantages that would benefit all Canadians if C-72 is enforced. I understand it would dictate that a federal civil servant could, on a whim, refuse to speak English on the job and demand to speak and be spoken to in French only (work in the "language of their choice"). Language Police would enforce such a demand.

My numbers, quite rightly, have been questioned. I've double checked at the library (you can too) and according to the current media directory, excluding our province of Quebec — 98% of our daily newspapers, 94% of radio and 88% of TV are in English. Quebec has outlawed outside signs in English. Canada bilingual? — Piffle.

I'm sending this "letter to the editor" to over 200 newspapers and many radio and TV stations across Canada. I've received thousands and thousands of informative heart-warming words from concerned Canadians, proud of our country but ashamed of our politicians' blunders: — bilingualism — crippling deficit — failing economy — taxation without representation, and — just plain lack of common sense!

If anyone has a list of advantages of C-72 that would benefit and unit, not divide, all Canadians please send it soon.

If you read or hear this letter, pleae mail me a dated identified clipping and your opinion of holding a referendum of Forced Official Bilingualism in Canada.

This will also help to answer the question: Is freedom of speech and its sister, the right to be heard in a democracy, alive and well in Canada?

Health minister's stance deplored

The Editor:

One of the few times that Pro-Life people and pro-abortionists have agreed on anything occured on Jan. 31 when the senate defeated the abortion Bill C-43. But their agreement was due to reasons which are at the opposite ends of the humanitarian spectrum.

The pro-abortionists didn't want the bill because they want no mention of abortion in the criminal code, fearing that they may somehow be held accountable for killing unborn children. One of their spokeswomen, MP Barbara McDougall, stated in the House: "Abortion amounts to the killing of an unborn child - let's not be afraid of the vocabulary".

The Pro-Life people fought the bill because they were aware that the bill was a sham, having been put forward as a "compromise", but, in fact it provided not one whit of protection for the unborn, and that is unacceptable to people who hold that all life is precious.

The logic that says society has the right to kill unborn babies because they are "inconvenient" will conclude that euthanasia for the elderly and handicapped is a good thing too (whether or not the victims want it), as well as infanticide for handicapped children. The same logic could be used to solve the man-made food shortage in Africa by starving the hungry - that would solve the problem!

The new provincial health minister says she will make access to abortion easier for Ontario women. Well, I'm not sure how many more abortions can be done in this province - over 30,000 were done in 1989. To open more abortion facilities and train more doctors will take even more monies from a provincial health fund which is already more than $800 million in the red.

The minister has promised to pay transportation costs for women in remote areas who want an abortion. Will she also pay transportation costs for people needing cancer treatment, heart surgery or dialysis? In her unseemly haste to kill she is willing to undercut other services which are real health needs (which abortion is not) but will spare no expense in the provision of abortion services.

Abortion cures no known medical problem and in fact often causes a range of problems from internal punctures and infections to psychological trauma. Yet the health minister is determined to kill every unborn child possible.

Killing human beings, and most especially innocent and defenceless human beings, solves no problems. And by continuing to focus on abortion as the solution to social problems, we continue to let our governments off the hook from solving the real problems - unemployment; help for mothers with difficult pregnancies, whether young, unmarried, uneducated or whatever; lack of real equality in the workplace; abused women and children; pornography; and well-entrenched chauvinism.

No, killing the unborn solves none of these real problems but it does make our hearts more hardened towards those with real problems.

NDDHS notes: Taz to meet valentine

by Kathy Allison

Exams are finally over, and this week, North Dundas will celebrate with our annual Winter Carnival. Shannon Summers, our social convenor, and the Carnival Committee have planned a week full of events for us.

Monday was our Pajama Day and Tuesday was Twin Day; so many friends got together and dressed alike which made for an interesting day. Today is 50's and 60's Day and Thursday, students will be auctioned off for Slave Day. We will finish the week off with a Valentine's Day dance Thursday night, and of course, the main event will be our Carnival Day on Friday, which will also be Bed Head Day. So if you are too lazy to get ready Friday morning after the dance, you just have to roll out of bed and come to school as you are.

There will be many events going on at school on Friday including a student vs teacher ringette game which will provide many laughs but I won't say at who. Many students don't bother to come to school on Carnival Day, but believe me, they don't know what they're missing because it's a great chance to come out and show some school spirit and you get the chance to see your teachers in a totally different light.

As of this week Taz, our school mascot, will be getting a new companion. At the dance on Thursday night, our new lady Tazmanian Devil will be introduced for the very first time. So all students should come out because no one should miss this.

Along with Carnival day on Friday, Mr. Harper will be taking some students to Montreal to see a production of "Les Miserables" which I'm sure will be incredible.

Congratulations should go out this week to our Midget Boys' basketball team who won both their games in the tournament last Wednesday and finished second in SD&G. That's all for this week.

Part I, The New Camcorder
by Bill Steele

WINCHESTER — Many of you reading this article are probably the newest owners of a camcorder. So the first thing you did after getting it home or unwrapping it was to read the manual, right?

Well, maybe most people need to know how to open the door to insert a tape, where the batteries go in, and where the power and record/pause buttons are. This is the point where most people stop reading the manual.

This is not so bad. There is very little you can do to damage a camcorder (dropping it is not recommended) so at worst you are getting a feel for the camera. This is very important. It takes hours of shooting to become comfortable with the camera and determine what angles work best, whether or not there was enough light and whether you zoomed in and out too much.

Zooming in and out too frequently, cutting heads off, poor lighting and walking while unknowingly letting the camera run as it videos the sidewalk or front lawn are the major interest-killers of home videos. Try shooting children from their level. Try zooming and panning at the same time (zanning).

Panning is simply moving the camera from left to right or right to left. For a jitter-free pan, turn only your upper body to the extreme left (for a left to right pan) keeping your feet pointing straight ahead. Then twist your upper body from left to right following the action.

To zan, start on telephoto and while panning go to wide angle as the subject approaches and then back to telephoto as the subject moves away. Whether panning or zanning, go slowly. You don't have to pan 180 degrees either. Sometimes half a pan or zan is just as good. This is a good method for scene transitions.

For example if a particular scene ends outdoors, you could finish that scene with a shot of a tree or plant. Then indoors start the next scene with a closeup of a houseplant or scenic painting and then pan or zan to your subject. Remember too that your camcorder is also an audio recorder so be conscious of what you are hearing or saying.

Narration can aid in clarifying a scene and can also be used to record technical information ("I'm shooting at 1/250 sec" etc.) as you experiment later with some of the more advanced features. Or, if you haven't yet found the date controls or they aren't set properly simply say the date at the start of recording. Remember, tape can be re-used so shoot away.

Next week: See the Light.

9-1-1 EMERGENCY SYSTEM FINAL NOTICE

FINAL NOTICE FOR CIVIC ADDRESS CONFIRMATION FOR RESIDENCES AND BUSINESSES WITH A RURAL MAILING ADDRESS.

This is to serve notice that the efforts of the Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton to obtain civic address information for the 9-1-1 program shall end five days after the publication date of this notice.

From 1987 to September 1990, the Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton and the area municipalities in the Region have jointly undertaken a project to assign civic addresses in Ottawa-Carleton in areas with rural mailing addresses. Requests to confirm civic address information were mailed to approximately 28,000 residences and businesses in these areas. Approximately 22,500 responses have been returned.

According to the Ontario Municipal Act, the naming of roads and the assigning of civic address numbers are responsibilities of the local municipality. Only your municipality can provide your valid civic address.

Details appear below on how you can obtain information about your civic address from your local municipality (where you pay your local municipal taxes).

Your local municipality may have renumbered your area. If you received a new civic address, the previous house or business number is obsolete and should no longer be used. Please remove old numbers from your property to avoid confusion.

It is important for all residents to post their civic address numbers in a conspicuous location, readily visible from the travelled road, to assist emergency vehicles in locating your address.

9-1-1 is an answering centre. The purpose of 9-1-1 is to put the caller in communication with the local emergency service (POLICE, FIRE or AMBULANCE) that the caller needs.

The primary source of information for POLICE, FIRE or AMBULANCE emergency agencies is always verbal information provided by the caller. This information should include your civic address.

In situations where the caller is unable to speak, for whatever reason, or does not know the address, address information is also provided by a computer which assists emergency agencies in locating them. This is why it is very important to return your civic address confirmation sheet to ensure that the information is in the computer.

