Pioneer Hotel Scene of Unusual Arctic Conference

On duty twenty-four hours a day, seven days a week; these are the hours of the Fieldmen of the Department of Northern Affairs who live and work in Canada's vast Arctic. The Arctic portions of Canada are approximately one half the area of the entire Dominion. The population of this wide area of untapped resources and potential future development at the present time is slightly upward of ten thousand Eskimos, Indians, traders, trappers and government employees.

Men and women, 26 men and one woman, are directly involved, that act as the advisors and builders of the Arctic communities, are presently attending their Biennial convention in the Pioneer Hotel at Williamsburg.

At the two-week convention a complete range of activities is discussed and plans for development and revisions of old plans made are drawn up. Quorums to solve the problems that have arisen and may arrive are on the agenda. But as one gentleman put it, "there is no such thing as a problem unless you can not get around it." The impression given by talking to these dedicated and hard working men is that a problem that they couldn't solve would be one of the greatest magnitude.

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

With their main interest in the economic development of the regions, the fieldmen go into the areas of subsistence or failing tendencies and work out ways and methods to improve not only the standard of living but with their ingenuity and experience create from the raw materials at hand a diversified way of life. Usually the Northern Affairs man is needed when the trapping in an area decreases in its importance and production and another source of income is needed for survival.

With the future development and the good of the people foremost in his mind, the fieldman creates what could be classed as knowledge for a new livelihood. Trapping may be supplemented with fishing; logging may be instituted in areas below the tree line; and mining is always a distinct possibility. To diversify is to live. In many communities small retail concerns are formed and commercail trading on much the same basis we in the southern portions of Canada know it, begins.

However, in many communities the NA representative is the only Southern Canadian in a settlement of Eskimos. In this case he takes on added duties as minister, lawman, teacher, doctor, or any vital organ necessary in his area. By 1966 every Eskimo in Northern Canada will be able to attend school. It is through the intelligent work of the many persons that work in the North that we may look in that direction for large portions of our future development, economically and socially.

SMALLER CENTRE

Asked the reason the conference was moved from Ottawa to a smaller centre, like Williamsburg, Donald Snowden, officer in charge of the conventoin, replied it was an experiment to test the value of holding such a meeting away from larger centres to prevent distractions from interfering with the general rapid rate of progress that is required with the limited time available to thoroughly discuss the number of topics to be covered.

Meetings are held each day: morning, afternoon and evening with the exception of Wednesday evening when a break in procedure has been instituted.

Asked about the success of the experiment the Director replied: "remarkable, everything has been excellent, the quarters most adequate, and the meals sumptuous and delicious." Replying to the same question one fieldman replied, "it has been a wonderful experience."

POPULATION GROWING

The population in the North to-day is growing and the old standard means of livelihood are both inadequate and outdated. Mechanization with autoboggins, skidoos and other machines in company with the ever-present dog sled are trends of the day and necessities of the future. The fieldmen with the Department spend as much as 23 months on the job in the North before they take six week's holidays every second year, or three weeks per year. They are on the job helping the advancement of Canada's Northern citizens with instruction on better methods of living and working.

Included on the agenda at the present conference are planning sessions for development along such lines as fisheries, mechanized trapping, logging and handicrafts.

The Conference concludes on Friday.

OSDC Restores Maple Sugar Bush

Sap's running! Come along. Take a step back into the good old days. Not too many years ago Spring meant a time of excitement and fun in the maple bush. When the sap began running the bush was alive with activity. These were the days when the smell of the boiling sap came filtering out of the bush to the farm house and the smoke from the maple sugar hut weaved patterns up through the trees to disappear under the bright Spring sun; the big wood fire crackled merrily under the huge black pot and happiness reigned.

People rushed and laughed as the horse-drawn sleighs threaded their way among the big maples, stopping now and then to pick up an overflowing sap bucket and dumping it into the big tank on the back of the sleigh before returning it to the spigot to collect more of the nectar of the maples. Sure, it was hard work. But Spring was in the air, the nights were brisk, the days long and sunny, there was a feeling of joy and companionship in every heart.

Remember those old fashioned taffy pulls? Sticky face and hands were a necessity and washing up in the snow seemed to be a joy even for the kids. A small miracle in itself. Riding home on the loaded sleigh singing and eating some delicious maple sugar candy, what a feeling! If it brings back memories how about trying it all again?

A STEP INTO HISTORY

Take a step back into history. It is possible to recreate those days of making syrup and merry near Upper Canada Village. The Ontario-St. Lawrence Development Commission, in an effort to make the area a year round attraction, is readying for the first time a completely authentic maple syrup making operation. Identical in every detail possible with the maple bushes of old, the Village Syrup operations will be open at no admission to the public and especially to school children on or about March 15, when it is expected the sap run will be well underway.

More than one thousand trees in the large bush area will be tapped. The boiling down processes will take place in an authentic old sugar shack complete with open wood fire, carved-up benches and walls and syrup workers dressed in traditional costumes. You will be able to ride into the syrup area on horse-drawn sleighs if the snow conditions permit, and follow the team and sleigh around as they collect a load of sap from the filled buckets hanging from trees. The complete operation will unfold before your very eyes.

In the immediate area, as is the trend across the country, the old Spring tradition of maple syrup making has faded into almost complete obscurity as a commercial enterprise. The familiar sounds and traditions of the bush have been relegated to memories. Many modern day children and adults too have a complete lack of knowledge of the Maple Syrup industry as it used to be each spring.