Residences and businesses served by a rural post office can obtain information about their civic address by contacting their local municipality at the telephone number listed below:

CUMBERLAND	Works Division	830-6204
GLOUCESTER	Planning Dept./Terry Gilmour	748-4177
GOULBOURN	Fire Department	836-3337
KANATA	Planning Department	592-4281
NEPEAN	Building Development/Janet McKenzie	727-6632
OSGOODE	Brenda Geurkink	821-1107
RIDEAU	Clerk's Department	489-3314
WEST CARLETON	Engineering Department	839-5644

Note: Failure to provide accurate civic address information and to conspicuously post properly authorized civic address numbers may seriously interfere with the ability of POLICE, FIRE and AMBULANCE agencies in the 9-1-1 system to deliver emergency services. The Regional Municipality of Ottawa-Carleton will not accept responsibility for any injury or damage arising out of such failure.

U.S. teams face off for tourney silver

WINCHESTER—It was an all-American final here Sunday as teams from Massena and North Franklin, New York, squared off in the "A" championship showdown match.

When the final whistle had sounded the North Franklin team was presented the North Dundas Minor Hockey Association's championship silverware and individual trophies.

North Franklin emerged as champs by scoring three times in the final 5:13 of play. Marie Signor netted the winner at 5:13. Becky Jacobs and Jennifer Hernie followed with insurance markers at 1:16 and :41 seconds. Stacey Reynolds posted the perfect game working between the irons.

The eight-team girls' tournament, sanctioned by the Ontario Women's Hockey Association and sponsored by the NDMHA, was held in conjuction with Winchester's 1991 Winter Carnival, produced some exciting and close competition, according to spokesman John Proulx.

"A couple of games were won in overtime, a couple more decided in the third period. You can't get better hockey than that," Proulx said.

"I think all of the girls enjoyed the day," he added.

North Franklin began their day blanking the Nepean Red Wings 4-0. They then gave up their only goals of the day beating the Nepean Raiders 3-2 in the semi-final round. Their 3-0 win over Massena completed a perfect tournament.

Massena edged the Embrun Panthers 4-3 in overtime in spite of Nadine Bourdeau's two goals and they eliminated the Morrisburg Lions 2-0 in another overtime. This time Billy Jo Sharlow and Kathy Martell decided the issue in a shoot-out.

But Massena's win string snapped in the "A" final.

North Dundas Demons' young squad dropped a 5-0 opening-round decision to the Morrisburg Lions who got all of their goals from Krista Casselman.

The Demons were ousted in the consolation semis when they were beaten 5-1 by Embrun.

Catie Clapp netted North Dundas' lone goal on a feed from Barbi Dowell and Jada McNaughton with 1:08 left in period two.

Nadine Bordeau led the Panthers with three goals. Sylvette Lalonde and Julie Bourgeois netted the others. Mylene Leblanc earned three assists.

Embrun then got another solid game from goalie Julie Lalonde as they took the "B" championship hardware by a 2-0 count over South Grenville.

Nadine Bourdeau scored the winner from Renee Beaudin at 8:21 of the first period. Stephanie Bourgeois iced the decision, scoring from Natalie Lacelle and Sophie Lapalme with 4:48 left in the third.

South Grenville reached the final by edging Nepean 2-1.

Jr. B girls strike gold

OTTAWA—Jennifer Clost's second goal of the game came with 6:53 left on the clock and gave Metcalfe Winterlude gold here during the opening days of that annual event.

Metcalfe edged Greens Creek 3-2 to become the 1991 Ottawa Winterlude Invitational Junior "B" Ringette Tournament champion.

Jodi Mulligan gave Metcalfe a 1-0 lead on Greens Creek in the "A" final, scoring from Janice Isaac 8:17 before the half.

Isaac again drew the assist when Jennifer Clost made it a 2-0 game at 7:02. Greens Creek sliced a goal off Metcalfe's lead (2-1) 1:10 before the break.

The Creek tied it up (2-2) at 10:16 of the second half but Clost snapped the tie, scoring on a play started for her by Kenda-Lee Hoffer 6:53 before the end of the game.

Rebecca McCooeye posted the win with stellar work in the cage.

In preceding action Metcalfe defeated Pembroke 5- 3. Kenda-Lee Hoffer led the winners with two goals and one assist. Jennifer Clost netted a deuce while Heather Myers completed the picture with one goal. Janice Isaac (2), Krista Benson and Sophia Craig all collected assists.

Metcalfe's only defeat was a 4-3 verdict handed down by Greens Creek. Jodi Mulligan scored two and Kenda-Lee Hoffer one goal in that encounter. Krista Benson (2) and Sophia Craig earned assists. The winning goal came with just 4:36 left on the clock.

A six-goal effort by Jodi Mulligan helped Metcalfe open the event with a 9-6 decision over Nepean.

It was 5-4 at the half. Kenda Hoffer and Krista Benson supported the outcome with a one goal - two assist effort. Jennifer Clost added the other goal.

Members of the gold medal squad include - Rebecca McCooeye, Heather Myers, Leanne Reaney, Chantel Cousineau, Sophia Craig, Kenda-Lee Hoffer, Jodi Mulligan, Jennifer Clost, Krista Benson and Janice Isaac. The coaches are Bob Myers, Ken Hoffer, Brenda Reaney and Nelda Isaac.

Warriors tie Bantams 2-2

CHESTERVILLE—It looked for two and one half periods as if the home town North Dundas Bantam "C" Demons just might knock off the visiting Brockville Warriors here last Friday night.

But a goal by Darren Metcalfe pulled the visitors from a 2-1 deficit into a 2-2 tie. Metcalfe beat Demons' Paul Brennan with 9:11 left in the final frame.

Kevin McConnell gave North Dundas a 1-0 first-period lead.

Defenceman Kirk Liscumb opened up a 2-0 gap for North Dundas when he hit on a feed from captain Barry Bell at 9:20 of period two. Brockville ruined Brennan's shutout 3:28 before the second intermission.

Juniors blow out visiting Gaels

MAPLE RIDGE - Rodney Merkley salted a North Dundas Junior Devils boys' basketball win by looping through 15 points against the visiting Glengarry Gaels last Thursday, Feb. 7.

The little Devils sunk a 51-37 victory over the Gaels two days after dropping a 73-59 decision on the road to the Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers.

On the Senior side, Scot Bell nailed a winning performance for the Devils disappointing week in the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Sr. boys' basketball league.

Bell dropped in six three-pointers on the court last week. Two were made in the 83-58 thrashing given by R-O on Tuesday, Feb 5, while four were piled in during the 70-55 loss to the Gaels the following Thursday.

The Jr. Devils win over Glengarry was a defence effort. In the opening quarter North Dundas held its opponents to four points. Merkley led the Devils offensive game by sinking five of the teams 12 points of the quarter.

After the first half the little Devils ran up a 26-14 advantage over Glengarry. However the home team was outscored 14-10 in the third quarter.

The Devils went into the fourth quarter with an eight-point lead over their guests. The Gaels came within six points before North Dundas rallied for the game win.

Coach Deanna Corbett-White said the victory was a "total team effort. We had to play hard, and that's exactly what we did."

She added that the team played excellent defence and Rodney Merkley was rebounding well.

Merkley sunk 15 points, Sean Slater hooped 12, Danny McLeod nine, Jamie Kennedy seven, Mike Singh six and Jason Ball rang up two.

The Jr. Devils coach explained Tuesday's 73-59 loss to R-O as a "hard luck game."

The team had an agressive defence, but lost the game from the line.

"We got into really bad foul problems, and they (R-O) shot well from the foul line. That really hurt us," Corbett-White said. The Lancers made good on 21 of the 30 foul shots.

North Dundas played for a 16-12 lead after the first quarter, but R-O pulled its squad to a 26-24 advantage at the half.

At the end of the third, the Devils trailed by 11 points.

Sean Slater had the best offensive performance for the little Devils. He nailed in 13, Jamie Kennedy piled 12, Danny McLeod 11, Rodney Merkley 10, Jason Stevens five, Jason Ball four, Cory VanDelst two and Mike Singh two.

Seniors dropped

Senior Devils' Scot Bell had a strong performance in both of the team's outings last week, but the North Dundas squad was unable to mark a SD&G boys' basketball win.

On Tuesday Rothwell-Osnabruck Lancers nailed the Devils to the court. North Dundas suffered a 83-58 loss to the home team.

The Lancers hooped a 22-15 lead in the first quarter, and by the end of the second the club controlled a 46-31 score.

In the third quarter the Sr. Devils played their best defensive game, the team was outscored 14-11.

R-O sunk 23 points in the final quarter, to add up a 83-58 victory over their visitors.

Scot Bell and Darren Hutt both rang up 14 points, and were four-for-four from the line. Chris Van Bridger hit two-for-two from the foul line and sunk two three-pointers and two deuces to count 12 points. Ashley Byers was 50 per cent from the line and nailed in three two-pointers. Chad Simpson marked six points and Jay Cull made three.

The Sr. Devils got off to a strong 23-15 first quarter lead, but the Glengarry Gaels took a 38-35 advantage at the half and kept adding to it for a 70-55 victory.

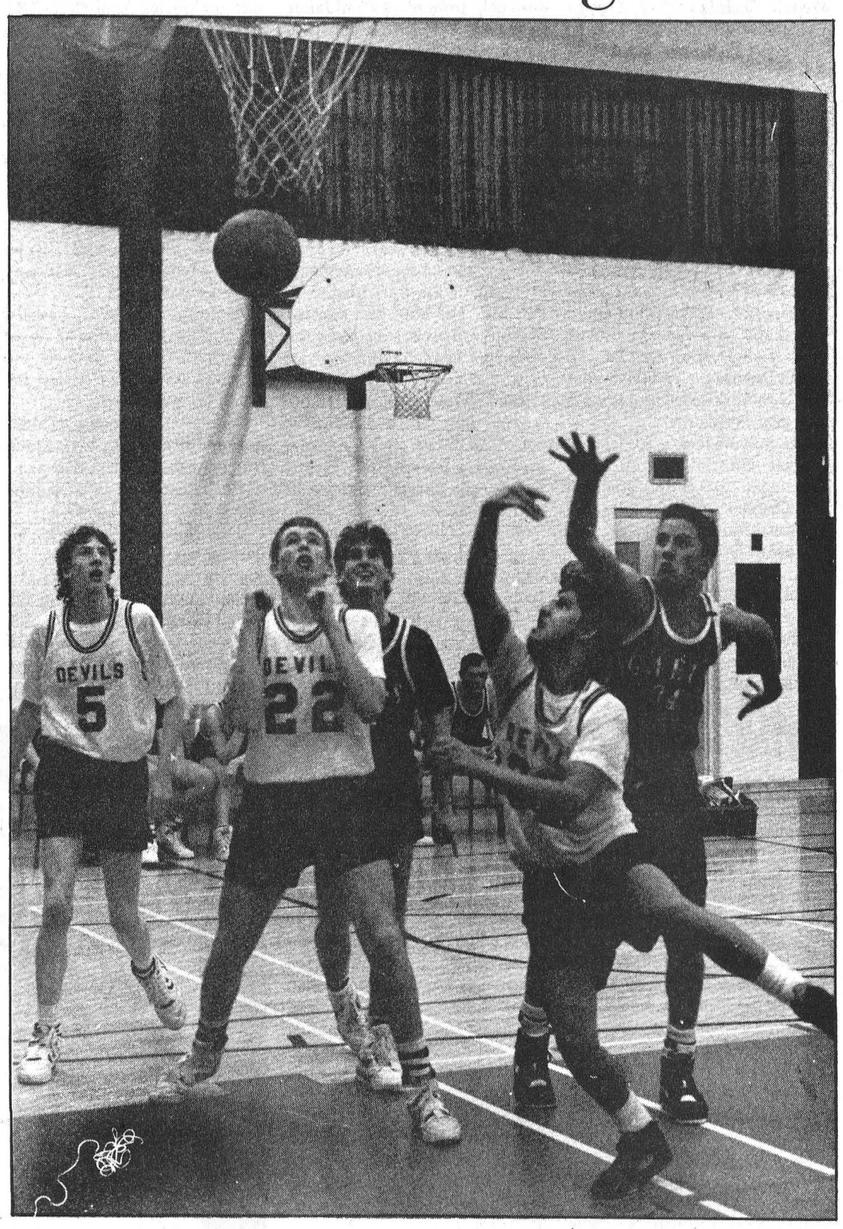
North Dundas looped a strong start when Chad Simpson dropped in 10 points, while Scot Bell rang up two three-pointers and was one-for-two from the line. Ashley Byers sank four points to help the Devils in the opening quarter.

Byers was held to a deuce and Bell was 50 percent from the line to count a single point. Chris Van Bridger enlightened the Devils' dismal quarter by nailing a three-pointer and a deuce.

After the third, the Gaels tallied a 54-45 lead, and expanded the score six more points by outscoring the Devils 16-10.

Sr. Devils' coach Gerry Jean said "Scot (Bell) played extremely well, but injuries have hurt us."

Bell led the game scoring list by looping in 22 points four of which were three-pointers. Simpson sunk 12, Byers nailed nine, Darren Hutt seven and Van Bridger made five.



North Dundas split a pair of SD&G Junior boys basketball decisions last week defeating the Glengarry Gaels 51-37 on Rodney "Mailman" Merkley's 15 points. Tuesday the Devils dropped a 73-59 decision to the R\O Lancers.

Morrisburg Lions Yvon Besner and Johnny Morrow (L) were jumping for joy after Rob Casselman gave their squad a 7-7 tie with 1:11 left in regulation time here Friday night.

Hawks stumble out of first place

WINCHESTER—Once first-place contenders in the St. Lawrence Division, the Winchester Hawks could settle into the opening round of the playoffs as third-place finishers.

Consecutive losses to the Alexandria Glens here last Wednesday, to the Morrisburg Lions here Friday and to the host Westport Rideaus Sunday leave the Hawks with one choice. Beat Char-Lan Rebels here tonight (Wed., Feb. 13) in their final regular season game or risk the possibility of losing home ice advantage to the Kemptville 73s, who look like the Hawks' first-round opposition.

Here at home last Wednesday a large crowd watched big Marc Sauve score twice, once on a penalty shot, and lead the Alexandria Glens to a 6-5 win in a match previously billed as a first-place showdown.

Back in front of another big audience here Friday night the Hawks soared into a 3-1 first-period lead on Morrisburg. Winchester then opened up a 5-1 and 6-2 lead in the second but it wasn't enough as the pesky Lions scratched their way back to steal an exciting 8-7 victory in overtime.

That game qualifies for "Pepto-Bismol Upset of the Week" honors.

Sunday in Westport Todd Marcellus and Sean Gordon were the only Hawks' snipers to fool a sizzling hot Chris Chisamore (36 saves) who backed the Rideau Division leading Rideaus in a 5-2 victory.

Mark Boisclair led Westport to victory with three goals. Todd Mallette and Todd Gerow supplied the other goals.

That encounter produced a "pile o' penalties." With 15:44 left on the clock a wild melee saw Hawks' Dave Boyd, Todd Marcellus, Sean Gordon and Scott Barkley draw nine misconducts and four five minute major penalties. Westport players earned themselves seven misconducts and three five minute majors.

LEAD VANISHES

Here at home Friday night Dean Wilson scored twice and Dave Boyd once in the first period as the Hawks jumped out to a 3-1, first-period lead on the Morrisburg Lions.

Dean Beckstead put the Lions on the board 3:31 before the first intermission.

Bantam affiliate defenceman Jeff Hyndman, playing in his first Jr. B game, then made it 4-1, scoring on a rising slapshot after a dazzling end-to-end rush at 18:45 of period two.

Scot Bell had a bouncing puck go in off of him at 17:12 and it was 5-1, Hawks.

Morrisburg veteran John Morrow cut the lead to 5-2 at 15:05 but Sean Gordon opened up a 6-2 Winchester lead at 11:42.

Winchester's ball began to unravel at 8:25 when Robbie Casselman scored from Morrow and Besner on a powerplay. Another Lions' powerplay at 7:17 saw Morrow make it 6-4 on a feed from Rob and Tim Casselman. The deficit dwindled to 6-5 4:05 before the end of the second when Randy "Tug" Mullin dented twine on a feed from Rob Casselman and John Morrow.

Rookie of the year candidate Mike McAllister tied it up 6-6 hitting from Andrew McEwan and Ernie Beckstead at 16:27 of the final frame.

But Todd Marcellus gave the Hawks hope (7-6) when he drilled home a Sean Gordon-Jeff Egan rebound with 9:42 showing on the clock.

Lions' coach Doug Casselman pulled relief goalie Daryl Kiviaho with 1:11 left and got the tying goal (7-7). Yvon Besner took the draw back to Tim Casselman at the point. Casselman fired toward the net where brother Rob tipped it home in textbook fashion.

A wild overtime saw Winchester put the puck through the crease behind Kiviaho in the last minute in one end but the Lions put the puck into an empty net at the other.

Needing more than a point from the game the Hawks lifted Eric Sakalaskas in favour of a sixth skater and went looking for the victory.

But the move back-fired as Besner and Beckstead got the puck to Andrew McEwan who broke up the right boards and scored the winner into an empty net with 36 seconds on the clock.

Morrisburg, fighting for their playoff lives, then backed up Friday's win in overtime in Winchester by routing the Char-Lan Rebels 12-4 in Morrisburg on Sunday.