It is with this historical significance, educational improvement and downright enjoyment that the Parks Commission has undertaken to set up a complete syrup manufacturing operation. Follow the sap from the tree to the can, maybe buy a quart or even a couple of gallons to take home. You will enjoy the syrup, sugar candy, or maple butter even more when you recall how it is made. Come on out and see the fun any time after March 15. Bring the whole family—everyone will enjoy it! Perhaps if you are one of the lucky ones you will pick a day when there is a taffy pull scheduled. Sticky fun.

HOW TO GET THERE

There is no admission charge. Simply go out to the bush and see what goes on. The Village Maple Bush is located on the connecting road between Highways 401 and 2, just one mile west of Upper Canada Village. On Highway 401 turn at the Upper Canada exit; on Highway 2 turn just west of the old steam engine and railway station.

O. R. Dalzell, General Manager, extends a cordial invitation to everyone to come and visit the Village Maple Bush this Spring. Parties of more than three or four persons, especially school tours, should check with the Commission to plan their visits.

Come on along and have a bucket full of fun.

Dual Purpose Building Possible For Chesterville Agricultural Society

Definite action will be taken to investigate further the possibility of a new agricultural display building for the grounds of Chesterville Agricultural Society. The building presently being discussed will serve a dual purpose as a display building for the Society Fair in the Fall and a completely modern curling rink in the winter season. The erection of such a building was thoroughly discussed at the February directors' meeting of the Society and gained much support.

A report of the 64th Annual Convention of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies was tabled by Zone Director Malcolm MacGregor and Fair President Harold Lannin, both of whom attended the convention.

WOMEN DIRECTORS

With 22 directors present at the meeting, a first was marked in the history of the Chesterville Society. The first two lady directors were present to mark the first. Of the 950 delegates to the Ontario Convention in Toronto more than 500 were lady representatives. Thus the trend throughout the province is reflected by the appointment of the lady directors to the Society board.

Plans for this year's Fall Fair, which will be held September 1 and 2, were discussed and several matters received generous support. One notable addition to this year's fair will be a Hay exhibit designed to stimulate the commercial production of hay in Dundas County. The Imperial Hell Drivers have signed a contract to perform before the grandstand audience on the second evening of the Fair, Wednesday, September 2nd.

Passed unanimously was a motion that a banquet meeting for the Directors and their wives or husbands as the case may be, be held on March 19.

President Harold Lannin presided at the meeting.

WI Reports March of Dimes Campaign Over the Top

Winchester's March of Dimes campaign, under the chairmanship of Mrs. Neil Hutt, went over the top again this year when the canvassers raised $313.23. In making her report of the March of Dimes drive, Mrs. Hutt explained to the February meeting of the Winchester Women's Institute some of the work of the Rehabilitation Centre in Toronto. She said funds raised here and throughout the province help finance the wonderful work carried out by March of Dimes and its many related and integrated agencies.

Roll call, "What I did not like about the Old Wood Stove," was joyfully answered by nineteen members. President Mrs. Lorne Acres presided, with acting secretary Mrs. Ralph McPherson and pianist Miss Florence Milne.

More than 150 girls took part in the recent 4-H Achievement Day, Mrs. Charles Beedie told the members during her report. Twenty-eight girls were involved in the Winchester contribution and Mrs. Beedie expects a possible fifty girls in the new clubs forming now.

Many members completed the block printing course under the direction of Mrs. M. Aitchison and Mrs. Chas. Beedie, and it was decided a Summary Day will be held in the Agriculture Office on March 3rd.

A special date for all members to take note of is March 17. St. Patrick's Day this year will have even more significance as an Institute "At Home" has been planned to take place in the Legion Hall on that date. Ladies take note, it will be a very important occasion.

Other business tabled included the decision to accept a film from the Ontario Fruit Growers Association at a later date.

Historical Research was the theme of the meeting and convener Mrs. Wilfred McKercher and her assistants Mrs. Neil Hutt and Miss F. Milne brought to light many interesting and noteworthy facts. Winchester's first post office opened in 1885 with Mr. Bow as Postmaster; reading rooms were inaugurated in 1903. At one time in the village there were eight blacksmith shops each employing at least four men.

Miss Ellen Rushton provided the group with a lovely ballet dance, "The Death of a Swan."

Public Speaking Finals Held at Williamsburg

Public Speaking competitions for public school pupils of the Townships of Matilda and Williamsburg were held in the I.O.O.F. Hall, Williamsburg, on Friday evening, February 14. First prizes were awarded to Mary McGinnis of Stampville School, speaking on "The Wright Brothers," in the Grades 1 to 6 group, and to Cheryl Dennison in the Grades 7 and 8 group. Cheryl is from Riverside Heights School and chose to speak on "4-H."

Prizes were presented by Lloyd Eady, Past President of the Royal Canadian Legion Branch 538, of Williamsburg, which sponsored the event. Second prizes went to Billie Lewis of S. S. 18 Matilda for his address on "Why I Want To Stay In School," and to Gail Beckstead of Stampville for her subject, "Ontario, Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow." Billie was in the Grade 1 to 6 competition while Gail was in the senior group.

Jack Mason, of the Morrisburg High School staff, gave the adjudications on behalf of the judges who, in addition to himself were George Beavers and Rev. E. Hawkes of Morrisburg. Mr. Mason commended the speakers for their fine work and called them all to stand for another round of applause from the audience. Esther McIntosh of Winchester Springs and Brenda Speer of Matilda were commended for their creditable showisgs in representing their schools in the senior group although they were edged out by a few points by the prize winners.

The competition opened with the singing of God Save The Queen with Mrs. W. A. Adam at the piano, and during the time

Scouts Attend Church Parade

More than sixty members of the Winchester Boy Scouts organization, in accordance with National Boy Scout Week, attended services in St. Paul's Presbyterian Church last Sunday. The boys and their leaders heard Rev. Wm. Sutherland speak using a text from the Scout promise, "On my honour I promise to do my duty to God."

...enty Scouts, forty Cubs and ... leaders were in attendance.

$5,000 Sale

Maggie Pabst Walker Ex., Grand Chamipon at the Dundas County Black and White Show and Reserve Grand Champion at the 1963 Ottawa Winter Fair, has been sold in a sale with two other animals for $5,000.

Maggie Pabst Walker Ex. leaves the Dundas farm of Ralph Fawcett with her stable mate, Jane Supreme VG to go to Richard A. Scheissner of Jerseyville, Ontario. In addition he purchased Willola Big D, VG, to go with a shipment of bulls to Cuba. All the animalsl were purchased at the Dispersal Sale of the late Lloyd Spearman.

The $5,000 sale is believed to be the highest priced sale of Holsteins ever to leave Dundas County.

New Legislation For Commercial Sale of 1964 Licence Plates

Operators of trailers and commercial vehicles whose needs are seasonal and who purchase quarterly licence plates, will be interested to know that changes in the regulations under the Highway Traffic Act will enable them to obtain plates valid for 3, 6 or 9-month periods at one time. In the past it was necessary to obtain permits and plates for each quarter separately.

Quarterly periods begin on the first of April, July, October and January. An operator at the commencement of any of these quarters may purchase plates valid for the 3, 6 and 9 month period.

Truck, bus and trailer plates for 1963 expire on March 31 with no extension. Plates for commercial vehicles and trailers go on sale March 2nd.

For passenger vehicles, licences and plates expire February 28th. Anyone who has not renewed his permit and obtained new plates will face serious penalties.

Licence Buyers Flying High

Setting down a plane in a field behind Clifford Walker's farm home in the west end of Winchester is no new experience for Russ Low. Russ and his passenger, Don Schwartz, have been landing in the field for five years now.

The boys in their single engine two-seater plane fly out to Winchester every year come the middle or end of February. What do they do out here and why come by plane? Must be tradition because the pilot and passenger come to Winchester every year to renew old acquaintances and get their drivers' licences and new plates from Harry Flora's Licence Bureau.

About Wages and Profits

"Profits are rising faster than wages," an irate citzen was recently heard to complain, "and something should be done about it."

Well now, let's look at that, for while this is as good an example of fatuous error as could be found, it is not one which should go uncorrected.

The basis for the remark, apparently, was the considerable number of companies reporting improved earnings last year. Since 1963 was in every respect a record-breaking year for the Canadian economy, it would indeed be surprising if it were otherwise.

But what is here overlooked, of course, is the level from which corporate earnings are improving. Forgotten now is the dangerously low point to which they in many cases fell in the late Nineteen-Fifties, a point which had its reflection in economic stagnation and painfully high unemployment.

If corporate earnings have since been recovering — as they have — this should surely be a matter of satisfaction and relief both to employees (whose jobs are involved) and governments (whose tax revenues are so vitally dependent upon them).

But the most eloquent testimony of all in this matter is to be found in what has happened to profits and wages over the past 25 years as a percentage of net national income.

Using this most revealing and meaningful of all yardsticks, wages, salaries and supplementary labour income amounted to 61.4 per cent. in 1939, 61.8 per cent. in 1948—and 66.5 per cent. in 1962.

And corporation profits? Before taxes, they were 16.5 per cent. of national income in 1939, 16.4 per cent. in 1948—and 12.5 per cent. in 1962. Calculated after taxes, they were 13.8 per cent. in 1939, 10.6 per cent. in 1948 — and just 6.5 per cent. in 1962.

This comparison, based as it is on Dominion Bureau of Statistics data, speaks for itself — and it speaks volumes. Clearly, that part of national income going to wages, salaries and supplementary labour income has been growing, most notably in the years since 1948. Corporation profits, on the other hand, far from "rising faster than wages," have lost a lot of ground.

It will take a good many years of improved corporate earnings to regain that ground, and if a start has been made, then employees, no less than governments and stockholders, have every reason to be glad about it.

The Golden Rule

Down through the history of man there has come to light one single rule of conduct that is of value as a standard of human behaviour: "As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye also to them likewise."

A simple statement that seems to suggest an easy way to get along with everyone. In fact the golden rule is so simple and such a basic understanding that it takes a maximum effort to live unto it. It is not a mere suggestion of an accepted behaviour pattern but a molder of character. To live by the golden rule one must have will power to suppress one's personal desires. It necessitates a high degree of open mindedness that allows one to look on both sides of a situation, to understand and feel for the other man. And it requires a harmony of heart and soul that provides the owner with ample reward in any situation.

Given the reason, the will power, the mental agility, and the fellow feeling, the Golden Rule will work constructive miracles to create character and eliminate misunderstanding, the greatest cause of conflict in our world to-day.

Statesmen and philosophers have said that in the new world of to-day and to-morrow the application of the Golden Rule is not only a moral duty but an indispensable condition of survival. The only way to prevent the misunderstanding that sprinkles our lives and saddens the strongest of characters is to enact distinctive positive action. Vision to see the best, courage to face the worst, adaptability to change, resistance to hatred and jealousy and the Golden Rule if enacted will be the strongest of positive action.