Powered by rookies Andrew McEwan (7 points), Mike McAllister (six) and Winchester's Chris Van Bridger (four points), the Lions moved three points closer to that fourth and final playoff spot.

GLENS BY A GOAL

In Winchester last Wednesday it took two scoresheets to record the Hawks' penalties and just nine lines for the first-place Glens' infractions as Peter Derooy's charges edged Winchester 6-5.

Glens led 4-2 after a period and 5-4 after two. Mike Sauve's goal from Marc Sauve and Serge Bellefeuille at 8:42 stood as the winner.

Marc Sauve (2), Bellefeuille, Mike Sauve, Glen Campbell and Luc Decour notched Glens goals.

Todd Marcellus led Winchester with two goals and one assist. Chris Williams, Dave Boyd and Doug Armstrong supplied the others. Scott Barkley, Jason Doucette, Armstrong, Pat Maguire and Jeff Egan picked up assists.

Hawks final regular season home game is set for tonight, Feb. 13, at 8:15pm.

Bantam Demons red hot, unbeaten in six outings

KEMPTVILLE—Jason Desormeaux held the hot stick here on Feb 4 scoring three times in North Dundas' 5-2 Upper Canada Minor Hockey League Bantam "A" win over the host Royals.

That victory extended the Demons' win string to six games which stretches back to January 17 when Desormeaux potted a pair of goals in a 3-2 win over the Metcalfe Bantam Jets.

On January 14 North Dundas and South Grenville battled to a 4-4 draw. Brockville Warriors fell to the Demons by a 4-2 count on Jan 29. Wally Cinnamon netted two in a Jan. 31 6-6 tie with Kemptville. On Feb. 2 North Dundas crossed the border into New York and skated to a 4-3 win over Potsdam.

Kemptville took a 1-0 lead on North Dundas on Robbie Horning's first period goal but the Demons were leading 3-1 after two frames.

Jason Desormeaux scored from Shawn Steinburg at 13:14 and unassisted at 7:45 to tie it up 2-2.

David Sears connected for the winning goal finishing a play started by Glen Meeks and Andrew Holmes 5:28 before the end of period two.

Phillip Brisebois made it 4-2 with help from Meeks and Jamie Francis at 7:46 of the third and Desormeaux completed his new hat with 1:39 left in the contest. Wally Cinnamon and Grant Williams engineered the marker.

Clint Hedge and Denis Desormeaux split goal- tending duties for coach Brian Halpenny's club. Hedge got the start in that 5-2 decision.

Demons' captain Trevor Simpson scored the winning goal at 10:46 of the third period in Potsdam. His tally was assisted by Phillip Brisebois and was the difference in a 4-3 exhibition victory.

Glen Meeks, Jason Desormeaux and Wally Cinnamon potted the other goals. Andrew Holmes, Brisebois, Brent Barkley and Shawn Steinburg all drew assists.

Wally Cinnamon scored twice, including the tying goal with 3:44 left, in a Jan. 31 6-6 tie against Kemptville.

The Royals had taken a 6-5 lead with 4:15 showing on the clock.

Kemptville led 3-1 after one but it was even 3-3 after two.

In addition to Cinnamon's two goals and one assist North Dundas got singles from Craig Halpenny, Brent Barkley, Shawn Steinburg and Glen Meeks.

Jason Desormeaux (3), Dave Sears (2), Andrew Holmes and Barkley all helped out on goals.

Four shooters - Andrew Holmes, Wally Cinnamon, Shawn Steinberg and Glen Meeks - gave North Dundas their 4-2 win over Brockville.

Jason Desormeaux set up three goals while Steinburg helped out on two.

Desormeaux's goal, assisted by Andrew Holmes at 12:26 of the final frame, handed the Demons a 4-4 draw against the South Grenville Rangers.

Grant Williams chipped in a goal and one helper while Steinburg and Trevor Simpson notched the other goals. Simpson also earned two helpers.

Desormeaux keyed that 3-2 win against Metcalfe on Jan. 17 scoring a pair of goals. His second came from Steinburg and Clint Hedge with 1:37 left in the game and proved to be the winner. Grant Williams netted the other marker.

GOOD ATTENDANCE HELPS CARNIVAL COFFERS

Warm weather and the cancellation of our carnival queen competition, once the highlight of the carnival, got this year's winter celebration off to a bad start. However, good turnouts at all events will contribute to a profit of over $6,000, which will go a long way in providing new "tot" equipment for the playground and purchase new tables and chairs for the downstairs. Lack of interest in button sales and queen competitors will reflect a change in planning for next year. More emphasis will be put on old-fashioned family events on the ice and perhaps even a king competition. Our sincere thanks to all those who helped; you always come through. The ladies from the churches who provided the delicious suppers would like me to extend a special thanks to all who turned out, as well as those who made donations of money and food. It made both their suppers a great success. Thanks again to all of the businesses and groups who did so well. We promise a bigger and better carnival for next year with quite a few changes in store.

HAWKS FALL FOR OLDEST TRICK IN THE BOOK

This time last week, the Hawks had a shot at first place. Now they will probably end up in third. The sad thing is that after leading the league for most of the year, they have been had by the oldest trick in sports. And to make matters worse, they don't seem to know it! It's for sure that Glens' coach Derooy was aware of the old ploy, not that it matters, as the Hawks will not likely even meet Alexandria again this year. Big Doug, with his team down by five goals put it to use last Friday night, in fact he even came back and won the game. Of course this old trick Doug learned way back when he was only a little fellow (and that's a while ago). For most of the latter part of the season, about 90 per cent of the fans have seen the problem, even though coach Bill admits the fact that he can't get across to the team, what everyone else can see so clearly. The fact is guys, you're being had! It doesn't matter how fast the team can skate or how well they can check, they can't do it in the penalty box, and everyone but you are aware that when when the Hawks get ahead, you just send out a couple of players to goad them into penalties. Hawks are very vulnerable as they not only fall for the old play and take the penalties, but they slash and bang even after the call, then inform the ref of his inefficiencies which only adds to the time off and completely delights the opposition to no end. I know that pointing out this fact will not be taken to heart and the team will blame the executive for not making the infamous phone call, but just think guys how many times we have played short-handed and been beaten in the final stages of the game or just pulling off a win by a whisker. Unless you really get the message and make an honest effort to stay on the ice where you belong, you could still be the best team in the league, sticking around until the grass is turning green this spring. Otherwise I might as well start advertising ice time, available Wednesday evenings from 8:30-10pm and every Friday night till the end of the hockey season.

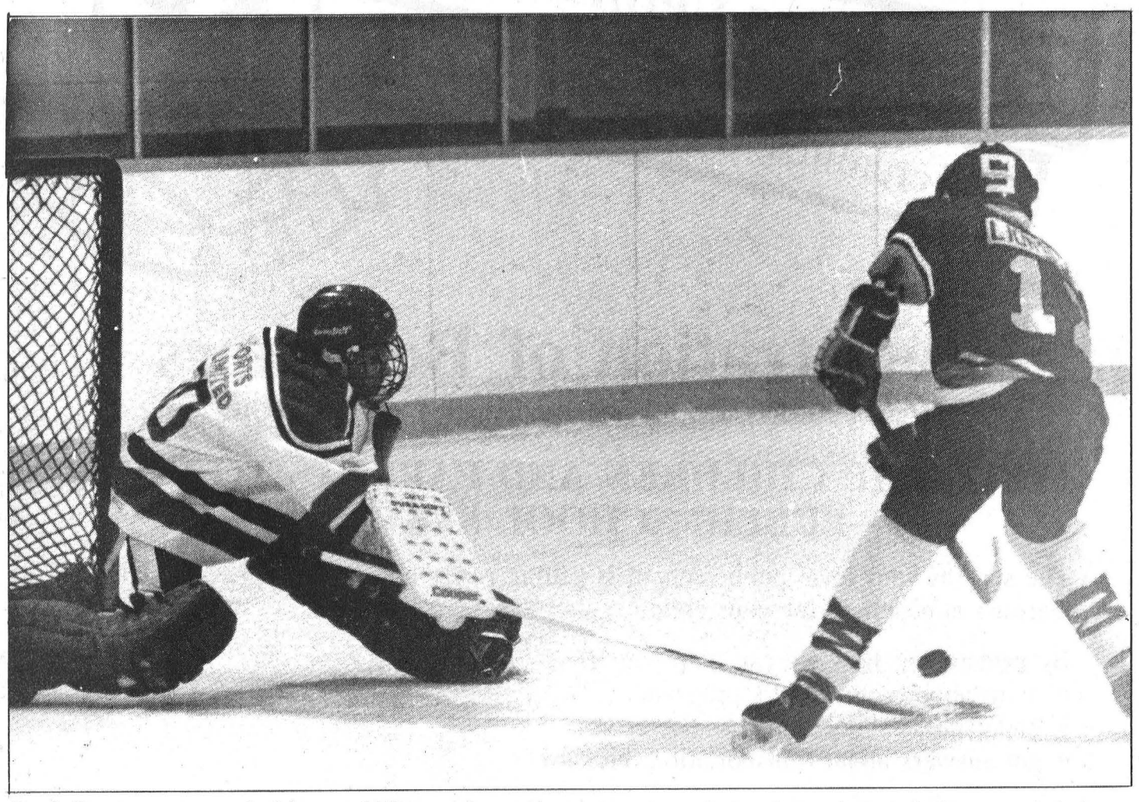
Russell Warriors scalp Lions for Bantam tourney



Paul Brennan stopped this would-be goal-scorer during an overtime shootout. Brennan played two shutout periods of overtime and then stymied three Brockville shooters to claim a 5-3 victory.