"As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye also to them likewise."

"THAT'S NOT STANDARD EQUIPMENT FOR THE MEDITERRANEAN!"

Toronto Report

BY HON. F. M. CASS

The undoubted highlight of the past week at Queen's Park was the return visit on Friday of Prime Minister and Madame Lesage of Quebec with several Cabinet colleagues and their ladies. Last summer a similar visit was made to Quebec City by Ontario's Prime Minister Robarts and some of his Cabinet colleagues. Prime Minister Lesage addressed the Ontario Legislature during its Friday sitting which was extended in order that the distinguished visitors might be received. A reception by Lieutenant-Governor Rowe and a dinner tendered by Mr. Speaker Morrow on Friday, with an Ontario Government dinner on Saturday provided hospitality on this occasion for fellow Canadians and legislators from our sister Province of Quebec. Your Member and Mrs. Cass had the pleasure of being hosts to Madame Claire Kirkland-Casgrain, Quebec Minister of State, and M. Philippe Casgrain.

The debate on the Throne Speech finally was concluded during the past week following a rousing and well balanced rebuttal by Prime Minister Robarts of Opposition points, and a strong statement of government policy. The Opposition financial critics started the week with their budget debate speeches and both Liberal and ND Party spokesmen were hard pressed to find any rational basis for criticism — the necessity of additional funds for government is universally recognized and Provincial Treasurer Allan's 1964 budget appeared to provide reasonable means of providing these necessary funds.

The estimates of the Department of Labour were completed and those of the Department of Health commenced. In between, your Member as Minister of Insurance had not too difficult a time piloting through the House the estimates of his other Department. As I have previously mentioned in these reports, the present Legislature has a very excellent group of new Members and in all these departmental estimates debates they were heard from regularly with many new and sound observations and suggestions.

During the past week the newspaper engendered debate on the Canada Pension Plan continued. Prime Minister Robarts again plainly stated that he and the Ontario Government did not oppose the Federal Government's plan, but that as yet, it had neither been introduced into the House of Commons nor disclosed to the public or Provincial authorities. And further, that he intended to ensure that the people of Ontario received the best possible benefits from the plan both as contributors to, and recipients of, the Fund and in development of the Province's economy through a fair and proper use of the Fund's capital.

This sixth week of the session brought with it the regular Tuesday and Thursday eveining sessions of the House with the whole of Wednesday being left free for Committee work. It would seem that perhaps the Legislature will be able to finish its work this year by the Easter vacation.

Of Many Things

BY AMBROSE HILLS

KINDNESS

I've a friend who works in a large plant. The other day, the young lad in the shipping department ran his jalopy into the ditch and injured himself badly. He was a likeable, happy-go-lucky lad and his kind friends in the shipping department decided to levy a charge against each employee of the plant to give the boy a "purse" that would compensate him to some extent for the suffering he was to face.

My friend paid the levy, but the kind chaps in the shipping department do not know that he needs the money far more than the young lad who ditched his hot rod in a reckless moment. My friend has a son at University, a father who is in constant trouble, and a series of difficult problems that keep his heart aching and his purse empty. He is therefore a little bitter about the so-called kindness of the shipping department. He felt they plundered him and others like him, whom they do not know, in favor of the lad with whom they had rubbed shoulders every day. He thought they were kind-hearted but short-sighted.

I suppose he is right. There are many do-gooders who take from those they do not know to give to those they do know—people in their own group. They do this with the best of goodwill, but often with serious consequences.

I asked my friend what could be done. How are you going to stop kind people from their wrong practices?

His answer, I thought, was a good one. "Kindness should be a personal matter. One man should not organize another's kindness — he should do his own good works and leave others to do theirs. He shouldn't rob Peter to pay Paul."

"You could have refused," I said. "The levy wasn't compulsory."

He shook his head. "It was compulsory . . . unless you wanted to be ostracized. There is nothing kind about the way those guys talk if you try to escape one of their collections!'

The moral could be that one should not have secret problems —a father who drinks, a son who costs a lot to raise, and so forth. Go out and break a leg or get some dramatic ailment. Then your kind friends will take up a collection for you!

What do you think?

The suggestion has been made that Winchester hold an Old Home Reunion during Canada's Centennial Year 1967. Why not voice your opinion in the Letters To The Editor column of this newspaper? What do you think?

The Seventh Column

Some facts taken from a large life assurance company show that it pays to stop and think about commonplace ideas and examine their true meaning sometimes. One of these is the expectation of life. When we say that the expectation of life is 69.7 years, we mean that a new born baby is expected, on the average, to live that long. This figure takes into account those who die as infants, as well as those who die in later life. The expected age at death increases with age; for example, by the time you reach the age of 20, the effect of childhood diseases has been eliminated. A twenty-year-old may expect to live to the age 72.4. Those who survive to 65 have an expectation of 14.3 years. At age 70 the expectation is still 11.3 years. The life expectation at birth increased from 47.3 in 1900 to 69.7 in 1962. A large amount of this is due to the elimination of childhood diseases and infant mortality. More people are now living to advanced ages, but increases in longevity at the older ages have been relatively small. The total mortality is now so low in childhood and early adulthood that if all causes of death were eliminated in the first 25 years, the life expectancy would only be increased by three years. Future progress in producing long life will depend mainly upon the magnitude of the reductions in deaths from the chronic and degenerative diseases like cancer and heart disease.

Apparently everybody is doing it — buying on credit, that is! Credit departments have grown by leaps and bounds the past few years and although intelligent credit buying serves a useful purpose there seems to be more and more simple-minded credit throwing thousands and thousands of Canadians behind the proverbial eight-ball. Like buying a car, nothing down, first payment six months from date of purchase. Actually there is nothing gained here, except to eliminate the agony for a short period of time. At the end of November there was a whopping $1,417,000,000 owing the chartered banks alone in general personal loans, a rise of 20 per cent. from a year earlier. Sales finance companies had $872,000,000 outstanding and cash loans by small loan companies were up 14.4 per cent at $737,000,000. By the way, is your subscription due?

The prognosticators who predicted a long, cold winter with lots of snow must have tongue in cheek these days. Old Man Winter has been rather kind to us this year and even if he decides to cross us up at this late date it won't be for too long. Spring is just three weeks away, the NHL play-offs are just around the corner, baseball teams are preparing for the new season, golfers are getting the clubs out of mothballs, and the angler is angling for that early trout expedition.

Despite a lot of criticism the recent hike in provincial gasoline tax seems like a fair way to produce a few extra and needed dollars for the treasury. With new roads, new schools, increased government hand-outs and the like, there must be more revenue. The gas tax means that everybody gets hit to some degree. Taxes are like the answer to a popular child's riddle: What goes up and never comes down?

Where The Jobs Are

How many Canadians work at what these days? The following recent breakdown of employment by industries as issued by Ottawa is revealing:

Industry	Employees	Per Cent. of Labour Force

Trade	1,019,000	16.0
Finance, Insurance, Real Estate	254,000	4.0

Sugar and Spice

By Bill Smiley

"I wooden live in that Tronna if ya gave me the whole dump on a silver platter." This is an expression oft heard in the vast hinterland of our dominion, the true north, strong and free.

Bill Smiley

It is echoed with equal emphasis about Montreal, Halifax, Vancouver, Winnipeg, and the other dozen or so cities of any size.

* * * *

The statement above is usually followed by a diatribe against "city living." Its high rents, its heavy traffic, its unfriendliness; its distance from that demi-paradise, the speaker's home town.

* * * *

"Ya, I know it's nice in the summer up north there. But wuddaya do all winter in that dump?" This is equally familiar. It is asked in the tones of simple incredulity of a sophisticated suburbanite who spends all winter doing exactly what you do in that dump up north: working, playing, bringing up your family, trying to pay the bills, and growing older.

* * * *

On most matters, I take a stand. But in this denunciation of the other fellow's mode of life, I take two stands.

* * * *

The first is gentle agreement with my small-town friends. I go along with their belligerent argument that the city is no place to live; that I'd hate to battle that traffic; that living is cheaper in a smaller centre; that it's wonderful to live within five minutes of fishing, curling, golfing and friends.

* * * *

When I'm listening to some old buddy who lives in the city, I nod sagely when he points out that the city is an exciting place to live; that it's wonderful to be able to take in all the shows and concerts; that it's grand to be able to go out for an exotic meal in a fascinating place; that the small town doesn't provide the same cultural opportunities for your kids.

* * * *

Privately, I chuckle at both points of view. Both are full of contradictions. The city fellow claims there's no privacy in a small town — everybody knows your business. The small -town fellow explodes, "Privacy! How can you have privacy in the city when you're jammed into a two-by-four lot, in a house beside people you don't like and who have horrible kids?"

* * * *

The small-town fellow raves about that mythical "rat race" in the city, and goes out and roars around in service clubs and fraternal organizations and athletic clubs and church groups at a pace no city rat could stand.

* * * *

The myths multiply. In a city of a million, theatres are half empty, concerts play to small crowds, exotic restaurants go broke. In a small place, one-tenth of two per cent. of the population is revelling in that fishing, hunting, and so on at the front door. The rest are at home watching the same TV program as the fellow in the city.

* * * *

On Saturdays, the whole problem is brought into perspective, on a four-lane highway. Down to the city, in one stream, pour the thousands of people going in for a day to shop, see shows, suck up some fast culture.

* * * *

Up from the city, in the other stream, pour the thousands of people going north for the skiing or swimming or fishing. They don't even wave to each other.

"He just can't wait for the hunting season to open."

Experienced Politicians Behind Diplomatic P M

BY JEAN CASSELMAN, M.P.

Canada's Parliament opened its 1964 session with Governor General Vanier reading the Speech from the Throne.

As expected, this Speech producer nothing new. Indeed it was planned to be as non-controversial as possible.

Canada's present Prime Minister was, is and always will be a diplomat, probably the best known and best liked Canada has yet produced. He was not, is not and never will be a gauntlet down fighting politician. He has made efforts in this direction, but they are spasmodic, seem out of character and therefore not too effective. He has, however, tough experienced politicians around him, most notably in Hon. Jack Pickersgill, Hon. Paul Martin, Hon. Guy Favreau and Hon. Allan MacEachen. The latter two are young in the political world, but are naturals to it and fall into the pattern of the older Liberal political leaders with ease. Both have obvious ability and the fact that they appeared on the first day of this new session looking somewhat weary, testifies to the fact that they had no time for skiing or Southern Beaches during the Christmas recess, and that they have been carrying their full share of work and responsibility in the Government and in the Liberal Party. The mood of the country generally seems to be against another election in the very near future. This suits the Government which naturally wishes to stay in power and get through legislation which will be helpful to the Liberal Party.