WINCHESTER—Travis Ford's unassisted goal, scored with 28 seconds left in regulation time, gave the Russell Warriors the 1991 North Dundas Minor Hockey Association's Bantam "C" Tournament title.

Ford and the Warriors had surrendered the tying goal to Morrisburg's Chris Wilson with 1:28 left but the champs recovered and posted a 4-3 championship win over the Lions.

Russell dumped the South Grenville Rangers 7-2 with the help of a two goal effort by Brad McMahon and got two goals from Neil Rogers as they defeated Nepean Cedarhill 5-3 to qualify for the "A" championship match.

Morrisburg needed a shootout to put Brockville in the consolation round winning 5-4. They then nipped the Metcalfe Mustangs 2-1 to gain the other berth in the finale.

North Dundas Demons reached down and played better hockey than they had all year, according to their coach Sheldon McLeod.

McLeod said he and the others on the NDMHA tournament committee involved in Saturday's event couldn't be happier with the level of hockey provided.

"We had shootouts and a lot of one goal games. That's what it's all about," he added.

North Dundas lost a heartbreaking 1-0 decision to the Metcalfe Mustangs in their opening game. Danny MacDonald netted the winner scoring from Peter Fennell with just 1:54 left in regulation time.

Brett Hillis and Kyle Marriner were the heroes in the semi-final win over Brockville scoring goals in the shootout round. Demons had the game won (3- 2) but a penalty shot allowed Brockville to tie the game (3-3) and send it to overtime.

Allan Potvin, Steven Cross and Barry Bell scored North Dundas' goals in regulation. Hillis (2), Bell, Kirk Liscumb and Cross all earned assists.

Barry Bell scored from Kevin McConnell with 6:35 left in the second period of the "B" final and gave the Demons a 1-0 lead on the Gloucester Cougars. The Cougars tied it up at 8:19 of the third period and won it in a shootout after two scoreless overtime periods. Tom Burman put the deciding goal (2-1) behind Paul Brennan.

Gloucester reached the final by blanking South Grenville 3-0 in the semis.

Pee Wees drop pair

METCALFE—North Dundas' Pee Wee "C" Demons dropped back-to-back Upper Canada Minor Hockey League decisions last week.

Here on Saturday Demon shooters were held at bay by the home town No. Two Mustangs who galloped to a 5-0 win.

Darren MacDonald registered the shutout while Kevin Myers scored a pair of goals. Ryan Kelly, Trevor Thompson and Shawn Hayes supplied goals for the winners. Ryan Thompson (2), Shawn Bakker, Trevor Thompson and Ryan Kelly all earned assists.

Last Friday in Chesterville the Demons dented twine three times but it wasn't enough as they fell by a 6-3 count to Metcalfe's No. One Mustangs.

Denis Mayer hit from Jeremy Heerkens for a 1-0 lead at 7:21 of period one.

Metcalfe responded with two late goals in period two. Dan Perron tied it up at 1-1 at 3:49. Riley Hatherall finished a play started by John Brodhead and Chris Cavers at 2:50 but North Dundas knotted it 2-2 at 2:21 when Jason Heuff connected from Josh Vanderveen.

North Dundas took a 3-2 lead with 8:21 left in the game when Jeremy Heerkens completed a play started for him by Megan Arsenault and Robbie Armstrong.

But Metcalfe rallied again and won it with four consecutive markers.

John Brodhead tied it up with 8:10 left. Corey Bekkers' goal won it with 6:27. Dan Perron made it 5-3 scoring unassisted with 1:16 left. Perron then assisted on Corey Bekkers' final goal with 46 seconds left on the clock.

Casselman Stars wipe ice with Jets

CHESTERVILLE - The Casselman Cambridge Stars cut up the ice in Eastern Ontario Junior "C" Hockey League action last week, and the Chesterville Flyers were their victims.

The Flyers played, or rather showed up for, two games against the Stars. Casselman outscored the Flyers 24-7 in the two-game total.

Last Sunday in Casselman, Chesterville dropped a 13-3 decision to their hosts. The next evening in Chesterville the team was defeated by an 11-4 score differential.

The Flyers were scoreless during the first two periods of play. And the visiting club notched four goals in each of the two periods.

At 9:05 of period two the Flyers were down 6-0. Coach Jerrold Boulanger put Bill Zrymiak in the cage at 8:46 to replace starter Brad Dillabough. The frame ended with an eight marker shutout for the Stars.

Chesterville skated for a 4-3 period during the third, but it was much too little, too late.

Ray Sherrer and Tony Holmes placed the puck on Don Marcellus' stick for Chesterville's first goal.

Casselman went on to net a 10-1 lead before Denis Ouellette treated the Flyers to their second goal.

Oueliette worked alone for his second of the game. He scored with 4:09 showing.

With just 14 seconds remaining in the game, Shawn McKenzie skated into scoring territory. He took back the goal that was netted by Casselman just 50 seconds earlier.

Casselman 13 - Chesterville 3

Martin Hughes got things rolling for the Stars, Sunday. He mounted a three-goal first period shut- out for the squad.

Goals at 19:20 and 12:44 of the second frame enabled Casselman to tally a 5-0 advantage.

The Flyers finally hit the scoreboard at 8:14 of the second period. Kent Young worked alone for the marker.

Casselman slapped in a 7-1 advantage by the second intermission, and jumped into a 11-1 lead before the Flyers scored again.

At 8:16 of the third, Rod Casselman worked on a play started for him by Steve Barton and Jason Major.

Casselman finished their scoring game with 2:38 still to play. And with just 44 seconds remaining the Flyers netted their third goal.

Shutouts rule broomball matches

WINCHESTER—Laurier Menard put together another perfect game in the Morewood cage here Sunday night backing the Winchester and District Broomball League's leading team in their 4-0 victory over the number three-ranked Voyageurs.

Their win strengthened the Vikings hold on the "A" Pool pennant increasing their lead to six points over number two Ormond. The Cloverdales won their 14th tripping up the Newington Knights 9-0.

The Prescott Road Knights moved to within a point of the Voyageurs and third place by tripping up the Toyes Hill Roadrunners 6-1.

Manotick Merchants, "B" Pool leaders, purchased two more points for their trip to the "A" Pool by beating the Winchester Raiders 6-0.

The "A" Pool standings read like this - Morewood 35, Ormond 29, Voyageurs 27 and Prescott Road 26 points. In the "B" group it's Manotick with 22, Winchester at 13, Toyes Hill 11 and Newington 2.

Morewood jumped into a 1-0 first half lead when Guy Marion scored from Brian Como and Brian Thatcher. That marker came 4:30 before the half and stood as the winner.

Laurier Menard posted the win. Guy Marion headed up the offence with a three goal effort (his 27, 28 and 29th of the season). Gerald Eby notched the other one while Brian Thatcher, Brian Como and Steve Cooper each drew an assist.

Toyes Hill was the only losing team in Sunday's four game card to score a goal. Ted Bongers ruined Bruce Morris' chance for the zero scoring from Darren Nurse 8:30 before the half.

Nolan paced the winning attack scoring twice and drawing one assist. Eric Ruiter, Peter Smiley, Mark Smiley and Tim Groniger all had a goal and one assist. Todd O'Connor (3) and Rick Cureston (2) assisted.

SPENCERVILLE—Murray Link scored twice and assisted on the winning goal here last Friday leading the North Dundas Ault Foods Demons to their second victory in three Upper Canada Minor Hockey Pee Wee "A" League games.

Links' efforts helped establish North Dundas as 4- 3 winners over the South Grenville Rangers.

Metcalfe Juniors claim Winterlude gold

OTTAWA—Metcalfe ringette teams shone in the medal round here during the recent Ottawa Winterlude Invitational Junior Tournaments.

Metcalfe's Junior "B" girls claimed their divisional gold medal and the village's Junior "C" squad equalled the performance defeating Upper Ottawa 10-9 in overtime to capture their tournament championship.

Kerri Fearnehough and Tammy Godwin formed a successful combination which led Metcalfe to the Junior "C" gold.

Godwin put the pass on Fearnehough's stick and the shooter put the ring against the twine with 1:11 left in regulation to put Metcalfe into OT.

The same combination clicked at 4:40 of the extra session as Godwin fed Fearnehough another relay and once again the shooter's aim was true. Metcalfe edged Upper Ottawa 10-9 on the goal to become tourney champions.

Metcalfe defeated Nepean 6-2 in their opening game, tied Upper Ottawa Valley 8-8 in round two and eliminated Kirkland Lake 9-3 to qualify for the final game.

Metcalfe trailed 4-3 at the half but battled back and fought their way to an overtime championship.

Kerri Fearnehough sparked the champs with five goals and one assist. Godwin snapped in one goal and set up four others. Michelle Savoie scored twice and helped out on a third goal. Kristina Ziegler had a goal and two helpers.

Kim Ellerton, Amy Dalgleish and Erin Lachance (3) earned assists. While Sarah Ferguson tended the nets.

Erin Lachance, Tammy Godwin and Kristina Ziegler all found net twice in Metcalfe's 9-3 win over Kirkland Lake. Michelle Savoie, Fearnehough and Krista Stolk supplied a goal each. Lindsay Kelly (2), Savoie (2), Godwin, Ziegler and Fearnehough drew the assists.

Upper Ottawa Valley salvaged an 8-8, round two, tie with Metcalfe scoring with just 20 seconds left in the game.

A four-goal, one-assist effort by Kerri Fearnehough had given Metcalfe an early lead. Godwin and Ziegler each scored twice and helped out on a third goal. Savoie, Stolk (2) and Lindsay Kelly (2) set up goals.

Two goals and one assist by Fearnehough sparked the opening 6-2 win over Nepean. Sarah Ferguson, Tammy Godwin and Michelle Savoie recorded the other tallies.

Back in regular National Capital Region Junior "C" League action recently Metcalfe and Nepean skated to a 4-4 draw on Metcalfe ice.

Nepean led 3-2 at the half but goals by Krista Stolk and Kerri Fearnehough with 8:38 and 3:03 left on the clock seemed to have given Metcalfe the win (4-3). But Nepean blinked the red light on at the 2:27 mark and pulled off the 4-4 tie.

Fearnehough scored two of the four goals. Tammy Godwin and Krista Stolk netted the others. Ziegler, Stolk, Savoie and Lindsay Kelly assisted.

Double loss

In spite of some solid individual performances North Dundas' Senior Devils lost a pair of SD&G decisions last week. The Glengarry Gaels and R\O Lancers both beat North Dundas and dropped the team record to three wins and five losses.

Copeland sparks wins for Atoms

KEMPTVILLE—Tylor Copeland collected half of his team's goals as the North Dundas Atom "A" Demons chalked up a pair of Upper Canada Minor Hockey League victories.

Here on Sunday (Feb. 10) Copeland scored first and third period goals and assisted on a second period tally by Andrew Bradley as the Demons doubled the home town Royals 4-2.

Friday at home in Winchester, Copeland scored twice on unassisted plays and helped out on another Bradley marker as his Demons posted a similar 4-2 score against the South Grenville Rangers.

North Dundas goalie Darryl Burns was red hot here in Kemptville. He couldn't be beaten until Royals' Jay Shah scored twice in the third period. Shah's goals came with 8:03 and 4:03 left in the game and tightened the gap to 3-2 but Tylor Copeland insured North Dundas' win scoring on a solo effort with 2:18 left in the game.

Copeland opened the scoring with help from Chris Mann at 7:40 of period one. Mann then made it 2-0 scoring from Rob Desormeaux at 4:47 of the second. Copeland's pass then gave Andrew Bradley fuel for his goal at 2:41 of the same frame.

In Winchester last Friday North Dundas's game went the other way. South Grenville scored the first two goals but North Dundas came back with four for the 4-2 win.

Clarice McCurdy gave the Rangers a 1-0 lead at 9:45 and John Raycroft made it 2-0 at 4:14.

Tylor Copeland sliced one goal off the lead scoring unassisted at 3:12.

Chris Mann knotted it (2-2) scoring unassisted with 6:18 left in period three. Copeland's solo effort gave North Dundas a 3-2 edge with 5:21 left in the game.

Andrew Bradley iced the win with 2:00 left scoring from Copeland and Sam Ault.

Sr. Novice Demons cage Lions

CHESTERVILLE—North Dundas No. 1 Senior Novice Demons caged the Morrisburg Lions last Thursday in a convincing 7-1 victory.

Brad Filion and Steve Mattice led the attack with two goals and one assist each. Jessica Dillabough, Justin Gravelle and Jeff Beck potted the other goals against the Demons' nemesis.

Coach Brian Wyatt said he was pleased with the strong effort against a team which had defeated his Demons on several occasions. "The boys and girls on our team skated and worked hard. We're getting into good shape for the playoffs".

Wayne Garlough netted Morrisburg's single goal of the game. Assisting on the Demon goals were Craig Wylie with two, Rory Moriarity, Marty Link, Chris Wyatt, Pam Heuff and Jeff Beck.

In league action Sunday against North Dundas No. 2 Demons, the No. 1 Demons skated to an 8-0 win.

Despite the lopsided score, the younger No. 2 team played well keeping the No. 1 team Demons from scoring in the first period while coming close on several plays.

Goalie Gregg Griffiths played well earning another shutout. Justin Gravelle snapped home four goals while Becky Kleinswormink, Steve Mattice, Chris Wyatt and Brad Filion notched the others.

In exhibition action (Feb. 2) North Dundas defeated Embrun Panthers 7-0.

Chris Wyatt scored a hat-trick while Brad Filion fired two goals and two assists. Justin Gravelle and Rory Moriarity got the other goals.

The whole team has played well in recent games including defenders Pam Heuff, Jordan Dale Hill, Daryl Toonders and Craig Wylie, Wyatt said.

Carnival profitable, if not family-oriented

by Andy McLeister
Press staff reporter

WINCHESTER — Despite a good return at the box office, organizers are looking at ways to inject new life into this village's annual mid-winter festival.

And if next year's Winchester Winter Carnival does not show signs of reviving, it could be the village's last.

Organizer Frank Morgan reported Monday that the four-day Winchester Winter Carnival, which ended Sunday, generated over $6,000, eartagged for purchasing playground equipment and tables and chairs for the Community Centre. However, he indicated, participation in some events left lots to be desired.

Morgan, who is also Winchester's recreation director, expressed disappointment at the cancellation of the queen contest, a usually popular event that attracts numerous candidates for the carnival crown. Slated for last Thursday evening following Winchester Skating Club's revue on ice, it was cancelled because of a lack of contestants.

The rec director said ways must be found to involve more of the general public in more activities. "We're going to try to have more family-oriented events on ice," he said, adding that if this approach fails, the carnival will likely be allowed to die.

He noted that some activities, such as hockey tournaments and regular season games held over the weekend, were coincidental to but not directly tied to the carnival.

The carnival wasn't a complete bust by any means. Thursday night's on-ice revue was staged before a good crowd in the Community Centre. And despite the shelving of the queen contest, the wine and cheese party sponsored by Ault Foods, was a resounding hit.

Those who remained in the Centre's upstairs hall after the figure skating show were entertained by a talented and energetic Joey's School of Dance troupe, and a lively set of numbers by the North Dundas District High School Band. The audience was treated to a preview of the latest in women's apparel in a fashion show sponsored by the CountryGirl.

The funspiel at the Winchester Curling Club attracted rinks from far and near. Crowds lined up for Friday evening's church suppers, and again Saturday morning for the Scouts' pancake breakfast. Hockey games — including matches between moms and tots, a bantam tournament and an international ladies tourney — were well received.

Probably the best attended function and biggest money-raiser was the pub following Friday's Winchester Hawks vs. Morrisburg Lions Junior "B" hockey match.

Morgan says more activities that attract the general public will be tried next year. He noted that in terms of participation, as opposed to spectating, this year's carnival came up short.

Besides emphasising family-oriented activities, the rec director mused that the queen contest could be replaced by something that isn't directed at teenaged girls. He suggested a contest aimed at honoring outstanding local citizens might be appropriate, one in which a queen is chosen from among older ladies.

"We're bouncing around quite a few ideas," he said.

Morgan feels that competition with larger events is having a deleterious effect on small-town carnivals, like Winchester's. "We can't compete with the events they have in Ottawa," he said, using that city's Winterlude, which coincides with the local carnival, as the prime example.