Proposed legislation likely to raise most interest across the country is the Canada Pension Plan and the Interest Free Loans to Students. The latter is a step of which I personally approve most strongly and which I have always advocated. Most of our unemployment problems have been based on the fact that we were not far-sighted enough in training and retraining Canadians of all ages in this scientific space age we find ourselves in.

Education is expensive, has always been expensive. Many Canadians in the past have received their educations through dint of much scrimping, saving and sacrifice on the part of their families. The percentage willing to do this was always small and not likely to increase now as our standard of living rises with more entertainment, more transportation, more leisure.

Since education is no longer a luxury but a serious necessity, it follows then that it must be made automatic and that abilities mechanical, artistic, scholastic, must be polished to their most productive.

We do not, of course, yet know the wording of this Bill and there may be points of criticism or room for improvement, but on principle I like the idea of all young people being able to apply for educational financing. I like the idea that they should realize that it is a costly assistance they are receiving and therefore must pay back. That this "pay back" should be without interest seems a fair compromise with those who will put forth the not inconsiderable effort to improve themselves.

The other outstanding piece of legislation, the Canada Pension Plan, is also timely but by no means perfected. We have seen in the last Provincial Election that people generally approved Ontario Premier Robart's approach. This is too big and costly to enter into until the mechanics and the results are clearer.

Hospital insurance, however desirable, has almost tripled the Federal Budget in the Department of Health and Welfare. This is a fact we know. It is only a sign of ordinary intelligence to learn from experience. This experience and results in other countries prove that unless careful safeguards are included any Government Pension or Assistance Plan will gather speed in financial demands. We are now taxed to the limit. It is no longer theoretical to say that increased taxes will cripple our economy, our productiveness, our expansion and ambition. The United States, the most successful nation in industrial development the world has ever seen, has recognized this fact to the extent of taking actual steps to cut back.

Let us then individually as citizens approach Government expenditures in a common sense way. In the long term we cannot enjoy Government pensions and subsidies and buildings unless there is money to pay for them, any more than we can enjoy a meal unless there is food on the table. This fact is coming to the fore in most thinking minds. There will be a different attitude displayed by politicians when this is realized because like it or not, rightly or wrongly, there are not too many politicians who will propound ideas that have not some hope of being popular. We have gone through a period of tending towards socialism which was easy to sell. Without looking too deeply into the mechanics of government it sounds most attractive for the Government to take responsibility and pay costs. A closer look reveals the unavoidable fact that the Government can only get its money to spend from individuals, and since they are going to pay anyway, it is much better for individual Canadians, like you and me, to keep as much individual control as possible.

More than 150 guests signed the bride's book arranged by Mrs. H. R. Faulkner in honour of the 50th Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Fetterly, of Morewood, last week. At a reception in the United Church Hall friends, neighbours and relatives came to add their congratulations to the many gifts, cards and letters already received which included a plaque from the Provincial Secretary and congratulatory messages from Prime Minister L. Busy Bees Homemaking Club Meets Aromas inspired appetites at the second meeting of the Winchester No. 3 Busy Bees Homemaking Club at Club Leader Mrs. M. Aitchison's home last Saturday. Linda Stewart and Judy Fader prepared lemon cream rice, as another culinary expert Linda Dawley joined her fellow members at the mixing bowl to prepare frying pan cookies.

With the masterpieces in the oven, the girls concentrated on an exhibit of ten varieties of grain products and tried to identify each by touching, smelling and tasting. The meeting's lesson included the topics: What on the Cereal Shelf? What is in a Grain of Wheat? Kinds, Contents and Preparations of Breakfast Cereals.

Business adjourned with the roll call and a review of the last meeting. The thirteen members and leaders then enjoyed the delicious lunch prepared by Club members.

NDDHS Teachers Meet Parents

Over 600 teacher-parent interviews were held at NDDHS last Monday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings, February 10 and 13.

Interviews were previously held before the November examinations for parents of students having difficulty with particular subjects.

However, this time the interviews were different in that all parents were invited to meet the children's teachers. One teacher remarked that she had taught three children from a particular family but this was the first time to meet the parents. Another teacher renewed acquaintances with former students who are now parents of secondary school pupils.

Parents and teachers in five minute interviews not only became acquainted but discussed the child's present work, and future education of the parents' children. The teachers enjoyed the opportunity to relate the outstanding qualities of their pupils and this is about the only opportunity in the year for this to be done. Study habits were discussed in some interviews and solutions to children's problems were discovered. Teachers are able to deal with a child with more understanding after having discussed his welfare with his parents, and this was regarded as a most valuable occasion for the staff. Many parents expressed their satisfaction and appreciation for this opportunity.

DAIRYMEN
Many fluid milk shippers and other dairy farmers will now have calves from fall freshening cows. Many will be raising their heifer calves as herd replacements.
The feeding and management of these calves today will be an important factor in determining how profitable as units they will be in the milking herd of tomorrow.
We, therefore, recommend two feeds designed to give your calves an economical start to vigorous, thrifty growth. These feeds are part of a program designed to grow cows that will have the capacity to give all the milk that has been bred into them.

Carleton Fed. of Agriculture

National Support Given Rabies Resolution

National support of Carleton County's rabies resolution was reported by President Donald Munro to the Directors of the Carleton Federation of Agriculture at the February meeting. He had been attending the recent members' meeting of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture and apparently the thinking that rabies need more research is evident all across Canada.

Two resolutions on taxation and assessment were passed on to the properties committee of the OFA by the members. The warble fly program was discussed as well as resolutions on drilling for oil in the Great Lakes, sales barns, implements of husbandry under the traffic act, and New Zealand and Australian lamb in Markham stores.

Ralph Bidgood, Mr. Munro and Mrs. Macartney reported on the zone meeting in Smiths Falls called to discuss rural development. According to Mr. Bidgood, chairman of the Carleton County Federation rural development committee, it was a very educational meeting.

Members of the executive stated that the reception of the brief presented to County Council seemed favourable. The chairman, Donald Munro, was commended on his presentation.

Donald Sorley, chairman of the Farm Forum committee, is going to draft a questionnaire on Farm Forum and other related matters to be mailed out to all rural residents of the County.

Arthur Manchester, chairman of the Insurance committee, stated that his committee will be revising the Rural Co-operator subscription list and asked several of the directors to assist him.

Considerable time was spent the preparation of the brief to be presented by the County Federation to the Egg hearing in Renfrew on March 2nd. The Poultry Committee will also be presenting a brief at the same time. Mr. Munro and Mrs. Macartney, chairman of the Poultry Committee, were authorizd to attend the hearing.

New directors welcomed to the Board were: Angus Wilson, Cumberland, representing the Carleton - Russell Co-operative; Delmer Cavanaugh, Kinburn, West Carleton Junior Farmers, and Walter Stanley, Ramsayville, Carleton County Agricultural Society.

An interesting report on the recent Leadership Forum was given by Delmer Cavanaugh. He found the forum interesting and although there were many problems many were similar in the various areas represented. Mrs. Macartney, the other delegate, added her comment.

Carleton Junior Farmers Plan For Conference

Several area Junior Farmers from Carleton County will be present at the Provincial Conference and annual meeting to be held at the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, March 6 to 8.

District representatives from East Carleton Club are: Mary Campbell of Winchester and Bryan Dow of Metcalfe.

To Take Part In 4-H Exchange

Barbara Burton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Ernest Burton of Vars, has been selected as one of nine delegates to represent Ontario in the Inter-Provincial 4-H Exchange next July.

Barbara has been a most active memmber of both 4-H Homemaking and Agriculture Clubs. She has taken part in Club Camp and attended the Girls' Conference in Guelph. She has completed thirteen Homemaking Club projects and eight calf clubs.

Chas. Sweeney Heads C-D Beef Imp. Association

Chas. Sweeney, of Dunrobin, was elected President of the Carleton-Dundas Beef Improvement Association at a recent meeting succeeding Carl Speaker of Richmond. Vic. Thompson, of North Gower, was named to the vice presidency.

Directors named from this area include Harold Lannin of Winchester, Robert Twizell of Metcalfe, Allan Farlinger of Morrisburg, Earl Francis of South Mountain, and Wilfred Whittaker of Dundela.

Carleton County Junior Farmers have made plans to hold a Skating Carnival on Friday, Februnary 28, at the Carp Community Rink. Chairman for the evening, Weldon Wilson, of Stittsville, reports that a Carnival Queen will be chosen from among the Junior Farmer members. Broomball games, novelty races and pleasure skating will be included in the list of events. A bean lunch and dance in the Anglican Church Hall will round out the evening.

All Junior Farmer members, parents and friends, are invited to attend this gala function.

Broomball Highlights Carleton Jr. Farmers February Meeting

Broomball started off the February meeting of the East Carleton Junior Farmers in fine style. The game preceding the meeting was played at the Vernon school.

At the meeting plans were discussed for a sleigh ride to be held at Trevor Boyd's on February 26. Also on the agenda for the Club is a planned trip to the French Embassy in May. Curling enthusiasts will welcome plans for a trip to the Curl-A-Drome in Ottawa in the immediate future.

Business included a report of the year's proposed program read by Ken Murdock, and a passed motion to operate the mutual dairy booth at the Central Canada Exhibition. Junior Farmers are planning a play, and Dwayne Acres took the names of interested members. Peter Crerar and Mary Campbell will be in charge of a newly formed square dance team.

March 2nd will be parents' Night at Club 31. Committee in charge of the event includes Elaine Savage, Elsie Patterson, Laura Acres, Mary Campbell, Elizabeth Koeniger and Jean Sayant.

"Got the order, got a bank loan – we're all set"

When a businessman wins an order or contract, he knows he can turn to his local bank for financial assistance. A loan may be needed for one or more reasons—to lay in a supply of raw materials, to buy new equipment, to meet a payroll, or to cover other costs until the firm receives payment for its products or services.

With bank credit, companies large and small can take on projects they couldn't handle if they had to depend on their own financial resources. Moreover, the chartered banks have steadily widened the scope of their commercial lending to serve new or expanded short-term needs. Every day, local bank managers are lending to producers, manufacturers, farmers, retailers and others, to help them develop opportunities, meet competition, keep men and machines busy.

Commercial loans are one of many essential services your local bank provides, to the benefit of everyone in the community.

"Coquetel Cerise? Ah, please!"

If you would offer me COQUETEL CERISE I would say immédiatement: "S'il vous plaît!"—but hélas! "plaît" does not rhyme with "cerise."

What is this COQUETEL CERISE? Mon ami, this is none other than a très délicieux après le dîner "wine cocktail," with a true deep cherry flavor.

But this does not do justice to ce COQUETEL CERISE. One must taste it. One must regard it in its beautiful decanter for la table. Then one must sip it. Then one will say avec moi: COQUETEL CERISE? Ah, please!