"There's no doubt about it, Winterlude hurts us," Morgan said, speculating that the Ottawa event draws potential carnival-goers from Winchester.

In Ottawa, he said, a large staff organizes Winterlude and the event can afford such luxuries as importing people from abroad to carve ice sculptures.

"The arena staff can't do everything," Morgan insisted. More volunteers will be needed to turn the carnival around, he feels.

Farm update

Transfer of family farm not always smooth: Young

Dianne Fetterly
Press Staff Reporter

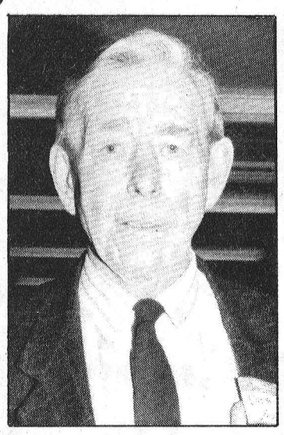
WINCHESTER — Honest and open communication is the key to a smooth family farm transfer a retired Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food agricultural representative told a crowd of about 200 here last Wednesday.

But an open and honest relationship is easier said than done, suggested Geoff Young at Scotiabank's Agricultural Day. "Situations can arise where a father thinks he is communicating (his wishes to his family), when in fact he isn't.

"Someone has to make the first move" in discussing how the transfer will be made said Young. But if family members are unable to solve the issue themselves or have difficulty sitting down to discuss the matter, ag reps can be asked to counsel the family. "It sort of forces the family to communicate," he said.

Whenever Young was asked to mediate a family farm transfer in the past, he said he had all concerned parties write their views down on a sheet of paper. A few days later they would return to discuss what they had written on the papers. He said he often found the parties were not as far apart as they originally thought.

Topics such as the parents' living arrangements; what the mother wants from retirement; the parents' general needs and how the finances will be handled all must be discussed he added.



Geoff Young

However, an ag rep cannot make the decisions for the family - just present the options. The final decision is the father's and it is sometimes difficult to be fair to everyone, said Young.

But, you must remember, he added "it is not the birthright for a son to (necessarily) get the farm".

Although a majority of the farm transfers Young has been involved with over the years have gone very smoothly, there are some human relations an ag rep just can't get into, he said.

He recalled one particular case where a family couldn't decide how things should be split because the mother just didn't like her daughter-in-law and felt she was a "gold digger".

Young cited another case where a father decided to divide the farm among his sons, but one son's wife was displeased with the division.

In some cases he has also seen where the transfer went smoothly but not enough of the parents' needs were discussed.

Young cited a situation at a seminar he attended last year, where when asked what she planned to do upon retiring, a woman said she wanted to travel. Her husband, on the other hand, wished to remain at home.

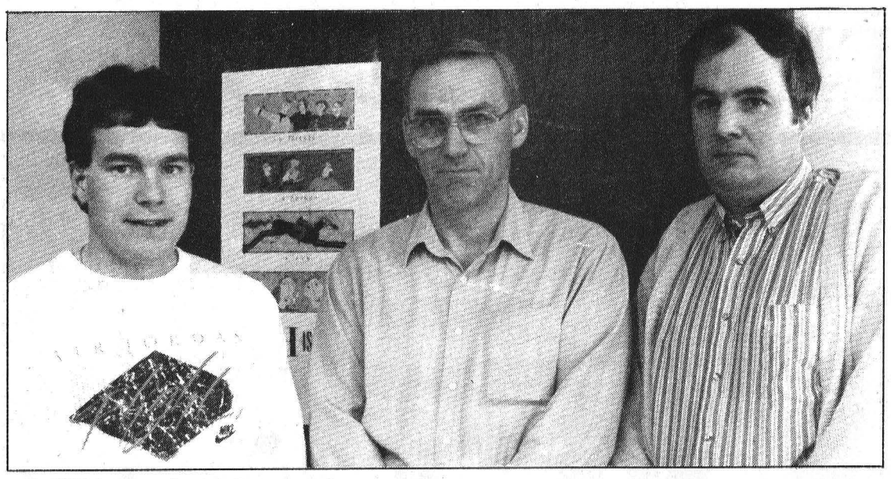
Retired from OMAF for 18 months, Young also runs a beef operation in Renfrew County.

Besides Young's talk, Scotiabank Day also featured Jeff Jackson of Ward Mallette in Winchester, who discussed farm plans, goals and objectives; dealing with debt reduction and capital expenditures; and retirement.

Paul Greaves, manager of agricultural services for Scotiabank talked about selling the family farm to the next generation from the bank's perspective.

Response to the day's program was very favorable, said Brian Mann of Ward Mallette, who co-sponsored the event with Scotiabank.

Mann said this is the first year for such an event in Dundas County. However, there was a similar program held in the Brockville-area last year.



OCPA regional meeting

The Ontario Corn Producers Association held its regional meeting for the counties of Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry and Prescott- Russell (Region 1) last Friday at which time elections for the new executive and delegates were held. Pictured, left to right is the executive for 1991: vice-president, Brent Vanden Bosch of Chesterville; secretary, Bud Atkins of Moose Creek and President, Murray MacDonald of Newington. Delegates elected to represent the local counties at the OCPA annual meeting held in London on Feb. 26-27 are: Bud Atkins and John Vanturnhout from Stormont, Arden Schneckenburger from Dundas and Jean-Marc Menard from Prescott- Russell.

Industrial milk target price holds steady for rest of year

OTTAWA — The Canadian Dairy Commission today announced that the target price for industrial milk will be maintained at $48.69 per hectolitre. Set annually in August, the target price is reviewed every February and adjustments are made if the change is two per cent or more.

The support prices for butter and skim milk powder will remain at $5.331 per kilogram and $3.130 per kilogram respectively.

The Canadian Dairy Commission sets the target price for industrial milk and the support prices for butter and skim milk powder, after receiving advice from its Consultative Committee. This committee, which represents milk producers, processors, retailers and consumers, reviews cost of production data and makes a recommendation to the commission.

In reviewing the data for Feb. 1, 1991, the committee did not recommend a price increase as there was not the required two per cent change to trigger an adjustment.

Industrial milk is used in the manufacture of dairy products such as butter, cheese, yogurt, ice cream and skim milk powder.

Support prices are the prices at which the Canadian Dairy Commission offers to purchase domestically produced butter and skim milk powder. In fact, they act as floor prices in the wholesale trade of these two products.

Association offers scholarships

BRANTFORD — For the fourth year, Holstein Canada is offering two $1,000 scholarships to help university and college students pay tuition costs of post-secondary education studies.

The association is urging all students who meet the following eligibility requirements to take advantage of the program. Eligibility requirements are: must be a regular or junior member of Holstein Canada or a son/daughter of a member; must submit a resume of 4-H achievements certified by a 4-H leader or director; must have achieved a minimum average of 70 per cent in first year university/college. It is not a requirement that applicants be enrolled in an agricultural program nor that they plan a career in the dairy industry.

Applications may be obtained from branch secretaries, Holstein reps, or Holstein Canada's Member Relations Department at Box 610, Brantford, Ontario, N3T 5R4, 519-756-8300. Completed applications must be received at the head office no later than June. 20.

CP opens substance abuse awareness clinics to public

CHESTERVILLE - Drug and alcohol abuse involves much more than just the person engaging in substance abuse according to Tony Humphrey.

Humphrey, an employee assistance co-ordinator with CP Rail in Smiths Falls, said an alcoholic's or addict's actions directly affect their immediate family and co-workers.

That's why he is helping organize a family awareness meeting on drug and alcohol abuse in Chesterville at the Legion Hall March 21.

"An alcoholic will directly involve another five to seven people in the disease and up to 14 people indirectly," he said.

As an example, Humphrey cites the case of an employee whose spouse is alcholic. The employee worried about his or her spouse consuming a 40 ouncer at home and cannot concentrate on his or her work. That person's low productivity will have to be picked up by his or her colleagues.

The awareness meeting, sponsored by the employee assistance program of CP Rail, is another of a series of meetings the employee committee that Humphrey is a part of, has organized over the past year.

The committee has invited an officer with the RCMP to speak about drug and alcohol abuse. People attending the meeting will find out about the effects of such drugs as crack, cocaine, ice, and angel dust.

Public Health, an organization based in Cornwall, will have a display on such topics as smoking, healthy lifestyles and communicable diseases, he said.

A representative will also be on hand from the Naomi Family Resource Centre in Winchester to speak of wife and child abuse and the kinds of services the home offers, he said.

The committee, which acts as an information centre for CP Rail employees in Smiths Falls, had originally organized the meetings for just its employees.