With a crusining altitude of 75,000 feet, the SST will be designed to carry between 150 and 230 passengers. Montreal to Rome flying time would be about four hours, or half the present elapsed time. ERNIE RICHARDSON'S CURLING CAPSULES

After you have been curling for a while you will likely look back many times on one particular shot, or a specific end that stands out prominently in your curling life. There have been many such situations in my career, and especially in the last five years.

Some of those memories are happy recollections. There are a few we would prefer to forget, but can't. These, however, serve as good reminders especi ally when a similar situation arises in an important match.

One particular game, and one all-important end spoiled our chance for a third straight Brier championship in 1961 and it happened in our own Regina City playdowns. This is a blot I would like to be able to erase from the records of the Richardson rink.

UNLUCKY 13

It was the 13th, an extra end, in our match against Bill Clarke, a former Canadian Schoolboy champion who had three excellent shotmakers with him on his rink. Clarke had tied the score with a single on the 12th end forcing the extra play, but giving me last stone on the end.

After the leads and seconds had played their stones we were left with a couple of long guards. This came about when we hit too straight on in taking Clarke's stones off trying to keep the end open.

Clarke took advantage and had his third man draw in behind our front stones. My choice was either to have my third, Arnold, draw behind and freeze to their stone, or knock the guards off. What would you do?

I had Arnold draw in behind and he did just that, stopping about three inches short of the shot stone.

TOO LATE

There were two reasons for playing a draw. First, Arnold had made a perfect draw with his last stone in the 12th end knew the weight. Secondly, I felt it was too late in the end to be pounding off guards with the third man's last stone.

Bill Clarke immediately put an etxra guard on and at that point I had a choice of two difficult shots, and not a very pleasant choice. One was to draw around the guards to the button using the out-turn. The other was the in-turn chip.

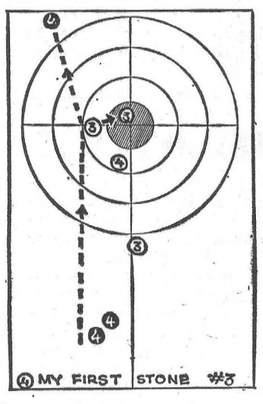
The chip wouldn't have been too difficult had I been sure of the ice, but we had not played a shot there on the in-turn for five or six ends. Although this posed a problem it appeared to be easier than trying to draw the button. At least that's what I thought at the time. I would like the chance to play it over again.

A MISS

A likely looking shot caught a slight run in the ice and fell back against the turn just enough to miss what I was after. My stone just grazed the shot stone and tipped it in on the button directly behind the guard.

Clarke guarded the out-turn draw perfectly and I was unable to get the shot stone out and our chance for a third straight Brier went out the window.

The memory of that defeat has been almost blotted out by our good fortune in winning two more Brier championships.



Broomball Champs

When the odds are against winning, Cassius Clay and Winchester No. 4 Broomball Team come through with flying colours. Bob Porteous' team finished the season in last position but credit their victory to positive thinking or sheer determination because to-day they are the Town League Broomball Champions. They beat Arnold Stobo's team by a 3 to 1 score Tuesday evening in the Community Centre.

Fuel Jets Continue Hot Pace In League Play-offs

Williamsburg Fuel Jets of the St. Lawrence Intermediate League finished atop the standings, winning 14 of their 18 games, tying two and losing only two. The Jets were the power of the league finishing seven points ahead of Morrisburg, the second place finishers. No less than five of the top seven scorers came from the big Green team, with the top four scorers coming from Williamsburg. Earle Brown was scoring champ with 21 goals, tops in the league. Bob Schell was the league's top playmaker with 25 assists for a third place finish in the scoring race.

FIRST PLAY-OFF GAME

Fuel Jets met the Iroquois Redmen in the first game of the best of seven play-off series in the Winchester Arena Monday. Jets opened the scoring after ten minutes of the first period, with team captain Donnie Smith scoring. The Williamsburg crew went on to win the first play off tilt 6-2 on goals from Bill Casselman, who also had one assist, Neil Moore, Lloyd Guy and Earle Brown. Moore picked up two assists patrolling his defence beat, and single assists went to Smith, Guy, Brown, G. Kerr, P. Beckstead and C. Warren. Iroquois was paced by C. Adams who scored both Red tallies, with assists going to Larry See and Bill Elliott. Next big game in the Winchester Arena will be Monday night when the two teams face off in the third game of the series.

Juniors Start Play-offs

South Mountain Juniors, late starters in the St. Lawrence Juniors League, proved the old saying "better late than never" as they won the league championship. Even though they dropped their final game 10-3 to Morrisburg, they emerged on top with 20 points.

Winchester - Chesterville Combines and Morrisburg Orfuns were deadlocked in a second-place tie with 19 points apiece, but Combines got the nod for the second slot by virtue of a superior win-lost record against the Lakefront boys. Combines defeated the Morrisburg Juniors three times.

Cardinal made the final standings even closer by finishing up with 17 points. So only three points separate the first four teams. The close finish makes it easy to predict a battle royal during the playoffs that start this week. Prescott trailed the rest of the league with only five points and finished out of the play-offs.

Play-off action sees South Mountain take on Morrisburg and Cardinal meeting the Combines, each in a best of 7 series.

Russell teams were skipped by Mac Wade with players Harold Gamble, Russell Paul and Jim Gamble, and skip Jack Little with teammates Russell Hay, Jim Sullivan and Claire Hyndman.

The two-team combined challenge was won by the Winchester Club boys 15-14.