But during the course of the past year it began opening the meetings to the public. That's because drug and alcohol abuse is a community problem, said Humphrey.

"Community awareness is the first step in combatting drug and alcohol abuse," he said.

The meeting will give Chesterville and area residents an idea of where to turn if they have an alcohol, drug or other problem at home.

"We're not looking for people who have a problem. This is just for information. Maybe they can direct someone else to get help," Humphrey said.

CP Rail initially started a drug and alcohol program for its employees in 1978.

Humphrey would not say whether a specific drug and alcohol abuse problem prompted CP Rail to launch a program for its employees.

Instead he cited statistics that show 10 to 12 per cent of Canada's work force having drug and alcohol problems.

By 1988 the program evolved in the Employee Assistance Program which saw the establishment of employee committees at various CP Rail offices. Humphrey, a locomotive engineer with CP Rail, got involved with the committee when it was formed in 1988.

EnviroTips

Is there any reason you shouldn't be using recycled paper at work? Probably not. But there's a good reason you should. Until there's a broad market for recycled goods, manufacturers won't make the commitment to use recycled materials. So it's just as important to buy recycled products as it is to recycle in the first place.

Dietician discusses fad diets

by Trevor Doornwaard

The Harmony Preppy Pumpers were treated to a very interesting meeting on Feb. 4 when Ottawa Civic Hospital dietician, Daphne Gee of Metcalfe, spoke to the group. Mrs. Gee pointed out the ten most important questions you should ask before beginning any diet. A very interesting discussion followed concerning fad diets and highly advertised diet products. Anorexia nervosa and bulimia are illnesses that this speaker deals with directly in her work so the 4-H'ers learned the reasons and treatments for these illnesses.

All members were interested in diet and athletics. Mrs. Gee outlined the do's and don'ts of food consumption during competitions, training and exercising.

Mrs. Gee was introduced by Donald Fisher and thanked by Evan Porteous. The mid-meeting exercise break was conducted by Curt Porteous and Peter Fisher.

Students express feelings on Gulf War

FINCH — Students at St. Bernard's School in Finch have put their thoughts about the current conflict in the Middle East and war in general down on paper. In the form of letters and prayers, out of the pens of children, come the following comments on war in the Persian Gulf.

Dear God,

Please watch over all the people who are fighting in the war right now and their friends who I'm sure are really worried.

Please help everyone to work this problem out peacefully because I hate wars and I'm sure everyone else in this world does too.

It's really sad seeing so many innocent and even young people die and get badly injured.

Please bring peace to the world and help them to find a peaceful solution to their problem.

Thanks God. Amen.

by Heather McLeod

Dear God,

Lord I ask you to help the world be in peace. There's just one more day left then we go into World War III. I hope you will comfort those families who have a loved one who is going into the Persian Gulf. I pray that the war will end soon and you will choose wisely for the country that should win.

Amen.

by Scott Dellaire

Dear God,

Today we're in a war. Iraq against Canada. This prayer is for peace in the world and that no one will die. There are bombs, gases, guns, boats, tanks and planes. These weapons are deadly! It's all from Saddam Hussein who is the leader of Iraq. President Bush and Prime Minister Mulroney are doing the best they can for peace but there isn't any. Please help.

Your friend,

Craig Holmes

Dear God,

I hope the war will stop soon. We don't need war. All it does is kill people and nature, or at least hurt people and nature. Every day less and less people roam the earth.

Please God, no more wars! Amen.

by Mary Clare Struthers

Hi Saddam Hussein,

You had better not attack. I don't want another world war. So please don't attack Israel. If you don't get out, we will have to use the atom bomb and blow your butt off.

Not your pal,

Michael L.

Dear God,

Right now I am sitting in school working and life is continuing almost normally while on the other side of the world a war is raging on. Bombs are exploding and gunfire coming from all sides. When I think of what the troops are risking by being over there I feel some of them know they will never make it home.

I would like to pray that the war will end quickly and without many casualties. I would also like to pray that the troops may come home soon.

Sometimes at night, I close my eyes and I see a land where people are happy with what they have and there is no war, pollution, divorce or rivalry. Maybe that will be us soon...who knows.

I hope so!

Amen.

by Jill LaPierre

Dear Mrs. Bush,

I really hoped we wouldn't have war but have peace. Since we do have war — win. If you talk to the President, Mrs. Bush tell him to take his troops and go home.

Thank you,

Dennis Marion

Dear God,

I need your help and a lot of other people do also.

You see, there's a war going on, near where you were born and grew up. Let this war end soon...please.

I don't know much about war, fighting and things. But, what I do know is that people get hurt and even die. They die for their country. Almost like you did. People you love, appreciate and care for die for you, your country, your friends and your loved ones.

I'm not asking for fighting and war, but for peace in the world.

Please help our allies and those in Kuwait and Iraq, and their families.

Amen.

by Meghan Shane

Dear God,

Help stop the war in the Persian Gulf that Saddam Hussein started. If there is a war, there will be a lot of lives lost. Tell them all to go home to their own countries a forget the whole thing. The bombs and the guns are used to kill the soldiers and machines but some of them are killing innocent people and destroying property.

If they want more land or food they could ask to share instead of killing. The only thing they're doing is losing more people. Why do they need the food or other things if everyone is dead? It's like a dumb game.

Poem for peace

Make peace in the war,
Tell everyone to go home.
For Iraq to go far,
For I don't want a war.
If they don't agree,
Seems they don't know what they're doing.
Go fight a tree
Or at least listen to me.

by Robert Rochon

Dump fees increased to discourage tipping

OSGOODE — Council members have approved a new schedule of tipping fees for the Springhill Landfill site. They reflect a five-per-cent increase in general, with the exception of cars and other small items, treasurer Don Reid said.

Township residents will now pay $5 to unload their cars, while $10 will be charged for trailers, mini pickups and mini vans. Full-sized pickup trucks and vans will pay $12. A $4 charge will be made to dispose of one large appliance and other such items.

Drivers of dual-wheel trucks will pay $20, while $35 is the fee for small dump trucks and straight trucks.

Roll-off boxes will run $165 for 20 yards, $200 for 30 yards and $230 for 40 yards. The general tariff is $43 per metric tonne.

Although the prices on the lower end of the scale, such as for cars, have more than doubled, Reid says this should discourage residents from making unnecessary trips to the landfill site.

If two men can pick it up, Laidlaw will pick up almost anything from the side of the road," Reid said, adding that about 99 per cent of residents who bring things to the dump don't have to do so.

Laidlaw does not pick up hazardous wastes. However, Reid says residents may bring their old batteries and used motor oil to specified areas at the Springhill landfill site. The township recycles these items at no charge.

In Memoriam

THOMS — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather, Henry, who passed away Feb. 18, 1980.
Till memory fades and life departs,
You live forever in our hearts.
—Lovingly remembered by Faye, Earl and Scott 45

BILLINGS — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Ron, who passed away Feb. 9, 1990.
His charming ways and smiling face,
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each,
And he died beloved by all.
—Always remembered by Mom, Dad and family 45

SCOTT — In loving memory of a dear devoted husband and father, Clarence, who passed away Feb. 10, 1972.
We made our vows together
And said "Till death do part";
So when God came and took your hand
My whole life fell apart.
No one knows the heartache
I try so hard to hide;
No one knows how many times
I've broken down and cried.
When I look back upon our lives
Just one thing makes me glad;
That you chose me to share with you
The precious years we had.
Gone, dear Clarence, gone forever,
How we miss your smiling face;
But you left us to remember
None on earth can take your place.
A happy home we once enjoyed
How sweet the memory still;
But death has left a loneliness
The world can never fill.
—Sadly missed by wife Joyce, family
Larry and Shirley 45

KINKAID — In loving memory of a dear husband, father and grandfather, Walter, who passed away Feb. 13, 1983.
Not just today, but every day;
In silence we remember.
—Ina, Emerson, Heather,
Norman and Dorothy,
Holly and Jamie 45

BYERS — In loving memory of Trevor who passed away Feb. 19, 1986.
A silent thought, a secret tear
Keeps his memory ever dear.
Time takes away the edge of grief
But memory turns back every leaf.
—Lovingly remembered by Linden and Beth 45

THOMS — In loving memory of my dear husband, Henry, who passed away Feb. 18, 1980.
I have lost my soul's companion
As life linked with my own;
And day by day I miss him more
As I walk through life alone.
—Sadly missed, your wife Pearl 45

THOMS — In loving memory of my dear dad, Henry, who passed away Feb. 18, 1980.
The pearly gates were opened,
A gentle voice said 'come';
And with farewells unspoken
He gently entered home.
Gone but not forgotten,
—Joan and Don MacIntosh 45
